Schools mull cuts, more mills

Proposed budget tops $25 million

BY DONNA LOMAS

Plymouth Canton Schools face a 23.7 per cent increase in operating costs for the 1977-78 school year, but can expect only a 14.5 per cent increase in revenues, — leaving a 9.2 per cent deficit — school officials told board members at a budget workshop Monday night.

Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business presented the board with a proposed $25.9 million budget for this year. Hoedel said school district revenues are estimated at $25.4 million, leaving a projected deficit of some $498,340.

Hoedel suggested using about half a million dollars in the schools' equity fund — contingent assets — to cover the deficit for this year. As of July 1, the fund equity monies balance was $1.8 million. Using part of that balance this year, Hoedel said, would leave a fund balance next June of $1.3 million.

However, school board members told Hoedel to "go back to the drawing board" and come up with a budget that did not have to use any of the equity fund assets to balance this year's budget.

Board Member George Lawton said the school district could end up almost $1 million in the red for the 1978-79 school year under the proposed 1977-78 budget.

"To establish a budget (this year) that guarantees we go to the voters for additional millage is not so prudent," he said.

"I have no interest in turning to the people for more mills. If we don't cut roughly $800,000 this year, we will be more desperate one year from now."

Hoedel cited 10 major items that made up the $4.9 million increase in this year's proposed budget. He said salary and wage increases, the addition of certified staff, utilities, hospital expenses, retirement pay, dental insurance and the startup of the 45-15 Extended School Year (ESY) programs were big-budget items. ESY is currently in effect in six district elementary schools, up one from last year.

Superintendent John M. Hoben said the need to hire additional staffing because of growth in the district and no settlement in administrative and secretarial contracts were the "two soft spots" in the proposed budget.

Hoben emphasized that the figures used at Monday's workshop

Canton planning panel's tie vote stalls Haggerty sports complex

BY CHAS CHILD

Saying the developer failed to show proof that Haggerty Road will be paved, Canton's Board of Trustees deadlocked 3-3 on a request to approve the construction of "The Center, a sports complex planned for Haggerty south of Ford.

The Planning Commission earlier recommended approval with the proviso that the developers guarantee that Haggerty be paved south from Ford Road to their project.

The commission recommended that no occupancy permit be granted without the paving guarantee.

Ned Apigian, the developer of "The Center, offered his word that Haggerty would be paved, but had no letter from the Wayne County Road Commission stating that the work would be done. "I would like some evidence that there is an agreement between you and the Road Commission before I reconsider," Clerk John Flodin said.

Flodin, Trustees Brian Schwall and Lynne Goldsmith voted "no" on site plan approval. Supervisor Harold Stein, Treasurer Anne Bradley and Trustee Eugene Daley voted "yes".

The Board also deadlocked on a vote to require that the paving be completed before a building permit is granted to the complex. The voting was the same.

Apigian said requiring that the road be paved before construction begins is an "unnecessary hardship."

Goldsmith said, however, that "it's not too much to ask for a project of this size."

The indoor complex is on a 4.3 acre site and plans call for seven tennis and 21 racquetball courts, 72 bowling lanes, a number of bars and perhaps four movie houses.

Shari McCann, an opponent of the project who lives across Haggerty Road from the site in Bedford Villas subdivision, spoke against the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) which had earlier granted two variances to "The Center."

"What good are our ordinances if they are being ignored," she said.

The ZBA allowed the complex to be 15 feet higher than township ordinances permit, and gave it permission to be built within 75 feet, instead of 150 feet, of residential areas.

"The Center" was tabled by the board until its next meeting, Sept. 27. Apigian said that he hoped an agreement could be signed with the road commission before then.

Balloons away

IT WAS A W.A.R.M. AFTERNOON for little Susie Kornegay, the youngest participant in Central Middle School's We Are Really Meaningful balloon launching. The program involves 63 sixth graders and stresses a "positive approach" to learning, says teachers Fred Bersche and Margo Panko. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler.)

Funds should join forces, Canton trustees urge

Canton and Plymouth may pool their efforts and form a common community fund as a result of action by Canton's Board of Trustees last Tuesday.

The board resolved last week to ask the Plymouth Community Fund if Canton can join to form the Canton/Plymouth Community Fund.

Trustee Brian Schwall wondered whether Canton's name could be first, but Supervisor Harold Stein said, "Our name is second on the school district, so why not first on this?"

Canton has no fund of its own now. It's a member of the United Metro Fund, and many people in the township contribute to it.

Stein said he wanted to join the fund so local funds can go to local services.

Fancy jeans lead cops to burglary suspect

BY DONNA LOMAS

A five-pointed star stud, the kind used to decorate blue jeans helped lead to the arrest of two young Canton men Sept. 7, State Police report.

Charged with breaking and entering an occupied dwelling in Canton on Sturbridge Court was William B. Guethlein, 18, who lived in a tent behind a house in Canton. Also arrested was a juvenile accomplice.

Guethlein admitted to the breaking and entering and to taking the car Sept. 5 from an address on Sturbridge Street in Canton, police said.

The police gave the following account of the events surrounding the arrests:

On Sept. 5, Troopers Ron Schuster and Jack McAllen of the Northville Post noticed a brown and white 1972 Pontiac with two men in it eastbound on Sheldon. The officers began to pursue the car, recognizing it as one matching the description of a vehicle stolen earlier that night from a home on Sturbridge.

The suspects pulled into the Fellows Creek apartment complex parking lot, police reported, and started to run from the car. The troopers searched for them for 20 minutes, then returned to the car and checked for fingerprints, police said.

The home on Sturbridge had been entered, police noted, with the two suspects gaining entry by using garden tools to peel away the window frame. After their arrests, police said Guethlein and the juvenile admitted to eating "some cake and fritos" before taking the keys to the owner's Pontiac and his wallet.

After searching the home, police found a five-pointed star stud, apparently off a pair of blue jeans.

Troopers Schuster and McAllen then contacted another man "due to the fact he is very knowledgeable of crimes committed in the area," who told them he might know who took the vehicle.

The man told police he had a friend Guethlein, police reported, who was staying in a tent behind his house and that he was the owner of the tent. He permitted the troopers to search the tent, police said, and they found a 5-pointed star that matched the one found earlier in the house on Sturbridge. They also said they discovered that Guethlein owned a pair of studded blue jeans.

Guethlein also admitted to police that he and his accomplice were responsible for the breaking and entering of other homes and garages in that area.

Police report that in one case, Guethlein said he broke into a home in the Dennisport Street area and tickled the owner's feet while he was sleeping.

"He was pretty bold," one state trooper noted.

He also admitted to stealing at least 15 cars from Tyme Auto Sales in Plymouth, police said.

Police reported that he wrecked all the cars by burning them or running them into telephone poles or trees.

Guethlein's attorney entered a plea of guilty to the charges before 35th District Court Judge Dunbar Davis. Bond was posted for him at $5,000.

City nabs more drunks

If the City of Plymouth's police records are any indication, more people are drinking and driving around here in recent months than last year.

According to Police Chief Tim Ford in his August report to city commissioners, nine offenders were arrested in that month, compared to only four in August, 1976.

In the first eight months of this year, Plymouth Police charged 47 drivers with driving under the influence of alcohol. In the same span last year, only 13 drivers were charged.

Similarly, public drunkenness is also on the rise - from 16 cases in the city in the first eight months of last year to 27 cases in the first eight months of 1977.

9-story condo project wins site plan approval

BY CAROL MITCHELL

Construction is expected to begin within two months on a controversial nine-story condominium project planned for downtown Plymouth.

City planning commissioners approved a site plan for the condominium after an emotional three-hour meeting last Wednesday night at City Hall. The measure to permit construction on a site on Wing Street between Harvey and Forest zoned B-3 (business) was approved by a vote of 8-1. Commissioner Roger L. Wright cast the dissenting vote.

Project developer Jim Jabara said site approval means construction can begin in November, with a projected completion date of summer, 1979. "The Dartmoor Condominiums" will be located on a 1.48 acre site.

Attorney John Thomas, co-developer of the project with Jabara, requested formal approval for the site plan, with architect John Culotta presenting drawings of the proposed building.

Although the meeting was not a public hearing, members of the audience were permitted to speak. The overflowing city commission chambers were divided between residents who feared the environmental impact of the proposed condominium and those who saw the project as an attractive addition to the city's downtown area.

Some residents expressed concern over traffic patterns, adequate sewers and the impact of the proposed condominiums and those who saw the project as an attractive addition to the city's downtown area.

Some residents expressed concern over traffic patterns, adequate sewers and the impact of a "high-rise" building on a "low-rise" community.

According to Thoman, the parking and utility needs of the new project are provided for in the site plan.

He added that the property in question - now occupied by three older homes, a parking lot and two auto repair shops - is "approaching what under any definition is blight."

Other area residents praised the plan for its attractiveness and expressed satisfaction with the tax dollars it will bring to the community.

As one resident said, "I think we have to become realistic and find a new tax base in this city."

After intense discussion, the Planning Commission voted to approve the project under the current B-3 zoning. Regarding that zoning's validity, Commissioner Erick Carne summed up the majority opinion of the commission. Referring to earlier statements by the city attorney and planner, he said, "We should rely on legal and professional opinions."

Wright commented after the meeting that the only recourse at this point for members of the PROGRESS group and other opponents of the project would be an injunction against construction of the building.

A CAPACITY AUDIENCE jammed Plymouth City Hall chambers last Wednesday night to hear the planning commission consider plans for a nine-story condominium complex planned for Wing Street between Harvey and Forest.

After more than three hours of discussion, the commission approved site plans for the project by an 8-1 vote. (Photo by Carol Mitchell)

Hospital zoning nod due

The Canton Planning Commission is expected to decide Monday whether to rezone a 10-acre parcel on Canton Center Road just south of Ford to permit construction of a proposed $30 million hospital and medical complex.

Developer Mel Stein of the Great American Building Corp. of Farmington asked the commission once before to rezone the parcel from residential to C-C-2 commercial, but his request was denied because of what Supervisor Harold Stein (no relation) described as a poor presentation by the developer's architect.

Stein has said that one of the persons responsible for organizing what is planned as a 200 bed general surgery hospital, the dean of the Des Moines (Iowa) College of Osteopathic Medicine, will appear with him before the commission. Also planned as part of the project are a 200-bed nursing home connected to the hospital and a three-building medical office complex which would be the first phase of the project. Before construction can begin, however, the developer must win not only the rezoning, but also site plan approval from the township and a certificate of need from the State Department of Health. Stein, who has been a developer of nursing homes and professional complexes and once owned a hospital which he refused to identify, said the facility would be privately owned and operated. He has not requested tax abatement on the property.

Monday's meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Township Meeting Hall, Canton Center Road at Cherry Hill.

PCF kicks off tomorrow

Tomorrow (Thursday) is the 23rd lighting of the Plymouth Community Fund torchlight in Kellogg Park.

At 7:30 p.m., the PCF annual fund raising drive will kickoff with the Kellogg Park lighting.

The goal of the PCF this year is $250,000 - their highest ever. The fund services 15 agencies in the community with money that is raised during this next month. Some are Boy Scout, Girls Scouts, Plymouth-Canton Junior Athletic League, Plymouth Dental, Senior Citizens and Plymouth Opportunity Center.

Will school board wing it?

BY DONNA LOMAS

To wing or not to wing was the question.

The Plymouth Canton School Board has discussed entering a chicken in the second annual Fowl Festival contest Oct. 2.

The discussion took place before the budget workshop in the board offices Monday night.

Trustee Joe Gray suggested entering two chickens - one trained under the traditional method, the other under the open modular schedule.

"Then we'll see which flies the farthest," he said.

"Or if at all!" a local wag squawked from the audience.

Trustee George Lawton begged to be excused from the $5 entrance fee each board member would have to contribute towards the school squawker claiming "conflict of interest."

"I already have two chickens competing against each other," he said. "To pay $5 for a school chicken would hedge my chances even more. However, if you want my $5, it will have to be under an oath of silence."

"Would you believe under a wing of silence?"

City commission, cops ratify two-year pact

BY HANK MEIJER

Plymouth City Commissioners Monday night unanimously approved a new two-year police contract retroactive to July 1 which calls for a four per cent pay hike the first year along with improved retirement benefits.

Plymouth Police ratified the contract last week by what Officer Roger Roy, steward of the local bargaining unit of Teamsters Local 214, described as a close margin. The city's 13 sergeants and patrolmen had been working without a contract since the previous one expired June 30.

Under the new agreement, entrance pay for a new officer would rise from the current $12,822 to about $13,334.

After four years, local officers now make $17,495. Under the new agreement, that level would rise to about $18,194.

Roy said negotiating teams for the city and the teamsters met more than a dozen times in what he described as "one of the easiest years we've ever had."

With the retirement benefit, which enables officers to retire at 50 per cent of their gross earnings from their last year of service, the package in its first year means an increase of about eight per cent over current payroll costs.

According to Roy, the retirement package, which union negotiators placed as their chief priority, will be the best. Cont. on Pg. 20

Ruling on Canton chief due

State law enforcement officials have still not ruled whether Canton's new police chief, Walter MacGregor, is a certified police officer.

MacGregor sent the Michigan Law Enforcement Training Council (MLETC) in Lansing a letter two weeks ago asking it to decide whether his certification had expired, but the council has not yet met to decide the question.

Gary Walker, a staff official of MLETC, said earlier that the group might meet Friday, Sept.

The MLETC is next scheduled to meet Oct. 13, Walker said.

A policeman's certification expires two years after leaving police work. MacGregor retired from the City of Wayne Police Department July 12, 1975.

But MacGregor said he joined the auxiliary of Wayne's police department July 7, five days before the certification was due to expire.

Walker said it is unclear whether the auxiliary is sufficient to keep MacGregor's certification.

City sucks leaves

The City of Plymouth DPW will begin picking up leaves the week of Oct. 10, Kenneth Vogras, director of the DPW has announced.

"We are asking that residents place their leaves by the curb in the street," Vogras said. Only leaves placed in the street will be picked up.

"We also ask that residents place their leaves at the curb as soon as possible so they can be removed prior to any accumulation of snow," he said.

Vogras said there was no set schedule when trucks would pick up the leaves although an attempt will be made to collect leaves from all areas of the city at least once a week.

The last week for city pick-up of leaves will be Nov. 28. After that, Vogras said, residents would have to bag leaves for regular garbage pickup.

Canton board leans toward whirlybird buy

BY CHAS CHILD.

Despite cautions that police helicopters might cost too much, Canton's Board of Trustees voted to proceed with plans to buy three "choppers" last Tuesday.

The surplus helicopters, available at a cost of $500 through the Civil Defense program can be used for "checking illegal deposit of debris, abandoned cars, surveillance of motorcycles and patrolling of township parks," Supervisor Harold Stein said. The craft originally cost $250,000, he said.

Trustee Eugene Daley, who voted "no" on the plans with Trustee Lynne Goldsmith, said the helicopters would cost too much to operate and maintain. Trustee Robert Myers was absent. "If you're on welfare and somebody gives you a Cadillac, that still doesn't mean you can afford it," said Daley.

Robert Schaeztl of Canton, who is also Deputy Wing Commander of the Michigan Civil Air Patrol said "you rarely get surplus aircraft from the military in very good condition. It takes a good deal of expense to fix them up."

The City of Warren bought seven helicopters and flies three of them, Stein said, using the other four for spare parts. Canton could do the same thing, he said, using three to keep one or two in the air.

Schaeztl said, however, that it still takes a qualified mechanic to make all the repairs.

"I've supported Stein in many things, but this is a luxury we can't afford," Schaeztl said. "We're just starting a full-time police department and the township is trying to start an air force."

Michael Geldmacher of the Wayne County Sheriff Aviation Unit said his group flies two helicopters on a yearly budget of $252,000. The unit does lease their craft at $1,200 per month, a cost Canton, if it owned the helicopters, would not have to pay; Geldmacher said.

Canton's newly proposed police budget is $420,000.

One example of the high cost of the service, Geldmacher said, was training pilots. "You would want to give each pilot about 200 hours of flight training which would cost about $13,000 to $15,000."

The great advantage of helicopters, Geldmacher said, was using them in crimes in progress. "You can get there in minutes to keep an eye on the suspect." But this requires you keep the helicopter flying and ready at all times, he said.

"There aren't that many B and E's (breaking and enterings) and hold-ups in Canton, Geldmacher said.

"We make about one flight per day over Canton now and a sheriff helicopter would respond if one was available, to any call in which one was needed in Canton."

A pilot for the City of Warren helicopter force Barney Ledford has a favorable view of Canton starting a chopper force.

He said a helicopter would not have to be ready to fly all the time to be effective, "You might not catch all the crimes in progress, but you could use the helicopters for spotting fires, civil defense and police patrol.

"I rescued a baby who was drowning in a swimming pool," Ledford said. "How do you put a monetary value on that?"

He also said that the chances of getting a helicopter in good condition were excellent. "There are about 300 helicopters available in Tucson (Arizona) for the program," he said.

Even if Canton never flies the helicopters, the Civil Defense program allows local governments to sell them after five years, Stein said.

"I don't think the township should be in the flea-market business," said Schaeztl.

Stein also listed other reasons favoring helicopters:

1. "It is cheaper to operate helicopters over a large rural area such as Canton Township because of the great expense to maintain and purchase police cars."

2. "There should be some visibility of our police force in rural areas and helicopters can do it."

3. "We could have a versatile and progressive police department, not only trained as patrolmen but also helicopter pilots."

After the board ok'd his plans, Stein said, "If they aren't good planes, I won't buy them."

Condo foe asks ZBA help

Plymouth City Attorney Charles Lowe is expected to reach an opinion within the week as to whether a city resident who opposes construction of a nearby nine-story condominium complex may appeal the legality of the project to the city's Zoning Board of Appeals.

Forest Avenue resident Dodie

Browning said she questioned the legality of the site plan approval granted the project last week by the city's planning commission.

City officials said it was unlikely the matter would properly come under the jurisdiction of the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Construction is slated to begin in November.

Canton should join local fund drive

With the kickoff of the annual Plymouth Community Fund drive at hand, it is appropriate once again to raise the dilemma of Canton's role in such a fund.

Currently, Canton is covered through the Metropolitan Detroit United Way campaign. This means that Cantonites are solicited by, and local services are supposed to be supported by the United Way.

In practice however, the agencies supported by the Plymouth Community Fund aid Canton residents as well. There are some United Way funded services available to Cantonites, but the bulk of such services offered rely on the Plymouth Community Fund.

The Canton Board of Trustees last week passed resolutions asking the United Way to release Canton so that it might join with the Plymouth Community Fund - which should then become the Plymouth-Canton Community Fund with expanded representation for Canton.

This is a logical move. What Canton is telling the United Way is this: "We can, with the help of a successful community fund, provide for our own necessary services."

The inter-linking governmental, commercial and industrial services already shared between the Plymouth-Plymouth Township and the Canton sectors of the Plymouth-Canton Community serve as a model for efficiency and cooperation.

The United Way should release Canton - as soon as possible.

Similarly, the Plymouth Community Fund should begin planning for the addition of Canton to its service and soliciting area.

With all due speed, it may be possible to incorporate Canton into this year's local fund drive. It will take some fancy footwork to add the United Way's residential and industrial campaigns in Canton to the local fund, but it can be done if everyone cooperates fully.

A community fund type organization is necessary to provide services which, although necessary to residents' well being, may not appropriately be covered by governmental participation. The fact that our community has supported its own community fund, reassures the Plymouth-Canton Community's reputation as being superior in its concern for others and ability to help them.

Let's take that point to its logical conclusion - include all of our area in one community fund.

Condo would harm charm

EDITOR:

As a new Plymouth resident, I am amazed and appalled by the positions taken by some

City officials and business owners regarding the Dartmoor project.

Recently, I purchased an older home in Plymouth and paid perhaps, thousands of dollars more than it would be worth elsewhere. Property is worth more here because Plymouth is a unique and very special place.

Plymouth is looked upon with admiration and envy by surrounding communities because of its old style charm and atmosphere. It is this very thing that brings people into Plymouth, making its businesses thrive and raising property values. If we make it the same as everywhere else, we will all lose. Would anyone want to attend a fall festival surrounded by skyscrapers?

Don't be misled by the tax base argument. Show me one person who will guarantee me that my taxes will go down as a result of this project -- talk to someone in Westland or Southfield where similar projects to Dartmoor are already in existence.

The people connected with Dartmoor would stand to gain enormously whether they own homes in Plymouth or not. As home owners we only stand to lose, therefore we must not allow our city to be exploited in this way.

We must stop this project and elect officials who will be responsive to our needs and best interest in the future.

Dartmoor may be a fitting name for a project here in Plymouth, and most certainly this property does need to be developed, but a ten story structure by any name simply belongs elsewhere.

Advance word might have eased school bus snafu

EDITOR:

During the recent bus schedule confusion, I had several reasons to contact the transportation office. I was always treated kindly and my calls were returned. The time at which they were returned showed how late the staff worked.

Only one suggestion; if we had known what a large change was being made, if we had known there would be problems; if we had known how much money we were tying up in this new venture and that it was staffed at our end and at Ecotran's end adequately, the confusion in the home/student division would have been minimized.

Perhaps a few more steps or loops in the program and enough information could have been fed in.

When most people think of Canton, a city in China comes to mind. Plymouth, of course, is in England. In the world's geography, we're just a dot on the map - and so are those places in China and England. But Plymouth's Kiwanians are out to change the way we look at the world.

Their new travelogue series, which begins tonight (Wednesday) in Salem High Auditorium with a free film on Greece, could be one of the most painless geography lessons you'll ever have.

Kiwanians in Grand Rapids still put on these films every month in a similar series, and when I was growing up, the Kiwanis Lectures, as they were called, were a monthly family ritual.

Looking back on years of travelogues, some of them were pretty corny. And the picture they give of the way most people live in many countries makes National Geographic look like a muckraking journal. Still, it's one of the best ways I know to get a kid to know his globe.

The Kiwanians in Grand Rapids made one mistake, however. They scheduled their travelogues on weekends. When we got to be teenagers, going to the travelogue on a Saturday night was no one's idea of a good time.

But Plymouth's Kiwanis Foundation will present its films on Wednesday nights, at 8 p.m. That should take away a lot of excuses and make it easier to introduce the family to Panama or Hong Kong. And to less remote spots where you might want to vacation.

You'll probably never visit some of these places otherwise, and never so cheaply and for charity. But if you do, the Kiwanians may help you tell Canton from Zanzibar.

Community opinions

If we don't develop in the downtown area where do we? With the size of Plymouth restricted to two square miles, we have no place to go but up. The zoning we now have does protect us from any objectionable height that would not be in the best taste and/or interest of the community.

If we are to maintain a supportable tax base for the total community, our only source for new revenue is from what can happen in the business area.

Various proposals have been presented, by various local progressive businessmen, to improve and add to our community, building ideas that can only increase our tax base and in-

Rude parents make rainy days miserable

EDITOR:

The lack of courtesy of some of the Plymouth and Canton parents picking up their children at the schools on rainy days is unbelievable.

As a bus driver for Miller Elementary school in the afternoon I found the entrance into the school drive abnormally heavy with cars picking up their children because of the rain. On Thursday afternoon Sept. 15, after sounding my horn for a time - to cars that were parked and obstructing the driveway for my bus to get thru to my 53 kindergarden thru 5th grad children, who were waiting out in the rain, (many without rain gear), I found it necessary to get off my bus and trudge thru the puddles in the pouring rain to personally ask a mother to please move her car so that I could get to the children for them to board the bus. To my surprise, she said she would not move until she had her children in her car.

This was one obstinate and inconsiderate parent that has been reported. Unfortunately this heavy traffic exists on all rainy days (at the elementary schools in particular) and has been a complaint of the bus driver and safety mothers alike, year after year.

The parents who are guilty of blocking the driveways for the buses to get into the schools should consider the many children who are waiting in the rain to board the buses and not just their one or two children. Please use the parking lots and not the driveways to wait for your children so we drivers can get to ours.

The obvious solution to this problem is also consideration for the little people.

"Canton heliport to Whiskey Romeo Red, Canton base to Whiskey Romeo Red, do you copy?"

"Whiskey Romeo Red to Canton heliport, copy loud and clear, over."

"Yes, Whiskey Romeo Red, be advised Supervisor Stein has just handed me his lunch order. Are you ready to copy?"

"Roger, Canton heliport."
"O.K., Harold would like two burgers, easy on the pickle, heavy on the mayo, large fries and a coke. And don't forget the free poster, Over."

"Roger, will deliver shortly. Over and out."

Ah, the joys of flight. To whisk effortlessly over the countryside - nothing could be finer.

This dream has obviously caught Canton Supervisor Harold Stein's fancy. The Board of Trustees gave him the green light last Tuesday to purchase three surplus helicopters for township use - police patrol, fire-spotting, drain surveillance and other duties.

There's no doubt helicopters can do awesome things. Saturday I had first-hand experience when Barney Ledford of the City of Warren Police Department took me up in a police chopper.

At four hundred feet - normal patrolling altitude - I had a command view of Warren. Every person, car, bicycle, even broken windows were visible for blocks around.

Once a criminal is spotted, its only a matter of time before he's caught, Ledford said. I had no trouble believing him as we sped over the rows of houses, the police radio crackling in my headset.

The question is, does Canton need this kind of power?

Warren is Michigan's fourth largest city with about 200,000 people. Canton has about 35,000. Warren has a large and established police force. Canton's police didn't even exist two years ago and a relatively modest two-mill levy was approved only last month, giving the force enough money to go full time.

Moreover, the millage just squeaked by the voters with a margin of only 73 votes.

Is this a clear message to go out and buy an air force? I doubt it.

I also doubt whether Canton's officials should spend their time getting a helicopter program off the ground.

The top officials put in very long days just attending to the nuts and bolts of local government in a rapidly growing community.

They should stick to no-frills basic services, as pedestrian as those sometimes seem.

If the helicopters don't work out, Stein said federal regulations permit the township to sell them after five years. Fine, but Canton should not be in the "flea-market" business as a man in the audience said.

All in all, helicopters for Canton is a case of too much, too early.

But, there's nothing like the thrill of flying, eh, Harold? It dies hard. Strapped into one of those big babies, sun visor down, rotors chopping above, passing cars effortlessly below.

Theatre Guild was generous

EDITOR:

When the Northville Residential Training Center visited the Fall Festival, The Plymouth Theatre Guild saw to it that our twenty-four residents were provided with popcorn to munch on while they listened to the music from the bandstand. Later on, the kids went on leisure walks taking in the array of crafts and events.

I would like to thank the Plymouth Theatre Guild for their generous act and let them know they made our off-campus trip successful and our kids delighted. Northville will watch for the Plymouth Theatre Guild in the locals for shows!

Schools get newspaper appeal plan

The flap last spring whether to let a student editor at Canton High School publish in Canton's student newspaper a controversial article speaking out against pornography has spurred proposed changes in procedure on school censorship.

By a 4-2 straw vote taken at a workshop meeting in May, the school board gave the go-ahead to have Canton senior Tom O'Callaghan's article, "Would you Want to Make Love to Your Shoe" published. Board member Tom Yack and former member Marcia Borowski asked then for a new policy to be adopted.

At last Monday's board meeting the first reading of that new proposed policy was tabled until the Sept. 26 board meeting.

The policy calls for an editorial review board consisting of a building principal, the area coordinator for English, two English teachers and two students, all to be appointed by the principal.

That special committee will convene to review articles and they will have the final authority on what will appear in the student paper.

Articles that could be reviewed by the committee, the proposed policy states, are those that the advisor and/or principal "anticipates... will be disruptive or that borders of decency will be violated by student publication." Either advisor or principal shall act to prevent such publication, the policy states.

If an article is appealed, the policy says the decision of the Board of Education on the appeal is final.

Canton may ask 2 mills for cops

BY CHAS CHILD

After a wide-ranging discussion of police protection in Canton, the Board of Trustees last Tuesday tentatively decided to ask for two mills from the taxpayers to create a full-time police force.

At a public hearing Sept. 27 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Canton Meeting Hall, 128 Canton Center Rd., the board will officially set the millage that will be assessed next year.

Police Chief Walter MacGregor presented a budget last Tuesday that calls for 10 full-time patrolmen, three sergeants, on one detective, a secretary and the chief.

The upgraded force would put three patrol cars on the road for twenty-four hours under normal circumstances, MacGregor said.

More than three patrols are possible during the busy times, usually between 8 p.m. and 4 p.m., said the chief.

Before the millage was approved on the Aug. 27 ballot, the board had resolved to levy "no more than two mills"

The board voted to tentatively ask for the full two mills against the objection of Trustee Lynn Goldsmith who said the police budget should be supplemented by money from the general fund. This, she said, would lower the millage.

Goldsmith was the only dissenter on the vote to tentatively ask for two mills.

The exact amount to be levied will be set at the Sept. 27 meeting, and Trustee Brian Schwall said the amount could be lowered then.

Supervisor Harold Stein said that MacGregor's budget, based on two mills, would provide a "minimum force for that amount of money. This is the cheapest way it can be done."

Of the $420,000 - two mills would raise, MacGregor said all but about $9,000 has been accounted for in his plans. This is not much of a cushion, MacGregor said.

A farmer who lives in the western half of the township said he feared the full-time force would concentrate on the eastern, more urbanized half of the township, leaving westerners with a full share of the bill.

"We will patrol the whole township to the best of our ability," MacGregor said.

The board voted unanimously to include the whole township in the special assessment district for the police millage.

Kiwanis-Growthworks sponsor rummage sale

You can do more than see feathers fly this Fowl Festival - fly over to the Kiwanis-Growthworks Rummage Sale on Fowl Fest Sunday Oct. 2 and pick up some good bargains for a good cause.

The first such cooperative rummage sale ever held by two service clubs, the Kiwanis-Growthworks Rummage Sale will use the profit on the rummage sale to keep their community services going.

"When searching for a fund raising project which would involve our entire membership, we decided on the rummage sale," said Dick Raison. "We extended the equal partnership to Growth Works so we would have that chance for interaction between youth and adults - and also, to earn money for both of us."

But without the support of the community, neither group can be successful, said Raison. He asked that anyone with resellable items please call 455-4095 between 1:30 to 9:30 p.m. for free pick-up, or drop the goods off at the Growth Works Building at 271 S. Main.

The "goods" can be anything from clothes, small appliances to furniture a spokesperson from Growthworks said.

Details for the Kiwanis-Growthworks rummage sale by the two service groups were handled by Dale Yagiela, Director of Growth Works and Raison, First Vice-President and Finance Director of the Colonial Kiwanis.

New drug offers hope to Renee

It's a world of difference today for young Renee Revoir of Canton Township - and she has a drug not yet approved by the government to thank for it.

Renee is the daughter of James and Kathy Revoir of Brandywyne in Canton. She has suffered myoclonic seizures - a form of epilepsy - since she was 14 months old. The Revoirs adopted Renee as a baby after learning they could have no children of their own.

"Every drug we've tried, has given Renee serious side effects," said Mrs. Revoir. "It got so bad that Renee had given up walking, and we had to watch her constantly for fear she would hurt herself."

But now the Revoirs have a ray of hope they want to share with someone else. Early this month, they began taking Renee to Children's Hospital in Columbus, Ohio for treatment of her seizures with sodium valproate (SV), a drug that has been in use in Europe for 10 years.

The Federal Drug Administration (FDA) has allowed the use of the drug in Ohio, but the Revoirs and an Ohio optometrist, whose daughter suffers the same disease, are urging that the drug be available to physicians everywhere - even on an experimental basis.

National television filmed the dilemma of the Revoirs earlier this summer, and "we thought something big was going to happen," said Mrs. Revoir. "But nothing did."

Meantime, the Revoirs called Toronto, West Virginia for the drug to help Renee. Finally, a New York man who had seen the Revoirs on TV sent them an article from a newspaper about the use of SV in Children's Hospital in Columbus. The Revoirs then managed to get an appointment with the hospital.

Renee was in Children's Hospital for two weeks and came back last Wednesday. She will go back today (Wednesday).

"She is doing fine," said Mrs. Revoir. "We're very hopeful. Renee is so much brighter, she's standing up and can walk. It's a world of difference - it makes her life a lot happier and ours too."

The Revoirs are happier now for another reason - fifteen months ago Kathy Revoir gave birth to a son.

One night she noticed he was twitching in his sleep. Mrs. Revoir feared the same thing was happening to her son as to Renee, but was relieved to discover that the twitching was only a minor neurological malfunction.

"We're thankful for that," said Mrs. Revoir. "That was a real crisis at the time. But now he's started to walk."

The Revoirs say that it's too soon to tell about the cure for Renee's seizures - but they do know the side effects are less than any other, and Renee is happier.

"The more people that find out about it the better," Mrs. Revoir noted. "Maybe someone else could find out about the drug - it was useful to us, it may help someone else."

THE REVOIR FAMILY of Canton is a happier family today because of a drug that has helped their daughter Renee control epileptic-type seizures. Renee leaves today for Children's Hospital in Columbus, Ohio, for another treatment. The drug is not yet legal in the U.S. and the hospital is using it on an experimental basis, however. Mrs. Revoir says the drug has "made Renee's life brighter, and ours too." From left to right, Jim Revoir, young Ryan Revoir, Renee and Kathy Revoir. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler.)

Schools dish out fall's noontime treats

On Friday, Fiegel is treated to a happy autumn cake. Can't say I'm too happy about it - - autumn that is. I'm still wondering where my summer went!

Miller is having a He Man Frank (on a bun) - - two guesses what it really is. What I would like to know is - - how did the cooks find out what your "favorite cookie" was for dessert on Tuesday?

Tanger's confetti salad is good to eat (on Thursday) but very messy to throw on parades.

You ole' devil dog you - - (with cheese no less), at West on Monday.

Friday at Central is do-it-yourself tacos - - if they turn out yukkey you'll only have yourself to blame.

Old Village lauds 'first lady'

Last Thursday was Pat Hann's night.

The lady who friends and neighbors credit as the driving force behind the revitalization of the Old Village area of Plymouth was surprised by those same friends and neighbors, as well as city officials, with a testimonial banquet in her honor.

The Candlelight Room of the Hillside Inn was the setting for the affair, and as the company turned to Mrs. Hann in tribute to her work in renovating the area once called "Lowertown" - Plymouth's wrong side of the tracks - she demurred. "There were so many others involved" she said. I didn't do that much."

Apparently most of her audience disagreed with that judgment, however.

City Manager Fred Yockey presented Mrs. Hann with the city's Red Brick Award in recognition of Old Village's most recent improvement, a brick alleyway behind Starkweather and Mill Street stores.

Mayor Joe Bida read a testimonial certificate in her honor.

The group dined at tables decorated with red carnations and white mums in copper bowls. The affair was planned by Doug Montgomery, new president of the Old Village Association; Fran Kontos and Sally Blunk.

Among speakers in addition to the mayor and city manager were City Commissioner Mary Childs and Fran Henning, advertising consultant for The Crier. Each in her turn lauded Mrs. Hann's continuing enthusiasm on behalf of Old Village projects.

She was presented with a silver tea service and bouquet of roses by the Old Village Association.

As if to demonstrate her central role in Old Village's rebirth, the evening closed with an unusual display. Lights were lowered until only a single candle before Mrs. Hann at the head table lit the room. Then, one at a time, one person from each table approached her to take a light from that candle to their own, then back to their tables, until once again the room was lit, this time by the flame of Mrs. Hann's candle.

Also among the guests at the event were Mrs. Hann's husband, Bill; her daughter, Amanda; and mother, June Wilmet. Also Erick Carne, past president of the Old Village Association; and his wife, Pat; Margaret Wilson, Chris Kontos; Julie and Tex Thoman; Nancy Petrucelli; Doug and Sally Blunk; Loraine and Bill Wain; Harold and Geneva and Torb Guenther; Connie Bournias; Roberta and Milton Orr; Bill Hall; Bill Ruehr and John Cummings.

A nip in the late summer air, a tinge of bright color that outlines the maple and oak trees and caravans of loaded cars headed toward colleges are all signs that fall is officially here.

It is amazing how many of those "necessary treasures" can fit in one car, and even more amazing is trying to fit all those necessities into one dorm room. Mom and Dad - you may as well quit trying to talk the kids out of taking certain things - remember, you did the same thing when you were their age.

I wonder how many things have changed on the check lists over the years. Everyone has to have a hair dryer, curling iron, stereo and records, calculator, tape recorder, hiking boots, two pairs of jeans, six T-shirts and two sets of contacts (one pair to help you find the pair you misplaced). By everyone, that's guys too. Things have changed.

Good luck to all in the Plymouth-Canton area who are heading back to school. Have fun, but do a little studying once in a while.

The Grandpersons program at Gallimore School is getting under way for its second year. The program is made up of grandmas and grandpas who love to work with children. You don't have to have any grandchildren to qualify - the children have enough love to share with anyone who will give them a little attention.

Some of the things the grandpersons work with the children on are knitting, learning how to make a bed, working with some tools, fishing, and making projects for the classrooms. Helping with this years program are Lorenza Rollins, Madelyn Wright, Eleanor Campbell, Larry Campbell, Fred Bradley, Louise Bradley, and Florence Griggs.

The Xi Delta Eta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held its first social of the season at the home of Sharon and Bob Pommerville. Invitations shaped like the back pocket of a pair of jeans announced the "Hoedown". The couples dressed in western attire, enjoyed square dancing under the direction of callers Bob and Katherine Cornwell of Detroit.

Joining the Pommervilles in the festivities were Kay and Paul Kolatz, Barbara and Fred Rafferty, Pam and Kenny Zorger, Sandy and Leonard Frania, Shirley Work, Karen and Dave Cramer, Carol and Darell Saunders, Donna and John Drossart, Moneta Wilkins, Helen and John Belser, Sandy and Carlos Rios-Doria and Bob and Katherine Cornwell.

The group has many fun activities planned for the upcoming year. Their next meeting will be held Sept. 21 at 8 p.m. at the home of Carol Sanders 40598 Firwood in Plymouth.

"How can you tell if the person at your door is really a Michigan Bell Employee?"

As you may have noticed, our employees do not wear uniforms. They dress in the way they think is most appropriate to get their jobs done. While this permits them to look like the individuals they are, it really doesn't help you identify them as Bell employees. But, there is a way. Every Michigan Bell employee is required to carry a Michigan Bell identification card giving his or her name, photograph, and signature. For your protection, be sure to see this card before you admit them into your home. They'll be happy to show it to you.

No sooner have DPW crews finished sweeping the remains of Fall Festival from the streets of downtown Plymouth than comes an invasion of another sort to our beleaguered community. Gallus Domesticus is on the way. Sound ominous? Fowl is more like it. . . oops, that's "fowl." Not just one fowl, not an errant partridge or pheasant, but 150 flying Gallus Domesticus poised to spring from their cages in the community's second annual Fowl Festival, Sunday, Oct. 2.

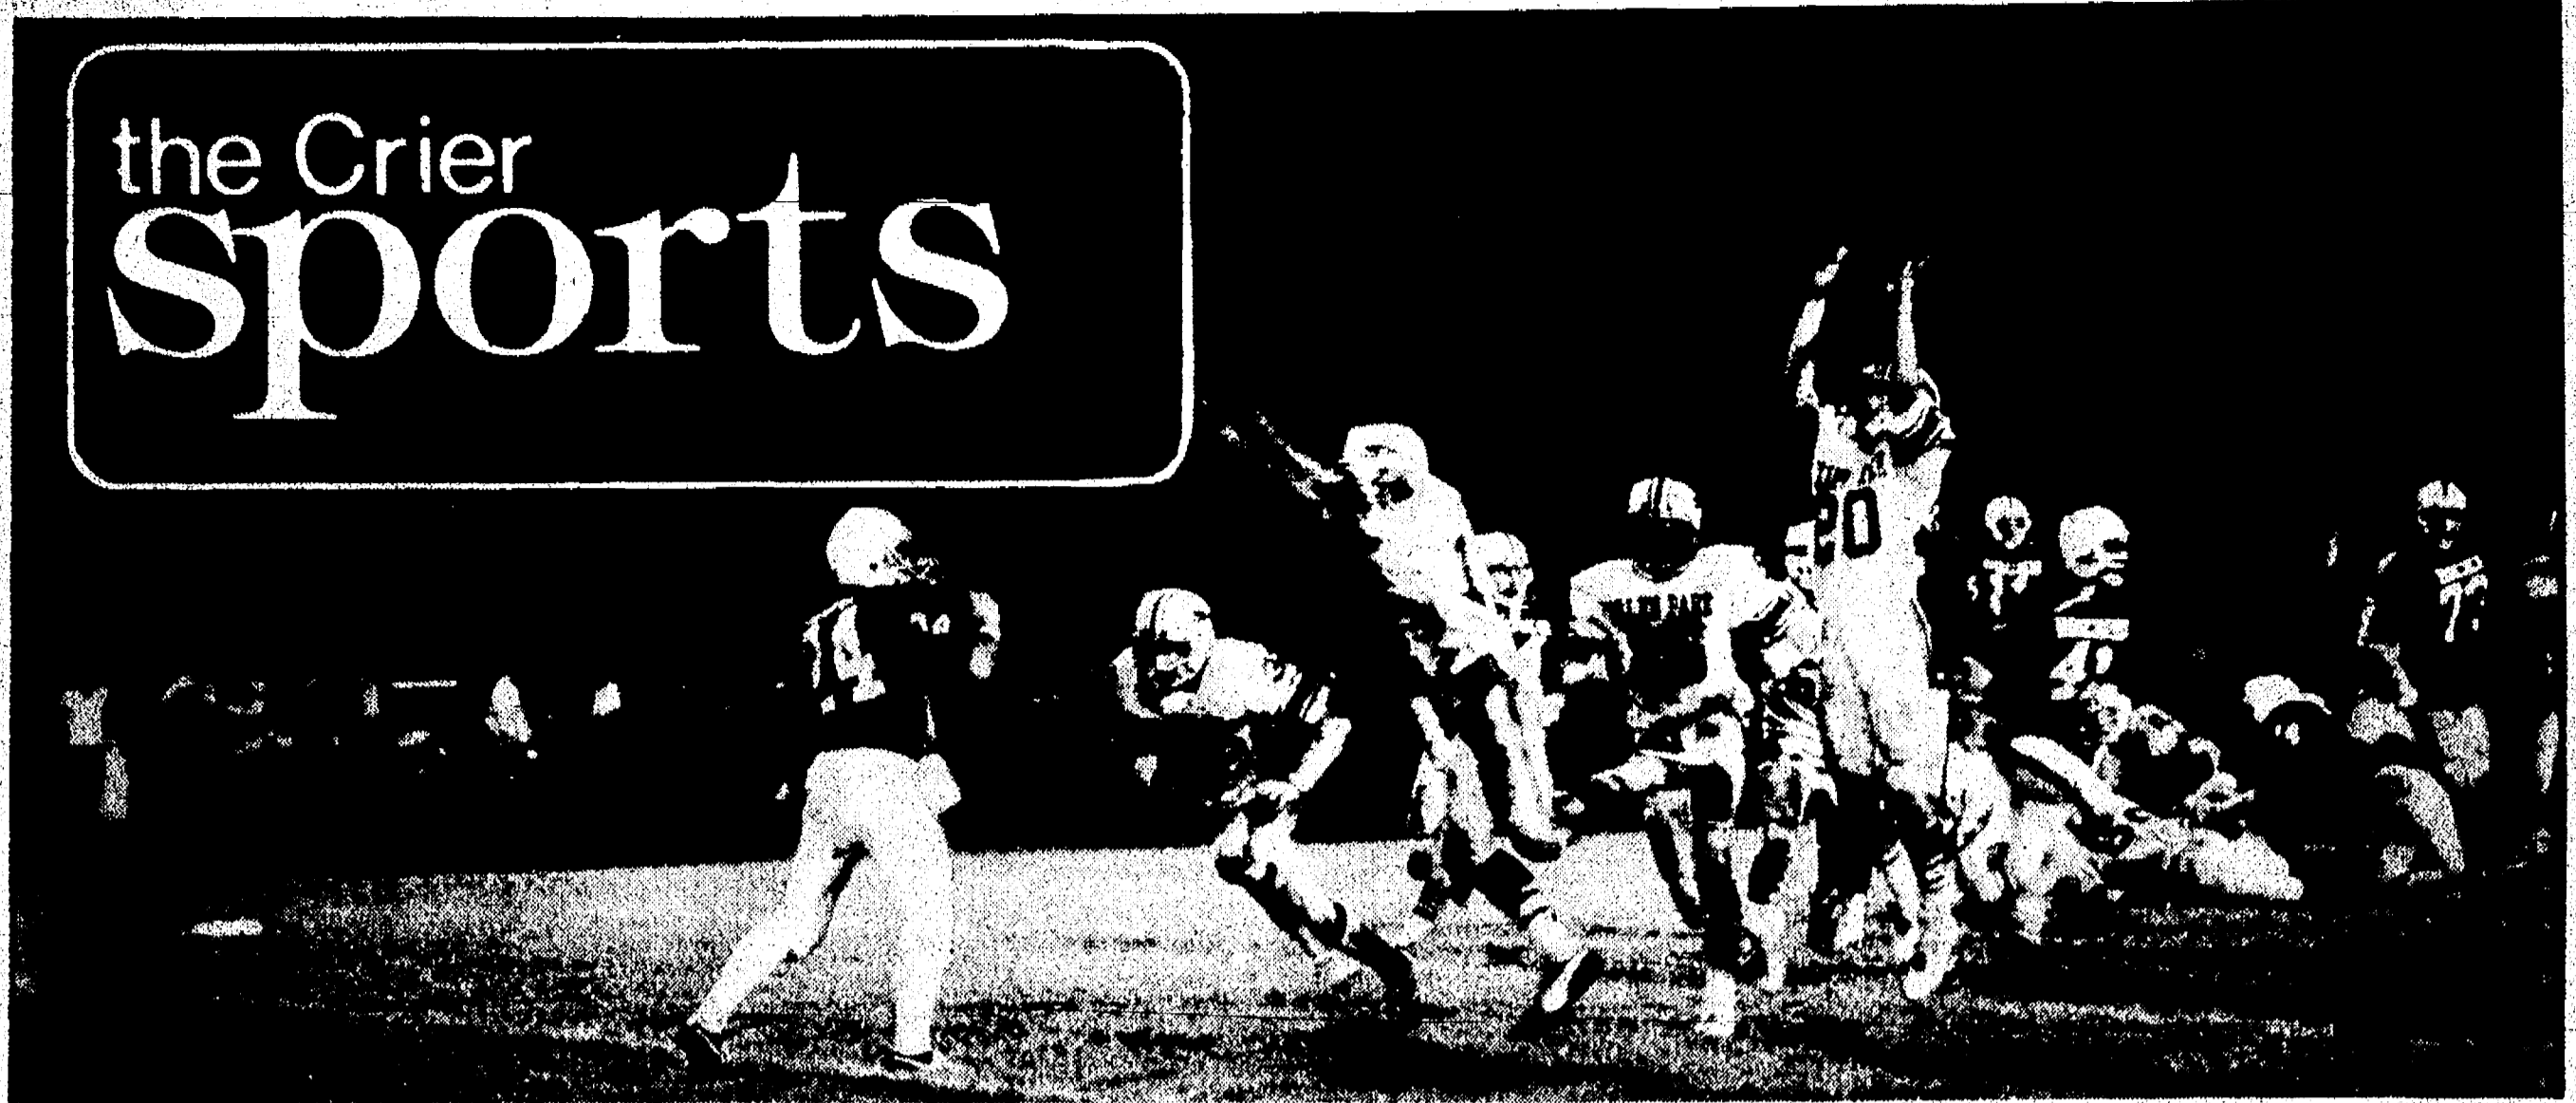

There's still time to enter your own boast (or a rosted one) in this one-of-a-kind sports event, but time is running out. The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the event, has placed a limit of 120 on the number of chickens supposed to appear. . . . If you can't get your hands on a bird of your own, you can rent a snort for $35 from the chamber. Dozens of birds have already entered, many of them veterans of last year's affair, so you'd best register soon. The challenge of a chicken showdown has already gone out among many merchants and residents. And participants in last year's event, which won national newspaper and television recognition, are plotting new ways to inspire their birds and outfly last year's champion entry, the local Boy Scouts' "Dumb Cluck," which is training to compete once again.

ROCK QUARTERBACK Paul Dillon holds his ground and concentrates on the receiver as the Allen Park line charges in. Salem's offense clicked in

Wishbone gels; Rocks whip Allen Park

BY CHAS CHILD
Quarterback Rich Hewlett showed how essential he was to Salem's wishbone attack last Friday by faking, running and passing the Rocks to a 35-14 victory over Allen Park. The junior signal-caller was injured last week on the third play against Livonia Franklin, and the Rocks relied on their defense to win, 6-3.

But with Hewlett at the helm Friday, the offense stole the show in the Rocks' Suburban Eight opener.

Hewlett ran for one TD, passed for another and kept the Rocks moving all evening with his faking and running.

Breaking clear on the option from Salem's 46-yard line, Hewlett did some fancy open-field running to bring the ball to Allen Park's 10-yard line to set up the Rocks' first touchdown.

Two more options in the second quarter broke the game wide open for the Rocks, 21-0.

Hewlett kept for one of the scores, taking it in from the nine, and pitched out to Chris Ritchey for the other.

Ritchey's 29-yard scamper came on a playbook-perfect reverse option with 5:04 left in the half.

"We used that play against Franklin last week and used perfect execution to score tonight," Tom Moshimer said.

Curt Lewis set up Ritchey's sprint by picking off a pass by Jaguar Quarterback Gene Vacca on the Plymouth 30 and returning it to the Allen Park 33.

Allen Park's only offensive threat came in the air. With time

Salem J.V. falls, 16-12

The Salem junior varsity football team failed to convert on their points after touchdowns and lost to Allen Park Thursday, 16-12.

Phil Anderson scored the Rocks' first touchdown on a 12-yard run. Salem scored its second TD on a kick-off, but it took two players to do it.

Anderson fielded the kick-off and ran 35 yards before fumbling. Greg Lipka scooped it up and ran the remaining 40 yards to pay dirt.

running out in the first half he hit split end Jim Doyle in the end zone from the 16-yard line.

The Vacca-to-Doyle combination struck again only three plays into the second half. The Jaguars recovered a Salem fumble on the first play from scrimmage in the second half.

Two complete passes, 11 and 20 yarders put the last of Allen Park's points on the scoreboard, with Salem still ahead, 21-14.

The suspense was over on the Rocks' next possession, though, when halfback Chris Ritchey danced through a huge hole off tackle and sped 66 yards to the goal line. Dave Basierbe's PAT (point after touchdown) kick was just wide (his only miss of the day) and the Rocks were back in a comfortable lead, 27-14.

"We couldn't stop their off tackle play or their lead option," Jaguar Coach Peter Loso said. "That was the ball game."

The Rocks iced the cake when Hewlett caught Allen Park's secondary napping and hit end Curt Lewis all alone near the Jaguar end zone. The 34-yard pass play ended any hopes the Parkers still harbored.

"For only the second game we played well offensively," Coach Tom Moshimer said. "We'll be in the thick of it if we keep improving."

The Rocks are now 1-0 in the Suburban Eight league and travel to Belleville for their next game Friday night at 8 p.m.

Chiefs drop ball, game to Annapolis

BY JEFF REY

What can be said about a team that has eleven turnovers during one game? Not much, other than it makes it hard to win, and the Canton Chiefs discovered that after losing a depressing 18-6 fumble-plagued ball game to Dearborn Heights Annapolis Friday.

Canton's Head Coach Dave Schuele's only words were, "we just couldn't keep the ball off the ground."

The Chiefs fumbled the ball 10 times, three in the first 10 minutes of the game, along with one interception. It's a credit to the Chief defense that they held Annapolis to only three touchdowns.

Canton's defense repeatedly proved how tough they could be, holding Annapolis to only 134 yards. Annapolis's three scores came only after the Chiefs had fumbled deep in their own territory giving Annapolis superb field position.

Canton started the first quarter moving the ball well, but a fumble set up Annapolis's first touchdown on a 23-yard run by Paul Croteau. Canton fumbled the ball two more times in the quarter but Annapolis failed to capitalize.

The second quarter the Canton defense made trouble for Annapolis. Senior defensive end Keith Fuelling, after two fine solo tackles blocked Annapolis's punt attempt to set up a first and goal at the five yard line. Two plays later senior powerhouse Jerry Simon, on a pitch from quarterback Doug Smith, ran into the end zone to tie the score at six apiece with 4:54 left in the second quarter.

Canton came out in the second half hoping to turn things around as they did the previous week, but fumble number five at 9:55 gave Annapolis the ball on Canton's 44 yard line. Six minutes later senior Gregg Salata on a four-yard run scored Annapolis's second touchdown.

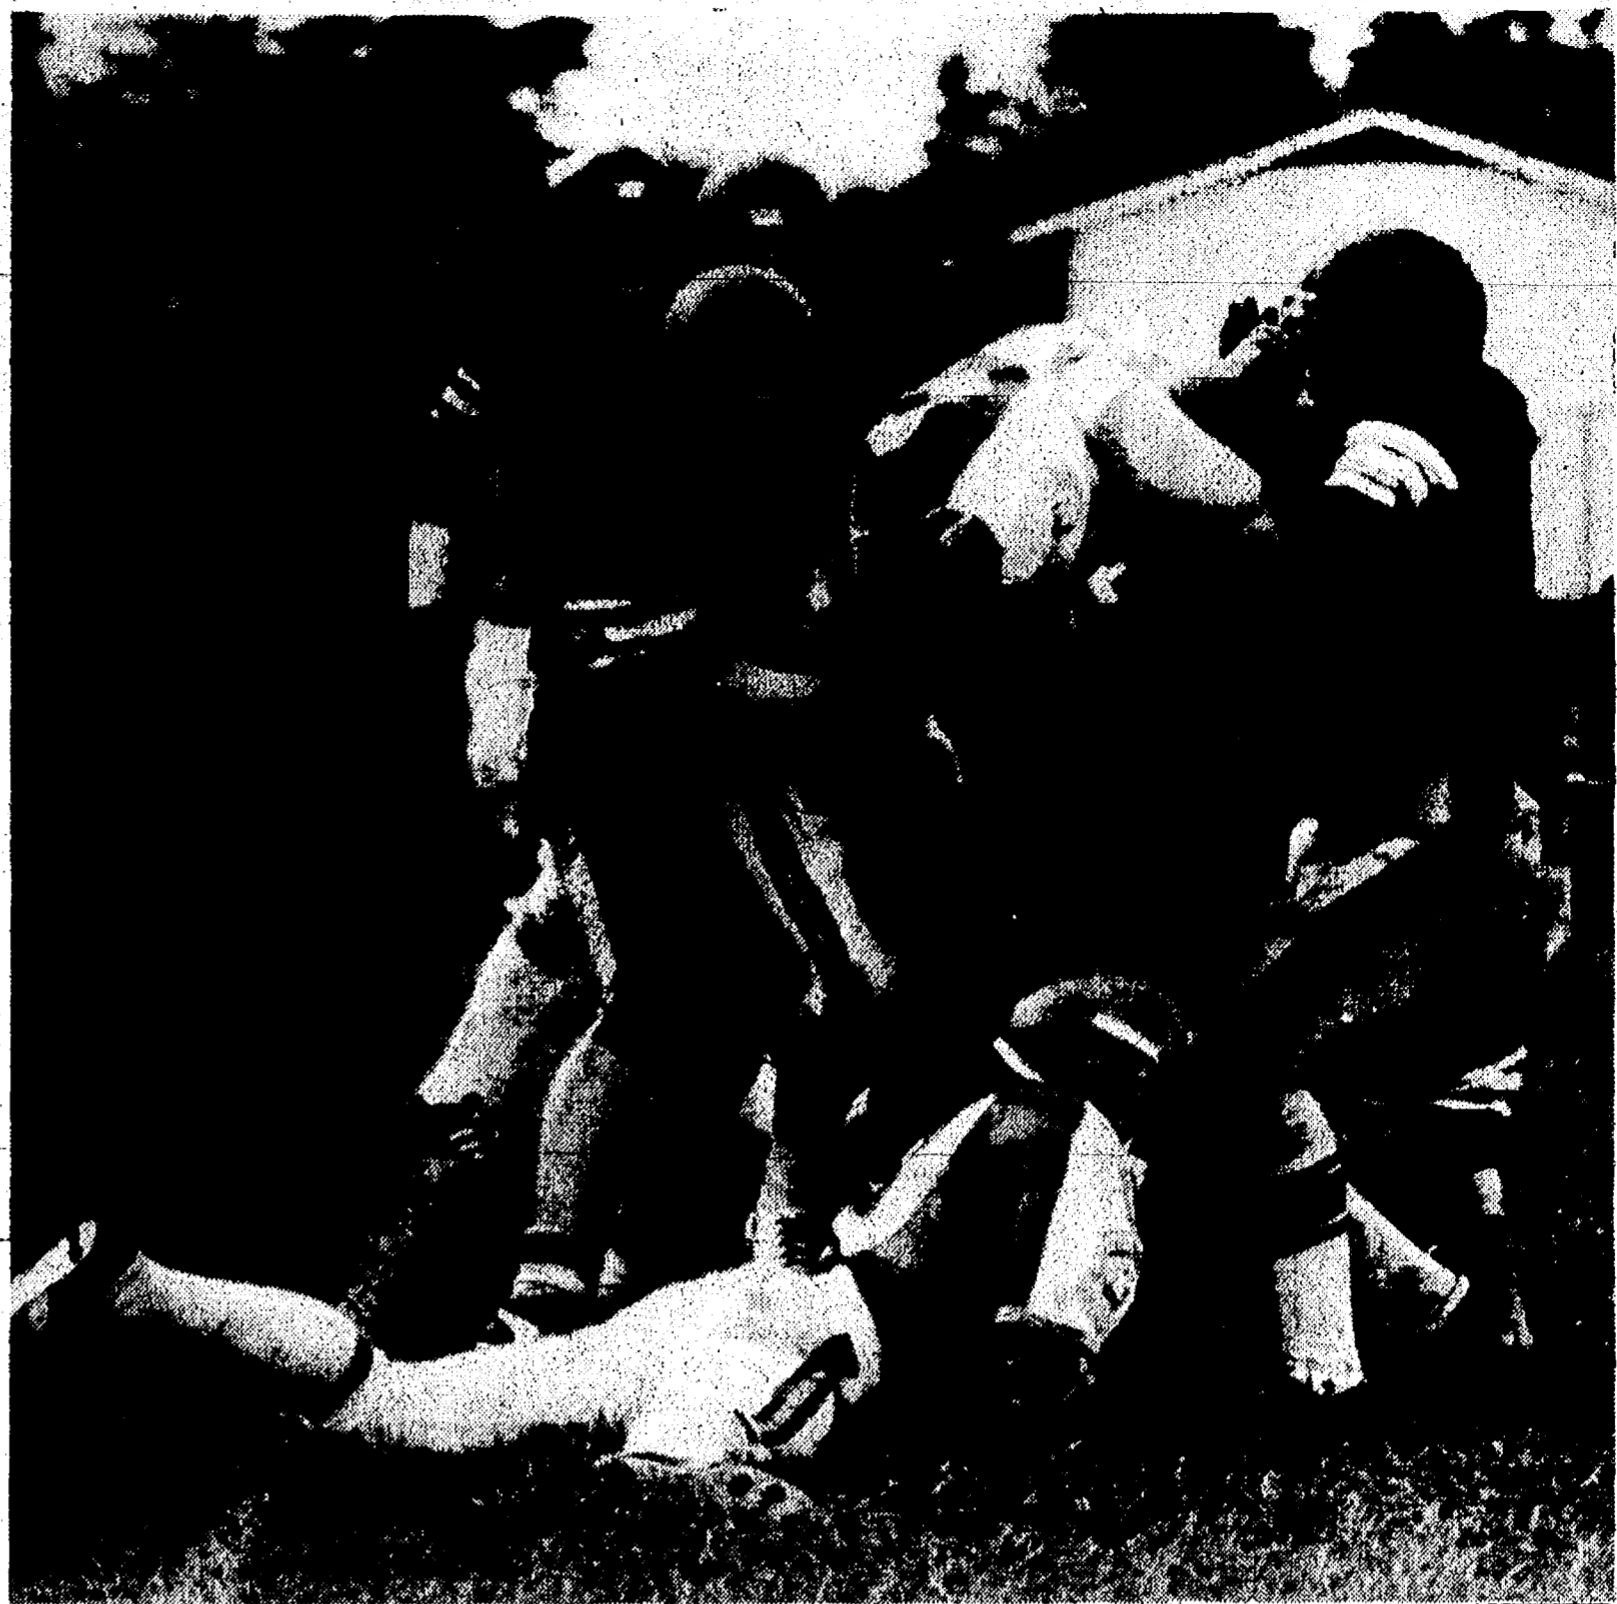

Then a fumble on the kick-off set up Annapolis's third and final touchdown with 2:29 left in the third quarter. That was all the scoring for both teams.

Even though Canton's offense was fumble ridden throughout the game, they racked up a total of 234 yards, nearly 100 more than Annapolis. Smith's passing was an especially bright spot, throwing 16 passes for 110 yards.

Senior Randy Reinas demonstrated his pass receiving ability catching five passes and accounting for 86 of the total passing yardage.

"We just didn't hit an emotional high," said Schuele after the game. "Churchill is going to be a good contest for us next week."

The Chiefs host Churchill in their league opener Friday at 8 p.m. Churchill is 0-2 after losing to Edsel Ford last week.

Salem harriers lose to Thurston, 23-32

Salem's cross country team fell to non-league opponent Thurston Thursday, 23-32 in their season's opener.

Sophomore Paul Hess led the Rocks with a third place finish. Tom Rubadue followed right behind in fourth.

Sixth was Jeff Econom, and Bob Stifler and Dave Truesdell finished ninth and tenth respectively.

On Saturday the Rocks took 13th out of 22 teams in the Schoolcraft College Invitational. "I thought we ran well, despite the loss," Coach Fred Thomann said. In the Thurston meet,

"every runner bettered his time trials from anywhere from 41 seconds to 1.20."

Bentley beats Chief harriers

Canton's cross country team had its season opener ruined by Livonia Bentley Thursday when the Bulldogs blanked the Chiefs, 15-45.

Leading Canton was senior co-captain Dennis Hennells who finished sixth. Following him were David Spitz, Jerry Van Berkle, Dan McGlenn and Brian Olk.

At the Schoolcraft College Invitational Saturday, the Chiefs placed 20th in a field of 22 teams.

Foul trouble beats Rocks, 54-50

Plagued by fouls, Salem's basketball team fell to Redford Union Thursday, 54-50.

The Rocks gave Redford 36 free throws and two starters, Kathy Dillon and Nan Horwood, fouled out.

Although Dillon had three fouls in the first 10 minutes and spent long stretches thereafter on the bench, she still tallied 18 points to lead all scorers.

"We want our players to be aggressive, but they were reaching in too much," Coach Debbie Hatcher said.

In contrast to Bentley's 36 free throw attempts, Salem only went to the line 15 times. The Bulldogs sank 16 of their shots and Salem made six.

Mary Dickey scored 12 points for the Rocks and Debbie Pitera and Doris Hoelscher contributed nine each.

Pitera lead the Rocks in rebounds with 12.

The Rocks now stand 0-1 in the Suburban Eight as the game was their league opener. They are 1-1 overall pending a game against Edsel Ford played last night.

Salem plays Bentley tomorrow evening away in a big game for both teams early in the season.

Hatcher said Bentley, Edsel Ford and Salem should be battling it out for first in the Sub. Eight.

Ann Meixner's 13 points led Salem's junior varsity team to victory, 46-37.

Flypaper defense carries Canton

BY CHAS CHILD

Holding Livonia Franklin to just two third-quarter points, Canton girls basketball team swept to its second straight lopsided victory Thursday, 59-25.

Last Tuesday, the Chiefs overwhelmed Ypsilanti, 53-21. Laura Butler and Kelly Heaton share topscoring honors with 10 points each in the Franklin game, but it was the defense that shone.

Canton stole the ball 16 times from the hard-pressed Patriots. And in the third quarter, using a press, the Chiefs held Franklin to two points and only two shots.

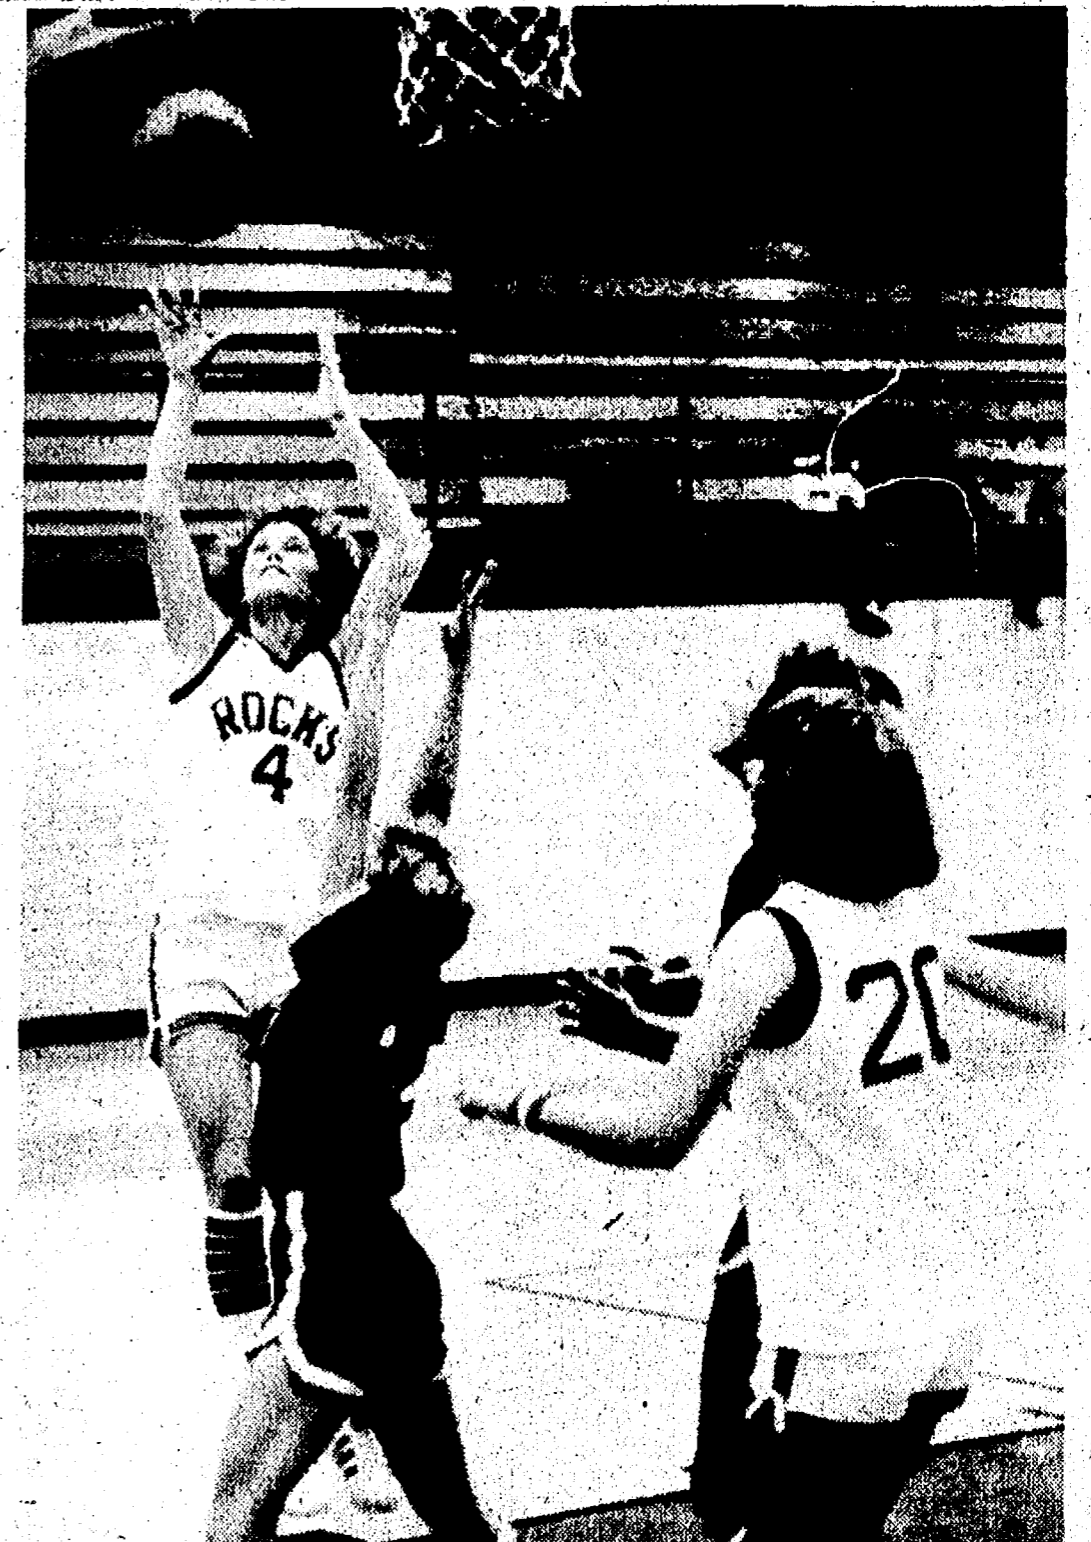

The Franklin game was never really in doubt as the Chiefs lengthened their lead at every quarter.

Coach Mike McCauley got virtually his whole team into the game, also. After high scorers Butler and Heaton, Jill Peterson scored seven and Evie Pasek, Dawn Malek and Vicky Cavalario all tallied six.

Sue Rekuc scored five points, Kathy Sochacki, three and Diane Durocher, two, to round out the scoring.

Canton's defense shut off any threat Ypsilanti might have mounted earlier in the week. The game was never close as the Chiefs took a 27-6 half-time lead.

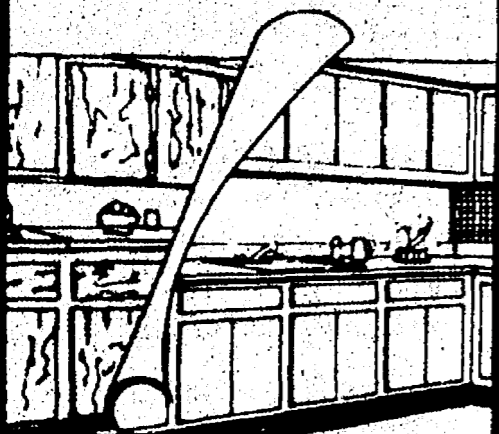

Offensively, Sue Rekuc and Kathy Sochaki both scored 13 points each to lead Canton's scorers.

Horton blanks opponent again; Rock netters whip John Glenn

BY CHAS CHILD

No. 3 singles Kathy Horton failed to lose even a game for the second match in a row to lead the Salem girls tennis team over Livonia John Glenn, 5-2, last Tuesday.

Horton won, obviously, 6-0, 6-0. In the first match of the season last Monday, she also blanked her Churchill opponent, 6-0, 6-0.

Becky Crespo, no. 1 singles, continued her winning ways by defeating Jill Barrich in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1.

No. 2 singles Courtney Warrick lost in a close match, 4-6, 4-6.

Rock Betsy Moon straight-setted her fourth singles opponent, 6-1, 6-1.

John Glenn's first doubles team of Joanne Paschva and Sylvia Roberts won the no. 3 doubles state championship last year and they beat Rocks Lynne and Sandra Hathaway, 6-2, 7-5.

The no. 2 doubles pair of Wendy Webb and Kathy Weber won 6-1, 6-3 and Renee Braun and Laura Smith teamed up at third doubles to win 6-4, 7-5.

The junior varsity won also, 5-3.

Thursday's match with Thurston and Monday's date with Bentley were both rained out, leaving the Rocks without much preparation for today's important match with defending Suburban Eight champion Trenton.

Salem finished second last year.

Chief netters lose, 6-1, to Churchill

No. 3 singles Mindy Starkey was the only bright spot in the Canton tennis team's loss to Livonia Churchill Friday.

Starkey recorded the Chiefs only victory in the 6-1 loss, beating Veronica Guerrin 6-7, 6-4, 6-1.

1st victory eludes Canton by one stroke

One stroke separated the Canton golf team from their first victory against Waterford Mott Thursday.

The Chiefs shot a solid 210, but Mott slipped past with a 209. "We would have won many matches last year with a 210, but scores seem to be lower this year," Coach John Crosson said.

Scott McClone shot a 39 to lead the Chiefs, followed by Dave Visser, 40, Rich Ling, 42, John Matthews, 42, and Kirk Rasmussen, 47.

Last Tuesday, Canton lost to Redford Union, 159 to 172. Only four scores were counted, and all the Chiefs, Visser, McClone, Ling and Matthews, shot 43s.

Crosson said Canton had an excellent chance to record their first victory yesterday afternoon against Western Six opponent Walled Lake Western.

Through the Waterford Mott contest the Chiefs stood 0-2 in the league and 0-4 overall.

plan available to police officers under the Michigan Municipal Employee Retirement System. In the second year of the two-year pact, salaries will climb seven per cent and officers will receive an increase in their clothing allowance.

Still unresolved after the negotiations is how vacancies in the detective bureau should be filled. Union negotiators want a merit test to determine the candidates chosen, while city administrators prefer to assign an officer to the post.

City Manager Fred Yockey, who lauded the agreement as a whole, said that issue could still require arbitration.

Negotiators for the city were Mark Wollenweber, assistant city manager; Police Chief Tim Ford; Asst. Chief Loren Johnson; and Lt. Rod Cannon.

Representing Local 214-Law

Enforcement Division were Roy, Officer Robert Scoggins and Teamster negotiator Bill Mendenhall.

Canton approves engineering dept.

A new department to oversee planning and engineering in Canton was unanimously approved by the Board of Trustees last Tuesday.

Supervisor Harold Stein said the department would organize and look after day-to-day operations of services like road grating, drainage, and reviewing site plans.

Headed by a full-time engineer, the department would not replace the consulting work done by Wade and Trim, a private planning company, rather it would supplement their work, Stein said.

were only estimates and not final.

"We can cut programs or go for the additional millage," he said. "I don't know any other way to bring it into balance."

School Board President Tom Yack said, "If we go to the public and say the programs are cut - it would be a complete surprise. People need time to think about an increase in taxes and decrease in programs. They need to know why."

Lawton said the estimated costs of ESY "were suspect. They may not reflect accurate portrayal of real cost and we should take a careful look at them. ESY should be an immense benefit, but based on these figures we should fold ESY up."

The proposed budget listed ESY costs up 1,642.1 per cent for this year -- half the cost going for air conditioning in the six ESY elementary schools.

"Contractual obligations and human resources are causing us a problem there," said Hoben. "We've never hoodwinked anyone on the costs of ESY." Board Treasurer Steven Harper said that in comparing ESY costs to double-loading schools and staff in half-day classes the difference "is a wash" -- they balance each other out. Hoedel said salaries and wages are up 21.7 per cent this year, with a 50 per cent increase in certified staff (to handle start-up costs of the ESY program.) Next year, school officials expect to pay a four to six per cent standard of living adjustment, incremental increases and a three per cent retirement increase in their contract with Plymouth teachers. In the third year, a three per cent raise, plus incremental adjustment and from four to seven per cent standard of living adjustment will be paid, according to the contract ratified by the schools and the Plymouth Education Association this spring.

Hoedel said he disagreed with the board, saying that this year's proposed budget was "a balanced one. Next year is our problem. It would create havoc to cut $800,000 of this (1977-78) budget," he said. "We're in good shape compared to other districts."

The adoption of the budget is set for the regular board meeting of Oct. 10. One, possibly two, public hearings on the proposed budget will be held before that final adoption date. No public hearing dates were set before press time.
