Schools weigh boundaries, decision due on April 9

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Can students from a mostly unbuild subdivision, Windemere II, switch schools instead of kids from Windemere I who are already attending classes.

That question was posed by Michael O'Neill of Windemere I in Canton during the public forum on proposed boundary changes for students in the Plymouth-Canton school district. The forum, which was held at Canton High School Little Theater on Thursday night, drew about 100 interested parents. About 15 persons spoke to the Board of Education and school officials.

O'Neill's idea is to assign students from Windemere II to schools that are different from their set attendance areas.

"Since most students haven't moved into the homes which are still under construction in Windemere II, they could simply be assigned to schools as they move in," said O'Neill.

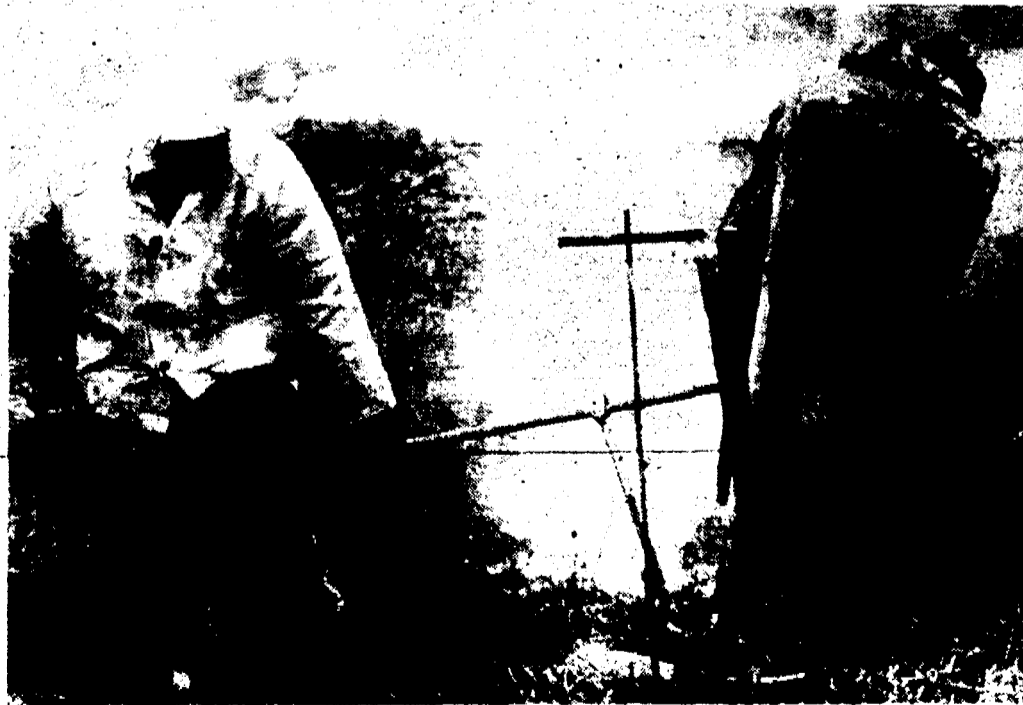

His idea would mean that students from Windemere I would not have to change schools as was originally recommended by the boundary committee.

There are about 160 new home presently under construction in Windemere II.

Dave Rodwell, a consultant for the boundary committee, said O'Neill's idea was "possible." He said he would investigate it more.

Boundary changes and the three plans currently under consideration by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education will be discussed by the board in its workshop on Monday, April 2. The final decision on boundaries will be made on Monday, April 9. Both meetings will be at board offices at 454 S. Harvey St. Plymouth.

A MICHIGAN BELL crew sliced through a three-inch natural gas main in Canton Saturday morning, and it took workers three and one-half hours to close it off. Gas bubbled up through puddles and rose in clouds (above), as workmen, clothed in protective suits against a possible flash fire, pinched off the plastic pipe "upstream" from the break on the east side of Lilley Road just south of Ford Road. About one-half mile of Lilley was closed from around 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. during the repair effort by Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler.)

BY FRED DeLANO

Plymouth Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert has revealed he will urge adoption by the Board of Trustees Thursday night of a resolution changing the area's form of government to that of a charter township.

A special meeting of the board to discuss the matter has been called by Notebaert for 7:30 p.m. in Township Hall.

"The big fear of property owners has been that under charter status the board could raise the tax rate to five mills without a vote of the people," said the supervisor.

"However, I have been advised that under the Headlee amendment to the state constitution which was approved in a statewide election last November this is no longer true.

"That amendment takes precedence. Even were we to convert to charter status by resolution, taxation would be held to present limits unless an increase was approved by the people."

Notebaert conceded that a referendum among township residents could block implementation of the switch from status of a general law township to that of a charter township, forcing submission of the question to a general vote.

Without such a referendum, the changeover would take place 45 days after the resolution was adopted, Notebaert said.

"In view of the situation concerning Headlee provisions, I personally have no objections to taking the action by resolution," he added.

"We absolutely need to become a charter township. Then we can talk to the City of Plymouth concerning possible shared services eyeball to eyeball. I will recommend adoption of such a resolution Thursday."

As a general law township, Plymouth Township is subject to annexation efforts and currently the City of Plymouth has three such actions pending in court.

The switch to charter status would be a barrier against the city's bid for takeover, although other provisions of the law also would have to be met.

Included is the need for establishment of some sort of township police service, even if only a token within the township's present financial limitations.

Still in front of the board of trustees is a proposal from the Wayne County Sheriff's Department for a contract that would give the township far more than mere token protection, however.

The proposal would offer around-the-clock service from a staff of nine officers, with two patrol cars available, at an annual cost of about $227,000.

Any such expense as that would require financing from special millage and the ramifications of this is certain to come into Thursday night's discussion, said Notebaert.

At a meeting earlier this month, the board voted to ask Wayne County to designate a date in May when an election could be held with the millage question for police protection being submitted to popular vote.

However, the board has not fixed the amount to be asked, nor, for that matter, has the county advised township officials when such an election can be held.

In telling of his determination to urge approval of a charter resolution, Notebaert said that "because of the importance of this whole subject I hope anyone in the township who is interested turns out for Thursday's special meeting."

Voters reject Schoolcraft tax

Schoolcraft College lost a bid for an extra one mill from district taxpayers yesterday.

Unofficial totals showed 4,252 "no" and 3,029 "yes" votes for the five-year request to fund new construction, equipment purchase and major maintenance on the Livonia campus.

In the Plymouth-Canton school district, voters also defeated the proposal, 572 "no" to 499 "yes."

"We may come back in the general election in June," said David Heinzman, director of the office of college relations. "Not for the same request, but with a pared down, modified proposal."

He said that the school has $1,200,000 in the bank earmarked for expansion of the culinary arts facilities. With a one-half mill, one time only request, the school would have enough money to finish the project.

"Without that extra one-half mill, we'll lose the $1,200,000 already collected," said Heinzman.

The other projects planned are "out the window at this point," he said.

A number of factors contributed to the defeat, Heinzman said. These include double-digit inflation, the current tax season, higher property evaluations, and local school districts recent announcements that they will be asking for more mills, he said.

"We just didn't get enough people who support what we're doing to the polls," he said.

Schools delay school bus purchases

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

The proposal to buy new buses was tabled for the second time by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Monday night.

"We've got to cut back to the bare bones," said Richard Arlen, acting president of the board. The district is operating with an $800,000 deficit; Next the board will be forced to cut back on instruction, he said.

The request to buy 10 large buses and three mini-buses, which cost a total of $246,903, had been pared down from Asst. Supt. for Business Ray Hoedel's original recommendation to buy 17 large buses and five mini-buses. The original recommendation was tabled by the board on Feb. 26.

Futhermore, Hoedel said if no new buses were purchased he would recommend that no field trips be taken on school buses next year.

Without new buses, the district wouldn't have an adequate number of spare buses in the yard to use others for field trips, said Hoedel. He added that preventative maintenance programs for bus checkups and repair would be set back also.

Superintendent Mike Hoben said any further delay in purchasing new buses could result in the new buses not being delivered in time for school this fall.

"We must consider the children's safety, not our budget at this point," said Board Member Flossie Tonda, who favored the proposal.

Board Member Steve Harper pared down Hoedel's recommendation more. He asked the district to buy three mini-buses, but his proposal was not seconded by any member on the board.

"Even if we were held to Harper's amended version of the recommendation, I would still say that no field trips should be taken next year," said Hoedel.

Additional buses would be used to replace old buses, allow an adequate number of spares in case of breakdowns or emergencies, allow for preventative maintenance on buses, and be used to transport the additional students moving into the district next year, said Hoedel.

Hoedel's proposal will be considered by the board at its next meeting on April 9.

Board members Carol Davis, Flossie Tonda, Steve Harper, and Elaine Kirchgatter voted to table the proposal. Members Joe Gray and Tom Yack were absent.

Canton argues land use patterns

BY CHAS CHILD

A Canton Board of Trustees resolution designed to prevent strip development along Ford Road may actually "tie our hands" regarding land use in other areas of the township, said one trustee.

Two weeks ago, the board requested the Planning Commission to make as few changes in the 1976 Master Land Use Plan as possible.

The planning commission is reviewing the masterplan and considering whether to commercially zone Ford Road from the Westland line to Canton Center, or whether to break up the commercial strip and cluster business in two areas: between Canton Center Road and Sheldon, and the Westland line and Lilley.

The 1976 Master Plan calls for such clustering, but the board's motion requesting the planning commission to follow it would affect other areas in the township besides Ford Road, some trustees said.

"The resolution could cause a lot of problems (in these other areas)," said Trustee Carol Bodenmiller. "It could tie our hands."

Trustee Lynne Goldsmith agreed: "There have been a number of good zoning changes that deviate from the master plan. I'm for clustering, but that resolution could make some bad changes."

For example, Goldsmith cited the land next to the I-275 freeway. "Much of that is zoned for light industry, which is good. The master plan calls for multiples (apartments)."

Treasurer Jim Donahue agreed that the resolution could cause problems but maintained that, overall, the master plan should be adopted intact by the planning commission.

"There may be a need for changes. If there is, I'll support them," he said. "But I don't want the planning commission to go completely over it and make mass changes. It took two or three years to write the master plan and I don't

Canton clerks to vote again on unionizing

BY CHAS CHILD

The Canton Board of Trustees voted to hire a full-time personnel director Thursday night, reversing its earlier decision to create only a part-time position.

The move comes on the eve of a vote by the township's clerical employes on whether to unionize.

"Our labor lawyer advised us to go full-time with the position," said Treasurer Jim Donahue. "There is a whole ton of work to be done in the area of structuring job classifications, promotions, raises and other things."

The board had earlier voted to recommend to the Merit Commission, which will actually hire the personnel director, that the position be part-time in an effort to save money.

The 26 clerks will vote April 2 whether to organize. On the ballot are four choices: Teamsters, Police Officers Association of Michigan (POAM), American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), and no union.

A Canton clerk who did not want to be identified, said employe relations had been neglected: "Every time a new supervisor is elected, we get a new set of rules. The pay scales are unequal, for example, and there's no one who seems to be in charge."

"The clerks aren't disgruntled with working conditions or pay," said Donahue. "They're disgruntled with the lack of organization, which the personnel director will provide."

However, the board and the merit commission, which has the final say on all employe matters, disagreed on how much time the personnel director should spend on day-to-day employe problems.

Donahue and other board members said they wanted the new director to handle most of the petty grievances and office problems in the township.

But Larry Bowerman, chairman of the merit commission, said that if a grievance should reach the commission, the director should not be so involved in problems so as to color his three-member panel's decision.

The personnel director, though, should help manage township employes in some manner, Bowerman said.

Teachers nix regional union

Plymouth-Canton teachers rejected the option of joining forces with a county group of negotiators in order to hammer out a new contract this spring.

That means that local teachers will continue to be represented by the Plymouth-Canton Education Association during contract negotiations, which will start during the first week in April.

"A very small percentage of teachers turned in cards to join Wayne County bargainers," said John Ryder, president of the PCEA.

To join Wayne County bargainers, the proposal needed approval by 30 percent of the teachers.

Ryder said the teachers chose to remain independent because unique situations such as the extended school year exist in Plymouth-Canton, but not in other districts.

Only 1 person has filed for two school seats

James L. Sinclair of Plymouth Township has filed a petition to run for one of the two expiring terms on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education. April 9 is the last day to submit a petition as a candidate.

By Monday a total of eight petitions had been taken out, however Sinclair is the only candidate who has returned his petition.

Sinclair has been president of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Athletic Association for three years and a school district resident for 14 years.

Two board members will be elected on June 11. Board President Tom Yack said he will be a candidate for re-election to the board, however, Board Member Joe Gray has declined to run.

To run for the board, each candidate must submit a nominating petition with 54 qualified signatures. Candidates must also be: a registered voter living in the Plymouth-Canton school district; at least 18 years old; a Michigan resident for at least 30 days; and, a citizen of the U.S. Candidates do not need to own property to run for the board.

The deadline to file petitions is 4 p.m., April 9, at 455 S. Harvey St.

To vote in the June 11 election, residents must register by 5 p.m. on May 14. Absentee ballots must be submitted to the board office by June 9 at 2 p.m.

The new terms on the Board of Education will begin on July 1.

Schools mull teaching birth control in '80 - 81

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Birth control may be taught in Plymouth-Canton classrooms beginning in 1980-81, according to Mike Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction in the school district.

A 21-person committee on Reproductive Health was appointed by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education on Monday night. The committee of parents, clergy, and educators will help school officials design the nature of the course, methods used in presenting it to students, and the materials to be used.

This step enables school officials to consider how and when birth control instruction should be introduced to students. It will be taught as part of sex and health education.

The Board of Education must approve a final recommendation to teach birth control before it can be taught in the classroom.

"Should the board hold public hearings before we start the program?" asked Flossie Tonda, a board member.

"Although it may not be required by law, it would be a good idea," said Member Elaine Kirchgatter.

Named to the committee were: Rev. Ted Taylor, Janet Brass, Ken Jacobs, Father Ken McKenna, Fred Prezioso, John Vandenberg, Shirley Cunningham, Janet Lawson, Carol Johnston, John Sandmann, E.J. McClendon, Karen Willard, Paul Schubert, Betty Barber, Allie Suffety, Sandra Franck, Amy Kemegis, Denise Gimpel, Victoria Svec, and John Telford.

Shirley Cunningham, a nurse for the Plymouth-Canton schools, volunteered to serve as chairperson of the committee.

The committee was approved by a 5-0 vote with board members Joe Gray and Tom Yack absent.

Land use plan to change

want to see that work go down the drain."

To clarify the issue, Township Planner Jim Kosteva suggested a joint meeting between the Planning Commission and the Board of Trustees.

"We need to know how the master plan and the zoning map will treat commercial property," he said.

If the planning commission and the board of trustees disagree, the township's land use strategy could be on shaky legal ground, said Goldsmith.

The master plan is written by the planning commission and sent to the board. The zoning text and map, which carry the force of law in land use, is supposedly based on it.

If the plan and the text disagree, which is possible in the Ford Road area regarding business zoning, the township might not be able to defend its land use policies in court, said Goldsmith.

Will the planning commission follow the wishes of the board? It is unclear at this point, but Bob Padget, chairman of the commission, said, "I have no intention of being swayed by that request (of the township board.) I encourage every planning commissioner to follow their conscience."

Bus driver suspended after minor accident

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

A Plymouth-Canton school bus driver was given a three-day suspension after he failed to notify school officials on his radio following an accident on Monday morning.

There were no serious injuries to students riding on the loaded bus, although one student had a bloody nose.

About 8:30 a.m. Monday, bus No. 59 was travelling east on North Territorial Road when the driver, Frank L. Radloff, 65, lost control of the bus near Sheldon Road. According to Wayne County sheriffs, apparently the bus slid on a patch of icy road and then hit an Edison light pole. The pole broke in two, although it did not fall down.

No tickets were issued to Radloff, however school officials suspended him for three days because he failed to radio the school bus yard following the accident.

"With a radio in the bus, the driver should have notified us immediately. Then a school nurse and spare bus could have been sent to the scene, if necessary," said Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business.

Instead, Radloff continued to Bird Elementary School, where he dropped the students off.

According to Hoedel, none of the students were seriously hurt although one student had a bruised hip and some "were shaken up a bit." He said parents were notified from school following the accident.

A parent, Larry Bell of Hillside Drive, complained to the Plymouth-Canton

Board of Education on Monday night about the driver's attitude.

"He wasn't concerned about the kids' safety and hurried them off the bus so he could continue to his next route. Perhaps he shouldn't continue to drive buses," said Bell.

School officials said further disciplinary action may be taken following an investigation.

"This attitude doesn't reflect the attitude of all bus drivers," said Superintendent Mike Hoben on Monday night.

Canton ZBA decision delayed

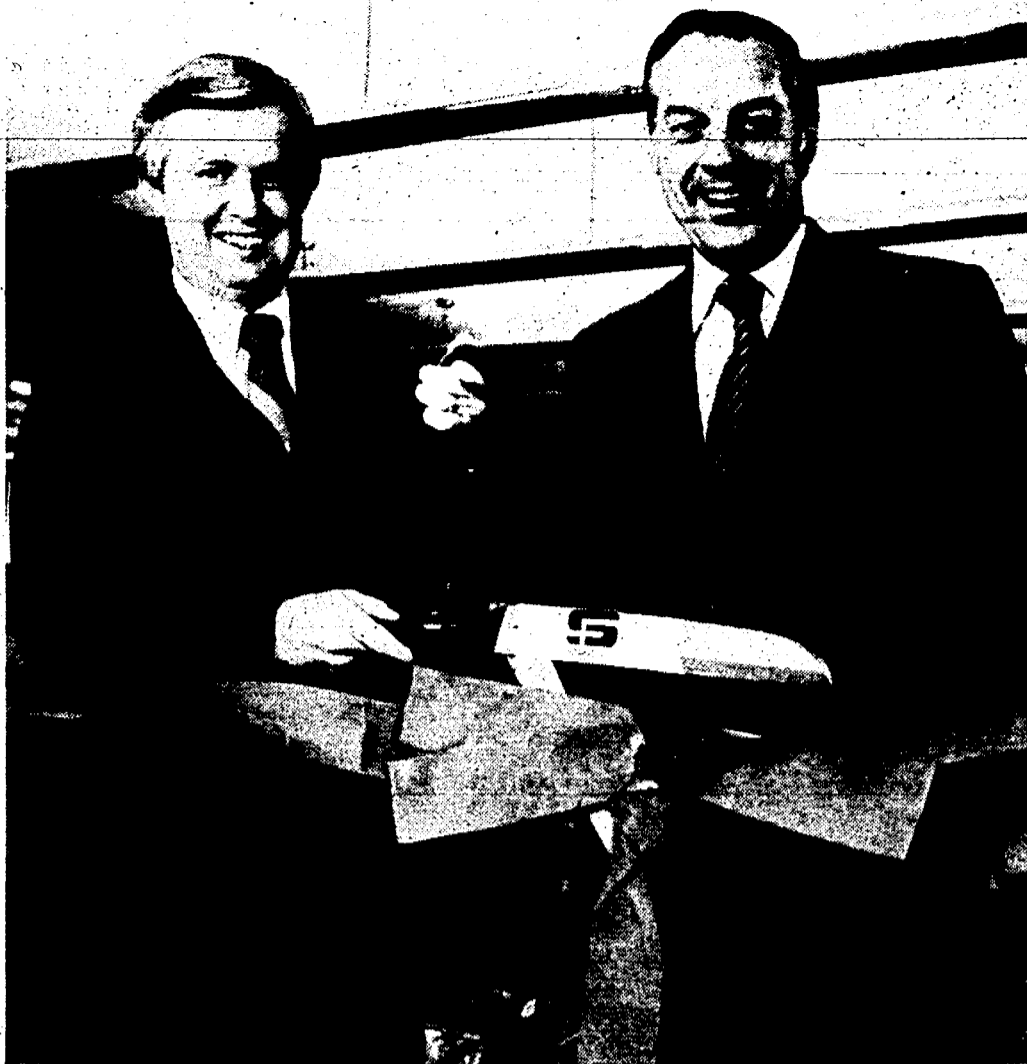

A court decision on a suit filed by the Canton Township administration against the township's Zoning Board of Appeals was decided Friday - almost.

Almost because Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Farmer decided the case on Friday, but forget that he had allowed attorneys for both sides to file further briefs until Monday, said township attorney Carl Polaczyk.

Farmer ruled that the zoning board had acted properly when it granted a roof sign to the House of Woo Restaurant on Ford Road. The administration claimed that the board had exceeded its authority by permitting the sign.

Polaczyk said that this ruling is now invalid due to Farmer's memory lapse.

The judge is expected to make a new decision soon.

School election panel formed

To help plan for a possible millage election in June, a Citizens Election Committee was established by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education on Monday night.

The committee will also inform voters about financial issues facing the school district, said Florence Beier, a school official who proposed forming the committee.

All residents of the school district can participate and school officials want all voters to be represented, said Beier.

The first meeting of the election committee will be on April 10 at 7:30 p.m. at board offices, 454 S. Harvey St., Plymouth.

For more information call Florence Beier at 453-0200, ext. 418.

Trash leads to car thieves

A man who made a routine complaint against a person dumping trash led police to arrest two alleged car thieves.

According to police, the detective story started when a resident of Gyde Road in Canton called the Canton force early this year complaining of garbage being dumped on his property.

Sifting through the trash, officers found a car dealer warranty registration card. The police seeking the vehicle's owner, contacted the Secretary of State's office in Lansing and discovered that the truck had been sold the day before, police said.

Then by intercepting the registration in the mail, the Canton police discovered the alleged owner of the truck, Robert J. Marino, 22, of 35897 Orangelawn, Livonia.

Marino was trailed by Livonia police, and on Feb. 27, he was observed allegedly stealing a truck, said police. The police followed him to a storage building on Joy, east of Lilley in Canton, where they arrested him. At the storage area, police later found, with the aid of a search warrant, numerous stolen vehicles and parts, said police.

Also arrested in the case was Larry J. Cunningham, of 20930 Halstead, Northville, police said. Police are investigating possible links to a larger stolen truck ring, said Det. Sgt. Larry Stewart of the Canton force.

According to Stewart, the alleged thieves bought used or broken down pick-up trucks with proper identification. The bodies were then removed from these trucks and replaced with bodies of new trucks, he said. The new-looking trucks with used bodies were then sold as brand new vehicles, said Stewart.

"It was just a lucky break we found the dealer registration card," he said.

3 boys nabbed

Three teenage boys were arrested on the roof of the Gourmet Gallery on Penniman Street in Plymouth on Sunday afternoon, police said.

Although Patrolman Roger Roy, who apprehended the two 14-year-olds and one 15-year-old, found no evidence of forced entry into the shop, the youths are suspects in two recent robberies of city businesses, the report said.

An 'inadvertent violation'?

WHEN THE ANNUAL Plymouth Policemen's Ball was held at the Mayflower Meeting House three years ago, it apparently was in violation of the state liquor license laws which require an entertainment permit for the type of acts featured. Not only was most of the city's police force there, but also many city officials. Shown from left at that event are: former Assistant City Manager Ray Quada, Police Chief Timothy Ford and his wife. In the background are (with his back to camera) Police Inspector Rod Cannon, Sharon Pugh and City Commissioner Dave Pugh (facing the camera). (Crier photo by Robert Cameron.)

There may soon be some titillating entertainment in town.

No, not topless dancing.

But rather, the Plymouth City Commission wrestling with granting entertainment licenses while trying to keep the lid on "immoral" entertaining.

Like it or not, the city commission may be headed toward discussing an ordinance which would permit entertainment licenses for liquor-serving establishments.

And if the commission tries walking the tightrope between protecting the real and imagined morals of Pilgrimage town on the one hand and respecting individuals' rights on the other hand, it could be a hot time.

Remember, there are four of seven commission seats up for election this year.

So why would the commission even consider such a hot potato?

After all, when Napoleon's Restaurant recently asked the second time for an entertainment license, the commission (with little hesitation) unanimously rejected the request as it had years earlier.

The reason for the rejection was that Police Chief Timothy C. Ford advised against permitting entertainment licenses without an ordinance on the books to regulate them. Without such an ordinance, topless dancing could be permitted.

In explaining that to the commission, Ford revealed that the dinner theater held at the Mayflower Meeting House should have had an entertainment license. He said he warned the Mayflower and called the liquor control commission to report the alleged violation.

Last week, LCC officials visited the hotel and issued a warning on offering entertainment without a permit.

Kirk Lorenz, of the Mayflower, had once applied for such a permit but cancelled his application when he heard of Ford's stand.

But now, Lorenz says, he is reapplying.

And that may throw the commission into the thick of it.

For it turns out that even the police chief didn't understand all of the ramifications of the liquor control commission's entertainment licensing.

Dialogues, monologues, ventriloquists, theater-type acts and even movies all require an entertainment permit if the liquor permit held by the establishment is being used.

So, for example, if a private group rents a hall - complete with liquor permit and liquor either sold or covered in the hall rental - there must be an entertainment permit in effect to offer any of those acts.

A few years ago, even the annual Plymouth Policemen's Ball was apparently in violation of the entertainment permit law. Several city officials - including the police chief - and almost the entire police force watched a ventriloquist act at the Mayflower Meeting House while sipping drinks.

Ford termed the incident an "inadvertent violation," and said that the puppet act is "a nuance I was not aware of."

And, understandably, neither was Lorenz aware of the LCC's picayune regulations. But in order to allow for the many community events booked into the Meeting House, he feels he must now go after an entertainment permit.

It would be unlikely that the commission, now faced with the complete story of what must be covered by entertainment permits, would decline to investigate, passing an ordinance to control the situation. (The commission might not think twice about Napoleon's request but the hotel will probably be a different story.)

Ford, who has a model ordinance ready and waiting in his files, doesn't care to be placed in the middle of a fight over morals.

"I don't care if they (the commissioners) do it (permit entertainment licenses) as long as they go into it with their eyes open."

Of course the whole problem goes back to the silly notion of licensing liquor in the first place. And certainly licensing something which can be termed free speech - even if it's hard to lump topless dancing under that defense - is clearly an affront to our Constitution.

But, because of state laws, the commission faces the unpleasant chore.

It should be a hot time in the elections this year.

School board seats are in your hands -- file!

As far as school board elections go, let's hope history doesn't repeat itself.

In the last Board of Education election, only three persons filed for two places. And with less than two weeks to the filing deadline (April 9), only one person has returned his petitions to get on the ballot.

As the current boundary decisions illustrate, school decisions are difficult and complex. The board of education not only needs clear-headed members, but representatives of all voices in the community.

But these voices won't have much chance to express themselves if only two or three persons file. So don't hesitate to file. The board is in your hands.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Schools aren't stable

EDITOR:

This is an open letter to the Plymouth-Canton School Board.

When you campaigned for your seats on the school board, you had to have had the support of the majority of the voters in the Plymouth-Canton Community - otherwise you would not have been elected.

Many times you needed more millage passed in order to continue the education of our children. You didn't accomplish your goal at every turn, but through every millage election, my husband and myself have supported you - as did a lot of other parents in the district.

When ESY was introduced, the majority of the parents I talked to were willing to give the new program the old "college try." Our family enjoys the ESY scheduling - and feels it's a very good program.

Now the boundaries of the schools are in danger of being changed once more, we may have one-half-day sessions, all middle schools may go on the traditional scheduling, more elementaries may be added to ESY, the high school finally was taken off the mod-scheduling, only to be put on a random-selection basis. Now I read this week that you need another millage proposal passed.

Scores of parents have pleaded with you for a stable learning environment for their children. Your slipshod system of splitting families by putting certain subs in ESY elementary attendance areas while keeping those subs on a traditional middle school program is insane!

Your lack of heart-felt concern for the families involved in this turmoil is abominable.

We are now in the position of facing the next school year with two children on ESY at Isbister, and another on traditional at West. I realize that a lot of families have gone this route for a year or so; but in our case it would be five years before this problem would no longer exist. (That is, of course, unless there is another annual boundary change.)

It makes no sense to me, or anyone else I have talked with, to endure this kind of treatment.

As much as we love the Plymouth area, we have decided to put our house on the market and look elsewhere for a new home. And our prime consideration for our new location will be whether or not the new area has a school board with its "head on straight."

For the sake of those families who remain in the Plymouth-Canton school district, I can only hope that you get your act together; and either put the district on an all-ESY program with the schools you have, or on an all-traditional program with additional schools either leased or built.

I'm sure that the majority of concerned parents would support additional millage if they felt that the board really cared enough to end all this chaos.

EDITOR:

With the completion of a very successful 15th season of the Junior Basketball, the P.C.J.B.A. would like to extend a special thanks to The Community Crier.

Your weekly coverage of our player registrations, game scores, playoffs, and other special features was a major assist to us. These "words and pictures" kept the entire community tuned into the progress of our program.

Your coverage of a very popular community program was greatly appreciated.

Sludge plan stinks

The City of Detroit, already in control of water and sewer rates in the Plymouth-Canton Community, is making a bid to stick us with the other end of the utility problem - sewage.

A firm called Bi-Products Systems of Michigan, along with Detroit, wants permission to truck sewage from its main treatment plant to a 44-acre site in Canton.

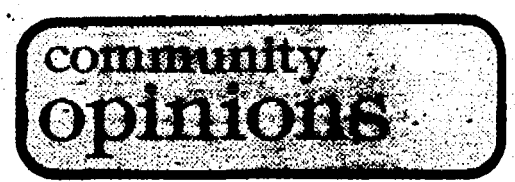

By composting the treated sewage, the firm plans to turn it into usable fertilizer.

Nice in theory, but there are too many problems. The odor, the many sludge trucks on Canton roads, and possible contamination of ground water should all add up to a polite, "thanks, but no thanks," from Canton officials.

There must be more suitable sites in the metro area for the project than in a growing residential community.

Besides, south Cantonites already have one regional institution to deal with -- Willow Run Airport. They shouldn't be burdened with another.

CEP security is tough job

EDITOR: In response to the student who wrote to tell that the CEP security was not doing their job, I say this to that student.

You stated in your letter that the schools look hideous, that the lunchroom was in shambles, and the sidewalks were icy. These are the jobs of maintenance personnel, not the security personnel.

You said that people smoke in the school. Where security never patrols, that's true. They do smoke in the school but there are only two security officers for each building; they can't be everywhere at once.

You must be a freshman because you don't seem to realize that everything in life is not all roses. The security people are not out for a popularity contest.

They try to get to know students so they can help the students with their problems. They can't help if they don't know you. To them you're a friend, not just another student. They want to help. If they didn't they would have the same job as a prison guard.

You would have to be one of two types of students who attend that school. Either a straight A type who never talks to the security personnel or one of the trouble makers at that school who only complain nothing is right.

Talk to these people -- they're human, they listen, and they care more than most teachers at that school.

I graduated last year and these people helped me alot through high school.

They have a tough job. And they don't need you complaining about them not doing their job. When it isn't even their job. It's maintenance responsibility to clean the school.

Protect your pets, obey law

EDITOR:

This is directed to Beth Maggio, Salem High student. Miss Maggio's letter to the editor on March 21 told the sad tale of her dog being struck by a speeding car in her subdivision in which the driver was heartless enough not to have stopped. Beth states "the accident could have been avoided had the posted 25 mile speed limit been followed." Maybe and maybe not!

I have no unkind motivation in asking Beth a question -- Had she or her family obeyed "pet laws" by having not allowed her pet unleashed freedom, would the accident have been avoided?

I sympathized with the death of her nine-year-old pet, however "dog lovers" fail, at all times, by disregarding the rights of everyone by allowing their pets to go unleashed.

So let's place the real blame where it belongs, and in so doing, protect our animals by keeping them where they belong, leashed in their own back yard, so as not to be at the mercy of people who have none.

Do Brookside parents care?

EDITOR:

Please print the following letter for me. I feel that it will make a very clear picture of how people are all talk and no action.

To the Concerned Parents of Brookside Village:

Next year when my children return home from Fiegel Elementary way past 4 p.m., my conscience will be clear because at least I tried. I did more than sign a petition!

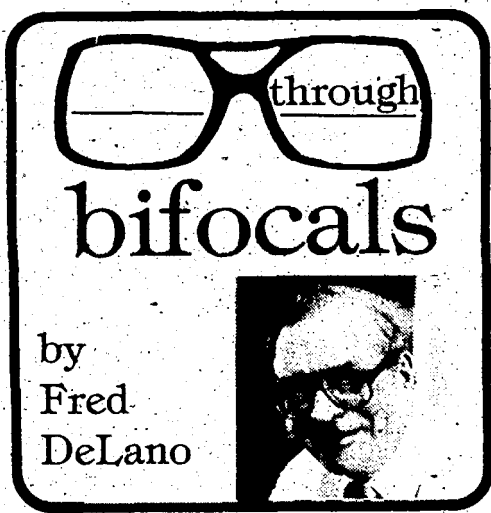

I wonder if you're concerned about the outcome of the meeting held at my house this past Sunday evening. Don't be. Everyone for some strange reason felt justified in not showing up.

In September when you realize what a problem busing our subdivision will create, holler all you want!

I want to thank the editor for allowing me to air my feelings, my husband David and my neighbors Carol, Darlene and Denise for helping me this second time around.

As for the rest of the "concerned" parents in this subdivision, you stink!

CHARLENE CRUZ

end until he had volunteered a pat on the back of his own. It was for bandmaster James Griffith of the local high schools: "If it weren't for Jim Griffith, I wouldn't be in music at all. He encouraged me all through school and gave me many opportunities for ensemble and solo work. He's the person responsible for my career."

It's wonderful to hear such a comment and to know of that kind of appreciation. However, it might also be said that Griffith can recognize outstanding talent when he sees it. With Marty Jabara there was no question.

Before the basketball season fades completely into memory, let me tell you of the recent travels of some local cage nuts.

This goes back a couple of weeks. Not all of those about to be named made very one of these stops, but enough did to prove their devotion to the game.

It started with an Ohio regional high school doubleheader at Dayton on a Wednesday night. Next stop was Thursday at Cincinnati for the NCAA doubleheader in which Arkansas beat Louisville and Indiana State defeated Oklahoma.

On Friday, they were at Indianapolis to watch Michigan State whip Louisiana State and Notre Dame triumph over Toledo.

Saturday found the group back at Cincinnati where Indiana State knocked Arkansas out of contention. Then they hit the road again, heading for Indianapolis to watch Michigan State defeat Notre Dame on Sunday afternoon.

Did you think Fred Thomann, Craig Bell, Bob Blohm, Pat Cunningham, John Van Wagoner the elder and sons Dave, Tim and John, cousin Bruce Van Wagoner, Norm Kee, Dick de Bear, Dave McBride, Jim Miller and Carl Moss looked haggard last week?

If so, now you know why.

It was a quiet Saturday evening in the house on Elm. Jim and Jean Jabara found the television fare only mildly interesting and Jean could be pardoned if her thoughts wandered to the two sons pursuing careers in California. Jim, knowing something his wife didn't, stayed alert for a noise at the front door.

At about 10, the calm was shattered as son Marty burst through the door for a week at home, completely surprising his mother. His dad had known Marty was coming, of course. Jim had even gone so far in keeping the surprise factor alive that he put a sign on the door, "Please do not ring doorbell."

Those of you who have experienced such trickery know full well the joy such a visit brings.

Marty Jabara, 23, and brother Michael, 26, are two of the most competent young men Plymouth has produced. Mike, a University of California graduate, has a key position with a telecommunications company in San Francisco, where he also is working toward his master's degree.

Marty is head over heels in a music career in the Los Angeles area.

That statement won't surprise any of you who recall his multi-instrument performances with musical groups at Salem High School from which he graduated in 1973. He graduated as a music major from the University of California in 1977, and just listen to how he keeps busy these days.

Specializing on piano and percussion, he has just finished a record album with a group called "The Loose Connection." He also plays with the house band that has provided music for a pilot television variety show called "Good Time America."

He is musical director for a song and dance act called "The Taylor Sisters," playing piano with this quartet. At Marty's invitation the group also includes another young man from Plymouth, Steve Ezzo, who plays guitar. They have performed frequently at Disneyland.

Marty says he also "does a lot of arranging for singers and groups" and is conductor for Maxine Weldon, a jazz and blues singer. Together they have had numerous bookings at the Playboy club in Los Angeles and are considering a cross-country tour.

In between times, Marty plays with the Pasadena Symphony Orchestra as well as the San Gabriel Valley Symphony. You can bet on it that this young man will go far in his chosen field, and the parents in that house on Elm have every right to be extremely proud.

Marty wouldn't let our conversation

PURSELL BEFORE

...And you thought the Whig party was extinct

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

The back files of a newspaper office often yield surprising things.

As part of The Crier's move into Fleet Street and the subsequent reorganization of the photo files, a couple of old head shots came to light. They were so old in fact, that newer staff members couldn't recognize the politicians pictured.

Since there were other striking similarities between two men, we got to comparing.

Congressman Carl Pursell formerly held the State Senate seat which Robert Geake now occupies. We might say that Pursell groomed Geake for the job. Does that make Geake heir apparent for the Congressional seat too?

Just off the top of our head we'd say the GOP is showing a lot of growth in this area. Maybe it's because its members aren't sweeping things under the rug?

(Editor's note: In all fairness we also point out that the author of this non-important feature is rapidly approaching a hairless state himself.)

Mobile home dwellers win

Some residents of two Canton mobile home parks were improperly charged a $1,000 fee to sell their homes, a Wayne County Circuit judge has ruled.

According to Cantonite Bob Myers, president of Michigan Mobile Homeowners Association, Sheldon Futernick, owner of Royal Holiday Mobile Home Park on Warren Road, and Holiday Estates Mobile Home Park on Geddes, must pay each victim of the "exit fee" $2,000.

In addition, acting Circuit Court Judge Audrey Stroia fined Futernick $10,000.

"We have always been of the view that these payments were nothing more than economic extortion," said Myers, a former Canton trustee.

Tenants of the parks were charged $1,000 if they wished to sell their mobile homes and have the purchasers of the home take up residence in Royal Holiday, said a homeowners association press release.

Myers urges any person who may have paid the illegal charge to contact the Michigan Mobile Homeowners Association at P.O. Box 238, Ypsilanti, Michigan 48197.

Parents invited

Centennial Educational Park parents are invited to attend teacher-parent conferences on Thursday, April 5, from 6:30 p.m. until 10 p.m. All C.E.P. staff will be in the Canton gymnasium and will be available for parents conferences.

Sec's urged to learn aid

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

First aid is more than common sense. Nurse Kimmie Schumaker told that to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education earlier this year as she suggested school secretaries be required to take a first aid class from the Red Cross to care for kids injured at school.

Since then some Parent-Teacher Organizations at elementary and middle schools have supported her idea, but the secretaries' union seems reluctant to endorse it.

"First aid shouldn't be written into our contract necessarily. Why can't teachers take this responsibility?" asked Linda Condash, president of the Plymouth-Canton Educational Secretaries Association. The secretaries' contracts expire in June.

"The best persons capable of handling emergencies should be required to care for injured kids and those persons aren't necessarily secretaries," she said.

Schumaker proposed that secretaries take first aid since they usually care for injured kids immediately following a mishap on the playground.

Bird Elementary School's PTO supported Schumaker's idea in an open letter to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education. "First aid would be added protection if the principals as well as teachers could be included in such training," said Betty J. Nanney, president.

On Thursday morning, the PTO Council, which represented 10 elementary and middle schools, unanimously voted to poll all Parent-Teacher Organizations in the district to see if they support the proposal. "We may draft a letter to the Board of Education at our next meeting on April 26," said Gwen Shirmohammad, president of the council. She represents the Fiegel Elementary School PTO.

Schumaker made the proposal because improper care of an injured child could have serious consequences and many persons have misconceptions about the proper way to treat some injuries.

"Do you know what to do if a child broke his tooth on the playground?" she asked.

"Place the tooth in the child's mouth where he won't swallow it and rush the kid to the dentist. You have 20 minutes to save the tooth," she said.

"On the other hand, if you wrap the tooth in a wet paper towel, it will start to die immediately," she added.

Alleged car thief caught

A Lake George man was arrested Sunday shortly after he allegedly stole a car left running in front of the Side Street Pub in Plymouth.

Dorothy Petrovich, of 29185 Grandon, Livonia, told police that she left the motor running of her 1976 AMC Hornet in front of the pub when she went inside to look for her husband.

When she returned outside, it was being driven away, she said. She chased it about one-half block to no avail, the report said.

Police stopped the vehicle and arrested Mark D. Tripp of Lake George at Palmer and Harvey streets in the city.

'PAPA JOE' CALOIA

BY PHYLLIS REDFERN

Breaker one nine, this is Papa Joe inviting all you CB fans to stop in at one of the social coffee breaks of the Centennial CB organization. The club meets every second and fourth Saturday of the month at the Odd Fellows Hall on Ann Arbor Trail and Elizabeth Street.

Everyone is welcome to attend, whether they have a CB radio or not said Joseph Caloia, known as Papa Joe to the CBers. The purpose of the club is to get interested people together for community projects, promote better radio communications and language of the CB radio and to gather for social functions and activities, he said. "We're a family organization - the kids come to our meetings and play games," said Papa Joe.

The Centennial C.B. Organization was formed in late 1975 and became incorporated on Feb. 25, 1976. The first meeting of the month is a business meeting, and the first half of the meeting is closed to members only, then open to the public for socializing. The second meeting is strictly a social meeting.

During the year, the club raises money for charity and community organizations. They have supported the Plymouth Jaycee dancathon, Good Fellows, Ann Arbor Burn Center, St. Judes, and muscular dystrophy.

Special events that the club sponsors each year include an Easter pot luck and egg hunt, dunk tank at the Canton fair, softball team, road rally, picnic, Halloween party, Christmas party, sweetheart dance, ice skating party and a square dance. This year many club members will be attending the CB jam-boree in Flint on June 22.

Anyone wanting more information about the club or their upcoming activities may call club President Warren Terch (Pencil Pusher) at 420-0614, or one of the club vice presidents, Pat Moran (Pepper Mint Pattie) at 453-7626, and Dorothy Carter (Sun Flower) at 455-2894.

Central is No. 1

Seventh and eighth grade bands from Central Middle School earned first ratings at the district band festival on March 10. Both the seventh grade Intermediate Band and the eighth grade Advanced Band won awards.

The festival drew 15 bands from the area and a No. 1 rating signifies excellence in performance and sightreading.

Michael P. Dicuirci is the band director and he also acted as host for the event. Bev Stanley was the parent chairperson.

Japanese exchange

TASTING SEAWEED. Eriksson students exchanged paintings, and sampled seaweed cuisine during part of a cultural program on Japan last Wednesday. Featured speaker Yomiko Hama, standing on the left, told students about the life-styles of the Japanese. Students also exchanged paintings with students from Tokyo and the program was directed by art teacher Kathryn Touhey. Seated in front of some Japanese paintings are: Melissa Seibert, Keith Agdanowski, David Kafe, John Karwoski, Steve Bodenham, Mark South, Steve Dumont, Jack Manska, and Todd Wioson. No slumber at p.j. party

You know you're pass the teen years of slumber parties when you're the only one who falls asleep during the hypnotism.

Pajama parties, like my daughter's this weekend, are just as popular today as they were back in the olden days when we were growing up. The music has changed somewhat, but the idea of playing records loud all night is still the same. I admit I must be getting a little older, for some reason I started loosing interest in the ghost stories about 2 a.m.

Elvis missed his big chance for a come back during the seance. There were 13 sets of ears straining to hear the cords of his guitar playing Love Me Tender. Try as they did, the girls were unable to convince the spirits of any dead celebrities to join them at the party.

The floor was covered wall to wall with sleeping bags, and the sound of giggles mixed with the music from Saturday Night Fever echoed off the walls. The first girl to fall asleep missed the fate of having a glass of water poured on her face, when she woke up just in the nick of time.

It was fun to see so many kids having a good time, entertaining themselves without relying on television. It was also nice to see how they included a little brother in the games and some of the ghost stories.

It's amazing how much energy kids have at that age. With only a couple of hours of sleep, they were out in the park playing dodge ball after breakfast.

I have just one thing to say to whomever took that picture of me first thing in the morning, cooking pancakes and sausage - remember there's a lot against black mail.

Dr. Edward Trachtman and his wife Joanne were guests of honor at a baby shower last Friday, March 23. Employees at the doctors clinic, where Dr. Trachtman is employed, planned the luncheon shower.

The Trachtmans are expecting their first child sometime in April. Her doctor set a due date of April 17, but Dr. Dad says it will be the 28th.

Forensics team cops second

Salem High took second place in the "Cereal Bowl" Forensics Tournament held in Battle Creek on March 24. There were 700 students representing 40 schools in this, the largest invitational tournament of the year.

Half of the Salem team reached the semi-final rounds in this tournament.

When the winners of the final round were announced, Salem senior Dave Corliss had taken first place in Informative Speaking and Sue Sharp, senior, had taken first place in Impromptu Speaking. Seniors Jay Finch and Gina Massaro captured third place trophies for Informative Speaking and Serious Interpretative Reading, respectively.

Salem was also represented in the Finals by Junior Pat Mester in Serious Interpretative and Freshman Kevin Krolicki in Informative Speaking.

All four of Salem's Informative Speakers, Jay Finch, Dave Corliss, Senior Doug Wochna and Kevin Krolicki took one of the eight semi-final slots. Radio

Semi-finalists were Kitty Underwood, senior, and Mike Hammons, sophomore.

Coach Pat Berry said, "This is the finest team I have ever coached at Salem. We have had outstanding individuals in previous years, but this is by far the strongest team."

Salem will host the District Forensic Tournament beginning at 3 p.m. on March 29.

B'gammon buffs meet

The American Backgammon Club will gather for backgammon night on March 31 at 7 p.m. at the VFW Hall, 1426 Mill St., Plymouth.

To help improve your game, an hour of instruction will begin at 5:30 p.m. and a beginning class will start at 6:30 p.m.

For more information about backgammon night, call 459-5776 or write to the American Backgammon Club Inc., P.O. Box 599, Plymouth, 48170.

Time to clean up city

"Picky Pilgrim" week will begin, April 1 and run through April 7 in Plymouth. Local merchants, interested citizens, and paternal organizations will band together to clean up Plymouth.

Merchants will meet on Sunday, April 1, to kick-off the campaign. The day will begin with brunch at 10 a.m. at the Mayflower Meeting House. The cost for brunch is $5.75 per person.

After breakfast, participants will sweep and begin cleaning. The greatest concentration of effort will center on Main Street between Penniman and Ann Arbor Trail, the Trail between Union and Harvey, and Penniman between Union and Harvey.

Plymouth residents are urged to support the clean-up campaign by the Plymouth City Commission and Chamber of Commerce.

Anyone interested in joining in on Sunday, April 1, please contact the Plymouth Chamber Office at 453-1540.

Free litter bags will be available at various stores beginning Monday, April 2.

50 years together

Gene "Santa" Reaves, 76, and his wife, Madelyn, 70, have marked their 50th wedding anniversary.

Reaves, a former Canton Township constable, is known for his volunteer efforts as Santa Claus at many Yuletide events in the Plymouth-Canton Community.

The couple was married March 17, 1929.

TOM SAWYER'S TONIGHT. Central Middle School students will present the musical "Tom Sawyer" on Wednesday, March 28 and Thursday, March 29. Wednesday's dinner theater begins at 6:30 p.m. with the performance following. Thursday's show time is 7:30 p.m. Tom will be played by Vicki Zydeck and Mike Badendieck will portray Huck Finn. Here the cast sashays across the stage during dress rehearsal. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler.)

Professionals eye fashion

Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club members and guests were treated to an evening of fashion and fun at the annual spring fashion show, last Tuesday, March 20.

Karen Horton was general chairman for the event, with Marilyn Faber acting as co-chairman. Alice Schlimmer was in charge of the coffee and dessert, served by club members.

Following a welcome by Marian Kehrl, club president, Claire Kelly and her models displayed the latest in up-to-date spring fashions.

Straight skirts are the in thing for spring with slits in the front or on the sides. They're popular in all colors and types of fabric. Blazers are still big in the fashion world, worn with either skirts or slacks.

While the length in dresses varies depending on individual taste, the length in slacks is shorter this spring. Terry cloth is popular in casual clothes, and designers have gone from 100 per cent cotton to a fabric that looks natural, like cotton, but is really a polyester blend. They finally figured out that the modern housewife is not going to drag the old iron out.

After an evening of fashion, many women went home with a door prize donated by local merchants.

Spring means kids' sunny smiles

ANDI ALLEN

Mud pies, kites, t-shirts, and sunny smiles to match the balmy weather—all these are sure signs that spring must be here.

Crocuses are popping out and robins and wrens are beginning to build their nests. Isn't it great to have the sun streaming through the windows at 7 a.m.?

Before becoming too enraptured by this lovely turn of the weather, just remember - THIS IS MICHIGAN. Although April showers may bring May flowers, it's still too early to start cleaning out your swimming pool.

THE SECOND ANNUAL Plymouth Community Easter Arts & Crafts Show is scheduled for Friday, March 30 through Sunday, April 1. Displaying just a few of the ceramics for sale at the show are their creators, Janet Warner, left, and Priscilla Cipolletti. At the Plymouth Cultural Center, the show's hours are: Friday, 11 a.m.-9 p.m.; Saturday, 11 a.m.-7 p.m.; and Sunday, 11 a.m.-5 p.m.

Fellows Creek course almost ready for golfers

After Monday's snowfall and early spring freeze, Fellows Creek opened its jaws for those errant white nuggets known as golf balls . . . or, at least, so it was intended.

The 18-hole golf course of the same name (Fellows Creek), owned by Canton Township, awaited only the favorable signal from the weatherman to allow budding Arnold Palmer types to shoot for aces, birdies, pars and even bogies.

The par 36-36-72, 6,210-yard course which lies just east of I-275, north of Michigan Avenue, is under the management of Dan Ross, now in the second year of his five-year contract with the township.

Previously, Ross ran the Hilltop Glen course owned by Plymouth Township.

Biggest difference between the two layouts is the fact that Fellows Creek stretches its yardage over an 18-hole layout in the customary golf image, while Hilltop remains a 9-hole layout.

Sixty leagues already have booked playing time at Fellows Creek this season. This number includes two mixed leagues, five for women only and the rest as men's competition.

For open bookings, management suggests early afternoons on weekdays or late afternoons on weekends and holidays.

Previously scheduled tee-times will be needed in the earlier hours of Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, prior to 3 p.m.

Fees weekdays will be $4 for nine holes, $6 for 18, with special rates for senior citizens and twilight rates. Weekend equivalents will be $5.50 and $7.50. Power carts, hand carts, personal instruction and club repair all are available as well as light lunches. Course manager is Scott Thacker. Golf instructor is Tom Ross.

Rotary fetes 55th year

A salute from the State Legislature, presented by Sen. Robert Geake, highlighted the Plymouth Rotary Club's 55th anniversary observance last week.

Rotary President Carl Lampton accepted on behalf of the club.

The presentation recalled that in 1962 the Plymouth organization became the first service club in Michigan to make a donation to the state's student loan fund of the Michigan Higher Education Assistance Authority.

At that time a check for $1,000 was presented on behalf of Rotary by Edna M. Allen, who served as a teacher and principal in the Plymouth school system for 32 years, and Mrs. Perry Richwine.

It was accepted by the then state superintendent of public instruction, Lynn Bartlett.

Recent correspondence from Ronald J. Jursa, state director of Student Financial Assistance Services, praised Rotary for its support.

Through last September, more than $271 million in guaranteed student loans had been made to approximately 137,000 students, said Jursa.

"The guarantee fund which started with the $1,000 donation from the Plymouth Rotary Club has now grown to more than $5 million," added Jursa. "The members of the Plymouth Rotary Foundation have every reason to be proud of the important role they played at a critical time in the development of this important educational program."

It's circus time

The Dunning-Hough Library announces its Spring Story Time. The theme will be "Let's Go to the Circus." Kids will meet on Mondays at either 10:15 a.m. or at 11:15, beginning April 9 and ending May 14.

Registration will be held on Monday, April 2 and must be done in person. All those not in the Winter Story Time are invited to come.

Creeker abandons ship

Cabin fever hits some people hard - too hard, it seems. According to Plymouth police, an aluminum rowboat was found in the Tonquish Creek behind 1073 Penniman Ave. in the city.

As of Monday, the boat's owner had not been identified, the police report.

Canton may adopt home repair law

A decision to adopt a strict ordinance protecting home buyers from faulty workmanship in Canton is due from the Board of Trustees soon.

Based on a bill pending in the state legislature written by Canton's state Senator, William Faust, the ordinance would give home buyers a mandatory one-year warranty against defects.

And if the builders don't comply with the law, it would give the township power to cut off their building permits for other houses until they did, said Cantonite Gary Roberts.

Roberts brought Faust's bill before the board and is asking that it be adopted as a local ordinance.

The board, however, is waiting for an opinion from its attorney, Bert Burgoyne, on whether local municipalities have the power to adopt such a strict law. "We expect his opinion soon," said Supervisor Noel Culbert.

According to Roberts, the bill would give home buyers a one-year warranty on defective material if it does not comply with the state building code.

The state code, though, is not particularly tough and Canton may want to write broader standards, said Roberts.

These would cover things like cracked walls, leaking basements, windows improperly installed, loose stairways, and loose exterior aluminum siding.

Other provisions of Faust's bill include a two-year warranty on all plumbing, electrical, heating, and cooling systems. And a 10-year guaranty on major structural defects like cracked basement walls.

Would the ordinance increase the cost of homes if builders simply included the cost of honoring the guarantees in the price of the houses?

Roberts said "yes," but not much. "Supposedly, the cost of repairing defects is already in the price of the homes since they should be making the repairs," he said.

Canton already has an ordinance on the books that makes it mandatory for builders to offer the Homeowners Warranty (HOW) program to buyers. But there is an extra charge for the service. Faust's bill would remove this fee, said Roberts.

Although the ordinance may raise the price of homes, Roberts said that it would be less than a similar law being considered by the board to handle builder complaints.

Under this law, builders would be forced to post a bond, say $5,000, on each house. If the house was not completed properly, the homeowner could draw from this bond to make the repairs himself.

"It could take years to collect these bonds," said Roberts. "The builder could take the homeowner to court."

Twp. to OK Hilltop golf contract

Formal approval of a written contract with golf professional John Jawor for management of Hilltop Golf Course over the next five years was expected to be voted by the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees Tuesday night.

Verbal agreement between Jawor and the board had been reached several months ago.

Earlier Tuesday, Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert declared there is no reason why Jawor can't go ahead and open the nine-hole course on Powell Road near Ann Arbor Trail and Beck as soon as the weather allows.

Jawor himself said he hopes the course will be playable by this weekend.

Jawor's contract calls for him to pay the township, which owns the par-35 course, a minimum of $35,000 per year or 50 per cent of the receipts from green fees.

The balance of income from green fees plus receipts from cart rentals, food and beverage will go to Jawor who will pay for staffing and other operational costs.

Cost of moving a portable annex at township hall to the course to serve as a clubhouse to replace the facility destroyed by fire last fall was estimated at about $27,000 by Notebaert. It is hoped to accomplish this and have it refurbished by mid-April.

Notebaert also said there is no problem between the board and Jawor concerning requesting the Michigan Liquor Control Commission for a Hilltop liquor license on a co-partnership basis. However, inasmuch as the LCC's licensing year dates from May 1 it is not expected that any alcoholic beverages will be available at the course until sometime after that date.

Jawor is a member of a noted Michigan golfing family and as a member of the Professional Golfers' Association will serve as Hilltop pro as well as manager. He said he will be available for lessons and clinics and hopes to launch an innovative junior golf program for boys and girls of the area.

A new irrigation system will be in use this season and other improvements also are planned.

Nine-hole fees will be $3.75 weekdays, with a $5.75 price for 18 holes. On Saturdays, Sundays and holidays the comparable rates will be $4.50 and $7. There also will be special prices for senior citizens as well as twilight rates.

The township is considering expanding Hilltop into an 18-hole course, but that development still is considered at least a year or two away.

Tina, Melissa whip up Miller masterpieces

lunch box

by
BY W. CHOWDERHEAD BREADSTIX

Down through the ages, great artists have signed their immortal works of art. And in that great tradition, Miller School's chefs have signed their unfortunately quite mortal dishes this week.

On Monday, Tina's turkey and gravy will grace the plates alongside Melissa's mashed potatoes, and Dawn's Dewey Gooley Celery sticks.

Frank's frankfurters, Lisa's peaches and Duane's rock and roll tollhouse bars combine for Thursday's masterpiece.

On Friday, Jacqui and Jim Bo get together their fish sticks and french fries for a Southern Creole cuisine.

Sign on, Miller chefs.

Canton Cannery seeks new name

JAY LEE, standing in the foreground, neatly hangs up sweatshirts for sale at the Canton High School store. Students at the store are sponsoring a contest to give the store a new name. In the background are Kevin Bulifant and Donna Wheeler. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler.)

Students at Canton High School are giving The Cannery, their school store, a face-lift for spring. Not only are they tacking up shingles on the wooden awning outside the store, but the 22 students in the salesperson class are sponsoring a contest to give the store a new name.

The deadline for submitting names by mail is April 7 and the person who enters the winning name will receive a $5 certificate from Big Boy Restaurant on Ford Road, two tickets to the Penn Theater, and a $5 certificate from the Cozy Cafe.

Dan Chrenko, business education teacher, directs the students on how to operate the store. "The store averages about $2,500 in sales each month, making it the best year for business since it opened," said Tammy Parker, a student manager. The store sells an assortment of merchandise - from sweatshirts to earrings.

Along with Tammy, Jay Lee, Diane Penney, Kevin Bulifant, and Donna Wheeler manage the day-to-day business of running the store. It's open every school day from 10:30 a.m. to noon and the public is invited to shop there.

If you have a name for the store, mail it to Dan Chrenko, 8415 Canton Center Rd., Canton, 48187. The winner will be announced on April 13.

3 taxis rolling,
not 0, city finds

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

There's a communication gap somewhere between the city clerk's office and the police department in Plymouth City Hall.

At the last City Commission meeting, Police Chief Timothy C. Ford told the commission that all three taxi cab companies licensed by the city had failed to renew their licenses for 1979 leaving the city without taxi service.

As it turns out, there were actually four cab companies licensed and Plymouth Cab Company, of 305 N. Main St., renewed its license on Dec. 29, 1978 for another year.

"I wasn't aware officially that there was a Plymouth Cab Co.," said Ford.

"Our department here does not get copies of the permit license registrations," the chief told The Crier.

Cab licenses are filed with the City Clerk who in turn passes on information to the police, who must inspect the taxi cabs under provisions of the city's cab licensing ordinance.

Ford said he would request copies of such licenses from the clerk in the future.

The communications gap was still unbridged Monday, however. When the Plymouth Cab Company license oversight was brought to attention of police, Ford said another cab company, Community Cab, had renewed its license since the last commission meeting.

But in addition to Community Cab, Star Cab Company had also renewed its permit last week.

This leaves only Northwest Cab as failing to renew its 1978 license. Northwest has applied through the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Association (SEMTA) to provide "dial a ride" service in Plymouth. - but as of Monday, some three months into 1979, had not renewed its license.

Goodfellows to vote

The Canton Goodfellows will elect officers at its annual meeting on Sunday, April 8 at the Fire Station at Canton Center and Cherry Hill roads. The meeting starts at 1 p.m.

It's early, but jockeying starts for 4 Commission jobs

Four out of seven Plymouth City Commission seats are up for election this year and, while it's too early to say for sure, it looks as though three of the four incumbents are at least considering the campaign trail.

Commissioner Beverly McAninch, now completing her second term on the commission, is barred by the city charter from serving another consecutive term. Thus, her seat will be up for grabs. She had previously served as mayor.

Also up for election are the commission posts held by Mayor Tom Turner and Commissioners Jim Houk and Eldon Martin.

Houk, who turns 69 this summer, said he'd like to see younger candidates in the race and if there are some, "I don't think I'll run."

But, Houk added, he'd reserve final judgment until he saw who else was running. "I'd like to see some good candidates run and if enough good ones run, I won't be interested."

Houk is completing a two-year term and in the past had served two four-year terms, during which he served as mayor.

Mayor Tom Turner said it is "far too early to determine" whether he'd seek re-election. Like Houk, he said a "major consideration is a review of the others who are willing to run."

Turner is completing his first four-year term on the commission.

Martin said he has been weighing whether to run but has decided he probably will seek election. He was appointed to the commission to replace former Commissioner Scott Dodge, who resigned.

The filing deadline for the commission race is 4 p.m. June 5 (not 5 p.m. as the city calendar indicates). If more than eight candidates file in the race, a primary election will be held Aug. 7. The general election will be held Nov. 6.

Which is 'real' Plymouth Rock?

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

Which is the real Plymouth Rock?

That confusing question was raised recently when the Plymouth City Commission passed a resolution officially recognizing that the State of Michigan has designated the Plymouth, England memorial an historical site.

The memorial, located between City Hall and the Dunning-Hough Library, frames a stone taken from the dock steps in Plymouth, England where the Mayflower's pilgrims began their voyage. The stone, called the "Plymouth Rock," was presented to the City of Plymouth in 1967 by Plymouth, England's Lord Mayor Frank Chapman on his Hands-across-the-Sea visit here.

But in addition to that "Plymouth Rock," another "Plymouth Rock" sits in Kellogg Park remembered by Commission Watchdog Jack Wilcox. That rock is marked by three plaques from the Ex-Serviceman's Club and the V.F.W. Post recognizing veterans of the Civil War, the Spanish American War, World Wars I and II.

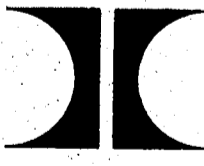

And then there's the piece of the nationally-known "Plymouth Rock" in Plymouth, Mass. where the pilgrims landed in 1620. It's encased in glass at the Dunning-Hough Library which received it as a gift from Edward C. Hough in 1957.

"La Strada"

Tonight and every night,

THE COMMUNITY CRIER: March 28, 1979

Sky's the limit for '79 Salem softball club, Way says

BY PATTY RADZIK

In 1975, the Salem High softball team finished fourth in the Suburban Eight League. The following year, third place belonged to the Rocks. Success continued, and in 1977 Salem placed second. Finally last year, Coach Livi Way's dream came true, and her team possessed the league title.

What does the future hold for Salem? Way says the sky's the limit and is confident that her squad can land on Cloud Nine.

According to Way, experience is the key that will unlock the door to another league crown. Each member has experience and a new direction toward self-confidence, she said.

"We have a good chance for the championship," Way said. "As good a chance as any other team in the area."

Eight returnees and six junior varsity players make up the club, which will take the field to start the 1979 season on April 9.

Leading the Salem attack will be three returning seniors, headed by captain Doris Hoelscher.

Hoelscher is the only four-year letter winner on the squad, and most likely will see playing time in the outfield. "She's an experienced outfielder," Way said of Hoelscher. "She's also a clutch hitter."

A three-year letter winner, infielder Becky Crespo, brings back her hitting strength and a 1978 Most Valuable Player award. "She has agility on the bases and is a consistent hitter," Way said.

Injuries kept Jan Boyd out of most games last year, but she is returning healthy this season as a pitcher. A knowledgeable player, Way says Boyd "will be a surprise to other teams because they haven't seen her on the mound. She has tournament experience," Way continued. "That will make us stronger in post-season play."

Rounding out the returning half of the ball club are five juniors, led by Sue McDowell.

Carrying improved self-confidence and speed, McDowell will be the mainstay of the outfield. Way said that she's a power hitter and a team leader.

Another potential team leader is Nan Horwood, and Way therefore will be switching her from the infield to behind home plate as a catcher. "She'll be playing a little bit of both," Way said. "She's an excellent athlete and will be able to adjust to the move."

Horwood exhibits enthusiasm, and "is not a power hitter, but is a consistent base hitter," Way said.

been assigned, junior Patty Weidman will see action at first base. Says Way of the Weidman, "she'll bring strength to our hitting, and a good glove to the infield. Although she's not as experienced as some, by the end she'll be as powerful as any one player."

Sophomore southpaw Cheryl Sobkow will be doing some pitching, among other things. "She can play infield or outfield," Way stated. "She has a strong arm and is quick and very enthusiastic."

A probable utility player will be sophomore Denise Zonca from last year's JV squad. "She can play anywhere," Way commented. "She has a strong arm, is a good base runner and uses her head. Her abilities are equal in the infield and outfield."

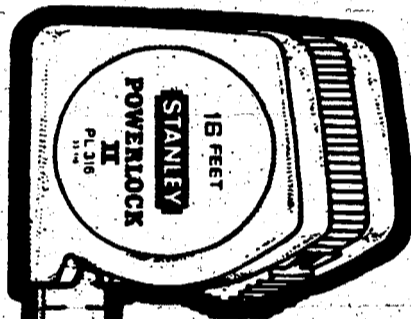

Rounding out the squad are two sophomores, Chris Brennan and Laura Arnold. "Both of them will be rotated into action in both the infield and outfield," Way said.

Something that cannot go unnoticed is the lack of freshmen on this year's team. "Their skills are excellent," Way said. "It's their lack of experience in the fast pitch game that has kept them off my team."

The root of the problem lies outside of the high school, and a far reach away from Way's hands. "Middle schools don't play fast pitch," she explained. "So instead of sitting the bench on varsity, I'd rather see the girls playing on JV."

SENIOR JAN BOYD will have to contend with a tough Suburban Eight League field on the mound for Salem High this season. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler).

Cathy Gardner is one of two southpaws on the team, and her strong left-handed bat swing will contribute to the Rocks' offensive punch. "She's more confident," Way stated. "She's a strong fielder and is very knowledgeable of the game."

Way says second-year player Sue Evens "is more experienced, confident, and stronger, which will add to our offense."

Stacy Nicolin is also a second-year player. "She's an all-around good player," Way explained. "She has hitting skill and owns one of the best gloves and arms on the team."

Players from the junior varsity will add to the depth to the young team. Senior Nola Lutey has all the qualities Way is looking for in an outfielder. "She's agile, quick, fast to improve, and can adjust to any given situation."

Although no definite positions have league, and hopefully state play, Way has scheduled a team trip on March 31 to Ohio.

Salem will watch a college game between Ohio State and Miami of Ohio in Columbus. Barb Smith, who helped Way build a champion team last year, is the captain of the Miami Redskins and the main reason why Salem will be observing.

From Columbus, the Rocks will drive to northern Cincinnati where they will play three teams on April 1 and return home that night. "We're going to get prepared for the season," Way explained. "I'll be shuffling talent, and checking out the out-of-state competition."

Last year the group attempted a spring training travel expedition to Tennessee, but were turned back because of disastrous weather.

New coach has high standards for Chief softball

BY PATTY RADZIK

With only one senior lost to graduation, the Canton High softball team is aiming high this year.

For starters, new coach Max Sommerville has set three simple goals for his team. One is to "Win every game - one at a time," then "Become the Western Six League champions," and finally "Look towards the State tournament and going as far as possible."

The Chief coach is stressing good sportsmanship, competitive spirit, and giving 100 percent mentally and physically.

"If we lose," Sommerville says, "we'll know we did our best and can hold our heads high."

Sommerville is confident that his players will pull through and can fulfill his requests.

Ranked as one of the top eight teams in Michigan last year after reaching the regional finals, Canton has five upperclassmen returning this spring.

Kathy Peck heads the pack and is geared for shortstop. Says Sommerville of the 1978 All-League Honorable Mention pick, "She has excellent defensive skills, a good arm and great speed."

Val Harbin will be on third base. Sommerville said she has a good arm and is a hard worker.

On the mound will stand 1978 Most Valuable Player Lucy Howe.

Playing varsity as a sophomore, and not as a junior, Stephanie Hancock returns to the Chiefs in her graduating year to help out in the outfield. "She has fine speed, and a powerful throw," Sommerville commented.

Rounding out the seniors, playing outfield and third base, is Sue Lindsay.

Coming back for another year are seven juniors, led by 1978 second team all-league second baseman Vicki Cavallaro. Cavallaro moves well on defense and in Sommerville's mind is "One of the fastest girls on the team."

Sommerville is counting on 5-foot-10 first-baseman Cindy Stevens' defensive skills, and says the squad will benefit from her above-average speed.

"She's the sparkplug," Sommerville quipped about catcher Pam Schapani, appearing for her third varsity year. "She's hard working and has the team leader qualities needed by a catcher." Schapani received an honorable mention last year on the all-league team.

Concluding the junior returnees are four outfielders. Cathy Campbell, Jean Krashovitz, Cheryl Pyanowski and Maureen Morhan are all vying for a spot.

"All of them are quick and have powerful arms, but Maureen is more agile and more accurate," he said. "I'm thinking of putting her in centerfield."

New faces in the crowd are players brought up from the junior varsity.

Joni Sommerville is one of two sophomores on the club - and the only left-handed player. She will see playing time at shortstop and in the outfield.

The second sophomore is Mary Anne Pink, a pitcher with a deadly slingshot toss. "She has great control," Sommerville said. "I just hope she continues

Sommerville has passion for winning seasons

BY PATTY RADZIK

Let's play "Jeopardy." Answer: He tried out for the Detroit Tigers in 1950, and now coaches softball, at Canton High. Question: Who is Max Sommerville?

Sommerville is the new coach of the Canton softball team, succeeding Joan Ryan, who resigned last year after a three-year reign.

He is a man who has a passion for winning, and a belief in hard work. Sommerville's also one coach who can't be told he doesn't know what he's doing.

Besides the pro baseball offer, Sommerville has a long list of credits to his name that include positions as player and coach.

In high school, Sommerville played three sports under the eye of Dan Devine, presently the University of Notre Dame's football coach.

At Alma College he played football and baseball for Lloyd Eaton, now a coach at the University of Wyoming.

Sommerville also played second base on a summer baseball All-State Independent team in Frankfort.

Then the Army got a hold of him, and he played for a baseball team in Fort Sill, Okla.

From there he played outfield, catcher, shortstop, and second base for a modified pitch team in Plymouth and Livonia, which proved to be the perennial league champs for 14 years.

Three years of Sommerville coaching brought the Dodgers, a little league girls' softball team, championship seasons of 14-0, 11-3 and laster year, 17-0. He has been the Little League Baseball Director for 12 years.

When not on the Chief softball diamond, Sommerville can be found umpiring baseball and softball games, a regular thing for him since 1952.

"I hope to coach at Canton for at least five years," Sommerville stated. "I have a lot to offer besides my skills."

Equipment, diet build up Grollmus and Semrau

BY E. DALE LEE and BILL BRESLER

Some people call bodybuilding a sport; some call it a science; but Ron Grollmus and Tom Semrau, a pair of local muscle-men, call it a way of life.

The two pump iron at the new Silvers Gym at 953 Irvin in Plymouth. Grollmus says the basic idea for bodybuilding there is to build up his individual body parts and to show them at their best during competition.

There are two processes for building up your chest, stomach, arms, back, and legs, according to Grollmus.

The first way is "bulking up," an exercise with various weights and contraptions. The machines strain muscle cells that add layer upon layer of scar-muscle tissue.

The second formula for bodybuilding is "cutting down."

"I've been eating nothing but tuna and grapefruit," Grollmus said, stressing a high-protein diet. He added that he tries to burn off fat to show his individual muscle striation and veins.

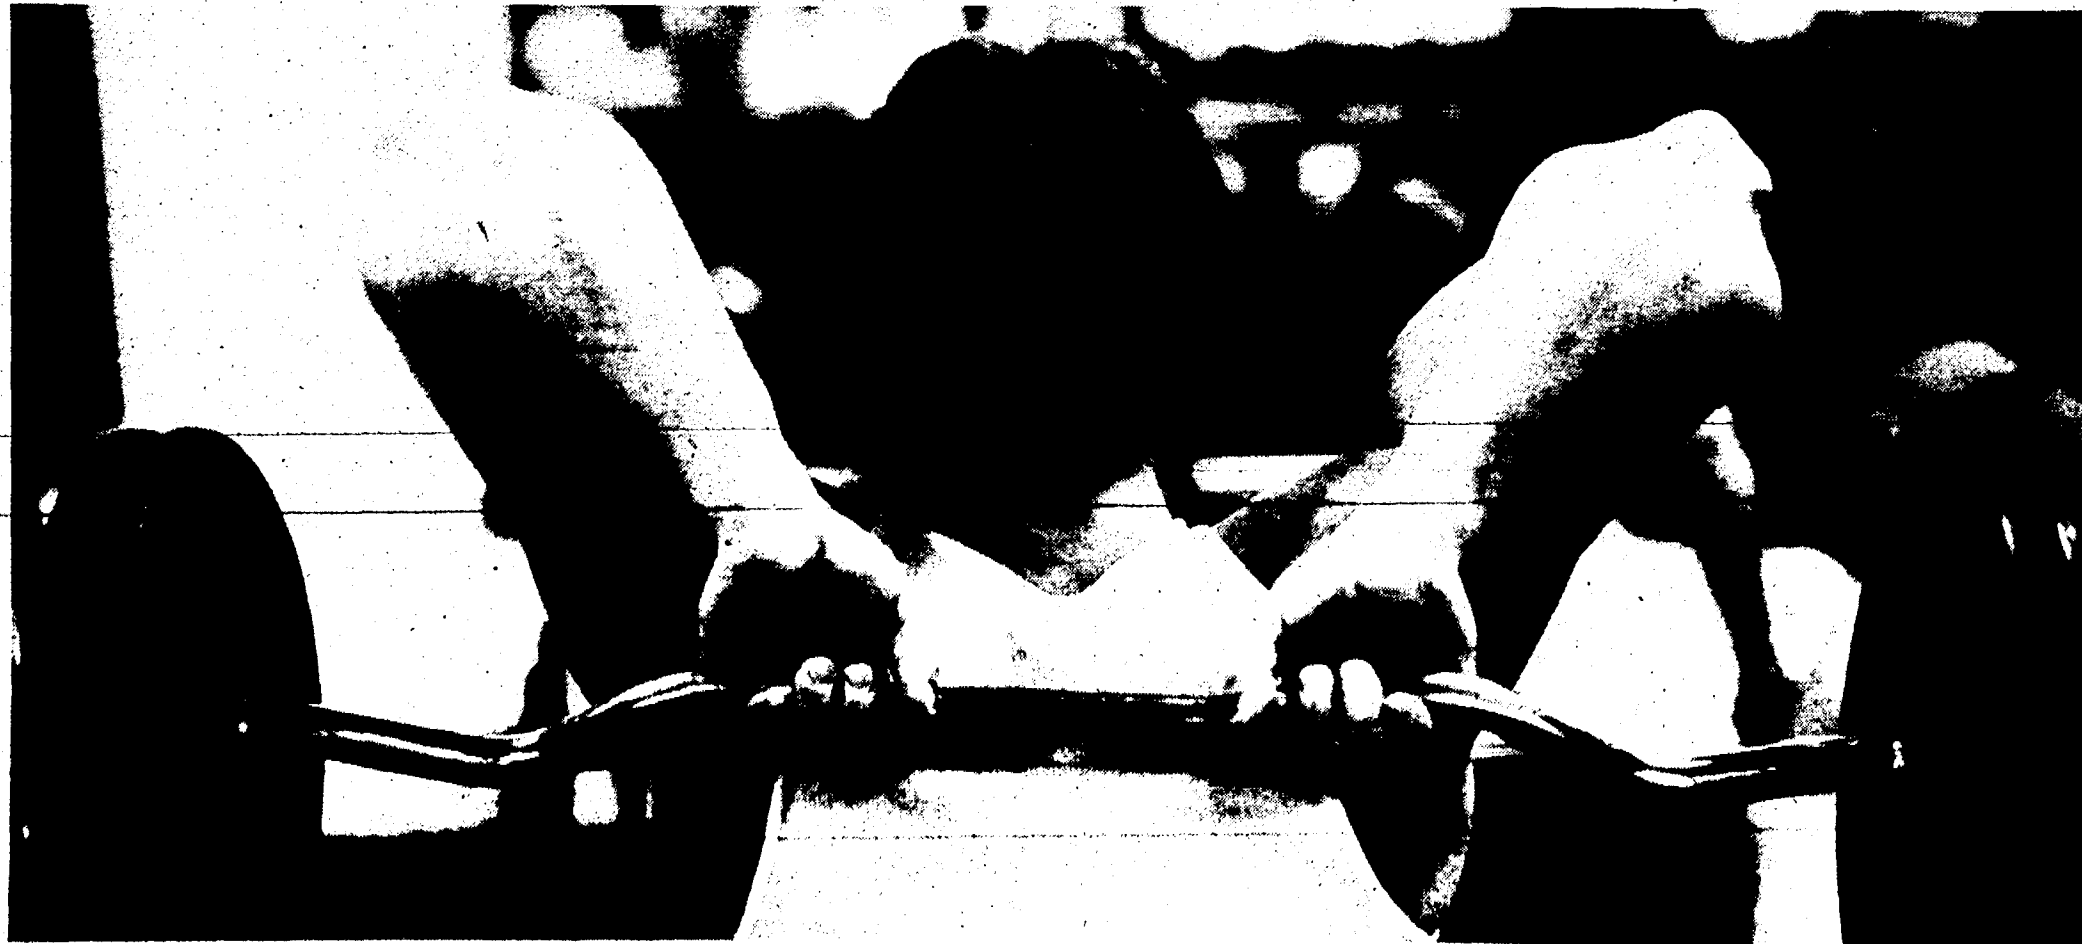

Semrau is another active bodybuilder at Silvers who stresses the diet format; he dispels the rumor that your muscles will go fat and start sagging if you stop weight-training.

"You'll lose a lot but you won't lose everything," he said. "Basically, if you were a pig before you started you'll go back to being a pig. If you were slender, you'll go back to being slender."

The pair agree that the amount of time put into bodybuilding is the key to being successful at it. Semrau puts in two and a half hours six days a week at the gym and Grollmus labors for an hour less six or seven days per week.

Waters' hopes high for golf campaign

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Birdies, pars, holes-in-one — spring means golf for Salem High Coach Bob Waters and his team of eight women.

He calls his team "doggone respectable," and says he is pleased with the determination, experience, and spirit of his club this year. The Rocks boast veterans Meg McGee, Beth Maggio, Nancy Stevens, Ellen Kennay, and freshman Carol Ross. Both McGee and Maggio won letters last year.

The Rocks are looking forward to a full schedule of 15 meets this year. "Dearborn schools were added to our roster so we've got an expanded schedule this year," Waters said.

The Rocks will compete in the Central Six League, which was formerly the Central Five before the addition of Pinckney High this year. Waters says the Pinckney players may prove to be "sleepers" against the Rocks. Other teams in the Central Six are: Saline, Canton, Willow Run, and Brighton.

Last year the Rocks tallied a 5-3 won-lost dual meet record in the league. They finished 10th in the state and fourth in Class A competition, but Waters doesn't expect this season to be a breeze.

Salem softball team ready for action

A tournament in Royal Oak has been added to the 17-game Salem schedule, which will bring in more Catholic and other Class A and B schools.

The Shrine High School 5th Annual Softball Tournament will be held April 28 and 29. It's single elimination and features awards for first, second, and third place, best sportsmanship, best dressed, All-Stars and Most Valuable Player.

In late February, team members held a Rock-A-Thon in order to raise money. Twenty-four hours of rocking chair sitting paid off, as the rockers totaled over $800 from pledges, and will now purchase a fence to surround their renovated field and buy some extra equipment.

Last week for soccer clinic

Interested in learning more about the world's fastest growing sport? A soccer coaching and refereeing clinic featuring a pair of All-American professionals is set for Saturday at the Starkweather Elementary School gymnasium.

Van Dimitriou, the University of Michigan-Dearborn Wolves coach, and Larry Christoff, the coach of Schoolcraft College, will explain the basic procedures of refereeing and coaching from 10:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. March 31. The fee is $10 per person and the YMCA suggests you wear loose fitting clothes.

He said one of the big matches of the season will be against Canton on April 26. "Last year we split with them, but they'll be tough again this year," Waters said. The Canton encounter will be the second meet of the season for the Rocks. Asked if the team had any disadvantages so far this season, Waters said, "Only 10 young women went out for golf this year; that small number disappoints me." He added the team will have trouble building future squads unless younger players are given experience now.

GETTING STARTED

Although 76% of newly married couples start out by living in rental housing, (primarily apartments), some thought should be given to the other side of the coin - home ownership. Sometimes the solution is buying low-cost income property, a duplex for example. The down payment requirement is usually comparable to a single family residence, but half the property is supplying the income from rental, which helps in making the payments. Upkeeping is generally higher, and there are some added responsibilities of ownership.

In a few years, however, it may be possible to use both sides of the duplex for income and buy a single family house. The income will probably pay for the duplex with some left over to apply against the house payments. At the same time, you will be building an estate for your family with no strain on the budget.

Before making your first housing decision, why not consult with a Realtor and have him show you some possibilities.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at REALTY WORLD, Wm. Decker, Inc. Realtors, 670 S. Main St. Plymouth. Phone: 455-8400. We're here to help!

TV helps Rocks get into swing of things

BY PATTY RADZIK

As part of pre-season practice, Salem High softball Coach Livi Way has adopted a new method of solving players' skill problems: putting her team on television.

The videotaped shows allows Rocks to watch and improve problems they're experiencing in the hitting or fielding departments.

Way and junior varsity coach Martin have been borrowing the necessary equipment from the school - at no cost. They film each girl after practice fielding ground and fly balls or taking swings at pitches from a pitching machine.

"Its purpose is for improvement," Way said. "It will help them (the team members) evaluate their style of fielding and hitting, and make them more aware of their mistakes."

The same process was used for the volleyball team last season, except the spikers were shot during actual games. The volleyballers' evaluation was based on a team concept, opposed to the softball team's individual ability ranking.

Way plans on using the camera and television set throughout the entire season, a fact most players are enthused about.

"It's a great idea," senior Becky Crespo said. "I've been working on my batting stance with it and it's nearly fixed."

"It's easier to see than to be told," said sophomore Sue McDowell. "I've been working on my batting stance too, and it's easier to see for myself what I'm doing wrong than to have someone tell me and not see what I'm doing right at that moment."

It has its disadvantages though. "You get uncomfortable trying to concentrate on what you're doing knowing a camera is pointing towards you," McDowell stated. "You know it's there, and you just have to look at it."

to keep it up."

Playing as a utility infielder, junior Marlene McKinley will be called upon for her "throwing strength and good attitude," Sommerville said.

Janet Nostrant, a junior who played for Canton in her freshman year, is positioned as a utility infielder by Sommerville.

"We'll be strong up the middle," Sommerville stated. "We have to have good, consistent pitching and hold them (opponents) down defensively in order to win. I know we'll get the hits and stay on the bases."

"We have to try not to make mental mistakes," Sommerville said. "The physical ones will happen, but we'll have to work to eliminate errors in the mind. They should know what to do with the ball. They have to be alert."

Waterford Mott and Walled Lake Western will be the Chiefs' toughest opponents this spring season, which gets underway April 10. See next week's schedule insert for complete details.

Rock tracksters tough? Salem girls off and running

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Make his runners tough. That's what track Coach Scott Kurtz aims to accomplish during his third year of coaching at Salem High School. His team of 30-plus women are running sprints, jumping hurdles, and building endurance.

They started practicing on March 1 - two hours per day, five days a week. The runners practice by themselves on weekends - five miles for sprinters and 10 miles for distance runners.

Kurtz's goal is to improve the Rocks' 1-10 record from last season. "We beat Allen Park last year, but we always beat Allen Park," said Kurtz. "We hope to do better this year," he added.

Kurtz said there weren't enough runners on the team last year. Runners were competing in more than one event, which hurt the team's depth. Each meet has eight individual events, three relay races, and four field events. "With more women on the team, we won't be forced to depend on the same runners," Kurtz explained.

Kurtz believes the young women are responding favorably to his "get tough attitude.

"They are accomplishing feats now they couldn't do at the end of the season last year," Kurtz said.

The Rock indoor track team has finished its season. Erin Lucas, now a track co-captain, Ruth Sample, Lori Grissom, Rochelle Baltess, and Nancy Haut will join Kurtz's club.

Ann Meixner, Carin Ford, Diane Perpich, Beth Hoerner, and co-captain Lisa Morris will add experience to the Rock roster.

Kurtz also said three freshman runners - Linda Lybarger, Sample, and Grissom - show a lot of promise.

The remaining Rocks are: Kathy Zielke, Cyndi Nagy, Kim Brown, Andrea Felker, Lisa Cole, Beth Salagy, Vickie Sterling, Sue Jenkins, Carol Hay, Ruth Langkabel, Renee Slavin, Kelly Hubert, Lisa Miyazaki, Inger Eithun, Debra Hanford, Sue Parker, Darlyn Simms, Mary Ann Waite, Chris Bono, Jill Honeycutt, and Jeanette Jimmerson. The assistant coach for the team is Bob Kroeger.

Salem will open its season on April 11 against Livonia Bentley.

Follies spotlight local talent

Fun, frolic, song & dance

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER
A community's greatest wealth is the talent of its residents.

And nowhere was that more evident than at the PCAC follies "Way off Broadway" last weekend.

To be sure, there were some missed cues, out-of-step dancing, prop problems and the other tell-tale signs of amateur variety shows, but they only served to add a couple of unintentional laughs.

Assembling 200 more or less amateur local folks into a production like this in 15 days was no small accomplishment - and the results were two evenings of pure enjoyment.

It was a chance to see your neighbor down the street, your old high school chums, the vet who treats your dog, the guy who sells you colanders, the woman who teaches American history, the fellow who sells you lampshades, the gal who sells you Exacto blades or the one who sells you knick-knacks (and used to sell you ice cream), all on stage together.

Some of them even displayed real professional-quality ability.

Jo Hulce sure can sing and mime (even if she hasn't learned to smoke yet), Mike Diebolt can boogie-woogie, Jan Gattoni is a real vamp, Frankie LaMirand's got a lot of what she's got, Barb Leclair's a red hot mama and Jim Whitten has a Silver Slipper voice.

The supporting folks were talented too. "Don't Be a Woman If You Can" was performed by four examples of what to be if you are one, Dick Shaw and Vince Currie combined vocals and humor to really smoke and the hayride hoe-downers took a little bit of rhythm to stage some good dancing and acrobatics. Jan Coxford Sibbold never could take a graceful bow and her curtsy was a good laugh.

The singing waiters at The Slipper were fine harmonizers and who ever thought that Kirk Lorenz and John Miller had such fine legs?

And speaking of legs - what a dancing contingent.

The Show Girls, the Rockettes, the Hot Cha Girls and the Kittens put on a good show.

And although the production was bound by the parameters set in a ready-made production routine, it was localized well.

Gene Gulbransen, who sang a fine welcome to that bum, Jo Hulce, drew a good laugh by pointing out "there's a lot of bums in Plymouth."

In addition to the on-stage stars, the behind the curtain crews must have spent many an hour getting things ready. The way things went so smoothly indicated that.

Musically, the band members made a good contribution. The piano by Bob Wilson on Jo Hulce's solo was excellent.

All in all, the production was a tribute to the PCAC and to Charlie Crain, the director who brought it all together.

The efforts deserved an encore which the cast did not receive either night, so let's give it here.

"Encore. Encore."
