

Twp. flip-flops on police millage

BULLETIN

In a total turnaround from its position of two weeks ago, Plymouth Township's Board of Trustees voted 5-0 shortly before midnight last night to place the question of a special one-mill tax levy for law enforcement purposes on the ballot in a special election Sept. 11. The levy would run a period of five years. For complete details, see next week's Crier.

BY FRED DeLANO

Insisting it is "vital" to have a special millage levy to pay for police protection, Plymouth Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert Tuesday night asked his colleagues on the Board of Trustees to reinstate plans for a special election on the issue Sept. 11.

The on-again, off-again hassle has been going on since spring. An early summer election was first proposed, but it was killed by a goof-up in communication between the township and Wayne County authorities.

The date of Tuesday, Sept. 11 finally was approved, but two weeks ago the Board of Trustees cancelled that on its own volition, predicating the action on the assumption that the township has enough general-fund income to pay an estimated $246,000 each year for services from the Sheriff's Department.

In a written memo Tuesday, Notebaert told the board he had gone over budget figures with accounting consultant Harvey Ziel and said he foresaw a 1980 fiscal year deficit of $330,000 unless a new special police millage levy can be approved Sept. 11.

Notebaert said preliminary estimates for fiscal 1980, starting Jan. 1, indicate budget expenditures of $1,789,000 with receipts of only $1,459,000.

Planned expenditures include $246,000

'Little progress' on teacher contract

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Teachers' representatives and school administrators report little progress in negotiating a new contract for the more than 800 teachers in the Plymouth-Canton school district. The teachers' current contract expires Aug. 31.

"Progress has been very slow," said Derald McKinley, Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA) representative.

When asked for an update on negotiations, Florence Beier, school spokesperson, said, "There's nothing particular to report."

By Friday, both parties had spent a total of 40 hours at the negotiating table, said McKinley. They will continue to meet in open-ended sessions on Mondays and Wednesdays, said John Ryder, PCEA president.

According to McKinley, the PCEA tried to increase the number of bargaining sessions to speed up the negotiations, but that proposal has not been acted upon. Beier said she didn't know if the PCEA had tried to step up the number of sessions or not.

Asst. Supt. for Employee Relations Norm Kee, who is in charge of the negotiations, is on vacation.

Members of the PCEA negotiating team are: McKinley, Ryder, Tom Cotner, Candi Reece, and Bill Bartlett. Representing school administrators are: Barbara Bowman, executive director of elementary education; John Telford, executive director of secondary education; Dan White, executive director of finance; and, Walt Bartnick, assistant administrator for labor relations. Also included in the school officials negotiating team are lawyers from the private firm of Clark, Hardy, Lewis, Fine, and Asher.

2 women to lead City Commission?

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

Not only is Plymouth about to get its third woman mayor, but it may also have a woman mayor pro tem -- at least for a time.

With the pending resignation of Mayor Tom Turner, Mayor Pro Tem Mary Childs automatically will succeed as mayor.

She will be the third woman -- behind Ruth Whipple and Beverly McAninch -- to head the Plymouth City Commission.

But, pending an official interpretation of the City Charter, the other woman on the commission, McAninch, may ascend to the mayor pro tem spot at the same time. That would be the first time two women occupied the top city posts.

The charter provides:

"In the event that a vacancy occurs in the office of Mayor Pro Tem, through advancement to the office of Mayor, the Commission shall appoint one of its elected members to fill such a vacancy. Until such time as the Commission shall so appoint a Mayor

Canton ponders temporary zoning ordinance

BULLETIN

Canton's Board of Trustees denied approval of the interim zoning ordinance last night by a 4-3 vote. For complete details, see next week's Crier.

BY CHAS CHILD

A stop-gap ordinance designed to prevent strip commercial development along Ford Road in Canton was up for approval at last night's Board of Trustees meeting.

The interim zoning ordinance would cluster businesses in two stretches of Ford: between the I-275 intersection and Lilley; and between Canton Center and Sheldon roads.

"We don't want Ford Road to look like it does in other communities to the east," said Planning Commissioner Dan Richardson, a main proponent of the interim law.

At last Tuesday's board meeting, the board came close to voting on the ordinance, but delayed it for one week to give the public more time to study the law.

Included in the provisions of the ordinance is not only zoning of parcels along Ford Road, but of land in the whole township. Also, the interim ordinance includes a new sign ordinance, which will permit free-standing ground signs after a four-year ban.

The new law would also expand the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) from five to seven members, an apparent move by the board to alter the ZBA's policies.

The board recently filed suit against the ZBA, charging it broke the law by permitting a roof sign on the House of Woo Restaurant on Ford Road.

"We've got to straighten out the ZBA somehow," said Trustee Robert Greenstein.

The future of commercial development along Ford Road, however, drew most of the discussion last Tuesday.

The ordinance calls for clustering businesses on Ford and placing apartments and offices in between.

Richardson and other township officials fear that if commercial development isn't frozen immediately on Ford (by the interim ordinance), developers will build before a permanent zoning law can be enacted.

Public hearings on a master land-use plan, upon which the permanent zoning ordinance will be based, are scheduled to begin Aug. 15.

"It's a zoning horse race," said Trustee Carol Bodenmiller. "We must act (by passing the interim zoning ordinance) if it is to be won."

Bodenmiller's call for swift action did not sway some in the audience. "The interim ordinance is legal, but it's an abuse and misuse of the authority of the law," said Gary Sands, chairman of the ZBA and a professor of urban planning at Wayne State University.

He added that the interim law could stay in effect for years, even though public hearings on the new master plan are due to start soon, on Aug. 15. "I don't want to license the board to hold up planning up to five years," he said. "I'd rather it go through Usually you would have to tie up your savings for years to get a dividend that begins to compete with inflation.

And it seems it would take years to save the amount needed for one of those fancy $10,000 Money Market certificates.

Until now you've had to content yourself with choosing between long-term savings accounts or low dividends. But if you consider yourself a serious saver, you'll welcome this news from your credit union:

NOW YOU CAN EARN THE SAME DIVIDEND RATE IN 3 YEARS AT YOUR CREDIT UNION THAT BANKS AND S&LS PAY IN 4.

Look at the charts above and compare: with a Community Federal 3-Year Certificate you can earn the same or HIGHER DIVIDEND for LESS TIME.

Now you have greater flexibility to plan your savings and to save for the things you want to buy. And before you know it, you've saved the amount needed for a 'fancy' Money Market Certificate.

The maximum rate on Certificates is determined monthly by the U.S. Department of the Treasury. The rate you are quoted the month you purchase is paid for the term of your 3-Year Certificate. Dividends are compounded quarterly and the term and minimum balance, like most credit union savings certificates, are designed for the serious saver who isn't rich.

So if you've got money that's 'just sitting' in a bank or savings and loan, bring it to your credit union. Our 3-Year Certificate is just one of many savings programs that can help you beat inflation.

Canton orders more pollution tests at landfill

Grange will serve kick off Fest lunch

Long the purveyor of homemade goodness and nutrition at the annual Fall Festival, the Plymouth Grange will now receive the formal recognition it has enjoyed informally.

The Plymouth Fall Festival Board has announced that the search for a group to provide the kick-off Fall Fest luncheon is over.

Thursday's noon meal will, this year, be provided by the Grange, which had been serving dinners like grandma made during past festivals at the Union Street Grange Hall.

The opening to serve the Thursday meal occurred when the Kiwanis Club decided it could no longer supply the manpower to offer the Thursday evening spaghetti dinner at noon with all the other responsibilities (setting up booths, etc.) for its members.

That left the Thursday noon luncheon without a sponsor.

After passing the word that it was seeking a civic group to take on the meal, the Festival Board announced last week that the Grange had been selected to fill the void.

At last Wednesday's Fall Fest Board meeting, the festival manager, Carl Glass, also reported that 27 applications for booths and other events had been received. The deadline for applications is today (Wednesday). Groups interested in participating may call 453-9292 for more details.

In other Fall Festival developments, this year's theme for the merchants' window display contest will be "The Year of the Child."

Bring us your Fall Fest color photographs

Do you have any color photos of Fall Festivities? If so, you're eligible to enter The Community Crier's annual Fall Festival photo contest.

The editor is seeking a full-color photo to use on the cover of the special 1979 Fall Festival Guide edition of The Crier, to be published Sept. 5.

Entries should be as colorful as possible (red is especially good), taken with a 35-mm professional-type camera. Also, you must include the slide of your photo. The contest's deadline is Friday, Aug. 3.

After finding preliminary indication that a Canton Township landfill may be polluting ground water, the Board of Trustees ordered further tests at the site.

Under investigation is Woodland Meadows Landfill, located on Hannan Road, south of Michigan Avenue and east of I-275.

Wade, Trim & Associates, the township's engineering firm, made the "indicator" tests on June 2 after the board learned that Bi-Products Systems, a firm proposing to build a plant that would turn treated sewage (sludge) into fertilizer, was dumping sludge at Woodland Meadows.

Sludge contains toxic substances, mostly heavy metals such as zinc, cadmium, and chromium, which the board feared may seep into the ground water.

Whether the Bi-Products sludge, however, caused the preliminary "indicator" tests to register pollution at Woodland Meadows is something the board hopes to learn from the further tests ordered Thursday at a special meeting.

In May, the board passed an emergency ordinance which gives it power to shut down landfills and other operations in the township which are found polluting. The next tests may lead to the closing of Woodland Meadows, said Supervisor Noel Culbert.

In making the indicator tests, samples of water uphill and downhill were tested, said Bob Wade of Wade, Trim. In the test for organic carbon, for example, 250 milligrams per liter were found uphill or upstream, while 560 were found downstream.

Also, 16 mgs/l of chloride were found upstream and 535 were found downstream. And 39 mgs/l of sulfates were discovered upstream, 950 downstream. "Numbers can be misinterpreted, but we've definitely got something," said Wade.

Does year - round school 'burn out' teachers?

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Teacher "burn-out" under the extended school year (ESY) calendar, lack of progress in developing curriculum programs, and noisy classrooms at Field Elementary School are three reasons why Bruce Alatalo is leaving the Plymouth-Canton school district, he said. Alatalo, a fifth-grade teacher at Field, has resigned to begin a new job in private industry.

"Under ESY, teachers are never fresh after vacations," he said referring to the nine-week teaching cycle followed by three weeks of vacation which continues year-round. "It's like being a gerbil on a treadmill. Teachers don't have time to regroup their forces; re-evaluate themselves as teachers, and initiate new ideas," he said.

The lack of time to take graduate courses and the lack of storage space for teachers to use while other teachers use their classrooms were two other problems relating to the ESY schedule.

"Teachers are the only group which must, by law, return to school for graduate work to keep their teaching certificates current. Under ESY, teachers take graduate classes and teach school at the same time.

"I don't have time to do required reading in graduate classes when I have homework, lesson plans, and tests for my fifth-graders," he said.

Noisy classrooms at Field also spurred Alatalo to leave.

Classrooms at Field, Eriksson, and Huling schools, the three new schools built identically with an open-classroom design, house five classes per pod. Closets, sinks, cabinets, and corridor blocks separate the classrooms from one another.

In March, Alatalo, representing the Plymouth-Canton Education Association, addressed the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education at a grievance hearing requesting the board to place four classes of students per pod rather than five.

First, Alatalo said Field classrooms are 25 per cent smaller than the smallest classroom in the school district. Field classrooms are also below space allocations per pupil as recommended by the state, he said.

Second, he said the classrooms don't absorb noise. "Sometimes my students answer questions from teachers in the next pod because they can hear their questions. "Getting kids enthusiastic about learning silently is hard," he said.

The grievance was rejected by the board. However, school administrators should suggest alternatives to solve the acoustical problems at all three schools after further study, it said.

Meanwhile, Field teachers are working under the "constant pressure of keeping the classroom quiet."

"I am less patient and more uptight with my students because of the noise. The students are more negative and aggressive toward each other," he said.

Describing curriculum improvement programs as "a fiasco in Plymouth-Canton," Alatalo said: "In my six years as a teacher in the district, curriculum programs have died and new ones have started, but little has been accomplished district-wide."

Examples of such programs cited by Alatalo include: Wisconsin Reading Design program conducted from 1974-75; CASTLES program (Center for Advanced Study of Teaching and Learning in Exciting Schools) used in 1975-76; and the Pepsi program used from 1976 to 1978.

Curriculum programs haven't made progress, instead each program has been a new sidestep, he said.

How is curriculum used in the classroom today? "We put students in a book and push them through it. The book controls us - it tells teachers what to teach, how long to teach it, how long it takes to learn, which skills are new, and what to put on the blackboard," said Alatalo.

"Kids lose critical skills as a result. The secret is to individualize instruction," he said.

He also blamed the pencil-and-paper testing system as part of the problem. "Tests which require students to fill in the dots means the student has a 20 or 25 per cent chance of guessing the right answer."

Tests should force kids to produce step-by-step work not just guess the correct answer, he said.

Alatalo said he wanted to teach school because he wanted to contribute his part to society. After six years, he said he's leaving with bittersweet memories. "I've known both success and failure.

"Nothing can replace the bright 'oh, yeah' of a kid who understands," he said.

Dance is Princely benefit

A benefit dance for the Prince family, who recently lost their home and son in a fire will be held Friday, Aug. 3 from 7:30 p.m. to midnight at Divine Saviour Church, 39375 Joy Rd., Westland.

Included in the $7.50 ticket price will be a cold-cut dinner, pop, soft-ups, and beer. The Hargrove Band will be featured.

The dance is sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton Football League and tickets may be purchased from any member or by calling Marge Spitz at 455-3262.

Greenstein wants board to set salaries, abolish compensation group

BY CHAS CHILD

Canton Trustee Robert Greenstein proposed that the township board be given the authority to set the salaries of the three township officers -- Clerk, Supervisor, and Treasurer.

The township's Compensation Commission, an independent board of citizens, now decides the officers' pay. Greenstein requested at last Tuesday's board meeting that the board repeal the Compensation Commission ordinance, thereby leaving the power to establish the officers' salaries in the board's hands. The board currently sets the pay of the four trustees.

In its recent salary recommendations, Greenstein said, the compensation commission exceeded its authority by dictating hiring policy to the board. The commission said a full-time treasurer was not needed.

"I'm flabbergasted they are meddling in affairs that are not their's," he said. "They don't have the purview to tell us how to hire."

Clerk John Flodin said, however, "I don't entirely agree with the compensation committee, but a disinterested group should make the determination of salaries."

"I'd love to get it out of the board's hands," Greenstein replied, "but since the board handles the trustees' salaries, it might as well handle the administrators'. I'll take the responsibility. If the people don't like it, they can vote me out of office."

After the discussion, the board voted to table the item. Flodin and Trustee Eugene Daley voted "no" on the motion to table, while Greenstein, Supervisor Noel Culbert, and Trustee Stephen Larson and Carol Bodenmiller voted "yes."

Real Estate

INVESTOR'S VIEW OF REAL ESTATE

The New York Stock Exchange recently conducted a study of the small investor's view of investment income potential. It must have backfired, because stocks came out a distant second to real estate.

The study concerned itself with the small investor, defined as anyone who falls in one or more of the following categories: 1) annual household income between $7,500 and $20,000; 2) has a securities portfolio valued at less than $10,000; 3) or annual securities transactions valued at less than $5,000.

They were asked what rate of return they thought could be attained on a regular basis from the five major investment areas. Real estate investments were rated highest, exceeding the yield from stocks, (the second ranking category) by more than one-third, followed by mutual funds, savings banks and insurance in that order.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at REALTY WORLD, Wm. Decker, Inc. Realtors, 670 S. Main St. Plymouth. Phone: 455-8400. We're here to help!

Canton to boost water pressure

BY CHAS CHILD

Tentative approval to construct a water main along Morton-Taylor Road from Joy to Palmer, which would greatly relieve the low water pressure in many Canton homes, was given by the Board of Trustees on Thursday.

Wade, Trim & Associates estimated the cost of the new main at $1,570,000, which will be paid by money from the township's water and sewer fund.

"This would provide a large volume of high pressure water directly into the heart of the township population area," wrote Township Engineer Bob Wade in a report submitted earlier to the board.

Township residents, especially those living in subdivisions south of Ford Road, have been plagued with low water pressure for the last two years. After a heat wave in June of this year the board imposed an odd-even sprinkling schedule for residents to conserve water.

The Morton-Taylor water main was chosen by the board over two other construction projects. These other options included building a 4-million gallon elevated storage tank at a cost of $3,360,000, and simply restricting water use in the township until the City of Detroit, which supplies water to Canton, can upgrade pressure in the system.

Restricting use would last "a minimum of three years... with no assurance" that Detroit would raise the pressure, said Wade.

The key to raising pressure in Canton is construction of a new stretch of water main at Stark Road in Livonia, said Wade. Detroit water officials say they cannot build it until a suit filed over control of water rates against the city by the suburban communities, including Canton, is settled, Wade said.

Supervisor Noel Culbert has described Detroit's position as "blackmail."

Wade said building the elevated tanks would not be "cost effective."

Final approval is scheduled to come from the board after Wade, Trim prepares further engineering studies of the project.

Arsonist strikes twice

Molotov cocktails were thrown at a house on Starkweather Street in the City of Plymouth on July 14 and 19.

Police said the arson attempts at 1105 Starkweather are part of a family dispute.

Both cocktails were thrown between midnight and 2 a.m., said police. The first went through a window and burned the window frame, according to the report, and the second caused smoke damage to the house's aluminum siding.

There were no injuries in either incident, said police.

Canton threatens suit if state closes Lotz, Lilley

If the State of Michigan proceeds with plans to close Lotz and Lilley roads at the Conrail railroad tracks south of Michigan Avenue, it might find a lawsuit on its hands.

The Canton Board of Trustees threatened such a suit at last Tuesday's meeting.

State officials notified the township about a month ago that the crossings are hazardous and they plan to close them.

If the two crossings were closed, fire trucks would be delayed, school children would have to walk longer distances, and property values in the area would decrease, said the township's planning department in a letter to the board.

Canton OKs cable television with Omnicom

THE COMMUNITY CRIER: July 25, 1979

Canton's Board of Trustees gave the go-ahead last Tuesday to sign an agreement with Omnicom, Inc. to bring cable television into the township.

The agreement gives Omnicom a non-exclusive franchise to service the township. The firm is required to provide a minimum of 30 channels, which will carry all local stations, as well as ones from Toledo, Lansing, and others. Also, special programming will be available from Atlanta, New York, Boston.

News and weather channels will be offered too, and three channels will be devoted to local community events.

A minimum of 50 per cent of the homes in the township should have service available within one year of Federal Communications Commission (FCC) authorization, under the agreement.

Also, the charge for service shall be $15 for installation, and $7.95 per month.

The local channels will broadcast events like Canton and Salem High football and basketball games, Plymouth-Canton Board of Education meetings, and Township Board meetings.

Unlike most cable television agreements, canton's stipulates that Omnicom provide two full-time staffers to produce local programming.

"Canton's volatile nature demands responsive, professional community channels devoted to the activities of the community," wrote a citizen's cable TV committee to the board.

Omnicom is required to post a $10,000 to insure that it will carry through with its plans.

Both Supervisor Noel Culbert and Treasurer James Donahue said before the meeting that it might be wise to invite service proposals from other cable TV firms.

On the recommendation from the township's cable TV committee, made by committee member and Trustee Steve Larson, however, the board decided not to wait and sign with Omnicom.

Most of the television cable will be buried with the other utility lines in the township. And one resident, Connie Carman, said many homeowners may not like their backyards dug up to lay the cable in their neighborhoods.

WSDP buys equipment to boost listening range

To protect its air space and expand its coverage area, Centennial Educational Park radio station WSDP was given approval to purchase three pieces of equipment for $10,005.

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education approved the purchase of a transmitter, amplifier, and tone generator from Electronic Industries Incorporated Monday night. The vote was 7-0.

According to Jeff Cardinal, WSDP co-ordinator, the current 10-watt transmitter power will increase to 200 watts. The increase will permit the station to be heard throughout the entire Plymouth-Canton school district. The new limits will extend to the area bounded by Michigan Avenue on the south, Wayne Road on the east, I-96 on the north, and the Ann Arbor city limits on the west, said Cardinal.

Increased watts will also mean more educational opportunities for students involved in WSDP, said Cardinal. There were at least 85 students involved in radio broadcasts at the Park last year, he said.

WSDP is located at 88.1 FM on the radio dial and must complete at least 36 hours per week, five days per week on the air to qualify for a license from the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

In December, 1978, the FCC granted a construction permit to WSDP to increase to 200 watts. The increased watts will make WSDP a Class A license operator.

Tragic crash 2 years ago lives on in court suits

BY CHAS CHILD

July 23 passed very quietly this year. Few persons noticed. But on that date two years ago, the Plymouth-Canton Community was saddened by the death of six youths who died in a high-speed car crash in Washtenaw County.

The crash came after an evening of heavy drinking by the youths, according to police, mostly at the Anchor Inn, a bar near Pinckney in Livingston County.

The tragedy produced not only shock in the community but a flurry of lawsuits.

According to John Ashton, attorney for the estate of Eric Corey, one of the boys killed in the crash, a $1 million damage suit against the Anchor Inn was recently expanded to include two alleged part-owners of the bar, Aaron and Joie Slotnick, and the landlord, George Ballas.

The original suit on behalf of Corey, filed about a year ago, charged those connected with the Inn with serving alcohol to the underage youths said Ashton. Suits have also been filed against two Plymouth party stores, 7-11 Food Store on Main Street and Mc Allister's party Store on Northville Road, for allegedly selling alcohol to the youths, said the lawyer.

For allegedly not properly marking the intersection at Pinckney and Wylie roads, where the car crashed, the Washtenaw County Road Commission has also been sued, said Ashton.

Also, a suit has been filed recently on behalf of Corey against the state Liquor Control Commission for allegedly not revoking the Anchor Inn's liquor license sooner than it did. The bar was cited for many other violations before the Plymouth youths were killed, said Ashton.

The Anchor Inn lost its license after the crash, Ashton said. Killed in the wreck were Bradley Wilson, 16; Douglas McGregor, 17; William Cook, 17; Brian Stout, 17; and Corey, 17.

Ashton said a set of suits similar to the ones filed on behalf of Corey has also been filed for the others killed in the crash.

Schools want new students to register now

New residents in the Plymouth-Canton Community School District should register students in school as soon as possible, say school officials. Early registration will help establish class enrollments, speed up pupil accounting, and avoid lines of students waiting to be registered the first day of school.

Students attending extended school year (ESY) schools may be registered any week-day. The following elementary schools, kindergarten through grade five, are on the year-round calendar: Field, Eriksson, Gallimore, Hulsing, Isbister, and Miller. Pioneer Middle School, grades six through eight, is also on the ESY schedule.

Other elementary and middle schools in the Plymouth-Canton school district are on the traditional calendar. They will have regular office hours and personnel available to register new students weekdays beginning Aug. 13. Elementary schools on the traditional calendar are: Allen, Bird, Farrand, Fiegel, Geer, Smith, Starkweather, and Tanger. Central, East, and West are the middle schools on the traditional calendar.

School phone numbers are listed in the yellow pages of the local telephone directory.

New students in grades nine through 12 are assigned to Canton or Salem High School by drawing a color-chip at the board office, 454 S. Harvey Street, Plymouth. They should call Ginnie Murdoch, coordinator of pupil accounting, at 453-0200, ext. 421 for an appointment for high school assignment.

After they are assigned to a high school, students must contact the high school records office at 453-3100, ext. 273 for an appointment to register.

New residents who are not sure which school their children will attend can call Ginnie Murdoch, coordinator of pupil accounting, at the board office, 453-0200, ext. 421.

Twp. firing pavilion construction company

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees was expected Tuesday night to withdraw from a contract with the D.A.C. Construction Co. of Farmington Hills and to reallocate expenditure of a final $31,494.98 for work on the pavilion at Township Recreation Park.

The construction company's alleged failure "to supply a sufficiency of properly skilled workmen and failure to prosecute the work with promptness and diligence" were cited by Norman L. Dietrich Associates, township consulting engineers, as reasons for recommending termination of the contract.

"The majority of uncompleted work involves the site grading, parking lot, and restoration," said the communication from Dietrich Associates to the trustees.

"Most of these items are in various stages of completion and should take about one week to finish. Currently there is a balance of approximately $31,494.98 which has not been paid to D.A.C. Construction and this should be ample funds to complete the project.

"We would also request that the board permit us to charge our additional time involved in obtaining another contractor and completing the project against those funds."

Dietrich Associates charged that "repeated inquiries on timing and schedules have always been met with unfulfilled promises."

Township Attorney Donald Morgan supported the firm's contention that the contract contained phraseology which permits the township to obtain a replacement contractor and to complete the work at the expense of D.A.C.

KIDS and adults took balloon rides in Canton on Saturday. The rides were sponsored by New Towne Plaza merchants.

Hilltop eyes more sprinkling

A request to increase the number of sprinkler heads connected with the new irrigation system at Hilltop Golf Course from nine to 30 was presented to the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees by Hilltop Manager John Jawor Tuesday night.

Jawor has analyzed sprinkling time available for the night hours when play on the Powell Road course has been completed, and says the number of fairway sprinklers provided, as opposed to sprinklers for the greens, "does not exhibit good logic."

There are seven times as many sprinkler heads available for spraying the greens as for fairway and tee watering, says Jawor, a PGA member whose Hilltop management contract is in the first of its five years.

The township board is awaiting input from its consulting engineering firm of Norman L. Dietrich Associates before determining what action to take. Further expansion of the underground sprinkling system also must be considered soon in relation to the development of an additional nine holes at Hilltop for which adjacent land was purchased last week.

Aug. 31 expiration looms

Schools, teachers - get to work on contract

These lazy, hazy days of summer can be deceiving when there's some hefty work to be done.

With less than six short weeks left before the teachers' contract expires Aug. 31, little progress has been reported from either side of the negotiating table. That news, in itself, is disheartening.

With only a few weeks remaining, there's no time left to be discouraged. Both sides need to remember the long-range goal of the negotiating process -- to keep the students in classes when September rolls around.

With seven contracts to be negotiated within the next few months, everyone needs to realize the implications of stalled negotiations.

Talk is cheap, but words on paper with signatures from both parties will

community opinions

produce satisfied taxpayers. The time is now. The real challenge at the negotiating table is to work together toward a fair, reasonable contract settlement without creating rifts.

In this case, haste doesn't make waste; it means progress.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Volunteers to run for city commission step forward!

Who me?

Commission should back a write-in hopeful

From the disinterest plaguing the city elections, the City Commission has a chance to generate not only some spirit, but some good representation as well.

The commission must soon attend to filling the vacancy which will be left when Mayor Tom Turner actually resigns.

Who will it select for the seat?

There are two candidates who are not yet sitting on the commission. Will it pick one of them? If so, why one and not the other?

Will it appoint a "caretaker" commissioner for a three-month stint? If so, who?

Since it is too late to officially add any candidates to the ballot, the only way the vacant seat can be filled other than by commission appointment, is to have a write-in candidate beat out the departing Turner on Nov. 6.

This would be preferable to the appointment route.

It would take the help of Turner to accomplish it -- he'll have to be sure everyone knows he's leaving and that he'd prefer not to receive any votes.

With that help, the commission should look for a likely commissioner who intends to seek the vacant term by a write-in campaign.

That person's properly-run campaign -- with ballot stickers and some good old-fashioned door-to-door effort -- could garner more votes than will fall to Turner, whose name must remain on the ballot.

Such a move by the commission would put the vacancy back into the hands of the electors -- where it ought to be.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Out of the clear blue - we need city leaders

In the interest of better government in the City of Plymouth, it is necessary to surprise the many folks whose names appear below.

Since a vacancy exists in the City Commission race for November, a write-in candidate could beat the number of votes received by Tom Turner -- who will already be living in Venezuela by election time.

If a write-in doesn't run, the new commission must appoint someone.

It would certainly be best to see the voters make the decision (rather than the commission), but either way, there haven't been enough qualified folks stepping forward to volunteer.

Thus, with no order of preference -- or even any preference at all -- let's suggest the following folks who, for one reason or another, have made themselves known and should consider the thankless task.

Starting with the planning commissioners: Bill Leonard, Niles Beaugrand, Ken Christensen, Jan Fester, Arthur Larson, Pete Schweitzer (if Bonnie wouldn't kill him for running), Patrick Sharp and Mary Ellen Mc Kercher.

Other possibles from city boards and panels are: Bill Saxton, Bill Graham, School Supt. John M. Hoben, Jack Wilcox, Clarence Moore, Fred (or for that matter, Bill) Beitner, Fred Hadley, Cliff Tait, Father Kenneth MacKinnon, Wilma Newton, Thomas Healy, Lorre Watt, Eric Carne, and Bill Covington.

Others, from the clear blue and elsewhere, might be: Jack Coxford (how do you like that Mae?), Elizabeth Holmes, Ben Creech, Terry Carroll (who's given some thought to this), Kari Miller, Carl Lampton, Chuck Avis, Marda Benson, George Bowles, Sam or Jesse Hudson, Mel Blunk, Tony Licata, Roger or Penny Wright or Clay Fechter.

Then, there are the former city leaders like: Bill Hartmann, Harold Guenther, Jim Jabara, Joe Bida, Beyer, Bob Smith and a host of others.

None of these folks expected their name to be dragged into this, but with a vacancy in the offing, it's important to consider everyone.

Possibly, your name has been left out when you think you've as good a chance as any of them. If that's the case, get in gear, announce your candidacy immediately.

Sombody must take on the task.

Whether by appointment or by -- preferably -- winning a write-in campaign, someone's going to have to make the sacrifice.

One thousand pardons to those readers who were surprised to see their names bandied about as commission hopefuls. The sole purpose was to get folks thinking about it.

And, to get someone to run.

Many are gone but not necessarily forgotten

The Moving Finger writes; and having writ, moves on . . . Nor all your piety nor wit shall lure it back to cancel half a line . . . Nor all your tears wash out a word of it."

So sayeth the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam.

They are words which bring to mind a number of people who have passed through the local scene, left an indelible mark upon the community, and then have moved on. We live in an interesting, transient sector, you and I who domesticate the Plymouth-Canton Community.

Our friends come, and they go. Often they are transferred by their companies to new roles of importance and affluence elsewhere in the nation, sometimes even to other countries. Whatever the case, the faces change.

Tom Turner, mayor of the City of Plymouth, is the latest case in point.

The mayor and his family aren't moving from our midst on some whim of building a better mousetrap that could be marketed more profitably elsewhere. Quite to the contrary.

Tom's ascendancy to a position of high authority in the Ford Motor Co. has resulted in his being named president of Ford Motor of Venezuela, and in moving from Plymouth he will join others who have left a massive void in civic participation.

Although the general reaction to the news of Turner's appointment may have been to the effect that "I didn't know he was that high in the Ford scheme of things," it demonstrates another truth about many of our residents.

When you rub elbows with your fellow citizens in this community, you don't necessarily ask what each of them does for a living, or how much he or she makes. Sincerity and quality of community accomplishment count more. Tom Turner is the living proof, and so was Gerald Fisher. So were a host of others.

For instance, think back to such people as John Hanskat, Bob Gilmore, Bill Sick, John Kamego, Ed Schenning, Bob Hayman, Cecelia Phelan, Marcia Borowski, Bernie Schmidt, Lauren Januz, Russ Dane, plus all that crowd of Daisy Air Rifle executives who once called the Plymouth area their home.

It would be too much to go into detail on how each of those men and women left an imprint on the community, but that they did. A few in that list held elective offices, others did not. Together they helped mould the character of this area, each in a personalized way.

Jerry Fisher and his family were Michigan fixtures, with special ties at Interlochen. For years he was the financial brains of our school board, but there was nothing grandiose about Jerry. Nor did he mount a stump and thump his chest for all the community to hear when Pepsi Cola hired him away from Ford Credit Co. to become its worldwide comptroller.

Up at Long Lake, six miles from Interlochen, where Jerry and his wife drop in every summer at the cottage of Plymouthites Bill and Jane Clarke, a casual visitor to the same pine forest sunset wouldn't know the Fishers from second base, except as friends from New York. But the talk would be of Plymouth and the days "back home."

Some of these people come back now and then. Lauren Januz, now an Illinois politician with his heart set upon a seat in Congress, called just a few weeks ago to say he was in town because of the midwestern stamp collectors' show which he helped organize.

Mostly, however, the former Lake Pointe Village activist just wanted to chat about the old days and to get up to date on the governmental affairs of Plymouth Township. With all seven seats on the Township Board of Trustees up for grabs in 1980, Lauren's political enthusiasm would be beneficial had he chosen to remain here instead of opting for suburban Chicago.

The tendency in these paragraphs has been to look back, but maybe it's the wrong attitude.

Let's accept the truth of the quotation from the Rubaiyat, "The Moving Finger writes; and having writ, moves on."

Departure of Tom Turner should not stifle future thinking. Rather, his record and those of many others who have passed our way should serve as a challenge to the people who will have in their hands the task of guiding this community through the last two decades of the 20th Century.

More civic giants are coming. 'Twas ever thus.

Keep the temptation from Canton board

Like oil and water, salaries and politics don't mix. But if certain Canton Township Board members have their way, they will.

Trustee Robert Greenstein proposed last Tuesday that the board repeal the township's Compensation Commission ordinance. Enacted years ago, the ordinance creates an independent citizen panel that sets the salaries of the three township officers -- Supervisor, Clerk, Treasurer.

Such action would put the power to set the officers' salaries in the hands of the board itself. This would be wrong.

The temptation would be too great to vote to hike their own pay, even though there are four trustees also on the board.

The Compensation Committee has to date done a good job of setting salaries. Its objective and independent power should be kept intact.

4-H'ers take stock

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Eden Voss of Canton has a kid named Bonnie that has grown up to be a healthy, somewhat temperamental goat. Although Eden's decided not to show Bonnie in the upcoming 4-H fair, Eden and Cocoa, the four-month old kid, will be there. As a veteran of goat shows in 4-H fairs for the past five years, Eden's hoping to earn a ribbon or two.

In a farmhouse along the western edges of Plymouth Township lives 15-year old Kelly Strautz, soon to be a sophomore at Salem High School. As the youngest of six kids, Kelly grew up in a 4-H fair tradition. She's been raising and showing rabbits for five or six years and will be sending six, 12-pound rabbits as well as one duck to the 4-H fair this year.

Frisky, Mork and Mindy will be at the fair too. These Black Angus cows are from the Ehrhard's Valley Ridge Ranch in southern Canton. All three steers will be sold.

The 4-H fair will kick off with an opening parade at 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 12 featuring floats, the 4-H queen and her court, and, of course, lots and lots of animals. The fair will be at the Wayne County Fairgrounds on Belleville Road.

Tuesday is senior citizens day and Thursday is children's day and they will be admitted free. Special shows and entertainment will be featured every day. There'll be a country and western dance Monday night at 8:30, a dairy goat milking contest (three minute time limit) at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, and clowns will be at the fair Thursday afternoon from 3 to 6 with a performance at 5 p.m.

For Eden, Kelly, and Jim Ehrhard, one of the most important events of the fair will be the animal auction Thursday at 6 p.m. Chickens, goats, sheep, pigs, and steer are some of the animals 4-H members have been caring for during the past

Altha Glass hails 70

Many of Altha Glass' nine grandchildren, 29 grandchildren, and 28 great-grandchildren will be in town to help her celebrate her 70th birthday July 29.

Altha, a Plymouth resident for 53 years, moved here with her husband Bill in 1926. All of their 10 children attended Starkweather Elementary School in Old Village near the former Glass home on Holbrook Street. Before retiring, Altha worked at both Starkweather and West Middle schools.

Today Altha's hobbies include baking, playing bingo, and crocheting, which she learned to do seven months ago with the help of her friend Virginia Mills.

She lives with her youngest son, Gary, and his family on Elmhurst St. in Plymouth Township. "During the daytime, I'm usually at home, but at night, it's off to play bingo," says the avid bingo enthusiast.

The Glass family includes: Irma and Delbert Larrick of Canton; Dorothy and J.C. Lee of Plymouth; Shirley Glass of Canton; Ron and Dottie Glass of Plymouth; Doris and W. C. McTurner of Canton; Carl and Diane Glass of Canton; and, Gary and Peggy Glass of Plymouth.

Boosters to wash cars

The Centennial Educational Park Marching Band Boosters are sponsoring a car wash every weekend starting Saturday July 28 until Saturday, Aug. 18.

On Saturdays, the car wash will be at the First National Bank of Plymouth at Ann Arbor Road and I-275. On Sundays, the car wash will be held at the Ann Arbor Road bank branch as well as the bank's main office, 535 Main St., Plymouth. Hours for both Saturdays and Sundays will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

All proceeds will be used to buy new uniforms and new instruments for band members, said Jerry Hotchkin, band booster president.

Let's Talk Real Estate

by Barbara M. Olson

Conventional mortgage loans are made strictly between the home buyer and a private lender, usually a financial institution. The buyer offers home and credit as security to the lender. There is no other backing, such as government insurance or guarantee. Conventional loans vary widely in form and are the most common type used to buy and build homes. How to get information about loans? Visit various lenders. Or, if buying through a real estate firm working with the builder, you may find that financing has been prearranged. Get the facts from your real estate broker in any event.

Let REALTY WORLD-COLONIAL VILLAGE INC., 42142 Ford Rd., Canton, 455-7790 assist you in investigating and analyzing all pertinent information before you buy your next home. It is far better to enter into such a financial investment with sound knowledge than to do it alone and hope you are right. With REALTY WORLD-COLONIAL VILLAGE INC. on your side you can be sure we have the knowledge and experience to handle every last detail. Hours: Mon. - Sat. 9-9, Sun. 10-6.

Special day camp helps special kids

Caring, sharing, and getting along with one another are the main thrusts of a special program for some of the mentally handicapped students in the Plymouth-Canton Community.

Forty-four students ranging from 6 to 18 years old are enrolled in the day-camp program at Harrison School in Livonia.

In session since July 2, the program offers roller skating almost every Monday, horseback riding on Tuesdays, bowling on Wednesdays, field trips and miniature golfing on Thursdays, and swimming on Fridays.

"Routines are important for these students. A routine re-assures them and they know what they'll be doing," said Mary Doyle, the supervisor who directs five staff members and one play leader in the program. The kids are proud of the identical t-shirts they wear on field trips, she added.

Mentally trainable students are eligible, she said. Students must be able to care for themselves and feed and dress themselves, she said.

To pay for art and craft supplies, field-trip transportation, activity fees, and daily beverages and snacks, each parent must pay $7 per week. The program is offered to students from Plymouth, Canton, Northville, and Livonia and is supported by the City of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township, and the Plymouth-Canton schools.

Dancing, swimming, playground games, singing. All these activities are offered in this special program for kids who can appreciate them in their own special ways.

PLAYING and working together are two of the focal points of a special summer program for mentally handicapped students at Harrison School in Livonia. The program, which draws many students from the Plymouth-Canton Community, is open to kids from Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Livonia. Jim Szerniak, above, is with Collette Cousins, a play leader. ## District invited to Ford's picnic Canton Township residents are invited to Congressman William D. Ford's annual Birthday Picnic, an event which has grown in recent years into the biggest outdoor gathering in Western Wayne County.

The picnic is planned for Saturday, Aug. 4, from noon until 6 p.m.

Based on recent years' attendances, the Committee is expecting a crowd of between 6,000 and 8,000 persons to participate in what Chairman Harry Brunner termed "an old-fashioned, country-style picnic."

"We will have hot dogs, kielbasa, beans, popcorn, beer and soft drinks. Nobody will go away hungry," he said.

The admission charge this year will be $10 per car, with a maximum of seven persons per vehicle. An extra dollar per person will be charged for more than seven persons, not counting children under seven years of age.

The afternoon's program will include music, entertainment, games, contests, door prizes and gifts for children.

All residents of Congressman Ford's district are invited to the outing.

The 1977 French grape harvest, claim wine growers, was one of the best ever. The weather, which was not too promising during the summer, with few sunny days to bring grapes to their full ripeness, held on to give late fall sunshine and beautiful grapes. Wine growers predicted wines as good as those of other great vintage years, like the 1966 and 1970 Bourdeaux, and they were right. Since 1977 wines had to be bottled and aged, we had to wait for 1978 for our first taste. As you know, the wait was worth while.

The wait is over! Come to CHEESE & WINE BARN, 515 Forest Ave., where you will discover what you have been waiting so long for. For an excellent selection of wines and beverages combined with the related items that will enhance your palate the mood is set, the inventory is complete and the staff of the CHEESE & WINE BARN is waiting to assist you in your selection. For the beverages of your choice, for your pleasure, the place to come is the CHEESE & WINE BARN. Open Mon.-Wed. & Sat. 10-6, Th. & Fri. till 9.

WINE WISDOM:

Only exceptional champagnes have vintage years, so do not worry about a champagne's year. Simply select according to your taste.

Canton ponders new land use ordinance

the normal process."

Canton's Planning Director, Jim Kosteva, supported the interim ordinance, even though a public hearing is by-passed, which he said was unfortunate.

Homeowners in the audience generally supported the interim ordinance. "It will preserve our options and control commercial growth on Ford," said resident Tom Gamache. "It is not the responsibility of the board to protect speculators, but to protect people."

Dr. Robert Laird, a 34-year resident of the township, said over-development caused sewers to back up in the recent floods. "Continuing building is very serious and must be solved," he said. "We must decide what development we want."

The traffic problem on Ford would be worsened by strip development, added Bodenmiller.

Treasurer James Donahue said he supported the interim ordinance because it delayed development until formal public hearings on the master plan could be held. "Are we going to let all developers come in here and rape the master land use plan before the 34,000 new residents who moved in since the old zoning ordinance have had a chance to speak on it?" he asked.

Harold Fisher, representing some property owners on Ford, said the interim ordinance would "down zone," or remove commercial zoning from some parcels on the road. "Put yourself in the place of the commercial landowners," he asked the homeowners in the audience. "It's like cutting the value of your residence."

"It's an inequity to lower the value of their land because they are a minority group," he added.

"The landowner is just one person, who will make money on his land anyway," replied one resident.

Befuddled by planning? Here's explanation

Are you confused by planning terms such as zoning, master land use plan, and zoning ordinance? Here is a basic glossary of terms used in the current Canton interim zoning ordinance controversy:

Zoning is a method of restricting land uses to particular property. For example, on land zoned residential, only houses can be built. On commercial zoned land, only businesses such as restaurants, stores, movie houses, etc., can be constructed. The same applies to all the different zoning categories, which include industrial and agricultural.

In each category, there are many sub-categories. The residential category, for example, is broken down into sub-groups that permit only apartments, duplexes, large-lot single-family homes, small-lot single-family homes, etc.

Land may be rezoned, but only by the governing body of a municipality (in Canton, the Board of Trustees) and after a series of steps including a public hearing.

The Master Land Use Plan is a document of written principles or goals for land use in a municipality. It outlines how the community should develop, how general areas should be zoned, and why.

The Planning Commission of a charter township like Plymouth and Canton is charged with writing the master land use plan, and it can only be approved after a public hearing.

A township's zoning ordinance is based on the master land use plan. The ordinance specifically zones every parcel in the township. Only the board of Trustees can enact the zoning ordinance, and only after public hearing. The zoning ordinance governs areas such as signs and landscaping.

Canton's interim zoning ordinance, before the board for approval last night, is designed to give township officials time to go through the public-hearing process and enact a permanent zoning ordinance.

Canton's planning commission enacted a master land use plan in 1976, but its corresponding zoning ordinance was never adopted by the board of trustees after Supervisor Harold Stein and two running mates were elected in November, 1976.

The township's current zoning ordinance was enacted in 1967.

The current planning commission is finishing work on revising the 1976 master plan and is due to hold a public hearing on it on Aug. 15 at Salem High, starting at 7:30 p.m.

After it is approved by the commission it will be sent to the board for enactment into law in the form of the zoning ordinance.

Childs to be mayor

Pro Tem, the line of succession of persons who shall act as Mayor shall be commissioners according to seniority in their present terms of office and, among Commissioners of equal seniority, according to the number of votes received by them at the time of their election to office."

The question yet to be resolved, according to City Clerk Paul Brumfield, is what the charter means by "present term of office."

He speculated that since three commissioners at any given time are elected to four-year terms, the charter probably means the "present term of office" means the entire consecutive tenure in office even if it is consecutive two terms.

Interpreted thusly, Mrs. McAninch, who will retire from the commission this November (because the charter has commissioners from serving more than two consecutive terms) has the most seniority. She would automatically become mayor pro tem when Mrs. Childs becomes mayor.

Even if the charter is interpreted as the present four-year term only, Mrs. McAninch would still possess the most seniority, since she is the only remaining commissioner serving out a four-year term.

But her term there could be short-lived if the commission acts quickly on electing another commissioner to the mayor pro tem position.

The mayor pro tem ascension charter question is not the only unclear charter provision raised by Turner's resignation.

How is a city commissioner appointed?

Does the mayor nominate and the commission approve? Or does the commission simply elect a new commissioner? The charter does not say and past practice shows it has been done both ways.

Former Mayor Harold Guenther has the distinction of having been appointed to the city commission both ways.

On Aug. 23, 1954, he was appointed by the commission without nomination by the mayor. On Dec. 3, 1973, he was nominated by Mayor McAninch and then elected by the commission.

Two Plymouthites earn Legion posts

Unanimous re-election of Dorothy Koi as state finance officer and appointment of Rev. C. Ronald Phelps as state chaplain gave Plymouth unique distinction at last week's 61st annual convention of the American Legion of Michigan, held at Grand Rapids.

"I think it is just great that two of the 12 officers who will lead and guide the 73,000-member organization should come from Plymouth," remarked one of the local delegates to the convention. "It is a rare occasion to have two officers from even the state's larger cities, let alone one of the smaller communities."

The 1,962 delegates made Koi their unanimous choice for a second term as state finance officer during Sunday's closing convention session. She has long been active in Legion affairs and is the first female ever to hold her state post.

Rev. Phelps, probation director for the 35th District court, serving the Plymouth, Canton and Northville areas; also is chief of chaplain service at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Allen Park.

His appointment as state chaplain was made by Andrew A. Templeton of Hamtramck, who is the Legion's newly elected state commander. The terms for both Mrs. Koi and Rev. Phelps are for one year.

Rev. Phelps served in the Air Force from 1948 until 1952 as an aircraft mechanic and crew chief, with the rank of staff sergeant. He was ordained as a Baptist minister in 1959 and lives with his wife and three daughters at 46455 W. Ann Arbor Trail. He is a member of Passage-Gayde Post 391 of Plymouth.

Koi, of 14411 Elm, also was the first woman to serve Michigan as state vice-commander, holding that post in 1975-76, the first to be commander of the Myron H. Beals Post of Livonia, as well as the first to be commander of the Legion's 17th District Association.

Previously, as a member of the Passage-Gayde Post, she had been elected to four consecutive terms from 1957 to 1961 as state historian. She is a World War II Army veteran and was in the Finance Section of Second Air Force Headquarters at the time of her discharge from the service in 1945.

 BEFORE AMERICA'S passion for the automobile, it was more important to have a paved road. This 1910's picture of Blunk Avenue in Plymouth, taken from William Street looking north, looks like a new subdivision, which it probably was. ## Twp. to seek police election for sheriff's services plus a number of other items that push the public safety category, excluding fire department, to $278,000.

 Notebaert faced two tests Tuesday. The first was to gain reconsideration of the vote taken July 10, when the Sept. 11 election was cancelled. If he won that approval, then Notebaert was prepared to ask the board to sanction an election in which a one-mill levy for payment of the sheriff's contract would be the sole issue.

 On the basis of the current equalized valuation of the township, this would raise an immediate $242,000.
 Notebaert said he had explained to several board colleagues that the $972,000 surplus reported in a March 31 audit was misleading. Commitments against the bulging purse include purchase of 33 additional acres to expand Hilltop Golf Course, remodeling of township hall and the Teledyne Building annex next door, a $100,000 balance brought forward to the new charter township budget, and a likely $330,000 deficit.

 He said this would reduce the cash reserve to $64,000 and quoted Ziel as saying, "We should have at least 60 days working capital on hand at all times as good operating management. That means $300,000 in fund balance."

Canton fire rating improves

Canton Township homeowners may save an average of $25 on their fire insurance due to a recent rating by the Insurance Services Office of Michigan (ISO).
 The ISO, after a three-year investigation, recently improved the township's fire-protection rating from class 8 to class 6.
 This information will be made available to insurance companies that use the ISO's services.
 "I advise Canton homeowners to contact their insurance agents to see if their policies are rated properly," said Frank McMurray, a Canton insurance agent. "Most insurance companies do structure their rates according to ISO's information."

 He added that the owner of an average house in the township could save about $20 or $30.
 The improved rating was due to the township's expanded fire-hydrant system and fire department, said Clerk John Flodin.

Notebaert said trustees to whom he had spoken indicated a willingness "to rethink" the election issue, although full attendance of the board Tuesday night appeared unlikely.
 Treasurer Joseph West is vacationing in New England, and Clerk Esther Haining's presence depended upon the prompt arrival of a flight from Duluth where she had attended a governmental conference early in the week.

Safety Town teaches kids

Hundreds of pre-school children from Plymouth and Canton signed up for Safety Town classes at Central Middle School this summer.

The purpose of Safety Town is to teach youngsters how to cross the street safely, how to avoid accidents while riding their bikes, and to understand and obey traffic signals.

According to a Wayne County Sheriff spokesman, the children learn and practice real-life traffic situations before being confronted with a situation on their own. During classes which meet for two hours each day for two weeks, instructors use miniature cars, stop signs, and other road signals to teach and enforce safety habits.

Program instructor is Sergeant John Young from the Wayne County Sheriff Department.

Twp. constable can't use police-like equipment

Plymouth Township Constable Frank Radwick has no right to have his vehicle equipped with the emergency equipment normally identified with a police patrol car, according to opinion handed down this week by Township Attorney Donald C. Morgan.

Radwick has asked the Board of Trustees to appropriate up to $1,000 for vehicular emergency equipment, but Morgan killed it with a memo which stated:

"The Charter Township of Plymouth does not have a police department and consequently it does not have a police vehicle.

"A constable is not a police officer and is not entitled under the statutes to either enforce the Michigan statutes concerning criminal offenses, nor would the constable's vehicle be constituted as a police vehicle.

"Currently, the Charter Township of Plymouth has a contract for police services with the Wayne County Sheriff, who provides his own police vehicles and equipment.

"While a township constable may be requested to assist in the enforcement of ordinance violations by the Board of Trustees, those ordinance violations would relate to such things as the dog ordinance, but according to my recollection have never included the Uniform Traffic Code."

Dearie, do you remember?

PLYMOUTH POLICE OFFICER ROGER BOY

SNIP, SNIP. Hair stylist in Old Village took advantage of the sunny weather Saturday and moved their clipping quarters out onto the streets. Here Ron Kuchler enjoys getting his mop clipped.

Featuring something there for everyone, the Dearie Day festival drew hundreds of shoppers and strollers to Old Village in Plymouth Saturday.

Vendors set up tables of wares on the street. Traffic was blocked on Liberty Street between Mill and Starkweather streets so that bargain-hunters could browse.

Hundreds of items were on sale from antique pots to fresh flowers to homemade pies. The kids were entertained by cake walks, games, and dog cart rides.

Climaxing the day's festivities was the Dearie Day Dance with hot pizza slices to munch on, foamy pitchers of beer to sip, and a band to enjoy. The dance was held at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Bernash, noted gardener

ALLEN BERNASH, (right) 77, of Plymouth, died Monday, July 23. Funeral services will be held on July 26 at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church with The Rev. Fr. Kenneth Mackinnon officiating. Services will begin at 10 a.m. Burial will be at Riverside Cemetery. He is survived by his wife, Marion; daughters, Katherine Nyhus of Plymouth, Martha Witte of New York; sister, Mrs. Sophie Housch of New York City; brother, Joseph Bernash of Kreefeld, West Germany; and, eight grandchildren. Mr. Bernash came to the community in 1929 from Saline and was a well-known gardener in Plymouth. He is pictured with his wife, Marion, and a plant sculpture above at his home on Harvey Street. He was a member of the Plymouth Elks, B.P.O.E. No. 1788, and the Plymouth Historical Society.

Radeff

Elia Radeff, 86, of Plymouth Township, died July 20. Funeral services were held July 23 at Schrader Funeral Home with The Rev. Fr. George Nicoloff officiating. Burial was at Grand Lawn Cemetery.

She is survived by her husband, Cdravka and son, Richard E. of Plymouth Township.

Mrs. Radeff came to the community in 1968 from Detroit. She retired from Detroit Edison in 1958 and was a former resident of the Del Ray community of Detroit.

Notebaert tries 2nd. planning nominee

Plymouth Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert has recommended appointment of Richard T. Craffey to the Township Planning Commission after failing to win approval for his original nominee two weeks ago.

Notebaert's memo to the Board of Trustees

Tuesday night said, "I have talked with him and I think he would be a good addition to the commission. I trust you will agree with me."

The original nomination for the existing planning commission vacancy was for appointment of Joanne Hulce, but the board balked because of conflict of interest possibilities.

Craffey has lived in the township five years, is married, has two children, and is a 1970 graduate of Western Michigan University with a bachelor's degree in business administration.

Currently he is divisional sales manager of the Hardwick Stove Co., and is a member of the Knights of Columbus and Allen School P.T.O. He also has served as vice-president of the Southeastern Plymouth Township Homeowners Association, a position which he says "has given me a good deal of insight into township planning."

Notebaert's recommendation was before the trustees for consideration last night.

State changes law for funding local courts

An appropriation to ease the burden of cities and townships providing a local court system has been approved by the Michigan Legislature.

The bill will greatly increase the amount of state funding for the local portion of judges' salaries, thereby easing the burden on local taxpayers and local units of government, said State Rep. Robert Law of Livonia.

"This legislation will provide an increase of $8,350 per judge in each district court," Law said. "In the 35th District Court in Plymouth, Canton and Northville, the state of Michigan will provide new funds in the amount of $16,700 towards the costs of judges' salaries in that area.

"The state presently pays a substantial portion of the cost of the judicial system at the local level and the increased funding of $16,700 per two-judge court is again another step to help local units of government ease the burden of funding programs," he added.

DANCE, DANCE, DANCE. Ambitious young dancers raised about $700 for the Ann Arbor Burn Center Saturday during a 12-hour dance marathon at the Masters of Arts Dance Studio in Canton. ## Schools hire overseer

To make further recommendations for an upcoming bond proposal, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education approved hiring a construction management firm Monday night.

The firm will be paid 2.8 per cent of construction costs or, if the bond proposal for schools is defeated by voters at the polls, a flat fee of $2,200.

Barton-Malow, the firm under contract, will help validate costs and settle variances between recommendations made by school administrators and the Citizens Bond Advisory Committee, both made earlier in the year. They include: the feasibility of relocating the bus garage and yard currently located on Mill Street; flood control projects at the Centennial Educational Park; and, reduction of glass areas in some schools.

A consulting firm, TMP Associates of Bloomfield Hills, was also contracted to review a possible bond proposal, advise a construction manager about costs, and write a report with guidelines for constructing new buildings and renovations within the school district's budget.

TMP Associates will be paid on an hourly basis, not to exceed $2,500, according to the board resolution.

The resolution passed by a vote of 7-0 with no board members absent.

Golfers lead superstitions poll

BY PATTY RADZIK

*"For when we think fate/
hovers o'er our heads,
Our apprehensions shoot/
beyond all bounds."
Oedipus*

The thought of superstitions usually never enter one's mind until the famed ill-fated day, Friday the 13th. For all except, that is, the mind of an athlete.

Superstitions take three forms: (1) The idea that certain actions will result in bad luck; (2) the performing of a specified ritual which brings about desired results; (3) the belief in omens, by which a definite event, good or bad, will occur.

It is primarily instinct conquering reason. You do something for good luck, cannot offer a reason why you do it, and have no intention of going against it.

Athletes have long been known to imply one, if not several, personal superstitions that in their opinion bring good luck and hush the bad.

Remember the last time you shot a 75 on the golf course? Remember what you wore that day? What you ate or what number balls you used? According to a few area golfers, as well as many men and women on the professional tour, the above factors may have contributed to your success. It's worked for them.

Golfers seem the most superstitious group of athletes and here is a list of their taboos:

Carol Ross, Plymouth: "I never use odd-numbered balls, just twos or fours."

Jane Blalock, LPGA pro: "I won't use No. 2 balls. And if I had a cheese omelet for breakfast at the start of a tournament, I'll finish with it."

Margie Faber, Canton: "If I'm doing well, I'll use the same color tee."

Beth Daniel, LPGA pro: "I carried four dimes in my pocket up until two weeks ago. Then I played bad so I stopped carrying the dimes."

Johannie Lodge, Plymouth: "I'm a fanatic about cleaning my shoes. I'll spend three hours cleaning them."

"I'll wear the same socks if I do well with them once"-Cheryl Sobkow-

Jo Ann Washam, LPGA pro: "During play, I'll wear certain colors on certain days, like blue on Sunday and brown on Saturday. If I wear a pair of shoes one day and play well, then I'll wear them the next day."

PGA pro Tom Watson only uses broken tees on par three holes and always carries three coins in his pocket.

Jerry Bachelder, Canton: "I don't like shadows over my line. I also heard that it's bad luck to eat peanuts on a golf course."

Hollis Stacy, LPGA pro: "I tee up only with my left hand. I used to be superstitious about No. 3 balls until I won the Open with one."

Sandra Palmer, also an LPGA pro, likes to get up three hours before she plays, no matter what time of day it is.

JoAnne Carner, LPGA pro: "I won't use any No. 1 balls. If I use a ball, and it's going good, then I'll keep using it no matter how dirty it gets. Also, I have one outfit I'm about ready to throw away, I never play well with it on."

It is normal among golfers, for good luck, to carry in their bags an old club no longer used. It is also known to be unlucky to approach a tee from the front, clean a ball when the match is going your way and to have starting times at the 13th hour of the day; 1 p.m.

Baseball players are another group of highly superstitious athletes. It is said to be very unlucky for a player to see a cross-eyed woman in the stands before a game, and it's essential for a player to make sure that the fingers of his glove are left on the ground-pointing to his own team's dugout when he's at the plate.

Cheryl Sobkow, Plymouth Salem softball: "I never chew gum when I play, I'll do bad if I do. I'll wear the same socks if I do well with them on once."

Mary Bahr, of both the Salem softball and track teams, talks to herself during a game. It

LPGA PRO JANE Blalock refuses to use number two golf balls because they bring her bad luck. She also eats the same thing for breakfast the last day of a tournament as she did the opening day. These are some of the superstitious professional and area athletes share whether they really work or not.

Soccer leagues still open

Registration for Plymouth and Canton area soccer leagues has opened for the fall seasons. Boys and girls interested in playing on either the Great Lakes Soccer League (GLSL) or the Western Suburban Soccer League (WSSL) should sign up as quickly as possible to assure themselves a position on a team.

Fall registration for the GLSL will be held Saturday from 12 to 4 p.m. in the Canton Township meeting room located next to the fire station on Canton Center Road and Cherry Hill.

The GLSL is open to kids under 8 years old for a pee wee instructional program, with a fee of $8. Boys and girls over 8 years of age will participate in league games in the GLSL for a $12 fee.

A men's division of the GLSL will be opened if enough players 19-years old and above show interest. Proof of age must be presented at the registration site.

The Plymouth Cultural Center will hold registration for the WSSL through Aug. 3 as a branch of the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department. Cost of joining the WSSL is $12 for any boy or girl between the ages of 6 and 19 with a maximum of $30 per family.

The Cultural Center will be open daily Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. for WSSL registration.

Any women in the Plymouth community interested in playing on a soccer league this fall are asked to attend practices during the summer on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at Canton High School.

Women over 19 are eligible for the league. For more information call Rick White at 261-6493 or just show up at one of the practices.

Crier-City tennis deadline 3 days off

Tennis players in the Plymouth-Canton area that haven't sent in their registration forms for The Crier-City of Plymouth Tennis Tournament had better do so before the Friday, July 27 deadline.

Tournament action has been slated to start on Aug. 3 and run through Aug. 5 on the tennis courts at Canton High School. Registration fees are $2 per person for each event and all registrations must be received by the Department of Parks and Recreation no later than 5 p.m. on the Friday deadline. Players will be notified by mail on playing and reporting times.

Obligations for all participants besides the registration fees are to furnish three new U.S.L.T.A. tennis balls and not to enter more than one singles and two doubles categories.

Checks should be made out to the City of Plymouth. Age determination for each of the categories (stated in coupon) is Aug. 3, 1979, so a player having a birthday on Friday of the tournament will play in the same bracket on Saturday and Sunday.

Co-sponsored by the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department and The Crier the tournament has been an annual event for the past six years. Any tennis player in the Plymouth-Canton School District is eligible to compete.

More information on the tournament can be obtained from tournament director Chuck Skene at 455-6620. Tournament play will be supervised by Tom Williams along with a member of The Crier staff.

Remember, if you haven't registered for the tournament by now you only have three days left to get your entry blank and fees in.

Sports displays bring 6500

Some 6500 sports enthusiasts gathered at the Plymouth Hilton Inn this weekend to either participate in or take a look at the 10th annual Midwest Sports Collectors convention.

Coming from all across the country exhibitors displayed all kinds of sports memorabilia including baseball cards, programs, uniforms, magazines, dolls of famous athletes, etc.

The convention started 10 years ago when Lloyd Toerpe started trading baseball cards in his home with some friends. Each year the number of people grew and the small group of friendly card collectors had to find better accommodations than the Toerpe household.

The gathering was moved to the Detroit Hilton where it stayed for 2 years then moved on to the Troy Hilton. This year was the first year the convention has been held in Plymouth and it is a safe bet that it will be back next year.

"The facility here in Plymouth is fantastic," said Toerpe's wife Carol who gets a bigger charge out of meeting all the different people than in collecting. "This is the largest facility we have come across and would love to come back next year if the Hilton will have us."

Collectors wishing to display their goods pay $20 per table that is used. Last year's convention brought well over 10,000 participants and on lookers but the Toerpes have already started taking table reservations for next year's convention.

"Most of the people that came out to see the show were from the Plymouth area which was real great," said Toerpe. "Next year the pre-convention publicity will be taken care of in a better way so more people are aware of the show and the times that it will be held."

Some of the more unusual exhibits on display included the jerseys of five talented Michigan State University basketball team members, baseball cards and the actual pieces of gum that the card was accompanied by (still unchewed), plastic figurines of the more well known baseball players of the 1950's and back issues of Baseball Magazine dating back to 1934.

According to Gary Hoover, a collector from Royal Oak, 80% of sports collectors conventions are filled with baseball artifacts and the rest is divided up between hockey, football and basketball. Golf balls and equipment from the old masters is also very popular and neither is soccer according to Hoover but it is catching on.

Baseball cards were by far the most popular items that lined the rows of tables this year as in the past. Going for anywhere between 10¢ and $500 the backbone of the sport collecting world is enough to keep both the collector and the little leaguer involved in fair trade and the basis of sound investments.

Old programs and yearbooks were the next most cumbersome item on display. Rose Bowl programs going for $12.50, back issues of Pro Magazine for $6 and Tiger yearbooks from $2 and up.

To the collector, anything will be worth more than it was purchased after a little aging. Toerpe must have had this in mind 10 years ago with that first convention in Flint.

Physicals start for CEP athletes

Physical examinations for students participating in the 1979-80 athletic program in the Plymouth-Canton School District will be held today (Wednesday) and tomorrow at Salem High School.

Any student entering grades 7 through 12 that will be competing in any of the school sports during the year are eligible for the physical. Members of the Centennial Educational Park Marching Band are also eligible for physicals.

Boys physicals will be held today starting at 6:30 p.m. and the girls examinations will take place tomorrow at the same time. Students are asked to report to the second floor commons at Salem High School for registration. The cost of a physical is $5.

Canton Elks make mincemeat of Livonia foe

The Canton Elks added another victory to its season record Saturday after smearing Livonia, 10-1.

Playing with fathers of the players as umpires because the assigned umpires failed to show up, the Canton squad jumped to a 4-0 lead after the first three innings of play.

Both teams were scoreless after one inning but Canton managed to get on the board in the second off the inconsistent pitching of Livonia's Tom Kalitta. Two walks and two errors in the Livonia outfield sent Canton's Frank McMurray across the plate.

Canton followed up in the third inning with another three runs making any thought of Livonia catching up highly unlikely. Keith Stone, Bill Hanis and Steve Gray were the Canton base runners to secure the four run lead.

Livonia was left in bewilderment as the Canton squad broke loose with another three runs in the fourth inning.

Canton pitcher Dan Funkhouser gave up four hits and four walks during the seven innings on the mound. Two of the hits (singles) and one walk in the fifth inning made it possible for Livonia to save face and score its only run of the game. Funkhouser sent six would-be hitters back to the dug-out on strike outs.

The Elks put the finishing touches on their 13th win of the season against five losses with another three runs in the sixth inning making any chances of Livonia out of reach.

Canton enters league play-off games leading its division. Play-off games will start Friday at Canton High School and will include Dearborn Heights Crestwood, Detroit PAL, Detroit AABC and Canton Elks. Games will be played at 2 and 5 p.m. on Friday and will start at 9 a.m. on Saturday.

The tournament will follow a double elimination type format. Winners of this Michigan Regional will travel to an eight team world series play-off in Columbus, Ohio.

NON-BASEBALL fans might not realize what's wrong with this picture as fast as followers of the Canton Elks baseball team. The man standing behind the catcher is John Mac, the father of one of the Livonia players. Mac and four Canton parents were recruited to pose as umpires in Saturday's game since the assigned umpires didn't show up.

Brae Burn to host jr. tourney

Brae Burn Golf Course in Plymouth Township will be one of four golf courses to host the first annual Junior Walter Hagen Golf Championship for the Metropolitan Detroit area.

The tournament will be held as a benefit for the Macomb, Oakland and Wayne County units of the American Cancer Society and is open to boys and girls between the ages of 13 and 18.

Tournament action will take place at Brae Burn on Friday, Aug. 10. Age divisions will be broken down to a Masters category for 13-15-year-old boys and girls and a Golden Masters category for boys and girls 16-18 years old. There will be separate divisions of boys and girls in each category.

Age divisions will be established upon the age of the golfer as of Aug. 18, 1979.

A $20 donation to the American Cancer Society is required along with the official entry form available at Brae Burn Golf Course. The entry fee includes bag tag, lunch and refreshments and green fees for the 18-hole round.

The top three golfers in each category will proceed to the Metropolitan Detroit finals. Play will consist of 18 holes under the rules of the United States Golf Association. All ties will be broken by matching cards starting at the first hole.

Golfers participating in the tournament are banned from using power carts or having personal cadies. Competitors must also abide by the rules and regulations set forth by the tournament committee and the Brae Burn Golf Course officials. Players will assume liability for any damages or injuries occurring during the tournament.

Brae Burn is located on Five Mile at Napier Road. For more information on how to get entry blanks or information on the course and the tournament call 453-1900.

Betty's Bench

BY BETTY DeLANO

Magic uniform gets attention

Late Sunday afternoon I managed to find time in my schedule to make a trip out to the Plymouth Hilton Inn to catch a few minutes of the Midwest Sports Collectors convention that had gone on all weekend.

As I walked up to the door two young men that couldn't have been over 10 years old sat on the curb in front of the hotel going through a stack of baseball cards they had just gotten. They were undoubtedly making a few final transactions before going home.

While walking up and down the long aisles I was able to get a good look of some of things that had been on display. Many of the collectors had started to fold up their collections or had already done so but I got a look at collections of everything from traditional baseball cards to autographed baseballs, programs, yearbooks and sports magazines.

I think the one thing that captured my attention the most was a set of uniforms that hung on the wall behind a display of baseball, football and hockey uniforms.

The names on the back of the shirts read Johnson, Kelsner, Vincent, Donnelly and Charles. Surely anyone who is at all familiar with college basketball would recognize these names as the talented line-up of the Michigan State University basketball team which captured the National Collegiate basketball championship this past season.

Gary Hoover is the owner of the popular collection and resides in Royal Oak working as a sales representative for a plastics company out of St. Louis, Missouri when not attending collectors shows.

The Michigan State basketball team will be searching for another NCAA Championship next year in new uniforms so the old ones were auctioned off recently in East Lansing. A friend of Hoover's got the uniform set and then traded to Hoover.

"A friend of mine in Lansing knew that uniforms are my main concern in collecting," said Hoover. "He picked them up and traded them to me for a number of baseball jerseys, baseballs and pieces of advertising."

While talking with Hoover we were interrupted a few times for different reasons. The first was a young man inquiring about the jersey of Ervin "Magic" Johnson.

Hoover's response to the prospective buyer was that he didn't want to break up the set but that he could get each shirt for $150. A small price for a shirt that would have gotten $50 from some fraternity or sorority on the MSU campus.

Our second interruption gave me the chance to see sport collectors at work. Among the uniforms and advertising pieces, Hoover had plastic baseball figures, four in total, to add to his collection.

The prospective buyer in this instance was interested in a baseball uniform that had a $150 price tag. Hoover replied that he would take one of the plastic figurines that the buyer dealt with for the uniform he was eyeing.

The buyers response was that he would have to check it out with his wife because she kept track of what went in and out of the collection. Behind every great collector is an even greater wife taking care of the books.

The fascinating thing behind these statues is that in 1958 they sold at the ballpark for $3 and were often marked down to 98 cents. Today the statues sell for a low of $85 and can be found with price tags up to $500 for the more obscure versions.

I went on with my conversation with Hoover to find out that his rather complete uniform collection included just about every uniform that Lynn Swan has worn including jerseys from southern University of Southern California, the Senior Bowl, the Hula Bowl, the 1976 Pro Bowl and his Pittsburgh Steeler jersey from the 1977 Super Bowl.

Also included in the Hoover collection that got my interest up was the mention of owning the robe and trunks belonging to Mohammed Ali worn in a bout against Joe Bedner in Malasia, the last jersey worn by Joe Namath while playing for the Los Angeles Rams and the last jersey worn by Brian Piccolo.

The show was an overall success but I found myself mostly interested in an item of magic hanging on the wall behind Hoover's display. Hoover attends a minimum of five shows a year throughout the nation and has been at it for eight years. Maybe in another four years his piece of magic will be a piece of gold.

Jr. Olympic results

The Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department held its first annual "Junior Olympics" on Thursday, July 19, at the Canton High School Track. Over 90 participants from all 12 Canton playgrounds took part in various track and field events.

Winners are now eligible to go on to the State Junior Olympic Championships on Thursday, July 26, at Metro Beach Metropolitan, Mt. Clemens, Michigan. Over 3000 kids from all over the state will be represented.

Since this was the First Junior Olympic meet for Canton Township, all records and distances will be new township records until they are broken in future meets.

Salem DiPonio suffers defeat

The Plymouth Salem DiPonio baseball team suffered another loss Thursday, putting its season record to 6-6 in the Connie Jack League. Salem was defeated by South Dearborn Heights, 5-2.

Salem put its only two runs on the board in the second inning off a single by Joe Garcia that knocked in Kevin Merrill and John Ketkowski.

Dearborn managed to get on the board with one run in the fourth inning but the Salem squad saw to it that the home team would enjoy the lead at least until the sixth inning.

After the tying run came in after the end of six innings, Dearborn came to life and put the game away with three runs in the seventh inning.

Water is bad luck omen for Kathy Higgins

is also necessary for her to eat an orange before she runs track.

Kathy Higgins, Canton: "If we're playing a tough game, and it's hot, I won't drink any water, it's bad luck."

If you are a boxer then you know how unlucky it is to be the first fighter in the ring. New shoes are believed to be unlucky in any important bout. But spitting in the palms of your gloves before the fight starts is a sure-fire good luck getter.

Towards the bottom of the list of superstitious athletes is where you'll find tennis players. The only mutual charm the Borg's and Evert's own is the desire to throw away a ball once a fault is served up.

Scott Crespo, Plymouth: "I don't like to carry my rackets around with me before I play, I keep them down. I also like to wear my warm-up jacket until right before I play."

Pro Martina Navratilova insisted on wearing her "lucky" dress in last years Wimbledon final, to insure peace of mind.

Kathy Horton, Plymouth: "I usually don't think about things like that during an actual match. I played and won three matches last Friday the 13th."

When Virginia Wade won the 1977 Wimbledon singles title, she did it with the help on an omen about black cats. She explained it in her book, "Courting Triumph."

"Black cats have always been the only real superstitious omen I believe in. It doesn't matter if they cross the road from the left to right or vice versa, as long as they select me to run in front of. Once I was driving home the night before a match with a player I always lose to, and a black cat ran in front of my car causing me to brake suddenly. I glanced at my watch; it was the stroke of midnight and immediately I knew I would win the match. The next day I beat my opponent in two comfortable sets."

The week of Wimbledon Wade befriended several black cats, and kept close to them as a guard against bad luck.

Athletes of all shapes, sizes and ages are superstitious in one way or another.

Steve Tkacs, 10½, Canton: "I carried a rabbit's foot with me when I bowled. It never brought me luck, but I carried it anyway."

Matt Miller, 10, Canton: "When I bowl on Lane 13 I get lucky. I always wear red and white when I bowl too."

It is good luck for large football players to put their left shoe on first. A girl or boy as a mascot provides a favorable edge for a team.

Jockeys always make sure they keep their boots on a shelf, never the floor, while dressing.

Superstitions applied to horse racing are almost always personal, and virtually everyone who has ever gambled on a horse has employed a so-called hunch when making a selection.

Choices are made in accordance with the number the horse is wearing, or the colors the jockey has on. It is bad luck to pick a horse whose name has been changed, and never wish a horse or its rider good luck before the start of the race.

Hockey great Phil Esposito offers four superstitions of his: "Always wear a turtle-neck under your hockey sweater; it's my trademark. Never sign autographs before a game. Allow no crossed sticks in the dressing room, and always dress right to left."

A superstition shared by joggers is to have a running partner positioned on either the right or left side.

Jimmy Ramsey, 72-year old Detroit: "When I jog with someone, they have to be on the right. And I always run counter-clockwise on a track, the way you're supposed to."

Emily Gail, Detroit: "I have to run on the right side of my running partner, and I always wear a particular headband."

Jeff Pytlowany, Canton (junior high track star): "I never wore socks when I ran. I always did better without them."

There are numerous athletes with hang-ups to match, yet to be uncovered. You may be one of them, and you may not like seven-year-old Cantonite Brant Baughn. "I've never had anything like that in my life," the young karate chopper said.

The next time you step out to exercise, observe your every move closely from the time you get up, until the time you hit the hay. You'll be surprised at what you may discover.

Canton Parks & Rec. plans tennis tourney Aug. 10-12

Local tennis players will be able to show off their overhead smash or lightening fast serve Aug. 10, 11 and 12 in the Canton Open Tennis Tournament.

Sponsored by the Canton Township Department of Parks and Recreation, tournament action will take place on the tennis courts at Canton High School.

Registration fees are $2 for singles and $3 for each doubles team ($1.50 for each member of the team). Fees are payable by check or money order made out to Canton Township or may be brought in to the township administration building located at 1150 S. Canton Center Rd.

The tournament is open to any player in the Plymouth-Canton area. Classifications include juniors (under 18), men, women and mixed doubles. Participants are limited to competing in one singles event and two doubles categories.

For additional information concerning the tournament call Jeff Holderness at 397-1000 ext. 268.
