

School budget decision due June 29

BY DAN BODENE

Although expenditures for Plymouth-Canton schools are projected to exceed revenues by $1.3 million in 1981-82, it will be the lowest such increase in six years, say administrators.

At a public hearing Monday night, assistant superintendent for business Ray Hoedel explained the new budget, saying expenditures are projected to rise 7.8 per cent over the 1980-81 budget. Revenues are projected to rise only 4.6 per cent, he added.

More than half of the cost increases stem from employe salaries and fringe benefits, according to Hoedel. Other increases were noted in interest to be paid on tax notes (see related story), potential unemployment costs, utility rate hikes, rental and operation of Lowell Middle School and grade realignment costs.

The total proposed increase in the 1981-82 operating budget over that of last

4 escape Mettetal plane crash

A Cessna amphibious plane was forced into an emergency landing Friday afternoon in Plymouth Township just after taking off from Mettetal Airport in Canton Township.

The pilot, Stephen Jakobowski, 44, of Lighthouse Point in Florida, his wife Sandra, 36, son, Scott, seven, and daughter Ann Marie, four, had just lifted out of Mettetal and were 150 feet in the air, according to Bill Zielinski of Progressive Helicopter Service out of Mettetal, when he went into a slow right turn as it returning to the airport.

"He was unstable and going quite slow," said Zielinski, who along with brother Frank, owner of Progressive, were among the first people at the scene of the crash. "As he made that turn he went down. I thought he was making for the airport, but he went down behind some buildings. I waited for an explosion but there wasn't any so we rushed over there."

Jakobowski brought his plane down in a field just north of Northland Container, 9070 General Drive, and west of the C&O railroad tracks.

The shock of impact was lessened by the plane's pontoon units attached to the underside of the belly said Jakobowski after the crash. His wife, however, suffered several broken bones upon impact including her arm and nose. Jakobowski was in shock, according to Plymouth Police who arrived on the scene along with Plymouth Township Fire Department units, and had cuts about the face.

The kids were dazed but unhurt. All were taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

When Bill and Frank Zielinski arrived they shut down fuel line and electrical systems of the aircraft to keep it from exploding and attempted to help Jakobowski and his wife, as did Kelly Piccirilli, of the C & O Company and Joseph Booker of Peerless Motor Company. All the passengers had exited the plane when the time rescue units arrived.

Woman trapped in car crash

PLYMOUTH AND PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP Fire Department personnel frantically worked for 30 minutes to extricate Robin Mitchell, 13, of 50286 Seven Mile in Northville from the remains of a car Saturday afternoon on Ann Arbor Road. Mitchell was the passenger in the car driven by her sister Kim, 16, when they attempted to make a left turn onto Colonial Farms Drive just west of the Ann Arbor Road-Ann Arbor Trail intersection. Robin was critically injured, suffering leg, head and internal injuries according to Plymouth Police, and was transported to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. The other car driven by Michael Atkins, 19, 4227 Cadillac, Wayne was east bound on the road as Mitchell made her turn. Atkins and his brother received slight injuries. Salvation Army rezoning postponed for a week

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees will make a final decision on the Salvation Army rezoning efforts for the property at 9151 S. Main in Plymouth Township, this Tuesday (June 30) at the regular board meeting.

That meeting was pushed back a week from June 23.

According to township Clerk Esther Hulsing a decision will be forthcoming from the board, at the 7:30 p.m. meeting at the township offices on Ann Arbor Road and Lilley Road.

The Army has purchased what used to be the Main Street Baptist Church with plans to renovate the existing buildings and construct an addition which would consist of the Army's church facility, and a parking lot.

Local residents along Ball Street in the township have voiced objections to the rezoning, which would turn the property from commercial to office. A church cannot be zoned commercial.

Although the board is expected to approve the rezoning request since the township's planning commission made a recommendation to that effect, the Army will still have to present a site plan for the proposed additions.

Concert-auto show set for park on Thursday

With a central theme of "You've Come A Long Way, Buggy," the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce will kick off its special auto show band concert this Thursday.

Beginning at 8 p.m. in Kellogg Park, the event will feature both horse-powered antique vehicles and their latest counterparts from area car dealers, as well as the band concert.

Carriages, buggies and sleighs will be displayed beginning at 6 p.m., courtesy of Banbury Cross Horse and Carriage Rentals, David Johnson and Carl Holston.

Banbury Cross, a Plymouth business started approximately a year ago, will feature some of the antique-style vehicles available for rental. Johnson, from South Lyons, will provide several buggies in various stages of restoration, while Holston, a Canton resident, will show a 1890 brougham he restored.

Hometown new car dealers will also be on hand to display some of the latest examples of horsepower.

Canton makes decision on reorganization plan

BY DICK BROWN

Canton Township trustees took their first step toward the much discussed township reorganization which has been debated for several months.

At Wednesday night's special meeting the township board voted 4-3 to merge the ordinance department with the building department. Voting in favor of the merger were Supervisor Jim Poole, Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz and Trustees Robert Padgett and Loren Bennett. Opposition to the merger came from Clerk John Flodin and trustees Carol Bodenmiller and Stephen Larson.

The decision came after several hours of debate from board members and the audience, most of whom were township employees.

Under the proposal finally passed the ordinance department would be abolished with one ordinance officer, three-year veteran Fred Baker, and one ordinance secretary, three-year veteran Vivian Ferkovich, transferred to the building department. The move eliminates the position of Bruce Phillips who is currently ordinance department head. He has worked for the township for seven years.

When the vote on the merger was announced there were cries of "recall" from the partisan spectators.

The recommendation to merge the department came from a committee composed of Supervisor Poole, Treasurer Falkiewicz and Clerk Flodin with Flodin in opposition.

Supervisor Poole, citing a savings of $75,000 to $100,000 in consolidating the two departments, pointed out that the money could be used to add more patrolmen.

"The merger would not diminish the effectiveness of township ordinance enforcement," Poole added.

That brought a charge from Trustee Bodenmiller that a majority of the board was seeking to "eliminate the enforcement of township ordinances."

That claim was refuted by Supervisor Poole, who maintained that shifting Baker to the building department and adding enforcement duties to two building department inspectors would actually put three ordinance enforcers on the street instead of the two enforcement officers under the old setup.

Trustee Larson called the move a "giant step backward."

"I can't see anything down the road except decreased services," he said.

There were lots of protests from the audience. One woman charged that "You are getting rid of a visible thing that people can see where their tax dollars are going."

Another said, "I have a lot of neighbors who'd like to know why you are making this kind of a motion."

There were also charges that the board's dismissal of Phillips violates Canton's merit commission ordinance which protects Canton employees from arbitrary dismissal.

Poole replied that the merit system would be notified of the board's action and that Phillips had an opportunity to appeal the decision to the merit commission.

The reorganization move Wednesday night was the first of several recommendations which will come from the committee. Indications are that others will involve the police and fire departments and the public works department.

Surrey Trail loop issue goes on back burner

BY KEN VOYLES

The Surrey Trail issue is dead as far as Plymouth city officials are concerned. That's for the time being anyway.

Since the last city planning commission meeting when area residents voiced their objections to the one-way loop around the city's central business district not a word has been said about the trail at either a city or planning commission meeting.

According to City Manager Henry Graper Jr. there is no urgency in discussing the loop. "The thing we have to do now is make sure where we stand on this if we do decide to implement it," he said Thursday.

Graper added that the issue will probably rise again after the Fall Festival scheduled for the first week of September when more than 150,000 people will invade the city for the four-day event.

Currently the only people looking into the loop are the city's planning consultants from Viljean-Leman. At the May meeting of the planning commission the consultants were directed to make further detailed studies of the project including time tables and costs.

"As far as I'm concerned we're waiting to see the what kind of reaction there is to Forrest Avenue," said Planning Commission Chairman William Leonard.

Forrest Avenue is currently being turned into a one-way mall street, running north to south, with angle parking. It will officially become one-way when a number of wood signs are erected by the city's Department of Public Works. At this time there are one-way signs posted at both ends of the street but not at the driveways of several businesses along the route causing drivers to continue using the two-way pattern and creating confusion.

The angle parking is expected to be ready by the first week of July and the entire project will be completed late this summer according to DPW's Kenneth Vogras.

Originally it had been suggested that the Surrey Trail would be ready for experimentation during the Fall Fest, but citizen reaction and lack of study have stalled the project until later this year or maybe not even until next year.

Street paving plan set

Blanche, Coolidge and Hamilton Streets and Jenner Place in Plymouth will be resurfaced in the next two weeks according to Director Kenneth Vogras of the Department of Public Works.

Blanche, west of the C & O railroad tracks, Coolidge, Hamilton and Jenner Place were supposed to have been done by now, said Vogras, but because of a contractor breakdown the work will instead be carried out during the coming two weeks.

The streets will receive a double-seal resurfacing after being torn up. The seal is an asphalt emulsion with stone-chip on top of it. Cost will be over $8500 said Vogras.

Maple Street will also be paved but not until later in July.

Vogras said the new resurfacing should last 10 to 12 years and will include a gutter and curb for all streets but Maple.

"People have a legitimate complaint about those streets," said Vogras, who added that the roads will only be closed to traffic for a couple of hours during the actual emulsion process.

The cost, he said, would be divided between the machinery needed to pulverize the existing material, the grading process itself and the emulsion.

Scholarship winners

Plymouth Optimists presented scholarships Monday night to Sharon Bill, a Canton high school senior, and Bernadette Krochmal, a Salem senior. The awards were made at a Ladies night meeting, the last Optimist meeting until the club cornroast scheduled for August 22.

Dearie Days festival plans are complete for Old Village fun

It is the tenth celebration of what has become a tradition in Old Village, as the merchants prepare for the annual Dearie Day festival.

Dearie Day is like taking a step back into time. Each business in Old Village rolls back the price of one item to bargain prices for the day.

Old fashioned bargains are not all that is in store for Dearie Day patrons. Entertainment, rides, food antiques, a flea market, arts and crafts and much more is in store for July 18.

The 10th annual Dearie Day in Old Village promises fun for everyone. Among the many attractions will be a mustache contest. Prizes will be awarded for the biggest, best and the funniest mustache. There will also be an old-fashioned dress contest and an old-fashioned bathing suit contest.

Old Village has grown in the past 10 years and now it has a membership of over 50 businesses. All funds netted from Dearie Day go to the beautification of the Old Village area.

Governor Milliken taps Plymouth resident for state council post

Elizabeth A. Blackman, 768 Virginia, Plymouth, has been appointed by Governor William Milliken to the Michigan Youth Employment Council. The appointment was for the remainder of a term which will expire October 10, 1981.

Mrs. Blackman is associate program coordinator for Growth Works in Plymouth, a youth employment program.

She succeeds Henry L. McClendon of Detroit as a youth representative.

Friendly crossing guard honored

APPRECIATED—Children who live west of Sheldon Road who walk to Smith Elementary School and cross Sheldon at Hartsough think they have the best crossing guard in the Plymouth-Canton school system and so do their parents. Robert Wideman, crossing guard pictured in action above on the last day of school, was honored Monday morning when children and mothers gathered at the crossing and presented Wideman with a bronze plaque, a large geranium and thank you cards. Principal George Dodson was also on hand to show his appreciation. All called attention to his dependability, cheerfulness and excellent service. (Crier photo by Dick Brown)

Plymouth BPW establishes new scholarship program

The Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club has initiated a new scholarship program this year which will provide assistance to women who wish to further their education.

The club is seeking applications from women in the Plymouth-Canton area seeking to advance in their careers or seeking new career goals. Scholarship funds will be allocated in varying amounts as required by the recipients for tuition, textbooks, transportation, child care and other areas of financial need.

Applicants must qualify as a displaced homemaker, part-time homemaker and wage earner or single head of household. She should lack job skills needed to provide adequate support for herself and any dependents living at home, and lack adequate full-time work experience. She must not be receiving other educational assistance funds, although this requirement may be waived.

Requests for application should be made in writing to "Returning Careerist Program," Plymouth BPW, 747 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth. Application forms are available from June 22 through July 22. Further information can be obtained by calling 453-8373 after 4 p.m.

The confidential applications will be reviewed by the scholarship committee. Potential recipients will be notified after July 22 and personal interviews will be arranged with the committee before final selection.

In the past the Plymouth BPW operated an academic scholarship program for deserving high school seniors. Last spring the club offered two $1,000 and two $500 scholarships.

This year, in addition to implementing the returning careerist program, the club gave financial assistance to last year's two top recipients. One is now a junior at Michigan State University and the other graduated from Western Michigan University.

The scholarship program is supported by such fund raising activities as the Fall Festival cookie sale which netted $1,500 last year, the Fall Fashion Show which netted $2,000 and the club bazaar.

For July Fourth celebration

John Howe to lead Jaycee parade

Plymouth Jaycees named John W. Howe, principal of Starkweather Elementary School, as the parade marshal for the annual Jaycee Fourth of July parade.

The honor was bestowed on Howe because of his active interest in the community. Besides being active in the Old Village organizations, he has many other accomplishments as a Plymouth booster to his credit.

Jaycees selected Howe as parade marshal because his community involvement typifies this year's parade. The Fourth of July parade will feature bands, marching units, antique cars, adult floats and youth floats.

There will be prizes for the children's bicycle decoration contest which will be held in the parking lot of the Kroger Supermarket prior to the parade.

Entry forms for this year's parade can be obtained from Plymouth City Hall, Plymouth Dunning-Hough Library, The First National Bank of Plymouth and the Plymouth Detroit-Edison Customer Office.

Entry forms can also be obtained by writing Doug Polkinghorne, Parade Chairman, 698 Shana Drive, Canton.

This year's parade is an afternoon event. It is slated to start at 1 p.m. on Saturday, July 4. The parade will form at the Plymouth Cultural Center, starting at 11:30 a.m.

Plans are underway for a fireworks display in the evening on July Fourth at Massey softball field at corner of Haggerty and Plymouth Roads.

The Jaycees have budgeted $5,000 for the parade and the fireworks show. Those wishing to make donations can send them to the Plymouth Jaycees, P.O. Box 279, Plymouth.

Canton taxpayers deserve trash overpayment answers

Sizeable overpayments by Canton Township for its garbage and trash collection over the past years leave too many questions unanswered.

Some of those questions may be answered. On Monday Supervisor Jim Poole reported that he had asked the township attorney to aggressively pursue with court action the recovery of the large overpayment.

While the difference between the number of homes used as a basis to pay contractors and the actual number of homes to be served can be blamed on error, the amount of overpayment resulting cannot and should not be easily dismissed.

Some say that Canton can't recover the excess amounts paid. It would seem that if that is indeed the case, the legal work on the township trash hauling contract wasn't up to snuff. And considering that two of the former township supervisors, Bob Greenstein and Noel Culbert, ran on the basis of their expert knowledge of the law, that seems questionable.

But why didn't others at township hall see the discrepancy long before it was discovered?

To answer that question, the township should seek an independent investigation of the matter by someone such as the Michigan State Police or a grand jury.

If the overpayments—amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars—prove to be just an error, then the innocence of those involved is then underscored.

Without such an impartial investigation, Canton Township Hall remains under a cloud of suspicion.

The present township board should take whatever steps are necessary to bring fresh air to this garbage situation and aggressively attempt to use all the legal means available to recover the large amount of money involved.

Canton Township taxpayers deserve such a course of action.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Let's knock those weeds down

Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township are known for their residents who take great pride in their residential areas.

Unfortunately that pride obviously doesn't belong to 100 percent of the homeowners. That fact crops up this time every year as complaints pile up about untended lawns and tall weed growth.

Local government has ordinances which, when enforced, take care of the troublesome problem, but under usual circumstances, there is a time lag in seeing that those ordinances are enforced. In these days when local governments are fighting the battle with limited finances and understaffed crews it is even more difficult.

Those few property owners who are letting their yards go and letting the weeds take over should show more consideration for their neighbors and the community.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Basically
by Ken Voyles

In years past one of the major issues in the Plymouth City Commissioner races has been the relationship between the city administrative team and the policy making commissioners.

Fred Yockey, as an example, alienated many people by his secrecy and his attempts to formulate policy, which is the natural function of the commissioners and not administrators.

Since Yockey's time the distrustful relation between the day-to-day operating team and the makers of policy has disappeared and the two bodies have come closer together.

The current commission has set the trend for a good working relationship with City Manager Henry Graper Jr.'s departmental teams.

Commissioners have come, also, to represent the whole of the community and not just factions such as residential interests or industrial interests, which in times past threatened the objectivity of the city politicians.

Keeping that objectivity and also being able to understand the ideas behind making policy (an abstract and difficult task) makes it very important that commissioners keep up with their homework on all the issues of policy making and are able to learn the meaning of compromise.

This year's race has openings for four city residents. Three incumbents are running to keep their seats, and although it's too early to say with certainty, this year's race might turn out to be a matter of personalities and qualifications more than specific issues.

There are, however, several issues that might crop up during the next five months.

One of those is the so called Surrey Trail Loop. A brain child from the 1950s, it has been said that the loop has been around the community longer than Tonquish Creek. One wonders if it wasn't thought up just to keep the city's planning consultants busy.

Another issue is whether a candidate does, or has in the past, shown that he or she is a representative of the entire community. If a candidate comes forth saying he or she is for a particular faction, watch that person closely.

Lately the commissioners have been approving the use of taxpayer's monies to support special non-profit organizations such as First Step and Plymouth ReACT. The commissioners have voiced concerns over having to annually contribute to such groups once they have committed themselves one time.

There is a way to avoid that worry and that's to avoid contributing to such organizations. Donations to the Plymouth Jaycees for the July 4th parade or to other local groups for events or causes that directly benefit the city have merit.

Donations to special interests wastes taxpayer money and threatens to snowball beyond the commissioners' control.

It takes a lot of dragging and hauling to force some people into accepting change. That thought crossed my mind as I tried to figure out the onrushing metric system after loading up the family bus at a metric gas pump.

I have been battling the metric system since way back in the '30s when a physics teacher at Mason High School dragged me through a unit on the metric system. His chore was so tough that he gave up classroom teaching shortly after his failure with me and became high school principal in Plymouth. Cy Pierce wouldn't have been surprised to see me trying to figure out how many litres of gas I was getting per mile last week.

As a historical footnote, my old high school physics teacher, now no longer with us, brought along a son when he switched to Plymouth. Around here he is known as Malcolm Pierce, Bird Elementary fifth grade teacher of long standing. Back home in Mason he was called Mac sometimes and "Six Toes" Pierce most of the time. The nickname obviously stemmed from the fact that Mother Nature had given him six toes on one foot to stuff into a shoe designed for five.

Mac Pierce is known back in his old home town of Mason as a man of courage. A product of the University of Michigan, he showed up in Mason several times a year, always just before a UofM-MSU athletic confrontation of one kind or another. His favorite stopping place is a Mason clothing store where all MSU perennial sophomores gather. On a few occasions it takes a police escort to get him safely out of town after a session of his needling and badgering of MSU supporters.

T-shirt philosophy is in vogue these days. While killing time at a mall recently waiting for the other half of the shopping team to show up, I established a position next to one of those T-shirt booths and whiled away some time reading the messages. There's more humor in T-shirts than there is on television these days. Try some of these:

"I'm still pure." Then in smaller print were the words, "This is an old T-shirt."

Another said, "Don't look, ladies. I'm a flasher."

I get a big kick out of reading get well cards, too. Here are a few gleaned from a display at a Plymouth drug store.

"I talked to your doctor and frankly, he's very upset. You've got to stop asking him to kiss it and make it better."

Then there's the one that said, "Take that thermometer out of your mouth. You don't know where it has been."

Still another card had a picture of a patient in bed with the admonition written underneath, "Relax and leave to the skilled care of the medical profession the decisions of what to do." And inside there's a picture of a doctor flipping a coin.

Air Force cadet urges school athletics backing

I am a former athlete from the Plymouth-Canton Community. I noticed an article in The Crier about athletics and I just had to reply.

I understand very well the importance of an education. It is a priceless opportunity and a base for one to improve himself, but there is more to education than just textbooks. Athletics offer many lessons within them, such as self-control, good sportsmanship, determination and coordination, all of which are impossible to gain through a textbook. Not to mention that a healthy mind requires a healthy body.

Yes, there are large sums of money spent on practice uniforms, but it would be wrong to sponsor a team and not give them the proper equipment.

And coaches' salaries are "bare bones" to athletics? What is one proposing by saying this? Coaches shouldn't be paid? A coach devotes about four hours a day after school for practices, not including rules meetings, which can take weeks, and scheduling competition.

The time coaches devote to the boys and girls is to help the kids; it's not helping the coaches by putting time in away from wives and children. The amount of time and effort coaches put in is worth far more than what they receive.

Furthermore, athletics help quite a few people through school with scholarships.

So athletics are contributing to advancement in education. Athletic teams attract many kids who would have dropped out of school if it were not for the sport they played.

An "enhanced schoolday program" would eliminate specializing in one sport, good competition, and the chance for some to go to college.

No, I'm not saying athletics are more important than academics. I am saying both are essential for a good education, and it takes money to run them. If we, as taxpayers, want good programs we are going to have to pay for them. I agree the education department needs more money, but it shouldn't come from the athletic department.

We should search other places than the school systems to cut back. If need be, we should take our voices to our elected officials and tell them we want more tax money put into schools.

MESC discrimination cited against part-time employees

EDITOR:

This letter is written as a protest of discrimination against "part-time" workers as a whole.

In my particular situation, I was employed at a pre-school in the Plymouth area as a teaching aide for the past five years.

The staff of this school is made up of part-time workers working only half-day shifts, for a nine-month period, mostly, as was I. With a decreasing enrollment due to Michigan's economic slump and increased operating expenses, my employer found it necessary to make a lay-off. With no organization to determine seniority and knowing that most of the other employees depended on their full wages, I took the lay-off (someone had to go.)

I felt I could withstand the cut in income, assured that I would receive some unemployment benefits, at least until I was recalled or found another position.

I was laid off on March 6 and made application to MESC on March 11. My application was accepted and I received two checks on my subsequent reporting dates. On my third report date I was told my application was being reviewed, also that I might be required to repay any amounts previously received, all of which was very distressing.

On my fourth report date I was issued notice my application was denied because the corrected information received from the employer gave me only eight credit weeks at $67.

It is my understanding a worker needs 18 weeks averaging $67 or more of the most recent 35 weeks of such earnings for the 52-week period prior to the layoff.

It is my understanding that as of March 1, 1981, the qualifying wage went from $25 per week to $67, a rather substantial increase. It would seem that this amount is based on a part-time person working a four-hour, five-day week at minimum wage.

I don't feel the procedure of qualifying for unemployment benefits is fair in this type of employment.

As to the discrimination protest, in the process of all of the above, when I questioned an MESC worker she stated, "We are trying to eliminate the part-time worker. They are just getting out of the house rather than working for needed earnings."

She further said, "On the other hand we are able to make raises on the other end."

First of all, most part-time workers aren't "just getting out of the house." Many need the wages. There can be many reasons a person takes this kind of a schedule and pay (minimal time away from family, health, all that is offered in their work interest, etc.)

Seldom do they come for MESC benefits. At the "other end" they (automotive workers, steel workers, etc.) come en masse and repeatedly. Is it fair to eliminate the part-time worker and automatically raise the "other end?"

To me this is direct discrimination against part-time workers. They are a necessary work force in our economy. There are many small businesses which function mainly on hiring part-time workers. They are not able to pay the higher wages or fringe benefits of full-time help. These employers have been required to pay into the MESC fund, expecting to create benefits in behalf of their part-time workers.

Let's make America great again

EDITOR:

Let's make America great again!

That is the theme of this year's Plymouth Jaycee 4th of July parade. I think it appropriate that we pause now and reflect on the importance of our parade theme.

Our country is over 200 years old, America's history is one of unmatched achievement. Our free enterprise system has brought this country the highest standard of living known to man.

Presently, we face some serious problems: inflation, declining productivity, unemployment and energy shortages. To a good degree, we in the Detroit area feel the impact of these problems more than the rest of the country.

When we say "Let's make America great again," we address the fact that our country is in troubled times. But in addition to that, we are also addressing our own responsibility, as Americans to help bring about positive change for our country. We all know what our rights are, but we seem to have forgotten our responsibility.

We the people, can have the kind of country we want. America needs to be born again. It will not come about from Washington, but must begin with you and me.

I think it is important that we reject any "dark views" that we may have about the future of this country. Let us share a sense of optimism toward America's future. This nation and its people have the resources and the determination to overcome our present problems—and to make the coming years more fulfilling, more prosperous.

We should all remember, and take great pride in the fact that this country has stood up and faced serious problems before. Our forefathers overcame enormous difficulties in conquering the wilderness, developing industrial capacity that made us the world's economic leader and maintaining a political freedom unique in all the world.

Let's be proud of our country...Let's be active, responsible citizens... "Let's make America great again!"

Stopped by the long arm of the law...

State troopers aren't being mean-- their job is to help and protect

BY DAN BODENE

"Everybody act normal! There's a cop behind us!"

That, says Trooper Bob Garcia, is one way of broadcasting to police that everything isn't normal.

Garcia is a State Police trooper based at the Northville Post, and along with his patrol duties he often talks to school classes throughout the Plymouth-Canton district.

He tells students how State Troopers are trained, what they do, how they do it, and something else he says is very important - police are human beings whose job is the safety of other human beings.

Most of us have a creeping paranoia about police, possibly because the only personal contact we have with them usually has to do with something unpleasant.

The fact is, says Garcia, "We strive to have every person coming away feeling they were treated well."

The process of earning a State Police badge isn't an easy one, Garcia tells students. Training at the academy in East Lansing is structured like Marine boot camp - there is a deliberately high degree of stress put on each recruit. As a result, there is a 50 per cent dropout rate in training classes.

It's all for a purpose, says Garcia. "Troopers have to be able to function under pressure, and make the right decisions," he explains. "At an accident, let's say, would you want a police officer who wasn't sure what to do? You have to find these things out in training, which, by the way, is the same for women."

An important part of training is learning how to spot a potentially illegal situation, Garcia tells students. "When we turn on our lights and you jump around in the car, we see that," he says. In other words, when people try hardest to "act normal" they often give the opposite impression to police.

Which leads to "reasonable cause."

Answering questions from students, Garcia is most often asked what leads troopers to pull cars over.

Garcia says it is reasonable cause, which allows troopers to investigate as a result of tipoffs from seeing, hearing or smelling something which doesn't seem right.

After an identification check, troopers may search a car if they have reasonable cause. The best thing to do is to cooperate, Garcia advises.

If students are caught in an illegal situation, which, he says, often involves open liquor in the car, troopers have three alternatives. They can make the occupants pour out the liquor, or make an arrest on either a misdemeanor or civil charge, which will not result in a police record.

"Our main goal is to get you home that night safely," Garcia says. "Our duty is to apply the law in the way we feel will do the most good."

Other questions most often asked by students include those dealing with searches, and radar.

Troopers can routinely make a "light pat-down" body search for weapons, Garcia says. If an arrest is made, a "custodial search" is also conducted at the State Police Post.

Troopers are certified for operating radar, Garcia explains, and have a specific process in using it to satisfy court requirements. Contrary to rumor, he adds, radar used by State Police is very accurate.

"If you are constantly being pulled over for speeding, my advice is get your speedometer checked," he says.

Garcia says he enjoys talking to classes, although he knows that he will often see students again under less enjoyable circumstances. The prospect of dealing with kids on the other side of the law sometimes disturbs him and his fellow troopers, he confides.

"It's hard sometimes not to be cynical as a police officer," he admits.

Winning a million dollars is top on the list in most people's dreams. If you're going to dream, you might as well think big. However most of us have a realistic list of things we would like to have someday.

A 35 mm camera has been on my want list for a long time. I was so excited when I recently received one as a gift. "Wow, how did you know it is just what I've been wanting?" (Actually how could he help but know when I've mentioned a camera at least three times a week for the past four years.)

My camera is a little different from others I've used in the past, so I was having some difficulty trying to figure out how it worked. Of course I didn't read the instruction book that came with it -- who has time and patience to sit and read a bunch of dumb instructions?

When all else failed, I gave in to the instructions. It's hard to tell the right side from the left side from the inside of a camera when you're looking at all the little diagrams. I was following directions and really starting to make progress when I opened a sheet of paper that was stuck in with the instructions. There I sat not knowing whether to laugh or cry -- it was written in Japanese (I think).

I'll be the first to admit that most instructions written in English look like a foreign language to me, but this is pushing things too far. Since the camera was made in Japan, maybe this was someone's way of playing a joke on an unsuspecting American, or for all I know it could be an obscene letter. Whatever this piece of information is, it isn't something that will help me keep my sanity while figuring out how to operate the camera.

Now that I've learned what all the buttons and knobs are for, hopefully I'll be able to focus and have sharp, clear pictures (anything to keep the photo editor happy).

Bob Marvin, Ken Green, Eric Stop, and Dan Somodi are members of a four man band from Livonia. The group, "Fury" played at the Plymouth Center for Human Development last week-end.

Plymouth Heritage Week to set up at shopping malls

"Plymouth Heritage Week" will be celebrated in two local shopping malls from June 29 to July 5, in hopes the event will become an annual one in the community.

Largely the brainchild of Mike Ball and Barbara Saunders, the event came about as a result of "people in the community who didn't know about the (Plymouth Historical) Museum, or had never been in it," said Ball. "We are trying to correct that, and make people in the area aware."

Saunders, director of the museum, put together a series of displays which will be exhibited in Forest Place and Westchester Square. Ball coordinated the event as a representative of the malls' merchant associations.

In addition, "hands on" displays will be located in several stores, featuring antique wares and traditional technique demonstrations.

"We want to make it an annual thing," says Ball, "maybe tying it in to Michigan Week next year."

Forest Place and Westchester Square will be open Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., on Friday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Blood donors needed

The American Red Cross is asking that area residents celebrate the Fourth of July by taking time out from the usual holiday routine to drop in at the Livonia Blood Donor Center at Belle Creek Office Plaza, 29691 W. Six Mile Rd., to donate a pint of blood.

Canton edges closer to farm preservation plan

BY DICK BROWN

Canton Township inched a little closer toward the goal of preserving the township's farmland recently when the township's Farmland Retention Committee presented the township board with one option to pursue.

Canton township has been seeking ways to preserve encroachment by residential, business and industrial development on the rich farmlands in the township west of Canton Center Road, an estimated 5,000 acres.

The Farmland Retention Committee was formed to study the problem and present the board with some possible alternatives.

The latest one presented involves the purchase by the township of development rights (PDR) on the farmland.

Under the proposed plan land ownership would be split into two components, land ownership and development rights ownership.

Operation of the plan would be based on the purchase of development rights to the farmland. The property owner would not be able to use the land for non-farm or non-approved uses.

Funding for such a program to be used for the purchase of PDR by the township could come from local millage, public donation of development rights or money for development rights, a foundation empowered to raise money and make purchases in own name, general fund resources or any combination of methods.

The Farmland Preservation Committee report suggested that facts to consider in setting priorities for farmland acquisition should be farmland closest to development and land most vulnerable to development pressure, thus creating a buffer zone.

In establishing PDR priorities value of farmland should be considered as to potential yield, tiling and soil type. Another priority factor would be whether the land was owned by township residents or investors and speculators.

Establishing values of proposed purchases could be done by appraisers hired by the township, appraisers hired by the landowner, or both.

The plan calls for the township to make the first offer to owners of highest priority land or the township to solicit bids from farmland owners, either township-wide or owners of priority land or in priority zones.

Such a program, according to the report, would permanently protect land as farmland, regardless of who holds title to the land. In return the landowner would be compensated for the development rights.

Another advantage to the landowner would be that the land, with the development rights gone, would be taxed at use value.

Advantages to the township would be the avoidance of costly extension of utilities and other public services into new development areas and a chance for the township to maintain integrity in zoning.

The committee report cited some of the disadvantages of the PDR plan. Listed were high initial costs, subject to court challenges if made into a mandatory program and unknown personnel needs to establish and operate the program.

The method, according to the report, is also new and untested.

The committee listed localities which are currently using such a PDR program as Suffolk County, New York; King County, Washington; and Southampton, New York.

The committee also offered some variations on the PDR plan.

Under the plan for farmland preservation set up by the Canton trustees, the board will study options presented by the committee. After all the options are presented the board, if it makes a selection of one of the methods, would then be thoroughly researched.

The Farmland Preservation Committee was established in January. The timetable calls for the committee to present a final recommendation to the board by August.

Board members have indicated that once a course of action is determined, the selected method would be placed before the voters.

Saving farmland has been a concern of the Canton Township boards for the past few years.

In November of 1978 Canton voters rejected a millage proposal which would have assessed up to four mills to be used to purchase farmland developmental rights. At that time the proposal would have raised $16 million.

School budget changes set for final approval

year amounts to approximately $2.8 million.

Many types of revenue, on the other hand, will shrink in the upcoming school year. Interest on investments will decrease by $346,000, and "other local revenues" will decrease by $57,000. State and federal aid will also decrease, by a total of $2,599,000.

However, revenues from taxes increased by $4,871,000.

Much of the budget deficit will be made up by using part of the anticipated $2 million fund balance carried over from the 1980-81 budget, Hoedel said. Last week, Superintendent John Hoben cautioned against using too much of the fund balance, which is held in reserve and may be used for emergency expenditures.

Of every dollar spent in the district, Hoedel explained, 68.9 cents are used for instruction, 15.2 cents are used for operation, 4.9 cents are used for transportation, 3.2 cents are used for special projects and the rest is used in other areas.

By law, school budgets must be approved by July 1 each year. At a special meeting on June 29, Plymouth-Canton board members are expected to approve the 1981-82 budget. Hoedel added that copies of the proposed budget will be available Friday.

2 Plymouth brothers are Military Academy cadets

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

Jeanne and Smith Horton of Plymouth will have two sons at West Point this fall.

Steven will be a senior, or firstie as they call them at the academy, and Paul, who graduated from Salem this year will be a plebe, or freshman.

"It's kind of unique," said Smith, "there have been brothers at West Point, but they were not necessarily there at the same time."

Steven, the older son, was originally contacted by West Point, according to his father. Academy recruits saw Steve play basketball and approached him. He had to receive a congressional nomination, and pass the extensive exams, like all cadets, according to his father.

About one and a half years ago, the Hortons' second son, Paul, decided he wanted to attend West Point. Paul graduated from Salem this year, sought and received a congressional nomination and appointment to West Point.

"We're quite proud of them," said Smith. "It's quite an accomplishment just to get nominated. It takes high scores and a good performance generally to be accepted."

The Hortons don't believe Paul will have any problems adjusting to West Point, because "he really knows what to expect," said Jeanne. The family received weekly phone calls from Steve describing "step by step what he does. Paul is hot to go," she said. Paul has visited the academy on several occasions, and this spring he sat in on some classes.

Emphasis is on academics at West Point during the academic year, according to the Hortons. Classes are small, large classes have 15 students according to Smith, "and the training is extensive."

During the summer, cadets spend six weeks on military maneuvers and procedures.

West Point cadets carry 22 credit hours a term, says Jeanne, and they receive no credit for athletics. It is all academic. "Steve has been on the deans list since he's been there," she said.

Jeanne is the president of the West Point Parents Club of Michigan. The parents club of Michigan is a support and information group for parents of cadets.

"I'm glad to have the appointment," said Paul. He chose West Point because "you can't beat the educational opportunities plus West Point is big on leadership training."

Paul plans to play basketball at West Point. He was center for the Rocks, and co-captain of the team.

Canton initiates program to cap open basements

The slump in the Canton home construction business has created a safety problem which Canton Township Supervisor Jim Poole is pushing to remove.

Poole sent out letters last week to nine home builders who stopped construction but left open basements and excavations.

It's those holes in the ground which are providing the unsafe conditions. Many of them have filled with water. There is a report that one dog has drowned and that the water-filled basements are a threat to children.

In his letter to the builders, Poole asked that they either cap the basements or fill them in and also requested that builders board up windows and doors of all unfinished houses.

There is a great number of potentially dangerous situations, according to Poole. He said his count showed 32 open basements and nine unfinished houses in subdivisions all over the township.

According to a building department report there are eight open basements in Salem Manor, four in Forest Trails, three in Mayfair Village, two in Sunflower Village, seven in Hampton Court West, three in Franklin Palmer Estates and four in Pickwick Village.

Unfinished homes that need attention included one in Salem Manor, four in Hampton Court West and four in Greenbrook Village.

Plymouth rock saloon is charged with 2 violations

The Plymouth Rock Saloon, 8825 General Drive in Plymouth Township was the scene of a pair of alleged Liquor Control Commission (LCC) violations last week, according to Plymouth Police reports.

While on routine bar check police stopped at the saloon to make an after hours check at 2:45 a.m. Wednesday. There were several subjects still drinking including Corinne L. Palmer, 40, 8445 Lilley in Canton. Police instructed everyone to leave the premises but Palmer began to shout and defy the officers, according to the report, and refused to leave.

She was warned by officers again but continued to yell. She was then arrested and it was later revealed she had a warrant for her arrest issued by the 35th District Court in Canton for previously contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

On Friday, at 12:57 a.m. police returned to the scene and officers observed three minors in possession of alcoholic beverages. The bar was cited for an LCC violation.

According to Inspector Carl Berry of Plymouth Police two of the persons drinking in the bar, Connie Brown, 20, and Steve Wood, 20, are part time Plymouth police dispatchers.

The establishment was cited on both occasions for allegedly serving minors. The LCC will handle any charges that are brought against the saloon.

Canton firemen busy

Canton township firemen had a busy May with 116 emergency runs with the EMT vehicles and 55 fire runs.

Of the emergency runs 23 were cases involving car crashes.

The fire runs included 3 to single family dwellings, two apartment blazes, three mobile home fires and 6 car fires. There were also five dumpster fires, nine grass fires, one commercial fire run and one trash fire.

4 escape serious Mettetal plane crash injuries

Jakobowski repeatedly attempted to return to his craft after the police arrived. According to Plymouth Inspector Carl Berry, Jakobowski indicated he had been in crashes before and that items in the plane tend to turn up missing and he wanted to retrieve some radio equipment in the cabin.

"He was also in a state of shock at the time," said Berry.

Federal Aviation Administration investigators arrived shortly thereafter but have been unable to determine the direct malfunction, according to Vince Scarpuzza and Ben Rowland of the FAA's Willow Run unit.

The Plymouth Burroughs plant and the Wayne Burroughs plant are completing consolidation plans this month after announcing the layoffs of 245 members of its operational team.

That figure is combined for both plants and the layoffs were effective June 12, according to Neil Jackson, director of public relations for the corporation.

He added that there are no further layoffs expected in the near future, but added that it's too difficult to say whether more layoffs will be called for.

Canton library initiates summer children's series

Monday, Tuesdays and Thursdays will be just for kids at the Canton Public Library this summer as the facility reintroduces its storytime series for toddler and preschool children.

The Toddler Storytimes will be held Mondays at 10:30 a.m. beginning July 6 and is open to two-year-olds and an accompanying adult.

The four-week program has limited capacity so the program will be open to only those who have not participated in any prior Toddler Storytimes.

Registration will be June 24 at 7 p.m. in the library. Children must be two years by the registration date and not turn three during the summer program.

The Summer Preschool Storytime will help introduce children to books, stories, puppets and fingerplays.

The six-week program will be held for three, four and five year olds who can sit attentively for 30 minutes without parental attendance.

Storytimes will be held on Tuesdays at 1 p.m. and on Thursdays at 11 a.m. The Tuesday sessions will begin July 7 and the Thursday sessions July 9.

Registration is 7 p.m. on June 24 at the library. For further information call 397-0909.

Canton gets cash for state mailing of tax affidavits

The big question over whether local units of government would be reimbursed for the controversial homestead property affidavit mandated by the state prior to the unsuccessful state Proposition A defeat last month has been erased for Canton township.

Canton Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz reported last week that Canton had received a check for $4,085.40 to cover Canton's cost of the mailing. She also reported that Canton had received reimbursement from the state for the presidential primary of 1980.

Escapee nabbed in Plymouth

A WAYNE COUNTY Sheriff's Deputy brings Glenn DeJarnett, an escapee from the Detroit House of Correction, out from a wooded area along the C&O railroad yard in northern Plymouth early Saturday morning. He was originally spotted by C&O employees. Plymouth officer Bob Henry (back to camera) was among the Plymouth force called in to help surround the escapee when he ran into the wooded hideout. Sheriff's Deputies were also called in and DeJarnett was then captured. (Crier photo by Robert Cameron)

Plymouth businesses are hit with night-time robberies

The Plymouth Produce Market at the corner of Main Street and Ann Arbor Road and the Bee Jays Kitchen at 628 S. Main were the scenes of a pair of breaking and entering incidents last Tuesday night.

At the newly opened market, an unknown number of persons broke a pair of windows to the building and gained entry through an east-facing front window. The only item taken, according to the Plymouth Police report, was an undetermined amount of coins from a retarded children's fund container.

Bee Jays was entered when a west facing window in the rear of the pizza store was smashed.

The thieves then entered a freezer and removed $405.41. Nothing else was disturbed.

Rash of daylight
B & Es hits
Plymouth Twp.

There have been a rash of daylight breaking and enterings in western Plymouth Township said Plymouth Police Thursday.

The operators, according to Lieut. Dan Carpenter have been hitting homes along Napier, Ridge and Beck roads in the daytime.

They don't spend a lot of time in a home, he said, and they look mainly for gold, silver and money. "The areas they have been hitting inside the homes are the place where silverware is kept and the bedrooms," he said. "They can quickly tear apart a bedroom."

Last week, for example, there were a pair of B & Es, one on Ridge Road and the other less than two hours later on Five Mile. According to Carpenter, Northville Township also had a B & E call near the time of the two Plymouth calls.

"These things are spotty. We could have a couple or three in a week and then go a week without any," said Carpenter. "We just want people to be on the lookout for suspicious vehicles moving through their streets. They should look for color, make, model and license plate numbers and should pass the information on to us."

15-member commissioner board finally approved

County charter is completed

BY DICK BROWN

After months of haggling and acrimony, the final draft of the proposed new Wayne County home rule charter was approved last Tuesday and sent on its way to Governor William Milliken and Attorney General Frank Kelley. If the proposed charter is approved by the state then it will be presented to the voters of Wayne county, possibly in November, for approval.

In assessing the work of the charter commission, Charter Commission President George Ward said, "The charter will offer tighter budget controls and regulation of county spending, stronger executive management in the form of either an appointed or elected Chief Executive Officer (CEO), and a system of legislative and administrative checks and balances that will provide better organized, better coordinated county government."

The final and what proved to be the biggest stumbling block for the elected charter commissioners was the size of the board of commissioners written into the new charter.

In the last week of meetings the 27-member concept favored by Detroit commissioners and the 15-member concept pushed by out-county charter commissioners brought on parliamentary jockeying, charges of racism and a walk-out by Detroit members.

After all the fireworks, the 15-member board of county commissioners was written into the document by a 17-2 vote with seven abstentions recorded in the final tally.

When voters get their crack at approving the charter they will have one set of alternatives, plus the actual charter approval facing them in the voting booth.

They will be voting on accepting the charter and they will also vote on whether the newly-created chief executive officer will be elected on a partisan ballot to a four-year term by a vote of the people or whether the chief executive officer will be appointed to a four-year term by the county board of commissioners with the county commissioners having the power to remove the chief executive officer with a two-thirds vote.

The charter, in establishing the chief executive officer position, gives that officer broad administrative powers, including responsibility for preparing the budget and taking on the administrative functions of the county operations except those specifically designated as administrative functions of the other county elected officials as specified in the state constitution.

Even more important, though, the proposed charter calls for the chief executive officer to prepare a county government reorganization plan which could mean consolidation of present departments, elimination of departments or establishment of departments.

In the language of the charter, the chief executive officer would:

1. Supervise, coordinate, direct, and control all county facilities, operations, and functions except as otherwise provided by law or this charter.
2. Implement and enforce the laws of this state and county ordinances, resolutions, orders and rules.

3. Exercise all powers and duties granted the CEO by law, ordinance, or other provisions of this charter.

4. Submit reports and recommendations to the commission on any matter affecting the county.

5. Exercise powers and duties required for emergency preparedness.

6. Maintain a planning division in the office of the CEO.

7. Veto any ordinance or resolution having the effect of law, or approving a contract, or any line item in an appropriation ordinance by transmitting to the commission written certification of the veto and reasons therefor. If the CEO fails to exercise the veto within 10 days after the submission of the ordinance or resolution to the CEO, the action of the commission takes effect.

The charter also provides that the CEO will coordinate the project activities of the departments of drain commissioner, road commission and public works which affect county roads and provides that the road commission and department of public works shall submit project plans to the CEO six months before the next fiscal year and shall notify the CEO of any change in the project plan within 30 days.

The CEO shall supervise, direct, and control functions of all departments of the county except those headed by elected officials.

The charter gives the CEO the power to name an assistant CEO.

Under the proposed charter, the CEO also has the administrative responsibility of the Cooperative Extension Service. This was another hot issue debated by members of the charter commission.

The charter gives the CEO the power to name a deputy CEO and provides that if the office of CEO and deputy CEO should become vacant, a majority of the board of county commissioners shall appoint an acting CEO to serve until the office of CEO is filled by the voters in the case of the elected CEO alternate or by the board of commissioners in the case of the appointed CEO alternate.

The charter, besides providing for a 15-member board of commissioners, lists the powers and duties of the board as:

1. Adopt, amend or repeal ordinances and resolutions.
2. Appropriate funds, levy taxes, fees and other charges and authorize borrowing in accordance with the charter.
3. Approve the making of all contracts by the county.
4. Approve or reject appointments by the CEO of the Deputy CEO, department heads, their deputy directors and members of boards and commissions.
5. Have veto power over the CEO through a two-thirds majority of commissioners serving.
6. Approve, amend or reject rules and regulations issued by any officer or department of the county. If the commission fails to act within 30 days of the submission of rules and regulations, the rules and regulations will become effective.
7. Require any county officer or employee to testify and to produce documents and records.
8. Subpoena records, documents and witnesses and administer oaths.

9. Appoint and remove, by a majority vote of commissioners serving, the members of the Board of County Canvassers, the Metropolitan Airport Authority, Zoning Board of Appeals, the Planning and Development Commission and the County Election Board.

10. Appoint and, within authorized appropriations, provide compensation for employees of the commission.

11. Have the power to merge the department of Register of Deeds with the department of County Clerk or provide for their subsequent separation.

12. Judge the qualifications of commissioners.

13. Submit amendments to the charter for approval by the registered voters.

14. Exercise any power granted by law to charter counties or general law counties except those prohibited by the charter.

15. Establish the compensation of other elected officers as provided by law or ordinance.

The proposed charter also requires the board of commissioners to provide by ordinance for the operation, maintenance and administration of public county hospital facilities. This was another hot issue in charter deliberations because of the cost and staffing problems at Wayne County General Hospital in Wayne.

The charter language also provides that the county commissioners shall not interfere, directly or indirectly, with the conduct of any executive department except as is necessary in the performance of the duties of office or as otherwise provided in the charter.

Commissioners also have the choice under the charter of appointing a legislative auditor general to be supervised exclusively by the commission.

The charter also sets up other county departments including a corporation counsel with a division of human relations, a personnel department to handle labor relations, employment planning, employee classification, civil service commission and promotion.

A management and budget department is also created to handle assessment and equalization and purchasing.

The charter calls for a health department to maintain health programs, including programs related to the environment and drug abuse and provides that the health department shall be responsible for the activities provided by law for a medical examiner.

Under the public works department the charter spells out the responsibilities provided by law or under any future county reorganization plan.

The road commission department under the charter will be the responsibility of a 3-member commission composed of one member from Detroit, one from another city in the county and one from a township. All three must be qualified electors of Wayne county.

Another department created would be the senior citizens service. The department responsibility would be to provide services for senior services and act as advocate for senior citizens.

Bart Berg will support new charter reluctantly

"I reluctantly support the proposed Wayne County Charter."

That was Bart Berg's assessment of the document that finally went to Governor Milliken last week for state approval. Berg, from Canton Township, was the elected charter commissioner representing western Wayne county.

Berg called the six-month experience of helping draft the document which, if approved by voters possibly in November, a great lesson. There are some things in the charter that do not satisfy him, he reported. There are some things that he is happy about, he added.

On the list of good things is the switch to a county executive. He was particularly pleased with the provision setting the membership of the county board of commissioners at 15. Berg helped lead the last ditch fight to keep the board membership at 15 through all the final week of maneuvering by Detroit charter commissioners to keep the board at its present 27-member level.

Berg expressed some concern over the fact that the power base of the Wayne County Road Commission remains fairly intact in the new charter, as does the drain commission.

Berg reported that he was fairly happy with the inclusion of a provision which would mandate the county to provide medical services which would be administered by the county executive officer. He pointed out that this could mean that satellite hospital facilities might become a reality.

Gov. Milliken has 30 days to accept or reject the county charter. If he accepts it, the next step will be up to the voters of Wayne County.

Symphony League antique mart to be festival feature

Candle making and theorem paintings will be featured at the 19th Plymouth Symphony League Antique Mart, Sept. 11-13 at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

The mart, in conjunction with the Fall Festival, will display and sell antiques from 22 dealers.

Richard M. Wells makes candles from antique molds as he has done since he was nine years old. Wells was given an antique mold and made candles for Christmas presents. Soon he and his brother Charlie started their own business.

The Wells brothers business has grown since the first year, and this may be their last year, according to Charlie. Many of the materials they use to make the candles which have been a popular item at the antique mart for 14 years are in short supply or very expensive to purchase.

Marilyn Koth is the artist behind the second craft, theorem painting, featured at the antique mart. Koth began theorem painting four years ago after she enrolled in a class at Greenfield Village.

Theorem painting is routine or theoretical exercises in painting using stencils to paint on white velvet. Also known as Poonah Work or Oriental Tinting, theorem was first created in Moravia, Pennsylvania.

Theorems were originally taught in female academies from 1810-1830. The paintings were mostly of fruit bowls or flower baskets. Koth has designed her own patterns, but most of her work copies early American theorems.

Local talent helps Rowdies reap state soccer title

BY KEN VOYLES

The Flip Rowdies girls soccer team of the Bonanza Soccer League won its Michigan State Youth Soccer Association (MSYSA) state title Friday with a 3-0 victory over the Warren Rowdies.

Nine members of the squad are from Plymouth and Canton.

Annette Ruggiero, of Plymouth, scored two goals for the Rowdies in their championship victory. Her first tally came early in the first half when she smacked a penalty kick past the Warren goalie.

Later in the half she took a pass from Dorene Dudek, of Livonia, and put it in the back of the net.

Midway in the second half, Dudek scored after getting a sideline throw in from Lisa Russel, of Plymouth.

Goalie Dorene Beagle, of Livonia, got the shut out win for the Rowdies.

The squad will now play in the Midwest Regional Championships July 17-19 in Burnsville, Minnesota. Teams from Kansas, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Minnesota, and Missouri are slated for the regionals.

The Flip Rowdies are 24-1 including tournament games.

Before the regionals the squad will be one of the hosts of the Wolverine II Invitational Soccer Tournament to be held at Schoolcraft College the July 4 weekend.

Caesars unbeaten, Elks 4-2, in Connie Mack

BY JAY KEENAN

Plymouth Canton's 1981 baseball saga continues.

The Caesars of the Connie Mack summer league (17-18) are picking up from where Canton High's successful varsity team left off.

The Caesars, a team mostly comprised of members from that high school group have started the summer season in a salient fashion, raising their record to 4-0 with a doubleheader sweep over Redford Bishop Borgess Saturday.

Saints win, now 2-1

The Sportventure Saints got back on the winning track in the Great Lakes Womens Soccer League Sunday with a 6-3 victory over Dearborn Calypso in a GLWSL game at East Middle School.

Although the Saints dominated the first half, they were down 2-1 by the intermission. Charlene Mrekvicska tallied the squad's lone goal in the half.

Mrekvicska tallied the equalizer one minute into the second half and the rout was on.

Sue Kasper, Cindy Hayes, Twila Kuffner and Stephanie Hancock each dented the Calypso net for a 6-2 margin before Calypso could score again late in the game.

The Saints will host the Ferndale Hustlers at 6 p.m. Sunday at East Middle School. The Saints are now 2-1 in league action.

In the first contest, Canton downed Borgess 7-3. Dan Smith won the game on the mound and helped his cause in the game with a two-run homer.

In the second half of the twinbill, the Caesars shellacked Borgess 13-1. Winning hurler Dan Funkhouser pitched five innings. The game was stopped after five innings because of the mercy rule. Funkhouser, a left-handed fireballer threw for St. Clair Community College this past spring.

Bill Hanis led the offense that afternoon with five hits and eight RBIs including a three-run homer in the second game. Keith Stone added five hits and four RBIs.

Earlier in the week, Funkhouser got the pitching victory as Canton trounced Southfield Lathrup 9-3. Todd Bergman also pitched for Canton.

Funkhouser tossed five innings of no-hit ball to help lift the Caesars to a 10-0 win over Redford Union in the squad's season opener. He fanned 12 batters and issued one walk.

SALEM ELKS

Joe Humphries had a fine day on the baseball diamond Saturday when he pitched a four-hitter and smacked two runs with four RBIs as the Salem Elks Connie Mack League team beat Willow Run in the second game of a doubleheader Saturday.

Mick Madsen and Todd Riedel added two hits apiece. The win raised the Elks' record to 4-2.

Salem lost the first game, 4-3, in extra innings.

Willow Run tallied its winning run in the bottom half of the 10th inning on a passed ball. Salem pitcher Bill Culver picked up two hits for Salem, but suffered the defeat. Riedel and Pete Steyaert also had two hits.

Earlier in the week, Culver got strong relief help from hurler Greg Chappell in the fourth inning to shut the door on Redford Union, 5-2. Culver, the winning pitcher, also provided two hits for Salem along with Humphries and Madsen.

The Elks played three other games to open their summer season winning two of those.

Rowdies to host tournament

The tourney will include 138 teams from Virginia, Minnesota, Ohio, Canada, Missouri, Michigan and Scotland. Of those teams there will be 16 girls teams vying for the girls title. They will play at the Rowdies home field at Schoolcraft and at the soccer field at Livonia's Bicentennial Park on Seven Mile.

The tourney is sponsored by the MSYSA. Each team will play a minimum of three games. There will be categories for both boys and girls teams under 19, under 16, under 14, under 12 and under 10 years of age.

The Rowdies also recently won the Buckeye Invitational in Cincinnati.

At that tourney the Rowdies knocked off four Ohio teams to win the championship. The squad defeated Forest Park Flames 1-0 in the tourney finale to take the crown.

The squad lost to Borgess 4-2 after loading the bases with two outs in the final inning of play. Brian Kelly took the loss for Salem.

The Elks defeated RTJAA 10-0 behind the three-hit pitching of John McDowell. McDowell faced the minimum number of 20 batters through six and two-third innings and allowed one hit to that point.

Dan Carlson had two hits and three RBIs to lead the Elks attack. Culver, Riedel and Dave Slavin added two hits apiece.

Salem's season opener was a 9-1 victory over Lathrup.

In their first game the girls defeated the Flames 2-1. They then knocked off Kopingettes in two straight 2-1 and 3-1.

This Sunday the contingent will play its final league game of the season at Schoolcraft's soccer field. Game time is 2 p.m. The field is located at the back of the south parking lot.

Rowdies team members include Joanne Mishler, and Colleen O'Connor from Canton and Lori Engel, Kim Reeves, Ruggerio, Russel, Shelly Staszal, Nancy Gray and Margie Wangbichler all from Plymouth.

Also on the team is Kim May of Northville and Beagle, Amy Brow, Pam Craigie, Dudek, Terri Groat, Chris Lussier, Danielle Montroy, Kimmy Pateron and Julie Kusa of Livonia.

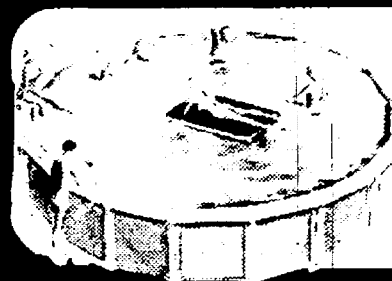

Lussier coaches the group with Ed Dudek as assistant and Al Beagle as team manager.

Belles, Bunnies unbeaten

The Belles and the Bunnies have stayed unbeaten in their respective leagues of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball Association's G-Junior division. The Belles gained two victories last week to up their record to 4-0 in the National League. The Belles beat the Rockettes 12-9 and also knocked off the Stars 9-1. The Rockettes are in second place in the league with a 3-1 mark. They split their games last week, getting a 1-4 win over the Dolphins. In the American League the Bunnies knocked off the Wrens 5-2 and the Lassies 11-3 to stay in first place with a 4-0. The Glads, Wrens, Lassies, and Foxes are all tied with 3-1 records.

F-League stages All-Star clash

The professional league baseball strike withstanding, members of the F League in the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball Association will stage its own All-Star game June 27. The 10 a.m. game will be played at Griffin Park off Sheldon Road in Canton and involve players from teams in both of F-League's two divisions, the National and American conferences. There is no cost to view the game. National League All-Stars include Darryl Brees and Jerry Joiner, the Trojans; Dan Zawacki and Tom Boltik, the Wildcats; Ken Micol, Paul Grazal, Ken Pomeranski, the Panthers; Jim Hobbs and Dan Robertson, the Hurons; Robert Adams and Tom Kenyon, the Mavericks; Jason Scott and Daye Welsh, the Mustangs; Bob Roulin and Joe Bane, the Badgers; and Doug Nester, Paul Smallwood and Darrin Blue, the Huskies. Tom Tomas will coach the Nationals during the game. American League stars include Derek Ryba and Mike Kesson, the Rockets; Jeff Zarrow and Scott Darling, the Gophers; Bob Laprise, Dave Sanabria, Steve Swartzinski, the Spartans; Dave Fehling and Greg Jones, the Buckeyes; Bob Hopper and Cam Evans, the Cougars; Mark Moreno and Matt Abbott, the Wolverines; Dominic DeBello and Bill Turnau, the Hawkeyes; and Danny Meador, Eric Sovine and Keith Kwasny, the Titans. Ed Bozyk will coach the Americans.

G-Senior baseball

The Braves and the Angels have taken first place leads in their respective divisions of the G-Senior League in the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball Association. The Braves have compiled a 3-0 record in the National League, for first place, with three victories last week. The Braves defeated the Phillies 10-4, the Orioles 14-2 and the Dodgers 15-3. The Phillies are the only other squad in the National division with a victory as they bested the Pirates 13-0. The Angels knocked off the Pirates 5-4, the Tigers 10-4 and won one other game last week to lead the American League with a 3-0 mark. The Dodgers and Tigers are next with 2-1 records.

July 4 10,000 meter run
N'ville to Kellogg Park

The Community Crier in conjunction with the Plymouth Jaycees will sponsor the Annual 4th of July 10,000-meter run for all local distance runners. The 6.2 mile course will start at Griswold Street in Northville, follow the Northville parade route to Seven Mile and Sheldon Roads, and pick up Edward Hines Drive to Northville Road. From there runners will take Northville briefly before getting back on Hines to Starkweather as it enters Old Village. The route will then follow Starkweather to Main Street and finally end up at Kellogg Park. One lane of Main will be open for runners. Starting time is 9 a.m. Cost is $4 prior to the day of the race and $5 on the day of the race. Last year 129 local runners entered the competition which will again have three categories, men, women and juniors. This year 150 runners are expected to compete for trophies for overall best time, senior best time and youth best time. Send the below registration form to Registration Chairman Bill Joyner at 45951 Amesbury, Plymouth, 48170 or The Community Crier office, 1220 S. Main, 48170.

Salem, Canton Mantle, Koufax baseball action

PC & THE COMMUNITY CENTER: June 24, 1981

BY JAY KEENAN

Salem and Canton Mickey Mantle (15-16 years olds) and Sandy Koufax League (13-14 year olds) baseball teams continued their summer baseball seasons with varied results.

Rick Berberet fanned 10 batters and scattered seven hits in seven innings of work Sunday as Salem DiPonio of the Mantle league clubbed Windsor Riverside, 15-0.

Salem, now 4-2 on the season, took on South Farmington Saturday and came away on the short end of a 10-7 score. Pete Steyaert was the losing pitcher.

Mike Cindrich, Bob DeBenedet and Ken Harmon all had two hits apiece. Cindrich also clubbed a homer.

On June 15, DiPonio was victorious in an extra inning battle over Brighton, 6-5. Scott Jurek brought home the winning run in the eighth inning with an RBI single.

WFCL upended Salem, 7-4, on June 11. Barry McNamara started on the mound, pitched four scoreless innings, but was forced to leave the game because of a sore arm. Riedel replaced him and was tagged with the loss.

Earlier DiPonio edged Detroit Mic Mac

In Salem's season opener Dave Haut struck out nine and walked eight as DiPonio rolled over Westland Colt 8-3. Todd Riedel had three hits and collected four RBIs.

STEVE JOHNSON provided the game winning hit in the top of the ninth frame as the Canton Elks of the Mantle league nipped South Farmington, 4-3, in its first game of a doubleheader Saturday.

Scott Cowen, who relieved starter Mike Battaglia, took over in the bottom of the fifth and got the victory. Johnson had two hits.

In the nightcap, the Elks knocked off Dearborn Crestwood Heights 7-4. Jack Ford was the winning pitcher. Bryan Capnerhurst had two hits for Canton. The Elks are 3-0 with the wins.

On June 11, in its season opener, Canton shutout Brighton 17-0. Jamie Chiloeff cooled off Brighton hitters to gain the pitching win. He also had three hits.

BOB MOORE doubled in the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning to lift Salem Temcor of the Koufax league to a 4-3 win over Garden City, Saturday.

Chris Belhart was the winning hurler as Salem raised its record to 5-3.

Earlier in the week, Temcor got mauled by teams from North Farmington, West Bloomfield and Redford. Against North, Salem pitcher Steve Potoczak suffered a 13-2 loss, while hurler Danny Knapp was charged with the defeat in the Redford game. Salem lost that contest 11-4.

Temcor nipped Westland Pony 2-1 in its fourth game of the season, but fell to Southfield 5-4.

Compuware

Plymouth Compuware, the third Sandy Koufax team formed in the Plymouth-Canton area suffered a 13-0 loss to Dearborn Fairlane Saturday.

Losing pitcher Jeff Rummel started for Plymouth but was relieved by Chris Ezzo.

It the third straight loss for the first year Koufax team. Its record fell to 2-6.

"A lot of these kids are coming right out of A-League from the PCJBA (Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball Association) and there's an awful lot to learn coming up," said Plymouth coach Al Dawson.

Prior to the Southfield game, Temcor edged Detroit Mic Mac 4-3. Knapp went the distance for the win. Moore and Knapp had two hits.

In Temcor's season opener, Potoczak was the winning pitcher as the squad dumped Livonia Big Bill, 9-6.

Canton soccer Club

The Canton Soccer Club will conduct its registration for the fall season July 18 (Saturday) from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Canton High School.

Cost for applicants born 1963-73 will be $14. Family rates are also available.

The club will also offer an instructional program for children born 1974-76.

For further information call 981-6327.

F-League baseball

Three teams in the F-League of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball Association have unbeaten records after four games of the 1981 season.

The Titans lead the American League of F-League with a 4-0 record.

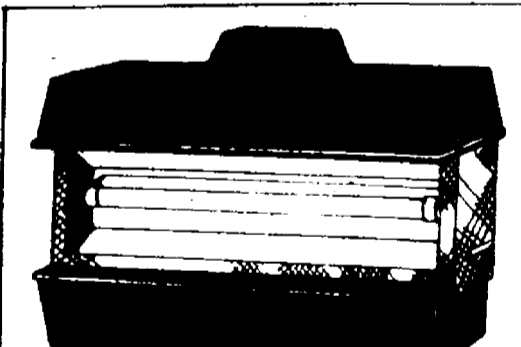

In the National League, the Huskies and Panthers are tied for first with four wins each.

Smith leads Chief baseball honorees

For the record, it was a banner year for the 1981 Canton baseball squad and its top hurler Dan Smith.

Smith, a junior, was recently selected to the second-team Class A All-State squad by the Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association.

He posted a 13-1 mark and a 1.24 ERA. He received the third highest amount of votes for pitchers.

Senior teammates Steve Schumacher, Jeff Stemberger and Keith Stone along with junior Bill Hanis received all-Region 11 laurels, while Schumacher, Stemberger, Stone, Hanis, senior hurler Dave Malek and junior Scott Bricker made the first team all-Western Six.

Named to the second team was junior Jeff Cousino. Honorable mentions went to seniors Shawn Hopper and Paul Dobry and juniors Fred Rumberger and Bryan Capnerhurst.

Senior golfers

Bill Begg scored 20 points against Louie Seromik to take the lead in the Canton Recreation Senior Citizen Golf League with 70 points, after four weeks of play.

Women golfers

Mildred Livingston and Shirley Young are tied for first place with 26 points each after six weeks of play in the Canton Recreation Women's Golf League.

Denise Chapman, Lou Skotzke and Olga Fitzpatrick are next with 25 points.

All-leaguers

Baseball and softball players from Canton and Salem received all-league honors last week for their efforts in the 1981 season.

Two players from Canton's girls softball squad were chosen to the all-Western Six League team. They were senior Marianne Pink and Joni Somerville.

Senior infielder Denise Zonca made the all-Suburban Eight League team this year for Salem's softball squad.

Sophomore second baseman Mick Madsen was selected to the first team all-Suburban League baseball squad.

A Special Meeting of the Board of Trustees was held on Friday, June 12, 1981 in the assembly room of the Township Hall at 4:10 p.m. All members were present.

Mrs. Hulsing moved to accept the proposed Consent Judgment as previously submitted to the Board subject to change at the bottom of page #2 and top of page #3 and authorize the entry of the consent judgment as previously filed with the Township Board. Supported by Mr. West.

There was no objection from Mrs. Hulsing or Mr. West to substitute the following for the original language change in the same place - fifth line from the bottom of page 2 to the first full paragraph on page 3 . . . municipal boundaries) "pursuant to MCLA 257.613 (a) and 257.613 (b). The sharing of cost of providing school crossing guards as outlined herein has been agreed to by the parties to this lawsuit as a compromise interpretation of the existing language in MCLA 257.613 (c) and shall continue until further order of this Court based upon a change of or amendment to said statute upon any party's motion for application of such changed or amended statute section notwithstanding this Consent Judgment and without constituting this Consent Judgment as precedence in interpreting or applying such changed or amended section or until change by agreement of all the parties hereto"). Roll Call Vote: Ayes: West, Hulsing, Fidge, Pruner, Law, Breen. Nays: Lynch. Motion declared adopted.

It was moved by Mr. Law and supported by Mr. Pruner that the proposed library services agreement with the City of Plymouth be adopted with the insertions indicated. Ayes all. A copy of the agreement is on permanent file in the Clerk's Office.

It was moved by Mrs. Hulsing and supported by Mr. West to add the item concerning the Larkin easement to the agenda. Ayes all.

Mrs. Fidge moved that the request of Mr. Larkin and His Wife for $2,610.00 as negotiated by Mr. Mills of Brender-Hamill-Jarrett Assoc. for an easement for utilities across their property be approved with the stipulation that a signed release be furnished freeing the Township of further responsibility re the providing of utilities to said property accompanying the easement. Supported by Mrs. Hulsing. Ayes all.

It was moved by Mrs. Hulsing and supported by Mr. West that the meeting adjourn. Ayes all.

The Supervisor declared the meeting adjourned at 5:10 p.m.

Approved by,
Maurice Breen, Supervisor

respectfully submitted,
Esther Hulsing, Clerk
