Will Canton grow up? 20-story buildings OK'd

BY CHERYLEBERWEIN

Canton Township's skyline may be altered in the future— in tall ways.

In an amendment adopted by the Canton Township Board March 1, design considerations for mid and high rise buildings have been started by the planning commission. The buildings, when constructed, could be from six to 20 stories high.

According to James Kosteva, Canton planner, zoning for taller structures in the township is part of the community's economic development plan. Taller buildings, Kosteva said, will allow for more intensive use of Canton's better development sites.

Kosteva also mentioned that the amendment will eventually allow the township to develop a multi-storied senior citizen complex.

"We haven't zoned specific parcels of land in Canton for either mid or high rise buildings," Kosteva said. "We are going to deal with specific cases one by one as they come up."

Kosteva was not sure how many 20 story building requests the township would receive in the future. The amendment was passed, he said, based on the hopes that Canton would attract firms looking for regional and national office development sites.

"The requests for 20 story structures will probably be rare," Kosteva said. "The probability of constructing structures taller than six stories will be greater if they're used for residential dwellings."

Although specific parcels of land have not been zoned for building, Kosteva mentioned that the I-275 corridor is one area where development is very likely. The corridor, which runs from Lotz to Haggerty Roads, will provide exposure for the buildings and will also provide for the movement of traffic, according to Kosteva.

"With careful evaluation, it's possible that taller structures could shape a focal point or downtown for Canton," Kosteva said. "But you don't need tall structures for a downtown," he added.

Kosteva said that the planning commission addressed several expected concerns when it presented the mid and high rise amendment to the board. Among the concerns which the commission addressed were traffic flow, landscaping and buffering, and the potential screening out of sunlight.

"The planning commission estimated the shadows such buildings will cast so that no residential property will be in the dark," Kosteva said.

City eyes layoffs, possible tax increase

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

Employe layoffs, wage freezes, and cutting expenses will be considered first— city manager Henry Graper said — but Plymouth may have to raise taxes because of revenue shortfalls predicted for next year.

Graper and city department heads began work last week on a budget for fiscal 1983-84 and found that predicted expenses exceeded revenues by about $70,000. An increase in the city taxation rate from 16.45 mills to about 18 mills would balance the budget, Graper said.

"However, we would look to the other solutions first before attempting to sell a tax increase to the city commission," Graper said. "I don't know if a tax increase is the ultimate solution."

Graper said he is currently looking at the layoff of about six city employees, in addition to the seven positions eliminated in the last few years. The layoffs, he said, would be permanent. "I'm not going to be very popular handing out pink slips."

Freezing of wages and changes in the employe benefit package will be asked of city union and non-union employees.

"We are not going to give any raises we don't absolutely have to," he said. The employe benefit package, one of the best in the state, may be altered with a "super market approach" where employes pick the benefits they want most, he said.

The city is looking to cut expenses — in phone and photocopy costs, for example — Graper said. Another financial bail-out option, he said, is to use federal revenue sharing funds to support the general fund. "We have never done that in Plymouth before."

Plymouth's financial problems are caused by a combination of shinking revenues and spiraling costs, Graper said.

The city commission will begin holding budget work sessions on April 11.

Single-vehicle crash kills Dearborn woman

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

A one-car traffic accident Friday morning at Ann Arbor Road and I-275 took the life of a Dearborn woman.

Dead is Janet Marie Dembowksi, 22, of 5502 Middlesex. Dembowksi was a passenger in a pickup truck driven by Lawrence James Rattray, a former Dearborn police corporal.

Rattray, 38, was arraigned Monday in 35th district court on the high misdemeanor charge of negligent homicide and on a separate charge of disorderly person — interfering with police.

Rattray stood mute on both charges and Judge James Garber entered 'not guilty' pleas on his behalf. Garber set a $5,000 personal bond, but warned Rattray that the bond would be revoked if he or any of his friends approached the three witnesses to the accident.

Rattray lost control of his vehicle as it left the I-275 exit ramp shortly after 1:30 a.m., police said, and then hit a pole on Ann Arbor Road. Rattray said that another vehicle had cut him off, police reported.

Rattray had to be restrained at the scene, police said, when he refused to allow Plymouth Township emergency medical personnel near Dembowksi.

Police officer Robert Henry said Rattray was forceably arrested at the scene, but was then transported to St. Mary's Hospital for treatment of injuries he sustained in the accident.

Accused of manslaughter, Matney admits drinking problem

BY MARK CONSTANTINE AND CHERYL EBERWEIN

EDITOR'S NOTE: William Glenn Matney is awaiting trial on a charge of manslaughter in the Dec. 17 traffic death of Madonna Tharp in Canton. He asked to air his story and was interviewed in Wayne County Jail by Mark Constantine and Cheryl Eberwein of The Crier staff.

William Glenn Matney has been in the Wayne County Jail for nearly a month. But he has been in his own private prison much longer.

Matney is behind bars for his alleged involvement in a fatal traffic accident Dec. 17 in Canton. The next morning he was arraigned on a charge of manslaughter, but before the preliminary examination he jumped bail.

The 25-year-old truck driver said he headed to the state of Washington instead of facing the charges because "I had a lot on my mind and I was all mixed up."

"I heard one of the Canton cops say 'I'd hate to be in Matney's shoes. One of the (victim's) family members is going to shoot him before he gets to court.'"

With the "words" of a Canton policeman echoing in his ears, Matney said he stepped on a bus and took off for Washington. But once out west, he started thinking about the accident, and decided to come back and face the charges.

Matney allegedly slammed into the side of a red Vega driven by 16-year-old Eric Tharp at the intersection of Cherry Hill and Sheldon Roads back in December. Eric's mother, Madonna, a passenger in the car, died.

According to witnesses and police reports, Matney didn't slow down after the crash. He continued on his way until he was stopped by the Westland police.

It was later determined through a police breathalyzer test Matney was drunk at the time of the accident.

"Seems like I never get into trouble unless I'm drinking," Matney said softly in a small, dingy cell on the third floor of the jail. "Since I was 18, I've gone to Alcoholics Anonymous, but it seems like it never helped.

"Alcohol has hurt my whole life. I've lost everything I've ever worked for because of drinking. When I get out I'm going to do everything I can to stay away from alcohol."

However, just when Matney gets out is a question neither he nor the State of Michigan can answer. Matney's trial starts April 21 and he'll remain in Wayne County until then because he cannot post the $100,000 bond set by 35th District Court Judge Dunbar Davis.

"Nobody gets treated fair around here," Matney said emphatically. "If you like cockroaches, rats and filth you'll like it around here, but I wasn't raised like that.

"There are guys here who've been in Jackson, and they say that they can't wait to get back. It's bad when all you've got to look at is concrete and steel. I don't fit in with these guys.

"This is bad. It could be eight or nine months before this thing (the trial) is settled. If I do get out, it's one year of my life gone," he added.

Matney maintains he understands what the Tharps are going through. A lifelong

City swaps ambulance company in mid-stream

Community Emergency Medical Service (EMS) will begin offering ambulance service in the city of Plymouth on March 15, city manager Henry Graper said.

Graper told the council that Community was given the city's ambulance award when it became apparent that Huron Valley Ambulance could not feasibly serve Plymouth if contracts in neighboring communities were all going to Community.

Community, subsidized by Botsford Hospital, will soon enter into contracts with Northville, Northville Township, and Novi, Graper said. A protocol agreement, something less than a formal contract, has been reached between the city and Community, he said.

The ambulance service will operate out of fire station two, Graper said, and take patients to any hospital of their choice except in emergency situations.

As soon as Community's advanced life support permit is approved by the state - probably in 30 to 60 days - the ambulance company will begin offering that service, Graper said.

Life support plan approved in township

The Plymouth Township board approved the concept of having advanced life support services in the township, although township administration had no firm plan for the implementation of the new service.

Supervisor Maurice Breen and Fire Chief Larry Groth said told the board they did not have a specific recommendation on what company to designate as service supplier. "We would like the flexibility to get the best deal for the township," Breen said. "You are probably aware that the city of Plymouth looks like it is getting involved (with offering advanced life support) and if one company has a base in Plymouth we might get the best service that way."

As explained by Groth, the advanced life support unit would be notified and respond to the scene of any emergency rescue. The advanced personnel would then take over from the township's basic emergency personnel and also be responsible for transporting victims.

Breen said the township would not enter into a formal contract with the chosen service, but would have a "protocol" agreement. This less-formal agreement, Breen said, could be written or oral.

Groth reported to the board that he had completed an extensive study of private company and hospital subsidized services, of rescue runs in the township during the last two years, and of other communities with advanced life support.

The advanced life support service would usually transport people to hospitals, Groth said, and would free up township personnel for other use.

Canton sesquicentennial needs an official logo

Canton artists will have an opportunity to show off their creativity and talent this year. They may even have an opportunity to display their artwork throughout the entire community.

The Canton Sesquicentennial Committee is holding a logo contest for its 1984 celebration. The logo contest is open to Canton residents of all ages. The Committee is seeking a logo which will be used during the entire Sesquicentennial and will capture the spirit of the celebration.

The designer of the winning entry will be awarded $150. The winning design will become the motto, or theme of the celebration. Twelve runners-up will also be selected; their art will be used for a potential community calendar highlighting Sesquicentennial events.

Entries must be submitted by May 13 and a winner will be selected by June 1.

Other rules for the logo contest are: The design should be clean, clear and capable of reproduction.

Entries must be original and copyright free.

There is no limit on the number of entries per person.

Entries must be submitted on white paper eight and a half by 11 inches. There are no restrictions on color choice.

Entries should have the name, address and telephone number of the participant on the back, lower left corner.

All entries will become the property of the committee and may be used by the committee, without reimbursement to the entrant.

Entries must be postmarked by May 13 and should be sent to the Canton Sesquicentennial Logo, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton, MI, 48188.

Plymouth Twp. firemen receive 24% increase

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

An arbitration panel has awarded the Plymouth Township firefighters a 24 per cent wage increase over the next three years, but denied the fire union's requests on many issues of sick pay and fringe benefits.

Township attorney Charles Bokos told the township board that the arbitration panel had sided with Plymouth on 13 of 18 issues. Former governor John Swainson headed the three-member arbitration panel, appointed by the state after the township and the union were unable to negotiate an agreement.

"The firefighters did not get agreement on the more serious issues they were seeking," Bokos said. "Had they been successful on these issues, it would have had a serious long-range impact on the financial situation of this township."

Because of the township's victory on some of the fringe benefit issues, Bokos said the actual cost to the township will actually only be about 21 per cent over the next three years, instead of the straight eight per cent a year.

Bokos said primary areas of township victory were:

-Substantial changes in the firefighters pension plan, saving thousands of dollars in benefits paid to each firefighter.

-Success in changing the way overtime is calculated. Instead of paid overtime for every hour over 40, the firefighters will not receive overtime until after 54 hours of work in a week.

-Sick leave. Bokos said the township managed to cap the sick leave benefits and curtail some of the accumulation a sick time which the township must eventually pay off. "This is the most important issue that we prevailed on," he said. In place of massive accumulation of sick days, the fire fighters disability program will be used, Bokos said.

-An attempt by the fire union to insert a minimum staffing provision was stopped, Bokos said. This provision also would have cost the township thousands of dollars over the long run.

The firefighters, Bokos said, prevailed on the issues of pay increase, insurance improvements, an increase in food allowance and an increase in the residency requirement - extended from living within four miles to seven miles.

Bokos said the wage increase was granted primarily because Plymouth Township is at the bottom of 'comparable communities' such as Waterford, Canton, Ypsilanti Township, Redford, and the city of Plymouth. With the granted wage increases, the township firefighters now move from the basement to second from the bottom, Bokos said.

Fall Fest board bridges Rotary rift

BY MARK CONSTANTINE

A bridge between the Plymouth Fall Festival Board and the Rotarians has been built and a possible confrontation between the two has been avoided.

The potential rift between the Rotarians and the board surfaced at the February meeting of the Fall Festival Board when the Rotarians requested the board allow them to keep some of the club's earnings designated to go to the board.

Rotary spokesman Erick Carne told the board his club was in dire need of the cash for capital expenditures. However, according to the board's by-laws, clubs and organizations taking part in the annual event must anticipate capital expenditures a year in advance.

Instead of denying the Rotarians the money, the board opted to set a series of meetings to determine what, if anything could be done, to narrow the gap between the two sides.

The fruit of those labors were realized last Wednesday night when the board at its montly meeting unanimously passed a resolution stating anticipated capital expenditures can be listed on applications at the time they are submitted.

Also, an emergency request for cash for capital expenditures may be submitted in writing at any time for approval. Either way the cost will be amortized in equal payments over three years, unless otherwise approved.

But that's not all. The resolution goes on to state that due to the current financial position of the 1982 Fall Festival, all 1982 financial statements shall be accepted as submitted.

"It was all handled very civilly, I thought," noted Eleanor Shevlin, board president. "It was all worked out well."

Only 20% of net

Festival to take smaller cut

The Fall Festival Board is alive and running strong in its third month of planning for the 1983 festival.

Several changes and improvements have been reported by the festival's various committees.

The festival board has decided this year to lower its percentage of the net profits made on monies raised by the service clubs participating in the event. Last year the profit the board made 25 per cent; this year they have lowered their profits to 20 per cent. According to Fall Festival representatives, 1983 will be a good year for all clubs to raise funds by participating in the festival.

Advance ticket sales will help increase club profits, board representatives said. The Chamber of Commerce will offer help to any group interested in advanced ticket sales for the Fall Festival.

Applications for the festival will be sent to clubs April 15. They must be returned to the board by June 1. The applications are subject to board approval.

The Festival will run Thursday, Sept. 8 through Sunday, Sept. 11. It will run until 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday

'I haven't found any day boring'

Rep. Gerry Law goes to Lansing

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT

Gerry Law looked tired as he sat talking to a visitor in his office on the second floor of the Capitol. It was near the end of a busy day for Law who is one month into his two-year term as state representative from The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Much of his first month was spent getting acquainted with the workings of government and politics in Lansing.

The talk turned to tax increases, a popular topic lately in Lansing. Law said reactions to the state income tax increase proposed by Governor Blanchard dominate the mail he receives from people in his district of 85,000 which includes Plymouth Township, Plymouth, Northville, Northville Township and the northeastern part of Canton Township.

"Most of the constituent response I receive - about 90 per cent of it - is directed toward the governor's proposed tax increase," he said. "Of those, 90 per cent are not for the proposed increase, he added."

Law also said he believes people would prefer a sales tax increase which voters would have to approve.

"I'm probably not in favor of a permanent income tax increase," he said.

A permanent income tax hike, Law said, may allow the government to spend more while not solving the state's deficit problem.

"The philosophy of a permanent income tax increase is that it will pay for government spending despite what happens to the economy," Law said.

He recalled 1979 as a record year for auto production and increase state revenues. Michigan had a deficit problem in 1979 also, Law said.

Law attends a weekly tax seminar with other legislators in which the state's tax structure and the governor's proposal are studied.

Three state agencies have estimated three different budget deficits. Blanchard forecasted a deficit of $900 million, the highest of the three and a figure Law considers too high.

"The governor's estimates include no mention of a gross national product increase," Law said. "He is taking the worst possible view. The budget estimate should be as close as you can be because so much depends on it."

Law sits on four House committees: Urban Affairs, City Government, State Government and Insurance. During the past month, the committees have been meeting with heads of state agencies and lobbyists, Law said.

At a recent Insurance Committee meeting, legislation requiring that seat belts be worn by all Michigan drivers was discussed. A mandatory seat belt bill was approved by the committee last year but it was never voted on in the Legislature.

Most of the issues of concern to the Insurance Committee are non-partisan, Law said. "Insurance affects a whole mass of people including me," he said.

The State Affairs Committee may consider a plan to allow slot machines in public places as revenue raisers for the state, according to Law.

Law said he has found most issues have a number of viewpoints and a number of lobbying groups paid to communicate those viewpoints to legislators. He added that while he enjoys learning about different areas of state government, he is less than enthusiastic about the glut of information in Lansing.

"You find out pretty fast that you can't read everything and you can't attend all the receptions," he said. "There are a lot of people who want to meet with you."

The pace of the legislature is currently quite slow but that will change as budget votes begin last month. Law is gearing up for that time and he expects the pace to increase to just below overwhelming.

"With 5,000 pieces of legislation a year going through here, no one can possibly keep track of them all." While newsletters and newspapers help keep track of bills, Law stressed the importance of getting to know other legislators.

"It's good to learn which legislators can be trusted and which ones are the experts in certain areas, and talk to them," he said. "That's where the personal touch comes in."

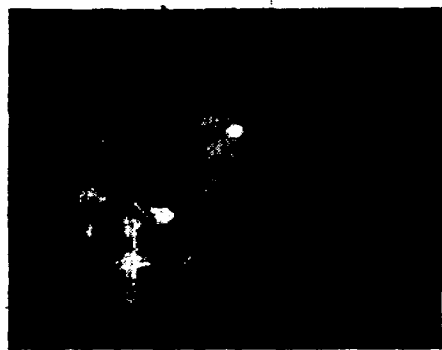

Law commutes to Lansing four days a week, and the three hours he spends on the road is one of the least favorite aspects of his job. He said he usually returns to Plymouth after 7 p.m. and tries to attend city meetings in Plymouth or Northville whenever he can.

Law said he enjoys informing people in his community about state government and especially answering their questions.

"I like getting answers to questions and helping people with their problems," he said.

Law says he is learning and enjoying his new job.

"There's always something new," he said. "I haven't found any day boring. In fact, I have found there aren't enough hours in the day."

Thieves loot Canton office

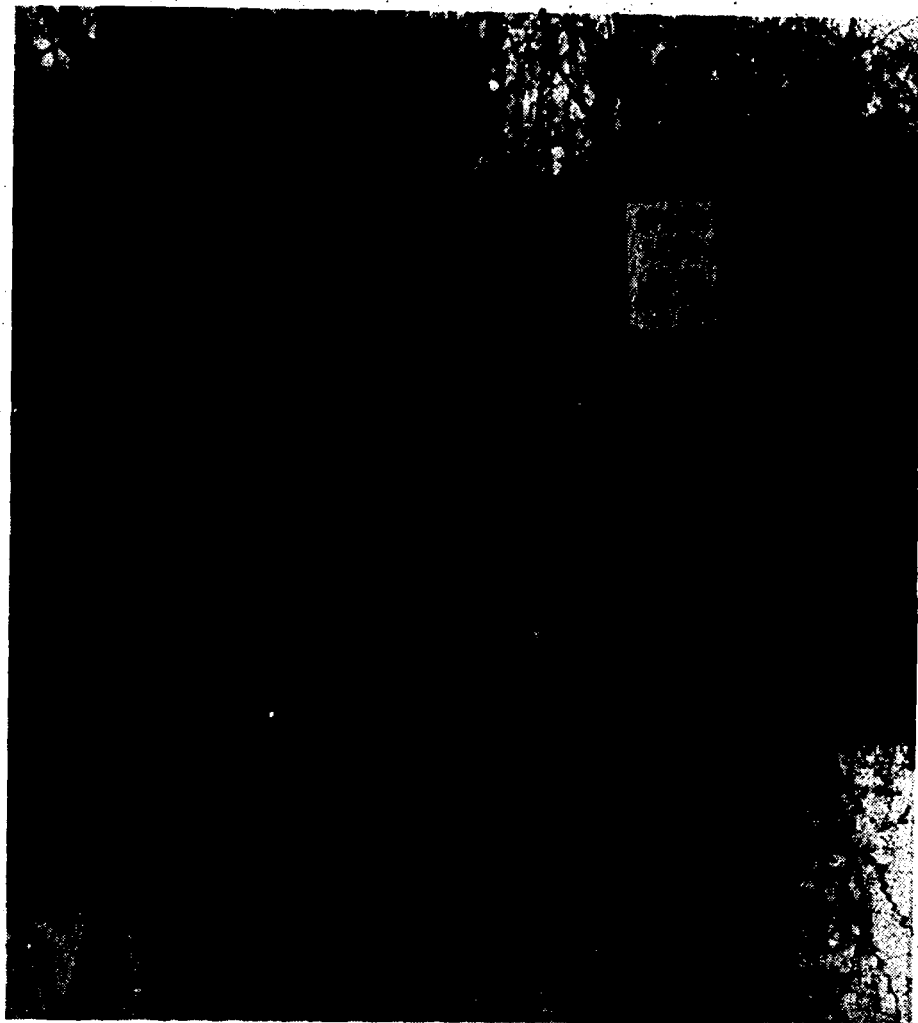

A safe, a copier machine, eight calculators and over $8,000 in cash were among several items stolen last Thursday in a robbery which involved several business offices in Canton according to Canton Police reports.

The Steven Hamilton Ltd. Company, located on N.Lilley Road, was robbed at approximately 10:15 a.m., police reports said. The suspects entered the building through a heat duct on the roof and then ransacked all of the offices inside the building.

A typewriter, a postage machine, some food stamps, a clock, radio, watch and tape recorder were also taken in the heist.

According to police a small hand-cart was probably used inside the building to move the items. A truck or van was used to transport the stolen goods, they also thought.

Police have no suspects in the case; however, they feel that more than one person may be involved in the robbery.

Top musicians chosen

Kevin R. McMahon and Paul Roth were recently appointed to top spots in the Plymouth Symphony by conductor Johan van der Merwe. McMahon was named concertmaster and Paul Roth was appointed as principal cellist.

Jean Braun, principal violist and personnel manager, and van der Merwe have been searching since October for appropriate personnel to fill the spots.

McMahon is completing his degree at the University of Michigan, where he is a student of violinist Jacob Krachmalnick. McMahon also performs with the University of Michigan Symphony Orchestra.

Roth has studied with Douglas Marsh for seven years. Roth has been a member of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra for many years and acted as principal cellist during the latter half of the 1981-82 concert season.

Hillside Inn license change approved Mar. 1

The transfer of the Hillside Inn's liquor license to new owners, the Messina family, was approved by the Plymouth Township board on Tuesday, March 1.

Reports from police, fire and building department heads found no problems with the proposed transfer and all recommended approval of the request.

The Liquor Control Commission has final jurisdiction in the transfer, but generally the commission follows the local municipality's recommendation.

The transfer would place the license held by Hillside Inn Corporation, owned by Betty Stremich, in the hands of Hillpointe Hospitality, Inc, owned by Stephen Messina, Salvatore Messina and Florence Messina. Stephen and Salvatore are brothers and Florence is the wife of Stephen.

Stephen, 48, owns and operates Messina Trucking Inc. in Utica, while Salvatore, 42, works for Chrysler and owns a party store in Madison Heights.

Cultural Center has petrified buns

The city of Plymouth parks department will sponsor a Spring Arts and Crafts show next weekend, March 18 to 20. The show will be held at the Plymouth Community Cultural Center at 525 Farmer in Plymouth.

Admission to the show is free. Friday and Saturday hours are from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Show hours on Sunday are from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Various local artists and craftpersons will display their wares, including: Virginia McGraw of Plymouth with natural wreaths, Judy Cruz of Canton with soft sculpture, Sharon Tutor of Canton with Sesame Street wall decor, Jill Young of Plymouth with photographs, Priscilla Cipolletti of Plymouth with hand painted ceramics, Debbie Mitchell of Canton with dolls and Janet Urban of Canton with folk art.

As interesting as all these exhibits sound, none has captured my imagination like Linda Hilisek's. Linda, according to the city press release, will display her artistic "petrified buns."

What is a "petrified bun"? This question has laid heavy on my mind for days.

Now, I'm the first to admit my deficiencies in the area of artistic knowledge. The only way I can tell a Rembrandt from a Renoir is by remembering that Renoirs always look smuggy to me.

It may be that "petrified buns" are the rage right now. I could be ignorantly writing this column, while "petrified buns" are displayed on the coffee tables in the chicest homes.

But the city said the writer of the press release, Paul Sincock, was not going to be available for several days. So, I was left with "petrified buns" and my imagination.

Occasionally someone nice will bring a couple dozen donuts into the office to have with morning coffee. Usually their is one oddball variety, perhaps pineapple cinnamon bun, which gets left in the box, sometimes for days. After a few weeks, perhaps petrification would set in and the bun could be used for a paper weight, a door stop, a fish line sinker or a hand weapon.

OR, perhaps "petrified buns" are a photographic craftwork. Nude works are often popular in artistic circles, and perhaps rear angles are featured by Linda.

OR, when I do my weekly cleaning, I invariably toss out those last few hot dog buns left in the plastic bag. Little did I know that they had potential, as say - a hat, a brooch or a refrigerator magnet.

OR my first little tea set, primarily used to entertain my dolls with elegant afternoon soires, contained plastic eggs, plastic bacon, and plastic toast. Perhaps a petrified feast is now served when today's little girls play hostess.

It has also crossed my mind that "petrified buns" was a typographical error in the press release. Perhaps the intended meaning was ...

Petrified Huns, as in, "Hundreds of petrified Huns fled to the hills when Attila the Hun descended on a village."

Petrified nuns, as in, "Petrified nuns

Unsolicited Remarks

By Rachael Dolson

said many prayers over Rachael's antics in parochial school."

Petrified suns, as in Carl Sagan and "Billions upon billions of petrified suns can be found in the universe."

After all this silliness, I feel I must apologize to Linda Helisek of Southgate for dwelling on what is probably a fascinating craftwork in its own right. I mean no disrespect to her or the others at the craft show.

I just hope I have caught the imagination of enough readers so that the turnout at the show will be enormous and no one will be angry because I had a little fun with their petrified bun.

Counselor's stereotype and letter verdict: guilty

I read the counselor's letter to the editor and then viewed his legal ad in the 1983 GUIDE showing a victim being unloaded from an ambulance.

The verdict is guilty on two counts of perpetuating a stereotype.

BRUCE F. MIRTO

'Offsides' was slimy

EDITOR:

The column, "Offsides" written by Mark Constantine, published on Feb. 16, is a blatant example of slimy journalism.

Your brash sports editor made serious accusations that were not backed up by any proof.

As a side note, in an otherwise good article about the Christian Academy, he asserted that the Catholic high schools, namely Brother Rice and Catholic Central, violated state rules by recruiting athletes.

Since these are very serious charges, they should have been backed by some sort of evidence. Instead, Mr. Constantine showed he lacked both ethics and intelligence by stating untrue facts without proof.

Granted, it is a local paper, but I would expect at least some degree of professionalism from its sports editor.

RONALD F. GEORGE

Police overburdened

EDITOR:

On Friday, March 4, at 9:30 p.m. a large window was broken in our City of Plymouth home. Also a substantial dent was put in the upstairs siding. This was done with a small steel ball bearing probably shot from a sling shot.

Recently, our next door neighbors were burglarized in the afternoon. Our garage, along with many neighbors, was robbed in the last few months.

It used to be a common sight for us to see a police car on our street. Now we see it, all too often, only when there is trouble.

The Plymouth Police are very hard-working, doing the very best they can. I feel the police have been spread too thin by furnishing service to the township.

We, in Plymouth, pay much higher taxes than the township. I do not believe the much larger area of the township is paying anywhere near its fair share.

Frankly, I blame the administration of our city for overcommitting our police force. Also for, once again, allowing the township to get the best deal at our expense.

I would be most pleased to see Plymouth Police protecting the citizens and property of Plymouth alone. If I'm correct, we would see a drop in crime and vandalism.

Thank you.

Plymouth Arts Council a non-existent club?

EDITOR:

Way back in October, I can't be certain, but, I think I joined the Plymouth Community Arts Council. At that time, I was relatively new to Canton, was enjoying temporary retirement from teaching art and thought the Council's 'Picture Lady' program would be a good way of becoming involved in the community and meeting people who, like myself, were interested in promoting the arts.

I phone the Arts Council office and asked when the Council had its meetings. I discovered it didn't. However, if I wished to be a Picture Lady, someone would bring the materials to my home. The following week, I was presented with four picture portfolios and a box of Egyptian sculpture reproductions.

All I had to do was procure parent volunteers from Eriksson Elementary and talk to the students about this art on a once a month basis. No sweat. Besides the artistic benefits, all Picture Ladies would receive free Plymouth Community Arts Council membership.

That's a real swell deal as I now doubt that the Council exists. If the Council prints a newsletter, I have never received one. I have no idea what keeps them busy all year. My volunteers have never received membership notices nor any Council contact whatsoever.

The art portfolios are pathetic. There is little or no information about the reproductions, not to mention the fact that the selections are boring, unrelated and uninteresting to most elementary age students.

My volunteers and I spend much time researching these works so we at least have something to discuss with the children.

Sculpture units were to rotate through the Plymouth-Canton schools on a bi-monthly basis. Eriksson was to receive its from Field. I phone Field and they'd never heard of it. I phone two people from the Arts Council who promised to help track down the sculpture units. I never heard from them again.

Meanwhile, by this time, the Eriksson staff is sure to think we're all inept and disinterested, which brings me to the point of volunteers.

Since October, I have requested parent volunteers from the Eriksson area. With even a minimal amount of cooperation, this program could be a worthwhile and enriching experience for our children.

Everyone clamors for better schools, more opportunities, yet here's something for nothing and where are all those people who want fringe benefits? This program is free!

Eriksson has 830 students and it boggles the mind to discover that only three moms can devote a half-day a month in their child's classroom.

The Arts Council experience has been a disappointment and a tremendous eye-opener. Carol Torrel, Jill Hughes and Kay Semion are the three Eriksson volunteers who have managed to stick it out since October and who want to continue with some type of art enrichment program. I thank them sincerely for their time and efforts above and beyond the call of duty.

They have picked up the slack for those who have dropped out and remained silent. We'll try to go it alone for awhile without the aid (or lack of it) from the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

If anyone else out there has an interest, please contact Eriksson school at 981-2110 or the elusive Arts Council at 455-5260.

LAURA WILLIAMS

From the Inside Looking Out

By Cheryl Eberwein

Maybe I'm the one under a mistaken assumption about our law enforcement agencies.

I used to think that local units, like the Canton Police Department, and state offices, like the Michigan Department of Corrections, would cooperate with one another in the interest of fair law enforcement.

It seems I was wrong.

Two weeks ago Chief Jerry Cox asked the Canton Township Board to adopt a resolution which opposed some revised jail cell regulations his department had received from the Department of Corrections. Cox told the board at their Feb. 22 meeting that the new regulations were "cost prohibitive, not practical and unnecessary."

The board agreed with Cox and unanimously approved the resolution.

According to Cox, the jail revisions were not written with small lock-up facilities in mind. They call for structural and procedural changes which will be impossible to implement. If adopted by the state, they could add upwards of $150,000 to the annual overhead cost of running the police department, he added.

Cox said that his department already follows many of the revisions under present laws. He added that he doesn't disagree with the principle behind upgrading prison facilities and closely accounting for prisoner safety.

But Cox contends that the practicality of the new regulations is ridiculous. He maintains that no small holding facility will be able to comply with the new regulations. Small facilities will be in constant violation of the law and subject to the possibility of continuous court disputes.

"I'm not convinced that the Department of Corrections really expects us to follow all of the new revisions, but the fact that we will always be in violation of them bugs me," he said.

It seems, however, that the Department of Corrections is very serious about having police departments follow the regulations.

The Department maintains that they are protecting police departments from litigation disputes with the very implementation of the new regulations.

Frank Donley of the Department said "Police chiefs are vulnerable to litigation, because they are not knowledgeable about changing federal prisoner laws."

Donley said that inadvertently, police chiefs and sheriffs make mistakes in prisoner matters which result in large damage suit cases. The revised regulations, Donley said, are designed to indirectly protect the police departments from making these mistakes through better protection of prisoners.

"There are 83 lockup facilities in the state, and currently 38 of those are involved in lawsuits," Donley said.

Cox maintains that police chiefs throughout the state were not informed about the proposed changes. Donley maintains that every police department in the state was notified of the changes a year ago.

Cox said the chiefs were given no opportunity to let the Department of Corrections know how the rules would affect them. Donley said that the chiefs have already had one opportunity to respond and still have time to comment on the revisions.

Cox said the new rules will close many facilities due to the costs. Donley said that the costs were considered by the Department and even in the case of small lock-ups, should not be excessive.

If both departments are working towards the reduction of police litigation cases, why are anger and accusations the only end-products in sight?

Our law enforcement agencies have enough problems and obligations without also arguing among themselves about such issues. The only situation these resolutions have created or solved thus far seems unworthy of our departments and our tax dollars.

On the Mark

with Mark Constantine

If April 15th is coming faster than you'd like, and you don't know the first thing about preparing your tax return, don't despair.

Simply gather up your records and head on over to the Plymouth Cultural Center at 10 a.m. this Saturday where you can sit down and go over your return with a representative of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

The free help preparing your 1982 tax forms is a new dimension of the agency's taxpayer program, an "outreach" effort to bring professional tax helps into neighborhoods across the country, according to a press release from the IRS.

Of course, if you don't trust Uncle Sam, there's always private organizations such as H and R Block and Nationwide and Certified Public Accountants (CPA) who, for a price, will figure out your taxes.

However, if you're planning to sit down and figure out how much the feds owe you, or the amount you have to shell out to the government, then here's a few tips to remember.

Did you know, for instance, the care and feeding of a horse used for sheriff's voluntary posse is deductible. Also, ransom paid to free a valued employee held by kidnapers is deductible.

But, wait, that's not all. The cost of shoe shines for a jet pilot required by the employer to look spiffy and clarinet lessons recommended by an orthodontist to help correct a child's teeth are both tax deductible.

While some of the deductions I've just listed may seem ridiculous and hardly applicable to most of us, the point is there are many unusual or different credits and deductions we're entitled to, but we just don't think about them.

According to a press release from the Michigan Association of CPA's, people often overlook everyday expenses simply because they don't think of them in terms of potential tax savings.

Every student is unique

EDITOR:

At the regular school board meeting of Feb. 14, the board moved to award Michael McClennen a diploma at the end of the 1982-83 school year.

Michael is a gifted 14-year-old student. He does not have the required amount of credits. Two of these credits are prerequisites - one in government, one in physical education.

Civics is required by state law. All students must participate in physical education unless they have a physical handicap.

The amount of physical education needed to graduate is determined by the board.

At the regular school board meeting of Feb. 28th, I questioned the board's decision in awarding this diploma.

I was told this was a unique student. I don't doubt this. My contention is every student is unique.

Plymouth-Canton has always had a rigid policy on graduation - you meet the requirements or no diploma. I believe a diploma must be earned before it is given.

We have other gifted children in the Plymouth-Canton schools. I really feel this decision can have a domino effect. I think the rules should be the same for all students.

If a student at 14 or any other age has met the requirements, then that student should be given a diploma.

I say every student is a unique human being. Let's keep our policy the same for all.

Jaycees hike for mankind

Sign up now to participate in the Plymouth Jaycees' Walk for Mankind, scheduled for Saturday, May 7.

Local walk chairman Fred Eagle said the Walk for Mankind is a national fund-raising effort to support Project Concern's international health care training programs in Africa, Asia, Latin American and the United States.

Volunteer walkers hike about 20.6 miles (30 kilometers) on a route through Plymouth City and Township, beginning at the Cultural Center. Each walker, Eagle explained, has a pledge sheet of friends, neighbors and other contributors who have promised to donate a certain sum for each kilometer completed by the walker.

Each walker has the option of donating 20 per cent of his or her raised amount to a local charity, Eagle said, such as the Plymouth Community Fund, Council on Aging, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts.

"Besides raising needed funds for Project Concern," Eagle said, "The walk is a chance for people to physically demonstrate their care for other people."

Interested walkers or sponsors may call 464-8927 or 553-8110.

REACT to teach tornado spotting

The Plymouth area REACT team is offering a training class to teach tornado spotting and reporting for the National Weather Service.

U.S. weather serviceman Bill Deedler said the lack of ice on the lakes and snow on the ground may heat the atmosphere with an early spring and bring unusual weather patterns.

A local class on Thursday, March 10, at 7:30 p.m. will train interested persons to recognize cloud formations and other conditions that could bring on severe weather.

"This is the sixth year our team has studied severe weather," said Paul Cook, commander of the Plymouth area REACT team. "For the last three years we have been spotting not only for the weather service, but for the city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township."

A public awareness class will be sponsored by the Plymouth area REACT on Wednesday, March 23, at 7:30 p.m. at the Plymouth Township Hall, 42350 Ann Arbor Road.

Accused man says he feels for victim's family

Plymouth resident, he said his own mother died in a head-on collision when he was 18. Six months earlier, his father killed himself with a gun.

"I know how the kid feels, losing his mom and all," Matney said. "How is he going to face his family, how is he going to face the future knowing he killed his mama? This could turn him into an alcoholic or drug addict."

While Matney feels for the Tharp family, it's his contention he's not responsible for the death of the Canton mother of two.

"I could face them (the Tharp family); I'd like to sit down and talk to them after all this is over," Matney insisted. "If it were my fault the accident happened, my feelings would be different. But it wasn't my fault."

"The second car killed her, not mine."

"Besides, I believe in religion, and if it wouldn't have been me, it would have been someone else. It was just her time to go," he concluded.

Prior to fatal accident, Matney said he'd stopped to talk to his ex-wife, Linda, who lives in Plymouth. He said at that point he'd already had a pint of vodka and three beers.

She eventually called the police and when they arrived he said they asked him to leave. From there he recalled he drove over to see his uncle who works at American Waste Refuse Removal Company in Bellville.

He claimed it was still light outside as he left his uncle and headed to Westland to meet his girlfriend. And he insisted he's got three witnesses who'll back him up.

According to the police report, however, witnesses said it was nearly dark when the accident took place, and Matney was driving without his lights on.

Driver to face homicide charge

Rattray left the hospital about 8 a.m. Friday morning, police said. "A search warrant was obtained to get blood from driver one (Rattray) while he was in the hospital and he refused," police said. Police said they planned to use the blood sample to determine if Rattray had been drinking alcoholic beverages.

A preliminary examination on the negligent homicide charge was scheduled for Thursday, March 17, before Judge Dunbar Davis.

A spokesman for the Dearborn police department said Rattray was granted a duty disability severance on May 2, 1982. "He requested a duty disability and went before the disability board and they agreed. It can be for a number of reasons. I'm not aware of what he said in his case," the spokesman said.

According to a newstory in the Dearborn Press and Guide, Rattray was involved in a Sunday, July 12, shooting spree. Rattray reportedly fired shots into a fellow officer's personal car and a Dearborn squad car. Later, Rattray fired shots inside and outside his home on Westland Street in Dearborn.

Rattray was taken to the psychiatric ward of Wayne County General and later transferred to Northville State Hospital, the Press and Guide reported.

Matney said he was traveling east-bound on Cherry Hill and, when he got to the Sheldon intersection, he noticed the Tharp car out of the corner of his eye.

"I could barely see him as I got into the intersection and I'm not sure what happened next. I hit the steering wheel or the windshield, I'm not sure which, and from that point on I don't remember anything."

"I don't think he looked at all and just got scared when he pulled out. Even if I'd have been sober, the kid would have still pulled out and I would have still hit him."

"I was doing all right until he pulled out. I can drink a lot of liquor before it gets to me," he concluded.

Matney admitted there's nothing he can do to help the Tharp family get over the loss of their loved one, but he would if he could.

"I'd do anything I could do for the people to make them feel better," he said, leaning against the bars of the cell. "If I had $1 million, I'd give it to them to make them feel better. I know they got to be hurting."

"This place makes me feel like s---. I'm downgraded here, I probably won't have my job when I get out and I was supposed to get married in the fall."

"I just hope it works out, works out for the Tharp family and for me. Hopefully I'll get the help here I need to get my drinking problem solved."

"I don't want to hear about this after it's over."

In last week's Crier, the story on Omnicom's inadvertent airing of a pornographic movie erroneously called the film "x-rated". It was in fact, only "R-rated".

'Bag lady' a treasured neighbor

BY CHERYL EBERWEIN

It seems a house like any other house along Auburn Street in Plymouth. The small two-story brick residence sits on a neatly trimmed lot and welcomes visitors with a note saying the doorbell does not always work so please knock.

It's only after entering, that it becomes apparent the home is very different from others in the area.

Large boxes take up much of the space which the tiny living room may have offered. Tables are non-existent under mounds of trinkets, vases, statues and books. Chairs and the couch have been long ago lost under piles of coats, shoes and other clothing.

If the condition of the home seems a bit disarrayed, then it's owner is quick to apologize for its condition. But at 84, Mary Rose Evans has more to keep her busy than mere housecleaning.

Evans has become well known throughout the community as the local shopping cart lady. At least twice a day, the small woman can be seen walking spritely down the street pushing a shopping cart she fondly calls her "Cadillac".

The cart is usually overflowing with clothes, shoes and other items, which she collects from a St. Vincent de Paul drop box in back of Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church. Evans visits the shanty regularly and holds a key to its padlocked door.

Evans collects the shoes, clothing and other small items for charity groups like the Salvation Army, the Council for the Blind and a group of churches in Appalachia. She has been collecting donations for these groups for the past 23 years of her life.

"I've collected over 60,000 pounds of clothes and shoes for needy individuals since I began," Evans said. "I just mailed out 66 boxes of clothes to an Appalachian parish recently."

The boxes are not small. Each one stands about three feet high and a foot and a half wide. They are packed to the top when mailed out— and Evans packs each one herself.

"I spend from 12 to 16 hours a day sorting and packing the things which I collect. If I have to show someone else how to do everything, I'd just as soon do it myself," Evans said firmly.

Independence is a strong characteristic in Evans. She moved to the Detroit area from Columbus, OH. in 1921. "I use to manage a hotel dining room and kitchen in Columbus, but I moved to Detroit because I thought work opportunities would be better," Evans recalled.

But the move did not prove beneficial to Evans and she was unable to locate work as a dietitian. She worked as a telegraph operator until she met her husband and was married.

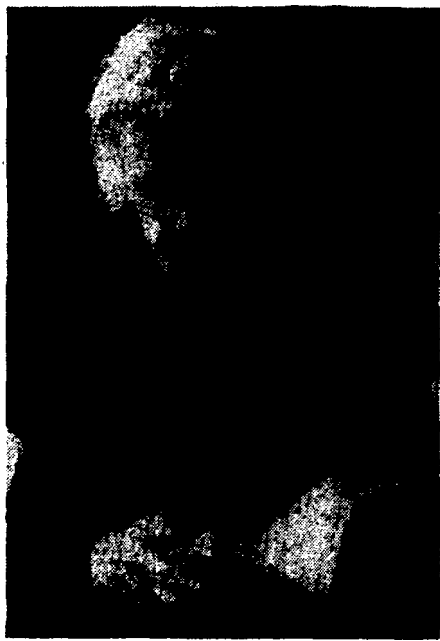

When her husband died in 1931, however, Evans returned to work, this time cleaning houses during the depression.

"I had my daughter to put through school," Evans said.

Although a Plymouth resident for 30 years, Evans did not start collecting donations for charities until 1960. Her decision to do so was strongly influenced by a personal experience.

"I went into St. Joseph's Hospital in Montreal with severe spine and head injuries," she said. "I was cured and right after I was released from the hospital, I received a request for clothing donations from a church in South Dakota. I decided that this was what Saint Joseph wanted me to do."

Her initial efforts to start clothing collections were small. Often she paid for mailing the care packages out herself with her social security. But as more people began to learn about her work, Evans found herself receiving more and more donations.

"My early attempts started out small and mushroomed," she said. "I never expected to spend so much time doing this, but it is becoming more and more involved."

"Heck," she added with a laugh, "I work longer hours now than I ever have in my life."

Evans lives alone with her three dogs. It is her work, and the long hours she devotes to it, that keeps her from becoming lonely.

"I don't have time to become lonely," she said. "When you give to other people you don't have time to get lonely."

Doggy Redfern?

Staff nicked on names

Some people go through life being called something other than their real name. Nicknames can be fun, and usually there is a story or explanation behind them.

I've been called many things over the years. One of my first nicknames was doggy. It was given to me by my youngest brother because he couldn't pronounce my name. Don't ask me how he came up with it, but he has been paid back more than once. Between small children trying to pronounce my name, and adults trying to spell it, I've had to live with many weird names.

Last week the boss decided to surprise everyone on the staff and give them a Crier T-shirt with their nickname on it. Believe me, trying to think up nicknames for a staff of 25 is not as easy as you might think.

First we went through the list and eliminated three of us who already had the shirts. Then we went through and wrote down those people who had nicknames. Then the real fun came in, as we tried to think up names for more than half the staff.

We casually went around the office and asked a few people if they had ever had a nickname. That helped a little, but the toughest part was trying to identify each person with something.

Hopefully we didn't make too many enemies. I must admit it was fun watching everyone's reactions when they unwrapped their shirts.

I hope the staff has as much fun wearing the shirts as we did in planning them. Besides, everyone should have at least one nickname.

Eyeglasses are stylish at Graham Optique

Fashionable eyeglass frames for adults and children are the specialty of Grahams's Optique Boutique, the newest shop in the Vest Pocket Park Building.

"You should have the right to pick out your eyeglasses like clothers," owner Rick Graham said. "Our main thing is fashion fitting."

Christian Dior, Silhouette, Logo of Paris and Avante Gard are just a few of the name-brand frames that can be purchased at Graham's Optique Boutique, according to the man in charge.

Graham and his partner, Tony Fertita, analyze your features and balance the glasses with the overall shape of your face.

"We can eliminate 50 per cent of the frames by the shape of your face," Graham explained.

There is no optometrist on hand, so customers come to Graham Optique Boutique with a prescription, keeping the cost of the frames down.

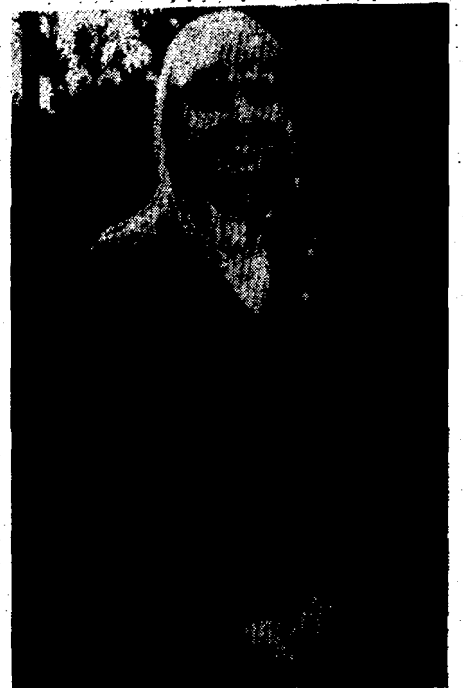

"With no optometrist on staff, the prices can be kept low because of the lower overhead," Graham noted.

Children's eyeglasses are a large part of their business. They do thousands of little ones at their other location in Dearborn, according to Graham.

Styles for young ladies include Annie, Strawberry Shortcake and Holly Hobbie. For boys there is Steve Carlton and Dr. J.

Both Graham and Fertita were trained in optical programs in the service, according to Graham. They are both certified opticians with the Opticians Association of America and Fellows of the National Academy of Opticianary.

Graham is also a guest lecturer at Ferris State College and speaks on pediatric dispensing around the country.

Pease looking for newsletter masthead

Details for the Pease Paint and Wallpaper contest to design a masthead for their store newsletter were announced this week by store owners Terry and Molly Bixler.

The contest features three categories - high school, college and open professionals - with a $50 gift certificate awarded to the winner of each category. The grand prize winner, selected for the newsletter, will receive an additional $50 gift certificate.

Contest deadline is May 1.

Judging the entries will be Plymouth Mayor Bud Martin, Sylvia Stetz of the Plymouth Canton Board of Education, Tom Bohlander president of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, Sue McElroy of the Plymouth Follies, and architect Erick Carne.

"When designing the masthead," Bixler said, "contestants should consider the following suggestions: Pease Paint has been a part of Plymouth for 33 years; both Pease and Plymouth are growing together; Pease Paint supplies paint, wallpaper and art supplies; and the Plymouth logo is a large oak tree. These ideas could be used as the themes for the masthead."

Arrested Plymouth man found dead next day

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

A Plymouth man described as a "local character" died Wednesday at Northville State Hospital hours after he was transferred from the Plymouth Police lock-up.

Michael Joseph O'Connor, 46, died of either a heart attack or a drug overdose, a preliminary autopsy report said. A final determination on a cause of death will be made when toxicology tests are complete, Michigan State Police said.

O'Connor was arrested by Plymouth Police Tuesday afternoon at the Mayflower Hotel. He was issued a disorderly conduct citation for refusing to leave the premises after hotel personnel told the police they found O'Connor watching television in a vacant room.

Police held O'Connor at the station Tuesday afternoon and evening. Plymouth Police Chief Carl Berry said in his judgment O'Connor "was a danger to himself" and requested that he be transferred to Northville State Hospital.

Berry declined to discuss O'Connor's behavior at the station. "I really don't want to go into the details. The guy's kind of a local character. There's no point in going into his behavior now," the chief said.

O'Connor arrived at Northville at 9:15am Wednesday, State police said.

At 5:37pm three workers at Northville found O'Connor face up in his room with no vital signs, police said. A medical emergency was declared at 5:38, and CPR began at 5:41, police said.

An ambulance arrived at about 6 pm and departed Northville at approximately 6:30 pm, police said. O'Connor was declared officially dead at 7:13pm at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia.

The autopsy reported no signs of trauma to the brain, neck, throat or chest. Bruises on O'Connor's head were ruled "insignificant" by the assistant medical examiner and "not contributory to the death."

O'Connor was an industrial arts and physical education teacher with the Birmingham and St. Clair Shores School Systems. He was also a mechanical engineering consultant to several area architectural firms.

Burial was at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made in the form of mass funeral services were held at Our Lady of Good Counsel; the Rev. Fr. George Kowalski officiated. Local arrangements were made by Schrader Funeral Home.

Completes season undefeated

Beaudoin claims second consecutive state crown

BY MARK CONSTANTINE

Number one, again.

That about sums up Salem's John Beaudoin after he clobbered the competition over the weekend in Lansing on his way to the state Class A 138-lb wrestling title, finishing the season with a perfect 49-0 record in the process.

The lanky, dark-haired senior also brought home the state gold last year, capturing the first place medal in the 132-lb class.

How difficult is it to claim a state title, let alone two in a row, and then not stumble somewhere along the way, especially with everyone out to dump a reigning state champ?

Well, besides Beaudoin, only one other Class A grappler managed to walk off with a state title without losing during the season. Enough said.

"There was a lot of pressure those last few matches," Salem coach Ron Krueger admitted. "Not only was it bad on John, it was tough on all of us. The last match was particularly hard because there was a lot of pressure to set a couple of school records."

Beaudoin wrapped up his second consecutive state crown in style, edging Lansing Eastern's Mike Curley, 4-3, in what Krueger called "a good match."

Curley came into the event with a 36-2 mark and the added help of

A 10th place finish in the state Class A Wrestling Tournament is nothing to sneeze at as far as Salem wrestling coach Ron Krueger is concerned.

"I'm very happy with what we did," he insisted hoarsely. "We had a lot of kids quit, forcing us to use a lot of the younger kids. They did an outstanding job for us."

...Trip worthwhile for Chiefs

BY MARK CONSTANTINE

Dan Chrenko couldn't help but be pleased after the showing of a trio of Chiefs over the weekend at the state Class A Wrestling Tournament.

No, the three youngsters didn't capture a state title, they didn't even place in the two-day event held at Lansing Eastern.

But none of them were overwhelmed or embarrassed and all three proved they belonged there, according to Chrenko.

SALEM'S JOHN COHEN, leaps high into the air to snare a rebound in the Rock's 67-60 victory over Livonia Stevenson Saturday in the Western Lakes Activities Association title game in the Salem gym. Cohen led the way, scoring 16 second half points. (Crier photo by Rick Smith)

Salem snares league title...

BY MARK CONSTANTINE

John Cohen couldn't stop smiling Saturday afternoon after he and his Salem teammates had disposed of Livonia Stevenson, 67-60, for the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) championship.

And the powerfully-built 6-foot-4-inch senior had a right to be grinning from ear-to-ear.

That's because the rugged forward came in off the bench in the second half to post 16 points, while controlling the ...Rocks advance in districts

A Salem fan moaned Monday night she needed an aspirin after the Rocks clobbered Wayne Memorial, 64-60, in opening-round district action in the Salem gym.

She needed the aspirin to help her get over a headache caused by sloppy play from both sides. Salem coach Fred Thomann's only prescription for his team is rest, which the Rocks won't get.

Rocks swim away with WLAA meet

BY JOE SLEZAK

Chuck Olson is in heaven.

Why? Simple. His Salem swimmers captured the first-ever Western Lakes Athletic Association (WLAA) swimming title last Friday at Salem with 275 points.

The nearest competition came from Farmington as the Falcons mustered 190 points. "Farmington had some good individuals," said Olson. "We just ganged up on them as far as the placing." Canton took third with 152 points, best in the Western Division, while Livonia Stevenson (141) and Livonia Churchill (127), placed fourth and fifth, respectively. The Chiefs had bowed to both squads in dual meet action.

"I didn't even realize we beat Stevenson," said an ecstatic Art (Hooker) Wellman, Canton's coach.

"They've got a lot to be proud of. The taper worked," added the Chief mentor.

Salem boasted two league champions. Todd Reidel, who only lost one dual meet, was the diving champion with 362.25 points and Ashley Long captured the 100-yard breaststroke (1:02.93).

The Rocks' Erik Klinessmith earned a pair of second places in the 200-yard (1:49.1) and 500-yard freestyle (5:00.2) events. Tim Harwood was also second in two events for the Rocks. He was runner-up in the 200-yard individual medley (2:04.31) and the 100-yard backstroke (57.9).

Tom Shaw, Scott Anderson, Klinessmith and Harwood teamed for second in the 400-yard freestyle relay (3:21.1), while the Rock 200-yard medley relay foursome of (Mike Harwood, Mark Roehrig, Long and Bob Bowling) was also second with a mark of 1:43.7.

Canton coach pleased with 3rd place finish

John Simone took one of two Canton seconds in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 49.9 seconds. Joe McBratnie was the other runner-up with a time of 1:04.1 in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Third for Canton was Simone in the 200-yard freestyle (1:49.1), diver Andy Flower (325.10 points) and the 400-yard freestyle relay squad of Glenn Plagens, Matt Krawczak, Jim Casler and Simone (3:30.19).

Grabbing third for the champions from Salem were Long in the 200-yard individual medley (2:06.9), Bowling in the 50-yard freestyle (23.1) and Mike Harwood in the 100-yard backstroke (1:00.7).

The state Class A swimming championships will be Friday and Saturday, and the Rocks will be well represented.

Tim Harwood has automatically qualified in the 100-yard backstroke and the 200-yard medley relay, while Long earned a ticket to the meet, which he held at Michigan State University, in the 100-yard breaststroke. Both Rock relay squads also made it.

Earning "consideration" time, which means they may make the finals depending whether or not the allotted 18 have qualified in each event, was Bowling in the 50-yard freestyle, Long in the 200-yard individual medley and Klinessmith in the 200-yard freestyle.

For Canton, Simone has earned double consideration, in the 100-yard and 200-yard freestyle. Also earning a consideration was McBratnie in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Item: 3,000 students and supporters of Highland Park and Southfield jam into the Highland Park gymnasium for a non-league clash between the Parkers and Blue Jays with essentially nothing but pride on the line.

Item: over 5,000 Southwestern and Kettering partisan come downtown to Cobo Arena to watch the Prospectors, led by high school All-American, Antoine Joubert, capture the Public School League (PSL) crown.

Item: barely 300 followers of Salem and Livonia Stevenson opt to give up watching "Dallas" to watch the visiting Spartans edge the Rocks in an exciting game that isn't decided until the final buzzer.

The above items make me wonder if some of the suburban schools are playing the same game they play in the inner city.

The apathy and indifference exhibited by most students, not to mention the followers of the local basketball teams, irks me. What happened to cheering on the old alma mater to victory?

I've heard some basketball buffs insist the quality of basketball at say, Southwestern, is a notch above what you'll see around here, and that's why they get the large crowds.

Canton cagers capture one goal, district action next

BY JOE SLEZAK

From one goal to the next.

The Canton basketball team achieved one goal last Thursday by beating Livonia Bentley, 59-57. The Chiefs finished the regular season at 10-10, a mark coach Dave Van Wagoner said his troops were shooting for.

The next goal is "to do well in the state tournament," according to Van Wagoner. Canton begins the state title chase tonight (Wednesday) at 6 p.m. in an opening-round districts clash against Westland John Glenn in the Salem gym.

In the Thursday win at home, Canton was forced to come from behind. Bentley led by as many as seven in the second quarter and 12 in the third stanza.

Bentley carried the early play, but Canton narrowed the Bulldog lead at the end of the first quarter, 9-8. One second into the next quarter, Mark Bennett sank both ends of a one-and-one to put Canton into the lead.

Bentley jumped back out in front under a minute later and didn't relinquish it until late in the fourth quarter.

The Bulldogs canned all seven free throw attempts in the third quarter, including three on two separate Canton technical fouls to lead after three, 47-37.

Canton began their comeback with the start of the fourth quarter with a tough man-to-man defense. Bentley's five point lead diminished to one, as Mike Scar-

Standout Chief athlete leaves district

BY JOE SLEZAK

The Canton athletic faithful are still reeling after the transfer of a top athlete.

Junior Bob Wasczenski transferred to Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) rival Farmington Harrison, effective last week.

Wasczenski's mother, a Detroit Optometric Center employee, transferred to the branch in Farmington, and the family will officially move this week.

The versatile athlete plans to compete in two of his three specialties at Harrison. In football, the muscular 6-foot-4-inch bruiser was named to the All-WLAA first team as an offensive end.

Wasczenski started for almost two years at tight end, hauling in 31 passes for 616 yards his junior year. Ten of those receptions were for touchdowns. Wasczenski also handled some of the punting duties.

He said he plans to try out for football at Harrison. The Hawks won the Class B state title in 1981 and the Class A title in 1982.

Canton football coach Rich Barr had no comment when asked about Wasczenski's transfer.

"I didn't know if he wanted me to stay at the school for his benefit or mine," Wasczenski said bitterly.

He said he also plans to try out this year for Harrison's baseball team. Wasczenski saw some action on Canton's state finalist team a year ago.

According to Wasczenski, he doesn't plan to try out for the basketball team. In Canton's game last Tuesday versus Farmington, he was the only squad member not to play, the day before his transfer was official.

"I feel I'll do better against Canton and Salem. I'll show them what I can do," insisted Wasczenski. "My opportunities weren't that good there (Canton)."

pello's two-pointer at 3:10 shaved the lead to 51-50.

Ron Rienas gave Canton the lead for good at 2:07, 54-53. A Gary Thomas free throw with five seconds left put Canton up by four, before Dan Rayes of Bentley made a shot at the buzzer to cut the margin to two.

Bennett led all scorers with 20 points. Rienas came off of the bench to score 16 and Jim Schlicker added 11.

Jim Thorderson led Bentley with 16 points. Rayes notched 12 and John Turner scored 11.

"It was just good defense that brought us back," said Van Wagoner.

Last Tuesday, the Chiefs played one of their worst games of the year, according to Van Wagoner, and lost to Farmington, 61-46.

The lead changed hands throughout the first half. The Falcons led after one half, 30-28.

The visitors from Farmington stayed in front the rest of the ballgame, hitting 18 of 27 second half free throws. Overall, between both teams there were 67 free throws taken. Canton was a dismal 42 per cent, making only 10 of 42 shots.

Scott Hayosh of Farmington led all scorers with 20 points. Rienas with 15 points was the only Chief in double figures.

After the game, Van Wagoner had nothing to say on his team's performance.

Volleyball season ends too soon for local coaches

BY MARK CONSTANTINE

The volleyball season ended all too quickly as far as Canton's Rick Solarz and Salem's Jeannie Martin were concerned. Solarz's squad bowed out after dropping a tough pre-district decision to the top-rated Class A unit in the state, Temperance Bedford, last Wednesday night, 15-10, 15-5, in the Chief gymnasium.

Martin's troops, meanwhile, took to the road Saturday to take part in the district tourney held in Ypsilanti and fell to Ann Arbor Pioneer in three games, 15-11, 10-15, 15-8.

Solarz knew his club would have its troubles against the talented Bedford bunch, but he, too, was reasonably happy afterwards.

"I thought we played as well as we could and that's all you can ask," he said.

Salem finished the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) portion of its schedule with a 10-4 mark, good enough for second place in the Lakes Division behind Livonia Stevenson.

Canton, on the other hand, concluded its league ledger at an even .500, 5-5, well behind undefeated Western Division champ, Livonia Churchill.

"I was real pleased with the 10-4 mark," Martin admitted. "We had a rough time of it during the middle part of the season, but the kids turned it around by the end."

Cunningham looking forward to regionals

"Fifth was about the best we could do."

That was the reaction of Canton gymnastics coach John Cunningham, after his team ended up in fifth at the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) meet last Wednesday at North Farmington.

In capturing the league title, the Raiders posted 125.7 points. Farmington edged Northville, 121.3-121.1, for second place, while Walled Lake Western was fourth (119.85).

Canton headed up the final four with 113.05 points, and Salem finished last in the eight-team field, scoring 103.0 points.

Linda Beale of Canton had the best overall finish. The versatile junior was third in the floor exercise. Beale was also tied for fifth on the beam (8.05), sixth on the bars (8.1) and seventh in the vault (8.15).

Annette Bryce of Canton notched fifth in the vault (8.25).

Salem's top performance was turned in by Beth Rafail, (7.95), tied for seventh on the floor (7.75) and was eighth in the vault (8.1).

battling for the state title in his own home gym.

The home court advantage didn't bother Beaudoin. He went right after Curley, taking him down early in the first period. But from that point on, neither athlete could get much of an advantage.

"John wrestled kind of conservatively," Krueger noted. "After he went out quick, it was kind of back and forth."

Two of the school records Beaudoin nailed down Saturday were the most wins in a season (49) and best pct. (100 per cent). In fact, the undefeated season was a first for Salem, according to Krueger. And he closed out his career as a Rock with 106-9 record.

Beaudoin earned a ticket into the finals by pinning Grandville's Rob Blitckok in the semi-finals in a time of 3:55.

Mt. Clemens' Dave Seybold and Flint Kersley's Tom Pavaglio were the first two opponents to fall to Beaudoin as he took aim on the 138-lb title. He overwhelmed both Sybold, 16-3, and Pavaglio, 13-0.

Beaudoin competed at both 132-lbs and 138-lbs throughout the season, and he may have been the top athlete in each weight class, according to Krueger.

"He beat the top two people at 132-lbs twice this year, plus the the number three person once," Krueger noted. "In those two weight classes he met all the top people and beat them."

"It was no fluke, either. He deserves everything he's gotten because he is a hard worker who listens to coaching well."

Big-time college recruiters haven't started knocking on Beaudoin's door, but now that he's become the first two-time state champion in Salem history, the offers will start to pour in, according to Krueger.

done, followed by Mt. Clemens and Flint Northern.

Then it was Grandville, Hazel Park, Lansing Eastern, Wayne Memorial, Temperance Bedford, Portage Northern and Salem, Kentwood and Bay City Western all tied for 10th.

John Beaudoin led the way for the four-man Rock delegation, claiming his second consecutive state title. But he wasn't the only Salem grappler to turn in a solid performance.

Tom Walkley (198) opened the two-day event held at Lansing Eastern by dropping a close decision to the eventual state champion.

That meant the speedy senior had to battle his way back through the loser's bracket to place in the state event and he did.

He downed a trio of opponents, including Milford Lakeland's Steve Spewock, the youngster who had earlier walked off with the district and regional titles in the tourneys Salem took part.

Finally, Walkley battled John Vorrice from Flint Northern for fifth and sixth place and came out on the short end of a 4-2 score.

The news was anything but good for the Rocks' John Wochuk (155). He lost his first two matches, the first by a pin, and was delegated to the role of spectator the rest of the tournament.

And while the news wasn't a whole lot better for little Rick Vershave (98), at least he's got next year to look forward to, according to Krueger.

Vershave wound up almost taking his second match, losing in the final seconds, after dropping his first. And the youngster who squeezed past Vershave went on to place fifth in the state.

"It was definitely a good experience for him," Krueger noted.

Trio of Chiefs compete at state

"That's what is important," he insisted. "You don't want to get pinned in 10 seconds or lose real big, and they didn't."

"I'm real proud of our guys. I thought they represented the community well. Three is the most we've ever taken to the state meet, and I thought during the course of the season the whole team did a nice job."

Both Todd Bartlett (112) and Tim Collins (126) lost opening round matches. However, both triumphed the next time they took to the mats, staying alive in their quest for a top six finish.

But that was the end of the line for both

Chiefs; Bartlett in his next match dropped a 1-0 heartbreaker to a kid from Trenton, while Collins also lost a close one, falling, 1-0.

Senior Marty Heaton had his problems. His season came to a quick end when he lost his first two matches.

"The state tournament is a long grind," Chrenko explained. "Really there's only one happy team and one happy kid in each weight class. Everyone else leaves thinking about how they've got to do better."

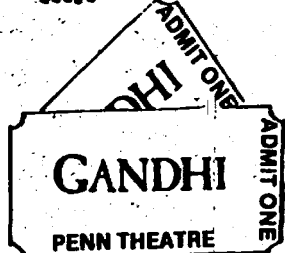

"I'm already looking forward to next year with a state (Collins) and regional (Larry Janiga) qualifier coming back for next year."

boards to lead his club to the victory. Cohen normally gets a fair amount of playing time, but foul trouble to Salem's top two scorers, Dave Houle and Glenn Medalle, forced Rock coach Fred Thomann to go with Cohen almost the entire second half.

It was a move the soft-spoken Salem mentor didn't regret.

"John has been playing like that for us," Thomann insisted to a large group of reporters assembled to interview him following the presentation of the trophy, symbolic of supremacy in the WLAA basketball ranks.

"It certainly wasn't unexpected. He has been rebounding well and he can hit his shot."

However, Cohen wasn't the only Rock reserve to respond to the challenge and help the home side silence the large visiting crowd on hand to cheer on the Spartans.

"It came down to our eight against their five," Thomann noted. "Houle went down with fouls, Medalle went down, too, and we won the game without them."

"You can't expect to win games unless good players can step in off the bench and perform. I'll tell you, it has been hard finding playing time for all of our guys."

"It's tough to sit on the bench and have to wait for your turn when you know you're good enough to play."

Stevenson's Tom Domako grabbed the game-high scoring honors, hitting for 19 points. And even though he almost cracked the 20-point barrier, Thomann was pleased with the defensive play of Medalle whose task it was to try and stop the 6-foot-7-inch junior.

Cohen paced the triumphant Salem scoring attack with 16 points, but he wasn't the only Rock to wind up in double figures. Houle, despite fouling out with 3:00 left in the game, notched 15, while Zurek added 11 and Medalle and Matt Broderick each tossed in 10.

The showdown for the top spot in the league was a bruising affair. Both sides got into early foul trouble, forcing Thomann and Stevenson coach George Van Wagoner to go to their benches.

The Rocks took the lead for good when Broderick hit a 20-foot jump shot with :43 left in the third quarter. Cohen, meanwhile, sank three of the seven baskets

Salem posted in the period, and 10 of the home side's 19 points to keep Salem within striking distance.

Twice early in the fourth quarter the Spartans pulled to within one, but a basket by first Cohen and then Rick Berberet held off the Stevenson victory bid.

Finally, six unanswered points by the Rocks, starting with a basket by Zurek at the 1:25 mark, and ending with Broderick hitting both ends of a one-and-one with :32 left, sealed the Spartans' fate.

"It's been a marvelous 20 games," Thomann admitted with a grin. "We met the challenge of our schedule and met and beat the best team in our area."

an emotional letdown after Saturday's victory over Stevenson."

For awhile Monday night, it didn't look like the Rocks would get the chance to meet Northville for a third time. The Zebras from Wayne Memorial jumped out into a 15-13 lead at the end of one quarter, but by halftime the home side was on top, 28-22.

Starting center Dave Houle and the rest of his mates followed up a strong second stanza with an equally impressive third period, going up, 45-31, to put the game out of reach.

Houle led a contingent of three Rocks who wound up scoring in double figures. The 6-foot-4-inch demon on the boards tossed in 13 points before fouling out late in the game, while Glenn Medalle and Marv Zurek each got credit for 11 points.

The grind continues, however, tonight (Wednesday) when for the second time in five days the Rocks will square off against an opponent with only a day's rest between games.

Thomann's troops take on Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) rival Northville in a confrontation the Mustangs have "had since Thursday to get ready for."

And despite the fact the Rocks have already knocked off the visitors from Northville twice already this season, Salem cannot afford to take the Mustangs lightly, according to Thomann.

Offsides: No fan support

Guide, and one of the schools I covered was St. Alphonsus.

St. Alphonsus is a tiny parochial school with a student body of 800 and, despite its lack of bodies, the stands are always packed whenever the Arrows play at home.

Granted, the stands are small. How small? Well, on a good night they can squeeze in maybe 500 skinny fans if they're lucky.

However, the size of the seating area isn't the point. What's important is that the small student body turns out en masse to support the Arrows.

The same definitely cannot be said about the students of Salem and Canton. Why?

To be honest, I don't have any answers. I can point out the problem and complain about it, but I can't supply any easy solution. That's because there is no easy way to interest the Rock and Chief student bodies in their respective athletic programs.

Maybe today's students are more sophisticated and simple games, like basketball and football, don't interest them. I can see where continuously feeding quarters into a machine to zap aliens and blast spaceships is much more exciting than watching Salem's Glenn Medalle out-leaping players six inches taller than him to grab a rebound.

I don't know, maybe I'm just a sports junkie who can't get enough of watching athletes pitting their skills against one another. The drama and excitement of a close game, whether it's football, basketball baseball or la crosse, gets my juices flowing.

But, I guess not everyone is like me.

Prayer to the Holy Spirit:

Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideal; You who give me the Divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and You who are in all the instances of my life with me, I in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once again, that I never want to be separated from You, no matter how great the natural desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual Glory. Thank you for the love You've shown toward me and my loved ones.

Pray this prayer for three consecutive days without asking your wish. After the third day, your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted.
