Back in custody

ON THEIR WAY back to Detroit House of Correction in Plymouth Township last Thursday were inmates William E. White and John J. Poe (both above), following a short-lived escape. Three inmates were discovered missing by prison officials at the 6 p.m. check on Sept. 8. One man was captured attempting to escape, and White and Poe were soon apprehended by correctional officers James Hartson and Ernest Chatman, with an assist by Plymouth Police Officers Ed Ochal and Jerry Vorva. ## New crackdown on OUILs planned

BY CHERYL EBERWEIN

The Plymouth-Canton Community is toughening its stance on drunk drivers.

In an effort to crackdown on the number of alcohol-related accidents and arrests, police officers in Plymouth and Canton will participate in a five-community traffic control alcohol program. The program, funded through a federal grant, is scheduled to start the first week in October. It will put four additional police units on targeted streets weekly.

According to Officer Robert Henry of the Plymouth Police Department, the program will coordinate police efforts between Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville, Northville Township and Canton. All five communities are serviced by 35th District Court.

Extra police officers will be assigned to patrol certain stretches of road in each of these communities. The program will enlist overtime officers to handle the extra patrol hours, and each department will send police help to the targeted areas.

The use of overtime officers will not affect regular police services, Henry said.

High-risk accident areas have been identified in each of the communities, Henry said. Risk areas were also identified by the time of day or night when most dangerous. Officers from each department will choose one community a week to concentrate patrol efforts on.

"Each department will send a one-car, one-man police unit to these designated areas to provide extra traffic patrols," Henry continued. "This means that officers from Canton and Northville will be patrolling the high-accident areas in Plymouth one week, while Plymouth officers will go to Northville and Canton the next."

Departmental coordination was a necessity in securing a federal grant for an alcohol enforcement program, Henry said. The Downriver, Western Wayne County Traffic Officers Association applied with the State Office of Highway Safety to secure funds for extra alcohol enforcement.

The Association was granted $100,000 for the alcohol program. Approximately $20,000 of this will go to the five communities serviced by the 35th District Court. The other $80,000 will be split between the four other service areas in the Association.

"Each of our communities will receive approximately $5,000 for the program," Henry said. "The money will be used to pay officers overtime for the extra patrol hours. It will be used exclusively for this purpose," he added.

The first week in October, all five communities will concentrate on patrolling targeted areas in Canton. The second week, the police officers will patrol streets in Plymouth and Plymouth Township and the third week the officers will patrol the Northville-Northville township area. Then the officers will go back to Canton.

Although police officers are not authorized to write tickets outside of their community, participating departments will be deputized by the Wayne County Sheriff to write tickets in any of the communities under state and county ordinances.

This authorization, while splitting ticket revenues between the state or county and the community in which it was written, will simplify court proceedings, Henry said.

"We'll act as auxiliary deputy sheriffs while on alcohol patrol," Henry said.

Ticket authorization was not the only thing which required coordination between the police departments participating in the program. Lieutenant Dennis Joker of the Canton Police Department said other factors also needed to be worked out.

"Canton is on a different radio frequency than the other three departments," Joker said. "We're working now to coordinate our radio broadcasts."

Joker also said lock-up procedures varied among the departments and would require some advance communications.

"The officers are looking forward to this program though," Joker said. "It will offer them new territory and different duties. While an officer is on alcohol patrol, he won't have to take regular runs unless it's an absolute emergency."

Community Fund kickoff this week

BY CHERYL EBERWEIN

It's that time of year again - time to open your wallets and give generously to the Plymouth Community Fund-United Way.

This year the Plymouth Community Fund-United Way will mark its 40th year of service to Plymouth and Plymouth Township. Fund organizers have already planned this year's fundraising efforts and a kickoff company donation will be provided by the Ford Motor Company tomorrow.

Clarence DuCharme, executive director of the Community Fund said the annual fundraising drive will provide support for 13 local community service organizations.

In addition to these organizations, local collections will benefit an additional 12 statewide groups which also service Plymouth community residents.

The Plymouth Community Fund-United Way is an all volunteer agency which solicits funds yearly from residents and local employers for support of community service organizations. The group collected $343,000 in donations last year and hopes to collect $350,000 this year.

General fundraising chairman for 1983 is Larry Wasik; Judge James Garber is vice-chairman.

The fund was established in 1944 under

Fatal rollover

EARLY YESTERDAY morning, a Westland man died of injuries sustained in a rollover accident in Canton on Ford Road near the intersection of Canton Center Road. Robert Wayne Dawson, 19, became Canton's 11th traffic fatality this year after he apparently lost control of his truck shortly after 3 a.m. Tuesday. Police say the vehicle skidded more than 400 feet before turning over in a ditch. Canton rescue workers worked for nearly an hour to revive the injured Dawson, but the man later died in Oakwood Hospital Canton Center. (Crier photo by Cheryl Eberwein)

Symphony ready for '83-84 season

A familiar face will greet the audience at the inaugural concert of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra; Johan van der Merwe returns for his fourth season as symphony conductor.

Van der Merwe will lead the symphony in its six regular season concerts.

In addition to the regular season, a pair of special events have been planned. The Young People's Concert will be held March 17 and the Pops Concert will be held May 6.

The season opener on Oct. 16 will feature soloists Cameron Grant and James Winn. They will highlight a performance of Leslie Bassett's Concerto for Two Pianos and Orchestra.

Grant and Winn are both natives of Denver, CO, where they began performing together at age eight. Their European debut was made in 1877 with the Frankfort Radio Orchestra, and in 1980 the pair took top honors in the Munich International Two Piano Competition.

The concert will also feature a performance of The Fantastic Symphony by Hector Berlioz.

Violin virtuoso George Marsh will be guest artist with the symphony on Nov. 20. Marsh has studied with the Guarneri String Quartet and has taken master classes with Henryk Szeryng. Prior to his tenure as concertmaster of the Ann Arbor Symphony he performed with the Vaener String Trio.

Marsh will perform the Brahms Violin Concerto in D. The concert will also include music by Mozart and Prokofiev.

The Northern Ballet Theater of Livonia will headline the symphony's Dec. 11 concert, with a performance of Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker Ballet.

Two performances are scheduled; at 2 and 5 p.m. All students and children, regardless of age, must have a ticket to be admitted.

The symphony's first concert of 1984, on Feb. 5, will be entirely orchestral. The program will include three compositions: the Overture to Le Corsaire by Berlioz; Haydn's Symphony no. 104 "London"; and Rimsky-Korsakov's Scheherazade.

On March 4, winners of the Young Artists Concerto Competition will be featured. The winners and their programs will be announced later.

The six-concert regular season will end April 15 with a performance of Requiem by Verdi. The orchestra will be joined by the Grosse Pointe Christ Church Chorale under the direction of Frederick DeHaven.

Soloists will include soprano Beverly Rinaldi, mezzo-soprano Rosemary Russell, tenor Richard Mathey and bass Richard Anderson.

All regular concerts will be held at Salem High School. Tickets for all concerts will be available at the box office.

Single and season tickets are also available in Plymouth at Beitner Jewelry on Ann Arbor Trail; in Canton at Arnoldt Williams Music on Ford Road; in Northville at Four Seasons Flowers on East Main; and in Ann Arbor at Liberty Music on Liberty Street.

Single concert tickets are $6 for adults and $3.50 for senior citizens and full-time college students.

Free transportation for senior citizens is provided from Tonquish Creek Manor on the afternoon of each concert. There is also free babysitting available at the concerts.

Information on the orchestra, or the Plymouth Symphony Society, is available by contacting the society at P.O. Box 467, Plymouth 48170 or by calling the box office at 451-2112 Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Awaiting retrial, he wants to tell his own story

BY DAN BODENE
AND RACHAEL DOLSON

Ronald Hartwig, convicted 18 months ago for the death in August, 1981 of Stacey Hurrelbrink, says he didn't commit the murder.

Now awaiting a retrial on the case, Hartwig is confined at the Huron Valley Men's Facility in Ypsilanti.

And recently he was willing to talk about what he did the night that Hurrelbrink was beaten to death at the Old Village Inn in Plymouth.

The following is Hartwig's account: "I was going to start college at Schoolcraft the next Thursday. So I was doing some work on my 10-speed, because I was going to ride it back and forth.

I had a 12-pack and started drinking while I was working on the bike."

Later that morning he was joined by his girlfriend, Terri Stonerock, and acquaintances Darcelle Payne and Richard Rollin. Payne and Rollin lived in a house on Holbrook a few blocks away from the Old Village Inn, where Hartwig and Stonerock lived.

Payne was angry at Hurrelbrink, who had been thrown out of her home and had come to stay at Payne's house. Payne told Hartwig she was going to stop at a Furious, Payne headed for the park. Hartwig, Stonerock and Rollin followed.

Rollin left soon after. There was an altercation between Hurrelbrink and Payne and Stonerock, but it gradually cooled down.

Hartwig decided Hurrelbrink was in no danger from Payne and Stonerock. (He reckons that by that time he had drunk more than a case of beer and a half pint of whisky.)

'I was going to start college.' -- Ronald Hartwig

friend's house, then go home to tell Stacey to get out of her house.

But Hartwig went to the house first, to wake Hurrelbrink up. When Payne and Rollin arrived there was trouble. In a short while Hurrelbrink was thrown bodily out of the house.

After a short while Hartwig, Stonerock, Payne and Rollin met at a nearby restaurant and then returned to the Holbrook house. Word got back that Hurrelbrink was in a park close by.

Hartwig rode his bicycle around, and returned to the park to find Hurrelbrink. She was so upset that Hartwig rode off again.

At sunset he went back to the park and found Hurrelbrink, who had calmed down somewhat. He offered her a place to stay in the basement of the Inn. She agreed, and they fixed a bed in the hotel basement.

As he was leaving, Hartwig was met at the top of the stairs by Stonerock and Payne. The trio went to the house on Holbrook to have a party.

After a short time Hartwig got cigarettes and a beer and went back to the Inn to give them to Hurrelbrink. He went back to the party again.

Hartwig remembers Stonerock leaving Payne's home shortly after 10 p.m.

Sometime after 11 p.m., Hartwig went to buy beer. He ended up at an all-night store, and in the parking lot he bought drugs.

Hartwig wandered around for awhile and returned to the Inn very early in the morning. He found Hurrelbrink dead in the basement.

Because he was so "messed up," Hartwig went back to the Payne house for help. Payne went back with Hartwig to the Inn, and the two woke up Stonerock.

Hartwig helped move the body outside to the railroad tracks. He sat down on a couch in the back parking lot of the Inn, and passed out.

At about 6:30 a.m., Plymouth Police woke him up.

A break for Twp. taxpayers?

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

Taxes should be going down for most of the residents in Plymouth Township, Township Supervisor Maurice Breen said. "Our tax rate will stay the same or maybe be a little lower. It certainly won't be any higher," Breen said. Breen and the rest of the Plymouth Township Board has been working on the budget for 1984. The next budget study session is scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 14 at 7:30 p.m.

"Our tax rate, on top of the decrease in valuation that most of the home experienced in the reassessment, plus the school district's slight decrease - well the 84 tax bills received in December will be less - except for homeowners who have raised the value of their property through improvements," Breen said.

"We are going to have about the same budget we had last year - we are trying to keep costs down, offer the same services.

"We are planning some capital expenditures which have already been tentatively okayed by the board - such as expansion of the fire station (on Ann Arbor Road)," Breen said.

The board is considering "finishing" the township hall as well, adding some needed offices and a medium sized conference room. Architect Stanley Tkacz presented the board members with several expansion options at their Tuesday, Sept. 6 meeting.

The board, Breen said, has been trying to space construction and expansion projects out over the years so that the township is not financial strapped by huge construction efforts in a single year.

The township hopes to get a $485,000 grant to finance the municipal building expansion, the fire station addition and some other projects which have been discussed with the township board such as: asphaltting the parking lots and the senior center and the township golf course, adding a sprinkler system and renovating the DPW garage into office and meeting areas.

The cost of the police contract with the City of Plymouth has increased to $470,000 but the other budget remains substantially the same, Breen said.

General township services will eat up over 40 per cent of the budget, police and fire combined will take another 40 per cent or so; parks will be five per cent, building and engineering three per cent, capital expenses four per cent (or more depending on grants), other grant work will take three per cent of the total budget.

Following recent trends, more money is being spent on the library, parks and recreation, and senior citizens programs, Breen said. The cost of refuse collection has decreased.

Other increases in expenditures are in the areas of training, uniforming and paying the community service officers; and new fire department radio equipment.

Possible areas where the township could see some added revenue are: building and engineering fees (since building has increased with the improved economy) and district court expenses, which were a $60,000 loss item last year.

The township must approve a tentative budget for public inspection by Nov. 4, Breen said.

There may be a wrong way to do the right thing... but never a right way to do the wrong thing.

Road expansion quarrel escalates over curb cut on main street

The continuing disagreement between a Plymouth businessman and City Hall has escalated.

Donald A. Keeth, of Keeth Heating and Air Conditioning at 400 N. Main St., objected to the widening of Main Street in front of his business and the removal of a driveway curb cut to his parking lot. He took his arguments to the City Commission, which voted not to counter City Engineer Ken West's recommendation on removing the curb cut.

Last week, Keeth wrote the city commissioners and City Manager Henry Graper to complain that on the morning of Sept. 8, West "showed up at my place of business... threatening to kick my ass and also threatened to sue me."

Keeth asked Graper to keep West off his property and to have the city stop harassing him.

Graper denied that West (who is on vacation as was unavailable for comment) said what Keeth attributed to him.

Instead, said Graper, West said "I'll knock your block off," and suggested that Keeth get an attorney to continue his fight against City Hall.

Graper has assigned Mark Hammer, of the city's building department, to handle Keeth's business since, he said, Keeth attacked West's credibility during the Sept. 8 visit with a Wayne County Road Commission representative.

the influence of Henry Ford the second and Walter Reuther. Both men thought there should be a better way to raise funds for local charities. Payroll deduction plans were introduced and organizations, like the Community Fund, were established through the Unites Way were established.

Although the Plymouth Community Fund- United Way is affiliated with the United Way, it is independent of other United Way organizations.

"One of the advantages of being independent," DuCharme said, "is that we can directly support local agencies which serve the needs of local people."

"Our business philosophy is 'We are here and exist to serve the needs of those who live and work in the Plymouth Community,'" DuCharme said.

DuCharme said all people who live and work in the Plymouth Community are asked to donate to the fund. "We ask those people who work in the community but live elsewhere to give part of their deductions to our fund," he said. "We also ask that those people who work outside the community fill out a pledge card giving half their deductions to us."

DuCharme emphasized that an annual pledge card must be filled out by non-community employees if part of their payroll deductions are to go for the Community Fund. Pledge requests can be obtained through DuCharme at the Plymouth Community Fund office.

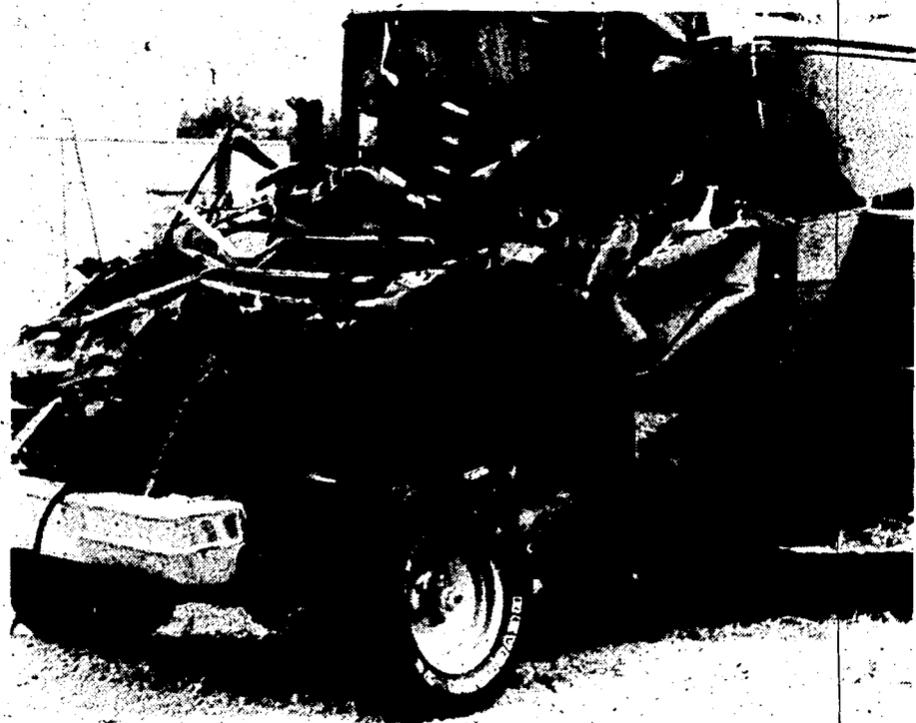

"We don't turn anyone who is in need away," DuCharme said of the services the Community Fund provides to residents. "If a person cannot afford to pay for a service, the Community Fund will pay for them. We support many agencies which, in turn, provide hundreds of services to the community."

Crackdown

Both Joker and Henry said the program should be effective in bringing the number of alcohol-related traffic incidents under control. Henry said the communities will re-apply for another grant to continue the program once initial funds are exhausted.

Roads in The Plymouth-Canton Community which are targeted for extra patrol include portions of Ann Arbor Road, Haggerty Road, Sheldon Road, Ford Road and Michigan Avenue.

VAN BUREN resident Larry Brett Kidd, 26, was killed Monday morning when his van ran into the back of a semi-trailer truck at the intersection of Van Born and Haggerty roads, police say. ## Van Buren man dies after van-semi crash

A Van Buren man died Monday of injuries sustained when his van ran into the back of a semi-trailer truck at the Van Born-Haggerty Road intersection on the Canton-Van Buren border.

Larry Bret Kidd, 26, of Belleville Road in Van Buren was pronounced dead at Wayne County General Hospital at 9:40 a.m., according to Van Buren police reports.

Chief Len Keller of the Van Buren police said the accident occurred at approximately 7:30 a.m. Kidd and a semi-truck driver were both traveling eastbound on Van Born Road 500 feet west of Haggerty. Keller said the semi-driver slowed down to turn into the driveway of the Meisel-Sysco Plant at this location.

Keller said Kidd did not slow down for the truck and ran into it at a high rate of speed. The top of the van was sheared off on impact, police said.

Canton firefighters responded to the scene of the accident and used the jaws to free Kidd. A survival helicopter from the University of Michigan Hospital was called to transport Kidd, but a doctor at the scene determined that he could not be moved by air. Taylor ambulance transported Kidd to Wayne County General.

City to begin paving project

The City of Plymouth will start paving operations on South Main Street late this week.

The project area includes South Main between Ann Arbor Trail and Byron. Traffic will be routed through the area, but access to homes and businesses may be temporarily blocked while asphalt is placed.

City engineers say motorists shouldn't drive over new road surfacing because repairing damage is costly.

The project is expected to be completed in about a month.

You can tell a good printer from a bad printer by the way they kiss.

Some printers know how to kiss. Some don't. Some will. Some won't.

A kiss is a delicate maneuver. It takes precision techniques and a lot of attention to detail. Mostly, though, it takes a willing attitude. It takes a printer who knows how and wants to.

Here's an example. Say you want a yellow square printed next to a blue square with no space in between. The trick is getting the two squares to touch. No gap. No overlap.

That's a kiss.

There are other examples using photographs, lines, illustrations, backgrounds and type. But generally speaking, a kiss is required any time two or more colors meet. Since kissing takes special care and attention, it's a good indication of a printer's overall performance. A printer who says no to kissing may be saying no to a lot of other things that spell superior quality and customer satisfaction.

We'll find you a printer who won't say no. We'll tell who kisses best for your job along with anything else you may want to know about layout and printing.

Collection fees: Cities want courts to clarify law

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second part of a three-part series on the one percent collection fee the City of Plymouth charges on non-city taxes it collects. The first article focused on the suit against Plymouth and six other cities; how it got started and what the arguments are. This installment deals with current motions before the court. The third article will focus on the future and possible outcomes and ramifications of the suit.

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

Over the course of six years the tax collection case before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Alice Gilbert has gone through periods of activity and periods of stagnation — right now the case is in a flurry of activity.

That activity, said city attorney Ronald Lowe, is due to the "new blood" infused on the case during the last six months.

"My father (city attorney Charles Lowe) turned the Plymouth case over to me," Lowe said, and at about the same time several of the other cities changed the attorneys who were working on the case, Livonia for example turned it over to their second-line attorney," Lowe said.

"Basically we had some new faces working on it. The Plymouth City Commission had just rejected the offer to settle that all municipalities had been offered. (Taylor settled for about 10 percent of their potential liability.) It was turned over to me, and I was told to do whatever I could," Lowe said.

Lowe the other "new blood" on the case masterminded a flurry of motions filed in late July.

The basis of the class action suit is the plaintiffs' contention that a collection fee — charging a taxpayer to collect his taxes — is unconstitutional. Gilbert has made two major decisions in the case, first she certified the class action (making all the property owners of the seven cities automatically plaintiffs in the case) and secondly she found that the collection fee is unconstitutional.

Arguments can be made that the collection fee is constitutional, Lowe said, but the municipal attorneys have decided to focus more on the impossibility, cost and confusion of any time of payback that Gilbert could order.

Some of the motions entered before Gilbert are:

RULES OF CLASS ACTION — the City of Plymouth has filed a motion asking the court to decide which general court rules pertaining to class actions will be used — the ones that were in effect when the case was filed or the ones which the state supreme court handed down recently.

"The plaintiffs want the best of both the old and the new — we want the court to specify which rules will be applied on the class," Lowe said.

RECONSIDER AND REVERSE — Plymouth has filed a motion concurring with the motion filed by the City of St. Clair Shores which asks the courts to reconsider its two decisions on the class action and general unconstitutionality. If a reversal is not granted, the motion asks for an evidentiary hearing.

FINAL DETERMINATION OF LIABILITY — Lowe has filed a motion asking Gilbert to decide if any, part or all the collected one per cent must be refunded — and if so, how the refund will be financed.

"In light of the partial summary judgement (ruling the fee unconstitutional) and the subsequent certification of the class only one issue remains to be addressed by this honorable court — that being the granting of appropriate relief," the motion says.

Lowe said, "We are basically telling the court to get serious or forget it. If she (Judge Gilbert) wants to grant relief she should tell us how much and how."

Once such an order had been issued, Lowe believes the case can be appealed. Previous attempts at appeals have been denied on the basis that the circuit court was not finished.

GRAPER AFFIDAVITS: Lowe has sought to establish, through a series of four affidavits from Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper, just how much a collection fee rebate would cost and how difficult it would be to locate past property owners covered in the suit.

Using examples of real property in the city, Lowe and Graper say they have shown that it would cost more (in administration and handling fees) to give a rebate than the taxpayer would make from the rebate.

"It's just a robbing Peter to pay Paul situation," Lowe said. "It's never going to work out to be an profitable situation for taxpayer — whether through bond, income tax or an assessment, he is going to have to pay for the city to find these people and give them their money back," Lowe said.

Lowe pointed out that in a similar case filed in Wayne County, the judge found the collection fee unconstitutional but did not certify the class.

School employe contracts closely tied

BY DAN BODENE

Plymouth-Canton district teachers and administrators have decided to take a less confrontational stance in contract negotiations.

But time may be running out faster for negotiations between the administration and other district employe bargaining units.

Following the failure of a strike vote on Aug. 29, negotiators for the teacher's union have decided to keep up the talks, and try to settle the dispute with the help of a mediator.

Teachers represented by the Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA) are presently in the second year of a two-year pact. Negotiators are seeking a new two-year contract with provisions for pay raises and cost-of-living allowances (COLA).

Bargainers for the teachers want a three percent raise each year, and between three and five percent for the COLA.

"It's really not significantly different from what (district negotiators) are offering except for the COLA," says PCEA chief negotiator Bill Bartlett.

Bartlett has headed up the PCEA team since the strike vote meeting. When teachers voted against the strike, then-chief negotiator Tom Cotner resigned.

Administration bargainers led by assistant superintendent for personnel Norm Kee say they're willing to ink a two-year contract, with provisions for a three percent raise the first year and a five percent raise the second.

Kee says, however, the COLA proposal is out of the question at this point. That's why both sides will be meeting with Michigan Employment Relations Commission mediator Ed Phillips. Talks refereed by Phillips are expected to begin as soon as Friday.

Meanwhile, bargaining units for custodial, cafeteria, teacher's aides and transportation workers are getting impatient.

Although the units are part of a coalition with the teacher's union and have so far agreed to stall strike plans, the truce may not last. Many of those employes have been working without a contract and they want action soon.

On Monday night UNISERV director Trav Griffin (who represents custodians, cafeteria workers and teacher's aides) appealed to the Board of Education to get contract talks "off dead center."

"There is no reason why we shouldn't have a contract," he said.

The overall situation holds many damaging possibilities. If teachers strike (with other coalition units sure to follow), the entire school program is disrupted.

If they settle for a one-year contract, Bartlett admits the problems may only be compounded. "With the temperament of the teachers at this point, I would certainly look for them to toughen up in the future."

A two-year contract sounds more workable, but so far the possibility has stalled because both sides have held fast to their positions. And every day the talks go on means more frustration. For everybody.

Finally, if support units go on strike while the PCEA continues to negotiate, teachers may face the prospect of crossing picket lines.

Phillips may provide badly-needed hope for a settlement. And everyone agrees a quick end to the controversy would be best, especially if an agreement could lay groundwork for less strained talks in the future.

Dust control: it's now a county responsibility

BY CHERYL EBERWEIN

Dusty roads no more?

That's the least that may be expected in Canton as a result of a Wayne County Circuit Court ruling. The ruling placed the responsibility of dust control on county roads back into the hands of the Wayne County Road Commission.

Judge Sharon Tevis ruled last Thursday that a dust palative program has historically been a part of road maintenance with the road commission. Tevis ruled that the road commission has jurisdiction over all roads not incorporated into cities and townships in Wayne County.

Tevis ordered the commission to start a dust control program of the same frequency and strength as it had run in the past.

C. Gerald Hemming, attorney for Canton, said the road commission told Canton and several other townships in 1981 that it would no longer provide dust control on county roads. The road commission placed the responsibility of dust control on the municipalities.

Although Poole and several other supervisors attempted to negotiate dust control responsibility with the road commission, Hemming said they were unsuccessful.

The townships collectively decided to bring suit against the road commission. They charged that the road commission was trying to undermine the structure of the state highway road system.

"Road maintenance is paid through state highway gas funds," Hemming said. "The road commission was trying to undermine this by transferring road costs to local residents irregardless of who uses the roads. They were attempting to increase the road commission budget by requesting that the townships set a road maintenance millage."

Hemming said a start-up date was not set in court for continuation of the county's dust control program. While a county appeal of the court decision could affect how soon the program is reinstated, Hemming said he was unsure whether or not the road commission would appeal the decision.

"Several representatives from the state highway road commission feel this decision has ramifications outside of Wayne County," Hemming said. "They are encouraging the road commission to appeal the decision."

Canton Supervisor James Poole said he felt the road commission would appeal the decision.

"This is an essential and crucial issue," Poole said. "We wanted the responsibility of the roads defined and we wanted it done immediately. This is a landmark decision and it will probably be appealed."

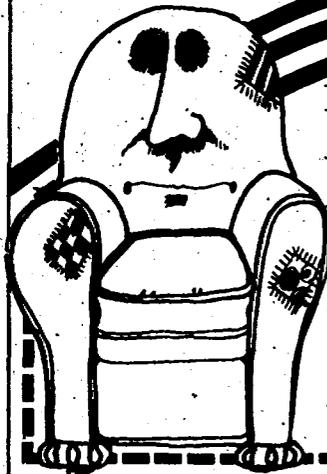

Poole said other townships throughout the state have paid to have their roads chlorided by county road commissions. The Wayne County decision could affect road commission responsibility throughout the state. Poole is asking the Michigan Township Association to help pay court costs as a result of the statewide ramifications the decision could have.

Canton has already split the cost of one application of chloride with the road commission this summer. Hemming said the court decision did not determine if the commission would refund these funds. A future decision on how township money will be returned is expected, he said.

Canton subdivisions nix Y' development plan

The Plymouth Family Community YMCA was nixed by some Canton residents - but Y representatives say all the negative feedback hasn't affected future plans.

The Y is seeking a location to build a new full service facility in the Plymouth-Canton-Northville area.

The Y site-planning board had considered two parcels of land in Canton. One site was a 144 acre site on Warren and Haggerty roads. The other was a 13-acre site on Morton Taylor Road.

Although the Y board originally favored the Morton-Taylor site, residents of Mayfair and Windsor Park subdivisions argued against the land as a potential Y location.

At the Canton board meeting held Sept. 6, residents of these subdivisions expressed objections to any building on the site.

"We want our woods left protected and uncut," one resident said. "These woods are an invaluable resource and we don't want anything to happen to them."

Although residents assured Albert Calille, vice-president of the site planning board, that they did not object to a new Y itself, they said a Y at this location would be a mistake.

Calille said responses from residents along the Morton-Taylor site have caused the site planning board to drop this location from further Y consideration.

"We have several other private sites we are equally interested in," Calille said. "We'll begin looking at these other areas this week."

Calille said he thought the selection committee would make a final site choice at the end of October.

This Fall Festival was one of the best ever

The 28th annual Fall Festival will go into the record books as one of the best ever.

It's easy to lay the credit on the weather - perfect for the entire four days - but, in reality, the success stems from factors more controlled by the thousands of volunteers who make the Fest into the charitable, fun-filled time that it is.

A number of positive changes were noticed this year:

- The new layout of the band shell, kiddie rides and firefighter-antique autos-motorcycle displays facilitated the movement of the crowd and allows for future expansion of the Festival.

- Support from City of Plymouth personnel at all levels was at an all-time high. DPW workers, police and firemen were pitching in at every obstacle. This helps not only the Fest, but the overall appreciation of our city to the thousands of Festival visitors.

- Although the number of Community Service Officers at first seemed a bit overpowering, the incidents of rowdiness at this year's Festival would have necessitated additional police protection without them.

- Merchant participation in the Fest was, quite possibly, the most successful it's ever been. A number of businesses celebrating anniversaries and grand openings tied into the Festival, although they did so discretely. There were no reports of "sidewalk sale" infringements and many businesses provided extra assistance to the Festival through donations of money, equipment, man (and woman) power, electricity and so forth. Most merchants reported unusually high sales for the Fest this year.

- Sharing The Gathering by the service club meals was arranged better this year than last.

But as successful as the changes were this year, there is always room for further improvement. The following should be investigated:

- Better coordination with the city's EMS squad needs to be established before next year's Festival. With the new locations of the Vogras Memorial Restroom Trailer, the Band Shell and the Moon Walks (all of which completely block streets), it took the EMS ambulance much longer than it should have to arrive at the Red Cross Tent.

- The smoke problem is still more of a hazard to Rotarian's health than it should be. While The Gathering has proven to be a good idea, the smoke exhaust problem was predictable. Without the roof overhead, the smoke was still there, but dissipated more quickly.

- Since there apparently will always be many last minute requests of the Fall Festival Board, one of its early August meetings should be designated as the last chance for public audiences and should be well publicized as such.

- If the Festival could add more benches along Main Street and more bike racks to encourage cyclists to leave their vehicles off the Festival grounds, all Fest-goers would be more comfortable.

- There must be some way to cool down the Plymouth Community Arts Council's show in the Central Middle School gymnasium. Each year, that room seems like a sauna. Possibly, it would be more comfortable just to have the artists-craftsmen line the hallways of the school.

Not all the problems can be solved for the Festival each year. But the pre-planning for the 1983 Fest made things run more smoothly than in past years.

The Festival Board has already begun planning for 1984 - and with luck and a few improvements, it will be even larger and better.

Are their interests selfish?

Is there a way to slyly present your own selfish interests while outwardly maintaining that the entire world is your real concern?

I pondered that question while listening to residents of Windsor Park Subdivision at the Sept. 5 Canton board meeting.

If there is a way, these people haven't found it.

Residents of the park, located off of Morton-Taylor Road, attacked plans the Plymouth Family YMCA had for building a new Y on a wooded site near this subdivision.

The wooded property was donated to the township under a consent agreement. The woods can only be developed for recreational purposes.

Canton offered the property to the Y because it was felt that the Y would fit the bill for recreational development of the land.

Residents in Windsor Park, however, had different ideas. This wooded area of land has become their land. Children can walk through this unique natural pocket and see what real nature is like. Residents

From the Inside Looking Out

By Cheryl Eberwein

are buffered from the daily reminders of human progress by this green belt. Traffic and pedestrian confrontation is kept to a minimum because little development has taken place in this area.

"We don't want a Y on this spot." "We want to save the trees." "We want to preserve this precious resource for future generations." "We want our woods to remain the fragile balance of climax forest and grassland that it now is."

These were but a few of the thoughts which cropped up over and over again at the meeting.

I'm all for preserving small pockets of green. I'm behind the concept of vest-pocket parks and green zones to break up the monotony and harshness of the world. But I can't back such concepts when they support the self-centered interests of a few individuals.

When it was suggested that the Morton-Taylor woods be turned into a nature sanctuary, most residents opposed the idea. Leave the woods and its delicate plants undisturbed, they argued.

But let's face the facts. The woods has already been disturbed. Common understanding should now dictate that only with much-needed care will it remain a natural area. While trails were seen as threat to the quality of this area, they would actually protect it from the countless hundreds of footprints which trample delicate plants and wildlife heedlessly.

Windsor Park residents aren't necessarily interested in saving the woods for the wood's sake. They seem to have their own interests at heart. I doubt many of them would protest the cutting of another beech-maple forest if it were in another part of Canton.

Okay folks, get your priorities and your interests straight. You want a nature sanctuary on township property for your use, but you're unwilling to take the necessary steps to get that sanctuary for all of Canton to enjoy.

While your children have not seem squirrels before, what of others who may not experience the grace and beauty of trillium, may-apple, and bloodroot because you have closed off what is not yours.

In Addition

By Dan Bodene

Say it ain't so, Popeye!

Last week, Popeyes Famous Fried Chicken and Biscuits sent me the results of their survey of working women. I already know that surveys are hard to take at face value, but Popeyes' contained a few eye-openers.

A cross-section (525) of working women from all around the country were interviewed by telephone. "Working women" were defined as those employed at least 20 hours per week.

The survey was completed by an independent New York research firm. The press release was sent to me by an independent New York public relations firm. My comments are those of an independent Michigan newspaper editor.

The press release stated that working women prefer male bosses 2-1. The reasons were that "men are fairer and more understanding," while women tend to be "petty, envious, power-mad and too aggressive."

Actually, the survey found that the majority of women felt the boss' gender made no difference.

Personally, the boss' gender makes a difference to me. I have been taught, coached and supervised by women throughout most of my life. I have yet to find pettiness, envy, power madness and aggression as exclusively female traits. Aren't those things learned, perhaps from males?

Almost 60 percent of women surveyed said they worked for a man, with 32 percent working for a woman. Three quarters of the women working for a female manager said the boss was fair, unbiased or exceptionally understanding. Only 66 percent of women working for a man felt the same. Aha.

As the official survey brochure put it, "Despite their preference for a male boss, women saw male employers less positively than female."

Another eye-opener was the issue of sexual discrimination in hiring.

The survey found that the majority of polled women felt there was no difference between men and women in job prospects. Another 23 percent felt a man has better prospects in the job market, and 20 percent thought a woman would have the advantage.

I've always found that in hiring, the advantage went to the applicant who was in the right place at the right time. Dumb luck, not sex.

Male-female relations at work: According to the survey, only eight percent of respondents found sexual wisecracks mildly annoying, and 40 percent accepted banter from the opposite sex as good-natured flattery.

What's that supposed to mean?

I don't know. The survey wasn't sent to me in its entirety. I don't know what questions were asked. I don't know how the survey firm differentiated between "sexual wisecracks" and "banter from the opposite sex."

In my formative years I learned the difference the hard way. The process began with slaps on the shoulder in high school. In a pipeyard in southern Louisiana my lessons continued, as my straw boss - her name was Cindy Latiolais, bless her calloused knuckles - whipped me upside the head with a Stilson wrench when my sexual references didn't include the proper frame of respect.

You can believe Dan Bodene has learned the absurdity of discrimination in the workforce.

I doubt if the New York people know what a Stilson wrench is, or how much it hurts upside the head. I doubt if many male bosses know.

The Popeyes' survey also asked its respondents to name their favorite "fantasy profession" from among 17 choices.

First on the list was company president.

Second on the list was TV news anchorwoman. I wonder if the research firm telephoned Christine Craft?

Volunteers needed

EDITOR:

Federal law requires that any school district with outside management of a school lunch program must establish and maintain an advisory committee. The advisory committee, in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools provides the Board of Education, management company and the administration with information and opinion on every aspect of the food service program.

This letter is to make the community aware that the Food Service Advisory Committee has been working with the schools for the last three years. We feel that during that time the food service in the district has improved considerably. We also recognize the need for continuing that improvement, and to that end would welcome anyone who is interested in serving on the committee to contact the membership secretary through the school district.

The following schools need a representative to attend the Food Service Advisory Committee: Bird, Farrand, Fiegel, Field, Gallimore, Hulsing, Isbister, Smith and Starkweather

Senior sluggers congratulated on league win

EDITOR:

The Canton Seniors Softball Team finished in second place with four wins and two losses behind Allen Park in the first-ever oldster league in our area. I'd like to take this opportunity to congratulate, not only the Canton Sluggers but the Garden City and Allen Park teams as well, for a great season.

I also can't forget to thank Superbowl for their sponsorship. They sure made us look sharp on the field. Next year we'll bring home a first place trophy to display there!

Think about others!

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter was received unsigned. Under most circumstances The Crier will not print unsigned letters, but a writer's name and address will be withheld if requested. In the case of this letter, Crier staffers felt the message was appropriate.

EDITOR:

To the Lakepointe break-ins: I think I know who is doing this, they are my neighbors and they were OK kids.

I think it's really sad that they have to get their attention this way.

Think about how stupid it is. Think about someone else. What about your family?

I'm sure that hasn't crossed your minds, but they are the ones who pay for these things. You never get over it. It's so selfish and disrespectful, it's sick!

I can say these things cause I know what I'm talking about. My family is still paying and it hurts us a lot, but the one who puts you to shame, doesn't really know until it's too late. So keep doing this if it's "cool" but you can't say you never thought about anyone else.

Please, let's grow up and not-be kids forever.

A NEIGHBOR KID

Flodin Park gets a big Boy Scout boost

LONDON BRIDGE, and all of the help filed under! While Assistant Scoutmaster Steve Boyd holds up a dead tree, three scouts work at pulling its rotted trunk loose. (Crier photo by Cheryl Eberwein)

Temperatures soared into the high 90's over the weekend, but that didn't dampen either the spirits or determination of Trevor Boyd and several friends and fellow Boy Scouts.

Trevor, a member of Canton troop 898 was in search of a project to obtain Eagle Scout status. He decided he wanted to enhance the appearance of Flodin Park on Saltz Road as that project.

Trevor was told by the Canton Department of Recreation that the woods bordering the park needed weeding and cleaning. So he and a group of 17 other ambitious residents began a two day maintenance program at the site.

"I'll have cleaned up the entire wooded area when I'm through," Trevor said. "I've organized the clean-up into shifts and areas. We'll work till we get it done."

And work they did, pulling dead trees and logs from the woods and cutting down weeds along the woods' border.

It looked, by Trevor's estimation, like a new park only hours after clean-up operations commenced.

And it was Fall Festival....

Excellent weather and good planning went hand-in-hand to insure the 1983 Plymouth Fall Festival was the best and most successful ever.

The four-day event was marred only by several incidents of rowdyism and the perennial bee plague.

Festival manager Carl Glass said this year's Fall Fest was the smoothest-running of the 10 he's participated in.

"It went exceptionally well," he said. "As far as real problems, there were none. There was a little bit of smoke from the (cooking) pits - I think the fans on The Gathering would be excellent on a calm day, but the wind hampered things. It changed direction all day. It was the first time in 10 years I've seen an east wind."

Rotary Barbeque chairman Don Skinner also noted the hazy conditions under The Gathering on Sunday, and said that city personnel followed up on the problems.

"Ken Vogras (city DPW director) said if it got too smoky he'd stand by the pits until the last chicken was cooked," Skinner said with a laugh. "And he did."

All the community groups who hosted daily meals - Plymouth Theatre Guild on Thursday, Lion's Club on Friday, Jaycees on Saturday, Rotary on Sunday and Grange on all four days - noted excellent sales.

Skinner, a long-time Rotary barbequer, said his group had no problem selling all its available lunches. Of 16,000 dinners prepared, all were sold except for 1,000 donated to the Felician Sisters and Opportunity House.

Problems at Fall Fest were few, Skinner said. "We did have one. We painted the cooking pits blue and gold, and sometime Saturday night someone got in there and painted them green and white. We must have had some Michigan State fans in there.

"We've kept people late to guard them in past years, but on Saturday night someone outwaited us."

Some visitors also noted the Ohio State flag atop the downtown National Bank of Detroit building, although for some time the banner flew at half mast.

The biggest problems were those fielded by police and community service officers.

Police Commander Ralph White said there was "A high incidence of rowdyism, starting with problems on Thursday and escalating Friday and Saturday. We never had so many problems before. I don't know what caused them."

White said most of the incidents involved youths and drinking. About 15 arrests and citations were made for open intoxicants and minors in possession of intoxicants, White said.

"I'm not saying any of it had to do with Fall Fest," he added. "It just happened to be relative. The Fest closed at 10 p.m. and the kids just kept partying. I don't know whether it will continue through fall."

Glass said the smooth-running Fall Festival was a tribute to foresight. "There was a tremendous amount of pre-planning by a number of people." For special praise, Glass singled out his assistant Mike VanderVeen, the Fall Festival Board, service clubs and city crews.

An uncalled-for sacrifice was almost made by DPW worker Tom Wolfe, who nearly lost a finger. Wolfe chipped a bone in a finger when the digit was smashed between a dumpster and a front-loader truck. DPW director Vogras said despite the injury, Wolfe hasn't even asked for time off.

"Administratively, it was the best Fall Fest ever," said White. "I think it was better organized by the Fall Fest Board. Traffic patterns were better and parking was easier because of the shuttle bus."

Captain Bob Degen of the Plymouth Fire Department said his rescue crews were relatively idle during the festival. "We had a few runs, but nothing serious. Mostly kids with scrapes and cuts, and a few bee stings."

And how many people were at Fall Fest?

Not even the police could tell for sure, but Glass hazarded a guess at "Way beyond last year's 150,000. There have been trained crowd estimators who couldn't figure out how many people were there."

Skinner summed up the weekend, saying, "Everything went great. The entertainment was great, the people were great, I just don't know what we could do to make it better.

"See you next year."

tell it to Phyllis

Once again Plymouth hosted a beautiful Fall Festival weekend. Congratulations to the thousands of people who worked endless hours to make the festival a success.

There are many ways of deciding just how successful the festival really was. You can count the amount of money made by the clubs and organizations, the number of people wandering the streets, the number of bees trying to share your food or the number of cars trying to find a parking place.

It's funny to notice how a person's mood changes between the parking lot and the street during Fall Festival weekend. In the parking lot I encountered a grizzly bear who yelled at me because he wanted the place a car was backing out of. I didn't yell back but everyone in the car heard what I had to say as I simply found another place.

Leaving the parking lot was just as bad. I admit I didn't see the no left turn sign at first, that the city installed for the weekend. However when I did see it, I turned on the right blinker to indicate I planned to turn right. The fool behind me yelled at me to turn right and kept blowing his horn. I yelled back that I planned to turn right as soon as my car would fit between the oncoming cars. Give me a break, you fool. Anyone with two eyes could see the line of traffic.

Once you were on the streets at the festival, it was great. Everyone was friendly and having a good time. It's the one weekend when you can wander the streets and greet friends and neighbors, many of whom you haven't seen in a long time.

There's no way of totalling the number of people or the amount of hours they spent contributing to the Fall Festival. From planning and setting up to all the booths, meals, arts and craft show, antique mart, and the many contests the participation was overwhelming. Congratulations Plymouth, you showed what community spirit is all about.

The warm fuzzies greatly outnumbered the cold pricklies. Hopefully next year someone will forget to invite the bees, and the frustrated drivers will decide to walk instead of yelling in parking lots.

Rocks triumph in season opener

BY BOB BUDLONG

The Salem football team kicked off their season Saturday in fine fashion.

The Rocks opened the year with a 12-7 victory over a strong North Farmington squad.

Naturally, Coach Tom Moshimer was pleased with his team's performance.

"I thought we played really well - better than we expected," he said.

Traditionally, Salem has been a strong rushing team, and this game was no different.

The Rocks pounded out 204 yards on the ground. Fullback Scott Jurek and the Rocks scored. Salem tried for the two point conversion, but the pass failed.

The high point for Salem was their overall performance.

"It was a great opening game for us. We executed exceptionally well for an opening game," Moshimer said.

Moshimer feels that Salem is on track for a big year.

"We didn't make many mistakes. There were some little mistakes, but they'll be easy to correct."

One of the games outstanding performances was turned in by Salem punter

"I was not disappointed with anything."

- Salem coach Tom Moshimer

quarterback Marc Tindall accounted for over 140 yards between them. Tindall also completed four of eight passes for 35 yards.

Ironically, both Salem touchdowns came as a result of passes.

In the second quarter, Ken Harmon picked off an errant pass and returned it 10 yards for the first touchdown of the year for the Rocks. The extra point attempt failed.

In the third quarter, Mike Galliers was on the receiving end of a five yard pass from Tindall. The ball was tipped around in the air before Galliers pulled it in for Chris Raymond. Raymond booted a punt that was officially measured at 55 yards, but was actually longer because punts are measured from the line of scrimmage, not the spot where the ball was kicked.

However, Moshimer acknowledged that there's always room for improvement.

"We have to work on our overall game. You either improve or you get worse. There's no staying the same."

Moshimer saw no glaring weaknesses in the Rocks game Saturday.

"I was not disappointed with anything," he said.

McBride, Johnson lead Salem Rocks roll past Chiefs

BY TIM McKERCHER

In the first big game of the season, the Salem girl's basketball team had all of the advantages over Canton.

Salem's advantages began even before the opening tip-off. The Chiefs had three starters sitting on the bench. Lou Ann Hamblin chipped a bone in her ankle, Tami Budlong also had a bad ankle, and Kathy Ross pulled a muscle in her leg.

The first quarter started out slow, both teams used a controlled pace and Salem took the early lead 9-3.

As the second quarter started Salem started to dominate. Dawn Johnson and Pam McBride hit back-to-back 15 footers to start things off. Terry Lesniak also got in on some of the scoring as the Rocks reeled in a series of baskets.

In a time span of six minutes the Rocks outscored the Chiefs 17-1. Salem played a tough man-to-man defense and controlled the boards. They scored most of their points on offensive rebounds and free throws.

With two minutes left in the half, however, the Chiefs started to catch fire. Marie Krashovitz showed leadership on the floor rebounding and ball handling and taking the ball to the basket.

Despite these efforts, the halftime score was lopsided in Salem's favor 29-12.

Krashovitz picked up where she left off as the second half started. She drove down the lane to record the first score.

Johnson and McBride led the scoring again for the Rocks. Johnson hit two freethrows and a fancy turn-around-jumper to keep the Salem lead dominant.

The third quarter continued with each team scoring in quick spurts. Salem continued to control the boards and get easy baskets inside. Canton got a fine performance from Diana Knickerbocker as she hit a couple of ten foot shots and collected some offensive rebounds.

The score at the end of the third quarter; Salem, 45, Canton, 24.

Canton did not give up hope in the fourth quarter. Nancy Gray came out scoring with a right-handed lay-up. Both teams started to tire at this point in the game and the Rocks forced some passes for a three-minute breather.

McBride broke things open with 4:58 remaining in the game with a ten foot bank-shot. The next seven points came on freethrows, Salem getting four and Canton getting three.

With seconds left in the game, Laura Darby hit a short jumper to make the final score, 51-34, in favor of the Rocks.

IT WAS HEADS-UP basketball on Sept. 6 as the Chiefs met the Rocks, who easily dominated the contest to take the 51-34 win. Both teams will continue their seasons tomorrow; Canton meets Farmington, while Salem faces Walled Lake Western. (Crier photo by Rick Smith)

COACH Rich Barr (below) watches his Chiefs intently as they drive through the Bentley line on Sept. 9. The effort wasn't enough, however, and Canton lost the contest to the Bulldogs. (Crier photos by Rick Smith)

Chiefs fall to Bulldogs in hard-fought start

BY TIM McKERCHER

The Canton football team got the 1983 season off to a rough start Friday night.

The Chiefs lost, 21-7, to the Livonia Bentley Bulldogs.

"I'm very disappointed," said Coach Rich Barr, "We are a much better team than we showed. We played better in our scrimmage a week ago," he said.

The first quarter started out dry for both teams. Canton did move the ball well in their second possession but failed to score.

"If we could have scored in our second possession it might have changed things," said Barr.

Things started to loosen up in the second quarter however and Bentley finally started moving things with 5:36 left in the half. Halfback Gary Sutherland was Bentley's primary runner, finding holes in the middle of the Chief defense.

When the Bulldogs moved inside the Canton 20 yard line the Chief defense started to toughen up. Seniors Dave Szary, Rodney Williams and Brian Callahan provided the hard hitting Canton needed.

With the clock ticking Bentley moved the football to the one yard line. Quarterback Steve Gregor called his own number in the huddle and found his way through the defense to score the first touchdown of the game.

Kicker Chad Darkey finished the drive by converting the extra point and giving Bentley a 7-0 lead.

Rodney Boyd tried to get something going for Canton as he returned the kick-off 36 yards to the Bentley 49 yard line.

Chief quarterback Jody Spitz kept the ball on an option on the first play from scrimmage and scampered nine yards. Boyd was the ball carrier on the next play and things looked good momentarily for the Chiefs when he went around the end for 13 yards. An official's flag ruined the gain, however, when Canton was called for clipping.

Spitz threw incomplete on the next play and Canton was forced to punt.

Gregor tried to move the ball through the middle of the Chiefs defense and found some success. His failure came when he dropped back to pass and threw the ball to the Chiefs' Tony Aiken. Aiken returned the ball 20 yards and just as two Bulldog tacklers were ready to pull him to the ground, he lateralled to Spitz to run for another ten yards.

Canton's luck ended on the next play when Spitz fumbled on an option play to the left side of the Bulldog defense.

With one second left in the half, Gregor tried a desperate pass but Ray Hyder was there to defend for Canton.

Halftime score; Bentley 7, Canton 0.

Williams kicked off for the Chiefs to start the second half. Sutherland received and was stopped by senior Jim Burczyk for the Chiefs.

Bentley had trouble moving the ball and senior Eric Wines ended the drive by sacking Gregor for a 12 yard loss.

After a good Bulldog punt Canton had the ball on their own 16 yard line. The fullback Williams drove through the Bulldog defense and things looked good for the Chiefs.

But Bentley linebacker Eric Tower stopped the drive when he recovered a fumble on the Canton 30. Three plays later Gregor dropped back to pass and hit his receiver Marvin Rons for six points. Darkey capped the 30 yard drive by converting the extra point.

Rodney Boyd had another good return

BY TIM MCKERCHER

The Canton boy's varsity soccer team started the 1983 season off with a bang as they toppled North Farmington 7-1.

Brett Neville started the scoring for the Chiefs in the first half with a goal assisted by Tom Wright. A Bryan Whitely pass set up Tim Mueller for the next goal as Canton jumped out to take the early lead 2-0.

Captain Tom Wright helped Canton increase their lead later in the first half when he took a pass from Steve Morell and fired it past the North Farmington goalie for a 3-0 Canton advantage.

Morell finished off the scoring in the first half with a goal of his own as Canton increased their comfortable lead, 4-0. Dave Hawkins was solid in the net for the Chiefs, holding Farmington scoreless in the first half.

As the second half got started, Wright kept things rolling for the Chiefs as he scored his second goal of the game. Greg Houston was credited with the assist.

Neville then came through again and scored a second goal with the assistance of Eddie Hintz. With 5:32 left in the game, Morell took it on himself to finish off the scoring for Canton, giving them a 7-0 lead.

Although the game was unofficially over for Farmington long before the final whistle blew, they managed to rally for one goal leaving the final score Canton 7, Farmington 1.

"We outplayed them," said Coach Tony Lonigro, "I played everybody and they looked good, there was a lot of talking going on, those are the things you need," he said.

Lonigro stressed the stamina and depth of his team as two of the factors in their win.

"We did a lot more conditioning this year because you have to be conditioned to play," he said. "We have a good balance of substitutes, last year we didn't have forward substitutes but this year we're strong. This year if someone's tired I can take them out," Lonigro added.

Canton dominated the throughout the entire game and ended up outshooting their opponents 20-3.

"We're hoping to do a little better than third place," Lonigro said, "We're going to be alright."

Canton takes on Farmington tomorrow at 4 p.m. on their home field.

BY TIM MCKERCHER

Everything worked out just as planned for Salem Coach Ken Johnson's boy's soccer team.

The Rocks won their opener 9-0 over Farmington Harrison. "Everything worked out just as I expected," said Johnson.

The first half was very close with Salem junior John Geddes scoring the only goal of the half. Mark Flower got the assist.

Salem blew things open in the second half, though, when Randy Johnson, the coach's son, was assisted by Flower in scoring Salem's second goal of the day.

Johnson then scored the next goal of the game. This unassisted play took the score to 3-0 Salem.

The team of Johnson and Flower combined for another coordination-packed goal with Flower as goal scorer and Johnson got to assist.

Flower scored again a few minutes later. He was assisted by senior midfielder Matt Crook. Ted Hanosh got into the scoring spree himself and Johnson added another assist to his list for the day.

Crook came up from his midfield position to tally a goal of his own and Johnson assisted again, to give Salem a comfortable 7-0 lead. But Johnson wasn't done yet. He also helped Ebon Nash and senior Jeff Neschiche score goals.

The final stats; Johnson five assists, two goals, Flower, two goals, two assists, Crook, one goal, one assist, and Geddes, Hanosh, Nash and Neschich with one goal each.

"This is the best team I've had," said Johnson, "We could go all the way," he added.

Johnson feels confident because Salem does not have to play defending state champ Livonia Stevenson in the first regional. "If someone should knock them out we could go all the way," said Johnson.

Both Canton and Salem are fielding strong soccer teams this season and Johnson gives much of the credit to the youth leagues which are developing the younger players.

"The youth leagues are sending more players up. A lot of the teams like the Bonanza teams, the specialty teams, are in full stride now," said Johnson. "When we began soccer three years ago at the high school we were getting the beginners, and they were good. But now they're ready as freshmen."

Salem will try to continue their winning ways this Friday at Livonia Franklin.

Chiefs now 2-1

Canton tennis wins

After three matches, the Canton girls tennis team is 2-1 Sept 7. In their season opener against Walled Lake Central, the Chiefs came out on top of a 5-2 score.

In singles play, Julie Sparks and Kristin Smith won at numbers two and three by identical scores 6-2 and 6-3.

Canton also won at all three doubles spots. The teams of Kelley Craig and Nancy Rinehardt, Renee Zens and Angela Kocik, and Jennifer Groll and Amy Huth all defeated their Central counterparts.

Two days later, Canton lost a close one to Ypsilanti 4-3. Missy Lloyd was the only victor in singles competition, winning 6-1, 6-3 at number three.

In doubles, Rinehardt and Ping Chou were victorious, as were Kocik and Zens.

In a match played Monday, Canton swept all seven spots.

Linda Sarafian, Lisa Hays, Lloyd, and Sparks all won in the singles competition.

In the doubles, the team of Smith and Craig won at number one, Rinehardt and Chou won at number two, and at number three doubles, the pairing of Kocik and Zens kept their record spotless at 3-0.

The Chiefs play Edsel Ford at home tonight at 4 p.m. and will also take to the courts Saturday for the John Glenn Invitational. Action will start at 9 a.m.

Rock netters lose two

The Salem girl's tennis team will have to put a little more muscle behind their racquets if they plan on matching last years fifth in the state ranking.

The Rocks have lost both of their matches this year. They were beat by Farmington Harrison 6-1 and Walled Lake Western 4-3.

Against Harrison, Anita Toth played first singles and was beaten by Kelly Davidson 6-0, 6-0. Lisa Maggio played second singles and lost to Joelle Lukasiewicz 6-0, 6-2.

Kathy Cragham played third singles and lost to Sharise Berk 6-4, 6-0. At fourth singles Barb Hanish lost to Jill Shaw 6-3, 6-4.

In doubles competition, Pam Swang and Kelly Theard played first doubles and were beaten by Amy Jacobs and Jill Brady 6-1, 7-5, 6-4. Sue Kwon and Marcie Walker played Diana Kool and Heidi Reist at two doubles and were beaten 7-5, 7-5.

The only win for Salem came at three doubles when Lisa Belsky and Laura Kroll beat Jennifer Marks and Lisa Marks 6-3, 6-2.

Johnson outscores Hawks Rocks handle Harrison

BY BOB BUDLONG

If you had to pick one word to describe the Salem girls basketball team's victory over Farmington Harrison last Thursday, that word would be 'defense'.

In an impressive display of defense, Salem held the Hawks to just 13 points en route to a 61-13 drubbing on the Rocks home court.

The Rocks held Farmington to only five points in the first half, and went into the lockerroom at halftime with a 24 point lead.

If Harrison had any hopes of a comeback, they were quickly squelched in the third quarter. Salem completely shut down the Hawk offense, and didn't allow a single point.

However, Coach Fred Thomann said he would have preferred not to play the game at all.

"Those kinds of games are no fun," he said. "It didn't make our players play to their maximum potential."

Everybody got in for the Rocks, and almost everybody scored. It was, according to Thomann, a total team effort.

"I thought that overall, our whole team really contributed."

For the second game in a row, co-captains Pam McBride and Dawn Johnson were the big guns for Salem.

Johnson outscored the entire Harrison team with 15 points, and McBride and Fran Whittaker each netted eight.

Thomann is counting on those three players, along with Michelle Dawson to pace the Rocks this year.

"I think that Pam, Dawn, Fran and Michelle really set the tempo. Those four are our key players," he said.

With the win, Salem upped their record to 2-0. They play again tomorrow night at Walled Lake Western. The junior varsity starts action at 6 p.m. with the varsity beginning at about 7:30 p.m.

Look to bounce back

Chiefs hurt by injuries

Coach Phyllis Cunningham Mulroy is not worrying about the injuries that have hit her varsity basketball team this year.

She's concerned about her team's defense and getting her young players to peak at the right time in the season.

"We're concentrating on our defense. We want to keep our opponents under 50," she said.

Mulroy said the second quarter was her team's weakest so far in the young season. "Defensively we're easing off," she added.

Canton lost to Walled Lake Central 68-47 last Thursday. The first quarter was played close with the Chiefs getting help from Diana Knickerbocker, Kathy Ross and Nancy Gray. The score after one quarter was Walled Lake 14, Canton 10.

The Chiefs' defense sagged in the second quarter as Walled Lake opened the lead to a 19 point margin, 39-20.

Canton pulled itself together in the second half. The Canton players outscored Walled Lake 14-13 but were still far behind 53-33.

The fourth quarter provided no relief for the Chiefs. They managed to outscore Walled Lake 15-14, but this wasn't enough to squeak by the final 68-47 score.

Knickerbocker finished with 13 points, Ross with 12 and Gray with 10. Lisa Russell led the Chiefs with five rebounds.

Can Mulroy make a prediction this early as to how the young Chiefs will do?

"In the Western Lakes you can't predict. I'd like to be up there and by mid-year we're going to be," she said.

Chiefs to face Rocks

for the Chiefs getting the ball to the 34 yard line. Spitz controlled the offense, using Burczyk and Szary to move the ball to the Bentley 34 yard line. Boyd used his speed to get the ball to the 25.

With 56 seconds left in the quarter, Spitz made the play that saved the drive. He dodged two Bulldog rushers and found Williams coming out of the backfield. Williams moved the ball to the 11 yard line.

With the ball on the seven yard line Spitz looked to his left and found Szary sprinting to the end zone. He connected and Canton had its first score of the season.

The remaining part of the game was a virtual stand-off with both teams having trouble moving the ball. Canton failed to move the ball on their last drive and Bentley took over.

With 34 seconds left, Gregor ran 16 yards for the last touchdown. Darkey's extra point made the final score 21-7.

Barr said, "It was both our not executing and our mistakes that hurt us."

Friday is one of the biggest games of the year to take place at the Centennial Educational Park football field, the second meeting between Canton and Salem.

"I think this game is a natural, it's there. We'll be ready for them," said Barr.

Barr has no changes in his game plan for the Rocks but does have a few player changes in mind. Burczyk and Szary will be primarily playing defense against Salem. Boyd will be seeing more time at offensive back along with junior Matt Flower.

"We feel that Flower and Boyd can handle the job offensively for us," said Barr. "And it will give us a chance to give the kids some rest," he added.

He also said that Williams will be used more on offense than on defense.

Barr said, "We could both be 0-8 and it would be exciting. It's a whole new season."

Curiosities

Dan Landers,
I'm having a guilt complex, I graduated from CEP last year and I feel like I should go to classes this year, but can't. What should I do?
Signed, Class of '83

Dear Class:
Guilt is not the correct term for your predicament; insanity fits the description more accurately. Take one semester of college and call me in the spring.

Dan Landers,
I have a neighbor who is a Junior High trombone player. I can't close my window to shut the noise out because we don't have central air. What should I do?
Dear Music Lover:

Treat the cause, not the effect. Record your neighbor's next "practice" session and play it back loudly for him at 3 a.m.

Dear Dan Landers,
Horrors! I have just discovered that there is mold growing on the soil in the plant in my office. My life is ruined, and will not be the same until this situation is corrected. Please help!
Dear Horrors,

Plant mold, sometimes called "Harold's Disease," is not harmful. Do not feel ruined. Simply place decorative dillies around your plant's base.

Dan,
Even though you had to buy your own bottle of champagne for your birthday, it was really nice of you to share it. Happy Birthday!

Johnny B. It just won't be the same around here without you. Keep away from those Jalapeno peppers. Good Luck.

Love, Mom & Dad
P.S. No John, you may not take the kitchen sink away with you to college.

All fast food businesses in the Plymouth-Canton area BEWARE. John Broderick leaves town on Sept. 18. Best of Luck.
Brothers Steve, Brian & P.J.

JESSICA calls Dad on the telephone all by herself now. She also enjoyed staying with Grandpa and Grandma and riding on DiPonio's wagon — thanks a lot.

DAN BODENE promises to start acting his age now that he's a year older.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY Jon Albert and Carrie.
Jessica and Ed

IT'S A GOOD thing Stan Polak was working Saturday — your keyless friend.

GET WELL SOON Great Grandma Bidwell and Uncle Clark Van Fleet —
Jessica

Curiosities

CURIOSITY: Planning Commissioner Greg Green received more votes in the 1981 General election than either the Mayor or Incumbent Comm. when they were elected in 1979. Join the growing popular support for this dynamic young man and his efforts for better government. Vote Nov. 1. Green for City Commission. 1083 York.

Dear Tim:
HAPPY 22nd BIRTHDAY! and remember that dawn comes after the darkness. I know you grow weary, but don't give up. I'm still in your corner.
