Youth killed while eluding police

BY DAN NESS
AND BRIAN LYSAGHT

A 14-year-old Garden City boy died of injuries sustained in a one-vehicle accident early Thursday morning in Plymouth Township while trying to elude a Canton police officer.

James Griffin was pronounced dead at 5:45 a.m. at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia due to heavy internal injuries, according to Canton police.

Police discovered after the accident that the 1976 Ford van Griffin was driving was reported stolen.

A Canton police officer witnessed Griffin go around railroad gates on Joy Road at about 3 a.m. and then weave in the lane, according to acting police chief Larry Stewart.

The officer, whose name would not be released, was driving in the opposite direction, turned around and turned on the emergency lights to stop the van, Stewart said. The van started to slow down, then drove away, Stewart said.

"It appeared it was going to be a routine traffic stop," Stewart said.

The police officer pursued the van, but lost ground while slowing down at three red lights, which the van drove through, Stewart said.

The youth drove west on Joy Road, then turned north on Haggerty Road, Stewart said. The pursuing officer radioed for assistance at that time, Stewart said.

A Plymouth Township police officer witnessed the van run a red light crossing Ann Arbor Trail. The officer followed the Canton officer at that point, according to Plymouth Township deputy chief Chip Snider.

The officers lost sight of the van "for maybe 12 seconds" on a hill on Haggerty Road near Hines Drive, Snider said. When the officers reached the top of the hill, the van was discovered crashed into a tree on the corner of Plymouth and Haggerty Roads.

Plymouth Township police are conducting an investigation into the incident to determine if the officer had acted properly.

Snider said a preliminary investigation concluded that "the officer was not actively involved in a pursuit."

The officers following the van did not know the van was stolen, because the report had not been filed with the central computer yet, Snider said.

"He operated within the confines of our policy completely," Stewart said of the officer. An internal investigation by the Canton police department concluded the officer's

Voters to decide library district fate Sept. 10

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT

City and Township of Plymouth voters will decide the fate of a proposal Sept. 10 which supporters say will grant greater autonomy to the Dunning Hough Library.

The proposal, if approved, would establish an independent Plymouth District Library.

On a second ballot Sept. 10, voters will choose nine at-large candidates from a field of 10 to serve on the district library Board of Trustees.

In effect, the district, if approved, would establish a new governmental body charged with overseeing the operation of the library.

If voters approve the district, the board of trustees will offer voters a proposal Nov. 5 empowering the district to levy up to one mill to fund library operations.

The nine-member board would draw up by-laws, a budget and set the levy voters would be asked to approved in November, said Dunning Hough Library Director Pat Thomas.

The board would also have to lobby voters for passage of the millage, she said.

Seeking election to the library Board of Trustees are: Jack Bologna, Janet Campbell, Carol Davis, Catherine Doetsch, Stephen Harper, Mona Irvine, Jack Kenyon, Judith Morgan, Betty Pint, and Mary Ann Prchlik.

Supporters of the establishment of the district, including the Friends of the Library and the American Association of University Women Plymouth chapter, say a district would offer the library greater funding and governing autonomy.

Community Fund goes for $385,000

BY DAN NESS

The Plymouth Community Fund United Way will be shooting for a record $385,000 in donations for the 1985-86 campaign.

Campaign chairperson Kristene Rautio of First of America bank in Plymouth announced the fund raising goal at the Community Fund Kickoff Dinner Thursday at the Plymouth Hilton Inn. Rautio then accepted the first donation of the campaign - a $5,000 check from Ford and the United Auto Workers (UAW) Local 845. John Peterson, Patricia Bartlett and Earl Taylor presented the check to Rautio.

The Plymouth Community Fund United Way helps fund agencies, including the American Red Cross, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Boy Scouts of America, Growth Works, First Step, Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, United Way of Michigan, Plymouth Community Council on Aging, Plymouth Salvation Army, Senior Citizens Club of Plymouth, Visiting Nurses Association, Plymouth Community Family YMCA, Michigan Cancer Foundation, Plymouth Dental Fund, Plymouth Family Service, and the Plymouth Opportunity House.

Duke Morrow will serve as the drive's vice chairperson. Division chairpersons for the fund drive are: Frank Meterko in industry, Ed Schulz in business, Russ Hoisington for the professional fund drive, John Howe and Carol Rudio in education, Esther Hulsing and Marie Morrow in government, Mary Childs for clubs and foundations and Esther Powell for residential fund raising.

Clarence DuCharme is the executive director of the Plymouth Community Fund United Way.

The Community Fund will again throw a '50s party, which raised $1,600 last year, and a "10 per cent sale" on Oct. 19.

Poll: city residents worry about burglaries

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT

What crimes are city residents most concerned about?

Burglaries, followed by vandalism, drunk driving, and speeding. This according to 176 responses to a city-sponsored survey mailed randomly to 400 residents Aug. 1-2.

Thirty-three per cent rated breaking and enterings their primary concern, 22 per cent said vandalism, 14 per cent drunk driving and 13 per cent speeding.

In another question, 23 per cent said they thought patrol was the most important police function, and 15 per cent said crime prevention. Follow-up to complaints, traffic control and juvenile services tied at 11 per cent.

"It's a barometer for us," Police Chief Richard Myers said of the survey. "It tells us what people want."

"We do understand that patrol is our most important function," he said.

The survey's questions were put together by Myers and Paul Sincock, assistant to the city manager. Myers said the sampling was a follow-up to a survey of police issues done last year by the consulting firm of Bartell and Bartell Ltd.

The latest survey also sampled citizens about the recent restructuring of the police department which began in July, when the city's police services contract with Plymouth Township expired.

Sixty-one per cent of the respondents said the change was unnoticed and 23 per cent checked the category labeled "More visibility," since the change.

Myers said he was encouraged that nearly one-quarter of respondents said they saw police more often since the reconfiguration.

"I believe that the average person, unless he needs a police officer, doesn't pay an inordinate amount of attention to their police force," he said.

He said he'd like to see the response to the same question asked in six months.

Myers said he is more concerned with the end result, that police are doing more effective work since the reconfiguration.

Myers said the department planned to pursue its crime prevention programs more aggressively. Ninety per cent of respondents said they hadn't participated in a crime prevention program and 68 per cent of that group said they were unaware crime prevention programs existed.

"I think that is a public relations and marketing problem that we're aware of," Myers said. The department is training more officers and its new auxiliary force to do crime prevention work.

When questioned about the frequency of police patrols, 31 per cent said police cars are seen only when called, 31 per cent said they are seen once a day, 24 per cent a few times a day and 14 per cent several times a day.

Thirty-nine per cent said a police car should drive down their street as needed, 35 per cent said twice a day, 23 per cent said daily and three per cent said hourly.

Man arrested in abduction case

BY DAN NESS

Canton police arrested an Ann Arbor man Aug. 20 in connection with an abduction of a four-year-old girl at Meijer's Thrifty Acres in Canton July 7.

James Chesley Stapley, 57, was arrested at his home by Lt. Al Wilson and Officer Rene LeBlanc after investigating a tip from Meijer's employees in Taylor, according to acting police chief Larry Stewart.

"We investigated a lot of tips," Stewart said. "This one panned out well."

Stapley was arraigned in 35th District Court the same day he was arrested, and charged with kidnapping a child under 14 years of age.

Meijer's employees in Taylor told Canton police that they had observed a man acting in a suspicious manner at their store, according to Stewart. Canton police used that information in arresting Stapley, he said.

Stapley is being held in the Wayne Co. jail on $50,000 bond. A preliminary hearing will be held Thursday.

School board OK's raises

BY ED FITZGERALD

The four superintendents for Plymouth-Canton Schools accepted $30,000 in raises for 1986-87 and 87-88. The school board ratified contracts for three groups of school employees Monday night at a regularly scheduled meeting.

The Plymouth-Canton Administration (P.C.A.), the only unionized group of the three, was given a five per cent raise for the two years (this includes all school principals and their assistants; area coordinators; P.C.A.'s president Cheryl Johnson). It was approved 7-0 by the board.

Non-affiliated personnel (approximately 30 employees, including community relations, Dick Egli; transportation director, Dale Goby; research and data processing, David Rodwell, Thomas Rose, purchasing agent, about 30 employees altogether) were given five per cent raises for those years. It was approved by the board 7-0.

The four superintendents in the executive cabinet of the administration were also given raises. Superintendent Dr. John M. Hoben, $73,524 (up from $63,697); associate superintendent Raymond Hoedel, $60,657 (up from $53,671) and $58,819 each for assistant superintendents Dr. Michael J. Homes (up from $52,728) and Norman J. Kee (up from $52,196).

The cabinet's raises were approved 5-2, with Lester Walker and David Artley voting no.

THE 1976 FORD VAN DRIVEN by James Griffin, 14, of Garden City, was demolished after hitting a tree at Haggerty and Plymouth Roads early Thursday morning. Griffin, who was eluding police in the van, was killed. Police learned after the accident that the van had been stolen from a Canton residence. (Crier photo by Chris Boyd)

Stewart: officer complied with department's policy

testimony was not contrary to the department's policy regarding chases, Stewart said.

"The officer was trying to drive prudently and safely," Stewart said. The officer was between three-eighths to one-half mile behind the van, "a considerable distance," Stewart said.

Stewart estimated the speed of the van during the incident to be "at least 70 miles per hour." The van hit the tree when it failed to make a left-hand turn onto Plymouth Road.

Canton police policy regarding chases is divided into many situations that may arise, Stewart said, but, the primary rule is not to endanger the safety of the officer or others in the area. The officer must make a judgement whether to pursue someone after considering weather and traffic conditions, and severity of the crime the vehicle is being apprehended for.

The officer was too far behind to provoke the accident, Stewart said.

Schools limit driving

For area high school students, it's no longer enough to drive a car to school. The real luxury would be to have someplace to park when they get there.

This year, Plymouth-Canton Schools has decided to limit the number of cars driven by students at C.E.P. to 600. Plymouth-Canton Schools has more than 2,100 students in 11th and 12th grades.

Bill Brown, Plymouth Salem principal, put it simply.

"We're restricting parking to 600 students because we only have 600 parking places."

No 10th graders will be allowed to drive to school. Other hopeful drivers will fill out pre-application forms, listing their reasons for driving to school. Work, co-op, and extra-curricular activities such as sports, music and theatre will be considered.

This form has been mailed to the homes of all students. If they wish to drive to C.E.P. they will fill out the form and turn it in to the office this week. School officials will screen the applicants and pick the select 600. Those will pay a $2 registration fee for a vehicle identification sticker.

Brown says he has checked with neighboring school districts and seen parking problems handled similarly.

"We believe the situation was getting out of control....limiting the number of students who drive will lessen the number of problems created by the traffic flow."

"This is the fairest way to determine those who need to drive to school," said Ken Jacobs, area coordinator for the district. "Our concern is for safety during peak times."

Brown said the final application had to be signed by both the student and a parent or guardian.

"This is so that parents know whether or not their student is authorized to take a car to school. It helps students recognize that driving is a privilege."

City considers rezoning farm site

BY BILL MARRIOTT

The 4.86 acres of land behind Farmer Jack's and some apartments used to be Clarence Moore's sheep farm.

Today, Moore is dead, the sheep are gone, and Jim Jabara wants to develop the land.

He asked the planning commission to rezone the land to build apartments and-or condominiums.

"It's an ideal area for two-story condos," the Plymouth developer said.

Currently, the land is zoned partly for apartments, mostly for single-family residences. Jabara approached the planning commission with a request first for RM-2, then RM-1 zoning.

RM-1 allows two story apartments and condominiums, while RM-2 permits denser, high-rise buildings.

But the planning commission decision-- a 3-3 tie-- fell two votes short of the required five for approval. Three members were absent.

"Had I known (three members would be absent)," Jabara said, "I would have asked for a change (in the date of the vote)."

"Jabara or anyone else seeking help didn't get a fair hearing," newly appointed City Commissioner Dennis Bila said. "I feel sorry for anyone requesting a hearing (when only six members are there)."

Member Dave Oppe said the planning commission did its job.

Six members constitute a quorum, he says, although, "If we had final say,

CREEK PATHS AND sheep bleating are the memories residents see when they look at this section of Clarence Moore's farm, behind Farmer Jack. Plymouth land developer Jim Jabara sees possible apartments or condominiums. First, though, Jabara must have the area rezoned -- that requires approval of the city commission, scheduled to vote on the issue at its Tuesday, Sept. 3 meeting. (Crier photo by Bill Marriott) that would be a problem."

The commission only recommends action to the city commission, which makes final rulings on rezoning issues.

Jabara had the option of re-petitioning the planning commission, but chose to appeal directly to the city commission. He says he also can build under a system of planned unit development, which approves new construction on a one-by-one basis.

"I'm hopeful about it, otherwise I wouldn't be trying," Jabara said.

Homeowners around the farm appeared at the Aug. 19 city commission meeting to talk about the rezoning, but found the vote won't be held until Tuesday, Sept. 3.

"I felt the character of the neighborhood was single family homes," Oppe said.

"I'd prefer that they didn't build anything," said resident Ruth Bartman. "They're putting up apartments all over the place."

Neighbor Don C. Watkins remembers the times he spent exploring the farm when he was young: "It's almost like a nature trail."

Trio studies township investments

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT
Is Plymouth Township getting enough bang for its buck?

A three-person committee was appointed two weeks ago to study township investment policies and determine if investments were earning maximum interest.

The committee, comprised of Treasurer Mary Brooks and trustees Jim Irvine and Abe Munfakh, was scheduled to give a progress report at last night's Board of Trustees meeting.

The township currently invests its money in savings accounts and 16-, 32- or 90-day certificates of deposit (CD).

A paper drawn up by township auditors Plante-Moran and submitted to the board, suggested the township consider combining its investments in a Super Now type account similar to an interest-earning checking account.

The paper also suggested the board consider investing some monies, like those in the water and sewer fund, in longer term instruments.

At the end of July, the township had $3,362,845 from the water and sewer fund invested in CDs, and another $108,845 from the fund in a savings account, Brooks said.

About $900,000 in general fund cash was invested in CDs in August, with another $219,279 in a savings account, she said.

Supervisor Maurice Breen told the board two weeks ago it should decide between the current conservative investment policy and an aggressive one which would maximize yields.

Brooks said she was unaware Breen had the auditors draw up the consideration paper until it was presented to the board two weeks ago.

She said CDs and savings accounts have held the majority of township investments since she has worked in the treasurer's office.

"When you buy a CD, you know exactly what the interest is going to be and you know you're going to get the principal back," she said.

She said she has always been conservative in investment policies.

"If (the investment policy) is going to be anything but conservative, it has to be board action," she said.

"Whatever the board votes, the treasurer will follow."

She said she charts current interest rates among local banks and said banks compete to get township cash. "I have my chart and when the CDs are due, I start making my phone calls at 10:30 or 11 in the morning. I ask the bank what their rate is. They know I'm shopping."

She said CDs offer higher interest and better meet the liquidity needs of the township than other options like government notes, commercial paper or treasury bills.

She said she was scheduling meetings for the committee with representatives of National Bank of Detroit, Commerica and Manufacturer's Bank.

The paper also suggested the township hire investment counselors or managers to provide assistance.

Voters are scratching their heads over library district proposal

There are political books, political authors, books about politicians and politician-authors. But everyone knows libraries, those great book keepers, are apolitical.

Well...

Consider the Dunning Hough Library and the approaching election.

Voters will decide Sept. 10, in the latest segment of election sweepstakes, whether to establish a library district. Voters will also elect the nine member board to oversee the district.

If the district proposal passes, voters will see another segment of the sweepstakes Nov. 5. Voters will be asked to approve millage a levy of one mill or less to support the library.

Getting financial support for library has become a bit of a problem for library folk. They must get separate appropriations from the city and township each year. The city levies one mill for library operations currently, and the library budget is drawn up as part of city budget.

In the township, there have been Boston Tea Party rumblings. Some township officials don't like the expectation that they will match the city's appropriation every year. And the township is not well represented among the boards that run the library.

So a library district, in theory, would solve all these problems, hopefully without causing a set of new ones. The district board, if 'yea' votes prevail, will be come the new-kid-on-the-block of local public bodies.

And if the millage passes in November, the district will control its own purse strings, thus its own destiny.

But if the millage fails, the board will draw up a budget and seek appropriation from the city and township.

Passage of the millage would get about a $150,000 appropriation off the Plymouth Township books, where some juggling will be done next year to make revenues match expenditures following their recent millage proposal failure.

And rumblings have been heard that some township politicians don't want to continue funding the library should the district fail.

Which brings us to the inter-local agreement, a contract drawn up by city and township attorneys, outlining who pays what if the district passes but the millage fails.

The agreement has apparently been banished to legal purgatory. It hasn't been heard from in months. Neither the City Commission nor the Board of Trustees has given the agreement its stamp of approval. Obviously it should have been approved before the election.

Down The Road

By Brian Lysaght

It seems a great many people are unsure about what this library district stuff is all about. Low voter turnout is expected Sept. 10.

District supporters have done a rotten job of lobbying for its passage. If the district passes despite that, supporters will have to sharpen up their act for the November vote. Voters surely won't approve millage when they don't understand its purpose.

So supporters may have to read the political book to ensure the Dunning Hough Library gets the district and millage it deserves.

Library deserves your vote

EDITOR:

Any voter in the Plymouth Community who has visited our library should be in favor of establishing a library district to provide the firmer foundation deserved and needed by this facility which is as important to us as our district-based school system.

With its accessibility, its wide variety of services and volumes of reading matter and its exceptionally dedicated staff, our library is in some ways a better bargain than our school system.

I urge you of The Crier to use as much ink as possible on this issue; so that on the 10th of September, those who have never visited the library will have been induced to try it; and that those who have enjoyed its services will be reminded to vote.

N.L. HANSEN

Thanks for fair help

We would like to thank all of the volunteers who made our Children's Health Fair (Starkweather School Aug. 14) a success. The event promoted health awareness, as well as provide important health screening for children. We feel extremely proud that so many community members came forth to volunteer their time and energy to make the fair an important community event for children.

District is a solution

EDITOR:

I am very pleased to see that the Plymouth District Library proposal will be decided by the voters and library patrons of the City and the Township of Plymouth. The district library is the only viable solution to the problem of having the library used as a political football by both the city and township governments.

This proposal will at last give the Dunning-Hough Library the financial security and the autonomy it needs to better serve the entire Plymouth Community. Having the Library Board elected district-wide will also ensure that the board will be representative of the entire community.

Chuhran misses point: what kind of salad dressing? Jim Poole eats room service salad!!

There is an attitude among the many in America that government does not include them, that it is too big for them, that it does not concern their problems and that it does not care.

I, for one, used to believe that government had good intentions, but, was simply too abstract and complex to be interesting to the average citizen.

That is, until the Canton Board of Trustees met a couple of weeks ago.

While matters on liquor licenses, landscaping awards and millage caps waited to be discussed, the board heard arguments, both pro and con, concerning Supervisor Poole's judgement on a dinner menu.

It seems Poole had ordered salad from room service while staying at a Holiday Inn in Washington, D.C. instead of going downstairs to eat in the restaurant.

I, being new to township governments, figured these public servants

To The Point

By Dan Ness

could debate the complicated issues of salads, steaks and dinner rolls within a few minutes.

But, I was wrong.

I should have known it would take longer the minute Clerk Linda Chuhran turned on the overhead projector with a transparency of Poole's hotel bill on the screen. The salad issue was examined for nearly 20 minutes, which would have been just enough time for those in attendance to dash to a local fast food joint and come back for the rest of the meeting.

But, then they would have missed Chuhran asking why Poole didn't eat in the restaurant downstairs instead of ordering through room service.

And, they would have missed Poole defending his actions, saying he saved money by ordering salad through room service instead of ordering an entire dinner in the restaurant.

One citizen, not satisfied with Poole's reasoning, suggested that Poole, instead of ordering a steak in the restaurant or salad from room service, order the salad in the restaurant next time.

Actually, most of the trustees were not as fascinated by Poole's ordering habits as were others at the meeting. Trustee Stephen Larson wondered aloud if any specific allegations of wrongdoing were being charged and if it was worth the time discussing Poole's ordering habits at a board meeting.

As the Great Salad Debate continued, eyes rolled, feet tapped, stomachs probably growled and the show went on. For 20 minutes.

I suppose someone could figure out how much it cost to make an overhead transparency of the hotel bill, and how much money the extra meeting time cost, but, some things are best left for lunch-hour arguments.

And, some subjects, like salads, are not worth the time they take to argue about. Especially at a township meeting.

City rec program is great reason to live here

If you were around here at the time of the City of Plymouth's centennial celebration in 1967, you will recall that construction of an indoor ice rink was one of the ideas suggested as a lasting memorial of the occasion. From that acorn grew the eventual plans for the Community Cultural Center, which was dedicated in September 1972. In retrospect, that was one of the best moves ever made in Greater Plymouth.

You see, it took the unselfish cooperation of the governing bodies of the city, Plymouth Township, Canton Township and the Board of Education to bring it about, with the ultimate result that its facilities are open to residents of the entire school district.

It's not just an ice rink after all. Sure, it does have such an arena and it's in tremendous demand. But it's an overall "people palace" which serves thousands of citizens a year in multiple social and recreational ways.

Exercise classes, card parties, dances, arts and crafts instruction, study groups, tax assistance lectures, wedding receptions and even church gatherings constitute only a small sampling of its bookings, all of them handled through the office of Chuck Skene, the city's 34-year-old director of parks and recreation.

A long-standing policy has been the free use of the Cultural Center by any senior citizens group within the school district, meaning persons 62 years of age or older, and indeed it's a rare day when they're not in evidence.

Skene, a product of Northville High School and Eastern Michigan University, had held his post for nine years and is a man in love with his job. Not only has he been trained in the recreational field, his great strength is in the fact that he enjoys working with people — and he estimates that an average of 13,500 participate in the overall recreational program every month.

"Canton itself also has an awfully good program, under direction of Mike Gouin," said Skene recently. "One of Canton's major advantages is land availability. Ours is a landlocked community; I've got no place to grow. There's no room for new recreation facilities.

"Besides this building, I use every school at one time or another. There is overlapping with the junior athletic associations — basketball, baseball, football and hockey — and we have a number of activities that are cooperative, mostly with Canton. Recreation is a wonderful example of intergovernmental cooperation."

It's delightful to hear someone speak so highly of relationships between our ruling bodies, particularly in a summer marked by back-stabbing on certain other fronts. It leads to the following suggestion.

Next week, as you know, downtown Plymouth will be alive with the excitement engendered by our 30th annual Fall Festival. Quite likely many of you will be entertaining guests from other cities. It is with pride that you can guide them to the Cultural Center, at Farmer and Theodore streets behind Central Middle School, and show it off as classic evidence of why your own family chooses to live here. It may even open your own eyes.

Through Bifocals

THE CULTURAL CENTER has provided a forum for a mixed-bag of ice skating, meeting hall and other recreational activities. It's the pivotal point in the City's recreation program — like this 'Ice Spectacular.' (Crier photo by Chris Boyd)

Cantonite knows there's only one King

BY ED FITZGERALD

Oh no, not another Elvis Presley impersonator.

To some, it might seem half the country, in its spare time, dresses up as The King.

Elvis was back in headlines this month as his fans celebrated the eighth anniversary of his Aug. 16, 1977 death.

Choosing to ignore the event was an unlikely person, Danny Vann of Canton, who on weekends entertains folks with his Elvis act.

Vann, is married, has two children and works as a programmer analyst. But it's not his comfortable subdivision life separating Vann from other Elvis impersonators. He shuns Elvis commercialism, and unlike what he calls "hawkers," Vann truly loves Elvis tender.

Vann is one who'd rather celebrate birthdays than deathdays. At a recent show in Royal Oak, Vann insisted the flyers mention it was "a celebration of life". He has a slightly sarcastic suspicion of why Elvis' death, instead of birth, is commemorated.

"You want to know why they do that," Vann says with slightly clenched jaws, covered by wide sideburns.

"Nobody wants to stand out by Graceland (Elvis' birthplace) in January." Elvis was born on January 8, 1935.

"The crap that goes on with the hawkers -- I'm sorry, but I'm very negative about that."

Vann doesn't like most of the flash that sometimes goes hand-in-hand with remembering Elvis. Vann started impersonating Elvis at the age of 15 in 1968, when he was given his first guitar. He slowly built his act, adding a band, and soon played parties and weddings.

"At first, I wasn't going to dress up like Elvis, I was going to resist the jumpsuit," Vann says.

But his fans (his fan club quarters in Saginaw) wanted the complete Elvis.

"A woman in Saginaw, who had been following my shows wanted the jump suits. Finally she gave me a white jump suit for Christmas. I made the show more Las Vegas-style. I dance around and I do some of the karate moves."

DANNY VANN of Canton prefers to celebrate Elvis Presley's birthday not his death's anniversary. Vann's concerts are "a celebration of life." (Crier photos by Ed Fitzgerald)

Vann says he has jumpsuits of white, blue, black, red, gold and black. He says the suits are hot (temperature-wise), but as if consolation, Vann says "they were hot on Elvis too."

Vann likes to say, and in fact, used to announce during his show, that he "is not Elvis."

"No one can be Elvis," Vann says. "I guess he is my idol. But after 20 years of studying to be like him, I've realized that what Elvis was really all about was that he was unique, one-of-a-kind."

"Eight years after he died, Elvis has taught me to be myself."

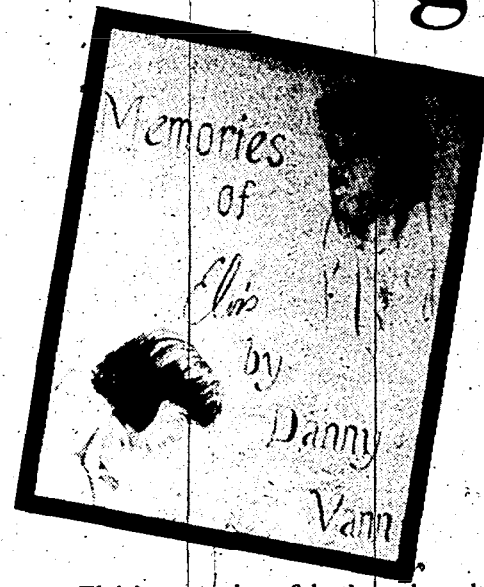

Vann doesn't like to compare himself to other Elvis impersonators.

In a scrapbook kept "diligently" by his wife, there's a letter from a Las Vegas nightclub manager thanking Vann for a performance, and calling him one of the best Elvis impersonators. Another top national Elvis authority, John Stewart, ranked Vann as the country's third-best Elvis impersonator.

"A lot of impersonators say they're better than Elvis," Vann says. "I don't. Elvis himself was special because he had humility. When you lose humility you're one step away from defeat."

But just why are there so many Elvis impersonators?

"It's because Elvis was so multi-faceted," Vann says, "more so than any other entertainer. I can play Elvis to people dressed in tails or beads. You can just do a piece of Elvis," referring to Elvis' repertoire of both rock and romantic songs.

"He could relate to everybody," Vann says of the man Ed Sullivan would televise from the waist up only. "If I had grown up when Sinatra was (popular) I might have felt the same way for him, but I don't think so."

Vann says he questions the motives of some Elvis impersonators, saying "they might do it for the money, or the girls, or whatever."

Vann doesn't want to do just another Elvis impersonation. He knows it's easy to get away with doing "Elvis."

"You don't have to swoon and croon. If you just sing "Blue Suede Shoes" people will think you're...decent."

Vann says he's at a crossroads in his career. This year he recorded and co-wrote a song called "Broken Hearts," in his own voice. Danny, not Elvis.

"Ultimately, if Danny Vann is going to be recognized as a national talent, it will have to be as myself," he says.

Vann may breakaway from Elvis but he will never forget him. Though he never met Elvis, and only saw him perform twice, he says he "still hasn't gotten over" Elvis' death.

"I can't believe a man who literally affected millions of people died alone. It was just too much for a mere mortal. As much as I emulated him, I wouldn't want what he had."

tell it to Phyllis

Oh no, we have another driver in the family. Now I'll never ever get the car. It was bad enough before with one kid driving, but things should be very interesting with both of them driving.

Realizing that my baby was celebrating his 16th birthday was hard enough. It seems like only yesterday he was tearing through the house, destroying everything in sight. This little angel who used to climb up the kitchen cupboards, is suddenly tall enough to reach the top shelf of any cupboard.

I guess I'll never understand how the kids keep getting older while I get younger every year. However, I have to admit to adding some grey hair (only my hair dresser knows for sure) as they get some driving experience.

It's easy for you to laugh. You don't have to ride with Lead Foot Suzy or Wide Turn Sam. I'm not cut out for this stuff and I don't think my nervous system can handle it. I've almost worn a hole through the floor on the passenger side, but for some reason the brake on my side doesn't work.

It was fun talking to my brother recently as we reminisced about what it was like to drive around town with dad when we were learning how to drive. The poor man, I always wondered why he had grey hair so early. I guess if he lived through it I will too.

In all fairness I should say Lead Foot Suzy has learned to lighten up and most of the time I can relax while riding with her. As for Wide Turn Sam, we didn't hit that car and now that he has had a little more practice, I think he has mastered the art of turning.

Honest, I'm trying to sit back, keep my cool and simply let the kids drive. WATCH OUT FOR THAT CAR...

Buses replace sidewalks

The buses will roll for Lowell Middle School students living in the Holiday Park, Honeytree, Canton Gardens, Tavistock and Koppernick areas.

At least this week.

The Plymouth-Canton School Board had voted to discontinue temporary busing in that area, pending completion of a sidewalk along the north side of Joy Rd from Hix to Tavistock. The sidewalks were not finished at the time of the school's opening Tuesday. School superintendent Dr. John Hoben cited rainy weather for halting the Livonia DPW's work on the sidewalk.

Dick Egli, the district's administrative assistant for community relations, said the busing would be in effect for the remainder of this week, but would end when the sidewalks were complete.

The board has also prolonged another temporary busing program affecting West Middle School. Students living in the Greenmeadows area (south of Ann Arbor Road, west of Main and east of Sheldon) will continue to be bused until completion of a pedestrian signal and pedestrian crosswalk.

What's in store for city sheep farm?

"To live in the city and have heard sheep bleating at night is remarkable," he said.

Residents say they aren't sure what the rezoning will mean to them, but that the change is inevitable.

"We enjoyed it while it was in the pastoral state it was in," said Charles Hartel, "But (the change) is going to happen."

"I don't know what they plan to do," Helene Masterson said. "I'd like to have the trees and the creek as a buffer zone."

"Who knows what ultimately would have been built there," Opple said.

Jabara said his proposal is reasonable. "Should it be vacant? It should be developed."

"I think it's a good piece of property for a higher density of residents," said

Don Keller, chairman of the planning commission.

City Engineer Ken West said the request was "a logical use" for the land.

But Bartman says a park on the site or historical restoration of the farm would help the community and preserve Plymouth's heritage.

Watkins says the changes will "make just a few people rich."

Neighbors will contest the proposal Tuesday, but one resident says it doesn't matter.

"Jabara can keep going in every other week and wearing down the neighborhood opposition," Watkins said.

"I'm sure the city would rather have 35 condos with 35 taxpayers rather than 15 or so single-family homes."

Library district?

Library vote is Sept. 10

Currently, the library is funded through separate annual appropriations from the city and township. Township officials complained during budget hearings last year that the township has little say in the operations of the library. They say the township is asked every year to equal the city's appropriation.

A six-member elected city library board currently oversees operation of the library, with additional input from a three-member appointed library commission, which includes township residents.

If the district proposal is approved next month but the millage proposal fails in November, the board of trustees would oversee the budget but the library would still depend entirely on city and township appropriations for its revenue.

A contractual agreement outlining city and township appropriations to the library if the district is approved but the millage fails has not been approved by either the City Commission or township Board of Trustees.

REACT stresses traffic safety

Labor Day marks the end of summer for some, but the end of life for others who will die in weekend traffic accidents.

Working to make roads safer is the Plymouth area REACT team, which will man the I-94 rest area at Belleville Road.

This is part of CARE, an effort on the part of 48 state police agencies (including Michigan) to reduce holiday driving accidents.

"We want the motoring public to stop at these rest areas and refresh themselves," said Plymouth REACT president Paul Cook. "If we can keep the person out of the car a good 10-15 minutes every two hours, they'll be driving a lot better."

At the stops, coffee, donuts, and conversation, Cook said, will break the monotony of driving long distances.

Operation CARE will also mean an additional 3,700 hours of patrol time for State police, who will focus on speed enforcement, drunk driving arrests, and the new seatbelt law.

State policeman Sgt. Marshal Weeks said CARE can take credit for reducing labor day weekend deaths from an average of 27 in previous years to about 20 last year.

"Holidays are a dangerous thing," he said.

Travel TALK
 FROM Emily's World
 TRAVEL, LTD.

Emily Guettler
SHOPPING IN SINGAPORE

Singapore is winning fame as one of the world's great shopping havens. The island nation is erecting new shopping plazas brimming with radios, watches, stereo equipment, pewterware, jewelry, Indian and Thai silk — sold at prices that rival those of Hong Kong. These gleaming new centers are four to five stories high, served by escalators, and neatly laid out, as is the custom in this tidy city.

Following a hotel-building boom a few years ago, tourist authorities feared that Singapore may have been overbuilding. Now, however, visitors are pouring in and the major hotels — The Shangri-La, Marco Polo, Mandarin and others — have added extensions. The venerable Raffles, though partly modernized, has kept its Palm Court in perfect, old-fashioned Sidney Greenstreet condition.

As a part of a giant clean-up campaign, Singapore has resettled its street stalls in one area and built the Singapore Handicraft Center where workers can be seen making crocodile bags, jade jewelry, ivory objects and carpets.

See it with Emily's World — November 2-23. Call for detailed brochure.

City plans senior bash

Senior citizens in Plymouth and Plymouth Township are invited to a picnic Wednesday Sept. 11 at Hines Park.

The city's recreation department, with help from various senior agencies, is organizing the old fashioned picnic which will begin at 10 a.m.

Entertainment by the Livonia Chorus and the Canton Kitchen Band will keep things moving. And a pie baking contest is planned.

The gathering will be held at Edward Hines Drive and Riverside Drive.

Chuck Skene, the city's parks and recreation department director, said all township and city seniors are invited. The city hopes to make the picnic an annual event, he said.

"We've invited all types of groups to help out," Skene said.

A tour of the park on the city's double decker bus begins at 11 a.m. Those sharp thinkers at the recreation department have titled the tour "This Park's for You."

Reservations are required for the bus trip but not the picnic.

K of C is roasting oxes this weekend

It's Ox Roast No. 12.

Plymouth's Knights of Columbus, Father Victor J. Renaud Council, No. 3292, will hold its annual Ox Roast on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 2.

There will be games for kids and adults plus clowns and a raffle for a weekend trip.

Dinners include: roast beef, baked potato, corn on the cob, roll and butter and beverage. Cost is $4.50 for adults and $2 for children under 12.

The roast will be held 1-6 p.m. at the council building, 150 Fair Street, between Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail on Lilley.

Schools primp for students' return

BY ED FITZGERALD

If ever there was a calm before the storm this is it.

The day before school begins.

The halls in the elementary schools are empty. At least, emptier. Teachers buzz about, carrying large stacks of tattered books, janitors organize their fleet of trash cans, principals talk like pilots over the intercom.

Jean Knowles, the librarian at Isbister, pans a list of things to do. She crosses off items with a little help from her friends.

"They just poked their heads in," she says of students who stopped by to pitch in. "First, I said I didn't have anything for them to do. And then I came up with about 50 things."

Two young girls wash off seat cushions. A table full of plastic-wrapped globes await delivery to the rooms. "Everything was ship-shape when I left in June," says Knowles, librarian for 11 years. "I washed each one of the books."

The school district's energy conservation program, which included new windows for most of the older schools, created quite a dust storm.

"If I had washed all of those books and then not covered them I probably would've gone crazy," she says.

Luckily she covered them. She also worked, with parent volunteers, to glue new bindings on 500 books, by hand, saving the district hundreds of dollars.

Down the hall in Isbister (which includes a lost and found rack already, or still, with a pink stocking cap) Toni Schwartz, a 17-year veteran teacher, takes care of last-minute details in her kindergarten room.

As we all know, kindergarteners spend a great deal of time on the floor. The carpet is missing in Schwartz' room.

"It's a big last minute detail," she says. "But it's supposed to be in Tuesday night."

Until then she'll use a rug. It doesn't seem too bad to Schwartz. When she first started at Isbister, her room wasn't ready at all, and she started her class in the gym at Fiegel.

At Farrand School, no one remains at 5 p.m. but the new principal, Carroll Nichols and his secretary. Phone calls are coming in. Nichols has an additional problem to iron out. Roof work has not been completed at the school and a series of leaks covers the school like a spring rain. Again, the finish date is supposed to be very soon.

"It shouldn't affect classes," Nichols says, with every ounce of optimism he can muster.

Outside the door students peer in at posted class lists. One boy walks away and tells his mother he's going to cry over the teacher he's been awarded. "No, you're not," she says.

Another mother, Mary Howard, checks out the draw for her three kids.

"They all got good teachers," she says jubilantly. "They did last year too." When asked about the year before that, she squints.

Over at Gallimore School, Derald McKinley prepares his room for the arrival of 35 fifth-graders, a number he feels may be too high. A pile of four books are set on the desks. He has three students back from last year helping him decorate the bulletinboards.

"I just don't have an eye for that," he says. "The kids are wonderful. I just give them an idea and they carry it out."

McKinley has been at Gallimore for five years, and 17 before that at Bird. He says he gets the "biggest kick" out of the first-day styles of students.

DiPonio: 'Wasn't a quitter'

Services for Diane DiPonio, 39, of Salem Township, were held this past weekend and Monday.

A full honor guard of police officers accompanied the casket for the Ann Arbor Police detective. The procession of mourners and the police escort stretched for more than a mile as Ms. DiPonio's services moved from the Lambert-Vermeulen Funeral Home to Our Lady of Good Counsel Monday.

Ms. DiPonio died after battling a rare lung disease for many years. "She never gave up fighting it," said Angelo DiPonio, her father and prominent local contractor. "She wasn't a quitter."

At Monday's funeral at Good Counsel, Ms. DiPonio was praised by a police colleague for her service in "the relentless war on crime." She had been with the Ann Arbor Department since 1970.

The detective, raised in Plymouth, had been a noted horsewoman since her teens. She twice won the grand championship for Washtenaw County's 4-H horsemanship competition.

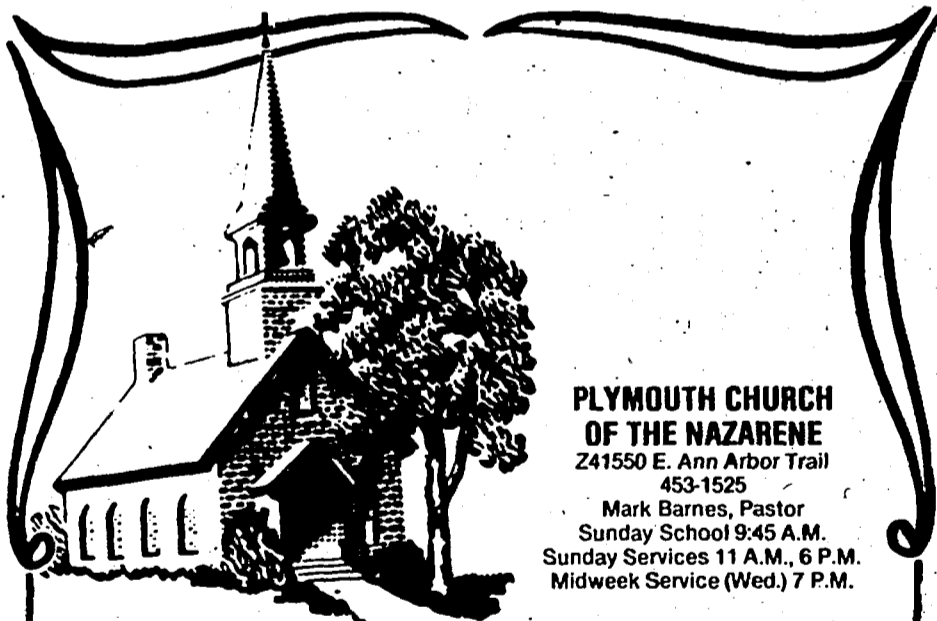

Ms. DiPonio, a Michigan State University graduate, died early Friday morning.

Survivors include: her parents, Angelo and Margaret DiPonio; her brother, Douglas; her sisters, Debra and Denise; her grandmother, Eva Jeanicke; her nephew, Lee; and friends, Wesley Skowron and Judith Avery.

Following the services officiated by Father Timothy Hogan, entombment was made in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the Michigan Heart Assoc. or the American Lung Assoc.

Burial was in St. Hedwig Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society or the Retarded Children's Association.

IN YOUR TIME OF NEED WE CARE

Don't be ashamed to cry at a funeral

It is natural to cry when you are hurt. It is an emotional outlet valve that is opened and working, naturally. It is not unmanly for men to cry. It is a grief release for us all.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Michigan Heart Association or mass offerings.

SIR SPEEDY PRINTING CENTER in Canton is offering folders in which parents can keep information on their kids.

Info folders available to gather data on kids

Shirley Cameron, mother of four, has never experienced the trauma associated with a missing child, but, just thinking about it convinced her to help parents who may ever go through that tragedy.

Cameron, owner of Sir Speedy Printing Center, 41739 Joy Rd., Canton, is printing 5,000 file folders in which Plymouth-Canton parents can collect information about their children in the event of an abduction.

The folders will be available to parents free of charge at the Sir Speedy Printing Center starting Sept. 3.

"I can't imagine what I'd feel like if something like that ever happened to one of my kids," Cameron said.

Parents can include basic identification data in the folder, such as fingerprints, dental and medical records and recent photographs. The folder will also have a checklist of information the child might know - their own full name, the full names of their parents, their address or phone number and action to take when lost or in trouble.

The idea to print the folders came from the national corporation headquarters for Sir Speedy Printing Center, Cameron said, but, the individual stores print the folders at their own cost.

"They sent us the information, and it just really hit me," Cameron said.

You're not alone

Grief over the loss of a spouse is personal and devastating. Often getting together with other people who are faced with the same situation helps. Realizing this need, we are sponsoring a Widowed to Widowed support group. You are invited to attend our next meeting which will be held on Tuesday, September 3rd, 8 p.m., at the Plymouth Historical Museum (side entrance), 155 S. Main Street, Plymouth. The topic will be "An Overview of Some Decisions You Have to Make as a Person Living Alone."

Chiefs say a prayer for sure hands and health

BY DAVID PIERINI

Rich Barr has a plan with a prayer attached.

The plan calls for 22 different players: 11 offense and 11 defense. No doubling up on positions.

The prayer asks for one thing: "let there be no injuries."

"That's one of our goals," Barr said. "The defense comes off and the offense goes on fresh and vice-versa."

Last season's fumble fiasco saw the Chief's top six players doubling up, including quarterback Dave Knapp and runningback Dave Johnson.

"We fumbled quite a bit last year and it was always late in the game. The doubling hurt us in the long run," he said, "it tired us out."

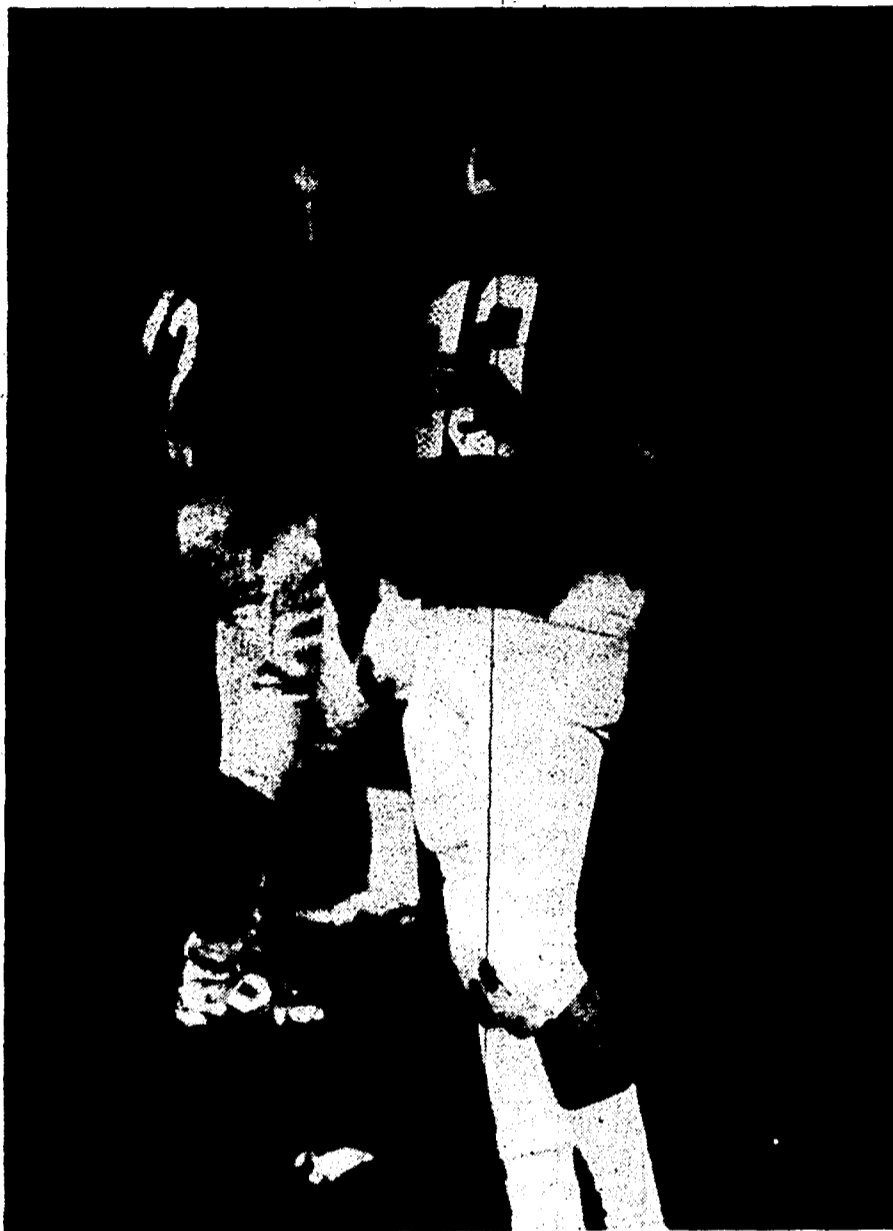

Hopefully, no more tired bodies. Barr feels that the Chiefs are stronger and more fit than a year ago and with the help of several players coming from last years 7-2 JV team, they'll have depth as well as a good chance to improve 1984's 4-5 record.

Success could hinge on one player: quarterback Tony Aiken. The team captain's speed (4.6 in the 40-yard dash) enables him to play anywhere needed, but his strong arms and quickness makes him a good number one quarterback.

Arms?

He's a double-barrel shot gun throwing from both sides. "He's a great athlete and great team leader," Barr said. "I think we'd be lost without him."

Aiken will have splitend Dan Haarala and tightend Greg Buck to throw at while tailback Matt Wooten and fullbacks John McKimmy and Troy McCall are there for the option.

"We're not slow, but we don't have a Matt Flower in there," Barr said. "We still have adequate speed to have a backfield."

Defensively, Canton has the "Killer B's". Steve Boyd, Kirk Bennett and Darrin Brege will take the line stinging all up-the-middle activity.

McKimmy and another fullback, Brian Gothard may be switched or doubled as linebackers.

All-conference punter Dan Olszewski returns but will be one of the few players doubled, doubling as a defensive end. He'll join John Calhoun and another doubled player, Haarala, in the secondary. "There are certain spots we may have to use a player in two positions but if we can find a replacement then guys like McKimmy and Gothard will only start at one or the other," Barr said.

Added points may come from the talented toes of soccer convert Dave Liuzzo who is hitting consistently from 40-yards out. "He kicked a 43-yarder in the red and white game and he just missed one from 55-yards out. If it calls for him we'll certainly use him depending on the score, the quarter and the situation. He's more accurate this year and he's a lot more confident."

In all of Barr's years of coaching, he said he has never been associated with a harder working group. "The last team I can compare them to was a Salem team and they went 8-1 that year."

Canton will open their season on Sept. 7 at North Farmington.

Canton's girl swimmers have no room for error

BY DAVID PIERINI

You'd think Hooker Wellman was a pessimist.

"Salem is going to kill us," the Canton swim coach said. "John Glenn will probably blow us out too. Boy,

Trenton's awfully tough.

"I say we'll lose our first three meets."

But he said he plans on winning all of the rest. How's that for optimism?

The plan is simple. Take a young and inexperienced team and get them some experience in a hurry: enough experience so that they can repeat as division champs.

"This team could do it again, but they're going to have to work real hard," Wellman said. "The meets that we're going to have to win will all be close. One loss and we're finished."

The Chiefs will be tested in mid-season when they'll face Churchill, Northville, Farmington-Harrison and new division entry Franklin, all in a row. All four teams are traditionally strong and the title is there for the taking.

Canton will be without the services of last year's captains Margaret Gilligan and Jenny Johnson, two of Canton's all-time best swimmers. But in a step a couple of new pool leaders that should fill the rolls nicely.

Lynn Massey and Kelly Kirk will co-captain the team this year. Massey, who has the better credentials of the two, holds the varsity record in the 50 free, 100 free and is a part of both the 200 medley and the 400 free relay teams. Kirk also was a part of the record winning 200 medley relay team.

"They're doing a real good job so far," Wellman said. "They're good team leaders and they've had a lot of success."

Massey and Kirk won't be the only ones scoring points. The Chiefs have the dynamic diving duo returning better than before. Kelly Daily and Lisa DeJoung, who finished fourth and fifth in the conference meet last year as sophomores, spent the summer training and going to diving camp.

"Looking for good things coming." Cont. on pg. 30

Twice as much fun

Welcome football fans, to an extra week of puberty: two-a-day practice week.

No fun in the sun here. Just a few headaches, sore muscles, bloodshed and a whole bunch of "dammit"s from the coach.

If you want to be a football player (i.e. man) you have to go through it. There's no avoiding it. Oh, you can make it easier on yourself by going to football camp the week before. Yep, those three-a-days get you in shape for the two-a-days.

For Salem players, the day starts before Mr. Dress-up comes on TV. From 8-9 a.m. they have classroom which consists of studying game plays and listening to Tom Moshimer and his staff preach about the many ways to run the wishbone offense or the Omaha 4-3 defense.

Then from 9-9:20 a.m., the team stretches and gets ready for the actual practice to begin. After that, they break up into groups according to their position. The team practices plays, practices plays, then practices more plays.

This takes them to 11 a.m. where the fun begins: conditioning. To be more specific, running. Everyone's favorite is the drill where they sprint down the sideline, stop at the corner, do some kind of calisthenic for two minutes and sprint some more. This is usually repeated until coach feels it's time to do some other kind of sprint drill.

Hallelujah!

Lunch from 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m. After lunch, more practice, only this time it's offense practice.

"Two quit yesterday," said Dominick Pondant a junior defensive back. "It's not that bad."

Now Pondant, who was on the ground with a knee injury in last Friday's practice, is either afraid coach will read that he really hates these practices or he's a glutton for punishment.

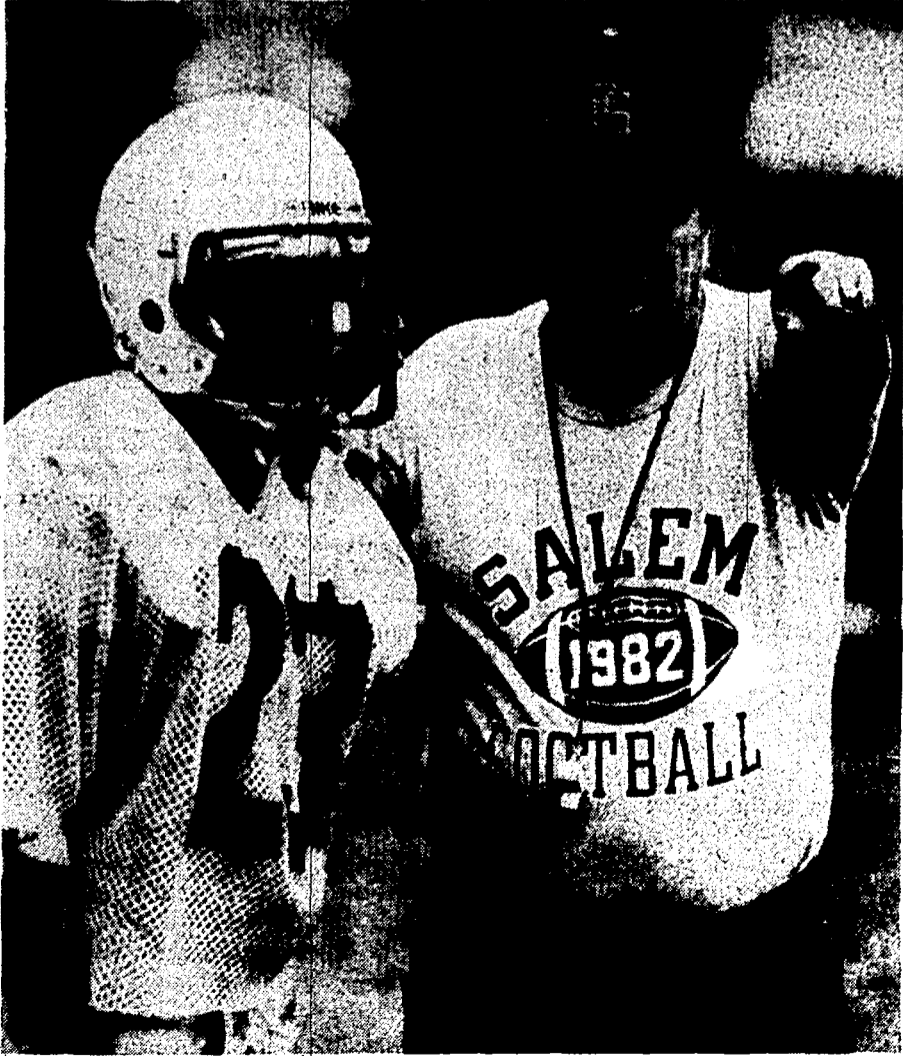

Turns out, he loves football and he's willing to make sacrifices even if they're of the human variety.

Over on the junior varsity (JV) side, the casualty list grows. Freshman cornerback Mike Hill, who bruised his ribs at camp the week before, gets hit in the same spot.

There are tears in his eyes and he's coughing up a little blood. "Get up and start hitting again," said JV coach Tindall (few players know his first name, they just call him "Sir").

Hill hits a couple more times and is down. This time it hurts bad, especially when breathing. After the trainer checks him out, he is carted to the hospital where they find one rib broken and two others badly bruised. "The hitting and the running are the worst," Hill said of the practices.

Most agree practices are hard and long only if you think about them. There are other things to think about. Like wearing the jersey in school on game days, the actual game -- or better yet -- the cheerleaders. "The games are the best," said Jim Rothwell who plays tackle on the JV. "You have to do this to get in shape. It's part of football. Football is a fun game."

Notice of Public Hearing on Increasing Property Taxes

The Board of Trustees of the Charter Township of Canton will hold a public hearing on a proposed increase of 2.99 mills in the operating tax millage rate to be levied in 1985.

The hearing will be held on Tuesday, September 10, 1985 at 7:00 o'clock in the p.m. at the Canton Township Administration Building, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton, MI 48188.

If adopted, the proposed additional millage will increase operating revenues from ad valorem property taxes 149% over such revenues generated by levies permitted without holding a hearing.

This increase in the ad valorem tax is due to a reallocation of the General (ad valorem), Fire and Police millages to partially offset a loss of State Shared Revenue due to the State's exclusion of the Fire and Police Special Assessment millages from the State Revenue Sharing formulas. The millages will be reallocated as follows:

	1984	1985	General Millage Allocation	Millage Allocation
General	2.00	5.00 -	3.00	2.00
Fire	3.06	1.76 +	1.50	3.26
Police	4.07	4.38 +	1.50	5.88
	9.13	11.14	.00	11.14

The taxing unit publishing this notice, and identified below, has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied from within its authorized millage rate.

This notice is published by:

Canton eyes strong finish

from them," Wellman said. "I figure both will qualify for the state tournament."

Another returnee who did big things as a sophomore is Michelle Stackpole who was a part of the record 400 free team. "She's going to be picking up a lot of the slack where Jenny Johnson left off," Wellman said. "She swims the butterfly, the relay events, and she's a real strength person."

Junior Sue Shendel, who qualified for states as a sophomore, will be strong in the breast stroke and other distance events.

Wellman says he sees a lot of potential in sophomore Danelle Dickinson. "She's got good swimming ability but she's never swam a meet before."

Freshman Jean McClenaghan may have arrived just in time to help this team out. "She swims everything," Wellman said. "She trains real hard and as had a lot of experience swimming for the Livonia Spartans."

"She'll be used in a strategic type thing. We'll look at what other teams have and put her in events where she could make a point difference."

Salem has an upstream swim in tough league

BY DAVID PIERINI

Chuck Olson just might have one of his better teams, but he's going to have a hard time proving it.

Look who entered the league: North Farmington, John Glenn and Franklin.

Salem, who finished second behind Stevenson in the last three conference meets, will have to fight to retain top three status.

"I'm not sure anybody realizes how difficult this might be," Olson said. "We've made Stevenson swim well but it's going to be more difficult with three more teams in the conference."

The difficulty not only lies in the competition but in the foundation of the team. Salem lost eight seniors including high scorers Lisa Shaffer and Erin Boutin and top divers Corey Silver and Leanne Poole.

This season, Salem's leadership will rest on the shoulders of only four seniors. Crystal Taylor, Karen Dalpe and Lindsay Olson will tri-captain the team.

Taylor, a dominant freestyler, returns with a conference championship in the 100 free and a second place in the 50.

Dalpe, a distance specialist, finished fifth in the 500 free and eighth in the 200.

Lindsay Olson took a ninth in the back stroke. Another senior, Stephanie Dionysopoulos, finished 11th in the 50 fly.

Salem's 200 medley relay team of Lindsay Olson, Sue Bonnett, Shannon

Murphy and Cindy Elliot return after a second place finish at the conference meet.

Elliot took a fourth in the breast-stroke and seventh in the IM. Bonnett finished ahead of Elliot in the breast taking a third, along with her seventh place finish in the 50 free. Murphy finished fifth in the 50 fly and eighth in the IM.

"When you finish in the top 12 in this league, you're doing good," coach Olson said. "Our problem was we didn't have enough finish in the top six."

Two sophomores, Tracy Meszaros and Heather Buck will strengthen the line-up thanks to successful experiences in their freshman year.

Meszaros finished fourth in the 500 and seventh in the 200 free. Buck finished 10th in the 500.

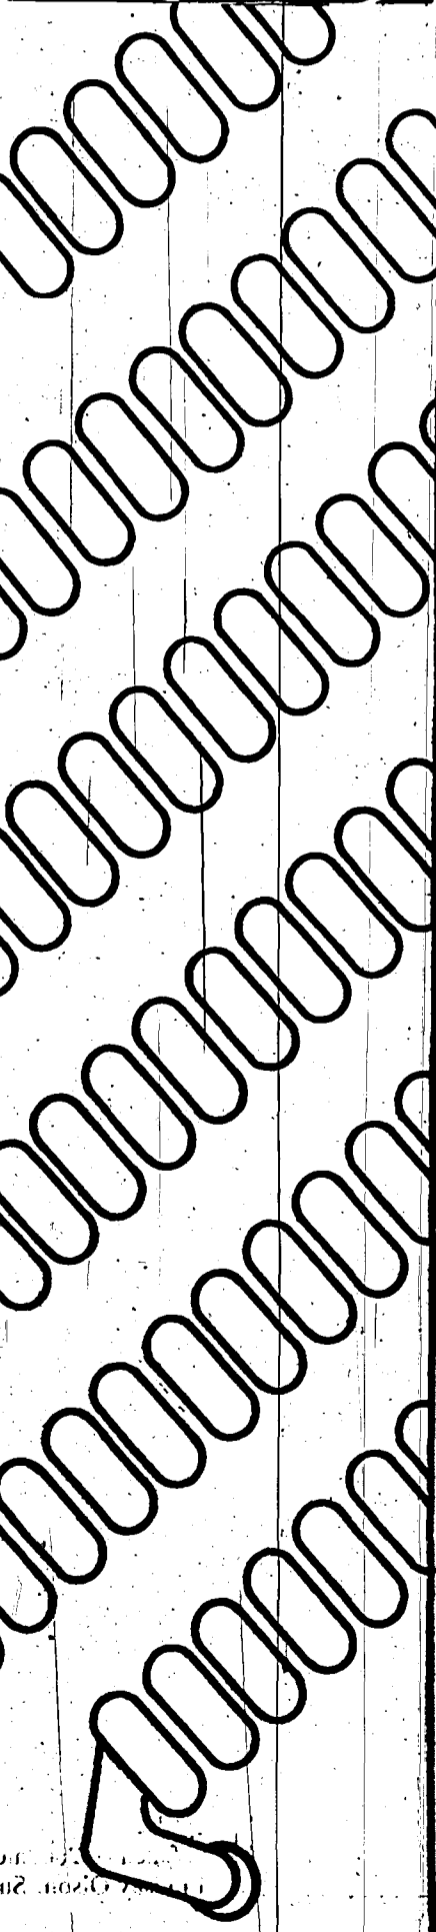

Olson said that seven freshman will be put to use right away.

History has a habit of repeating itself. Salem has always swam well in the conference meet especially in the late 1970s when they won the now-defunct Suburban Eight three times.

"We go with the idea that the conference meet is the most important thing, all the hard work and everything is designed for that," Olson said. "Even though we know Stevenson is going to be better, we'll try to be there with them."

Salem will open their season in Ypsilanti on Sept. 12.

Everyone pitches in as schools open

"They can't go outside or can't get their shoes dirty. From then on it's regular clothes," he says.

McKinley says there's increased Band-Aid business too, since new shoes give blisters. He looks down at one of his helpers and sees a potential safety hazard—the untied high-top tennis shoes. He laughs.

Down the hall is fourth grade teacher Anne Wood-Alatalo, sitting alone in her room. She says she'll be ready for the big day.

"At least I know where everyone will be sitting," she says. Contrary to belief, Wood-Alatalo says the first days of school is when the kids are the best behaved.

"By the end of the week they're starting to feel their oats," she says. "Even at this level they can be scared."

Blue and white griders are green

But loaded with potential

BY DAVID PIERINI

Most coaches would worry when their two offensive tackles only weigh 150 lbs., but then again, Tom Moshimer isn't most coaches.

"I'm not as concerned with size as a lot of people are," the Rock coach said. "I would rather have quickness and toughness. Out of the three, you need two and we are quick and tough."

There is concern in the lack of experience in the players. There will be only one senior in the front interior five, the starting center is a sophomore and none of the juniors or seniors had a freshman football program. "So we're green, green, green," Moshimer said.

But those green kids showed a lot of potential in Saturday's blue and white, inter-squad game. The Salem coaching staff liked what they saw especially the crisp hitting and the quickness in the backfield.

"We showing considerable depth at running back," Moshimer said. "I was impressed." Starting quarterback Paul Makara, coming off shoulder surgery, hasn't thrown the ball yet but he's been running and hitting and should be ready for the season opener against Trenton.

Junior Chris Hill looked impressive in the blue and white game, scoring a touchdown and completing two passes.

"The little Hill kid is a scrapper and he'll see a lot of utility duty. He's our backup quarterback, he'll be a splitend and he plays every position in the second day if we need a substitute."

The wishbone offense will also be complimented by the fleetness of backs Brian Neuhardt, Jerry Sumner, both juniors, Doug Pratter a sophomore and Kirk Rentz.

Senior tightend Brian Johnson, 6'4" 226 stepped in a chuck hole on a play during Saturday's game, spraining his ankle, but he should be back by the opener. "He's our biggest kid. We're still looking for big things from him especially as a defensive end. He has all the ingredients of a major college player."

Rick Cummings will be the other receiver and will also double as a free safety.

Senior Jamie Wochuck will lead the defensive line along with tackles Adam "Buzz" Aldrin and Bill Jouchartz. Jim Watson, sophomore center Kurt Urban and Gary Kafila will add some beef.

Johnson, Cummings and Ron Piwko will make up the secondary.

"Our offense is going to start off slow," Moshimer said. "Our defense has got to get the job done before the offense can gell."

The Rocks hope to improve upon their three win season of a year ago. Attitude has improved Moshimer said. "I was really disappointed in our off season," he said. "We didn't have commitment from a lot of kids we thought we might have."

"Once they show up, we had a good camp, kids listen and they want to learn."
