

District voters pass renewal, reject Headlee

BY KEN VOYLES

Voters in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools approved a 10.36 millage renewal proposal Tuesday by a nearly three to two margin, while at the same time rejecting a second proposal to waive the Headlee Amendment.

Unofficial vote totals Tuesday night showed the millage renewal passing 1,550 to 1,003. The second proposal, which would have allowed the district to levy its full millage despite the Headlee Amendment, was defeated 1,507 to 1,040.

Voter turnout came to approximately five per cent, said Richard Egli, community relations director for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. Of the 46,000 voters in the district, 2,559 went to the polls Tuesday.

"With this renewal we will be able to maintain our present educational program and plan efficiently and effectively for next year," said district

Superintendent John M. Hoben. "Although the vote was relatively small, we were pleased to have this community's continued support for good education."

Hoben also said the second proposal would probably be brought before the voters again in June when all of the figures in the Headlee formula are available.

"At this time the necessary figures were not all available," said Hoben, "so we were unable to fully explain the proposition."

The second proposal was defeated in all but one of the district's 14 precincts. At Hulsing, voters were for waiving the proposition 91 to 62.

The millage renewal ballot passed in all 14 voting precincts. The largest voter turnout was at West Middle School where 215 voted for the renewal and 164 were opposed.

Officer hurt in 2-car crash

BY T.M. SMITH

A Plymouth Township police officer, responding to a false hold-up alarm from a local bank, was injured Monday afternoon in a head-on collision with another car.

Officer Shawn Corbett was treated and released from St. Joseph's Hospital with a broken leg he suffered in the crash. The accident happened on the Ann Arbor Road ramp from I-275 around 4 p.m. Monday.

Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry said Corbett was responding to a silent hold-up alarm from the First of American branch Bank on Ann Arbor Road near Tavistock, with his overhead lights operated when the crash happened.

Berry said that the alarm turned out to be a false alarm.

In the past Berry has been critical of the number and frequency of false alarms in the township both at businesses and residential homes.

'Occult being taught to the students'

Daskalakis appeals to school board

BY KEN VOYLES

Diane Daskalakis broadened her condemnation of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Monday suggesting that the district is rife with the teachings of witchcraft and the occult.

Daskalakis went before the Board of Education Monday to appeal five review committee decisions upholding the use of what she feels are questionable teaching materials.

But she also used the appeals forum - attended by many of her followers in the Citizens for Better Education, district teachers, parents and students - to lash out at instructors, administrators and the board itself for allowing the study of a "religion" in district classrooms.

She also asked the board to rescind the review committee decisions mostly on the grounds that they promoted witchcraft and occult to the students.

Daskalakis' appeals were to stop the use of the movies "The Breakfast Club" and "Excalibur," the book "Rules for Radicals" the use of a Ouija board and a pamphlet on palmistry and crystal ball reading.

"Teaching the teachings of Lucifer is ludicrous," she said. "Our district has a growing problem with occult being taught to the students. We don't want it taught to our kids."

"You are teaching the powers of their (Satanists) religion but you won't teach the powers of our religion which are based on prayer and the power of goodness," she continued.

She even threatened the board that it would get "knocked" off its feet on this issue.

"We feel it's (witchcraft) a religion and we want to stop it being taught," Daskalakis said. "We want our kids educated but not in the occult."

The board took her appeals under advisement. It could not make any decision at Monday's workshop session but will probably do so at a regular meeting in the near future, maybe even as soon as the Monday, Feb. 23 meeting.

"We've gone through all the steps and now the appeals are before us,"

As Public Safety Director

Santomauro takes over

BY DAN NESS

Canton Police Chief John Santomauro officially became the new Canton Public Safety Director Feb. 10, leaving him in charge of the administrative duties of both the police and fire departments.

"Generally, my first round of business is to provide some stabilization and open the lines of communication," especially within the fire department, Santomauro said.

"We've got a lot of work to do."

Santomauro's new position comes as a result of a study of the Canton Fire Department, performed by the Bartell and Bartell consulting firm. The study was presented to the Board of Trustees in October, and one of the recommendations was to hire a public safety director to coordinate the administrations of both the police and fire departments. Both departments will remain separate, however.

Santomauro's salary was set at $47,000 for the position.

Santomauro was busy last week meeting with fire department officers and firefighters, inspecting the facilities and making an inventory of the equipment.

"I'm really pleased," he said. "I've seen an extreme interest not only in the command group (officers) but also the union in solving problems. Both parties want to participate in making the fire department a better fire department."

Santomauro said he would be filing a report for the Board of Trustees which would include his recommendations on personnel, equipment and facilities. "We have equipment that's outdated" and "obvious deficiencies that aren't people problems," Santomauro said.

For the most part, the police department won't undergo any changes. "I can't see the need in the foreseeable future for changing the basic system of the Canton Police Department from what we're doing," Santomauro said.

"My first round of business is to provide some stabilization and open the lines of communication."

— Santomauro

New position

As Public Safety Director, John Santomauro will be taking over the administrative duties of the Canton Fire Department to go with his police department duties. He has been Canton's police chief for almost two years. (Crier photo)

The police department underwent a similar study by Bartell and Bartell two years ago before Santomauro was hired as police chief.

Santomauro had served for five years as deputy director for public safety in Farmington and was the public safety director in Pittsfield Township immediately before coming to Canton in 1985. Although he has worked in public safety systems where the fire and police departments were fully consolidated, he said the board had let it be known "loud and clear" that it did not favor combining the fire and police departments in Canton.

"I don't think that's an issue that should be determined by the public safety director, the police chief or the fire chief," Santomauro said. "The one model we will follow is the nominal consolidation."

"Beyond that, my role as an administrator is to put that consolidation together. We have what appears to me to be a dedicated group of people here."

Artrain returns in April

The Artrain returns.

The nation's only touring museum on railroad tracks will make its second visit to The Plymouth-Canton Community in 16 years on April 1-5.

The Artrain visit is sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council. The last appearance by the train was in 1972.

Artrain is an audio-visual introduction to art, and self-contained, climate controlled galleries include quality art works from national collections. This year the train will include highlights of the art and architecture of Cranbrook Academy of Art.

Artrain visiting hours will be 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Thursday and Friday, April 2-3; and from noon to 8 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, April 4-5.

The train will be located on West Pearl, west of Starkweather in Plymouth's Old Village near the old C & O roundhouse.

The visit will kickoff with opening ceremonies on Wednesday, April 1. That's when the train will be open for a special exhibit preview followed by a reception at the Mayflower Meetinghouse.

Guests will ride to the site by doubledecker bus. The party afterwards will be in a "passenger train" motif with dinner in the Dining Car and dessert in the Caboose.

Local artists will demonstrate at the Artrain site during the visit, and there will be visits by school classes. Other activities include window painting, face painting at the site and library store hours.

The visit is also being sponsored by "Kaleidoscope Plymouth, Inc.," a tax-exempt corporation formed to generate an awareness of the creative talent in the community.

Approximately 80 local hosts and hostesses will be needed to staff the Artrain during the four-day visit. Anyone interested in volunteering should call 455-2632.

The visit is made possible by contributions from the Plymouth Community Arts Council, the Mayflower Hotel and the Chessie Systems Railroad through W.B. Vander Deer. The Artrain Committee is still in need of sponsorship contributions to cover the expenses of the visit.

The 1987 Artrain tour is in honor of the Michigan Sesquicentennial. The train will travel the state from March to November this year.

Ply. Community Band offers Weage scholarship

The Plymouth Community Band is offering a Kenneth A. Weage Memorial Scholarship for the second time in as many years.

There are two scholarships open to 11th and 12th grade students at both Canton and Salem who play wind or percussion instruments.

The two winners will receive scholarships of $400 and $100 and a chance to play with the Plymouth Community Band.

The $400 scholarship winner will perform a solo with the band at a May 1 show, and the $100 winner will solo during a concert in the Kellogg Park this summer.

The musicians will be judged on March 31 before a panel of judges at Canton High's Little Theatre. The entrants must play an accompanied solo.

The application deadline is Friday, Feb. 20. Applications can be picked up at the high schools through Band Director James Griffith.

They should be mailed to Michael Chimento, at P.O. Box 745, Plymouth, 48170.

Further information is available by calling 453-2611.

Canton officials protest waste hauling

BY DAN NESS

The love affair between the state Department of Natural Resources and officials of Canton Township just keeps getting more involved. . .

At the Feb. 10 Board of Trustees meeting, Supervisor James Poole lashed out at the DNR for not notifying township officials about trucks hauling what they thought might be hazardous waste from a vacant industrial site south of Michigan Avenue to the Woodland Meadows landfill.

According to Poole and township engineer Tom Casari, the DNR had ordered the owners of a plating company to remove waste from the site of the former operation to the landfill about two weeks ago. However, township officials were worried when they found out about the hauling, and thought there might be hazardous waste in the trucks.

"We would have liked to have been told," Casari said. "They didn't even call us."

Casari said the waste, which included heavy metals such as cadmium and chromium, was classified as type II hazardous waste, which Woodland Meadows is licensed to dispose of. But, there were still questions, since nobody was notified of the waste removal operation, Casari said.

"If it's not that dangerous of a stuff, why do they want it removed to a landfill?" Casari asked. "The minimum precaution should've been calling us. That should've been the minimum precaution in any case."

The DNR's Groundwater Quality Division in Northville was notified of the township's displeasure, Casari said.

Science sprinters

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools entered five teams -- four middle schools and a Centennial Educational Park (CEP) team -- in the Michigan Science Olympiad regional competition on Saturday, Feb. 7 at the University of Michigan - Dearborn.

Winners won gold, silver and bronze medals.

The team from Pioneer, coached by Ernie Constantino, won medals for two events. Abha Ahuja received a gold medal for periodic tables, while Sue Viji and Payal Parekh took third place and bronze medals in "water, water, everywhere."

The East team, coached by Vicki Svec and Cathy Campbell, were competing for the first time this year. Not only did Taasan win a bronze medal for periodic tables, but Mike Qin and Garrick West also won bronzes in computer programming.

The Lowell team, also competing for the first time, failed to place any students in the top three positions.

Central's team, coached by Barbara Church, won medals in four events.

CEP's team took second place overall at the regional tourney and qualified for the state finals in April.

Mark Madrilejo won a gold medal for rocks and fossils, Doug Donaldson and Matt McAmmond took first place in circuit lab, and Evan Yeung and Arul Chinnaiyan won golds for anatomy and physiology.

Steve Rea coached the CEP squad.

The CEP Science Bowl team, including Jenny Jasena, Andy Basakis, Donaldson and Yeung, also took a first, winning a team gold medal for bioprocess.

Kevin Chou was a gold medal winner for metric estimation and also took a first place teams with Marisa Conte in measurement event.

Brett Meik won a silver medal for rocks and fossils, while Ray Adamski took a bronze home in orienteering.

March 25 is Merit nomination deadline

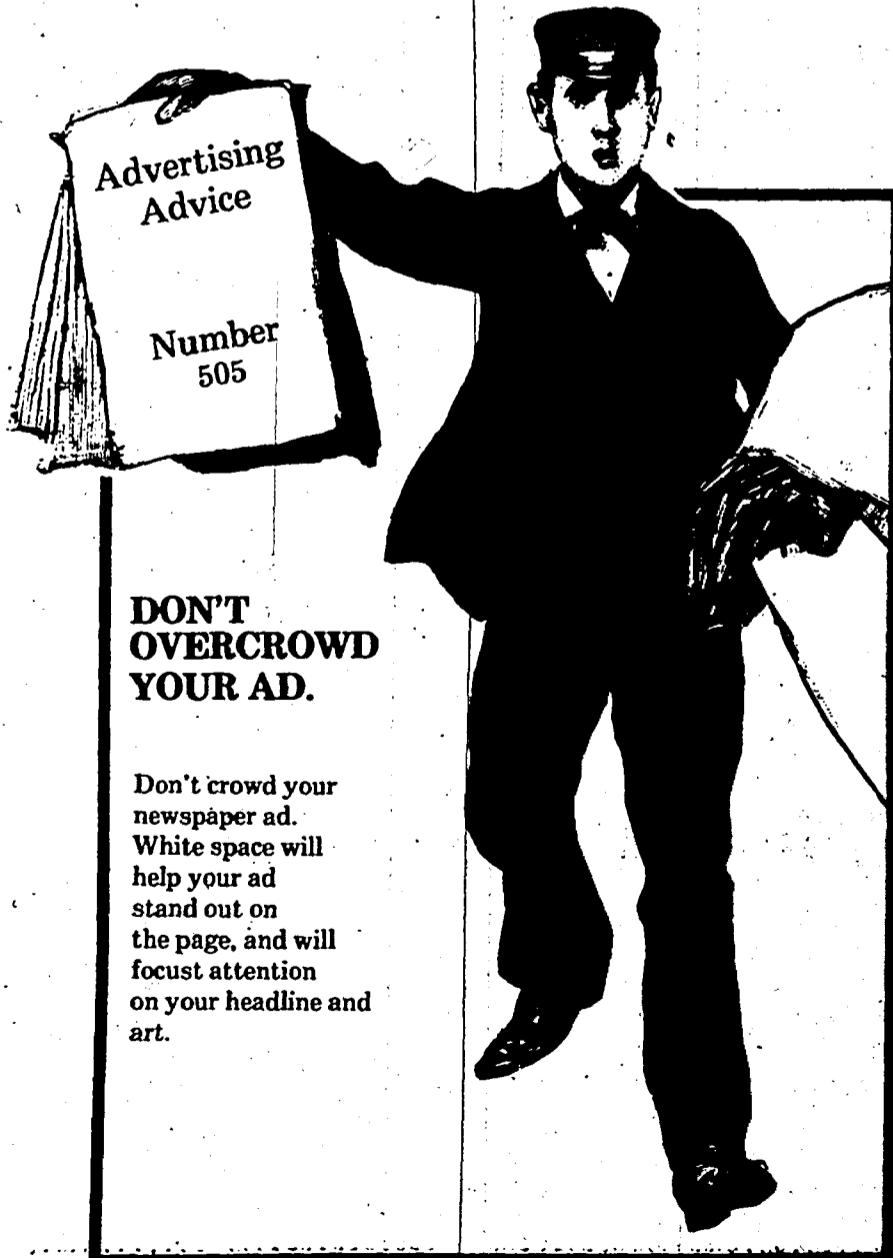

The deadline for nominations for the annual Medal of Merit award for outstanding youths in the 15th Congressional District (including Canton) is set for March 25.

The merit medal is awarded yearly by Congressman William D. Ford to three youths in each of the 20 communities in the 15th. The first is for students in senior high, the second for high school graduates under 22 and the third for youth groups with significant accomplishments.

Nomination forms are available from Ford's district offices in Wayne (722-1411) and Ypsilanti (482-6636).

Serving on the committee selecting the honorees will be Frank McMurray and Dale Smith, both from Canton.

Polio survivors overcome 'mystery' disease

BY JILL SCHAUFLE

If you happen to be under the age of 30, you probably wouldn't know too much about it, although you might know someone who has it.

With almost a certain silence growing through the last few decades, it could be referred to as the mystery disease.

A special local trio share the ability to overcome — Lynn Cash, Chuck Olson and Jim Nelson are all polio survivors in the Plymouth area.

So it seems very appropriate that Gov. James Blanchard proclaimed the week of Jan. 25-31 as 'Polio Survivors' Week' to coincide with President Franklin D. Roosevelt's birth on Jan. 30. He was a polio survivor.

Forty-four years earlier, in 1943, Gov. Harry F. Kelly designated the same week as "Fight Infantile Paralysis Week." With the developments of Dr. Jonas Salk and Dr. Albert Sabin in the mid '50s and early '60s, the discovery of the attenuated vaccine and live viral vaccine (which is used today) was made.

Today, an entire generation of children have grown up without the fear of polio, and most know very little about the disease. Polio is a viral infection that invades the body through the gastrointestinal tract. Abnormal variations only occur within the central nervous system.

Those who were stricken from polio two, three or four decades ago are now facing a new crisis, which some are naming post-polio syndrome.

Lynn Cash, chairperson of the Post-Polio Connection and representative of the Polio Network in Lansing, a state-wide group, had polio when she was 18 months old. Now at age 37, divorced, and the mother of two teenagers, she is experiencing not a polio re-infection, but a new disease — the late effects of polio.

Cash used to be a nurse, and sadly, will never be able to practice again because of post-polio syndrome. "My biggest problem is getting people to see I have a problem, with a hidden disability as in my case," she said. Cash appears normal with a leg brace barely noticeable under her pants. "I don't want people to feel sorry for me, but to understand how hard it is to make the changes in my life with all these new limitations."

Coach Olson

The little things that others might take for granted Cash, along with other post-polio syndrome patients, have a decrease in their ability to perform everyday tasks. For example, the simple task of getting up in the morning, taking a shower, putting on clothes, drying hair and putting on make-up for others could take approximately one hour. For Lynn, it takes three to four hours.

"I don't feel sorry for myself, just overwhelmed. What am I going to do with all these limitations?" Cash said.

Another well-known Plymouthite, Olson, Salem swimming teacher and coach, was a polio victim during the heavier epidemics of 1952. When he was five, both of his legs were affected by the disease. However, with corrective surgery and therapy, Olson was one of the luckier ones being discharged from medical care at age 16.

Olson stated, "I don't really think about the limitations polio had for me, but instead, was able to use it to my advantage."

Nelson was also a polio victim, and has a concern for the possible re-occurrence of a polio outbreak, saying, "Parents have children growing up now who are not vaccinating their kids. The germ is still around, it as been the vaccine keeping everyone safe. Prevent this from happening again. Use the vaccinations available to you."

Cash ended on an anxious note when she said, "My biggest fear is I don't know what the outcome will be, or the best way to handle this.

"The doctors don't know, and I don't know."

School board approves general fund balance

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools are operating with a general fund balance of approximately $4.1 million, a much improved forecast since the initial 1986-87 budget was adopted by the Board of Education last June.

Much of the increase over last year's projections is due to increased state aid and project fund revenues, said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business.

Hoedel said state aid was now projected to increase $600,399, while project fund revenues have increased $298,014.

The initial revenue projections were based on 15,820 students in the district, but the actual fourth Friday count was 15,931, said Hoedel.

The fund balance increase equals $1,095,690 over the initial projection of $3,044,777. The general fund balance was approved by the Board of Education on Feb. 9.

Total revenue is expected to increase $658,413 over last June's projections, said Hoedel, and combined with a budgeted decrease in expenditures of $437,277, results in the new fund balance of $4,140,467.

Hoedel said the success of the 1986 bond issue makes it possible to reduce the original budget in six different areas for a total savings to the district of $817,000.

One example: a $226,000 decrease in capital outlay expenditures (which were covered by the bond issue).

The district will also save money on transportation ($479,938) and fuel and gas expenditures ($259,411). Also, the roofing budget has been reduced $100,000; Allen Elementary roof repairs were charged to the 1986 bond issue.

CEP music students compete, win

Centennial Educational Park (CEP) band and orchestra students competed in the annual high school Solo and Ensemble Festival at Livonia Franklin High on Feb. 7.

The show, sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association featured over 1,500 musical selections performed by students from throughout southeastern Michigan.

CEP first division prizes were won by:

Lisa Gasparott, Debbie DeJohn, Lynn Cail, and Julian Sell, for clarinet solo; Christina Harrell, oboe solo; Sarah Naaski, French horn solo; Laura Dahlke, flute solo and piano solo; Bradley Nottle, saxophone solo; Karen Luelleman, Lesley Carmichael and Barb Krug, flute solo; William Schnoes, alto sax solo; Sara Erickson, oboe solo; and Brad Flowers and Kevin Hinks, trumpet duet.

Other first division winners included Jeff Samarziya, bass clarinet solo; Kevin Hinks, trumpet solo; Karen Warmbier, clarinet solo; Rochell Patterson, trumpet solo; Brian Krug, trumpet solo; Jane Gerke, clarinet solo; Risako Takahashi, flute solo; Danielle Walquist, violin solo; Leslie Capozzoli, violin solo; and Leslie Capozzoli and Emily Zinn, violin duet.

Lynn Ehrle, Township Resident, addressed the Board regarding recently published pay raises for Township personnel.

Re: Year-end Report for 1986

-Building/Planning Dept., Jim Anulewicz, Director of Planning

Mr. Anulewicz presented his year-end report for 1986 to the Board.

Board members congratulated Mr. Anulewicz and the Building/Planning Departments for the excellent work they are doing especially with the man-power they have.

Despite the need for extra man-power, Mr. Anulewicz said at the present time, heating, refrigeration and plumbing is done on a contractual basis by inspectors from Canton Township. An individual on a contractual basis is working with Plymouth Township and another small community on electrical inspections.

Mr. Anulewicz said Mr. Mooney is doing the building inspection and building plan reviews. He will need an increase of man-power to assist Mr. Mooney.

Mr. Anulewicz said that next year he hopes to have not only additional information from the Building Department by the Planning Department, as well.

b) Re: Fire Department, Larry Groth, Fire Chief

Fire Chief Groth presented to the Board, in addition to his year-end report of 1986, a report of the emergency medical services in Plymouth Township.

Because the Board had just received the emergency medical services report, it was suggested that the Board take a 10-minute break.

The Board adjourned at 8:40 p.m. and reconvened at 8:50 p.m.

Chief Groth reminded the Board that on the original Master Plan for Plymouth Township it was recommended to have 5 fire stations; that figure has since been reduced to 3. The third fire station is scheduled for the western part of the Township.

There have been some requests regarding a third fire station but there are no recommendations being made at this time.

Chief Groth spoke to the emergency medical services available in Plymouth Township.

He spoke to response time, transporting facilities, personal injury accidents, residential calls, commercial and industrial calls, life-support measures that are being given and also the various airlift companies that are available.

After much discussion between Board members, Supervisor Breen suggested that the Township maintain what we are currently doing. In the first responder/private transport concept. He asked the Fire Chief to provide data to support recommendations to do what he deems necessary to expand facilities or add equipment. He would like to have the Fire Chief report in six months.

Supervisor Breen accepted the Fire Chief's report as presented.

A friend dies, and Stella Smith worries

To the point

By Dan Ness

Stella Smith called last week to announce she was coming out of retirement.

Senior citizens who haven't had the pleasure of meeting Stella should take heart at the news. Those who know Stella Smith already have.

Smith is one of the many senior citizens who live near the intersection of Sheldon and Ann Arbor roads. Last week, a friend of hers was killed while walking across the street to do some shopping. Her friend was struck by a car.

"I want to get something started to make Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon Road safer," Smith said.

"We've got to do something out here," she said. "There's three service stations, two banks, Family Discount, Great Scott and two apartment complexes. We've got all these driveways out here."

It is a busy intersection. No one would argue that with Stella Smith. But: 1) there are a lot of busy intersections in our community, and 2) there are several governmental agencies to deal with in changing any rules that apply to those busy intersections.

In this case, Smith will have to take on the Wayne County Department of Public Services and the State of Michigan Department of Transportation. What can one senior citizen do to get the attention of the state and the county?

I don't know, but somehow, Smith has done it. Smith wants to change the intersection to a "no turn on red light" intersection. That may not be such a big problem, according to the person she talked to at the county office, she says.

She also wants there to be a left-turn arrow at the intersection, to relieve some of the traffic backup that accumulates. That may be more difficult to accomplish, she was told.

It doesn't sound, however, like that will stop Stella from trying to make the intersection more safe for her friends and neighbors. She estimates that 80 per cent of the people living in the two apartment complexes on Sheldon Road near Ann Arbor Road are seniors. Even if the number is less than that, her objective is clear.

"They should be able to get across the street," she argues, and she's right. But somehow, rules and regulations and stipulations and jurisdictions can get in the way of common sense and a safer method of crossing the street at a busy intersection.

Land of confusion

Give me Plymouth anytime

How lucky we are.

That's right folks, people of the Plymouth-Canton community are very lucky.

Why?

Well let me tell you.

I just recently returned from a working vacation in Florida, and it was warm, sunny, and seemed like a very nice place to live.

But I was wrong, very wrong.

My parents, like many other parents, have had a dream to move where snow is a four-letter word, a place where you could go golfing on Christmas day, or just sit out in the sun 365 days a year.

So the nice son that I am, I helped my folks move down to this so called "tropical paradise."

My folks moved into a very weird subdivision, which featured every word in the dictionary with the word lake either in front of it or behind it. For example, Hidden Lake, Lake Mary, Wick Lake CT. You get my drift.

So I got lost many times driving through all of these lakes. And while I was learning to drive through all of the lakes I realized that Florida residents drive at least 15 mph below the speed limit.

Even my father, who was your typical Michigan driver growing up doing 75 mph down I-275, had changed. He was now doing 42 on the highway.

Then after you visit Disney World, which is mainly for the tourists, there is not a lot left to do in this state.

I like to refer to it as the the "bore" capital of the world.

There's plenty of fishing. So I try to keep myself from dying of boredom by deep sea fishing. Just call me Marty Hemingway.

Well the highlight came when we saw a 14-foot shark. We circled the beast and I got as close to the rail as I could to look down Mr. Ferocious he opened his mouth very wide.

separate agencies, one from the state and the other from the county, it will be interesting to see just how much one senior citizen can accomplish with a huge bureaucracy.

"I'm retired now and I've got all the time in the world to do something about it, and I think it's about time something be done."

And seniors living on Sheldon Road near Ann Arbor Road can be thankful that Stella Smith has come out of retirement.

After seeing a few too many teeth, and hearing the theme to "Jaws" starting in my head, I backed off from the rail.

Well, we I did catch a nice fish but, it was kind of slimy, so I let the captain take it off the hook for me.

So fishing was over. I kept thinking how badly I wanted to return to The Plymouth-Canton Community, a place I once thought of as the most boring on world.

But I hadn't given up yet so I went to this street which is well known for a good time -- Church Street Station.

For those of you who are not familiar with the area, Orlando has clubs on different sides of the street and the street is closed off after 7 p.m. to all cars.

So the clubs, there was a an old time saloon, which featured a jazz band, a song and dance man and can-can girls. Then there's the country and western club, and then a trip into the next large room where 1960s rock and roll was being played.

Well after giving it a real chance I was ready to go home.

Florida just isn't for me -- or for anyone else who wants to have fun -- but if you're like my folks and you like sitting in the backyard watching the grass grow, then Florida is for you.

After arriving home to Michigan again I literally kissed the ground. It was great to be home and even see all the Republicans.

So next time you hear someone say that this community is boring, tell them to go to Florida, and drive 35 mph of the freeway, and do all of those boring things.

Hey Plymouth-Canton, be proud, you aren't so bad.

NOTE -- Despite all that -- spring break in Florida can be a blast, especially if you're staying in Daytona Beach or Ft. Lauderdale.

Creationism is next from Daskalakis

EDITOR:

Ever since I served on the school committee that considered the complaint about Gundella the Witch, I have been trying to figure out what the witch hunt being conducted by Mrs. Daskalakis and others is all about. Thus, when the first newsletter arrived from her group, Citizens for Better Education, I read it carefully. I even found myself wondering why some of the films she listed were being shown. Then I came to the last item on the list, the text book Earth Science. What could the textbook Earth Science have to do with Witchcraft? In Mrs. Daskalakis' objections to this book I found the answer to my questions.

Ladies and gentleman of The Plymouth-Canton Community, the Creationists have arrived! The "sin" committed by the text book Earth Science according to Mrs. Daskalakis, is that it doesn't mention "creation science." All this tomfoolery about teaching witchcraft in the schools (who believes that witches really exist anyway?) has been a smokescreen to cover the real objective of her group -- an attempt to force our schools to teach "creation science."

There has been no issue in recent times that more clearly demonstrates the need to keep church and state separate. "Creation science" is pure nonsense. It has no relationship to fact, reason, or understanding and no place in a sound educational program.

Separation of church and state means that the government does not tell religious groups what to think or say or do (as long as they act legally). It also means that religious groups and cults have no right to insist that their particular brand of mystical thinking be forced on public school students in the name of education.

Now that we know Mrs. Daskalakis' real objective, I hope my fellow citizens and the school board, will join me in vigorous resistance to this assault on quality education for our children.

Litany of the occult

Cry fowl! But don't cast the 1st stone

In the margin

By Ken Voyles

There's a fiendishly clever newsletter floating around The Plymouth-Canton Community that purports to be new mouthpiece of the Citizens for Better Education organization.

That group, you'll probably remember, is made up of the hardcore followers of Christian crusader Diane Daskalakis.

Daskalakis gave up trying to single handedly change the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. Now she has an army of fanatical do-gooders to perform her dirty work and stop the supposed teaching of witchcraft and occult in the district.

And some people are not at all pleased.

One resident I spoke with said she was extremely mad and upset at finding the newsletter in her mailbox. She said she was tempted to toss it right out, or rip it up before decided she better read it first.

Apparently Daskalakis has sent out nearly 20,000 of these newsletters, although the organization claims only around 700 members.

The purpose?

No doubt it's another scare tactic.

The newsletter doesn't have many redeeming qualities -- even the word fowl (as in fowl language) is repeatedly misspelled as "fowl."

Nothing like quacking up the wrong tree.

But this propaganda is dangerous material nonetheless, and it does not bode well for the future if we just sit back and ignore these attempts to frighten the citizenry of the community.

Yes, Daskalakis (and her kind) are frightening. They preach goodness and tolerance but are themselves bigotted and ignorant of other's feelings or needs.

I have to believe tolerance is not the most cherished belief among people who can barely tolerate something they don't understand.

So instead they tend to place the blame on someone or something they can easily grasp. In this case the teachers are indeed the scapegoats because they are so visible in this district.

Some people ease their conscience by doing the easy thing. They blame the teachers for society's ills. They don't blame themselves for their kid's problems, they blame the schools and the teachers.

Isn't it the Bible that mentions something about "casting the first stone?"

Witchcraft is not being taught in your school district. The occult is not being taught in your school district. And Satanism is not being taught in your school district.

If the devil is to be found at all it is in the same place as one finds God -- in the heart.

And words can't hurt anyone in a democracy.

• Only actions.

Drive safe

EDITOR:

Whether or not you have small children, we should all be concerned for their safety. A common occurrence on Gold Arbor (gravel road -- no sidewalks) in Plymouth Township is that of vehicles exceeding the 25 m.p.h. speed limit. At times, cars driven by persons NOT living on Gold Arbor have used this road as if it were Haggerty Road, driving at least 45 m.p.h. FACT.

or more school-age children and younger residing on this block, while walking to and from the bus stop, and being in front of their own homes.

Please take the time to drive the speed limit in residential areas, in winter and summer alike. The children might not see your vehicle; if going too fast, it only takes seconds for a tragedy to occur.

Driving safely will help the children be safe. Remember, everyone reading this was once a child.

Building from ground up

BY KEN VOYLES

Phil and Diana Rogers are new to The Plymouth-Canton Community but they dream of building and running a church in Plymouth Township sometime this year.

The young couple -- both are originally from Michigan -- moved to Plymouth Township last summer from Fort Worth, TX, where Phil Rogers studied at the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

"This area has been identified as one of the fastest growing communities in Wayne County," said Diana Rogers, 26, and a graduate from Michigan State University in telecommunications.

"We came up here to start a church," said Phil Rogers, 27, and an MSU graduate in sociology. He received his Masters in Divinity in July, 1986. "We want people to understand, though, that we aren't a bunch of southerners coming up here ranting and raving.

"We're from Michigan and proud of it," he added. "This is not a competition. We just want to form a church."

The couple have already started a pair of Bible study classes at homes in the township with 18 to 20 people. "We hope to expand that and build a core of people interested in starting a Sunday church service," said Phil Rogers.

Rogers has contacted the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and received permission to use West Middle School for a Sunday worship sometime in the next three months.

"Our focal point is west of Sheldon Road," said Diane Rogers. "We hope to find some land and build a church with the support of the Southern Baptist Convention (SBC).

"We have gotten some very positive feedback from people in the community," she added.

There are currently five baptist churches in the community, including one in Canton already associated with

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

Buying new furniture can be either a fun or a traumatic experience. In my case it was a lot of both.

I've been thinking about replacing the sofa and loveseat in the living room for almost a year, but there's never enough money in the budget. I'm sure some of you can relate to the budget problem -- you either have one or you don't.

If you have enough money to go out and buy new furniture whenever you want to, you never have to give it much thought. The fact that I've been thinking about it for a year gives you an idea of the condition of my budget.

There are many steps you have to go through when replacing furniture. The first is realizing the snow in the living room isn't actually real snow coming in through a hole in the ceiling, but simply the stuffing seeping through a hole in the furniture. Well that takes care of the loveseat, I simply have no choice but to get rid of it.

Now the sofa is another problem. I inherited this lovely piece of furniture. I'm the only one in the family who doesn't like it and never has. The only way this extra long, green striped sofa made its way into my living room is because I was dumb and desperate. Dumb because I allowed it to happen and desperate because I didn't want to sit on the floor.

Last fall I went out and priced furniture. I should add that I had a certain style in mind. After checking out many furniture stores, I only found one living room set that I liked. I even managed to talk the sales person down to about $3,500. Needless to say I went home and decided the furniture I had didn't really look that bad after all.

A couple of weeks ago I happened to pick up a paper advertising the style of furniture I wanted at an almost reasonable price. Reasonable or not, I knew the budget wasn't ready for it, but I still had to check it out. I tried to find fault with it but I couldn't. As I stood there fighting with myself, I finally told the salesperson I'd probably be back in a few days.

Then I started checking out all the furniture stores in the area. If you're bored and looking for an entertaining evening sometime check out the furniture stores. Why is it so important for salespeople to explain in great detail about the kind of springs in the furniture? I honestly don't know one kind of spring from another and a really don't care as long as they don't come through the furniture and bite me. By the end of the evening I was told I could spend the night in the showroom and check out the comfort of the springs (I think he was trying to be funny and tell me that it was past closing time).

After a couple of days of hearing friends tell me to buy the furniture, I went back to the original sales person and told him to write it up. I couldn't believe the trouble I had with my credit and charge accounts. If I hadn't used an account in awhile and didn't owe anything on it, it was considered inactive. The other accounts that I use and owe on wouldn't take it because of the credit limit.

I've always paid all the accounts on time. Give me a break, what did they expect out of me. I thought my credit was good. Thank heavens the people at the store knew how to deal with these things and get them straightened out.

The new furniture will arrive soon, but I'm still not sure how to deal with charge accounts in the future. I think I'm supposed to increase the credit limit and charge only a little amount on it each month. If anyone has any ideas, I'm open to suggestions.

Getting down to business

Pizza business flips for McArdle

BY T.M. SMITH

Plymouth's John McArdle is a living example of the ideal free-enterprise system -- how old fashion elbow-grease style hard work can pay off. Sometimes with amazing speed.

Today, at the ripe-old age of 21, McArdle is the owner of a local Papa Romano's pizzeria in Plymouth Township and is finishing off the details for a second store in Canton. He is the sole owner of both stores.

The sweet and incredibly short tale of McArdle's meteoric climb in the pizza biz began four short years ago as a 17-year-old delivery boy at a Papa Romano's Pizza in Livonia. At the time, he was working part-time while going to school for pre-med at Madonna College.

Before long he was named the manager of the store, and by the middle of his 19th year, McArdle was getting ready to put "owner" below his name next to the newest Papa Romano's in Plymouth.

For one year and eight months he has run the pizza shop with a great deal of success. The success has been so good, that he has built a new store in Canton for a grand opening sometime in March.

"We wanted to get into Canton because Plymouth and Canton go together like peanut butter and jelly," McArdle said. "You can't serve one without the other."

McArdle said the secret of his business has been an ability to make both the customer and employes feel like a family.

"Everyone who works here learns to get along. We have all kinds of people,

Come to papa

John McArdle has only been tossing dough at Papa Romano's for four years, but today he is the owner of two franchises. (Crier photo by T.M. Smith) and by the time they are here for awhile, they become friends," he said.

He said the customers catch up on that feeling, and appreciate the family-run style.

"We stress quality here. We give the customer one good, quality pizza. We don't need to give them two,"

McArdle said.

He also maintained that his store is not in competition with some of the big chains.

"We can't get the pizza delivered in 30 minutes, this isn't a mass production line. We do everything right here, from the dough, to grating

Canton police get computer help

A new computerized system will make it easier for Canton's Police Department to keep track of licensed dogs in the township.

According to Officer David Boljesic, using the new computer will eliminate "duplication of forms" and make it easier for the animal owner to trace his or her pet if it's been picked up through the department.

"In the past even with tags it's been difficult finding the owners," said Boljesic. "This new system is unique in the state."

The system links the Police Department with the Township Clerk's Office, which handles all of the dog licensing in the township, according to Linda Chuhran, township clerk. All of the necessary information will be available through the computer.

Also, six police dispatchers will be sworn in as Animal Control Officers to assist in enforcing the dog licensing ordinances. That job will no longer rest solely with a regular patrolman.

Dog licenses are $5 in Canton before March 31, 1987. The licenses must be renewed each year.

According to Berry the township officer was the only person injured in the crash. The other driver was able to walk away unharmed.

It was unclear if one of the drivers would be ruled at fault in the accident, but Berry did say that Corbett had lights and siren activated while in route to the bank.

A 'tropical day' at Field

Regardless of the weather outside, students inside Field Elementary School will enjoy sunshine Thursday.

The first and second grade classes of Bonnie Goodrich and Helen Shelansky will celebrate a "tropical day" to help beat the winter doldrums, while at the same time learning how to plan a well-balanced lunch.

A "tropical lunch" will be served to the entire school including chicken nuggets with pineapple or hot dogs, corn or broccoli, pineapple chunks with coconut and tropical fruit bars.

Both classes are also involved in the Michigan Model, a pilot health program which looks at the four basic food groups and nutrition.

Many of the students have already made creative posters advertising the special meal and the children will dress in tropical or summer outfits for the event.

The afternoon will also feature films about Hawaii and some Hawaiian music.

Arrangements are also being made to adopt a flamingo, the unofficial mascot of Field School. Donations are being collected to help fund the project.

And the children will receive a membership card from the Detroit Zoo.

Woodruffs Grove, at 124 Pearl St. just one block off of Michigan Avenue, serves a varied menu in a historic setting. The building in which it is located was built in the 1920s, and the decor retains that sense of "old Ypsilanti," according to Joanne Athey, general manager of Woodruffs Grove.
 "Some of the interior has remained the same since the building was built in the 20s," Athey said.
 Athey describes the mood at Woodruffs Grove as "warm, cozy, comfortable" and the menu and live entertainment complements that atmosphere. Jazz is featured during weekends in the dining room, and there is also entertainment in the lounge during happy hour.

Pioneers get blue ribbons

Eleven students from Pioneer Middle School were honored recently for their achievements in art with 1987 Southeastern Michigan Scholastic Art awards.

The 11 -- mostly ninth graders and some eighth graders at Pioneer -- won Blue Ribbons, Gold Keys, and certificates of merit for still life drawings and several figure sculptures.

The contest has recognized outstanding art students for the past 60 years.

This year 5,000 art works from schools in Wayne and Oakland Counties, including public and private, entered the competition. Approximately 1,000 art works were honored and another 500 were selected for a show at the Summit Place Mall in Pontiac including works by Pioneer students.

The Blue Ribbon works by Lisa Klieger, Jeff Morris, Kathy Gay and Nicole Christi will be sent to New York City to be judged in the National Scholastic Art Awards.

Klieger and Morris, both 14 years old, won Blue Ribbons for their drawings, while Gay and Christi, also 14, were honored for in the sculpture category.

Gold Key awards went to Andrew Turner, Brian Riggs, Nora West and Nikki Moore in drawings.

Certificate of merit awards were given to Dana Kozykowski, Kim Tyburski, and Mike Booth.

The works will be on display at Summit Place -- this year's sponsor of the contest -- through Sunday, Feb. 22.

FIJIAN HOSPITALITY

The chances are that if you had somehow landed in the Fiji Islands about a century ago and been invited to dinner by the natives, YOU would have provided the dinner. For reasons unknown to anthropologists, the inhabitants of these lush green islands took a great liking to human flesh, which they called "long pig."

In a rather short time, by evolutionary standards, the Fijian have not only given up their cannibalistic habits but have also become a gracious, softspoken, friendly group of people, given to broad smiles and waving delightedly at every passing car.

Even though there are almost 300 islands in Fiji, only a couple of these have any interest for the tourist. The British ruled Fiji for almost a hundred years, and many Indians were brought in as laborers. Indians now form a majority of the population, followed by native peoples, and Europeans. All these groups will offer you a splendid welcome, only today you can be a guest and not the dinner.

Uphill battle pays for Chief tankers

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

It's been all up hill for the Canton boys swim team which started off the season with five straight losses. The Chiefs who are now 7-5 and have clinched at least a tie for first place in the Western division in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA).

The Chiefs defeated Farmington Harrison Thursday, 108-64, and are now in first by themselves. If they beat Northville next week they will finish ahead of Harrison, but if they lose they'll be tied with the Hawks.

It was an extremely strong meet for the Chiefs even though their times weren't as good as coach Hooker Wellman would have liked.

"They've been sick so the times weren't the best," said Wellman.

Dean Roberts, senior co-captain, did well in the meet capturing first places in the 100-yard backstroke, and in the 200-yard freestyle.

Roberts was also a member of the 400-yard freestyle relay team, along with Tom Hone, Steve Schwinn, and Mike Helmstadter. The quartet captured a second place spot.

Scott Swartzwelter, along with relay members Jeff Homan, Bryce Anderson, and Jim Walker combined in a first place effort in the 200-yard medley relay.

Swartzwelter also captured a second place finish in the 100-yard backstroke.

Hone finished first in the 50-yard freestyle, while Brad Flowers was the number one diver for the night.

Frank Wisniewski also garnered a first in the 100-yard freestyle.

Hone also had a second place finish in the 400-yard freestyle relay along with Schwinn, Helmstadter, and Roberts.

Wisniewski was also a member of the 200-yard medley relay team which finished second. The other relay members were Don Kleist, Mike Kramer, and Mark Levesque.

Rock cagers win One step closer

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Salem's boys cage squad dumped North Farmington, 58-46, Friday to move one step closer in setting up the battle for the Lakes division title in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) with unbeaten Westland John Glenn.

Salem dumps Ann Arbor's grapplers

Salem ended its dual meet wrestling season on a high last week as the Rocks swept Ann Arbor Pioneer and Ann Arbor Huron in a double-dual meet.

The Rocks just squeezed by Pioneer, 32-25, and they destroyed the Huron River Rats, 50-12.

The two victories up the Rocks record to 12-2 in dual meet competition.

Sean May, who usually wrestles at 112 pounds, leaped up to 119 pounds against Pioneer, and was victorious. May also was a first place winner against the River Rats.

Dennis Dameron came up with a win at 126 pounds against Pioneer, and he also defeated the grappler from Huron.

The Rocks brought up a number of junior varsity players for the meet.

The district are this Saturday, Feb. 21 at Salem High. It's the first time the Rocks will host a Class A wrestling district.

Wrestling begins at 11 a.m. in the Salem gymnasium.

Salem spikers rev up with win over Raiders

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Salem's young girls volleyball squad was victorious over North Farmington 16-14 and 15-8 Monday to up its record to 8-13 overall, 4-9 in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) and 3-6 in the Lakes Division of the WLLA.

"North Farmington came out a little stale tonight," said Salem's head coach Betty Smith. "We were ready for the Raiders."

In the first contest, the Salem spike squad came out and played the Raiders tough, taking a 10-3 advantage in the early going.

But then the Rocks were plagued by some bad calls from the officials, according to Smith. And the Raiders made their move.

"After those poor calls we sat back, and watched them come back," Smith said. "We were to careful and that

The Rocks seemed to have the Raiders number early, as they jumped out to an 18-6 first quarter lead.

"We started out very strong, offensively and defensively, but we let up as the game went on," said Salem head coach Bob Brodie.

And that they did. The Rocks let North Farmington creep back into the game, as the Raiders cut the lead to seven at the intermission.

"The Raiders packed in their defense and we could not get an inside shot, and our perimeter shooting wasn't up to par," Brodie said.

But the Rocks held the upset minded Raiders off, and started to take control of the contest in the late stages of the game.

"We had to keep most of our starters in the game, although eight players did see action," Brodie said.

Senior center Rick Taylor lead the Rocks with 25 points. He also ripped down 14 rebounds. Mike Hale senior co-captain had 14 points for the Rocks.

The other senior co-captain Bryan Kearis added to the Rock's victory with his outside shooting, while Jeff Justice grabbed seven rebounds in the final quarter to help scare off the Raiders.

"Our defense did a fine job for us despite that let down in the second quarter," Brodie said.

The Rocks continue to hold teams under 49 points a game, and that's something they'll need to do if they hope to beat John Glenn in the battle for the Lakes division title, said Brodie.

"We'll have to play good defense if we hope to beat the Rockets," said Brodie.

The battle for the league crown is slated for Friday Feb. 20 at John Glenn. Tip-off is at 7 p.m.

kind of changed the momentum over to North Farmington."

The score went to 14-14. Then the Rocks came back to life and stopped the comeback of the Raiders. They also got the win in the first of the two contests.

In the second match, the Rocks dominated North Farmington.

"We were able to control the whole game," Smith said. The Rock spikers did not allow the Raiders to come back in the second match, and won it quite handedly. "We only had six bad serves the entire night, which is pretty good for us," Smith said.

Jane Klaes had five kills for the Salem as did Denise Tackett.

Jessica Handley played well both offensively and defensively, said Smith.

The Rocks head into the conference journey this Saturday, Feb. 21 at Westland John Glenn.

Chief gymnasts close 2nd at Freeland Invite

BY JANET ARMSTRONG
Freeland was a long way to go Saturday for the Canton girls gymnastics team, but a second place finish at the four-team Freeland Invitational made it a little more worthwhile.

The Chiefs faced Freeland, Vasser, and Hemlock and finished second

Whittaker leads Britons

Fran Whittaker, from Plymouth, continues to lead the struggling Albion women's varsity basketball team.

The sophomore is averaging 12.4 points per game for the Britons. Albion is currently 4-12 overall and 1-7 in their conference.

Whittaker is shooting nearly 68 per cent from the free throw line and 45 per cent from the field. She has also hit eight three-point shots so far this year for 42 per cent from the distant outside.

overall with 120 points. Freeland won the tourney with 136 points.

Canton out did Vasser which scored 117, and Hemlock which trailed with 102 points.

Brenda Perry was a bright spot for the Chiefs.

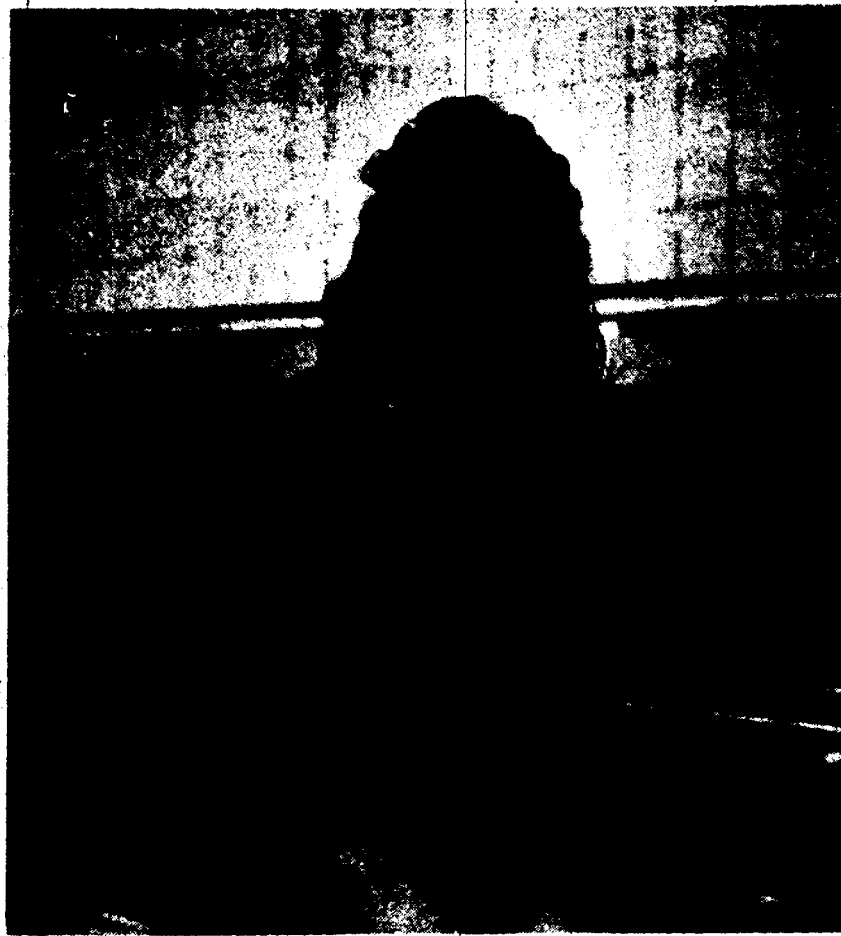

Perry scored an 8.35 on floor to give her a fourth place, and she also took a fifth place on the uneven bars scoring a 7.5.

She totalled 30.55 points Saturday, good for fifth in the all-around competition.

Mary Jo Charron took a fifth place on the beam with an 8.0, and Sharon Moran had a fourth place with the score of 8.2.

Canton was competing without two of its strong competitors -- Darcy Gignac, out because of a seperated shoulder, and Maureen Mclean was unable to make the extended trip.

The Chiefs will finish first in the Western division of the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) and are hoping to finish at least fourth in the league competition.

Without a team

Debbi Borke has found a team to practice and compete with. It's Canton. But she's from Ladywood. (Crier photo by Janet Armstrong)

Borke finds home away from home with Chiefs

BY JANET ARMSTRONG
An athlete's nightmare is being on team which never wins.

Luckily for most the nightmare never becomes a reality. But for one local athlete -- gymnast Debbi Borke -- the nightmare is a reality.

Borke is the lone member of the Ladywood gymnastics team, and in all probability will never win a meet on her own.

Borke started her gymnastics career at the early age of five years old. She started competing in fifth grade with the Rebel gymnastics team (now the Michigan Academy of Gymnastics).

In 1980, Borke suffered a knee injury. The injury plagued her until she finally had it operated on in 1982.

The Canton resident practices and participates in meets along with Canton's girls gymnastics team.

When Borke entered Ladywood as a freshman she found a school without a gymnastics team. So she began to practice with John Cunningham, the Canton gymnastics coach, who she knew from her days on the Rebel team.

Borke then went to the Ladywood athletic director, who declared there was indeed a Ladywood team. Borke could compete in meets.

Since it was obvious at that time that a one-girl team would not be able to win any meets, Borke set her mind on attaining individual goals.

"Qualifying for regionals is what keeps me going," she said. "I never really think about the fact that I can't win a meet."

Borke also keeps herself going with a strong desire to compete and do well.

"I just want the opportunity to compete," Borke said.

The gymnast plans to attend the University of Steubenville in Ohio this fall but for now she is content with being the only member on a one-girl squad.

Canton Rec sponsors racquetball

Canton's Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring a 10-week spring men's racquetball league to begin Wednesday, March 4.

The league will be made up of divisions based on the players' abilities. Court times will be at 7:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. at Rose Shores Racquetball in Canton.

The cost for the 10-week session is $60 per person and includes all league court time and awards.

Register in person or by mail to Canton Parks and Recreation Department, 1150 S. Canton Center Rd., Canton, MI 48188.

For further details call the recreation department at 397-5110 Monday through Friday.

Rock swimmers fall, 8-3 going into league

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Salem's boys tankers were upset by the North Farmington Raiders, 91-81, Thursday. The loss weakens the Rocks record to 8-3 so far this season.

Salem was only able to capture three first place finishes against the fired up Raiders.

"North Farmington is a good team," said Salem head coach Chuck Olson. "They haven't received the credit which they deserve. They're tough.

"We swam well at times," Olson added.

Phil Bocketti took first in the 200 freestyle for the Rocks with an effort of 1:53.6.

Dave Miller, for Salem, also captured a first place finish as he won the 100 backstroke in time of 1:00.8.

The final first place victory for the Rocks came from Kevin Tunish in diving. Tunish tallied 194.3 points, in the losing cause.

"We possibly took the Raiders to lightly," Olson said. "It also could have been that the line-up we used was not the best."

Despite the loss the Rocks are still in good spirits, according to Olson. "The guys are still up, and looking forward to the Walled Lake Activities Association (WLAA) conference meet," he said.

"The WLAA is what we have been shooting for all season."

The Rocks have one dual meet remaining before the conference preliminaries, and although the Rocks are not up to full strength in the health department, Olson hopes to have all of his swimmers back before the all important WLAA meet.

Olson continues to feel that his team is still keeping up with the rest of the league in terms of their race times.

"Our times were still good against the Raiders. They just had better times then we did on that night," Olson said. "We'll be ready for the conference meet, and if we do well there, that's all that matters.

"That's been our goal all season," he concluded.

A taste of victory for Chief spikers

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Canton's girls spike squad got its first taste of victory Saturday, as the team downed the Farmington Falcons 15-13 in the SchoolCraft Invitational.

"It was great to get that first victory," said Chief's head coach Allie Suffety.

The Chiefs are now at 1-13 on the year. They were 1-7 in the SC tourney.

Although the Chiefs are having a losing season there is still a lot of excitement and spirit among the Chief spikers said Suffety.

"We still are having fun despite the losing record," he said. "The girls are continuing to work hard during our practices and the girls are looking forward to the things we will be doing during the off season."

With the season almost at its conclusion the Chiefs are trying all kinds of different things and using different combinations.

And it may be paying off according to Suffety.

"Our scores are getting better and the girls are working very hard," he said.

Kelly Moller, one of the Chief setters, has been one of the keys currently, according to Suffety. "Kelly is doing a great job. She's working hard during the games and practice," he added.

Heather Eudis, and Danjal Dickenson are also doing a real good job for Canton according to Suffety.

"They're helping to hold this team together," he noted.

"I feel real sorry for the seniors on our team right now, because there is hope for the future, but they will have the satisfaction of knowing that they were the pillars to the future success of this team," Suffety continued.

second place finishes. In the 200-yard individual medley, Anderson took second with the time of 2:14.56 and in the 100-yard butterfly he clocked 59.39.

Keith Corley was the number two finisher in the diving competition, while Bill Richter was third in diving.

Helmstadter had a third place finish in the 500-yard freestyle.

Also finishing in third place were Mike Lustig in the 200-yard individual medley and Walker in the 50-yard freestyle.

Levesque had a third place finish in the 100-yard butterfly, while Jim Reimenschneider captured a third place in the 100-yard backstroke.

It's not easy for a team who lost the first five meets of the season, to turn it around and win the next seven meets it competes in, said Wellman.

"Our success has a lot to do with our senior co-captains Steve Schwinn and Dean Roberts," said Wellman when asked what sparked the turn around.

When Canton clinched at least a tie for the division title, the club ended a six year drought in boys swimming titles.

As could be expected coach Hooker Wellman was "super pleased."

Varsity sport of the mind

A team from Canton High was knocked out of the Alma College 1987 High School Quiz Bowl during the quarterfinals on Saturday.

Canton lost to Redford Catholic Central, 210-80, in the opening round on Saturday. Catholic Central went on to win the quiz bowl later that night.

Canton was one among 16 teams in the Saturday competition. Salem High's team lost in the opening round of this year's contest.

The quiz bowl is known as "the varsity sport of the mind" and involves teams in quick recall and fast response to a wide variety of questions.

Canton's team included senior and captain James Sung, juniors Minal Harjratwala and Evan Yeung, and sophomore Cathy Yeung. Junior Shani Cowmeadow and sophomore Kyle Karinen were alternates.

Scott Beaman advised the team this year. He also advised the Salem squad.

Canton hoop team records important win

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Canton's boys basketball team had a important win Friday against the Farmington Harrison Hawks, 65-58.

The win put the Chiefs in the lead of the Western division, with a record of 9-5 in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA).

Hawk Chad Burgess was the game's leading scorer with 15 points, while Chief starter Mike Lasota was next with 14 points.

The Chiefs were leading the Hawks 31-28 at halftime, but the Hawks stayed close to the Chiefs for the entire game with the score 48-44 reading at the end of the third quarter.

Freethrows played a major role in the Hawks ability to play with the Chiefs as long as they did. The Hawks shot 40 freethrows making 25, while the Chiefs shot 14 freethrows making 11.

Roger Trice led the game in rebounding pulling down 13, while Jeff Annulewicz, and Matt Littleton each pulled down four rebounds for the Chiefs.

"Mike Lasota had a tremendous performance," said Canton coach Tom Niemi, adding that Brad Carey, Trice, and Tyrone Reeves all had good performances.

good performances.

Carey produced 12 points, Trice 11 points, and Reeves 10 points.

The reason Canton was able to outlast Harrison was the fact that the Chiefs were able to keep their poise, according to Niemi, and control the tempo of the game.

Canton's next opponent is Northville at Canton's gym on Friday, Feb. 20. Game time is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

More soccer in Canton

A third session of indoor soccer, sponsored by Canton's Parks and Recreation Department, will begin March 1.

Game are played at the indoor soccer dome.

The entry fee is $415 per team; $240 for the under-8 division. That includes a six-game playing schedule.

Leagues are for all ages youths through over 30.

Daskalakis: Teachers using tools of the occult said board President E.J. McClendon. "We can't take any action but the appeals are a matter of record."

Daskalakis also tried to make it clear to the board that this is no longer her fight alone. She said she possessed approximately 700 signatures from concerned taxpayers and residents.

She also addressed each specific complaint in turn during the meeting.

She said "Rules for Radicals," which is used in a class called Zen and Emerson, helps teach students that it is good to be a rebel, like the first rebel in history, Lucifer.

She also objected to the book's foul language.

Her main objection to "The Breakfast Club" was the foul language.

"And I can't believe all of our students would end up acting like the students in the movie," said Daskalakis.

In the movie the students swear, smoke marijuana in the school library, vandalize part of the library and carry on in one form of "perversion," as Daskalakis called it, or another.

"The movie is a scam set up to target the trash in our school system," she said. "And we fell for it."

The movie "Excalibur" is based "100 per cent" on the teachings of the occult, Daskalakis said.

"It's extremely violent with blood, blood and more blood," she said. "We shouldn't have to expect our children to sit through this kind of garbage. There is no place for this type of violence."

She called the Ouija board an "occult tool" of divination and fortune telling which puts Christian children in jeopardy before "their Father."

"This is the most upsetting one," Daskalakis said.

She also complained that the review committee did not review all of the material she presented before they made their decision to allow its continued use.

As for palmistry and crystal ball gazing, she called those "100 per cent witchcraft" which "plugs directly into the powers of hell."

In her final comments, Daskalakis requested that the board "hold off" on its decision until her group had collected further evidence purporting to show witchcraft and occult teachings in the district.

"Whatever decision we make I want to provide as much free choice in the community as possible," said board member Dean Swartzwelder after Daskalakis completed her remarks. "This is a difficult decision for all of us to make."

Board Vice-President Dave Artley said, "We can support the committees or disagree with them. Or maybe we can find some middle ground in between."
