Wilcox project called off

BY T.M. SMITH

A partnership agreement between a group of investors and Jack Wilcox expired over the weekend, leaving Wilcox as the sole player in a bid for condominiums at the foot of Kellogg Park.

It is a bid, however, that is no closer to reality than it was 18 months ago.

Wilcox must now go back to square one with the project. The crumbling of the investing group gives Wilcox the freedom to find new investors, but it also means that the plans previously submitted to the planning commission expire July 9 with not much of a chance at meeting those deadlines for construction.

That would probably force a new set of plans to be drawn up, and the planning process to begin anew. Unless Wilcox can secure investors and proceed with the current plans by the deadline.

The purchase option that ran out gave The Venture Group exclusive rights to purchase the 3.5 acre parcel of property within a given period of time. Wilcox believes that this failure is an opportunity for him to explore new avenues.

School cuts coming

BY KEN VOYLES

An initial list of budget reductions in the district's general operating fund were given the stamp of approval by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education last week during a regular meeting of the board.

The reductions, necessary because of the failure to override the Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment on June 8, are a "roadmap" for both the district administration and board, said Superintendent John M. Hoben.

"Our intent is to accomplish the reductions without creating difficulties in the classroom."

Mike Homes

"Our intent in putting this together is to give you a roadmap," Hoben told the board, "which will put us in a position to adopt a budget within our means."

The cuts take effect immediately, said Hoben, but further review and adjustment of the areas being trimmed will continue over the summer.

Hoben said the administration did

3 challenge City incumbents in Nov.

BY T.M. SMITH

Seven city residents have filed nominating petitions for the four vacant seats which will be up for grabs next November on the Plymouth City Commission.

Because only seven people filed petitions, there will not be a primary election, city officials said. The minimum number of candidates needed to hold a primary is eight, deputy clerk Linda Langmesser said.

The deadline for filing the nominating petitions with the city clerk's office was Tuesday at 4 p.m. At that time the residents who filed included all four of the current commissioners whose terms are up along with three other candidates.

Those candidates include newcomers Greg Green, Ron Loiselle, Jean Morrow along with current commission members Dennis Bila, Mary Childs, Donald Keller and James Jabara.

Jabara was appointed to the commission last July as a replacement to the commission.

Langmesser said the candidates have until June 19 to withdraw from the race if they wish, after that their name will appear on the ballot in November.

Fireworks, balloons to fill the sky

BY T.M. SMITH

Somebody should alert the nearest air traffic controller about the first weekend in July.

Alert them that the strange blips on their radars will be coming from this area. Because the friendly skies will become the "crowded skies" over The Plymouth-Canton Community during the July 4th weekend.

Plans are being finalized this week for the annual Jaycees fireworks display and parade, along with plans for the 1987 Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival during the same weekend.

The balloon extravaganza is scheduled to begin Friday July 3 at Centennial Education Park (CEP) at Canton Center and Joy roads in Canton Township and continue through July 5. The agenda calls for daily launches in the morning and late afternoon, along with several contests and competitions.

The highlight of the weekend, according to organizers, will be dusk July 4, when scores of balloons will dot the landscape just prior to the fireworks in the park less than a mile away.

That is where the annual Plymouth Jaycees fireworks display is scheduled to go off this year in Plymouth Township's Township Park at McClumphia and Ann Arbor Trail.

Jaycee President Chuck Lowe Jr. said this year will again include a live band performance from the Plymouth Community Band in the Township Park which will be choreographed with the fireworks.

Last year the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra played at the park.

This year's July 4th planning has gone smoother than last year's which had some financial difficulty, and was not finalized until the last minute.

Lowe said the Jaycees have again gotten support this year from local car dealers along with a major beer company.

The fireworks will also have the added attraction of a shuttle service from the CEP grounds where the balloons will be, to Township Park free of charge.

The parade will be July 4 in downtown Plymouth on Main Street beginning at 1 p.m., while the fireworks are scheduled to begin a little after dusk, with music starting at 8 p.m. in the park.

Lowe also warned that there will be roads blocked off, and re-routed for the event, and that will be finalized closer to the events.

Wrecking ball

The walls of the Dick Scott leasing building came crumbling down last week as the first step of the car dealers renovation plans. (Crier photo by Dennis Bakker)

Construction ahead at D. Scott Dodge

BY T.M. SMITH

The wrecking ball swung last week down at the Dick Scott Dodge lot to make room for the planned new dealership, which the dealer intends to build this summer.

The old Dick Scott leasing building, which sat on the corner of Main Street and Ann Arbor Road, was leveled as the first step of the process. The future calls for an expanded lot, new showroom and new service garage before the renovation is complete.

At the last planning commission meeting a tentative site plan was approved for the construction, but there are several sticky points that need to be resolved before the real work can begin, city engineer Ken West said.

"There are eight or nine points that have to be worked out before they begin construction," West said. "And as of today (Monday) none of those have gone by me."

The stickiest of those points is what Dick Scott can legally do with the drain which was recently covered over.

Because the dealer deeded the property back to the city for bond purposes to finance the project, there are restrictions to the use of the property.

West said that Plymouth's bond council and Scott's attorney have been examining the issue to determine exactly what use would be feasible.

As it stands the site plans call for that area which was covered to be used just as a driveway, but even that will present some problems since Scott would be using it exclusively.

Once the dealership is built, however, it is expected that it will create a growth of jobs and service for the car dealer.

The new showroom and service area will allow for much more traffic and car selling and servicing capabilities.

Winkelman's heads to Twp.

BY T.M. SMITH

A major Detroit retailer has decided to move its corporate offices and warehouse facilities to Plymouth Township's Metro-West Industrial Park.

According to Plymouth Township planning department, Winkelman Stores Inc. has submitted site plans for a 200,000 square foot warehouse and office facility. Those plans are scheduled to appear on tonight's planning commission agenda, slated for 7:30 p.m. at township hall.

The move will bring a major Detroit retailer of woman's clothes to the township sometime late this year or early next year if building goes as expected.

Township planning director Jim Anulewicz reviewed the site plan and gave it his recommendation for tentative approval, conditional on small modifications. It is thought that tentative approval can be given tonight, with final approval at the July meeting.

If that is the case, building will probably begin in the later part of July or early August.

Karen Burrill, Vice President of Marketing at the RA DeMattia Co, said that Winkelman's asked the company not to release any details on the deal.

"All I can really tell you is that we are building a building for them," Burrill said.

Officials at Winkelman's corporate offices did not return phone calls as of press time Tuesday.

Canton employe files labor charge

BY DAVID PIERINI

A secretary in the Canton Township Clerk's office has filed unfair labor practice charges against Clerk Linda Chuhran and the township.

Elaine Weiss, in conjunction with the Technical, Professional and Officeworkers Association of Michigan (TPOAM), charged Chuhran with violating the Public Employment Relations Act in not allowing her to return to work after filing a grievance.

The board was to meet Tuesday night to discuss the charges in a closed session.

The case involves a resolution adopted by the board that said Weiss would work in the supervisor's office a couple hours each Friday putting together agenda packets for board meetings.

The resolution said she should then return to her duties in the clerk's office after the packets were completed.

Weiss said Chuhran banned her from the office on Fridays after a month. Weiss, on the advice of the TPOAM, filed a harassment grievance.

"It didn't look like there was any problem," Weiss said. "Then one day, she said 'I can't have you come back on Fridays.'"

The board then passed another resolution on March 3 that ended Weiss' Friday assignment in the supervisor's department to remedy the situation.

According to the charge, Chuhran then completely barred Weiss from the clerk's office for filing the grievance. Under the Public Employment Relations Act, employes have the right to file a grievance.

"Employers are not allowed to discriminate against employees in union activities," said Jerry Radovic, business agent for the TPOAM.

Chuhran has since rearranged work assignments and hired three part-time secretaries (at $2,000 a month per secretary) to compensate for Weiss' dismissal, said Supervisor James Poole.

He said Chuhran is in violation for hiring non-union workers in place of a union worker who is present for duty.

Radovic said the temporary help can only stay for a 90-day period according to the collective bargaining agreement between the township and the TPOAM. If Chuhran employes the part-time secretaries past that cutoff time, Radovic said the TPOAM will file a grievance.

"This is just an employe playing politics," Chuhran said. "She asked for a transfer and she got it."

Radovic and Poole said the authority to transfer an employe rests with the township personnel department and not with an individual employer.

Weiss, who is currently doing work for the supervisor's department, said the TPOAM grievance asked that the

Canton woman killed by car

A 25-year-old Canton woman died Monday evening after being hit by a car late Sunday night.

Delores Elaine Perlarske was pronounced dead at 7:40 p.m. Monday night at Ann Arbor's University Hospital.

Perlarske was jogging and was hit by an eastbound car on Ford Road around 11 p.m. Sunday, Canton Police said. She carried no identification and wasn't identified until early Tuesday morning.

"Friends of the victim had been calling area hospitals," said Lt. Larry Stewart. "When they called University Hospital, the people over there asked for a discription. It matched, and one of the family members identified her."

Charges against the driver have not been filed pending further investigation.

Main Street blocked off

Barricades create 2-lane 'emergency zone'

BY DAVID PIERINI

Street barricades to ensure clear passing for emergency vehicles during peak cruising hours in Plymouth were implemented for the first time last weekend, receiving a mixture of reviews from city officials and residents.

Plymouth's City Commission applauded the experimental tactic at Monday night's city commission meeting, and deemed it as necessary to the safety of the community.

Many residents agreed, but some were critical of police enforcement during Friday and Saturday nights.

"I agree that two lanes should be used for emergency vehicles," said 15-year-old B.J. Bonga of Plymouth. "But writing tickets is no emergency."

Officials say the zone -- the center two lanes of Main Street between Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail that are open only to police, fire and medical vehicles -- is still under evaluation but will be used throughout the summer during problem periods.

In the past, officials say, emergency vehicles have had problems responding to calls during gridlock cruising hours. The zone will reduce response time for fire and medical vehicles, as well as allow police to pull over traffic offenders into the center lanes.

Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers said police responded to a breaking and entering call on Union Street Saturday night in less than two minutes. That same call without barricades, Myers said, would've taken five minutes longer using side streets.

"Having an emergency vehicle screaming down a residential street when it could be traveling on a main street is an unnecessary risk," said Myers who activated seven new officers for last weekend.

Plymouth fashioned its plan after one used in Gocean, IN. Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper said it will cost the city $5,000 to $7,300 for every weekend the plan is used.

"Plymouth has a history of doing things on a trial basis," said Paul

Sincock, assistant to the city manager, who presented a video to the city commission showing the progression of police efforts in handling cruise-related problems during the last two years. "We feel the plan is highly effective in downsizing the situation."

One Plymouth resident, who asked not to be identified, said the city is blowing things way out of proportion. "They're making too big a thing of it," she said. "They're just kids. I've had no problems and I live on Union Street."

Tony Buck complained about the added traffic congestion and the ticket his friend received for playing his radio too loud.

"When a police car is sitting in the middle, how's a firetruck going to get through," the 15-year-old Canton resident said. "If there had been an emergency, they wouldn't have been able to get through."

Smith sues Chatam, mismanagement charged

BY DAVID PIERINI

Wendell Smith, principal shareholder in the holding company for Chatam Super Markets Inc., is suing the company's chairman for allegedly mismanaging company funds and concealing corporate records.

The Plymouth Township resident and newly elected Schoolcraft College trustee was in Macomb County Circuit Court Monday and won an extension on a restraining order prohibiting Nu-Trax Inc. chairman Alex Dandy from transferring assets out of the company.

The restraining order would also prohibit Dandy from making management changes and destroying company records.

"I'm trying to protect a combination of people," Smith said. "I'm trying to protect the creditors, the employees and myself as a stockholder."

"This is the step we need to stop the flow of assets out of the company."

Smith will be in court on Friday asking for a receiver, which would take control away from Dandy and place it into the hands of an accounting firm.

In the lawsuit, Smith charges Dandy with transferring assets out of Nu-Trax to himself and other areas not in the company's interest. Smith said a complete audit would reveal where Dandy transferred funds.

Smith hired Dandy last year to help save the financially troubled grocery-store chain.

Ypsi man drowns in local pond

A 29-year-old Ypsilanti man drowned Sunday evening in Napier Pond, and Plymouth Township Police believe drinking may have been involved.

A Wayne County Medical Examiner's Office spokesperson said the body was identified as Rickie Allen Duncan of Pearl Road in Ypsilanti.

Police confirmed that Duncan and a small group of people had been drinking near the pond, located on Ann Arbor Road, east of Napier, prior to the accident.

An autopsy report listed the cause of death as accidental drowning, but the Wayne County Medical Examiner's Office refused to release details.

Public hearing tonight on Meijer application

BY T.M. SMITH

The theory that there can never be too many grocery and shopping stores will be tested tonight at Plymouth Township Hall.

A public hearing has been called for 7:30 tonight at the township hall, in front of the planning commission, to discuss a proposal for a new Meijer store at Schoolcraft and Haggerty roads in the township.

The hearing will give township residents an opportunity to voice opinions on the matter, which has shown signs of becoming a controversial item.

Planning Director Jim Anulewicz said that he has received several letters, both the pro and con on the issue, and expects a crowd at tonight's meeting.

This meeting is the first of several steps Meijer must take to place a store at the site. Once the public hearing is met, the planning commission makes a recommendation and sends the matter to the Wayne County Planning Commission, which also makes a recommendation before the township board decides on the matter.

The main issue on the agenda is a zoning change request from an "industrial" classification to a "commercial" Anulewicz said.

But he said the zoning change is a fairly routine matter, the sticky questions revolve around two issues. In his report, Anulewicz said that he is favorable of the application but that two questions need to be resolved.

The first question is the traffic capabilities on Haggerty Road, Anulewicz said. While the second question is one of market.

"The two valid issues are the traffic, and where is the market for this store. There is one Meijer at Eight Mile and one at Ford Road," Anulewicz said.

P-C schools establish garage sale center

Garage sale nuts should take note.

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education agreed to establish a "garage sale" center at Starkweather School last week to sell off obsolete books, equipment, furniture and supplies that are no longer being used by the district.

"We've been talking about this for some time," said district Superintendent John M. Hoben.

In addition to helping relieve the storage problem, the project would also encourage community residents to use the Starkweather Community Education Center inside the school, said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business.

"This would help us open up a lot of storage space and get rid of our obsolete equipment," Hoedel added. "We'd clear out the storage areas throughout the district."

Hoedel said the center would be open on a regular basis, probably on Tuesdays from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. A grand opening for the garage sale center is being planned for mid-August.

The center would be run under the general supervision of Sharon Streat of the district's Community Education program.

Proceeds from the sales of equipment and supplies would be used to fund projects or district programs such as Miller Woods or Geer School. It might also be transferred to the Education Excellence Foundation.

Distribution of the money will be left up to the board, however, said Hoben. The funds will be deposited in a new "district improvement activity account."

Rouge cleaners deserve credit

A standing ovation is deserved for the volunteers and coordinators of the Rouge River Cleanup project that took place June 6.

Here in Plymouth and Plymouth Township 16 volunteers showed up on a dreary, rainy Saturday and pulled more than 45 square yards of debris out of the river within the boundaries of the city and the township.

This was the first year that either the township or the city has been actively involved with the project, and according to Plymouth Township Clerk Esther Hulsing, this year was a big success.

A pat on the back is in order for everyone who helped with the project.

Wendover's pizza puns missed point

EDITOR:

I read with interest Wendover's column of June 10 concerning Congressman (Carl) Pursell's trip to Honduras with Domino's Pizza owner Tom Monaghan (Pursell's policy: No anchovies please).

In his zeal to coin clever metaphors, Wendover failed to investigate Domino's side of this story. Had he placed a call to Domino's headquarters, Wendover would have learned the profits from the Honduran store will be returned to charitable activities in Honduras — a program worth "showcasing," wouldn't you agree?

Who knows, Wendover might have been able to add "kneading for the needy" to his collection of pizza puns had he only followed Domino's advertising advice — "One call does it all."

Oakwood staff treated victim well

EDITOR:

On Friday, May 22, I had the occasion to be at Canton Oakwood Hospital emergency room in reference to a three-year-old accident victim. As a police officer with 13 years experience, 10 of which were spent in Detroit, I am no stranger to emergency room activities.

On this date, however, I saw something that was truly heart-warming. The dedication and caring attitude on the part of the hospital staff was something in which we should take great pride.

Whenever a child is seriously injured, emotions run high on the part of the people who tend to the youth. The Oakwood staff worked on the child for over an hour and did everything humanly possible to try and save him.

The extra effort put forth by the employees of Canton Oakwood carried over to assisting the child's parents in their time of grief.

Once again, I would like to take this opportunity to commend The Oakwood staff for performing a job that not just anyone could handle.

City is changing; rezone Kellogg Park

EDITOR:

Having just come from a City of Plymouth Planning Commission Meeting, in which I spoke out in frustrated anger and left with frustrated emotions, I am now left with a sinking feeling for the City of Plymouth. I feel anxious over the imminent demise of this beautiful city as we once knew it.

We are collectively watching a city lose the personality and character we all once took so much pride in, and also took for granted. We were unique, close in yet remote, quaint but paradoxically progressive.

Some like to snicker at Canton for its lack of trees, its stockade fences, its lack of character and unification. Novi seems that way too. Northville is cute, but my how that race track must bring in some undesirables plus look how much they have to do for the State. We felt that we stood above the league of the Livonias, Farmington Hills, and Redfords. We would never make the mistakes that Birmingham did. Non-residents could feel our pride. We had that degree of integrity

Ban all non-residents from Kellogg Park?

EDITOR:

As a former resident and a recent visitor to Plymouth, I was shocked to discover that the primary recreation of the young people in the area is blocking the streets of the city on Friday and Saturday nights, making motorized travel through the community virtually impossible. I discovered this popular activity started during the summer of 1986 and has carried over into 1987.

From my inquiries, I learned that some of these young people travel as many as 30 miles to Plymouth to cruise Main Street. I find it hard to believe they cannot find something more worthwhile to do on a Friday night.

Should there be a fire or some other type of emergency, the victims would be helpless, since Main Street is impassable. This disregard and total lack of respect for the rights of the citizens in the community is intolerable. No adult, not to mention child, should be subjected against his will to the language I heard and the behavior I observed.

I understand that some residential and side streets are closed and that the Franklins and Saugataucks of Michigan have. We would never compromise our charm in pursuit of the almighty dollar.

I can't crusade; I can only look on in sadness as we build to the sidewalks and railroad tracks. We can't seem to build fast enough or fill in enough vacant areas to house transient inhabitants in apartment buildings that often times resemble the projects of World War II.

In closing a word of warning; be sure to check how that vacant lot is zoned near you or that house a couple of doors down. It does have historical merit; but it hasn't been painted lately, lets talk about it, and then it can succumb to the wrecker ball.

Also, to those of you out-of-town owners who do not emphathize and have money to invest, there is a nice piece of property across from the Penn Theatre. I'm not sure how it is zoned, its a park now, but I'm sure the city can find a way to facilitate your needs.

barricaded by the city to deter the cruisers. I also know that tickets in the amount of $100 are issued to offenders, and that if convicted, the offender is liable for court costs of an additional $100. Obviously, these fines are too low. Perhaps the amount of the ticket should be increased to $500 plus court costs. Money cannot reimburse the citizens for the inconvenience they are enduring. Maybe it would be feasible to impound the vehicles of the offenders, and charge a towing and storage fee.

It is obvious that cruising and gathering ordinances already on the books are not strong enough. Although I hesitate to suggest such a thing, maybe as a last resort, an ordinance should be passed barring non-residents access to Kellogg Park.

Maybe a successful plan of attack has been implemented since my recent visit to Plymouth. I surely hope so. I do know that this situation as it existed when I was home must not be tolerated. The community must not allow the cruisers to hold it hostage.

What's a little shaving cream

In the margin
By Ken Voyles

Dad couldn't shave this morning. When he opened the medicine cabinet his favorite brand of shaving cream was gone.

Junior!?!?!?

And in local stores last week stocks of the foamy white stuff ran very low, almost disappearing entirely from the shelves.

Like the dad above, a lot of fathers in The Plymouth-Canton Community went without a shave Thursday morning.

Why?

Students from the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools celebrated the end of the school year Thursday. They did it by using shaving cream to douse each other on the last day of class.

It has become sort of an annual end-of-the-school-year rite. And it's just good, clean fun. No firecrackers, no paint, no alcohol, no drugs.

Just shaving cream. Lots and lots of shaving cream. For sensitive skin or tough skin. In menthol, mint, lime or just plain. Jumbo size of mini.

The students (both boys and girls) wore the white foamy stuff almost like medals of valor. They didn't wipe it off (even if they could have) and instead walked the streets of the community wearing it proudly in their hair and all over their clothes.

They sprayed the stuff on each other with wild abandon and helped turned the schoolyards and sidewalks of the community into shaving cream mine fields.

Watch your step unless you want it all over your shoes!

There were calls to the police as well about students entering local stores covered with the stuff. Most of the businesses did not appreciate the kids tramping through dripping the sticky foam.

Some residents thought the kids were getting out of hand so they too called the cops, but no one was hurt, no cars were vandalized, no windows broken.

As far as we can tell the shaving cream phenomenon was first reported in the Journal of Psychic Parambulators, a distinguished medical magazine about four years ago.

It was originally started by high schools students somewhere out west. Soon it had spread to even the most conservative midwest communities.

And this year middle school and elementary school students got in on the act.

Exactly why they use shaving cream remains a mystery. Some say "it's cool" on hot summer days. Others think the students just want to stand out from the crowd on what really is their day...school's out for summer...no more books...no more teacher's dirty looks.

One local police officer said he found the "shaving cream wars" amusing and basically harmless.

"It's just fun. Nobody gets hurt, and the stuff is biodegradable," he said.

One of our customers got a ticket during (last weekend's) the "no left turn" on Main Street.

He just lives right by here. I'll go to court with him on it.

What puzzled me is that they didn't block off the Mayflower Hotel (from no left turns). Granted he has more money and tax breaks than me.

I'm willing to work with them (the city) on this (the cruising).

Paul Sincock (assistant to the city manager) was good enough to move one barricade from in front of our store. But there's no way to get through town. I'm talking about the residents -- not the people from out of town.

This is not a dictatorship. Nobody asked me.

We'll take our '50 Fords elsewhere

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter was written as a response to the Jaycees request for $10 for all cars later than 1940 and in this year's July 4th parade.)

EDITOR:

The purpose of our club, (The Ford Retractable Club) as the name implies, is the restoration, preservation, and enjoyment of Ford Retractable Hardtops, manufactured in 1957, 1958, and 1959, and of all Fords made in these years.

Our cars are not 1905 "brassies", not classic 1928 Packards, not '40 Ford streetrods. They are no better, no worse, but different. They are an important part of Americana, many of them made here in Michigan, new enough to be remembered by a large number of parade spectators, yet old enough not to be seen on the streets regularly. The Retractable Hardtop was a very unique model, not made anywhere in the world since Ford ceased production of 1959 cars.

For the past several years we have participated as a club in the Plymouth Fourth of July Parade. This event has always been a highlight for our club members, and has already been announced in our club newsletter.

This year, because of the Michigan Sesquicentennial (?) the Jaycees to charge us $10 per car because our cars are newer than 1940.

With all the communities in the area

With malice toward none

I'm faced with a dilemma. On the one hand, my daughter needs new shoes. On the other, I have to look her in the eye.

The choice arises from my good old pal Maurie Breen's decision to pull the Plymouth Township legal notices out of The Crier and run them in a newspaper known for acting like his press agent.

Fortunately, nobody in journalism school said newspapering was an easy job. We can take Maurie's snub in stride.

It's not even surprising. Remember that this is just one more example of how township funds are shuffled off to Maurie's "friends." Contractual work with Plymouth Township -- from construction to legal services and, now, to legal notices -- often goes to Breen buddies.

The recent spat began when Maurie walked over to the West Wing at Township Hall just after a recent Crier opinion page carried a cartoon he didn't like. There on the counter were the board minutes ready to run in this newspaper as required by law.

After great thought, no doubt, Maurie decided he could put The Crier out of business by refusing to run the legal notices here any more. He told one of Esther Hulsing's employes not to run the notices with us. (The legal notice rate charged to governmental units is about one quarter the regular ad rate.)

It was on April 9, 1974 that the Plymouth Township Board voted to add The Crier as a legal newspaper, said Esther. That resolution gave the clerk the option and Michigan law directs the clerk to make the decision.

"It's up to her," Breen said, but added his preference was not to use The Crier. "I suggested that she should not use you guys cause you're so nasty to us."

And, of course, Esther is tired and does what Maurie wants most of the time. (He, by the way, thought there was a later board resolution about legal notices than the 1974 one but didn't call back with that, as he had promised.)

"The Crier has never said one good word about Plymouth Township in all the time I've been associated with the township," Breen complained Monday.

Honestly, Maurie, "never"? How quickly you forget even in last week's edition that your police were commended for a burglary arrest and how an in-depth report on emergency-rescue response times put the township in favorable light. The Crier has even supported Maurie's millages too.

Probably what the bombastic supervisor meant to say was that we also, from time to time, print news and opinions he views as not so favorable to the township.

For living up to that responsibility, we have apparently given up the Plymouth Township legal notices.

So, now you see my dilemma.

I could have The Crier staffers start ignoring all the news and opinions from Plymouth Township that Maurie doesn't want printed. That way, Maurie will throw us the bone of $1,083.32 (the 1986 total) in legal notices each year.

And then my daughter could get new shoes.

Of course, I couldn't look her in the eye.

So if you see my kid barefooting around town this summer, you'll know which way I chose to solve the dilemma.

When Hoben is willing, able to listen

EDITOR:

I am concerned about John Hoben (Plymouth-Canton Superintendent of Schools), statements in the June 3rd issue of The Community Crier. He stated that he "did not want "to get into a urinating match" with Diane Daskalakis, the leader of the Citizens for Better Education. "Their information is certainly out of context and far from true."

First of all, I am appalled at his use of language. The term "urinating match" is not a respectable use of words and certainly should not be utilized by a person in Hoben's position. Secondly, if Hoben was fully aware of the contents of materials which CBE finds objectionable he could not honestly make the second statement. Diane Daskalakis has a presentation of this material available when Hoben is willing and able to listen.

I would like to make something understandable to the people of this community. Citizens for Better Education is a group of people who sincerely love God, our country and this community. We are genuinely concerned about the total well-being of the Plymouth-Canton School District. This school district does have many fine, positive attributes, however, there are some elements which are destructive to the moral fiber of the students.

One statement from our campaign literature reveals this information: "... in 1940 the Gallup Poll took a survey of our schools to find its major problems. The first three were: talking in class, chewing gum and running in the halls.

In 1982, Gabler's Educational Research took the same survey and the first three are now rape, robbery and assault."

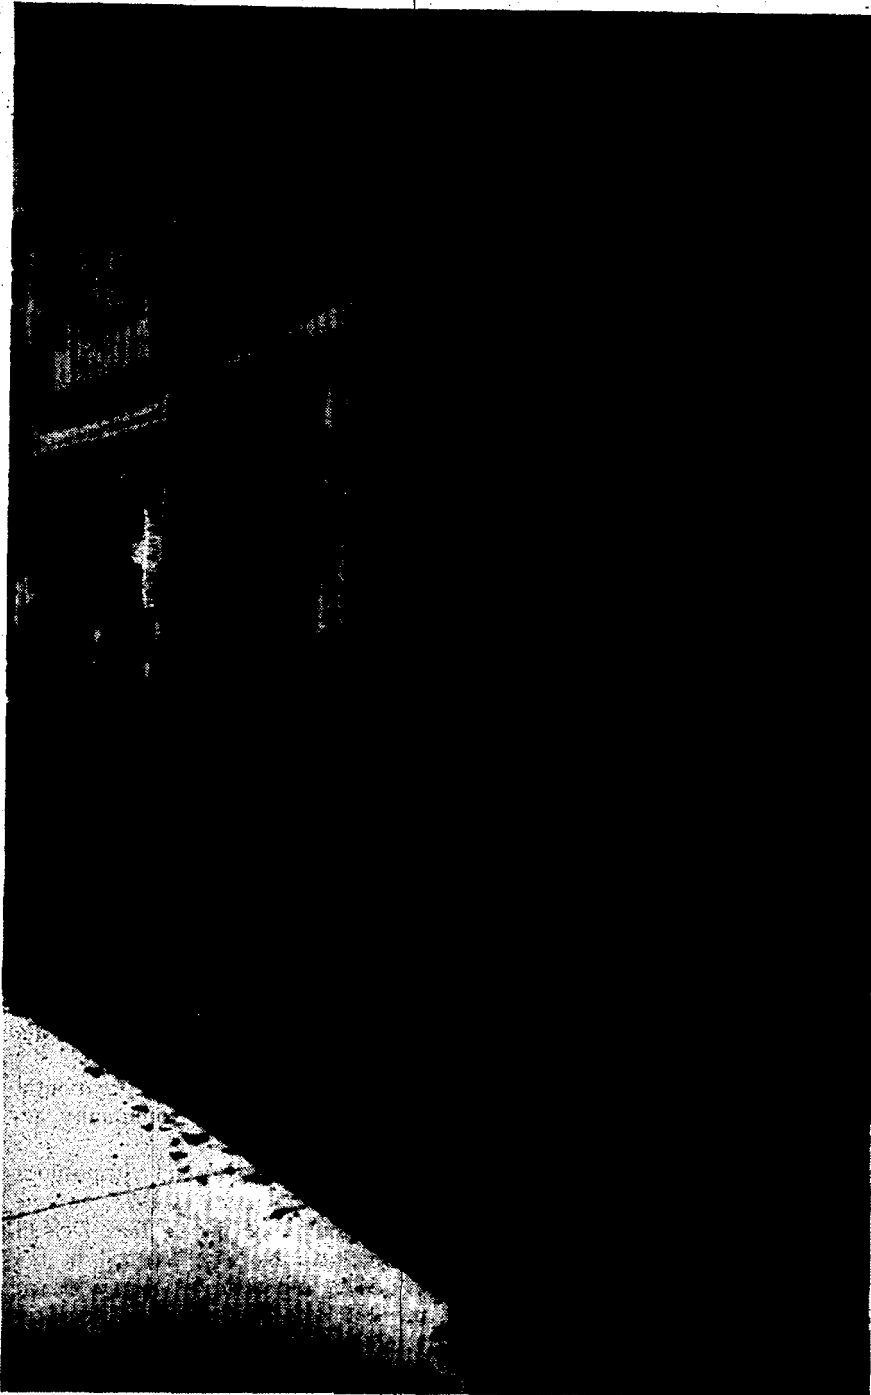

holding parades on the July 4th we are confident that we can find more than one that will welcome our participation instead of putting out a "Not Welcome" sign, such as the Jaycees have done.

We intend to urge other car clubs that we have contact with, as well as our own members, to boycott all car related events in Plymouth. If this new policy of the Jaycees is intended as a step to counter the "cruising" problem Plymouth has had the last couple of years, they have taken aim at the wrong target. The "problem cruisers" are not the legitimate car clubs.

WILLIAM TAYLOR,
Secretary, Ford Retractable Club

We are offering solutions to these problems; eliminate the use of pornographic and obscene movies (ex. "Breakfast club"); books that uplift Lucifer as a role model (ex. "Rules for Radicals"); movies promoting witchcraft and Satan worship (ex. "What Are Friends For?"). There are also some other considerations. Our organization is in existence because we sincerely care and we want to inform the community about some of the negative influences imposed on our children. We want to help the school district attain a higher moral standard. The only thing we are against are the negative elements that exist. We are offering solutions to the existing problems. What are Mr. Hoben's proposals?

people might be exploring the possibilities," Wilcox said of future investors.

According to Wilcox one of the problems with the current project was an inability to pre-sell the required number of apartments needed to meet the Planned Unit Development (PUD) contract.

He admitted that in the meantime the patience of residents and city officials has waned. With the house in a state of disrepair and a cloud of uncertainty hanging over the property the mood has been far from good.

"I am as embarrassed as anybody else about its appearance," Wilcox said. "As you know the city is most interested in seeing it brought to a conclusion."

With the implication of a new set of plans, new investors and new ideas the question must also be raised again about the house itself.

Will it be demolished, or will it be moved? Or will it stay where it is?

Wilcox said the newest developments affect the house very much.

"It affects it quite a bit," he said. "There are different proposals for use of the house. I, of course, would be delighted to see it used in a useful purpose — either here or in a different location."

Wilcox maintains, however, that whatever happens in the future and everything that has happened in the past revolves around his desire to improve.

"Money is not my sole objective. The community heritage of the Wilcox name is important. Some of the judgments I made have been made on years of experience and a community feeling," Wilcox said.

While this latest development appears to be a positive move, it is unclear if it will solve some of the problems that have plagued the development in the past or just a means to prolong the pain.

"I expected to be throwing a big party by now — a house or a condominium warming."

The 39-year-old Plymouth resident was the "general editor" behind the designing of the new science testing section of the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP).

RICHARD MOYER

Moyer, who was recently promoted to the rank of full professor at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, has taught science there since 1975. He works with future elementary school science instructors as well as teaches an elementary school science course at U-MD.

"I'm more optimistic about science than I was several years ago," he said. "Science has never been considered very important among educators. And kids don't relate to because of the way it's taught in our schools."

"We're doing something about it," he continued, "but we have got miles to go."

The MEAP science test was written to "combat" that, said Moyer.

As project director of the science test

Moyer helped write many of the test questions along with 50 other teachers from across the state.

They put together the testing section during the summer of 1984. In the following year the new test section was tried on a sample basis.

Then in 1986 the science section was added to all MEAP tests across the state. Needless to say Michigan students did not do very well on the test.

"I don't know why people were surprised by the scores. You'd expect them to be low," Moyer said. "In fact one out of three students tested mastered the objectives of the science test. That's not too bad."

Moyer earned his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Wisconsin and a doctorate from Northern Colorado University.

Besides teaching, he is a top-notch education consultant who travels throughout the state helping districts improve their science performance.

And he is the author of two science textbooks in a series titled, "Accent on Science," which have been described as the "prototype" for a new generation of science texts.

He is concerned that the low scores on the science tests are being used to stop its continuation next year.

Prior to the release of last year's test scores the state board of education decided the science section would not be made mandatory in the future. Districts can use it on a volunteer basis, said Moyer.

"That's wrong," he added. "What I'd like to see the state say is 'We now have a base line (it's not too bad) so let's give it again in three years and see what we've done in this state to improve the teaching of science.'"

The original test was written following state objectives to improve the teaching of science, especially at the elementary school level.

"It was a huge job," Moyer said. "I did it out of my hide. It was fun. I'm glad I did it."

Moyer is currently working on a study of the test and its socio-economic implications.

"What's really important is that we are doing better," he said. "Some people said the tests were too hard. It wasn't written on a low-recall level. There is problem solving. And it's not that it was too hard, but that we have a deficiency in the teaching of science."

"That's not to say that teachers are to blame," he continued. "The main reason the scores were so bad is that science is not taught in most elementaries."

"Not to be critical of teachers, but many of them don't feel comfortable teaching science to the younger kids."

Besides consulting work and the task of keeping his own textbooks up-to-date, Moyer conducts teacher training workshops throughout the state, including here in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Sparling wins award

Plymouth resident and local nursery school teacher Emily Sparling was recently presented with the 1987 Michigan Council of Cooperative Nurseries (MCCN) Distinguished Service Award.

Nominated by her peers and students at Plymouth Children's Nursery, Sparling was chosen from a large field of applicants by the MCCN Awards Committee.

Each year MCCN presents the award to an individual who has given a minimum of 15 years outstanding service to their pre-school.

Sparling has taught at Plymouth Children's Nursery for 15 years. She teaches three of its five classes and also functions as the School Board's Liaison Teacher.

A longtime resident of Plymouth, Sparling is active in community activities.

She helped to found Strathmoor Cooperative Nursery in 1975, became vice-president of the Greater Detroit Cooperative Nursery Council in the late 50's, joined the PCN as a parent member when her youngest daughter wanted to attend pre-school, and was honored by the nursery earlier this year for 15 years of service as a teacher.

'Annihilate' wins local bee

"Annihilate" was the winning word that separated the winner from second place in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools annual spelling bee last week.

The first place winner, Central Middle School seventh grader Wilson Lee, went on to spell "entourage" to complete his victory.

The first three top places were won by Central students enrolled in the district's Talented and Gifted Program. Second place went to seventh grader Holly Quick, while sixth grader Tami Filas picked up third.

The runners up included Quang Ly, sixth grade, and Gordon Yamazaki, ninth grade, Pioneer Middle School; Day Sayers, ninth grade, West; Neil Noland, eighth grade, Lowell; and Gwen Valentine, eighth grade, East.

All of last week's finalists won their "grade level" spelling bees during the preliminary rounds.

Sheila Alles, curriculum coordinator for language arts, served as the judge for the finals.

WINNER OF THE WEEK

(Winner of the Week is selected by The Crier Editorial Staff without knowledge of the sponsor. Nominations for this honor may be submitted to The Crier Editorial Staff.)

The Plymouth Newcomer's Club has earned the honor this week, with its generous contribution to the Growth Works foundation. A check for $2,500 was presented to Growth Works executive director Dale Yagiela this week by Plymouth Newcomer president Linda Hamratty and chairman Margaret Smith. The money was funded from an art auction sponsored by the club.

ALONG THE INLAND SEA

Stretching more than 300 miles east and west within the protecting arms of western Honshu and the islands of Shikoku and Kyushu, Japan's Inland Sea is one of the most scenic waterways in the world. It is actually a chain of five seas, linked together and connected to the Pacific Ocean by narrow, swift-flowing channels. Pine-covered islands are sprinkled along the waterway. Travelers on a daytime voyage find it fascinating to watch the constant passing parade of small freighters and fishing boats.

A trip along Honshu's southern shore offers a look at a number of attractions, including the gardens at Okayama, the old Edo-period town of Kurashiki, rebuilt Hiroshima, and the sacred city of Miyajima. There is a tremendous variety of passenger crafts which crisscross the Inland Sea. Depending on your route, you may board a 3,000-ton luxury cruise ship, ferry boat, hydrofoil, or hovercraft.

Over 30 years experience assures you of the finest travel service available. And, best of all, THERE IS NO CHARGE TO YOU FOR OUR SERVICES. We are reimbursed in commission fees by the airlines and hotels, ships and resorts that we book.

The rodeo is always one of the Canton Country Festival's biggest draws. Look for it Friday through Sunday, June 19-21. (Crier photo)

Rodeo rangers ride again

One of the biggest draws every year to Canton's Country Festival is the three-day long rodeo.

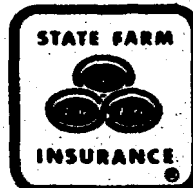

This year calf roping, bull riding and all the things that make a rodeo fun will be happening Friday, Saturday and Sunday down at the Canton Recreational Complex.

Friday the rodeo opens up at 7 p.m., while it is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday. This year there will be an additional treat of the Domino Farm's Horses at the rodeo site, both for display and for a special demonstration.

On Sunday will be the finals of the Fifth Annual MSRA Championship. This competition always serves as a means to separate the weekend cowboys from the ones who live in their boots.

Festival not without sporting events

One thing the Canton Country fest is not short on, is athletic type events to prove individuals and teams level of skill, expertise and sometimes insaneness.

This year sporting enthusiasts will have the opportunity to participate in three separate events during the festival. The 9th Annual Five Mile Run, the Scrambles Golf Tournament and the Festival Tug-of-war.

The Five Mile run is scheduled to kick off on Saturday, June 20 at 9 a.m. The run will begin at Proctor Road next to the township hall administration building, with the finish near the festival grounds.

Those who have not registered can still do so the day of the race at 8 a.m.

Everyone who runs will be awarded a t-shirt, with medals and plaques to the top three finishers in each age group.

The cost of the run is $6 before June 18 and $7 after that date.

Race information can be had by calling 397-5110.

Both the golf tournament and the tug-of-war are scheduled for Sunday, June 21.

The duffers can grab clubs and head to Fellows Creek Golf Course at 11 a.m. The cost is $48 for each three-person team. The tournament is a basic scramble event and is open to all area golfers. Awards will be given out to the top three teams as well as awards for the longest drive and closest to the pin contest.

The tug-of-war is slated to begin at noon on Sunday June 21 at the Canton Country Festival Grounds.

This is the 7th Annual tug-of-war, and as always the losing team can expect to get a little bit dirty. There are two divisions for the event, with limits on number of people and weight of teams strictly enforced. It is advisable for teams to call ahead and learn the rules before showing up Sunday morning. To get information on this event call 397-5110.

Fest satisfies

If you suddenly have some unexplainable urge to don a cowboy hat and head to the nearest rodeo -- don't worry, and don't fly to Wyoming.

This time of year 'round these parts, that is a normal reaction and it can be satisfied right here in Canton.

It's Canton Country Fest time, partner. The week long event officially kicked off last Saturday with a parade down Ford Road in Canton, but it will get into full gear this Friday out at the Canton Recreational Complex at Canton Center and Proctor roads.

This year's festival will have some changes from the festivals of years past.

The biggest change will be the missing Cow Chip Fling. This was one of those original items to Canton's festival, with local political and public types throwing the biodegradable cow product for distance. It was always good for pictures and many laughs. RIP.

Some of the highlights that people can look forward to at this year's festival, as always, are the rides. Loads and loads of rides for the kiddies and the quessy-resistant.

The midway opens at 6 p.m. on Friday and then again at noon on Saturday and Sunday, and remains open all three days until midnight. A $10 bill will get the buyer a ride on every ride all day long.

Some of the other events to keep an eye on, are the Husband Calling Contest, Battle of the Bands and the fireworks display.

The fireworks are scheduled to be shot off at dusk on Friday.

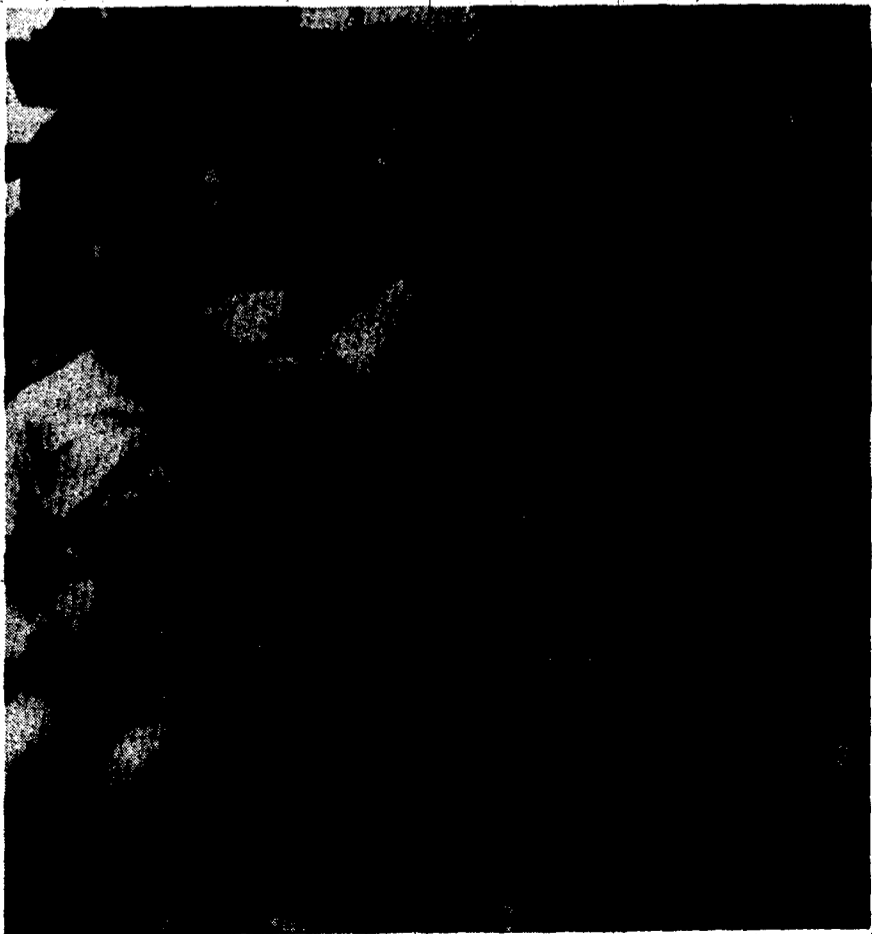

This is also a great opportunity for the athletic, and former athletic types, to prove their prowess. During the festival there is scheduled at five-mile run, a golf tournament and a tug-of-war. Pull off the boots and slip on the tennis shoes for any one or all of these events.

Parade fun in Canton

Folks had a stomping good time out at Saturday's Canton Country Fest parade, which kicked off the full festival. The parade started from the Meijer parking lot and proceeded down Ford Road to Rose Shores Racquet Club at Haggerty Road. Below, some of the parade's fans enjoy the fun and the sun. "Buttons" the clown waves to onlookers during Saturday's Canton Country Festival in Canton. The event kicked off this year's festival. (Crier photo by Dennis Bakker)

A farewell to the cow chips, beer

The Canton Country Fest is going to challenge the theory that to have a great party the two big needs are "chips and beer."

This year the Canton Fest will go through without a single chip being flung or a glass of beer being downed. Both of those items were eliminated this year.

The chips that will no longer be around are those of the cow variety. Once thought to be the purist example of the country fest, this year the throwing of cow chips has been nixed.

The other missing ingredient this year will be the beer tent. This has been removed from the area, and replaced with the more universal soft drink.

Getting down to business

Company plans to contribute to growth

When Jeanne Merlanti, President of Personnel Systems/Arbor Temporaries in Ann Arbor began looking for a second community to market her company's permanent and temporary employment services a year ago, she found Plymouth to be "just right."

Since 1970, when Personnel Systems was established, they have experienced steady growth and increased requests from customers who require more services. "We had to develop faster," she said.

In 1984 the company hired additional staff for their Ann Arbor office and began looking for another community to locate their second office.

"Plymouth was a community I could easily relate to," Merlanti said, citing good location, an established pattern of growth and access to major freeways as reasons. "There's a certain feeling of permanency there" that many other communities lack, she said.

In September of 1985 Jeanne opened the Plymouth office. It seemed like the right move. There was a demand and there were few, if any other permanent and temporary service firms with offices in Plymouth at the time.

Applicants are pleased because they are treated with care and professionalism and don't have to drive far for "home town service." Merlanti said that her business clients also appreciate dealing with a local company.

"It's personally gratifying being appreciated and respected by customers," Merlanti said. "They look to us to fill their permanent and temporary help needs."

Most of all, Merlanti said she wants her company to be viewed as a "solid business" and service organization that contributes to the growth of Plymouth.

Personnel Systems/Arbor Temporaries is located at 9433 Haggerty Road in Plymouth.

Salem teacher wins fellowship

A Salem High teacher has been awarded a fellowship by the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) to participate in the 1987 program of Summer Seminars for Secondary School Teachers supported by the federal grant making agency.

Cynthia Burnstein, an English instructor at Salem, will be an NEH Summer Fellow in a seminar entitled "Tales of the Brothers Grimm: Discovering Their Literary and Cultural Significance."

The five-week session will be held at Wayne State University in Detroit. Teachers selected for the program receive a small stipend to cover study and living expenses.

Teachers in grades K-12 at educational institutions within the United States and its possessions are eligible for the 51 NEH summer seminars held on campuses throughout the country.

People in business

Kenneth West, of Plymouth, was a member of a class of 55 Masons from 11 southeastern Michigan counties that received Scottish Rite Freemasonry's 32nd degree at the 302nd Reunion at the Masonic Temple on May 2.

The class was named in memory of the late Rev. H. Norman Jackson, a 33rd degree Mason, who was pastor of the First Congregational Church in Wyandotte for 40 years before his retirement. He died in 1980.

Community Federal Credit Union members have elected John Genitti, Ron Griffith, Ken Gruebel and Donald Skinner to three-year terms as Directors on the Community Federal Board of Directors.

Officers for the board of directors were also elected. They are: Dan Herriman, president; Betty Stremich, vice-president; Margaret Wilson, treasurer; and Ron Carlson, secretary.

The 1987 Community Federal Board of Directors is comprised of: Herriman, Wilson, William Demray, Griffith, Mary Beth Leininger, Skinner, Stremich, Carlson, Genitti, Gruebel and James Roth.

He attended Concordia Seminary in St. Louis and has served for the last four years as pastor of a church near Edmonton, Alberta.

Connie Breitenbeck, of Plymouth, John Lucas, of Westland and Andrew Sherman, of Detroit were honored as Adistra Corporation's "Outstanding Employees of the Second Quarter." Also, Nancy Roach, of Plymouth, was named "Account Executive of the Month" for March.

Adistra Corporation, headquartered in Plymouth, specializes in computer services, program administration, graphics and distribution services.

The Canton BPW meets on the second Monday of each month at the Roman Forum Restaurant. The social hour is at 6 p.m. and dinner is served at 7 p.m. Guests and new members are welcome. For more information, call Terry Ponkey at 453-1800.

Rebecca Havenstein-Coughlin has been appointed Assistant Director of the Canton Public Library.

Her appointment to this newly-created position became effective April 27. Havenstein-Coughlin began work at the Canton Public Library prior to its opening in October, 1980. She received her bachelor's degree in English Language and Literature from Eastern Michigan University and her masters degree in Library Science from the University of Michigan. Havenstein-Coughlin has been active in the Michigan Library Association for several years.

Another informative Hudson book

BY KEN VOYLES

Detailing the 156-year history of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district might seem like a daunting task, but it's the kind of challenge resident historian Samuel Hudson enjoys.

Hudson's newest book, "Michigan's Tenth Largest, Plymouth-Canton Community School District, 1830-1986," is an exhaustive historical treatment of the shaping of not only the district but the community from which it sprung.

Using newly discovered minutes covering the period from 1853-1902 as well as more up to date records, published volumes, newspapers, unpublished materials and recollections, Hudson weaves the story with an assurance that matches the lucid, and quite readable, style.

The first half of the book chronicles the birth and growth of the school system from the time of the early settlers to the present day.

The second part of the volume focuses on areas of the district's history which Hudson feels should be given a more detailed treatment, including the three superintendents of longest service, parental voices at school board meetings, social problems and controversies, music, and athletics.

The only flaw in the first part of the book is that at times it seems to depend too much on the chronological approach which Hudson has selected. At times there are page after page of entries detailing each successive month or year in the district, but without connecting analysis or the use of an underlying thesis.

And yet that is also a plus -- Hudson avoids the pitfalls of having to adapt his material to fit a specific thesis and instead lets the material speak for itself.

Donation may be asked

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education last week discussed some preliminary pricing figures for Samuel Hudson's history of the district, "Michigan's Tenth Largest, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, 1836-1986."

Hudson told the board the book should be priced at $11 or $12 or that a $25 donation should be sought which would include a free copy of the book.

Any donation would be used by the

The material is organized in such a way that scholars (or newspaper reporters for that matter) would find it most helpful, but there are also plenty of lively anecdotes for those who like a lot of story in their histories.

And there are tidbits galore in this book, enough to satisfy even the most fanatical pursuer of trivia.

A few examples:

- Even though Plymouth High School was only seven years old, in 1888 students began publishing a school newspaper. All four seniors in the class of 1895 had a job on the school publication.

- In 1914 C.F. Reeb, the new district superintendent, suggested an inventory be made of school property. "It will be useful in case of fire," he said. Less than two years later the high school was "a seething mass of flames."

- Starkweather School was the first in the district to be named after an individual. It was built in the Old Village part of town to satisfy residents there who demanded a school be located in the northern end of town. It finally closed as a school in 1984. Today it houses adult education programs.

- The two high schools at CEP were named Plymouth-Salem and Plymouth-Canton as a compromise. Originally the two schools were to be named Plymouth High and Canton High, but numerous residents complained that they did not want to send their kids to "a Canton High." So the name Plymouth was used as an umbrella over both schools, which were then named Salem and Canton. To this day many residents complain about the disappearance of old Plymouth High School.

And there are many, many, many more.

On the whole the book is a satisfying treatment of the district, and Hudson has done his best to make a lively history out of what many might consider a naturally dull topic.

The book is undoubtedly best for the researcher, as already stated, but it also can be enjoyed by those who feel some attachment to the district, which grew from several log schoolhouses to be the 10th largest in the state.

And there are nearly 100 fascinating photos as well as several appendixes and a chronology in the back of the book.

Education Excellence Foundation once the cost of printing the books was recovered, said Superintendent John M. Hoben.

"I think the donation idea is a unique idea," Hoben added.

The district will market the books through local bookstores and out of the district administration building on Harvey Street, said Hoben. The district will also purchase a number of books for school libraries.

38 P-C skaters qualify for regionals

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

On Saturday, Sunday, and Monday 482 speed skaters from 13 different teams, gathered along with 700 spectators at the Skatin' Station, in Canton for the 51st Michigan Roller Skating Championships.

There were teams from Grand

The Riverside Striders from the Riverside Roller Rink in Livonia won the meet.

Skatin' Station entered 50 skaters in the official competition and 12 skaters in the Junior Olympics competition on Monday. Junior Olympic skaters are those who have been skating three years or less.

Of the 50 local skaters entered in the official meet, 38 qualified for the Great Lakes Regional meet which is being held in Indianapolis on July 6-8.

In order to qualify for the regional meet a skater must have placed in the top five at the state meet. At the regionals skaters have to place in the top three.

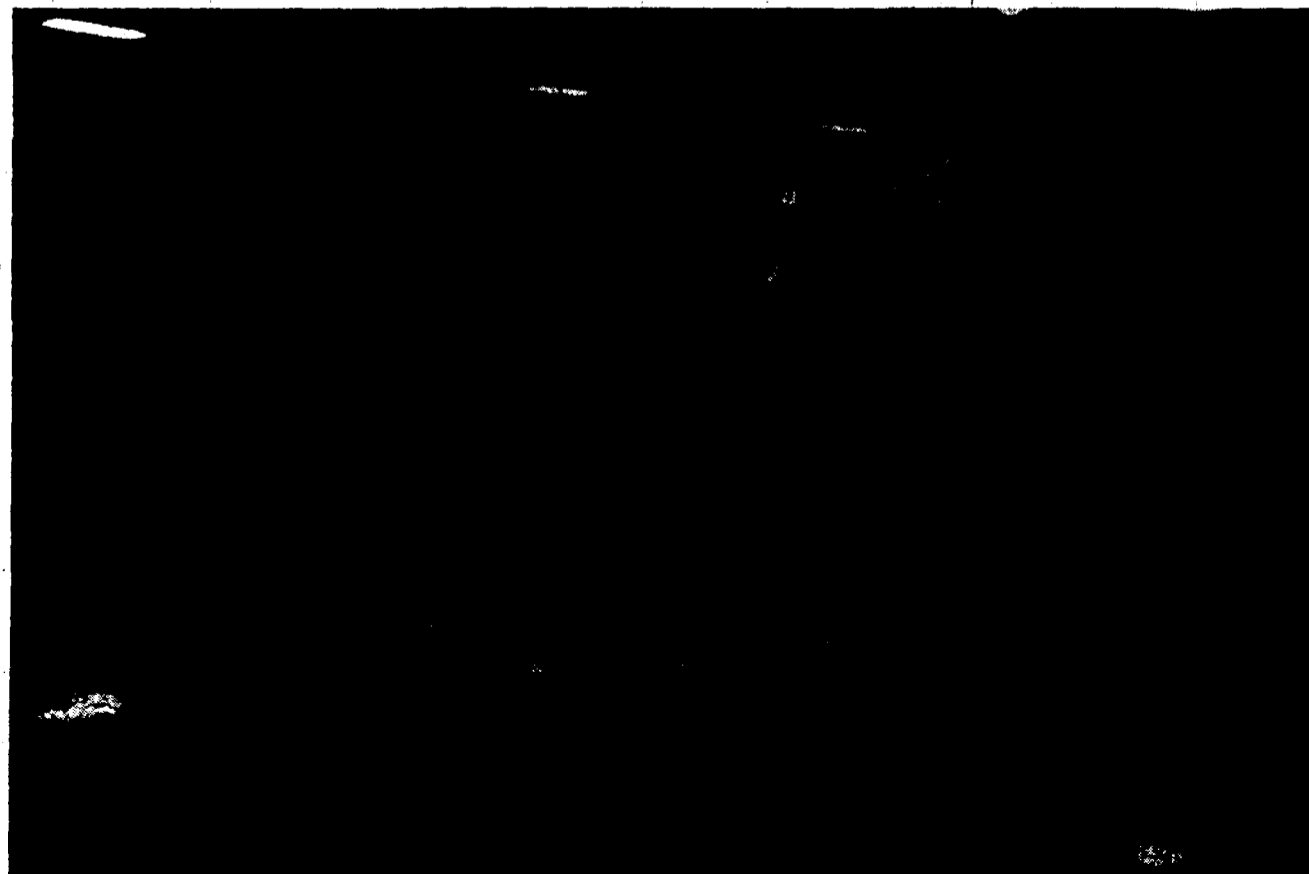

Five states compete in the regional. The top three qualify as a team for the National Skating Competition, which is being held in Lincoln, NE.

In speed skating there are nine age divisions.

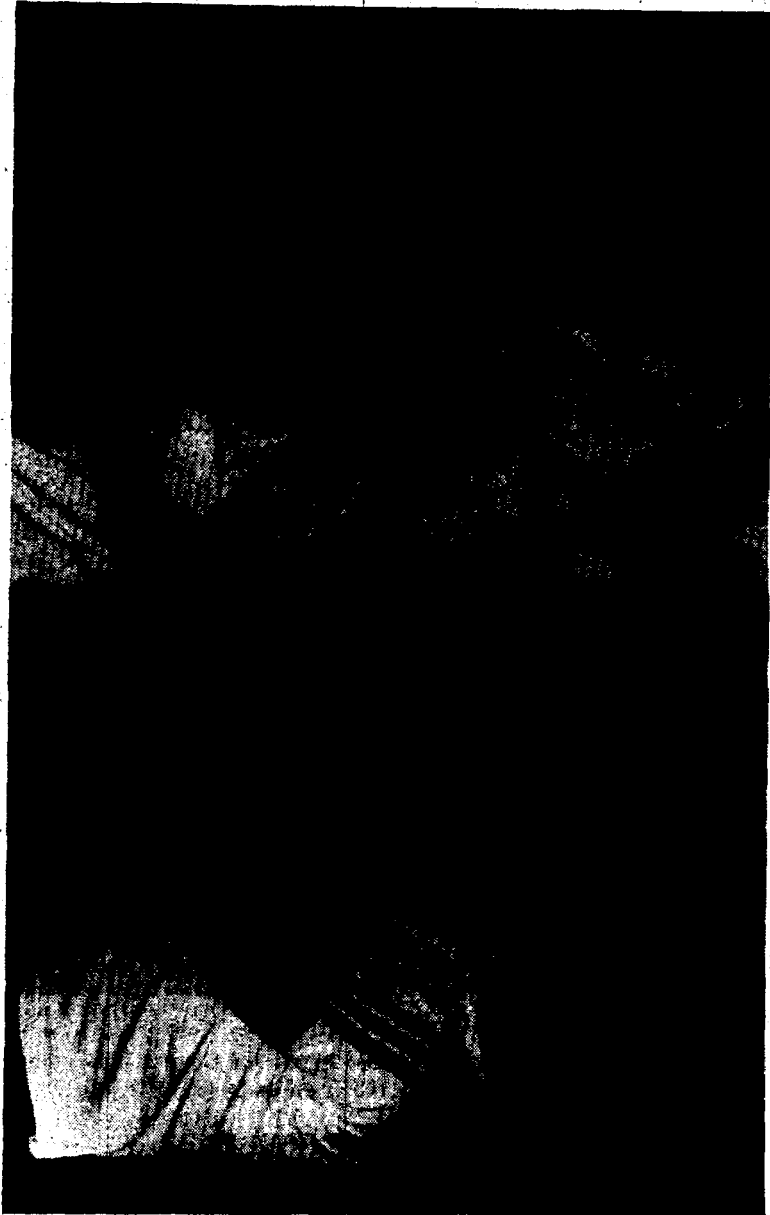

Skaters five and under are in the tiny tot division; six and seven year olds are in the primary division; eight and nine year olds are in the juvenile division; 10-11 year olds are in the elementary age division; 12-13 year olds are in the freshman division; and 14-15 year olds are sophomore division participants.

Junior division skaters include 16-17 year olds, while the senior division competitors are ages 18 to 29. The

Miller leaps to new heights

Olympic dreams

BY MARTY TUNGATE

"She's really good at what she does."

"She may even go to the Olympics."

Who is this "wonderwoman" that the community is talking about?

It's Canton Chief girls track star Angie Miller.

Miller, the 1987 indoor and outdoor high jump state champion, began her quest when she was a seventh grader.

"Me and a friend decided to go out for track and I tried high jumping," Miller said.

Miller, who had her doubts at the 1987 state meet, feels she can do what she wants if she sets her mind to it.

"I didn't think I could do it, but I took it one jump at a time," Miller said.

The 16-year-old won the outdoor state championship with a jump of five feet four inches.

Miller, who has jumped as high as five feet eight inches in practice, still feels she can do better.

"I would like to go to the Olympics, but I still have a way to go," Miller added.

Miller credits her coach George Pryzgodski as the power behind the leaper.

"Coach Pryzgodski is great. He has really helped me out a lot," Miller continued. "We work-out quite a bit over the summer."

The five-foot, eight-inch trackster will be a senior in the fall, and will get another shot as repeating as state champion.

But Miller has other things on her mind like competing in the International Sports Exchange this summer in Hungary.

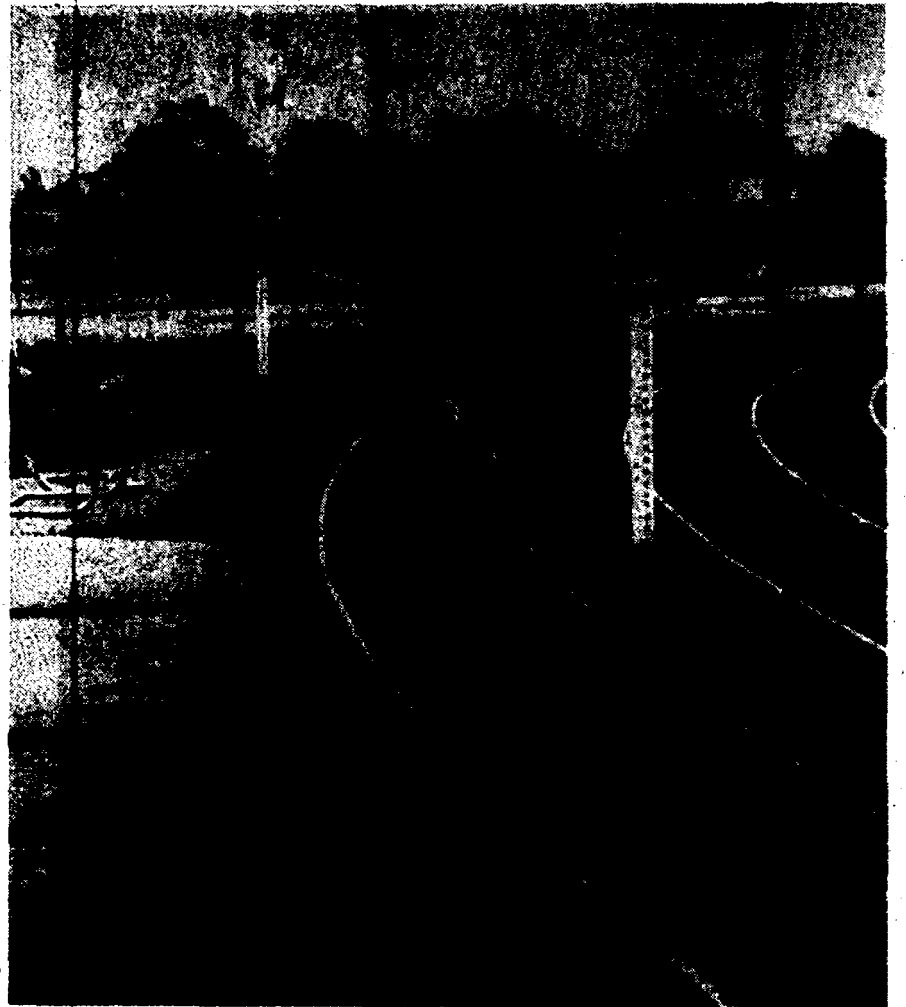

"I'm very excited about competing against the other girls from the eastern block nations," Miller said. "I can't wait."

"I wish I was on my there now."

The competition will take place from July 7 through July 16.

Miller is training for the event by lifting weights, and jumping every other day for two to three hours.

Miller also trains for high jumping by competing for the Chiefs in cross country in the fall.

Over the bar

Angie Miller shows the form she used to win the Class A high jump crown at the state finals two weeks ago. (Crier photo by Marty Tungate)

"I really don't like running cross country that much, but it helps me train for track," Miller added.

Miller's coach George Pryzgodski is high on her talents. He feels Miller can repeat as the state champion and possibly go on to Olympic fame.

"Angie is a great girl, and if she works hard enough you never know what can happen," Pryzgodski said.

When Miller is not high jumping she says she likes to read, or go out with her friends, but her family is first.

"I get a lot of support from my family, they make all of my meets," Miller continues. "My dad video tapes me high jumping to try and show me what I do wrong, and that really helps me out."

Miller has set her goals, as she hopes to become a member of the University of Michigan track team, and to one day go for the gold in the Olympic games.

School budget cuts will be felt by all

not want to disturb classroom sizes or pinkslip any teachers.

"We'll report on a timely basis if there are any further changes in this," Hoben continued. "A lot is dependent on student enrollment and state money. There may be further cuts, or enrichments, but we'll come back to the board on those."

The budget cuts total $1,051,000 and will be made in 26 different budget areas so that, "everyone shares in this," said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business.

"The entire school community will feel the crunch on these," Hoedel added. "They were reviewed by the superintendent's executive cabinet. It was a very solemn occasion."

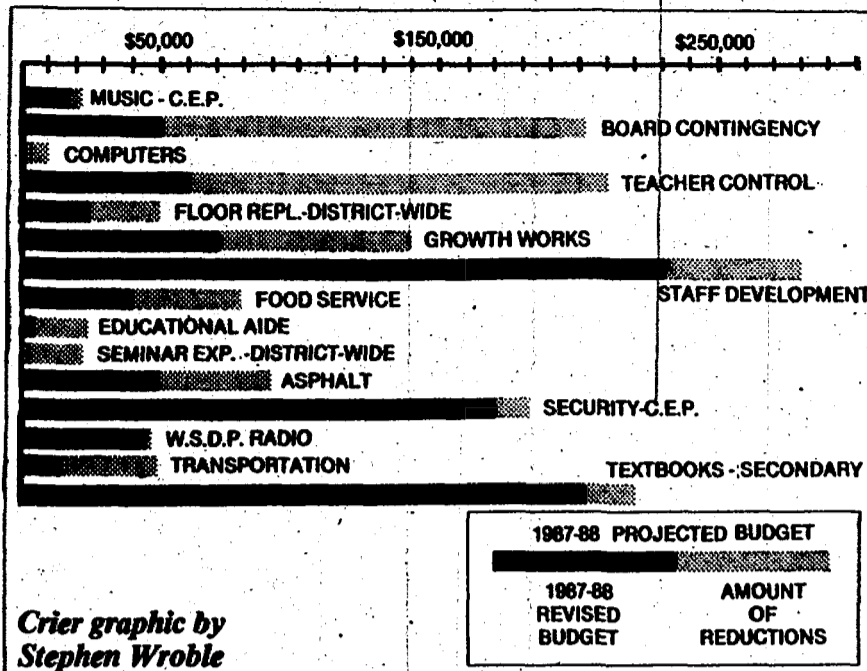

The cuts were approved so that the district would have a balanced budget (as dictated by law) by July 1.

"A million dollars is a million dollars," said Mike Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction. "We're still looking at the budget to determine exactly what the effects will be. It's a little too early to tell."

Homes said the district would remain committed to those instruction programs already approved.

"Our intent is to accomplish the reductions without creating difficulties in the classroom," he continued. "By and large I think that's possible."

"We're trying to do the least

Crier graphic by Stephen Wroble

"damage to programs for the kids," said Richard Egli, the district's community relations spokesperson. "There isn't any fat in the budget really."

Reduction highlights include:

- The board contingency fund will be reduced by $150,000 from $205,000 to $55,000. The contingency fund is money set aside in case there are any spending requests which come through not already in the budget.

- The teacher control fund will be reduced by $150,000 as well from $210,000 to $60,000. The teacher control fund is money set aside to hire extra teachers if needed during the school year.

- The work order control fund will also be reduced by $150,000 from $850,000 to $700,000. The work order control fund is money set aside for routine maintenance of the district's schools. The money is used for small repairs or replacements. (It should not be confused with capital improvement money.)

- Capital improvement outlay funds will be reduced by $50,000 from $129,416 to $79,416.

- Money for support of Growth Works will be reduced by $70,000 from $140,000 to $70,000.

- Money for staff development programs will also be reduced by $50,000 from $280,000 to $230,000.

- Money for floor replacement, asphalt work and food service capital outlay will each be reduced by half.

As a part of the reduction package the board also approved the 1987-88 operating fund, debt retirement fund and food service fund budgets.

The district's revenues are projected to be $54.5 million during the coming school year (after the Headlee rollback), while expenditures will reach a little more than $55 million. The fund balance is projected at $4.3 million.

Board President E.J. McClendon said the district would have to be "rational in its budgeting process."

Board Vice-President Dave Artley added, "It's unfortunate we have to look at these kind of cuts, but the administration has done the job well of spreading them around."
