Voters approve library $$

BY KEN VOYLES
AND MARTY TUNGATE

Voters in both Plymouth and Plymouth Township voted yesterday to increase the millage of the Plymouth Library District.

Unofficial vote totals from both the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township clerk's offices last night leaned slightly in favor of the .40 millage increase for the Dunning-Hough Library District.

Fifty-six per cent of city voters approved the millage increase (825 to 641). While township voters also agreed, only 51 per cent of them approved the tax increase (2,216 to 2,023).

A .40 mill increase will cost the owners of a $100,000 home $20 per year.

"The Community won in this one," said Pat Thomas, director at Dunning-Hough Library. "We were worried it wasn't going to pass right up to the end, but we were elated when we saw the results.

"There will be several significant additions to the library now," she continued.

All five city precincts passed the proposal, while eight of 13 precincts in the township declared for the millage.

The additional .40 mills will increase library coffers to just under 1.2 mills.

Gas smell at Allen School prompts call for inspection

BY KEN VOYLES
 A Consumers Power field representative was at Allen Elementary School last Tuesday following reports of a gas smell.

Allen Principal James Burt said he initiated the call to Consumers Power after reports of a "gas smell in the hallway."

"Our maintenance people couldn't find it so we called the gas company," Burt explained. "We didn't have any kids sick or ill. And we didn't have to evacuate any of the building."

Thomas Rugh, Consumers Power communications director for Metro-Detroit, said his company responded to a report of a "gas leak."

"We investigated but found no leaks," Rugh said. "The call came to us as a gas leak. We looked for a leak but found none."

It was Consumers Power's first service call at Allen School since 1986, Rugh said.

The company's field representative instructed Allen maintenance workers to remove "covers" from the "make-up air" vents which may have caused the original smell, said Rugh.

"It's a fairly common situation," he continued. "The first inclination is energy conservation so they block the cold-air vents."

Apparently one or more "make-up" air vents were blocked, or partially blocked when the Consumers Power field representative arrived.

"We weren't getting adequate ventilation in the boiler room," Burt explained. "We removed something blocking the cold air vent."

With the cold air vent blocked, partially combusted gas could make its way back into the school, said Rugh.

"If you starve it you get incomplete combustion and some carbon monoxide," he said. "But I have no reason to guess or suspect carbon monoxide in this case."

Gary Hardy, Allen's plant engineer, said a "deflector" being used to keep wind from blowing on the boiler pipes was removed following the incident.

Hardy added, however, that the cause of the smell could be traced to a shorted wire on a roof exhaust fan to the school's kitchen.

"There was no gas leak," Hardy said. "It was a every day kind of problem. There was no danger."

Hardy added that a deflector is necessary to keep cold air from blowing on the pipes. "It will have to be put back up," he said.

Burt said some of the school's pipes froze two years ago, leading to the installation of a cover for the cold air vent. But Hardy said the deflector has been in place for six or seven years.

Twp. voters dunk pool, park plans

Twp. millage proposals routed

BY DAN NESS

Plymouth Township voters overwhelmingly defeated two millage proposals in yesterday's vote.

One proposal requested two mills for one year to construct a township swimming pool at the McClumpha township park site. The other proposal requested 3.5 mills for one year to develop a township park at the corner of Schoolcraft and Haggerty roads.

In both cases, the votes were not close.

The proposal for a township swimming pool was rejected on a 3,181 to 969 vote, according to unofficial vote tallies last night. The township park proposal failed by a 3,139 to 1,009 margin.

Clerk Esther Hulsing estimated voter turnout in the township at 26 per cent. "It's about the same number or a little bit better than the turnout two years ago for the special election," Hulsing said.

Proponents of a township swimming pool maintained that the pool would pay for itself after the initial millage levying. The millage would have raised about $880,000 in tax money for construction of the pool.

"We got trounced," said Jane McCourt, who initiated a petition drive to get the pool proposal on the ballot.

Schools contemplate 1-mill request

Millage vote in March?

BY KEN VOYLES

Administrators of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools are looking ahead to a possible special millage election sometime next spring.

Ray Hoedel told the district's budget committee recently that the district needed "an all out" election effort to recover the loss of revenues due to the Headlee Amendment rollback.

"We haven't finalized it at all," said Hoedel, associate superintendent for business in the district. "We lost (one) mill through Headlee and that's a substantial loss in our financial planning."

"So we're considering it," he added.

Sometime in the next month Hoedel said he will try and "convince" the district superintendent (John M. Hoben) and board of education of the need for another election vote.

The district would seek approximately one mill, said Hoedel, to help offset the loss of nearly $1.5 million from the Headlee rollback which took effect earlier this year.

Hoedel said the district also wants to maintain a "reasonable" fund balance.

"We owe it to education in our community to try and do this," Hoedel said. "March seems like a fairly good time."

Newly-elected Plymouth City Commissioner Ron Loiselle, left, congratulates Dennis Bila, who was re-elected in yesterday's election. Bila has been named by several commissioners as a favorite to be elected Mayor Pro-tem. (Crier photo by Randy Rohl)

"I think a lot of the reason for this was having three tax proposals (on the ballot) at once."

McCourt said she may push for a swimming pool millage request to be on the ballot as early as next August. "I'm not going to stop," she said. "We're just starting."

The township park proposal originated as an alternative to commercial development at the corner of Schoolcraft and Haggerty roads, brought about by residents living near that area. A Meijer commercial development had been proposed on the site, prompting residents to gather signatures for a petition to get a millage vote.

Hoedel said that if the district goes ahead with a special election he would want to see a "regular citizens group" organized to lead the campaign.

"We need that all-out grass roots effort this time," he said. "It just wasn't quite there in the last election."

Voters twice rejected the district's efforts to waive the Headlee Amendment this year, the most recent being in June. The district has since made what Hoedel calls some fairly "drastic" cuts.

The call for a possible election vote was originally discussed at a meeting of the district's budget steering committee in September.

"Essentially we need this to recover money lost from Headlee," Hoedel said. "It's not like we're asking for more money. We just want what has already been approved by the voters."

Hoedel plans to bring the topic up before the board of education at a future workshop meeting sometime before the holidays.

"We're also trying to get a handle right now on how Headlee will affect us in the next few years," Hoedel said. "Our preliminary prediction is that it will affect us again."

The district's fund balance, according to Hoedel's calculations, will be reduced nearly $2 million over the

Landfill for Canton faces vote today

BY DAN NESS

Members of the Wayne County Solid Waste Implementation Committee were to have voted today on a proposal for a new landfill in Canton.

The project -- Sauk Trail Hills landfill -- was proposed by Wayne Disposal, Inc. last fall and failed to get support from the Canton Board of Trustees. Since that time, Wayne Disposal has gone through another route of approval for the landfill, which began with today's vote by the county solid waste committee.

"If (the landfill) is approved, that could very easily end up in the Supreme Court of the United States."

— Canton Supervisor James Poole

"That site was chosen because of its environmental criteria," said Michael Miller, manager of planning and corporate development for Wayne Disposal. The facility would incorporate approximately 200 acres of land on both sides of Lilley Road south of Michigan Avenue, Miller said.

Canton Supervisor James Poole said one reason the board didn't support the proposed landfill was that it didn't offer the township enough compensation. Poole said the Board of Trustees would not accept the landfill even if the proposal is approved through other channels.

"If that's approved, that could very easily end up in the Supreme Court of the United States," he said.

For the landfill to be approved, the county Solid Waste Implementation Committee would have to approve it in today's vote, then the Wayne County Commission would consider the issue. If the full commission approves the proposal, 43 Wayne County municipal boards representing all county communities (except Detroit) would then vote on the matter. If it passes that test, it would then go to the state Department of Natural Resources for final permit approval.

Bail jump lands short; instead bail jumps $185,000

BY PAUL GARGARO

An ill-fated escape attempt at 35th District Court drew the wrath of justice Friday.

Plymouth Police chuckled through the following account of the incident:

John Albert Germain, of Farmington Hills, was arrested for larceny by Northville Township police on Thursday night. The following afternoon he was arraigned in front of Judge John MacDonald who set a bond at $15,000. As he was being led out of his arraignment, Germain attempted to dive through the courtroom window on the east side of the judge's bench. The attempt was unsuccessful and Germain was subdued by bailiffs, Northville Township police, and City of Plymouth police.

Germain was then placed in the custody of the Plymouth police, (the 35th district court is in their jurisdiction), and was transported to the hospital in an EMS unit.

After receiving treatment for cuts and a shoulder injury, Germain was returned to the 35th District Court where his bond was raised to $200,000 cash, said a spokesman from the court.

An examination of the larceny charges is set for Friday. Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers said they expect to charge Germain with the escape.

Survey: Fest was fun

BY PAUL GARGARO

Results from a survey conducted during the 1987 Fall Festival indicate that the fun of the annual festival reaches beyond The Plymouth-Canton Community.

The survey, which was conducted by the office of Paul Sincock, assistant to the Plymouth city manager, reveals that the appeal of the Fall Festival attracts visitors from Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Ann Arbor, Redford, Detroit, Inkster, South Lyon, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights and Livonia.

In addition, the survey results indicate that both newspaper and radio coverage played the most significant role in bringing in visitors from outside The Plymouth-Canton Community.

The survey also gave visitors the chance to rate the food booths, entertainment, information booth, main meals, beverage booths, the antique mart, and the arts and crafts show.

Over 92 per cent of the responses indicate that visitors to the Fall Festival felt that the different aspects of the event were either "excellent" or "good."

In a followup report, Sincock noted that a number of survey comments indicate a desire for a beer booth, a salad and fruit booth, bigger name entertainment, and a more visible information booth.

When asked about the possibility of a future beer booth, Fall Festival Board Chairman Joe Henshaw said, "I wouldn't like to see it. It would change the flavor of the Festival."

Henshaw added that there is always room for improvement and that the board will be open to suggestions throughout the year.

Halloween vandals hit Canton

BY DAN NESS

Canton police reported several incidents regarding Halloween hooliganism over the weekend, ranging from acts of vandalism to candy tampering and arson.

An 11-year-old boy reported being robbed of his Halloween trick-or-treating candy at knifepoint at about 7:40 p.m. near the intersection of Ryegate and Emerson, police said. A 13-year-old Canton boy was being questioned in connection with the incident, according to police.

In two other trick-or-treating incidents, a Canton man reported finding a needle in a small candy bar that his son received while trick-or-treating in Cavalier subdivision. Canton police did not receive any other reports of candy tampering in that neighborhood.

Another Canton parent found a live 22-caliber bullet in his daughter's Halloween sack after she had been trick-or-treating, according to police reports.

Halloween night vandals broke several car and house windows, removed street signs and scratched paint on cars, according to police reports.

Earlier in the weekend, the Canton Fire Department was called to put out a fire in a tree fort in a field northeast of Suttan shortly after midnight on Friday. The next night, a dumpster fire was reported at the construction site for a shopping mall at Joy and Morton-Taylor roads. Canton police blamed arson for both fires.

"All in all, we were quite pleased with the lack of activity," said Canton Police Information Officer David Boljesic. Boljesic credited several neighborhood watch groups for keeping incidents to a minimum.

Funeral home proposed for Canton

BY DAN NESS

The owner of funeral homes in Belleville and Detroit is planning to build a funeral home in Canton.

The Canton Planning Commission unanimously approved a rezoning to allow the construction of a funeral home by Jerome Pawlus, of Belleville, in September. The rezoning request, from residential to office use, was to have been considered by the Board of Trustees at last night's meeting.

Pawlus also operates the Pawlus-Roberts Brothers Funeral Home in Belleville, and the Pawlus-Cylkowski Funeral Home in Detroit.

The funeral home would be located on the north side of Warren Road between Canton Center and Sheldon roads, just west of the Oakwood - Canton Health Center.

The Board of Trustees was to have also considered a rezoning request to permit construction of an apartment or condominium style development on the southwest corner of Joy and Morton-Taylor roads. The developers for the proposal, Nelson/Ross Partnership, of Farmington Hills, is constructing the Coventry Commons East shopping mall on the southeast corner of Joy and Morton-Taylor roads.

The Canton Planning Commission recommended denial of the rezoning by a 5-1 vote at its Sept. 28 meeting.

Chief: Arson to blame

Midnight blaze destroys Plymouth landmark

BY PAUL GARGARO

A familiar part of Plymouth history went up in smoke last week.

The Grain Mill Crossing, which has stood in Plymouth on N. Main Street just east of the railroad tracks for more than 100 years, was destroyed by fire shortly after midnight last Friday. Plymouth fire officials said arson was the cause of the blaze.

The first call came at 12:01 a.m. from an engineer on an eastbound train who noticed smoke coming from the building, according to Plymouth Fire Chief Al Matthews. Three minutes later, when the shove car passed the scene, flames were shooting through the roof, Matthews said.

It took firefighters and five pieces of firefighting equipment from the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township just over an hour to extinguish the fire, he said.

According to Matthews, the extreme heat and speed of the spreading flames caused the firefighters to work from the outside.

Matthews said arson was determined through evidence based on interviews with witnesses, inspections around the origin site, and the speed with which the building was consumed.

"The conclusion that it's arson is obvious to a trained investigator," Matthews said. "We're basing it on the burn pattern, the speed of the fire, and the absence of any electrical or gas equipment around the origin."

The state fire marshal is presently conducting an investigation of the fire, Matthews said.

Matthews announced that there will be a reward of up to $2,000 for any information leading to the apprehension and conviction of anyone connected with starting the fire.

Currently, the structure is owned by the Starkweather Holding Co. and was being leased for light storage by the Alljack and Celex companies, said Matthews.

Last used as a restaurant over two years ago, the building was placed on the market within the last year and was listed under Coldwell Banker Realtors.

For most of its life, the building was owned and operated by the McLaren family. In 1901, John D. McLaren purchased the grain mill and operated it as a feed and hay supply store. Later, his son John J. McLaren converted the establishment into a coal and lumber market. In 1977 the building was sold by John D. McLaren, Jr., said Marion McLaren, the 92-year-old widow of the late John J. McLaren.

You are responsible for disposing of all of the garbage you produce. Period.

Until residents of The Plymouth-Canton Community come to that realization, the problem of disposing garbage will only get worse.

Even though you -- the average Plymouth-Canton resident -- pass the responsibility for garbage disposal along to the municipality or private hauler, you will ultimately be held accountable for the waste you produce. There are many ways this can be enforced -- through increased garbage collection costs, mandatory recycling laws, or as a worst-case scenario, by leaving it at the curb where you left it after the landfills overflow.

Plymouth-Canton residents can't delude themselves into thinking that their garbage worries are left at the curbside each week.

On the contrary, the garbage disposal cycle, from the kitchen to the landfill, will be hitting your pocketbook like never before in the next few years. Whether you like it or not, you will become aware of the garbage disposal crisis in that time.

Here's what can be done.

The Wayne County Solid Waste Implementation Committee will be voting on a proposal that would plan for disposal for the next 20 years, approximately. The proposal should be supported wholeheartedly by the committee, the county commission and the individual communities.

The plan calls for proposals for waste disposal to be ranked by the county's solid waste committee. The committee then would approve enough of the proposals to take care of the garbage until the year 2000. Communities will be opposed, most certainly, to some of approaches defined within this system, but it is a realistic, innovative proposal.

Communities can band together to form authorities to share costs involved in waste disposal, starting at garbage collection and going all the way to a recycling center or incinerator. Plymouth-Canton leaders can start on that immediately by developing a community plan of action for garbage disposal for the next 20 years. A Plymouth-Canton-Northville waste authority would seem plausible.

Individuals can help by recycling their newspapers, cans, glass containers and tin cans at regional recycling centers.

Ultimately, it comes down to what residents want to do with their garbage and how much they're willing to pay for disposal. Garbage collection is not a responsibility of local governments.

Don't wait until the garbage is piling up at your curb before thinking of alternatives.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Agreement is agreeable

It's good to see the teachers in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and district administrators working together to settle their contract differences.

Even better to know that they did it well ahead of schedule.

A lot of hard negotiating may have paid off in a big way -- three years of peace and quiet on the labor front. It may have also finally healed the scars left by the labor unrest between teachers (represented by the Plymouth-Canton Education Association) and the district in 1983.

That's the way it should be.

Education is the number one priority for the district and its staff. Forgetting past differences for the future of the youths of this community can only be commended. The climate between teachers and the district has improved steadily since the harsh strike of 1974 and may now be totally calmed.

But there is still a cloud hanging over the tranquil "pax districta" and that's a dispute between the Plymouth-Canton Paraprofessionals Association (representing educational aides), which says it is being treated unfairly, and the administration.

The aides have been working on an extension of their contract since June 30. But the contract talks are dragging and there is no sign of a change.

The nearly dead-in-the-water talks need to be revived and soon.

One has to wonder how the district can settle a contract one year ahead of schedule with the teachers and yet be unable to even talk with the educational aides?

When it comes to settling these things, fairness must be observed. And the kids of the district must not be forgotten over a mere issue like health benefits or wage increases.

It only happens in dreams . . .

I had a wicked, but beautiful, dream last week.

I was stopped about 25 cars back waiting for another Plymouth train to maneuver through Old Village when I lost track of time and began that strange wandering through the realm of daydreams . . .

It was incredibly vivid. I was still about 25 cars back in a long line of cars on Starkweather, going nowhere fast, listening to the ringing of the railroad crossing warning signal, when finally the brake lights of the car in front of me flashed on, and then off.

We were moving.

The line of cars had grown to about 75 behind mine, and the procession was gaining speed as my car bounced across the old crossing. I glanced out over my left elbow, hanging lazily on the door on this warm autumn day, and noticed an engineer of a train glaring impatiently at the line of cars filing over the tracks. He was stopped about 25 feet away from the crossing, his head tilted out of the window, a frown on his face.

To the point

By Dan Ness

I glanced up just in time to see the brake lights of the car in front of me flash on again. We were slowing down. Looking behind me, the entire line of cars was following suit. My car came to a stop near the Wilcox Road turnoff.

Then, almost as though we were prompted by some prearranged signal, the string of cars began to . . . back up . . . very slowly . . . and back up . . . and back up . . . gaining speed until my car was again crossing the tracks in Old Village. In reverse.

The train's engineer was livid. He jumped out of his perch inside the engine and pulled out his stopwatch, looked at it, then slammed it against his leg in disgust. "Don't you people realize I have a busy schedule to adhere to? What's the matter with you all?"

He was screaming at the top of his lungs, competing with the jangling crossing signal bells.

We all just honked our horns in unison. A bumper sticker on the car in front of me read "Look, listen and wait about half an hour." A row of Mary Kay Cosmetics cars near the front featured drivers wearing pink engineers' caps, which they started waving out of their windows in an obviously practiced routine to the beat of "Chattanooga Choo-Choo."

We were in Plymouth car driver's Nirvana. We must have driven back and forth across those tracks for about three hours, horns honking, pink hats waving, singing "She'll Be Comin' Around the Mountain When She Comes" out loud. But we were running out of gas.

We were driving forward again, and the end of the line of cars was crossing the tracks. Soon the train would have a clear path to travel again. There were no more cars crossing the tracks . . .

But there was the CEP Marching Band coming out of nowhere, in formation no less, playing a rave-up version of "The Loco-Motion!" The band marched onto the tracks and assembled into field concert position. Then they marched around until they formed the shape of a train engine, with wheels moving and steam coming out of the ears of the engineer.

It was a scene I shall not soon forget, even though it was in a daydream, those glorious marchers with new uniforms, blasting away on their instruments while the train engineer wept on hot engine's metal body.

The honking began behind me. I noticed the car in front of me was well in front of me now. I sped across the tracks in Old Village and looked to my left. The train was moving slowly down the tracks away from me, an engineer's frown nowhere to be found.

Nary an incident

Weekend football games at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) stadium have been relatively quiet this fall season.

Even Friday night's "Devil's Bowl" clash between the Canton and Salem grid teams went by with nary an incident, said Canton Police Department Officer David Boljesic.

"I'm not aware of any incidents Friday," Boljesic said. "We've really been lucky this year."

Canton police personnel have been at every home game during the season campaign. Besides keeping an eye on the school district property the officers have also been responsible for protecting the fans.

And contrary to rumor the police were not searching patrons as they entered the Devil's Night game, said Boljesic.

"It's been very quiet at games this year," Boljesic said. "Normally if we do have a problem it's kids who drink too much and get sick."

That happened during the Canton homecoming game two weeks ago. Two ambulances rushed to CEP. Overdose was mentioned. It was said one kid had to have his stomach pumped.

Most likely it was alcohol, or some combination of alcohol and other substances taken before the game or on the grounds.

Call it an isolated incident, though, considering there were hundreds of CEP students milling around during the game.

The games themselves have become social affairs -- not a party time. Most students know better enough than to bring alcohol or other substances on the grounds.

Of course there are always a few who are already intoxicated when they arrive.

But Canton police really aren't too surprised by the quiet at football games this year, even on Devil's Night, said Boljesic.

And isn't that the way it should be? Leave the action on the field.

Poole foiled by invisible Crier photographer

With malice toward none

More antics from Jim Poole. Nobody said it was easy being Canton supervisor, but why do those holding that office -- currently and in the past -- make it even harder on themselves?

At last week's Canton Township Board meeting, the supervisor's mouth destroyed the recognition he was trying to provide to several youngsters.

As he was presenting the award, Poole tossed in a blast at the media -- which he apparently thought was not present.

Then he told the kids that the media didn't care about their achievements but that if they broke a window the newspapers would show up right away.

Obviously this newspaper cared to cover the kids. Please see the photo.

Kids, Poole has contributed a lot here to your belief in the honesty and abilities of politicians and how the system works.

Usually, when the politicians want to present an award, they call the papers in a blatant push for their own self-publicity. In this case, kids, Poole's real goal was to have some of your good deeds rub off on him.

That's why, as a general rule, The Crier prefers to feature stories and photos recognizing outstanding individuals and groups of The Plymouth-Canton Community without the politicians trying to get their mitts in the middle of it. Adding a Canton supervisor's proclamation or photo doesn't improve the merit of the recognition.

And so, kids, you got a lesson about some politicians.

Poole told you the press wasn't there.

Please see the photo.

Please expect an apology from Poole to be forthcoming.

If it were only so simple for the voters of Canton.

Nine students have been named winners in the 1987 Fire Prevention Poster Coloring Contest sponsored by the Canton Chamber of Commerce. Receiving their awards at last week's Canton Township Board meeting were: in first place, Becky Fredericks (third grade at Gallimore); second, Regan Cowger (third grade at Gallimore); honorable mention, Katie Flaherty, Danny Madsen, and Nancy Kindraka; in the older category first place, Angie Lamerato (fifth grade at Miller); second, Amanda Wiltse (fifth grade at Miller); honorable mention, Kelly Johnston and Ryan Gagnon. Ticket lady will be sorely missed

A few weeks ago, Elsie Melow retired from her job at the Penn Theatre. For 20 years she served as the ticket taker and unofficial greeter at the old movie house.

A few weeks ago, I asked Elsie Melow if she would let me do a feature article about her. She humbly declined. Still, I can't resist sharing a small vignette about her career. I hope she won't mind.

As a young kid, looking for things to do on Saturday afternoon, I used to find myself at the Penn Theatre quite often. I saw such epics as "101 Dalmations," "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang," and "Mary Poppins."

As I grew towards adolescence, my taste in movies became a bit more "hip," or so I thought. Disney animation and Dick Van Dyke were no longer acceptable. I was now into things like "Jaws" and "Rocky."

The last detail

by Paul Gargaro

By the time "Animal House" (an "R" rated movie) made it to the Penn, I must have been about 14. I had been anxious to see it for a long time, but was unable to because of my age.

For weeks, nay months, I had been told of how funny "Animal House" was by friends whose parents were progressive enough to take them to the show. I was tired of listening to the details and couldn't wait to see the show for myself.

It was summertime and two of my brothers, who were home from college, decided to take me to see the film.

Using some righteous, college-spawned logic, they decided that they were old enough to be my gaurdians and that no ticket lady at the Penn Theatre was going to stop us. Besides, they reasoned, I was already cultivating an ample amount of facial hair on my upper lip and so they thought I could pass for 17.

Sure.

Elsie Melow wasn't buying it. The dreadful confrontation came as we reached her ticket podium just before the 7 p.m. show. With a good crowd behind us, watching the ugliness unfold, I was rightfully proven underage.

"But he's my guardian," said my brother, painfully reversing our well-practiced defense.

In the next moment we were seen walking down the sidewalk, towards the car. We wondered where it all went wrong and I began to wonder if I was ever going to see "Animal House."

At the time I was miffed at Elsie Melow, but now I have to look back and marvel at her strongwilled devotion to rules and principles. It probably wasn't easy to stand up to all of those young pretenders trying to slide past her to see the "R" rated shows.

But, she did and in so doing she earned herself a reputation and a well-deserved chapter in the history books of Plymouth. Thank you for giving me a story that I'll never forget.

Childs, Bila, Loiselle and Jabara win in city

"We've got a great group going to the commission," said the victorious Childs. "I really hope that the people who voted for me continue to have faith in me."

Mayor Pro-tem Karl Gansler, an advocate of the town meeting, stated that his next successor will "probably be Bila." Gansler also stated that "I'm going, eventually, to move them (pre-commission meetings) upstairs."

Bila, a strong candidate for next week's commission vote for Mayor Pro-tem, was ready to celebrate early at a victory party at Mayor William Robinson's house.

"I was very pleased with the results and I want to thank Greg Miller, my campaign manager, as well as my wife," said Bila. "I'll be going for Mayor Pro-tem and hope to work closely with Karl Gansler, who we're pushing for mayor."

"Overall," continued Bila, "I think that Plymouth would have been well served no matter who won."

Loiselle, a former commissioner, campaigned hard and enjoyed a strong showing at the polls.

"I am pleased with the way things came out," said Loiselle. "I'm ecstatic to know that I ran so close to the top finishers."

"I concentrated a lot on the absentee voters and I think the results show," added Loiselle. "I also put a lot of effort into my own precinct."

As fourth place finisher, Jabara will serve a two-year term, while the top three finishers will serve four-year terms.

Jabara called The Crier from Greece (4:30 a.m. his time, 9:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time) to indicate his pleasure with the turnout. He also added that he would strongly support Bila for Mayor Pro-tem.

The three bottom finishers were incumbent Donald Keller, Jr., Jean Morrow and Gregory Green.

Keller placed fifth with 591 votes, Morrow was sixth with 434, and Green finished seventh with 434 tallies.

Twp., City voters join in library vote

Originally the district collected 0.79 mills.

One mill levied equals $1 of property tax per thousand dollars of State Equalized Valuation (SEV). SEV is about one-half the property's market value.

Money from the increase will be used for operating purposes at the library -- weekend hours, a better children's book section, and updating of the overall book collection, according to Thomas.

"I'm very pleased," said Carol Davis, president of the Plymouth

Library District. "We surveyed the community. They told us what they wanted and if the survey was true they knew we'd have to pay for it."

Despite the rejection of two other millage proposals in the township, voters supported the library proposal.

Livonia voters elected Robert Bennett as their new mayor yesterday.

Bennett replaces James McCann, who has served as mayor Pro-tem since Edward McNamera left to serve as Wayne County Executive. Bennett defeated Joan Duggan by a margin of approximately 60 to 40 percent, according to the Livonia clerk's office.

For the city clerk position, voters chose incumbent Robert Nash over Lawrence Schweiger by a very large majority.

To fill the position of city treasurer, Livonia voters again elected the incumbent by choosing Elaine Tuttle by a very small margin.

In the race for city council, voters elected Ron Ochala, Gerald Taylor, Laura Toy, and Dale Jurcisin out of a field of eight candidates.

Thirty-seven per cent of registered voters in the city turned out for the election, according to the clerk's office.

Northville voters elected Christopher Johnson as its new mayor yesterday, to succeed Paul Vernon who did not seek re-election. Johnson defeated the current mayor Pro-tem, G. Dewey Gardner, by a vote of 842 to 568, according to the City of Northville clerk's office.

In the Northville city council race, all three candidates ran unopposed.

Elected to four-year terms were Carolann Ayers, with 950 votes, and Paul Folino, with 1,032 votes. Jerome Mittman was elected to the one-year council seat with 1,053 votes.

An estimated 31 per cent of Northville voters participated in yesterday's election, according to the clerk's office.

The race in the City of Wayne saw its registered voters elect Albert Damitio, Donna McEachern, Edwin Rowe and Thomas Weyand to seats on the city council.

Westland voters re-elected incumbent Mayor Henry Mack in a landslide. Four candidates were elected to the city council -- Thomas Brown, Charles Pickering, Thomas Artley and Ben Behart.

Glenn McIntosh, of Plymouth Township, sits in the handcrafted airplane he's been working on for the past four years. He hopes to complete it in about two years. (Crier photo by Jerry Carson)

Well almost

Flying high

BY DAN NESS

For Glenn McIntosh, some things in life will just have to wait.

For the past four and a half years, 30-year-old McIntosh has been building his own airplane in his Plymouth Township garage. When he started the project, McIntosh saw two options facing him.

To his way of thinking, he could "get married and get a house," or he could build his own airplane. In about two years, McIntosh expects to be done building his plane. Then, he'll think about the "other" things in life.

"I was always fascinated with aviation even as a little shaver," he said. "It's just a life's dream of building it. I'm in no hurry to complete it."

McIntosh's project has become a part-time job of sorts for him. "It's catch what you can . . . I'd say I put in an average of 20 hours a week, sometimes less, sometimes more."

The single-engine, two-seater airplane is built of wood, McIntosh said. Because he is building it himself, it will be designated as an experimental aircraft, subject to all of the inspections those aircraft must undergo.

Building your own airplane might not be as difficult as it seems, at least as explained by McIntosh. "It's like building a model airplane," he started. "It's just a big model airplane, but it's easier with bigger parts. The bigger the pieces, the easier it is to put together."

"Actually, it should have been finished by now."

But building the airplane is only part of McIntosh's dream. "My goal is to just get it flying."

With autumn comes road blues

Being caught by a train used to be the standby excuse for being late, now because of traffic jams caused by road construction we can't even get to the tracks. No matter where I go lately, I have to deal with road construction.

I always thought it was a summer long project to repair or build a new road. It didn't matter how big or small the project was, once a work crew started working you simply knew one lane or the whole road would be blocked off until fall.

Something weird happened this year. When autumn arrived the road construction didn't go away, in fact it seems to have gotten worse. Does that mean it takes longer to build a road than it used to?

Last week I dealt with detours and traffic jams caused by road construction in Detroit, Lansing and Grand Rapids. It's like a contagious disease, everywhere you go people are trying to figure out how to stay away from it.

My worst problem with the roads is trying to figure out how to get in and out of my subdivision. The traffic on Sheldon Road is ridiculous and has been for years. Sheldon Center is supposed to be the perfect solution. As many times as I've looked at the map and tried to figure it out, I'm still not sure how the traffic pattern is going to work. At this point almost anything would be an improvement over what we have.

My next question is when will the road be completed? I realize everything takes time, but it seems like it will be a lot harder to work on the road when it is covered with two feet of snow.

Trying to go the other way out of my subdivision leads to the construction of Morton-Taylor. Hopefully that road will be completed sometime this year.

If it takes 20 years (that I know of) to talk about and plan Sheldon Center Road, I wonder how many years it will take to construct it. I know I sound a bit impatient, but you would too if you had to wait in line everytime you wanted to go or return from someplace. Besides it's time to come up with a new excuse for being late.

Gregory Meszaros of Tennyson Drive in Plymouth made the Honor Roll at Ohio State University.

Jerry McKenny was ordained into the Ministry of the United Presbyterian Church in September. The son of Owen and June McKenny of Ivanhoe in Plymouth, he graduated from Salem High School in 1975. He also graduated from Wheaton College and Princeton Theological Seminary.

Area students on the Dean's List at Albion College are: Regina Rojeski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Rojeski of Hanford in Canton; and Jon Freeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Freeman of Creekwood Circle; and Julie MacIsaac, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacIsaac of Stonecrest Drive in Plymouth.

Getting down to business

Business People

Adistra Corporation has selected Susanne Hamilton as "Account Executive of the Month" for August. Hamilton's accomplishments include outstanding sales achievement and devotion to job excellence.

Adistra, headquartered in Plymouth, specializes in computer services, program administration, graphics and distribution services.

A new vehicle salesperson for Dick Scott Dodge, Inc., of Plymouth, received an award for individual performance in selling Dodge vehicles.

William F. Toth, of Plymouth, has reached the Silver level of recognition in Dodge's Sales Professionals Club.

Specially-designed incentives and awards are provided for outstanding product knowledge and sales achievement at three performance levels - Bronze, Silver, and Gold. Membership in each level is determined by points earned for sales of new cars and trucks.

Most students dream of returning to their alma mater to work. For some people this never happens, but for Todd Riedel, originally of Plymouth, it was an immediate reality.

Riedel graduated from The School of the Ozarks in August of 1987 with a major in business administration.

He was then hired by the school to fill the vacant spot as field representative in the development department, a job which he had begun interviewing for in his senior year of college. Riedel began working for the college in August 1987.

His job includes making personal and telephone contacts to donors of S of O in the surrounding state area, thanking them for their support.

Riedel is the son of Ron and Marj Riedel, who still reside in Plymouth.

Jerry's Bicycles, of Plymouth, will be making fitness equipment available to all participants in the EXERCISE-A-THON during regular store hours. The event takes place Nov. 30 thru Dec. 5, and pledge forms are available at any one of the Jerry's Bicycles Stores. All proceeds will go to benefit The Make-A-Wish Foundation of Michigan to grant those "special wishes."

Honored

Frank Jawor (right) was recently named PGA Pro of the year. He is also the new state PGA president. With him are Michael Kernicki, treasurer, and Randy Erskine, secretary.

Jawor wins golf award

Frank Jawor, Michigan's only Master Professional from Hilltop Golf Course in Plymouth Township, received the Warren Orlick Award as Michigan PGA Golf Professional of the Year two weeks ago.

Jawor was also recently elected president of the Michigan Section Professional Golfers Association at the group's 66th annual Fall meeting.

Jawor, long noted as a supporter of junior golf, has placed junior golf programs high on his list of priorities this year.

"Golf is a game for all ages, and youngsters need proper training at an early age so that they can get the most enjoyment from all that golf offers," Jawor said.

Village Tailor shop offers solutions

BY DAVID DeGRAZIA

With summer wardrobes being put away for the year, winter clothes are making their debut.

It means another year of trying to fit into those long forgotten clothes that just don't seem to fit as well as they did a year ago.

The solution to the problem may have just opened in Plymouth's Old Village.

Plymouth resident Denise Gerke recently opened The Village Tailor and said, "business has been great with no signs." The shop is so new it remains without an identifying sign.

Gerke performs services ranging from shortening sleeves to professional reweaving.

Her speciality is "hemming slacks while you wait," said the Salem graduate. The store also features a fitting room so the alteration of a customer's clothes is made easier.

When asked why the location was chosen, "Old Village is supposed to be picking up," Gerke added.

The owner also said the location was convenient since she lives nearby.

Gerke gained her experience in the field in many ways. "I sewed at school and about five different shops," said the 23-year-old.

She also said that some of her skills come from sewing at home with her mother.

Gerke came up with the idea of opening the shop because she basically

Tailor made

Denise Gerke takes a minute from work at her tailor shop in Plymouth. The outfit specializes in outfitting its customers. (Crier photo by David DeGrazia) was tired of working under someone else. "It's pretty fun to be on my own," Gerke remarked.

The most challenging work she has done thus far was the work done recently on her own wedding dress. She married Dave Gerke, an engineer with a local firm.

Gerke expects business to pick up, especially after signs go up on the new store, and eventually expects she'll need some help in the shop.

"The change of seasons is the busiest time," the owner said.

And that may mean a lot of work for the Village Tailor.

Hazelwood named as Extra Miler

Ethylene (Ethie) Hazelwood was awarded "Extra Miler" honors last week by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education.

A 23-year veteran of working in the school district, Hazelwood began her career at Plymouth High School. In 1972 she became a teacher at the new Canton High School and in 1983-84 became an area coordinator at Centennial Educational Park (CEP) in charge of the business education department.

Her duties also include coordinator for skills-for-living, coordinator for technology at the high school and liaison to community education and the attendance office.

Hazelwood said of her co-workers, they are all "extra milers."

"I've loved all the work I've done with students and teachers," she said after winning the award.

Winkleman's prepares move

Winkleman's, a major women's apparel chain, will be moving their headquarters from Detroit to Plymouth Township late this spring.

The new headquarters is currently under construction in the R.A. DeMattia Metro West Industrial Park. When completed, the structure, which sits on a 16-acre lot at the corner of Fogg and Helm streets, will cover 210,000 square feet, said Karen Burrill, a representative of the R.A. DeMattia company.

R.A. DeMattia and Associates, the architects and developers, have planned for a 150,000-square-foot warehouse, a 50,000-square-foot office center and a 10,000-square-foot mezzanine, said Burrill.

"The warehouse will serve over 100 stores," said Burrill. "This new building will expedite both shipping and receiving."

The project is scheduled to be completed in April or May of 1988.

State JCs to meet here

Approximately 700 Jaycees from all over Michigan will gather in Livonia this weekend for the annual Jaycees' Fall Assembly, said Chuck Lowe, president of the Plymouth Jaycees.

The convention, which will take place at the Holidome and in the neighboring Quality Inn on Six Mile Road, will feature a Friday night party, Saturday forums conducted by state officers, banquets, and awards ceremonies. "This year's keynote speaker is Gary Wilkenson," said Lowe. "He's making the trip to Michigan because our programs have been doing so well."

Lowe also added that the Plymouth Jaycees expect to receive recognition at the awards ceremony for their continued success as a program.

The trees planted along Ford Road, including those in front of Canton Landing, were recognized in the 1987 Keep Michigan Beautiful awards program. (Crier photo by Dan Ness)

Canton's trees win award

Those trees you've seen planted along the Ford Road business district and on Haggerty Road in Canton recently caught the eye of the Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc. group.

The organization recognized Canton's tree planting program in October as one of nine winners in its 1987 Keep Michigan Beautiful Awards program.

The tree program began in Canton in 1979 with giveaways of tree seedlings to residents, according to Supervisor James Poole. "Thousands" of other trees have also been planted by township personnel to be transplanted in the future, Poole said.

The township has also been working with the state Department of Transportation on a project to plant trees along Ford Road near the I-275 expressway.

Other winners in the Keep Michigan Beautiful awards program are: Friends of the Rouge; Gerald R. Ford Museum; Hamtramck Block Club Association; Barbara H. Kelly, of Marquette; Marquette Beautification and Restoration Committee; National Campers/Hikers Association No. 145 Moonliters, Dearborn Heights; Old St. Joseph Neighborhood Preservation Association; and the Westland Historical Commission.

Canton man pleads guilty to conspiracy charge

BY DAN NESS

A Canton pilot charged in connection with a marijuana smuggling ring pleaded guilty Friday to a one-count charge of conspiracy to fail to report currency in U.S. District Court.

Jeffrey Hubbard, 30, of Twining Court in Canton, entered the plea in front of Judge Richard Suhrheinrich, according to Robert Kalec, assistant U.S. District attorney.

The one-count "information" charged Hubbard with "transporting money from the United States to Columbia, South America and elsewhere to be exchanged for marijuana," Kalec said.

Suhrheinrich did not act on the plea as it was given, Kalec said. "Technically, there's been no acceptance of the plea by the court."

The U.S. District Attorney's office classifies charges into three categories, Kalec explained: complaints, indictments and informations. "Hubbard was charged in an information," Kalec said.

Hubbard faces a maximum statutory penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine if found guilty of the charge, Kalec said.

Hubbard's attorney, Gail Benson, could not be reached for comment.

Robber hits gas station; armed with pistol

An armed man stole more than $150 from the Total gas station at Ann Arbor and Lilley roads in Plymouth Township late Friday night, said Township police.

Township police reported that the suspect entered the Total station through the north door and approached the counter where he produced a semi-automatic pistol and informed the cashier that "this is a stick up."

After filling a canvas sack with money, the gunman fled through the south door and was last seen heading southeast toward the the Comerica parking lot, said Township police.

According to eyewitness descriptions, the suspect was a white male, approximately six feet tall with a medium build. He was wearing a brown baseball cap, a grey zippered sweatshirt, and dirty brown work pants, according to witnesses. The gunman's face was masked behind a brown and green bandana.

The Canton police K-9 unit was brought to the scene, and the tracking dog followed a scent to a parking lot behind Plaza Lanes, police said. Weather conditions made further tracking impossible, Township police said.

Ad Advice #531

MAKE YOUR COPY COMPLETE

Sizes and colors available are important, pertinent information. Your copy should be enthusiastic, sincere. A block of copy written in complete sentences is easier to read than one composed of phrases and random words. In designing the layout of a copy block, use a boldface lead-in. Small pictures in sequence will often help readership. Don't be too clever, or use unusual or difficult words.

A 40th celebration

Annual food drive, telethon kicks off this week

The 4th Annual Salvation Army "Baskets filled with Love" Food Drive Telethon kicks off this week.

The food drive is sponsored by Omnicom Cable in cooperation with the Plymouth and Canton Chambers of Commerce. The groups are all working together this year to help provide for those in need this holiday season.

Businesses, schools, churches and service organizations are being asked to participate by posting a "Baskets Filled With Love" sign and collecting canned goods in a "Love Box."

The food drive will run for five weeks and anytime during the season arrangements can be made to have the food picked up by contacting the Salvation Army.

Plymouth participants can present their collected goods at the "Giving Thanks Parade" at Kellogg Park on Friday, Nov. 27.

Canton and Northville, as well as Plymouth groups, can continue collecting until the "Baskets Filled With Love" Telethon on Dec. 5.

Any merchant, school, service club or church that contributes this year is being invited to appear on Omnicom's live Telethon to discuss how they collected the goods and to share information about their group.

"Over the past three years, the communities have worked hard to make this project a success," said Omnicom's Telethon Chairman Pete Smith.

"It has now become a tradition for the various groups to collect canned and dry goods for the Salvation Army. It gives me great joy to see more community awareness about our neighbors who are in need," said Omnicom's Community Affairs and Program Director Maria Holmes who began the food drive/telethon in 1984.

The telethon is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. on Dec. 5 on Omnicom Channel 15.

"It will continue as long as the community responds by calling in pledges of support and dropping off canned goods at the studio," Smith said.

Omnicom's studio is located south of Joy Road between Haggerty and Lilley. The telethon will feature entertainment with visits from various celebrities.

Santa Claus and the Balloon Fairy will visit and talk with children beginning at 1 p.m.. Candy, balloons, and other refreshments will be provided.

There is no charge for the childrens activities and refreshments but children are asked to bring a canned good.

of the Socialist Impulse," on March 1; and "The Constitution and the Antagonistic World: An 18th Century Instrument or Restraint versus 20th Century Appetites," on April 12.

The lectures are all free and open to the public. They will be held at 12:30 p.m. in the Life Science Building at U-D.

Chiefs girls go after state harrier gold

BY KEN VOYLES

It's been a season of firsts for the Canton High girls cross country squad. And it isn't over yet.

The Chiefs raced to a second place finish in the Class A Regional at Willow Metropark Saturday, qualifying for the state finals.

Earlier last week Canton captured the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) conference girls harrier crown.

Both efforts were firsts for the Chiefs, said coach George Przygodski. "This is the first time we've made it to the state finals," he said. "It's also a first in the league.

"Obviously everybody is really happy," he added. "We're excited to be in the state meet for the first time. We'll see how we do against the other state cross country powerhouses."

The Chiefs were second at the regionals with 142 points, far behind first place Ann Arbor Pioneer with 22 points. Brighton finished third overall. (The top three teams advance to the state finals.)

Cindy Spessard led Canton with a 16th place finish in 20:13, while Lori Penland was 20th overall in 20:20.

Linda Schedel was next for the Chiefs in 26th place with an effort of 20:43. Missy Jasnowski came in 35th with a time of 21:01.

The rest of the Canton finishes included Sheri Figurski in 45th, Cathy McCabe in 59th and Sherry Sweeney in 73rd.

"It was an outstanding effort," Przygodski said. "We've never done this well. It's encouraging to see our effort even compared with Pioneer's."

The Class A State Finals are Saturday, Nov. 7 at Grossbeck Golf Course in Lansing. The girls will probably run at noon, said Przygodski. Twenty-four girls teams will race in the finals.

Last Tuesday Canton won the WLAA conference finals besting 11 other teams with a score of 52 points. Farmington was second with 86 points.

Penland finished second overall during the race held at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. She clocked 20:17.

Schedel was sixth overall in 20:35 and Spessard was ninth in 20:49. Figurski finished 16th with a time of 21:33, while Adriann Garrow was 19th in 21:35.

Jasnowski came in 22nd and Sweeney was 29th.

Devil's Bowl grid clash

BY MARTY TUNGATE

The Canton Chiefs football squad and the Salem Rocks football team got together Friday night for the annual cross-campus grid clash.

It was a battle in the trenches which saw the Rocks shut out the Chiefs 14-0 to win the "Devil's Bowl."

Despite what the scoreboard read it was a close game right down to the wire, a game when neither team gave up until the final quarter.

"Our kids played well, we played darn well defensively, but once again our offense failed us," Canton head coach Bob Khoenle said.

The game began like many of the Rock and Chief games, each of the team's defense wouldn't give an inch, making it tough for either offense to

WLAA hoop tourney

It's time for the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) Conference girls basketball tournament.

The regular season is over and the squads in the WLAA will battle over who is going to be this year's conference champions.

The tourney began last night, with the local teams Canton and Salem expecting to trounce their opening opponents.

The real story will unfold Saturday, Nov. 7 inside the Rocks' gym, where the WLAA teams will assemble to decide who will play for the conference title.

Tickets for the battles are $2 per game, or $5 for an all day pass. (I get in free.)

The final round of games will begin at 10 a.m. in the Salem gym Saturday.

Youths win punt, pass, kick

Canton's Parks and Recreation Department hosted the Metro-Detroit Regional Punt, Pass and Kick competition on Sunday, Oct. 25 and three Canton youths came away with first places.

Bobby Mayer, of Canton, took top honors in the eight year old age division with a total of 116 feet, 11 inches.

In the nine year old age division, Kevin Borowski, also from Canton, grabbed first when he combined for a total score of 166 feet and six inches.

The other Canton winner was Craig Benedict in the 12 year old age division. His winning total was 234 feet, seven inches.

All three Canton winners will compete in the state finals on Nov. 8 at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Mini-Mites program

The Plymouth-Canton Hockey Association (PCHA) has started a program for Beginning Mini-Mites, open to children ages four to seven years old.

The program is run on Saturdays from 4-5 p.m. at the Plymouth Cultural Center. The charge is $5 for the first week and $2 for every week after that.

Children participants are required to have proper equipment, elbow pads, knee pads, skates, hockey helmets and a hockey stick.

It is a program geared for children with no previous skating or hockey experience, but who are interested in joining an organized team.

For more information on the program call Ron Hayes at 455-7226 or the Plymouth-Canton Hockey Association at 397-0111.

There are still openings on the Mite recreational teams for children ages seven to nine years old.

The State of Michigan is known for its girls basketball powers and many talented players and teams will convene at Salem this Saturday.

See the likes of the next "Miss Basketball" in the state -- Salem's Dena Head -- as she struts her stuff with teammates like Jill Estey, who is one of the leading point guards in the state.

Canton's scrappy bunch will feature the outside three point threat of Amanda Bell and the inside force of Karen Boluch.

The finals will be played the following Saturday (Nov. 14) also at Salem.

Who will be in the finals? I like a third rematch between the Rocks and the Chiefs, but don't count Westland John Glenn out. See you Saturday.

generate a scoring drive.

It wasn't until midway through the second the Rocks got on the scoreboard.

Senior Garret Bowe took a hand off from quarterback Steve Holt and skirted outside and scrambled for a 16-yard touchdown.

The Rocks had another opportunity to stick another touchdown into the end zone, but the Chiefs defense wouldn't break.

Salem's defense was determined to shut the Chiefs out, as they snuffed out two of Canton's scoring attempts, one starting at Salem's 46-yard line, the other starting at the Rock's own 26-yard line.

"Our defense played tough, the defense was really on tonight," Salem head coach Tom Moshimer said.

The first half ended with Salem on top 7-0.

The second half was played much like the first, each of the defenses challenging the offense to score.

The Rocks finally broke it open when senior Keith Smith went high into the air to intercept a Canton pass, which led to the Rocks second and final TD of the night.

After a bone crushing run by Ryan Johnson for nine yards, which gave the Rocks a first and goal from the three, Johnson got the call and he plunged through the scarlet and grey of Canton for a touchdown.

With the game virtually over neither teams gave up, which shows the bitter and fierce rival that these two teams have.

Salem drove down to the Chiefs two yard line late in the fourth quarter only to be again stopped by a potent Canton defense.

Salem turned its season around from last year, going 6-3, as compared with 3-6 in 1986.

Canton had its problems getting an offense going all year but compiled the same amount of wins and losses from a year ago. The squad went 3-6 this year.

Salem kickers fall to Spartans in regional action

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Heartbreaker.
 "That says it all," Salem coach Ken Johnson said following the Rocks' 3-2 loss to the number one ranked Class A soccer team in the state -- Livonia Stevenson -- last Wednesday.

"It was a great game, we played our best game of the season," Johnson added. "They're (Stevenson) the luckiest team in the state."

The game started out with the Rocks dominating, as they kept the ball on the Spartans side of the field for the first ten minutes. Still the scrappy Rocks could not get the ball in the net.

When the Spartans finally got the ball across midfield they put it into the net.

The never say die Rocks didn't give, though.

"We fought right back, and Denny drilled it," Johnson said.

That's Denny Reynolds for the Rocks.

Reynolds took a pass from senior co-captain Randy Balconi and fired by the Spartans goal keeper.

That's the way the half ended, tied at one.

"We felt confident at half time, we thought we were going to come back and take it," Johnson said.

And it appeared they would when Salem came out storming in the second half and started to dominate the Spartans who had not lost in 66 games.

Then it happened, Reynolds got past the Stevenson defense and stuck the ball into the Spartan's goal.

The 1,000 plus crowd erupted. Some said the roar could be heard in downtown Plymouth.

The Rocks were up 2-1, and everyone thought that this was the year for Salem kick fans.

But Stevenson came back.

The Spartans made a long throw-in. The ball bounced once and a Spartan drilled the ball by Salem's goal keeper

Dave O'Malley.

Then with game looking like it would go to overtime the Spartans did it one more time.

A Stevenson player took a corner kick and put the ball right in front of the net.

Salem's outstanding goalie O'Malley punched the ball straight up, and when the ball came down a Spartan headed the ball by O'Malley.

"We fought hard. The kids really worked hard -- they're a great bunch," Johnson said after the loss.

The Rocks out shot their conference rivals 15-10, but the score read Stevenson 3-2.

The Rocks wrapped up their season with a 13-4-2 mark. They also won a district championship.

Johnson says he will start to get ready for the girls soccer season, which starts this spring.

"Well the girls are next, and we will take the state championship for the second year in a row," Johnson said. "And the boys team will go all the way in 1988, followed by a third state championship from the girls team."

Steelers finish season

The final football game of the season for the Plymouth-Canton Junior Football Steelers on Sunday against the Northville and Novi Colts saw both the freshmen and junior varsity teams come away with wins while the varsity squad suffered a defeat.

The freshmen Steelers won their game 20-0. Ahmande Grimes scored on touchdown runs of 25 and 29 yards and Matt McIntosh raced in from 16 yards out late in the game to account for the Steeler's scoring plays.

The junior varsity Steelers won 22-6.

Jimmy Helms hit Lance Orow for a Steelers touchdown following an opening touchdown by the Colts. Another touchdown pass from Helms to Orow put the JV ahead 14-6 and Jason Krueger iced the game in the fourth quarter on a 43-yard touchdown run.

The varsity Steelers opened their game with a long scoring drive capped by a one-yard dive by Vince Turri, but the Colts came back to score three touchdowns and win it 19-6.

P-C gymnasts in action

Gymnasts from both Plymouth and Canton fared well at the 7th annual Judges Cup, sponsored by the National Association for Women's Gymnastic Judges last week.

The local girls competed with both the Class II and Class III gymnastics teams from Palastra Gymnastics Club in Westland.

The club was fourth overall. There were 24 teams from throughout Michigan at the event.

Kimberly Miller, of Canton, placed second in the Class II Junior division uneven bars event with an 8.6, while Maria Buswinka, of Plymouth, took seconds in the Class II Senior Division floor exercise and uneven bars events. She was also third on vault and fourth on balance beam.

In the Class III Children's Division, Kimberley Lewke, of Canton, took a second place on the vault with an 8.9.

Palastra's Class III Juniors captured first through fourth place on vault. Kimberly Rennolds, of Plymouth, led the team with a 9.0. Second place went to Johanna Anderson, of Canton, and third place went to Autumn Bunch, also of Canton.

Rennolds also earned a first place on the balance beam and in the all-around, a second place on floor exercise and a third place on the uneven bars.

Our Forest Avenue store, like every Pier 1, will fill your mind with fresh ideas for home decorating. Everyone who has shopped Pier 1 knows that's true. But if you have never been inside a Pier 1 store, then you truly don't realize how much you've been missing.

Imagine yourself being free to roam among rattan and wicker furniture from the Far East, to hold stemware formed by glassblowers of Europe and Mexico, to feel the textures of handwoven rag rugs from India, to try on Gypsy clothing made of natural fibers in 20 countries, to enjoy the aroma of eucalyptus, candles, potpourri and imported teas.

Well, that's not a fantasy; it's Pier 1. Treat your senses to an experience—and your budget to excellent savings—at our newly remodeled store in Plymouth, or at any Pier 1 in the greater Detroit area.
