McAuley plans to double in size

BY PAUL GARGARO

The McAuley Health Building wants to more than double its downtown Plymouth size.

Not yet four years old, the Huron Arbor Corporation seeks to expand its facility with a two-story addition to be built on columns above its adjacent parking lot.

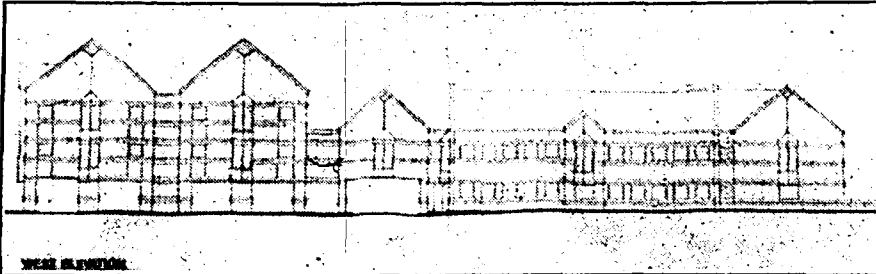

An appeal on the project is scheduled to go before the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) tomorrow night and a zoning application was submitted yesterday to be reviewed by the planning commission in September.

structures in the area.

McAuley officials were unable to quote a price for the project. City sources projected the addition to add $1 million in taxable real estate to the downtown.

"Unfortunately, there's really not a lot that we can share at the moment. We're still examining the project with the architects," said McAuley spokesman Ben Hubbard. "Obviously, we want to make it so that we can charge a reasonable rent for our physicians."

Hobbs and Black designed the

This is an artist rendering of the proposed McAuley expansion in Plymouth.

In the application submitted to the ZBA, McAuley officials asked to construct a two-story addition on columns over the existing hospital driveway and parking lot on Harvey Street.

The addition would be 13,200 square feet on two floors — or 26,400 total. The existing building is 23,767 square feet on two floors.

"It's a complex site. We've got to step over Tonquish Creek Drain and the area around Fleet Street is considered a flood plain by the state," said a spokesman for Hobbs and Black, the architectural firm handling the project, said. "It's a tough site, but we can respond to it."

The ZBA request to be heard tomorrow night seeks a variance in the city's zoning ordinance for adjustments to an area covered by flood insurance requirements.

In the appeal, McAuley officials said the structure would not have an impact on existing parking and would have little effect on restricting the flood plain.

In addition, McAuley officials said the proposed addition is necessary to meet public needs and its construction would comply with existing uses and existing McAuley Health Center and the city's Central Parking Deck. The city is still working on the deck project, three years after it was begun.

City Engineer Kenneth West said he has obtained a feasibility study on the addition of a third deck on the Central Parking Deck. West said 40 additional spaces will be needed to accommodate the proposed addition.

"Generally speaking, Hobbs and Black are more expensive, but there is a payoff," said Hubbard. "The designs are warm to the community. They fit in."

Hubbard said that the expansion would create jobs in the community.

"There could be 25 to 30 new jobs over a period of time, but at this point, that's a little bit of a guess," Hubbard said.

He said that because the McAuley project has not gone before the planning commission, no timetable has been set for construction.

"We're hopeful that we can start as soon as possible," said Hubbard. "In the ideal world, we'd like to get construction started this fall, but I'm not sure that that's realistic."

Here's to the 1st day

BY DAN JARVIS

Eyes were open wide as Hoben Elementary School students filed into the school and took a peek for the first time. Missing were the tears that often accompany the maiden voyage to the halls of education.

It was the first day of regular classes throughout the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district. But it was extra special at Hoben, where kids entered the halls of a brand new school.

Over at Hoben, kindergartener Robin Harding, of Canton, was looking forward to the first day, and though a quiet mood had befallen her, Harding said she was excited about seeing her friends and meeting many new ones at the new school.

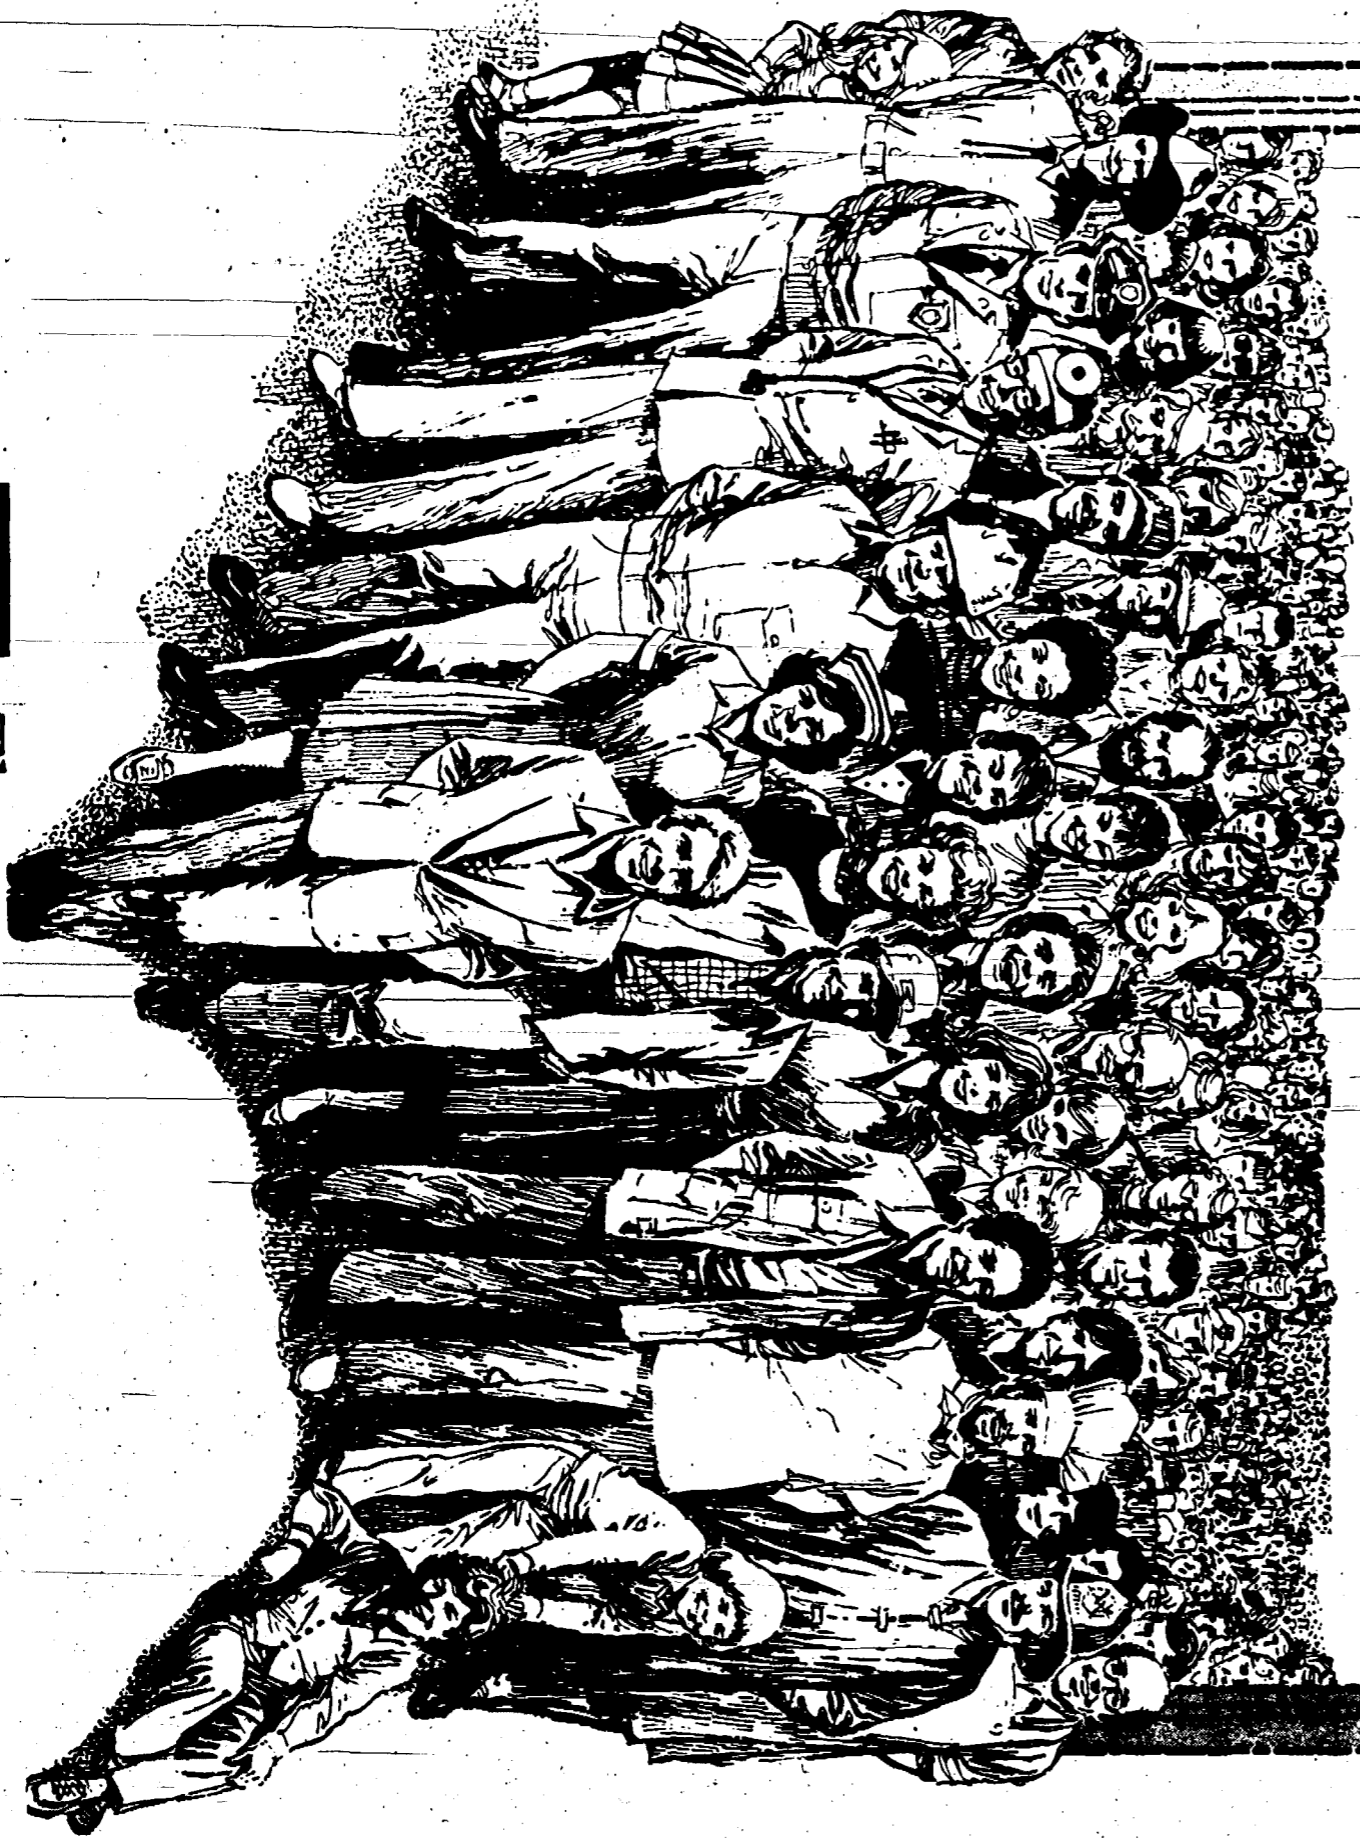

Fifth grader Jeremy Sova, was less excited about the day.

"I wish it was still summer," said Sova. "I wish it was warm enough to

WSDP scrambles for location

BY KEN VOYLES

Dave Snyder is surprised and a little upset.

As station manager for WSDP, the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools student-run radio station, he is wondering why the Fall Festival Board of Directors agreed to allow commercial radio station WSDS to broadcast live during the 33rd annual festival while his station has had to scramble to find a location from which to broadcast this year.

"We're Plymouth-Canton's radio station," he said. "We aim our broadcast to the community. Here's a major event in Plymouth-Canton and we feel kind of left out."

"I'm not really upset, but I guess I'm kind of surprised," he added. "We've had to scramble to find a business which would allow us to set up in front of them and broadcast."

In the past WSDP has broadcast during the festival from one of the 25 or so booths strung along Main Street. But last year, according to Snyder, the festival board decided to charge the station for the use of a booth even though it wasn't going to be used to sell anything.

The station, with studios at Centennial Educational Park (CEP), was able to find a business along Ann Arbor Trail last year from which to broadcast. "We've got the same problem this year," Snyder said. "I think it's kind of silly of the board."

Snyder said he'd just like to know why the board would allow WSDS to broadcast for free, while trying to charge the student-run station for the use of a booth.

"We want to be a part of this festival," he said. "People tend to forget us because our listeners are not necessarily in the mainstream of Plymouth-Canton society, but we do have a large audience."

WSDP's audience is younger than the Washtenaw County based AM station, he said, and the playlists are vastly different. But, Snyder added, "we can offer publicity just like WSDS. And we do it for free."

WSDS normally charges a community for its broadcast "services," according to Barb Berry, from the station. The station decided to go ahead with its plans for Fall Festival this year even though the board said it would not pay. Berry said waiving the charge was not that unusual.

Snyder said he hopes to meet with the festival board tonight (Aug. 31) and explain his concerns. He is also continuing the search for a broadcast location near the festival.

Fun Run to benefit United Way

BY PAUL GARGARO

Both the lead-footed and the fleet of foot are invited to enter the Fred Hill Haberdasher's 1988 Fund Run to benefit the Plymouth Community United Way.

Individuals or teams are encouraged to participate as long as they keep within the parameters outlined by race promoter Fred Hill.

In addition to moving at least one body part at all times during the grueling half-mile course, which runs from Kellogg Park to Union Street to Church Street and back down Main Street to the park, Hill demands that all participants wear a coat, shirt, tie, running shorts and sneakers.

Hill also mandates that no fast running will be allowed and that runners weighing under 175 lbs. must carry a briefcase to compensate for their "unfair advantage."

Following the race, winners will be chosen at random regardless of the finish, said Hill.

"It shouldn't take more than 15 minutes including rest stops to catch our breath," said Hill. "Listen, being in business has to be fun and your store has to be (fun). People always want to be where it's fun."

Included in the list of team competitors are: administrators from the City of Plymouth, the Plymouth Township Planning Commission, the C.L. Finlan Insurance Company, First of America, H and B Carpeting, Forest Place Optical, Schostak Inc., and Sutherland and Yoe Accounting.

Held on Sept. 15, Hill asks that all runners show up at 6 p.m. for registration and photos.

Hill said that 76 entrants have signed on at a price of $25 per individual, $75 per team. Checks are made payable to the United Way.

Up in smoke?

BY KEN VOYLES

The smells of barbecued chicken are as common to the annual Fall Festival as sweet corn on the cob, but not everyone appreciates the side effects associated with cooking America's favorite bird.

Grease, smoke and a lingering odor are not necessarily Lloyd Duston's idea of a good time during Fall Festival, but he isn't in any position to pick up his house and move.

Woman raped in Knollwood Cemetery

A Westland woman picked up on Michigan Avenue in Dearborn, was raped Sunday morning in Canton's Knollwood Cemetery, according to Canton Police.

Police said the woman was waiting for a bus ride when the suspect pulled up and offered her a ride. He then pulled out a handgun, said police, and told her not to try and escape.

Police said the man then drove to the back of Knollwood cemetery where he proceeded to rape the woman in the vehicle, all the while threatening her with the gun.

After the assault the woman was given her clothes and told to leave the car, said police, who added that the suspect fled in a light gray Ford Granada two-door.

Police describe the suspect as a white male, age 23-25, thin build, dark brown shoulder length hair, a thin mustache, and a crooked front tooth.

behind the Masonic Lodge and every year he complains that he must contend with the smoke from the Rotary chicken barbecue, as well as an odor which lasts two or three weeks, and the grease which coats his house and boat.

This year the Rotary club and city officials met with Duston to address his complaints.

The results?

The Rotary's cooking pit will be moved a little farther away from his home and semi-trucks will be used in an attempt to block the smoke and grease. Assistant City Manager Paul Sincock is also trying to line up some "industrial fans" to direct the smoke upward.

"We came away with an understanding and we're going to give something else a try," Sincock said. "We're trying to work on that and see if we can help the situation. Obviously, it's not a good situation, but I think we at least have an understanding."

Duston said, "I feel bad going this far but it's really wrong. If we can work it out fine. I don't want to make waves. I really hope it works."

Duston said he has hired an attorney this year for legal advice.

"They can do something for me, I really think they can," he said, adding that improving the ventilation in the Gathering might be one way to lessen the smoke and grease. "I feel the agreement last night, if it works, is fine."

Duston has lived in the house on Union for 10 years. He said last year was the worst ever for smoke and grease. In years past, he said he has asked for relief but been ignored.

Joe Bida, this year's manager of the Fall Festival, said part of the problem last year was the direction and force of the wind. "It was bad," Bida said.

It's not clear exactly where the pits will be marked off this year, said Sincock, but he added that there were several possible sites behind the Gathering and the Penn Theatre where the Rotarians could work.

Duston said he'd like to see the barbecue moved if this year's efforts fail.

You're a professional. A wife. And you may be a high-risk mother-to-be.

Pregnant women are more than just mothers-to-be. They're also lawyers, doctors, engineers, teachers... This often means that women are postponing first-time pregnancy until their late 30s, even into their 40s.

There are plenty of good reasons to wait to have a baby—but there's not a single good reason to wait for good prenatal care. Because how you care for yourself and your baby during pregnancy is just as important as what you do after your baby arrives. And, while simply being an older mom doesn't necessarily put you or your baby at risk, you should find out just what potential risks there are. The sooner you find out, the better—for both of you.

At Oakwood Hospital, you'll find obstetricians, perinatologists, neonatologists, geneticists and specialists in reproductive medicine. When you choose one of our doctors, all the resources of a 615-bed teaching facility where over 4,000 babies are delivered annually, will be available to you. As a Level III perinatal center, Oakwood Hospital's Women and Children's Health Care Center is equipped to handle high-risk deliveries, premature infants and other special-need babies. Our Neonatal Intensive Care Unit is staffed by physicians around the clock. And our specialists in perinatology care for the high-risk mother through pregnancy and delivery.

You've worked for years on building a satisfying career and a healthy marriage. But these are the most important nine months of your baby's life. So give your pregnancy the thought and care it deserves. Call Oakwood Hospital at 1-800-543-WELL for the name of a physician on our staff. You and your baby are worth it.

Growing to serve your health care needs.

City to shut down streets for Fall Fest

With the upcoming 33rd annual Fall Festival just around the corner, City of Plymouth residents can expect the usual traffic disruptions along Main Street.

As of 8 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 7 (through 8 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 11) Main Street between Church Street and Ann Arbor Trail will be closed to all vehicle traffic.

Alternative routes have been posted. Southbound Main traffic should take westbound Church to southbound Harvey and turn east on Wing to get back to Main. Drivers can also go eastbound on Church to southbound Union, then east on Roe, south on Hamilton, west on Ann Arbor Trail, south again on Deer and west on Wing to Main.

The reverse pattern also works for northbound Main Street traffic.

All of the detours will be marked and posted. Parking along the detour route will be regulated by temporary signs.

Traffic will also be closed on Penniman between Harvey and Union and a small section of Union. Fralick Street will be closed off at Main but will remain open off of Harvey for emergency vehicles and for those attending Schrader's Funeral Home.

Will meet deadline

Schools target asbestos

BY DAN JARVIS

The first of September is the target date for the submission of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' asbestos management plan to the Michigan Department of Health.

Raymond Hoedel, associate superintendent of business for the schools, said the Plymouth-Canton district will meet the original department deadline of Oct. 12 and will not pursue a five-month deadline extension as provided by the U. S. Congress.

Regardless of the submission date for the management plan, federal law requires that all Michigan schools must begin to remove or seal off asbestos materials by July 1989.

"The school system has contracted with a firm to test and remove asbestos," said Hoedel. "Our problem now is that we don't have the funds set aside to tap into."

Hoedel said the school system will meet with the firm, Engineering and Testing Services, of Plymouth, and try to devise a five-year management plan to eliminate asbestos in the schools.

"We have had three inspections over the last several years and have discovered asbestos in a few locations," said Hoedel.

The areas where work has already been done are the Central Middle School stairways and adjacent areas, and the West Middle School library. In all of the locations, Hoedel said, the asbestos was removed and the surfaces were sealed off.

Hoedel said that the upcoming round of testing will include floor tiles, thermal insulation pipes, laboratory counter tops, and stage curtains.

A group of friends shared Sova's viewpoint and some said that an extra month of summer freedom couldn't possibly do any harm.

Formerly a student at Hulsing Elementary, Jeremy liked the idea of coming to a brand new school.

"It's better than any of the other ones I have been to," he said. "It's bigger, and has nicer rooms."

Fourth grade teacher Cathy Sibert's students were right at home after being seated in the "room of stars." Her plan was simple: "To make everyone feel important, like a star," she said.

And as Sharon Belobraidich showed her first graders how the calendar works, the kids became excited and joined in the fun.

Hoben principal John Pearson said, "Everything seems to be going smoothly," as he made his rounds to the rooms to welcome Hoben students to their first day of school, their first of many more.

Horn player honored by corps

BY DAN JARVIS

Plymouth resident Steven Harrington, 21, is among the honored few who recently was awarded an honors medal for his participation in the International Drum and Bugle Corps.

Harrington, a 1985 Canton High graduate and French Horn player, first became interested in the organization during high school when he was a member of the Canton High Marching Band.

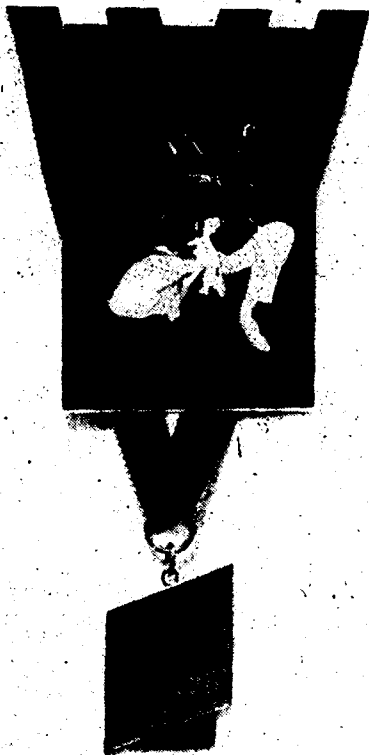

"I saw a show and was really impressed," he said. "This is as high as you can go for a marching band."

And of his last four years with the corps, Harrington has seen his share of the world, having toured the midwest and much of Europe.

Recently during a tour including competitions in Germany, Holland and England, Harrington described the performances as "an audio-visual orgasm."

Each competition group consists of 128 people who must march with amazing accuracy, concentrate on an involved musical score while at the same time keeping one eye on the drum major.

"You're in competition with yourself," said Harrington. "You start with a concept that's nearly impossible. If it is done well you don't have time to think about anything. You're on auto pilot."

If there is one facet of his membership in the organization that stands out, Harrington points to his personal growth.

"It forced me to grow up. It takes a lot of responsibility and if you don't grow up in a hurry, you get abused," he said.

And it all takes place in large stadiums that few get to perform in.

"There will never be another chance for me to perform in front of 42,000 people, many of them screaming for more," Harrington said.

When comparing the experience to others he has had, Harrington simply said, "There is nothing like it."

Lunch prices increased for all P-C students

BY DAN JARVIS

The next time someone tells a student to say "cheese," he or she might not be smiling.

The Plymouth Canton Community Schools (PCCS) have announced a lunch price increase for all students in the district this year.

Verna Lee Hill, Food Service director for the district, said lunch prices have been upped 30 cents across-the-board.

Lunch prices for elementary students have gone from $1 to $1.30. Middle and high school prices went from $1.35 to $1.65. Hill said while the price includes milk, an extra Elsie will run an additional 30 cents.

The reason for the price increase, said Hill, is that "Cheese was sold by the government to some South American countries, so the American commodity cheese supply was depleted."

In a letter from the Michigan Department of Education, Roger Lynas, a supervisor of food distribution, wrote, "There will be no cheese available for National Commodity Processing Programs or state contracts."

"As a result," said Hill, "we will be paying market value for all cheese products including pizza."

Another reason for the price increase, said Hill, was a seven per cent pay hike for cafeteria employees as a result of the recent contract settlement. She added that the district's food service program is administered by the Marriott Corporation.

"This is the first price increase since Marriott took over the food program four years ago," said Hill.

Future board should decide

Give salary some thought

It might be best for all concerned to wait on adopting any new salary for the supervisor's position in Canton, considering the current board of trustees appears unprepared to make a decision and supervisor-elect Tom Yack might want some say in the matter.

Ever since voters rejected the idea of a superintendent (or manager) for the township, the current board, including the three lame ducks (Jim Poole, Bob Padget and Linda Chuhran), has been unable to decide what next to do.

The board trapped itself earlier this year when the members approved a cut in pay for the supervisor.

At the time it seemed as if they were playing a hunch that the ballot would be approved and the supervisor's job would become part time to coincide with the hiring of a professional manager.

Clearly now, though, the decision was a mistake. Yes, the board could go back and reverse its decision, as was said back in April, but in practice the theory isn't as cut and dry.

Now its hands are tied. If the board makes a decision now, especially an unpopular one, the future board may have to step in anyway to correct it.

The board doesn't need to reintroduce the supervisor's full time salary since the change doesn't take effect until Nov. 22 and current Supervisor Jim Poole continues to draw the same pay ($36,500).

Waiting may lead to some fighting when the new board takes office but it is something the members need to work out. Waiting may also be a wise move since it would allow the new board a chance to get its feet wet, so to speak, by making a tough decision.

And since the new board will have a different composition, one which will be around for four years, it needs to be on the ground floor of any major decision, especially one which has already stirred up plenty of controversy.

Of course, Canton seems to thrive on controversy, and any course followed in the next six months will be closely watched and debated.

It's clear that the current board should have waited on its original decision to reduce the supervisor's pay until after the August primary vote.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Get on with present, future

EDITOR:

Well it's been almost a month now since the primary election and the dust is starting to settle, somewhat. Even though I lost my bid for Canton Trustee I am convinced as ever that the system which has brought us to this point in our nation's political evolution will continue to serve us well into the 21st Century and beyond.

Our system allowed me to raise my voice in opposition to the proposed hiring of a superintendent, to speak for the full-time elected supervisor who would be fully accountable to the people. Apparently 57 per cent of the voters agreed with me and defeated the superintendent issue. However, I am somewhat confused as to why the voters would vote for a supervisor, two trustees and a clerk who are all pro-superintendent. I honestly feel there was much confusion about this issue and much of it was created by many different factors otherwise why would the voters turn out the only supervisor candidate who supported a full-time supervisor -- Jim Poole.

Let's get on to the present and the future. Canton voters have elected a man to the supervisors office who has stated both publicly and privately that if the superintendents issue was defeated then it would be a clear indication that the voters wanted a full-time supervisor. Mr. Yack stated to me that in that event he would take a leave of absence and devote his efforts, as supervisor, on a full-time basis.

Now we are hearing a different story. Could it be that Mr. Yack was not fully aware of his options concerning his job as a teacher in the Wayne-Westland School district and the consequences of his possible election victory?

Concerning the current issue of full-time or part-time supervisor, my emotional side tells me that the four current board members who created this mess should be the ones to resolve it. However, my side of reason and propriety tells me that those individuals did not and still do not have Canton's best interests in mind and therefore the board which will be elected in November should make this issue their number one priority. Bearing in mind Canton's future and their own political futures are at stake.

I would suggest to the new board that they allow Mr. Yack a period of time to come to grips with the reality of his newly acquired responsibility to his office and to the residents of Canton. After all, even Speaker of the House, "Tip" O'Neil, allowed President Reagan a "honeymoon" period of 90 days.

We have entered a new era where virtually all the old guard has been replaced. Will it be business as usual or can we rightfully expect changes for the better?

Regarding the hiring of an assistant to the supervisor, let us not forget who originally proposed this as a solution to the "professional" question. Jim Poole suggested several years ago that an assistant could be hired and was legal under the current Charter Township Act.

Lastly I would like to thank all the people who worked on my behalf: my wife, family, friends and supporters, and the 1004 voters who believed in me. To all of you I say "Thanks." I intend to remain active in Canton affairs. I hope the newspapers will continue to print my letters and allow me to express my concerns as a Canton resident. Who knows, four years from now...

For police funds

Don't call me

EDITOR:

Last week I was solicited via telephone by an officer from the Plymouth Township Police Department in a plea for funds to promote safety awareness programs within the local public schools.

Though my children attend parochial schools and thus would receive no direct benefit from my donation, without hesitation I agreed to contribute.

As a result of my pledge, a uniformed officer in a Plymouth Township patrol car presented himself at my residence to receive my modest donation.

My concern is as follows: the soliciting officer insisted on me pinpointing a time to pick up the check -- did he anticipate a concurrent crime in the area?

In light of the fact that I live about one mile east of the Washtenaw County line (a considerable distance from the police station), wouldn't it have been more financially advantageous to their fundraiser and to the taxpayers to allow me to affix a 25 cent stamp and mail the donation? The soliciting officer wouldn't hear of it.

Perhaps I should be thankful that I live in a community where law enforcement personnel have nothing more pressing to attend to than collecting donations on taxpayers' time utilizing taxpayer-funded vehicles.

I'm not certain. Just don't call me again.

And when the next ballot millage is presented to cover increased operating costs for township police, include me out.

Board should reflect love, compassion

EDITOR:

The recent reversal by the Fall Festival Board to deny Citizens for Better Education a booth came as a shock to me and many other members of CBE that contributed time, money, and efforts for our previously approved booth. Contrary to some residents beliefs, there are several hundred members in this organization. Some of us, like most groups, are less participative than others but nonetheless, are an integral part of this group.

The Plymouth Fall Festival is a fine event and has contributed a substantial amount of money, time, and fellowship to our community since it began in 1956. Thanks to the late Sam Hudson, we have adopted the 'little man', blowing a bugle, as a trademark of this event. This should remind us what the festival is supposed to stand for; contributions from all areas of our community. The Plymouth Rotary originated this fine event and eventually expanded it to include other organizations and groups as they saw opportunities to increase contributions to our community.

Apparently it has now grown to be an exclusive club and has lost its vision for the 'little man.' It would seem to me open arms should welcome anyone that would work so hard for our community. To participate in the festival takes many, many long hours of planning, hard work, and devotion to Plymouth.

In the future, I would hope that the board would do some soul searching prior to making emotionally charged decisions that are seeded by a few contemptuous individuals who are not even part of the board. The board should reflect the love, compassion, and respect that our community demands. I hope we have all grown as a result of this.

Let's all help to make this year's Fall Festival a fun and successful one.

Between the lines

by Dan Jarvis

Excitement is running high for students and parents alike. And for the kindergartners, the first day of school can be the first step into a whole new world.

Do you remember what it was like to step in school for the first time? It was a feeling that I had to grow up in a hurry or be ground up in the system forever. It was a make-it or break-it situation and I decided to make a break for it.

The first recollections are of the long journey (two blocks) to the school building. Once inside, (I had to be forced by my mom), we were herded like cattle in the hallway as we prepared to enter the classroom for the first time.

I must have been in the right place at the right time because the teacher, Mrs. Brown, asked me to hold the door open while my classmates filed in. Afraid to do anything wrong, I agreed. But when the last student entered, I made a quick exit into the hall and out the school door.

I guess it just wasn't meant to be.

It felt great running out of the school and down the street toward the safe haven of our house. Halfway home the realization struck me that I had better come up with a pretty good story of why I was coming home so early.

My feeble attempt to sneak in the house failed as my mom was standing at the door demanding to know details.

"They were really mean there, mom," I pleaded feigning sincerity. "They were going to beat me, but I left first. I got out just in time."

Unimpressed with my tragic tale of woe, she gathered the car keys and whisked me into the family wagon for yet another trip to the scary school.

"I thought we lost one," said the teacher. As my mother explained my flight from fright, Mrs. Brown smiled and said everything would be alright. Her quick smile had me worried. As my mom left, so did the freedom of childhood. I was now on a schedule and was forced to be responsible.

Looking back, I made it through kindergarten alright. Building blocks, a tricycle and a myriad of toys and rubber balls helped to make the year more enjoyable.

But the fear of the first day of school will never leave my memory.

Pigeon fever in Canton

Pigeons are dying in Canton.

A pigeon invasion has hit the Canton Administration Building and the soccer fields behind that facility this summer during the worst days of the drought.

Most of the birds belong to pigeon clubs in Michigan and Ohio, Supervisor Jim Poole said he has found out, and they were released up here. The idea was to time them and see how long it would take them to make the return flight to a little town in Ohio.

"They get lost and die and we can't catch them," Poole said. "I've called a couple places and all they can tell me is to put an owl out in the soccer fields or start poisoning them."

"I'd like to save the pigeons," he added.

Several hundred birds have been seen around the Administration Building and grounds and more than 20 have turned up dead. They're dying from hunger and the heat and are unable to complete their flying mission. They are also eating the "hydro" grass seed on the soccer fields and may be dying from that, said Poole.

Apparently, the birds have also been noticed by several homeowners living nearby. They've told Poole that the birds sit on their roofs and eat pebbles before collapsing and dying.

Some of the dead pigeons have been found with club tags on them.

Why the pigeons owners don't want to (or can't) do anything about saving their birds is strange? It would seem they should at least help the township trap them so that the birds can be saved or safely destroyed.

In the margin

Pigeons are old hat in The Plymouth-Canton Community, but this is a different story from the situation in downtown Plymouth a couple years ago. These are not wild pigeons, but the "pets" of pigeon club members and breeders, many of whom have as little idea about what to do with them in Canton as Poole or other township officials.

Besides his concern for the supposedly harmless little "flying rats" Poole is also aware of the danger inherent in pigeons -- they often carry a viral strain which can become a real health hazard when you have a bunch of dead birds on your hands.

It's the kind of viral strain many residents wish would hit politicians during an election year.

But that's a joking matter. In Canton, right now, pigeons are nothing to joke about.

Helping hand

The Plymouth-Canton area Girl Scouts help seniors throughout the year. They are also involved in a variety of other projects each year, including Red Cross swim lessons.

Help seniors

Girl Scouts offer services

Editor's Note -- This is another in a series of stories about organizations which receive funds from the Plymouth Community United Way program.

This year 90 children, ranging from four to 12 years of age, attended the eight-week session. Lessons were held in Central Middle School from mid-January to March.

The Plymouth Area Girl Scouts are proud of the various service projects they perform in the community. Their efforts in giving service are with a single goal in mind -- "To help others at all times."

Many troops go to Tonquish Creek (senior citizen housing), where they set up and play bingo with the residents as well as supply prizes. Troops have adopted seniors at Tonquish Creek for the past seven years. They visit and write them on a regular basis and send off birthday cards.

The group's community service projects include the following:

For more than 15 years Senior Girl Scout Troop 501 of Plymouth-Canton has offered Red Cross swim lessons to younger Girl Scouts as well as their brothers and sisters.

Most troops assist their individual Parent-Teacher Organization (PTO). They might be Santa's elves at a Christmas breakfast or pitch in to clean and paint the school on Grounds Day. Some troops babysit for younger siblings as well.

The 9th through 12th grade Senior Scouts are responsible for publicity, registration and instruction. The latter is done under the supervision of an adult water safety instructor.

Those efforts are just a few of the many services that the Girl Scouts offer to The Plymouth-Canton Community and other communities in Michigan.

Newest board member begins learning process

BY DAN JARVIS

Meet Barbara Graham, the newest member of the Plymouth Canton-Community Schools Board of Education.

Elected to office during the June school election, Graham took the board seat July 1.

"I'm learning," said Graham. "I don't intend to resolve all the issues at one time. I think it will be a slow process to turn things around. It will take time."

The issues that Graham hopes to turn around are offensive reading material and 'R' rated movies available in the school district.

"This is not a widespread problem," said Graham. "We (The Plymouth-Canton Community School District) are one of the few that use this type of material. Some feel that it is educational trash."

Though not a member of the Citizens for Better Education (CBE), a community-based group that is seeking bans on various materials for use in the school system, Graham welcomes their support.

"I am not a contributor or a card-carrying member," she said, referring to the CBE. "But we do have a few things in common."

One of the things Graham has in common with CBE is a mutual desire to exclude materials like the 'R' rated movie "The Breakfast Club."

"There's no point," said Graham. "The language in the film was repeated in a board of education meeting and they were put down.

"We're not telling the kids they can't see it on their own," she added. "I don't think some of this material belongs in the schools."

Other materials cited by Graham as not belonging in the schools are books that contain information or references to witchcraft, the occult or satanic materials.

"I think they threw Christianity out," said Graham. "Why are they holding onto the reverse of Christianity?"

Originally a school board member in Detroit, Graham has lived in Plymouth since 1979. Shortly after moving to Plymouth she noticed some literature published by CBE and became interested in their work. She already had the desire to become involved with local school issues.

"People in the community thought not enough was being done so I ran for school board in 1987 but didn't make it. I ran again this year and was elected."

As for Graham's goals as a school board member, she hopes to help get the offensive material out.

"I'm hoping to see the beginning of the end for these types of materials. I would like to see community members come up with some money and buy the books to replace them," she said.

"I'm not strictly a one-issue person, but we owe the taxpayers something," Graham added. "If they want it out then let's get it out."

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

The beginning of a new school year is at hand. As moms kiss their kids goodbye on that first day of school it is usually with mixed feelings. There is no doubt about the relief of having the little darlings back in school, however, nervousness also plays a part in that first day.

Moms always worry about their kids and spend the day wondering how they are doing; do they have any friends in their classes, will they get lost, do they have anyone to eat lunch with, etc. By the end of the day, the kid comes home excited about school and the mom is totally exhausted.

Of course the first day of school is always harder on the mom than the kid. The kid has to smile for some stupid picture mom wants to take; wear the ridiculous outfit mom insisted on buying, pretend not to be nervous as he (or she) shows-mom (for the third time) that he has lunch money and has brushed those teeth.

Sending a kid off to kindergarten is probably the hardest for a mom. Learning that a kid can survive nicely without a mom around to tell them what to do is not an easy lesson.

Now that both of my kids are in college, I've discovered something -- it isn't any easier to send them off to college than it was to kindergarten. There are times when I'm still not convinced they can survive without me.

Actually it's not sending them off to school that's hard. I'm sure they will find a way to deal with everyday life (perhaps not the same way I would, but I think I can handle it). There's probably a few things I would worry about if I knew about them, but that's okay too.

My concerns surface during finals week. How in the world can a kid be out with friends the weekend before finals? I know I'm bad because the kids refuse to discuss finals with me until after they're finished.

Last year was bad with two kids on different schedules, but the kid who took summer classes and scheduled finals during Fall Festival deadlines is asking for more than any mom should have to endure.

HAPPY 90th. BIRTHDAY HELEN GARBER!
Turning 90 is an accomplishment, however looking and acting much younger can surprise your friends when the announcement is made.

A member of the community for 35 years, Helen can often be seen walking around town (at least three miles a day). Unlike most of us dressed in our tennis shoes and grubbys, she is always properly dressed (heels and all). She is active in the Women's Club of Plymouth, the Circle at the Presbyterian Church, and sometimes gives speeches about presidents to local organizations.

(She is also quick to speak her mind about community newspaper opinion pages.)

The mother of James (a local judge), Barbara Jean Cato and Lou Ann Seely, she has nine grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren. A few friends will help her celebrate on Thursday with the entire family gathering for the weekend, including a dinner Saturday and picnic on Sunday.

Cheryl Smith became a member of Pi Omega Pi, a national business education honor society, at EMU. She is the daughter of Ray and Judith Smith of Plymouth.

Mark Pinto of Danbridge in Plymouth was named to the President's List (4.0) at Miami University. Students from Plymouth included on the Dean's List are: Lisa Dunbar of Pinecrest; Michele Harrison of Green Valley; Janet McKeon of Brewster Court; and Christine Theodore of Haverhill.

THE CHATEAUX OF THE LOIRE

Everyone who goes to France goes to Paris. Venture a bit beyond and see the beautiful chateaux of the Loire Valley. Situated in an area 100 to 200 miles southwest of Paris, on the banks of the Loire River, these citadels of the past are open to visitors.

Some of the more famous are: Blois, built continuously from the 13th to the 18th century, was the home of King Louis XII.

Chambord is the largest of the chateaux and has 440 rooms. It was used as a royal hunting lodge.

Azay-le-Rideau, on the Indre River, built in the early 16th century, is one of the loveliest.

Amboise is known for its ceiling frescoes by Leonardo da Vinci, who was the court painter. Here, he also designed costumes and worked on many of his inventions.

Sound and Light spectacles are held in the courtyards of the chateaux between June and September.

If France is in your travel plans, don't miss the tranquil valley of the Loire. Bon Voyage!

Getting down to business

Local firm makes direct hit on big market

BY PAUL GARGARO

Specialized injection molding machines aren't the type of machine you'd expect to find in your local hardware store or anywhere within a fifty mile radius, for that matter.

These specialized, large, and expensive machines are used to make plastic components for all types of industry, including automobile and high-tech manufacturers.

Progress Sales, one of the Metro West Industrial Parks' newest residents, deals with injection molders and is quickly finding that its home in Plymouth Township is conducive to business.

As an independent sales agent for Japan Steelworks of America, Inc. (JSW), a leading producer of injection molders, Progress Sales is currently working with the Ford Motor Company -- Sheldon Road Plant to upgrade its injection molding operation.

Headquartered in New York, JSW of America is a subsidiary of the Tokyo-based parent company.

Progress Sales sold Ford 10 new molding machines worth $5 million, which began operating at the plant last week.

Stan Kaleta, of Progress Sales, said the Ford deal began about three years ago, prior to Progress' move to the township in May.

Kaleta said the Plymouth location was chosen for a number of reasons.

"Primarily we moved because we had the potential to offer Ford machines of this caliber and we wanted to offer optional service to them," said Kaleta. "Plymouth has excellent access to the interstates and plenty of room to grow."

"Our goal with Ford is to build up a long-term relationship with them," said Kaleta. "Ford has set it up that we have to earn each of our phases."

Kaleta said that each of the three-step phases includes the sale of 10 injection molders.

Kaleta's associate Jerry Sylvain said that Progress Sales plans on building an inventory of serviceable JSW parts for the area.

Sylvain also said that the company wants to stock new machines in the future.

"This is going to serve as a regional sales office for the northeastern part of the United States, said Kaleta. "In the long term it could be the entire eastern United States."

Progress Sales also sold seven new machines to the Nippondensu Company in Battle Creek, which supplies plastic components to Ford, Mazda, and Toyota.

Groups will get warning at Fest for violations

BY KEN VOYLES

It looks like most of the local car dealers will be in this year's 33rd annual Fall Festival, according to a report presented to the Fall Festival Board of Directors last Wednesday.

There had been some concern the dealers won't turn out in any strength this year.

The dealers will display more than 15 new cars along Penniman Avenue and the festival is expected to make more than $5,000 on their participation, down from the predicted $8,500.

Groups violating the strict Wayne County Board of Health requirements for screening on food booths will be shut down this year, the festival's board of directors agreed last week.

If there is a violation the group will be given a one hour grace period to fix it. If the problem isn't fixed within an hour, the festival board has authorized that the booth will be shut down for the duration of that particular day. A booth will not be allowed to reopen on that day even if the problem is fixed.

"We should give them one warning. This is the way it must be," said Joe Bida, festival manager this year. "If they don't meet the requirements we'll shut them down."

Board of health officials will be at the festival throughout the four days, said Paul Sincock, assistant city manager of Plymouth. "We'll also be around to help," he said.

The board also looked at solving the handicapped parking problem this year by adding several slots on the upper level of the Central Parking Deck. As was done last year the handicapped parking ordinances will be enforced, said Sincock.

Tickets for each of the major meals during this year's festival should be available in advance at the "doghouse" ticket booth. The service groups are hoping to man it before each major meal and sell tickets to the fest goers.

The comedy nights will be a benefit for the Plymouth Community Chorus.

The performances, slated during Fall Festival, will be held Thursday, Sept. 8 at 8:30 p.m., Friday, Sept. 9 at 8 p.m. and 10:30 p.m., and Saturday, Sept. 10 at 8 p.m. and 10:30 p.m.

Bill Thomas, who will be heading the show, has headlined at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle, as well as the Funny Bones and Punchline Comedy Clubs.

Lilly is one of Michigan's hottest comedians, an original member in the group of comedians to launch Mark Ridley's "Comedy Castle." He has worked the Comedy Store in Los Angeles, headlined in 31 states, and has opened for Frankie Valli, the Everly Brothers, and Sha-Na-Na.

Washburn has toured most of Michigan and Ohio, as well as parts of Canada as a comedian. She works regularly at the Comedy Castle, and was recently featured in a magazine article.

Tickets for the shows will be available at the door, but it is suggested that reservations be made by calling 455-8604 between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m.

Salem rebuilds, Canton looks to seniors

Kickers set for fall campaigns

BY RAY SETLOCK JR.

The Canton High School soccer team will look to its 12 seniors to guide them through the upcoming season.

A year ago, the Chiefs suffered through a losing season, the first in the schools history.

Despite last year's dismal finish, coach Mike Morgan remains optimistic about this season.

"I believe we have a lot to learn as a team," said Morgan, "But that still does not take away from the fact we can win our division."

Morgan said he plans on splitting time between his two goalkeepers, seniors Marty Adamian and Brian L'Heureux.

"They are both of equal talent and should receive equal playing time," said Morgan.

The sweeper position will be handled by senior Jamey Nesbitt, said Morgan.

On offense, Morgan said he will rely on senior Jerry Staszal and junior Eric Miller.

"We have quick forwards this year," said Morgan.

With this speed, Morgan hopes to capture the Western Division crown.

"We might be a surprise to some teams," said Morgan, "But I believe we can challenge anyone."

The Chiefs opened their season last night against West Bloomfield High School.

SALEM

BY RAY SETLOCK JR.

Although Salem High School boys soccer coach Ken Johnson considers this a rebuilding year, he insists some surprises could occur.

Last season the Rocks tallied a 14-4-2 record, including a district title victory in Ann Arbor.

"It would be tough and unrealistic to try and top last season's record," said Johnson, "We just want to build ourselves this year and hope for the best."

The Rocks lost a number of starters from last season and according to Johnson those vacant spots are still up for grabs.

"We only have three seniors returning," said Johnson, "So we need our young players to produce."

Junior Matt Tudor is set to start in goal for the Rocks following two years at the junior varsity level.

"Matt is a good goalie. He is our defensive nucleus," said Johnson.

The Rocks will play four midfielders this season, led by Tri-Captain Marc Lipke, said Johnson.

Johnson considers this a rebuilding season with a surprise here and there.

"We'll be good this season and better next," said Johnson.

Salem opens its season at home today against Brighton. Kick-off is set for 7 p.m.

CEP athletes deserve fan support

He enters the stadium, the crowd comes to their feet. He can hear the rumble of his name being chanted as he breaks the tape at the end of his world record setting race.

Now imagine that same scene minus the crowd. It's not quite as exciting is it?

The crowd plays an important role in any sport. It brings an added excitement to the event and to winning.

It's that time again. No, not the Olympics, we're talking about the high school athletic season.

And to make this a successful season for the athletes, they're going to need all the support they can get.

With the new "pay to play" rule in effect, most parents are already paying the fee for their children's athletic participation.

And that's not the only type of support that the high school athletes need.

The sports teams need people there to cheer them on, and not just in the playoffs or for the big games, but for the entire season.

Salem and Canton have some of the best sports teams in the state, and you can be a part of their successes by lending support.

Through the athletic departments at Salem or Canton, you can purchase season passes to the sport of your choice and for the price of one Detroit Tiger baseball ticket, you could see every home game of the Salem or Canton varsity baseball team.

But hey, if baseball's not your thing that's okay, because there are a lot of other sports at the schools.

We had two straight state soccer champions in this area and it's no doubt that the support of parents, coaches, and friends played a vital role in those victories. Just imagine the caliber of play the teams would have with the entire communities support behind them.

Even if it's not your son or daughter, or anyone that you know personally in the athletic programs, don't let that stop you. The athletes need you and they depend on your support.

Chiefs on the run

X-Country looks strong

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

When a coach loses a runner to graduation it's not always easy to make a replacement, but Canton boys cross country coach Jim Hayes said he may have the runners to do just that.

The Chiefs lost their three top runners Jay Swiecki, Al Byrnes, and Bob Beebe to graduation. And with a little help they'll replace them with runners equally as talented, said coach Hayes.

Seniors Jim Gallagher, Brad Hibner and junior Matt Hall will serve as team captains this season and should be key runners in the team's success, Hayes said.

"Matt (Hall) was one of the top 20 runners in the league last year," said Hayes. "Gallagher was the best junior varsity runner last year."

Hayes said he is also hoping that senior Brian Callon, who ran varsity off and on last year, junior Brian Veech, and sophomore Mike Ream, who was successful during the track season, can help the team out.

The Chiefs finished the season with a dual meet record of 7-2, and ended up third in the division and fourth in the league.

Preview 1988 CANTON

"We think we will be good this year," said Hayes. "We think we've got some kids that will fill in pretty good."

Of course that all depends on whether or not the Chiefs can cover the loss of Swiecki, Byrnes, and Beebe, said Hayes.

The squad begins their season on Sept. 8th in an away meet at Ypsilanti. The meet starts at 4 p.m.

Canton girls look to repeat as champs

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Sometimes coaches have a difficult time recovering from the loss of veteran runners.

But this season, Canton High School girls cross country coach George Pryzgodski said it may not be that big of a problem.

"We're going to miss the leadership of Sherry Figurski (last years team captain)," said Pryzgodski. "But our seniors will fill in real nicely."

Canton, who won their conference last season, finished their season with a record of 7-0 in dual meets and qualified for the state meet.

Pryzgodski said he is looking to his upperclassmen to be key figures in the team's success.

Pryzgodski said he'll be looking to the seniors Cindy Spessard, Lynda Schendel and newcomer Kris Marquard, juniors Lori Penland, Missy Jasnowski, Cathy McCabe, and Adrian Garrow for success.

"We've got a very talented bunch of people here," Pryzgodski said.

Up to this point, the Chiefs have been lucky to avoid injuries, said Pryzgodski.

"We're in pretty good shape right now," said Pryzgodski. "And we're pretty healthy for now."

Despite tough league competition from teams like Farmington, Canton is looking forward to a successful season.

"I think we're going to have a good year," said Pryzgodski.

Nearly at end - - city watches cruisers

BY PAUL GARGARO

Thanks to a little rain and a little luck this weekend, the number of "cruise"-related tickets issued on downtown Plymouth streets were kept to a minimum.

City of Plymouth Police said that 34 cruise-connected tickets were issued over the weekend. Of the 34 tickets issued, 15 were for civil infractions and nine were for misdemeanors.

Ten appearance tickets were issued, including nine for trespassing.

Over the past two weekends, 82 and 81 cruise tickets were issued respectively.

"I don't want to say that's it, but I think we've seen the worst of it," said Assistant City Manager Paul Sincock.

"I think we'll still have active Friday and Saturday nights, but during the week, I think there'll be a dramatic decrease in activity.

Both Sincock and Police Chief Richard Myers said that Saturday's rain put a damper on activity.

"Friday was really active. On Saturday, we had a little help from the weather," said Sincock.

Myers said that Saturday's rain and the low number of cruisers helped police focus their attention elsewhere.

Due to a blown transformer in Old Village and a subsequent power outage, Myers said that officers were kept busy responding to activated alarms and manually directing traffic.

Jaycees tops in state

The Plymouth Jaycees, under the leadership of a woman president for the first time, have been honored by the Michigan Jaycees as the top Management Development chapter in the state.

The Plymouth chapter received the award for being the best managed chapter for the first quarter of this year at the Jaycee state convention in Muskegon on Saturday, Aug. 20.

The chapter took first place finishes in three management areas: public relations, training and personnel management, to place them first overall in the management development category.

"I hope this ends the speculation as to how well women can perform as leaders in service organizations," past president Chuck Lowe, Jr. said. "It was Tonya Smith, a woman President, and Cindy O'Day, her female management vice president, who led their chapter to this statewide recognition."

Individual awards were given to Smith, O'Day and individual vice president Katie DeRosa for their performance in the first quarter.

The Jaycees are still very ambitious about their projects and plans, said Smith, who wants to emphasize community projects, including a Tonquish Creek clean up and a memorial for veterans in Kellogg Park.

At 83 members, the Jaycees are one of the largest service organizations in Plymouth.

Telethon on tap

Mike Jakobowski, of Plymouth, gives a friendly hug to his camp buddy, Allen Freeborn from Drayton Plains, during a relaxed moment at the recent Muscular Dystrophy camp on Lake Huron. Mike spent a week as volunteer companion to Allen while they enjoyed a variety of activities and made new camp buddies. The M.D. camp on Lake Huron is one of the five statewide camps, made possible by pledges to the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon. This year's telethon will be aired live on WJBK-TV Channel 2 from 8:30 p.m. Sunday, September 4 through 6:30 p.m. Monday, September 5.
