Stahl moves for site plan approval

BY PAUL GARGARO

After weeks of delay, Stahl Manufacturing in Plymouth has submitted preliminary site plans for construction, much of which has already been completed, on its Junction Street plant.

Stahl has been under fire since this summer from Junction and Ann street residents.

Included in the citizens' complaints against Stahl are charges of blowing trash and excessive dust from the unpaved parking lot, heavy trucking at all hours along Ann Street, and unrestrained noise during early morning shift changes.

In addition, the City of Plymouth filed a violation against Stahl for expanding its parking lot, relocating its loading dock, and constructing some interior office space without a city building permit.

Since that time, Stahl received a permit for its loading dock.

City Engineer Ken West said that according to city ordinance, Stahl must also erect a masonry fence around its parking area to obscure it from the surrounding neighborhood.

Since Ann Street resident Bill Dolinski filed a formal complaint against Stahl in July, area residents have been vocal participants at the city commission meetings.

At last Monday's commission meeting Mayor Karl Gansler said Stahl had "gone beyond good citizenship -- they're stomping on people."

Gansler also spoke of taking legal action against Stahl if the plans were not submitted by Friday.

City Manager Henry Graper said Stahl presented the city with the preliminary plans on Friday. Amendments were made and sent back to Stahl, who said they would have the plans back to the city before the next planning commission meeting on Oct. 12, said Graper.

Dedication set for Hoben School

BY DAN JARVIS

A date has been set for the dedication ceremony of the newly opened Hoben Elementary School, named in honor of long standing Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Superintendent John M. Hoben.

Dick Egli, information administrator for the school system, said the ceremony will be held on Sunday, Nov. 20 at 1 p.m.

Egli said the event will include a ribbon cutting ceremony in which all homeroom students will sign a paper chain ring to be linked together. The ribbon will then be cut to climax the ceremony.

Also, a printed program will be distributed which includes a brief history of the school's planning sessions and statistical information such as construction costs and square footage.

Local clergy members from several Canton churches will be on hand, as will Canton officials, to help kick off the event.

Providing music will be a choral group, featuring students from Hoben, who will sing as a painting of the superintendent is unveiled.

Egli also said student representatives from each of the grades will briefly speak on the new school and what it means to them.

Of the dedication, Hoben said, "Having a school building named after you is certainly a singular honor.

"With so many people who have contributed so much to further education in this community, I am grateful to have been the one chosen to receive this honor," the superintendent added.

3 Twps. to form wastewater pact

BY KEN VOYLES

A proposed agreement between the Western Townships Utilities Authority (WTUA) and the Charter Townships of Canton, Plymouth and Northville, was expected to take another step forward last night.

That's when the Canton Board of Trustees were expected to approve a construction, finance and service agreement between the two organizations. WTUA was originally formed to represent the townships in their efforts to provide wastewater treatment facilities.

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees was also expected to discuss the contract last night.

The three townships currently transport wastewater through capacity allocated to them in the Rouge Valley Interceptor System, but township officials have bluntly said the system does not adequately fill the needs of their communities.

Since earlier this year WTUA has been putting together an agreement with Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority (YCUA) for acquisition of property rights in the YCUA Wastewater Treatment Plant in Ypsilanti.

In July, the two parties signed a lease agreement, under which YCUA makes 8.7 million gallons per day of wastewater treatment capacity available to WTUA.

The three communities will contribute more than $400,000 for rent payments and operations, according to a preliminary WTUA budget plan.

Once the three communities sign the service agreements the next step is completion of a preliminary design for the equalization basins, pump stations and other related work. Construction of those elements will be complete by July, 1992.

The force mains to YCUA and return sewer and outfall are expected to be completed by March, 1993.

The total project cost is estimated at $67 million (with Wayne County interceptors). Canton will contribute nearly $31 million and Plymouth Township will contribute nearly $19 million. Total construction costs are estimated at nearly $52 million, with another $15 million for engineering, administration, legal, land acquisition and contingencies.

The project could run as high as $78 million without the use of Wayne County interceptors.

The discharge point for the diverted (and treated) waters is a tentative site near Beck and Geddes roads in Canton (where Fowler Creek meets the Lower Rouge).

"Water coming out of there will be treated," said Canton Supervisor Jim Poole. "It will be cleaner water than what's in there now."

Poole and Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen have been major forces behind getting the agreement on the books.

The project is expected to be completed in two segments. The first segment will include the physical separation of WTUA and Wayne County flows, construction of main interceptor piping, two equalization basins and their connecting sewers.

The second segment of the project will include the pumping station and force mains required to transport wastewater to YCUA's treatment facility and the return YCUA treatment plant effluent to the proposed outfall.

Canton man charged in 5 robberies

BY KEN VOYLES

A Canton man was arraigned Friday in connection with a string of armed robberies in the township, said Canton Police.

David Michael Baker, 27, of Canton, was charged with five counts of armed robbery and his bond set at $500,000 or 10 per cent. A Livonia woman, Heather Dean Hendricks, 29, was charged with accessory after the facts in one of the robberies and her bond was set at $15,000.

The examination date is set for Sept. 30 before Judge James Garber in 35th District Court.

The string of robberies began on the night of Sept. 18 when Baker allegedly entered the Quik Pik at Joy Road and I-275 and announced a hold-up. He fled the scene on foot with $181, said police.

According to police, Baker's pattern in each robbery went something like this: he'd enter the store when one person was working and wait for the customers to leave. Then he'd put his hand in his right pocket as though he had a gun, said police, and announce he was armed. He usually fled the scene on foot, said police.

Less than eight hours after the first hold-up, at 4:15 a.m. on Sept. 19, police said Baker struck again, this time at the Union 76 gas station at Ford and Haggerty. Again he announced he had a gun, said police, and fled with $150.

Later on the same day, at 3 p.m., police said Baker entered the Clark gas station at Ford and Sheldon. He said he had a gun and demanded that the cash register be opened, said police.

The victim replied that he wanted to see the gun, said police, before eventually turning over $92. Again Baker was seen fleeing on foot, said police.

Almost seven hours later he returned to the Clark station, pulled out a knife, said police, and told the same clerk who was on duty, "Same routine as last time." Police said he fled with $100.

Then at 5 p.m. on Sept. 20, Baker allegedly walked into the Sheldon Mini-Mart at Sheldon and Warren and asked for a nickel for five pennies before announcing a hold-up. This time he fled with $100, said police.

On Sept. 21, Canton police met to prepare for the possibility that Baker might strike again, said David Boljesic, community relations officer for the department.

"We realized we needed a plan ready in case he hit again," said Boljesic, who added that the department noticed the suspect always fled eastward on foot.

At about 3:30 p.m. that day Baker again entered the Clark station. The same clerk on duty before was working again. Police said the suspect said, "Let's do it again."

Rubbish collection fees to increase in Canton

BY KEN VOYLES

Canton residents are facing an increase in the price they pay per month for rubbish disposal, according to a letter from Dave Denski at Canton Waste Recycling.

Denski wrote the Canton Board of Trustees two weeks ago informing them of an increase of $1 per compressed cubic yard he faces in dumping at landfills. He said the increase is twice as much as past increases.

That increase, he said, is forcing him to ask for 45 cents more per house, per month to "cope" with the landfill price hike.

The board was expected to take up the issue at last night's (Sept 27) meeting.

According to a letter from Arbor Hills the recent passage of changes in Michigan's Solid Waste Management Laws concerning post-closure and bonding requirements at sanitary landfills will affect operating costs for the company.

One of the important changes extends the required maintenance and monitoring period after closure from five to 30 years. That means Arbor Hills will have to regularly monitor and maintain the landfill for a longer period and that could mean "several million dollars in increased costs to the landfill."

The new laws also requires a performance bond of $20,000 per acre, according to the Arbor Hills letter, up from $4,000 per acre under previous waste laws.

The price increase is expected to be effective as of Saturday (Oct. 1).

ME releases test results

A blood alcohol test released by the Wayne County Medical Examiner revealed Thursday that Kim Richard Jewell, the Plymouth resident who was killed last Friday (Sept. 16) when his car rolled over in Plymouth Township, was intoxicated at the time of his death.

Dr. Marilee Frazer, of the Wayne County Medical Examiner's office, said that Jewell's blood alcohol was measured at .30.

A driver is considered intoxicated with a .10 blood alcohol level, he said.

Jewell died of injuries sustained when his car left Schoolcraft Road and rolled over; just east of Wilcox Road, said Plymouth Township Police.

Apple Festival on tap

It's almost fall and that means apples, apples and more apples.

That also means the Apple Festival in Plymouth's quaint Old Village. This year it's planned for Saturday, Oct. 1 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

There will be plenty of apples to munch on as well as cider. There will be hayrides, pony rides and an Antique Fair.

The day kicks off, though, with an auction at 10 a.m.

Also check out the entertainment, refreshments, clowns, sidewalk sales, clowns and a beer tent.

Stahl, quit stalling

Citizens prompt response

For weeks, nay months, they put up with the noise, the dust, the trash, and the hassles.

Stahl Manufacturing, on Junction Street in Plymouth, was trying the frazzled patience of its neighbors. And it promised to be a long summer with no relief in store.

Residents, like Bill Dolinski, couldn't stand it much longer. And so they fought back.

The fight wasn't with stones through windows or fisticuffs in the parking lot. It was where it should be -- City Hall.

After months of frustration, Dolinski et al. are beginning to see a shaft of light at the end of a dusty tunnel. And while the battle is not over, it's safe to say the Stahl neighbors have landed blows in all of the right places.

A busy company, Stahl has expanded without the benefit of city approval. Its unpaved, expanded parking lot has showered dust on its neighbors and its early morning shift changes have created much more than a gentle buzz of conversation.

In the past the Stahl people have been more than a challenge for this reporter to reach.

The last detail

by Paul Gargaro

The place has been a downright annoyance, operating with disregard for the people who live close by and ignoring the city's attempts to obtain site plans for already completed construction projects.

But by attending city commission meetings and utilizing the citizen's comments section of those meetings, Dolinski and friends are getting the action they deserve.

Last week, Stahl presented the city with site plans and seems to have copped a new cooperative attitude.

It's tough not to be cynical about Stahl -- their recent track record has been less than impressive. Still, it's encouraging to note the response of the city to reasoned pressure applied by the Stahl neighbors.

At least in this case, it proves that something can be done and some people really do listen.

Pictured above, Stahl Manufacturing in Plymouth has inspired the anger of some of its closest neighbors.

Students say thanks!

EDITOR:

My second graders would like to express their appreciation to the merchants of downtown Plymouth (Ann Arbor Trail, Main and Penniman). On Sept. 21, 1988 all 33 of us trooped from the Board of Education Office, after touring there, to discover the occupations and stores servicing Plymouth.

We were warmly welcomed by the following businesses:

The Willow Tree, Penniman Deli, Muriel's Doll House, Computer Time, Sherwin Williams, Wicker and Ceramics, Static Shop, Folkways, Penniman Country House, Wiltse's Pharmacy, me and Mr. Jones, Corner Curtain.

Also; Rainbow, Healthways, Kernitz Candy, Plymouth Office Supply, Little Professor On The Park, Craft Cupboard, Heide's Florist.

Frameworks, Plymouth Post Office, Plymouth Community Crier, and Dairy King.

All of these places made our groups feel welcome and shared a wide range of information. The children experienced pricing items, what sausage was made of, a cold storage locker, mixing of paints, herbs and plants from all over the world, and many places gave the children a memento of their store.

A special thank you to Frameworks for taking time to give the students a demonstration that was especially for them.

These children from Fiegel Elementary will remember this experience for a very long time. I must say after living in Plymouth for 36 years I have never felt so proud of Plymouth as I did today.

MISS B. OVERHOLT'S
SECOND GRADERS

Between the lines

by Dan Jarvis

A writer's golden moment

...And it's a gold medal for Karen Springstein, an Allen Elementary fifth grader!

No, really! Let's start at the beginning.

Last year, Springstein and thousands of other students across the state, entered the Bicentennial Writing Contest sponsored by the State Board of Education in honor of the 200th birthday of our Constitution.

Her essay, entitled "Law of Our Land" won her second position in the "prose" category, again competing against thousands!

As a result, she attended an awards ceremony at the Law complex in Lansing. Also, she received recognition, and a gold medal at Monday night's school board meeting.

I couldn't help but feel proud as the youngster read her piece. She did so without fear, hesitation or a wavering voice. She read it with pride and she meant every word.

Here are a few of Springstein's gold medal words:

"The Constitution is the law of our land...Here is why I think it is important...It gives us all of our freedoms and all of our individual rights. For instance, the First Amendment gives us freedom of speech, press, assembly and religion.

With these freedoms we can talk out and say what we want to say without anyone stopping us, write anything we want, meet where we want, when we want, with whom we want and why we want. If it weren't for the 19th Amendment, I wouldn't be able to vote when I get older," she said.

Later in the piece, Springstein spoke about the sections of the Constitution which establish the three branches of government; the judicial, the executive and legislative branches.

"I think these are important because with them none of the governments can get too powerful," she said.

The fourth grader went on to praise the document's preamble, which, as Springstein proudly boasted, "...Tells us all the things that the Constitution will do - such as freedom, fairness, basic needs, defense, happiness, domestic tranquility and much, much more," she added.

It was refreshing to hear a fifth grader praise the document which makes the United States different from most countries in the world. A document, which sadly, is ignored by many who consider themselves to be educated Americans. I hope she will exercise her right to vote, for many leave our country's decisions to a small minority.

Springstein capped off the award winning piece with a personal note, which like the right to vote, too many take for granted.

"The Constitution altogether means so much to me, but most of all it means that I can live in peace."

In the margin

Seniors get free help

Who says you can't get something for nothing?

Some local senior citizens found out that's just not necessarily true anymore when a group 20 to 25 heating and cooling companies got together for the 2nd Annual Al Keats Project Heat.

The service project took place on Saturday and involved a variety of heating and cooling companies that belong to the Northwest Heating and Cooling Dealers Association, including Plymouth-Canton companies. The local outfits taking part were Puckett Heating and Cooling, Keith Heating and Air Conditioning and Colonial Heating and Cooling.

The program was named for Al Keats, the senior member of the local chapter, who at 81 remains highly active in the business and the dealers association.

The project provided routine cleaning and repair service for seniors throughout the northwest Wayne County area. Seniors got their furnaces cleaned, adjusted, repaired and even replaced throughout the day.

The association made more than 100 calls, up from the 68 they made last year. Seniors in Plymouth, Canton, Northville were among those treated to the free service by the heating and cooling outfits.

"Most of the people were very appreciative," said Cliff McCourt, a past president of the association. "The guys get a good feeling out of it. It's a fun program."

McCourt said the day turned out "real well."

"When we first started this some people were skeptical of why they're getting something for nothing," he added.

The association won a national award for its efforts last year, said McCourt, who added that the program has now expanded and other chapters throughout the state are trying it for themselves.

"We see a lot of negative press," said McCourt. "This was a way for us to counter that and also give something back to the communities."

All too often businesses have a hard time convincing members of the media of their best intentions. Every little phone call, press releases, or the like, comes across like a plug for the business and not much more.

It makes us kind of gun shy, figuring any business that bothers to call us has an ulterior motive. Most usually do.

So it's nice to see a group of businesses get together to do something special, something worth reporting without having to worry about giving them an unnecessary plug.

Heck, the association didn't even call us. We called them when we heard about it. I guess you can't say all businesses have only one thing in mind when dealing with the press.

Court system works!

Everyone deserves a fair day in court.

Whether it's a "cruiser," a businessman tagged for speeding on Canton Center Road, or a housewife who rolls through a Glenview stop sign... he or she has the right to stand before the 35th District Court Judge and argue the case.

Sure, that's the theory. But does it work?

A case in court two weeks ago before 35th District Judge Jim Garber was as good a litmus test as any.

Keith Glenwood Smith, a self-styled expert in "admiralty law," pitched his contention that the state has no right to license his driving or automobile. After nine months and several feet of "legal briefs" filings, Smith finally got to argue his two tickets in front of a jury of his peers.

Smith would feel otherwise; a jury of his "peers" he has said would include only white Christian males. He used up his challenges with cause to dismiss women prospective jurors but ended up with two women on the jury.

He lost after 10 minutes of jury deliberations. Sentencing has been scheduled for Sept. 31.

But he got a fair shot at presenting his case.

If Keith Glenwood Smith can get a proper day in the Plymouth-Canton-Northville court, anybody can.

Decision expected soon

Will OLGC parishioner stand trial?

BY PAUL GARGARO

A decision on whether Plymouth Township resident Cecile Jean will stand trial for trespassing is expected to be reached by 35th District Court Judge James Garber within the week.

Jean, a parishioner of Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church (OLGC), was arrested on May 9 for trespassing at the parish rectory on Penhiman Avenue.

Jean was issued two tickets, one for trespassing and one for obstructing a police officer, said city police.

Jean was physically removed by police officers after refusing to leave the rectory. At the time of her arrest, the police said, parish meetings were being held in the rectory.

At a hearing last Tuesday, Jean's lawyer filed a motion to quash the complaints and dismiss the charges.

He argued that as a parishioner, Jean's arrest violated her right to free speech, religion and assembly. He has also argued that Jean did not trespass because she attended meetings, which were previously posted in the parish bulletin, "The Counsellor," and because she was in a public part of the rectory.

"This should have been handled through civil court, if he (OLGC Pastor Fr. Richard Perfetto) wanted to sue me, not through a criminal court," said Jean. "I'm not a criminal. To charge me as a criminal is very serious."

City Attorney and Prosecutor Ron Lowe argued that Jean did trespass.

"Right now the defense counsel is arguing that there is no criminal offense because she has (church) membership rights," said Lowe. "I'm arguing that she does not have these rights because this is a presbyterian form of government as opposed to congregational."

Lowe said that in the presbyterian government, the authority comes from an individual's superiors in the institution. In a congregational form of church government, the power comes from the congregation, or church members.

"I think the priest exercised his rights," said Lowe. "It's a simple question of whether the church has the right (to invoke) laws when it feels it's being wronged."

Lowe said another facet of the case revolves around the ownership to the rectory, its title and who has the right to be on the property.

Garber said the name on the deed may be that of the deceased Edward Cardinal Mooney, former head of the Archdiocese of Detroit.

CEP Marching Band takes Great Lakes contest

The Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band received the highest honors at the Great Lakes Invitational Marching Band Competition held Saturday.

The event, which took place at the CEP football stadium, included 14 bands and an exhibition by the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps.

In addition to receiving top scores at the event, the CEP band walked away with a trophy for the best wind section, an honor which mirrored a Sept. 17 award won at the West Bloomfield Competition.

On Sunday (Oct. 2), the band will compete for the Governor's Trophy at the Michigan Invitational competition in Flint. The CEP band will be the defending champion at the event, having won the event in the last two consecutive years.

The following Saturday, Oct. 8, the 161 member marching band will travel to Cincinnati to compete in the Regional Music Bowl at the University of Cincinnati.

Then on Oct. 15, the band will make the Westland John Glenn Invitational competition, followed by the Durand High School show on Oct. 22 in Durand, near Flint.

The regular season will end Oct. 29 at the state championship competition in Flint. A preliminary competition will be held earlier in the day at Flint Northwestern and Montrose high schools. The top 12 bands will compete in the evening for championship honors at Atwood Stadium in Flint.

Schools realign graduation requirements, class sizes

BY DAN JARVIS

In an attempt to gain more than $677,000 in state school incentive grants, The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education unanimously adopted a set of resolutions at Monday's meeting.

The first action by the board, worth $462,000 to the district, sets in place a set of graduation requirements for the 1988-89 school year including:

- A total of 10 combined years of English or communication skills, mathematics, science, and social science. Students may not have less than two years of each subject.
- One year of health or physical education, or both.
- One year of fine or practical arts, or any combination of arts.
- One semester of computer education, or the equivalent, as approved by the department.

The school district, to qualify for the grants, must have in place the above requirements for pupils graduating in or after the 1991-92 school years and provide students in grades nine through 12 with several course options including:

- Four years of English, with at least

65 per cent of high school students enrolled in an English course.

- Three years of mathematics, with at least 45 per cent of math enrollment.
- Three years of science, with at least 45 per cent science enrollment.
- Three years of social science, with at least 55 per cent social science enrollment.
- Two years of foreign language, vocational education or practical arts, or any combination thereof, with at least 25 per cent enrollment in order for the district to qualify for the incentive grant.

A second resolution unanimously adopted by the board is worth $215,000 for the 1988-89 school year and deals with class sizes for kindergarten through third grade.

The resolution states that the district will hold an average class size of not more than 25 pupils for all four grades taken collectively.

The board struck down an optional requirement in which a reduction of at least one per cent from the average class size in the immediately preceding school year for all four grades taken collectively, be initiated.

Canton board approves weighmaster

BY KEN VOYLES

Canton residents may notice a new "peace officer" on duty along its roadways now that the township's Board of Trustees has passed a new weight and load restriction ordinance and agreed to hire a weighmaster.

The board unanimously resolved to begin a weighmaster program two weeks ago when it approved the weight restriction ordinance while at the same time creating the position of weighmaster.

The weighmaster will be on duty along Canton roads checking on trucks and other vehicles which may be exceeding height, width, length and weight limits, said Aaron Machnik, Canton's chief building official. He, or she, will be empowered by state law to issue tickets as well, Machnik said.

"There's a need for this right now," said Canton Supervisor Jim Poole. "Trucks come through Canton overloaded and we can't do anything about it."

Poole said Wayne County employs two weight restriction officers for the entire county, adding, though, that they have been unable to cover Canton, let alone other sections of western Wayne County, effectively.

"This lays the groundwork for the program," said Trustee Bob Padgett.

The new weighmaster will inspect and weigh trucks and other motor vehicles operating on township streets and assure compliance with the new ordinance, said Machnik.

Start up costs of the new program have been estimated at $70,000, with yearly costs around $33,000.

Poole said a township weighmaster could reduce the amount of wear and tear which occurs on local roadways.

Canton Place holds groundbreaking

There will be a groundbreaking ceremony today (Sept. 28) for "Canton Place," Canton's first senior citizens housing complex.

"The whole essence of this issue is to prolong the life of the roadways we're putting in," Machnik said. "It's like buying an insurance policy for the roads."

Machnik said the county reaction has been "excellent."

He added that the position was being negotiated with the union. Hiring may take place by the beginning of the new year, Machnik said.

The groundbreaking will begin at noon on the south side of Ford Road, west of Sheldon Road (next to the Mr. Steak restaurant).

Overholt elected International Kiwanis president

BY PAUL GARGARO

Talk about working your way to the top.

Plymouth resident Gene Overholt has reached the pinnacle in the Kiwanis Club International and for the next year he will preside over the worldwide organization, setting its standards and providing it with direction.

Overholt, who was one of the founding fathers of the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth in 1967, has compiled an impressive track record in the Kiwanis organization.

In 1977, he was elected Michigan's Kiwanis Governor. In 1981, he accepted a position on the Kiwanis' International Board of Directors and he was re-elected in 1983 in Vienna, Austria.

In 1985, he was elected in Toronto as a vice president of the international organization. The following year he won a run-off election to put him two years away from the Kiwanis presidency.

"Really there were four elections that I had to go through to get to this position," said Overholt. "That (the run-off victory) has given me two years to prepare for the presidency."

A community service organization, which, among other things, provides residents and youths with an introduction to the business and professional community, the Kiwanis Club is active in 77 countries around the world.

As part of his presidential duties, Overholt will travel to many of these countries. While in America, he will work from the Kiwanis office in Indianapolis.

"It'll be tiring and grueling, but I think it will go fast," said Overholt.

As president, Overholt said that his program, entitled "Achieving by Believing," is aimed at making the world's youth understand the value of education.

"I've designed a program to develop the character value of young people to know the difference between right and wrong, between honesty and dishonesty," said Overholt. "We're trying to create a positive peer pressure rather than a negative. We find that many of our young people are stepping over dollars to earn pennies."

Overholt said that through the program he wants to help the under achievers and reduce the drop-out rate.

In Indianapolis one group of high schoolers are wearing a badge as a part of the program which reads, "I earn $4,200 per week." Overholt said that the badge program makes clear the difference between the earning power of a high school graduate and the ones who drop-out after two years of high school.

Overholt said he indirectly owes the theme of his presidency to his three daughters, who are all school teachers in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools District.

Over the next year, Overholt and his wife Jane expect to be in Plymouth for only three to four weeks, but Overholt said they are both looking forward to travelling throughout Asia, Europe, Central America, South America, the Caribbean, the islands of the South Pacific, the United States and Canada.

Although she's not a member of the Kiwanis Club, Overholt said his wife has been and will be very busy with Kiwanis activity.

"She's not in the group because she's got too much Kiwanis work to do to be a Kiwanian," laughed Overholt.

A self-described introvert and "jock" in high school, Overholt said he's not spooked by the upcoming year.

"I served in W.W. II and I think that changed me a lot. It taught me that you had to get along with people," said Overholt, "and it's a lot more fun that way."

Overholt served as a Plymouth Township Trustee for 10 years and worked in computer systems development for Bell Telephone.

Salem High seniors honored for academics

Six Salem High seniors have been named for commendations from the 1989 National Merit Scholarship Program.

Honored by the 34th annual scholarship program in recognition of outstanding academic promise are: Stacia Bannan, Maureen Becker, Laura Bodell, David Gackenbach, Cholley Kuhaneck and Robert Shimmel.

All of the students entered the competition by taking the PSAT/NMSQT in October, 1987 as high school juniors.

The students, now semifinalists, will continue in the competition for some 6,000 merit scholarships to be awarded in the spring of 1989.

MSU scholarship offered

The Michigan State Western Wayne County Alumni Association is offering a $500 scholarship to be awarded to a Schoolcraft College student who is transferring to Michigan State University for the 1989 winter semester.

The application deadline is Nov. 15. Applications are available from the financial aid offices at Schoolcraft College. For information call 591-6400, ext. 217.

Salem music student drums up success

Chris Romanowski, of Kingsley Court in Canton, recently competed in the American Guild of Music (AGM) National Competitions held in Washington D.C.

Romanowski, who competed against 31 drummers from the United States and Canada, won the North American Invitational Championship -- the AGM's most prestigious award.

Romanowski is a senior at Salem High this year and a member of the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band and Symphony Band. He is currently studying percussion at the Center for Creative Studies -- Institute of Music and Dance in Detroit.

He also placed first in four other categories, giving him the all-around drum championship.

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

Oh no! One of the things that could never happen to me -- happened. Someone broke into my house while I was away on vacation. Only those who have experienced this kind of violation understand the emotions involved.

I went from shock and disbelief to hysterics and back again.

The big questions I keep asking are: "Why me?" "Who would want to do this?" "Was it someone who knew me and was looking for something specific?" I can't think of anything I have that anyone else would want. Was it someone who figured out we were gone and thought we had something worth stealing? The stupid * picked the wrong house for that.

After a week of emotional ups and downs and wanting to beat the heck out of someone, I'm facing the world on an even level. Oh yeah, I'm still mad and I want to find the so and so who thought he had the right to invade my privacy. The people who do these things must be very desperate and sick.

I'm still trying to deal with the feeling of frustration. The police are great at responding to a call, but they don't seem to give a darn about finding the criminal who did this. The fact that they are calmer and more used to dealing with this type of investigation might have something to do with my attitude. Okay, so they can't just go out and arrest someone without proof. I'm trying hard to be patient, but I hope they come up with something soon.

Then there's the reality of dealing with the material loss. If you haven't checked your insurance policy lately, do it -- now. If nothing else, learn from my mistake. I did not have replacement cost insurance. I can live without most of the things that were taken, so why bother replacing them? It will take more than a microwave to help my cooking ability.

The other emotional side to this is thank heavens no one was hurt. Maybe we can all learn a few lessons on how to protect our homes and ourselves. There are many kinds of alarms, locks and safety precautions. The main thing to remember is -- yes, it can happen to you.

School board forms survey for PTO

BY DAN JARVIS

If a resident wants to find out something, they can just ask.

That is the theory behind a questionnaire soon to be circulated to members of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Parent Teachers Organization (PTO).

The brief survey comes from the district Board of Education, where board members devised the idea to find out if the relationship between the PTO and the board is as good as it could be.

The one-page survey will tell board members whether:

- PTO members feel that communication between the individual school and members of the the Board of Education has affected education at that school.

- PTO members feel they have good communication with the members of the Board of Education.

- PTO members feel that Board of Education members should attend

PTO meetings.

- PTO members feel that they have good communication with the teaching staff at the individual school.

- PTO members feel that the school's principal keeps PTO members informed on issues that affect the school.

- PTO members know the primary duty of the Board of Education.

- PTO members feel that the Board of Education, school administrators and the school principal are responsive to the needs of the school and its teachers.

Most of the survey questions are worded in a "yes-no" format or in a rating system which includes a positive, negative or no effect answer.

Board member Marilyn D. Schwinn said the survey idea was born of the entire board when members wanted to assess the opinions of the active PTO members. The survey will be distributed during the first week of September, she said.

License holders meet

City liquor license policy sought

BY PAUL GARGARO

How many more liquor licenses will be issued in the City of Plymouth, what kind will they be, and by what criteria will they be granted?

These issues were raised last Monday in a letter to the city commission. The letter was signed with the names of eight of the nine Class C liquor license holders in the city.

The letter was drafted following a meeting of the liquor license holders at the Mayflower Hotel last Monday.

"Licenses used to be very difficult to get. Then state comes along and makes Michigan a resort," said Ralph Lorenz, of the Mayflower Hotel. "What's going to be the policy. Those who've made an investment ought to know what the policy is going to be in the future."

According to City of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Director Chuck Skene, who also administers the city's restricted Class C liquor license, the city was not informed of the meeting or the letter.

The letter, which included the names of the Box Bar, Cafe Bon Homme, Holly's By Golly, the Mayflower Hotel

(and Meeting House), Station 885, the Plymouth Landing, and the Side Street, was later withdrawn. It asked that the license issuance matter be brought to a public discussion to help the commission formulate guidelines on the subject of recommending the approval liquor licenses.

Prior to the letter's withdrawal, the Box Bar removed its name, said Chip Falcusan.

Following the withdrawal, David Frost, an attorney representing the license holders, sent a second letter to the city asking that the license holders be informed if a liquor license application is made.

Frost said the concern is that new applicants be required to follow the same criteria for approval as the rest of the city's license holders.

The city already has its limit of Class C liquor licenses.

Meanwhile, the Plymouth House catering and function center is scheduled to open November -- without a liquor license.

"Until I know my legal options, I can't determine what we'll do," said Plymouth House owner Nick Ristich. "But, I definitely feel we're entitled (to a resort license) with what we're putting into this."

Chip Falcusan, of the Box Bar, said that he did not want to be a part of the letter.

"It's a non-issue. As long as somebody abides by the law, it's their right to get a license," said Falcusan. "I don't want to be a part of stopping a liquor license from coming into town. Ethically, I don't think it's right."

"If the city wants to grant a resort license -- I don't like the competition, but it's their (the applicant's) right and more power to them," added Falcusan.

Also attending the licensee's meeting was Steve Corte, of the Side Street, who called the letter a "panic reaction." He and his partners supported the letter's request to be informed of any license applications, but said they were not opposed to Ristich getting a license.

Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper said any future applications will be handled on an individual basis, but that there is not set city policy on resort licenses.

The city's Cultural Center -- and its liquor licenses -- is used for many events similar to those being booked at the nearby Plymouth House.

In case of emergency ... simply untie.

It's a worry every parent has: If your child is injured when you're not around, how would medical personnel get the critical information they need until you can be reached?

Well, now there's an easy solution. It's the CritiKid Tag Team, a laminated shoe tag and wallet card that contain microfilm with information on your child's health. It gives your child's name, address, a brief medical history--including allergies and current medications--physician's name and phone number, insurance information, and where his guardians can be reached in an emergency. The microfilm can be read in emergency rooms across the country with any microscope or microfiche reader.

The CritiKid tag can be attached to a shoe and the card can be carried in a wallet, so it can be with your child all the time.

Oakwood Hospital's pediatricians and family practitioners know how important your child's health and safety are to you.

So call 1-800-543-WELL. Ask for a CritiKid Tag Team application.

Then, for only $9.95 plus postage, you can have your child's safety all tied up.

Growing to serve your health care needs.

Ask the experts

Auto glass is not so clear cut

BY KEN VOYLES

Taking a look at the world of automotive glass can be a transparent experience.

That's if you talk to the experts. They have a way of shattering one's illusions and turning an opaque subject into one as crystal clear as blue skies above.

Automotive glass is easily categorized by two basic designs -- tempered and laminated -- said Vince Moynihan, branch operations manager for Henderson Glass in Canton. They are both considered "safety" glass and the two different designs can be found on all makes and models.

Tempered glass, used mostly on the door windows and rear window, is heat treated to add strength and improve its safety. Laminated glass, used for the windshield, is really just two pieces of glass sandwiched together by a plastic compound.

Unlike home glass, which breaks into dangerously sharp shards, tempered glass doesn't shatter but crumbles into hundreds of pieces, said Moynihan. Laminated (the original "safety glass") glass stays together if hit.

"It's all safety really," Moynihan said. "The laminated glass holds together so it doesn't smash through to the driver.

"Glass has gotten thinner but safer," he continued. "Tempered glass is very strong. It can take a pounding." Car thieves tend to "twist and pry" at it, he added, and it is virtually uncuttable.

Moynihan noted that tempered glass is four times stronger than laminated glass.

So why is laminated used for the windshield?

Moynihan said it was so that when an object strikes the glass it will hold together and not shatter. That way the driver has a better chance of surviving (as well as seeing out the window.)

"Lamination doesn't add strength, it adds safety," he said.

Laminated glass, though, is often bombarded by road debris, especially small stones. "Stone bruises" are the bane of the car driver concerned about his or her windshield, said Moynihan.

Until recently, one of the largest, out-of-pocket auto repair costs has been replacing windshields due to stone bruises, also called "half bullseye," "bullseye," "star break," and "combination." The bruises tend to spread into cracks through stress and heating and cooling, said Moynihan.

"It's the nature of glass, though, that you just never know," he said. "I've had a stone bruise on my car for years and it's never gone anywhere. Maybe it will turn into a crack tomorrow or maybe it won't."

Usually glass repair outfits can tell if a stone bruise has caused just the right amount of damage to worsen and turn into a long, ugly crack or series of cracks.

"Every car out there probably has stone bruises," Moynihan said, pointing to four or five of them on one car in his shop last week. "This one hasn't done enough damage. But look at this one and you can see two small crack lines.

"It doesn't take much."

When a crack appears, Moynihan said, nine times out of 10 it was caused by a stone bruise.

With a little innovation

New trends expand glass horizons

Besides the "Vision Clear" stone bruise fixer, there are some other new trends in automotive glass, including an "encapsulated and bonded parts."

Auto glass often goes unsung repaired, and the window has to be replaced. But there's a new repair system which can fix those smaller bruises away from that side of the car.

The "Vision Clear" system uses a special resin and an ultra-violet curing process to fix the bruises and stop the cracking before it happens, Moynihan said. Before the new system, the entire windshield would have to be replaced no matter how small the wound.

Moynihan said the system is new, but it has the backing of insurance companies. And he called it a "wonderous" method.

Besides bruises, and cracking, car windows are often at the mercy of vandals and thieves trying to break in, Moynihan said. His business commonly sees cars come in with knocked out or cracked windows.

"Thieves like the Garfield dolls," he said. "No kidding."

That's one way of making the job of replacing glass easier, according to Vince Moynihan, of Henderson Glass in Canton.

In the past repair outfits usually had to remove molding or rubber to get at the glass. The trend today is for it to come as one piece, using a polyurethane silicone for strength and durability.

New technologies are also making it possible to use more glass in a car design, Moynihan said. "Glass is aesthetically pleasing. It just looks good and it's aerodynamic."

More glass is being used also because it is easier to curve it and form fit the glass. All the while, though, glass continues to get thinner and thinner.

Besides lamination, the tinting of windows is also considered a new safety trend, said Moynihan.

"It reflects the sun rays and reduces the glare," he said. The tint can also reduce the heat inside a car, especially one with air conditioning.

One of the newer innovations is the "heated windshield" which uses a gold dust and electricity to instantly clear off a windshield in the worst weather conditions.

The gold conducts electricity through the window so that electric lines do not have to be run through the window, as is standard with a rear window defrost.

Ad Advice #569

Advertising is designed to do one of three things: 1) Generate Awareness — "Here's what I do and here's where I am." 2) Create, Change or Strengthen an Image — This is when you go beyond Awareness and actually get people to feel a certain way about you. 3) Generate Direct Response — Making people respond to your ad. This is when your prospects actually come to your store and buy specific products. Before you advertise, make sure you know what your advertising objective is and how you plan to satisfy it.

Old Man Winter need not worry drivers

BY DAN JARVIS

Like it or not, Old Man Winter is on the way and he's carrying a sack full of car troubles for all of us.

Fighting back is best done before icy weather grips The Plymouth-Canton Community, especially since prices of several automotive products are on the rise and expected to peak during the coldest months.

One way to ensure your car is readied for winter is to ask an expert.

Doug Swatosh, owner of Doug's Standard at Main and Ann Arbor Trail, said key ingredients in automotive anti-freeze are in short supply and distributors are limiting the amount sold to service stations.

"Right now the price has doubled from last year," said Swatosh. "The price of anti-freeze is expected to go up even further."

Besides having anti-freeze checked, Swatosh recommends an oil change complete with filter. The oil change is especially important for smaller four-cylinder engines that need a thinner oil, such as 5W-30, for the winter months.

Windshield washer fluid is a must for winter. Like engine anti-freeze, windshield fluid is also expected to be in short supply.

"People should look for windshield fluid that is good to 20 below zero, said Swatosh. "There are cheaper products that are only good to 10 below, but we recommend that people buy the good stuff."

Another way to fight the slip and slide of winter driving is to have adequate tires. Mark Wilson, of Canton Firestone on Ford Road, said most tires are equipped with tread wear indicators, a strip running across the treads.

Wilson said the indicators are visible on new tires. When the indicators become 2/32 inch or thinner, they are legally bald and should be replaced, if not sooner.

Instead of snow tires, Wilson recommends an all-season radial. A tip in choosing the right tire, said Wilson, are the letters "M&S" which designate the tires are manufactured for use in mud and snow.

Tire pressure is equally important for winter safety, said Wilson. Most tires are recommended for 35 pounds of air pressure, which "will ensure tire longevity and a cool operating temperature. Tire pressure should be checked when tires are cool, not after driving," he added.

Additional winter auto safety tips, as supplied by AAA of Michigan include:

- Make sure battery terminals and all electrical connections are clean.
- Check brake fluid level. Use a screwdriver to pry off the chamber cover clips. Fluid level should be within 1/4 inch of the top of the chamber. Newer cars have a translucent chamber which can be checked without removing the cap.
- Check power steering fluid level and automatic transmission fluid level. Transmission level should be checked while vehicle is in park and with the motor running.
- Make a visual check of belts and hoses before the winter freeze sets in. In both cases, check for cracks and fraying. If a belt feels loose, have it checked or replaced.
- Check all lights and signals to ensure they are in working order.
- Check air filter by holding up to a light. If you can't see through the material, it should be replaced.
- Be sure that windshield wipers work properly and replace if they leave streaks or skip spots.

Trunk essentials

Pictured above are some of the essentials for every traveller's trunk. (Crier photos)

Keeping a few safety items in the trunk can get you going when the car is stuck, the night is long and the temperature is lower than low.

Here is a list that car care experts agree will keep equipped for everything from a minor problem to a major emergency.

For everyday driving and to prepare for cold weather, always keep in your trunk:

- An ice scraper, extra windshield washer fluid, a shovel, and a bag of road salt.

For a temporary breakdown, such as a flat tire or dead battery, be sure to carry the following items:

- Jumper cables, an electric tire pump (can be plugged into the cigarette lighter outlet), a flashlight or safety light, safety flares, jack and spare tire.

In case of emergency, such as being stranded overnight in an automobile, car care experts tend to suggest the following items:

- A blanket, some dried foods such as crackers, an extra set of winter clothes, boots and gloves. Some suggest having old newspapers, to wrap limbs and to insulate windows in case of severe cold.

Owners learn auto specifics

BY PAUL GARGARO

Buying a car's not what it used to be.

It's been said that not so long ago, a cursory kick of the tires, a good, long look under the hood, and a handshake were the key components in a successful deal.

Nowadays, the cars are more complex, the warranties are more complicated, and the maintenance is more challenging.

With this in mind, the Chrysler Corporation has established a series of car buyer seminars called "Right From the Start".

Fox Hills Chrysler Plymouth, on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township, has conducted a number of "Right From the Start" seminars and the results have been encouraging.

"The program tries to explain things like warranty coverage, etc. in real world terms," said Fox Hills Assistant Service Manager Rick Dillon. "And let's face it, the new cars today can be so complicated.

"This gets the customers in and tells them how things work and what applies (to their warranty). The whole idea is to let our new customers know what's going on and to keep their satisfaction up," added Dillon.

Classes educate new car owners

Dillon said that the last seminar included about 14 to 15 recent car owners.

"We only had one person not show who was invited. We like to have all the management there with a small group there so we can answer their questions," said Dillon.

Dillon said that "Right From the Start" is conducted by a representative from the Chrysler Corporation and features explanations by the sales and service staff with new cars up on the blocks for display.

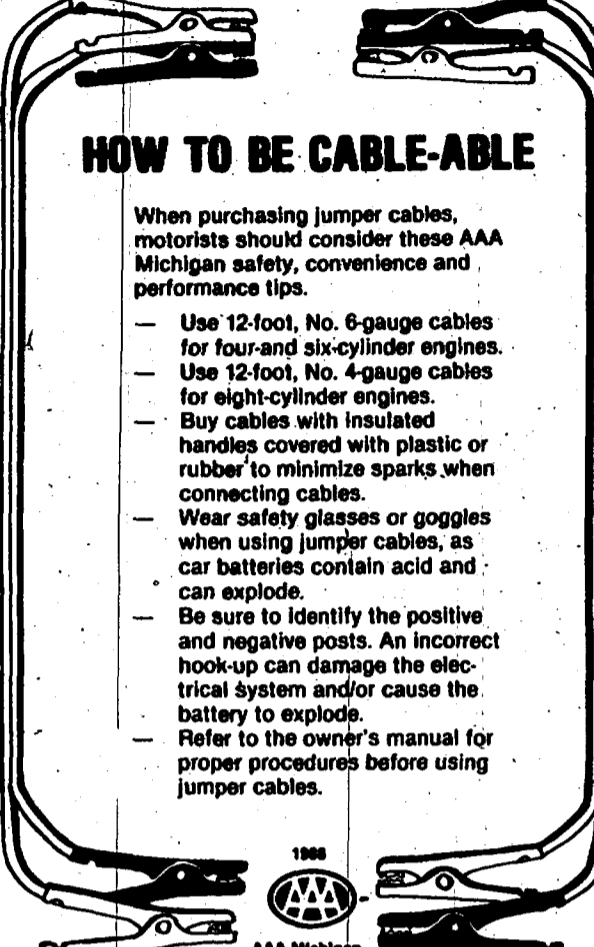

In addition to "Right From the Start," Fox Hills plans to offer its "Women on Wheels" class.

Although the name implies that the program is conducted solely for women, Fox Hills sales manager Paul Moran said that it is open to anyone interested in learning a few of the fundamentals about their cars.

"We've run the program twice. One time we had a big turnout, the other time we didn't," said Moran. "The program basically teaches preventative maintenance and where things are on a car."

Moran said the program is also designed to keep customers informed so they "don't feel taken advantage of when they come in for service."

Moran and Dillon said that Fox Hills expects to run both programs again.

HOW TO BE CABLE-ABLE

When purchasing jumper cables, motorists should consider these AAA Michigan safety, convenience and performance tips.

- Use 12-foot, No. 6-gauge cables for four- and six-cylinder engines.
- Use 12-foot, No. 4-gauge cables for eight-cylinder engines.
- Buy cables with insulated handles covered with plastic or rubber to minimize sparks when connecting cables.
- Wear safety glasses or goggles when using jumper cables, as car batteries contain acid and can explode.
- Be sure to identify the positive and negative posts. An incorrect hook-up can damage the electrical system and/or cause the battery to explode.
- Refer to the owner's manual for proper procedures before using jumper cables.

Featured above is a valuable checklist for motorists buying jumper cables.

Canton Bd. considers renovation

Canton's Board of Trustees last night were expected to approve a contract for renovation of the interior of the old Cherry Hill School, at 50440 Cherry Hill.

The work, which will probably be done by Sheridan Construction in Garden City, will include electrical, plumbing, and structural improvements.

The cost is estimated at $37,064. It will be paid for entirely out of block grant funds, according to Gerald Martin, a research associate.

The board was also expected to approve billing to Coquillard, Dundon, Peterson and Argenta for various architectural and engineering services in the renovation of Cherry Hill School.

School prop. reviewed for purchase

BY KEN VOYLES

Canton's Board of Trustees are considering purchasing some property currently owned by The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district.

Two weeks ago the board considered a recommendation from its Recreation Advisory Committee to consider developing the property — known as the Hanford-Barchester site — for township recreational needs.

The committee recommended the township buy the property from the schools to be eventually used for a community park.

They based their recommendation on the following reasons:

- There is a need for a community park in the north end of Canton.
- A park is already developed, so there will be minimal cost to make it accessible to the public.
- A survey showed that nearby residents would favor the site for a community park.

The committee also suggested acquiring property between Hanford and the school property, which is currently owned by the homeowners associations.

The board agreed to have the property appraised, while the schools also make a separate appraisal, before any sale is completed. Costs will be split between the township and the school district.

Last night the board was expected to consider the purchase of the property.

The board is also considering purchasing a 50-acre parcel adjacent to the Canton recreation complex and some land along Proctor Road.

Getting down to business

It's party time!!

Plymouth House provides catering expertise

BY PAUL GARGARO
Is the Cozy Cafe expanding?

Not really, but its owners Nick and Tina Ristich are by adding a catering hall to downtown Plymouth's already vibrant landscape.

Located at 345 N. Main Street, just north of the railroad tracks (in the former Agape Center and the former Allison Chevrolet building), the Plymouth House will host its first engagement, a wedding reception, on Nov. 5, say its owners.

The Ristich's are no strangers to the food and catering business. Nick's catering work consists of extensive work for the Sheraton and Hyatt Regency hotels, the Renaissance Center, the City of Plymouth, and numerous private clients.

Along with their daughters -- Lisa, Stephanie, and Krista Morton -- Nick and Tina have operated the Cozy Cafe for the past seven years and together Nick said they hope to make the Plymouth House a big success.

"This has been my dream -- I dream the catering business," said Nick. "We're not operating this thing out of the basement. I've put in a lot of years in the catering business and we plan to turn this thing into a first class catering operation."

Although not quite completed, the 14,500-square-foot building will have three ballrooms, a full-service kitchen, and a 210-car capacity parking lot.

Nick said the main ballroom will accommodate 400 guests and will feature a stage and an elevated disc jockey booth.

In total, the building will be able to serve 550 guests.

While that's a big number, Nick said it will be no problem with the combined skills of the family's "righthand man", Mike Dethloff and the "150 years combined experience" of chefs Jordan Ristich (Nick's father) and Nick Metrovich.

Nick said he is bullish on Plymouth and his family's reasons for opening the Plymouth House downtown are clear.

"We've committed a tremendous amount of time and money into Plymouth," said Nick. "This town is just great. The people who are coming into town -- it's not just a novelty. They are putting a lot of time and effort into it because they know it's worth it. They want to make a living here."

Already, Nick said reservations are piling up.

"There's all kinds of business out there. We've had a tremendous response and I'm booking into the later part of next year," said Nick. "The Cozy (Cafe) will still be run as usual. The catering will run primarily on the weekends."

Center stage

In time, the Ristich's said they hope to target mid-week affairs like seminars for some of the area's business industry.

"The calls have been phenomenal and the number of people bending over backwards to help us has been amazing," said Nick. "The city has been wonderful."

Prior to the November opening, Nick said the Plymouth House will be christened with a memorial dinner in October for his mother.

Business People

DANIEL SMITH

Daniel B. Smith was recently appointed branch manager of the Mayflower Mortgage Corporation's Plymouth office.

Included in Smith's new responsibilities will be overall branch operations and the sales and marketing of the Mayflower Mortgage banking products.

The Mayflower Mortgage Corporation is a wholly owned subsidiary of Republic Bancorp Inc. based in Ann Arbor.

Lili M. Donaldson, of Canton, was elected 1988-89 member relations chairperson of the Detroit Chapter -- International Association of Business Communicators (IABC).

She is the director of development and marketing at the Michigan Kidney Foundation.

The Detroit Chapter -- IABC, includes more than 250 business communicators. It provides ongoing professional development for members and job referral service in cooperation with the business community.

Canton resident Richard W. Dane was recently appointed district manager of the Merle L. Terry Agency in Livonia.

Affiliated with AAL, which provides fraternal and financial services for Lutherans, the Merle L. Terry Agency will serve AAL members in the Livonia and Canton area.

AAL provides 1.4 million members with a variety of benefits, including insurance.

Shearson Lehman Hutton to close Plymouth office

After nearly four years in Plymouth, Shearson Lehman Hutton will be closing its doors on Main Street, below the Mayflower Meeting House, and moving to a different location.

Shearson Lehman Hutton Divisional Officer Bob Michelotti said that the Plymouth branch will be consolidating with the firm's Southfield offices.

"The move is nothing against Plymouth, it was a nice office," said Michelotti. "But with the costs of business, you get to a point where you have economies of scale."

Michelotti said the accounts currently managed by brokers in Plymouth would be transferred with brokers to their new offices.

For uniforms . . .

Fife & Drum holds sale

A giant garage sale fundraiser will be hosted by families and friends of the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps.

Profits from the sale will go to purchase new uniforms for the upcoming season.

The sale will run Friday and Saturday, Sept. 29-30, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. It will be held at 46431 Barrington and 493 N. Harvey St.

Everything will be priced to sell.

10th Train Show Oct. 9

The 10th Bi-Annual Plymouth Train Show is slated for Sunday, Oct. 9 and will feature more than 100 tables of new, used and antique trains to buy, sell or trade.

The show will be held at the Plymouth Cultural Center and will run from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Cost is $2 per person and kids under 12 get in free. Sale tables are $8 in advance and $10 at the door.

Besides the new, used and antique trains, refreshments will be available.

A Chessie System locomotive and caboose will be on hand at the track near the Plymouth Yard and Roundhouse (near Starkweather and Pearl). Residents will get a chance to climb aboard and click photographs.

Pursell-Pollack to debate

United States Congressman Carl Pursell-R, of Plymouth, and challenger Lana Pollack-D, of Ann Arbor, will hold a public debate on Nov. 2 at the Plymouth Hilton.

Co-sponsored by the Plymouth, Northville, and Livonia chambers of commerce, the program features a noon luncheon and a cash bar prior to the scheduled 45 minute debate.

Tickets will be on sale for $15 at any of the chamber offices. Registration on the day of the event is at 11:30 a.m.

S-Craft Night Oct. 11

Schoolcraft College's annual College Night is slated for Tuesday, Oct. 11 at 6:30 p.m.

Area high school students and parents will get a chance to talk with representatives from more than 60 colleges and universities.

There will also be financial aid information, class schedules and other program information. Call 591-6400, ext. 340 for further details.

New hunting restrictions in place

New hunting restrictions will affect some areas of Canton and will make them off limits to hunters.

The Canton Board of Trustees recently voted to restrict hunting in certain portions of the township west of Canton Center Road.

Hunting is currently banned in the eastern half of the township, from Canton Center Road to the eastern border. Section 4 will also be closed along with the southern half of Section

6. Sections 4, 9 and 5 and the northern half of 6 are restricted.

Although there are no public hunting areas in Canton, hunting has been allowed on private property with the written permission of the owner.

The local ordinance will also close sections of 9 and 21 to hunting and the western half of section 31 will be limited to hunting with shotguns, using shot no larger than number 6.

Rocks rise to 8-1

Salem netters win tight match

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The Salem High School girls netters clinched a narrow victory over North Farmington Monday, said Salem tennis coach Judy Braun.

Salem Beat North Farmington 4-3, to bring the Rocks' record to 8-1 overall on the season.

Missy Smith claimed a victory in the number one singles for Salem, also winning her singles match was Ann Gilmore in the number four singles position.

Also victorious for the Rocks were Beth Cundiff and Michelle Minton in the number one doubles match, and Tracey Anderson and Sara Underwood in the number three doubles slot.

"I'm pretty happy with the way they played," said Braun.

Braun said she has a lot of goals for the last part of the season.

The Rocks are tied for first place in their division and Braun said she would like to see her team be competitive at the league meet.

"I'd like to see us come in first or second at the league meet," said Braun.

Chiefs stomp Farmington

Canton girls tennis nets big week

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The Canton High School girls tennis team finished off a successful week on Monday said Canton tennis coach Carol Michaels.

The Chiefs took on and defeated Farmington High School 6-1.

All four of the singles for Canton beat their Farmington counterparts.

The number one singles player for Canton, Tonya Bowsman defeated Rhea Taylor 6-1, 6-0. Also victorious was number two singles player Alissa Huth who beat Kristy Koss 6-2, 6-1 to clinch the win.

Sherril Bajer, in the number three singles spot for Canton shut down Sarah Stevens 6-0, 6-0 to gain her victory.

Jody Pervis of Farmington was the victim of Michelle Sparkman who finished up Canton's unanimous victory in the singles, Sparkman beat Pervis 6-1, 6-3.

Leanne Gurchak and Tripti Kataria defeated Shannon Adams and Kari Miller 6-2, 6-0 to win the number one doubles for Canton.

Canton's only loss on the night came from Amy Lightfoot and Viraj Parikh who lost to Farmington players Stacey Cornwall and Dawn Montrose 6-4, 6-1 in the number two doubles position.

In the number three doubles Resahm Batra and Heather Kaye of Canton beat Jane Lee and Pam Schaldbarend 6-0, 6-7, 6-0.

"I feel real good (about tonight's win)," said Michaels. "So far it's been a really good year."

Canton also fared well in Saturdays John Glenn Invitational, tying with Stevenson for first place.

Huth and Bajer were among Canton's winning doubles teams, they took first place in their flight. Parikh and Lightfoot, were also winners in their flight.

Rounding out Canton's first place finishes was Batra and Kaye, Bowsman and Sparkman took third place in their flight, while Reetika Aulakh and Kim Cooley took second in their flight.

Smack!!

Michaels said she feels if Canton can finish up like last year they would be in good shape.

"I'm hoping to possibly finish as good as last year," said Michaels.

The Chiefs finished off last season with a record of 9-3.

Canton's next match is tonight at home against Franklin, starting time is slotted for 4 p.m.

Rock gridders up record to 4-0, look ahead

BY RITA DERBIN

The Salem Rocks won their home conference football game against Walled Lake Central last Friday night 17-7.

The victory improved their record to 4-0.

Junior quarterback Rob Kowalski led the Rocks' offense with two touchdown passes of 34 and 41 yards to Brian Schultz.

Despite the victory, Salem coach Tom Moshimer was not satisfied with his team's performance.

"We were fortunate to win Friday night's game," Moshimer said. "We did not play well but, fortunately it was good enough to win."

Moshimer also said he did not feel that the game's referees made enough calls.

"It was hard hitting and aggressive football that was almost out of control," Moshimer remarked.

This Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m. Salem will travel to North Farmington to take on the undefeated Raiders.

Chief football struggles

BY RITA DERBIN

The winless Canton Chiefs football squad continued to struggle by losing 22-10 to host Walled Lake Western Friday night to bring their season record to 0-4.

The game was all Western's senior touchback John Egott. Egott scored two touchdowns and ran for 105 yards against the Chiefs.

Though he said was disappointed with the loss, Canton Coach Bob Khoenle said was happy with the play of senior defensive back Kevin Stackpoole who intercepted a pass.

Khoenle also praised Bob Quinn for his 45-yard field goal.

Khoenle said he expects Canton to turn their season around Friday night at home when they play host to Northville.

"Northville has a good football team," Khoenle said. "But we think we can beat them if we come right after them."

Friday night's contest will begin at 7:30 PM.

Salem boys victorious, girls defeated

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The boys Salem High School cross country team won one Thursday to bring their record to 1-1 overall so far this season.

The Rocks wrapped up first, second, fourth, and fifth in their 34-21 victory over Livonia Stevenson.

Scott Stryker was the first runner over the line for Salem, not far behind was teammate and second place finisher Dave Hamay.

Rocks Brendon Masterson and Shawn Speakman finished fourth and fifth respectively.

Salem cross country coach Geoff Baker said he was pleased with his team's win, but even more pleased with his runners.

"They're our key runners, they'll be up there all season long," said Baker of his four highest finisher's against Stevenson.

Baker said all the team needed was some depth.

"Our first four runner's are looking good," said Baker. "what we need now is a fifth runner that can stay with the pack."

"We're focusing in on the division," said Baker. "We'd like to be league champions or at least we'd like to be in the top three at the league meet."

Another of Salem's goals is to do well in Regionals, where Baker said he'd be happy with any type of success.

Making it out of Salem's regional may not be so easy said Baker, considering the fact that in addition to facing opponents from their league, the Rocks will now face such powerhouses as Ann Arbor Pioneer and Ann Huron.

The Rocks next race is Thursday, Sept. 29 at North Farmington, the meet is scheduled to start at 4 p.m.

The Salem High School girls cross country team also saw action against Stevenson last Thursday, but weren't quite as lucky as the boys team.

The Rocks lost the meet by a score of 45-17, to drop their record on the season to 1-2.

Traci Thomas and Shannon Donnelly were the highest finishers for the Rocks finishing fifth and sixth respectively.

"I would have liked to have seen our fourth and fifth runners run in the pack a little more," Gravlin said.

Gravlin said that while the team isn't doing well now, he looks for a lot of improvement further into the season.

The Rocks next chance to even up their record is on Thursday Sept. 29 at North Farmington.

Canton x-country off and running

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Both the Canton High School girls and boys cross country teams are off to a good start, said girls coach George Pryzgodski and boys coach Jim Hayes.

On Thursday, the Canton girls defeated Livonia Churchill 44-15, with Canton taking first through fifth place.

Cindy Spessard was the first to cross the line for Canton with Lori Penland, Kris Marquard, Cathy McCabe, and Adrian Garrow finishing in second through fifth respectively.

Pryzgodski was excited about Canton's win.

"We beat up on Churchill," said Pryzgodski. "We're off to a great start."

Canton, whose record is now 2-0, also repeated as the Schoolcraft Invitational champions, beating out 20 other teams to clinch the victory.

Spessard was again the first to cross the line for the Chiefs coming in sixth place overall.

Lynda Schendel finished seventh, with Marquard coming in eighth, McCabe in tenth, and Missy Jasnowski in 13th.

The Canton boys cross country team also ran against Churchill last week and savored similar results, beating Churchill 37-20.

The Chiefs record now stands at 2-1 in dual meets.

Matt Hall was ahead of the rest of the pack and finished in first place with Mike Ream, Brian Beach, Jim Gallagher, and Jason Napolitano finishing second through fifth respectively.

"We're working hard," said Hayes of his team.

The boy Chiefs also fared well in the Schoolcraft Invitational placing second overall.

"I'm proud of our kids," Hayes said.

Salem soccer rolls on

The Salem High School boys soccer team is on a roll, said Salem soccer coach Ken Johnson.

The Rocks, who beat Troy on Saturday, 3-0; defeated Farmington Monday night, 2-0.

Both goals came from senior co-captain Donovan Nicolls, with one assist coming from Mark Lipke the other Rock co-captain.

Not only was Monday's win Salem's fourth in a row, it was also Salem goaltender Matt Tudor's fourth shutout in a row.

Salem will attempt to continue its winning streak tonight at Churchill. Game time is 7 p.m.

Canton police foil robbers

Police said the clerk stalled the suspect, asking him "Why?" But the suspect got nervous and fled without completing the hold-up. This time he was seen getting in a large, white, rusted Lincoln Continental and heading northbound on Sheldon.

Officers repented almost immediately, said Boljesic, and soon realized he may be headed east on Warren Road.

Minutes later he was spotted by Officer Ken Winkler at a pay phone in the Pilgrim Village Shopping Center at Lilley Road and Warren and arrested, said Boljesic.

No warrant was issued in the final attempted hold-up, said Boljesic, who added that Baker confessed to the other crimes while being held by Canton police awaiting a police lineup.

Police also said the woman would be charged for her alleged involvement in the first crime.

Canton budget on the table

BY KEN VOYLES

The 1989 budget in Canton was expected to be approved last night by the Canton Board of Trustees.

The budget calls for a slight reduction in total millage levied compared to last year, said John Spencer, finance director in the township.

The proposed millage rates were approved two weeks ago by the board. The total levy will be 9.79 mills, of which 5.20 will go for police, 3.48 for fire and 1.11 for the general fund.

The millage of 9.79 is a slight reduction from the 1987 millage of 9.80, Spencer said.

Expenditures and revenues for the general fund this year are expected to reach approximately $5.3 million, with another $2.2 million for fire and $3.4 million for police. Water and sewer funds will top out at approximately $7.1 million, with another $1 million each for the public improvement fund and capital improvement projects.

The township's State Equalized Valuation is $621,471,400 for real property and $37,372,150 for personal property, or total of $628,843,550.

The budget reflects the same general level of services provided to the community in 1988, said Spencer, who added that the Charter Millage will be reduced from 1.28 to the 1.11 for 1989.

The fire protection special assessment will decrease from 3.51 to 3.48, Spencer said, and the police special assessment will increase slightly from 5.01 to 5.20, to cover requested manpower increases.

Canton traffic study proposed

A proposal to have a traffic study done of Canton roads went before the Canton Board of Trustees last night.

The cost of the study was estimated at $15,482. The firm of Barton-Aschman Associates, Inc. was expected to get the bid.

The study will take at least five weeks.

Omnicom Cable offers video workshop

The Programming Department of Omnicom Cable Company will offer a public access studio workshop to residents of Plymouth, Canton, Northville, Belleville, VanBuren and Romulus.

The workshop, which will cover operating a studio video camera, shot composition, production skills, lighting, scripting and other phases, is set to run one night a week for five sessions.

The workshop kicks off on Saturday, Oct. 1 from 1-3 p.m. Classes run through Oct. 29.

To register call 459-7335 or 459-7391 between noon and 10 p.m., Monday through Saturday. There is a $10 registration fee.

The class size is limited and advance registration is required.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You who make me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and You who are in all the instances of my life with me, I in this short dialogue want to thank You for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with You and my loved ones in Your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank You for Your love toward me and my loved ones. Person must pray this 3 consecutive days without asking your wish. After the third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be, then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. C.H.
