Courageous Whalen dies of cancer

BY KEN VOYLES

Henry C. Whalen Jr., who won a seat on the Canton Board of Trustees in his first election race last year, died Sunday, ending a year long struggle with cancer.

Whalen died at his home on Boston Hill Lane Sunday, said his wife of 13 years Pat Whalen.

"He passed away during the night," she said. "He was at home where he wanted to be.

"I wasn't expecting it this fast," she continued. "But I never gave up hope for him. He was a great guy."

The 57-year-old Canton resident first discovered he had an advanced case of inoperable lung cancer just over a year ago, but since then has remained on the board while seeking treatment for the disease.

Born in Brooklyn, NY, Whalen spent 27 years with the Ford Motor Company as a manager after graduating from the University of Texas.

Whalen also spent four years in the armed forces as a staff sergeant with the U.S. Air Force, seeing action in the Korean Conflict.

He first came to Michigan for Ford in the early 1970s, and returned to the state for good in 1975.

Whalen moved to Canton in 1978 and soon became involved in community activities, first at the First United Methodist Church in Plymouth, and a few years in Canton. At one point he led a fight against a rezoning in his Canton neighborhood.

Then in 1988 he ran for a slot on the

Legislation introduced to add 35th court judge

BY JOHN BRODERICK

The long road to adding a third judgeship to the 35th District Court in Plymouth has formally and officially begun.

State Rep. Gerald Law, who represents most of the area served by the court (Plymouth-Canton-Northville), introduced legislation last week to add one new judge to the court. There are currently two 35th court judges.

"Adding a judge requires legislative approval, so I introduced the appropriate legislation last week," Law said.

He added that the measure, if approved by the legislature, would put judicial candidates in front of voters in August for a primary (if more than two hopefuls file) and in November, 1990, for the final choice among two candidates. The new judge would start in January of 1991.

Law said that the legislative process for this kind of request can often be difficult, but evidence of the need for a new judge is very clear.

"I have to convince a lot of people that we need a judge in my district. Obviously, a lot of people want judges in their districts too, so I see the possibility of amendments being added to my bill," Law said.

"It's very clear that the case load in the 35th is very high. It's my understanding that the judges there have the support of the Attorney General's office in creating the new judgeship," he said.

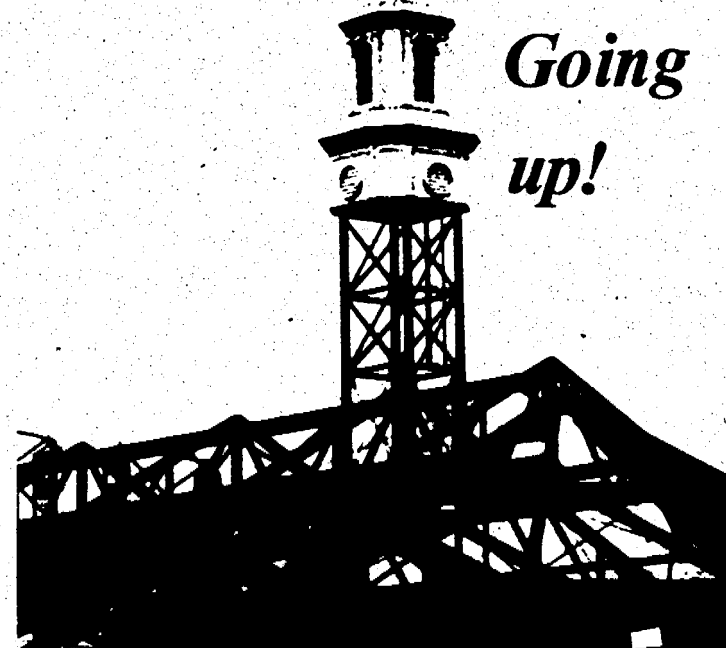

35th District Judge James Garber said that 11,000 files per year is an average for Michigan district judges.

"In 1986, we had 27,000 files, and in 1988, we had 36,000. This year we expect another 12 or 13 per cent on top of that," he said.

"If this trend continues, by the time the new judge is added, we'll be nearly double the normal case load for Michigan judges," said Garber, who has served since January, 1979.

"Every time I pick up your paper, I see these municipalities adding more police officers -- it's a growing area,

Chase ends in decapitation

BY KEN VOYLES

An 18-year-old Wayne resident, who led Inkster Police on a 20-minute high speed chase through five communities, was decapitated early Sunday morning after the car he was driving went out of control at Van Born and Lilley roads in Canton.

Daniel Paul Walker was found dead at the scene, said Canton Police, who handled the accident part of the incident. He had been thrown more than 100 feet from the car, police said, and beheaded.

A passenger, 17-year-old Jennifer Ferguson from Westland, remains in critical condition at U of M Hospital, said police, who added that she was also thrown from the vehicle during the accident.

Canton Police said the car left Van Born Road near Lilley, went into a ditch, struck several parked cars, and became airborne hitting several trees, before it skidded upside down to a stop and burst into flames.

Board to run fest -- pay off Lorenz

BY TODD LANGTON

The 1990 Ice Sculpture Spectacular will be run by a board made up of community representatives and not by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce itself.

"We are all going to be working to create a separate, non-profit organization -- immediately -- instead of on down the road," said Pam Kosteva, chamber president.

The chamber also decided to make Kosteva the executive director of the event.

The chamber had considered hiring Scott Lorenz, who has run the event in the past, but Lorenz requested $6,000 a month, over a four-month period, said Harold Bergquist, chamber board member.

Kosteva will receive a total of $10,000 over a four month period to organize the event.

The Ice Festival Board, once it is formed, plans to purchase the logo, name, and files of the event from the non-profit corporation formed by Lorenz and former Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper for approximately $15,000, Kosteva said.

All of the $15,000 will go to pay off debts incurred by the operation of the ice festival in the past, she added.

Ron Lowe, City of Plymouth attorney, said Monday that he plans to suggest that the ice festival board place a "non-compete clause" in the agreement.

A non-compete clause will prevent Lorenz or Graper from creating another ice festival in a nearby area for an, as yet, undetermined period of time, Lowe said.

This will give the Plymouth Ice Carving Spectacular a chance to get on its feet before a competing ice festival starts up, he said.

Lowe, who is also preparing the articles of incorporation of the ice festival board, said that the organization should be a legal entity by Oct. 1.

Some members of the chamber board raised questions as to how independent the ice spectacular board should be.

"I think having the separate entity

Canton mulls staff changes, creating new posts

BY KEN VOYLES

In what could be an important "evolutionary" move for the township's staff organization, the Canton Board of Trustees last night was expected to take the first step in adding several new top management posts.

The board will consider creating four new posts -- Municipal Services Director, Administrative Services Director, Chief Financial Officer

Central pool

BY JOHN BRODERICK

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools officials announced Monday that a meeting was scheduled with the City of Plymouth, and the Plymouth Community YMCA, to discuss opening the Central Middle School swimming pool.

"We have offered to lease the pool for $1 per year to the city or the YMCA or both," said board president Dean Swartzwelter.

does give us the feeling of pinpointing responsibility," said Ken Currie, vice-president of the chamber board.

"The only problem I have, in theory, is that you have a group who is responsible for this event, and who are they responsible to. There is no responsibility above this entity, we are considering right now," Currie said.

"I think the other side of the coin is that if the ice spectacular went belly up and it's not a separate entity, guess

(CFO) and Supervisor's Assistant.

The move follows last week's debate over a recent Bartell & Bartell study which indicates that four township departments -- Public Works, Building and Engineering, Community and Economic Development and Finance -- are in a slow organizational degeneration.

To reverse the "deteriorating process" the study recommends Canton create three major department heads (not unlike the set up in the Public Safety Department) to oversee the various departments, as well as a chief finance official and an administrative assistant.

"It's an evolutionary step," said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack, who expected the board to approve the move last night. "This community has grown so fast there's been little time to reflect back on the organization delivering services to residents. This board said let's take a step back and what goes belly up with it," said Judge James Garber, of the 35th District Court, of possible chamber liability.

The chamber board will have to confront the level of ice spectacular board autonomy in the by-laws after the non-profit corporation is registered with the state, Lowe said.

The Ice Festival board member selection process is almost completed.

"I am going to ask people to sit on the board who will be doers, keeping in mind that we have a representation of the various facets of the Plymouth community," Kosteva said.

The board members selected to this point are: Ken Currie, Jim Garber, Jim Jabara, Phyllis Redfern, Ron Lowe, Tom Bohlander, Jerry Triplett and Richard Egli. One seat on the board has yet to be confirmed, Kosteva said.

John Lore, Karen Burrill, Ron Griffith, Bohlander, Brenda Massey, Jabara, Greg Goodman and John Thomas will be members of a committee which will assist the ice festival board with the operation of the event, Kosteva said.

This year's Ice Festival will be held from Thursday, Jan. 11, to Sunday, Jan. 21, she said.

Apple Fest on tap Saturday

BY TODD LANGTON

'Tis the season to go festing.

For those who just never get enough of festivals another good time is right around the corner.

The 12th Annual Apple Festival will take place this Saturday (Sept. 30) from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the heart of the City of Plymouth's historic Old Village.

Antique and specialty item lovers will find a paradise of prizes from the past and present. More than 60 vendors are expected to sell their wares at this year's one-day festival.

Festival goers will find everything from baseball cards to an English tea room which features gourmet teas.

There will also be an auction at 3 p.m. on a stage set up near the corner of Division and Mill streets.

The festival will also feature entertainment and activities for the kids.

"Crazy Richard," a strolling juggler will demonstrate his unusual talents during the festival.

Activities for the kids during the festival will include face painting, a moonwalk, pony rides and other fun things to do.

Frank Allison and the Odd Sox, a pop band from Ann Arbor, and other entertainment will be featured for both adults and kids alike.

"Our events are designed to be fun for everyone," said Mark Oppat, chairman of the event. "We pack a lot into (the Old Village), and I like to think we have a neat event."

"If you skipped the Plymouth Fall Festival because of the weather, don't miss this," he added.

9-1-1 works

Canton dispatcher, family save child

BY KEN VOYLES

Darleen Crawford is glad the 9-1-1 emergency system works.

With the help of Canton dispatcher Steven Apostal, Crawford saved the life of her 12-day old son Kyle last Wednesday afternoon when he stopped breathing.

"I'll tell you 9-1-1 works," said Crawford, who also has two other children, Lori and Randy.

It was Crawford's 14-year-old daughter Lori who stayed directly on the phone with Apostal during the incident, relaying CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) instructions from Apostal to her mother.

"My daughter Lori was on the phone relaying directions to me and I was performing the CPR," Crawford said. "It was excellent -- I'll tell you they gave us perfect instructions and we didn't have to stop and give all that information, our name and address.

"He took us through it step by step," she continued. "And the ambulance was there in a minute.

"It was a terrible, scary experience. Kyle definitely was not breathing."

On duty with his partner Gerry Ellerholz Wednesday afternoon when the 9-1-1 call came in at 4:43 p.m., Apostal said he picked up the line to hear a woman asking for help -- her baby was not breathing.

"I just went over the procedure with her," Apostal said. He told Crawford to see if she could arouse the baby by twisting one of his nipples. There was no reaction. Also there were no signs of a pulse.

Apostal then told the Canton woman to give her baby small puffs of air to check for blockage and to press down near his sternum five times to begin CPR.

"It was so quick -- I had not done it before," said Apostal. "I was a little nervous, but things were going well.

Crawford followed Apostal's instructions and eventually got her son breathing.

"Toward the end I told her to check for his breathing again," he added. "She said, 'We think he took a breath.' By the time rescue got there the baby was breathing up a storm."

The former City of Plymouth dispatcher (he's been with Canton for six months now) said he is glad to have "helped somebody out" even though it was stressful afterwards, awaiting word on the child's arrival at the hospital.

Still, "It made my day," Apostal said.

Kyle was rushed to Annapolis Hospital Wednesday but was home again by Thursday, said his mother. She said the whole incident began after her son "drank his bottle to fast.

"It was a freak thing," she said. "I don't expect it to happen again."

Nonetheless the Crawfords got a lesson in CPR at the hospital Thursday morning.

Cougar concerns in Salem Watch that cat

BY PATRICIA BROWN

When Salem Township officials talk about Morris, they're not talking about the famed television cat — they are referring to a pet cougar owned by residents Patty and Bobby Brewer.

Morris the cougar is currently a subject of concern for Salem Township officials, who first heard of the animal Morris after he got out of his cage and appeared on the patio of one of the Brewer's neighbors.

Since then Salem officials said they have been concerned about the safety of residents living in the area and the Salem Township Board of Trustees is trying to come up with a way to prohibit residents from keeping exotic animals.

Township Clerk Nancy Geiger said, "As elected officials we're charged with the health, safety and welfare of the people."

The Brewers bought the cougar last January. At that time they consulted with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and obtained the necessary permits to transport Morris from Tennessee to the township. It was also at that time that township officials were first made aware of the Brewer's cougar.

According to Geiger, the Brewers have complied with all the guidelines set by the DNR. This includes putting up a double cage.

Patty Brewer said people are overreacting to Morris. She believes the animal would never harm anyone and even trusts him around her four children.

At this point, Salem Township doesn't have an ordinance to prohibit residents from owning exotic pets, said the officials. The board is looking into creating such an ordinance.

Geiger said the Salem attorney, Harvey Berman, is reviewing a state law which deals with dangerous animals.

As for now, it is unclear whether this law will have any impact on Morris' situation, she said.

The next board meeting is scheduled for Oct. 4.

Travis "D-day" Thursday

It looks like Thursday (Sept. 28) is "D-Day" for moving the historic Travis House in Canton.

Kim Scherschligt, of the Canton Community and Economic Development department, said the house movers are expected to begin preparing the house for its journey at 8 a.m. on Thursday morning.

She added that the actual move will begin sometime around 9-10 a.m. and will last until about 3 p.m.

"We wanted to try and avoid the rush hour periods," Scherschligt said.

The good:

There's more than one way to solve a problem. And, once again, The Plymouth-Canton Community found that route.

When a group of 15 senior citizens from the Tonquish Creek Manor apparently lost their pre-paid $35 each for a trip to Marshall, it looked like the trip would have to be cancelled.

But Bob Jeannotte, the Pontiac dealer on Sheldon Road in Plymouth Township stepped in with $525. Quick thinking by Plymouth Housing Director Sharon Thomas and City Attorney Ron Lowe led to the call to Jeannotte.

It's just one of the many ways that the Plymouth and Canton civic-minded folks rise to serve a need. (The Plymouth car dealers had also just co-sponsored the entertainment costs at the annual Fall Festival.)

Congratulations to Bob Jeannotte.
Bon Voyage Tonquish residents.
THE COMMUNITY CRIER

The bad:

Did you ever hear the expression, "So sue me!": Apparently the Canton Township Board has not.

This chicken-hearted group succumbed to blackmail from the attorney of former Canton Clerk Linda Chuhran, whose long list of shenanigans in office included suing the Canton Board.

Now the Canton Board has agreed to buy off her attorney by paying part of his fees to drop the suit.

What a waste of Canton tax dollars. On top of that, it only invites all the other thousands of attorneys with access to loony-toon clients to sue the township.

Backbone is one of the requisites to serving on a public board. (Three cheers to Elaine Kirchgatter who had the guts to vote "no way.")

That's $6,299 that Canton could have better spent on its own attorneys telling the highway robbers to go elsewhere.

Whalen was a friend's friend

There are some people you remember like a superbly drawn character in a good novel. You savor their presence and miss them when they're gone.

Hank Whalen was one of those people. And now that he's gone I miss him sorely.

Hank and I shared something -- we were both born on the same date, Nov. 20, though many years apart. We also shared a keen interest in studying the way humans respond to crisis. For Hank it was sort of a hobby. I just work at it.

Now I feel like maybe I missed something. Hank was a friend's friend -- to everybody -- and that made him wonderfully simple, yet deeply understanding.

Down in the Carriibbean -- and in the Carolinas, of course -- people are trying to respond to just such a crisis, one whipped up by nature and dubbed Hugo.

There's a place down there -- where a legendary singer of that legendary soca music comes from -- that was hit especially hard by the hurricane. It has a familiar ring to it -- Plymouth.

Yes, Plymouth just so happens to be the capital of Montserrat, West Indies. It is also home to Arrow -- the composer of the hit song "Hot, Hot, Hot."

News reports said the place sustained 90 per cent damage to most of the structures!

One way to help the residents of Plymouth, Montserrat, is through the local Salvation Army. Call the community center on Main Street at 453-5464.

Monetary help is greatly needed as well as food supplies and bottled water. Now is the time to help our brothers and sisters in that island nation.

Maybe the residents of Plymouth could even start up a special relief program. They did it during World War II, why not now?

Input on Wilcox project important

EDITOR

We have recently become interested in the system used in the City of Plymouth to approve building projects. On Wednesday, Sept. 13, we attended our first Planning Commission meeting and were pleased with the interest and scrutiny displayed by commission members.

We were also impressed by their desire to solicit input from those in attendance, especially residents. It became clear that the effect on the existing community is a major concern in approving all details of proposed projects.

The commission is undertaking a very thorough review of ordinances which govern building projects in the city. Currently the city codes allow for building up to 135 feet in height, which is well over twice the height of any current existing building downtown. Over the next few meetings the height issue as well as numerous others will be discussed and approved.

If you wish to be part of the planning that will direct the future development of Plymouth, make plans to attend the commission meetings which take place the second Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. on the second floor of the city hall.

We have tremendous concerns about the trend toward high density housing in the city, and the effect that will have on the lifestyle we now enjoy. If you agree with us, or if you don't but are concerned with the future of Plymouth, mark your calendars and give your opinions to the commission that is genuinely interested in citizen input.

Let's have the residents of Plymouth determine its future, not developers and speculators.

Two streets get facelift -- spurring new life

Two streets -- several miles apart in The Plymouth-Canton Community -- share futures.

Both are streets which have been upgraded by their respective governmental units despite some protests about them doing it. The paving projects have stirred new life and development as the two communities hoped it would.

The streets? Warren Road near Canton Center in Canton and Fleet Street in downtown Plymouth.

Both streets are watching major expansions of medical facilities at the moment. Oakwood Hospital's Canton Center at Warren and Canton Center is racing towards an October opening to make it exactly eight years since it first brought 24-hour emergency room service to The Plymouth-Canton Community's 85,000 residents. Catherine McAuley's Arbor Health

With malice toward none

Building is adding medical offices to the corner of Ann Arbor Trail, Harvey and Fleet Street downtown. (Those facilities share a Plymouth architect, Rick Hall, too.)

The Canton street has an ironic twist. Next door to the enlarged Oakwood, Pawlus Funeral Home is going up. (How that affects a hospital's marketing plan is unclear as yet.) And just down the street is Come Little Children School and St. John Neumann Catholic Church. Since Oakwood is one of the biggest baby-producing hospitals around, this street can soon be said to offer cradle to grave services on one block.

Fleet Street, still a mystery to the usually-lost delivery drivers of Domino's Pizza which fronts on the street's extension across Ann Arbor Trail, is Plymouth's answer to urban renewal.

Its recent 90 per cent completed facelift has spurred new painting and sprucing up by nearby businesses.

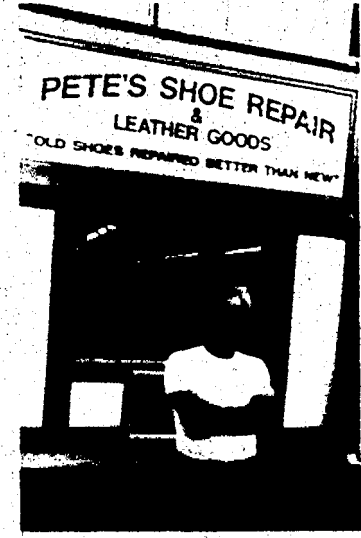

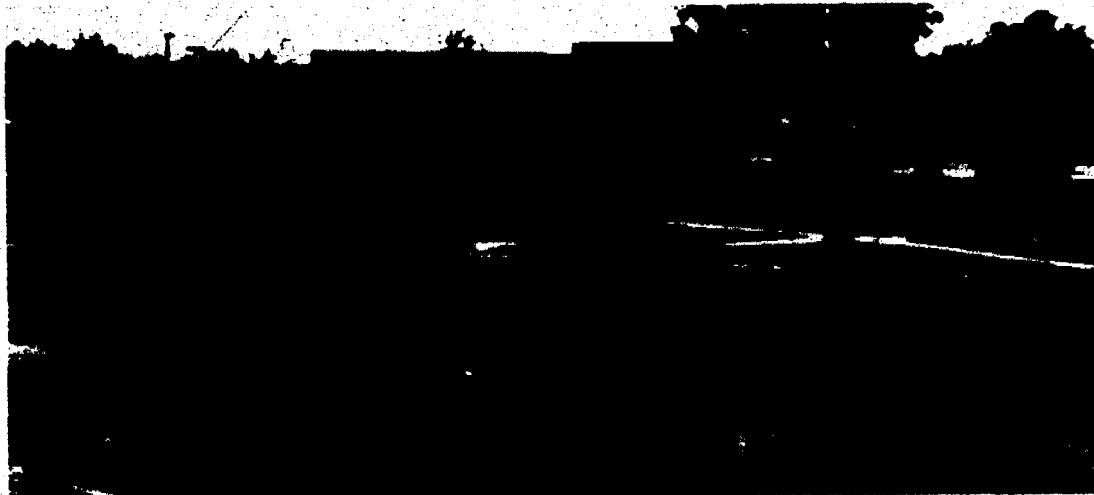

Take for example the flower beds planted by the Mayor of Fleet Street --

Pete Mucci, the shoe man.

Hardly a day goes by that Pete can't be found standing outside his tiny shop observing what's happened in the 31 years since he moved in to the very same location. Often, he'll remark on how the flower beds in front of his Fleet Street corner sit proudly in contrast to the other brick flower bed which the city put in... but grows only weeds. The consummate politician, Mayor Mucci is always happy to discuss local politics with anyone so inclined.

The Mucci family is so happy with the Fleet Street location, they've started another business three doors down -- Mama (Margherite) Mucci's Pasta -- which is keeping the street's residents well fed.

Some day, as the Warren-Canton Center area grows to middle age, maybe it will get a mayor too.

Plymouth's cruising laws - like South Africa

Be careful the next time you go to a drive-in restaurant that has a sign which states "cruising and gathering outside of a vehicle unlawful."

Make sure you sprint from your car to the door of the restaurant because if you dawdle the Plymouth Police Department might just come by and give you a citation, at the discretion of the manager of the establishment of course, which could result in a very hefty fine, over $200 in some cases as a matter of fact.

The ordinance under which these citations are given is called the unlawful conduct ordinance.

Of course everyone realizes that when some kids hang out in a restaurant parking lot the very fabric of American society is endangered to the point that the constitution can be ignored in order to address the "threat".

A section of the ordinance states that

Forest through the trees

By Todd Langton

"It shall be unlawful for any number of persons to congregate for any time whatsoever at any location on the premises of a drive-in restaurant other than in the restaurant building, or in a legally parked motor vehicle. Any persons so congregating shall be deemed loitering."

How long is "any time whatsoever" anyway?

Does bending over to tie ones shoe constitute loitering under this ordinance?

Think about it. It takes some time to walk from the car to the door. Can you get a ticket for that? I think the amount of time that it takes to get to the door is covered under "any time whatsoever" since it does take some time.

Therefore it is reasonable to assume that it is illegal for more than one person to get out of a car and set foot in a drive-in restaurant parking lot.

It does not seem like a good policy to make it illegal for groups of patrons to walk across the parking lot to get into an eating establishment.

Come to think of it, I seem to remember some document, the Constitution of the United States of America I believe, which states that citizens of this country have the right to peaceably assemble.

I read a news report the other day which stated that a large number of people were arrested for "illegal gathering" in South Africa.

Ron Lowe, the attorney for the City of Plymouth said this ordinance has not yet been challenged in a court of law. I would like to see the outcome of such a challenge.

I think that, since drive-in restaurants have the power to call the police and have their own patrons cited for "loitering" in parking lots, we as patrons should be able to give the restauraunts $200 tickets for making us wait in line too long for a shingle on a bun that fast food restaurants call a hamburger.

What do you think? Have a nice day.

Steiger sentenced in shooting death

BY KEN VOYLES

A Canton man who pleaded no contest to second degree murder charges in the 1988 shooting death of his wife was sentenced in Recorders Court last Wednesday.

Ronald Steiger, 56, was given a mandatory two years on a felony firearms charge and six years on the second degree murder charge, according to his attorney Robert Greenstein, of Canton.

Steiger was convicted of shooting his wife Irene Steiger to death.

"My client was given credit for 354 days in custody already," said Greenstein. Steiger will have one year to serve on the first charge.

Greenstein said Judge Harvey Tennen strongly recommended to corrections officials that Steiger be given psychological treatment while serving his sentence.

"My hope is that after he is processed he'll be put in a (medium security) camp," said Greenstein. "Even though this is a crime of violence it wasn't a crime of greed or against society. It's just a tragic crime of emotion."

Greenstein said the sentence "could have been worse -- we're really pleased with the outcome."

He added that Steiger may serve no more than three and a half years on the murder charge.

According to police records, Irene Steiger was killed by several gunshots to the chest. The Steigers had apparently separated about a week before the shooting.

After the shooting incident Steiger went to a local bar where he told a bartender that he had shot his wife. He was later arrested at that site.

CEP to host state marching show

BY ANDREA WATTS

Get ready to clap your hands and stamp your feet.

The Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band will be hosting the annual Michigan Competitive Band Directors Association (MCBDA) State Championship on Oct. 28.

The competition has brought the CEP band great success in the past. The local marchers from Salem and Canton high schools have been the MCBDA of Michigan winner for the past five out of six years.

High school bands from all over Michigan will come together to compete in preliminary competition in the afternoon. The evening brings the final competitions where the top four bands of each flight will compete.

Under the direction of Glen Adsit, Plymouth has been enjoying the sweet taste of victory all year. On Sunday, the CEP band swept all the awards at the Clarkston Invitational in Clarkston.

The 18 competing bands at this 12th annual event were all judged on music, visual effect, and marching and maneuvering. The band's final score of 70.5 was 8.8 points higher than the second place Durand.

The CEP band won trophies for best overall band, best winds, best percussion best color guard, best marching and maneuvering, and best field commanders.

The CEP band was also awarded the championship trophy for best overall band at the Laker's Invitational on Sept. 16 at West Bloomfield. The band also took top honors for best winds, best percussion, and best field commanders. Color guard and marching was not judged due to unfavorable weather conditions.

The band will compete for the governor's trophy on Oct. 1 at the Michigan Invitational at Atwood Stadium in Flint. The band has previously won the trophy in 1980, 1984, 1986, 1987, and 1988.

Adsit credits the success of his band to the dedication and hard work of the students, instruction staff, and the volunteer and financial commitment of the Band Boosters.

Register for City election

The last day to register to vote in the general election -- this year featuring the Plymouth City Commission race -- on Tuesday, Nov. 7, is fast approaching.

Eligible voters must register by Tuesday, Oct. 10, at 5 p.m. in order to participate in the upcoming election vote.

An eligible voter is one who is a citizen of the United States, is at least 18 years of age, has been a resident of Michigan for at least 30 days and has been a resident of the City of Plymouth for at least 30 days.

There are four seats up on the Plymouth City Commission this year -- seven candidates are vying for those slots, including three incumbents.

The incumbents are James Jabara, Robert Jones and Jack Kenyon. Also running this year are Greg Green, Jean Morrow, Jerry Vorva and John Vos III.

Twp. budget

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees was expected last night to set a date for the public hearing on the township's proposed 1990 budget.

The tentative date for the hearing was Oct. 10.

The proposed deficit budget, which includes a total expenditure of more than $6 million is expected to leave the township with an ending fund balance of more than $2 million.

The fund balance from the 1989 budget is expected to be more than $2,300,000.

Schools rehire some teachers; fewer than expected

BY JOHN BRODERICK

While Plymouth-Canton Community Schools officials said that 24 teachers were to be rehired if voters approved a millage increase — four weeks into the school year, only 20.6 of the positions have been filled.

"We said 24 would be rehired, but that was based on a dollar amount. Some are recalls — they have seniority and get paid more than others," said Norm Kee, schools personnel director.

Calculating the number of teachers added is more complicated than it seems — many teachers work part time, and work different fractions of the day, Kee said.

"The total number hired is 20.6, when all the fractions are added. There will be one more position filled, and the total will be 21.6," said Lorraine Champagne, executive secretary for employe relations.

Kee said that eight teaching positions have been added at the elementary level, seven at the middle school level, and two at the high schools, where there has been a drop in enrollment.

There have also been part time employees moved to full time, and other shifts of responsibility that bring the number to 20.6, he said.

Judge bill now in motion

and that means more crime," he said.

Garber said that while cases are not backlogged — he and Judge John MacDonald have kept a handle on the increasing load — the time it takes to get before the bench is longer now than it has been.

"The cases I did today — most of them happened in late July. Last year at this time it would have been about late August," he said.

Jaw's bill — known as HB 5053 — has been referred to the judiciary committee, which is chaired by Rep. Perry Bullard (D), of Ann Arbor.

Law, a Republican, says he has a good working relationship with Bullard.

The bill could reach the floor of the state house as it was written, but it could also be amended to include other requests for judgeships, or other subjects entirely, Law said.

The bill would then move to the Senate, where it would face more possible amendments, and then if the versions of the two chambers differ, a conference committee.

Canton may expand staff

"I suppose somebody could say this is another layer of bureaucracy, but I see it as another plus," he added. "We're not a mature organization yet, but with this we will be more professional."

Currently many of Canton's key department heads are also the top technical experts in their department. Yack said as the community grew those officials took on more responsibility, not just in the technical aspects of their jobs but in managing their rapidly growing departments.

I think there is some cost savings that can be realized," said Yack, who added that a new estimate for adding the new posts is approximately $150,000. "We want to deal with the public also, the only way to do that is deal internally first."

If the board approved the creation of the positions last night, the Merit Commission will then be authorized to fill the posts once job descriptions have been formalized and the jobs are posted.

Yack, who feels the move is overdue, said once new officials are hired the next step would be to set up goals and objectives and begin better coordinating the various departments studied.

"After this I can't imagine another layer of bureaucracy," Yack said. "This is it in terms of structure." Some other minor positions suggested in the Bartell study may be created in the future, he added.

The positions will first be posted internally (once the Merit Commission finishes its work), said Yack.

During last week's meeting, Loren Bennett, Canton's clerk, said, "I don't believe we can argue with success," referring to the Bartell study more than four years ago which led to the reorganization of the police and fire departments into a Public Safety department.

Bennett added, "I believe we should get on it."

At the same meeting, Gerald Brown, Canton's treasurer said, "I've never had the feeling we're on fire. The place is in good shape."

But Brown added that he felt it was important to implement those "pieces" of the study that effect the existing elements of the organization.

Dan Durack, Canton's personnel director, had prepared "proposed" job descriptions by Monday. In a memo to the board, he said, "It is recommended that you create and fill these positions as quickly as possible in order to begin implementing the organizational changes outlined in the Bartell report."

The posts may line up something like this: Municipal Services Director oversees building, planning, engineering, public works, ordinance enforcement and parks and recreation; Administrative Services Director oversees personnel, community relations, finance, special projects and grants.

Both the CFO and the administrative assistant would report directly to the supervisor.

The Bartell study admits the recommendations are "massive in scope," but adds that the moves will "increase accountability."

The report further states that the township "has grown and evolved to such a point that it no longer can be managed by specialists, but must enter a new era where it is managed by professional managers."

Doing so will "reverse" the "organizational deterioration"

Inkster chase ends in Canton

Inkster Police said the incident began at 2:55 a.m. early Sunday morning when they spotted a vehicle parked in front of a suspected crack house on Bridgeport in Inkster. When police pulled up to the car it sped away.

"The vehicle was found to be stolen," said Kishah Tahara, a public relations specialist for the City of Inkster, and Inkster Police began a pursuit.

Over the next 20 minutes police chased the vehicle through Inkster, Wayne, Westland, Romulus and finally Canton.

Tahara said speeds of 100 miles per hour were reached and at one point police caught up to the car and tried to flag it down to stop.

"He rammed the police unit and took off," said Tahara, who added that the driver then turned off his headlights.

Tahara added that no charges were being brought against Ferguson, who police said was "just a passenger" in the vehicle.

Tahara said that Inkster Police notified each community as the pursuit continued.

Canton Police said they were notified by Inkster as soon as the car crossed into the township at Van Bora and Hannan roads. Police added that it was then just a matter of minutes before the accident.

Police continue investigation

The Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department is still investigating the shooting death of 30-year-old Ann Arbor resident Beverly Wivell.

The woman's body was found on Monday, Sept. 18 on Godfredson Road in Superior Township.

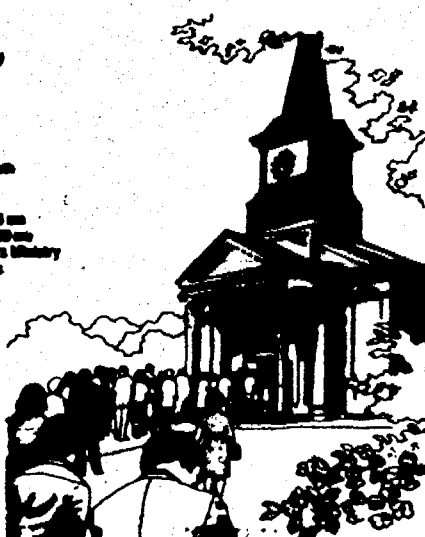

The Sheriff's department has made no arrests in the case and is still investigating the shooting, said Lt.

James Fink of the Washtenaw Sheriff's Department.

"We are looking at everybody," he said.

The department is still getting information from the public, Fink said. "We're not stalemated yet," he said.

Wivell's husband lives in Canton and her parents live in Ann Arbor, according to Fink.

Tomato plant sprouts in Canton family's driveway

BY KEN VOYLES

Imagine watching a tomato plant sprout and grow into a bush several feet wide where your driveway meets the side of your house.

It's happened to Kim Porritt this past summer -- she now has a wonderfully green bush with lush red tomatoes for the picking.

The Canton resident noticed the plant one day about three months ago. It sprouted under the doorstep of the side entry to her home, in the crack between the wall of the home and the pavement.

"I thought it was a weed," Porritt, 29, said. "I almost pulled it but I noticed it resembled a tomato plant."

"I'm really surprised," she said of her healthy tomato specimen.

As the plant grew it caused a debate in the Porritt family: allow it to grow and see what happens or pull it from the ground (crack?).

"It became the joke of the neighborhood too," Porritt said. She fought to keep the plant, along with her kids Jeff and Jamie, but her husband Steve suggested pulling it long ago.

Porritt, who thinks the seed grew in its strange spot after a garbage bag had been left there, admits she hasn't tried any of the tomatoes.

Her husband Steve thought maybe an insect moved the seed to its growing spot. Obviously, though, it will remain a major debate in the Porritt household.

"This was a pure accident. I have no idea how it happened," said Porritt.

The Porritts also grew a regular garden in their backyard but it didn't turn out nearly as good as their unexpected tomato friend -- nicknamed "Rosey" by the children.

"It gives me a good idea," Porritt said. "I'll plant seeds all around the house and never have to weed."

The family will let Rosey continue to thrive until its season is completed -- Steve and son Jeff will enjoy tomatoes for a while longer (Jamie said she "hates" them).

Either way, the strange visitor has become a welcome curiosity for the family.

At Madonna

Bonadeo appointed to college board

BY KEN VOYLES

There are some people who come of age early on in life and others who take longer but tend to find themselves eventually.

Then there are those like James Bonadeo who hit their stride at a young age and never lose a step thereafter, growing old gracefully while emitting the energy of an 18-year-old.

At 73, the youthful chairperson of Bonadeo Builders in Canton has reached that point in life when many would have already been retired for years.

But the Superior Township resident has no intention of retiring just yet. In fact, he just has too much to do.

"I will slow down -- I like to travel -- but no retirement for me," said Bonadeo, who believes "moderation" is important to enjoying life to its fullest.

As a recently appointed trustee to the Madonna College Board of Trustees -- the private school's governing body -- Bonadeo will get the chance to help direct the institution as it enters the 1990s.

"I've always been very active at Madonna," he said. "I'm a big supporter of the school."

Besides running his own business and supporting Madonna, Bonadeo has helped turn the Southeast Michigan Builders Association into one of the largest in the country.

His success during the past year as president of the association has come about through hard work and a dedication to the idea that once you take on a job you have to follow through with it and do the best you can.

"That's real work. I spend about half my time with the builder's association," said Bonadeo of his responsibilities as association president. "It's a killer, but in its own way it has rewards."

Growing up in Highland Park, Bonadeo graduated from Cooley High School before joining the armed services during World War II.

When the war ended Bonadeo became a plumber. To this day he continues to pay his plumber's union dues, even though he hasn't performed that kind of work for 35 years.

Bonadeo got into the building business shortly after the war when he purchased five lots for $700 and built a home on one of the lots. By 1948 he had formed his own building company.

"I planned to build one home a year until I was 50 and then retire," he said. "But I built one, and then another, and another and another."

Since 1948 the company has constructed thousands of homes and apartment buildings all over southeast Michigan. Bonadeo first built in The Plymouth-Canton Community in 1972, later moving his headquarters to Canton in 1987. Another office move to the City of Plymouth is planned this fall.

Today Bonadeo's company remains a family operation -- his children Nancy and Mark both work for the firm, while his wife Earlene runs the day-to-day office operations.

"Bonadeo first became involved as a "friend" of Madonna College's more than 20 years ago when he donated an office building to the school. Since then he has been a regular contributor to the school's various fund campaigns and has helped run several of those campaigns in recent years.

"They have a lot going for them over there," he said of the college. "Sometimes they really touch your heart. I like the work they do with children."

As a trustee Bonadeo will serve the school for six years, meeting with the rest of the trustees several times a year.

Besides being the current president of the Southeast Michigan Builders Association, Bonadeo is also on the board of directors of the state association and the national association.

Locally he has been involved as a board member with the Plymouth Family YMCA (during Fall Festival he sold sausages to fest goers).

Four weeks ago Bonadeo was honored as man-of-the-year by Boystown of Italy, a group formed during World War II by an Italian priest.

"I felt very honored to be given the award," he said. "They said I fit the mold."

And that's not all folks -- Bonadeo was also recently honored by the Michigan Senate, Wayne County, Madonna College and the office of Governor James Blanchard.

All of the awards were for community service.

"I've given of myself, but I just have

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

Life is full of embarrassing moments.

When was the last time you did or said something really stupid and suddenly realized you were in a room with other people who saw or heard you? When was the last time you pretended you didn't do what they know they saw you do, or have you ever looked around knowing those words couldn't possibly have come out of your mouth?

Unfortunately for most of us we not only blush, we light up like a neon sign when we're embarrassed. The harder you try not to blush, the redder those cheeks get. I suppose if you're going to act and sound stupid, you might as well look the part too.

It's one thing to trip on the sidewalk and go into a not quite graceful dance step as you catch your balance and smile at those around and pretend that you always walk like that. The fact that you just broke your toe and are gritting your teeth to keep from shouting obscenities has nothing to do with trying to hide your embarrassment.

However, it's another thing to get up in front of a crowd of people and make a total fool of yourself. I don't mean a little thing like knocking a glass of water in the lap of the person sitting next to you, or calling your best friend by the wrong name. I mean having Bill Heiney, the entertainer at the Plymouth Community United Way kickoff dinner, pick you out of the audience as a person "who is not afraid of making a fool of herself."

As I stood (and kneeled) in the limelight looking, acting and feeling stupid, I couldn't help but wonder what I had done to deserve this honor. I know everyone dreams of being a star at some point in their life, but standing on one foot while kicking the other and screeching like a chicken wasn't quite what I had envisioned. Stardom wasn't the main thought on my mind during the guillotine act either.

I have to admit it is fun to hear people laugh (whether they laugh with you or at you). However, someone should explain to a few people that it's not polite to be hysterical at someone's expense (it may bring about a payback of some kind).

If nothing else, I can say I made a fool of myself for as good a cause. The funds collected by the United Way go towards helping those less fortunate and perhaps will bring some smiles and laughter into their lives.

Linda M. Baughman of Plymouth, a junior majoring in secondary education, served as a student leader this summer during Western Michigan University's orientation program.

Jennifer Ashton, daughter of Mrs. and Mr. John Ashton of Plymouth, has been named coordinator of the Acting in the Community Together program at Carleton College, in Northfield, MN. She is a 1989 Carleton graduate with a major in physics.

Imagine the surprise of U. S. Secretary of State James Baker and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze when they stopped in Jackson Hole, WY for a quiet bite to eat and were seated next to Plymouth attorney and commission hopeful John Vos III at a restaurant there. Vos abandoned the toils of the American Bar Association agenda (he was trying to write the trip off) to pass out Plymouth City Commission election literature to the Soviet dignitary.

Lionel J. Coffin, now a hamburger stand proprietor in L.A. (when he isn't golfing in Mancelona), sends a "hello" to all his old Plymouth friends. From his days in town when Harry Lush was running the movie theater, Lionel still keeps tabs on things here. His recent visit included a generous welcome from Meadowbrook Country Club where he once served as caddy. Many will remember Lionel, now 72, from past Fred DeLano's "Through Bifocals" columns.

At Salem dance Tear up the barn

Come one, come all, and tear the barn up tonight.

That's right it is almost time for the Salem Area Historical Society's third annual Barn Dance, set for Saturday (Sept. 30) at 7:30 p.m.

The fun will take place in a historic, rustic barn at 51828 Eight Mile Rd.

The public is invited to join the group as it celebrates fall and "our American heritage." There will be plenty of crisp autumn air, pumpkins, bales of hay, hot spiced cider, fresh baked goods, and some good old fashioned square dancing.

Donations will be collected at the door. The cost is $2 per person, $5 for a family and $1 for senior citizens.

For further information call Jim Melosh at 437-5067.

Tivoli Fair in N'ville

The Northville Historical Society presents the Tivoli Fair, a juried Arts and Crafts Show on Friday and Saturday (Sept. 29-30).

The show will be held from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Admission is $2 or $1 for children under age six. Proceeds will be used for the restoration of Mill Race Village -- Northville's historic village.

More than 100 exhibitors will be on hand for the show. Food will also be available.

For further details call 348-1845.

Train show on tap

Plymouth's Original Train Show (12th bi-annual) is set for Oct. 8 in the Plymouth Cultural Center. It will feature more than 100 tables of new, used and antique trains.

The show will be held from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Admission is $2 per person (children under age 12 get in free with parents). Tables are $8 in advance or $10 at the door.

Besides the train items in the Cultural Center, show goers can climb aboard a CSX locomotive and caboose at the track side on the CSX main line off of Pearl Street in Plymouth's Old Village.

Refreshments will also be available at the show site.

For further information call 455-4455.

Air bags and seat belts Safety on the open road

BY ANDREA WATTS

In today's "get to where you need to go fast" society, it's not too surprising to occasionally see or experience a minor fender bender.

However, what happens when more than just the fender is bent? How can motorists be protected from these kinds of predicaments?

Seat belts and air bags are both options which can be used to ensure safety on Michigan roads, according to state officials and automotive experts.

Representative Gerald Law, a Plymouth resident, explains that the existing seat belt law is such that motorists can not be pulled over strictly for not wearing the safety belts.

He said, "The existing law is that it's not a primary offense, but a secondary offense. It's a violation with a fine of $25."

Law added that the law "was written to encourage people to wear safety belts for their own safety, not to go out and generate a $25 fine."

Law also said safety belts must be worn in addition to the added protection of air bags.

"Air bags are superb if hit head-on," he said, but it is necessary to have the protection of the seat belt when hit from the side.

According to some of the local auto dealers, air bags will be standard in several of the 1990 models.

Tony Pizii, a salesman at Fox Hills Chrysler Plymouth, says that air bags will be standard in all models except minivans. "I think it's a great safety feature," he said. "The more people know about it, the better they'll like it."

Bill Dolan, of Blackwell Ford, said, "It's a very costly project to put air bags in cars."

He further said that air bags will only be on the driver side. "It's just added protection for the driver right now," Dolan said.

Jerry Basch, of the AAA Traffic and Safety Department, revealed that the approximate added cost to each vehicle for air bags on the driver side will be $500.

Basch also explained how air bags work.

When there is a sudden deceleration of speed, a sensor sends a signal to inflate the air bag. Nitrogen gas fills the air bag which comes out of the steering wheel in less than one-tenth of a second. The bag will then deflate by itself.

Again, the additional use of safety belts is emphasized in the 1989 April issue of Consumer Reports.

Safety belts protect the motorist during incidents such as rollovers and side collisions, or in cases of being hit a second time after the air bag has had a chance to deflate.

A car is tested for the amount of hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide released into the air. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

Car tests for clean air

BY DAN PATRELL

Has your car been tested lately? More importantly has it passed? Social conscience probably has never been a big factor for car owners who need to get their auto's exhaust analyzed. Rather the motivating factor seems to be the simple need of renewing license plates every year.

But current laws under the Federal Clean Air Act limit the amount of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide released into the air by automobiles in and around major metropolitan areas. The established method of testing cars for levels of these contaminants has been through the use of AET (Auto Exhaust Testing) checks at AET centers, primarily located at service stations.

According to Dale Anderson, owner of a Mobil gas station in Canton, the test itself is very simple. A machine "reads" an exhaust for levels of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide and a printout indicates the levels and lets the owner know if the car passed or failed.

Allowable levels of hydrocarbons are 220 parts per million in 1989, and carbon monoxide levels can only be 1.2 per cent of actual exhaust emissions.

The test is used only on nine car model years and new car owners do not need to have their car tested within the first year of ownership.

Anderson said that to test a car he has to run the car at 2,200 RPMs for about 30 seconds and then once the idle drops, he runs the test.

Marc Staudt, manager at Doug's Plymouth Amoco, added that cars should be at a good operating temperature. If the engine isn't warm, the likelihood of emissions failure is greater.

"That's the biggest thing during the winter," said Staudt. "People come in for a test and some will have driven only a block. We usually ask people when it's cold out to let their cars run for about 20 minutes before they bring them in."

Test helps environment

Staudt said he's seen no more than a 15 to 20 per cent failure rate. "It's fun to watch people's reactions; when they say, 'this won't pass, I know it's too-old.' More than likely, if they keep a car well maintained, the majority of the time the car will pass."

Agreeing with that idea is Tim DeHority, shop foreman at Blackwell Ford in Plymouth. A fresh air filter, regular oil changes, changing spark plus at the prescribed intervals, and other regular maintenance items will help to make sure a car passes when getting the exhaust tested.

"Most of the failures we encounter are the result of oil that is too contaminated through long use, where the owner has opted to change his oil every 7,500 miles rather than the 4,000 mile Michigan climate interval," DeHority said.

He added: "I've tested 1981 Escorts that have 110,000 miles on them with air just as clean coming out its tailpipe as a 1989 Crown Victoria with 12 miles."

DeHority, Staudt, and Anderson all said that regular maintenance virtually assures an owner that the car will pass the emissions test and be operating within the environmental limits set by the federal government.

All three also said that, as a way of curbing emissions, there is nothing else the individual owner can do.

But what about developments in the future?

ARCO, a Los Angeles-based oil refining company, has developed a new blend of gasoline, that helps eliminate much of the pollution from a tailpipe. It is currently being tested in Southern California.

Locally, a promising new company in Plymouth -- Filtrona -- has developed a new filter designed to eliminate much of the "interior contamination" in a car.

According to Manoj Modi, product engineering manager, the filter eliminates particles to one micron and prevents them from entering the car's interior.

Brian Ledford, quality assurance manager, said the company's goal is to protect passengers from outside contaminants.

He also acknowledged that the technology developed by his company could have applications when it comes to cleaning exhaust emissions; Filtrona is currently examining ways that the filtering technique could be applied.

Winter survival kit

An empty coffee can, candle and newspapers don't conjure up warm images, but the three could be lifesavers for motorists stranded in their car this winter, according to AAA Michigan.

Those three items should be included in a "winter survival kit," says AAA Michigan's Robert Tellier.

Tellier, the emergency road service manager said, "The dozen or so items in the survival kit take up little room in your trunk but are essential during a winter emergency," he said.

The kit should include the following:

- Empty coffee can, candle, and matches or lighter for a small-scale furnace to generate heat.

- Newspapers for emergency insulation; placed between skin and clothing.

- Carpet strips to place under drive wheels for traction.

Other key elements to any survival kit should include: boots, ice scraper and brush, flares and reflectors, jumper cables, tool kit, flashlight, first aid kit, candy bars and a blanket.

Tellier recommends that if motorists are stranded they should stay with their car rather than risk exposure walking to safety.

Beat the rust wash, wash, wash

BY TODD LANGTON

The days are getting shorter and the nights are getting longer. Once the leaves start falling take a left around the next corner and then...winter!

A blanket of newly fallen snow, as scenic as it may be, poses several problems for car owners each winter.

One obvious problem is that posed by slick driving surfaces.

In an attempt to alleviate this problem a second much more insidious problem arises -- that of rust.

The road salt that is spread to melt snow and ice poses a serious threat to the vehicles that motorists drive.

Once salt and moisture settle into a seam or soak into an unprotected area of a vehicle a potentially devastating chemical reaction takes place.

Rust, once it gains a foothold on a vehicle, becomes a kind of cancer for cars. Once the oxidation process begins and oxygen combines with salt and moisture to create rust, the only way to halt its advance is to remove the offending material from the body of the vehicle.

One thing to keep in mind is that there is no shortage of salt with which to start the process.

The roads division of the Wayne County Department of Public Services (DPS) applies approximately 100,000 tons of road salt to the highways and byways in the county every winter.

The best way to avoid a problem with rust is to wash a car as often as possible, said Andy Ellison, manager of a Poly-Gard rustproofing store in the City of Plymouth.

Once the process begins, he said, the damage can become extensive within a year.

Once rust becomes visible on a vehicle, said Ronald Robertson, the service director at Blackwell Ford in Plymouth Township, painting over the area will not improve the situation.

The rust must either be buffed off with a fine sandpaper or cut totally out of the vehicle in order to stop the rusting process, he said.

Automobiles are not the only victims of ravenous roadsalt. The substance causes roadways, as well as vehicles, to deteriorate.

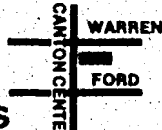

The salt causes the steel reinforcing bars in concrete to rust, thereby weakening the road surface itself, said Jack DeFoe,

Expensive alternative?

transportation engineer for the materials and technology division of the Michigan Department of Transportation.

Chemists and researchers throughout the country have tried for years to come up with a cost effective, non-corrosive substitute for roadsalt, he said.

One of the best substitutes developed to this point has been Calcium Magnesium Acetate (CMA), DeFoe said.

The problem is that CMA is that it is about 30 to 40 times as expensive as salt, he said.

Patrick Hogan, deputy director of the roads division of the Wayne County DPS, said that if the county had to stop using salt and start using a substitute then "streets would immediately become more hazardous in the winter" because the expense involved would be too great to effectively treat the roads.

CMA, DeFoe said, is made from a combination of dolomite, a form of limestone which contains high concentrations of magnesium, and acetic acid.

The roadsalt substitute, which melts snow but does not have the corrosive tendencies of salt, is produced in a crystalline form and has no adverse effect on the environment, he said.

In Michigan, CMA is currently used on structures, which if damaged by corrosion would either have to be closed or would be incredibly expensive to repair, such as the Zilwaukee and Bluewater bridges, he added.

But don't expect to see the wide use of CMA any time in the near future.

The price of the substance will have to go down and public and political circles will have to realize the total cost of roadsalt use, in damage to vehicles and roads as well as the simple cost per ton, before CMA trucks, instead of salt trucks, pass by houses in the wee hours of a snowy winter morning, DeFoe said.

Car care for women

More and more women are joining the work force (more than 55 per cent in Michigan) and increasing their need to drive on a daily basis.

That's why it has become important for women to have a good working knowledge of the automobile.

Belle Tire, which has an office in Plymouth on Ann Arbor Road, is taking steps to help women handle highway mishaps and maintain their car to prevent such mishaps in the first place.

Participants in the company's free Car Care Seminars (for women) learn how to change a tire, tackle simple breakdowns and other general maintenance tips.

Residents interested in participating in one of the seminars should note that there will be one held tonight (Sept. 27) at 6 p.m. at the Belle outlet on Ann Arbor Road.

Whalen fought a personal challenge

board of trustees. In an interview in January this year, Whalen said he decided to run because he was "incensed" by the township government's reputation.

In the Republican primary on Aug. 2 last year Whalen finished with the second highest vote total for trustees, behind Elaine Kirchgatter.

In September, Whalen had a bout of double-pneumonia, but when it didn't end he sought further medical advice. It was then that he learned of the cancer.

He vowed to continue the campaign, saying, "I wanted it so bad I could taste it...My feeling was why should I lie down and die. By God, I wanted to achieve something and I wasn't going to let this stop me."

Whalen went on to win a seat on the board in the November general election. At the time he said he was both grateful and surprised he received so many votes.

While battling cancer Whalen found time to reach out to others with the disease. He also found time to talk freely about his struggle and take on the demanding treatments - radiation and chemotherapy - which sometimes lasted close to a week.

According to his wife, Whalen had battled to stay involved with the board right up to the end, trying to prepare himself for the meeting scheduled Tuesday.

She said the family doctor told her that her husband "will know when he knows."

"He told me about a week ago that 'Hank knows now,'" said Pat Whalen, adding that her husband had become weak and was unable to continue his treatments.

"I felt Hank was an individual with a great deal of drive and integrity," said Loren Bennett, Canton's clerk, who served with Whalen on the board. "I gained respect for him in the short opportunity I had to work with him."

"I feel this is a loss the community will feel," he added.

Bob Shefferly, who was also elected to the Canton board in 1988, became close to Whalen during the election race, and later on when he would drive his fellow trustee to meetings because Whalen was unable to do so himself.

"He always thought things through," Shefferly said. "And he was very outspoken. He wasn't bashful."

"I'm glad he was able to keeping coming to the meetings. I think it kind of kept him going."

Shefferly said Whalen was a "good balance" for the board. "He questioned a lot of things others won't," Shefferly said. "I don't know how the board will replace a man like that."

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack called Whalen a "very courageous person."

He added: "He wasn't one to let his own personal adversity influence the job he had to do. I never heard him complain about his condition. He was always very positive."

Yack said Whalen's death came as a surprise even though the board knew of the possibility that his condition was life threatening.

"It was his own personal challenge," said Yack. "I think he always wanted it kept in the background."

Canton Treasurer Gerald Brown said, "Hank was a super nice guy. He never really had a chance to do what he wanted on the board. It's kind of a shame."

- Whalen is survived by his wife Pat and daughters Meredith and Kristen, of Canton; daughters Katherine, of Plymouth, and Deborah, of Novi; son Stephen, of Chicago; brothers Donald, of Florida, and Roy, of California; and his mother Ethel M. Winters, of Lauderdale Lakes, FL.

Funeral services will be held on Friday (Sept. 29) at 10:30 a.m. at the Lambert-Vermeulen Trust 100 Funeral Home on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township with the Rev. John N. Grenfell, Jr. officiating.

Visitation is Thursday (Sept. 28) from 1-4 p.m. and 6-9 p.m.

Whalen's interment will be at the Glen Eden mausoleum in Livonia. Memorials can be sent to First United Methodist Church of Plymouth or the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

What's next for Canton Board?

BY KEN VOYLES

What is likely to happen in Canton with the passing of Trustee Henry C. Whalen Jr?

Several board members said they would like to see the current board appoint a replacement for Whalen, and do so within the 45 days allotted by the State of Michigan.

If no candidate is found in that time, the state will call for a special election, but Canton Clerk Loren Bennett said he doesn't "anticipate that happening."

"My preference would be to appoint someone as quickly as possible," Bennett added.

Bennett also said that it was his "desire" to appoint a resident willing to carry on the role that Whalen played on the board as a trustee willing to tackle tough issues.

There is more than three years left on Whalen's term.

Bennett, who said it was probably too late for the township to add a trustee election to the general ballot on Nov. 7 this year, added that the procedure for replacing Stephen

Larson after he left the board three years ago "worked well."

At the time Canton sought resumes from anyone in the community interested in the position. A board committee screened and interviewed the potential choices before selecting Elaine Kirchgatter. Kirchgatter went on to win her seat outright in 1988 with the highest vote total in the trustee race.

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack said he hasn't given any thought about how to replace Whalen.

"I'll reserve judgement on that one," Yack said. "We've got some time to come to an understanding on how we want to handle this. I just don't think it's fair to the family to be talking about replacing him right now."

Bennett said he didn't expect there to be a lot of pressure to select one of the other trustee candidates who ran last summer. "I don't think there will be a great deal of pressure from any corner on this one," he said. "There's no burning issues and the current board has been working well together."

"I think there will be pressure to make a sound, reasonable choice," he continued.

Bob Shefferly, a trustee on the board, said, "I suppose we'll have to come up with somebody. I would hope we can mutually agree on someone so we don't have to have an election."

"But we can't let this go too long," he added.

Shefferly said the board should try and retain the balance partially created by Whalen during his time as a trustee.

Trustee John Prenciczky said, "I think we should try and find somebody within 45 days. It's fairly expensive to have an election and you need a primary and then a runoff."

Prenciczky said the board would "work something out."

Canton Treasurer Gerald Brown said it was too soon to be thinking about replacing Whalen. "I'm not thinking about that right now," he said.

He did add, though, that the situation is different this time compared to when Larson left the board since there are three years remaining in Whalen's term.

Twp. police recommend computer updating

BY TODD LANGTON

The Plymouth Township Police Department needs a new memory, well actually more memory.

The township board, at the request of Carl Berry, Plymouth Township police chief, will consider whether or not it wants to approve an updating of the police department's computer system.

It is an update which could cost approximately $270,000 over the next five years.

The $270,000 will cover the cost of hardware, software, training, installation, conversion of data and maintenance over the next five years, said Rosemary Harvey, finance director for the Township.

The department did not bid out the project, which was negotiated solely with the Plymouth's Unisys Corporation.

Township policy is that any product or project which will cost more than $2,000 must be bid out, unless only one vendor offers that product or service, Maurice Breen, Plymouth Township supervisor, said.

In this case "I suspect you will find that it would be a difficulty to put on bids," Breen said.

Berry looked at several systems, Harvey said, but was not satisfied with what he saw.

"Based on that investigation the chief decided that he would like to continue with Unisys because, after looking at other software packages, he felt that that one was the best," Harvey said.

The software package under consideration, which is the next generation of the software currently in use, will only run on Unisys hardware.

The computer system that the department currently uses was produced by Burroughs. Burroughs and Sperry Corporation merged several years ago to become Unisys.

The software which runs the current township system was originally produced by a small software manufacturer but was eventually purchased by Unisys.

One advantage of expanding the current system, as opposed to purchasing an entire new one, Berry said, is that the department will be able to keep much of the current hardware.

Bonadeo honored for many services

PG. 19 THE COMMUNITY CHIEF: September 27, 1989

to wonder why," Bonadeo said of the many honors recently heaped on him. But he doesn't wonder why he moved to the community.

"I think this is terrific. That's why we moved here," said Bonadeo, who resided in Birmingham for 20 years before he "fell in love" with The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Despite all of the hats Bonadeo wears he still finds time to travel and enjoy reading about both history and geography (favorites for a person many would call an avid reader).

A modest man, Bonadeo repeatedly turned down the association presidency, he said, until last year when he was out of the state and could not decline.

"I believe when you get a job you do your best or you shouldn't have taken the job," he said.

When his presidency ends, Bonadeo will devote more time to traveling and community service endeavors.

"It'll be different," he said during an interview on Friday. "Today is my day off. When I don't have any meetings -- that's a day off."

Even at 73 it's very rare for Bonadeo to go a day (let alone an afternoon) without a meeting or some other important business, social, or service activity.

Just call it keeping in stride.

Getting down to business

Benjamin's features quality gifts

BY ANDREA WATTS

Looking for that perfect gift for that special someone? Benjamin's, a modern new jewelry store in Plymouth, may be able to help.

Benjamin's not only specializes in jewelry, which is manufactured in the store, but the outfit also offers crystal imported from England, France, Germany, Denmark, Italy, Austria, and Sweden.

Benjamin's is also waiting for major lines of china which will be coming in shortly.

There are 350 to 400 men's and women's watches in stock at all times and Benjamin's discounts different brands every day.

Benjamin's has been in operation since April 16, 1989.

Owner Henry Benjamin said, "We came to Plymouth to do something nice for a nice community and to give good prices to customers."

Before moving to Plymouth, he operated a family jewelry store in Livonia.

He has been in the jewelry business for 20 years with the inspiration taken from his father when 17 years of age.

Benjamin said that all of his upscale merchandise, which can be found in many major department stores, is discounted 20 to 40 per cent every day.

Since customer satisfaction is Benjamin's top priority, all items may be exchanged or refunded, he added.

Benjamin's also offers free lay-away, instant financing, jewelry repair, and bridal registry.

Benjamin's is located on Ann Arbor Trail in downtown Plymouth. It is open Monday through Thursday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Friday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Saturday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Business people

M. Kay Hage was promoted to assistant vice president, and Anne G. Hopper was promoted to branch manager, recently at First of America Bank in Plymouth.

Hage, who joined the bank in 1976, continues to have responsibility for both the Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon Road offices. She also serves on the City's planning commission.

Hopper has also been with First of America since 1976 and was most recently branch supervisor of the Main Street office.

Roger M. Dooley, of Canton, has been admitted as a partner in the Arthur Anderson Worldwide Organization. He will work in the Detroit Anderson Consulting office.

Dooley has extensive experience in large systems planning, design, and installation for commercial and government clients. The company has helped organizations apply technology for competitive advantage since 1954.

Richard L. Wainick, MD, of Plymouth, recently joined the medical staff of Straith Hospital for Special Surgery in Southfield.

Wainick is a graduate of the University of Michigan Medical School. He is an ophthalmologist specializing in the diagnosis and treatment of glaucoma, a leading cause of blindness.

Chief grid squad surprises--now 4-0

BY RITA DERBIN

Newsflash: Chiefs win again. That's four in a row folks.

The Canton football team defeated Livonia Churchill 33-14 on Friday night to give them a 4-0 record, their best start ever. Four victories also ties a school record.

In the game, quarterback Karl Wukie scored three touchdowns on runs of two, five and 20 yards.

Wukie also threw for two touchdowns, a six yard pass to Jason Riggs and a 20 yard pass to Jason Dembny.

"We had several long drives on offense," said coach Bob Khoenle. "But the defense kept us in there."

"All season long the defense has had the big plays and kept us in the games," Khoenle added.

The defense played well against a strong Churchill running game, according to Khoenle. Jason Lee and Brett Howell also had interceptions in the game.

The Chiefs have only given up 28 points in four games and have recorded two shutouts but Khoenle traces the team's success to their opening game against Monroe.

"We thought we could have a good season if we started out well," said Khoenle. "We beat a good team in Monroe and the kids got confident."

"Each week the team is getting stronger and better," Khoenle added. "The defense has come on and done a great job, they're not big but they're quick and can hit."

On Friday night the Chiefs will host Walled Lake Western for their Homecoming game at 7:30 p.m.

"Walled Lake Western has always given us trouble," said Khoenle. "They've beaten us the last five years -- they've always been close games but Western always does a number on us."

Canton will be looking to break the losing streak and do something no other Chief team has ever done -- win five games in a season.

"We're going to play hard and do the best we can," Khoenle said. "Our schedule keeps getting harder, it's not getting easier."

Defense leads Rocks to grid win

BY RITA DERBIN

Same story. Different week. Tough defense is making Salem winners every week in football.

The Rocks are 4-0 following a 26-0 victory over Livonia Stevenson Friday night. The victory was their third straight shutout.

Scoring all of the Rock's points was senior full back Ryan Johnson. He scored four touchdowns on runs of two, three, five and seven yards.

Top yard gainers in the game were quarterback Rob Kowalski (94 yards on nine carries), Pat Bowie (78 yards on 11 carries) and Johnson (68 yards on 16 carries).

"Overall, defensively is doing a great job," said coach Tom Moshimer. "Three shutouts in row is an accomplishment -- we only allowed Stevenson 81 total yards."

Johnson, Scott Austin and Brian Burlison each had an interception to help limit Stevenson.

The offense, however, is not where Moshimer wants it to be.

"Offensively it was not one of our better games," Moshimer said. "We have to work on pass protection but overall the offense is too sporadic -- we need some consistency if we want to continue winning."

Next up, the Rocks will travel to Walled Lake Central.

"They're 1-3 but that doesn't indicate the kind of team they are," said

Moshimer. "They played Westland John Glenn and Farmington Harrison -- two of the top teams in the state. We're going to have to play better against than last week if we want to beat them."

Canton offers recreation night at Eriksson

The Canton Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring its fall session of men's recreation night basketball at Eriksson Elementary School.

The program will run Wednesdays from 6:45-9:45 p.m., beginning on Oct. 4, for 10 weeks.

No place like for Salem netters

BY RITA DERBIN
There's no place like home. The Salem tennis team is 4-2 in conference play following a 6-1 home victory over Livonia Churchill on Monday.

The Rocks took three of four singles matches. Winning were senior Wendy Shick at two singles (6-4, 6-2 over Lori Delany); senior Shicka Kapila at three singles (6-0, 6-0 over Marci Kneiding); and junior Tracy Anderson at four singles (6-4, 6-2 over Brenda Riedan).

One doubles sophomore Kathy Marschak and senior Michelle Minton won 6-1, 6-0 over Annette Osheski and Marge Logers; two doubles freshman Susie Bozell and freshman Leah Szafran defeated Stacy Soukup and Mary Helmer 6-4, 7-5; and freshman Kelly Kirkpatrick and junior Tracy Livermore defeated Kathy Uira 5-7, 7-5, 6-0.

Senior Ann Gilmore lost 4-6, 3-6 to Kris Anderson at one singles.

On Wednesday, the Rocks defeated Westland John Glenn 7-0.

Gilmore defeated Catina Conner to win 6-0, 6-0; Shick beat Cher Walko 6-1, 6-1; Kapila defeated Sherri Kantko 6-1, 6-0; and Anderson defeated Lynette Conner 6-3, 7-5.

In doubles action, Marschak and Bozell defeated Sharon Kollar and Jill Szukaitis 6-3, 7-6; Kirkpatrick and Szafran defeated Joan Pitera and Kara Beeny 6-1, 6-3; and Asia Nowicki and Livermore defeated Marianna Boldt and Lisa Dupree 6-0, 6-1.

On Tuesday, Salem was defeated 6-1 by Canton. Three doubles Kirkpatrick and Livermore defeated Viraj Parikh and Reetika Aulakh 2-6, 6-4, 6-4 for the Rocks only victory.

Canton swept the Rocks in the singles: Tonya Bowsman defeated Gilmore 6-3, 6-0; Sherri Bajar defeated Shick 6-0, 1-6, 6-0; Allissa Huth defeated Kapila 6-3, 6-2; and Michelle Sparkman defeated Anderson 7-6, 6-4.

Winning for Canton in doubles were: Leanne Gurchak and Denise Gildo in two doubles, 7-5, 7-6 over Marschak and Minton; and three doubles Heather Kaye and Resham Batra, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5 over Bozell and Szafran.

The Rocks will travel to Walled Lake Western today, host Livonia Stevenson on Friday at 4 p.m., travel to Essexville Garber on Saturday and North Farmington on Monday.

Canton netters win

BY RITA DERBIN

The Chiefs are winning the close ones and that is why they were 7-1 after Monday's 7-0 sweep of North Farmington.

Canton suffered its only loss to Northville on Friday. They lost 4-3.

Number two singles Sherri Bojer, number three singles Alissa Huth and number four singles Michelle Sparkman won their matches.

Losing were number one singles, Tanya Bowsman; and number one doubles Leanne Gurchak and Denise Gildo; number two doubles Heather Kaye and Resham Batra; and number three dubles Reetika Aulakh and Viraj Perikh.

On Wednesday, the Chiefs defeated Livonia Stevenson 4-3. Bowsman, Bojer, Huth and Sparkman swept the singles matches.

"We've been winning the close matches with the exception of Northville," said coach Carol Michaels. "Even the Salem meet was a lot closer than our 6-1 victory indicated -- both teams played hard."

Michaels is please with the team's attitude.

"We're out there fighting for every point in every game," Michaels said. "I'm please with the team -- the girls know they have to work real hard after the defeat and they will."

Salem golfers struggle

BY RITA DERBIN

Winning on the road will be the key this season for the young Salem boys golf team.

"I'm pretty confident that we can beat other teams at our golf course," said coach Rick Wilson. "The key to our success, however, is to see how we play away from home.

The Rocks are "a good group of kids who take the game seriously" according to Wilson. He also thinks the team has a chance at good things.

"We have a lot of young golfers that are just building their confidence now," said Wilson. "We'll have a chance to win the division if we win at home and the league meet if we peak on time.

"Senior Dan Alcock is a cut above the rest of the team -- he's our strongest, most consistent player we have, added Wilson. "He's already been our medalist in our first meets."

The Rocks are 2-4 overall after falling to Northville 226-230 on Monday.

Canton linksters 6-1

BY RITA DERBIN

They may not hear the roar of the crowds and get the attention they deserve, but the Canton golf team is a self-motivated group of young men who are putting together a very good season.

"I have 14 young men who are very motivated," said coach Fred Libbing. "We feel we're just three strokes off an undefeated season so far."

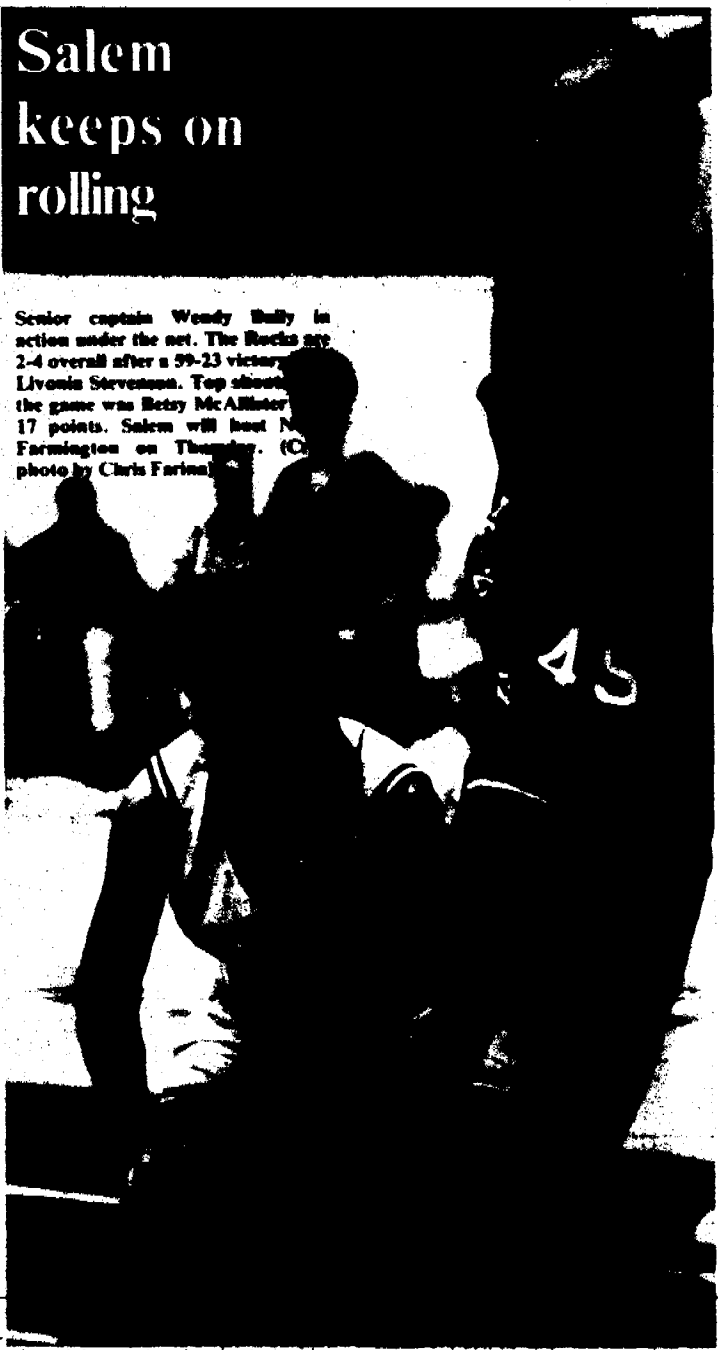

On Monday, the Chiefs defeated Livonia Stevenson, 204-213.

Junior Rod Jesena led the Chiefs with a 38. He was followed by senior captain Geoff Allen (40), junior Kyle Musch (41), sophomore John Paupore (42), and junior Kevin Holmes.

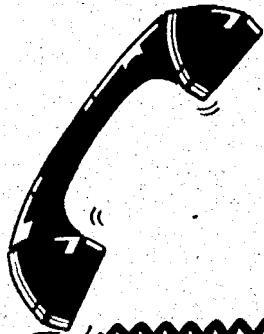

The Chiefs' only defeat this season was on Friday to Walled Lake Western. So far this season they are 6-1, including a victory over Salem.

"These guys go out there with just as much intensity and motivation as the starting quarterback," said Libbing. "And it's too early to tell but I think we've got a shot at the division but Western and Northville will be difficult."

Salem keeps on rolling

Twp. eyes new computer system

"We're not taking a system out and trashing it and throwing it away," Berry said. "(The new system) is an enhancement of the system we presently have.

"If we go to a new system then we have to start all over again," the chief said.

"There are a lot of different systems out there that probably do something very similar and maybe do it as efficiently," he said. "But why completely change when we don't have to.

"We are keeping a lot of the present equipment that we've got and the familiarity of that equipment helps us keep going at the rate of speed that we're going, Berry said.

The new system will therefore require very little training in some areas, he said, and will also be faster and have a larger memory capacity.

The department needs that memory capacity because when the current system was purchased it was estimated that the department would be making 8,000-10,000 dispatch runs a year, the chief said.

This year officers of the department are expected to make between 40,000-50,000 runs, Berry said.

The current system has been full for the last year and a half, Berry said.

The board has approximately 52 days to decide if it wants to purchase the system. After that time the price quoted by Anisys, which contains a large number of discounts, will no longer be valid, Harvey said.

Berry said he is ready to abide by whatever decision the board makes.

"If people in their wisdom wish that we go out and (get bids), then so be it, we'll go out and do that," he said.

IAN, are you checking on the freshman?

Congratulations PCEP Marching Band! FIRST PLACE — West Bloomfield Competition and Clarkston Competition.

Way to go field commanders Jason and Matt!

The business department at The Crier has too much fun — SOEAK, SOEAK! That's mouse for HA-HA!

Michelle Allison is 13 TODAY

Oh, no!! I'm the mother of 3 teenagers!

Rebecca — By the time you read this — we'll almost be there!

George Allison — couldn't you break a different finger?

Tom Allison does the two step with his eyes closed on our roof — oh, I can't stand to look, either!

Maricell — We'll be glad to see you, too!

I think UNC gymnasts must have the world's strongest legs — 77 flights of stairs?! Awesome!

Hello my mom, did you have a good time at Bobette's?

GUY'S, congratulations! Great Fall Festival issue, it's the talk of the town here in Chicago!

Hey Rita, good looking picture! Astrid

Jack, beautiful sideburns tell me the secret! Is that a new fashion trend? Astrid

PHYLLIS: thanks for those beautiful references! Astrid

Verna, thanks for the beautiful note. I'm very good what about you? I miss you & everybody at The Crier. Astrid

Kevin — Who's going to feed I fish next weekend?

Get well quick, Grandma Wessel

CHRIS D: I hope your ankle's feeling better! I worry about you so take care of yourself!

Ginny: October, November, December, January, February and then, finally March! Congrats to you and Ken. I'll see ya in a few months.

Bob Sr: I hope you enjoyed your 80th class reunion! Kit said you had a good time reminiscing with the old gang and trying to avoid your "good friend" Clifton! I hope your trip was worthwhile. See ya in March!

Curiosities

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Fall brings closer relationships. Take advantage of them. You are recovering from a draining weekend but you will recover by taking in extra fluids Wed. or Thur. Financial gains are in the future, watch for them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be alert & active this week, things are coming your way. Far away relative is doing fine. Be ready for fall to face confrontations, your preparation will determine the outcome.

Janet handed Hugo with no problem. Must be all that P.T.

ERICA MANSFIELD scores the winning free throw! Go Lions!

Encore II is now open in Old Village on N. MRL. Good luck & welcome to the community.

If Jack would "know when to hold 'em and know when to fold 'em" Peg wouldn't have to buy lunch.

Dad — How are the "Big" kids at the orchards? (Ask Mary about a Mr. Microphone.)

Wearmaster & Valvoline are now open at Joy & LMeay. Good luck Gayle & Jim. I know you will be a plus to the community.

Julie makes surprise phone calls and brightens the day with her sunshine!
