Canton, City program could begin in fall

Composting cooperation?

BY KEN VOYLES
AND TODD LANGTON

Officials from Canton and the City of Plymouth are continuing a dialog begun nearly three weeks ago on the prospects of starting a joint composting program.

Canton Clerk Loren Bennett met with Plymouth's acting City Manager Bill Graham in September to discuss a plan which would allow the city to ship its composting materials to a site already in operation in Canton.

"They came to me and asked if there was anything we could do to bring them into our composting program," said Bennett, who has helped spear the township's search for alternatives to landfill dumping.

City officials are "looking for access this fall," he said.

"It would be our intent to become involved with (the Canton program and the WTUA) as quickly as possible," said Graham.

Ken Vogras, the city's DPW director, said Plymouth produces about 5-7,000 yards of leaves each fall.

Canton began a pilot grass composting program in the spring and has one of the few experimental grass composting efforts in the state, said Bennett.

"These are just preliminary discussions," he said of his meeting with Graham and other officials. "But 50 per cent of our summer waste is grass waste.

"It's a big issue."

In a letter to Bennett dated Sept. 20, Graham writes, "I am interested in pursuing some involvement, on the part of the City of Plymouth, with either Canton or Western Townships Utilities Authority (WTUA) as regards composting and recycling."

The city began a new recycling program this summer. Officials have considered the former landfill in Salem as a possible site for any composting materials.

Graham said he is interested in the program because cost savings can be realized in a regional operation such as the one in Canton.

But, he said, "the whole thing comes down to cutting down the amount of material going into the landfill."

Bennett said any joint efforts this fall would be "experimental," but the long term goal may be to bring in a large number of communities interested in off-loading their composting materials.

"We have an excellent composting program going," he said. "It's far better than we had ever imagined."

Communities which seek to jointly use the composting area already in operation -- at the Canton Recycling Facility on Van Born Road -- would be able to do so based on some kind of access fee, said Bennett.

He added: "We'd certainly not gouge the market, but there should be some recognition that we're running the program."

Bennett said Plymouth Township officials had also expressed some interest in the idea. He has also met with Dearborn Heights officials who might be interested in sending composting materials to the site instead of an incinerator.

The idea of a regional composting center intrigues Bennett, who, like many other local officials, would like to see a "regional solution" instead of each community going its own way, duplicating programs.

Graham echoed the same sentiment.

"For each community to try and reinvent the wheel and deal with this problem all by itself really is not a very

Unisys facility hit by cutbacks

BY TODD LANGTON

The Unisys facility in the City of Plymouth will for the most part escape the axe being used to initiate corporate-wide cutbacks, said Charlotte LeGates, director of public relations for Unisys Corporation, Tuesday.

While Unisys expected to cut approximately seven per cent of its world wide workforce, LeGates said, the Plymouth plant will experience only a two per cent reduction in staff.

LeGates said she did not know when the reductions would take effect.

As of Sept. 1 the Plymouth facility employed approximately 1,350 workers, she said. The plant will experience a workforce reduction of approximately 20 people, LeGates said.

The reductions will take the form of "a combination of voluntary layoffs, early and regular retirements and involuntary layoffs," she said.

Jan Schmitt, director of human resources at the Plymouth facility, said Monday that "here at Plymouth we do not anticipate any major announcement."

LeGates would not comment as to the nature of the local positions being terminated.

She also declined to comment on the possibility of reinstating some of the positions in the future.

"We would certainly hope, as we do with all of our positions, that we might be able to find a suitable position elsewhere in the corporation or elsewhere in the area," she said.

The cuts, made official Tuesday, came after a mid-August announcement by Unisys that it was studying how to strengthen its position in the marketplace.

"The corporation, in order to remain competitive, must undergo a world wide restructuring," LeGates said.

Rumors of larger cuts (as much as 25 per cent) had been rampant in Plymouth for several weeks, according to one Unisys employee.

The same employee said morale had been sinking at the local plant "considering the touch and go" nature of the impending layoff announcement.

DDA expanding?

BY TODD LANGTON

The Plymouth City Commission discussed the possibility Monday of adding four members to the nine member Downtown Development Authority (DDA).

"The group is now becoming more active," said Plymouth Mayor Dennis Bila. "They are starting to have some money to spend."

An expansion of the group would lead to greater community input, Bila said.

"When you have community interest, in my opinion, then you should utilize it and take advantage of it," he said.

Adding four members to the authority would mean "more input from good, reliable and concerned people," said William Graham, Plymouth's acting city manager.

BOB CARD

Canton 'jewel' dies Sunday

A "jewel of the community" died Sunday. Bob Card, a prominent business owner in Canton, died at home after succumbing to cancer.

Card, 43, of Livonia, was the owner of three McDonald restaurants located in Canton and Van Buren Township.

Besides being a strong booster of the community and heavily involved with the Canton Chamber of Commerce, Card's reputation for running outstanding businesses grew each year.

Among his most important efforts over the years was making sure his McDonald's outfits -- one on Ford Road and one on Michigan Avenue -- were the best kept businesses in the community.

In fact the restaurants were frequently honored with landscaping awards. This past year, Card's two Canton stores were both honored by the local township government and his Van Buren business was recognized by the McDonald's Corporation.

A few years ago Card was honored as Canton's "small business person of the year."

"Bob was the closest thing to a benefactor this community has ever had," said Loren Bennett, Canton's clerk and a close friend of Card's. "I considered him a good friend. We went through some tough times together.

"I think Canton lost one of its number one citizens with the loss of Bob," Bennett continued.

Card is survived by his wife Linda, who is also co-owner of the businesses, and his 17 year-old son Shawn.

Additional surviving relatives are: his parents Elmer and Mary; brothers Roy Marvin, Victor Marvin, and John Card; and parents-in-law William and Stella Murray.

Funeral visitations were held yesterday (Oct. 3) and today from noon to 9 p.m.

Bartell & Bartell to find City manager

BY TODD LANGTON

And they're off!

The Plymouth City Commission voted Monday night to hire Bartell & Bartell and spend up to $15,000 to find a suitable manager for the city.

"Bartell and Bartell has a track record with us," said Plymouth Mayor Dennis Bila.

A past Bartell study found the city's current police chief and the management consultants are also currently conducting a study of police department operations, Bila said.

"We felt their proposal was far superior to any of the others," he said.

An outside firm will be capable of creating an unbiased profile of what the city needs in a manager and would be able to provide psychological testing and background checks on possible candidates for the position, Bila said.

"Bartell will provide perspective," Mayor Pro-Tem R. Jack Kenyon said.

Commissioner Mary Childs, who cast the only dissenting vote on the issue, argued that William Graham, Plymouth's acting city manager, was the best candidate for the permanent position.

"This is a man not just of the city but a man of the community," said Childs of Graham.

Bila addressed the issue by saying, "I would suggest that we would not do Bill Graham any favors by handing him this job on a silver platter."

"If he is going to win the confidence and the respect of city employes and community people in the city, he needs to demonstrate that he can stand with any other candidates that may apply for this job," Bila said.

He also said that the search was well worth the expenditure.

"(The commission) voted to spend $20,000 for the Ice Spectacular, a very worthy endeavor, yet in my mind not nearly as important as selecting a city manager that will be with us for some years," Bila said.

Bila has received a petition initiated by Joy Hollen, owner of the Side Street Pub and the Press Box, which urges that Graham be appointed to the city manager's post permanently.

The petition contains the names of approximately 50 business people in the city, including representatives of First of America, the Mayflower Hotel and many small businesses, Hollen said.

Jean Morrow, a candidate in the upcoming city commission race, said at the meeting that he also plans to present a similar petition, signed by city residents, to the commission in the near future.

City employes have also presented the Mayor with a petition requesting that Graham be appointed city manager permanently.

City loses lawsuit -- owes $146,000

BY TODD LANGTON

The Plymouth City Commission took steps Monday night to comply with a 1986 Wayne County Circuit Court ruling which found that the city unjustly terminated the employment of former city building inspector Edward Talbot.

The commission decided, after the State Supreme Court declined to hear an appeal initiated by the city, to take about $146,000 from the city's water fund in order to pay Talbot and comply with the Circuit Court ruling by Oct. 12.

The city will have to devise some kind of budget arrangement to reimburse the water fund, said William Graham, Plymouth's acting city manager.

The money will have to come from the water fund because the city's current insurance policy does not cover contract law provisions, Graham said.

"Even though there was no contract, the court treated it as though there was a contract, therefore it falls outside of the liability parameters that are established by Risk Management," he said.

Talbot filed a suit against the city in 1983, which claimed that the city unjustly terminated his employment and discriminated against him because of his age, Graham said.

Talbot dropped the age discrimination portion of the suit, but continued the action under the unjust termination argument, he said.

After the Circuit Court ruling the city appealed all the way to the State Supreme Court.

Because the State Supreme Court refused to hear the case the city had to comply with the Circuit Court ruling, Graham said.

"In fairness to all concerned," he said, "I think that there was a feeling (early in the proceedings) that there was insurance coverage here, that in fact did not really exist."

The legal fees incurred by the city during the proceedings were covered by insurance, and were not included in the $146,000 figure, Graham said.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1989

A "wrap-up" budget workshop on the 1990 General Fund Budget was held on Wednesday, September 20, 1989 in the Conference Room of the Township Hall. Supervisor Breen called the meeting to order at 5:15 p.m. All members were present except Smith Horton. The total budget for the General Fund was discussed. Mrs. Harvey pointed out that we were planning for two large capital expenditures in 1990: buying the current D.P.W. building for the use of general government and building a third fire station. Either this year or next year we must also upgrade our police computer from a mini frame to a main frame for more capacity. Mr. Munfakh pointed out that our auditors had advised us it was prudent to maintain a fund balance to cover three months average expenditures in case of a sudden drop in state-shared or other revenue. If we held a "truth in taxation" meeting to levy the maximum allowed under the Headlee amendment we would pick up $240,000. It was moved by Mr. Munfakh and supported by Mr. Stewart to set a "truth in taxation" meeting to establish an operating millage ratio for 1989 at 3.4296. Ayes all on a voice vote. Twp. hearing on millage increase planned

BY TODD LANGTON

Plymouth Township will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 10 to discuss a proposed increased operating millage of .5144.

Increased revenues from the millage may go to fund such items as an expected third township fire station, an expanded police computer system and fringe benefits, such as medical coverage, for township employees, said Rosemary Harvey, township finance director.

The township did not institute a millage increase allowed under the Headlee Amendment in 1988.

"Last year the township decided that they would live with no more than the total amount of money that they had collected the year before," she said.

Under Headlee, Harvey said, the township can raise the millage at a level equal to that of the inflation rate.

Because Headlee allows for cumulative increases, she said, the township is including the inflation rate of the last two years in the proposed increase.

"Basically what we're doing is we're catching back up," Harvey said.

The township cannot continue to operate without a millage increase when expenses keep increasing, she said.

Medical insurance coverage costs for township employees have increased by approximately 20 per cent this year, she cited.

The millage will increase from 4.0157 in 1988 to 4.1796 this year, Harvey said.

City agrees to paving plan

BY TODD LANGTON

After some debate the Plymouth City Commission agreed Monday to provide up to $7,500 for the paving of Riverside Drive.

Under an agreement, which Plymouth Township has already accepted, the county will pay for half of the paving costs if the city and the township will each cover one fourth of the project cost.

That will mean a 16 cent increase per $1,000 of valuation, she said.

The township will need the increase in order to maintain the current level of service to the community, Harvey said.

"I don't think anybody likes it," said Mayor Dennis Bila, "but it's either this or it does not get paved."

The county has indicated that it has "dramatically" exceeded the amount budgeted for roads this year, said William Graham, Plymouth's acting city manager.

At Oakwood, high-tech procedures combat heart problems.

Cardiac catheterization, angioplasty, and open heart surgery help diagnose and treat heart disease.

Dr. Samir A. Dabbous is an interventional cardiologist on the Medical Staff of Oakwood Hospital and director of Oakwood's Cardiac Catheterization Unit.

Q. Has the treatment of heart disease changed significantly in the past few years?

A. There has been tremendous progress in both the diagnosis and treatment of heart problems. In the past 10 years, death and disability due to heart disease has dropped 30 percent in the United States. Among the most important advances are the use of catheterization for evaluating the health of the heart, angioplasty for treatment of many blockages, and open heart surgery for the more serious blockages.

Q. What is heart catheterization?

A. It is a diagnostic test used to visualize the coronary arteries and the heart. It allows the cardiologist to see if there are blockages in the arteries. The doctor can also tell if the heart is normal size or enlarged, if the pumping action of the heart is normal, and if the valves between the chambers of the heart are working properly.

Q. Who undergoes a heart catheterization?

A. It is usually recommended for a person who is experiencing chest pains which are not relieved by medication. It is also used if the person has had a heart attack or if the doctor suspects significant heart disease.

Q. Where is the procedure performed?

A. It is performed in Oakwood Hospital's Cardiac Catheterization Unit. The person remains awake during the catheterization, and only a local anesthetic is used. After the procedure, the person rests and then may go home the same day.

Q. How does the test work?

A. During the catheterization, the person lies on a special table. A blood vessel in the groin is punctured with a needle by a heart specialist trained in this procedure. Through the needle a very thin tube called a catheter is inserted. It travels through the vessel to the heart. Dye then is injected through the catheter. The doctor watches the progress of the dye on an X-ray camera. Pictures are taken as the dye moves through the heart.

Q. Once the catheterization is done, what happens?

A. The information the test reveals is used to help the cardiologist make a decision about treatment. Alternatives such as by-pass surgery, medical therapy, and angioplasty may be better evaluated after a heart catheterization.

Q. You mention angioplasty. What is that?

A. It is a procedure in which a catheter with a balloon on the tip is inserted into the artery. At the site of a blockage, the balloon is inflated and the pressure flattens the blockage against the wall and allows the blood to flow freely.

Q. What causes a blockage?

A. Most blockages in the arteries are caused by cholesterol. It builds up plaque deposits on artery walls that may interfere with the flow of blood. The most common symptom of a blockage is chest pain.

Q. Where is angioplasty performed?

A. It is done in the Cardiac Catheterization Unit of Oakwood Hospital. There the person is monitored constantly by Oakwood's expert cardiac teams. The person usually stays in the hospital for only a couple of days.

Q. What happens after angioplasty?

A. Most people return to their normal routines fairly quickly and they are usually free of chest pain.

Q. In cases where angioplasty is not recommended, what is the alternative?

A. By-pass surgery may be the preferred treatment if three arteries are blocked, or if there has been significant injury to the heart itself. Oakwood Hospital has renowned cardiac surgeons who have performed hundreds of open heart surgeries.

Timing is everything in City

The City of Plymouth is seeking professional help in hiring a new City Manager.

Does that automatically mean that Acting City Manager Bill Graham is out of the running?

Does it mean that Rod Bartell (who was behind the reorganization of the Plymouth and the Canton police departments) will recruit one his many contacts from outside to justify his $15,000 bill?

Can the City Commission engage in a nationwide search and still decide that the best candidate is already on board? Can the same Commission ignore the standard "hometown favorite" pressure that's resulted in two separate pro-Graham petition drives? Or can the Commission stand up to the Bob Bake (and others?) belief that only a fresh, outsider can lead the City without being a cog for the Big Wheels of town?

Bartell has already begun advertising to the fill the post (even prior to Monday night's Commission approval) but by the time the first ad appears, former City Manager Henry Graper will have completed two weeks on his new job.

The City of Sault Ste. Marie moved quickly to put Graper in its manager position that became vacant the same time as Plymouth's. (The Sault didn't use a consultant.)

Timing is everything. With the November City of Plymouth election at hand and the fact that two of three commissioners serving on the search committee are up for election (Bob Jones and Jack Kenyon), the timing of a manager hiring appears political.

With malice toward none

If it's delayed until after the election, will it look political? If it's hurried and happens prior to the election (Graper was officially hired the night before a City election 10 years ago), will it look political? The answer to both questions is, "yes."

Perhaps the outside search approach will work in Graham's favor. If he can claw his way to a ranking in the final candidates list, he will have proven that he merits the job.

Graham's background with the banking field and his past service as an active resident of The Plymouth-Canton Community (he served a term as trustee on the Canton board in 1968-72) has led a number of City residents and business owners to feel comfortable with him at the helm.

Only he can convince four votes on the City Commission that he's his own man and not a Graper clone.

Bartell has had mixed results with his advice here. The Canton Public Safety transformation was a stunning accomplishment. Not so his attempts to improve the City of Plymouth Police Department's morale and relations with the community. He's also proposing a new level of management for other Canton departments -- the jury is still out on that idea -- but it seems Bartell always recommends more and more administration as a means of justifying his fee.

The city could bypass Bartell and share the city manager search with Muskegon and Clare, two other Michigan cities currently looking for city managers.

What is the life expectancy of a City Manager? Clearly Graper overstayed his. Maybe the City Commission ought to offer a five-year non-renewable contract with salaries established for each year. Anyone applying for the Plymouth job should face moving on.

In the City Manager search, all eyes will be watching.

Complaining is easy -- so vote

As you may or may not have noticed by now this reporter has some "liberal" tendencies.

I may, at times, take unpopular positions on things such as cruising laws or inadequate government self-regulation, but I do so to protect the personal freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States of America.

The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) seems to be a very unpopular organization these days.

People seem to look down on the ACLU because they protect the rights of groups like the Nazis or the Klu Klux Klan.

As detestable as these organizations are, they too, have the right to speak and express themselves under the constitution, and that is a good thing too.

Once the "establishment" begins suppressing views of any kind then your views or beliefs, however normal and reasonable they may seem to you, may eventually become suspect.

One way in which the average citizen can express their views is by voting.

As American citizens, we have the right to choose our leaders. It is a right

Forest through the trees

By Todd Langton

which we take for granted, that others throughout the world fight and die for on a daily basis.

We can express our opinions by voting for someone who we feel will work in our best interests.

If someone is not satisfied with the way the elected government is performing then that person can attempt to change things by going to the polls and casting a ballot.

If someone is satisfied with the way things are going then they should vote in a manner that will keep the incumbent in office.

Others might not be so pleased with existing performance and vote your incumbent out of office.

The person who does not vote, yet sits home all day and complains that his or her taxes are too high, that his or her streets are not clean or that the parking in the City of Plymouth is not adequate, has only himself or herself to blame.

Complaining is easy.

Going out on election day and exercising your right to vote takes some effort.

Hundreds of thousands of people have died in many wars to protect the rights afforded us under the constitution and to preserve the freedoms of others throughout the world.

Compared to what others have gone through to obtain the right to vote, standing in line for 15 minutes before getting to punch out those holes and choose your leaders does not seem very difficult.

Register to vote by the deadline of 5 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 10, and then vote on Tuesday, Nov. 7.

Fifteen minutes is a small price to pay for freedom.

Reporting is interpreting

The word above my name in the Crier staff box reads: "reporter."
It should read: "interpreter."

My job for the past 10 months has been to keep tabs on The Plymouth-Canton Community - in particular, its school district (which I attended for eight years), and the government of Plymouth Township, where I have lived for a good part of my life.

Issues have many sides, not just two -- issues that are at all interesting to write about were never black and white.

Rather than "report" a set of "facts," the interpreter decides just what facts are important, where the facts come from, and who the facts come from.

Swimming upstream

By John Broderick

I've tried to interpret the facts fairly. But sometimes, some one or some thing didn't turn out looking very good.

In these cases, I only had the good of the district and the community in mind.

I think the Central pool should be reopened -- that administrators should produce a reasonable cost to the groups interested in leasing it -- and board members should get their feet wet and help or at least encourage fundraising drives, if still more funds are needed.

I think people should leave Superintendent Hoben's car alone -- anyone with over a quarter-century of seniority, who has served a district so faithfully and energetically, deserves a car -- and Hoben deserves more.

I think board members should work closely with the I Care committee, to ensure its continuation. The folks who mobilized the vote for the June millage are going to be needed again for that new bond issue that's on the horizon.

Before people jump all over the school district, they should ask some questions -- and not assume administrators are cold-hearted bureaucrats who don't care about kids. These accusations, often by parents of kids who couldn't attend the school they wanted, made me cringe a number of times.

Certain kids are going to have to walk to school, even though they live a long way away from school. Certain kids are going to be bused to Central, even though they live in the south of Canton.

Parents who have problems with these policies should try designing the district's boundaries, and its bus routes, themselves -- it's not easy.

And when ground breaks for the addition to the administration building on Harvey -- watch the critics come out of the woodwork. Employees are packed into that building like sardines. The current lobby is cold and ugly and unwelcoming. The current board room is cramped and awkward. The exterior is disgusting.

I've learned to sympathize with the officials I write about -- enough to stand up for them on these sorts of issues.

But on the other hand, the money from the 1986 bond issue should have been spent long ago; the accounting for the cost of running the Central pool is outrageously high; only 20 teachers have been hired, after 24 were promised if the millage hike was approved; school crossing guards are not deputized, and thus cannot enforce traffic rules (according to the district's attorney).

I still have criticisms -- but these are details.

As an "interpreter" my job has been to make responsible judgments, often about the school district. I've had to be a critic, and I've tried to do that well.

And I think I did that well -- partially because I learned how to think critically while attending Plymouth-Canton schools.

So despite my criticisms, I think the district is doing something right -- the end product is one of quality.

EDITOR'S NOTE: John Broderick, former Crier carrier, is moving to New York City, to work as a community organizer with a coalition of neighborhood groups.

In the margin

By Ken Voyles

There has already been some rumbling behind the scenes in Canton over the trustee slot which became open with the death of Henry Whalen.

Like a perpetual motion machine, the business of government goes on; now the board will have to move quickly, but cautiously, to find a new member to sit as a trustee.

There seem to be numerous candidates in Canton -- probably too many to make the selection process any easier. The choice will be that much harder since the board is obligated to find just the right person, someone willing to commit for three years.

And there's the stickler -- whatever choice is made it will have to be someone the rest of the board (and community) can live with for the next three years.

Several names are already flying about, according to board watchers in Canton.

Surprisingly, David Artley, of the Plymouth-Canton Schools Board of Education, seems to be at the top of several lists and could probably get the necessary votes to be selected.

Artley made it a point last week to call The Crier, though, and ram home the fact that he's not interested in leaving the school board right now. He said he was flattered at being mentioned, but that he could not back away from one commitment for another.

Another name being tossed around, and one that might be able to get four votes, is long time Canton booster and soccer advocate Phil LaJoy.

LaJoy has a lot of experience dealing with the board as a resident. He's done a lot of good for the community with the Memorial Day soccer tournament and as a member of the township's Merit Commission.

As in Artley's case, though, the question has to be does LaJoy want the job?

There are also several candidates from last year's election race who might fit the needs of the board, but it is hard to tell if they would have enough votes to be selected. Names that come to mind include Robert Greenstein and Ralph Shufeldt Jr.

Or what about Bob Padget and Jim Poole? They are both still highly respected by many in the community, though they are also not so fondly remembered as being at the core of the previous board's lousy reputation.

It is highly doubtful whether Padget or Poole would be able to pull the necessary votes to get appointed to fill the vacancy, anyway.

Worst of all, Canton voters themselves may have inadvertently added to the difficulty by electing a board made up of members from only one political party.

The fact that the board is 100 per cent Republican will make it nearly impossible to select a Democratic candidate, even someone like Carol Bodenmiller who seems right for the job.

Bodenmiller would be good for the male dominated board, but she'd have to change parties or humbly grovel in some other way, and I'm sure she would refuse.

Somehow the board should look beyond political affiliation and consider the best person for the community, whether he or she is a Republican or Democrat.

It would be nice to think that such a thing could happen in Canton, but I'm not ready to bet the farm on it.

Thanks Twp. police, young men who helped

EDITOR:

Our family would like to thank the two young men who helped our dog on Friday, Sept. 22. They might have been the same people who apparently took the body, buried it and took the license tags to the police station in Plymouth Township.

The township police were very patient with us and kind. Our dog Murray was in a local field for his run, the air was cool and kept on running until he was hit by a car.

I'll always remember him this summer running through that same field -- the field full of wild flowers. He ran back to me with white petals on his bright orange muzzle -- telling me how good it was! And it was.

Our thanks to the two young men and the Plymouth Township police.

Continues tradition

Band director molds CEP marchers

BY ANDREA WATTS

What is the key to success? There are probably several answers to this question but one of them has to be good leadership.

Glen Adsit, the new Centennial Educational Park (CEP) band director, may be just the kind of example people are looking for when it comes to good leadership.

Adsit, a former trombone player with the CEP Marching Band, graduated from Salem High School in 1982. He went on to the University of Michigan and graduated in 1986 with degrees in music and music education.

Adsit spends his days at Pioneer Middle School directing four school day bands and a jazz band, but after school he can be found leading the CEP marchers through their paces.

Fall, needless to say, is a very busy time for the band and for Adsit, but that doesn't diminish the enjoyment he gets from the constant contact with young players.

"I'm doing what I love to do most -- teaching people how to perform music," he said.

The 25-year-old Plymouth resident added, "Part of the reason the band is so successful is because of the underlying staff and booster organization that is there every time we need something at all."

He also credits former band director James Griffith for the band's current accomplishments.

"It's really through the vision of (James) Griffith that the band has come this far. He had the ability to see what the good groups at that time were doing and to model his after theirs," Adsit said.

Although the band is extremely busy with competitions and football games every weekend, Adsit is already anticipating the Grand National Bands of America Contest at the end of the season.

"Our season winds up on Nov. 18 in Indianapolis," he said. "It's a country-wide competition with 52 of the best bands in the country competing for 12 spots."

With the band's fifth place showing last year, Adsit is looking forward to an even better effort this year.

And, of course, continued success for the highly touted CEP marchers on and off the field.

Leading the show

Marchers win

The Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band was awarded the Governor's Trophy for the fourth consecutive year at the 15th annual Michigan Invitational on Sunday.

The competition, hosted by Flushing High, was held at Atwood Stadium in Flint.

The CEP band also won trophies for best percussion, best color guard, best marching and maneuvering and best winds. This is the third week in a row that the band has swept all caption awards in its flight.

The band is directed by Glen Adsit. Student leaders include Jason Smigell, field commander, Matt Miller, assistant field commander, Lori Hanka, color guard captain, and Kelly Knysz and Michelle Timte, assistant color guard captains.

Next week the band will compete at the Lakeview Invitational in St. Clair Shores on Saturday (Oct. 7).

The band will host the Michigan Competition Band Directors State Championships at CEP on Oct. 28.

Fire Prevention Week focuses on safety

BY ANDREA WATTS

Fire! How does one protect one's family and property from it?

Learning could be a snap during Fire Prevention Week on Oct. 8-14.

Once again Plymouth-Canton fire departments will take part in the annual event, hosting open houses at fire stations and spreading the word about fire safety in area schools, businesses and homes.

In Canton, the theme of the week is "big fires start small -- keep matches and lighters in the right hands."

The Canton Fire Department is asking businesses to consider an offer to conduct a free seminar on the use of fire extinguishers since it is vital that all store employees know how to extinguish hostile fires.

In Plymouth Township, Fire Chief Larry Groth said both fire stations in the township will be the scene of fire safety lectures and station tours from 1-8 p.m. each day of the week.

Groth said residents bringing in large groups of people, or groups of children, should call (453-2566) in advance to set up tour appointments.

Also during the week, grade school children in Canton can participate in a poster contest sponsored by the Canton Chamber of Commerce and Fire Marshall Art Winkle.

Contestants are asked to make a poster using the theme of the week or an idea of their own. Winners of the contest will receive savings bonds. McDonald's, of Canton, will help host the open house celebrations and provide refreshments for the award ceremony.

Besides conducting lectures at the schools and giving tours at the stations, the City of Plymouth Fire Department, along with the U-M Burn Center, will support a "Change Your Clock, Change Your Battery" educational campaign. City Fire Chief Al Matthews said that the campaign is designed to encourage residents to change the batteries in their smoke detectors and flashlights when they turn their clocks back to standard time.

In a related note, the city fire department and the Plymouth Jaycees are seeking donations for the construction of a local "Children's Fire Safety House," similar to the one seen during this year's Fall Festival.

The program is in need for donations. Those interested in helping should call Matthews at 453-1234.

Speech winners

The winners of the Plymouth Toastmaster Club, the Oral Majority Toastmasters (top club of 77 in the district) in the Humorous Speech and Impromptu Speaking contests, will compete in the Area 14 contest on Sept. 30.

Representing the Oral Majority will be Shirley Jallad in the Humorous Speech category and Marc Sullivan in the Impromptu event. Both speakers reside in Plymouth.

HALLOWEEN

WINDOW PAINTING CONTEST

Didn't they do that last year?

Yeah, it's a great business promotion, and the kids have a lot of fun. Here's how it works:

EACH PARTICIPATING BUSINESS IS PAIRED WITH A COMMUNITY YOUTH GROUP (Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, etc.) THAT WILL PAINT THEIR WINDOWS ON OCT. 21. THEN, EACH BUSINESS WILL BE FEATURED IN A PHOTO ADVERTISEMENT IN THE CRIER, AND THE WINNER OF THE PAINTING CONTEST WILL BE FEATURED IN A FULL PAGE AD.

For car interior

Twp. firm develops 'high tech' filter

BY DAN PATRELL

A pleasant drive along an open highway is easily ruined when one passes through a dusty construction zone.

Not only must a driver slow down, the car's exterior gets dirty, and the air inside gets contaminated; tiny dust particles fly through the car's vents.

Even in driving conditions where dust is not a problem, air inside a car can be filled with a shopping list of contaminants — plant spore, pollen, petroleum oxides, even a variety of bacteria.

There really hasn't been an effective filtering medium to be placed in the ventilation system (this includes air conditioning) that assures the driver that the quality of air remains at its purest, regardless of the driving conditions.

One new company in Plymouth has recently offered a solution.

Filtrona has developed a filter technology that reduces particles entering the car down to one micron (one ten-thousandth of a millimeter), and General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler seem hungry for the technology, according to Lynn Ledford, Filtrona's managing director.

"The appearance of this filter is pretty high-tech," Lynn said, describing its series of three separate plates, each one looking like a circular waffle with many holes. "It doesn't look like a typical filter which has a flat surface with air going through the media."

Nor does it act like a typical filter.

Manoj Modi, product engineering manager, said the filter, the Elixaire, is made of a polyurethane formula, specially treated with a chemical coating that attracts much of the particles travelling through the filter. The chemical solution is non-toxic and non-reactive and helps to assure that the filter has a long life.

"This filter does not pass through the media," Modi said. He added that air passes through the plates and a series of holes. Each hole is the beginning of a little tunnel that travels through the filter along two pre-specified curves. The air is virtually unobstructed as it passes through.

Filtrona's quality assurance manager, Brian Ledford, said that the filter relies on the way particles float through air.

"It (the dust particle) has a mass and velocity and cannot follow the same stream as the air. The air mass is a lot less than the particle," said Ledford. "Once a particle hits a wall, it stays there, and the chemical solution acts as a fly trap."

The Elixaire filters 90 per cent of the contaminants entering the car. Because of its design, it has the potential to reduce the sensation of odors, such as diesel fumes, as well as noise because of the way air travels through the filter.

Also, its design is passive and produces no ozone, and once installed is maintenance free.

Lynn Ledford said he estimated the price to be around $25, as compared to systems on cars in Europe which cost between $400-$1,500, and yet only filter down to five microns.

He added that automotive companies needed a filter that would not clog, because filter clogging can cause the windows to frost, and this then becomes a health hazard. "Our filter never clogs up," he said. "And when the filter is completely used, you still get 80 to 90 per cent of the air, as when the filter was new."

The genesis of the Elixaire came from a type of filter called a "porous plate" filter. The technology of the porous plate filter has existed for nearly 100 years. Yet even this filter, would impede the flow of air.

Filtrona utilized computer modeling, which modernized this elder technology, and added features, such as aerodynamic airflow, to minimize air resistance, and the chemical coating, to maximize particle capture. After experimenting with various curvature designs, the current design was found to be the most effective.

Because the technology is just over a year old, automotive companies have not yet designed the new filter into their cars.

Many other automotive applications are possible. Ledford suggested it might be possible to work with automotive engineers to use the technology to recirculate and re-filter air, so that smoke from a passenger's cigarette might be less noticeable.

"Our focus right now is to protect the passengers," he said. "And through research and development, we hope that this product can go even into an exhaust system."

"Once we get to molecular filtration with this design," Manoj said. "The product could be used in the exhaust system."

After spending 30 years at General Motors in various manufacturing engineering capacities, Lynn Ledford set out on his own. With another partner, he started Bycan-Sellen, an industrial equipment company, headquartered in Indianapolis. Filtrona began in June 1988, as the daughter company of Bycan-Sellen.

"There are filters in home heating, but they are quite expensive and difficult to maintain," Ledford said. "We thought a very low cost filter that performed the same would be a great opportunity, and we targeted the automobile first." The filter may someday be used to help filter homes efficiently and economically, he said.

"We found a very favorable plant in Plymouth," he said. "We have 15,000 feet of manufacturing space, and six employees, mostly in technical development. We've been told by automotive companies that they like our product. I would think that, starting with the 1991 model, we should be producing five or six million of these filters a year."

One factor the company is especially proud of is the potential contribution the company might have for allergy sufferers. Many of the contaminants in the air are the causes of allergies for 25 per cent of the national population. Henry Ford Hospital is working with Filtrona to measure the effectiveness of these filters with allergy-causing contaminants.

The people at Filtrona feel pretty good about the potential good their product might have on a large portion of the millions of drivers.

"This is the first opportunity in my life to really get involved in something that can make a measurable, beneficial impact on the quality of life," said Ledford.

Canton approves new management posts

BY KEN VOYLES

Canton's Board of Trustees moved ahead with a plan to create four top administrative posts during last week's meeting.

The board approved 5-1 the creation of a municipal services director, administrative services director, chief financial officer and a supervisor's assistant. Canton Treasurer Gerald Brown dissented.

Brown said he agreed with most of the plan but expressed concerns about the need for a chief financial officer who reports directly to the supervisor.

Trustee John Prenciczy called the move, based on recent recommendations from a Bartell and Bartell management study, an "upgrading" of some positions.

Other members of the board voiced their approval of the plan at a workshop meeting on Sept. 19.

The positions will be posted internally first, said Dan Durack, Canton's personnel director, and will cost the township approximately $150,000.

The Bartell study suggested that Canton faced "organizational deterioration" in four of its key departments -- public works, building and engineering, community and economic development and finance.

The consultant recommended creating the new positions to help in the reorganization of those departments, but the plan will affect much of the current Canton staff structure.

The board also agreed that the supervisor should be allowed to select an assistant. The other jobs will be filled through Canton's hiring procedure, utilizing the Merit Commission.

Flags at half mast

Canton honors trustee

BY KEN VOYLES

Flags were at half mast throughout Canton Thursday as Henry C. 'Hank' Whalen Jr. was fondly remembered during services held at Lambert-Vermeulen Funeral Home and attended by family, friends and township officials.

The trustee died at his home on Sept. 25 after a year long struggle with cancer.

Wayne Freeman, a friend and colleague from Ford, where Whalen worked for 27 years, recalled the trustee as "a great friend. We'll always cherish your memory."

Freeman said, "Hank was a very conservative individual," who was different in that he actually did something about it -- running for the township board and winning.

"He showed a lot of charm and charisma at Ford's."

Rev. John N. Grenfell, of the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth, said, that Whalen "left us a strong example of how we need to confront reality, and its demands."

"He was known for his tough questions and a mammoth conscience," added Grenfell, who called Whalen a "man of conviction" and a "man of commitment."

"He was a man of great integrity and great drive," Grenfell said. "He set a standard for dealing with reality."

Grenfell said Whalen also possessed a "tremendous sense of humor. He loved to kid and tease."

Former township supervisor Jim Poole said that the last time he spoke with the trustee he was "as sharp as ever."

Poole said he didn't know Whalen that well, but that he really noticed Whalen's sharp wit.

An honor guard of two Canton Police officers saluted the flag draped casket as pallbearers carried it to the hearse for the trip to Glen Eden Cemetery in Livonia.

The two officers led the funeral procession on police department motorcycles, and another a patrol car followed behind the line of cars.

On Thursday, members of the Canton VFW (Veterans of Foreign Wars) had honored Whalen during a special ceremony, and before last Tuesday's board meeting trustees observed a moment of silence for their departed colleague.

Builder cited

A Canton based builder of residential homes has been cited by the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulation Bureau of Commercial Services.

Royal Crown Homes, Inc., and Hauser and Baun Custom Building, were cited on Sept. 1 for "poor workmanship" after a complaint was filed four years ago in October, 1985.

Jan Eiserman, the bureau's compliance coordinator, said the company has 30 days to pay a $1,000 fine and the same amount of time to pay $4,500 in restitution or it faces the loss of its license.

The historic Travis House makes its way down Canton Center Road Thursday during its six-hour journey. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

Travis House traverses Canton

BY KEN VOYLES

It creaked, rocked and swayed along at a snail's pace Thursday, but the historic Travis House slowly made its way to Canton's new historic architectural park.

The six hour move went off without a hitch.

Still, getting it to the new site at Cherry Hill and Ridge roads took the efforts of work crews and about 10-12 support vehicles. Roads were closed throughout the move.

Supporting the move were Canton Police units, Michigan Bell trucks, Detroit Edison trucks, Wayne County crews and trucks and workers from both the Westerman Moving Co. and Ross Uphaus and Sons.

Delays had pushed the move back nearly three months, but shortly after 10 a.m. Thursday crews began the grueling journey south down Canton Center to Cherry Hill. They wrapped up their work about 4 p.m., setting the house at its new site off Ridge.

"This is gravey," said Duane Flinn, of Ross Uphaus, which provided the two semi-trucks used to haul the historic home on its four mile journey.

It was Flinn's first building move. As lead driver Thursday he hauled the largest section of the home -- the section which forced support teams to take down power lines at some place and slip the home under upraised lines at others.

Driving the second truck was Jim Uphaus.

"I just follow in his tracks -- it's pretty easy. I've got the smaller section," said Uphaus, who recalled another job he once worked on which took 14 hours.

When asked how fast he was going, Flinn said not much quicker than three-four miles per hour. But it was much slower because of the repeated stops.

The two sections of the home were placed on steel truck beds and moved down the center of the road. The sections were supported on all sides by a network of wooden beams and steel cables.

An hour into the trip -- at Ford Road and Canton Center -- the intersection light was taken down and two Canton police officers directed traffic as the trucks crawled over wood beams placed around the downed power lines and crossed the thoroughfare.

After the light was taken down at Cherry Hill the whole slow-motion show -- it drew local spectators along much of the route -- turned west and headed to Ridge Road.

At Ridge the final turn was made, and the trip was just about over.

Location concerns

Twp. fire station plans

BY TODD LANGTON

If all goes well Plymouth Township's third fire station, which will be located at North Territorial and Beck roads, should be occupied by March of 1991, said Fire Chief Larry Groth last week.

"That's without any stumbling blocks," he said.

One difficulty which has presented itself is the proximity of sewer lines.

"The sewer is not close," Groth said.

The township has four possible solutions to the problem, said Michael Bailey, township engineer.

The fire station can be served by one of three area sewer lines, the closest of which is approximately 1,000 feet away, or the township can build a temporary septic field for the station, he said.

One other possibility is that, because of the tremendous growth in the area, a developer might build near the station and have to put in a sewer line nearer to the station by the time it is built, Bailey said.

The proximity of the site to a sewer line is not slowing progress at this point, he said.

"This is also not something which will effect the location of the site, he added.

"At this juncture it is not something that threatens the location of the fire station," Bailey said.

Stroh's auction

There will be an auction Thursday (Oct. 5) at the former Stroh's distribution facility on Ann Arbor Road at Lilley Road in Plymouth Township.

The Hamilton Auction Company will host the event, which is slated to start at 10 a.m.

The auction will feature a wide variety of Stroh's equipment, including beer trucks, semis, fork lifts, mirrors, vans and a range of other auction items.

The auction is open to the public. For further information call Hamilton Auction Co. at 616-392-2970.

Stroh's was recently purchased by Coors in a major buyout move in the nation's beer industry.

German day

Those citizens who are of German decent now have a special day to celebrate.

The Plymouth City Commission approved a proclamation designating Friday (Oct. 6) as German-American Day.

The proclamation recognizes the accomplishments of the more than 60 million Americans of German decent in this country.

The proclamation also states that the first Germans arrived on the North American continent on Oct. 6 in 1683.

Area residents formed the German-American Club of Plymouth in 1974 to perpetuate their culture and traditions.

'Perfect' Rocks hold on to record; beat Central

BY RITA DERBIN

The Rocks aren't perfect yet -- but they want to be as close as possible by Homecoming on Friday.

The Salem High football team ran its record to 5-0 after easily defeating Walled Lake Central on Friday night, 41-6.

In the game, however, the Rocks registered 125 yards in penalties and allowed Central six first downs on penalties.

"We've had far too many penalties the last couple games," said coach Tom Moshimer. "We won't be able to do that if we want to beat North Farmington on Friday."

Salem scored at will against Central despite the penalties.

In the first quarter Pat Bowie, who ran 145 yards in 19 attempts, had a 22-yard touchdown run to put the Rocks on the board. Brian Burlison then intercepted a pass for a 30-yard touchdown return for another score.

In the second quarter, Bowie and Ryan Johnson each had four-yard runs for touchdowns.

In the second half, quarterback Rob Kowalski, who had 64 yards in eight attempts for the game, had runs of two and seven-yards for scores.

The Rocks will host North Farmington at 7:30 on Friday for their Homecoming game.

"North will be the best team we've played so far," said Moshimer. "They have excellent defense and a great kicking game."

"If they have one weakness, it's their offense and that's not bad at all," Moshimer added. "They're similar to us -- we both are strongest on defense, but they have a better kicking game."

A first! Chiefs eye winning season

BY RITA DERBIN

Winning doesn't always come easy, but the surprise Canton Chiefs are making it look easy.

The Chiefs assured themselves of their first winning football season with their third shutout of the season -- a 21-0 homecoming victory over Walled Lake Western, a team that had always been successful against the Chiefs in the past.

A large crowd turned out to cheer the Chiefs on and it didn't take long for the cheers of "5 and 0," "5 and 0," "5 and 0" to be heard.

Canton's quarterback Karl Wukie threw a 42-yard pass to Chris Robertson for a touchdown in the first quarter to put the Chiefs on the scoreboard.

After a fairly sloppy first half, Canton added some insurance with a one-yard run from Wukie in the third quarter for another score.

Jason Riggs completed the scoring in the fourth quarter with an eight-yard touchdown run.

"Riggs ran real well in the game and Trond Darby did a good job blocking," said coach Bob Khoenle, who was pleased with the way the team came out in the second half after a dismal first half in which they could not move the ball against a young Western team.

"We controlled the game, which was the key in the second half," added Khoenle. "The defense held Western and the offense, as it has been doing, made the big plays."

On Friday, night the Chiefs will go for six in a row when they travel to Northville for a 7:30 p.m. contest.

"The schedule is getting tougher for us," said Khoenle. "But we're going to go out and play hard."

Salem drops kick battle

BY RITA DERBIN

In a game featuring two undefeated teams, the Salem soccer team lost 1-0 to Livonia Churchill on Monday night. The loss drops the Rocks to 16-1 and makes Churchill the number one team in the state.

"We had our opportunities in the second half," said coach Ken Johnson. "But the ball didn't bounce our way a couple times -- at least Churchill isn't in our division."

The Rocks had beaten Trenton 6-0 on Saturday. Greg Christensen had two goals in the game. Jeff Gold, who has 18 goals in 11 games, Joe Nunez, Eric Stemmer and John Truskowski each added goals in the victory. Assistants went to Jeff Gold (three), Matt Gold (two) and Joe Tippmann. Goalie Matt Tudor, who has allowed only three goals this season, also had his ninth shutout.

On Wednesday, the Rocks beat Farmington 3-0. Jeff Gold had two goals and one assist and his brother, Matt, added another goal.

The Rocks travel to Walled Lake Western today and Troy Athens on Saturday. Salem will host Livonia Stevenson on Monday night at 7 p.m. for the division title.

Farmington, 1-1, on Monday night. Their record is now 5-5-2.

In the game, Daryl Magreta scored the Chiefs' goal.

"We played pretty well," said coach Don Smith. "We outplayed them but ended up with a tie."

On Wednesday, Canton defeated Northville 2-0 with Dan Martin getting both goals. Eric Miller and Kristian Kilpelainen added assists.

"The team is beginning to get to know me," said Smith. "And we're improving every game."

The Chiefs host Ann Arbor Huron tonight at 7 p.m.

Salem harriers shine

BY RITA DERBIN

The Rocks have depended on experienced seniors so far this season and it's working.

Senior co-captain Brendon Masterson, who was all division last year, has led the Salem boys cross country team to a 2-0 division record (2-1 overall).

On Saturday, the Rocks came in second at the Ann Arbor Pioneer Invitational.

Masterson, the Rocks' top runner, finished second (16:26); John Thomas was 15th (17:05); senior co-captain Dave Hamway was 16th (17:06); Brian Uryga, 18th (17:11); Todd Cimo, 22nd (17:24); Mike Patterson, 30th (17:55) and Samir Bhavsar, 32nd (17:57).

On Thursday, the Rocks defeated Livonia Stevenson 21-38 in a dual meet by taking the top three spots. Masterson was first (16:51). He was followed by Thomas (17:20) and Dave Hamway (17:28).

Also in the meet, Uryga was seventh (17:49); Cimo was eighth (18:05); Bhavsar, ninth (18:08) and Patterson, 10th (18:16).

"We're running real well," said coach Geoff Baker. "Our times are continuing to drop and I'm pleased with the team's performances."

Steelers, Lions in recent action

Both the Steelers and Lions of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Football program were in action on Sunday.

The varsity Steelers came home victorious over the Ann Arbor East Eagles, 26-6.

Jason Stetz scored three touchdowns from four, five and six yards out. Andy Coburn also garnered a touchdown for the Steelers.

The Steelers will host a homecoming this Sunday against the Belleville Cougars.

Meanwhile, the Lions' varsity mauled the Belleville Cougars Sunday, 21-0. Eric Bureson and Rick Stults ran for touchdowns and Darren Petras passed to Eric Arnold for another score.

The freshmen Lions also won, 13-7, over Belleville. Both Lions touchdowns came on runs by Mike Rener.

The junior varsity team went down to defeat, 20-12, despite a touchdown from Sam Epley and a touchdown pass from Kevin Kovachevich to Romeo Cairo.

The Lions will host Ann Arbor West at Central Middle School this Sunday (Oct. 8).

rational way to approach it," he said. "Better to approach it on a cooperative regional basis, as opposed to everybody running off in their own direction," Graham said.

Bennett said the same joint program approach might work with a full scale recycling program as well.

WTUA, which includes Canton, Plymouth Township and Northville Township, has already received a state grant of $240,000 to put together a composting program by April 1990.

"We've gotten the grant," Bennett said. "Once we're up and operating I'd love to see any number of communities come in on a customer basis."

Bennett said he hopes to put together the details of a plan for the rest of the Canton Board of Trustees in the next two weeks.

If the board is "favorable" Bennett said he would invite Graham to a future Canton meeting to work out further details.
