Canton Treasurer takes leave

BY KEN VOYLES

Canton Treasurer Gerald Brown is on temporary disability leave today following his announcement during last night's board meeting that health reasons have forced him to step down from the elected post.

Brown said the decision would eventually lead to his resignation as treasurer and the relinquishing of his seat on the board of trustees. "That's my goal," he said last night.

In a letter to the board, and the residents of the township, Brown wrote, "Recently I have encountered health problems which my doctor feels would affect my full time participation as treasurer. He has advised me that it would be in my best interest to substantially curtail my activities...I will begin to adhere to his recommendation."

Brown said he was taking the temporary leave, starting today, to qualify for the township's disability insurance.

During Brown's absence, his deputy Sandra Setlock will fulfill the legal requirements of the township treasurer. "She is a well experienced and diligent employe and I anticipate no diminution in the quality of representation provided to the citizens of Canton," Brown wrote in his letter to the board.

Setlock, however, will not become a voting member of the township board under state law.

Brown added, "Personally I would have liked to remain full time in office until the conclusion of my current term on Nov. 20, 1992, but have decided this would not be in the best interests of myself, my family, the board, or the citizens of Canton."

If Brown resigns from the treasurer post prior to next year's election, the remaining members of the board will begin the process of appointing a new treasurer to fill out his seat until the 1992 elections.

Schools bond proposal approved in landslide

BY KEN VOYLES

In the biggest landslide of any school vote over the past decade, the $59.7 million Plymouth-Canton Community Schools 1992 bond proposal passed with ease last night.

Based on unofficial election results the proposal was approved by school district voters 3,930 to 1,461, nearly a three to one margin.

A total of 5,397 voters went to the polls yesterday, or about 10 per cent of the district's 55,000 registered voters.

"This is unbelievable," said Roland Thomas, Plymouth-Canton Schools Board of Education member. "It's the biggest landslide I've seen."

Other school district supporters echoed the same feelings. "I've never seen anything like it," said Dean Swartzwelder, board treasurer.

Current board President Dave Artley added, "The people worked hard for this one. It means we communicated well and got the information across. We're bucking the trend."

Artley said other votes in various school district Monday showed clearly that voter were rejecting millage requests and bond proposals.

"This is the power of the people, the people of Plymouth-Canton," said Thomas.

The bond won approval in all 15 district voting precincts as well as among absentee voters.

The bond was approved by the largest margins at Field and Eriksson elementary schools where voters okayed the proposal by six to one margins. At Eriksson, for

Special session set City wants Graper funds

BY JIM TOTTEN

The City of Plymouth Commissioners will be discussing the unpaid expenses of former city manager Henry Graper at a special closed meeting on Monday.

The closed meeting to discuss "employment disputes" was requested by attorney John Thomas, who will be in attendance for Graper, in an Aug. 28 letter to the city commissioners.

Thomas did not return phone calls to The Crier.

City Finance Director Bill Graham said Monday that Graper still owes the city approximately $2,680 for partially documented and undocumented expenditures and unpaid advances.

In a memo to city commissioners, City Manager Steve Walters wrote that Graper's balance was to be paid by Aug. 31.

The Aug. 28 letter from Thomas was received, Walters wrote, but no money.

The closed session was originally scheduled for the Sept. 16 city commission session meeting but had to be postponed when that meeting lasted past midnight.

An audit of Graper by the Michigan Department of Treasury recommended in November, 1990 that he return $10,532 to the city for improper reimbursements.

For resident, town Brandy lives on

BY KEN VOYLES

Brandy has taken this town by storm.

The very special apricot toy poodle owned by Kathy and Bob Mount passed away in May, but lives on in the hearts and minds of local residents, a symbol of what one loving pet can do for a community and to help others.

Brandy, who died on May 14 succumbing to a neurological disorder, was three months shy of his 18th birthday. This weekend a special memorial pet walk will remember Brandy and at the same time aid Mott Children's Hospital where the poodle entertained for more than 13 years.

"It feels like we're still working together as a team helping children," said Mount, a 44-year-old Plymouth Township organizing the pet walk in

Canton Police range stays with limited hours

BY KEN VOYLES

Under a new agreement expected to be approved by the Canton Board of Trustees last night, the Canton Police Department range will continue to operate at its current location in the southeast portion of the township.

The agreement, worked out with township residents in the South Canton Citizens Association (SCCA), comes three years after the firing range first opened. At that time residents raised concerns about the site.

John Santomauro said that since its opening, the range has been the target of "numerous complaints" over noise, hours of operation and safety. He said the department has tried to address those issues by limiting hours of operation by day of the week, and hour of day, as well as prohibiting weekend and night shoots.

LIGHT House leaving Roe St.

Personalized Nursing LIGHT House Inc. has decided that its tenants will be leaving the 303 Roe St. site in the City of Plymouth before Oct. 1, said Marcia Andersen, program director, on Monday.

Andersen said that the landlord John Mason has notified LIGHT House that the outfit's lease will not be renewed.

Andersen said LIGHT House demonstrated that it never conducted business at the 303 Roe St. site despite concerns repeatedly raised by Plymouth residents living near the facility.

"Nobody was ever robbed or hurt there and the things people said would happen never happened," said Andersen. "People just never would leave us alone there."

At an Aug. 29 meeting with concerned residents, range noise and hours of operation were again the focus of concern by residents in the SCCA.

Based on meetings with the residents, said Santomauro, the proposed agreement was worked out to "mandate" operation of the police range.

The agreement calls for the range to be used by Canton Police and special operations teams only. It will be used on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays only from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and closed on holidays and weekends.

The SCCA "shall review, provide input and take part in the final approval process on range modifications" made to ensure safety and noise reduction.

Under the agreement, the range modifications must be completed by Jan. 1, 1992 or the site will close permanently. Once the modifications are completed a joint review is planned to look at the effectiveness of the changes.

The review will include police officials, residents and members of the township board and will be conducted during a scheduled practice firing by Canton Police. The results will be presented to the entire township board at its next meeting.

Also, in the agreement, any future changes to the range must be reviewed and authorized by the SCCA and approved by the township board.

Santomauro said that the department has been working with Risk Management to implement various range improvements.

Those improvements include: enclosing the berm area, fencing the actual range facility, posting the necessary signage, and construction of a flag pole with red flag to indicate when the range is in use.

Funds to make the changes have already been earmarked, said Santomauro, including $5,000 under the previous budget.

Miller Woods ordinance faces vote

BY JIM TOTTEN

A natural preserve ordinance designed to protect Miller Woods was expected to be passed by the Plymouth Township Trustees at their meeting last night.

The preserve ordinance is an effort to allow stricter regulation of Miller Woods by township police since vandalism has been a recurring problem. The ordinance, which went through its first reading at the Sept. 10 township trustee meeting, was scheduled to be read for the second time.

Township and Plymouth-Canton Community Schools District officials have worked closely with members of Friends of Miller Woods to draft and write the ordinance.

"I'm extremely pleased that the township wants to do this," said Beverly McAninch, who is serving as co-president of the group along with Emily Kemnitz. The group was started around 1973 by residents who wanted to protect and preserve the Maple-Beech climax forest along Powell Road.

The P-C Board of Education, which owns the property Miller Woods occupies, designated the area a "nature preserve" in June. This was required so the township could pass an ordinance governing "nature preserves."

The ordinance states that, "No person shall willfully damage, cut, carve, transplant, or remove any tree or plant or injure the bark of any tree or plant, or attach any rope, wire or other contrivance to any tree or plant..."

Wildlife is also addressed in the ordinance. It states, "No person shall attempt to harm or injure, kill, shoot or throw missiles at any animals, reptile or bird."

Littering and building fires in the woods are prohibited by the ordinance.

The rules and regulations laid down by the ordinance will be enforced by the township police.

The ordinance also prohibits "a dog, horse or any other domestic animal to enter an area designated a natural preserve." Vehicles that are banned in the woods include bicycles, motorcycles and cars.

"The only way to protect it was to create an ordinance for natural preserves," said Township Supervisor Gerald Law.

McAninch said that members of the Friends group have "collaborated on all discussions" involving the woods during the past two years.

She stressed the need for preservation of the woods since there have been "all kinds of intrusions." She said residents have had beer parties, made fires and cut down trees in the woods.

"It's clear that people do not realize the extremely rarity of a forest like this," McAninch said, adding that motorcycles and bikes have been a "real problem."

She said dogs were prohibited since they chased out many of the small wildlife.

James Anulewicz, director of public services for Plymouth Township, said the ordinance gives the police department the right to go into the woods and enforce rules for its protection.

Anulewicz said the development of the preserve ordinance is an example of local government, school officials and local citizens "working together in concert and cooperation to arrive at a mutual goal."

Schools sell CEP, East property

BY KEN VOYLES

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education Monday approved the sale of two small parcels of district property at Centennial Educational Park (CEP) and East Middle School.

The CEP parcel includes approximately 3.5 acres on the southwest corner of the site and is cut off by a stream, which makes it inaccessible and land the district will not likely use, said Superintendent John M. Hoben.

The property is being sold to Santokh Labana and will be used as part of an extension to the Sunflower subdivision. The cost is $12,500 per acre.

Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business, said Canton officials agreed with the sale as well since developing the site will allow for better emergency vehicle access to parts of Sunflower.

The other parcel is a .16 acre site next

DDA approves talks over Penniman PO

BY JIM TOTTEN

Negotiations between the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) and the U.S. Postal Service for the purchase of the downtown Post Office building will soon be starting.

After discussing the purchase in a closed session Thursday, city manager Steve Walters said the DDA voted to proceed to negotiate with the Postal Service. Walters, who serves as the director of the DDA, will be conducting most of the negotiating.

"This will be probably be done by telephone and by correspondence," Walters said Tuesday, adding that communications will continue "back and forth" in working out an agreement.

He said he expected to have a proposal for the Postal Service written by the end of the week.

The city commissioners approved a resolution for the DDA to start negotiating with the Postal Service for the building on Sept. 16.

Since there have been no other government responses for the building, Walters said postal officials from the real estate division in Chicago, appeared to be willing to spend "some time to negotiate

But get wide range of input Post office deal smart

The City of Plymouth has made a sound move by taking the initial step in the proposed purchase of the downtown Post Office building.

The city commissioners have given support to the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) which voted to consider purchasing the building offered for sale by the U.S. Postal Service.

The building and its location will have a significant impact on future commercial development in the downtown. Buying the building to control and direct this development is an excellent way to insure that future owners will utilize the space in the best way suitable for Plymouth City.

Buying the Post Office will also allow for preserving the historical value of the building which has a unique mural dating back to the Depression years.

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack is envious of Plymouth City for having such an opportunity to influence growth in its boundaries.

Yet the city, as Yack recently suggested, should not wait until it has purchased the building before getting the ball rolling on development plans. The city needs to immediately start gathering local merchants and others for discussions to determine what should happen with that building.

The longer that building remains half used, the greater the amount of money the city is kissing goodbye from future commercial use.

Start discussing, planning and working out a direction for the site with merchants and others who are interested so that if and when the building is purchased by the DDA, the next step can be taken immediately.

This will also prevent an outcry that the local government did not seek the input of the residents and local merchants before taking action on future plans for the site.

It is now time for the city to form a group of merchants and government officials to talk about future plans for the downtown Post Office building.

Met by bias, prejudice Roe Street not welcomed

EDITOR:

Personalized Nursing LIGHT House Inc. has decided that its tenants will be leaving 303 Roe St. before Oct. 1, 1991. Our landlord, John Mason, has notified us that our lease will not be renewed.

As was demonstrated over the last year, the LIGHT House program never conducted business at 303 Roe St. Only residential activity occurred there. In December 1990, Michigan's Office of Substance Abuse Services officially ruled that the LIGHT House program did not need a residential license to operate its domicile apartments at 303 Roe because no program activities occurred at 303

Roe.

Only residential activity has taken place at 303 Roe. We welcome the opportunity to prove that, again in court, if necessary.

We have been astonished at our welcome in this community, my hometown for 27 years. This is a community with a very serious substance abuse problem. Huge numbers of adult residents are convicted every month of substance abuse-related offenses and their names published in The Plymouth-Canton Community Crier as a monthly feature.

Yet our program, Plymouth's only licensed program focusing on substance abuse problems in adults, has been the focus of much negative bias and prejudice.

The key licensure and funding agencies of our state regarded our LIGHT House program as extremely well-run and effective in assisting decent, handicapped people to maintain drug-free lifestyles, while developing their talents to start small businesses.

Starkweather well used Bond right direction

EDITOR:

I support The Crier's decision to endorse the bond proposal but I must disagree with your positions that "the district has not made the best use of...Starkweather Center."

Plymouth-Canton Community Education currently conducts classes at Starkweather on Helbrook in Plymouth from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, providing educational opportunities for adults returning to school for high school completion programs, GED preparation, vocational training, basic skills improvement and English as a Second Language classes.

More than 300 students attend these classes at Starkweather each day.

In addition to being an adult education center, Starkweather also houses the offices of the Community Literacy Council, the Plymouth-Canton Business Education Partnership, the Plymouth-Canton Bilingual Project and the Community Education Job Placement Center, and it provides space for the Plymouth AAUW to sort, store and sell thousands of books it collects for its annual used book sale.

Starkweather is also a Health-O-Rama site each spring -- the only such site in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Look closely at how extensively Starkweather is used and I think you will conclude that the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education is making very good use of Starkweather Center.

In the margin

By Ken Voyles

The face of downtown Plymouth could change in the next few years with the expansion of a new library building.

It is a move that seems a long time coming. Just walk into the Plymouth library sometime and notice the haphazard structure — it got that way through three different building phases, all of them growing phases.

Today the library is just too small for the size of business done there on a daily basis. Down in Canton they have a beautiful facility, one that will last them many years, a giant compared to Plymouth.

Sometimes I think the city has lost sight of what the library can do for the community and has been a little slow in realizing the importance of it to the downtown, to the community as a whole.

Well, it's time to change that. The library board wants to expand the building to a total of 48,000 square feet, but to do that will cost money and take a lot of soul searching.

Some of that soul searching has been underway for the past year through a space needs assessment and now an expansion feasibility study.

Do you want the library to be as big as it can get? Or is it more important that it remain a fixture downtown? Can we have both?

Underlying the soul searching is the painful transformation taking place in downtown Plymouth, a transformation being wrought by closed up shops and vacant properties.

If the library leaves, some would argue, you might as well turn out the lights and close the file on Plymouth.

Now we all know that's just not true, but there are real concerns lately about letting anything "get out of town." Sure the Amoco site remains a wonderfully abstract addition off the park, and we can't help but thank Farmer Jacks for the tacky site adding so much to South Main Street.

The economy has played havoc with this town, a place so dependent on its endless list of craft shoppes. A turn in the economic forecast will not a town remake, however.

So keep the library downtown, heck, keep it at the same site, but realize the face of downtown will still change.

Let's look at the library options for a moment. The experts are telling the library board to abandon or demolish the current building. They did add quickly, though, that a new building could be constructed on the same, or near same, site.

To do that the area behind city hall faces a major change. The library planners envision a huge library just to the south or east of the current site, gobbling up the current parking lot and many, if not all, of the homes fronting Union Street from Church Street to

The Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth. Is an era coming to an end? (Crier photo by Ken Voyles)

Penniman Avenue.

It is an interesting idea, setting the library back off Main Street and extending the civic center almost right up to Union Street. It would actually go a long way towards extending the downtown area around Kellogg Park. This would help Fall Festival and the ice festival a great deal by bringing the library right into the action as a focal point behind city hall and between Church Street and the Penn Theatre.

It might cause some real traffic flow concerns, but better yet it could create a mall like center just off Kellogg Park, a mall more akin to Washington D.C.'s Mall than Twelve Oaks.

It might also create the kind of traffic a town like this needs with lots of families visiting downtown to shop, visit the museum and stop by the library.

Could we use that? Yes, now more than ever.

Big changes indeed.

Thanks for generous donation

From the horse's mouth

By Jim Totten

The City of Plymouth Commissioners did something at their last meeting (Sept. 16) which should be done more often.

The city commissioners reviewed and evaluated their attorney Ron Lowe on a number of criteria, including "can-do" attitude and "political savvy." Commissioners filled out evaluation forms rating the city attorney on his performance in each area.

Lowe, who has never before had this type of feedback, was able to hear from his commissioners on what they thought were his strong points, weak points and any others.

The last time the city commissioners, according to Lowe, conducted an evaluation of their attorney was in 1968.

"There's no guidance out there," Lowe said at the evaluation about the lack of direction from the commissioners.

"If you will set down the parameters you want me to operate in," he said, "I will show you that I can succeed in that area."

Giving direction and establishing what is expected from an employee should be required from all bosses. Clear communication between the two is the best way to insure that the essential work will get done.

And by placing the responsibility on the employee, it immediately sets a goal to be reached.

I have found it all too common for bosses not to give any kind of feedback on work performance, whether it was good or bad. The comment was few and far between when a boss said, "You handled that well," or simply, "You're doing a good job, keep it up."

A comment such as those, when it is deserved, can make a big difference in an employee's attitude and willingness to keep working hard.

Many bosses whom I have had the fortune to work with had the idea that comments are needed only when a mistake is made. How long does it take for a boss to realize that strictly negative comments will send employee attitude spiraling downward? And probably to another job.

Based on discussions during the review session, Lowe said that city commissioners will begin setting guidelines for what they expect from their attorney. He said the evaluation will be compiled into writing to establish new standards for the city attorney.

The next review session, based on the new criteria, will probably be held sometime next year. The review of the city attorney is planned to be held annually.

Also, city manager Steve Walters said the commissioners decided to retain Lowe based on the fact that "no great concerns" about his performance were raised during the review.

And most importantly, Lowe will now be getting feedback on how he should perform as city attorney.

Fest for local groups

EDITOR:

Regarding Fall Fest . . . It has been brought to my attention that much of the general public that visits the Fest are not aware that the food booths and other events are run by not-for-profit service organizations. It is their opportunity to raise funds for their pet projects to benefit the community.

If people understood this, I believe their perception of the Fest would be more positive.

One possible way to communicate this idea would be to have more visual signage on the tents themselves, prominently posted, explaining what benefit each group provides the Community and specifically what they fund with the proceeds from their event.

Pet walk challenges youth to raise $$

BY JIM TOTTEN

Brian Williams, 14, has pedaled his bicycle many miles through neighborhoods in the City of Plymouth during the last two weeks.

Having set a goal of collecting $1,000 in donations for the Brandy Memorial Pet Walk fundraiser this Saturday, Williams has spent his free time in the evenings stopping at homes and asking for donations.

And it looks like he will accomplish his goal. By Friday, the youth had collected $760 in donations from 156 pledges.

The money for the pet walk fundraiser will go to C.S. Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor.

C.S. Mott is the same hospital where Williams was born after being carried for only six and half months. His mother, Margaret Williams, said he was born with mild cerebral palsy and needed to be resuscitated with a respirator.

The cerebral palsy has made walking more difficult and affects Brian's learning abilities.

Brandy, the dog for which the pet walk is being dedicated, entertained Williams and other children during their stay at the hospital.

And almost single-handedly, the eighth grader from Lowell Middle School wants to make sure the fundraiser is a success.

"I just wanted to," Brian responded when asked about collecting the donations. "I just like to do it."

His mother, Margaret, walks along with him as he rides his bike to different neighborhoods. He spends about two hours every evening except for the weekends stopping at homes to ask for pledges.

Brian goes to as many homes as possible, his mother said, "depending on how long he can ride his bike."

"I do my homework, take my bath and go to bed," Brian said when he arrives home after collecting donations.

Besides the neighborhood around Palmer Street, Brian has collected donations from downtown merchants and relatives.

He plans to enter his dog, Josh, into the pet walk which will be held from 2-5 p.m. and begins in Kellogg Park. In addition to Josh, he has another pet dog, Peanut, three cats named Gizmo, Cocco and Sweet Pea and a box turtle.

He said he hasn't named the turtle which he found on the side of the road while he was in Georgia.

After the pet walk and collecting donations, Brian said he plans to just relax in the evenings.

"I'll probably just sit and watch television," he said, adding that the Scrabble Game Show is his favorite.

"I'll probably just sleep in," he said. "I don't even like to get up for school."

hearts, none more so than the children at Mott, but he also performed for orphanages, churches, nursing homes, youth groups, abused children and for Brownie troops. Before he died Brandy was blind and deaf, but his heart, although failing along with his kidneys, was that of a performer.

"Brandy had many part time jobs, spreading cheer where it was most needed," said Mount. "Those last months were not without their tender mercies."

Learning that the Mounts were housebound with Brandy, a local church invited them to an Easter service in Brandy's honor. Brandy had performed there years before.

In April the Mott community conducted a service in its chapel to acknowledge Brandy's years of service and offer prayers of blessing and thanks.

Two weeks before his death Brandy was featured in an edition of Pet Focus magazine.

The Enesco Corporation (Precious Moments) is planning a special figurine in honor of Brandy.

During his active years, Brandy performed at Mott, sometimes for up to four hours. In 1987 he was a hospital "calendar boy."

Less than three years ago Brandy showed signs of failing eyesight and progressive hearing loss. The Mounts turned to a veterinarian from Colorado who outfitted Brandy with a hearing aid.

With the aid, one of the first in this country, Brandy continued to perform and bring joy to many people.

Brandy's career first began when Mount approached a volunteer at Mott and offered her special friend's services. "I was very ill at the time and thinking only about myself," she said. "Then I got inspired while recovering and took my eyes off self and instead how I could help others."

Brandy specialized in a grab bag of tricks to amaze and delight young and old. Besides jumping through hoops and doing flips, Brandy often delighted by singing and play boxing.

Brandy's last performance at Mott came last Christmas. Though blind and using a hearing aid, he came out of retirement to perform. According to Mount, the children did not seem to notice his infirmities, as they cuddled him, walked him around the room and received his kisses.

Mount said the idea of the pet walk was to give children and adults of the community a chance to help less fortunate children and to allow Brandy in his passing to serve one more time.

With the walk just a days off the many signs of Brandy's presence remain in the community — his picture and good deeds grace store fronts, can be found on street corners, or in the media. Memorial tributes abound — someone has even composed a song in his honor.

Brandy you remain a star in this town.

Walk features prizes, entertainment, movie

BY KEN VOYLES

It has been endorsed by the Queen of England, and Detroit Red Wings star Bob Probert. Support has also come in from all over the community — from businesses and individuals, to schools and governments.

That's right, the first ever Brandy Memorial Pet Walk fundraiser for C.S. Mott Children's Hospital takes over the City of Plymouth this weekend. With a walk planned Saturday (Sept. 28) and various other activities set for Sunday (Sept. 29), expect a weekend full of things to do for both young and old — all in the name of helping young children and remembering a very special friend.

It could be literally raining cats and dogs this weekend since the walk is open to all types of pets, said organizer and Brandy's mom Kathy Mount. There will be two walks on Saturday starting shortly after the 2 p.m. registration (those entering the walk will register that day). One walk around Kellogg Park will be open to cats and other family pets, while the second walk down Main Street to Plymouth City Hall is specially for dogs.

To qualify for the pet walk youths and adults need to collect at least 10 sponsors (this also qualifies walkers for a special showing of the movie "All Dogs Go to Heaven" on Sunday at the Penn Theatre). To earn a free t-shirt walkers need to collect at least 20 sponsors.

Even those without pets can join the fundraiser, said Mount, by registering and joining the walkers. She added that pets need to be on a leash, carried by their owners or in a wagon.

Registration is planned for 2 p.m. Saturday in the Gathering off Kellogg Park. An entry form, along with donor sheets, need to be turned in at that time.

There will also be a variety of prizes for the pet walkers collecting the most donations and the most sponsors in four different age groups. The top four donation collectors in each age will receive a prize and the walker with the most sponsors will also be awarded a prize.

The prizes include plaques, trophies, a gold bracelet, special photographs, pet groomings, dinner for two, jewelry, a private birthday party, autographed photos of Detroit Pistons Isaiah Thomas, Dennis Rodman and John Salley, a hockey puck

The Board Report

A brief review of actions at the regular Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education meeting of September 23, 1991

The meeting began with a multimedia presentation by Brian Makowski and Brian Curtis of IBM. Makowski demonstrated how videotape can be placed on a computer disk and be shown through a computer.

Richard Egli, Administrative Assistant for Community Relations, presented the Board with a plaque from the Association of French-American Classes for its outstanding contribution to the success of Plymouth-Canton's French-American exchange program.

Ray Buckman, Citizen Legislative Liaison, reported to the Board on tax base sharing among school districts. He added that the State Aid Act is scheduled to be completed this week.

The Superintendent reported on Governor Engler's message presented on Sept. 11. He commented that tax base sharing among school districts will help to provide a more equal educational structure for Michigan school children, although it will cause a reduction in revenue for the Plymouth-Canton Community School District.

Administrative Intern Jeffrey Fordell presented the 1990-91 Elementary Counselor Program Assessment report to the Board.

Under citizens' comments, Mr. Ted Boland spoke on the Bond election. Mr. Ray Buckman donated a plaque, which was given to him by the "I Care" group, to be placed in the Board room.

The Board approved the Consent Calendar which included:

- payment of bills in the amount of $2,337,184.30.
- the leave of Bonnie Goodrich, sixth-grade teacher at Lowell Middle School.
- the retirement of Helen Moyer, elementary teacher at Farrand Elementary School.
- the appointment of Gary Balconi as the Faculty Athletic Manager at Salem High School.
- the sale of 3.5 acres of vacant school property at the Centennial Educational Park to Mr. Santokh S. Labana for $12,500 per acre.
- the sale of .16 acres of vacant school property at East Middle School to Mr. Robert F. Townsley for the amount of $20,500.

The Board considered the approval of the expulsion of two students. The parents of one student requested that a closed hearing be held. The Board moved to executive session for this hearing. Following that session, the Board expelled the student who had been the subject of the hearing. However, acknowledging positive changes in the student, the Board suspended the expulsion and permitted the student to return to school providing the student continued to maintain his changes. The second student was expelled.

A special meeting of the Board of Education will be held on Monday, Sept. 30 at the Board of Education office on Harvey in Plymouth to discuss the winter tax levy and to consider approval of the Board of Canvassers minutes from the special election held on Sept. 24. Following the special meeting, a workshop on the District's vision and goals will be held.

The next regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held on Monday, Oct. 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the Board of Education office.

This report is brought to you as a means of communicating your Board of Education's actions. If you have questions about these actions or would like further information about your schools, call 451-3188.

Tax plan could cost P-C Schools $900,000

A new tax sharing plan to fund education in Michigan could cost the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district nearly $900,000, Superintendent John M. Hoben told the Plymouth-Canton Schools Board of Education Monday.

According to Hoben, the sharing plan remains a "confused issue," but Plymouth-Canton stands to lose from $300,000 to $900,000. Hoben added, though, that the likely figure is around a half million dollars.

"All we know right now is that it is going to cost us money," Hoben said. "They are still shaking it out and we should know more later this week."

With recapture funds added, the district could be out almost $1.5 million, Hoben told the board.

Unveiled two weeks ago, the plan outlined by Gov. John Engler as "Michigan's 2000" plan, calls for richer school districts to share tax revenues with poorer districts. Money from the state's out-of-formula districts ineligible for state aid would go to the in-formula districts that currently receive state funding.

Hoben admitted also that "maybe it's justified."

Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business, added, "There are lots of things happening in Lansing we have no control over."

State lab determines Arson caused City fire

The State of Michigan Fire Marshal Crime Lab has determined that arson was the source of a fire that destroyed an apartment in the City of Plymouth in August.

City of Plymouth Fire Department Chief Al Matthews said last week that based on lab results, the Michigan Fire Marshal Crime Lab "listed the fire as an incendiary fire."

The fire destroyed the interior of one apartment in the Mayflower Townhouse Cooperative, at 400 Plymouth Rd., and caused smoke damage to an adjoining apartment. "It's an arson fire — it wasn't caused by accidental means," Matthews said. He declined to release further information from the lab results since the investigation has not been completed.

The State Fire Marshal and the city fire department have been conducting a joint investigation of the fire which was previously listed as a "suspicious."

Matthews said that putting the suspect(s) at the time and place of the fire is the most difficult part of seeking a warrant for arson.

A pioneer tale

Remembering the LeVan family

BY VERA WOODS

When one thinks of covered wagons, one thinks of the prairies, but many pioneers came to Michigan in covered wagons as well.

The family of Emily Peebles, for example, arrived in Salem Township in a covered wagon after traveling from Massachusetts. They arrived in time for Emily to be born here -- the same year Michigan became a state.

When James LeVan (1835-1917) and Emily (1837-1928) were first married, they joined a vaudeville show and toured rural Michigan. They sang duets in front of the curtain, between acts, while the scenery was changed.

Walter LeVan at the tender age of four.

As their humorous speciality, before the last act, James would sing, "Ruben, Ruben, I've been thinking, what a strange world this would be, if the girls were all transported far beyond the Northern Sea."

Then Emily would respond with the same melody, but singing, "If the boys were all transported far beyond the Northern Sea."

Emily's skirt had been fastened to the curtain roller, so when the stage hand rolled up the curtain, her skirt went up too, showing her pantaloons to her waistline.

This was really spectacular in those days -- the audience laughed and applauded loudly.

When Walter LeVan was born, James and Emily, gave him the middle name of Ruben.

The family bought its farm in 1875 when Walter was just 10 years old. At first they lived in a log house. Indians used to migrate along the road in front of the log house.

One day Emily was alone with the baby and was peeling vegetables at the kitchen table. A shadow fell across the room. She looked up and an Indian stood in the doorway. She dropped the knife, snatched up the baby and ran into the bedroom, closing the door behind her.

After a while she came out and went into the kitchen. The knife was gone.

Exactly one year, to the day, the family came home from the fields, and there was the knife, sticking in the wooden doorframe. The Indian had returned it.

The LeVan family continued living in the log house until Walter grew up and then they built a farmhouse on the property.

Walter wasn't much interested in farming. He was a cabinet maker, specializing in building schoolhouses. When he inherited the property, he sold it, although he and his wife Ada continued to live there until his death. He was building a schoolhouse in Redford at the time he died.

Ada was an accomplished artist who gave oil painting lessons in the evenings to local school teachers.

Walter Ruben LeVan had a truck called an REO Speedwagon. There was a vacant field outside of Plymouth on Plymouth Road and on Sundays baseball was played there. Walter loved to go every Sunday and take a keg of beer in the back of his truck for all to share.

When his granddaughter Vera was in kindergarten in Plymouth School, he drove his truck to the school one day and invited every girl in the class to go on a picnic. All the girls climbed in and he drove around to each one's house and each ran in, got her mother, who came out to the truck and gave permission.

The LeVan homestead built by Walter for his parents was located at what is now Levan and Plymouth roads.

Some of the mothers wanted to rush back in and gather something to send along to eat, but Walter refused, saying he had plenty already.

Walter drove us to the banks of the River Rouge near Newburg. While he built a fire we went around gathering sticks to roast hot dogs. Then while the fire was readying he strolled along the banks with us pointing out different plants. One stuck in everybody's mind because he had them pick a leaf and smell it...it was "skunk cabbage."

Everybody had a wonderful afternoon and when it was over he drove each girl home and had them run into the house, get their mother, so as to deliver the girl in person.

Walter's favorite Saturday evening pastime was bowling in the Penniman-Allen bowling alley on Penniman in Plymouth.

As tangible evidence of his carpentry skills, one can still admire the house on the southwest corner of Penniman and Harvey. He was commissioned to build it for Mr. and Mrs. Dibble around 1921.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The above story was told to Vera Woods by her grandfather Walter LeVan and her great grandmother Emily (Peebles) LeVan.

Vera Woods Cousino lives on Hobart Street in Los Angeles. She graduated from Plymouth High School in 1933 and taught school there before retiring in that community.

Her parents lived at 1011 Penniman, Plymouth, for many years. Her father, Emerson Woods, worked for the railroad, while her mother, Margaret LeVan Woods, operated a beauty shop out of her home.

This material was prepared by Vera and sent to Ernie Archer for inclusion in the files at the Plymouth Historical Museum.

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

Have you ever thought of investing in a long distance phone service? It has to be a sure money maker.

Even when the economy is down and people watch how they spend their money, they still pick up the phone.

Some day when I have money I'm going to invest in a phone service just so I'll feel better every time I spend an hour talking to my son, my mom or my cousin. Actually I've always felt the importance of those long distance calls was worth every dollar I've spent on them.

My son and I talk more on the phone than we ever did when he was home. The fact that one of us was always coming or going probably had something to do with it, but now that he's living out of state we can't take those short conversations for granted. Maybe it's easier for him to talk to me long distance, especially when I scream, "You did what?" into his ear. (I handled hearing about his white water rafting trip quite well, but I became a bit unglued listening to his sky diving adventures.)

The kid definitely knows just what to say to get a reaction from me. When I asked him if he was coming home for the holidays, he replied, "Mom, I am home -- I'm sitting on my sofa in my living room." I bit my tongue, wondering how a child of mine could be so independent. A week or two after that I casually asked if he was getting homesick (okay, so it was a dumb question but sometimes a mom is entitled to ask these things). When the voice on the other end of the phone said, "How can I get homesick when I'm already home?," I suggested perhaps it was a good thing he wasn't in smacking range.

After enough abuse from the kid, it's comforting to pick up the phone and call mom. After hearing about the family news, I have to listen to her laugh at me when I tell her about my kids. Being told my kids are no more independent than their mother was at that age is one thing, but hearing my own mother (who is supposed to be understanding) say I did a lot of crazy things, is a bit much.

All I can say is I may have been a little independent and moved out of state at a young age, but I certainly didn't do anything stupid like jumping out of an airplane.

If I want more abuse, I can always call my brothers (I knew someday I'd find something they were good at). While they always seem to agree with everything my kids do, it gives me great pleasure to watch my nieces and nephew grow up (both of my brothers look good with a touch of gray in their hair).

Although I keep a phone company in business, perhaps it's a good thing I'm at least a long distance call away.

The Northville Historical Society will present its 22nd Tivoli Fair, Friday Sept. 27, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday, Sept. 28, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Northville Downs Clubhouse.

Over 100 exhibitors will display their crafts.

Admission is $2 with proceeds going for restoration work in the Mill Race Historical Village, a living museum of the area prior to 1900. Fire laws prohibit the use of strollers.

For additional information, call 348-1845 Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Friends of the Miller Woods will host three more monthly walks in the rare climax-beech forest in Plymouth Township between now and December.

The walks, "Explore the Woods," will be held the second Sunday of each month and be conducted by Joyce Holmes and Emily Kernnitz. The walks begin at 1 p.m. at the woods entrance along Powell Road just west of Beck Road.

Group members, families and friends interested in learning more about the woods are welcome.

The three remaining walks are as follows: Oct. 13, "October's Party"; Nov. 10, "Those Who Go and Those Who Stay"; and Dec. 8, "Winter Woods."

For information about the free walks call Kernnitz at 453-6192.

Features mills, Indian sites Harvest picnic, tour

The Plymouth Historical Society will host a special Harvest Picnic and Historic Tour this Sunday (Sept. 29) featuring a tour of memorable and historic Indian sites and old mills throughout the community.

For reservations or further details call the Plymouth Historical Museum at 455-8940.

Speakers for the event include well known author Helen Gilbert; Gary Stone, an expert on the history of early Wayne County mills; and Betty Childs, the museum's education chairperson.

A variety of interesting questions may be answered

Are there Indians buried in the old Presbyterian Cemetery on Church Street?

Is it true that the Wyandotte Chief Roundhead, an aid to Chief Tecumseh, is buried in Plymouth? Was there a Fort Kellogg in the downtown area or just a fortified cabin used as a fort? Did the Huron Indians live around here? Did the rare discoidal Indian dish found here have special significance? What mills preceded the Wilcox mill on the same site? Where is the location of Luther Lincoln's mill? What happened to the mill Henry Ford moved from here to Greenfield Village?

Weather permitting, the potluck will be held outside and a short discussion will be followed by the guided tour. A main dish will be provided but those attending should bring place settings and a dish to pass.

Helps disabled driver 18-year-old halts van

BY JIM TOTTEN

A Salem High senior reacted quickly last Monday afternoon to stop a moving van that went out of control, possibly preventing the driver's injury or a major accident.

"My heart was pounding away while I was trying to hit the brake," said Jeremy Stamp, 18, who jumped onto and halted the van whose driver, according to City of Plymouth Police, apparently suffered a blackout or seizure.

MSP opening dispatch site

The Michigan State Police facility in Northville Township will become the MSP Northville Regional Dispatch center at the end of this month, according to an official with the Michigan Department of State Police.

The center will assume communications responsibilities for all Michigan State Police posts in southeastern Michigan.

An open house and reception is planned for Friday (Sept. 27) from 9-11:30 a.m.

Computers next? Cops study paper overflow

BY JIM TOTTEN

Paperwork procedures for the City of Plymouth Police Department need to be revised and simplified, according to acting police chief Robert Scoggins.

A "duplication in redundancy" exists in the current paper flow, Scoggins said Friday, and results in police department employees filling out the same information several times. He also said there has been many complaints about the current system.

To correct the problem, a steering committee of patrol officers, clerical workers and dispatch personnel has been formed to study what next steps need to be taken. Scoggins said the committee will be bringing him a list of proposed recommendations.

"It (the committee) is designed to go in and look at all of our normal procedures over the years," Scoggins said. "We're looking at revising many of our forms."

He said the study is a "prelude to computerization."

If the city and Plymouth Township were to combine police dispatch services, it has been strongly hinted that the city would switch over to the township computer system.

Whether or not combining dispatch services with the township occurs, Scoggins said the city police department needs to move towards computerization to handle its paper flow.

He said the current paperwork procedures "takes officers off the street for too long a time."

Many of the forms used by the police department need to be simplified or eliminated, he added.

"The city police department has got to make some steps in the evaluation in the

The van, which was traveling east on Ann Arbor Trail, crossed into the oncoming lane, ran over a small tree and went over a curb where it was stopped on the front lawn of a home.

Stamp said he was sitting in his car with his girlfriend on Sheldon Road at the Ann Arbor Trail intersection when he noticed the driver having problems.

"She looked like she was freaking out and jerking around the steering wheel," he said. "She went out into the other lane. I thought that it (steering) was just locked up."

Thinking the van was just coasting, Stamp said he ran up to the front of the vehicle and tried pushing it to a stop.

"But that didn't work," he said. He then jumped onto the side of the van and reached in and pushed the brake.

"What flashed through my mind was the 911 show when something like this happened on it," he said.

City of Plymouth Fire Chief Al Matthews, Stamp said, wrote him a letter stating that his actions "didn't go unnoticed."

The police report said the driver, a Westland resident, was taken to St. Mary Hospital.

way we do business," Scoggins said.

He hopes that the committee will complete its study within the next few weeks.

to East Middle School. The property would square off the back section of the site which backs up to Dick Scott Buick and would square off the entire East site, said Hoedel.

The .16 acre is being sold to Robert Townsley, owner of Colony Car Wash, for $20,500. Townsley plans to enlarge and modernize the car wash.

Both sales must still be reviewed by the school district's attorney Michael Pollard.

Ryan will stand trial for '90 accident

Joseph Ryan, the 39-year-old Plymouth Township man who allegedly struck down Melissa Chisholm along Ford Road last year, will stand trial for leaving the scene of the accident and failing to report it to the police.

Ryan, who went before 35th District Court Judge John MacDonald Friday as part of a preliminary examination, faces five years in prison and a $5,000 fine, if convicted of the charges.

An Oct. 4 arraignment was scheduled in Detroit Recorder's Court for Ryan, who was the neighbor of the Chisholm family when he lived in Canton.

At Chicago invite CEP Marchers 2nd

The Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band traveled to Chicago over the weekend to compete in the Lake Park Invitational band competition along with 15 other bands from Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin.

The CEP Band, the Bands of America defending national champions, placed second overall during the competition, begin bested only by the Lake Park Marching Band. Lake Park finished third in the country last band season.

The CEP Band's show this year features selections from the Broadway musical "Sunday in the Park with George," by Stephen Sondheim. The 189-member (students from both Salem and Canton highs) group has been developing its show in stages for this year's competition season.

The entire show is expected to be ready in time to defend the state, regional and national championships earned by the marchers last year.

Golfers in nationals

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

"If things keep going according to plan," say two Plymouth lawyers, "we'll be retiring in two years and hitting the (pro golf) circuit."

The two, Dennis Bila II and Charles Lowe Jr., are headed to compete in the national American Cancer Society Golf Tournament next month after having captured the Div-3 state title in a sudden death shootout.

Along with Chris and James Michels, the two will head to the Doral Country Club in Miami, FL on Oct. 25 and 26.

"I'm excited about playing Doral. It will really test our abilities," Lowe said. "And my parents will be able to watch because they live in Ft. Lauderdale."

Bila joked, "This is the first national title I've ever sought. Chuck (Lowe) is proud that I carried him along."

Despite opposition Canton hires golf firm

BY KEN VOYLES
Canton's Board of Trustees last week hired an architectural firm to help with the preliminary design phase of a new golf course centered around the Canton municipal area along Canton Center Road.

The approval was not without opposition, though, as Canton Treasurer Gerald Brown dissented on the 6-1 vote.

Brown said the golf project envisioned several years ago as a combined golf and residential development "had a life of its own."

"We have never approved this project,"

Local gets 6 for currency counterfeit

A resident of Plymouth was sentenced to nearly six years in prison last week on a charge that he conspired with others to deal in counterfeit U.S. currency.

Arthur Acosta, 43, of Plymouth, was sentenced in federal court before Judge Lawrence Zaitkoff.

Evidence presented at the trial established that co-conspirators manufactured $400,000 in counterfeit currency in Boston, said Patrick E. Corbett, assistant U.S. Attorney. Sometime in November and December of last year, the co-conspirators shipped $50,000-$60,000 of the currency in two stages to Acosta in exchange for a 1986 Mercedes Benz, said Corbett.

he said. "The board has never said we are going to build this golf course. I have never voted on this. We're way ahead of ourselves on this project and I don't understand the urgency."

Canton administrators said hiring the firm of Arthur Hills Associates would give the township a professional body to turn to when it finally decides whether or not to build the course.

But Brown said the township has already sunk more than $2 million in purchasing land for the project (about 250 acres).

"There is no plan for this project," Brown said. "It's acquired a life of its own."

Canton Clerk Loren Bennett said that the board had agreed not to "kill" the project but go ahead and research the idea.

"I like the idea," said Trustee Robert Shefferly. "This will help tell us more. We've gone this far, $26,000 to find out one way or another sounds reasonable."

Aaron Machnik said the proposal has reached the point where the township needs a golf course architect. He said a course "routing" needs to be developed to see if the project is feasible.

"We want to be able to explore a variety of options," he said. "I'd like to be able to work with a design firm when we ask for advice."

Machnik added that the firm would help Canton make intelligent decisions about the proposed golf course.

"I want to know where the project stands at this moment," Brown said. "Government doesn't belong in the development business."

The Canton Chamber of Commerce is about ready to move into a new office suite. According to Linda Shapona, the chamber's new executive director, the office will be open Oct. 1.

"We hope to be able to serve our businesses better and continue all of the programs," Shapona said. "It will be a wonderful office."

The new office is larger, she added, but will retain the same office hours of 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. during the week. Residents can pick up information about Canton and Michigan in the office. The chamber can also be reached at 453-4040.

Hitting great shots

Chiefs grab first conference win

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

It was a week filled with tough competition for the Canton girls basketball team, as the Chiefs chalked up two victories, raising their overall record to 4-2, and their conference record to 1-0.

The Chiefs outscored John Glenn, in their first conference game of the season in three of the four quarters Thursday.

Canton lead 11-5 at the end of the first quarter. Glenn came back in the second quarter scoring 12 points to Canton's nine, ending the half with the Chiefs leading by three, 20-17.

"We started out sluggish," said Canton coach Bob Blohm. "We had come off a road game on Tuesday against the number one Class B team in the state. But in the third quarter we came out ready to play."

he continued. "Our intensity was better, our rebounds were better."

In the third quarter, the Chiefs scored 13 points to Glenn's six, and in the fourth quarter, the Chiefs outscored Glenn 22-5.

The leading scorers for the Chiefs were Stephanie Gray with 18 points, Julie Nicastrri with 10, and Christie Saffron with eight.

Gray led the Chiefs in rebounds with 11, and Nicastrri pulled down eight. Leading the Canton team with assists was Saffron and Amy Westerhold.

"Tuesday's game helped us evaluate the team," said Blohm.

"Our rebounds and our defense did very, very well. Flint Powers is probably one of the top five teams in the state," he continued. "They have a couple of players who are considered top in the state. I was pleased to get a victory."

Canton won the Flint contest 51-42.

In the first quarter last Tuesday, Canton scored 10 points to Powers' 15. The Chiefs came on a little stronger in the second quarter, scoring 13 points and holding Powers to five. At halftime, the Chiefs led 23-20.

In the third quarter, the Flint team turned on the power, scoring 12 points and holding Canton to seven, leading the Chiefs 32-30 at the end of the quarter.

The fourth quarter was the turning point of the game.

With a little more than five minutes left to play, Powers was leading 38-30. But with 4:30 minutes to go, the Chiefs turned on the power. After a three-pointer by Kelly Holmes, the Chiefs scored 13 of their 19 points in the fourth quarter and held Powers to 12.

Westerhold was 8-8 in her free throws in the second half, and she went 6-6 in the last 4:30 minutes of play.

Leading scorers for the Chiefs were Gray with 15, Saffron with 13, and Westerhold with 10.

Blohm feels his season is going great.

"Our non-league schedule is very, very competitive," he said. "It's an opportunity to season our players and expose them to competition which is what you want your non-league games to do."

"I'm really excited about last week's results. It's given us momentum."

Rocks sink Franklin

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

It was an exciting game for the Salem girls basketball team as the Rocks defeated Livonia Franklin, 53-35 at home Thursday.

Salem coach Fred Thomann called it "a very big win (against) the ninth ranked Class A team.

"The whole game was exciting. We had great shots, a solid defense, exciting plays throughout the game," he said.

This victory brings the Rocks overall record to 2-4, and their league record to 1-0.

Franklin's stiffest competition came from Dawn Warner who scored 34 points against the Rocks.

Salem was down by one at the end of the first quarter, 11-10.

The Rocks outscored Franklin 18-13 in the second quarter, ending the half ahead by four, 28-24.

Salem then outscored Franklin again by five in the third quarter, 14-9, stretching the lead to nine points to end the third quarter with a score of 42-33. Franklin scored 12 point to Salems 11 in the fourth quarter, but the Rocks never gave up the lead, finishing with a victory.

Leading scorers for the Rocks were Darcie Miller with 19 points, Emily Guillian with 11, and Cyndi Platter with 10.

"Our rebounds were good," said Thomann. "They were the key of the game." Guillian had 14 rebounds, Miller had 11 and Platter had 9.

Leading in assists for Salem was Christy Parimpcha with six, and Leslie Gotts with four.

CEP kickers battle to tie

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

The Canton and Salem boys soccer team faced each other last Wednesday in a very competitive match that ended with a 2-2 tie.

The only goal scored in the first half, came in the eighth minute of the game by Salem halfback Eric Stemmer, assisted by John Truskowski.

The second half saw a little more action as three goals were scored. The first goal of the second half was notched by Canton forward Chris Hayes seven minutes into the half, tying the game at 1-1. Hayes was assisted by Mike Wdoziak.

Salem halfback Brian Spuck scored 10 minutes later, bringing the score to 2-1. He was assisted by Chris Saline.

Salem's Truskowski missed a penalty kick with 20 minutes left to play, which gave Canton the spark it needed to tie the game.

With six minutes left to play, Canton forward Graham Wilk scored the second goal for the Chiefs with an assist from Chris Hayes, resulting in a tied match.

Canton's record is now 6-2-1, after losing last week to Livonia Churchill.

"We're doing well this season," said Canton coach Don Smith. "With Churchill rated second in the state, and Salem rated third, we're holding our own."

With 14 returning players from last year's squad, Smith is happy with the performance of his team. "At mid-season, we're about where we should be," said Smith. "We're playing good ball and we're playing well as a team." He is looking forward to the rest of the season and tournament play.

"Gary Wiebe, Todd Kearney, Craig Miller, Owen Crosby, and Matt Daluisio are playing very, very strong defense for us," said Smith. He also credits goalies Ryan Henkel and Jim Bradley for the success of the team.

Leading scorers for the Chiefs this year are Chris Hayes with eight goals, and Brett Kearney with seven. Leading the team in assists are Mike Hayes with seven, and Chris Hayes with four.

Both Canton and Salem are ranked among the top 10 soccer teams in the state. Salem is in the third slot and Canton is in the seventh.

"Our league is tough," said Salem coach Ken Johnson. "It's one of the best leagues in the state for soccer."

Johnson feels his team and the Canton squad are well matched. "Canton was fired up. They wanted to win," he said. "We had the edge in the first half, the penalty kick was the turning point. They came back in the second half and fought back the rest of the game," he continued. "We have a good strong team and Canton is a strong team. It's nice to see Canton strong this year."

Salem's overall record is 7-1-1. The defeated Rocks Livonia Franklin last week 3-0 in league competition. Dave Studia scored two goals against Franklin for Salem and Jason Oberhelman kicked in one, his first varsity goal.

Salem XC wins

It was an easy victory for the Salem girls cross country team as they defeated John Glenn 15-48 last week.

Salem's top five finishers also took the top five overall wins. Finishing first at 21:04 was Emily Farrell. Second place went to Stacy Witthoff who finished one second behind her teammate at 21:05. Stacy Moore took third at 22:20. Beth Turomsha had fourth place at 22:25. And fifth place went to Kelly Morante at 22:29.

"We ran a nice race considering we were competing against each other," said Salem assistant coach Jennifer Harris. Salem's overall record is now 8-1-0.

Chief netters win, record now 5-2

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

The season is going fairly well for the Canton girls tennis team. The Chiefs overall record is 5-2, and their conference record stands at 4-1 after winning two of three matches last week.

Canton beat Walled Lake Central 5-3, Friday, coming back after losing the first three singles sets, to take the fourth singles and all four doubles sets.

Playing for the Chiefs in the first singles position was Denise Gildo, who lost 6-1, 6-1. Dorothy Pao, lost in the second singles slot 6-1, 6-3. Jennifer Davis, playing third singles lost 6-1, 1-6, 6-4.

Ellen Gaston came back in the fourth singles set after losing the first game 4-6, to take the second game 6-1, and the third game 6-3.

In the first doubles position, Cyndee Jones and Shazia Ahmed took the set 6-2, 6-3. In the second doubles position, the team of Pam Reynolds and Lynne Cessante took the set 6-2, 6-1. Kelley Blanche and Anne Zachary in the third position took the set 6-0, 6-0. And Alison Holmes and Kelly Caulfield won in the fourth doubles position 6-4, 6-0.

Also last week, Canton defeated Walled Lake Western 7-1, winning all sets except the first singles. The squad also lost its match to Salem 3-5.

"We've got some tough matches coming up," said Canton coach Carol Michaels. "As the season goes on, our girls are getting tougher. The Canton team is very respectable. The girls take tennis seriously and put in lots of hard work."

Michaels was pleased with the performance of her team, especially in Friday's match against Walled Lake Central. "Ellen hung in there," said Michaels. "It's very hard to come back when you're down. We needed that win to win the match."

Rock netters up record to 4-2

The sweet smell of victory surrounded the Salem girls tennis team last week as the Rocks won all three of their matches, bringing their record to 4-2 in all league competition.

The Salem squad ended the week defeating Northville, Friday, 4-3 at Northville.

In singles competition, playing in the first position was Jennifer Clack, who won 6-1, 6-1. Kathy Marschalk won in the second position 6-0, 6-2. Susie Bozell was defeated in a tough match that went to a tie breaker in the third position, 7-5, 7-6, 7-4. In the fourth position, Deepa Sreenivasan won 7-6, 6-4.

In doubles competition, the first team of Kelly Kirkpatrick and Leah Szafran lost 7-5, 6-1. The second team of Natalie Graves and Melissa Kawolis came back to win after losing the first set 2-6, 6-4, 6-4. The third team of Anne Bartalucci and Adrienne Wekerly lost 7-6, 2-6, 6-1.

As part of new regulations beginning with Friday's match against Northville, the fourth doubles won't count toward the varsity match, according to Salem coach Judie Braun. The fourth team of Jin Shin Kwak and Christy Moyer played a pro-set and were defeated 8-0.

The Rocks defeated Walled Lake Central 6-2 last Wednesday with the same line-up used to beat Northville, taking all matches except the first and second singles.

Salem started the week beating Canton 5-3.

Clack won the first singles match in three sets, defeating Canton's Denise Gildo, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2. Marschalk won the second position, defeating Jennifer Davis, 6-2, 6-4. In the third position, Bozell beat Dorothy Pao 6-4, 6-2. Sreenivasan was defeated by Canton's Ellen Gaston in the fourth position singles, 6-0, 6-2.

In doubles competition, the first position team of Kirkpatrick and Szafran lost 6-2, 6-1 to the Canton team of Cyndee Jones and Shazia Ahmed.

The second doubles team of Graves and Kawolis came back after losing the first set to defeat Canton's team of Pam Reynolds and Lynne Cessante, 3-6, 6-1, 6-0.

The third team of Bartalucci and Jessica Holtz lost to Canton's Kelley Blanche and Anne Zachary, 6-2, 6-1. Kwak and Moyer, playing in the fourth position defeated Canton's fourth team of Alison Holmes and Kelly Caulfield, 6-4, 6-3.

"This is a good team," said Braun. "The season is very, very hopeful. I see us doing nothing but improving. We will be in Dearborn for the regionals this year and we have an opportunity to go to the state," she continued. "We have to concentrate on peaking at the right time, and I think we'll be in good position to go to the state, and that is long overdo."

Rocks take meet

Strong running, a flat course, and cool temperatures helped the Salem's boys cross country team shave 30 seconds off their times and beat Westland John Glenn 23-35 Thursday, at John Glenn.

Derek Coudini finished first for Canton at 17:04, and in a home team call was awarded second place overall, when he and a Glenn runner crossed the finish line simultaneously.

"They came across together," said Salem coach Geoff Baker. "It was the call of the home team. On video, it showed Derek edged out their runner."

Steve Boudreau finished second for Salem and third overall with a time of 17:28. Justin Richardson finished third for Canton and fourth overall at 17:54. Jon Micevicius finished at 18:10, taking fourth for Salem and sixth overall. Matt Erickson took eighth overall and came in fifth for Salem at 18:28.

The Rocks' division record is 1-0 and their overall record is 2-0.

Salem also competed in the Jackson Invitational Saturday, finishing 12 out of 22 teams.

Big play kills Rocks

BY JAY KEENAN

One big play changed the final script abruptly Friday night.

North Farmington fullback Jon Sturtz took a screen pass from his quarterback and galloped for a 52-yard touchdown with 57 seconds remaining as the Raiders downed Salem High's football squad, 17-13, before a home crowd at CEP.

It was a game that appeared as though the Rocks might have been able to pull it off after running back Leon Hister put Salem up 13-10 on a two-yard touchdown run with less than four minutes left.

But the fired up Raiders answered back on the ensuing series and Sturtz managed to elude Salem tacklers on the 52-yard romp that won the game. North had hoped to tie the game and send it into overtime with a field goal, largely due to the fact that it has a solid kicker in Adam Chalmers.

The senior kicker not only had a 41-yard kick earlier in the game, but he also connected on field goals of 40 and 31 yards against Canton last week.

"When we went down and scored I thought we were going to win it," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer, whose team fell to 0-1 in the Lakes Division of the WLAA and 1-2 overall.

Salem made a last ditch bid at the end, but it was snuffed out. The Rocks moved the ball to the North 21 with two seconds left, but on the final play Hister was driven out of bounds near the North 12 and time expired.

The Raiders, now 2-1, got on the board first with nine minutes left in the first half. Todd Anderson capped a 64-yard drive with a touchdown dash from the 13.

Salem, though, came back on its following possession to tie the score at seven-all. The 76-yard drive consumed 7:36 on the clock and took 19 plays. Rick Araquil carried the ball on the last six plays of the drive, taking it into the endzone from the one-yard mark with 1:37 left in the half. Anuar Vargas booted the extra point.

North then scored again before the half ended when Chalmers booted his field goal to make it 10-7 with seven seconds left before intermission.

Neither team scored again until late in the final quarter when Hister took it in for the Rocks. On that series, Hister carried the ball all 10 times on an 80-yard drive, but the extra point kick was blocked.

Hister churned out 154 yards in 23 carries to pace Salem, while Araquil ran for 31 yards. Quarterback Pete Zantop connected on four of five passes for 24 yards.

"We had somewhat of a let down from last week," said Moshimer. "I will take responsibility for our team not being mentally ready to play this game. We're still a good football team."

The Rocks face Westland John Glenn on the road this Friday (Sept. 27). Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Six inches away. That's how close the Canton High football team may have been to an apparent victory Friday night.

It didn't work out, however, as league rival Northville High stopped the Chiefs just short of a first down inside the five-yard line in the final seconds to stop Canton, 28-23, at Northville.

On that momentous final series, senior tri-captain Steve Hohl returned a punt 40

Doctor's daughter recants CSC story

assistant prosecuting attorney, when the eight-year-old girl recanted earlier statements she had made that she and her siblings had been sexually abused by their father and forced into sex acts with each other as well.

"I was left without any real evidence," Diehl said Tuesday. "The oldest girl took back most of what she had said, but still said she had been fondled by her father."

In light of those statements, Diehl had asked that all but three of the counts against Nutting be dropped.

The girl reportedly told the court she had made up the stories because she "didn't like her dad much."

According to Strong, the girl's credibility had been tarnished by her conflicting statements.

"I found the defendant innocent on all charges. The fact that the oldest girl had contradicted herself cast doubt on her credibility," Strong said.

Strong said the attorneys had asked him to make a decision rather than proceed with the planned jury trial, and he complied.

The charges of criminal sexual conduct were not proven beyond a reasonable doubt, and two of the complainants did not testify," Strong said.

In May, the six-year-old boy had testified in 35th District Court that his father had instructed him to perform sex acts with his four-year-old and eight-year-old sisters, according to Diehl.

Diehl said at that time the sisters would also be testifying when the case went to trial.

But, when the five-year-old -- who was four when the acts allegedly occurred -- was called to the stand Thursday, she continually sobbed and would only say "I don't know" in response to questions. Monday, she balked at even entering the courtroom, according to Diehl.

More bond votes ahead?

BY KEN VOYLES

Will there be more bond proposals brought before the voters in the near future?

Dave Arley, president of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education, said Monday that reports from the rest of the blue ribbon committee (Vision 2010) are due by spring 1992.

"I wouldn't be surprised if there were recommendations for something like that," Arley said.

The current bond was put together by an existing facilities subcommittee of the blue ribbon panel. Two other subcommittees are still gathering information before presenting their reports to the board of education. Those committees include the new facilities committee and the Vision 2010 committee.

The boy, who had testified in a "composed and articulate manner" in 35th District Court, remained silent and refused to answer any questions when called to the stand in Recorder's Court.

Prior to the trial, Strong had examined all three children and found them competent to testify.

"Something happened between the time I had talked to the children before and now," Diehl said. "What that was, I don't know, the mother doesn't know, and the children aren't talking. We have a lot of ideas, but nothing we can prove."

Diehl did say that it is not believed that Nutting had any contact with the children other than sending them cards through the mail.

After the children told their mother they had been abused, she moved out of the family's Canton home to a location which was supposed to be kept secret, but the father "somehow" found out where they were and contacted them by mail, Diehl said.

The abuse allegedly took place between November, 1989 and November, 1990, according to Diehl.

The mother then filed for divorce and has custody of the children.

Tom Howard, Nutting's lead defense attorney -- he had a team of three -- has maintained all along that the charges were "nonsense" and were part of a custody battle.

Howard said he will now seek visitation rights for his client and has filed for him to have custody of the children.

Nutting declined to comment on the case at this time, saying "it's still too sensitive."

It is unknown how much the publicity affected his Dearborn-based practice -- he maintained a private office and is affiliated with Oakwood Hospital -- since the original order handed down by Judge John E. MacDonald in 35th District Court prevented the doctor from seeing any patients aged 16 or under.

Nutting had been free on $10,000 bond and had continued his practice throughout the ordeal.

"This whole thing has been a tragedy for the family, especially the children," Strong said Tuesday. "I hope the children's future won't be harmed by this in the long-term. That would be a real shame."

example, voters said yes to the bond 255 to 42.

Other precincts reported wide margins as well, including at Canton High (596 yes, 128 no), Hulsing Elementary (249 yes, 73 no), Gallimore Elementary (362 yes, 98 no); and Pioneer Middle School (301 yes and 92 no).

"This is a great day for education in Plymouth-Canton," said schools Superintendent John M. Hoben. "The vote today is more than a vote for good schools...it's a concrete indication of the high value which this community places on a sound education."

Hoben said the district looks forward to being "good stewards" of the dollars provided in the bond.

yards to the Mustang 39 to spearhead the charge. Canton then marched down to the Northville seven but a carry by Hohl on fourth down and four yards to go was ruled short by inches. That ended any hope for a Canton victory and Northville ran out the remaining 19 seconds.

Canton, which graduated a large number of seniors, is 0-1 in the Western Division of the WLAA, and 1-2 overall.

"We had a chance to win it in the end but we missed the first down by less than a yard," said Canton coach Bob Khoenle. "But overall I'm pleased with our kids. We're a young team. Our quarterback is getting better and I think we're progressing each week."

Northville got a strong performance from quarterback Ryan Huzjak who threw for 301 yards on 27 attempts.

Canton scored first with 7:41 left in the first on a nine-yard run by Hohl. The Mustangs tied it up nearly two minutes later.

Mark Meszaros got the lead back for the Chiefs with a two-yard touchdown run later in the same period. It capped a drive highlighted by important runs by Hohl and Meszaros.

But it was all Northville in the second quarter as Huzjak threw a pair of touchdown passes to give the Mustangs a 20-14 lead.

Northville then made it 28-14 on another touchdown pass from Huzjak. A two-point conversion made it 28-14.

The Chiefs then staged a final fourth quarter charge. Canton put Northville deep in its own territory when a punt by Chris Christensen was downed at the Mustangs' own two-yard stripe. The Chiefs' defense then trapped Northville in the endzone for a safety on the very next play, making it 28-16.

The Chiefs' final score came on the ensuing series following the free kick. With 5:45 to go, Hohl took it in from the two, followed by Jeff Nafe's third extra point kick of the game.

Hohl rushed for 125 yards in 28 carries, while Meszaros ran for 76 yards in 13 tries before leaving the game with an injury in the third quarter.

Canton will host state powerhouse Farmington Harrison Friday (Sept. 27) night at 7:30 p.m.

with us." Discussions during the closed session, he said, focused on negotiating strategy and what the DDA would be willing to offer for the site. He added that no financial amount or offer limit has been set.

The property has been appraised at $390,000.

Two factors that will influence the city's negotiating strategy for the building's price are the need for barrier free access into the building and repairs to the inside fire sprinklers.

Walters said an elevator needs to be installed in the building to allow access for handicapped people. He added that this is more practical than "carving up the front with a ramp."
