

Kelley learns about Folino

Don't mess with this guy

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

Imagine that the state shuts your business down and charges you with a felony.

The police take your fingerprints and a mug shot.

In addition to the financial hardships caused by the business shutdown, legal bills begin to mount rapidly.

Can it happen to you?

It happened to John Folino, whose family owned American Transmissions on Starkweather in Old Village.

Folino was one of the targets of "Operation Shifty," a sting operation run by the offices of Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley. The investigation was announced on Aug. 12, 1986 — two days before Kelley announced that he was seeking re-election.

Others targeted in the sting just gave up.

But not Folino.

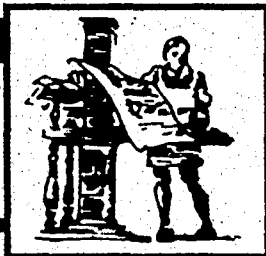

The Michigan attorney general has a habit of announcing high visibility investigations or lawsuits just before his re-election. But unlike utility companies or large retailers who simply consider the Kelley grandstands a cost of doing business in a political climate, Folino is different.

Please see pg. 10

It took five years for John F. Folino to win vindication in the Michigan Court of Appeals and to get this police mug shot back after being found not guilty. But Folino isn't giving up -- he's posting an enlargement of this photo in his "war room" where he and his legal counsel plot his ongoing lawsuits "for being unfairly targeted. How would you and your family feel?" Folino asks. "I was just a businessman. I didn't even know what a subpoena was. Suddenly I have a law library in my war room... and I know how to use it."

Commission candidates missed City elections

BY JIM TOTTEN

One possible way to judge political candidates is just how often they make it to the polls to cast their vote.

Voting regularly can be considered a litmus test for taking an active part in the political process, and making an effort to be informed of community activity.

The following information was gathered from city and school voting records.

The voting records of the seven City of Plymouth Commission candidates have been reviewed based on all the elections held in the city (commission, primary, general election, etc.) since 1974, including all school elections.

In the upcoming Plymouth City Commission Election on Nov. 5, only

Library design gets approval

BY KEN VOYLES

A concept design for a new Dunning-Hough Library in the City of Plymouth was endorsed by the Plymouth District Library Board Monday.

The design, unanimously agreed to by the board, calls for tearing down the current building and rebuilding a two-story, 48,000 square foot structure on the current site attached to Plymouth City Hall.

The cost of the project has been estimated at $10 million.

The new design -- it was not among those originally considered by the library board -- was prepared by Mark McPherson, of Merritt McCallum and Cieślak, after meetings with City Manager Steven Walters and library officials.

It involves removing part of the south wing of city hall to allow a larger rectangular library with a 22,000 square foot "footprint" to be attached without impacting the Baker House.

It also allows the floor-space needs of the library to be met without occupying as much of the existing parking areas under other design concepts, officials said.

Additional parking would be provided by purchasing three houses on Union Street south of Church Street. Parking would be expanded to the north of city hall as well.

"We want to complement the existing character of Plymouth," McPherson told the library board. "We also want to maintain a feel for separation of the two buildings so it is not one solid facade."

Larry Fobes, head of the building committee, said the concept was "preferred" because it reuses the current site, is the least disruptive to the area, has financial advantages, allows for flexibility in the design and fits with the architectural flavor of the community.

"Our purpose with approving this is to further refine the design, start work on the financial detail and enter formal negotiations with the city," Fobes said.

McPherson said the current building

City settles dispute over McAuley 'tower'

BY JIM TOTTON

The City of Plymouth has taken a move towards making good on its promise to help pay for the construction of a stairway and elevator for the central parking deck.

City commissioners approved a settlement in which the city will pay $123,530 to the McAuley Health Center.

The settlement was approved contingent upon resolving whether the city or McAuley would own the stairway.

Based on the resolution passed by city commissioners Monday, the stairway and elevator, enclosed in a tower, would be owned and maintained by McAuley Health Center. Also, the city would have and easement to allow public use of the tower.

In addition, the agreement also stipulates that McAuley will pay in full the parking credits due to the city, which total $147,060.

City Manager Steve Walters said that from his understanding of the agreement, McAuley would own the stairway, which is located on city property, and maintain it.

"They (McAuley) get an easement for them to occupy the tower that is on city property," Walters said.

But Benjamin Hubbard, of Huron Arbor Corp. which owns McAuley

Health Center, said the stairway was to remain as city property based on the agreement, which is what he wanted to follow.

"We own the tower," he said. "You own the stairway. We maintain both."

The tower, including stairway and elevator, was completed in 1990.

In a February 1989 meeting with William Fileti, president of Huron Arbor Corp., former city manager Henry Graper proposed the city would share costs for the stairway and elevator construction for the Arbor Health Building at Ann Arbor Trail and Harvey.

In a letter written two days after the meeting, Fileti wrote, "I am writing to confirm that the Health Center will accept your proposal to offset the cash flow of parking credits obligation with the shared vertical transportation tower costs."

The proposal was strictly a verbal agreement that did not receive approval from city commissioners or the Downtown Development Authority (DDA). At a meeting in March 1989, Graper suggested the cost sharing idea for the tower construction to DDA members.

A team of commissioners including Mayor Jack Kenyon, Jim Jabara and Robert Jones along with Walters met with Arbor Huron officials last Monday to work out an agreement.

"Through the efforts of the negotiation team, they were able to save us $62,891 over the previous effort," said commissioner Ronald Loiselle.

The complete construction costs for the tower was $371,914.

Canton mulls Nicholson buyout action

BY KEN VOYLES

A resignation agreement has been struck between Canton and long time planner Dave Nicholson. Last night the Canton Board of Trustees was expected to approve the buyout agreement.

The agreement calls for a $50,000 buyout, or one year's salary, plus fringe benefits, for a total of $53,825. He will also be eligible to receive any vested pension benefits.

Tom Yack, Canton supervisor, said that the agreement recognizes Nicholson's 12 years experience by extending him one year's salary.

"This is strictly an agreement between an employe and employer," Yack said. "There is no discipline involved. It is one of the hardest decisions I have been involved in since being here."

"He's not been awful, we just felt it was time for a chance to advance the organization," he continued. "If there had been significant differences I don't believe we would have gone down this road."

Assault charge filed over airport incident

BY JIM TOTTE

A Plymouth Library Board member has been charged with assault and battery for an alleged slapping incident that occurred at a Mettetal Airport forum in August, according to City of Plymouth Police.

Janet D. Campbell was issued the citation for misdemeanor assault and battery last Tuesday, said Plymouth Police Chief Robert Scoggins.

Local attorney Carol Levitte signed the At Monday's meeting

Schools to discuss 'Choice'

BY STEVE O'LEARY

The Plymouth Canton Community Schools Board of Education will discuss the possible ramifications and what action to take on Gov. John Engler's controversial Schools of Choice legislation at Monday night's regular meeting.

The controversial bill will allow students to attend any school of their grade level in the district where space allows, regardless of boundaries. And transportation will be the responsibility of the district, although additional monies from the state for transportation are a possibility if the plan is implemented.

"A lot of things are up in the air regarding this," said Raymond Hoedel, associate superintendent for business and operations.

The schools of choice bill was tacked onto another controversial plan, which will force out-of-formula, or "rich" districts, to share their monies with in-formula, or "poor" districts.

"According to our latest figures, the tax sharing part of the legislation will cost the district $833,000 this year, half of which is due to the state on Nov. 15," Hoedel said. "It's pretty devastating. It's a sad situation that we will be forced to send money outside of our district that was voted on to help our own students quality of education."

He added that there may be "minuscule" help, since the state will claim less recapture money than in the past. Last year, the district lost $713,000 in funds recaptured by the state. New legislation will reduce that by half.

"But to offset that, the state has capped social security funding, the end result of which will cost us an additional $122,000," Hoedel said. "I really don't think the legislature understands the impact of what they're doing to the school districts."

School Board President David Artley said he is frustrated by both aspects of the bill, but is resigned to it since the district is bound by law to abide by it.

"I think the timeline they've given us is just incredible, it's far too short a time for a district to do an adequate job of getting something like schools of choice set up to run smoothly," he said.

The board will discuss the make-up of the committee Monday, but discussions complaint against Campbell, alleging that she was slapped in the face by Campbell with an open hand after the public airport forum. Levitte had filed an incident report with police on Aug. 21.

"After my investigation, there was a wish to proceed with the case," said Chief Scoggins. A misdemeanor assault and battery charge carries a maximum sentence of 90 days in jail and/or $100 fine. A Nov. 5 court date has been scheduled.

will likely carry over to the Nov. 4 meeting, Artley said.

The committee will bring recommendations for setting up a schools of choice program to the board next spring, and the board must decide to accept or reject it outright.

"There's no room for discussion or give and take, that's one of my big problems with the plan," he said.

According to administrators and board members speaking at last week's workshop, the legislation could cause "a chaotic situation."

The bill also requires districts to provide, among other things, adequate information about the schools of choice program; enough information to allow parents or legal guardians to make an informed choice about which school their child would attend; access to counseling about the program; a plan to ensure that transportation to the school of choice within the district is provided to the pupil; and a plan to ensure that each pupil has an equal opportunity for enrollment within the open enrollment area.

The bill further states that "the plan shall provide that, if the number of pupil applicants exceeds the number allowed by the district for a particular school, pupils will be selected to attend the school through a random selection process."

Will Canton fire chief be replaced?

BY KEN VOYLES

Once Mel Paulun's retirement from the Canton Fire Department becomes official, it is likely that the township will not try to find a new fire chief but instead hire a fire captain.

According to John Santomauro, public safety director in Canton, the township is working with the Canton Firefighters Local 2289 to consider hiring a new captain for the department who would be incorporated into the bargaining union.

Santomauro said the department would then be modeled after the police

S. Canton subdivision in transition

BY KEN VOYLES

A new development strategy is taking shape for the Dye Brothers subdivision along Michigan Avenue in Canton.

The subdivision, comprising nine homes along Corinne, Willard and Morton Taylor east of Sheldon Road, has been a point of contention in the township, mainly due to the composting site located due south of the mostly 1940s era homes.

Last week Canton Clerk Loren Bennett met with residents of the subdivision in an effort to pinpoint strategies that could lead to the purchase of the subdivision property and its eventual conversion to industrial use.

The property is currently zoned light industrial, like much of Michigan Avenue in the township, making the residential homes there a non-conforming use.

Bennett said that with further development along Michigan Avenue it was time to facilitate a transition of non-conforming uses and help organize the sale of residential property to private developers.

"I felt the response was positive," said Bennett, who attended the meeting with about eight residents, many of whom belong to the South Canton Citizens Association. "The people there are very frustrated. They feel trapped. I'm attempting to do some things."

He said there is a general lack of trust among the residents that the township is serious about helping them.

Bennett asked residents to authorize a wetlands study of the area, a first step toward mapping the property for future developers.

"One of the desires once was to make industrial uses along Michigan Avenue go away," he said. "We can't do that. The nature of Michigan was set in the 1940s

Board should look at library options

Before the Plymouth District Library Board sinks $10 million into a new library facility, all the possible options for expansion should at least be considered.

One option that has been mentioned by some in town involves using the downtown U.S. Post Office building.

Plymouth City Hall could move into the soon-to-be vacant post office building, leaving the police and fire departments where they are. The library could then expand into city hall and still operate out of its current building.

The Dunning-Hough Library could be connected to city hall to create one large facility, maybe even using a glass passageway that would be a great place to read.

This would prevent the disruption to the downtown and to the library's operations that will result from the construction of a completely new building, and the destruction of houses on Union Street.

The change would be a very simple one, easier in some ways than the changes currently proposed -- not to mention less expensive.

In addition, the post office building would work well to house local government offices with its impressive and stately front. It would also maintain the large number of people passing through on Penniman Avenue.

Also, the amount of space in both building is about the same. The post office building, including the basement, has about 22,000 square feet. City hall, not including police and fire departments, has about 21,000 square feet.

Combining the library with city hall would yield about 34,000 square feet which is less than the 48,000 square feet recommended for a new library facility.

Still the option has some significant benefits since it would require few structural changes. And whether the costs might be significantly less than $10 million should also be reviewed.

Yes, there are some drawbacks. It would mean moving city hall into a 50-year structure off of Main Street and away from the vital police and fire departments. It would also mean a massive effort to "combine" city hall with the library (a building which has already seen several additions).

But, regardless of the plan finally chosen, all options should be considered to the fullest extent before the Library Board aims for a bond issue proposal on next August's ballot.

Will be hard to replace One of a kind Paulun

Replacing a legend like Mel Paulun will not be an easy task for Canton officials who have to come to terms with the 59-year-old's retirement. Besides the obvious difficulty of finding someone with as much experience, the township has to consider the very nature of the man.

Paulun was the kind of leader who led by example. He set high standards, standards for himself and his department, and did much over the years to get the Canton Fire Department to its current position.

While a strong leader, Paulun was always a very personable type, one you could share a laugh with or a tear. And he wasn't afraid to take risks. Two years ago, during a mobile home fire, Paulun rushed into the trailer and, despite black smoke and flames, located and saved a child.

It was an act that came as second nature to the veteran firefighter, probably the most unselfish deed in his 28-year career.

Still, Paulun was always the kind-hearted fire chief one would recognize in any small community, a folksy blend of general charm, good humor and hard work. He may not have been the most glamorous commander in the public safety department, but he worked tirelessly to modernize the fire department and bring it into the 1980s and now the 1990s, matching the pace of an ever growing and evolving township clearly on the move.

Paulun will be missed within the department. In fact, the talk now among Canton officials is of not replacing him but hiring a fire captain. While that may be an organizational move more than anything, it also reflects the degree to which the community came to love and respect Paulun.

That may be the highest tribute of all -- to be considered irreplaceable among your peers is a plateau few ever can say they have reached.

'Pineapple' design was all the rage

EDITOR:

It is with much heart-felt gratitude that I am writing to thank you for printing the LeVan story in The Crier on Sept. 25, and all on one page in pristine presentation.

When I was told I had cancer, I figured this was the end of me -- but a voice inside said, "Wait a minute! You know and remember things in your family background that nobody else does, so get busy and write them down."

Well, the very organizing of the memories got me through most painful times. I never expected to receive such a reward as the sharing with so many people. My friend Ernie Archer mentioned that folks around town commented on it (most favorably) and it has made a whole new upward-outlook for me.

I was so pleased to hear your voice when you called and mentioned the Dibble house. Of course, at that age I was not so impressed with the many big rooms, luxurious carpeting and beautiful stairway, but I sure was impressed watching "Gompa" cut that pineapple on his lathe in that upstairs room.

Now, as for pineapples, I called our downtown library here for any architectural information. I was told that they were very popular in the colonial expansion period (around 1820) as a widely-used symbol of hospitality and friendship, often used as over-door and headboards of beds ornaments.

The librarian referred me to a book about it called "Had a Grapple With a Pineapple," by Helen Ronsenblum.

Now I wish to diverge a bit to tell you of my family's, and my love of Plymouth. My father, Emerson Woods, had lived a very always-on-the-move childhood because his parents were poor transient farmers from Canada.

And so when he came to Plymouth and got the house on Penniman Avenue, he said that was forever. He never wanted me to change schools or neighborhoods. So he always remained there as a dispatcher for the Pere Marquette rail line. He passed up all offers of advancements because it would have meant moving.

He used to say, "Heaven is right here on earth in Plymouth, Michigan."

When one gets to thinking of old times, one thing leads to another and I had an urge to enclose an old postal card from 1903 because of all the hassles about the Plymouth Post Office location and I can't get over how simple it was to address and deliver mail back then.

Ernie Archer and I have been life-long friends and I appreciate the things he has done over the years to enrich my life. I especially appreciate his referring my materials to you.

A futile exercise . . .

A very important housing report is nearly complete in Canton.

The CHAS (Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategy) report is due to be presented to HUD by the end of the year and is a precondition for participation in the 1992 and future federal block grant programs.

The report, required under the Cranston-Gonzales National Affordable Housing Act, will replace Canton's Housing Assistance Plan (HAP), the former prerequisite for participation in block grant programs.

But here's the kicker: no additional federal funds have been allocated to Canton (or any other community for that matter) even though it is spending money on collecting CHAS data.

This has left Gerald Martin, Canton's development specialist and designated CHAS writer, in a tough spot.

"If we don't produce the document we don't get block grant money," he said. "But the document still doesn't get us any money."

"It's a one-size fits all document for Canton," he added. "It's really almost an exercise in futility. We have to describe problems we don't have."

"If you say you don't have problems you have to prove it," he added.

The CHAS is taken very seriously, he said, and is an inventory of housing in a community. It focuses on low income residents, moderate income residents and minorities. It also deals with groups Canton has not dealt with before in its housing plans -- the homeless and the disabled.

"The slant is still towards helping and assisting these groups," Martin said.

Once the document is complete, residents can exam it and make comments. A public hearing will be held Nov. 12 at 7 p.m. in the Canton Administration Building, said Martin.

"Housing and social aspects get blurred with this," he said. "We also have to do a needs assessment and come up with a one year and five year strategy for addressing the issues."

Martin noted too that the State of Michigan is right now completing a CHAS for the entire state.

"It isn't a bad thing for us to have," he said. "Perhaps down the road there will be funds."

Martin expects the document to be fairly detailed, though he sees it also as a barrier that did not exist in the past.

And in some ways the document needs to be written, Martin said, but to expect so much in return for so little leaves little him perplexed.

Martin said the CHAS plan is also misleading to those who support helping the disadvantaged.

"The money is not following the report," he said. "Even though some folks think so."

Most of the interest in the CHAS report has come from housing advocate groups in places like the City of Detroit.

The township has one of the largest subsidized housing programs in western Wayne County.

This month the Michigan Housing Development Authority held a series of public hearings on Michigan's CHAS.

According to Ted Rozeboom, director of the Michigan Housing Coordinating Council (MHCC), up to $80 million in federal money may become available under the act.

The money would be used to help finance housing rehabilitation programs, preservation efforts and home ownership. The act covers federal housing projects like the block grants.

Martin said it was likely, however, that if any money did become available through the act it would "by-pass" Canton.

The MHCC is developing the CHAS plan for the state.

Order out of chaos

I went on a quest for candidate voting records and a list of city elections.

Obtaining the voting records was the easy part.

But as soon as I saw the file drawer for city elections, I realized it was going to prove more difficult. 1979 election files were found before 1977 files, 1984 before 1983, and I found myself putting them in order so the next person wouldn't be as confused and frustrated as I was.

I found a file labeled "City Commission Primary Election" for 1987 filled with primary information, and later learned that no city primary was held that year. And here I was thinking that all the city candidates had missed this primary since it did not show on their voting records card.

I found documents which declared a city primary would be held on such and such a date, only to learn later that primary was never held.

(A city commission primary election can only be held if there at least eight candidates running.)

The current employees cannot take complete blame for the disorganization. The filing system was in place before many of them began working at City Hall.

But changes should be made to arrange those files in an orderly fashion. And more importantly, documents about city primaries should be clearly labeled or stamped to show whether or not that election was held.

Another example is that the complete voting record of Ken Way was not available because a voting card he filled up was accidentally thrown out.

Election information should be readily available and organized so residents might be able to conduct their own research of candidates.

Regardless of who is to blame, those files need to be cleaned up.

Community recycling accepted

Residents take program to heart

BY JIM TOTTEN

Recycling programs in The Plymouth-Canton Community are still in their infancy, but residents have apparently taken to the programs wholeheartedly, according to recycling officials.

The plastics, glass, newspapers and other items are finding their way to recycling centers in growing amounts instead of being dumped at landfills, which has become very costly in recent years.

"You have to give the residents a lot of credit," said Joe Russell, solid waste coordinator for the City of Plymouth. "They're obviously concerned about the program."

He added, "I haven't encountered any major problems" from city residents with the bag-tag program, which started in December, 1990.

The quickness which residents have taken to recycling, said James Anulewicz, director of public services for Plymouth Township, proves the demand was there. The township started curbside recycling in July, 1990.

"It's like people were waiting behind our closed door," he said. "It's a credit to our citizenry."

Russell said that close to 59 per cent of the city waste stream in July was diverted from landfills. The waste stream for these communities, measured in cubic yards, includes solid waste, recyclables and yard waste (grass clippings, leaves, weeds). Approximate figures for July show that of the 1,150 cubic yards (cyds) of waste collected, 675 cyds were recyclables and yard waste.

Under the bag-tag program, residents pay $1 for each bag of trash that is picked up, not including yard waste. Russell said it is a "fair system" since "you pay for what you use."

"It goes to the heart of the problem," he said. "It's reducing the waste stream."

The recyclables are brought by residents to the city's recycling center which is always attended. Russell said "assisting the residents" and making sure "the right material goes in the right compartment" are reasons for monitoring the center.

"The whole dumpster becomes contaminated," he said, if certain items become mixed.

Plymouth Township recently held a slogan contest to highlight the importance of not mixing recyclables with items that cannot be recycled.

"Lids in the trash or it will cost you cash" was the winning slogan written by resident Lisa Stevens. Lids from plastic containers, which are not recyclable, are supposed to be placed in the regular trash.

From January to July, Russell said the average amount diverted was 37 per cent. Based on current figures, he said the city should have little problem meeting new upcoming regulations for the waste stream.

In a push towards recycling, Wayne County will require communities to divert 40 per cent of the waste by September of 1992. Russell said a plan must be submitted by January 1992 and implemented by September.

For the city, Russell said the next step in recycling will be changing to curbside program. Residents would place recyclables and trash in separate containers for pick-up by the city.

The latest figures for the township show that 3,396 cyds of waste were collected in May from 6,265 households. Of that amount, 1,546 cyds, approximately 45 per cent, was diverted from the landfills.

From January to May, figures show the average amount of waste from 6,250 households diverted was 31 per cent. In 1990, an average of about 13 per cent of total waste for the year was diverted.

During those six months, the majority of recycled items were newspapers, with compost materials, clear glass and tin following.

Although there have been savings by reducing waste sent to landfills, additional funds must now be used for pick-up, processing and shipment in the recycling program.

"Recycling will not pay for itself," Anulewicz said.

The figures are similar for Canton, which started curbside recycling in May. Based on July data from 13,155 residential units, it shows that 35 per cent of the waste stream was diverted from the landfills.

Of the total 7,529 cyds of waste collected during that month, about 4,099 cyds was either sent to recyclers or to composting facilities.

"At this time, Canton has not needed to mandate recycling," said Loren Bennett, Canton clerk who manages the program, and helped organize its implementation. He said it would not be "financially sensible" to spend more money to require all Canton residents to recycle.

"I'd hate to spend a lot of money and obtain small results," Bennett said.

Bringing recycling industries to the area, Bennett said, is what Canton is striving to accomplish next. These industries, called end users, transform recyclables into a product and are an essential part of the recycling process.

He said there are some plastics capable of being recycled which are currently not because there is no use for the end product.

"Marketability" is the key to recycling, Anulewicz said. "In order to make recycling work, you're talking about marketability."

"If there is not a market, recycling does not work."

He adds that more end-users are needed to insure that items capable of being recycled are not sent to the landfills.

"We cannot continue to be a throw-away society," he said.

Russell also stressed the need for industries to find a market for recycled items. "If there is no demand, you're not going to find anyone to take the recyclables."

But, according to Anulewicz, the waste problem must be traced to the source. As long as industries make product that cannot be used again, the waste problem will not be solved.

School program improves Recycling plan expand

BY STEVE O'LEARY

The Plymouth Canton Community Schools recycling efforts, initiated in May of 1990, are continuing to improve, according to Verna Hill, Food Services Director for the district.

Currently, every building in the district is involved in a program to recycle cardboard boxes and all interoffice paper. In addition, most of the elementary schools are recycling styrofoam lunch trays.

Two of the elementaries, Hoben and Field, are recycling on a partial basis, while Fiegel, Eriksson, Isbister and Hulsing are using all washable lunch products.

"I'm very pleased with the way the program has been going," Hill said. "It takes a united effort of the entire student body and staff, and we are getting it."

All of the district's middle schools are using the recycling program, and efforts are underway at the high school level to get them involved as well.

"There's an environmental class at Canton High School that is very interested in getting the high schools involved in recycling. I've been over there to talk to them, as a matter of fact, as a guest speaker, explaining what we're doing in the rest of the district," Hill said.

According to Thomas Rose, director of purchasing for the district, by recycling paper and cardboard the schools are becoming more environmentally responsible.

There are four collection dumpsters at each school in the district, three of which are used for the recycling program.

Livonia school board to nix Lowell request

BY STEVE O'LEARY

You can't always get what you want. That's the message the Plymouth Canton Community Schools Board of Education will be hearing in the next week or two.

The Livonia Board of Education is expected to nix a request from the board and Associate Superintendent of Business and Operations Raymond Hoedel regarding the leasing of Lowell Middle School.

The district has requested that instead of a renewable one-year lease, that Livonia rent the building on a five or 10 year basis.

According to Arthur Howell, director of operations for Livonia schools, the board had a committee meeting on it and the board "indicated very strongly they will not support such an action."

Howell was quick to add that the relationship between the districts is still very good, "but business is business."

The previous lease expired June 30, but neither Howell nor Hoedel has a problem with that. "We have a very good relationship," Hoedel said.

"We will continue to rent Lowell on a year-to-year basis, but I have asked that it be written into the contract that we be given a few years notice should (Livonia) even talk about utilizing the site themselves, because we'd have to build another schoolhouse in that case," Hoedel said.

Howell did not indicate the board was willing to put such a clause in writing, but did say that "we would know at least two years in advance if we needed to use the building, so Plymouth Canton would have plenty of notice."

The district first rented Lowell from Livonia to handle increased registration -- while Livonia's was falling -- in 1981, for approximately $96,000. The price was raised to $100,000 a year in 1986 and is not expected to increase, according to Hoedel.

"One can never tell how the student population will change," Howell said, "and our board does not want to get tied into a long-term lease where we couldn't use our own building if the need should arise."

The board also asked the Livonia district for $130,000 in rent credit because of planned modifications to Lowell with bond monies.

"The board will not approve that either, but there will be some negotiations in that regard," Howell said. "Some of the improvements that need to be done, such as replacing the kitchen ceiling, providing barrier-free toilets, improved ventilation -- those kinds of things will fly, I believe."

"Other things, such as the $30,000 request for air conditioning in part of the building will definitely be turned down. I mean, we have four middle schools in our district and only two have any air conditioning. If we reimburse Plymouth-Canton for air conditioning in a building we don't even use while some of our kids go without, we'd be crucified by our residents," he said.

"There are a lot of other items that will be talked discussed and decided upon, but (Plymouth Canton) won't get their wish list. That's for certain."

The Livonia board is expected to vote on the issue Monday, Howell said.

— three for different recyclable materials and one for other refuse — and are picked up by BFI, a large waste management company, and transported to their facilities, where the Dart Corporation, located in Mason, picks up the materials for their recycling program. The non-recyclable refuse is transported to a landfill.

There is "very little cost to the district for the program at this time," Hill said, other than utilizing approximately four man-hours a week picking up the different materials from the schools and transporting them to a central location for pick-up.

Hill is most involved in the school lunch recycling program, and hopes to see it keep growing.

"Currently, plastic utensils are not recycled, because Dart does not have that ability yet," she said. "Hopefully, that will happen in the future."

"We've come quite a long way in a relatively short period of time. We've made our youngsters more aware of the environment, and they are actually doing something about it," Hill said. "I'm quite proud."

Hill said things were tougher as the program was getting off of the ground, "because the rules and technology seemed to be changing every week." Things are running smoother now, she added.

As a tribute to Hill and the district's efforts and accomplishments, numerous school districts and hospitals throughout the state have contacted her to ask how they could best implement a program like the one here.

"I guess we're doing something right," she said, "but the credit isn't nearly all mine. I may run the program, but it's the employees and students that are very enthused and make sure it runs smoothly. The hats go off to them."

Standing up to attorney general Folino fights back

"I can't just tack a penny on like Detroit Edison or Meijer (to pay for the legal fees or loss of customers)," Folino said.

So he decided to fight back.

"This has nothing to do with the way you run your business. It has to do with you becoming an ulterior motive - a target for someone else," said the Northville Township transmission shop owner.

A series in The Detroit News and Free Press starting Sunday revealed that Kelley's "Operation Shifty" sting of independent transmission shops was actually orchestrated by General Motors Corporation after its cars were found to have faulty transmissions.

Kelley, in announcing the sting, urged car owners to have their transmissions fixed at dealerships because no dealerships were found to be performing unnecessary repairs. (The News articles, however, said the sting did not even investigate any dealerships.)

According to records obtained by Folino and his attorney Martin Crandall, the cars taken to the repair shops had been "doctored" to make them appear in need of transmission work.

"That's against the law (to misrepresent a car's condition)," Folino said.

Kelley said, in announcing the sting, that the targeted shops were chosen because of consumer complaint histories. (A spokesperson for Kelley's office said yesterday that the "nature and the number" of complaints led to the targeting.)

A computer printout of American Transmission's record with the Michigan Bureau of Automotive Regulation (BAR) for the 26 months before the sting, showed 21 contacts from customers of the Plymouth American Transmission shop - seven of which were repaired, the complainant could not be found or the complaint was judged "unfounded."

Seven others were judged "no satisfactory settlement" by the BAR and the remaining seven fell into other resolutions. Folino estimated the Plymouth shop wrote between 3,600 and 4,000 orders in that time.

"We always try to resolve complaints because we want to keep them as a customer," Folino said. "You don't want him running around telling everybody you treated him badly."

The closing of the American shops (the franchising was at 18 shops and just starting to grow) was "devastating" to the family, Folino said. "My wife, (Joyce) was decimated." Folino's son, John, who runs the Plymouth shop, said, "I had to go into the hospital for all the black and blue marks where people would only touch me with 10-foot poles."

But Folino wouldn't give up.

On Monday, the U.S. Supreme Court declined to take up Folino's civil suit charging General Motors had violated the American Transmission and Folino civil rights.

Still pending are suits in Michigan courts against General Motors and state officials (for fraud and defamation of business) and against Kelley, Secretary of State Richard Austin and the BAR. The state attorney general's office is appealing an Ingham County Circuit Court ruling that his office must comply with an order to provide information and depositions.

Folino said he agrees with the need to regulate the automotive business sector. "The BAR does have the right to do investigations because it protects consumers.

"The BAR is designed to protect consumers, not one company -- the largest -- from another competitor," Folino said. "We aren't standing up to the system; we're standing up to the corruption in the system."

"We're hoping that in time we can recover. We hope we can get whole again -- strictly financially -- we'll never recover emotionally," Folino said.

Meanwhile, he says, business goes on.

"But I'm changed, personally."

Schoolcraft is community's college

Students at Schoolcraft College enjoy the unique advantage of studying at a community college that is committed to being the "classroom of the community."

In order to teach well, a community college must listen well. Meeting the many needs of a varied community is of first priority at Schoolcraft.

Each year, the college evaluates and updates current programs and adds new programs or courses to its curriculum. The college's newest program is Computer Aided Graphics.

Schoolcraft offers more than 63 programs leading to a certificate or an associate degree, including computer aided design, computer aided manufacturing, robotics, and many allied health programs.

The college participates in a transfer agreement with 52 four-year colleges and universities in Michigan. Students who have transferred have consistently earned higher grade point averages than their counterparts from other community colleges.

Through Continuing Education, the college offers more than 200 credit and non-credit courses, workshops, and seminars. Continuing Education courses are designed to meet the personal needs and interests of area residents. Specific courses are designed for business and industry.

The district includes five public school districts: Plymouth-Canton, Northville, Livonia, Garden City, Clarenceville and part of Novi.

The college is governed by the Board of Trustees: Jeanne Stemplen, chairperson; Mary Breen, vice-chairperson; Michael Burley, treasurer; Steve Ragan, secretary; Thaddeus McCotter, and Harry Greenleaf, trustees.

The main campus is located on a 183-acre site on Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile Roads in Livonia. Other College Centers are Radcliff, 1751 Radcliff, Garden City, 425-3380; and Plymouth-Canton Center, Plymouth-Canton High School, 8415 Canton Center Road, Canton, 451-6000 or 425-3380.

Marchers to defend title CEP to host state finals

For the third year in a row Centennial Educational Park (CEP) will play host to the Michigan Competing Band Directors Association State Championships Saturday (Oct. 26).

The CEP Marching Band, made up of students from Salem and Canton highs, will defend its state during the championships. CEP has won the state crown the past three years in a row.

The states feature 44 bands from across Michigan. They will compete in four flights, depending on the size of the band.

The preliminaries for Flights I and IV will be held at CEP starting at 11:45 a.m. They should conclude by 5:30 p.m. The CEP marchers will perform at 1:30 p.m. The other flight preliminaries will be held at Livonia Franklin starting at 10 a.m.

The top four bands in Flight I will advance to the finals, which begin after a 7 p.m. exhibition by the Plymouth Fire and Drum Corps. The finals should conclude by 11 p.m. If CEP advances it is likely to perform at 10:45 p.m.

There are 10 bands in CEP's Flight I, a total of 19 in the preliminaries at the Park. Another 25 bands will compete at Franklin before moving to CEP for the finals.

Tickets will be available at the gate. They are $8 for an all-day pass (preliminaries and finals) or $5 for the finals only. In case of bad weather, the finals will move inside to Canton's Phase III complex.

Concessions and refreshments will be available. There will also be a raffle and band t-shirts on sale throughout the competition.

Last year more than 4,000 spectators took in the show. Organizers this year expect nearly 5,000 on hand for the competition.

The CEP Marching Band is the defending national band champion.

Among the communities represented will be: West Bloomfield, Farmington, Flint, Hudsonville, Livonia, Clio, Southfield, Linden, Muskegon, St. Clair Shores, Royal Oak, Durand, Trenton, Avondale, Westland, Madison Heights, Milford, Clarkston, Ferndale, Lake Orion, Plainwell, Battle Creek, Novi, Flushing, Troy, Southgate, Jenison, Utica, and Grand Blanc.

called "Maybury Madness," will take participants along a wooded, paved trail lined with Halloween scenes and events.

The walk lasts about 20 minutes and concludes with a 20 minute hay ride which returns the brave-hearted to the concession stand for free cider and doughnuts.

Tickets, including admission to the park, are $5 and are available at Northville Community Recreation, 303 W. Main St.

No tickets will be sold at the park and must be purchased ahead of time; only those with tickets will be admitted.

Candidates forum set

Candidates for the upcoming City of Plymouth Commission election will be in full view on Oct. 23 during a candidate's forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Plymouth-Canton-Northville.

The seven candidates will have an opportunity to make a two minute opening statement before answering written questions from the audience.

Linda DePoorter, of the Oakland Area League, will be the moderator. Omnicom will also be taping the forum for a later presentation.

The forum will start at 7:30 p.m. in the city commission chamber (upstairs) at Plymouth City Hall.

For further information call Kari Miller at 455-0630 after 4 p.m.

candidate Dennis Shrewsbury, who has been registered since 1984, did not vote in the city commission general elections in 1989, 1987 and 1985. Also, candidate William McAninch, registered since 1966, missed the 1985 city general election.

As a reference point for judging candidates' voting records, the city held about 21 elections during the 10-year period since 1980, not including school elections.

Records show that candidates Douglas Miller, registered since 1979, Shrewsbury and McAninch did not vote in the 1985 city commission primary election.

Candidate Rosita Smith, who has been a registered voter in Plymouth since 1973, did not vote in city primary elections in 1979, 1977 and 1975. Records show that McAninch missed voting in the 1979 and 1975 city primary elections.

Candidates Ken Way, registered since 1951, and Ronald Loiselle did not vote in the 1979 city primary election. Loiselle, who has been registered since 1976, also missed the last state representative election on Aug. 27 of this year.

According to records, candidates Robert Jones, registered since 1982, Miller and Shrewsbury did not vote in the 1985 special library election.

Also, Miller missed voting in the 1981 general election and the 1982, 1984 primary elections.

Bernice Nichols, the Plymouth-Canton Schools elections clerk, said that only Way has a perfect school voting record since registering.

According to Nichols, Jones has voted in 12 of the 16 school elections since he registered. Loiselle has voted in 26 of the 27 school elections.

Shrewsbury, Nichols said, has voted in two of the 12 school elections since registering. Smith has voted in 14 of the 30 school elections since being registered to vote.

A registered voter since 1979, Miller has voted in eight of the 19 school elections. McAninch has voted in 15 of 30 school elections.

In alleged scam

Insurance chair charged

BY JIM TOTTEN

A 52-year old Northville resident was arraigned on five felony charges in Grand Rapids District Court for illegally borrowing $5 million from an insurance company.

While serving as chairperson of the board and director of the American Commercial Liability Insurance Company (ACLIC), of Grand Rapids, state officials allege that Wade R. Waterman illegally borrowed money for "his own personal benefit" and to purchase additional stock in ACLIC.

In the complaint filed against Waterman in 61st Judicial District Court on Oct. 15, Waterman was charged with making the illegal transactions, some as large as $733,400, between January and April of 1991.

Due to the financial drain created by the transfers, ACLIC has been placed under direct state supervision.

"We have all seen in the savings and loan debacle the disastrous effects of people using their position of trust and power to their own selfish ends," said Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley.

If convicted, Waterman faces a maximum sentence of five years in prison and/or $5,000 fine on each charge.

Waterman also heads the Michigan Municipal Risk Management Association, insurance carriers for the City of Plymouth.

Schools 'can't wait' on choice move

According to Artley, it will be part of the committees job to make recommendations such as one which would give preference to students living within the current boundaries of a school, since it is not addressed in the bill, which was signed by Engler on Oct. 11.

According to Superintendent John Hoben, the district has the option of exempting themselves from the directive.

That can only be done if the board votes it down and takes it to a vote of the electorate.

"We can't wait on this," Hoben told the board last week. "We need to set up a committee by Nov. 15, and that must be made up of at least two-thirds parents."

He added that each building in the district should be represented as well, more than likely by a parent. He said the committee will likely number approximately 30.

The committee must then submit a plan for implementation of the schools of choice plan to the board no later than April 1, 1992, according to the legislation.

In order to be eligible for any extra funding -- such as that for transportation -- the plan must be in place by next fall.

Artley expressed real concern over the tax-sharing plan, as did Hoedel.

"It's going to make it extremely hard to get a millage passed, when the voters know a portion of their money will be going to support other districts," Hoedel said.

"The bottom line is this," Artley said. "The tax sharing plan will not bring the bottom up, it will take the top down.

"I think the legislature dodged the bullet on this one, they took the easy way out, the less complicated way," Artley added.

"We anticipated and budgeted for a loss of approximately $1.6 million this school year," said superintendent John Hoben. "Now, thanks to those jokers in Lansing, we're fast approaching that amount and it's only October."

Urban plan debated

Urban sprawl and airport development will be the major topics of discussion at Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) general assembly meeting on Thursday (Oct. 24) at Laurel Manor in Livonia.

General assembly delegates will receive the final report from the regional development oversight committee. The committee has been examining urban sprawl and the future of Southeast Michigan during its year long Regional Development Initiative (RDI).

A slide show about conclusions and recommendations of the final report will be presented to delegates, who will then respond with comments.

The RDI and its recommendations have been criticized by local officials from Plymouth Township and Canton for several reasons, one being taking away home government rule.

A recommending body only, SEMCOG is a voluntary association of counties, cities, villages, townships, intermediate school districts and community colleges in the seven county Southeast Michigan region. A recommending body only, SEMCOG works toward short and long term planning for housing, transportation, land use, public safety, education, recreation and open space, economic development and the environment.

The meeting will begin at 4:30 p.m. at Laurel Manor, at 39000 Schoolcraft.

Canton considers altering fire command structure

department, with captains heading two divisions, fire prevention and fire suppression.

Captain Art Winkel, Canton's fire marshal, would command the fire prevention division, while the new captain would take over in dealing with fire suppression and emergency runs.

"I feel it's very important that we run a fair and competitive process to best identify the person for the position," said Santomauro. "We don't need a staff with lots of ranks and titles. This is a more cost effective way to provide services."

"I believe we have the talent and responsibility to attempt to fill the position from inside our department," he added. "It's a very visible, high leadership role and we need to be assured through the competitive process that we make the best choice."

Santomauro said negotiations were underway with the bargaining union. He added, however, that if the plan is not acceptable to the union then the township will have to find a new fire chief however it deems necessary.

"If the union negotiates then it's a go," said Santomauro. "I'm not after a manager, I'm after a leader."

Either way the township proceeds, Santomauro said that every effort would be made to fill the position within the organization.

Mike Rorabacher, president of the firefighters local in Canton, said the union's entire contract is currently under negotiation.

"Naturally, any time you consider adding to the union we generally like to see that," Rorabacher said. "It's a very high priority item among our discussions."

Rorabacher said that he hoped an agreement on the fire captain position would be reached "perhaps in a month."

The Canton union is affiliated with the Michigan State Firefighters Association.

"We are talking on a regular basis and have not reached any impasse," said

Rorabacher. "It's going well and moving along."

Tom Yack, Canton's supervisor, said that the union is "looking very carefully at what has been proposed."

Yack agreed with Santomauro that the township should promote within its department, but added that if it becomes necessary the position will be widely posted. He said it is in the township's best interest, however, to develop its own command people for future roles in the department.

Yack also said that Paulun would continue to assist the township after his retirement and work in a limited capacity on a number of "loose ends" and "projects in the future."

Santomauro said Paulun brought "a maturity and a sensitivity" to the fire department. "He has always been very supportive of his fire department and very caring about his fire department."

"He always provided a foundation for the organization of that sensitivity and caring," Santomauro added. "That caring capacity is something you don't always see. You just don't see that degree of dedication spanning 28 years."

Library vote could come next summer

will have to be removed. "This is not an addition," he said.

Carol Davis, president of the library board, said the new plan doesn't go against an expansion feasibility report prepared in September. "Basically, we've been told we can't add to this building," said Davis. "We're talking about tearing this building down and building anew."

Pat Thomas, library director, said the plan "goes beyond" previous concepts while also meeting the space needs and saving the Baker House from being moved. Nearly a dozen concepts have been reviewed by the board.

McPherson said Walters first raised the idea of linking the two buildings (although there are no plans for internal access between the two structures).

Walters said the proposal would have a "beneficial" impact in city hall, allowing for the city clerk and finance departments to be brought down to the first floor, creating better access for the public and additional space for the police department.

Walters added that the concept might be less expensive since replacing city hall floor space would be cheaper than acquiring additional private land along Union Street. He said the concept would be the "most cost effective solution to the library's needs."

Davis said the library board will consider a potential bond request before city and Plymouth Township voters in August 1992. Appraisals of the private property along Union and a survey of the site are "in the process," said Davis.

McPherson also told the board that the approved concept still comes up short of the necessary parking spaces (164 spaces, not including any that might be taken from other businesses in the block).

It is expected that when construction begins it will take 15-18 months for the structure to be completed. During that time, said Thomas, the library would likely move its operations to continue serving the public.

Thomas added, "We can't just go ahead and do something like this. A lot of this is still up for discussion and negotiation with the city."

"This is a civic center, a cramped city civic center," said board member Sheryl Khoury. Traffic at the library is expected to double in the next six to 10 years, said

Thomas.

McPherson said work on a formal design will begin immediately.

The library project will eventually be presented to the Plymouth City Commission in more detail before it goes to the Plymouth Planning Commission for site plan approval.

Cindy Faulhaber, an attorney representing the library, said the board should consider a voter approved bond package to design and build the library. "It's the easy thing for you to sell and you'll know you have the electorate behind you," she said.

She said that the board should focus on an election, but added that a clear plan for a new facility is important and justifying it for voters.

The library board will meet again Nov. 18. A more formal design may be completed by that meeting.

Deepa Sreenivason made it to the quarter finals over the weekend in the Class A state tennis tournament for Salem.

Playing at number singles, Sreenivason earned two of the three points Salem scored in the tournament at Midland Friday.

The number three doubles team of Adrienne Weckerle and Anne Bartalucci made it to the second round of playoffs and earned one point.

The Rocks ended their season with three points at the state tennis tournament, placing 15 out of 27 teams.

In the first round of competition, Sreenivason defeated the number four singles player from Port Huron 6-2, 6-1.

In a three setter match in the second round, she defeated her opponent from Birmingham Marion 6-7, 6-4, 6-3, and she moved on to the quarter finals.

Ify Obianwu from Grosse Pointe University Liggett defeated Sreenivason 6-2 and 6-3 in the quarter finals to knock Sreenivason and Salem out of the tournament.

"We had gorgeous weather," said Salem coach Judie Braun. "You couldn't have asked for a better day."

"Everyone (on the team) stayed until everyone was finished, and they were playing in the dark at the end of the day," she continued. "The third round was incredible, the level of competition was very good. The matches took longer than anyone expected. It was a great experience for the girls."

It was the bad luck of the draw that knocked Salem out of the competition so early in the tournament.

The Salem team faced some top ranked competition in the first rounds and lost tie breakers in two matches.

Jennifer Clack, competing in the number one singles position lost to the Grosse Pointe South number one singles player, 6-3 and 6-1. South was a tough opponent as they have won the state tournament several years in a row, according to Braun.

Kathy Marschak, competing in the number two singles slot, drew Port Huron Northern, a "known power-house school" according to Braun and was defeated 6-1 and 6-1.

Susie Bozell lost to Traverse City in the tie breaker match, 6-1, 7-6, 7-5 at the number three singles slot.

Kelly Kirkpatrick and Leah Scafran, Salem's number one doubles team lost 6-3 and 6-2 to Birmingham Seaholm, the team which finished second this year.

It went to a tie breaker match for the number two doubles team of Natale Graves and Melissa Kowalis, but they were defeated 6-0, 7-6, 7-5 by Grand Rapids Forest Hills Central.

Regarding her teams trip to the state championship tournament, Braun said "It's nice for them to see how good you have to be (to win). It's one thing to get here, it's another to win. Hopefully this will be an inspiration to them."

Rocks continue hoop roll

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

The Salem girls basketball team is on a winning streak.

The Rocks have chalked up eight wins in a row, improving their overall record to 9-4, and they remain undefeated in their conference with a 7-0 record.

The Rocks traveled to Westland John Glenn on Thursday, and defeated their hosts 59-30. Salem outscored the Rockets better than 3-to-1 in the first quarter, ending it with 19 points to Glenn's six.

Salem held Glenn to six points in the second quarter, and tossed in 13 of their own, ending the first half with a 20-point lead, 32-12.

"We had a great first half," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "The key was our inside players, Emily Guiliani and Darcie Miller."

Guiliani scored 11 points for the Rocks, all in the first half. Miller tossed in eight in the first half, and six in the second half, making her the high scorer of the game with 14.

The Salem squad also traveled to Walled Lake Western last week, where the team outscored their opponent in every quarter of the game and were victorious 49-20.

High scorers for Salem, against Western, were Miller with 15, Sockow added 8, and Leslie Gotts tossed in six. Miller was the only player to foul out of the game.

The Rocks will face Livonia Stevenson at home tomorrow. The Spartans have only lost one game.

Then on Saturday, Salem will cross the campus and face Canton.

Chiefs best Rocks in playoffs

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

When the Canton and Salem boys soccer teams faced each other a month ago in scheduled competition, they battled it out to a 2-2 tie.

At that point, they knew there would be a possibility that they'd face each other again in a playoff match. That hunch became a reality last week.

The Chiefs and the Rocks met again in the playoff match for third and fourth place in the Western Lakes Conference.

Canton defeated their cross campus rivals, 2-1, last Wednesday, earning the Chiefs the number three slot in the conference, while Salem takes the number four position.

Both teams have impressive records. Canton ended its season 11-6-1 overall, and Salem's overall record stands at 11-4-

2. During regular play, Salem had nine shutouts, and Canton had five.

In the playoff match, Canton came out strong and dominated the first half, kicking in two goals, and blocking all of Salem's attempts to score.

"It was a very nice, solid game and we just wanted to win," said Canton coach Don Smith. "We just put more in the goal this time. Our defensive players, Todd Kearney, Owen Crosby, Gary Wiebe, Matt Daluisio and Craig Provenzano played a very, very strong game."

Ten minutes into the game, Chris Hayes kicked in the first goal of the game, for Canton, with an assist by Kearney.

At the 30-minute mark, with 10 minutes left to play in the first half, Stu Levebach scored Canton's second goal on an assist by Jeff Fliss, and the Chiefs led 2-0 at halftime.

The first 30 minutes of play in the second half were scoreless, but with 10 minutes left to play in the game, Joe Perron scored Salem's only goal on an assist from Rick Andrusiak and the game ended with a 2-1 victory for Canton.

Salem placed second in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Conference, behind Livonia Stevenson, a team that remains undefeated.

Canton holds the number two slot in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Conference, behind Livonia Churchill.

Stevenson and Churchill faced each other last week in conference playoffs, and ended with a tie, ending their regular

Chief hoopsters win twice

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

Solid offensive plays and a strong defense led the Canton girls basketball team to victory twice last week.

The Chiefs battled Northville and Livonia Stevenson, coming on strong in the second half of both games, at home, to earn two victories and improve their overall record to 11-2.

Their division record now stands at 3-0, and they are 6-0 in the Western Lakes Conference.

The Northville squad came on strong at the sound of the first buzzer Thursday, and took the advantage in the first quarter, outscoring Canton by four, ending the first quarter with 18 points tossed in to Canton's 14.

Northville kept the drive going, but Canton pumped up its offense and defense in the second quarter. Both teams scored 10 points each, and Northville lead 28-24 at the half.

The Chiefs came onto the court stronger both offensively and defensively, and didn't slow down until the final buzzer sounded.

"The third quarter was the key," said Bob Blohm, Canton coach. "We got off to a good start. We had good defensive stops, and took advantage of scoring opportunities. It was a team effort and everyone contributed."

Rock runners end year unbeaten

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

It was nearly a perfect meet for the Salem boys cross country team as the runners ran all over Walled Lake Central.

The Rocks ended the season undefeated in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Conference, with a 5-0 division record and a 6-0 overall record.

The Salem squad took first through sixth place, and eighth place, Thursday, against Central as the Rocks won it 15-49.

Breaking the 17 minute mark, and first across the finish line was Derek Cudini, who ran the race in 16:57. Four seconds later, teammate Steve Boudreau crossed the finish line to capture second place in 17:01.

Taking third place was Jayson McDonald, with a time of 17:17. Three seconds later, Jon Mickevicius came across the line in fourth place, in 17:20. An 18:01 earned Matt Cifaldi fifth place. Jamie Miller ran the course in 18:10, and took sixth place.

Mike Bouchard, from Central, was the spoiler as the first runner from Central to finish, as he crossed the finish line in 18:20, capturing seventh place.

Andy McDonald finished eighth overall and seventh for Salem in 18:36.

"I'm really happy with their times," said Salem coach Geoff Baker. "It was a flat course, a good day to run, and they all ran well."

The Chiefs outscored the Mustangs 19-9, to end the third quarter with a six point lead, 43-37.

The Northville squad scored 18 points in the fourth quarter, same as they did in the first quarter, but it wasn't enough this time. The Chiefs tossed in 22 points to win the game 65-55.

Leading scorers for Canton were Britta Anderson with 18, Stephanie Gray tossed in 12, Jori Welchans scored 9 points for Canton, and Kelly Holmes and Amy Westerhold each added 8 points.

It was another story, however, in last Tuesday's game against Livonia Stevenson. The pace never slowed and it was a battle to the final seconds.

"We were able to stay close and make some big plays at the end," said Blohm of his team's 70-67 victory.

Four out of the last six years the Salem cross country team has been the division champs, but the conference championship has eluded them.

Today they start the trek to the state finals, and Baker is hopeful his team will not let the conference title elude them again this year.

Salem's girls squad did not fare as well against Walled Lake Central.

In a very close meet, the Rocks were defeated 27-29, but all was not a loss.

Salem's first two finishers get their names placed on the cross country board at Salem, for placing in the top 10 best times in the history of cross country at Salem.

The Rocks walked away from the meet taking third, fourth, fifth, eighth and ninth places.

Emily Farrell was the first to cross the line for Salem, completing the race in 20:29, earning third overall. Four seconds behind her was Stacy Moore, in fourth overall, finishing her race in 20:33.

Kelly Morante also ran a personal best race, finishing in 20:51, third for Salem, earning fifth place for her team. Morante missed earning a spot on the board by one second.

Stacy Withoff finished eighth overall and fourth for Salem in 21:16.

The boys conference meet begins at 4 p.m. at Cass Benton and the girls start at 4:30 p.m.

Canton runners defeated

It was a good meet personally for each runner who placed for the Canton boys cross country team, but the team was beaten 17-46 by Walled Lake Western Thursday.

The five scorers for Canton all chalked up personal bests, and Casey Moothart, who placed first for Canton, and fourth overall at 17:14, scored the sixth best time ever in the Canton boys cross country.

The Chiefs ran against the team ranked number two in the state in cross country, and coach Jim Hayes was proud of their performance.

"All our finishers ran their best times," said Hayes. "We're doing better this season than was anticipated by both the team and myself."

Chris Burns finished in second place for Canton in 17:43, and ninth overall. The next runner to cross the finish line was teammate Dave Yack in 17:50, earning him 10th overall and third for Canton.

Right behind Yack in 11th overall and fourth for Canton was Shawn McNamara, finishing the race in 18:07. Paul Chudyk was the final scorer for Canton crossing in 12th place, fifth for Canton, in 18:10.

The girls cross country team from Canton did not fare well against Walled Lake Western.

The Chiefs were defeated 23-32 by Western, and Canton ended the season with a 3-3 overall record and 3-2 in the division.

The Chiefs ran Thursday at Cass Benton and Lana Boroditsch took first place in 20:15.

The second Chief to cross the finish line was Anne Dibble, in 22:13, in fifth place overall. Finishing third for Canton

Salem gridders trounce rivals

BY JAY KEENAN

Talk about a total team effort.

Salem's football squad got just that Friday night as the visiting Rocks trounced Western Lakes League rival Walled Lake Central, 44-13.

After jumping out to a commanding 30-0 lead with just four minutes gone in the second half, Salem coach Tom Moshimer began substituting many of his starters with younger players.

And Salem's youthful look in the second half responded with an admirable performance as the Rocks raised their record to 5-2 overall.

"I thought we played real well as a team," said Moshimer, whose concluded its Lakes Division schedule in the league with a 4-1 mark, good for second place. "I was pleased with both our offense and defense. But I was particularly pleased with our younger players who came in with two touchdown drives in the second half.

"We built our whole program on the team concept and it was a team game."

and seventh overall was Laura McWilliams in 22:13.

The next runner to cross the finish line was Kathy Landelius, in 22:31, placing eighth overall and fourth for Canton. The Chiefs' final scorer was Michelle Magers, taking 12th overall in 22:50, fifth place for Canton.

"The team has shown progress throughout the season," said Canton girls coach George Przygodski. "This is a young team, they are gaining experience." He hopes his team will finish in the top five at the conference meet.

The Chiefs will compete today in the Western Lakes Conference Meet at Cass Benton, and then in the regionals on Saturday, at Marsh Bank Park in West Bloomfield. Starting time for the boys is 4 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. for the girls.

Aided by a solid blocking performance from the offensive line, the Rocks churned out a total of 289 rushing yards on 44 attempts.

That performance was accentuated by running back Leon Hister, who tallied 156 yards in 23 tries. The senior standout now has 1,060 rushing yards on the season, shattering his own school record set last year of 967.

play tied for first in the Western Lakes Conference.

District playoffs start this week in what Johnson considers one of the toughest conference in the state, and he hopes the Rocks will meet either Canton or Churchill in the state finals in two weeks.

Winners at the district this week move on to regional play next week, which Canton and Salem will be joining together this year at CEP stadium, beginning Monday (Oct. 28).

Industrial development stretches from the City of Wayne to Willow Run and Ypsilanti, he said.

"The board elected to consider the offer since it recognizes how difficult it can be to leave someone high and dry."

Yack added that Nicholson no longer "fits in" with the township planning department, though he does not expect any major reorganization within the department.

The supervisor did say that the township would look for a new planner whose scope would reach beyond just the local community.

But, Yack said, the "mutual parting" is not a termination or a firing of Nicholson. "Dave has handled himself very professionally throughout this whole thing. It's not been easy for him," said Yack.

In a prepared statement, Nicholson, a City of Plymouth resident, said all of his good experiences and memories as planner "make it that much harder to sever my ties with this town."

He added, "Although any major change provokes anxiety, I have much enthusiasm for the new direction I have selected for my career."

Nicholson expects to provide consulting services in land use planning and micro-computer software development. He said the agreement with Canton allows him a "reasonable cushion" while developing his business.

Nicholson was hired as an intern in 1978. He began fulltime work as an assistant planner to Jim Kosteva in 1980.

citizens association, said the township wanted to gain the residents' support for the wetlands survey.

"Basically, I got the idea the township is looking to make the area more appealing to an outside developer," he said. "We made it very clear we would not consider this a peace offering per say. It wouldn't alleviate what has been done in the past.

"Ignoring the composting, what he proposed is a viable plan," Holliday added.

The 40-acre composting site, originally intended for Beck and Geddes roads, was sited south of Dye Brothers last year.

Residents formed the association in reaction to the site and ongoing problems with smells. The township will be in court on Nov. 4 over misdemeanor violations at the site by the composting firm, said Holliday.

A special meeting of the City of Plymouth Planning Commission will be held next Wednesday (Oct. 30) at 7:30 p.m. in the Commission Chambers to discuss a revision of the city's zoning ordinance and zoning map.

The hearing will focus on the entire proposed revision of the zoning ordinance and map for the city. The zoning update has been an ongoing project of the Plymouth Planning Commission for the

PO negotiations continue with City

BY JIM TOTTEN

The first round of negotiations for the purchase of the downtown Post Office property has begun.

City of Plymouth Manager Steve Walters said an offer for the property has been sent to U.S. Postal officials in Chicago, the location of the real estate division.

"We're still negotiating with the bureaucracy," Walters told members of the Canton Police Department gun range has also been a sore spot with residents. A recent agreement between the association and the department allows for the range to continue operating under strict guidelines.

Holliday said the township will go in and map out the property, half of which is owned by Canton. "That was something sort of agreeable to both of us," he said.

Holliday added, "We'll wait the report of the survey and wetlands analysis and get together with the township then."

He said he knew of no evidence of contaminated sites within the subdivision.

Bennett said the issue is not simply over the composting site.

"It's an area truly in transition," he said. "The composting has the closest impact. Many of the uses will negatively impact those folks."

Over the years residents have felt the township made some mistakes in dealing past two years.

Residents interested in making their feelings known about the zoning update should attend the meeting. The hearing is necessary before the planners can submit their recommendations to the Plymouth City Commission.

The commission will then consider the zoning changes and adopt the proposed ordinance alterations at a meeting later this year.

Downtown Development Authority (DDA) Thursday. Walters, director of the DDA, is negotiating on behalf of the DDA to buy the property.

The building and property has been appraised at $390,000. The DDA and the city commission has approved the purchase, which is not to exceed the appraised value.

The total square footage of the building, including the basement, is 22,000 feet.

with the property, said Bennett.

"A decade ago the township went in and bought out the west half of the subdivision and relocated the residents," he said. "But we never finished the job. The desire at the time was that hopefully the free market would come in and finish the job."

Bennett said the township offered the property to developers for $1 if they would put in modern sewers, but there were no offers. "We believed that if that happened the free market would lead to the buyout of the east half," he said.

"Those were the plans anyway."

The township is not attempting to buyout the residents, Bennett said, just to make the transition "as easy as possible."
