Twp. sued for $10 million

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

A civil lawsuit, asking 10 million dollars, has been filed against Plymouth Township; the Plymouth Township Police Department; Officer Erik Mayernik; Investigator Steven Mann; and Dwayne Jones in Wayne County Circuit Court.

The lawsuit stems from an Aug. 11, 1994 incident at the Amoco Station located on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township.

Cruz said in a written description of the incident, that following a near-miss accident Dwayne Jones attacked his brother Anthony Cruz. He added that he tried to aid his brother and asked the gas attendant to call the police.

When the police arrived they took a statement from Jones and handcuffed both Cruz and his brother without getting a statement from them according to the complaint.

The incident resulted in both Timothy and Anthony Cruz being charged with ethnic intimidation. Jones is African-American. Judge Cynthia Hathaway in Detroit Recorder's Court entered a directed verdict in favor of both Anthony and Timothy on April 28, 1995.

Cruz and his wife Ofelia, both

Plymouth Township residents, are suing the township for defamation, false arrest, malicious prosecution, abuse of process, intentional infliction of emotional distress, direct Michigan constitutional rights violations, and violation of due process under the Michigan Constitution, according to the plaintiff's complaint.

Cruz's attorney, Gregory J. Rohl, said although 95 per cent of these cases are settled out of court, his clients have instructed him to take this all the way.

"They said they are not looking to settle this. It's not just about the money, they want to make sure it doesn't happen again," said Rohl. "It's the principle, he (Cruz) received a death threat on Friday and he can't even go to his police department for assistance - It's just sad."

Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry said that if Cruz has received any threats he needs to report them immediately.

"The door is always open here, I don't have any vendetta against the Cruz's - I don't even think I know them, if they have a problem it will be resolved," said Berry adding that if they feel uncomfortable contacting the township police that he (Berry) will help them find assistance elsewhere.

"If there is a threat against him, call me and the first thing I'll do is contact

Superior Twp. fire investigated as homicide

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

A house fire in Superior Township led the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department to a case of homicide last Wednesday.

According to Fire Chief Garvin Smith the department received a call at 5:18 p.m. that a house on Hickman Street was on fire.

"We knocked it down quickly, but there was this tremendous black smoke, more than usual in a house fire," said Smith. "We did a search and rescue and found a body in the living room."

Daniel Patrick Rice, the 47-year-old resident of the home, was dead prior to the fire, said Washtenaw County Sheriff Lt.

Weekend of festivals set for community

BY BRIAN CORBETT

Better late than never.

The Plymouth Music Celebration will come to Kellogg Park Friday through Sunday with a variety of entertainment slated to take the stage. The event was scheduled to take place the first weekend of August, but was delayed because of Streetscape construction according to promoter Mike Watts of Watts Up, Inc. As a result, the stage will be set up to face Main Street instead of backing up against it. "We do want to rearrange things to show off downtown," said Watts.

Watts began organizing the festival in June, and has put together an impressive selection of local talent. Narrowing down the list of invitations to about 20 artists from a seemingly endless selection of talent, may have proved difficult to most people — not for Watts. "That's what I do for a living, so I basically got a hold of some friends," he said. "Some of these acts come back every year, like the Chisel Brothers and Thornetta Davis ask me every year if they're coming. Mimi Harris is a friend, and has a hot CD out. Robert Jones is a good blues musician. If you're going to do a traditional blues show, he's the one to do it. I love the DET show."

All of the performers Watts mentioned, plus MudPuppy and James Wailin', comprise the popular blues show on Friday night. The Chisel Brothers have consistently won awards as Detroit's best blues act. Robert Jones encourages those unfamiliar with blues music to come down and check out Friday's stellar line up. "If you think you don't like blues," Jones said, "chances are you haven't heard enough blues."

Meanwhile, the Tastefest will be going on the whole time in The Gathering. "It's a chance to grab some real good food," said Watts, "and watch some entertainment in a nice setting." Food from about 15 restaurants will be available at a nominal cost.

The Friday night blues show warms up the amplifiers for Saturday's 12 hours of entertainment with 10 acts scheduled to take the stage. Some of the other highlights include the alternative band Waka Jawaka and the night's headliner Black Market.

Plymouth residents may notice a familiar face when the funk-powered outfit The Bucket takes control of the stage Saturday night. Keyboardist Lance Loisell is a 1991 Salem High School graduate, which is why he was interested in playing the Music Celebration. "I kind of wanted some of my friends I graduated with to see what I'm doing," said Loisell, who has been a member since the group's formation in the spring of 1994.

On the last day of the festival, Worldwide Communion Sunday is celebrated by Rev. Kenneth Roberts of New Life Lutheran Church.

Plymouth Police Chief Bob Scoggins performs with his group, The Chapels. A line up of four country bands wraps up the celebration.

Canton precinct changes affect 10,000 voters

With the continued growth in Canton's population each year, the township's clerk is moving ahead with a plan to change several voting precincts, creating two new precincts and changing the boundaries of two existing precincts. Several other precincts will be affected by a change in polling places to mirror school district polling places.

Under state law, no more than 2,500 registered voters are allowed in each community voting precinct, said Canton Clerk Terry Bennett. Existing precincts 16 and 19, located at the Canton Administration Building and Faith Community Church respectively, exceed that limit she said, so changes were necessary to add two new precincts for a total of 26 polling places in Canton.

According to the clerk's office, 10,661 of Canton's 36,397 registered voters will be affected by the changes. Canton has not changed voting precincts since April 1992 when precinct 24 was added.

The new precinct 16 includes 1,831 voters and is bounded on the north by Cherry Hill, the south by Plymouth-Canton and Wayne-Westland school districts, the west by Sheldon Road and the east by Morton Taylor. Voters will cast ballots at the new Bentley Elementary School along with voters from precinct 17.

The remainder of the former precinct 16 becomes the new precinct 26, which is bounded on the north by Cherry Hill, the south by the Plymouth-Canton/Van Buren/Wayne-Westland school districts, the east by Sheldon Road and the west by the township border. Precinct 26 voters will cast ballots at the Canton Administration Building along with precinct 20, which is being moved from the Canton Recreation Center on Michigan Avenue. Only precinct 2 will remain at the recreation facility.

The former precinct 19 has been divided in half at Hanford Road. Voters in the area bounded by Hanford, Beck, Warren and Canton Center will remain in precinct 19 and vote at Tonda Elementary School with voters from precinct 11.

The south half of precinct 19 will be merged with part of the previous precinct 8 for a brand new district — precinct 25.

The new precinct is bounded on the north by Hanford Road, the south by Cherry Hill Road, the east by Canton Center and the west by the township boundary. Voters there will cast ballots at Canton High School, along with voters from precinct 24.

The redrawn precinct 8 is bounded by Hanford Road on the south, Joy Road on the north, the township boundary on the west and Beck Road on the east. Voters in that precinct will go to the polls at the new Resurrection Church.

The changes were approved by the Canton Elections Commission, said Bennett, who also notified the Canton Board of Trustees. Changes will be filed with Wayne County and the state once new township maps are ready reflecting the changes.

Only registered voters whose precincts have been changed will be mailed new voter registration cards. The cards will be mailed within the next two weeks. If a resident believes that he or she is affected by the above changes and does not receive a new card by Oct. 10, they should contact the clerk's office at 397-5452.

Canton voters will go to the polls three times in 1996 — March 19 for the presidential nominating primary; Aug. 6 for the state and township primary; and Nov. 5 for the presidential, state, county and township general elections.

Fire investigated as homicide

Robert Smith.

"The cause of death was blunt trauma to the head," Smith said, adding "We do have a suspect but no warrants have been issued."

According to fire officials the house fire is suspicious in nature.

"The cause of the fire is definitely suspicious," said Chief Smith. "It looks like foul play."

Both the fire and sheriff's investigations are continuing.

Hulsing School is leak-free

Building contractor replaces faulty equipment, stops leak

BY BRIAN CORBETT

After nine months, Hulsing Elementary School teacher Sally Evans will have a roof over her that works.

At no cost to the Plymouth-Canton Community School District, Hulsing building contractor Barton Marlow replaced the components responsible for causing a constant leak in Evans' Room 13 according to the company's vice president Jim Giachino. "To the board of Education, I can not express my personal gratitude," Evans said.

Two weeks ago, Evans made a presentation to the Plymouth-Canton School Board describing mysterious leaks in her classroom, located in the new addition to Hulsing built last year. Evans told the board the classroom's carpet had been damaged by a constant pool of water coming from a leak that dripped whether it rained or not. She requested a report back from the board in a timely fashion. The board responded to Evans' ongoing situation with disbelief. Superintendent Charles Little called Barton Marlow out to the school the next day to verify that the source of the leak was an air conditioner and to begin repairs.

"It was an internal leak in the air handling unit," said Giachino.

Giachino said the unit was malfunctioning because the manufacturer sent the wrong piping configuration. He said the builder then tried to use the piping configuration by changing it; he also said a pan was put on the wrong side of unit. Giachino said water would leak down into the unit through small cracks in the cement and spill into the pan — overflowing it.

Giachino said the problem has now been corrected by replacing all the internal components. "Truly, we apologize for what took place," Giachino said, addressing the board.

Giachino said it took nine months to fix because the roof was first suspected as the source, not the air conditioner.

Giachino said Barton Marlow would take care of any more problems, if they develop. "We're not going to run away from any problem," he said.

Birchler has a master's degree in accounting and a bachelor's in business administration from University of Michigan.

Tivoli Fair adds to Northville's history

BY BRIAN CORBETT

The Tivoli Fair in Northville has come a long way from its first incarnation in 1970 when 20 artisans set up shop in a church.

Now in its 26th year, the Tivoli Fair fills two stories of corridors in Northville Downs and more than 100 exhibitors will bring their arts and crafts to town this weekend.

Parking is free, but admission is $3. Doors will be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. "All the proceeds go to the restoration, upkeep, so forth of Mill Race," said Tivoli Fair co-chair Betty Omar.

Mill Race Historical Village is located on Griswold Road in downtown

Northville across from the old Ford Plant. The land for Mill Race was donated by Henry Ford and has been called "Little Greenfield Village" Omar said.

Omar, who works with chairman Eletta Holmes to organize the fair, said there is wide selection of crafts and activities that make for an enjoyable day. "There's a lot of Christmas, a lot of Halloween," she said. "We have a working area there. We have live music."

The Tivoli Fair, which derives its name from a similar fair in Europe, is a juried show, so quality and variety is guaranteed Omar said. Crowds of up to 15,000 would seem to support Omar's claim. "It just seems to improve every year: the quality of the items," said Omar.

"There's such a wide variety of items."

Omar said artisans travel to Northville from all over the Midwest to display their work at the Tivoli Fair. Everything from Christmas ornaments to homemade spices to hand-hooked wool rugs. Omar said the Tivoli Fair has grown so much that it expanded to two floors last year. All this is good news for the Northville Historical Society. "This is their only fundraiser of the year," she said.

The Sundowner Restaurant will provide concessions and an army of volunteers will staff the fair, which is in its 15th year at Northville Downs. "Margaret (Zayti, executive manager of Northville Downs) is really the one who allows us to use the race track," Omar said. "It works out really good."

Orchard grows with their apples

BY MAURA CADY

When someone says the word "growth," Plymouth Orchards owner, Mary Emmett normally thinks of the thousands of dwarf apple trees that grow on her property. This year, that term has taken on a new meaning for Emmett.

Plymouth Orchards and Cider Mill has expanded since last Fall. In fact, the building that many of us have come to know and love as the cider mill has nearly doubled in size since our last visit in the Fall of '94.

The expansion has been long in coming since more and more people have come discover this bit of country life just west of Plymouth. Since re-opening this month, Emmett hasn't been the only one to notice a difference. "Several of our repeat customers have complimented us on the new set-up." The expansion gives Emmett and her crew the capability of providing more efficient service as well as accommodating additional patrons. The new portion of the building also provides space for an expanded product line. But, don't worry, the traditional fare of cider and donuts will be as available as ever!

Since the early '80s, Plymouth Orchards has provided us with the opportunity to pick one of at least ten varieties of apples from dwarf trees. Emmett feels that providing her customers with the chance to pick their own apples is a valuable experience. "It gives people the chance to participate on a family level." She also feels that her customers come to appreciate the outdoors even more when given the chance.

This season will also feature some added fun for kids and their parents. On selected evenings this fall, Plymouth Orchards will feature a corn stalk maze with friendly halloween characters to guide participants along. A wagon ride through the orchard along with a donut and a glass of apple cider is included in the evening package. When asked what makes Plymouth Orchards so successful, Emmett replied, "We keep our operation simple. We do a few things well, leaving less of a chance for mistakes or complications." For more information on apple or pumpkin picking, daily school tours or the evening corn maze, contact Plymouth Orchards at (313) 455-2290.

'Historic wiring' will be replaced in Old Village

BY BRIAN CORBETT

Old Village has several historic buildings.

And for its unfortunate merchants and residents it has historic electrical wiring too. "It's what I'd call archaic," said Downtown Development Authority (DDA) director Steve Guile.

So at the Old Village Development Authority last Wednesday, a group of citizens convinced Detroit Edison that it was time to do something. "They realize they have a problem," said retail committee chairperson Gerry Sindici about Edison.

Edison's repair work will begin almost immediately. "It's starting relatively soon, if it hasn't started already," Guile said, adding that work should be completed by the end of the year.

Guile said Edison will perform a basic upgrade of a majority of the electrical system throughout all of Old Village. "They're planing on doing some work in phases," Guile said, "specifically, to about 80 per cent of their supply system."

Guile said the age of the system made for an inadequate power source. "They've had power surges which have resulted in the loss of electrical appliances," Guile said. "There have been power outages that have resulted in the loss of food."

Guile anticipates the electrical repairs will not require the replacement of any underground cables. "It's going to be all overhead work," he said.

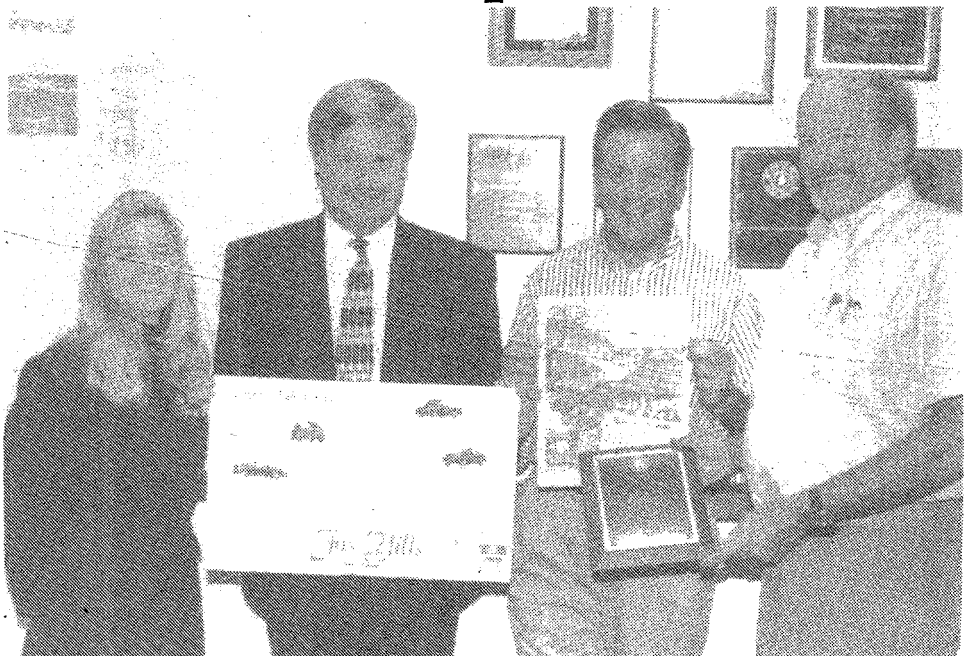

In another improvement for Old Village, Guile said the bid deadline for street lights has been extended to Oct. 15.

The lights have been planned for several streets in Old Village including Starkweather and Mill, and Cannon and Pointe parks. "It's about 70, give or take, luminaries," Guile said.

Guile said that as soon as a bid is accepted, that he expects the contractor will get to work almost immediately. "We want to get this done as soon as possible," Guile said, adding he would require the contractor to start within 30 days after the bid is accepted. Guile said he assumed the contractor could put in eight luminaries a day, meaning the project would take about two months.

Add it up

The Michigan Press Association announced last week that The Community Crier won a first-place tie — with itself — for full-color advertising in Michigan's largest non-daily newspaper category. The two ads that tied for first place were the Blackwell Ford ad and the Fox Hills Chrysler-Plymouth-Jeep-Eagle ad, both in the 1994 Fall Festival Edition. The Crier has won Michigan's top full-color award for the 11th time. Crier advertising representative Kristy Davis, Fox Hills' Jim Schebil, Blackwell Ford's John Blackwell III and Crier advertising director Jack Armstrong display the ads and award. The Crier also took: second place for best spot color ad, third place for best newspaper promotion, third place for best classified ad (auto), second place for best advertising idea and third place for best advertising idea. the state police or Wayne County Sheriff to handle it," Berry said. "He should not let it (the threats) go unresolved."

Rohl said that he believes the entire 1994 incident came out of a 1992 incident in which Anthony Cruz was convicted of unlawfully driving away Mann's police cruiser.

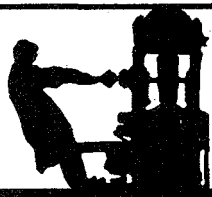

"I think the '92 arrest was the underlying reason for all this," said Rohl. "In fact, when they got to the station Mann said 'I got you, now you're gonna pay for what you did.'"

Berry added that he has not yet been served with any papers so commenting on the lawsuit would be difficult.

"I have not been served anything so our (the department) knowledge of what's happening is limited," he said.

Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy did not respond to repeated attempts for comment as of press time.

We'd never argue with that age-old claim. But we want to caution you to not take it for granted. Especially in the 90's.

As resilient as women have historically been, today's culture seems to be taking its toll. Today, women are becoming more at risk for heart problems than ever before. Far more. Last year, over one-half million women suffered heart attacks. And about 245,000 die of coronary heart disease each year.

Are you at risk? Answer the questions in this ad.

- Body Fat Distribution: Are you "pear-shaped", or "apple"? Women who carry their extra weight around the waist rather than hips, may have a higher risk for heart disease.
- Stress: Do you feel like your life is out of control? Some common ways of coping with stress, such as overeating and heavy drinking, are bad for your heart.
- Age and menopause: The older you get, the higher your risk of heart attack. Especially over age 65.
- Smoking: Have you stopped? A smoker's risk of heart attack is twice that of a non-smoker.

Canton's Steve Dell is 'very good' at traditional Italian sport

JANET ARMSTRONG

When it comes to bocci ball, Steve Dell is an expert.

Although confined to a wheel chair, he has cerebral palsy, Dell has soared when it comes to sports.

Dell is preparing for a trip to Australia tomorrow to compete in the International Cerebral Palsy Games.

The 27-year-old Canton, athlete is an old hand at international travel and competition.

The first international competition he took part in was in Belgium and he didn't fare well in the competition, said Dell.

"I think I was a little intimidated by all the different countries represented," he said. "When you're new, they put you in the toughest bracket, so I was competing against the number one and two people in the world."

Dell had a different problem altogether when he arrived for his next international competition in England.

"My wheelchair was electric and I couldn't compete in an electric chair. I had a manual one I competed in, but it wasn't the same," said Dell. "I didn't win anything."

The five-year veteran of the game of bocci doesn't foresee any of the problems he's had in the past disrupting him during the upcoming games.

"I think I'm ready to win something this time," said Dell.

His only concern on this trip is to do well in the competition.

"I'm going to represent my country," he said. "I want to do a good job."

More than 25 "well known" antique dealers will be taking part in the three-day event at the Historic Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills.

The preview party will take place Thursday evening from 7 p.m.- 9 p.m. Included in the preview will be a silent auction that should prove to be wonderful, said Pray.

"Not only did we have antique dealers donate, business owners have donated as well," she said. "This will be the first time we've done this (had an auction) at the antique show."

The cost of the Preview party is $20 and includes hors d'oeuvres.

If you don't want to take part in the party or auction you can still get a look at the many antiques Friday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

According to Pray, just seeing the inn is enough of a reason to see the show.

"Just going to the Historic Botsford Inn is worth the trip," said Pray. "It's an amazing place."

'Treasured Memories' poet will visit sideways

BY BRIAN CORBETT

Poet Anita Hicks will be visiting sideways, 505 Forest Ave., on Sunday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. to sign copies of her book "Treasured Memories."

It is Hicks' first book. But if you listen to sideways manager Jen Dismuke, it sounds as if Hicks is already a seasoned poet. "I read one of her poems," said

Dismuke, "and I got goose bumps."

Hicks, a Westland resident, and sideways set up the signing session after she visited the store one day with her book.

The rest is history. "We enjoyed her and we enjoyed the book," said Dismuke.

"Treasured Memories" is a collection of poems inspired by Hicks' children and grandchildren.

Many of the verses within the poem depict daily life and the pleasure of watching children learn and refine themselves.

Dismuke said sideways is selective of the artists it invites for signing sessions. "We do support some local artists. It's rare," she said. "If something right comes along."

Expecting more

Great Expectations brings full service salon to Plymouth

BY BRIAN CORBETT

Everybody has had great expectations. Charles Dickens wrote "Great Expectations."

Sharon Wooster owns Great Expectations.

"We threw a lot of different names around," Wooster about her salon's moniker. "We settled on that because that's what we wanted to fulfill."

Wooster took over the total service salon for men and women, located at 198 S. Main St., from its previous owners on May 1. "I had worked there for six years," she said.

Wooster's transition to owner went smoothly because of her previous management experience, which is why she decided purchase the salon. "I had been managing for other people for 15 years," Wooster said. "I decided this was my shot."

Over the summer, Wooster has totally refurbished the salon. "None of the existing stuff is in here," Wooster said. "Everything is brand new."

Wooster has also added bed and hex tanning booths, and a massage room. Wooster said the new additions will give her an advantage in the very competitive Plymouth salon market. "We offer more," she said. "We have tanning. We have pedicure."

Wooster said the tanning booths will be appreciated by city residents who often travel to the outskirts of town to tan. And the massage room will be something new to the area, Wooster said, as soon as she finds a masseuse. "I'm looking for a masseuse," Wooster said.

Even with the massage room, customers are still raving about the changes Wooster said. "The whole look and the attitude, and what we're offering," Wooster said. "Our customers have been really supportive. We stayed open during construction."

opening this month. "Everybody was really excited," Wooster said.

That feeling has stayed alive within Wooster, who said the relationship with employees has made ownership special. "We're like a family here," Wooster said.

Coffee Bean Company opens Northville store following success in Plymouth

BY BRIAN CORBETT

Pam Haase knows her coffee — no beans about it.

Haase has served coffee to the exquisite, ritz-type of California. She has studied the presentation of European coffee houses. And, yes, she will tell you all you need to know about beans. Robusto beans. Arabica beans. "Here's the rule of thumb: The darker the roast, the less caffeine but more of the flavor," said Haase. "The lighter the bean, the more caffeine."

Haase has this knowledge for a reason: she owns the Coffee Bean Company in Plymouth with her husband, Tim. She has now taken her knowledge to Northville, opening a new store at 137 E Main St., with a front window view of the city's historic street clock. "People were begging me to go to Northville" Haase said.

The Northville store opened in June and is smaller than the Plymouth location, but Haase said 80 per cent of her business is take out anyway. Other than that, the Northville store carries on the atmosphere that Haase wants to present. "It's very European," she said, "and we couldn't pass up the location."

There are 25 flavors of coffee to choose from, along with bagels, hot chocolate, herbal teas and juices. The creeds have stayed the same too; Haase ensures her products are fresh by only ordering what she can use in seven to 10 days, and providing a polite and knowledgeable staff. "They help (the customers) with their drink," Haase said. "A lot of regulars walk in here, they're talking — they haven't even ordered their drink yet — and I'm getting it ready."

Haase said additional expansion is a possibility. But do not expect a franchise, that would dilute the ambience of each store Haase said. "We could throw up 10 of these in strip malls," she said, "but my heart wouldn't be in it."

Haase said coffee houses have become popular for their convenience, and their relaxed atmosphere. "I think people are tired of going to bars," she said. "It's a lot less intimidating to invite someone for a coffee instead of drink."

The Northville Coffee Bean Company opens at 7 a.m. on weekdays, an hour later on weekends, and closes at 10 p.m.

HVAC improvement adds to home value

Furnace, air conditioner are two of the most important appliances

BY ROB KIRKBRIDE

It's often said that if you don't like the weather in Michigan, wait a few minutes — it'll probably change.

With the type of weather we experience in Michigan, it's not surprising that a furnace and air conditioning unit is one of the most important appliances in a home.

Furnaces keep us warm during the cold Michigan winters and air conditioners keep us cool during the scorching summers — but only if they're working properly.

The heating and cooling business has changed over the past 10 years. Gone are the huge "octopus" furnaces that ran at 60 percent efficiency and took up half the basement.

Welcome the new generation of furnaces and air conditioners — 90 percent efficient and quiet as a church mouse.

Joe Dunlop, owner of Dunlop Heating & Cooling said he has seen the changes coming. His father started the business in 1948 and Joe has worked at the company since high school.

Dunlop said furnace switch-outs and air conditioning add-ons are not do-it-yourselfer jobs. "It's not something the average homeowner can do themselves," he said. "The new furnaces are fairly complicated and the venting of the furnace on the new high efficiency models is critical."

Mike Puckett, vice president and head of operations for Puckett Co. said air conditioning work must be performed by a certified technician.

"We have to account for every drop of Freon (air conditioning cooling liquid) we put in and take out because of the EPA rules," he said.

Puckett said an air conditioning add-on and furnace switch-out can add value to a home.

"Air conditioning is a very big plus," he said. "People who are buying a home also like to see a new furnace."

Dunlop said home inspectors are looking for a new furnace when homes are bought and sold. "If you're thinking about selling your home," he said, "you probably need a newer furnace. Real estate agents say that by installing a new furnace, homeowners can recoup a lot of their money back."

Both heating and cooling professionals agree that it's important to have furnaces checked for carbon dioxide leaks.

Now is the time to make an appointment for a furnace inspection.

"A lot of people won't even start their furnace these days without having it inspected," said Puckett. "It's better to make sure the unit is working properly before the season starts. It assures better efficiency and peace of mind."

Furnaces and air conditioners have become more and more efficient over the past decade.

"Our top of the line unit," said Dunlop, "is a variable speed furnace, run by a microprocessor.

"It's like having a furnace that runs on cruise control — it's 96 percent efficient and runs quietly and consistently."

Furnace switch-outs and air conditioning add-ons are not the ordeal they used to be several decades ago.

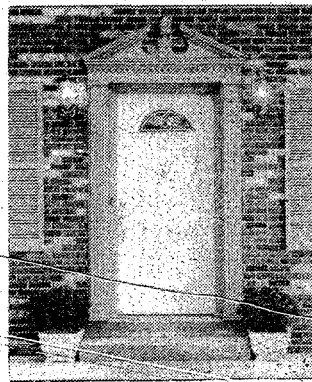

"We give the customer a free estimate," said Puckett. "If a new furnace is needed, we can usually do it in one day. If it's a new furnace and air conditioner, we give ourselves a day-and-a-half."

Dunlop said, depending on the efficiency of the furnace and size of the house, a new furnace costs between $1,400 and $3,000. Much of that money can be recouped because of the improved efficiency.

Home improvement can simply begin 'under your feet' with carpet, flooring

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Looking to improve your home, but don't know quite where to start? Try the floor.

"A new floor can update the look of your home," said John Thomas of John Thomas Floor Covering Inc., 42177 E. Ann Arbor Rd. in Plymouth. "It really gives people more pride in their homes."

There are several different looks in floor covering according to John Dalpiaz, the store manager for Val-Tile, 42146 Ford Rd. in Canton, including vinyl tile, ceramic tile, hardwood and carpet.

Both floor experts offered several helpful hints when picking out a floor covering and installing it yourself:

- Use only the glues recommended by the manufacturer.
- Follow all the installation instructions - NO SHORT CUTS.
- Try to use light, airy colors for the floor.
- Match wallpaper to the floor, don't buy a wallpaper pattern and try to find a floor pattern to match.
- When using vinyl tile, make a template and trace it out on the vinyl (add two inches and cut away extra after it's installed).

Thomas said that the installations should generally, however, be left to the professionals. He added that there are three keys to picking your professional:

- Pick someone you trust.
- Hire someone that has installers working directly for them.
- Pick someone you feel is qualified to handle your particular needs.

Dalpiaz added that whether you install the floor or have a professional do it, it is very important that you do the correct maintenance on the floor.

"On vinyl for instance, you want to wash it with plain water, white vinegar and water or the manufacturer's recommended cleaner," he said. "Proper maintenance will add to the life of the floor."

Floor Care Tips:

1. Wash a vinyl floor with plain water or white vinegar
2. Wood flooring needs special attention — try Windex and water
3. Don't use harsh cleaners on carpeting
4. Never use abrasive cleaners on tile floors
5. Sometimes, a broom is enough to clean the floor

Plymouth undergoes ultimate 'home improvement' project with Streetscape

You'd think in a town as quaint as Plymouth, one would easily be able to find their way around.

This, however, was not the case when I first visited Plymouth in June. The congestion of the streetscape left me driving down one way streets the wrong way and wondering if I would ever make it to my interview at The Crier. I may have been more confused than others by the road construction because I am an intern from Livonia Franklin, and in Livonia, one way streets are rarely found. But this was my first visit to Plymouth in several years and I was definitely not impressed. The confusion of all the detour signs telling me different ways to go and the constant beeping of the construction trucks as they backed up

A Patriot's Prerogative

left me wondering if Plymouth's home improvement would ever be completed.

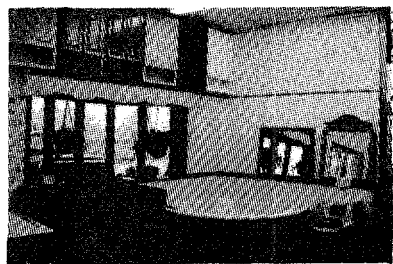

After about a half an hour I finally found a street that was completely paved and safe to park on (about two blocks from my destination). Walking to The Crier, I took a look around, and although the town looked like a disaster area, it seemed as though the final product would be something to cherish. From what I can remember of my early childhood visits to this town, Plymouth took pride in its environment and its appearance to visitors and residents. The streetscape seemed to be the final addition to an almost perfect Plymouth.

It was a great shock to me when I arrived in Plymouth, sometime in late August, and the streetscape was still taking place. I remembered how irritated I was when I had to deal with the streetscape for one day and I thought, "How could the residents and consumers of Plymouth stand the turmoil for a whole summer?" This was probably the reaction of many visitors to Plymouth. But, after about two weeks (around the time of the Fall Festival) I went outside and looked at the newly constructed traffic island that had caused me so much trouble. I was impressed, the island and the new road made Plymouth look better than I had ever remembered.

The Plymouth Streetscape is very pleasurable to the eye and seems to be a project that was worth waiting for. Perhaps it's true good things come to those who wait. Plymouth waited long enough for its home improvement to come to an end.

Interior design makes 'living' easier

BY BRIAN CORBETT

Everyone thinks they have a little bit of interior design in them. Whether it is the strategic placing of a poster of Jimi Hendrix or a framed picture of Monet on a wall. Or filling a living room with a set of eclectic college furniture or custom made home furnishings.

While the amateur decorator would never dare, or probably be allowed, to develop an interior atmosphere from someone other than their self, Jay Denmore and Paula Weber do it for a living.

Weber is the owner of A Custom Interior Design, 470 S. Forest in Plymouth, and Denmore owns Plymouth Furniture Refurbishing, 331 N. Main St.

Weber said interior design is very important because it reflects a person's lifestyle. "... and how they would like someone to feel when they're entering their home," Weber said.

A Custom Interior Design provides drapery, upholstery and wallcovering for commercial and residential buildings. Weber also orders custom made furniture and has a certified interior designer on staff to work with architects and builders. "Although it's not required," said Weber, "it's nice to have a professional."

While Weber puts together beautiful rooms, everyone needs something to sit on, that is where Denmore comes in. The walls may be green, and the carpet may be almond, in between is some nice almond lacquered furniture. "It (furniture) can pull the room together," he said.

Denmore refinishes, repairs and reglues furniture. He said there are many reasons to repair furniture rather than buy a new set. One is that older furniture was built to last with very sturdy wood. Denmore also said a lot of money can be saved from refurbishing furniture rather than purchasing a new set. But the most important reason, Denmore believes, is also the reason he enjoys the business: resurrecting a family heirloom. "It's a sentimental attachment to it," he said. "It' grandma's or grandpa's, or something."

While it may take a financial commitment to improve the overall presentation of a house Weber said it is money well spent because it increases the resale value. "It's proven," she said, "you can ask any Relator that."

Invitational...

$50 To The Winner MARSHA BAR

Dear Kindness Editor,
I am writing about Marsha Bar, a cashier at the Joy Road/Main Street Farmer Jack, for her kindness and consideration.
Here's an example of her kindness. I was buying some vegetables to make a Mother's Day dinner for myself and three other seniors. I had only brought $20 and she thought that was all I had to spend on groceries. She invited me to have Mother's Day dinner with her. I declined, but she told me to call her if my plans changed.
She also visited an older, regular customer who had broken her hip.
Marsha is always very pleasant, and I go through her line whenever she's there. Marsha makes shopping at Farmer Jack an enjoyable experience.

Sincerely,
Martha Ash

$25 To The Winner MARY ZIGMAN

Dear Kindness Editor,
More often than not, restaurants and food services, like Taco Bell, hear only the criticism and complaints of customers and the day to day "good things" that happen go totally unnoticed.

I would like to relate an incident that happened to my wife, Donna, on July 28 at the Ann Arbor Rd. Taco Bell in Plymouth, Michigan.

She stopped there for lunch and discovered that she had locked her keys in the car and did not have a spare. She couldn't call me at work because I did not have a spare key either.

Taco Bell employee, Mary Zigman, came to the rescue. Since there was no public phone for my wife to use, Mary took time from a very busy lunch hour to make several calls to the police and to the nearby Dodge dealer to get help. The dealer was able to make and deliver a new key and my wife was on her way in a short time.

Please extend to Mary Zigman my appreciation and a big "thank you" for being responsible for one of the "good things". This one did not go unnoticed!

Sincerely,
John Thomas, Plymouth

$25 To The Winner BILL ALBERTS

Dear Kindness Editor,
If anyone deserves a reward it is my son Bill.

After serving his country in the U.S. Navy and after many letters of commendation, he returned home to finish college and find work. Soon after he came home I became very ill and about two years ago we asked him to move in with us to help with the nursing and household chores, as the medical expenses are terrible.

He is now getting ready to move out on his own again and I can never thank him enough for all the dishes and clothes he washed, all the meals he cooked and the twice weekly drive to Detroit's Hutzel Hospital pain clinic.

While we are in the clinic, sometimes for hours, he always has a smile and kind word for all he meets and I know they go away feeling a bit happier for it.

Sincerely,
Katherine Alberts, Plymouth

Salem dunks Canton in swim meet for cross campus bragging rights

BY MATT HUCAL

The Salem and Canton girls swim teams clashed to mixed results last Thursday.

Both teams competed head to head with Salem ending up victorious by the score of 120-66 but as Salem coach Chuck Olson put it, "It was a lot better and closer meet than what the score indicated."

SALEM

Olson had his squad ready from the get go and really liked what he saw from them.

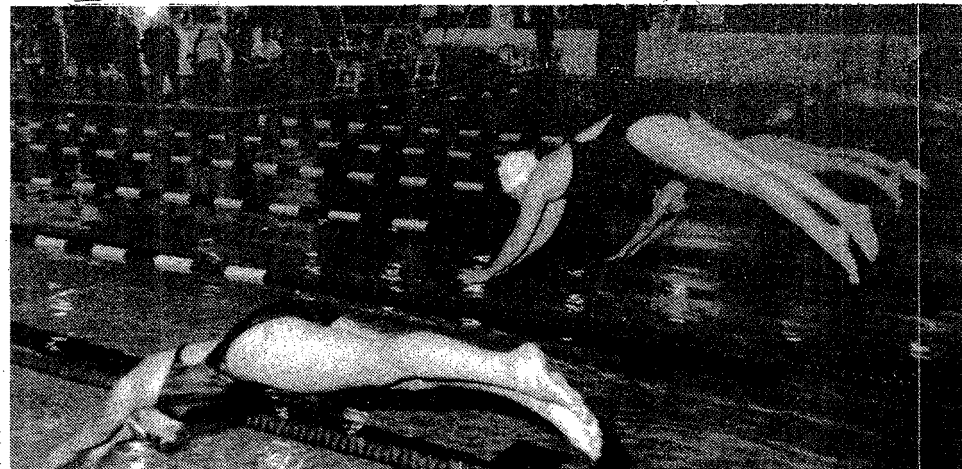

"Canton swam well, but we won the close races so all those points eventually add up," Olson said. "I think it was as well as we've swam this year."

Salem is 2-1 after the Canton meet, with a win against Brighton on September 12 and a loss to Ann Arbor Huron by the score of 114-71 on September 19. Before the regular season began Salem participated in the Western Lakes Conference Relays on August 31 and finished in third place.

"We seem to be getting where we want to be and I think we have improved dramatically since the relays. It takes awhile for the girls to see that it's not only hard work but that it is a lot of fun out there," Olson said.

Olson was impressed with the way Audrey Hala swam and has begun to emerge. She was involved in many of Salem's wins.

"This was the kind of meet we've been looking for all season out of

It was another classic showdown between Canton and Salem last Thursday (Crier photo by R. Alwood Jr.)

Salem's next meet is tomorrow versus Farmington at home, and then on Saturday they're at home at 1 p.m. in a tournament with some of the top teams in the state such as Ann Arbor Pioneer.

CANTON

The meet was a little more tough on Canton than it was on Salem. They seemed to come up short on most of the races which led to Salem's victory. But Canton coaches Ron Krueger and Sarah Eubanks found some good out of the meet.

"The girls swam well with a lot of personal best times and we're happy with that," Eubanks said.

Canton is 2-1 in dual meets so far

Kristin Foley leaves a wake behind her while competing for Canton in the butterfly stroke competition. Salem defeated the Chiefs in the dual meet, 120-66. Salem improved to 2-1 and takes on Farmington tomorrow at home. Canton is also 2-1 in dual meets this season. (Crier photo by R. Alwood Jr.)

Audrey," Olson said. "She swam real nice in the 200 and 500 free styles."

Yvonne Lynn, Zoe Yockey, and Carrie Dzialo all did well and Yockey had her personal best in diving.

with their other meets coming against Novi and Monroe.

Canton will have to keep up their improving ways with a couple invitationals coming up and a meet against Northville fit in between both of those.

"Our girls keep getting better times every time they swim," Eubanks said. "Hopefully they'll keep getting more personal best times as the season moves along."

These were the times for Salem and Canton in the meet:

SALEM

200 medley relay-Yvonne Lynn, Katie Bonner, Sara Castillas, and Carrie Dzialo won at 1:58.27

Canton girls basketball overcomes disadvantages to post 5-3 record

BY MATT HUCAL

A solid team, but if they could only grow.

The Canton girls basketball team is 5-3 overall (1-1 in league), but recently their lack of height and the rebounding disadvantage they hold has been haunting them down the stretch of big games.

On September 16 they lost to Regina Harper Woods by the score of 53-47. The game was close and came down to the last 50 seconds. Canton couldn't make a field goal in the last minute so they had to start fouling Regina and that shut the door on Canton.

Canton coach Bob Blohm thought the game went well, but the usual faults that have been following Canton seemed to be the deciding factor.

"It was a good game for both teams and we competed well with them," Blohm said. "But we just had trouble rebounding and making big shots down the stretch."

The leading scorers for Canton against Regina was Kristi Fiorenzi with 14 points, Sarah Warnke with 12 points, and Becky Vashow with 11 points.

On September 21 in their game against Stevenson, Canton handled them easily and won 72-27. According to Blohm the game was over after the first quarter when Canton held a 29-6 lead. Everyone scored in that game with Warnke and Vashow leading the scorers with 17 points, and Fiorenzi and Nkechi Okwumbua with 12 points each.

Canton's most recent game last Saturday against Flint Powers was a heartbreaker for them. They ended up losing 49-47 at the buzzer.

Canton had the ball with the score tied at 47-47 and wanted to hold it for the game's last possession. Warnke drove the ball to the basket but was called for an offensive foul. Flint then scored with seven seconds left and Canton couldn't make a shot at the buzzer.

"This was also a good game for both teams and we played well, but we knew Flint was one of the top five teams in Class B and that we would have our hands full with them," Blohm said.

Warnke led Canton with 23 points and Melissa Marzolf scored ten points.

With all their non-league games out of the way, Blohm thinks his team is ready for the tough league games ahead.

"I felt real good about the competition in the non-league games. We're real solid right now and work well together. A big challenge for us is going to be rebounding against these big teams coming up, especially at the end of the second half. We'll have to get our bodies in there and not give up second shots," Blohm evaluated.

Some big teams coming up on the schedule for Canton will be Walled Lake Western tomorrow, Salem on October 3, and Northville on October 5. The Walled Lake game is away and the other two are at home. All are at 7 p.m.

Salem, Canton soccer teams head towards showdown next week

The Salem boys soccer team come off an up and down week and hope to bounce back for their Canton game on October 4.

On September 16 the team played a usually strong team in Troy, but easily beat them by the score of 6-1. Matt Simons scored two goals and Brett Konley, Mike Mezchec, Andy Makins and Ronny Mashni each scored a goal.

They then beat Walled Lake Western 5-0 on September 18 with three goals by Drew Drummond and a goal apiece from Mike Mezchec and Ronny Mashni.

Then last Wednesday the big game against top ranked Stevenson arrived, with Salem losing 3-0.

Salem coach Ken Johnson thought it was an up and down game for his team.

"We dominated, and we should have put them away in the first half," Johnson said.

Stevenson scored on their first and only shot of the first half, a 30-yard free kick, and lead 1-0 at halftime.

"The tide changed in the second half," Johnson said.

"They pressured us and we couldn't get much going."

Salem, still ranked in the top ten in Class A, play Harrison today, Brighton on Saturday, Franklin on Monday, and Canton next Wednesday in the big game between the two rivals.

CANTON

Canton's soccer team has recovered from some early-season defeats and has been playing well.

On September 18 Canton defeated

John Glenn 9-0 with five goals from Shawn Walker, last Wednesday they played Harrison and won 7-0 with four goals coming from Anthony Riemma, last Saturday they beat Brighton 2-0 with goals by Evan Sabourin and Jason Bennett, and on Monday they defeated Farmington 6-0.

Canton next plays Franklin today, Troy Athens on Saturday, Churchill on Monday, and Salem next Wednesday.

Summit hires McNellis to handle aquatics center, first aid

BY MATT HUCAL

Canton's Summit on the Park community center has hired an experienced Aquatics Specialist to head their new facility.

Jim McNellis started working on September 6 and will occupy his time between operating and programming of the new Summit and host programs and classes such as life guarding, CPR, and first aid for the community.

The 32-year-old McNellis has 13 years experience in the operating of indoor pools ranging from eight years at the Wayne-Westland YMCA, where he was a swim coach and instructor, to the last two years while serving as the director for the Jewish Community Center in Oak Park.

The 14,000-square-foot aquatics center, hoped to be open in the late fall, will have five family pools to enjoy.

There will be a five-lane pool, zero-depth pool with active water features, a 120-foot-long water slide with a plunge pool, a lazy river where visitors can float, and a whirlpool.

McNellis is hoping for involvement in the community from ages 18 months to senior citizens.

"There's an opportunity for the whole community to get involved with the programs we have," McNellis said. "They'll always get a say in what we do."

Another quality McNellis will provide is the hiring of the most qualified staff he can possibly get. His staff will all be certified through the Ellis Associates, which is a high level of life-guard training.

McNellis' job will be to recruit, train, supervise, and teach all those who work at the center.

"All we're hoping for is to provide the best programming possible and making good use out of one of the best aquatic centers in area," McNellis said.

With all of McNellis' experience and enthusiasm, the aquatic center should be a very successful part of the community for many years.

One of those days

Cartoon was no laughing matter to some readers

There are days you can have this job.

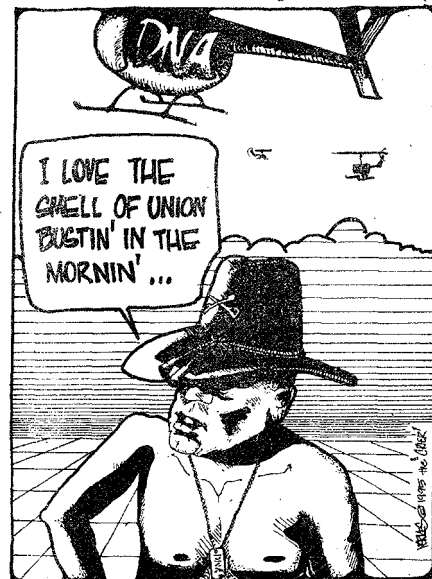

Two weeks ago, The Crier's longtime "visiting" editorial cartoonist Charlie Yerkes called to say, "Hey, how about a Detroit Newspaper strike cartoon?"

Charlie, an electrician by trade, is an editorial cartoonist by tirade.

Like his father, Charlie is not afraid to express his opinion — and his famous anti-Detroit-Joint-Operating-Agreement cartoon certainly unnerved some corporate boardroom folks. (His other award-winning "toons" over the years have chided politicians and police chiefs.)

So when Charlie said he was pumped about the newspaper strike, the obvious question was: what've you got in mind?

After all, there are few suburban towns outside Sterling Heights that have as much emotional involvement in the Detroit JOA as The Plymouth-Canton

Last week's editorial cartoon on the Detroit Newspaper strike.

Community does. Included in that is the uneasiness surrounding the Detroit Newspapers agency regional distribution facility in Plymouth Township and other distribution connections here.

Many employees — on both sides of the picket line — call Plymouth-Canton home; emotions run high.

OK Charlie, what's up?

"Well boss, you may disagree with this idea, but I don't like this helicoptering, union-busting attitude at the JOA," said Charlie, a card-carrying activist of Local 58 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW — an AFL-CIO affiliate). He works at the Ford plant in Wayne.

Sometimes it's hard to tell whether Charlie is kidding. (That became VERY apparent by Friday). The Crier cartoonist knows full well that this newspaper has never been a JOA fan. (The federal lawsuit to stop the JOA was filed from 345 Fleet St., Plymouth — you can figure that out).

Even when Charlie's cartoons don't necessarily agree with The Crier's "official-as-it-gets" editorial stands, his cartoons run as is, just as they have for 18 years. The same courtesy is afforded to letter-to-the-editor writers and Crier columnists.

So after some jawing about whether Charlie's idea was "politically correct," it was clear the cartoon had enough local interest to run regardless of its position.

Charlie showed up with the cartoon.

It was dig at the Detroit Newspapers agency management and their helicopter tactics. To add insult to the DNA management, Charlie embarrassed them by drawing Frank Vega (the Detroit Newspapers' CEO and stock market analyst) into the famed Vietnam movie scene of Apocalypse Now — a character made famous by Robert Duvall.

Charlie wanted to know if this would unduly rile The Crier's personal friends on the management side of the Detroit Newspapers. Probably it would, but Charlie gets the First Amendment latitude that editorial cartoonists need.

Besides, the anti-JOA tone hit a chord at The Crier. The "toon" ran last Wednesday.

Then the real irony hit.

Some union members here in The Plymouth-Canton Community apparently misinterpreted the point of the Yerkes editorial cartoon. Apparently, they thought the cartoon was boosting union busting, when, in fact, it was jabbing the newspapers' management.

As the long-distance calls about this developing confusion began, it was clear that this was one of those days you can have this job. It's difficult to explain that the cartoon meant the opposite when you're four hours away.

"That was anything BUT union bashing," screamed Charlie. "I don't know why they'd think that."

By Friday, the issue had reached everyone from the United Auto Workers Local 845 (the Sheldon Road Ford plant's union with its hall on Joy Road in Canton), to some local car dealers and to the Plymouth Community United Way.

Some local union members felt the Detroit Newspapers strike was an emotional issue — too emotional — and local fueling of the flames hurt the spirit of cooperation that exists in The Plymouth-Canton Community between union members, management and business — all of whom are gearing up for the United Way campaign here.

The further irony is that the Metropolitan Council of Newspaper Unions wants to reprint the Yerkes cartoon blasting management for union busting.

By Monday, the cartoon's obvious (it was thought) intent was making the rounds; the issue was calming down. But clearly, the Detroit Newspaper strike is not funny to anyone — even though editorial cartooning is a classic way to vent opinions.

And while there are days you can have the publisher's job...

There are days you can have the editorial cartoonist's job too.

And probably there are days you can also have the Detroit Newspaper's union jobs or any of the Detroit area union jobs during an emotional strike.

This is the cartoon that ran concerning the JOA in 1989.

Consolidation of schools would save money

EDITOR:

Consolidation of the Northville, Plymouth and South Lyon school districts could save taxpayers millions of tax dollars, but the state legislature refuses to recognize the significance of this proposal. Consolidation could become a progressive reform aimed at enriching the curriculum. Ultimately, the process would reduce cost, eliminate duplication of services, and promote efficiency in management.

Why are most school districts opposed to consolidation? Why do they continue to protect their fiefdoms? Not surprisingly, they have become very provincial and overprotective, which inevitably hurts the quality of education.

Some parents strive to retain artificial boundaries by advancing cheerleader type rhetoric aimed at loyalty to sports teams, pride in school spirit and nostalgia.

Meanwhile, the march toward higher

I-275 exit at Plymouth Road would help with safety

EDITOR:

I am so glad to read in The Crier about the concerns at Ann Arbor Road and Haggerty Road. I live on Ann Arbor Trail and Haggerty Road. Day and night, we are subjected to those large, and I am sure overweight, semi-trucks rumbling up and down Haggerty Road. They sometimes go so fast I wonder if they are going to stop at the light. Their brakes are so bad, you can hear them trying to stop or spending is deliberately contrived to create the need for more millages despite the promises of tax cuts included within Proposal A. If this trend is allowed to continue, millages and property taxes will be restored to their original levels, and our tax base will be destroyed when homeowners and senior citizens flee to other states.

Why do taxpayers tolerate smoke and mirrors advanced by hornswogglers determined to undermine tax reform in our state?

they go so fast through the light, you would swear a plane was going by. My backyard faces this intersection and I sit horrified by the traffic. This is a residential area, homes line Haggerty Road and Ann Arbor Trail. Please tell Mike Gerou he has my support if this project will decrease the volume of truck traffic on Haggerty Road, between Plymouth Road and Ann Arbor Road.

At your service

Club exemplifies caring attitude of community groups

It's what service clubs are all about — and an important reason The Plymouth-Canton-Northville Community is so blessed.

Service clubs are about helping other people. The community is full of them — Kiwanians, Civitans, Jaycees, Lions, Knights of Columbus — the list goes on and on. Plymouth's Fall Festival is based on service organizations.

People often forget service clubs work ALL YEAR to help people.

As a newspaper editor, I see the good these clubs accomplish on a daily basis.

No curves

By Rob Kirkbride

Although all the clubs have completed special projects, a recent project of the Breakfast Kiwanis Club stands out — it exemplifies the caring attitude of our service organizations.

The Breakfast Kiwanis Club identified a need in the community — a bench for senior citizens who walk from Tonquish Manor to the downtown shopping area — and they took action to address the need.

After the breakfast club bought the bench, Realtor Bob Bake donated the property where it would be placed — on the north side of Ann Arbor Trail near the corner of Harvey Street.

The Kiwanians felt this would be a good rest stop for the seniors. The seniors agreed. Now they can maintain their independence by doing their own shopping. They can also take a breather along the way.

It seems like such a simple gift to the community. But what a difference it make for our seniors. Jerry Franks, 1st Vice President of the Breakfast Kiwanis Club, was one of the main organizers of the project along with Nancy Petrucelli, Bunny Maurer and Sue Dodson.

The bench is a reminder of how people in a small town work together to get something done. It is also an excellent example of the gifts our service clubs give back to the community. So next time someone from a service group approaches you to buy a raffle ticket or support some other fundraiser, be generous. By helping them, we help ourselves.

Mayflower deserves community support

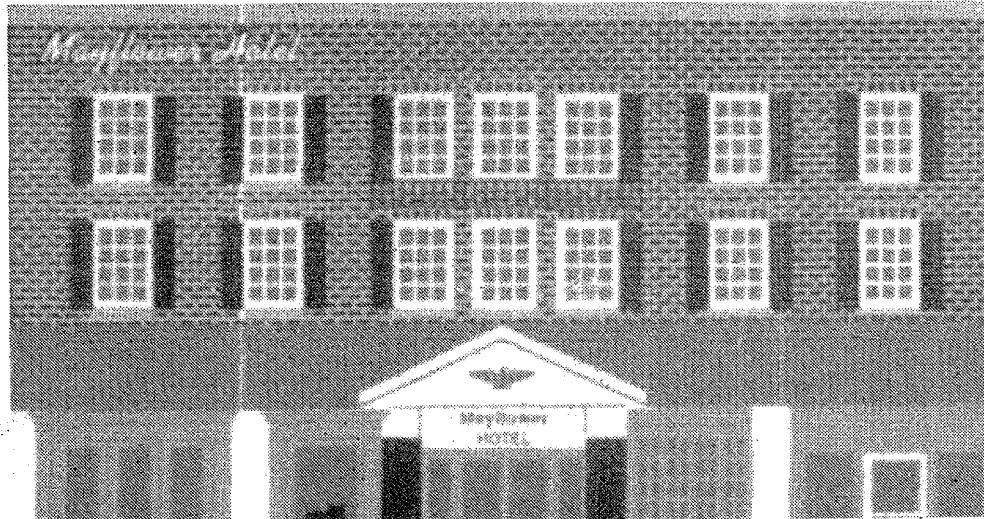

EDITOR:

Last week's letter to the editor concerning the Mayflower Hotel saddened me, and I dare say a goodly number of long-time Plymouth residents.

One can hardly overlook the challenges now facing the hotel. However, on a positive side, friends from Atlanta, here on business the week following the Fall Festival, were highly complimentary of their stay at the Mayflower. The attentiveness to their needs, cleanliness of their room, and "excellent breakfast buffet" far overshadowed its temporary shabbiness, they felt.

Plymouth needs the Mayflower! And the Mayflower needs our support! Recently there has been a noticeable improvement in the quality of the food and the service. This is a good beginning, and is appreciated.

Our family has enjoyed the Mayflower for more than 40 years and we look forward to its refurbishment as a compliment to the many changes being made to enhance our city. Please — let's be patient and supportive!
