City voters head to polls Tuesday

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The quiet Plymouth City Commission race will come to a close Tuesday with voters making their final decision on the six candidates.

Bob Jones and Bill McAninch have both decided not to run for re-election, while incumbents Stella Greene and Dennis Shrewsbury would both like to win back their seats.

Greene and Shrewsbury are joined on the ballot by four other candidates vying for the open seats.

The candidates are Greene, Shrewsbury, Don Dismuke, Craig Brass, Joe Koch and Bill Warren.

Warren, however, would have to resign from his position on the Plymouth Community Fire Department in order to hold office, and has said he would not do that.

The polls open at 7 a.m. with the last vote taken at 8 p.m. Precincts one, two and four will vote at the Plymouth Cultural Center, while precinct three voters will be at Central Middle School.

According to the City Clerk's office, the last day absentee ballots can be picked up at City Hall is Saturday from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. There are currently 572 absentee ballots out, while 289 have been returned to the clerk's office. According to City Clerk Linda Langmesser, the voter turnout will probably be low.

"It will probably be typically low," she said, "just like it usually is."

A special meeting will be held Nov. 13 where the four newly elected commissioners will be sworn into office by one of the 35th District Court judges.

DNA picket turns violent in Twp. Costume kudos

Newspaper strike tensions run high at local distribution site

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The Detroit Newspaper Agency (DNA) strike has reached Plymouth Township. Approximately 200-300 people picketed the DNA regional distribution center here Sunday.

According to Plymouth Township Police, they were called to the site at about 2 a.m. Sunday.

"They were quite active, damaging vehicles and throwing spikes into the roadway," said Sgt. Steve Rapson.

According to Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry, no arrests were made at the site and the police are hoping to squelch any further violence.

"We're hoping to meet with the union folks to lay down some ground rules before there is anymore violence," said Berry. "Our job is to maintain the order as much as possible and make sure everyone is safe."

Berry added that the picketers and the DNA complied for the most part with the officers at the site.

"When police officers requested they (union picketers) do something — they complied," said Berry. "We got the same compliance from the Detroit Newspaper Agency people."

According to DNA Senior Vice President for Labor Relations Tim Kelleher, the police have done what they're supposed to do.

"The police are doing the job they're expected to," said Kelleher. "That's all we've asked them to do is uphold the law."

Kelleher added that the picket did not cause any delayed service.

Berry said that there were no injuries reported at the scene, but one DNA driver was assaulted at Sheldon Road and M-14 while he was changing the flats he received from driving over spikes placed in the road at the DNA site. The driver was taken to Oakwood Hospital in Canton for treatment. "We are investigating that assault," said Berry.

Anyone who may have seen the attack taking place at the corner of Sheldon Road and M-14, the traffic was blocked by the attackers, at approximately 2:30 a.m. is asked to call Investigator Steve Mann, with the township police, at 453-3869.

Canton slams door on Willow Run Tradeport proposal

BY ROB KIRKBRIDE

The Canton community is standing united against the proposed Willow Run Tradeport.

The Canton Board of Trustees unanimously passed a resolution last week to voice their opposition to the development of the Willow Run Tradeport.

Bill Mosher, a long-time Canton resident and political activist who is organizing opposition to the project, said much of the community is against the tradeport.

"I'm standing up here now," he said at the Canton board meeting last Tuesday, "but it's not just me — 500 other people surround me and are against the project."

The resolution against the tradeport is the first formal public statement by the Canton Board of Trustees regarding Willow Run. They are also calling on all elected representatives of the community — at the county, state and even federal level — to make every "reasonable effort" to oppose the designation or establishment of Willow Run as a tradeport and express their opposition to the runway extension.

The extension of the runway from from 7,500 to 10,800 feet to accommodate 747 cargo airplanes is one of the main points of opposition. Opponents of the plan feel the increased air traffic will hurt

Olson files grievance against P-C Schools

BY BRIAN CORBETT

Salem High School swim coach Chuck Olson has filed a grievance through the American Arbitration Association in an effort to reverse the disciplinary taken by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Superintendent Charles Little. "I want everything overturned," Olson said.

Olson is back on the job this week, preparing his team for the state finals, after serving a two-week coaching suspension for allegedly ordering a team member into the pool to retrieve suspected fecal matter. Olson denies that charge.

Olson was also suspended from the classroom for two days (Oct. 17-18) and placed on one year's probation.

Little could not be reached for comment on Olson's grievance claim. Chuck Portelli, president of the Plymouth-Canton Education Association, said, "Our position is that the punishment was too severe."

Portelli said the grievance does not name any individual. "It's for just cause," Portelli said.

If the grievance can not be resolved within the school district, an arbitrator will rule on the outcome.

The incident occurred at 11:30 a.m. on Sept. 29 after one class was exiting the pool and another was preparing to enter. According to Olson, teacher Tom Garrett was the first to notice the object, compared in size to a pea, on the bottom of the pool in approximately three feet of water.

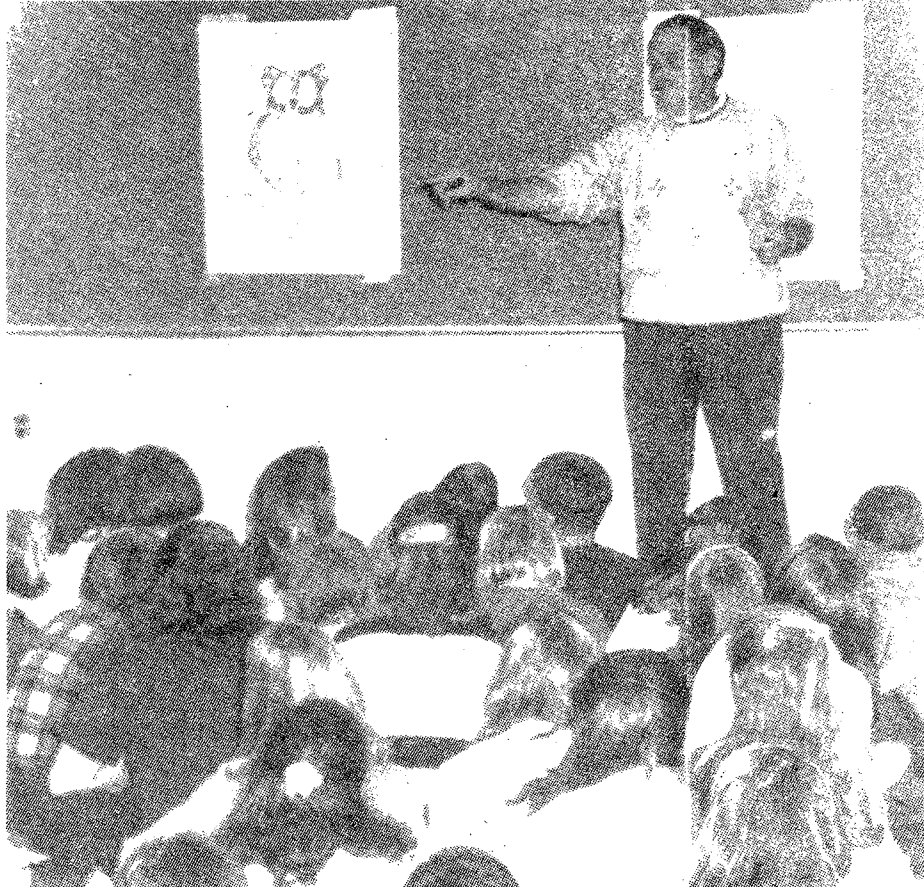

Neither Olson, Garrett or Canton girls swim coach Ron Krueger could identify the object while standing on the deck. "We couldn't identify it," Olson said. "You could see it, but you couldn't really tell what it was."

According to Olson, he asked a nearby team member to enter the pool and remove the object. "I asked for help, and she gave it," Olson said.

The girl's parents, Wayne and Kathy Byrum, tell a different story that has been

Explosive situation defused in Twp. home

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The Plymouth Township police officers that responded to a domestic violence call at General Drive and Ann Arbor Trail last Thursday got a little more than they bargained for.

According to Sgt. Steve Rapson, Sgt. Robert Smith and officer Cal Lauria arrived at the home Thursday at 11:30 p.m. and questioned the female that made the 911 call. "She said that the husband grabbed and pushed her and that he wouldn't let her leave," said Rapson.

Smith and Lauria questioned the husband who told them that the fight was about drugs, said Rapson. "The officers asked him 'Do you have drugs?'" said Rapson. "He said, 'Yes, they're under the couch'."

After confiscating the drugs, the officers asked if there were anymore in the house, said Rapson. "He said there were more in the bedroom," Rapson said. "There were two rifles in plain sight in the room, which the officers disarmed. One of the officers saw an oily wrapping, when he picked it up he saw that it was explosives."

According to Rapson, Smith and Lauria handled both the domestic abuse, the discovery of the drugs, and especially the discovery of the dynamite, extremely well.

"They evacuated the area for the residents safety, which included a couple of homes on each side. And because they weren't sure what type of explosives they were dealing with, they called in the Michigan State Police," said Rapson.

The township is handling the domestic abuse and possession investigation while the explosives investigation was turned over to the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF).

Plymouth chamber auction set for Friday

The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce community auction, "This Magic Moment," will be held Friday at Laurel Manor in Livonia.

The night begins at 6:30 p.m. with a silent auction and cocktails. Dinner is served at 7:30 p.m.

This is the sixth year the chamber has held their auction — with each year getting bigger and better. Auction co-chairperson K.C. Mueller said the chamber auction is special for a simple reason. "The auction is all about Plymouth," she said. "That's what is different. The auction represents the people who are attending."

Plymouth Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Fran Toney said the auction is the chamber's largest fundraiser and is used to support the general operating fund.

The auction is not for the faint of heart (or faint of checkbook). Bidding on the prizes is sometimes intense — sometimes costly.

Auction-goers who do not wish to bid can try their luck at the raffle.

Auction organizers said this year's event will be better than ever.

supported by Little and the P-C School board after an investigation. According to the Byrums, Olson disregarded a doctor's note excusing the girl from the water because of ear problems and then violated Michigan Department of Public Health (MDPH) codes by ordering the girl into a pool with suspected limited contamination. John Fierow, MDPH district engineer for Wayne and Oakland counties said, "We contacted the Wayne County Health Department (WCHD) to send out an investigator, and they did. And they told us the incident was not handled properly. We agreed it was improper to have the girl enter the pool."

Krueger was the person who finally removed the object. "He picked it off the bottom, and came up with it," Olson said.

Fierow said the WCHD should have been notified immediately, but were not until Oct. 2. Fierow also said the pool — even though the object was small and never identified as fecal matter — should have remained closed for eight to 24 hours to check bacteria levels and increase disinfectants. But Olson held a swim practice about four hours later. There was good reason for that, Olson said. He believes the object was not fecal matter. "We get stuff tracked in here all the time," Olson said.

Students at the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park walk outside numerous times during the day to attend classes in Salem, Canton and the Phase III building. Olson said it is a constant battle to keep the deck area around the pool free of dirt. "Why anyone thought it was fecal matter as opposed to clay, I don't know," Olson said.

The object was thrown out after being extracted from the pool.

Olson said he then "took the necessary precautions" by monitoring chlorine levels and closing the pool until swim practice that afternoon. "You don't super chlorinate the pool for a piece of clay," he said.

Tom McNulty, WCHD program supervisor, said that since the object was never identified as not being fecal matter, Olson should have treated the pool as though it was contaminated. "The main thing is you err on the side of safety and health," McNulty said.

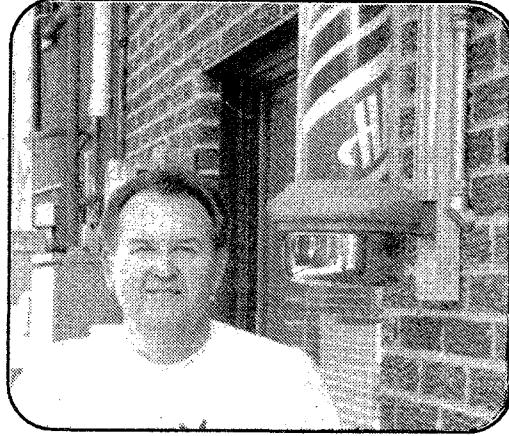

Even though Fierow did find fault in Olson's actions, he said, "To suspend a guy for two weeks seems a little harsh."

Fierow also said he thought it was very common for the health department not to be immediately called in minor contamination incidents.

Olson was the only teacher suspended even though Krueger and Garrett were both present. "I'm happy for them. Strange might be a good word," said Olson about why he was suspended and they were not. "I think maybe since I was the one who asked the girl to go into the water."

Olson, who has taught in the school district since 1970, said being removed from his typical coaching schedule has been tough. "This two-week suspension is the hardest," he said. "I didn't enjoy not being in my classes teaching."

Building success

Vera Angelico works hard to stay at top of design field

BY BRIAN CORBETT

As a young Brazilian woman, Vera Angelico wanted to plan a successful career.

Now the Plymouth architect and president of The Angelico Design Group plans and designs buildings' office and mail centers for clients such as Comerica and Ford Motor Company. "Mail rooms are quite a pillar of every business," said Angelico. "However, most architects do not want to have anything to do with them. Mail rooms are overlooked, often located in a basement or small backroom."

Designing mail centers for corporate offices is a long way — literally — from her earlier architecture days when she designed houses in her native Brazil. Angelico became fascinated with building designs as a young girl because of the impact a living environment can have on a person. "I discovered when I was really young that architecture can really move people, strike people," Angelico said.

She pursued her interest at the University of Sao Paulo, earning a BS in architecture. Angelico then spent three years with a Brazilian design firm before forming a partnership with a close friend. Angelico moved to a small town about three hours outside of Sao Paulo where her friend's family lived and contracted the two women to design houses; they also designed the local county offices. "It was just heaven," Angelico said. "It was just fabulous. We just got along so well."

But Angelico was not satisfied. "As much as things were going well, I thought maybe I could have another chance (in the U.S.) going to graduate school," she said. "I heard Houston was just booming, this was the early 1980s."

Angelico had visited the U.S.

Vera Angelico helps a client design their next project. The Plymouth architect is president of The Angelico Design Group.

previously, but said, "It's different when you come to visit, then when you come to stay. First, I had to adjust to the language."

There was additional culture shock to come. In Brazil, students often studied in groups, sharing ideas, and working together towards completion. Not in the U.S. Angelico said. "The competition is so fierce; they don't exchange information here," she said.

Adding to the difficulty of adjusting to a new home and way of life on her own was the sad reality of discrimination. "There was a lot of caution by people, especially in business," she said. "It's very, very frequent for people to say, 'Where did you get you get your degree from?'"

A dean even inquired about the credibility of her degree from the University of Sao Paulo.

But Angelico is not a person to dwell on the discrimination she has experienced.

"I don't focus on that, I don't think about that. I just try to be professional and do professional work," Angelico said. "I say to people, 'If we can be successful in the U.S., we can be successful anywhere.' It's competitive out there."

Angelico has persevered in the battle as a minority. She has mastered the English language. She reinstated the Women In Architecture committee for the Detroit Chapter of the American Institute of Architects. But Angelico refuses to become complacent or single out one of her many accomplishments as her greatest moment. "It's too early for me," said Angelico, who is 40. "I think something new unfolds every day, that's how I measure myself... Every single day is a new accomplishment for me. The best is yet to come. And I do believe that every day is a new day, and it brings something new for me."

Angelico is optimistic because she is considering a partnership, and will be licensed soon — allowing her to build structures and not just interiors.

Store puts you in The Giving Spirit

BY AIMEE PARENTI

Do you know someone who has everything? You want to buy them a special gift. But what? How about a custom designed gift basket.

The Giving Spirit, its new location at 748 Starkweather in Old Village, is just the place for you. Barbara Levengood, the owner of The Giving Spirit, previously operated the business out of her basement, but has expanded to a larger shop.

"We provide baskets for a lot of businesses that give gifts for personal or business reasons." Most business or resident orders are taken by phone," Levengood said.

If you would like to visit the showroom or get better acquainted with Levengood and her employees, every Thursday is an open house.

"Open house is designed so that everyday, walk-by traffic can view the showroom," said Levengood.

Each basket at The Giving Spirit is customized to meet the specific needs of the customers, their budget, and the recipients taste, according to Levengood.

To kick off their new location and the upcoming holidays, The Giving Spirit will be hosting a Holiday Open House. The open house will be held Thursday through Saturday and is open to the public. Levengood said the event was organized to give people an idea as to what they have to offer for the holiday season. Each gift basket is prepared for the customer and sent with the proper greetings to the recipient.

To order a gift basket, call The Giving Spirit at 459-4506 or fax them at 459-8767.

On the way to Plymouth, we made some pretty exciting discoveries.

Deep inside the Venezuelan jungle, a genetic disease has plagued the inhabitants of a small village for generations. Moved by their plight, we went there to better understand the disease. Not only did we accomplish our mission, but our research led to the discovery of the gene that causes Huntington's disease.

Driven by a passion for improving health care, we've traveled to the far corners of the Earth. To places like the countryside of Japan and a small shipping town in Costa Rica. Even to outer space to conduct research.

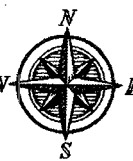

Everything we've learned we've brought back to you, through the physicians and medical staff of the University of Michigan Medical Center.

Now we are pleased to announce that our next destination is a little closer to home. In fact, it's right in your neighborhood. Because now the U-M Medical Center has physicians and health care centers near you. So you'll not only have access to the U-M Medical Center and its world-renowned facilities and programs like C.S. Mott Children's Hospital and the Comprehensive Cancer Center, you'll also have a conveniently located primary care physician for your routine care.

There's no better time to take advantage of these benefits than during the fall open enrollment period where you work. So make sure your health care plan gives you access to the University of Michigan Medical Center.

Community Christmas

Salvation Army continues Adopt-a-Family program

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

For the last seven years, low-income families and senior citizens in The Plymouth-Canton-Northville Community have had a Christmas — thanks to the Plymouth Salvation Army Adopt-a-Family Christmas Program.

The Salvation Army would like to continue the tradition by making sure Christmas 1995 is special for all the residents in the community.

"Last year there were 321 families that were served," said Bill Stern, the social service supervisor at the Salvation Army. "There are a lot of families out there that need a little help."

According to Stern, they're looking for both the families who need help in providing a good Christmas, and the individuals and families that would like to provide that help.

"People might not realize that there are people in our community living on fixed incomes and state aid, that live in low-income housing," he said.

Stern said that contributing to a cause like this will make you feel great. "Just remember your favorite childhood Christmas memories," he said. "Wouldn't you like to help someone find that?"

According to Stern there isn't a lot involved in adopting a senior or family. Just make sure to follow these guidelines:

- All items, whether it's food, clothing or toys, must be new.

- Each member of the adopted family must receive at least one gift.

- A complete Christmas dinner is to be provided. Do not purchase perishable items such as a turkey. You may, however, include a gift certificate.

Remember these are only the minimum requirements anything above and beyond is highly appreciated, said Stern.

If you would like to help the Salvation Army realize it's annual goal of "No One Without A Christmas" you can call 453-5464.

Families interested in being adopted can also call 453-5464 to set up an appointment.

Good service

Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) Director F. Robert Edwards pins a new name badge on Nancy Pickelhaupt of the Canton MESC office as part of "Customers Count Day." The MESC is the first state agency to undertake a "Customers Count Day," a day when employees will make a special effort to provide the best possible service to customers and reflect on ways to improve their service. On Customers Count Day, all agency staff who deal with the public will be sporting new name badges so the public can identify them. Comment cards available in the offices will allow the public to offer suggestions, compliments and complaints about service.

Women of Artistry host 4th annual champagne reception Sunday

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The "Women of Artistry" are hosting their fourth annual champagne reception at the Plymouth Cultural Center on Sunday.

The show, which is being held from 1 - 5 p.m., will include the works of four of the members of the "Women of Artistry," according to Norma McQueen.

McQueen said the purpose of the reception is to get some exposure for the artists and give some art exposure to the community.

"If you can just touch a few people — you've succeeded in your expression," she said.

There will be a variety of different mediums displayed and for sale at the reception by the four artists taking part in the event, said McQueen.

The "Women of Artistry" group consists of Canton resident Sharon Dillenbeck, Julie Giordano of Northville, Susan Argiroff, McQueen and Carol McCreedy (who will not be attending).

According to McQueen the event should prove to be a good experience.

"We'll have music playing, and champagne and hors d'oeuvres will be served," she said. "It should be a fun time."

Canton officials unite against tradeport

the community.

"We are concerned about the potential negative impact on the quality of life, environment and safety of our community," said Yack. "Canton has worked hard to develop an identity and a real sense of community. I believe Willow Run will jeopardize those efforts now and in the future."

Earlier this year, the board hired former Wayne County Commissioner and attorney Brian Amann to look into the various issues surrounding the tradeport and the runway extension. Amann's advice to the Canton Board of Trustees was to oppose the project.

"This is a declaration of the beginning," Amann said of the resolution against the tradeport. "It is a declaration of determination on what you're going to do."

"It is one other way of putting the county on notice."

The main points of the resolution against the tradeport include:

- The frequency of the flights that would affect the life, environment and safety of the community;
- the reduction of property values and growth as a result of the tradeport;

- the use of tax dollars on a tradeport while other infrastructure improvements remain unfunded;

- tradeport job creation are speculative, illusory and without foundation; and

- the use of Passenger Facility Charge funds — collected at Metro Airport — to partially fund the tradeport project.

Wayne County Commissioner Bruce Patterson said he supports Canton's resolution.

"I am delighted to see this resolution before you," he said. "We'll have to continue to monitor the situation."

Yack said the time was right to pass the resolution.

"We decided we needed to do this now for two reasons," he said. "First, we wanted to keep the lines of communication open as long as possible. If we had acted earlier, it might have sent the wrong message to the proponents of the tradeport. Two, it was our intent to receive as much information as possible before making a decision. I think we fully understand the issue and are able to take a position."

Streetscape '95

We're getting there! Main Street has trees—green grass and shrubs. They are still working on Ann Arbor Trail along with Harvey and Penniman Avenue. The large backhoe Monday night didn't seem to bother the young gremlins and goblins—in fact, some of them seemed more interested in it than in the candy being passed out by the merchants.

Commission candidates speak out

The following questions were posed to four of the six City commission candidates during The Community Crier's candidate interviews.

- | | | | | | | | | |
| Question 1:
How do you propose to rectify the problem of vacant buildings (Farmer Jack & Amoco buildings for example)? | Question 2:
The City has had a tough tax abatement policy, do you think easing that policy would increase growth? | Question 3:
How do you propose to rectify the parking situation? | Question 4:
Do you think spending $2 million on Streetscape to stimulate new business is a reasonable amount to pay? | Question 5:
How many City commission meetings have you attended? | Question 6:
How do you propose to keep Old Village on an upswing and ensure their continued growth? | Question 7:
Do you feel the merger of the City and Township Fire Departments has been successful, if so—do you foresee future mergers (i.e. of the governments)? | Question 8:
What do you feel is the most pressing problem facing the City of Plymouth? | Question 9:
Why are you the best, most qualified candidate for the City commission? |

DON DISMUKE

A: "There are relatively few options. There is a stalemate with the owners. It is a major item on next year's commission."	A: "Give tax abatements to fill voids and to increase our tax base and get vacant buildings filled."	A: "I think we're making a movement in the right direction. We can't just avoid it — we need to confront it. The City needs to put forth a great effort to solve this."	A: "Streetscape will last a number of years and will add character and charm (to the City). We want to make sure we don't lose sight of the Old Village area."	A: Dismuke has been to all commission meetings except two since he was nominated to run.	A: "Old Village relations have come a long way, funds have been allocated and the DDA (Downtown Development Authority) director is on loan to the Old Village. This is clearly one of the top goals (of commission)."	A: "Yes it has been successful. I want to keep both Plymouths separate."	A: "The hottest issue is parking. We need to squelch the issue and move on."	A: "Although I've only been here for 14 months I've had a relationship with Plymouth for nine years through my wife (who is a life-long resident). I will bring fresh ideas and fresh views to the commission. I am a team player."

JOSEPH KOCH

A: "There is a problem with the owner/tenant. I like the idea of using it for the library while the library is being re-built. We need to keep on the lessor and lessees. There is a cost involved in the clean-up that stays with Amoco. Clean up must be done before it's used."	A: "I think tax abatements are a necessary evil to the City government in order to bring in businesses to some of the less desirable properties. But I'm not unhappy with the structure in place right now."	A: "The parking ordinance was put into place sometime ago. I'm against it, it should be abolished. We should work on acquiring additional spaces."	A: "It's well worth the expenditure. We need to overhaul the whole street system."	A: Koch has attended all but one City commission meeting since the race began. "I'm up to date on the issues — prepared and ready to step into a spot."	A: "There is a lot of room for expansion. Anything that the City can do to enhance Old Village should be done."	A: "I'm for anything that's going to benefit the City without being detrimental to residents. There are a lot of services that could work together."	A: "The parking problem is the biggest issue. We need to resolve issues surrounding it. There are more than enough parking spots in Plymouth, just not enough municipal."	A: "The keys of my success are my ability to get things done, my ability to make a decision and I'm a great team leader. We (my family) have a vested interest in this City."

CRAIG BRASS

A: "The biggest problem is people do not understand what the underlying politics of the situation are — you can only press so hard."	A: "We're dealing with a finite tax base and a lot of what the commission is doing now and in the future is cost cutting, for instance the merger of services (fire departments), and if that's the street you're on you can't give it away at the other end. A stringent policy is one that's needed."	A: "Every community that experiences growth experiences a parking problem. Is there a real big parking problem in Plymouth and does it inhibit people from coming in and putting up businesses? That's hard to determine, but I think the parking problem gets blamed for a lot of things that aren't necessarily there."	A: "I think it looks a lot better than seven to eight months ago and it does improve the appearance of the community and that counts for a lot."	A: "I've been to three meetings in my life."	A: "We should facilitate and encourage, but not mandate what happens in the Old Village. It is a great resource and it has the most potential to bloom into something."	A: "The merger has worked very well. It (the merger) was the first step of a trail of things taking place over the next 10 years."	A: "I don't think there is a major problem. I think the biggest hurdle is maintaining and ensuring that the next generation of Plymouth residents have a nice, safe, clean place to work and live."	A: "I will bring a lot of common sense."

STELLA GREENE

A: "We keep coming back with new ideas. Condemning it (the Farmer Jack Building) would not be fiscally efficient, we want to keep it on the tax role. Nothing can be done with the Amoco station until its clean — it is on the priority list."	A: "We have been using tax abatements to reward/encourage those already in the community — we should give them a tax abatement to expand their businesses. We need to make sure that we issue them for the right reason."	A: "The City commission has put aside the issue in the past, now they are trying to resolve this issue. First, you have to weigh both sides of the issue and try to solve it amicably. We have a responsibility to look at the long range effect of any decision."	A: "The money was well spent on streetscape. It reflects the needs of the community — keep it vital, vibrant and alive."	A: "I pride myself on being a resident advocate." Greene said that since becoming a City commissioner she has missed only one commission meeting to attend a municipal league event as a commission representative."	A: "The Old Village Development Authority gives them a voice and assistance, two members of the authority are city commissioners. Residents have to be decision makers and the City needs to be a motivating force."	A: "I'm pleased with the fire department merger — I had a lot of reservations and questions that were finance related. When I think of consolidation of any services, I think they need to be weighed individually. We have opened up the lines of communication (between the City and the township), it's the best thing we've ever done."	A: "The hottest issue is parking and I would like to see it brought to closure."	A: "I'm qualified because number one I have no business involvement in the downtown. I am very objective about hearing both sides and I insist on having all the information because I want to make an informed decision."
---	---	--	--	--	--	---	--	--

BILL WARREN

Warren has said that, due to a court decision that allowed him to run for office but would not allow him to hold office unless he resigned as a Plymouth Township employee, he would not accept the seat should he win. Warren said that he would "be back again" in City politics in the future.

BIG DOINGS AGAIN AT THE SCHOMBERGER'S: On Saturday, October 21, 1995 they had their Third Annual Wild Game Dinner at the Glenn Stacy farm. The nasty weather didn't stop the fun. The big tent was up with wood burning stove going. There was lots of food, barbecued pig, smoked turkey, home-made venison sausage (made by Leona's grand-daughter Jill), rolled cabbage, rabbit, squirrel. You name it, they had it! The rain didn't stop the Hayride for the kids, big and little. The spooks were out for Halloween! Fun was had by all!

Salem soars

Rocks top Chiefs in cross-campus football showdown

BY MATT HUCAL

"We stopped functioning as a team." That could have been it. "We played individually." Maybe that was it. "The momentum seemed to swing in their direction." Quite possibly. "We reached a state of complacency."

When Canton football coach Bob Khoenle tried to explain what happened to his team last Friday, there was no shortage of problems.

Salem, on the other hand, just did what they set out to do by handing Canton their second straight loss of the season, 28-21. It's also the third straight year Salem has beaten their cross-campus rivals.

The scoring began for Canton with a 20-yard run by Mike Montgomery. Rob Johnson then made it 14-0 with a 32-yard run.

Retaliating with a drive of their own, Salem scored when Kirk Craggs caught a 22-yard pass for a touchdown to cut Canton's lead to 14-7. Canton finished the first half scoring with a six-yard reception by Ron Hunter to make it 21-7.

The work horse all game long for Salem was Randy Mack. The offensive load was on his back while he carried the ball 38 times for 224 yards and added some receptions.

But more importantly, Mack provided the momentum shift early in the second half that got Salem back in the game. He raced 71 yards for a touchdown and shortened the lead held by Canton to 21-14.

Working slowly and steadily against Canton, Salem got the ball in the Chief's half of the field on their next possession and Mack eventually ran for two yards to tie the score at 21-21.

Salem's last points came late in the fourth quarter when they had the ball near midfield. They mixed their running game and passing game in going to Canton's 29-yard line. After unsuccessfully advancing, Salem faced a third down when quarterback Nate Gray hit Craggs with a 29-yard pass for the game winning touchdown. Canton came up short in their quest to tie the game in the final minutes. Salem raised their record to 3-6 and Canton dropped to 5-4.

"Our problem has been we haven't been able to rise to the occasion and take on the challenge in front of us," Khoenle said.

"We had to get tougher when it was time to get tougher."

Canton kids punt, pass, kick their way to Silverdome, will compete during halftime

BY MATT HUCAL

Rising above the rest of the crowd at the Punt, Pass, and Kick football competition on Oct. 14 were two young Canton residents with a major goal on their mind.

The Metro-Detroit regional finals, held at Canton's Griffin Park, had 16 local community representatives on hand to participate. The ages ranged from eight to 15 years old. Those participating in the regional final were from earlier competitions in which they won their event in their age group.

The Punt, Pass, and Kick competition is based on distance and accuracy. The competitor has to punt, pass, or kick a football as far and as straight as they can along a straight rope. The further the football is from the rope the less points they receive.

David Thomas of Canton was third in the nine-year-old group with a combined total score of 209'. Landon Langham, also from Canton, was fifth in the 10-year-old group with a score of 227'5".

They will both move on to the State Championships on Nov. 12 at the Pontiac Silverdome during the Detroit Lions game. The punting and kicking portion of the competition will take place before the game and the passing will be during halftime. The top five from four regions will be at the state competition.

The winners of the state competition will move on to represent Michigan in the National Finals held in February at the Pro Bowl in Honolulu, HI.

Salem cross country advances to state finals, Canton falls in regionals

BY MATT HUCAL

The Salem boys cross country team has advanced to the state final meet next week while Canton's season came to an end last Saturday at regionals at Buhr Park in Ann Arbor.

Salem, coming off a second-place finish at the conference meet a week ago, finished in second. By making the top three out of the 20 teams participating, they move on to the state meet in Grand Rapids at Saskatoon Golf Course.

Coming in first place was Ann Arbor Pioneer with 59 points, Salem followed with 73, Saline with 132, North Farmington with 163 and Canton with 166.

Leading the way for Salem at the regional was Scott Pengelli in second place with a time of 16:13 and Jared Biniecki in third at 16:15. Nick Allen finished in 13th at 17:09, John Little in 22nd at 17:28, Japbir Gill in 33rd at 17:43, Jake Gray in 54th at 18:09, and Jason Barylski in 57th at 18:17.

"We're starting to run real well," Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "I'm really happy with the way we're running."

Canton's fifth-place finish capped off an impressive season, which included a 5-0 record in dual meets, a division title, and a third-place finish in the conference meet.

Ian Bedford will be competing in the state final meet on Saturday individually. Bedford led Canton with a sixth-place finish with a time of 16:56. Sanjay Sharma was 27th at 17:36, Evan Crocket was 39th at 17:50, Shaun Moore was 44th at 17:55, Ryan Portrey was 49th at 18:02, Jason Vergari was 55th at 18:14, and Adam DeGiorgio was 62nd at 18:27.

"I thought we had a pretty good year," Canton coach Mike Spitz said. "We could have had a few more guys going to states, but I thought where we ended was reasonable."

Canton, Salem girls cross seasons end

BY MATT HUCAL

They knew it would be tough and they knew they were considered a long shot.

So it wasn't much of a surprise when the Salem and Canton girls cross country team ended their successful seasons last Saturday at the regional meet in Buhr Park in Ann Arbor.

Salem ended the day in sixth place with 142 points and Canton finished in ninth place with 255 points.

A powerful Stevenson team won the regional with 39 points, Novi was second with 87 points after winning a tie-breaker over Farmington. Farmington ended up in third with 87 points, Ann Arbor Pioneer in fourth with 93 points, and Ann Arbor Huron in fifth with 124 points.

Salem was led by state final qualifiers Leah Rutherford and Kristie Giddings. Rutherford was ninth at 20:03 and Giddings was 19th at 20:25. Nicole Bolton was 32nd at 20:59, Kathy Jost was 47th at 21:29, Erin Lang was 56th at 21:41, Jennifer Burke was 60th at 21:50, and Mary Disbrow was 39th at 21:19.

Salem coach Dave Gerlach knew, as did most of the state, that their region was one of the toughest. There were six of the top 14 teams in the state represented in their regional.

"Going into the meet we knew it would be tough," Gerlach said. "I'm very pleased with the season. Leah and Kristie are running terrific and have stepped it up lately."

Canton's 4-0 record in dual meets, a division title, and a fourth-place finish in the conference meet were the high points in their up and down season.

At the regional Becky Wolfram finished in 22nd place at 20:32, Beth Knight was 46th at 21:27, Laurie Schmidt was 61st at 21:51, Jaime Vergari was 65th at 21:56, Christiana Bradford was 69th at 22:02, Becky Uryga was 75th at 22:22, and Jessica Wells was 99th at 23:23.

Salem soccer takes district title crown, faces Seaholm tonight

Rocks defeat Novi 4-0 to advance in playoffs, Canton's season ends at the hands of Novi

BY MATT HUCAL

A district title at stake. Further advancement into the playoffs at stake.

The Salem boys soccer team knew what they had to do last Saturday against Novi, the team that knocked defending Class A champion Canton out of the playoffs last week.

Salem had to shut down Novi's team speed and a few dangerous players. They succeeded, defeating Novi 4-0 and winning the district.

The game was played at Northville High School with the field — a football field — in bad condition. It was difficult for the players to keep their footing, and it definitely had an effect on the game.

Early in the game, Novi was pressuring the Rocks to no avail. Novi seemed to get frustrated with the way Salem was stopping their attacks defensively — that was enough to get their own offense in gear.

After a few chances, the Rocks finally capitalized with 15 minutes to go in the first half. Drew Drummond took a pass from Andy Makins, broke in on the Novi goalie, and buried a shot to make the score 1-0. The score remained the same for the rest of the half.

At halftime the game was still up for grabs and a 1-0 lead was not comfortable enough for Salem coach Ken Johnson. He implemented a change in the offense and inserted a third forward. The rest is history.

The Rocks scored five minutes into the second half with a goal by Matt Simons, assisted by Josh Fair. That play was the saw that broke Novi's back. They seemed to back down, and Salem took it to them.

"We had a sluggish start, but like we've done before, we picked it up slowly as the game went on," Johnson said. "I think adding the third forward in the second half gave us an extra push and the momentum swung our way."

Soon after the second goal, a Novi defender received a red card which all but dashed their hopes of a comeback. Mike Mezgec scored Salem's third goal from Scott Loewe, and Andy Power finished off the scoring with an assist from Brett Konley.

"Our defense has been solid. We've only allowed one goal in six games," Johnson said. "If we can keep scoring and putting teams away, we should do okay."

Salem's next test is against Birmingham Seaholm tonight at 7 p.m. at home. In an early game tonight at 5 p.m., Stevenson will play Franklin with that winner playing the winner of the Salem-Seaholm game on Saturday at noon at Salem.

Unfortunate incident in Canton reminds us to think before we speak

An incident at the Michigan Secretary of State office in Canton last Tuesday reminds us all that hatred and impoliteness may be scarce, but they are still alive in our community.

The mother of a teenager put on quite a rude and abusive show that came to a crescendo when she called a clerk in the office a racial slur, slapped her own son and stormed out.

Fortunately, the clerk, the manager and the other citizens at the Secretary of State office were calm and unflustered. (Even the woman's son was polite when he came back in to make amends with the clerk.)

Everyone obviously recognized that this woman's poor manners are not indicative of the rest of The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Unfortunately, however, we must remember that there is some sub-rosa bigotry alive in our neighborhoods. An incident like last Tuesday's serves as a reminder, just as the recent

With malice toward none

By W. Edward WENDOVER

incident at Centennial Educational Park does — unfounded hatreds and impoliteness still exist here and everywhere.

This community must continue to rise above these very old-fashioned attitudes and stress that we are increasingly diverse, and we need to start with our community to make it an increasingly polite place to live and work.

(TO The Woman: seek help; TO The Son: continue to grow and act responsibly; TO The Clerk: our community apologizes for the woman, thank you for your professionalism.)

Tough issues need to be tackled by commission

The lack of public interest in the Plymouth City Commission race has been equaled only by the lack of interest by other qualified commission candidates.

The apathy over the race is alarming. Apparently, controversial issues bring out potential candidates and stir public interest. This year's Plymouth City Commission race does not have one of those polarizing issues.

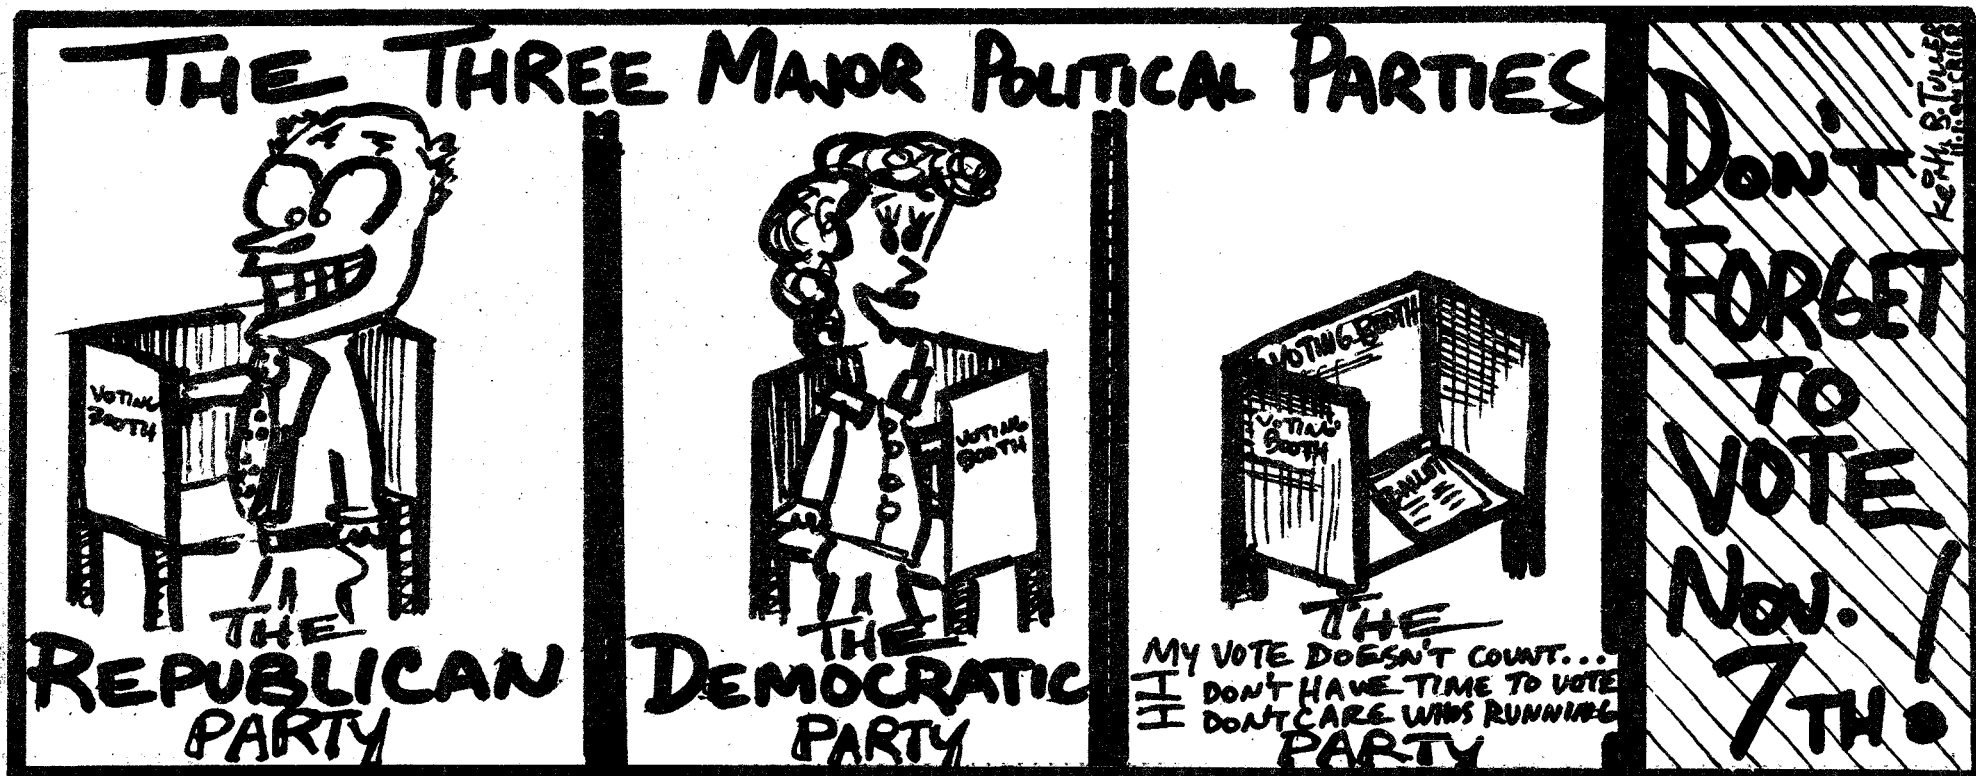

One issue that was not mentioned by candidates was "joint services." None of the candidates took any position on whether City and Plymouth Township services should be joined completely. It's time for the Plymouth City Commission to tackle the joint services issue. Is joint lockup a cost-saving idea? Would garbage collection be more efficient and less expensive if services were combined? It's time to find out. The new Plymouth City Commission should lead the way.

Would more candidates have run with a defining issue? The voters of Plymouth will never know. One thing is clear: In addition to solving existing problems, Plymouth City Commissioners need to lead the community into the future by defining issues.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Exercise your right to vote!

Community opinions

Dismuke, Greene, Shrewsbury, Brass deserve commission vote

Don Dismuke, Stella Greene, Dennis Shrewsbury and Craig Brass are the best candidates for the four Plymouth City Commission seats open in the Nov. 7 election.

Dismuke is the best candidate of the field of candidates and will best represent the City of Plymouth on the commission. He is a recent newcomer to the City, moving here in August of 1994, which will prove to be an asset to the commission through his fresh outlook and new ideas.

His experience living in Kalamazoo's historic district has given him valuable insight into the workings of a small community — and a concern of historic development. Dismuke has vowed to include residents and businesses in Old Village in all City development plans.

Greene, a commission incumbent, is the next best candidate for a seat. She enhances the commission with her attitude that each commission decision is important and should be thoroughly investigated. Greene often volunteers to do the commission's "less desirable" work representing the commission on other boards and community projects.

Greene's main downfall is that she makes a better candidate than commissioner, often remaining ineffective during the commission's meetings as opposed to leading the issues that are important to her and to the City.

The "seat of the conscience" plays an important role in the City commission. Shrewsbury, an incumbent, has proven himself to be that conscience. He is the first to question an issue to ensure that the commission makes informed decisions.

Shrewsbury is not without his faults however. He sometimes allows other political interests to get in the way of the business at hand.

Considering all the factors involved, Shrewsbury is the best candidate for the third and final four-year commission vacancy.

Brass is the best candidate for the fourth open seat (a two-year seat). Although he has shown no effort in campaigning or getting his message to the voters because of a family illness, Brass' no-nonsense attitude will help expedite City politics.

Brass' strong roots in the community (he's lived here for more than 30 years) will help

Plymouth grow, while keeping its "small town" charm. The two-year term will allow voters to weigh Brass' commitment to the community.

Joe Koch's vague answers to questions regarding the City of Plymouth make for a good campaign speech, but do nothing to help voters decide who to choose on Nov. 7. Without any concrete platform, Koch does not deserve a vote for the City Commission. Running a strong campaign is not enough — substance is needed to lead the City.

Bill Warren's campaign was cut short by a court decision that said if he were elected, he would have to resign his job as a Plymouth Community Firefighter — a Plymouth Township employee position.

Unfortunately for the voters in Plymouth, the end of Warren's campaign silenced an unique perspective. Warren would have brought insight into the working of City services — a view none of the other candidates hold. Warren vows to return to City politics; good!

The best choices are: Dismuke, Greene, Shrewsbury and Brass.

THE COMMUNITY CRITER

How, why The Community Crier endorses

The Community Crier closely witnesses the community's political personalities in action — watching the day-in-day-out activities of local government.

In addition, through vigorous campaign season reporting, The Crier staff has an opportunity to meet and interview the newcomers, the challengers, the "wannabes" — and to re-evaluate the incumbents.

Accordingly, The Crier offers its endorsement of those races that have special impact on The Plymouth-Canton-Northville Community.

Newspaper endorsements should be used by voters as just one more criteria for making their own choices.

The Plymouth City Commission endorsements are the collective opinion of the newspaper's editorial staffers who voted on the race following heated debate. Regardless of the debate, few of the staff endorsement votes were unanimous; the strength of the vote being reflected in the strength of the endorsement.

These opinions are not nearly as important as the vote of each and every City of Plymouth voter casting a ballot next Tuesday.

THE COMMUNITY CRITER

Your vote counts!

Your vote counts!

The Plymouth City Commission election is right around the corner — next Tuesday, Nov. 7 — and although public interest in the campaign has been low, the race is still important.

In the case of low turnout, which is expected Tuesday, your vote will be worth even more. It only takes a minute to vote. Take a look at the changes to the polling places (in this week's issue of The Crier).

If possible, help someone else vote. If you live near a senior citizen who needs a ride to the polling place, take the time to offer a lift. Get someone else interested.

The future of the community hangs in the balance of your vote! And your neighbors' vote!

Thanks for golf contest support

EDITOR:

The Plymouth-Canton Civitan Club would like to thank the golfers and advertisers who made our Civitan $1 million Hole-In-One Shootout, held at the Pheasant Run Golf Course in Canton July 8 through 16 a success.

Despite the severe heat and storms, 67 golfers qualified to participate in the regional round held at Marion Oaks in Howell. Two golfers have since qualified to test their skills in the final round at Hickory Hills Golf Club in Jackson on Sept. 17.

Our club has been working hard this year to raise the $8,500 required to fully fund a service dog for a local handicapped man. The funds raised during the Plymouth-Canton qualifying event have brought us closer to meeting his goal. We plan to meet the goal in September and present the check for $8,500 to Paws-With-A-Cause at our meeting in October.

We would like to acknowledge each of our advertisers for their support of our $1 million Hole-In-One Shootout: Alphagraphics; Colonial Collision; Engraving Connection; Fairfield Inn; MacDuffs 'N' Divots; Michigan Educator's Insurance Agency; Plymouth Community YMCA; Regal Construction Inc.; John A. Help is needed with CAP plan

EDITOR:

I wish to tell your readers about the Class-Size Action Partnership (CAP). CAP was formed two years ago by a small group of parents in the Plymouth-Canton Community School District. The mission of CAP is to facilitate cooperation among parents, community members, school board members, teachers and school administrators in an effort to improve the quality of the teaching process and learning environment in the district.

The present focus of CAP is class size in the elementary schools. CAP has researched class-size issues and has determined that smaller classes do indeed improve the teaching process and learning environment. Over the past two years, CAP has worked to heighten awareness of class-size issues in the community and among school district personnel.

This year, we have seen some class-size reductions.

While the reductions are encouraging, more work is needed to further improvements in the district. CAP invites non-parents and parents to join in their efforts. CAP's meets at the E.J. McClendon Educational Center, 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth. All levels of participation are welcome.

Symphony appreciates newspaper coverage

EDITOR:

On behalf of the Plymouth Symphony Society, thank you for the positive editorial you published in the Oct. 16, 1995 edition of The Crier. We are indeed proud of our 50 year history, and we are glad that you share our pride.

However, we would be remiss if we let pass one comment made in your article, not to do so would be to slight our many supporters in Canton. The reason we did not have a proclamation from Canton is because we had just received one for our performance on the "Music in the Park" series during the summer of 1994.

EDITOR:

Thanks Mike!

I appreciated the note you wrote The Crier, and received many congratulations from fellow coworkers.

After reflecting on what a great person I am, I realized I was just doing my job as so many of us do every day. The credit belongs to YOU for taking the time to say, "Thanks." For some reason, we live in a world that is quick to complain and slow to compliment.
