A tough choice

Mitchell Madole, of Plymouth, is the top winner of The Crier's annual Holiday Coloring Contest, picked from more than 160 entries in four age categories. Mitchell will receive a $100 gift certificate, as will Valerie Stacey, Margery Swan and Mollie Dobersek, winners in the other categories. While selecting one winner from so many colorful entries was a difficult one for the judges to make, Mitchell's letter to Santa suggests he has a confusing choice of his own: "I would like Mortal Combat game. P.S. also world peace would be good too. Mitchell." Flip to pages 11 - 18 for more letters to Santa.

Fund

$870,000 fundraising goal

BY BRYON MARTIN

Their fundraising drive won't end until the year does, but the Plymouth Community United Way has surpassed its 1997 goal. To date, the charitable organization has collected $872,768, according to Marie Morrow, United Way executive director.

"We're just over the top, but that's a gross figure. It includes designations," she said. Designated contributions are directed toward specific uses and do not figure into the United Way's allocation pool, which is distributed amongst several different charities and organizations.

Morrow said she won't know have a final figure on the amount raised for the allocation pool until January. But that's okay, she said: "We still have some companies

But that's okay, she said: "We still have some companies wrapping up their campaigns. "We still encourage people to donate because the campaign runs through the end of the year."

In celebration of drive's success, Morrow said a skate with the Whalers is planned for Jan. 16, and is open to volunteers and the public.

Panel picks new court's architect

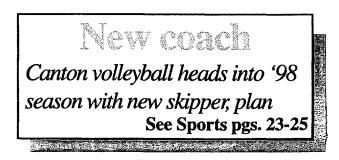

BY SCOTT SPIELMAN

The 35th District court took another step on the path toward a permanent home yesterday.

A nine-person interview panel recommended that the 35th District Advisory Board chose the architectural firm of Coquillard, Dundon, Peterson and Argenta, Inc. (CDPA) to build the new 35th District courthouse.

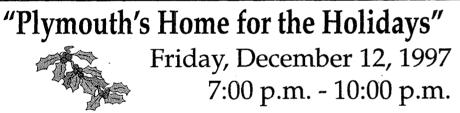

The panel consisted of court employes and representatives from the five communities the court serves, including Canton Finance Director Tony Minghine; Plymouth City Manager Steve Walters; former Plymouth Mayor Jim Jabara; retired judge Jim Garber; Bill Anderson, Northville Township public services director.

P-C-N harness racing at Burton Manor af Rd. burton Manor af Rd. burton Manor

BY SCOTT SPIELMAN George Rattenbury, a legend in the P-C-N racing community, died Wednesday at the age of 99.

Rattenbury was a harness horse owner, trainer and driver, and a fixture at Northville Downs other horse-racing tracks across the country. His career began in 1917 when Rattenbury's father asked him to race because his father couldn't make it to the track.

Rattenbury placed second in his first race, and took first later that day. He was 19.

He raced every year for the next 75 years at tracks and fairs across the country, before settling in the Northville area.

"He raced in our first race here," said Margaret Zayti, partner at Northville Downs. "He was sharp as a tack, even at 99. He could remember everything."

At the age of 93, Rattenbury was inducted into the Harness Horse Hall of Fame. The year was 1991 and it was only two years after his last official competitive race, according to Karen Greengard, editor of Michigan Tack and Harness Magazine.

The depth of Rattenbury's history as a driver and trainer are unclear because of inconstant records, and changing methods of score-keeping, Greengard said.

"They didn't start keeping official track of records until 1951, and he was already in his 50s," she said. "We do know that after 1971 he had 22 wins and earned more than $22,894."

Rattenbury worked as a butcher for A & P in Northville during the off-season, and later as a meat salesman for Kingen Meat Packing Rattenbury is survived by his sister, Wilma Power of Marshall, MI; seven nieces and nephews; several great- nieces and nephews; and many good friends at Northville Downs. He is preceded in death by his first wife, Carol Ingersoll; his son, Harry; and his second wife, Dorothy Gibson.

Arrangements were handled by the Casterline Funeral Home, Inc. in Northville, and interment was at Roral Hill Cemetery in Northville.

Livonia man shot in Canton

BY SCOTT SPIELMAN

A 20-year-old Livonia man was shot Sunday morning as he and a friend drove through Holiday Estates mobile home park, near Geddes Road and Michigan Avenue Park, according to Canton police reports.

Timothy James Scott, 26, of Westland, was arraigned in 35th District court Monday on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

Edward William Bolden, 19, of Detroit, was charged with one count of assault with intent to commit murder and use of a firearm in commission of a felony, according to Schemanske.

Boldon and Scott are being held on a $10,000 bond.

Thomas Esch, the victim, is listed in stable condition at St. Joseph Mercy and expected to recover, according to Schemanske.

"He's lucky to be alive," Schemanske said. "All the doctors said it was a miracle he survived the shooting."

Esch was a passenger in 20-year-old Patrick McVeigh's green Ford F-150 pickup. Reports said that the two saw a dark-colored Ford Thunderbird stopped at the corners of Hemlock and Orchard streets within the trailer park. They looped around the park, and when McVeigh and Esch passed the car, a man allegedly got out of the car and fired one shot at them. McVeigh asked if Esch heard the shot. 'Yeah, I'm hit,' Esch responded, according to reports. McVeigh then fled west on Geddes Road, while the Scott and Bolden drove east.

Reports said that McVeigh called for help on his cell phone, and talked with police until they arrived. Canton Fire Department tool Esch to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital ir Ypsilanti.

Canton Police Officers Brian Deyounş and Scott Hilden responded to the call from Michigan Avenue and Haggerty Road. They spotted and stopped the Thunderbird as i travelled east on Michigan Avenue.

Permission to search the vehicle was given and Deyoung found three unspent shotgun shells, as well as a case of similar ammuni tion in the glove compartment, reports said.

Canton Police Ofc. Chad Baugh found broken 12-gauge shotgun with one spent she casing still inside it after searching the side of the road, according to Ofc. Leonar Schemanske.

"They probably ditched it when the off cers made their turnaround and pulled the over," Shemanske said. "It was cold ar slushy outside, and then here's this nic warm shotgun sticking out like a so thumb."

Schemanske said the suspects were in cu tody within eight minutes after the shooting

Changing of The Code: 313 becomes 734 Saturday

Ameritech's switch compulsory for land lines; cellular customers have choice

BY BRYON MARTIN

Hold the phone!

Holiday shoppers who have a cellular phone or pager on their gift list may avoid future inconvenience if they procrastinate for a few days.

An optional dialing period begins Saturday as Ameritech introduces its new 734 area code to Southeastern Michigan. Mandatory dialing begins July 25.

Seven new exchanges will be added with the area code, and at least 182 existing exchanges will switch from 313 to 734. None of those switched, however, will be changed to long-distance status where they were local before, according to Ameritech spokesperson Sara Snyder.

"What was a local call today will be a local call Saturday," she said.

The change is compulsory for conventional, land-based service. But mobile service customers will be able to choose between the two area codes said Cheryl Hawkins, spokesperson for Ameritech's cellular division.

"Cellular and paging customers don't have to change area codes

Saturday, residents of The Plymouth-Canton-Northville Community and the rest of Southeast Michigan will again change they way they make phone calls, as Ameritech activates the new 734 area code.

More than 180 existing exchanges - including at least 10 currently assigned to P-C-N --- will switch from 313 to 734. Nationwide, 95 new area codes have been introduced since 1995, says Ameritech spokeswoman Sara Snyder. 'We are not the only state experiencing a growth in area codes." This, she says, is because of a change in use; phone cords now patch in to much more than just the normal phone: pagers, cellular phones, fax machines and computer modems all communicate via phone line, and are commonplace. And as newer applications are developed, such as credit card machines and pay-at-the-pump gas pumps, the demand for phone lines becomes tremendous, Snyder says. And while she concedes that the change, required by FCC regulations, can be difficult, it is necessary. "We know area code adaptations are inconvenient and not fun. (But) what is really going on is a growth in telecommunications."

if they don't want to," she said. Whether or not they chose to change will depend on their dialing habits.

"Some people may want their cel phone to have the same area code as their office. Others may not. It's a simple matter of choice."

Customers who opt to do so can have their phones and pagers reprogrammed — with an entirely new number—free of charge, Hawkins said. "We're doing this to help the process move along smoothly."

Ameritech can reprogram any phone at any of its stores, but Hawkins said she recommends returning to the original place of purchase. "That will help to avoid possible confusion over records."

For those who are thinking about cel phones and pagers as holiday presents, the Changing of The Code might mean it is best to wait until after the 734 code is activated this Saturday. Until then, 734 isn't available, even if the exchange you're getting is one of those that will change Saturday.

Hawkins said Ameritech is adding the new area code to help accommodate the proliferation of telecommunications technologies and widespread growth in the demand for phone lines.

MDOT, Twp. reach agreement on new signal

Meetings spur change in policy

BY BRYON MARTIN

Michigan's Department of Transportation (MDOT) has approved the six month trial of a new traffic signal on Ann Arbor Road, near Haggerty Road, after meetings with the Plymouth Township Police Department last week.

A change in MDOT policy also comes from the meetings, initiated by Acting Chief Robert Smith when he noticed the new signal and realized the state had made addition without first consulting the township, according to Smith.

"I drove by and said, 'What the heck'. No one ever asked us," he said.

Smith said he was concerned that, in light of the coming addition of a right-turn lane and left-turn signal just down the street at Ann Arbor Road and Mill Street, the signal might not be necessary.

That a business developing property was able to legitimize and pay for the signal without prior approval from the township was also of concern, he said. "I didn't want to set the precedent that any business who wanted a traffic signal would get one."

Chrysler Corporation paid the roughly $30,000 cost to buy and put up the signal in front its new Chrysler and Jeep Engineering Facility at 41605 Ann Arbor Road, according to Ernie Savas, metro region engineer at MDOT's office in Southfield.

Savas said Chrysler hired Martin & Aschman, "a reputable firm," to study whether the shop's eventual staff of about 400 employes would create traffic demands that begged an additional signal. The study said they would; a Lansing MDOT office reviewed and approved the study's findings, and the signal's addition. MDOT proceeded with the project, unbeknownst to the township. the State of Michigan owns Ann Arbor Road, not Plymouth Township, according to Smith.

"They've got a policy that they consult with cities and villages, who own their roads, but not with the townships because they don't," he said. "It boils down to a lack of communication between state government and the township."

Smith said the state was unfamiliar with the master plan for development of Ann Arbor Road, which is due to receive its leftturn signal in late winter and its right-lanes at the start of construction season in the spring. These expansions could accommodate the traffic increase Chrysler's workers will bring as the facility's staff grows, according to Smith.

"I still don't believe that the light is necessary. However, we're going to let it run," he said. MDOT and the township will review the signal's impact in six months.

"In May we're going to see what negative effects it may have caused and re-evaluate the whole thing," Savas said.

Following Tuesday's meeting between MDOT and the township, Smith and Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy were invited to a meeting of MDOT's department heads Thursday.

It was there that discussion of the Chrysler light lead to a change in MDOT's policy.

From now on, Savas said, MDOT will notify townships before beginning such projects.

Smith is glad for the change, he said. "How can you miss when you communicate more? It's a real plus for the township. We're real pleased about that."

Savas agreed: "Working with communities, our customers, always helps. Sometimes you just forget about somebody.

"It's an excellent idea, but we should have been doing it all along."

MDOT skipped township review because

Northville loses Stilec, 48

BY SCOTT SPIELMAN

Northville High School is in mourning today, following the sudden death of Charles Stilec, student assistance coordinator.

Stilec, 48, suffered a heart attack while working out in a downtown Northville exercise club Monday, according to Thomas Johnson, principal of Northville High School. Stilec worked more than 10 years at the high school helping at-risk youth, he said.

"He gave more of himself than anyone I've ever known. He was tireless in his efforts to bring kids around. He would take someone who was downtrodden and turn them into success stories," he said. "He earned a lot of respect over the years."

Stilec was recently voted Northville's citi zen of the year, Johnson said. "That tells yo more about him than anyone could."

Stilec is survived by his wife, Catherine his children, Maggie and Mac; and his mott er, Barbara C. Stilec of Northville.

Services will be held at 10 a.m. today First United Methodist Church on Eight Mi Road in Northville. The high school will ho a special service at 1 p.m.

"Many teachers felt the same way as the students about him," Johnson said. "If touched so many lives. He was everything everyone."

Plymouth doubles last year's take; Canton effort falls short of hopes

BY LINDA KOCHANEK With "No child without a Christmas," as their goal, the Plymouth and Canton Goodfellows spent Saturday standing in the cold, selling newspapers and raising money to give a happy holiday to needy families.

The one-day fundraiser isn't their largest, but it was a success nonetheless, according to Plymouth Goodfellow Clara Hill.

We aren't finished with the tally yet, but it's almost double of what we collected the previous year," she said. "Almost $6500, for just Plymouth so far, all in one day.'

The support of local businesses, groups and generous residents helped to make it a success, Hill said.

"We had more volunteers this year than ever before," says Hill. "Thanks to the help of the Kawanians, the City of Plymouth Police Department, Business Network International and more young volunteers than ever before, we are really pleased and happy with the response."

Hill says that this year, more individuals wrote checks than in the past.

"They knew we were out there and looked for us with their checks," Hill says. The Christmas spirit was alive and well."

South of Joy Road, however, Canton Goodfellows President Nancy Spencer said they could have used a little more help.

"This year we were short on volunteers in Canton," says Spencer. "Donations of 100 laundry baskets, stuffing mix and mashed potatoes are still needed along with volunteers for Dec. 20 to help deliver to the families."

"Canton's totals are estimated at about $3600," John Burdziak, Canton Goodfellow, said. "We had 30 workers who raised just enough to support 100 families this year. People were very generous.

Home cookin'

BY SCOTT SPIELMAN

There's no place like home to open a restaurant that specializes in home cooking. That's exactly what Tom Alonzo and

Randy Blaylock, owners of Central City Diner, did. Central City opened last Tuesday, and Alonzo said it has been nothing but non-stop business ever since. "I was expecting that when we opened everyone would come by and check it out, but this has been better than we'd hoped for." he said.

Alonzo is Central City's chef and kitchen manager. He's lived in Canton for 28 years, and never had a doubt of where he would open his restaurant, he said. His education in the culinary program at Johnson and Wales University in Providence, RI allowed him to travel through the world, working in hotels in Lake Tahoe and Jamaica.

Alonzo started his culinary career when he was 15 as a baker's assistant at the Mayflower Hotel, he said.

"I knew then that's what I wanted to do," he said. "I was working nights and going to school during the day, so it was a pretty demanding schedule, but I really loved it."

Alonzo has been friends with co-owner Blaylock since the fifth grade, he said. Blaylock, also a Canton resident, has a business management background, including time as a construction manager and a degree from Eastern Michigan University.

We had always planned to do a restaurant,' Blaylock said.

Blaylock said a lot went into the preparation for their project, including research into diners, and a road trip visiting several in Pennsylvania. "We took the best ideas and incorporated free-standing structures of the '50s and '60s. Alonzo learned a lot about diners on their road-trip, he said.

"They originated more than 70 years ago as horse-and-buggy carts that would feed people who worked late-night shifts," Alonzo said. "Pretty soon they were so popular that other restaurants wouldn't allow them on the streets during the day.

"Owners found out then that if they parked their buggies, people would still come to them," he said. "That's how they got started."

Central City tries to stay true to the tradition by offering home-style cooking, according to Blaylock. The menu features such meals as open-faced sandwiches, meatloaf and homemade soups, he said. Beer, wine, and vegetarian dishes are also available.

"We tried to keep it simple. It's little things people like, and we wanted to do them right," Blaylock said. "We're trying to get people who normally don't go out during the week to come out and get something they'd eat at home and not spend a whole lot of money."

Alonzo and Blaylock have been working 18-hour shifts since the restaurant opened, but say they don't mind the extra work.

"It's really rewarding when its running smooth," Alonzo said. "And it's always a very exciting thing."

Southfield firm to build court

Court Administrator Kerry Erdman, Chief Judge John MacDonald and Judge Ron Lowe represented the court.

CDPA had the best balance of court-building experience and in-house specialists, according to Erdman. At 14 months, the firm also presented the most aggressive timeline for the project.

Southfield-based CDPA has been in business since 1961, according to Stacy Peterson, the firm's president.

"Ninety-five per cent of our work is in the public sector," he said. "We're well experienced with public funds, public budgets and public time-frame."

The firm has a great deal of experience with similar projects, according to Peterson. On their resume are 14 court projects, including buildings in Woodhaven and the recently completed courthouse in Dearborn.

The firm also designed Canton Township's new fire station on Canton Center Road. The interview panel's main concerns included security issues, technological experience, the image of the proposed building and the speed with which the project could be completed.

'Time is definitely a factor... we are very pressed. Our lease is up in 24 months.' Ron Lowe 35th District Court Judge

"Time is definitely a factor," Lowe said. "We are very pressed for time. Our lease is up in 24 months.'

CDPA's proposal would have the new building ready for use by July of 1999, three months before the court's November deadline.

Dennis Dundon, CDPA vice resident, said the aggressive timetable is the firm's experience and in-house specialists.

The firm's security expertise and familiarity with the technological and handicapped-accessibility needs of a courthouse needs mean less time required to finish the job, he said.

"We're not going to be learning on the job on (the court's) time," Dundon said. "We have a lot of experience with video technology and barrier-free accesses and we know three or four ways to do it."

CDPA was picked from a group of four finalists that included Troy-based Thomas Strat & Associates; George J. Hartman Architects, from Bloomfield Hills; and Dave Schaff's firm, Plymouth's Architects and Planners.

"It was a tough choice because everyone was such a strong candidate," Erdman said. "Everyone did a really nice job. I'm just glad we can finally get rolling."

Northville narrows chief search to 3 candidates

Three candidates are now left in the City of Northville's search for a new chief of police, according to City Manager Gary Word. They are:

• Joseph George, Wolverine Lake, MI chief of police.

• Timothy Woelkers, Sandusky, MI chief of police.

Capt. James Petres, Northville Police Department.

The three, considered finalists in the search, remain after Word narrowed the field from six.

The candidates are now in a final round of psychiatric exams and personality tests.

Following completion of the tests, Word will then be left to choose the City's new chief; the appointment is his to make, but a a panel of four others, including Assistant City Manager Nicolette Bateson and outgoing chief Rodney Cannon, have assisted in the interviews.

Word said he expects to make the appointment by the middle of this month.

Fallon is scheduled for enlistment in the regular Air Force Sept. 28, 1998, and will receive technical training in the mechanical career field after basic training.

He is a 1998 graduate of Canton High School.

Richard Jordan, son of Richard Jordan of Canton, Ben Szostek, son of Stanley and Meredith Szostek of Northville; and Dante Tucker, son of Victoria Tucker of Plymouth; have been accepted into Michigan State University's Honors College.

Established in 1956, the college meets the needs of academically-gifted freshmen and sophomores by providing a four-year program in any major field of study.

Students were admitted on the basis of a strong academic record, letters of recommendation from teachers and a written statement on why they wish to participate in the honors program.

Donald R. Hogaboom, son of Larry and Lynda Hogaboom of Canton, is in the process of completing the student teaching requirement for the education program during the fall semester by teaching elementary instrumental music.

Hogaboom, a senior, is majoring in Music at Albion College.

Andrew McDonald, son of Jay and Patty McDonald of Plymouth, has been initiated into Beta Theta Pi International Fraternity by the chapter at Central Michigan.

McDonald is a graduate of Salem High School.

Olivia Wofford, 9, of Canton was among the 15 children chosen to win a dance lesson given by the the New York Rockettes at Detroit's Fox Theatre.

Wofford is a 4th grade student at Our Lady of Good Counsel in Plymouth and at the Dancin' Feet Dance studio in Canton.

BY SCOTT SPIELMAN

What started out as a Cuban photo exhibition could lead to something more if one Plymouth businessman has his way.

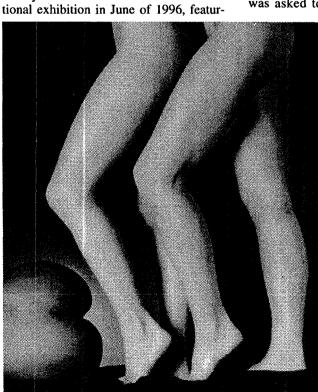

Jack Kenny, who owns and operates Quicksilver Photo in Plymouth, is hoping his personal photography can open doors between cultures and help break down embargoes against Cuba.

Kenny went to Cuba as a photojournalist, one of the capacities in which U.S. citizens are allowed to travel to the country, he said.

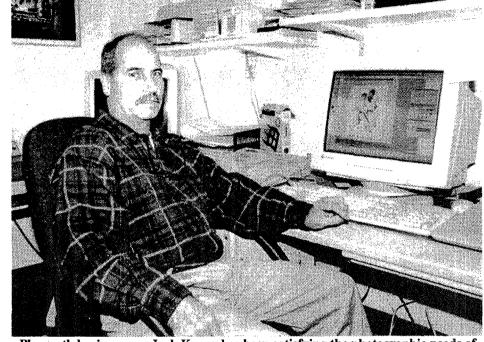

"I was down there taking pictures, and I just fell in love with the place," he said. "It's so vibrant."

While Kenny was in the country, he also met Roberto Salas, the national photographer for Cuba. Born in New York, Salas moved to Cuba with Fidel Castro in the '60s, according to Kenny.

The two shared a similar interest nude photography — and Salas invited Kenny to show his work in an international exhibition in June of 1996, featuring photographers from all over the world.

The exhibition was a first of its kind in Cuba. The more than 100 photographers exhibited works previously considere pornographic in Cuba — Nude photography.

"Until a year ago it was considered pornography," he said. "You could show paintings with nudity in them, just no photographs."

The exhibit was such a success that he was asked to do a one-man show later that year.

Kenny hadphotographed nudes for more than 25 years and had plenty of material to work with, he said.

"I started doing them for friends years ago when we were all hippies," he said. "I like photographing nudes because they present such striking images. They're enjoyable from 30 feet away or three feet away."

The Cuban public must have agreed, because Kenny's oneweek exhibit had a record opening.

It was during the eight months between his two exhibits that Kenny learned of a need in Cuba.

"As I was reading more about the country I discovered more about they problems they had," Kenny said. "A lot of them stemmed from U.S. sanctions against Cuba."

Kenny said U.S. restrictions against Cuba result in inadequate medical supplies, among other things.

He decided to team up with Susan Hurlich, a Boston-born writer living in Cuba with her husband to get the word out, he said.

"The hospitals in Cuba are wonderful. They're all clean and the doctors are wonderful," he said. "The problem is they can't get any supplies because they're made in the U.S. They have to pay more money and it takes much longer, if they can get them at all.

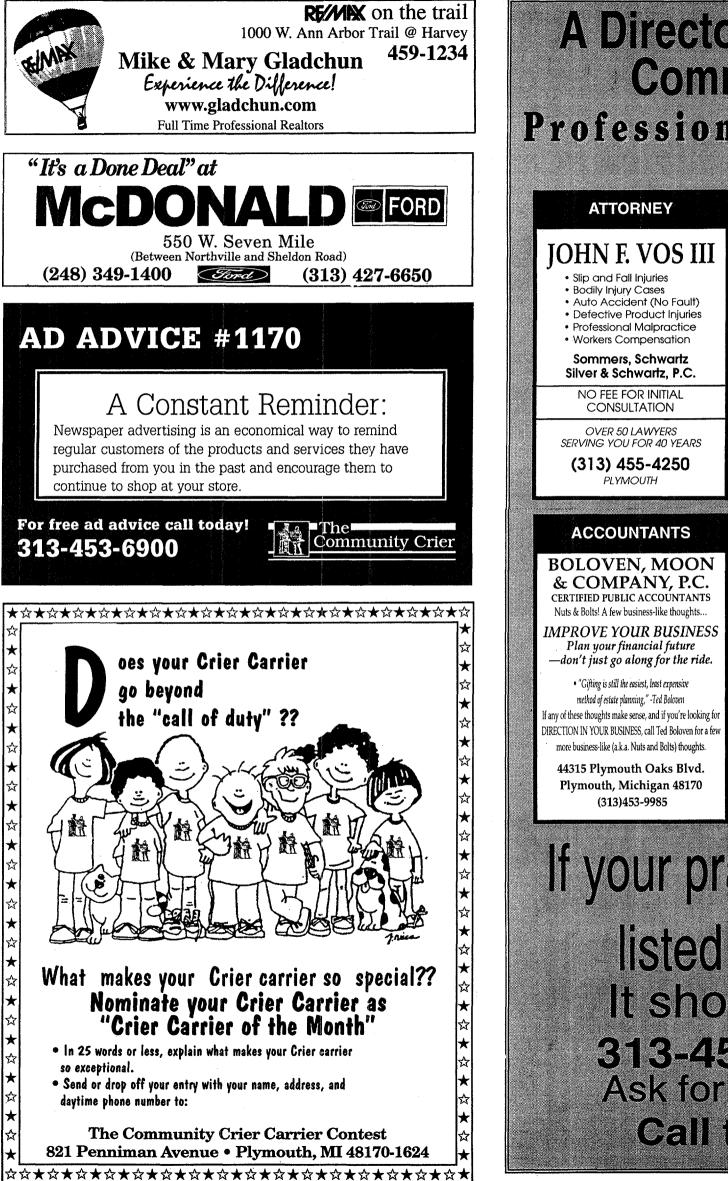

"I know of one point where all surgeries were put on hiatus for five days because they couldn't get supplies," he said. "There's no need for that."

Kenny said he is in the planning stages of his work with Hurlich, but because of the difficulty in communicating between the two countries, work is progressing slowly. It was also hampered by a momentary loss in email, which had been their primary source of correspondence.

"We're still in the planning stages of putting stories together for publication," he said. "We want to put her writing together with my photography to try and change some of those policies. The U.S. is the only country with any kind of restrictions against Cuba."

Kenny said he will try and arrange a showing of Salas' work in the U.S. as well as conceptualizing a book of his own photography. But for now, he's going to concentrate on Cuba's medical dilemma.

"The nudes are just an escape. It's non-work work," he said. "The other stuff is what's important."

New coach, game format await Chiefs in 1997-98 season

5 seniors lead team coming off most successful campaign in school history

BY ERICA D'ANGELO

The Canton girls volleyball team has a lot to look forward to this year, including a new coach and a new game format.

The team has 12 members this year, including senior captains Amy Plagens and Stephanie Chefan.

The team has six seniors, five juniors, and one sophomore.

They will be led by their new coach, Cynthia Howard Montgomary.

She also has a positive outlook on the teams upcoming season.

"We have our strengths and our weaknesses. We know everything we need to know, but there is always stuff to work on," she said.

Plagens also has confidence in her new coach. "She knows what she's talking about and she knows about what she does," she said.

Along with the new coach, all Western Lakes Activities Association volleyball teams will have a new game format.

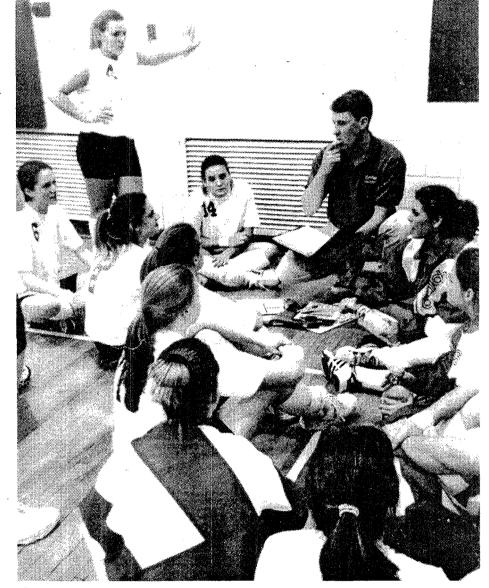

The teams used to play so the winner is named by winning three out of five games.

However, WLAA member schools voted to change the format to the best out of three games.

"We don't even know why they wanted it changed. We think it might be because people complained about getting home too late after games," said Plagens.

"I'd really like to play five games, three is too short," she added.

Some area teams who are against the new format are working together to get it changed back, including Canton and Salem, who both voted against the change.

"We're talking to members on the Salem team and trying to get a hold of players from Novi and Northville," explained Plagens. The volleyball team will have their first tournament this weekend, where Plagens, as well as the whole team, hope to get things off to a good start.

Chiefs pinned down in dual match But Canton grabblers show promise for 1997-98 season

The Canton wrestling team lost to Farmington, 54-24, and Salem, 66-18, in a dual meet last week.

Several junior varsity wrestled well in the 30-point defeat to Farmington, "which shows good hope," says assistant coach John Demslk. "We have a lot of freshmen and we've done a lot to get them started on the right foot."

Despite the lopsided loss to cross campus rival Salem, Demsick remains encouraged.

"It's important to remember Salem has a very developed program. We're trying to build a better one. We're in a good position to do better than last year," Demsick said. The Chiefs have a very solid nucleus of five wrestlers, seniors Brent Buttermore, Brian Musser, John-Peter Demsick and juniors Roger Demsick and Kevin Stone. "We'll be a much better team, and, of course, we'll have other kids also contribute," Demsick said.

The Chiefs continue their season tonight with a dual meet at Novi against the Wildcats and Ann Arbor Pioneer.

Erie gets holiday gift from Whalers, win 8-5 Whalers revenge loss with 6-1 win Sunday over Otters

BY BRIAN CORBETT

The Whalers were in the charitable holiday spirit Saturday night at Compuware Sports Arena, giving Erie an easy 8-5 win, the Otter's first-ever victory in Plymouth.

It was the most goals Plymouth has allowed all year, and it ended the Whalers' 11-game (9-0-2) home unbeaten streak.

Plymouth's four-game winning streak also came to a screeching halt.

"We got a good lesson tonight (Saturday)," said Plymouth Head Coach/GM Peter DeBoer. "They basically beat us at our own game."

The Otters challenged the Whalers physically early in the contest, and took a 3-1 lead into the first intermission.

Patrick Dovigi did the rest, stopping 41 shots, including 23 in the third period when the Whalers peppered the Otter netminder with several shots in close. The Otters took advantage of the Whalers' open- style offensive gambles in the final 40 minutes, and scored on several breakaways and odd-man rushes.

Vadim Sharapov (one goal, two assists) and Colin Pepperall (two goals) led the Otter offense, while defenseman Jeff Paul (one goal) played perhaps his best game of the season, drawing the ire of Whaler players throughout the night. Plymouth rookie forward Dave Legwand continued his season-long scoring binge with two goals and two assists. Fellow rookie Yuri Babenko had two assists for Plymouth. Erie improved to 1-5-1 all-time at CSA.

"I think because we've had their number the past couple of years they came out a little fired up," said second-year forward Harold Druken. "They outworked us all night. They deserved to win."

"We gave up a lot of chances," said forward Steve Wasylko, who played in his third game since returning from a shoulder injury, "but also we should've scored more on (Dovigi). We had 46 shots, we should've scored more goals than we did. We've got to score on our chances. We were passing off when we should've shot. But I guess we'll have to learn from that."

Trailing 3-1 early in the second period, the Whalers pulled within one when Kevin Holdridge scored his second goal of the year from the left circle.

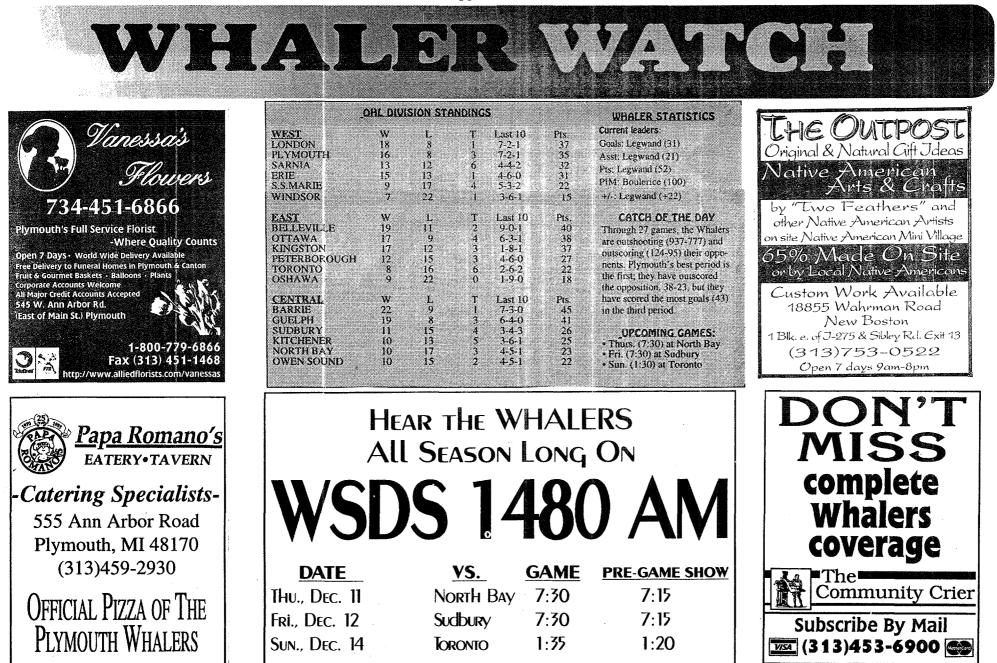

Erie ensured its first victory, however, with four answered goals in nine minutes of the second and third periods. Goalie Robert Esche (11 saves) was pulled in favor of Scott Holsinger at the beginning of the final period.

Season wrap-up:

High-n-dry

BY KRISTEN VAN DUSEN Here's one for the record books: The Canton girls swim team won the Western Division without a pool to swim in.

Well, for half of the season anyway. It was a tough season for the Chiefs, and it wasn't because they were forced to practice in their rival Salem's waters after the Canton pool was closed in the fall.

It was the unrelenting competition from the rest of Western Lakes Activities Association teams, who night in and night out were hoping to upset the division favorites.

The Chiefs had a few memorable meets. Their meets against Northville, Churchill, and Walled Lake were difficult. However, Canton was able to defeat these powerful teams.

Canton sent one swimmer, Terri Hanson, to the state meet. Hanson swam the 50 freestyle and the 100 fly. Otheroutstanding swimmers included Jacyln Bernard, Megan Dowd, Kristin Kalymon, Sue Fanning, and Angela Frost. Kalymon, Fanning, and Frost were the team captains this year.

Hockey players head for Helsinki Whaler coach, players leave for World Junior Championships

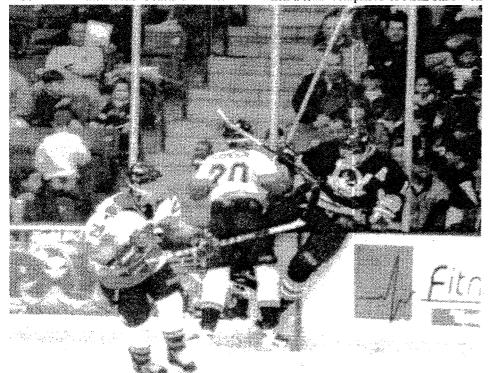

BY BRIAN CORBETT

Call them the Plymouth Patriots. Four Whalers - Robert Esche, Dave Legwand, Jesse Boulerice and Nikos Tselios leave this week to join Team USA for the World Junior Championships in Helsinki, Finland.

So does Whaler Head Coach/GM Peter

DeBoer, who will serve as an assistant for the team north of the border that has won the last five world junior titles. But don't think that has the young Americans intimated. They hope to continue their country's high-speed skate into the world's hockey elite, started last year when a team comprised of NHL stars won times. The Whalers returned to their hunting grounds for a convincing five-goal victory Sunday night.

Jesse Boulerice had two goals and the Legwand had three points for the Whalers, who were sparked by the physical play of rookies Andy Burnham, Kris Purdy, Mark Ridout and Jamie Lalonde.

Following a goal midway through the first period by Geoff Peters, the Whalers scored six unanswered goals, three on the power play. Nikos Tselios (two assists), Harold Druken (one goal, one assist) and Shaun Fisher (two assists) also had multiple point games for Plymouth.

Burnham, Purdy, Ridout and Lalonde – along with captain Andrew Taylor ignited the team by confronting the ornery Otters. "We always come in with really big intensity because we want to be back for sure," said Burham, part of the locker room's Crash Corner with Purdy, Ridout and Lalonde. "You never know when your last shift is going to be so you want to give it your all.

Lalonde dropped the gloves twice, the first time in the opening period after he delivered two heavy body checks. "It's my style. I've got to work hard to get in the lineup. I just do what I've got to do,' said Lalonde, an 11th round draft pick last summer.

Plymouth 8, Windsor 2 — On Thursday, the Whalers extended their winning streak to four games on a hat trick from Tselios.

Free speech vs. municipal appearance

Canton has the difficult task of balancing upscale looks with First Amendment rights

About six weeks ago a Canton landowner was ticketed for having a sign covered with race-oriented graffiti on his property.

Canton ordinance officers said that he would have been ticketed regardless of whether he was responsible for the sign's message or not; an ordinance against

About six weeks ago a Canton ins with the law, or a business such as adowner was ticketed for having a sign Arbor Drug.

Now, one side of the sign at Palmer and I-275 has been painted over, the graffiti covered. But some questions still remain. Would the township have been so quick to ticket Patrick Ratchford if the sign had been covered with a different message?

Some questions remain. Would the township have been so quick to ticket Ratchford if the sign had been covered with a different message? Probably not.

graffiti prohibits it within the township, and property owners are all treated the same whether it's one man with many run-

What if the graffiti on the sign suggested world peace and racial harmony instead of the opposite. Would he have had to paint over the sign or appear in court. Probably not.

The location of the sign, so close to Canton's southern border, probably had an impact, as did its visibility from I-275, and, of course, its message.

It's doubtful that Ratchford would have heard anything about it if the sign had read 'Don't worry, be happy,' or some kind of religious message (unless it involved the church of Satan).

The message itself was what people complained about. With as many advances in a nice, beautiful, respectable neighborhood like Canton, no one likes to think there may be bigots among us (except for the bigots, who probably don't like to think there are people who promote racial harmony among them.)

That's what makes the First Amendment a doubled-edged sword. The fact that Congress can make no law abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, means that we will be exposed to opposing viewpoints.

Canton has the difficult task of ensuring that the township retains its upscale appearance. Graffiti-covered buildings, or signs, just look bad, despite what message the graffiti might display.

As for freedom of speech, there are no easy answers. It is a delicate line we all must walk; for everyone has the right to express themselves.

Even the unpleasant ones.

Court progress hits 1st (political) bump

It was too smooth. The progress toward a new 35th District Dunbar toward a new 35th District Dunbar Davis Hall of Justice was just too smooth.

Everyone expected a bump in the road on the location of the rebuilt courthouse... but that issue sailed on by. The decision to rebuild on the same footprint left by the July 2 fire came off smoothly with all five local governments signing on.

It turns out that Plymouth City Manager Steve Walter's "morning after" comment alongside the smoldering ruins was prophetic: "This is just going to be a large remodeling project." The same site idea won out.

Some thought Canton would flex its muscle... but Tom Yack and crew showed leadership in regional government and surprised the doubters.

Once that issue passed, many wondered if the new courthouse would magically appear without any hitches at all. But NOOOOOO!

With many political folks serving on several committees, the City of Plymouth serving as host, and two sitting judges plus the courthouse staff having input, it was too easy to fan political intrigue.

Ruffled feathers flew briefly leading to the selection of the new architect for the rebuilt courthouse. Or as the rumor said, "There were three votes for anybody but so-and-so."

With the announcement on Page One today and with the court busy getting ready to open for business Monday morning in the "temporary" trailer court, the minor political thunderstorm is over and the courthouse rebuilding is underway.

But in the two years it'll take to occupy the new facility, will another bump come along?

The intersection of need and goodwill...With Saturday's newspaper sale the Plymouth Goodfellows doubled last year's amount; The Plymouth Community United Way surpassed its 1997 goal, the largest ever set, and the drive isn't even over yet. Charitable work goes on throughout The Plymouth-Canton Community — proof that, as the Holidays approach, P-C-N residents haven't forgotten their neighbors in need. (Crier photo by R. Alwood, Jr.)

Columnist tours new Plymouth Library site: Paige Tuner's secret plan

Brick by beautiful brick, the new Plymouth Library is shaping up. Each trip down Main Street finds further progress, and at the current rate, we'll be pulling books from shelves by March. Today, I'm visiting the construction site with the venerable Miss Paige Turner, a long-time literacy supporter and part-time efficiency expert. As usual, she has her own perspective on the subject, including a "secret plan" for the library's Grand Opening.

"My plan will promote literacy, save taxpayer money and introduce residents to this wonderful new facility," she tells me. "But I'm not sure how to present it — the city fathers and mothers already think I'm ten pages shy of a chapter. My reputation is still recovering from the _____

'ARP' fiasco."

You may remember Miss Turner as the creator of the controversial Acronym Reduction Program, a.k.a., ARP. I don't recall the exact details, so I ask her to refresh my memory about the world according to ARP.

"Well, it was one woman's attempt to halt the reckless proliferation of acronyms and abbreviations which has turned our written language into alphabet soup," says Paige. "Of course, I don't object to all of them. Some are quite useful," she adds. "Wouldn't you rather say 'CPR' instead of 'Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation', especially if you needed it?"

I admit that I would, but take a step back.

"There are a few other acronyms that I find worthwhile, like ASAP, RADAR, SCUBA, MADD, and SNAFU," she says. "They're the reason I created the AHF."

"The AHF?", I wonder aloud, not completely sure that I want to hear her answer.

"The Acronym Hall of Fame, of course," says Miss Turner,

Pure Speculation By W.H. Dean

'in Akron, Ohio."

With some difficulty, I manage to steer the conversation back to the subject of the new library. I'm anxious to hear about her "secret plan." Thankfully, she remembers the reason for our visit, and decides to confide in me.

"Think about it," she begins. "At some point, the books at the current library will have to be removed from the shelves, boxed, and hauled here by the truckload." I nod, and take a step closer.

"Books are pretty darn heavy," she goes on. "Moving a library takes time and effort, and I'll bet there's taxpayer money involved, to boot. Well, I've got a better idea. Why don't WE move the books? That's right — you, me, and everyone else in The Plymouth- Canton Community." I begin to explain my chronic back

I begin to explain my chronic back spasms when she continues. "Just go to the current library during its final days, find a book, and take it home for a couple of weeks. When it's time to return it, bring it to the new library. If everyone joins in, we can move the entire library to its new home, one book at a time."

Hmmm. That's just crazy enough to work.

"And what about the literacy improvement?" I ask.

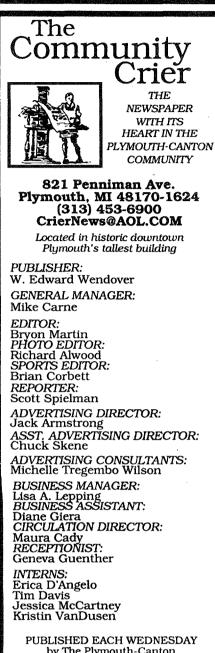

"You silly boy," she replies, "when you take the book home, you're supposed to read it!"

Hey, now that's a novel idea.

My plan will promote literacy, save taxpayer money and introduce residents to this wonderful new facility. But I'm not sure how to present it — the city fathers and mothers already think I'm ten pages shy of a chapter.
