WHAT THEY SAY.

—Tuesday was a dismal day for the fair opening.

—Wayne and vicinity, as usual, turned out nobly to the fair.

—The weather this fall has been very unfavorable for fairs.

—John Bennett has been at Toledo for a week or ten days past.

See the shabby collection of tobogams at H. Dohmstreich & Co.'s.

—Northville Record: C. A. Frisbie, of Plymouth, was in town Tuesday.

Ladies' all wool hose 30 to 75 cents per pair. Large assortment at Geo. A. S. & Co.

—A. W. Chaffee returned Saturday evening from an extended business trip East.

—Mrs. Geo. L. Robinson, of Detroit, is the guest of her brother, Harry Robinson this week.

—Miss Frankie Steward, of Northville, took the fair in Thursday. She is as jolly as ever.

For comforts, hats, caps, gent's furnishing goods, see the stock and prices at H. D. & Co.'s.

—The dance at Lapham's hall, Thursday evening was a big affair, 153 numbers being sold.

The new store of H. D. & Co. is replete with fine goods at low prices. Give them an inspection.

—Cal. W. Platt and wife, of Chippewa Lake, are in town on a visit with his parents, Ira Platt.

—George Merriman, of Wayne, has rented the Mrs. Scotten house lately vacated by Mrs. Dougherty.

Do you realize that the store is full of new and desirable goods where H. Dohmstreich & Co. hold forth.

—Miss Lela Paddock left Tuesday morning for Howell, to accept a situation in a millinery store there.

—Lute Lyon's hitching park was a great convenience to the public and quite a source of revenue to himself.

—Mrs. C. H. Chope and little son, of Detroit, are here to take in the fair and visit her sister, Mrs. Panches.

—Subscribers for the Mail continue to roll in; still there is room for a few more. Let us add your name please.

No trouble to show the goods and we have them by the car load, at prices that will sell them at H. D. & Co.'s.

Gibson's gallery, at Northville, will be open after Oct. 11. Cabinets, $3.00 per dozen. Satisfaction guaranteed.

—I. B. Merritt and wife, of Pontiac, formerly of this place, was in town Thursday, visiting and taking in the fair.

Miss Ewen will organize a singing class at High school room, Monday, Oct. 10, at four p. m. All are cordially invited.

Gent's seamless glove grain shoes, every pair warranted solid and they are neat, only $2.25 per pair at Geo. A. S. & Co.

—Mrs. Carrie Darling, of Toledo, returned home Tuesday from a three weeks visit here with her sister, Mrs. Panches.

Boote's "New Tourney" crockery is glazed over the color and can be matched at any time for any piece at H. Dohmstreich & Co.'s.

—R. S. Durfee has been making quite extensive repairs on the late Herrick place just south of the village, Lorenza Pooler doing the work.

—Mrs. Chandler who has been sick for some time past, has so far improved as to be able to go to her daughter's, Mrs. Leedyard, at Grand Rapids.

—From Thursday morning until long after noon every street leading to the fair ground was lined with people and teams making their way to the fair.

—We understand that Penniman, instead of being sentenced by the court at North last Monday, was discharged on account of some defect in the papers.

—Mrs. C. M. Duntley, who has been visiting with her daughter at Traverse City for some time past, returned home the first of the week accompanied by the later.

—Mrs. James R. Hosie, of Wayne, was in town Tuesday.

We invite an inspection of our goods and prices at the new store of H. D. & Co.

—The Misses Reed, of Northville Record, were callers at our office Thursday.

A fine line of jerseys, street jackets, and reversible blanket shawls at H. Dohmstreich & Co.'s.

—Miss Frankie E. Wicott, of Northville, was in town Thursday and Friday, calling on friends and attending the fair.

Crockery and glassware in large stock and fine quality, with prices that are sure to please at H. D. & Co.'s.

It was the remark of many on the fair grounds Thursday that the showing was better than at Ypsilanti or Farmington. We expected that; it is always so.

Inspect our line of cloaks and jackets. Well made newmarkets, with cape and hood at $4.50 to $12.00 each. Plush cloaks $20.00 to $30.00 at Geo. A. S. & Co.'s.

—From the Review we learn that the Wayne knitting works have proved a success, and are to be enlarged. They find ready sale for all the work they can do.

—H. F. Brown of this place, who was formerly in the employ of Gibson, the Ann Arbor photographer, has with the latter opened a branch gallery at Northville.

Tuesday last our genial general merchants received a large consignment of ladies dress goods from New York direct. Call and see them at H. Dohmstreich & Co.'s.

—The dance at Amity hall, Wednesday, did not call out as much of a crowd as was desired, but those present say they enjoyed themselves. The weather was very unfavorable.

—A buggy belonging to the Northville livery had a wheel taken off, on the fair ground, just after the races Thursday by some one who was driving around the block while the other vehicle was crossing.

—Detroit wants a permanent exposition and it begins to look as if they were going to have it. Over one hundred of its most enterprising citizens met and elected officers, etc., and are going to push the matter.

C. A. Paddock, photographer, will be in Panches' gallery, Friday, and Saturday, Oct. 21 and 22 to do work. Photos of the 24th Regiment G. A. R. can be seen. Orders may be left at John Steele's jewelry store.

—Among those from Detroit whom we noticed at the fair Thursday were, Sheriff Littlefield; Judge Durfee; County Auditor Moran; the prospective County Auditor, Chas. P. Collins; Home A. Flint, Probate Register.

—Wilcox & Son are getting the material on the grounds for putting roller process in the Plymouth mills. It will be of the latest and most improved machinery, and will make the mill equal to any for making high grade of flour.

—Remember the MAIL would like a correspondent at every post office and cross-roads in this and adjoining counties. Let us hear from you. Always sign your name to your correspondence, so that we may know who it is from.

—The party given by the Plymouth dancing club, at Amity hall, last Friday evening, was quite well attended and the occasion a most enjoyable one. The people were of the best, the music excellent and the genial Net Brown as manager.

Underwear, underwear, underwear, underwear for ladies, underwear for misses, underwear for babies. All wool underwear, white or scarlet; cotton and wool underwear; cotton underwear; all at people pleasing prices at Geo. A. S. & Co.'s.

—A horse attached to a road cart and owned by W. P. Johnson, became frightened on the fair ground Monday and ran away, passing through the gate with only the hills fastened to him, and running into an open field near the railroad, was captured. The cart was a wreck.

—Northville Record: This is an age of wonder. A Methodist minister has offered the Markham Manufacturing Co. of Plymouth, $10,000 in cash, for their business. A Methodist minister with that amount of cash in his vest pocket cannot have been kept on basswood on subscription.

Geo. A. S. & Co.'s stock of gent's underwear, bought at M. F. R. S. prices, is very fine. Their all wool scarlet suits and drawers at $1.50 per suit, are equal if not better than any $2.00 suit ever offered in Plymouth. See their fine French grey underwear at $1.00 per suit and buy a suit if you want a bargain.

THE SCIENTIFIC HOUSEWIFE.

She was learned in all the lore of science, and her store of attainments was bewildering and grand; she could tell you what to eat, from cereals to meat, and analyze all eatables off-hand.

He was learned in all the lore of science, and her store of attainments was bewildering and grand; she could tell you what to eat, from cereals to meat, and analyze all eatables off-hand.

His voice had that thickness which told of the drainage of his pocket-flask. He was jolly and confidential.

got over his pecuniary troubles, and to see his sisters. He had been admitted to the bar, meanwhile, and Judge Carter, whose favorable impressions time had confirmed, had taken him into partnership.

PITH AND POINT. The stay that Jacob Sharp should get is a long stay in Sing Sing.

JIM POWDER'S MISTAKE.

A Pleasant Story of New Jersey Life.

A pleasant balmy day in May. The windows of the railway car were open. There was a breeze stirring, and though a cloud of dust was blown in, it was also blown out.

Bolling was frank by nature, and the questions of his interlocutor, who was as ingenious as the other was ingenious, were craftily put.

"No; there is a one-horse sort of connecting train, I learned, and I shall push on to Griffon at once."

Ex-Senator Tabor's Divorced Wife.

A tall, fine-looking, well-dressed woman was sitting near the fare-box in a broad-way street-car as it entered it.

When the cowboys get a fair show at Chief Colorow he will feel as useless as a last year's bird's nest.

When a circus pastes its bills on a church it should at least send the trustees a free ticket.

Columbus made the first entry in an American sailing rogatta. He came in, too, away ahead of the Mayflower.

There are millionaires in America who don't know that it is wrong to cheat and commit perjury.

There are lots of crooked whisky in this country, but that doesn't hinder people from taking it straight.

There is a movement on foot to reduce the length of the dress coat. Many of them have been worn far too long.

If a rich man doesn't dispense money in charity he is called miserly; if he does he is accused of doing it for notoriety.

To massacre a train-load of passengers, first bankrupt the road. Cheap service and cheap excursions will do the rest.

The rate of interest which some young men feel in a girl is proportioned to the fortune that she has to rate interest on.

The American colony in Canada seems to be growing unusually rapidly. Why not put a three-mile limit for cashiers.

A Philadelphia writer thinks all engine-drivers ought to have telescopes. A good man may have had them already.

The Santa Fe road is getting rid of old ties. The Chicago husband and wife are laboriously engaged in the same business.

The man who left home to spend the summer with his family has just returned. The summer is not yet spent, but his money is.

The man who winked at a federal juror in this city will be taught, later on, that justice does not run a soda-water fountain.

This country's industry needs no more codding. As Dow, jr., remarked: "It is a poor belly that can't warm its own pie."

A man must feel cheap when he finds he has sold himself for an office that does not pay and offers no chance for stealing.

"Well, Mary, how do you like your new place?" "I can't tell yet positively; you know the first day the ladies are always politeness itself."

The great jewelry failure in Chicago was not unexpected. The Chicago hotel clerks have for some time been importing their diamonds.

A number of people in England and America want to know all about the seizure of sailing vessels in Behring sea.

Jack Sharp has had a stay of proceedings. But he doesn't deserve it. He never stayed his own proceedings.

"Strawberries in San Francisco every month but January," says a Chicago exchange. Yes, and so much cream in January that we just eat it on our climate, and don't miss the berries.

Do you hear? — San Francisco Alta.

Bald-Headedness. There is much wearisome and needless discussion about bald-headed American men.

Wash your head thoroughly once a week with a lather of soap and water, rinse all the soap out, and rub the scalp lively till it is entirely dry.

Wages in 1800.

The condition of the wage class of that day may be well examined; it is full of instruction for social agitators. In the great cities unskilled workmen were hired by the day, bought their own food, and found their own lodgings.

A Diamond Woman.

The costliest necklace of diamonds ever owned in this country was worn by Mrs. Mary Jane Morgan. She had a real passion for diamonds and wore them in hairpins, brooches, bracelets and rings as well.

"I rather prefer the old style of English," said Bolling. "I am to be a hireling; and the compensation of a hireling is called wages. But wages or salary—the terms are indifferent to me."

"My place is within a mile of Griffon," said the old man. "I have a notion that I knew your father once. Wasn't he at Harvard, in his time?"

"Yes, sir, and so was I. We are alumni of the same school." "I wonder if he remembers his old chum there—one George Carter—George St. Leger Carter, as they have it on the rolls."

"Yes, sir; I've heard him speak of him often, though the two have drifted apart since then. Judge Carter, you mean. He lives at Griffon. Do you know him?"

"Um! yes! After a fashion." "Papa!" whispered the young girl; but Bolling's quick ear caught her words; "I know the judge better than you do."

"Be quiet, Puss, will you?" replied her father, in the same tone. "I am told," resumed the young man, "that he has left the bench, and, although quite wealthy, has gone back on the bar. I have a letter for him which my father, recalling their youthful friendship, insisted on giving me; but I shall not present it."

"Why not? He might be of service to you." "Scarcely, sir. You see, if I am to be a salesman in a country store, I had better accommodate myself to my position. The judge, even if he remembered old college friendships, wouldn't be likely to consider me a welcome addition to his family circle as a visitor. He is rich; and then he is said to have a very handsome daughter, who would, no doubt, look down on me. I have my bread and butter to earn, and had better confine myself to it."

Possibly you are right. But how came your father to lose his money? I thought he inherited a fortune. "Yes, sir; but he was drawn into incurring responsibility for a relative. He is not ruined by any means, but is merely hampered, and thinks he will pull through in time with a little economy and prudence; and I have no doubt he will. But I am early in his way or I would have remained."

"Come over here, Mr. Bolling," said the old man, after the car had been in motion a little while, "I want to talk with you a bit. Turn down that seat. That will do. You said you had a letter from Judge Carter, and didn't intend to deliver it."

"Yes, sir." "Did it never occur to you, young man, that it was your duty to obey your father's orders?" "I trust, sir, that I'm usually obedient. It was not a positive order. I shall write to him and explain."

"I tell you that you should deliver that letter to its proper owner. You are only a trustee in the case. I am Judge Carter, and this is my daughter, Lucy. Hand over the paper to the court."

"I beg pardon, sir; but I—" "You want identification. Here, conductor! Tell this young gentleman who I am."

"Judge Carter," responded the functionary, a little curious to know what it was all about. "Thank you, Phillips. That'll do. Now, sir."

Bolling, not a little bit astonished, took the letter from his pocket-book. "If you'll permit me," said the judge, as he opened the letter, and glanced over the contents. "He gives you a good character, and wants me to look after you a little. Ah, how times flies! Lucy, this young fellow's father and I had such good times in the old days. How long did you read law, Bolling?"

"A little over two years, sir." "Like it?" "Very much indeed, sir." "Whom did you read with?" "Spense & Sullivan."

"Good men. Sullivan put you through the office business, I fancy; that's his way. Now, I've been putting you through an exhaustive examination, which is my way, and I think you will do. Let old Bragg find another salesman. He's not dying for you, and I can get him a substitute. I have two students in my office. What they are there for is their own business, but they'll never make a great success at the bar unless they change their ways. I want a clerk to manage my office, and to boss around while I am off on circuit. I'll give you a living salary—not too much, and you can read law meanwhile. You ought to be able to pass in a year. If you turn out as I hope you will, why, when you get your sheepskin, we'll see what can be done. What do you say to it?"

The observer would set down the two for a well-to-do farmer and his daughter who were traveling for business or pleasure. The man looked around. The two vacant seats were on opposite sides of the car. In one of them sat a young, well-dressed, and apparently self-satisfied gentleman, and the space by his side was occupied by a handbag of crocodile leather and a spring overcoat. In the other was another young man, not quite so extravagantly dressed, though neatly clad, and not as handsome as the first, though he had an open and intelligent countenance.

"There's a place for you, Lucy." Then, turning to the young man with the satchel, he asked: "Sent engaged?" The young man looked up, curled his lip superciliously, and said: "Man to fill it'll be here presently, I dare say."

"Ah!" said the farmer, coolly removing the gripsack and overcoat, and placing them on the young man's lap; "then I'll occupy it until he comes." And he seated himself accordingly, while the young man glared at him. The one on the other side looked amused; and then rising said: "You had better exchange seats with me, sir, and then the young lady and yourself will be together."

"Thank you," was the farmer's reply; and the exchange was quietly effected. The two young men were evidently acquainted; for the courteous one said to the other, in a low voice: "Jim Poulder, you made a mistake there."

"I never make mistakes, Frank Bolling," replied the other. "I dare say you'll make your fortune some of these days by being polite to the graner population; but my fortune is already made."

The first speaker said nothing more, but drawing a newspaper from his pocket, opened and ran his eye over its columns. Poulder yawned a little, and at last said: "This is too dull for yours faithfully, James Poulder. I'll go into the smoking-car and take a whiff. Have a snifter?" he inquired, producing a pocket-flask.

"No, thank you," replied Bolling. "That stuff is rather too fiery for me."

"Here goes alone, then. That's as fine brandy as ever crossed the ocean. Day-day. Keep an eye to my traps, will you? and don't give up my seat to every country yokel who asks it."

The elegant young gentleman shook himself, and made his way forward to the car especially provided for fumigation. When he had gone the old man leaned over the arm of his seat and addressed Bolling.

Churches.

PRESBYTERIAN—Rev. G. H. Wallace, Pastor. Services, 10:45 a. m., 7:15 p. m. Sabbath School at close of morning service.

WHAT THEY SAY.

—The latest. "Did you see the red pig?"
—The cornet band furnished excellent music at the fair.
—Samuel Shafer and wife of White Lake are visiting in town.

Common Council.

The village trustees met Monday evening with the President in the chair, and the full board present excepting Trustee H. Wills.
Report of ex-Marshall Weeks was received and was as follows: Total tax as levied $1,372.23; amount collected $1,148.31; turned over to his successor, Fred Dunn, for collection, poll tax $77.00. Personal tax $146.91.

THE FAIR.

Grand Display Throughout and a Very Large Attendance.

The third annual fair of the Plymouth fair association opened on Tuesday under very unfavorable circumstances, there being a cold raw wind during the forenoon and a drizzling rain all the afternoon and evening.

In the building many of the exhibitors were engaged in arranging their wares, some of them working until late in the evening.

The displays made by our merchants were such as they might well feel proud of, as follows:

GEO. A. STARKWEATHER & CO. Had a very neat display of ladies' cloaks in plush and other material, dress goods, hats, caps, shoes, carpets, dress trimmings, etc., besides two cases of fancy goods, all neatly and attractively arranged.

C. A. PINCKNEY. Druggist and grocer, made the finest display of goods in his line that has ever been shown in the building. Not the least of the showing was 10,000 cigars of one brand.

W. A. BASSETT & SONS. Showed beautiful bedroom suites, in marble top, an elegant lounge, and a large line of window curtains, etc.

A. MELVIN POTTER. The harnessmaker, filled one entire end of the building with a tastefully arranged stock of fine blankets and robes, harnesses, whips, traveling bags, etc.

M. CONNER & SON. Hardware dealers, made an elegant display of stoves, in both coal and wood, heating and cooking, of different makes.

ANDERSON & CABLE. Dealers in hardware also showed a number of beautiful stoves. Certainly the lovers of beauty in stoves would be pleased with these two displays.

G. V. BENTLEY. Showed the standard and American sewing machines of which he has the agency.

OTHER DISPLAYS BY MERCHANTS. Mr. Barker, organ.
H. F. Newland & Co., furs, etc.
J. H. Black & Co., carpets and rugs.

WIND MILL. The Plymouth Iron Windmill Co., showed one of their beautiful mills.

WAGONS AND CARRIAGES. Polly, Wherry & Co., showed a number of wagons and two seated buggies.
G. V. Bentley also showed a large number of wagons and carriages.

FAIR NOTES. The fair receipts on Thursday were over one thousand dollars.

Friday turned out to be a beautiful day and the attendance at the fair was large. The display of vegetables were remarkably fine.

Tuesday and Wednesday, owing to the terrible weather, the members of the fair association wore very long faces, but when it cleared off Thursday and the crowd began to pour in, their faces broadened very materially.
The show in horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry was large and of excellent quality.

T. C. Sherwood, Plymouth, showed a cow and ten months old calf of the Aberdeen Angus breed. They were very fine and attracted much attention.

J. M. Ward, of Plymouth, showed a fine two year old bull of immense proportions. W. T. Johnson, of Northville, showed seven head of Durhams.

WEDNESDAY'S RACES. In the three minute class there were four horses entered: Good Morning, owned by Hop Williams, Plymouth; Chandler, by P. R. Wilson, Wayne; Little Daisy, by Bart Reno, Monguagon; Ripton, by Wm. Campbell, Wyandotte.

In the 2:40 class there were Maud C., by Ed. Cook, Plymouth; Kate Dawson, by C. G. Crofoot, of Detroit; Lylee, by B. Stanley, Detroit; Minnie A., by R. W. Hemphill, Ypsilanti.

THURSDAY'S RACES. 2:30 class: four horses. Ripton, by Wm. Campbell, Wyandotte; Little Daisy, by Bart Reno, Monguagon; Lylee, by Ben Stanley, Detroit; Oakland Bashaw, by Miles Hagle, Pontiac.

FRIDAY'S RACES. In the free for all, four horses started: Bill Poster, by H. M. Dubois, Pontiac; Belle of Shelby, by D. E. Pearsall, Mt. Clemens; Kate Dawson, by C. G. Crofoot, Detroit; Maud C., by Ed. Cook, Plymouth.

In the pacing race there were three entries: Jack Forbes, by Chas. Miller, Plymouth; Phil Axam, by John Gibbs, Detroit; Dock, by H. German, Northville.

Another grass widow in town. E. Bennett will have his new engine on the Plymouth fairground.

Charles Shaw has returned home after an absence of six years in California.

A telegram was received here last week that Mrs. Louise Malody nee Armstrong, of Union City, was dead.

Mrs. Emma Welby nee Radeliffe, of Alma, Mich., who has been spending a few weeks with her friends here, left Thursday, to visit friends at Albion, Mich.

Mrs. Barnes, of Detroit, is visiting her son Reuben Barnes.

Rev. J. M. Shank will preach at the M. E. church next Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

The lightning struck a large pear tree near Mrs. A. Farwell's house last Thursday night.

Mrs. Belle Harlow nee Brown and son, of Fostoria, Mich., and Mrs. Edith Reed nee Brown, and son, of Lapeer, Mich., are here on a visit.

Energy's Eternity.

"Chemists," observes a late writer upon the correlation of physical forces—a discovery which has been pronounced the most important of the present century, "held that matter was indestructible; this idea gradually extended to force, and, as no particle of matter could be lost, no portion of force existing in nature can disappear."
Correlation is a word proposed by Mr. W. R. Grove in 1842, and means "mutually convertible." He says: "Light, heat, electricity, magnetism, motion, are all convertible material affections. Assuming either as the cause, one of the other will be the effect."

Power of a Windmill

One of the largest wind motors in existence is used for driving flour machinery at Great Yarmouth England. It has four sails, which are 40 feet 9 inches long by 12 feet 6 inches wide, and extend from 100 feet from point to point. With a wind of 25 miles an hour, the windmill has 55 horse power, and will easily make 150 barrels of flour in twenty four hours.
