HELD TO COURT.

George Cooper, of Perrinsville, was arrested last Friday afternoon by Constable Charles Millard, on complaint of Walter Wilson, father of the late Mrs. Cooper, charged with murder. Cooper was on Wednesday arranged before Justice Coats, the examination taking place in Woodruff's hall, at Newburg, and as a result of the examination was held for trial at the next term of the circuit court. Cooper was represented by Geo. F. Robison, of Detroit, and will no doubt make the best defense possible.

At the coroner's inquest Prosecutor Mandell paid a great deal attention to the position of the beer keg found at the foot of the cellar stairs, where the body of Mrs. Cooper was found, and made Cooper repeat several times that the keg had been placed there by him at least six or seven weeks previous to that time. Cooper's version was that his wife accidentally fell down stairs and struck her head on the beer keg.

The testimony Wednesday showed that the beer keg was not at the bottom of the stairs a day or two previous to the time of Mrs. Cooper's death and Dr. Bennett also repeated his opinion given at the inquest that the cuts on her forehead were not caused by falling against the beer keg, but by a sharp instrument. In an endeavor to make him say what caused the marks on her throat he said they might have been made by a thumb and finger.

John Shaw, a member of the coroner's jury, stated that the jury looked over the cellar and found where the keg had formerly stood and that the marks on the ground and where it had been rolled to the stairs were still fresh.

Mrs. Mary Rathburn, a sister of Mrs. Cooper, testified that she was at Cooper's house the Wednesday before the tragedy, that she went down cellar after some potatoes and, at that time the keg stood some seven or eight feet from the stairs. Minnie Griffin also testified to the same fact as to the position of the keg when she worked there.

Deputy Sheriff Henry Fisher was the last witness sworn. He had found where the keg had stood in the cellar, took possession of it and saw damp earth still clinging to the bottom of it, indicating that it had not been standing long on the landing of the stairs.

This ended the testimony and the Prosecutor asked that upon the evidence submitted, the prisoner be bound over to the circuit court. Cooper's attorney offered no evidence and Justice Coats bound him over. The prosecution claims to have other evidence which will strengthen their proof. We understand that the theory is that Cooper first choked his wife, then threw her down stairs, making the cuts on her head afterwards to lead to the belief that she struck on the beer keg, the latter being placed in position for that purpose.

Robert and John Shaw, of Ovid, are visiting at their grandfather's, John Shaw's.

Dr. Geo. Ewing, a practicing physician of Smith's Grove, Ky., for over thirty years, writes his personal experience with Foley's Kidney Cure: "For years I have been greatly bothered with kidney troubles and enlarged prostate gland; I used everything known to the profession without relief, until I was induced to use Foley's Kidney Cure. After using three bottles I was entirely relieved and cured; I prescribe it now daily in my practice and heartily recommend its use to all physicians for such troubles, for I can honestly state I have prescribed it in hundreds of cases with perfect success." With three mail routes soon to be supplying the farmers of this vicinity, the people of the north side are beginning to dream they want a letter carrier, or sub-station, or something to better facilitate mail delivery. These nothing like having what you want, if you can get it.

We believe a real good stiff protest by the people of Plymouth against the further use of the present unsightly, dirty, inconvenient, unsanitary railroad depot, might result in the company's building a new one in the near future—a thing so far only talked about. The railroad people need it and the travelling people need it. There ought to be a vigorous kick made.

The equalization committee made a report Monday morning to the board, from which the following figures are obtained: The total valuation of real and personal estate, as equalized, in the county, is $230,028,069. In Plymouth the assessed valuation was cut from $1,371,575 to $1,097,260; Canton from $961,920 to $792,736; Livonia from $935,740 to $748,592; Nankin from $1,295,180 to $1,036,144; Northville from $1,445,875 to $1,156,700.

The water supply in the village has been rather limited for some time and the village fathers are wrestling with the problem of increasing the supply. The trouble lies in the main between the spring and the reservoir. The council members went out Monday taking with them an engineer. The estimated flow at the spring is a million gallons per day, yet the reservoir is practically empty all the time. The council is considering ways and means that will bring about the solving of the question of supply and in the meantime every water-taker should be as economical as possible in the use of water.

For Sale at a Bargain—Jewell gasoline range, with oven and four burners. Enquire at Hotel Plymouth.

THE PLYMOUTH FAIR.

The Plymouth fair takes place this year Sept. 17, 18, 19 and 20. The people of Plymouth and country around must not forget that last winter they promised to stand by the fair association and help make the fair of 1901 a greater success than it has been for some years past. It is not too early to begin laying plans now, to the end that there will be no lack of exhibits when the time arrives. Every farmer within ten miles should be interested enough to make an exhibit of some kind at the fair—dairy, fruit, vegetables, grain, stock, &c. It is unnecessary to state that the farmers' show of these things is what makes the fair a success and attracts the crowds. We are aware it takes some time and trouble to select specimens for exhibition, but the time can be taken when other business is not pressing, and this is why we say it is none too early to begin making arrangements now. If every one interested in Plymouth and in the success of the fair will personally canvass the matter with his friends and neighbors to get out exhibitors, the fair will surely be the best held in years. If we fold our hands and let two or three persons shoulder all the work, the 1901 fair will be no better than that of 1900. It will take a united effort to make it a "go," and the result will be a credit not only to the association but to the entire community.

Rev. F. I. Beckwith will exchange pulpits with Rev. J. R. Bonner, of Milford, Sunday morning. Rev. Bonner will also address the union meeting in the evening.

Laura Turner, of Detroit, four years old, stopping with her grandfather, Albert Jackson, on the Kinyon farm, accidentally fell into a boiler of hot water yesterday, severely scalding her right side from the neck down to her feet. Dr. Oliver, who was called, extended all the relief possible and hopes the little one will pull through all right.

Some people are grumbling because their use of water is restricted by the water board, while the railroad company is allowed to use all they want. The railroad company pays $700 per year for water. They use much less than is estimated. Councilman Hill, who ought to know, says the outside limit is twenty tanks (engines) per day. If the railroad is shut off, they must establish a plant of their own. The item of $700 goes a great ways towards paying interest on bonds, repairs, etc. Yet no member of the council is willing to unreasonably curtail the supply of the village patrons for the sake of supplying the railroad. If the repairs can be made that are now being considered, before a great while there will be water enough for all purposes, including the railroad.
