READ IT THROUGH.

"Would Spell This Story to Tell It in the Headlines."

To use an eighteenth century phrase, this is an "o'er true tale." Having happened in a small Virginia town in the winter of 1902, it is a story very much of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Barmon, of Melba Station Va., had no personal knowledge of the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbors told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once and it soon cured her. I heartily thank the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it to highly as my boy much in its favor. I beg all who read this will try it and be convinced as I was." Put away by Hubbell's Pharmacy and Mother's Drug Store.

A Pleasant Occasion.

On Wednesday, March 11, 1903, John E. Wilcox, Esq., of Livonia, passed the fifty-eighth milestone on the journey of life. Two of his old time friends and their wives, and Mrs. George Wilcox, of Farmington, spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox. The day was passed pleasantly in talking over time passed, time present, and wondering and prophesying what the future might bring forth, with an occasional game of pedro, "on the side." About 7:30 p. m. while engaged in the peaceful pursuits of said game, and just at the moment when Mr. Wilcox had bet ten on the ace and nine spot, and got "set up," about thirty of his friends walked in and took possession of the ranch. It was one of those occasions that makes the victim look and feel like "thirty cents." A "snap shot" would have revealed one man in the lot that looked as though a guardian would have been the proper thing to have. But after the gentleman of the house got his "second wind," and his feet under him, so to speak, he hunched himself together and played the host in elegant shape. Mrs. Wilcox had not been caught napping. After the company had exhausted their energies in a game of progressive pedro, they were bid to come and partake of a bountiful repast, prepared by Mrs. Wilcox for the occasion. Some present still think that Mrs. Wilcox knew of our coming, and had forgotten to apprise Mr. Wilcox of the fact. Away along toward Thursday morning, we bid our host and hostess good night, and hoping for them many happy returns of the day. Thus ended another scene in the drama that makes life worth the living.

Resolutions of Respect.

As it did on March 3, 1903, please our All-wise and ever loving Father to suddenly remove from among us, the soul of Wm. Robinson, who was a loved and respected member of Case Tent, No. 238, K. O. T. M. M., let us humbly bow before his decree, remembering he is too wise, o'er too good to be unkind, and sometime we will understand what we cannot now. Let us cherish the memory of one who has during the whole fifty years of his life, resided in the same neighborhood and all were his friends. Let us copy his virtues, let us cover, if he had any, his short-comings, with loving charity, ever remembering he has gone the way we must all go. To his loving wife, three daughters and son, we extend our heartfelt sympathy in their loss of one who was a good husband and father for more than eleven years, was ever ready to stretch forth his hand to help those in trouble.

W. L. SMITH,
D. L. DICKERSON,
A. N. KINYON,
Committee.

Tragedy Averted.

"Just in the nick of time our little boy was saved" writes Mrs. W. Watkins of Pleasant City, Ohio. "Pneumonia had played sad havoc with him and a terrible cough set in besides. Doctors treated him, but he grew worse every day. At length we tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and our darling was saved. He's now robust and well." Everybody ought to know, it's the only cure for coughs, colds and all Lung troubles. Price 50c and 1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Hubbell's Pharmacy.

THE NEWS OF MICHIGAN.

Judge Durand's Illness.

It is reported that Judge George H. Durand is gradually failing and is now confined to his home and admittance is denied all visitors save intimate acquaintances. The attack which Judge Durand suffered September 1 last, left him in a greatly weakened condition, but, although unable to use his vocal organs and deprived of the power of communicating with his family and friends, he gained physically and was able to walk down to his office in the post-office building, where he has practiced law. In January he attended the grand jury meeting of the F. and A. M. at Detroit, but since that time he has been confined to the house. A short time ago Judge Durand suffered an attack of the grip, which developed other complications. While temporary rales were noticed, the reactions banish hope. When Bryan was in Flint last week he expressed a desire to visit Judge Durand, but the latter was in such a condition that it was deemed inadvisable to admit the Democratic leader to the sick-room.

Bigamist and Thief.

Claimed by three wives and alleged to be an embezzler in the sum of $400, Cashier Arthur S. Chisholm, of the United States Express Co., in Grand Rapids, has become suddenly notorious. Chisholm is 28 years old and came last June from Fort Wayne, Ind., to enter the employ of the express company. He soon impressed the local officers of the company with his polished manners and refined appearance and his advance was rapid. During the past few months losses have been noticed daily at the local office but the leak could not be traced. Suspicion at last pointed toward Chisholm and a warrant for his arrest followed an examination of his books.

The Parson Caught On.

Bay City, west side, "went dry" Sunday for the first time in many months. The reason was the accidental discovery by Rev. W. B. Pope, of the Methodist church, that at least one saloon was doing business on the Lord's day. He tried the back door. It was locked. Just then a man came around the corner, remarked that the gentleman must be a stranger there, and proceeded to show him a "blind entrance." Inside, the reverend gentleman found a dozen men drinking. He talked with the proprietor, and the place was closed and the screens removed.

Pistols and Jealousy.

Two women met late at night near Shaughnessy & Co.'s carriage shop, in Camden, two revolver shots were heard, and one of the women ran away. The other woman went into Potter's livery stable, and it was found that she was Minnie Bennett, who has been working for Mrs. John Croxton. She had a bullet in one of her hips, and another in one of her legs. She asked Mr. Rathbun to go for Job McGrey, who took her away and provided treatment for her. The bullets are said to have been fired by a jealous married woman.

Flushing's Fire Loss.

Fire broke out in Flushing at midnight Thursday, which destroyed the double store building of Niles & Kennedy, dealers in general merchandise. The furniture and undertaking establishment of Cameron & Shannon, adjoining, was completely gutted. The People's bank building was also damaged several hundred dollars and the plate glass fronts of the postoffice and J. B. French's store were completely wrecked. Niles & Kennedy sustain a loss of $7,500, covered by insurance; F. A. Niles, $3,000, no insurance; Cameron & Shannon, $2,500.

Roasted the Mayor.

The whole city of St. Joseph, apparently, went Sunday to the funeral of John Wells, the hack driver murdered by the proprietor of a tough hotel. Rev. D. F. French offered prayer and dined for help in the city, where crime has been rampant. Rev. Dr. H. S. Roblee, who preached the sermon, roasted the city government, laying the blame for the present conditions upon the mayor and the police department. Mayor Nelson C. Rice, who is a deacon of Dr. Roblee's church, was present, and occupied a conspicuous seat.

Committed Suicide.

The 21-year-old daughter, Mary, of Joseph Jablonski, of Beaver township, died in Cleveland last week. When the body was brought home for burial some one asked for the cause of death. The father did not know, but an inquiry at the Cleveland police headquarters brought the answer that Mary had committed suicide with carbolic acid. Her parents are at a loss to account for the act.

In Place of Yapple.

Judge Yapple, of Mendon, having declined the nomination for supreme judge, which was unanimously given by the recent Democratic state convention, the state central committee met at the Normandie Hotel, in Detroit, Monday night and selected James H. Pound, of Detroit, to fill the vacancy on the ticket.

School Teachers' Union.

An agitation has been started among Port Huron's school teachers for the organization of a union and then to make a demand on the city administration for an increase of 10 per cent in salary. Most of the teachers now employed received an increase at the beginning of the present school year, but they claim to still be the lowest paid staff of instructors of any city of like size in the state.

The ice in Saginaw bay is rapidly becoming worn away, yet the daring fishermen still ply their precarious trade on the immense ice floe extending from Bay Port on the east to Point Lookout on the west.

John Kubicki, of Bay City, aged 13, ran away from school and rather than be taken in charge by the truant officer, he jumped into the Saginaw river and swam among the chunks of ice to the other shore.

Mrs. Ida Berg, whose home is in Saginaw, Mich., committed suicide by taking carbolic acid at the home of her sister, Mrs. Jennie Cresser, in Chicago. Mrs. Berg was 45 years old and had been in ill health some time.

Because they didn't like the ration, two youths deserted from the navy a week ago last Thursday. They were Benet H. Moran, aged 18, and Walter A. Nash, aged 16, and both claiming Bay City as their home. They were caught in Detroit.

Rev. Fr. Van Stralen, of the Catholic parish in Sebewaing, has become violently insane, choking and otherwise abusing his aged housekeeper. Bishop Foley has ordered the demented priest to be removed to a retreat in Detroit, where he can receive proper treatment.

William Brown shot Richard Jackson and a woman named Mrs. Jessie Hood in Detroit on Tuesday. The two men, who are colored, had a fight over the woman, who is white. She will die, but it is thought Jackson will live. Brown fled to Pontiac, where he was arrested.

Glenwood, the little village to the north of Wyandotte, had a fire scare Friday morning, and for a time it looked as though a good part of the town would be destroyed. As it was, a damage of about $7,000 was recorded before the flames were finally extinguished.

Arthur S. Chisholm, the United States Express Company cashier, of Grand Rapids, who is charged with the embezzlement of $600, and said to have three wives, will be provided with a strong defense by wife No. 1, who says she will spend every cent she has for him.

To enforce recognition of their union, the officials of the Chicago Amalgamated Association of Sheet Metal Workers have ordered a strike on all work being done by Chicago contractors in Grand Rapids and Battle Creek, Mich., Jackson, Miss., Memphis and Cincinnati.

John Helhorst, charged with the murder of John Wilmerink, will be held for trial despite a long petition for his release, signed by many prominent citizens. At his preliminary examination in the Grand Rapids Police Court, he told the story of the shooting, and attempted to justify his plea of self defense.

The annual salary increases and allowances for postoffice clerks to take effect July 1 have been made public by the postoffice department. The offices at Adrian, Albion, Cheboygan, Fenon, Holland, St. Clair and Three Oaks each get an additional clerk at $500. Grand Rapids gets four at $600 and Bay City, Grand Haven and Jackson one each.

The dead body discovered in an unoccupied house just outside of Reed City, and at first supposed to be that of a negro has been positively identified as that of Ephraim Johnson, a foreman, unmarried, who disappeared several months ago.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE.

For some days to come the ways and means committee of the house will be among the busiest members of that body. Appropriations for over $8,000,000 have been asked in bills now before the house—something approaching $2,000,000 more than was expended last session. The committee will commence printing under pressure. One of the first things it will do will be to determine just what expenses are to be included under the maintenance fund of so much per day for each patient at state institutions. The special expenses of these institutions offer some very interesting items. Here are quotations from some vouchers for the Michigan Soldiers' Home, which have come to hand for last year: October—Eight gallons whiskey, at $2.16; 28 gallons port wine, $27.46; one-half barrel Chase's Bourbon whiskey, 1896 brand, $85.88; five gallons whiskey, at $2.10. A September item reads: "Five gallons Melwood whiskey, $10. Several dozen bottles of 'Silver Foam beer,' for the hot months of July and August come to $8.50.

The house ways and means committee asked Auditor-General Powers to submit for inspection some of the bills that come in from state institutions, and these are samples: Vouchers from the Ioula institutions, dated January 15, and at various times for a week before that time have in them one item of $9 for six dozen red roses; $3 for white ones; $2 for carnations. There are other floral items, bringing the total up to $29.25. Then there was a long string of table delicacies, among which was an item of $15.60 for squabs; $2.50 for blue points; $2.50 for branched cherries, etc. The committee has also bills for $19.50 worth of ice cream and $12.50 worth of flowers from the Adrian school for girls. There are bills for candy from the school for the blind. A more serious matter, so far as amounts of money is concerned, will be brought to the attention of the committee. This relates to the making of improvements by boards of control out of money supposed to be used for the maintenance of inmates.

After treating Representative Gruenel in the most discourteous manner, the house committee on city corporations announced that it would report, without recommendation, his bill providing for the submission of a constitutional amendment to enable cities to acquire and operate street railways. The question will at least get a respectful hearing on the floor of the house. It may even pass as it stands, or, at any rate, so amended as to confer power on the city of Detroit. If the Detroit United railway is opposed to the passage of the measure its opposition will probably be centered in the senate.

Senator Vaughan, secretary of the Republican Press association, says the meeting of that body, which is to be held in Lansing next week, was really planned last fall, it being decided that the association should hold a meeting during the legislative session in order that pending legislation might be discussed. "I suppose," said he, "that a primary election bill will be considered among other matters, but I think that most of the editors in the body are in favor of primary reform. There is nothing in this talk about the association being used to work up sentiment against the direct voting plan."

The senate has passed the so called Bingham bill, amending the law for organization of corporations, so that concerns may incorporate with no capital paid in. All attempts to amend were defeated. Bingham says of his bill: "This bill is far from being as liberal as the New Jersey laws, but we do not want to liberalize our laws to a certain extent and bring in the wild-cat companies which are taking advantage of the partnership association limited act. This will compel them to make public their affairs which at present they are not compelled to do."

The senate state affairs committee has set the appropriation for the Michigan exhibit to the St. Louis world's fair just about $100,000 higher than the house will sanction. The committee decided to put into the blank space in the bill introduced by Senator Sleeper the figures $125,000 and to report the bill out to the senate at once with the recommendation that it pass.

Senator Bowen has started a fight against Gov. Bliss' plan to have a separate home for epileptics established at Saginaw. Bowen comes from Lapeer, where the present home for feeble-minded and epileptics is located, and he contends that the proper thing to do is to enlarge his home institution.

The house and senate met for 15 minutes Monday night. The former listened to something about a bill of minor importance. In the upper house (Goodell) offered a resolution to send the committee on elections to Detroit to investigate the working of the new Wayne primary bill. The motion was lost, 5 to 3.

It looks as if the house of representatives intends to stand by primary election reform—the rural members included. A careful poll shows that more than half of the house is ready to vote for a bill to provide for the whole reform.

Rep. Vandercook says his proposition to the house state affairs committee for the removal of the state capital to Grand Rapids was merely a "joke" and not intended to be seriously considered.

E. V. Chisom, secretary of the senate is taking an active interest in the bill appropriating $125,000 for the world's fair exhibit, and it is said that if the salary of the secretary of the proposed Michigan commission is up to Chisom's standard he will try to get the snap.

The house, at the request of Gov. Bliss and ex-Senator Earle, listened for 10 minutes to Highway Commissioner James H. MacDonald, of Conneaut, on the subject of good roads.

The senate confirmed Gov. Bliss' appointment of Gen. William Hartman, of Fort Huron, as a member of the soldiers' home board.

THE NEWS OF THE WORLD.

The Treaty Ratified.

Without making a single change in it the senate on Tuesday ratified the Panama canal treaty by a vote of 73 to 5. The senators voting against the treaty were Morgan and Pettus, of Alabama; Daniel and Martin, of Virginia; and Teller, of Colorado. The treaty was signed at Washington on January 22, 1903. It was negotiated by Secretary Hay on the part of the United States, and Thos. Herran, charge d'affaires, on the part of Colombia, who signed the document. On January 23 it was sent to the president and by him sent to the senate on the same date. It was referred to the committee on foreign relations on the same day and reported back on February 3. The treaty was discussed at some length during the last congress. On March 5, the day the special session of the senate convened, the treaty was again referred to the committee on foreign relations and on March 9 was again reported to the senate, since which time it has been under discussion. Neither in committee nor by the senate was the treaty amended, and it was ratified as first negotiated.

The Burdick Inquest.

That Arthur R. Pennell, or his hired assassin, killed Edwin L. Burdick, of Buffalo, was the statement Charles S. Parke, Burdick's business partner, made on the witness stand at the inquest. That both Burdick and Pennell had reached a state of mind so desperate that murder was the logical outcome of their strained relations was emphasized by Mrs. Seth T. Paine and Mr. Parke. Mrs. Paine, in her testimony, revealed the fact that Burdick had thought of murder himself. She said that when he was talking of Pennell's breaking up his home, Burdick said: "Who would there be to take care of my children if I had a murder on my hands?" Mrs. Paine further stated that Burdick blamed Pennell for Mrs. Burdick's wrong-doing more than he did his wife. Mr. Parke related Burdick's being threatened by Pennell and Pennell's threats to kill both Mrs. Burdick and himself if Burdick insisted on proceeding with the divorce case.

An Aged Thief.

An alleged professional shoplifter, aged 63 years, who gives her name as Mary Frazier, but whose real name from papers and letters found is thought to be Mrs. E. L. Morn, was captured by officers in Van Wert, O., Saturday evening with four trunks full of goods, claimed to be stolen. Officers have only commenced to investigate and have found several hundred dollars in Canadian and American paper money. It is asserted that she has visited Ludington, Hart, Shelby, Montague, Grand Haven, Holland, St. Joseph, Niles, Cassopolis, Schoolcraft, Vicksburg, Battle Creek, Belleure, Charlotte, Vermontville, Hastings, Middleville, Caledonia, Grand Rapids, Elm Dale, Lake Odessa, Grand Ledge, Portland, Ionia, Sheridan, Stanton, Edmore, Vestaburg, and some thirty other towns in Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana and a few in Ohio. Among the many articles already listed is some cutlery from Standart Brothers, Detroit.

Robbers Got the Booty.

A bold robbery took place Sunday night near Cridersville, Ohio. Fourteen masked men entered the house of Mrs. Jacob Reischneider, an aged and wealthy widow, and took possession. With Mrs. Reischneider as a living her granddaughter, Blanche, aged 12 years; George James and his wife and their son, Jos. James, a young man. At the muzzle of a shotgun the little girl was made to tell where the money was to be found. They secured $1,200 in cash and $7,000 worth of notes and securities from an old chest and proceeded to ransack the house. They took possession of all the jewelry and silverware and secured a month's wages from the elder James. They blindfolded all but the little girl. After dividing the money some of the robbers left at midnight and the others stayed until 2 o'clock helping themselves to wine and eatables.

The Czar Grows Liberal.

The czar has issued a decree providing for freedom of religion throughout his dominions, establishing to some degree local self government and making other concessions to the village committees. Among the measures outlined by the czar for the attainment of these ends is reform of the rural laws. The system of administration in the various governments and districts is to be examined by representatives of the different localities concerned, with the view of effecting the necessary amendments. Measures are also to be taken to relieve the peasantry of the burdens of forced labor.

The Largest Ever.

Admiralty Secretary Arnold-Forster introduced the navy estimates for 1906-07, providing for an expenditure of $179,154,205 in the house of commons Monday. In the course of an explanatory statement the secretary remarked that the estimates were unparalleled in peace or war, and as a private citizen he could not help regretting that the great competition and rivalry in the matter of naval armaments continued "to make this enormous and unproductive expenditure necessary."

Venezuela Pays.

The Venezuelan government accepts without reserve the protocols signed by Minister Bowen and the representatives of the powers at Washington. Proof of this was shown Tuesday in the payment to the German minister of the first installment amounting to about $70,000 of the $300,000 pledged to Germany in satisfaction of that country's claims of honor.

President Roosevelt says he is not rich enough to send his sons to a school in Strasbourg, Germany, attended only by sons of rich Americans.

Ten Dollars for a Murderer.

The police believe that the arrest of George Hossey, the negro "herb doctor," who was committed to prison with Mrs. Catharine Danz, on the charge of causing the death of the woman's husband 18 months ago by poison, will lead to the disclosure of one of the greatest criminal sensations since the Holmes case. Mrs. Danz is said to be only one of a host of women whose object in consulting the "doctor" was not legitimate. The authorities say they expect to trace a number of deaths to Hossey's poisons. A private detective told of three visits he had paid to the herb doctor and declared that Hossey had entered into an agreement with him to kill a woman, whom the private detective, so he said, desired to "rest rid of." The price for the job was to be $10 and was to be paid in installments.

The Bill Was Needed.

Gov. Bliss signed the bill of Rep. Francis of Alpena, which the physicians of the legislature fought, giving boards of supervisors more power on auditing claims of physicians for the care of indigent ill with contagious diseases. Previously the boards of supervisors had no alternative but to allow the claims at the amounts approved by the local boards of health, but under the new act, which takes immediate effect, the supervisors can do some cutting, if they think it justified.

The Cuban Congress.

The Cuban senate and house have taken a recess for three weeks. The senate passed a resolution extending the time for the ratification of the naval stations bill to March 31, and passed a house bill authorizing the executive to proceed to the collection of internal revenue taxes with which the soldiers pay loan is to be paid. The senate also adopted a bill authorizing the president to designate the dimensions of the Cuban flag and change the light blue in it to navy blue.

Another Railroad Smashup.

Smash-ups in the railroad yards here are not infrequent. The latest and a serious one occurred Monday evening shortly after eight o'clock. A freight from Detroit was coming around the Y onto the main track going south preparatory to taking a siding in the upper yards. It had gotten about half way out, when another freight pulling out under a heavy pressure of steam, in the same direction, crashed into the side of the first train, demolishing ten or twelve cars and damaging the engine, which was left standing across Main street. The engineer and fireman of the second freight jumped and escaped injury. They claimed they did not see the other train pulling onto the main track from the Y, as the night was dark and foggy. Street cars were unable to get across the track until next morning and transfers were made from both sides.

WILES OF A CONSUL

HOW ONE MAN "CINCHED" DIPLOMATIC JOB.

Secret of His Long Tenure in South America Told After His Death—Had Little Trouble in Driving Away Competitors.

A man from South America tells this story of an American consul down there who died recently after having retained possession of his office through administration after administration.

"Brown," he said, "held his post through sunshine and through rain, through Republican and Democratic administrations, through revolutions and through invasions, through yellow fever and through everything else on the South American calendar. Not that he was a particularly bright and shining light in the diplomatic game, either, and not that he worked particularly hard at Washington to hold his job, for he just plodded along in an even way and didn't appear to care a rap for his place."

"I learned the secret of his system some years ago and now that he is dead it won't do any harm to talk about it."

"The place where he was consul was one of the choicest yellow fever hotspots anywhere on the globe. All the troublesome applicants for consular jobs who went to Washington were assigned to that place when anything else served to put them off."

"When Brown learned that he was practically proof against the old yellow and the rum habit he hatched up a little scheme to stay there."

"When a new applicant came down to take the post Brown always greeted him with the utmost cordiality, saying that he was glad to get out of the blasted old hole and that nothing on earth could tickle him more than to take the very first steamer back to civilization. His next words were always an offer to take the new man around the town and show him a few of the ropes of the place."

"In the course of this trip they always got to the graveyard sooner or later and then Brown always became deeply affected. Going around he pointed out this and that tombstone, accompanying his gestures with something like this:

"Do you see that grave over there? Well, that's poor old Robinson's. He came down here full of hopes of a good beginning in a brilliant career and, poor fellow, he was carried away at almost the beginning of it."

"If my memory does not fail me he came here on the 7th and died on the 11th. Oh, yes, he was the consul here. I followed him, in fact."

"That over there is old Carey's grave. He was a very popular fellow, too. Yellow jack got him. I think he had hardly landed before he became ill. His folks were terribly cut up over it. Can't blame them."

"And Paisley's grave is somewhere in here. I don't see it just now, but it's here just the same. Yes, another case of yellow jack."

"What's the matter, old man? Not feeling well? Oh, it's nothing, I dare say. A fellow is, often taken that way, when he has been here a little while."

"The thing invariably ended in the newcomer's taking the next steamer back and in Brown blowing the gang off at his joint. It was at the final scene of one of these occasions that the poor old chap was taken off, and he met one of the most tragic deaths in view of the circumstances, that I ever heard of."

"He had ordered the first bottle from the servant when it came. You see, it was always a celebration for him because all he had to do after the newcomer sailed back was to ask for the job over again."

"Here's prosperity and long life to the new consul," he said, raising his glass and waving his hand at the departing steamer.

"Then he suddenly grew pale and tottered for a moment."

"Guess there is a new man coming this time," he said, regaining his composure. The old yellow jack has hit the consul at last."

"And he died within forty-eight hours."

WOMAN IN NEW ROLE

Runs Elevator in New York's Most Fashionable Hotel—She Has Charge of the Most Perfectly Appointed "Lift" in the World.

WOMAN elevator conductor! She is the most talked of feature of the Waldorf-Astoria, New York's most gorgeous hotel. She is a suggestion of the twentieth century. Mary Yorke is her name, and Mary now enjoys the distinction of being the only woman in the world who runs an elevator.

This beautiful little lift is all white and gold, and mirrors are fitted up in such fetching style that one regrets when one gets into it that this attractive box does not run ten stories instead of one.

Yes, this new elevator in the big hostelry on Fifth avenue, Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets, is unquestionably the very daintiest and most perfectly appointed lift ever built, and the girl who runs it is quite in keeping with her surroundings. Mary Yorke is pretty, petite and always charming and respectful. She wears a white frock and snowy apron, with a cute little white cap setting jauntily on her raven hair. So Mary and her elevator are in as perfect keeping as are nearly all the other accessories in the Waldorf-Astoria.

The new elevator is exclusively for woman. That is why it is so perfectly appointed, and that is why a woman conducts it.

The elevator all white and gold runs from the main floor to the mezzanine floor above, where it opens into a room as white as snow and as light as day, with great plate glass mirrors from floor to ceiling. This is a woman's dressing room, and no fairy princess could have a more lovely place in which to make her toilet. Every accessory to the feminine toilet known in modern art is to be found in this room. There are wall and hand mirrors, dainty white dressing tables supplied with brushes, combs, manicure sets, powder, rouge, perfumes and what not. There are great white washstands cut out of solid blocks of marble, big enough almost for a full bath and supplied with the most costly of soaps, nail brushes, finger towels and lotions for chapped hands.

Opening out of this twentieth century dressing room is a luxurious resting room for women, furnished with comfortable lounging chairs, divans car of white and gold, and if she doesn't get tips, then the other girls in the big hotel are greatly mistaken. Since she started upon her new duties all the other girls in the house have become ambitious to run elevators, and there's no telling where the innovation will lead. Of course, with the introduction by the Waldorf-Astoria, the new St. Regis, the Knickerbocker and the New Brunswick will have to have their elevators even more gorgeous than that of the Waldorf-Astoria, and within a few years it is likely the great

The Grand Stairway. hotels in all parts of the country will have girls who act the part of Mary Yorke.

Mr. Hilliard says the car of white and gold and its attendant equipment cost more than $10,000. That's a lot of money to spend for an elevator that only runs one story, but money is never considered when there's a question of adding to the attractiveness of a great hotel. The Waldorf-Astoria is one of the leading show places of the city, has more than a thousand visitors a day—visitors who go there simply to see what the hotel is like, to explore the kitchen, the palm room, the parlors, the dining rooms, the galleries and every nook and cranny of the immense establishment. To these thousands the car of white and gold and the elevator girl will be something they never will be satisfied without seeing, and the name and fame of Mary Yorke will be carried far and wide.

STORIES TOLD OF LAWYERS.

Good Tales Culled From English Illustrated Magazine.

Some interesting anecdotes and gossip, new and old, of the law courts are given in the English Illustrated Magazine. The writer of the article, Mr. A. J. Hughes, was once present in court when a juror who opened the ball by saying: "This case, my lord, really lies in a nutshell," received the reply, "You crack it then." There have been times when clever witnesses have got the better of counsel in a skirmish of words. When the farmer was asked where he got his knowledge of the mare's age from, he said: "From the mare's own mouth, sir." Irish lawyers are generally endowed by Dame Nature with quick wits. Among them all, perhaps, Curran held the palm for lightness and vivacity. When someone told him that no student should be called to the bar who did not possess a landed estate of his own, he retorted: "How many acres make a wiseacre?" But it was a Scotsman, appropriately enough Lord Brougham, who, seeing his horses take fright, yelled to the coachman, "Drive into something cheap!"

A Lively Corpse. Living in a small town in Pennsylvania is an old colored man, who is somewhat of a local preacher. On such occasions as he is called on to speak he can usually be relied on to make use of certain stereotyped expressions, which, however, are not always applicable. Not long ago he officiated at a funeral service, and after drawing some deductions in characteristic language from the solemn event, he pointed toward the body of the deceased and said impressively: "Here, brethren, we have before us a livin' witness and a standin' monument of the frailty of human hopes."

Into a Tunnel. When Senator Depew was well under way with his anti-statehood speech he encountered Senator Bate of Tennessee, who went off on an extended discussion of some topic suggested by what the New Yorker had said. Mr. Depew waited and waited, and at last sat down.

"The president of the New York Central," suggested a facetious Senator in an undertone, which was, nevertheless, audible all around, "has run into a dark tunnel."—Washington Post.

Ships Under British Flag. At the end of 1901 the number of sailing vessels flying the British flag was 7,227; of steamers there were 8,147. Leaving sailing vessels out of account, it is estimated by various well-informed officials of shipowners' societies that out of these 8,147 steamers about 6,947 were tramps and only 1,200 were liners.

Ohio's Traveling Libraries. From the state library of Ohio 303 traveling libraries, containing 22,021 books, were sent out last year at a cost of $41,227.

The Ills of Women Act upon the Nerves like a Firebrand.

The relation of woman's nerves and generative organs is very close; consequently nine tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Herein we prove conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will quickly relieve all this trouble.

Details of a Severe Case Cured in Eau Claire, Wis. "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been ailing from female trouble for the past five years. About a month ago I was taken with nervous prostration, accompanied at certain times before menstruation with fearful headaches. I read one of your books, and finding many testimonials of the beneficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, experienced by lady sufferers, I commenced its use and am happy to state that after using a few bottles I feel like a new woman, aches and pains all gone. "I am recommending your medicine to many of my friends, and I assure you that you have my hearty thanks for your valuable preparation which has done so much good. I trust all suffering women will use your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. MINNIE TRETT, 620 First Ave., Eau Claire, Wis. (May 28, 1901).

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it soothes, strengthens, heals and tones up the delicate female organism. It is a positive cure for all kinds of female complaints; that bearing down feeling, backache, displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and is invaluable during the change of life, all of which may help to cause nervous prostration.

Read what Mrs. Day says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I will write you a few lines to let you know of the benefit I have received from taking your remedies. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, backache, sick headache, painful menstruation, pain in the stomach after eating, and constipation. I often thought I would lose my mind. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was soon feeling like a new woman. I cannot praise it too highly. It does all that it is recommended to do, and more. "I hope that every one who suffers as I did will give Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies a trial."—Mrs. MARIE DAY, Eleanora, Pa. (March 25, 1901.)

Another Case of Nervous Prostration Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Allow me to express to you the benefit I have derived from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I started to take it I was on the verge of nervous prostration. Could not sleep nights, and I suffered dreadfully from indigestion and headache. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful medicine, and began its use, which immediately restored my health. "I can heartily recommend it to all suffering women."—Mrs. BERTHA E. DEBBINS, 25½ Lapidge St., San Francisco, Cal. (May 21, 1901.)

Here, when a woman comes in from the tiresome round of shopping, calling or of other duties, she can find the absolute quiet and rest so much needed, and after which she can make a toilet which will make her look as fresh as a new blown rose.

Mr. Hilliard, general manager of the Waldorf-Astoria, in speaking of this new little white realm, fitted up for women, said: "It is as the one feature we sadly needed here. When the hotel was built we were quite a distance from the shopping districts, and we did not have so very many coming in to luncheons and afternoon teas. But for the past year or two so many shops have been established in this neighborhood that we are practically in the shopping center, and every day more and more women coming in from suburban homes as well as those living way uptown make this hotel their headquarters, so that really we felt that we must do something to make our women patrons more comfortable, hence those rooms were built and fitted up, and now we wonder how the women ever got on without them. "Of course, the one problem which confronted us was the running of the elevator leading to these rooms. It did not seem at all the thing to put a man at this job. So we decided to put one of the housemaids on. It required a girl with a steady head and one who had some knowledge of mechanical construction. These requirements were found in Mary Yorke and she certainly runs that elevator just as well as a man could.

There isn't another elevator conductor in New York who gets as much pay as the pretty girl who directs the

Mrs. Allen Jackson, of Farmer City, Ill., writes: "My seven months old baby was troubled a great deal with his stomach and bowels. I had tried numerous remedies with no good results, until the baby last month had a severe attack of colic. A friend recommended Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I procured a few bottles and gave the contents to the baby according to directions, after which there was a decided improvement in his condition. He has been giving his Syrup Pepsin for about a month, with very satisfactory results. His stomach and bowels being in good healthy condition and his former weight regained."

DOG IS DYING OF GRIEF.

Has Lost His Blind Master and is Starving to Death.

What has become of "Blind Harry" is he on another protracted spree, or is he lying dead somewhere, or has he abandoned his only friend and left town? Whatever has happened to him is killing his only friend in the world. King, the intelligent black spaniel that has been his guard and dependence for many years. King has spent most of his time for three days and nights at the police station, waiting for his master, and he will not touch food. He is grieving himself to death. "Blind Harry," with his black curly dog and his long cane and his wheezy old hand-organ, have been known to all Denver for years. The dog would lead the old man to his favorite corners, lead him to the restaurant, take him home, or take him to the city jail, or any other of his haunts at bidding. Apparently he understood spoken language as well as a human being, and certainly he obeyed better than most. Only a few months ago some practical joker took off his collar and stole the dog away when his master was drunk. For days the dog was frantic, while the master was quickly arrested and sent to the county jail. There was a most affecting scene when the dog was admitted to his master's yard in the jail.

Of late months many of "Blind Harry's" nights have been spent in the city jail, and when the dog is lost from him, this is always the base of his operations until he is found. For three days the dog has haunted the jail, watching for his master, and going out on long search expeditions, always returning tired and dragged, and ever refusing to touch food. The kindly jailer gives him shelter and tries to feed him, but it is his opinion that unless "Blind Harry" is found soon the dog will die of grief.—Denver Post.

WHY HE KNEW NEW YORK.

Home Being Down in the State, He Had Learned Facts.

"Certainly," said the man, arising from his seat in Morningstar park, "that huge arch is the cathedral of St. John the Divine; the large white building to the right is St. Luke's hospital; a little further over you will find Columbia University, and still further on to the north is Grant's tomb. From there you will obtain a fine view of the beginning of the Palisades."

"Thank goodness," interrupted the woman making the inquiry, and who evidently came out of the west, judging from the sombrero worn jauntily on the side of her shapely head.

"Thank goodness, we've found a man who knows something about the town he lives in. Why, I've asked questions of every person we've met, and not one of them has given me an intelligent answer. Only half an hour ago I asked a policeman down in Central park, in front of Cleopatra's needle, how high it was, and he said he didn't know. Then I asked him what he was there for, and he told me to keep people from running away with it."

"Madam," said the listening man, "probably the reason I am able to afford you the information you sought is because I come from Schoharie county, 200 miles up the state."—New York Tribune.

HE SAW THE APPLICATION.

Why Elliot Danforth Resigned Position at Head of Parade.

Elliot Danforth, New York politician, lawyer and society man, tells a good story on himself. Mr. Danforth, who has long been in the public eye, has a summer home at Baitbridge, Chenango county, where he is very popular. Recently there was a Sunday school festival, and Mr. Danforth was prevailed upon to accept the post of grand marshal. He attired himself in blue, borrowed a chapeau, scarlet sash, and spurs, and engaged the most spirited horse in the village.

More than 2,000 children were in the parade, and Mr. Danforth, prouder than Lucifer, rode at the head, bowing and smiling to hundreds. As the grove was neared the musical director ordered the children to sing "Hold the Fort." Mr. Danforth enjoyed it at the outset, but when the second verse began he blanched. The lines in that are:

"See the mighty host advancing,
Satan leading on."
"Stop!" shouted Danforth, and calling an aide he said:

"This my place; I'll go down the line to see what's doing."

Endeavor to Be Godlike.

The essential elements of spiritual-mindedness are to concede to yourself all the powers and purposes of God, and then to actualize them by demonstrating God in your life.—Rev. E. H. Mason.

Prayer.

Prayer is so mighty an instrument that an one ever thoroughly mastered in its keys. They sweep along the infinite scale of man's wants and God's goodness.

New Connecticut Representative.

Connecticut will have an additional representative in congress under the new apportionment, and as the state has not been redistricted it will be elected on the general state ticket as a congressman at large.

God Works Spiritually.

The living and the true God resorts solely to influence in getting men to know and love him. God is spirit, he works spiritually, never carnally.—Prof. C. P. Foggess.

WATER IN THE DESERT.

Wise Provision of Nature for Storing the Liquid.

Many a traveler in desert lands, when in danger of dying from thirst, has been saved by the plant known as the water or fishhook cactus.

During the moist season it stores up a large quantity of water for the subsequent dry one, when all the ground is parched with heat and only channels filled with stones mark the course of former rivulets. So well has this cactus provided for the safety of its precious liquid that it is no easy task to obtain it. The exterior skin is more impenetrable than the toughest leather, and besides it is protected with long, wiry spines curved into hooks; at the end, yet so strong and springy that if a large rock be thrown against them they remain uninjured.

If the spines be burned off, one may, by long and tedious effort, cut through the rind with a stout knife; otherwise nothing but an ax will enable him to get at the interior of this well-armed plant.

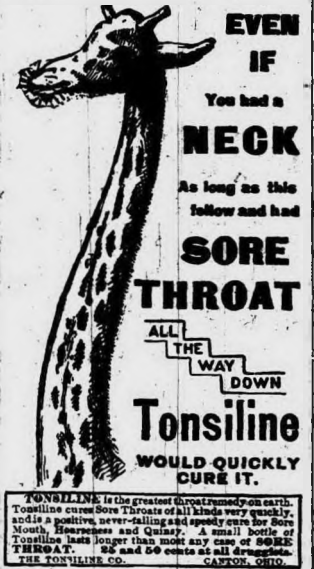

When the top is removed and a hollow made by scooping out some of the soft inner part it immediately fills with water—cool and refreshing, though a blistering sun may have been beating upon the tough skin above it all day. The water when first obtained has a whitish or smoky tint, but when settled is as clear as crystal.—New York Herald.

HER SENSES ARE VERY ACUTE

Remarkable Ability of a Blind and Wealthy Young Girl.

In the city of Philadelphia there is a wealthy young woman who, although blind, can perform all the duties of life almost as thoroughly as those who can see. When traveling as a young girl she contracted Roman fever in Italy and lost her sight. She is the only living member of her immediate family now and occupies a handsome house in the residence part of the city. She has a companion who seldom leaves her, but the ability she shows for conducting her own affairs in spite of her misfortune is wonderful. Her remaining senses are marvelously acute and it seems to people who are not well acquainted with her almost uncanny her cognizance of everything going on around her. On one occasion recently, when her companion was away at dinner time, the butler, either by intent or carelessness failed to place flowers on the dinner table, according to his custom. If he expected to evade the duty he was mistaken. The mistress of the house had hardly entered the dining room when she discovered the omission. "James," she said, "you have forgotten the flowers to-night."

EVIL EFFECTS OF ALCOHOL.

The judges appointed to examine the essays upon Alcohol, written by the pupils of our High School, at the request of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, awarded the highest markings to the following one, written by Miss Eva Adams:

Alcohol promises comfort; but instead of the comfort which health and strength give it only increases the miseries which it promises to relieve, and brings with it poverty, ill-health, loss of friends and premature death. A weary man takes an alcoholic drink to cure a general discomfort. Instantly he feels better and he thinks he has found a never-failing remedy, but soon he discovers that his pain is aggravated instead of cured, and more alcohol is needed to still his misery. Alcohol relieves hunger by putting an end to the power of the stomach to digest food, it stops pain by benumbing the nerves for a time, it makes a man think he is rich and leaves him poorer than before, it produces a momentary feeling of warmth and leaves the user colder, and it makes a man imagine he is strong while he is actually weaker. All the organs of the body are harmed by the habitual use of alcohol. Dr. Carpenter says that changes take place in the corpuscles and fibrin of the blood when not more than one part of alcohol is taken to five hundred of blood. This shows that the weakest wines are unsafe since none of them contain less than three per cent of alcohol.

The brain in a normal condition is so soft that it is necessary to immerse it in alcohol several weeks to harden it sufficiently for careful dissection. The brain of a drunkard is already so hardened, and a celebrated anatomist once said he could tell a drunkard's brain by the sense of touch alone. In a post-mortem examination in London so strong an odor of alcohol came from the brain that a match was applied to it and it caught afire.

In its normal state the stomach is lined with tiny, invisible blood vessels. The stomach of the moderate drinker shows these blood vessels dilated and the peptic glands congested. The stomach of an habitual drinker is covered with ulcers. This condition may exist unknown to the person, because the stomach has lost all its normal sensibility. In the stomach of a person suffering from delirium tremens all the functions are suspended and the mucous membrane will be found to be black with mortification.

As regards his mind, a drunkard is an insane man; and if drunkenness is separated the insanity may become permanent. Thirty per cent of the lunacy among men in France has been caused by drink.

"Hob-nailed liver" is the common name for a drunkard's liver. The organ is rendered shrunken, and totally useless. Drunkards are subject to dropsy, diabetes and fatty degeneration of the liver, as the direct cause of the diseased condition of that organ.

Instead of curing consumption, alcohol produces that disease in a most fatal type. Sir B. W. Richardson made the statement that a consumptive who was a user of alcohol, steadily and rapidly went down to his death in spite of the best treatment.

Alcohol is the most pronounced enemy of long life. Statistics show that the mortality of intemperate persons is five hundred per cent greater than that of temperate persons. This statement is based on the tables used by the insurance companies.

Dr. S. G. Howe attributed one-half the cases of idiocy in Massachusetts to intemperance; this is true in England, Sweden, and probably most European countries.

The use of alcohol in cookery and candies is a common way in which the appetite for it is cultivated. Then in this way it produces a fascination from which the unfortunate victims never escape. Children have been found partially intoxicated as the result of eating a great deal of candy containing brandy.

"Like the arch deceiver himself, alcohol, one of the devil's most efficient agents for destroying the happiness of man, gains the confidence of its victims by making great promises, which it never fulfills."

Children Poisoned.

Foley's Honey and Tar is a safe and certain remedy for coughs, croup and lung trouble, and is the only prominent cough medicine that contains no opiate or other poisons. Hubbell's Pharmacy.
