VOLUME XVI, NO 8.

PLYMOUTH, MICH., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 16 1903.

WHOLE NO. 841.

DID YOU EVER

hurriedly attempt to write and discover all at once that the point of your pencil was broken off, borrow your friend's keen-edged knife to sharpen it with, have the knife slip through the pencil from end to end and sink deep into your finger, hike away to the doctor's office for the purpose of having your finger dressed, only to find that he had just gone into the country, dejectedly return to your home faint from the loss of blood, and to the realization that you had ruined your pencil, lost your friend's knife, likewise his friendship, and that you had at least been thinking all the unprintable words both within and without the English vocabulary? Did it ever happen to you?

Well, we shall be pleased to relieve you of the burden of such difficulties in future. Of course, you bought your pencil of us, consequently we feel in a measure responsible for your misfortune and cordially invite you to use our new Webster Automatic Pencil Sharpener.

Come in and use it as often as you like; we bought it for your special benefit.

NEWBURG.

Every one says the ladies' aid fair was a grand success in all ways, especially the most to eat for the money they ever got. There was a good crowd eating from 5 to 9 o'clock. Our young ladies deserve great credit for the way they waited on the tables and served to guests. Your correspondent had one of the biggest gasoline lights ever seen here on the front of the hall. Z. Woodworth furnished the lumber and fuel.

Mr. and Mrs. Baird of Jackson, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Smith and Mrs. Forrier of Detroit were at the fair.
Mark Joy returned from Kansas Friday last.

Rev. Oliver of Denton was at the fair shaking hands with old friends, who are always glad to greet him.

Miss Josie Sackett, of the Logan school Detroit, was at the fair and attended the teachers' meeting next day at Plymouth.

Mrs. Passage Lyon and children, Misses Ethel and Lillie Passage of Detroit were at the fair and visited friends here.

Mrs. A. Beveridge and daughter of Detroit were at the fair; and they and Mr. Beveridge visited Mrs. Hoisington and other friends Sunday.

Mrs. Jarlette Smith of Romulus visited friends here this week.

Miss Katie Fisk shook hands with old friends at the fair.

One of Tom Davy's cows got out and got in the way of the street car Saturday night and was killed. The car was thrown off the track, it having on board a number of passengers.

Mrs. E. Pettibone of Ypsilanti Monday, and Harry Place and lady friend Sunday, visited James King and wife.

Mrs. D. Dickerson and Nettie visited Mr. D. Sunday, who is at work at Lakeville.

Orrin Marsh and wife of Detroit were here Sunday.

Mrs. Barrows now occupies part of Mrs. Philport's house.

Rev. Stephens gave us a fine sermon Sunday on the subject "Woman's Place and Power in Religion."

P. W. Voorhies of Plymouth took charge of the Epworth League meeting Sunday evening and gave an interesting talk on the subject "Put First Things First." There was a large attendance and the meetings are growing in interest each time.

Mrs. Wales, who was found dead in her bed in Detroit last Thursday, was a sister of C. Vanblaircum and a niece of W. Ostrander. The funeral was held in our church Monday by Rev. Stephens and the remains interred in the cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller and children of Brighton visited Mrs. Harwood last week.

Chas. Millard was elected chorister at church by the music committee Monday evening.

Archie Woodworth returned with the soldiers from Kentucky.

A Love Letter.

Would not interest you if you're looking for a guaranteed Salve for sores, burns or piles. Otto Dodd, of Ponder, Mo., writes: "I suffered with an ugly sore for a year, but a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me. It's the best salve on earth. 25c at Hubbell's drug store."

LIVONIA CENTER.

John Cort, Sr., was taken seriously ill last Saturday night and the family was sent for, also a physician. He rallied some during the day, but was worse again at night. His daughter is staying with him this week and Dr. Keayon is attending him. Latest report is that he remains about the same.

Mrs. Joe McEachran and Mrs. Frank Peck visited at Palmer Chilson's Monday afternoon.

Lunette McClure of Detroit is taking a trip to Washington and several other eastern cities.

Anna McClumpha and friend, Will Simmons, of Northville, Sundayed at Joe McEachran's.

George Rattenbury and wife were on our streets Sunday.

The latest is that Jesse Chilson has rented his farm to a man from Sanilac and will build a house as soon as possible so as to have his man here this winter.

A young heir arrived at John Myers last week. Best wishes to the family.

Bronchitis for Twenty Years.

Mrs. Minerva Smith, of Danville, Ill., writes: "I had bronchitis for twenty years and never got relief until I used Foley's Kidney and Urinary Pills. It is a sure cure." Hubbell's Pharmacy.

PERRINSVILLE.

Mrs. Kipp has been entertaining her daughter, Mrs. Sewell, of Toronto, Can. A surprise party was given Arthur Hanchett last Monday evening. There was a large attendance and all spent an enjoyable evening.

Dr. Hodges intends leaving this place and going to Brighton. We are sorry to see him go and wish him success in his new field of work.

Foster Hanchett, wife and son, of Plymouth visited with E. L. Parmalee and family last Tuesday.

Mrs. Wilkinson passed away suddenly at the home of her son, J. Edwards, last Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Sherman visited with the former's parents last Sunday afternoon.

Wm. Oliver and family visited with L. J. Meldrum and wife last Sunday.

The shop which is occupied by Wm. Beyer is being moved to Liberty street.

A Dozen Times a Night.

Owen Dunn, of Benton Ferry, W. Va., writes: "I have had kidney and bladder trouble for years, and it became so bad that I was obliged to get up at least a dozen times a night. I never received any permanent benefit from any medicine until I tried Foley's Kidney Cure. After using two bottles, I am cured." Hubbell's Pharmacy.

MURRAY'S CORNERS.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were—President, George Mitchell, Birmingham; vice president, Theo. Quinby, Detroit; secretary, Fred Elmer, Monroe; treasurer, T. M. Sheriff, Trenton. Some fifty members were present. In the evening the editors were the guests of the Detroit Free Press at the James Whitecomb Riley entertainment.

Confessions of a Priest.

Rev. Jno. S. Cox, of Wake, Ark., writes: "For 12 years I suffered from yellow jaundice. I consulted a number of physicians and tried all sorts of medicines, but got no relief. Then I began the use of Electric Bitters and feel that I am now cured of a disease that had me in its grasp for twelve years." If you want a reliable medicine for liver and kidney trouble, stomach disorder or general debility, get Electric Bitters. It's guaranteed by Hubbell's Pharmacy. 50c.

BONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Little doses every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have.

Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads.

Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it.

In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

THE MICHIGAN NEWS

Showing What's Doing in All Sections of the State

Wants to Be Let Out.

Frank C. Andrews, the Detroit financier, in an interview the other day said: "My friends have helped me to hold on to considerable property, and if I were out I could pay 85 cents on every dollar in a short time, and in a little while could pay up every cent I owe. I have many friends. They come to see me and are trying to help me. I will do the best I can. If I am let out I can testify in a dozen cases now pending and can do much to help matters. Even in the prison here I have been able, through the aid of friends, to hold on to much good property. What I could have done had I been left to work out the matter can be seen plainly. I did nothing criminal. After I have paid dollar for dollar I am square. If it was something I could not make reparation for I might feel worse. As it is, I know I can make good in time."

Rescued the Family.

John H. Hoskin, a deputy marshal from San Francisco, secured the release of one of the families from the tribe of Flying Rollers in Benton Harbor and left this afternoon for San Francisco. The family consists of R. C. Addis, his wife and three children. On their arrival last spring their money was turned over to "Benjamin and Mary," and Addis was put out on a farm to work. For months Hoskin had been searching for his sister, Mrs. Addis, and by mere chance was informed that she was at Benton Harbor. Addis was a well-to-do druggist in San Francisco on a salary of $18 per week and owned some property, and while renting one of his flats to a member of this sect he had become influenced with their religion.

A Love Scarp.

Martin King and Geo. Kramp, young farmers living north of Owosso, fought for the hand of their lady love Monday night. They came together in Henderson and went at each other like tigers. On the main street of Henderson, surrounded by a crowd of eager and appreciative spectators, they fought for more than half an hour. Kramp was the weaker; he was badly pounded and forced to leave the field to his adversary. Constable Crane was the only officer in town, and his attempts to stop the fight were frustrated by a number of young fellows who pulled him away. Miss Hinn, disgusted at the uproar made over her, sees her way clear to dismissing both her adorers. She says she will have nothing to do with either.

The Governor's Leniency.

Gov. Bliss has commuted the sentence of Milton M. Wolfe, who has been out on parole for a year, so that it expires at once. Wolfe was sent from Chippewa county two years ago for four years in Marquette for larceny. The governor has issued paroles to Daniel McCabe, sent from Van Buren county in 1897 for 10 years in Jackson for criminal assault; and to George E. Webster, of Chippewa county, sent to Marquette in 1902 for two and a half years for assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

The Blockade of the Flats.

The steamer John N. Glidden, sunk in St. Clair Flats canal by the barge Magna, of the steel trust fleet, will be a total loss and may be blown up by the government as an obstruction to navigation. The work started by the Magna Friday morning when she crashed through the bow of the boat and carried away everything back almost to the pilot house and nine feet down from the main deck was completed by six other boats which struck the wreck in passing and practically broke her to pieces.

Shipping Blocked.

A steamer blockade that will mean the loss of many thousands of dollars at the end of the marine season is on at the Flats canal, one of the three difficult points in the line of great lakes traffic. All traffic between upper and lower lakes of vessels loaded to draw more than 10-12 feet must be suspended, but for that which squeezes through a 75-foot passage-way. The huge bulk of the steamer John N. Glidden reposes peacefully in the narrow ship canal, prohibiting practically all passage.

Smallpox Still Working.

Two Bay City boarding houses, one the Park City Hotel, with 23 inmates, and the other a private place with 15 persons, are quarantined. Six cases of smallpox have been found in the latter place, and two in the former. In spite of every effort made by the board of health and the contract physicians, new cases spring up as soon as others are disposed of. With an expense account of about $35,000 in two years on account of smallpox, the supervisors are making all kinds of bows for economy.

Killed in a Runaway.

William Moreland, a wealthy farmer, living about four miles from Caro, was killed by his team running away and throwing him out of the wagon. He was one of the jurors on the first civil case tried in justice court in this township in 1893, was about 65 years old, and was an uncle of D. W. H. Moreland, the deposed commissioner of public works, Detroit. A neighbor who was riding with him was also thrown out, but not seriously injured.

The Montague Failure.

Charles Montague of Caro, filed a petition Monday morning to be discharged from bankruptcy. Jacob Zetka, however, said he had a claim of $600 against Montague, and as several other creditors wanted to examine him further, Judge Swain withheld the discharge for 15 days.

Reconvert township, Macquinn county.

It is stated that this season will clean up the timber operations in Macquinn county.

On Murder Bent.

Albert, the 23-year-old son of Thomas Goffe, a well-to-do farmer of Mosherville, while insane shot a dog on the stoop of the residence of Scott Winfield Monday evening. When the latter, who is 50 years old, came to the stoop to investigate, Goffe shot him with the other barrel, the charge taking effect in the face and arm. The surgeon who attended the wounded man believes he will live. Albert was captured at the breakfast table in his father's home Tuesday. He had abandoned his gun while eating and the officers were given a signal. They dashed in and fell on him, but he fought desperately before being overpowered and manacled. His mother was present and her condition excited great pity. The officers were bruised in the struggle. He said that there were forty people in Mosherville whom he wished to kill. Scott Winfield, his victim, is better today.

Apples Will Be High.

Before December 1, 30,000 barrels of apples will be laid away in Detroit storage houses for use later in the winter, according to reports now rife. The apples that the commission men are salting away for future sale to grocers are the high-grade ones, Baldwins, greenings, and northern spies, nominally quoted now at from $2.50 to $2.75 a barrel. A storage charge of 50 cents a barrel for the season is made, with the privilege of withdrawing the apples from storage at any time. Later in the winter these fancy grades will bring from $4.50 to $5.50 a barrel, so that the commission men make a nice profit by holding them back. Apples are reported to be unusually plentiful in Michigan this year, and half a dozen of the largest commission houses in Detroit who supply the trade have contracted with the farmers to take their whole crop. As fast as they come in from the country the poorer grades, quoted at from $1.25 to $1.50 a barrel, are sold to the retailers, and the better ones added to the supply in the storage houses.

The U. of M. Rush.

The assault on the police Friday night by a number of Ann Arbor students after the annual rush, has aroused the authorities and they are determined to put an end to the rowdyism. Ray Baker, of Adrian, who is alleged by Officer Collins to be the student who struck Officer Isbell over the head with a club, was arraigned in justice court on the serious charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than the crime of murder. Examination was set for Oct. 14, and he was released on $500 bail. E. Merriman, of Dayton, O.; Henry Cook, of Owosso; Fred Balsesser, of Niles, and James W. Rice, of Dayton, the other four students arrested, were arraigned under the ordinance for disturbing the peace and each were fined $15 and $5 costs, besides paying $7 each for carrying away stuff from the Y. M. C. A. building for a loutre.

Wayne County Taxes.

The state tax commission in making an increase of about $30,000,000 in the assessment of Wayne county, boosted the real estate of the Solvay Process Co., on the 100 acres on which most of the buildings are erected, from $445,000 to $1,204,000, and on another piece of property from $68,000 to $115,000. A reduction was made in the personal assessment of the company of from $350,000 to $230,000. Other large increases that were made are: Conrad Chford estate, $8,900 to $36,140; Consolidated Rolling Stock Co., real estate $14,000 to $21,500, personal $10,000 to $18,000; Michigan Carbon Works, real estate $200,000 to $405,000, personal $120,000 to $217,000; Thos. Forman Co., Ltd., real estate $35,000 to $53,700, personal $25,000 to $36,400; Fischer Hughes Gelatine Co., real estate $7,000 to $30,000, personal $20,000 to $23,000.

Olds Wants the Flats.

S. S. Olds, of Lansing, has made a demand upon State Land Commissioner Willey for a deed to the property of the Lake St. Clair Fishing and Shooting club and other Flats lands to which he was recently decreed to be entitled by the supreme court. Olds holds certain swamp land scrip, upon which he claims the lands. Commissioner Willey declined to issue the deeds until he could confer with the attorney-general. The lands claimed by Olds do not constitute all the valuable properties at the Flats, but a large proportion of them. The title to other lands is now being tried out in the supreme court.

Typhoid Raging.

Lansing physicians are treating approximately 75 cases of typhoid fever, according to statements obtained from them in a canvass yesterday, though it is rumored that there are really 90 cases. The city physician's reports to the state board of health have never shown the existence of more than 20 cases, but it is known that there have been many cases that were not reported to him, and a strong effort has been made to hide the fact that the disease was raging. Lansing doctors have no cases in the country, but in proportion to the population it is believed that the disease is just as widespread there as in this city.

Hundreds of men are idle in Amasa, Iron county.

Capen's peat factory has been closed down immediately. Cedar operators at Cedar River are importing men to work in the woods this winter.

Shawawan county is to have a normal training school, which will probably be located at Owosso.

Gov. Bliss is in poor health. He narrowly escaped an attack of pneumonia a few days ago, and has been suffering from a severe cold ever since. He was at his office in Lansing Thursday, however.

Through the scarcity of houses at the Soo a builders' exchange has been organized, including 50 prominent business men, to engage contractors and builders and to otherwise look after building interests.

Michigan ranks seventh among the states in the production of belting and hose, ninth in bicycles, eighth in blank books, eleventh in boots and shoes, fourth in cigar boxes, ninth in fancy paper boxes, seventh in brass castings, eighth in brassware, tenth in bakery goods, twelfth in bricks and eighth in brooms.

Two Springvale, Emmet county, cows got hold of some dynamite which had been left in a field and ate it. The stuff did not explode but caused their death, and the owner, fearing to sell their carcasses, for fear of explosion, buried them deep enough to escape notice with a plow.

Deputy Attorney-General Chase has gone to Washington to settle the case of the United States against the state of Michigan over the falls from St. Mary's dam. The question of interest on the $60,000, which it has already been decided the state must pay the government, remains to be settled.

NEWS OF THE WORLD

A Brief Chronicle of All Important Happenings

The New-Jersey Floods.

Over $2,000,000 loss has been caused by the floods in Paterson, N. J., which are now receding. At least 500 families are homeless and thousands of mill employees will be idle for some time as a result of flooding of the factories. A score of buildings have tumbled into the water and many more will be untenable.

Passaic is a greater sufferer from the flood than even Paterson. Twenty mills in Passaic alone are under water, and 8,000 workers are out of employment, while 10,000 persons have left their homes. Eight hundred houses are flooded to the eaves and 1,000 acres are covered with water from a depth of a few inches to 20 feet. Several million feet of lumber have been carried down to Newark bay. The Erie tracks are suspended in the air, the 20-foot embankment having been washed away. Twenty three-story frame houses have gone floating down the Passaic river, and as far as can be estimated the loss of city property, real estate and buildings, is $2,000,000.

The town of Wallington is still under water, and several hundred persons are taking refuge in the public schools. At Duttonville, 50 or more houses were washed from their foundations and many overturned and wrecked.

The town of Trenton has suffered severely. Scores of bridges have been washed away throughout this territory. The town of Ramapo is reported to be almost in ruins and many people are homeless.

War Is Threatened.

There has been no change for the better in the situation in the far east. If anything the outlook is more warlike, and the news which reaches England indicates a condition that is most equivalent to open war. The most significant point in the day's news is to the effect that Japan is either landing or preparing to land troops in Korea. If this proves to be correct, it is almost equivalent to a declaration of war. As if in reply to this news comes the information that a powerful Russian fleet has left Port Arthur under sealed orders, presumably for Korean waters, to prevent this landing. There is no doubt the Japanese government will be backed up by a unanimous public opinion, no matter to what lengths she may go in opposing Russian aggression.

Turkish Atrocities.

A Dublin correspondent says: A young Turkish officer, Zefonia Bey, who had been married only a month, was sent to the village of Bitoli by Stula Pasha. He soon became disgusted with the uncontrolled brutality of the soldiers. His troop took 20 children, aged between 6 months and 7 years, hung their heads downwards, arranged according to their size. While their parents were compelled to stand near, the soldiers began shooting the children. Zefonia Bey suddenly uttered a terrible cry, drew his sword and ran amuck among the soldiers, who fled. Zefonia killed two and wounded many of his soldiers before he was overpowered. He was sent to Constantinople, where he is now in a lunatic asylum.

GEN. GRANT'S HOME AT GALENA, ILL., MAY BECOME PROPERTY OF THE CITY

Gen. U. S. Grant's former home at Galena, Ill., is soon likely to become the property of that city. Gen. Frederick D. Grant has written that he desires to convey the house to the city, to be used for some public purpose, and the aldermen will speedily act in the matter. This was the first home used by Gen. Grant after the breaking out of the civil war, and he spent much time there from August, 1865, until he went to the white house as president of the United States. It was from the porch of this dwelling that the general first uttered the historic words: "Let us have peace." It was Samuel Hughlett, father of the man from whom Gen. Grant purchased the house, who lent Grant the money to purchase his colonel's uniform.

Dowdlets Off for New York.

Over 3,000 "Restoration crusaders" from Zion City, the town founded by John Alexander Dowle, "Elijah II," started for New York Wednesday to attempt to proselytize the metropolis. Mothers who count themselves among the faithful left their little ones in care of Deaconess Irish, who has been appointed by Dowle to look after them. This parting of the little ones from the mothers is only one illustration showing how deeply in earnest are Dowle and his church in the New York mission. A hundred others might be cited. Many are going who cannot afford the expense, but they have cheerfully made sacrifices. Men and women have sold their household goods, parted with their horses and buggies, stunted themselves in various ways to give obedience to the command of their leader. It is to be remembered that to his followers Dowle is really Elijah the Restorer. His wish is law among those who believe in him.

Threaten to Cause a Panic.

"Organized capital, through its anti- boycott and employers' associations, must stop its raid on the savings of the trades unions or the union men will withdraw $300,000,000 from the banks." Such is the statement made by Thomas I. Kidd, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, after an investigation of the damage suits which the American Anti-Boycott association and Employers' association have filed against the trade unions. Kidd intimated that it is within the power of union labor to throw the country into a financial panic by taking down from circulation the $300,000,000 which he says labor controls. In this connection it may be stated that the money stock of the country approximates $2,275,000,000.

Kentuckians in Union Army. "You never could tell," said the Kentucky Major, "what would happen in the army. Early in 1861, the Kentuckians who wanted to enlist in the Union army drifted in three directions..."

Neither Woodruff nor any officer with him when he rode into the enemy's lines was at fault, but all were held prisoners while officers on duty were winning reputations...

Meantime, another Second Kentucky regiment had been organized under Col. Speed S. Fry in Eastern Kentucky, and another First Kentucky regiment under Bramlette. The First and Second Kentucky regiments organized at Camp Clay were deep in the West Virginia campaign before the question of title was settled...

"While in Libby, he noticed that the Confederate or city surgeons who came to the officers' quarters passed the guards on a green ribbon tied on the left arm. Many of these surgeons were not in uniform, and one day when one of them dropped his green ribbon badge Hurd picked it up, tied it on his own arm, and putting on an authoritative air, marched past the guards and out in the streets of Richmond, making good his escape and returning to his regiment with the prestige of daring adventure."

The Fourth Kentucky started out in independent fashion. It was the only regiment in the service in which the companies were arranged in alphabetical order from right to left, company A coming on the right and company K on the left, whereas, under the rule, the numbering companies were A and B. This departure seemed to me at the time pure contumaciousness, but Gen. Thomas approved the arrangement and it stood to the end. It was the Fourth Kentucky infantry, organized in June, 1864, rescued their friends of the Fourth Kentucky cavalry at Lafayette, Ga.

Col. Watkins of the Fourth cavalry was at Lafayette with 250 men of the Fourth, Sixth and Seventh Kentucky cavalry, when he was attacked by Gen. Pillow with a force of two or three thousand men. The fight was a town fight from the first and remarkable because of the means employed in defense. As soon as the firing began the Kentuckians took possession of the courthouse and jail and barricaded the doors and windows with sacks of corn. From behind these corn barricades they beat Pillow's men off until the Fourth Kentucky infantry, well mounted, sent Pillow's men scurrying away in what their disgusted general called a panic. This is the only case, I believe, in which Kentuckians fought behind corn breastworks."

"There were a good many Kentuckians," said the captain, "in the First Kentucky infantry, but it was mainly made up of young Buckeyes eager to get to the front, and on its return for muster out, in 1864, the regiment was welcomed home, not at Louisville or Lexington, but at Cincinnati. In fact, the boys, all through the service were in the habit of calling themselves the First Cincinnati Orphans. From first to last the two Camp Clay regiments were brigaded together, just as were the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh regiments of Kentucky cavalry. But on election days the First Kentucky infantry voted for Ohio officers and when discharged the men scattered to homes in Ohio."

"After a long service in Virginia, Tennessee, Mississippi and Georgia the regiment came at the very last to service under a Kentuckian, Gen. Hobson, in Kentucky. While awaiting discharge at Newport barracks, the regiment was called out against Morgan on his last raid in Kentucky. The men had been given a short leave of absence, and few were in barracks when Hobson's order came. The colonel inserted a notice in the Cincinnati papers outlining briefly the situation and ordering his men to report for duty next morning. That little advertisement was like a bugle call, and the men came pouring into camp eager for one last scrap with the Kentuckian who had caused them so much trouble."

"Gen. William Nelson organized the Third, Fourth and Seventh regiments of Kentucky infantry, but when he came to command a division of Buell's army not one of them served in his command. Instead the First and Second and Kentucky regiments were brought from West Virginia and served to the last in the division organized by Nelson, fighting under him at Shiloh and under John M. Palmer (a Kentuckian by birth) at Stone River and Chickamauga."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

"Speaking of the Eleventh Ohio," said a veteran, "the boys used to tell the year after the war a good dog story. This particular dog was called Curly, and was with the regiment longer than any other adopted by the Eleventh. Unlike other dogs, he never ran away from skirmish or battle, but stuck close to the company in every engagement. At Chickamauga he refused to leave our wounded, and was taken prisoner. When after the battle the wounded were removed under a flag of truce, Curly broke through the rebel lines and joined his company in Chattanooga."

"Strangely enough, Curly escaped without a wound until we were on our way home for muster out. He got off the cars at Bowling Green and broke his leg. Before the situation was understood the train started, and Curly, left behind wounded, was reported lost. The boys who had been wounded at Chickamauga, and who remembered Curly's devotion and loyalty on that occasion, could not give him up. They made such a stir about it that some months later the soldiers stationed at Bowling Green shipped Curly to Louisville, and from there he was sent to Osborne, Ohio, where he was cared for by a member of the regiment until old age carried him off."

Veterans Watch the Flag. "I wonder who is dead now," said an old Grand Army man, as he passed Court square the other day and glanced at the Memorial building to note that the flag had been placed at half mast. The veteran had scarcely come in sight of the building when he had intuitively paused to glance at the flagstaff.

Inquiry developed the fact, according to my informant, that the Grand Army veterans never pass by the building without glancing up to see the position of the flag. In this way many of them who are not readers of the newspapers keep track of those of their number who have fought the last battle. The survivors aim to keep close track of those who are ill and the flag tells them the rest of the story.—Springfield (Mass.) News.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1903.

COUNTY TEACHERS' MEETING.

Plymouth had quite a number of visitors last Saturday and they seemed to be quite pleased with Plymouth and its people.

The Wayne Co. Teachers' Association was called to order in the high school room and opened with the singing of national songs.

Rev. Stovall pronounced the invocation and the children of the primary grades sang two of their songs. Miss Hughes, of Waterford, told how Modern methods might be used in a district school so well that she was warmly praised for her effort by Prof. Hoyt, of the State Normal College. Mr. Gunn, of Cherry Hill, opened the discussion of the foregoing paper and others followed. The little ones sang again and then Mrs. Jemais Voorhis presented Thrift-Teaching in the Public Schools, in which she called attention to the fact that vicious tastes and expenditures are often the result of the careless spending of pennies in childhood. Supt. Gee, of Wayne, leading the discussion of this paper, stated that the heavy withdrawals from the accounts of the school savings bank at the opening of the school year and at Christmas time showed that the system was teaching self reliance and unselfishness to those who saved their pennies.

Supt. Cody, of Delray, called attention to the good being done among the newsboys of Detroit by means of savings bank accounts. Com'r Yost, of Trenton, told of a system of savings banks used in Trenton.

The sixth grade favored the teachers with a song and Prof. C. O. Hoyt spoke for 35 minutes on the Aim of Education. Among other things he said that the ability to read, write and figure did not of themselves evidence an education; that if this ability alone was imparted to the child he might better remain uneducated. Self-activity is the key to the child's life and it is the duty of the teacher to arouse it and direct it. The child must be taught to be an altruist; he must be taught to be self-reliant. He gave a beautiful comparison between the work of the teacher and the building of a great cathedral.

Adjourning to the lower hall the teachers to the number of one hundred partook of a splendid dinner prepared by the ladies of the M. E. church and served by the boys and girls of the Epworth League.

After the dinner Sec'y Hill, of the Plymouth School Board, in a very happy little talk welcomed the teachers to Plymouth and with words of appreciation and good cheer encouraged them to go on in the good work in which they were engaged.

Supt. Hornberger gave some interesting comparisons between life in the northern part of the State and in Wayne county from the teachers' standpoint. Miss Alice Mott pleased every one by her clever handling of the toast "The Freshman Teacher." Mr. Arbury responded to the toast for the Veteran Teacher, and Prin. Lightbody, of Woodmere, gave an eloquent response to the toast "Educational Landmarks" and was followed by Prin. Merrill, of St. Clair Heights, who responded to "Perseverance," and showed by reference to history, past and present, that it is this quality that brings true success. Prof. Hoyt closed the banquet by an inspiring talk on "True Education."

Returning to the high school room, the program was continued by the 6th grade singing another song. Mrs. Kern of Northville then presented her paper on the "Highest Motive in the Education of Children." She urged the teachers to cultivate the acquaintance of the parents of their pupils and to try to convince the parents that the teacher is interested in making noble men and women of their children. She also said it was better to save one bad boy than to refine many good ones. She also urges the teachers to get their pupils to be self-governing. The Girls' Glee Club favored the teachers with a song, "The Fairy Land Waltz."

Asst. Supt. Fredericks, of Detroit then presented a paper on Living Language, viz: Technical Grammar. He stated that he wished to combat the idea that Arithmetic was the all important subject. He showed that the place of greatest importance belonged to Language, not copied or reproduced, but the natural expression of the child. He also called attention to the wonderful power of the influence of good expression upon the language of children and the suggestion of children to express themselves when left to complete an unfinished story. The Girls' Glee Club again favored the audience with a sacred hymn and were heartily encored.

Owing to the lateness of the hour the paper prepared by Prin. Harris, of Highland Park, was postponed and Prof. Hoyt was called upon for the last address upon the program. His subject was the Model Recitation and he gave a very interesting account of a recitation that he had witnessed in Germany. He expressed his belief that when the teachers of America have reached the standard of the model which he described, that two years might be cut off from the course of the elementary school. He said the teacher must arouse the interest and love of his pupils and must then present the material of the recitation in a scientific way. The teacher must study the mind of the child and know his pupils before he can do much for them in the way of teaching.

The High School Chorus, assisted by several of last year's students, then sang two songs which were well received. Miss McDonald received great praise for the drill and preparation which the pupils and students showed throughout the musical numbers of the program.

Comr. Yost called attention to the work of the State Library Commission and had the literature of the Commission distributed among the teachers. He also called attention to the request of Mr. Carl Wagner for permission to get statistics in regard to the eye sight of pupils in the schools of the county.

The usual resolutions of thanks were offered by Gabriel Plechey and were adopted, the Association then adjourned.

J. E. MEALLEY.

Is Meeting with Success.

Little June Pelton, who numbers everybody in Plymouth as her friend, is meeting with great success on the stage. She is traveling with the Robert Hilliard Co. and will appear in Detroit about Dec. 1st. The Mail has been given several press clippings which we are pleased to produce:

New York World: Robert Hilliard's effort at Keith's is a gem of its kind. It is seldom that anything so good is to be found on the vaudeville stage. Mr. Hilliard has not made the mistake of spoiling a good piece of work by poor support. Little June Pelton is a distinctly pleasing feature of the sketch, lacking the faults of voice and manner which usually makes these child actors so tiresomely depressing.

Boston Post: Mr. Hilliard's new play is probably the best of its kind ever given in vaudeville. The piece received a most enthusiastic endorsement from two large audiences, the curtain having to be raised half a dozen times. The juvenile, June Pelton, is a bright and attractive child.

Providence Journal: The headlines at Keith's this week is Robert Hilliard, who is ably assisted by the winsome little June Pelton.

Washington Star: Robert Hilliard and a capable company in a new play, "Number 973," are the chief attraction at Chase's New Grand this week. It is far and away the most pretentious sketch that has been put into vaudeville for several years, its chief charm being the fact that all the people connected with the piece are actors in the real sense of the word. June Pelton as Margery easily shared honors with the star.

The Melba Concert.

The concert to be given by Mme. Melba and her company of associate artists at the Detroit Light Guard Armory on Wednesday evening of next week promises to be a gala event and the interest already shown in it indicates that pleasant memories are associated with the earlier appearances of this great prima donna in Michigan. The very excellent program promised has increased the desire to hear Mme. Melba and the other artists of the organization. Many advance orders have been received at the Grinnell Bros. music store, where the box office is now open. Manager Charles A. Ellis, of Boston, who is in charge of the Melba tour, has so planned that Mme. Melba will reach Detroit in ample time to have a thorough rest before the concert. Concert lovers residing outside of Detroit should make early application for seats to the Detroit manager, Mrs. Charlotte Greatrix, care of Grinnell Bros., as there will undoubtedly be a great rush for seats.

The net receipts to the government from the Plymouth postoffice last year were $3,754, on a $5,681 total business. The net receipts of the government from the Wyandotte office were $321 on a total business of $5,420. The question comes up why should there be this difference as between the two places, amount of business considered? The village of Vassar out of a total business of $5,484 turns into the government but $2,654. In proportion to Plymouth the amount turned in should be pretty near the same. The fact appears to be that politics and political pulls accomplish a great deal in the way of extra clerk allowances, carriers, etc. Perhaps Congressman Townsend can do something for the Plymouth people in the way of carriers or a sub-station. We are entitled to something.

Ten Thousand Churches

In the United States have used the Longman & Martinez Pure Paints. Every church will be given a liberal quantity whenever they paint. Don't pay $1.50 a gallon for linseed oil (worth 80 cents) which you do when you buy this paint in a can with a paint label on it. 8 and 5 make 14, therefore when you want fourteen gallons of paint, buy you want eight gallons of L. & M., and mix six gallons of pure linseed oil with it. You need only four gallons of L. & M. Paint and three gallons of oil mixed together to paint a good sized house. Houses painted with these paints never grow shabby, even after 18 years. These celebrated paints are sold by Huston & Co., Plymouth.

Treasurer Frisbee has levied on the big pile of ties at the D., P. & N. power-house to obtain his tax dues from the company. Supt. Richmond informs us the ties do not belong to the D., P. & N., but to the Michigan Traction Co. The railroad paid the tax on the ties last year and we presume the treasurer took it for granted they belonged to the company. Mr. Richmond claims the money so paid was refunded to the railroad by the traction company. There seems to be a misunderstanding that ought to be enquired into.

After fourteen years of continuous service as driver of the bus to and from trains, Eli Nowland on Saturday evening relinquished the reins to a successor. Eli found his health would no longer permit him to continue being exposed to all kinds of weather and he has secured employment with the Markham Mfg. Co. By his many courtesies to the public, he has made among them as well as our own townspeople, many friends who will miss his familiar figure as they pass to and from the depot. For the present Mr. Robinson is driving the bus himself.

The other numbers on the course will be Ralph Parlette, humorous lecturer; Otterbein Male Quartette, Katherine Eggleston in "When Knighthood was in Flower," and Dr. John P. D. John, lecturer. The committee have endeavored to secure exceptional talent for the course and hope for large patronage. Course tickets will be $1.00, with 25c extra for reserved seats for the season. The number of reserved seat tickets sold to one person will be limited to six.

From Detroit papers we are led to believe that Plymouth will not see a new electric line direct to Detroit—not right away. The statement is made that there is a great probability of the Ypsilanti and Boland lines being merged into one system and that the deal is likely to go through very soon. Operations are practically suspended on the Boland line east of Chelsea and if the lines combine the track may be torn up. But there is no loss but what there may be also some gain. If the two lines combine, we may be practically assured of having some decent cars to ride in and cars may be run through to Detroit without change. The road-bed would also be put in proper shape for fast and comfortable running. Any change would be welcomed to the present dilapidated cars.

There was a large attendance at the funeral of Francis Hodge last Friday morning. There were present from out of town Dr. Scott Hodge, Hetty Hodge, and Mrs. L. E. Severance, from Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Carpenter and Mr. and Mrs. John Hodge of Pontiac; Mrs. Pettingill, of Petoskey; Mr. and Mrs. James Wilber and Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Wilber, of Pontiac; John E. Morse, of Northville.

Dr. W. J. Cook was married to Miss Clara Saunders last Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride in Macon, Rev. A. F. White performing the ceremony. The Doctor and his wife arrived here Saturday evening and will temporarily reside with Mr. and Mrs. Lee, Nowland. While his approaching marriage was known by his more intimate friends, the exact date was known to but a limited number, hence there was more or less surprise when the facts became known. The Mail extends cordial congratulations, in unison with the many other friends.

Not much actual business was done by the council Monday evening. The street committee asked and was granted further time to investigate the proposed cement walk on the north side of Ann Arbor street. There was some more "obewing" over the water works ordinance as pertaining to plumbers, and it is probable something may be done along that line later, there being an impression that it should be the duty of the superintendent of water works to report on work done. This might require a practical plumber to fill the place.

THAT GIRL of JOHNSON'S

By JEAN KATE LUDLUM.
Author of "A Girl's Memoir," Etc.

Entered According to Act of Congress in the Year 1920 by Street & Smith, in the Office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington, D. C.

"Mrs. Allen was in an adjoining room waiting for Mrs. Green. Mrs. Green was a woman one could love at a glance and love always; her sweet old face was flushed with pink, her brown eyes were soft and gentle, her silken white hair was brushed in waves back over her face and softened by a cap of lace; her voice was what a woman's voice should be, sweet but firm, low but perfectly modulated. She took Dolores right into her motherly heart, knowing every word of her history as far as her son knew, it knowing, she, without being told, that this was the girl her son loved. And the slender, silent girl seemed to melt toward her as toward no one else, though at that it was very bitter this having to accept hospitality from the mother of the man who had been so wronged. She had been forced to accept the hospitality of his mother—been forced with no excuse to place the acceptance out of the question; because there was no excuse she could offer when they took her father from the little home, leaving him carefully to the carriage waiting for him at the door, soft with cushions and pillows of down, to the station and the city some thirty miles below the town down the valley, with Doctors Dunwiddle and Gray and her uncle. They had everything that money could buy to gain comfort for him. A car was reserved for him on the train; everything absolutely was done that could be for his comfort. And then they had forced upon her the acceptance of this hospitality.

Mrs. Green was watching Dolores through the open doorway, leaning back on the cushioned sofa, her soft hands folded in her lap at this her "rest time" of the day, as she listened to Mrs. Allen's reading, her thoughts somehow tangled with that and the girl at the western window in the sunset lights and the boy of her heart—their only child, the best son, she often said, laughing, that a mother ever had.

Dora was partly in shadow though her face, too, caught the glow from above. The silence that had followed Dolores all her life seemed to fall like a veil around her, and even to her cousin for the time. The sunset lights faded and died; a mellow darkness enveloped the eastern slope of the mountain; the road that wound up its side was like a slender thread in the darkness. Suddenly the sound of a church bell smote the air, and Dolores started, turning from the window.

"What is it?" she asked of Dora, and Dora arose as she answered her:

"Church bells, Lorie," touching the hand nearest her shyly, as though she were half afraid. "This is Wednesday evening, and the bell is ringing for prayer meeting."

Dolores made no further remark on the subject. She knew nothing of prayer meetings or church bells; they had little interest for her; her thoughts were with her father, with young Green, with many things outside of this commonplace subject. She turned from the window, however, bringing her face into shadow. Mrs. Allen had ceased her reading, and was watching the girls with an inscrutable expression in her eyes. Had she failed to see all her planning? There seemed no difference in the friendship between this girl and the son of their host. And as she could not win Dora from her cousin she could at least make the stupid girl feel some of the bitterness she held in her own heart. That, at least, was worth planning for. She was so deeply buried in these thoughts that she started nervously when Mrs. Green called the girls in her soft, low voice.

"My dears," she said, "are you not ready to join us now? We have watched the picture you make until now we his. "Sit down. Where is Miss Johnson and her cousin? Dunwiddle wives that Johnson has had a relapse and can live but twenty-four hours. Dolores—Dolores must not know—yet. She can not get to him, and it would do no good."

A dead silence reigned through the rooms for a moment, then the lace curtains were drawn aside from the distant window, and Dolores came out; she had unconsciously pushed Dora's hands from her arm and stood alone with the darkness around her, the light of the faded sunset setting her in outline against the window. She crossed the room with no sign of haste, and stood before Mrs. Green.

"I must go to my father," she said. Her voice was perfectly even, but the words were slow, as her lips were still.

"God forgive me!" young Green exclaimed, under his breath, clenching his hands at his side. "Mother, why did you not tell me? Why did you not tell me?" turning fiercely upon Mrs. Allen in the darkness, in sudden distrust of her, her subtle words returning to him, losing half their meaning.

"We have him safe and sure."

Mrs. Green took the girl's hand in hers, and her voice was tender as a mother's when she spoke.

"Lorie," she said softly. She liked the tender name. "Lorie, my dear—"

Dolores interrupted her.

"I must go to my father," she repeated, in the same set voice, her eyes not moving from Mrs. Green's face.

"How can I go?"

"You cannot go," Mrs. Green said, gently, "dear; not just now; there is no way to go until midnight, then the train will be due here, and Charlie and Mrs. Allen will take you there."

"I must go to my father," she said, "at once. Tell me how to get there, please."

"There is no way but the train at midnight," he replied.

"But I must go now," she said, gravely, "if there is any way. Could we not go on horses? I must go."

He shook his head slowly. "Even starting now and taking the fastest horses in the stables we could get there only half an hour sooner, and the ride would be too exhausting for it to pay. We will wait, Miss Johnson, and take the train and be in time. I am sure we will be in time. Do not worry. I would get you there if it were possible, believe me—Dolores."

It was the old voice and the old tone of uttering the sad name. She gave no sign that she heard, but she heard. She said nothing as she turned from him, and went out of the room like one in a dream—went out of the room and up the stairs to her room, but the tone and the old low word followed her, like a note of tenderness, through her stony sorrow. And when she had gone young Green turned to his mother, like a boy, in his sore distress, and she, understanding, comforted him.

Then he left the room and Dora went up after Dolores, and the time dragged on tedious feet ere the time came for them to go to the train, when Dolores came down the wide staircase like a spirit in her trailing black dress and bonnet, her face more pallid than the light of the moon on the mountains. Dora was behind her, but she seemed to notice no one, but passed out on to the steps of the piazza where young Green and Mrs. Allen were waiting for her, as though she were moving machinery and not through any wish of her own.

"Such an unheard of thing, going off like this in the dead of night," Mrs. Allen said, sharply, showing her heart for the moment in her anger. "Thank heaven Dora isn't like her."

"Hush, Nurse Allen. If I were half as brave as Lorie I would be the proudest girl in the world. I could not do what she has for my father for all I love him as I do." And Dora's soft hand was on the woman's mouth, and her pleading face turned to her.

And these words cut of all the others seemed to reach Dolores' mind. She stood for a moment silently on the moonlit steps, her face immovable and pallid against the dead black of her gown, then she turned to Dora and cried in sudden fierceness born of pain—a pain her gentler cousin could never understand.

"And your father loves you, Dora—every one loves you. And no one—has ever—loved me."

CHAPTER XXI

Even in Death.

As they were whirled along through the night and the darkness young Green's mind was full of the one thought he must tell Dolores about the trial in court that afternoon, before they reached the station, and away from Mrs. Allen's hearing.

"Miss Johnson—Dolores," he said, presently. Her head was leaning against the back of the seat and her eyes were closed, but he was pretty certain she was not asleep. "Dolores, you remember the laming of my mare just after I first met you, and the excitement and indignation among us because of it, and our inability to catch the fellow, though suspicion pointed strongly in one direction?"

She roused with a sinking at heart when the young man spoke; she shook off every other thought and sat waiting for what might be coming upon her.

"Dolores," he said, and he tried to keep his voice steady, for her sake as well as his own; "we have been following up every clue, letting nothing slip us in this matter, as doubtless you have heard, no matter how trivial it might appear. Just before the deed was committed Hal and I disturbed two fellows in the act of stealing the mare. It was a dark night, and they had her out of the stable, her hoofs bound to deaden the sound, but she would whinny in her excitement and terror of the rough men, and that saved her. We were late home that evening from the house of a friend, and hearing Bess we went at once to the stables. One of the fellows we caught, but the other made good his escape.

"We tried our best to get the fellow we had to tell where his comrade was," the young man continued, his voice steady now and natural; "but he was silent as the grave; I give him credit for that. There is an honor among even these rough, lower men that one must respect. Then we waited for your father, as you know, depending considerably upon his evidence, for he knew the condition of the mare's hoofs when he shod her, and that there was nothing wrong there save a slight lameness from going too long without shoes over the rough road. But even without his evidence we have succeeded even better than I had dared hope."

Dolores did not move. She did not quite understand this that he was telling her. How could they succeed without her father, and how could they get the guilty man—

"It was only yesterday," Green went on, and there was a touch of pleasure in his voice that Dolores caught with a dull sense of dead pain. "It was only yesterday that we caught the fellow, but we have him safe and sure enough now."

Surely they had not—Dolores caught her breath, and her swift, terrified eyes flashed upon his startlingly. His own eyes darkened as though with troubled thought.

"The men we sent out in search of him found him yesterday, Dolores, not a stone's throw from where your father fell on the opposite mountain. The first fellow we have sentenced to five years for attempted horse stealing, and the other has had his trial to-day. It was sharp and swift, I assure you. Such a dastardly deed deserved the severest penalty the law allows."

Find Ancient Scotch Bridge.

Laborers engaged in digging a trench for the new drain along the White Sands recently disclosed an arch, pier and buttress of the Old Bridge, which tradition says was first erected at Deverogilla, though in 1620 it was reconstructed after having been wrecked by the flood. At a much later period, when the New Bridge was built and Buccleuch street opened up through the Castle Gardens, and the level of the old Sand Beds raised over which the river used to spread, some of the arches of the Old Bridge at the Damfrisk end were buried by the road being brought over them. It is one of these, the one next to the bridge as it is now seen, that was disclosed. It is in good preservation, except that the crown of the arch, which is only about a foot and a half below the level of the pavement, has been broken through. At nine feet down in the cutting for the drain the gravel of the old bed of the river was turned up.—The Scotsman.

Stop Slaughter of Elephants.

The British government is taking steps to stop the indiscriminate slaughter of elephants in its African possessions. Many thousands are killed every year for the sake of their ivory. The governors of the various colonies have been directed to prohibit by every means in their power the killing of the huge animals, as it is feared that unless prompt measures are taken elephants in Africa will soon become very scarce.

Valuable Old Coins.

George J. Laporte of Shrewsbury, Mass., has three old coins which he has picked out of the earth where he has been at work on the grading around the new Howe memorial library. The three coins are a penny made in 1817, and a half-dollar with the date of 1803 plainly stamped on it. The third piece of money is a three-cent silver piece badly mutilated and the date cannot be made out.

Egyptian Cigarettes.

In a recent German report on the Egyptian cigarette industry, it is stated that all the tobacco from which these cigarettes are made comes from Turkey, Macedonia, Smyrna and Greece.

LIVE STOCK

Before the Lambs Come.

A. G. Gamley, a Manitoba sheep breeder, says: The lamb crop, like any other, to be successful, must be prepared for beforehand; therefore, as the breeding season approaches the ewes ought to be getting in good condition, and it cannot be done easier than by giving them the run of the stubble fields after the grain is stacked. Before the breeding season is over the winter will have set in, and the flock will be in their winter quarters. No elaborate building is necessary. A hay rack running round the inside, with a small door in the center, just large enough for one sheep to go in and out when the big door is shut. It must be dry and entirely free from drafts for the sheep to do well; 30x60 feet will be ample accommodation for a hundred good sized ewes, until lambing time.

The winter feed should be wild hay, oat straw or oat sheaves. They may be allowed to run at the oat stack, if care is taken to remove the overhanging portions as they eat it away from under, to prevent the chaff from getting into their wool. The hay is fed in the rack inside, and only what they will eat up clean. Always clean out the racks before the next feeding. I have often heard it said that sheep won't drink water, but that is a mistake, they will drink large quantities of water at the right time and place. They won't drink out of a water hole on a cold day, but watered in their pens and in troughs, a hundred head will drink almost two barrels a day. I think good water is most important. Keep salt where they can get it at all times, summer and winter.

The hay, oat straw, and chaff will have brought the ewes along nicely till about six weeks before lambing, when, if the lambs are expected when the flock is in winter quarters, the ewes will require a little extra feeding, to stimulate the secretion of milk. Oat chop, or oat sheaves, one sheaf between four, the bands cut and scattered over the snow, will, along with their usual feed of hay, tone them up and bring them along. When they are let out to the sheaves, be sure and have the door wide open, to prevent them crushing their sides, which is dangerous to in-lamb ewes, being liable to kill lambs. As the time for the coming of the youngsters approaches, the shepherd will be making preparations. If the lambs are coming in May very little is necessary to be done, but if in March, and the sheep pen is not warm enough for new-born lambs, then warmer quarters must be provided. My plan is to have a shed built of poles, covered with straw and well banked with manure, into which turn the cattle, making the vacated stalls into temporary pens, by nailing a few boards across the ends.

Care of Breeding Animals.

Comparatively little attention is given to this very important subject, because it is not deemed necessary by the average farmer. Somehow or other the breeding animals, no matter what the class of stock, are expected to get along and rustle for themselves. They may even be expected to do hard work every day. In fact, as a rule, they are and especially is this true in the case of horses and cows. Very few people seem to consider the extra strain on the female of carrying young as a matter worthy of consideration, though the proper nutrition of the dam, as will be apparent later, has a very marked influence on the development of the foetus and its final growth and vigor. Do not overlook the fact that a certain amount of exercise and work is necessary for the female, as it aids digestion and tones up and keeps the whole system in good condition, which means the development of a strong, healthy foetus. Such breeding animals as cannot be worked should, therefore, be given the run of large, shaded pastures where they will be obliged to move around in order to secure the necessary supplies of food and thus obtain that gentle, stimulating exercise which is so essential for the health of the mother and young as well. The food provided in the pasture, besides being succulent, is nutritious and exerts a desirable physiological action on the system.—Prof. A. M. Soule.

The Angora in the United States.

The Angora industry has now been successfully growing in the United States for more than forty years. The early breeders worked hard with a few imported animals, and by crossing and intercrossing with the common Mexican goat of the West, the American Angora flocks have grown from nothing to their present number of about four hundred thousand animals. The obstacles which the early breeders had to overcome were appalling; weak men would have fallen by the wayside, but these sturdy pioneers saw that some day the Angora goat would be a power in the live stock interests of the United States, so they persevered, and you are beginning to feel the impetus of the growing movement. Our association now numbers 425 members, and the value of our flocks reaches into the millions, there being more than forty thousand Angoras on our association records. We have sufficient foundation stock to proceed with, thanks to the years of patient work of the Angora pioneers, and, as Secretary Wilson has said, "The Angora industry is an American institution which has come to stay."—W. C. Butler.

AGRICULTURE

The Crisis of Alfalfa.

Alfalfa (Lucerne) is frequently spoken of as a comparatively new plant, while, as a matter of fact, it is a very old plant, having been cultivated by the Greeks and Romans long before the Christian Era. Later it was introduced into South America, gradually travelling northward through New Mexico, Southern, Western and Northern states, and lastly into Canada, where the more it is known the better it is liked, said F. C. Elford, speaking at an Ontario farmers' institute. I think the chief objections to lucerne have been raised by persons, who, not knowing it, have tried it once or twice and failed. Those who have been growing it for years are its strongest advocates. In our experience of fifteen or sixteen years, the best results have been obtained by following a good crop, using as a nurse crop about one bushel of barley or oats per acre. We sow at least twenty pounds of good seed per acre. We put the seeder in front of the drill, thereby getting a deeper covering for the seed. Too much care can not be taken in the preparation of the seed bed. Twenty pounds is little enough; some sow thirty. The first winter and spring is the critical period of its history, and in order to get it safely past this danger point, it is better not to pasture after the nurse crop is taken off, but to allow the young clover to grow and form a mulch so as to protect its roots from the frost. The next season, though it may not look very promising at first, it will produce two or three crops of hay or fodder, and the stand will become thicker with each successive cutting. Considerable of the lack of success in growing lucerne has been the failure to comply with one or two minor, yet all important rules, viz., lack of sufficient previous preparation of the soil, too shallow covering of the seed, and close pasturing the first fall.

Sneezeweed.

This is a perennial plant growing to a height of 3 feet under favorable conditions. It is found in moist ground from Connecticut to Illinois and southward to the Gulf. The whole plant, especially the flower, is bitter and more or less acrid and pungent. Sheep, cattle and horses that are unfamiliar with the plant are often poisoned with it when driven to localities where it abounds. As a rule these animals avoid it, but it is claimed that they often develop a taste for it and are killed by eating it in large quantities. The poison exists principally in the flowers. The young plants appear to be only moderately dangerous. In the mature ones the amount of poison varies greatly in the same field.

Applying Manure Green.

John Parton, being asked the question whether it was better to apply manure green or well-rotted, replied: There is less loss in putting manure on land green than in rotting it before it is applied. Besides this, there is a special advantage that in putting the manure on in the winter time it is done at less expense. In rotting the manure under the most favorable conditions chemists tell us that it loses 50 per cent. However, when it is on the land in the green condition and the fermentation allowed to take place in the soil, as soon as any plant food is liberated it is in the place where it is most readily taken up. Besides this, the decay of manure in fermenting has a beneficial effect in warming up the soil. Experiments carefully conducted at Guelph, as to applying manure fresh and rotted, proved that the ordinary way of leaving manure exposed to the weather was wasteful, when protected from rain it was still subject to loss, and when put on fresh the best results were obtained.

Onions are of great antiquity and of universal cultivation in every civilized country, some nationalities preferring one variety and some another. The peculiar characteristic odor is due to a volatile organic compound containing sulphur.

Clover, soy beans, cow peas and alfalfa are all great nitrogen gatherers.

ALL TIRED OUT.

The weary, worn out, all-tired feelings come to everybody who taxes the kidneys. When the kidneys are overworked they fail to perform the duties nature has provided for them to do. When the kidneys fail dangerous diseases quickly follow, urinary disorders, diabetes, dropsy, rheumatism, Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney and bladder ills. Read the following case:

Veteran Soldier, Hubert, of 786 South Walnut Street, Urbana, Ill., says: "In the fall of 1899 after getting Doan's Kidney Pills at Cunningham Bros.' drug store in Champaign and taking a course of treatment I told the readers of the paper that they had relieved me of kidney trouble, disposed of a lame back with pain across my loins and beneath the shoulder blades. During the interval which had elapsed I have had occasion to resort to Doan's Kidney Pills when I noticed warnings of attack. On each and every occasion the results obtained were just as satisfactory as when the pills were first brought to my notice. I just as emphatically endorse the preparation to-day as I did over two years ago."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Hubert will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Medical advice free; strictly confidential. Address: Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists, price 50 cents per box.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

WANTED TO IMPROVE RACE.

Eccentric French Millionaire Left Money for Giants' Downy.

M. de Saint Ouen de Pierrecourt, an eccentric French millionaire, died a short time ago and left the greater part of his fortune to his native city of Rouen, stipulating that the municipality was to found an annual prize of $20,000 as a dowry for a giant and a giantess in order to regenerate the human race. An amicable arrangement has now been made between the heirs and the city of Rouen. The family attacked the will on the ground that the "giant clause" was impossible of execution. By the arrangement now made the city of Rouen will pay the heirs $500,000, while out of the residue it undertakes to found an undertaking, "inspired by the idea of protecting, preserving and improving the human race, but which shall not cost more than $100,000." The details of this undertaking have not yet been divulged.

ORIGINAL.

Of a Famous Human Food.

The story of great discoveries or inventions is always of interest.

An active brain worker who found himself hampered by lack of bodily strength and vigor and could not carry out the plans and enterprises he knew how to conduct was led to study various foods and their effects upon the human system. In other words before he could carry out his plans he had to find a food that would carry him along and renew his physical and mental strength.

He knew that a food that was a brain and nerve builder, (rather than a mere fat maker), was universally needed. He knew that meat with the average man does not accomplish the desired results. He knew that the soft gray substance in brain and nerve centers is made from Albumen and Phosphate of Potash obtained from food. Then he started to solve the problem.

Careful and extensive experiments evolved Grape-Nuts, the now famous food. Grape-Nuts contain the brain and nerve building food elements in condition for easy digestion. The result of eating Grape-Nuts daily is easily seen in a marked sturdiness and activity of the brain and nervous system, making it a pleasure for one to carry on the daily duties without fatigue or exhaustion. The food is in no sense a stimulant but is simply food which renews and replaces the daily waste of brain and nerves.

Its flavor is charming and being fully and thoroughly cooked at the factory it is served instantly with cream.

The signature of the brain worker spoken of, C. W. Post, is to be seen on each genuine package of Grape-Nuts.

wish yourselves. There is room for each of you beside me here on the sofa, or will Dora play something sweet and low to charm away the dreariness while Lorie and I sit here together?"

Before they could answer her, however, quick steps sounded on the piazza, the outer door was opened, and young Green entered the room where the older woman sat. Mrs. Green arose in haste, her face suddenly paling.

Men, Methods and Work.

The manager, for a very successful money maker, said that he worried over the big things, while his employees worried over the little things.

The manager got along with the employees and the details better than the proprietors did, but the proprietors got along with the whole business much better than the manager could. Some men can keep anything running lovely if some one else will only see that pay day is passed in good shape. The man able to attend to petty requirements might rattle the whole concern if he were to see to little things.

A man able to make a hundred dollars an hour may be able to hire for a hundred dollars a month a man who can do some things better than the employer can do them.

Few are able to get a living doing just what they want to do, and very few are willing to limit their efforts to the things they can do best.

One man told me that more men failed in his line of work for lack of ability to handle men than for any other or all other reasons.

Few men know how to interest, animate, educate, and keep on good terms with other men. In some cases the more you know the more in the background you have to go. One may be able to have more knowledge than skill.

In one case, of an unpopular foreman going on a vacation and a popular workman taking his place for the day, the product was over twenty per cent more than usual.

If ten thousand men of all kinds should find themselves out of work, one might create ideas, another execute them, another organize and manage the others.

Some could do some parts of the detail work twice as well as some of the others could. One would be a good buyer of material and another a good collector of accounts.

Some would win honors and some would get disgraced, but they would finally drift or climb, fall or jump, to positions just as we find them to-day.

Only this difference—the successful might make better use of their success and the failures profit by their extensive experiences more than they have been doing during this century. If this possibility were to be accomplished the next century would be more than a hundred years ahead, and the common humdrum life would be quite ideal.

If our best intelligence were to accompany our every action much would be done. We all know why things are not better than they are.

Sunday Recreation.

Statistics say that Monday is the saddest day of the week and the day for mistakes and accidents. This must be due to people using Sunday to get untuned rather than to become better tuned. How is it with the violins and strings? Is it better to loosen the strings when not in use or should the instrument be kept all the time in tune? I may select Sunday for a subject in order to learn how to use the day to my profit. I heard Moody say that he had learned by experience that he could not preach seven days a week and keep free from headaches. The teacher and preacher live the longest of any class of workers, so the hint from Mr. Moody is worth remembering. What do you know about Sunday recreation?

How is This?

Mistakes may be due to coaxing a person to promise or try to do something not possible for him to accomplish. Weak people are easy promisees and some people can coax the birds out of the bushes, so every time your heart beats some one has promised to do an impossibility, and thus the list of blunders and breaks grows.

It may be due to bad example. Can an employee who is careless have employees who are careful? Can a poor worker keep good workers under him any length of time? If as I recently read thirteen in every hundred think let them think on the last question.

An author says: "The three degrees of a lawyer's progress are getting on, getting home, getting home."

Questions.

Can you report something which was fine in theory but a fizzle in practice?

What is your remedy for serious trouble due to foolish sport?

What have you learned by expensive experience?

What do you want to know which you would be willing others should know?

Are you willing to join us in building lighthouse thoughts on life's dangerous rocks?

Are little errors the sources of big mistakes?

Can you recall a laughable incident?

Have you a record of a fair's funny reasoning?

How could the accidents you know about have been prevented?

Have you spoken to a stranger while thinking him an acquaintance?

Have you been injured while watching to see if some other person would get injured?

Can you think of a good illustration of profitable politeness?

Old or new or both. What are two or three of the difficulties you have to contend with in your work?

Lending Money.

Years ago I read that a young man should be satisfied with a low and safe rate of interest and take the advice of those more experienced—'to not know it all. I have been very fortunate in not losing money lent to friends. Frequently I give small sums to old friends who are now deadbeats and wish to borrow for a few hours or days. I never get such sums back and never expect to when I let it go. But whenever I have lent $50, more or less, to a friend and expected it back it has come. I think this is due to my use of a discriminating judgment before lending. Once it cost me a good deal over a thousand dollars cash to disobey my better judgment and go into a side-line business with a friend. I did not get the counsel of those to whom I should have gone, and I refused to follow my own feelings. I was "triped" in by talk.

Health Helps Money Making.

I began talking with a man soon after we left the morning train, and some remark brought up the subject of his health.

He said: "I have not been feeling well for three weeks."

Your health is generally good, isn't it?"

Yes, I am usually as strong as an ox, but I have been working too hard and I wish my vacation came today in place of a month from to-day."

"How to take care of yourself while you overwork is a pretty good subject to study."

"Yes, I should say it was. I sleep pretty well, although I dream last night that I was a cashier in a bank and was taking an inventory of the stock when the papers in the safe caught fire."

The Man Himself Studies.

"What is the cause of criminal carelessness?" Two years ago a man asked me the above question. He had been having trouble and I have been thinking about the subject ever since. It may be due to ignorance. Some claim that people are not as good nor as bad as they appear to be—if we knew more we would be better. But we will know more if we are any good and have our goal in the right place. The idea that experience is a gear school but fools will learn in no other, might be revised to read: It is a wise man who learns by experience, fools never learn. Though a man is not to be blamed for being born ignorant, he can be blamed for remaining ignorant, and continued or repeated carelessness may be called criminal.

One's Sphere of Usefulness.

One of the most important things for us to learn early is: what we are able to do and not to do. As for myself, I believe I was born without a sense of money value, and as I look back and note my expenditures and investments, I feel that I might have had a nice little property to-day had I put my wasted dimes and dollars regularly in some trustworthy place. It has taken me a quarter of a century to recognize my inability to lend money commercially, or in a wise way socially, and I feel like saying to all young people the quicker you can find out what you can do well, and what you are unable to do well, the better it will be for you.

Hard to Believe.

1. That any one would try to start an orchard by planting dried apples.

2. That any one would stock a mule stock farm with mules.

3. That people would make a hole in the ground to fill another and keep on till they ran the hole out of town.

4. That a man would move his office furniture and also his telephone without notifying the telephone company and then complain to the company that the telephone was no good—that it had not worked since he moved. But this last act is on record and duplicated.

ADMIRAL SCHLEY ENDORSES PE-RU-NA.

Pe-ru-na Drug Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen:—"I can cheerfully say that Mrs. Schley has taken Pe-ru-na and I believe with good effect."—W. S. SCHLEY, Washington, D. C.

ADMIRAL SCHLEY, one of the foremost, notable heroes of the Nineteenth Century. A name that starts terror in the heart of every Spaniard. A man of steady nerve, clear head, undaunted courage and prompt decision.

Approached by a friend recently, his opinion was asked as to the efficacy of Peruna, the national catarrh remedy. Without the slightest hesitation he gave this remedy his endorsement. It appeared on later conversation that Peruna has been used in his family, where it is a favorite remedy.

Such endorsements serve to indicate the wonderful hold that Peruna has upon the minds of the American people. It is out of the question that so great and famous a man as Admiral Schley could have any other reason for giving his endorsement to Peruna than his positive conviction that the remedy is all that he says it is.

The fact is Peruna has overcome all opposition and has won its way to the hearts of the people. The natural timidity which so many people have felt about giving endorsements to any remedy is giving way. Gratitude and a desire to help others has inspired thousands of people to give public testimonials for Peruna who heretofore would not have consented to such publicity.

Never before in the annals of medicine has it happened that so many men of national and international reputation have been willing to give unqualified and public endorsements to a proprietary remedy. No amount of advertising could have accomplished such a result. Peruna has won on its own merits. Peruna cures catarrh of whatever phase or location in the human body. This is why it receives so many notable and unique endorsements.

MAKING HER FEEL SMALL.

New Yorker's Tact That Comforted the Fat Woman.

A woman who looked to weigh about 400 pounds, but probably fell a little short of that figure, was descending from a Twenty-ninth street car the other day, when a man, who looked to weigh about seventy pounds, but might pull down a hundred, sought to ascend. They met. They bumped. They gazed at each other in a cold, gassy way. Neither would retreat for the moment. Then the man's natural gallantry asserted itself, and he said:

"Oh! I am in your way."

"I am in yours, rather," she replied. "Oh, not at all. If I wasn't so fat I could move quicker. I often envy you people who move about so lively."

She looked into his face, imagined that he was serious; and her efforts to strike a girl's mincing gait as she moved to the curb provoked a platform passenger into saying:

"That didn't cost him a cent and it did her a thousand dollars' worth of good."—New York Press.

Cathedral Project Not Popular.

Bishop Potter of New York is experiencing much difficulty in raising the great sums necessary for the construction of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Many clergymen and laymen of the diocese regard the project as medieval and a decided waste of money. So strong is this feeling that the bishop has been much disappointed at lack of contributions. Rich parishioners seem to have closed their pocketbooks for a time at least.

Still Another Case.

Frankville, Wis., Oct. 12th.—Many remarkable cures are being reported from all over the country but there is one right here in Frankville which is certainly worth publishing, and which has not as yet been given to the public.

Mrs. Louis Markison of this place had been a sick woman for quite a long time and could not find anything to give her any help. She suffered all the painful symptoms of what is generally known as female weakness. Every woman who reads her story will understand these distressing conditions which combine to make the lives of many women one long burden of weakness and suffering.

Mrs. Markison chanced one day to hear of a new remedy called Dodd's Kidney Pills, that was said to be a splendid medicine for women's weakness. She determined to try some and soon found herself getting better. She kept on with the pills and was cured. Speaking of her case, Mrs. Markison says:

"I can and do praise Dodd's Kidney Pills as a remedy for female weakness. They are the best medicine I have ever known, and have done me a great deal of good."

Injurious to the Eyes.

Looking into the fire is very injurious to the eye, particularly a coal fire. The stimulus of light and heat united soon destroys the eyes. Looking at molten iron will soon destroy the sight. Reading in the twilight is injurious to the eyes, as they are obliged to make great exertion. Reading or sewing with a side light injures the eyes, as both eyes should be exposed to an equal force of light. Those who wish to preserve their general health by correct habits of living, and give their eyes just work enough, with a due degree of light.

An Overblessed Father.

"There are two things," said Josh Billings, "for which a man is generally prepared. They are—twins." Still less is a man prepared for twins born in two different years. In the house of one of the well-known inhabitants of Chicago a child was born shortly before 11 o'clock on the last night of the old year, and soon after midnight a second came into the world. The result is that though the children are twins they will have birthdays on different days, for the one will have to be celebrated on December 31 and the other on January 1 of the following year.

On a Limited Train to California.

Luxurious service between the East and California has come to stay. Each year the equipment on the leading trans-continental lines is a little better than the year before. The traveling public demand the best and are willing to pay for it.

The Santa Fe announces that daily service of its California Limited train for season of 1903-1904 will be resumed November 29; until then it is semi-weekly. The California Limited runs between Chicago on the East, and Los Angeles, San Diego, and San Francisco on the west—a straight-away flight of more than two thousand miles. The time to Los Angeles is less than three days from Chicago. The route is through New Mexico and Arizona, south of the region of heavy snows, and traversing a land of enchantment, where the traveler sees Indian pueblos, cañons a mile deep and peaks two miles high.

The train itself comprises compartment, observation and drawing-room Pullmans, dining-car and buffet-smoker. Equipment as fine as money can buy, and service absolutely highest class. Perhaps the meals, under management of Mr. Harvey, are the most notable feature of the California Limited. They have a national reputation and are faultless.

The fact that this is the eighth season for the Limited ought to mean something to travelers who seek the best way to reach California.

Work of Historian Klopp.

Onno Klopp, the historian, who died recently in Vienna, at the age of eighty-one, wrote perhaps the longest history of the Stuarts in existence. He was in the service of the King of Hanover, till 1856 and was marked for his bitter hatred of the Prussians. That prevented his completing his edition of Leibnitz's works, as the Prussian government, after the war, refused to let him consult the library and archives at Hanover, where the Leibnitz manuscripts are.

SKELETONS BY THE SHIPLOAD.

American Fertilizing Plants Supplied From South America.

A steamship filled with bones arrived at New York last week, awaiting orders from owners before going to a fertilizing plant. The bones were the skeletons of cattle gathered on the great plains of South America. They are shipped here to be ground into fertilizers. The longshoremen find in nearly every cargo a human bone—all that is left of some poor fellow who died on the plains. They are responsible for a queer little graveyard near the fertilizing plant. The workmen have strict orders never to grind up a human bone. It is taken out to a little fenced graveyard and buried. Many of the graves are not more than two feet long, but they are as carefully covered as though they contained entire skeletons.

ADVICE, BUT NO DRINK.

Thirst of Seedy Individual Remained Unquenched.

He was a seedy looking individual, and as he stood upon the corner gazing wistfully at the disappearing form of the newsboy who had just picked up a good sized stump and was making off with the prize, there was a vague aspect of despair in his attitude which was very touching. Perhaps it was this which attracted the attention of a mild-looking party who was passing by, and perhaps it was something else, but however this may be, the mild-looking party stopped, and gazing at the solitary figure, addressed it thus:

"Old man, wouldn't you like to have a drink this morning?"

"You've read me as accurately as though my thoughts were printed on an open page," replied the solitary, taking his quid from his mouth, and passing a dilapidated coat sleeve over his lips.

"I thought so," murmured the mild-looking party, while a tear trickled down his cheek; "but conquer the devil. Fight it as you would a legion of devils, for drink has ruined many a man who had a more expansive forehead than you've got."

And then the mild-looking party continued on his way, and the solitary gazed dreamily into space and communed with himself.

THE JOKE ON STEVENSON.

Pain Called by Referring to His "Impressive Voice."

An amusing episode of Robert Louis Stevenson's school days and his father's manner of teasing the boy is described in "Robert Louis Stevenson's Edinburgh Days," by E. B. Sampson.

"Robert's voice," a master had said, "is not strong, but impressive." "This opinion," Louis adds, "was fool enough to carry home to my father, who roasted me for years in consequence."

If Louis, in some dispute or childish excitement, raised his tone to a shrill pitch, Mr. Stevenson would listen with intentional gravity, and when Louis' treble was silenced would turn to a visitor and remark, "Louis is noted at school for his impressive voice," and they would wonder that they had not noticed it before.

When he was grown up Mr. Stevenson at times referred to this old blither, and Louis, remembering the smart every allusion to his impressive voice had given him when a boy, laughed at the remembrance.—Youth's Companion.

The Lynching That Failed.

"Tell me old Bill Barlow was lynched down to Pokenville 't'other day."

"None, not quite. He was strung up, but cut down 'fore he croaked."

"Do tell! How come it?"

"Wall, you see, us all—that is ter say ther mob—didn't feel no great chunks o' sympathy fer ole Jim Hike, who Bill kilt, but as Jim's widdier inscribed on us lynchin' Bill, an' headed ther mob her own self, of course we was bound ter fall in an' give ther murderer a hint ter release her. Goes our reelin' when the widdier gits chicken-hearted at sight o' Bill danglin' an' cuts him down."

"Do-o tell! An' you let him off?"

"Wall, we was flustered like, you know, an' 'gainst we had recovered Bill was gone."

"Escaped?"

"Yip, he then an' thar 'loped with the widdier in gratitude."

Came Down Hard.

Freddie is a boy of five years, and he has a little brother who is just beginning to walk. The younger brother's name is Frank, and while Freddie likes him, in a certain way his nose has been a little sore since his arrival.

The other day, when he was playing with his little brother, Freddie said to him:

"Builds up muscular flesh, healthy tissue, rich, red blood; clears the stomach, kidneys and liver. That's what Rocky Mountain Tea will do. 35 cents Wolyerine Drug Co."

Boycott American Shoes.

A boycott was declared lately by the shoemakers of Bogota refusing to repair in any way shoes of American manufacture, having become alarmed at their cheapness and the fact they are getting on the markets of Bogota.

Broke Into His House.

On Sir Edward.

Sir Edward Clarke, the noted English barrister, tells with glee how a young lawyer once scored off him. Late one afternoon a case in which Sir Edward was interested was called, whereupon he asked that it be put off until the following morning, as he had been arguing a case in another court all day and was much exhausted. The request was granted, and the next case called. The young lawyer then asked for postponement of this case also, saying he, too, was exhausted. The court asked what he had been doing. "If it please the court," was the reply, "I have been listening to Sir Edward Clarke."—Omaha Bee.

A Home Thrust.

"Pa, where do the cows get the milk?" asked little Virgin Markham as he looked up from a foaming pan of milk which he had been intently regarding. "Where do you get your tears from?" asked the author of "The Man with the Hoe." "Oh, do the cows have to be whipped?" commented the youngster, after a thoughtful silence. —New York Times.

LIPTON'S BAIT WAS CHEESE.

Yachtsman Always an Adept in the Art of Advertising.

"I remember very distinctly," said an old gentleman in the Waldorf-Astoria, "the first we inhabitants of Glasgow heard of Tom Lipton. And to think that he is now a man of world renown. Tom and I were schoolboys together. Then I went to Eton and lost track of him. I studied law, and when I returned to Glasgow Tom had hung out his shingle as a greengrocer in an obscure street. He was competing with well established firms, and for three years plodded along almost unnoticed and with only a small number of customers. But one day the Glasgow papers bore an advertisement something like this: THOMAS LIPTON WILL SELL AT market price good cheeses filled with coin of the kingdom; the cheeses have been prepared especially, and are laden with three pence, sixpences, shillings, half sovereigns and sovereigns."

"This astonishing announcement attracted a lot of attention and the little shop of Lipton, greengrocer, was besieged. He sold his cheese by the pound, and in each slice one was quite sure to find at least a silver coin. What a trade he drew! He sold cheese by the thousands of pounds. It cost him a goodly penny, too, because he gave away in this fashion about £500. But Lipton was established. For years he was known as 'Cheese Lipton,' and each Christmas he would concoct some brilliant scheme along lines that appealed to the public. His opening of finely decorated grocery shops in the London slums was of course, the masterpiece."—New York Press.

WAR PREVENTED BY DELAY.

How Seward and Lord Lyons Settled Mason and Slidell Case.

An example that can never be overlooked when the right of an ambassador to exercise his own discretion is in question is that which occurred in the career of Lord Lyons, when he was our ambassador to the United States. He was persona grata there. "All I can say, Lord Lyons, is 'Go thou and do likewise,'" was Abraham Lincoln's genial method of receiving the British ambassador's announcement of King Edward's marriage. Lord Lyons did not take the advice, but he remained a very effective ambassador in spite of his bachelorhood. When the grave difficulty over the Mason and Slidell case arose Lord Lyons was instructed from home to present an ultimatum, afford twelve hours for its acceptance and, the latter not being forthcoming, he was to break off diplomatic relations and leave the country. The twelfth hour, expired, Slidell and Mason were not surrendered and there remained apparently only the dire prospect of war. "Give me another twelve hours," said Secretary Seward, the secretary of state. It was entire contradiction of official orders, but, nevertheless, "I will," said Lyons. From 6 o'clock that night until 6 next morning Seward battled with the recalcitrants. Then Lyons received an intimation that the Confederate envoys would be given up. So by the insubordination of an ambassador war was saved.—St. James Gazette.

Up to Date.

Gaze on me, all ye people, For I'm a gorgeous squire; My dress, a smart creation, This hat is my delight; I lead my brindled bulldog, And just as sure as fate I promenade each evening, For I'm strictly up to date.

And when I go out riding In my new two-seated trap, My Paris gown and hat, so gay, And well imported wrap; Of course I have a driver, And a footman so sedate, I lean about in my master, For I'm strictly up to date.

Sometimes I take my auto Just to cut a bigger dash; If people will get in my path They must expect a crash; We really can't look out for them As we perambulate, The common people must give way For we are up to date.

We dash out in the country To see the people stare; We round the corners with a whiz Enough to raise your hair! I chauffeur grins a fendish grin, And, awful to relate, Our wake is strewn with wreckage, For I'm strictly up to date.

Board of Supervisors Meet.

Free Press: With but three absentees, the board of supervisors, at the opening session of the annual fifteen-day meeting, Monday morning unanimously elected Ald. Magee chairman, while George C. Lawrence, bookkeeper in the county auditors' office, was named as clerk of the committees. In accepting the honor, Chairman Magee stated he did not propose favoring any class, but would work only for the best interests of the whole county. A vote of sympathy was cast for Supervisor Underwood, of Nankin, who is seriously ill, after which Chairman Magee announced the following committees:

Ways and means—Moeller, Jones, Dodd, Smith, Keating, King, Atkinson, Mohn, O'Brien, Monaghan.

Claims and accounts—Black, Harper, Mohn, Gutman, Chilson, Louis Koch, Tossy, Hillger, Jeffries, Megges.

Apportionment—Heineman, Balsley, Max Koch, Burns, Hurst, Jones, Hillger, Lemke, Nagel, Vernier.

Taxes—Reinhart, Atyeo, Zink, Burnham, Jerome, Brozo, Allan, McClellan, Winter, Guiney.

Equalization—Benton, Stansfield, Allan, Rose, Brown, Koester, Jeffries, Dederich, Bouchard, Megges.

Roads and bridges—Lynch, Max Koch, Nevermann, Nash, Trombley, Bradner, Denio, Tossy, Deimel, Weiler.

Drains—Stiles, Nash, Underwood, Gutman, Louis Koch, Brown, Denio, Weibel, Monaghan, Bouchard.

At the conclusion of the session the Republican supervisors, who control the board held a caucus and decided to appoint ex-Ald. Liphardt, of the tenth ward, for drain commissioner, and William Lightbody, of Springwells, for school examiner to succeed himself, he having no opposition. Opposing Liphardt were the present drain commissioner, Joseph F. Finn, of Hamtramck; Charles Outhwaite, of Nankin, and Patrick Keating, of Detroit. Edward Davis, of the eleventh ward, will be appointed messenger.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or steady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle by mail Home of Swamp-Root, free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

There is a good reason for every great success. The bread making qualities and its marvelous uniformity has made CERESOTA the leading flour everywhere. It is as good every day as it is any day; and as good any day as the best flour in the world.
