For some unknown reason we mislaid our report of our Sunday-school Convention of March 17. It was one of the most interesting ever held in Livonia township. Alfred Day, Gen'l Secy., N. W. Cary, Dist. Secy., and Revs. Stoval, Oliver, Shank and Stephens, all took part in making it in-teresting. There was a nice talk for the children by Mrs. Ada LeVan. The attendance before noon was 102, afternoon 120. A good offering was received. The music was by our church choir. The officers elected were Mrs. Grace Chilson, Pres., Mrs. Ada LeVan, vice pres.; W. THE DAMAGE DONE.

Reports From Various Sections of the State. The rise of the Saginaw river is doing extensive damage. The general situation about the city is similar to that of Monday. Reports from Tittabawasse river are to the effect that, there is no sign of a break-up as yet, and that the loe is several feet thick. Between Saginaw and Bay City the lee is over two feet deep and it has been found that a liberal use of dynamite has little effect in clearing the channel. Down river repeirs are full of takes of suffering and exposure from water. The river is still rising in Zuwankee and Carrollton, From Prairie Farm, a large tract of land containing 10,000 acres owned by the Pittsburg Plate Glass and twosso sugar factory comes the report that it has been found necessary to abandon the farm and remove 60 families to Chesanliz. The suffering of the flood victims in Grand Bapids will now be aggravated by the fullure of the gas simply. During Monday night all the gas mains leading to the west side filled with water, and there is no possibility of their becoming opened for use before the flood completely recedes. The result will be very serious, as, gas was being used extensively for heating and cooking. The Grand is receding very yellowly.

The worst flood ever experienced by Bay City hundred the city. Hundreds of boats were busy Monday evening resenting poople from the middle ground and the southern shurbard raking them from the upper stories of tottering buildings. Every factory on the river front is shut down. Thousands of workmen are left.

In Kalamazoo the factories are shut indefinitely. The work of reflet is well organized. Many small towns not directly affected by the flood are utility. The work of reflet is well organized. railroad situation shows little Improvement.

Apparently the flood danger is past in Plint. The river is falling and the factories which were closed by the flood have again resumed. Water flows minipeded under the bridges and the lowlands are draining off, leaving great masses of lee stranded to show where the water but reached. Above the city is a mass of lee aimost 10 miles long, which threatens to move down, but with the water lowering rapidly the danger of further flood dannage is practically over.

Black river is at flood stage, Af Albert Beard's mill and stock farm, southeast of Fargo, it was by great labor that his 20 horses and 50 head of cuttle were sweed. All his long were drowned, and from five to six million feet of logs floated down stream. Other farmers along the stream are reported as losing all their spock, the water rising in the night and drowning them in their stalls.

Battle Creek is making stremnous efforts to recover from the worst blow she evertreceived. Her flood experience has been more costly than any two of the largest fires that have characterized the city's past. But if she can recover with a mere property loss and awoid the 'slekness that threatens among the flooded lomies she will be satisfied. That the poor will be cared recover with a mere property loss and avoid the 'slekness that threatens among the flooded homes she will be satisfied. That the poer will be cared for is apparent, as churches, factories, institutions, and the city are backing relief committees. The extent of the wrock could scarcedy be believed were it not possible to see the path of ruin,

Although the water in the Grand ever above Grand Rapids has receded slightly, in remains stationary in the city and the suffering among west side residents is intense. Although the city was in total darkness, the work of resresidents is intense. Although the city was in total darkness, the work of rescue was continued all Sunday night and hundreds of persons were taken to the places of entertainment which have been provided. The relief fund has reached an amount sufficient to aftend to the bare necessities. It is estimated that 2,500 houses are now surrounded by water, in some places 12 feet deep. The work of taking people from submerged residences was undertaken often at great personal risk. Many householders refused to leave until forced to do so by the water, which reached the second storles. School houses and churches have been transferred into relief stations and every charitable organization in the city is busy earing for the homeless. The magnitude of the disaster is such that none of the usual methods of relief have been fereitye

The Railroads Suffer.

With miles of their tracks still un der water and embankments washed away in dozens of places, Michigan railroads are struggling with a condition almost as serious as that caused by the heavy snow storms during the winter. Freight is rapidly accumulating in the yards, and traffic is nearly paralyzed. Conditions were at their worst Saturday and Sunday, and Monday incruing a slight improvement was reported. The express companies began on Saturday accepting goods for slipment only with the inderstanding that all responsibility for delay or damage, must be assumed by the owner on arrival. der water and embankments washed the end.

I dreamed that you and I, hand in hand, passed together from the little way that we call life and that the portals of great light and great silence closed behind us.

We stood, two quivering, new born

We stood, two quivering, new spirits, still warm with the enveloping in eternity. We. who had owned such a small part of the world, who had lived such a small part of even the little thing called Life, were there in the eternity of spirit, ours at last, the knowledge of nmortality.

Around us was luminous distance, of which seemed a part; it was like the soul of a radiance that one sometimes catches in infinitestimal gleam in the catches in infinitestimal gream in the heart of something crystal. Waves of beauty and truth palpitated toward us, each covering us with fresh and ever fresh ecstasy, and we grew with more a perfect substance of the

And it seemed that when we heard And it seemed that when we heard the whisper of the curtain behind us, and another stood revealed where we had been. She still held about her the garb of the little way we call Lifts, and her face was pinched with requirements that had been. Her self on earth was transparent to us; nothing of all that had been was hid-sion for attainment was the

This woman had only wanted that which she had not, and only wanted it

Her mortality had been an ever uniding desire. She had been pursuing herself, and She had not felt love, and she had not felt hate; she had only felt herself. felt hate; she had only left hersel. She had lived in the midst of life and never lived at all; her days had been filled with a thousand busy acts, and the had never done anything at all.

Her name had been stamped on a thousand achievements, and she had sever known the name of anything in

The shell of his humanity was fixed cold and curren, with decials.
His stiff, white hands grasped ouri-

He sighed very gently and the shell of the little way melted from him.

We saw his eyes staring wide into the distance of Peace and they were filled with tears.

Again the whisper of the curtaincreature was there of horrible and Evil, evil, evil was every fiber of the nature that had lived itself. .

She had done mothing beautifully that she could do harmfully.

She had absorbed the good to make it bad, and her influence had been strong.

Never during her whole existence had the voice of the spirit spoken; it seemed that there was none save a thing of earthly allurement to speak, and yet we saw that the spirit had been there always looking on with the gaze of a child who does not under-stand the wickedness of the world. And we saw all that was terrible, loathsome and pitiful fall away as shriveled petals, and the soul, simple, capable of infinite growth, pass slowly into the first wave of happi ness and beauty it had ever known

And the curtain moved an a young girl was there. Her beautiful hair was wet with tears and in her hands she carried twenty roses. The enfolding veil of the little way was lovely beyond words. It shone with unselbeyond words. It shone with unselfish love and purity of purpose; she had been so brave and so sweet and so loyal to all that was true. Whatever she had done was simply the expression of her own truth. And there had been such need of her, back there where she had radiated hope, ret Here she was, and There was the need of her; a wistful human love-shone about her.

She smiled, and as she stepped forth we saw the twenty roses drift back to grow again in the hearts of those she had left.

How many more thousand came we did not know. We saw men and riow many more thousand came we did not know. We saw men and women enter with the dead leaves of vanity, insincerity, indifference, cruelty, brutality still skrouding them, and we saw these dead leaves fall away, displacing salv, the little perfections. disclosing only the little perfections that had been beneath all, and these illumined slowly in the light.

Then, without a sound, it seemed the curtain lifted, showing a narrow doorway hewn in stone that led from the little way, and through this we saw the old life—experiences, bates, affections.

We could watch the men and women of all the world busily threading back and forth and garbed in those dead shriveled fearful scales beneath which the immortality of goodness was awaiting.

Every second one of them turned wearly toward us.
Children came amiling, and no change was perceptible as they passed.

Then out of the strange, compact throng we saw one move like a very star. We knew in our infinite under-standing that the cloak of life had been but a shining weil to her soul; a veil that had grown thinner with the suffering of each day. Her love had grown great with giving.

Her hope had grown infinite with in selfless patience she had lived above her own sorrows to bear the been too small or too mighty for her comprehension.

Because nothing had been given her, she was everything.

Along a path of tears she came to shine on through the eternal wonder.

And where she had been on the little way of world we saw a lily bloom, and another, and another, and wherever one had lived who gave his life for love.

And Beyond, in the radiant silence. we seemed to see a million filles of pure light, and the little path that led from the little way we call life into the infinite was white and bean-tiful and lined with these wonderful

Rural Mail Carriers Pay.

The house voted to increase the salaries of rural mail carriers from $600 to $720 a year, by reinserting in the postoffice appropriation bill an amendment to that effect. The amendment was substituted for the one voted out on a point of order the previous ment was substituted for the one voted out on a point of order the previous day, and differs from it in that it prohibits the soliciting of business or the reception of orders by carriers from any person. Arm or corporation, but permits the carriers, under certain restrictions, to carry merchandise for hire and upon request of patrons residing upon their respective routes. This prevents carriers taking subscriptions to newspapers, which was a remunerative side line in many sections. Every effort made to amend the section was voted down.

The Rural Carriers' association wanted a sliding scale, $600 for the first year, $720 for the second and $850 for the third, but this was beaten, as awas also Representative Garden, as awas also Representative Gard-ner's amendment giving them 15 days' furlough each year.

Burton's Conviction.

Burton's Conviction.

The conviction of Senator Burton, of Kansas, of having accepted compensation to protect the interests of the Rialto Grain & Securities Co., of St. Louis, against exclusion from the mails, if sustained by the higher court means that Senator Burton will lose his seat in the senate and forever he prohibited from holding any office of public trust. Each count constitutes a separate defense and Senator Burton could receive a penticutary sentence of two years or a $10,000 fine on each count. Senator Burton's conviction is the first under this section of the statute which was enacted by congress in 1864.

Increased pay for rural carriers is likely to be stricken out of the post-office appropriation bill in the house on grounds of being new legislation. Reps. Townsend and Loud have amendments Townsend and Loud have amendments to offer increasing the salary to $550. Still another chance remains, if the raise is refused in the house, for the senate to grant the increase. Satsified that a suitable mail boat for the Detroit river service can be obtained for $4.500. Senator Alger is unlikely to see a greater sum.

OPINION OF THE EDITOR OF THE NEBRASKA FARMER

He Expresses His Approval of Am ican Emigration to Canada.

During the winter months the head of the family consults with the other members as to the prospects for the future, and doubtless one of the most interesting topics discussed is that of moving to some district where it is possible to more easily secure what is necessary for a comfortable existence, where it is an easy matter to become possessed of sufficient farm land to assure a competence for the future. This, not only interests the head of the family, but every individual member of k.

Having before me the knowledge where he can secure a home, with the expenditure of but little money, it is interesting topics discussed is that of expenditure of but little money, it is wall for him to obtain all informa-tion possible regarding the product-iveness of the land in the country that he may select. For several years past a large number of Americans have removed to Western Canada, and as nearly as it can be ascer-tained almost all of these have expressed themselves satisfied with the conditions that exist there. During the past summer a number of the ed-itors of farm papers throughout the United States made a personal visit on a tour of inspection and the reon a four of inspection and the re-ports of these gentlemen prove inter-esting reading. western Canada is the hat unoccupied and unimproved good agricultural land in America available

He then discusses its possibilities for raising live stock and the advantages it possesses for dairying, farming and wheat growing, and says, "What has been said about the country as to the ability of the soil, the yield of wonderful crops of wheat, is cutte the country as the country as yield of wonderful crops of wheel, is quite justified."

Te quote further from Mr. Heath, he says, referring to climate:
"These people (skeptical ones) do not know or realize that altitude more than latitude makes climates; that large bodies of water, both fresh that large bodies of water, both fresh and salt, that never freeze over, exert a wonderful influence on climate. Another influence on climate, more potent than those named above, which applies more to the Alberta district, is the warm Chinook breeze from the Pacific ocean, which is 600 or 700 miles nearer than Colorado or Wyoming, besides the Rocky Mountain range is not nearly so high nor half so far from the ocean as it is down in the States.

"In further considering the climate of the Canadian prairies, we should of the Canadian prairies, we should not lose sight of the fact of the influence of the rains; the total avernuence of the rains; the total aver-age rainfall for the season is but 13.35 inches for the territories, and 17.34 inches in Manitoba, and that the amounts falling between April 1st and October 1st are respectively 9.39 inches and 12.87 inches or about three-fourths of the entire rainfall. From the middle of June to the middle of July there are over two hours more daylight in every twenty-four hours than there is in Nebraska. The main reason why Western Canada wheat grows to such perfection is the effect of solar light, or longer period of sunor solar light, or longer period at sun-shine it gets each day. This is what makes seeds or grain more perfect, grown in this country than elsewhere. This extraordinary rapid growth of vegetation under the influence of this long continued sunshine exceeds any-thing known in lower latitudes.

"We do not wish it understood that wheat alone is the main product of this country; it leads in that, yet it is destined to become famous for its cattie, horses and sheep and for its dairy products. We saw more and larger bands of cattle and sheep grazing in Assinibola and Alberta than we ever saw on the western plains of the United States. One hand of cattle numbering 5,000 head were grazing on the rich grass, and sheep without num-

SCHOOL SAVINGS BANKS

Or "Thrift Teaching in Public Schools." Is a system used in most of the pubschools of Europe, whereby the pupils are taught habits of thrift and economy. They are encouraged by the teachers to save their pennies, and become depositors at the bank.

School superintendents, principals and teachers attest to the better development of children in other lines of where the savings of money for useful purposes is encouraged through the School Savings Banks System. They tell of the cheap candy shops being removed from the close proximity of the school-house; of the slot machines taken away for lack of patron-age; of the decrease in the use of cigarettes from 50 to 75 per cent among the scholars after the introduction of the savings system: that self-responsi-bility and the practical dealing with and the saving of their pennies, make ghildren more thoughtful of other people's property and more law abiding, and that it tends in every way to good citizenship, good habits and good

Two Marriage Ceremonies.

COCHRAN-BASSETT.

Married, at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. Floyd Bassett, of Junction Ave., Detroit, on Thursday, March 31, at 2:20 p. m., Rev. Edgar A. Cochran, of Holton, Mich., Grand Rapids District to Miss Emma V. Bassett, of Newburg

The interesting event took place in the presence of immediate friends and relatives only. Miss Bassett has been organist of the M. E. church at Newburg for some time. She is a fine young ladymuch thought of by her large circle of acquaintances who wish her much happiness in her new relationship of Rev. W. G. Stephens performed the marriage ceremony.

BENNETT-SHERWOOD.

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday evening, March 30th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Sherguests were present from Detroit, Elm. Northville and Stark.

The wedding march was played by Miss Nettie Wright, of Detroit. After the young couple had received the congratulations of their friends, the company sat down to a sumptuous

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Miss Buell, Miss McKinnon and Miss Hunter left for their homes last Friday afternoon. Miss Entrican was called away Saturday to attend a very sick sister. The rest of the teachers are making the most of vacation week in catching up loose odds and ends preparatory to the final campaign during the next three months.

Plymouth is well represented at the State School master's convention which is being held at Ypsilanti this week Mr. Mealley, Miss Howes, Miss Hunter, Miss Celia Browtl and Miss Carrie Riddle being in attendance.

The weather has been a sore disappointment to Base Ball Captain Henderson and his team mates who have been hoping for fair, warm weather in order that they might prepare a suitable ball ground for the games that have been scheduled.

The 3rd Annual Field Day Meet of the Tri-County Athletic Association is drawing nigh and according to the Constitution should be held in Plymouth in May. There is $33 in the treasury, but no suitable place to hold the meet since the passing of the fair grounds. Chelsea and Wayne would be pleased to have the meet in their respective towns, but the Plymouth boys are anxious to retain, the Meet here. Some decision will have to be made soon in regard to the matter. Pres Gee of Wayne will call a meeting of the four High schools represented and l'lymouth hopes to be able to furnish a suitable place for the Meet.

Pres. McLaren of the local Athletic association has appointed a committee to attend to all Field Day questions. The committee consisted of Chilson Markham and Henderson.

A new twelve pound shot and ham mer and a regulation vaulting pole are needed and a committee has been appointed to procure them.

The total enrollment of our schools has reached 426 and without doubt will exceed 450 in a few weeks, as soon as the weather becomes settled.

Last year the greatest amount of non-resident tuition was paid that the school has ever received, about $455, but this year will exceed last year's record by about $30.

Two of the three Students who took the teacher's examination passed; the third failed to receive the required standing in one subject. The other members of the senior class expect to take the examination in June or

Reports of the work done by our students attending the University are very favorable.

The students who have been preparing under Miss Hunter for oratorical contest will decide next week who is to represent Plymouth in the District Contest.

Fifteen of the High School girls at the suggestion of Miss Howes took home one of the window curtains to make it look as good as new during the vacation.

Mr. Baker is taking advantage of the Spring vacation to wash the sixty odd windows of the school house.

A few moments before this a woman with a citement was caused here Friday evening, when it was discovered that a baby had been left upon E. Gerbstadt's doorsteps in a pouring rain. A few moments before this a woman with a baby left the electric sub-station for the Plymouth car, which was waiting to make connections with the D., Y., A. A. & J. at the junction of the two roads. An officer was summoned and he and the station agent found the woman sitting in the Plymouth car, with no baby. She was taken from the car and questioned, denying at first that the baby was hers. Finally she admitted that it was, but said she could not care for it, as she only had 10 cents in the world. She and the baby were taken to the county home and given a good night's rest. Miss Mumie Snyder was deputized to take the baby to a catholic home in Detroit. The mother accompanied her as far as the city, and when it came time to say goodby to the baby Miss Snyder said to her, "Aren't you going to kies your baby "The woman so Miss Snyder says, replied: "Oh, I suppose I can," and just touched her lips to the tiny baby see She seemed in a hourse of Spieces asst. colors Print, vd. 5 and just touched her lips to the tiny baby face. SAVED MOUNT VERNON

WOMEN'S ACTION PRESERV-ED HISTORIC SPOT.

Pamela Cunningham of South Carolina the Moving Spirit in An Association Which Saved for Us the Home of Washington.

If there is one action above all others for which the women of America can feel proud, it is the preservation of the home of Wash-ton. How Mt. Vernon was saved as a monument to patriotism is an in-teresting story, for it was through the formation of the oldest patriotic asso-clation of women now in existence in the United States that this historic spot was preserved to posterity."
Upon the death of George Wash ington, in 1799, a life interest in the estate passed to his wife, writer Katherine Louise Smith in the House keeper. From her it fell to variou Washington relatives until, in 1853 John Augustine Washington, Jr John found himself in possession of cr historic place which he was unable to keep in a proper state of repair to keep in a proper shift of repair With the consent of his family hyendeavored to effect its permanent preservation by selling it to the United Stafes government, and, failing in this, offered it to the commonwealth of Virginia. It was at this crisis that Ann Pamels Cunningham of South Carolina determined that the tomb of Washington must be preserved as a securement shifts of the off the control of the cont served as a permanent shrine of pa

Accordingly, she organized the Mt. Vernon Ladies' Association and appointed vice-regents in the various states to aid in the work. Contributions to a fund to buy the property were solicited, and scon every section of the country became interested. Thousands of school children gave pennies Edward Everett presented the immense proceeds of his lectures on "Washington," societies donated funds, and Mt. Vernon was saved to the nation. In 1860 over 200 acres of the estate, including the wharf tomb and mansion, were purchased by the association for $200,000. As the society was formed for the sole pur-pose of acquiring Mt. Vernon, the session and is owned wit, though the state of Virginia realns a supervision over it. Since Miss Cunningham's death the office of regent has passed through various hands until today it is held by Mrs. Justine Van Renssaelaer Townsend of New York, who is ably assisted by vice-regents from twenty-nine states.

Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength.
Whatever the cause of weakness and failure to grow Scott's Emulsion seems to find it and set the matter right.

The sun came on, valiantly stripped bare, knowing, what was to be. Still louder rose the requiem of the wire.

The sky smiled on. There was no token to strike with alarm these human beings, their faculties dulled by a Clouds swept by and the sun shon. To the north there appeared a long.

Once the wind pelted the slant snow through the interstices of the grasses the furry back of the cowering te. Now they found a new sport ts driving the key powder through the cracks of the loose board shanty, upon the stelpped back of the mother huddling her sobbing children against the empty, Impotent stove, perhaps wrap-ping her young in the worn and whit-ened robe of the buffalo taken years For it was only the buffalo, though now departed, which held the tronsier for America in this unpre-pared season, the Christmas of the Great Gold. The robes saved many of the children, and now and then

The men who had no fuel did as their natures bid, some dying at the sce-bound stove and others in the open on their way for fuel. Mishap passed by but few of the remoter omes found unprepared with fuel, ad Christmas day, deceitfully fair, awaed on many homes that were to fatherless, motherless a first-born. Thus it was that from this, the hardiest and most self-re-liant population ever known on earth. rose the heartbroken cry for comfort and for help, the frontier for the first time begging aid to hold the clouds swept by and the sun shon-for an hour over a vast landscap-buried under white. Sam was ready to start, having worked half the night making runners for a sled at which his wild team snorted in the terror of unacquaintedness. The sled box was piled full of robes and coal and food and liquor—all things that seemed needful and which could hurrfedly be secured.

With perfect horsemanship Sam drove his team rapidly on to the south, five miles, ten miles, fifteen the horses now warming up, but still restless and nervous, even on the way so familiar to them from their frequent journeyings. The steam of their breath enveloped the travelers in a wide, white cloud. The rude runners crushed into and over the packed drifts, or along the sandy grime where the wind had swept the earth bare of snow. In less than an hour they would see the Halfway House. They would know whether or not there was smoke.

But in less than two hours on that morning of deceit the sun was lost again. The winds piped up, the cold continued, and again there came the blinding snow, wrapping all things in its dancing dizzy mist.

"The wind's just on my right cheek," said Sam, putting up a mit-ten. "But where's it gone?"

They tried to parallel the fence, but the horses edged away from the wind continually, so that it was difficult to keep eye upon the infrequen posts of the meagre, straggling fence that this man had put upon the "pub-lic lands."

"Hold on, Sam!" cried Franklin. "Let me out."

"That's right, Cap," said Sam. "Git out an go on ahead a way, then hol-ler to me, so'st I kin come up to you. he all right."

But when they got around the corner they were not all right. At such times the mind of man's thrown of its balance, so that it does stran and irregular things. Both the men had agreed a moment ago that the wind should be on the right; now they disagreed, one thinking tha Hancock's house was to the left, the other to the right, their ideas as to the direction of the Buford ranch being equally at variance. The horses decided it, breaking once again down wind, and striking a low-headed, sul len trot, as though they would out-march the storm. And so the two and they found themselves in rough going, the sled half overturned, with no fence, no house, no landmark of going, the sled half overturned, with no fence, no house, no landmark of any sort yisible, and the enow drift-ing thicker than before. They sprans out and righted the sled, but the horses doggedly pulled on, plunging down and down; and they followed, clinging to reins and sled as best than wieth.

"It's off there," said Sam, pointing across the coulee; "but we can't get

"Yes, we can, old man; yes, we can!" insisted Franklin. "I'll tell ; can!" insisted Franklin. "I'll tell you. Let me think. Good God! why can't I think? Yes—see here, you go down the bottom of this gully to the mouth of the coulee, and then we turn to the left—no, it; to the right—and you bear up along the side of the draw till you get to the ridge, and then the house is right in front of you. Listen now! The wind's northwest, and the house is west of the head of the coulee; so the mouth is east of us. and lee; so the mouth is east of us, and that brings the wind on the left cheek at the mouth of the coulee, and it comes more and more on the right cheek as we turn up the ridge; and it's on the front half of the right cheek when we face the house. I'm sure that's right-wait I'll mark it out here in the snow. God! how cold it is! It must be right. Come on; come! We must try it, anyway." "We may hit the house, Cap," said

Sam calmly, "but if we miss it we'll go God knows where! Anyhow, I'm with you, an' if we don't turn up, we can't help it, an' we done our best."

"Come," cried Franklin once more.
"Let's get to the mouth of the coulee. I know this place perfective."

I know this place perfectly.'

And so, advancing and calling, and waiting while Sam fought the stub-born horses with lash and rein out of the shelter which they coveted, Franklin led out of the flat couled into the wider draw, and edged up and up to the right, agonizedly re peating to himseif, over and over again, the instructions he had laid again, the instructions he had ind down, and which the dizzy whirl of the snow mingled ever confusedly in his mind. At last they had the full gale again in their faces, as they reached the level of the prairies, and cast loose for what they thought was west, fearfully, tremblingly, the voy-age a quarter of a mile, the danger infinitely great; for beyond lay only the cruel plains and the bitter storm -this double norther of a woeful Christmastide.

Once again Providence aided them by agency of brute instinct. One of the horses threw up its head and neighed, and then both pressed forward eagerly. The low moan of penned cattle came down the wind. They crashed into a fence of lath.
They passed its end—a broken, raptling end, that trailed and swept back and forth in the wind.

"It's the chicken corral," cried Sam, "an' it's down! They've been burnin'—"

"Go on! Go on-hurry!" shouted Franklin, bending down his head so that the gale might not quite rob him of his breath, and Sam urged on the now willing horses.

They came to the sod barn, and here they left the team that had saved them, not pausing to take them from the harness. They crept to the low and white-banked wall in which two windows, glazed with They could see the chimney plainly, but it carried no smell of smoke. The stairway leading down to the door of the dugout was miss-ing, the excavation which held it was drifted full of snow, and the snow bore no track of human foot. All was white and silent. It might have been a vault far in the frozen northern

I AM TIRED.

Everybody is Tired - Spring Weather Does It-Every One Should Be Cautious.

Depression of the nervous system at the approach of spring is the cause. General lassitude, dell, heavy sensations, continual tired feeling, with irregular appetite, and sometimes loss of sleep. Peruna meets every indication and proves itself to be perfectly adapted to all their varied peculiarities. Peruna invigorates the system rejuvenates the feelings, restores the normal appetite and produces regular

That tired feeling which is the nat-sleep.

That tired feeling which is the natural result of the depressing effect of warm weather immediately after the invigorating cold of winter, quietly disappears when Peruna is taken. Thousands are daily testifying to its priceless benefit.

Mrs. H. Kassatt, 1309 West 13th street, Des Moines, Ia., writes: "I am happy to give my endorsement for your valuable medicine, Peruna, as I consider it a valuable medicine to take when the system is run down from overwork. About two years ago I felt that I must take a long rest as I had been unable to work for over a month and could not regain my strength. I could not sleep at night and was in a very nervous, high strung, condition. I decided to try what Peruna would do to build up my strength, and am pleased to say that I began to improve very shortly, and in less than two months I was able to take up my work, and felt better than I have for years. I take it now twice a year and find that it keeps me in perfect health." Mrs. Kassatt was for over ten years the manager of a plant furnishing ladies' wear and employing hundreds of women.

Englishmen and Americans Differ in

"In one respect," says the London Chronicle, "the Englishman, unlike the foreigner, uses both hands equally and that is when he is eating his dinner The foreigner, not excepting the American, starts fair, with the knife in his right hand and the fork in his left; but as soon as #e has cut of a mouthful of meat the knife is laid down and the fork is transferred to his right hand before the morsel can be conveyed to his mouth. The proc-ess seems clumsy and prolonged to the Englishman, though he practices the same clumsiness in the other occupations of his daily life; but it might be interesting to know why we are ambidextrous over our beefsteak. while the canvasback duck, for instance, can arrive in the mouth of an American only through the medium of his right hand."

Broadland, S. D., March 28.—Quite a sensation has been created here by the publication of the story of G. W. Gray who, after a special treatment for three months was prostrate and helpless and given up to die with Bright's Disease. Bright's Disease has always been considered incurable, but evidently from the story told by Mr. Gray, there is a remedy which will cure it even in the most advanced stages. This is what he says:

stages. This is what he says:
"I was helpless as a little babe. My wife and I searched everything and read everything we could find about Dright's Disease, hoping that I would be that I would be able to find a remedy. After many failures my wife insisted that I should up Dodd's Kidney Pills. I praise God for the day when I decided to do so for this remedy met every phase of my case and in a short time I was shie to get out of hed and after a few weeks' treatment I was a strong, well man. GLORIES OF LOUISIANA PUR-CHASE EXPOSITION.

St. Louis Man Describes in Poetic Manner the Wonders Which Will Be Shown the World When the Gates of the Pair are Opened.

The following eloquent and poetic description of the beauties of the coming Louisicha Purchase Exposition is from the pen of Mr. H. Muchall, an olicial of the Missouri Pacific Railway, at St. Louis:

Where a wilderness of forest trees but a few short months ago, lifted their whispering branches to the Heavens; where the native wild flowers of "gentle breath and hue" bloomed in bewildering profusion; where the pretty squirrel disported himself in the most becoming man, agr, eyeing askance the venturesome person who chanced to stroll into bis preserves, there now greets the eye the beautiful buildings of the Louis-iana Purchase Exposition. Nature has been supplanted by the art of man in so short a time as to make one almost incredulous that so much could have been accomplished.

A renowned French author has said A renowned French author has said that from the origin of things, down to the Fifteenth century, the intelligence of a nation, that is to say, its religious and artistic tendencies, habits, customs and traditions, found expression in its architecture. Mortuments of stone were the books of the people. The very life of society was woven into the great arches, columns, pylons, colonades, facades of was were into the great arches, colusins, pylons, colonades, facades of the solemn yet beautiful architecture of the period referred to. But with the advent of printing, architecture was dethroned. It ceased to symbolse all the arts and to be the great book of humanity. The source of its inspiration was gone; printing supplanted it rapidly. As a means of education people chose the lighter, but more enduring medium of expressien of thought, viz., the printed book, which they knew would find its way sooner or later into every home, even the most lumble. Thus the book
"Architecture" with its stone pages died a lingering death, and the book
"Paper," with its printed thought came into existence. Yet could this eminent writer step into the grounds eminent writer step into the grounds of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition a few months hence, he would find reincarnated in its palaces that lost soul of architecture which went out with the Fifteenth century.

Space will not permit of a detailed cription of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, to let us leave it asleep today under a mantle of soft, feathery snow—the rame peaceful refreshing sleep that brings to the rose strength vigor to unfold its wondrous sweet-scenied petals to the morning and gladden the smiling landacape. For when the first breath of Spring blows from the Southland, that sleep blows from the Southland, that sleep will have ended and the bewitching Goddess of the Louisiana Purchase will stand forth in all her regal splen-dor with her flowing creamy robes shimmering in the sunlight, her fair broad brow garlanded with flowers, her lustrous starlike eyes lifted to the Heavens and stretching out her beautiful arms to the four corners of the earth, she will beckon all neonle the earth, she will becken all people to her feet. Aye, and they will come in tens of thousands to drink in that matchless grace, beauty and purity which, distilled from all the centuries that have passed, and caught up by the magic hand of time, have been lavished upon her.

Wake mc a sony.

Ont of the silences wake me a song,
Beautiful, sad, and soft, and low;
Lef the lovellest music sound slong,
And wing each note with a wall of woe
Dim and drenr
As hope's last tea,
Out of the silencer wake me a hymn,
Whose sounds are like shadows soft and Atter.

Out of the stillness in your heart—
A thousand wags are sleeping there.
A thousand wags are sleeping there.
Wake me a song, thou child of art!
The song of a hope in a last despair.
Dark and low.
A chant of wee.
Out of the stillness tone by tone,
Cold as a snowhake, low as a mean.

Out of the darkness fineli me a song.
Brightly dark and durkly bright;
Let it sweep as a lone star sweep along
The mystical stadows of the night.
Where nothing is drear, or dark, or dim,
And earth-song soars into heavenly hymn.

Patrolman Had Seen Him.

As Judge Emmons was making an early start for his office a few days ago, he met, at the ferry, one of his "finest" is the blue and brass of the department, and the judge greeted him pleasantly with: "Good morning, officer; I see Jack Frost is out this morning." And the wise patrolman, wishing to give the judge the impression that he knew everybody, and slightly missing the name, answered: "Yes, Mr. Chairman; I saw him cross the ferry the boat that just went over.'

Blindman's Buff.

The hands of the children have blinded his eyes,

They turn him and spin him about;

For a moment he stands; then a plunge with his hands.

A scamper, a laugh, and a shout;

A scamper, a laugn, and a count,
And it's "Who will he catch?" "Is it Nellie or Jack?"
With everyone holding his breath;
Thes an end ic-our fun, for the kerchief
aligs down,
And we see that the Blindman is Death

Bebbed The Gra-

A startling incident, is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man! I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed, at Jno. L. Gale's and The Wolverine Drug Co.

There is an old Dutchman w Germantown who has made a comfortable fortune, gradually accumulating and saving, until a few years ago he retired from active business, and has retired from active business, and has since lived frugally upon his income. Notwithstanding this, he does his own gardening and any odd tinkering about his home. After a recent snow storm he found his sidewalk covered with snow one morning, and went out armed with a shovel, prepared to clear it off. He was met at the front steps by an Irishman, who had come to solicit the job.
