The Rainy Day Must Come

In every household sickness is bound to come sometime. Then what comfort it is to know of a doctor to whom you can go with perfect confidence—whose knowledge and skill you feel sure of! Likewise, is it not equally comforting when your physician has given you a prescription, to know of a Drug Store where you can have it filled with equal assurance that every care will be taken to make the medicine exactly right, exactly as called for—always from pure ingredients, always by a skilled compounder, always at a perfectly reasonable charge? Your physician will tell you that such a store is ours; that very few Drug Stores are so perfectly equipped, or do nearly so large a prescription business. Hardly a day passes that we do not fill a prescription for a customer living at a distance. Why do they come to us? It is because they have discovered by some telling experience that it pays them to do so. Will you profit by the experience?

Look Cheerful.

No matter how depressed you feel,
Look cheerful!
A gloomy face is ungentle,
Look cheerful!
Nobody cares about your woes,
Each has his sorrows, goodness knows
Why should you your griefs disclose?
Look cheerful!
Though you are blue as indigo,
Look cheerful!
You're prettier when you smile, you know.
Look cheerful!
The world abhors a gloomy face,
And tales of woe are commonplace.
So stir yourself, and take a brace—

The SHERIFF'S DAUGHTER

BY HENRY Q. BARRISON

"About five years ago I was staying in a little town on the Pacific coast, partly for health and partly for pleasure, and it was there I first made the acquaintance of Tom Chatterin. Tom was a great favorite in the neighborhood, as his face, form and manners were irreproachable, and we soon became fast friends. We were called the twins by the wits of the town, for we were inseparable, and many a lonely night we spent together, camped on the hillsides under the twinkling stars. But Tom had a buried past, and no matter how jovial he was he would never speak of his early life, so I concluded he had suffered some bitter disappointment and had buried himself away from civilization in the rude but hospitable west.

"He was, like many others, very susceptible to female charms, and was—or was reputed to be—in love with Eva Liston, the daughter of the sheriff of the county, one of the greatest of thief hunters known, but his daughter was his opposite in every way, and was the fairest and sweetest girl on the shores of the Pacific.

"One morning I shouldered my rifle and sauntered down the principal street of the town, on my way to seek Chatterin, who was to accompany me on a day's shooting. I had not proceeded far before I met the object of my search, who rushed up and said, hurriedly:

"I can't go to-day, Jim. I have received some news about family affairs that has staggered me completely. I'm awfully sorry, but I really don't feel fit to go out. Good-by and a pleasant day's sport.

"I watched his retreating form as he dashed up the street, and then slowly paced along wondering what could disturb a man usually so cool and confident, but I soon gave up surmising and started for the hills intending to make the best of a bad matter and spend as good a day as possible.

"It was a singularly unlucky day, for I could not get within range of anything large, so with a curse at my ill luck I made tracks for the town early in the evening. I did not tell you that the town was situated on a rocky coast, whose shores were precipitous and dangerous in the extreme, especially near the town; in fact, no vessel save skiffs and small boats dare run the gauntlet into the little sheltered bay inside the breakers.

"As I approached the town I felt a little sheepish at returning so early, and empty-handed to boot; so I determined to take a stroll by the shore until night fell, when I could slip unnoticed home. I struck down by the shore road, but soon quickened my pace, for I observed a crowd running in the direction of the Black Rocks, the most dangerous point on the whole coast, and I immediately concluded that some wayfarer had fallen over the rocks and was dashed to pieces below. I rushed up breathless and saw them gazing into the roaring sea hundreds of feet below, straining their eyes to catch a glimpse of some object beneath.

"He has escaped!" roared a big, burly man whom I recognized as the sheriff; but by heaven, he shall never reach him alive! Would a revolver reach him, I wonder? and, throwing himself down, he crept to the edge of the cliff and fired several shots toward the sea.

"Missed!" he growled as he wiped again, as it will save us the trouble of finishing him. Hello, Mr. Harding! addressing me, 'are you here?' I asked the meaning of all the excitement, and as I spoke the crowd gazed curiously at me, and some of them audibly remarked that I had been fooled, too.

"Well, it means that your twin brother, as he was called, is not Mr. Chatterin, but Jake Gaston, the most bloodthirsty and relentless villain in the states. You needn't look alarmed. I don't blame you, as I know you never suspected him—neither did I, for he has been hiding here for years. He dispatched a message down the coast this morning to send a vessel up, for he smelled a rat; but we were too quick and made a raid on the house. Confound the fellow! He slipped through our fingers like an eel and made for the coast. Finding himself closely pressed, he went down these rocks like a monkey, and now sits below out of reach awaiting the vessel. By heaven! there she is and he signals her! and he pointed to a schooner that swept around the point under sail and anchored half a mile from the shore.

"The excitement was now intense, and bets were freely taken about the result. They of the schooner saw that they dare not approach nearer to the shore, and were evidently afraid to send a boat through such a treacherous reef.

"The sheriff danced with glee at their discomfiture, and, turning to me, said:

"Would you oblige me with your rifle, Mr. Harding, as my revolver can not reach him? I have instructions to take his body, alive or dead."

"I politely declined to part with my rifle for such a purpose, much to his astonishment, as Chatterin had never wronged me and I had no wish to assist at his death.

"When matters were at a deadlock a skiff shot out from the coast, describing a crescent, spoke to the schooner, and skinned in to the rescue of the prisoner. All eyes were turned on the fragile boat, and as it drew near to the rocks below I saw, with horror, that the occupant was the sheriff's pretty daughter.

"Nearer and nearer crept the little boat, dodging through the network of rocks till at last it was so near that I could distinguish the golden locks and white, set face of the rower. Poor girl, she loved him despite his wicked career, and I could not but admire the unselfish devotion of the unfortunate girl.

"The sheriff was beside himself with rage and vexation at being cheated by his own daughter, and as the skiff shot out, Chatterin, or rather Gaston, stood up and waved him an ironic adieu. Eva stood by his side, the tears streaming down her face. But they were tears of joy.

"We watched them till the boat was a mere speck on the bosom of the ocean. That was the last I have ever seen of my 'twin brother.' Like Barkis, he went out with the tide,"—Henry Q. Barrison in Chicago Journal.

Spirit of Unrest in Russia Growing Dangerous.

Conditions in southern Russia are giving very serious concern to the government, and one of the first undertakings of the new minister of the interior, Prince Mirsky, will be to find out the underlying causes of the dissatisfaction in that portion of the empire, and to devise and apply remedies. If the revolutionary feeling evidenced by the Odessa outrage should show signs of spreading, and this is regarded as not at all improbable, it will have an important bearing on the dispatch of troops to the front. The government will hardly dare to deplete European Russia of regulars if it appears that there is really serious danger of internal outbreaks.

The outbreak at Odessa, where great crowds shouted "Down with war," when the czar came to review the troops assembled there who are about to depart for the far east, is regarded by those familiar with internal conditions in Russia to be sympathetic. One peculiar feature of the situation in Russia now is that the dissatisfaction is as much against the royal family as against the government. This has not been the case heretofore. The description which is being vigorously enforced is extremely unpopular. It would not be surprising to hear of similar demonstrations in Poland, Finland and, in fact, in a dozen other sections of European Russia.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1904.

Drain Will Be Laid.

At the council meeting last Monday evening a large number of bills were paid, including one of $540 for cement sidewalks. The village has paid this year over $1000 for crosswalks and its one-third share of sidewalks. Money well spent.

The committee on streets recommended that the bid of $975 of George White for constructing the Main street drain be accepted. The recommendation was adopted and the President and clerk instructed to enter into a contract with Mr. White for building the drain at once. The assessment roll having been made out on an estimated basis of expense for the drain of $833, the street committee further recommended that the roll remain unchanged and that the difference be paid out of the general village fund.

Mr. Wilmarth, surveyor of the water works pipe line, was present and stated that with certain changes of grade in the line, which would not be to its detriment, the line could be built for about $1,000 less than the bid received by the council of $15,930. He was instructed to make these changes, when the council will be ready to receive further bids. As stated, however, in our last issue, contractors are not anxious to do the work as the trouble experienced by the former builders of the line in digging through the quicksand, is still in the minds of these gentlemen. There is no probability, however, that the new line will be constructed this fall. Yet the matter should not be allowed to drop at this time, but a contract made, if possible.

George A. Starkweather deeded to the village as a public alley a strip of land twenty feet wide in the rear of stores in north village, provided the village would build a crosswalk and approaches thereto, estimated to cost about $15. The council accepted the conditions.

The assessment roll for the Main street drain construction was approved.

The Ball Game at Milford.

The Plymouth ball team won the first prize in the Milford tournament last Friday afternoon. It required ten innings to decide the contest, the score standing 7 to 6.

An unfortunate incident, says the Milford Times, in the middle of the game promised for a moment to cause serious trouble in the crowd. F. R. Cate of Milford was playing second base and Toncray of Plymouth in running to that base in some way collided forcibly with Cate and the latter struck Toncray a lightning blow in the face. The crowd closed in and the friends of both men had hard work for a few minutes to prevent further blows among bystanders.

Messrs. Cate and Toncray both left the field. They later appeared at the center of the diamond where Mr. Cate addressed the crowd, stating that he struck Toncray in the heat of the moment, thinking that the latter had purposely struck him. He had learned that Toncray's act was unintentional and he had profusely apologized to him and now did so to the crowd. His remarks were received by hearty applause by the crowd and it was generally considered that the incident had been closed in the best possible manner.

The Republican meetings last Saturday afternoon and evening were attended by fair sized crowds, weather considered. The issues of the day were thoroughly discussed by the speakers, who seemingly made their points so clear that all must have been convinced of the rightfulness of the claims made. While no political mud was thrown at the opposing candidate, Fred M. Warner's position in the campaign was set forth in such a clear and thorough a manner that it does not seem possible a single Republican vote ought to be lost to him, and we do not believe there will be. Hon. W. W. Wedemeyer and P. A. Kelly and Mr. Webster were the speakers.

OBITUARY.

Anna Harrison Burnett was born in Chester county, Pa., April 18th, 1869. Came to Michigan when about twenty years of age. Was married to Adna Burnett Feb'y 20th, 1892, and removed to Plymouth the following spring, where she resided until her death, Sept. 29th, 1904. Three children were born to them, two of whom preceded their mother to the better world. She leaves a husband, a little daughter, father, brother and sister, besides many friends to mourn her loss. Gentle and unassuming in disposition, ever thoughtful of the comfort and welfare of those about her, her life was an example worthy of emulation. By her death a place has been made vacant in the home circle that will be difficult to fill. A loving wife, a tender mother and a kind friend and neighbor has been called home.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Burnett was held from the Methodist church last Sunday afternoon and was attended by a large number of friends and acquaintances. Rev. T. B. Leith conducted the service.

Fred Dunn Died at Harper Hospital.

Upon the advice of the attending physician, Fred Dunn was taken on last Saturday to Harper hospital, Detroit, that he might have hospital advantages for undergoing an operation, this being considered the only means of saving his life. However, his strength did not rally sufficiently to make an operation practical and he gradually grew weaker until Sunday morning, about 11 o'clock, when he passed away, while yet conversing with friends from Plymouth. A post mortem held revealed a condition of the bowels that would have even rendered an operation useless and that death was inevitable.

The remains were brought to Plymouth Sunday evening and laid in the Masonic lodge room, where a detail of brethren watched with them until the funeral hour, Tuesday afternoon.

Probably no more solemn or impressive funeral service was ever held in Plymouth than that of Mr. Dunn in the lodge room. It seemed to be the right place and many loyal friends and brothers gathered at the time stated to pay the last tribute of respect to the deceased. The donations of flowers from friends and fraternal bodies was more than ordinary, nothing like such a beautiful profusion having been seen here on similar occasions. It betokened the friendship and regard in which the deceased was held in the community in which he had lived all his life. Rev. Lee S. McColester preached a beautiful sermon, full of loving tenderness for the deceased and admonishment for the living. Rev. T. B. Leith also assisted in the services and music was rendered by a choir consisting of Messrs. Bert and Fred Bennett, S. O. Hudd and C. H. Rauch.

The Masonic burial service was conducted in the lodge room in a most impressive manner, Worshipful Master Ludd, a devoted friend and who had given much care to Mr. Dunn in his sickness, speaking in a most earnest and feeling voice. The remains were deposited in Riverside cemetery, being accompanied to their resting place by many brothers of the order.

Fred Dunn was born on a farm west of Plymouth, July 17, 1862. He was married to Ida M. Milsbaugh, June 6, 1883. A man of fine physique, he was also of a genial disposition and attracted to himself many friends, as was attested by the universal expressions of regret and sorrow when it became known that he had passed away. He leaves a mother and two sisters, one brother and one sister preceding him to the unknown beyond.

Cheaper Lights.

A week or two ago The Mail stated that a Mr. Ward, of Ann Arbor, had made a proposition to the council to furnish electricity to the village at two cents per 1000 watts. The proposition has been in the hands of the electric lighting committee and they have made some figures. No report has as yet been made to the council, but it is understood that if a contract is made with Mr. Ward the village will save annually over $500 for lighting its streets over the expense of operating its own plant. Besides the private consumers will get a price of eight cents or better per 1000 watts, where they are paying ten now. The advantage of getting cheaper electricity is therefore very obvious and the council is favorably disposed toward the proposition. South Lyon and Northville are also said to be in line to take advantage of Mr. Ward's scheme and there appears to be but little doubt that the plant will be built. Mr. Ward agrees that current will be furnished on July 1, 1905, and if the Plymouth council is satisfied that the proposition is such as is claimed they would be serving the people if it were accepted. In case of emergency the local plant could be utilized.

Moreland Acquitted.

The jury in the Moreland case returned a verdict of acquittal after being out a little over half an hour. This case, together with costs of the grand jury which was called to investigate alleged crookedness in municipal affairs at the behest more especially of the Scripps newspapers, has cost the county over $30,000. And Prosecutor Hunt who ought to have known just how much evidence he had in hand to convict, is responsible for saddling this expense on the people. The amount actually involved in the case just tried was something over $600, and which could have been recovered, if actually lost by the city, from Mr. Moreland himself or his bondsmen in a suit at law. Mr. Hunt has made too many grandstand plays at the expense of the people and should be retired at the end of his term. Mr. Moreland's attorney's have requested the court to set a date for trying the other indictments against him, as they will not be satisfied until he has been fully vindicated of all charges.

IN GREAT DISTRESS

VOMITING SPELLS LONG RESISTED EVERY EFFORT TO CHECK.

Mrs. Brooks Became So Weak She Thinks She Would Have Died But For Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mrs. Sarah L. Brooks, of No. 45 Lincoln Park, Chicago, Illinois, gives the following account of her cure from distressing spells of vomiting:

"For five years off and on I was treated in vain by different doctors for relief from a stomach trouble which showed itself in frequent and trying spells of vomiting. Part of the time I was able to work, and again I would be confined to bed for three or four days in succession.

"My stomach was at times so delicate that it would not retain even plain water. The spells would sometimes occur at intervals of half an hour, and would leave me so weak that I would be compelled to lie down between them. I would have several of them during the night following a day of such attacks. Finally I became so weakened that I had to give up working altogether. I weighed only ninety-four pounds.

"Last January I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in one of the Chicago daily papers and bought a box and began to use them. After I had used half a box I found that I could keep on my stomach the food I ate. I was encouraged by this and kept on using the pills for four months. At the end of that time the vomiting spells had ceased altogether and my weight went up to 142 pounds and is still growing.

"I think I surely would have died if it had not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for I sometimes vomited clear blood, and for three or four days at a time I could not eat a bite of anything. One doctor said I had chronic inflammation of the stomach, and another said my difficulty was a cancer, but none of their medicines did me any good at all. Finally I concluded that I did not have blood enough to digest my food, and I began the treatment that has cured me. I can eat anything now, and have strength for all kinds of work. I always keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on hand, and I recommend them to my friends because I know they cured me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills agree with the most delicate stomachs and strengthen the digestive organs until they do their work perfectly. They are sold by all druggists.

Good Housekeeping.

Good housekeeping is the science of combining perfect cleanliness and neatness with economy and comfort, of giving to the inmates of the home healthy bodies through the preparation of wholesome and palatable food, careful and intelligent attention to sanitation and the laws of hygiene. It also includes the fine art of homemaking in its highest and truest sense.

Allen's Foot-Ease, Wonderful Remedy.

"Have tried ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, and find it to be a certain cure, and gives comfort to one suffering with sore, tender and swollen feet. I will recommend ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE to my friends, as it is certainly a wonderful remedy.—Mrs. N. H. Gullford, New Orleans, La."

"It's a strange fact," said the college professor, "that the very students who don't like Greek in my classes are the ones who yell for 'Homer' at a baseball game."

CURIOUS WAYS OF SEA CRABS.

Take Elaborate Precautions to Protect Themselves From Enemies.

Certain species of crabs cover themselves with sea weed in order to deceive their foes. One crab was seen by the naturalist, Eisig, in 1878, to pluck off zoophytes, those plant-like animal colonies which grow on shells and stones, and to fix them on the spines and hairs of its shell. A still deeper romance of defensive tactics is to be found in the case of certain hermit crabs. They live in the cast-off shells of whelks and crawl about, house on back. One claw is bigger than the other, and this is an adaptive feature, for when the crab retires into its house the bigger claw is tucked across the mouth of the shell to bar the way against a possible intruder. More curious still is the habit of one species which toils along with a sea anemone fixed to its shell, like S. S. bad carrying the Old Man of the Sea. Great care is taken of this anemone. It is fed by the crab, and if the latter has to seek a new shell by reason of its growth he tenderly shifts his tentacles of the old abode and places him on the new one.

A Small Boy's Essay on Water.

A very original essay on water by a very small boy is quoted by a contemporary. He divides all water into four subheadings—rain water, soda water, holy water and brine. "Water," he continues, "is used for a good many things. Sailors use water to go to sea on. Water is a good thing to fire at boys with a squirt gun and to catch fishes in." But the strangest of all uses for water is this: "Nobody," he says, "could be saved from drowning if there wasn't water to pull them out of." One is here reminded of a similar essay on pins, in the course of which the boy writer said that pins had saved many lives by people not swallowing them.—Rams Horn.

Restrict Rights of Buildings.

These requirements as to height of buildings in Manchester, Eng., are enforced: Buildings in narrow streets shall not exceed in height two and a half times the width of such street; buildings in the principal streets are restricted to ninety feet, and buildings in ordinary streets are restricted to sixty-five feet.

In the village of Meavy, Dartmoor, England, is an old oak which was flourishing in the reign of King John, and is still flourishing, though supported by stout props.

Sure Cure at Last.

Monticello, Miss., Oct 3 (Special)—Lawrence County is almost daily in receipt of fresh evidence that a sure cure for all Kidney Troubles has at last been found, and that cure is DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Among those who have reason to bless the Great American Kidney Remedy is Mrs. L. E. Baggett of this place. Mrs. Baggett had Dropsy. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her. "I was troubled with my kidneys," Mrs. Baggett says in recommending Dodd's Kidney Pills to her friends, "my urine would hardly pass. The doctors said I had Dropsy. I have taken Dodd's Kidney Pills as directed and am now a well woman."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the kidneys. Cured kidneys strain all the impurities out of the blood. That means pure blood and a sound energetic body. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the greatest tonic the world has ever known.

Cling to Their Farms

"All the farms in New England are not in the market," said a man whose business tends to speculation in farm property. "Some are being held by the old people as a matter of sentiment."

"In one of my recent trips down in Maine I stopped at a farmhouse that was erected more than sixty years ago. The owner did not know it, but I had gone all over his land and had taken a fancy to it. He and his housekeeper were the sole occupants of the house at the time of my visit.

"We were on the veranda one evening, when I broached the subject of buying his farm. He said it was not for sale at any price. I suggested as diplomatically as I could that he would not need the place much longer, and that with the money I proposed to pay him he could pass the remainder of his days in peace and independence.

"I knew that he had a boy in New York who was doing well, and who would never return to the old farm. I mentioned this as an inducement to make the trade. He shook his head the more determinedly.

"That's the reason," he said, "that I don't want to sell. If it was not for that boy I might be tempted to let the old place go. But it's this way:

"He was born here. He went to school not more than three miles from here. He knows every path in the woods. He has played all over this ground as far as your eyes can see.

"Just across the field over there is the family burying ground. His mother and brother and sister are all there, side by side. I guess you are right when you say he will not want to come back. He's got to be quite a city man, and I never expect to see him come back here to live. Perhaps 'tain't natural that he should.

"I ain't never asked him to come back, and I don't think that I ever shall. But some of these days when he gets along where I am now, maybe he'll get tired. Of course, he'll have his own home in the city by that time, where he can sit down and take it easy. I hope so.

"But after that it may be some consolation to him to know that he will be sent back here. That's why the farm ain't for sale."

"And his refusal to sell is the refusal of many others in the old state. They are holding on their places for the sake of their children who have gone away, but who, they are sure, will be sent back if they do not come of their own volition. That is why the old farms in New England are not for sale."—New York Sun.

Crabs Made the Trouble

One of the prominent women of Orange, N. J., gave a crab dinner the other night, to which she invited a dining room full of guests. The function proved highly enjoyable, and not a few remarked to their hostess that they had never seen crabs so deliciously cooked. Some of her more intimate neighbors even besought of her to tell them the secret.

With a smile which reflected the pride she felt, the hostess was about to whisper the recipe to a haughty looking dame at her elbow, when a low moan from the kitchen alarmed the whole table and brought the conversation to an abrupt stop. The next moment the waitress, who had been acting queerly for some time, rushed back from the kitchen with a bandage in one hand and a bottle of sweet oil in the other. The hostess was the first to recover her composure, and, catching hold of the bandage, she asked:

"Mary, is there anyone hurt?"

"It's the c-c-cook, mum," stammered Mary.

"And what is the matter with Bridget?"

"Shure, mum, she burnt herself. I ou-ought tu haf told you afore mum. It wuz in the fixin' of them crabs, mum."

The hostess excitedly excused herself and rushed to the kitchen. There she found the cook, rocking back and forth in a chair, doubled up as with the most intense pain. On seeing her mistress, Bridget showed fright, and attempted to disguise her sufferings by struggling to her feet.

"You're badly hurt, Bridget?" said her employer hurriedly. "What is the matter? Tell me all about it."

"It's ashamed ter tell yub. It's 'traid yull fire me if you knows what's happened. It wuz the crabs, mum."

"Did you not prepare them according to the cook book I gave you yesterday? That new way, called Tote embroille?"

"Sure, I did, mum, but when I chucked 'em in the pan the blasted critters kicked the grease all over me."

The housewife threw up her hands. "Oh, Bridget!" she screamed, "do you mean to say you didn't clean them?"

"Shure I did, mum," was the reply. "I held them under the faucet."

Love Among the Japanese

The boys and girls, the young men and young women of Japan do love each other, I suppose, but one never sees the slightest shadow of evidence to prove it. The spirit of love does not dominate the national life as it does in America and the countries of Europe. Japan's poets do not sing of love; her story writers tell no tales of love that can thrill an Anglo-Saxon heart, and her artists paint no pictures of love that can reach the Anglo-Saxon understanding. Now, considering all this, how can there be such a thing as "a good old summer time" in this land of the sunrise? And yet there is, and it is especially delightful in its way, too, because the Japanese are a nation of feasters and picknickers, of nature lovers and world beautifiers, and if one can only lose sight of the fact that everywhere one goes the poor little women toddle meekly along behind the men, who stalk pompously ahead as if they owned the earth, one may almost enjoy one's self.

One never sees a woman caressed in Japan, not even with a glance; one seldom sees a baby fondled; in fact all human tenderness or expression of human tenderness is conspicuous by its absence, and I believe that is the one impassable great gulf that is fixed between us and this people which is endeavoring so earnestly to become one of us. And yet the people are happy with a simple, sweet happiness that is charming. That is it. It is an atmosphere that mildly charms, but never thrills, the western heart. All the nation's love is concentrated upon the emperor, and the highest note of the national life is sounded in yamato-damashi, Japan spirit—patriotism; and even this is beyond our comprehension, because it is empty of romance and unsatisfactory to us, who cannot separate the interests of "fair women and brave men" even upon the battlefield.—Elean Franklin's Japan Letter in Leslie's Weekly.

Valuable Red Sea Jewels

Many valuable jewels are fished out of the Red Sea. The pearl fisheries in that body of water are very little known, but according to United States Consul Masterson, who writes from Aden, Arabia, they are important.

"The name Lohia applies to a small group of islands at the lower end of the Red sea, and pearl fishing has been carried on there for a number of years. The divers are all Arabs, but the men who finance the industry are generally natives of India, and for this reason it is hard to get the correct output in numbers of pearls or their value for any particular year, as a great number of the pearls found at Lohia go direct to Bombay and are not reported here at all.

"There are several merchants who handle these pearls. Each pearl or collection of pearls is sold according to the particular perfection of the pearl or collection, and there can be no price given for pearls indiscriminately.

"Several years ago there was a trade with the United States in mother-of-pearl shells from these pearl fisheries, but the entire output now goes to Europe.

"Pearls are the most popular of all the precious stones among the inhabitants of India and Arabia, and it is very seldom that a native woman of any social position is seen without pearl ornaments of some kind, either in rings for the nose, ears or fingers, and some even wear pearl rings on their toes. There are also extensive pearl fisheries in the Persian gulf, the entire output going to Bombay."—Jewelers' Circular Weekly.

Washington Had His Heart

Mrs. N.— is the teacher of the infant class in one of the best known Sunday schools in the city of Washington. Among her numerous scholars is her own small son, who has the greatest respect and love for the memory of that illustrious man whom all loyal Americans love and venerate—George Washington.

On the Fourth John was up bright and early, and, between firing off "crackers," exploding bombs, and throwing torpedoes on the ground to hear the noise they made, beseeched his mother to tell him of the first president of the United States, being particularly interested in the tales of him as a great soldier.

The Sunday following independence day, the Sunday school lesson was about Paul. Mrs. N.— laid special stress on the fact that Paul was a soldier of the Lord, ever ready to fight when duty called. When she thought the lesson had been fully understood by all the small tots present, she said:

"If any one of you can tell me the name of the brave soldier I have been telling you about, raise his hand."

The silence in the room could be felt. The little ones gazed at "teacher," but did not offer to answer her question. Finally her son caused her heart to swell with pride by raising his hand.

"Speak loudly, John," she said, "so we can all hear."

The answer came in strenuous tones: "George Washington!"

Many women are denied the happiness of children through derangement of the generative organs. Mrs. Beyer advises women to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered with stomach complaint for years. I got so bad that I could not carry my children but five months, then would have a miscarriage. The last time I became pregnant, my husband got me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking the first bottle I was relieved of the sickness of stomach, and began to feel better in every way. I continued its use and was enabled to carry my baby to maturity. I now have a nice baby girl, and can work better than I ever could before. I am like a new woman."—Mrs. FRANK BEYER, 22 S. Second St., Meriden, Conn.

Another case which proves that no other medicine in the world accomplishes the same results as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was married for five years and gave birth to two premature children. After that I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it changed me from a weak, nervous woman to a strong, happy and healthy wife within seven months. Within two years a lovely little girl was born, who is the pride and joy of my household. If every woman who is cured feels as grateful and happy as I do, you must have a host of friends, for every day I bless you for the light, health and happiness Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought to my home. Sincerely yours, Mrs. M. P. WEARRY, Flat 31, The Norman, Milwaukee, Wis."

Actual sterility in woman is very rare. If any woman thinks she is sterile let her write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., whose advice is given free to all would-be and expectant mothers.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

German Betrothal Customs.
When a maiden is betrothed in Germany she is called "bride" by her sweetheart, who addresses her thus until it becomes time to call her "wife." Immediately upon betrothal the lovers exchange rings, which, if the course of true love runs smooth, are to be worn ever afterward until death parts them. The woman wears her betrothal ring on the third finger of her left hand until she is married, and then it is transferred to the third finger of her right hand. The husband continues to wear the ring just as the wife wore hers when she was a "bride," so that one can easily tell at a glance if a man be or be not mortgaged as to his affections.

Memorials to Americans.
Many American boys and girls visit Europe nowadays, but perhaps few even of these fortunate young folk are aware that the greatest of English cities contains memorials to five distinguished Americans—a President, a patriot, a poet, a preacher, and a philanthropist. These five great men are Abraham Lincoln, James Russell Lowell, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Matthew Simpson and George Peabody—five names written high in the Hall of Fame, names immortal in life and letters, names forever illustrious in character and achievement.—St. Nicholas.

Bird Sentry on Guard.
I was interested on Sunday in watching the movements of birds. Crumpling a biscuit, I threw it out, sat down on the piazza and awaited results. It was not long after the birds came and helped themselves before a cat appeared. Then a warning note was sounded by a bird, evidently on guard on the top of the piazza, where he could survey the whole scene. At his warning every bird disappeared and remained in hiding until a reassuring note was heard from the little sentry posted on the piazza roof.—Boston Record.

About Books.
But for the art of reading there never would have been any books. The wide diffusion of that art accounts for the immense increase in the quantity of books. The lack of direction, cultivation and discrimination of that art accounts for the decline in the quality of books. Readers, like authors, are the victims of the world of letters in the violation of the habit of reading with interest and the love of good taste.—Henry van Dyke.

FORBES ROBERTSON,

Candidate for Republican Nomination for COUNTY TREASURER.

Forbes Robertson, candidate for the Republican nomination for county treasurer, is the son of Adj. Gen. John Robertson, who, with War Governor Blair, was so conspicuous in the raising and forwarding of Michigan troops to, and their care at, the front of the rebellion.
Born in Detroit, he was educated at the Cass school, the High school and Albion college, and has lived all his 43 years in the city, where he has been identified with various successful business enterprises, embarking in 1893 in the fire insurance business, in which he is now engaged.
Mr. Robertson was an original member of the D. A. C. and Michigan Athletic club and has been prominent in sports since the days of the old Cass baseball club, of which he was an active member. He also belongs to the Detroit Boat club, the Elks, Moose, St. Andrews society, Oddfellows, and the University club, and has served his term in the Light infantry and Naval Reserves, of which he is now a veteran.
His business experience has convinced all who know him of his fitness for the office he seeks, while his broad acquaintance in the city of his birth makes him a candidate to be reckoned on both in the primaries and at the election next November.
