Doesn't Respect Old Age.

It's shameful when youth fails to show proper respect for old age, but just the contrary in the case of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They cut off maladies no matter how severe and irrespective of old age. Dyspepsia, jaundice, fever, constipation, all yield to this perfect Pill. 25c at The Wolverine Drug Co's.

TONQUISH

The Helping Hand society held its November meeting with Mr. and Mrs. C. Parrish. There was a nice turnout and an interesting meeting was enjoyed. The annual election of officers took place in the course of the meeting as follows: President, Mrs. Mary King; vice president, Mrs. John Robinson; treasurer, Mrs. Sarah Cummings; secretary, Miss Minnie Parrish; chaplain, Mrs. Agnes Parrish. After the reading of thanks was given to the retiring officers, Mrs. Love read an original piece which was truly entertaining. The subject for roll call next month is "Gifts" are nothing without "charity." Adjourned to meet with Mr. and Mrs. King in December.

Miss Bessie Robinson is spending a few days with her brother at Monroe.

The Tonquish hunters, including John Robinson, John Reiman, Ed. Gillett and Ben Hix, left for the north Monday, where they had previously shipped their goods to McKinley.

Hert Robinson and Miss Edith Proctor were Detroit visitors Thursday.

The H. H. S. will hold a bazaar at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hix on Friday, Nov. 18th. They have a good assortment of useful articles on hand to be offered for sale and hope a large crowd will come out and enjoy themselves and help a good cause. Will begin serving supper at 5 p. m. and will continue till all have been served. Everyone is cordially invited.

Miss Ethel Proctor spent a few days last week with relatives in Detroit.

A Runaway Bicycle

Terminated with an ugly cut on the leg of J. B. Orner, Franklin Grove, Ill. It developed a stubborn ulcer unyielding to doctors and remedies for four years. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured. It's just as good for burns, scalds, skin eruptions and piles. 25c at The Wolverine Drug Co's.

NEWBURG.

Our school will hold a poverty social at Newburg hall, Friday evening, Nov. 18. Admission 5 and 10 cents. Those not representing poverty fined 25 cents; prizes given.

Mrs. Helen Smith visited at Wixom this week.

Not a Sick Day Since.

"I was taken severely sick with kidney trouble. I tried all sorts of medicines, none of which relieved me. One day I saw an ad. of your Electric Bit ters and determined to try that. After taking a few doses I felt relieved and soon thereafter was entirely cured, and have not seen a sick day since. Neighbors of mine have been cured of rheumatism, neuralgia, liver and kidney troubles and general debility." This is what B. F. Bass, of Fremont, N. C., writes. Only 50c. at John L. Gule's and The Wolverine Drug Co's.

At what age does a woman become an old maid? Not until she herself is willing to admit it.

And speaking of the prevailing fashions, there'll be no change in the Episcopal marriage tie.

Another New York woman has lost a $100,000 necklace. They all seem to have them to lose down there.

"Are we a music-loving people?" asks the Traveler. Question. We get dead tired of "Navajo" and "Hiawatha."

Pugilist Melody has been victorious over Pugilist O'Keefe. This is not likely, however, to bring up a new race issue.

Another industry that's picking up is watching the ticker. It still ranks high under the head of dangerous occupations.

The revolution in Panama did not materialize. People living along the isthmus will have to look out for a different line of amusement.

A New York alleged expert says it costs only $39 a year for a woman to dress properly. He probably refers to the little woman in the chorus.

The esteemed New York Tribune refers to an automobile which ran "through a fence and landed into a stable." Isn't this rather North Carolina?

The Princess of Wales says that it is vulgar for women to smoke. If the Anglomaniacs on this side follow the princess in this matter much will be forgiven.

Daniel Webster once said: "Wherever there is work for the hands there is work for the teeth." Daniel was probably reaching for the dentist vote at the time.

Prunes raised in California are sent to France, repacked, and come back to this country as French prunes. Their exquisite flavor is due to the higher price you pay.

William K. Vanderbilt is making preparations at Idle Hour for winter lawn tennis under glass. Winter baseball under glass has been found to be wholly practicable yet.

The Denver Post says: "Within three days a Denver couple have had a hired girl, admired girl and fired girl." Well, bet a dollar we can guess who did the hiring and firing.

A woman in New York has puzzled specialists by standing in one spot for twenty-four hours motionless. It is safe to assert that none of the stores had advertised bargain sales for that day.

The latest estimate of the total population of the world is 1,503,290,000, and yet rash young men continue to sing with sentimental feeling: "There's only one girl in the world for me!"

Lone Tree hill holds a prominent place in the dispatches about the fighting in Manchuria. What a comfort it is occasionally to read about a place with a name that we can all of us pronounce.

Mrs. August Belmont has lost a $1,000 dog which wore a $500 collar. Her faith in the nobleness of the human race is shown by the fact that she hopes both the dog and the collar may be recovered.

Perhaps you have noticed sometime in your long experience that while the transition from vacation to vacation is always as easy as slipping into sin, the change from vacation to vacation is never made without a bump.

Toistol is perhaps the most vehement preacher of peace in the world to-day, but his sons have enlisted in the army for the war against the Japanese. It is now as of old: No man is a prophet in his own country, and sometimes not even in his own family.

"What is love?" asks a Philadelphia lady in a pathetic letter to one of the editors in that city. Where have the Philadelphia editors a woman who felt the need of editorial help in such a matter be found?

MARION DESTROYED.

The Business Portion of the Town and Twenty-three Residences.

Fire has wiped out the entire west side of the town of Marion, the loss being estimated at $200,000. Insured for about $100,000. The fire started in the opera house block, and quickly spread through residences and business places. The bucket brigade, which was quickly formed, could do nothing, and the citizens became well nigh frantic, falling even to rescue household goods from their homes. The fire burned itself out in about an hour. A partial list of the buildings that were totally destroyed follows: Opera house block, Clark block, Piper & Co.'s general store, Davis' Furniture Co., postoffice block, two saloons, city bakery, city hotel, Albert's blacksmith shop, Carroll's drug store, Dunham's shingle mill, Hickson's general store and 23 residences.

Marion is a thriving little village of 800 inhabitants on the Ann Arbor railroad, in Oscoda county, 30 miles north-east of Hersey. The village was settled in 1880, has several churches, a bank, opera house and a weekly newspaper.

Died of His Wound.

As the result of his two wounds from the revolver of Manley Shears, Harley Hilliker, of Cadillac, died Tuesday. Evidence shows that Hilliker was drunk and endeavored to quarrel with Shears in the afternoon, but the latter left the pool room where Hilliker was. Again in the evening Hilliker entered the pool room and tried to quarrel with Shears, but the latter again started out and Hilliker followed him. When they had gone about a block they were heard apparently in a quarrel and in a short time a revolver report was heard. Shears claims he did not shoot Hilliker, and all the evidence against him is circumstantial.

Boy Needs Correcting.

Bertha Wolfe, 14-year-old daughter of David Wolfe, residing south east of Niles, was shot in the face by a boy, and according to her story the shooting was intentional. The bullet entered the girl's face on the right side of the nose a little above the mouth and she pulled it out herself. The boy who did the shooting in company with another youth was hunting and it is said went through the house defying the girls when they protested, and ordered them to go away. "Go on, I'll shoot your big nose off," said the boy and, taking aim, he fired his rifle. The bullet crashed through the window behind which Bertha was standing and struck her in the face. The boys, realizing what they had done, turned and fled.

Boiler Let Go.

As the result of a boiler explosion on the Toledo tug Warnick, lying at the Great Lakes Engineering plant at River Rouge, Clarence Corey, aged 25, of Toledo, Ohio, fireman of the Warnick, died at the Solway hospital at Delray. He was almost cooked alive. George Morris was also terribly scalded and will probably die. Louis Verne was also scalded, but the doctors at the Solway hospital say that he will recover. Another deckhand whose name was not learned was also injured, but did not receive treatment at the hospital or by Dr. Belanger, who was called to attend the injured men.

It Was Pittable.

Mrs. Alvera Edgin, an aged woman of Niles, died under pitiable circumstances. She was housekeeper for Jas. Farrel, a street sweeper, and was found on the kitchen floor of the Farrel house by members of the Ladies' Charity society. She was without clothing on her body, and the surroundings were filthy in the extreme. Crouching in a corner was the 20-year-old insane daughter of the woman, her only companion in her last illness. The woman died before anything could be done for her. Farrel claims that he took the woman and her daughter at the dying request of his wife 20 years ago, because Mrs. Edgin had been kind to his wife.

Duck Hunters Perish.

The bodies of James H. Foote and Alfred Gaines, the two Detroit electricians who disappeared while hunting ducks in Goose Bay, at the Flats, Sunday morning, were found Monday, in water four feet deep, near Chene Point, a short distance from the place they were last seen by Alexander Lempe, the other member of the party who was in the boat when it shipped water and went to the bottom. Foote was in a stooping position, his head but a few inches under water, while Gaines was lying flat on his back. They were but ten feet apart, and 150 yards from Chene Point.

A Snake Story.

The passengers of a Lake Shore train from Bronson west were sidetracked near an open field and while there were very much interested in watching the maneuvers of a crowd. He darted down from the air and seized a rattlesnake, two and one-half feet long, and then immediately flew into the air again, and when about 75 or 100 feet high, a death battle occurred in which the rattler was victorious, having bitten the crow in the neck. The two combatants fell to the ground and the passengers on the train ran into the field and killed the snake.

Better Beets: More Sugar.

The work at the experiment station this year on increasing the percentage of sugar in beets has been very successful. The average amount of sugar in the entire crop shows an increase of between 1 and 2 per cent over last year, and the number of tons per acre is also larger. In addition to the size and quality of the crop another encouraging feature is that there has been a general uniform improvement in the quality of the seed, as shown by tests on 87 different seeds. Reports from 4 large number of sections of the state show that the outlook for the production of seed is very encouraging.

HEAVY LOSS.

Sunday Fire in Battle Creek Causes Loss of $100,000.

Fire wrought from $75,000 to $100,000 damage in the heart of Battle Creek's business district Sunday, and came near costing Sid A. Erwin, of the state board of pharmacists, and Attorney C. F. McKenzie their lives. The Noble block and its mate, the Annex, three-story business and office buildings, at the intersection of Main street and Jefferson avenue, were the structures damaged. The fire started in the furnace room of the Noble block about 10:45, and went up an elevator shaft to the roof. The most damage was on the third floors of the two blocks. The flames, rushing up the elevator shaft, swept into the reception hall of the Annex ballroom. Reaching the dance hall, one of the largest in the city, the fire made rapid headway, but found life unendurable without his wife. He has made several trips to England during the five years to try and induce her to marry him again, and the last one, which he made in June, was successful. Mrs. Cook, accompanied by her parents, has arrived from Bristol, England, and the marriage will take place in Kalamazoo.

After the Storm.

Ernest Cook, a farmer of Mottawan, has been very persistent in wanting his divorced wife, who was separated from him five years ago, the divorce being granted in Van Buren county, the wife's charge being extreme cruelty. Both parties to the divorce were in England at the time the divorce was granted. Mr. Cook returned to Chicago, where he engaged in the lumber business, but found life unendurable without his wife. He has made several trips to England during the five years to try and induce her to marry him again, and the last one, which he made in June, was successful. Mrs. Cook, accompanied by her parents, has arrived from Bristol, England, and the marriage will take place in Kalamazoo.

After Many Years.

The joint will of Martin King and his wife Anna is finally to be probated, after having been held up for 14 years. Martin King died in 1890 and the will was filed for probate, but it was necessary for all proceedings to rest until the death of Anna King, the second testator, which only recently occurred. By the terms of the will, a life estate is given to James King, a son, whose residence in 1890 was Grand Rapids. Two daughters are also made beneficiaries—Mary Viergever, of Grand Rapids, and Jane Esveld, of Edgerton.

Fled to Escape Army.

Not desiring to fight for a cause with which he has no sympathy, Henry Pinzel, aged 27, has arrived in Manistig from Pzdyrl, Poland, to make his home with a brother after having deserted the army of the czar. He had been in the Russian military service for three years, and when orders came for his regiment to go to the front he decided to come to America. He was stationed only half a mile from the German frontier and had little difficulty in getting away. Pinzel's other brother is now with Kurapatkin in the vicinity of Mukden.

Reading Bank Robbed.

The State bank of Reading was burglarized early Saturday morning, the robbers blowing open the door of the vault and securing about $1,000 in silver, besides the contents of several tin boxes belonging to residents of the city. The inner safe was not reached, the burglars being frightened away before they finished their work. The explosion woke most of the residents and a party was soon after the robbers, several shots being exchanged before the latter got away. The interior of the bank was badly wrecked.

Saw Mr. Phelps.

E. J. Hooper and J. L. Marble, the upholsterer and the expressman of Battle Creek, who have maintained from the start of the Phelps mystery that they saw N. S. Phelps in Battle Creek on Tuesday—two days after his supposed disappearance, but before the case was made public—now have four substantial witnesses. They are all small boys, but they knew Phelps and had seen him pass their homes day in and day out.

The Year Expired.

The year that was given Nell S. Phelps, of Grand Rapids, by his creditors in which to repair his financial losses expired Saturday, with Phelps two weeks missing. His stock in various companies is held by local banks for security, as is also his life insurance policy for $50,000. The latter, however, is not particularly valuable as long as it remains unknown whether or not Phelps is alive. There seems to be no clues on the situation.

Hydrophobia from Cattle.

James Foster and Edward Jones, of Rives Junction, have been taken to Ann Arbor for Pasteur treatment, having been poisoned by cattle with hydrophobia. Foster treated cattle in absence of a veterinarian and Jones skinned an animal which died from the disease. The cattle contracted the disease from dogs. The board of health has ordered four cattle and two dogs killed.

Sad Ending of Life.

Mrs. Eva Sveigert, aged 24 years, came to Centerville Thursday from Three Rivers apparently in good health and went to the home of her mother. She died Friday night in the presence of three physicians, supposed from poison administered by her own hand. The last words she uttered were: "Nobody will shed any tears for me except—my mother, and sister."

R. Gesche, lineman of Calumet & Hecla mine, fell from a 60-foot pole, sustaining internal injuries, but may recover.

Boy Hunters Shot.

Arthur Froydh, 17 years old, of Grand Rapids, was shot and instantly killed Sunday morning near Berlin, Ottawa county. Froydh and a companion were hunting and while crawling through a barbed wire fence the trigger of Froydh's gun caught in the weeds and the full charge entered his breast, piercing his lung and lodging under his right shoulder blade. Exclaiming, "I'm shot!" he sank to the ground and expired before his companion reached him.

Fred Snyder, aged 10, of Mecosta received injuries while hunting Sunday from which he died later. He was standing on a fence with his gun resting on a log at his feet and had his left arm over the muzzle. The gun slipped from the log, striking a hammer on the log, exploding the gun. Snyder's arm was blown completely off. He was removed to his home, but died late that night.

MICHIGAN NEWS IN BRIEF.

Flint will celebrate her fiftieth anniversary next spring. The first snow in the lower counties came last year about the middle of October.

The Coldwater old soldiers have organized a monument association and will endeavor to raise funds enough to purchase a bronze memorial tablet to place in the cemetery.

Lloyd Woodworth, aged 30, of Jackson, has lost his left eye through a piece of metal hoop striking it. The eye was removed. Woodworth was formerly a guard at the prison.

Thomas Caby, an aged Indian, down on the bay near Standish, has shot five bears already at night. The bears are large ones and will bring the Indian about $100 for the skins.

Farmers' day brought 5,000 visitors to inspect Menominee's million dollar beet sugar factory. Special trains and excursion boats were run between Escanaba and Green Bay.

A Colon man has had a nice income from a bed of strawberries which has been yielding constantly since the last of September. He has picked and sold hundreds of quarts since that time.

Harry, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tauner, of Benton Harbor, died from scalds received from the overturning of a pail of water heated by the child's mother for giving him a bath.

A combination heating and lighting franchise has been granted by the Moran council to Dow and Fisher, who agree to light with gas or electricity, and to heat houses and business places with gas, steam or hot water.

Fire starting from a spark from the chimney, lodging in some leaves in the eaves, destroyed the Omnia Inn, a popular summer resort, owned by W. H. Dewey, of Grand Rapids. The loss was between $12,000 and $15,000.

John Alexander Dowie has purchased more land on White Lake and is planning to erect a Zion tabernacle on the resort grounds. He is planning to operate a summer resort in accordance with Dowie views of such institutions.

Hunters have already commenced shooting partridge along the M. C. and D. & M. railroads and the D. & M. company offer a reward of $25 for the conviction of anyone found shooting any birds out of season. The season opens Oct. 20.

Iale McClure was terribly injured by a circular saw in McClure's mill at East Bay, near Traverse City. He was leaning over the saw, when the machinery was started. He received deep gashes in the arms and legs, and narrowly escaped death.

Fred Forester, the locomotive fireman who was a victim of the St. Clair tunnel disaster, has regained consciousness at the Sarnia hospital and was able to recognize his father. It is now expected that he will recover and regain his mental faculties.

The public school system of Lansing was further crippled by fire in the Cedar street building, due to an overheated furnace. The loss is $1,500. One of the schools is now conducted in a church, the building which housed it having been discovered to be unsafe.

Orders for material based on an output of 3,000 cars, have been issued from the office of the Ren Car Co., recently organized in Lansing with a capital of $1,000,000. The roof of the first of the huge buildings that are being erected by the company, will be completed next week.

One shipment during October was the largest for any month this season aggregating 4,034.721 tons. The movement up to Nov. 1 was 17,677,159 tons against 22,383,350 tons for the same period last year, a decrease of 4,728,191 tons. It is believed that the total movement for the season will reach 20,000,000 tons.

Two more of the convicts who escaped from Jackson prison last week were captured Wednesday. They are James Wilson, sent from Calhoun county on Sept. 8, 1900, for seven years for burglary, and Edward McPherson, of Ionia, sentenced Nov. 19, 1900, for ten years for burglary.

During a deafening charivari at the home of Joseph Lehman, a Gagetown widower of one year, and Mrs. Flora Simmons, his recent bride, shots were fired and a general stampede of the serenaders resulted. The couple have been kept awake for several nights by their tormentors, because the bridegroom will not treat the crowd.

Gov. Bliss has paroled Claude Rilling, sent from Berrien county to Ionia reformatory in December, 1902, for two and one-half years for bigamy. Albert E. Scouten, from Oscoda to Jackson August, 1902, six years, for criminal assault, and Charles Alexander from Otsego to Jackson, September, 1902, three years for burglary. Mrs. George Fischer, of Montrose, was badly burned about the face and hands Monday. She was pouring a quantity of gasoline from a can into a boiler which was upon the stove, when the heat caused the gasoline in the can to explode, throwing it into her face. In endeavoring to extinguish the blaze upon her clothing her arms and hands were frightfully burned.

An attempt to wreck an interurban car, a mile south of Niles, Friday night, was frustrated by the motorman, who sailed a large boulder in the middle of the track, near the bottom of an incline. The car was speeding down at about 30 miles an hour.

NEWS OF THE WORLD

A Brief Chronicle of All Important Happenings

HORRORS OF WAR.

Fearful Suffering in Port Arthur Beyond Description.

A letter is made public from a Russian in Port Arthur, dated Oct. 27, in which the writer declares that it would need the pen of a Zola or the brush of Verestchagin to picture the awfulness of the siege. The letter continues:

"The uncanny part of it all is that men meet death in utter silence. One sees the fiercest fights but hears no sound. One moonlight night at Etse mountain I watched an assault of a ghostly mass of moving figures, through which continual lanes were made by our guns, admitting glimpses of scenes behind. These gaps were closed up as if by magic and the masses surged onward while our men, forsaking the trenches, sought the shelter of the forts. On they came until when they were close up to us, the mines exploded and the earth opened. Bodies were hurled high in the air and then sank again to earth. Hands clutched rifles, and in the moonlight the bayonets looked like fireworks shooting upwards and ascending point downwards into the bodies of men. I dream of the sight even now. All the inventions of military genius are not able to daunt the Japanese, who fight with Titanic energy. Our soldiers are gladiators and great-hearted heroes. The last sortle of the fleet failed because of inability to repair vessels previously damaged.

"We have not a single bottle of anaesthetics left. Just think what agony the wounded must endure. The food of the coarsest and even that is becoming scarce, while disease is rife and sanitary conditions are deplorable. It is impossible to repair the ships with our scant resources; but we are all determined to hold out, come what will, in the hope of relief. For every man we lose our foes bemoan the loss of a hundred."

Within Stone's Throw.

The Russian and Japanese armies, extending from Bentslavtze east to the Liao river west at places are almost within a stone's throw of each other. At Bentslavtze, not more than 400 yards separate the advance posts, and at Sincinpin, on the Shinkie river, just west of the railway and 15 miles south of Mukden, the Japanese and Russians occupy the extreme ends of the same village. At Huangshanthe Russian center has thrown advance posts across the Shinkie river. Both armies are still strengthening their positions all along the line.

The slightest movement on either side is the signal for firing, which occasionally lasts all night. The Japanese on Saturday night attacked some of the Russian outposts in considerable force, but the Russians had been warned and the Japanese were repulsed. They were not able to take away all their killed or wounded, leaving 28 bodies on the field. The Russians lost only nine men.

Worth Millions.

Another effort is to be made by expectant heirs to reclaim a large strip of Manhattan Island. The claimants all reside in southern states and number 150. They are headed by J. T. Cowan, of Dallas, Tex., and are descendants of Andrew Hartsfield, who in 1795 leased to the city of New York 160 acres west of Central Park, between Seventy-third and One Hundred and Twenty-sixth streets. This property is estimated today to be worth $500,000,000 and was leased for a period of 99 years and a day, for a consideration of $1 an acre. The heirs, one of whom is a United States senator, claim to have the original lease.

NARROW ESCAPE.

President Roosevelt's Horse Gave Him a Serious Fall.

President Roosevelt, in one of his wild cross country rides Sunday, the 23rd ultimo, was thrown violently over the head of his horse and lay unconscious for some moments on a country road five or six miles out in Maryland, with no one near to give him assistance. Secret service men left him at the district line and his military orderly was not with him that day.

Far out in the country the president found several level pastures, across which he spurred his horse, taking the fences with a rush. Beyond one of the fences he struck a sunken road, and in getting into this at full speed, the horse stumbled and the president took a violent header.

He lay in the road for several moments unconscious, while his horse patiently waited by the roadside. Finally he came to and succeeded in remounting. The fall caused a great lump on the right side of the president's head and a long but shallow scalp wound above the right ear, where his head had struck on a stone. The cut extended down to the forehead and evidences of it are still there.

President Roosevelt ordered that not a word be said about the accident. He retired as soon as he reached the White House. The cut was dressed and applications were used to reduce the swelling. He was at his office the following day, but for the next three days only his intimate friends were admitted to the private office. It was explained that he was very busy.

A Tragic Ending.

Persistent search for her grandson which Mrs. Julia Van Alstyne, of Auburn, N. Y., carried on unremittingly for three years, has ended pathetically in New York city. Three years ago the boy, then 19 years old disappeared from the asylum for the feeble minded at Rome. Thousands of dollars were spent in the search for him and finally having given up hope of finding him alive, the grandmother came to the great city and, aided by her son, canvassed all the public institutions, carrying with her a photograph of the boy. Her search was rewarded at the Bronx morgue, where the keeper recognized the picture as that of a boy who had shot himself and then taken carbolic acid in Bronx park July 21, 1904, leaving nothing behind by which he could be identified. The body will be removed to the cemetery at Auburn, where the boy's mother is buried.

A band of robbers, believed to be from Chicago, dropped into McCoysburg, Ind., in the dead of night and raided the little town from one end to the other. They blew open the postoffice safe and robbed every store in town. Their total booty was about $5,000. Bloodhounds failed to track the men.

LANDSLIDE FOR ROOSEVELT.

THE NATION'S VOTE.

Roosevelt's Great Victory—Congress Goes With Him.

President Roosevelt probably will have 343 electoral votes as the result of Tuesday's balloting. Late unofficial returns give a basis for this estimate. The small plurality for Parker in New York city, about 40,000, caused great disappointment, the lowest preliminary election estimates having figured that he would go to the Bronx with 100,000 or more. The Parker plurality in the city was 35,000 less than was given Herrick, Dem., for governor. In Brooklyn the Republican managers thought Parker might lead Roosevelt, but reports from all but 37 districts give Roosevelt 424 plurality. His total vote fell 10,000 short of Bryan's.

There was a great surprise in the proportion of the vote for Higgins, Republican, for governor, he running far ahead of the Odele vote in the counties and winning by about 55,000. His plurality above the Bronx was probably 100,000, while Herrick's in the Greater New York aggregated about 75,000. Herrick did not carry Albany, his home county, nor did Parker carry Ulster, in which he lives. Roosevelt has approximately 200,000 outside of the Greater New York, while Parker's plurality in the city is less than 38,000. A tabulated statement of the indicated results is as follows:

State	Estimated Electoral Plurality	Vote

Majority in Congress.

The president is assured of the cooperation of a Republican congress. The present Republican majority in that body is 34. The new house will probably have a majority of 100, or close to that number. In practically all districts the Republicans have held their own, while in some significant instances the Democrats have lost. Probably the most marked of these cases are the fourth and fifth districts of California (San Francisco), now represented by Representatives Livernash and Wynne, Democrats, which have been gained by the Republicans.

The most surprising of all the reports however, came from the fifth and fifteenth Missouri districts, both strongly Democratic, and the former represented by Mr. Cowherd, chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee. The Republicans carried both districts.

It is probable the Republican majority in the senate will show little if any change from the present voting strength there. Of the 90 members of that body, 57 are Republicans and 33 Democrats. The terms of 30 senators expire March 4 next. Of these 23 are Republicans, and they or their successors will be Republicans. Of the seven Democrats, two, Cockrell, of Missouri and Gibson, of Montana may be replaced by Republicans.

*Re-elected

RESULT IN MICHIGAN.

Warner, Congressional Delegation and Legislature by Large Majorities.

Surprising as the results of Tuesday's election were, Michigan added to the triumph of Mr. Warner, elected governor by a majority estimated at 50 per cent larger than that of Aaron T. Bliss over L. T. Durand two years ago, and the entire Republican state ticket, including every state senatorial and legislative candidate, was elected, according to the latest returns.

The Wolverine state gives Theodore Roosevelt an unprecedented majority, which will exceed 150,000 when the returns are in. It was a landslide astonishing to even the most sanguine Republican. Michigan will have a solid Republican delegation in congress, as every Republican candidate for re-election was victorious by good majorities, and Edwin Denby in Detroit defeated Alfred Lucking, the only Democratic member of the present delegation.

Warner's plurality over Ferris, 43620.

In Wayne county the only Democrat elected was William B. Thompson for treasurer of Detroit, and his majority was reduced, George P. Codd, who opposed Mayor Maybury made a phenomenal run, his majority being about 6000. Lidwin Denby, candidate for congress, defeated Lucking, Democrat, by about 7000 majority. Though Ferris carried the county by about 5000, this was from 5000 to 10000 less than was predicted for him.

According to complete and incomplete returns, Warner's plurality in Michigan Wednesday afternoon was 60,000; Roosevelt's, 150,000. These figures, it was said, will be swollen by later returns.

The Legislature.

For the first time in the history of Michigan the Republicans Tuesday seem to have elected every member of both houses of the legislature

The Election in Plymouth

Weather conditions brought out the largest vote ever recorded in Plymouth township last Tuesday. It was good "Republican weather" and the party won out by large majorities. Fred M. Warner, Republican candidate for Governor, fell behind his ticket, but perhaps not any more than was expected. His plurality in the State went way beyond even the most optimistic expectations. If he carries out his promises, which we have every confidence he will, his election to a second term is merely a matter of form. There were 543 votes polled in Plymouth, and they were divided as follows:

- Presidential Electors—Roosevelt 384, Parker 113.
- State Senator—Martindale 365, Murtagh 137.
- Representative—Benton 383, Post 121.
- Governor—Warner 284, Ferris 228.
- Congressman—Townsend 375, Kirk 130.
- Judge Probate—Durfee 374, Swan 130.
- Sheriff—Hoffman 299, Burns 206.
- Clerk—Himes 384, VanDyke 114.
- Treasurer—Robertson 382, Lee 120.
- Register—Gulley 376, Esper 127.
- Prosecutor—Hunt 326, Hall 172.
- Auditor—Christian 375, DeLisle 133.
- Surveyor—Smith 369, Heinsman 130.

CHURCH NEWS.

The subject for Sunday morning at First Church of Christ, Scientist, will be "Soul and Body." All are cordially invited.

Una Gunsolly and Frank Spicer were elected delegates Sunday from the M. E. Sunday-school to the State convention at Pontiac.

Services in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning and evening. The pastor will preach. Christian Endeavor meeting at 6:30 p. m.

Services at the Universalist church Sunday, Nov. 13th, at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m., conducted by Rev. Inez L. Shipman, of Girard, Pa. All are invited to hear her.

The Presbyterian ladies will serve a twenty-five cent chicken pie dinner from 11:30 until 1:00, Thursday, Nov. 17, in connection with their bazaar, and a fifteen cent tea Friday night, Nov. 18.

Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 16th, the Universalist Ladies' Aid Society meets at the home of Mrs. David Brown and Mrs. Glympe. It is hoped that this meeting will not be forgotten by any of the members.—Sec.

The Wayne Co. Sunday-school convention last Saturday was attended by fair congregations. On Friday evening, the services were in charge of Pres. Alfred Day and he gave a very forceful and eloquent address, attentively listened to by a large audience.

Next Sunday morning there will be communion services at the M. E. church. Sermon theme, "The World's Greatest Monument," Luke 22:19. Sunday evening the last of the sermon series "Interviews with Jesus." Subject, "Jesus and a business man," Luke 19, 1-10. Any person desiring to unite with the church will be welcomed to this relationship at any service and are requested to confer with the pastor on these matters.

Rev. S. W. Phelps began a series of revival meetings at the Baptist church Wednesday evening. Mr. Phelps is a man of pleasing personality and an interesting speaker. He is a native of Canada but has been in this country about fifteen years, doing the work of a pastor and evangelist. The meetings will probably continue for about two weeks. The subjects for the coming week are as follows:

- Friday evening—Life's Golden Bowl.
- Sunday morning—What is the Gospel Blessing? 3 p. m.—A lecture to men only. This promises to be an especially interesting meeting. 7 p. m.—The Greatest Question Ever Asked.
- Monday evening—The most Sacred Thing in the Bible.
- Tuesday evening—The Foolish Farmer.
- Wednesday evening—The Unpardonable Sin, what is it?
- Thursday evening—The Great Choice.

A Policeman's Testimony.
J. N. Patterson, night policeman of Nashua, Ia., writes: "Last winter I had a bad cold on my lungs and tried at least half dozen advertised cough medicines and had treatment from two physicians without getting any benefit. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar and two-thirds of a bottle cured me. I consider it the greatest cough and lung remedy in the world." Sold by The Wolverine Drug Co.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Howard Brown, Robert Jolliffe, Clara Lyon, Mina Stuart

Last Tuesday the teachers of the high school conducted a mock election with the following results: Whole number of votes cast 70, of which 5 were straight Rep., 11 straight Dem., and 2 Prohibition. Roosevelt received 59 of all votes cast, and Parker 11, Warner received 37 and Ferris 35: Mr. McAlley, as Supt. of Public Instruction, received 67 of all votes cast and P. Kelley 5.

Monday afternoon while the ninth grade were having a test in Algebra, the room became so dark that the electric lights were put into use.

Since so many Wayne men were crippled in their last game, they have been obliged to cancel their game with the Juniors Friday.

Wedding bells invite one of our Sophomore misses to leave her place vacant one day. We expect her to treat us as generously with "wedding cake and everything nice."

The question of times arises concerning the respective ability of town and country trained boys, to which belongs the power of mental concentration. The city bred boy has the better chance but his country bred cousin improves the opportunity better.

Here are the statistics—eight state governors from the country to one from the city, three-fourths of the Judges of the Supreme Court, eighty per cent of our U. S. Senators claim the country as their birthplace, while only two presidents were born and bred in the city.

The boys of the Freshman class are deficient in the supply of gray matter supplying the cerebrum at least as measured by their ability to master the intricacies of Latin. At present writing only two have grit enough to maintain their standards, striving to become the thinkers of to-morrow.

The visitors of the high school this week were the Misses Gates and Merrell and little Laura Bogert.

Remember Seniors to set a good example for the freshmen.

Genevieve McClumpha, a member of the Senior class and one of the future school marm's had the pleasure of taking Miss Baker's place as teacher of the third grade Monday.

On account of ill-health Anna Birch was obliged to leave school temporarily, we hope, and now left for the east.

The first number on the lecture course, Whitney Brothers, was well attended and enjoyed, especially by the students of the high school.

Miss Smith sends hopeful messages to her beloved pupils, and we only voice the sentiment of the community when we regret the slowness of her recovery.

The high school wish their many friends to remember the day before Thanksgiving. The Senior Lit. class are preparing a Shakespeare program for that day. Music appropriate to the theme and the season will be rendered. Look for our program next week.

One of our promising(?) Freshman lads has bet a new suit of clothes on the outcome of election. His spirits were quite dampened Tuesday evening as a result of the P. H. S. election.

1st grade pupil—I can spell Ferris.
Teacher—All right, let's hear you.
Pupil—F-e-r-r-i-s
Teacher—That's right; now, who is Ferris?

Pupil—Ferris is our next president, but my pa aint going to vote for him, though.

Mrs. Bodmer, of Ann Arbor, is visiting her daughter Mrs. Paul Voorhies.

Myron H. Smith, who has relatives in Plymouth, died at his home in Lawton Tuesday at the age of 76.

Elmore Shippey, who underwent an operation at Harper hospital some weeks ago, was able to return home Saturday.

At twelve o'clock Wednesday noon Miss Blanche Clarke and Mr. Allen Wilkinson of South Lyon were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents in Plymouth by Rev. Whitney.

The whist club have organized for the winter and the first session was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. P. Kinyon Wednesday evening. The pedro club holds its first meeting tonight with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Riggs.

Henry Simmons drew an oak log from the A. T. Moon farm Wednesday that measured 45 feet in length and six feet in diameter at the butt. It was the largest stick of timber marketed here in many years and a photograph was taken of it. Two teams and two wagons were required to haul it.

A Cruel Parent.

"No parent would willingly or knowingly be cruel to their children," said John L. Gale the druggist, in a conversation with the editor of this paper recently. "Yet they are cruel when they fail to keep some reliable remedy in the house to use in case of emergency. How often when little ones get badly burned or scalded or are taken with a sudden attack of croup, cramps or colic they suffer untold agony while the doctor is being sent for, and if the doctor is away from home, they suffer for hours before relief comes. I have secured the agency," said Mr. John L. Gale, "for Dr. Colwell's Magic Egyptian Oil, a most remarkable household remedy, which I not only recommend but guarantee to give satisfaction. It gives immediate relief to a burn or scald, colic, cramps, stomachache, diarrhea and dysentery. It cures all sores, cuts, wounds sprains, bruises and soreness or pain of any kind. It is unequalled for headache, toothache, rheumatism, neuralgia, colds croup and sore throat. I will refund the purchase price to any customer that is not satisfied after using it."

The New Presbyterian Church of Plymouth.

The Presbyterian Church, Plymouth, was dedicated last Sabbath morning, Nov. 6th. Rev. J. M. Barkley, D. D., of Detroit, preached from 1st Timothy, 1st Ch. 11th verse. Rev. J. C. Gelston, D. D., preached at 3 o'clock in the afternoon from John 17th, 3rd verse. Dr. Barkley preached at the evening service from Acts 17th, 27th verse. Dr. Barkley was at his best and his sermons made a deep impression on his hearers. Dr. Gelston preached a very instructive sermon and felt much at home, having preached his first sermon in the old church about 32 years ago. The double quartette sang several anthems which were well rendered, and much appreciated by all. The village band played two very fine selections which added greatly to the interest of the service. The collections and subscriptions were liberal and the committee are well pleased. The church is beautiful and comfortable, and the congregation desire to thank Messrs. Lundy, Bovee, Kenner, Dates and Holloway, and all who in any way contributed to the building of the church.

George Gale accidentally received a small quantity of acid in his eye while at work and suffered the results therefrom for some days.

Plymouth, Supt. Meadley's home town, gave him 189 votes for S. pt. Public Instruction at Tuesday's election, to 314 for his opponent, Kelley.

The sum realized from electric lights for the month of October was a little over $108. As new takers are continually coming in, the amounts will be increased in proportion.

Mrs. J. W. Tyler, of Plymouth township died Tuesday last, after an illness of nearly two years with consumption. Mrs. Tyler was 29 years old and leaves a husband and several children. The funeral occurred from her late residence yesterday afternoon, interment being at Salem.

He Could Hardly Get Up.

P. H. Duffy, of Ashley, Ill., writes, "This is to certify that I have taken two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure and it has helped me more than any other medicine. I tried many advertised remedies, but none of them gave me any relief. My druggist recommended Foley's Kidney Cure and it has cured me. Before commencing its use I was in such a shape that I could hardly get up when once down." Sold by The Wolverine Drug Co.

The latest election returns indicate that Roosevelt has carried the State by considerably over 300,000 plurality and that Warner's plurality will exceed 60,000. The entire Republican congressional delegation is elected by large pluralities and the next legislature will be solidly Republican, not a Democrat gaining a seat, a fact that has not occurred in Michigan before.

The Wayne county, Republican plurality for Roosevelt is nearly 30,000. In spite of this large vote, Ferris defeated Warner by 6,000. The entire Republican county ticket is elected by majorities varying from 3,000 for Hoffman to 25,000 for Christian. Nearly all the candidates received over 20,000. It was a regular landslide all around. Maybury was defeated by Codd by 8,450 votes.

Borrows Money.

With the taxes hardly paid in the village council finds itself with funds all gone for expenses incurred for improvements, sidewalks, lights, etc., this summer and fall. At the council session Monday evening the President and clerk were authorized to borrow $2,000 for ten months at six per cent. The expenses of the village have been unusually heavy and when the annual levy was made last June, the sum needed was not sufficiently considered. The result will be a heavy assessment next year to meet the deficiency.

A petition was presented to the council signed by all the members of the Woman's Literary Club asking that a system of heating apparatus be placed in the village hall. The council had the matter under consideration last winter and it was estimated the cost would be something like $500. The present condition of village finances warrants no further expenditure and the petition of the ladies, was, on motion, ordered laid on the table until next August.

The labors of village clerk Lauffer have been much more than usual this year and the council voted to give him $50 as extra compensation.

The clerk was instructed to correspond with monied concerns and obtain figures on the $15,000 water works bonds the village has for sale. The rate of interest to be drawn by these bonds cannot exceed four per cent and it is probable they will have to be sold at a discount.

A New Business for Plymouth.

Having purchased the Robert Greenlaw farm, upon which there is a vast quantity of sand and gravel, L. H. Chappel, in conjunction with Messrs. Becker and Becker, of No. 44 Jefferson avenue, Detroit, has formed a stock company with $30,000 capital, to ship out sand and gravel, manufacture cement building blocks and contract to erect cement buildings, etc. They will build foundations, walls, partitions, chimneys, roofs and everything for which cement can be used, or will furnish materials for them. An experienced architect and competent mason will be connected with the company and under their supervision every block will fit into its proper place, in all buildings they construct, without cutting or waste. The company has a process for treating the blocks so they will not absorb moisture and the walls will always remain dry and healthy. Detroit will be the principal market and an office and yard will be maintained there. About $20,000 of the stock has been subscribed for and it is probable the balance will soon be placed. The company will be ready for active operations with the opening of spring.

The Wayne and Plymouth high school foot ball teams meet on the gridiron on the Plymouth grounds this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The teams are very evenly matched and a strenuous game will be played by both to win. The Wayne boys won the game on their home grounds last Friday afternoon by a score of 4 to 0, and they will work like tigers to make a better showing today, while the home team will endeavor to reverse the score of last week and add as many more points as hard work and good judgment will allow. Turn out and see the game. Admission 10 and 15 cents.

Two trains collided near the McLaren elevator yesterday morning just about daylight. A switch-engine, with Engineer Coppennoll, was standing partially on the side-track and the main line, when a freight coming down from the north ran into the switch-engine, overturning the tender and causing considerable damage to the engine proper. Engineer Coppennoll was thrown out of his cab and sustained some minor injuries only, Dr. Patterson attending him.

A Good Citizen Passed Away.

Peter Gayde, an old and most respected citizen of Plymouth died on Tuesday evening at 9 o'clock, after an illness of only two weeks from heart trouble. Deceased had lived in Plymouth for over 50 years, for 30 years being engaged in the grocery trade in north village. Several years ago he turned his business over to his sons Edward and Albert, and since then he has lived a quiet, retired life. He was a man of most excellent character and integrity and stood high in the estimation of the people. Though not of an ostentatious nature, he yet encouraged by voice and deed, every movement tending to advance the interests of the community and promote the growth of the village, and in his death Plymouth has sustained a direct loss.

Peter Gayde was born in Wertemburg, Germany, May 11th, 1834. Came to this country in 1854 and made his home in Plymouth. He was one of the first members of the German Lutheran Church founded here in 1856 and has been a member ever since. He was married April 9, 1860, to Wilhelmina Voglesburg, who died Jan 6th, 1876. He again married Apr. 8, 1877, to Elizabeth Born, who survives him. He was the father of twelve children, five of whom survive him. The funeral will be held today (Friday) at the German Lutheran Church, Rev. G. D. Ehnis officiating.

Disastrous Wrecks.

Carelessness is responsible for many a railroad wreck and the same causes are making human wrecks of sufferers from throat and lung troubles. But since the advent of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, even the worst cases can be cured, and hopeless resignation is no longer necessary. Mrs. Lois Cragg of Dorchester, Mass., is one of many whose life was saved by Dr. King's New Discovery. This great remedy is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by Jno. L. Gale and The Wolverine Drug Co. Price 50c and $1. Trial bottles free.

Consumption

Salt pork is a famous old-fashioned remedy for consumption. "Eat plenty of pork," was the advice to the consumptive 50 and 100 years ago.

Salt pork is good if a man can stomach it. The idea behind it is that fat is the food the consumptive needs most.

Scott's Emulsion is the modern method of feeding fat to the consumptive. Pork is too rough for sensitive stomachs. Scott's Emulsion is the most refined of fats, especially prepared for easy digestion.

Feeding him fat in this way, which is often the only way, is half the battle, but Scott's Emulsion does more than that. There is something about the combination of cod liver oil and hypophosphites in Scott's Emulsion that puts new life into the weak parts and has a special action on the diseased lungs.

A sample will be sent free upon request. Be sure that this picture in the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy. SCOTT & BOWNE, CHEMISTS, 409 Pearl St., N. Y. 50c. and $1; all druggists.

Religious Thought

If Christ should come to-day.
If Christ should come to-day:
If we should find Him on the broad highway
Or city street,
Would we crowd to touch His garment's hem,
Or kiss His feet?
If He should come to-day!
If the All-searching One should find us out
And call our name,
Would we press forward toward the outstretched hand
Or sink in shame?
If He should come to-day!
If the Prince of Peace amidst the clang of war
And battle heat,
Would we haste to lay our weapons down
Before His feet?
If poor and weak and blind!
Lying for self, we make our petty plans
To reap each year,
Would we set in an hour we know not of
He may appear.
O gentle, pitying Christ!
Delay Thy coming to the weary soul,
Do not mock at it,
Draw close Thy cords of love, until his heart
Shall take Thee in!
When come at morn or eve!
Whether in manhood, youth or feeble age,
Thy visit fall,
To him who loves Thee all is well, since
Christ
Is all in all. —Helen A. Beard.

Our Share In God's Work.

Jesus said, Take ye away the stone.—St. John xi. 39.
Jesus said this at the grave of Lazarus. The question naturally suggests itself, Why could not the power about to restore the dead to life do this smaller thing as well? The answer is, that it could, but so could human power and, therefore, it was required of human power to do it.
This incident reveals a principle of God's working in the world. It is God's will to help men; it is also His will that men shall develop by using their own strength. Hence his settled purpose is to do nothing for us which we can and should do for ourselves. He lays no burdens on us which we cannot bear. He helps us bear the burdens we must to the limit of our need; but He will not let us unload on Him any work or duty or responsibility which belongs to us. If we shrink or throw it off, it lies where we abandoned it until some better man takes it up. Man's work—and there is a great deal of it which we are praying God to do, and wondering why He is so long about it; wondering, it may be, whether He is, since He does not do it—man's work must be done by men.

More and more as we grow into the meaning of life we hold to thank Almighty God that He holds us to our work; thank Him for the rough and the sting and the climb and the fight of life, through which come the strength and heights and victories; thank Him that He lays responsibility upon us; that He leans down—Father that He is—and says to each of us: There is a work to be done, our work; here is a right thing to be forwarded; here is a truth to be brought to light and a wrong to be swept away; here a soul to be given life. The miracle beyond your power is Mine, but "Take ye away the stone," put away this habit, this influence, this self-conceit, this ignorance—whatever it is that blocks the way. That is the first condition.

It happens, however, that some of us are fond of this very thing, and so we keep it a day longer and another day, till a day comes at last when it is sunk and embedded and we are satisfied that the life behind should die.

And some of us are certain that it would do no good to try—the stone is too heavy. And so we content ourselves with saying, calling it perhaps a prayer: "I am very weak; it is too much for me. You do it, Lord!" and let it go at that.

And some of us are frightened when we think what strange, unearthly thing may be behind the scene; what its coming forth might mean, white-faced and holy from God's near presence; what changes it might demand; what new duties it might lay upon us; what dear companionships it might bid us break. And so we do not try to roll the stone away, but say in our hearts, like the fool of old, "There is no God, there is no soul crying to come forth," and go away and try to forget.

Around us, too, there are things ready to enter and glorify this human life of ours—new standards of manhood and womanhood, higher ideals realized in business and society, in politics and religion; more generosity, more love, more hope, more truth than ever the world has seen. Before the door of each, blocking its entrance, lies a stone of human selfishness or indifference or greed or falsehood. To remove these is not God's work, but ours. "Take ye away the stone," lift, at any rate, your share. That is our responsibility and our bearing toward it will at the last be the true measure of our life's significance.—Rev. Herbert Shipman.

Through Sorrow's Gate.

There are many things, besides sorrow's self, that come through sorrow's gate—gentleness, sympathy, strength, beautiful traits of character, which seem to find no other mode of entrance into life. Long for unclouded joy as we may, it still remains true that few of us would choose for our most-valued friend one who has never suffered. The eyes that have not known tears must needs lack something of tenderness. The heart that never has been torn with anguish and pain has never sounded its own depths, and cannot measure those of another. The soul grows strong through storm and conflict, if it ever grows strong at all, and, however sweet a nature may be, we find it incomplete and unsatisfying if it has never known the softening, hallowing touch of grief. There are dark pages in our lives where we would gladly have changed the story if we could. There are wounds that still ache, losses that even yet are hard to bear; but however we may feel about the sorrow itself, there are few of us who would be willing to give up all that it brought and taught us—to be just what we were before it touched us. There are some precious gains that come through sorrow's gate.

The Constant Christian.

Constancy, stability among Christians, is currency above par. The exigencies of the Lord's work are such that we cannot afford to be unstable. The unstable Christian is one of the greatest stumbling-blocks in the way of sinners. Thousands of men outside the church give this as the main reason for their active opposition or a pathetic indifference to Christianity. The unstable Christian is a reproach to his profession, a reproach to his church, and a reproach to his Christ. Constancy, stability, is one of the Christian worker's strongest assets.

Many of us may not be able to engineer vast enterprises in the church, many of us may not have the natural powers and gifts of some of our brethren, many of us may not have enthusiastic, hopeful and positive natures; but there is not one of us, not one but can be constant in our efforts as Christians in our own sphere, if we will take ourselves and our profession seriously. It is not child's play to be a representative of Christ. It is the work of a man, and worth that man's highest thought and best endeavor. Nothing among the so-called negative vices undermines character like instability. Nothing so stamps a man as useless to his church, to his community, and to his Christ, as inconstancy. On the other hand, nothing tends to build up a noble and exalted character so much as constancy and faithfulness nothing will be more likely to raise a man's usefulness to his highest notch than these qualities. To be inconstant, unstable, that of the earth, earthy; but to be uniformly true and steadfast, that were of Christ, Christlike.

The Thing Worth While.

I know that many of you are puzzled to know in what direction you can start to help Christ to help the world. Let me say this to you in that connection: Once I came to a cross-road in the old life and did not know in which direction God wanted me to help hasten this kingdom. I started to read the Book to find out what the ideal life was, and I found that the only thing worth doing in the world was to do the will of God; whether that was done in the pulpit or in the slums; whether it was done in the college or classroom, or on the street, did not matter at all. "My meat and drink," Christ said, "is to do the will of him that sent me," and if you make up your mind that you are going to do the will of God above everything else, it matters little in what direction you work. There are more posts waiting for men than there are men waiting for posts. Christ needs men in every community and in every land; it matters little whether we go to foreign lands or stay at home, as long as we are sure we are where God puts us.—Henry Drummond.

God's Best Gifts.

God's best gifts are not for the few, but for all; one of His best is the power He bestows on people to appreciate and enjoy their ordinary surroundings—such as a fine prospect; a sea view, a mountain or moor, the growing corn, the simple flower. The secret of happiness here is the power to see and to prize the blessings so richly provided for all; and the poorest person with eye and ear may have as keen enjoyment from the sights and sounds of nature as the wealthiest clients of the richest bankers. He who gives the capacity to enjoy, afford ample material to minister to our gratification. It is not necessary for a person to be learned, clever, rich or in Society, printed with a big S, in order to be victorious in the battle of life, or happy while he lives. The records of human history would amply illustrate the fact that tranquility, success and happiness can be enjoyed by men highly placed and gifted, or in the humblest ranks alike, if they will learn and work out the secret of living well, for the possibilities of happiness bestrew every pathway and are the heritage of every life.—Rev. C. H. Kelly.

The Cry of Need.

Never too busy to listen to the cry of need. The thoughtful child on her way from the spring with a pitcher of water in her hand looked at the parched, dust mantled and drooping flower by the wayside, and in her pity for it tipped her pitcher, and a gentle stream washed the dust from its leaves, refreshed its stem and invigorated its roots. As it lifted itself up more to the sun, its renewed life made her heart gayer and her feet lighter, while the little that she had donated from her vessel had left her more than she needed for her home. 'Tis your heart a little and let its sympathy roll out in blessings to those who are weak and weary. They will be blessed in receiving, but you will be doubly blessed in giving. Yet give not for your own sake, but for their sakes.

GREAT TOMB OF CONFUCIUS.

Burial Place and Its Approaches Scenes of Remarkable Interest.

The city of Chufuhsien, the Mecca of the believers of Confucianism, is in the province of Shantung, one of the most populous districts of the orient. Here Confucius was born, and here his sacred bones lie buried. The tomb, which is located in one of the largest cemeteries in the province, three miles out from the city above mentioned, is one of the most imposing in the whole empire.

The grave itself is surmounted by an earth mound twelve feet in height, the whole surrounded by a cluster of guarded oaks and stately cypress trees. Before the mound is a tablet six feet broad and twenty feet high, upon which are inscribed the names and deeds of the great founder of Confucianism, a religion adhered to by 400,000,000 human beings. The burden of this inscription, according to reliable translation, is "Perfect One," "Absolutely Pure," "Perfect Sage," "First Sage," "Great Philosopher," etc.

The avenue which leads up to the philosopher's tomb is even more interesting than the actual place of burial itself. On each side of the avenue are rows of figures of huge animals cut in stone—lions, tigers, elephants and horses, besides numerous mythical creatures, such as animals half dog and half frog, beasts with four legs and twice as many wings, besides a multitude of unnamable monsters that never lived on earth, in the water or in the air. Taken altogether, the burial place of Confucius is one of the chief spots of interest in the orient.

Story of Terrapin's Memory.

That Br'er Terrapin has memory is proved by a story told by Young D. Hance, who owns the birthplace of Chief Justice Taney, on Battle creek, in Calvert county.

Mr. Hance keeps a small boat under a mulberry tree on the shore of the creek, and on going to the boat early one morning he noticed a dry land terrapin busily engaged in eating a few mulberries which had fallen. Mr. Hance, wishing to assist Br'er Terrapin in getting his breakfast, gathered some mulberries and pitched them to him one at a time. In a very short time the terrapin began to catch the berries in his mouth exactly as they were thrown to him. Every day afterward a slight knock on the side of the boat would bring the terrapin out to his mulberries, and Mr. Hance often took his friends and visitors to see his pet.

On one occasion a fresh young man threw a piece of tobacco to the terrapin instead of a mulberry. Br'er Terrapin retired at once in disgust, and for days afterward refused to come when called. Although Mr. Hance finally induced him to come again for his mulberries, Br'er Terrapin remembered the tobacco and would never approach unless Mr. Hance was alone.—Baltimore Sun.

Devilish Malevolence.

"Ysaye, the violinist," said a musician, "is a huge fellow with some odd characteristics. Usually, for instance, he is shy and quiet, like a little girl, but if ruffled or annoyed he develops a vein of devilish malevolence. "He was playing at my house one night. Among my guests was an elderly woman, ugly enough, it is true, but a passionate lover of music. As Ysaye played this woman drew closer and closer to him. She was interested in his score, and to read it the better she almost laid her head against his. Her cheek and his almost touched. "Ysaye was very angry. Suddenly he stopped playing; he took out his handkerchief and he wiped the woman's nose with it. "Imagine the scene. Everybody started back in surprise. Ysaye, too, started back, apparently surprised beyond measure. "Oh," he said, "I beg your pardon. Your nose was so near my face that I thought it was my own."

Coromantee Proverbs.

To him who runs full honor pay. Though he be last.
Though you may fall the catch each day. Yet may you cast.
If you would trap the agile game. Go softly, brother.
Look on a child and judge the same. Don't ask its mother.
Beware when o'er the wine he says, "I am your friend."
Give what you have and name no days Sooner than lend.
The Evil One who seems most fair Knows most wiles.
Wee shall be his who works great good Expecting smiles.
None but the thing that knows no birth Knows no strife.
None but the dead below the earth. May laugh at life. —Stephen Chalmers in New York Times.

A Fine View.

Two smart young men from London once came upon a decent-looking shepherd in Argyleshire, and accosted him with: "You have a very fine view here—you can see a great way." "Yu ay, yu ay, a ferry great way." "Ah! you can see America here, I suppose?" "Farrar than that." "How is that?" "Yu jist wait tule the mists gang away and you'll see the mune."

Seventy-Six Years in One House.

James Hoffman of Washington township, Marion county, Indiana, was born seventy-six years ago in the house where he has lived ever since. That is to say, the log hut in which he first saw the light is now a part of the residence he occupies.—Chicago Chronicle.

In Streets of Peking

(Special Correspondence.)

Peking is like other large Chinese cities, only more so. The geographers talk about its being the largest city in the world and airily speak of 4,000,000 inhabitants. This is all a mistake. It is safe to say that there are not 1,000,000 people, all told, and less than that number within the walls. It is impossible, however, to make any estimate of the population or the real size of the capital, as it seems to be built in groups. In one spot the houses will look as though there had been a stampede to erect dwellings in a certain place, and when that had been taken everybody else built as near it as possible. A few hundred yards farther on the houses thin off and are scattered about without rhyme or reason. A little farther still

He calmly wiped his brow and smilingly remarked: "It is nothing. These coolies annoy my guests with their noise and so two or three times an evening I go over there and beat a few of them and break their rickshaws, which, as you see, at once disperses them," and he smiled reminiscently as he thought of the dozens which had been demolished in times past. One could not help wondering at what would happen if hotelkeepers were to deal in this easy way with the American back drivers.

In the Temple of Buddha.

The first point of interest to which we repaired was the lama temple. After about an hour of being pushed and shoved through the dirty, crowded streets, we came to the ancient fane. Everybody gives the number of the priests differently, but there must be at least 500 of them. The shrine is enclosed within walls and you go through a big gate to get into the first courtyard. After that you keep going through gates and courtyards without number. Before you can get through the dignified Chinese guide raises his benevolent countenance to the skies and emits a plaintive howl. The gate is opened from within by a piratical-looking lama. You have to give him some money. Then he shuts and bars the gate behind you.

Ancient Stronghold.

you come across a field of several acres almost bare of habitations and after that the frenzy for building may have begun again. The result is that the city is simply a mass of houses all tumbled up in crowds and of open spaces between.

Tricks of Rickshaw Men.

A Chinese street in summer time is one of the most delightfully informal places imaginable. No one seems to have anything in particular to do and they all come into the streets to do it. The men have finished dressing after they have put on a pair of dirty blue trousers and a pair of shoes. The people who have shops move their contents out into the street for no apparent reason, unless, perchance, to induce the purchaser to buy in self-defense.

All the rickshaws have two men. One pulls and the other pushes. Those who are fulfilling these useful functions for the European hotels are impressed with an overwhelming idea of their own importance. The one who goes ahead is very dexterous in letting go his rickshaw handles with one hand and violently pushing out of the way any unfortunate bystander whose thoughts have moved too slowly to have suggested to him the advisability of standing aside. The coolie who is doing the pushing is equally skillful and invariably catches the man who has been thus jostled out of the way with a resounding smack

Another Tidy of Science.

QUICK RESULTS.

W. J. Hill, of Concord, N. C., Justice of the Peace, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills proved a very efficient remedy in my case. I used them for disordered kidneys and backache, from which I had experienced a great deal of trouble and pain. The kidney secretions were very irregular, dark colored and full of sediment. The pills cleared it all up and I have not had an ache in my back since taking the last dose. My health generally is improved a great deal." FOSTER-MILBURN CO., Buffalo, N. Y. SOME TRICKS OF LIGHTNING.

Bolts, It Would Seem, Were Sent to Do Their Work.

A man in Mississippi was cutting a chew of tobacco when a bolt of lightning struck his hands. They were so badly burned that they had to be amputated. Two quarrymen were preparing a fuse in a Georgia marble quarry when lightning struck the charge and they were blown to fragments. The mate of an Atlantic coasting schooner was drunkenly inviting a sailor aloft engaged in shortening sail to come down and be cut to pieces, when a bolt of lightning struck the mate dead. A boy seated in a small boat that was attached to and trailing from a sailing yacht off the South Carolina coast was killed by a bolt of lightning, while the yacht was not damaged. An unbelieving farmer in Indiana was engaged in a controversy with an itinerant minister when he was struck dead by lightning while making a blasphemous remark.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other districts put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. It offers one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists.

on the side of his black and tan countenance. The strangest part of it all is that no one seems to object. The look with which these little pleasures are received is one more of sorrow than anger and it's a hardy heart indeed who makes a protest.

Giving Coolies a Lesson.

This same attitude of the eastern coolie toward violence is, by the way, one of the strangest things imaginable to a western mind. The other night at the Palace hotel there was a frightful uproar arising from the building next door. Apparently a madman was running amuck among a score or two of rickshaws that had drawn up to the door of the building, and were soliciting patrons for their two-wheeled carriages. The center of the group was a European, and the fiercest tumult prevailed as he began upsetting rickshaws, breaking their shafts, tearing off their lanterns and dashing them on to the ground. In another moment every rickshaw man was tearing madly off with his vehicle to escape the fury of the onslaught, and who should come walking from the scene of the panic, with his arms loaded down with rickshaw cushions, but the proprietor of the hotel.

has been radium. Liquid air was to turn all our wheels, heat our houses in winter and cool them in summer—liquid air was to destroy our garbage, anesthetize all our pain, and usher in a new era. It was soberly argued by men who made claim to scientific knowledge that liquid air could be used to run compressors to make more liquid air, and thus, with a thimbleful at the start, a force could be created strong enough to pry the earth from its orbit. A sad commentary on these high hopes is an item to the effect that judgment of $73 against the company owning the patent has been returned unsatisfied. Liquid air is as wonderful as it ever was, but wonderfulness is not usefulness. Science also has its toys.

Traction Car Innovation.

After a series of experiments, the Wolsley Motor Car company of Birmingham, England, has decided to use on its suburban lines a small, direct-gear petrol-driven car, which will carry thirty passengers and a ton of baggage. It is likely that the petrol car will be introduced for city traffic, too, as it would obviate suspension of street car traffic by failure of current.

Mrs. Fairbanks tells how neglect of warning symptoms will soon prostrate a woman. She thinks woman's safeguard is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Ignorance and neglect are the cause of untold female suffering, not only with the laws of health but with the chance of a cure. I did not heed the warnings of headaches, organic pains, and general weariness, until I was well nigh prostrated. I knew I had to do something. Happily I did the right thing. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound faithfully, according to directions, and was rewarded in a few weeks to find that my aches and pains disappeared, and I again felt the glow of health through my body. Since I have been well I have been more careful. I have also advised a number of my sick friends to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and they have never had reason to be sorry. Yours very truly, Mrs. MAY FAIRBANKS, 216 South 7th St., Minneapolis, Minn." (Mrs. Fairbanks is one of the most successful and highest-salaried travelling saleswomen in the West.)—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced. Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

PISO'S CURE FOR... CONSUMPTION

The Ward of King Canute

A Romance of the Danish Conquest.

By OTTILIE A. LILJENCRANTZ, author of The Thrill of Life the Lucky.
Copyright, 1903, by A. C. McCLURG & CO.

Anger leaped from the young noble's eyes as, in his turn, he came between her and the Jarl. He said forcefully, "No one shall ask anything of you that you do not want, nor shall any king compel you. Yet I think I have a right to know what his will is with you."

"You have not," the Dane contradicted. "Do you think the king's purposes are to be opened to the sight of every Angle who becomes his man? End this talk, maiden, and give me your promise to be obedient."

She gave it in a cry of despair, "I must—I know I must!" then sought to make peace with her lover by laying caressing hands on his breast.

But for once the Etheling's will did not bend to her coaxing; his mouth was doggedly set as he looked down upon her. "I trust no man I do not know," he answered, "and I do not know Canute the man. You have no cause to reproach me with lack of faith in you, Randallin, for when ever—"

"—suspending even your own words—made it appear as if it were love for Rothgar Lodbroksson which brought you into the camp, I looked into your eyes and believed them against all else."

"Love for Rothgar Lodbroksson?" she repeated, drawing back. "Then you did believe that I could love Rothgar?" Her voice rose sharply. "You believed that I followed him!"

"Too late he saw what he had done. I said that I did not believe it," he cried hastily. "What I thought at first in my bewilderment—that could not be called belief."

But she did not seem to hear his explanation as she stood there gazing at him, her mind leaping lightning-like from point to point. "It was that which made you behave so strangely in the garden," she said, and she spoke each phrase with a kind of lowship had reached its height, like one who would ride in upon the crest of the Gainer rose to his feet and began speaking to the king. The first words Randallin heard distinctly were Canute's, as he paused with upraised goblet to look at the Mercian.

"Strangely do you ask," he said. "Why should I give you more than Edmund gave you?"

She had no difficulty in hearing Edric this time. Aggressively honest, his words rang out with startling sharpness. "Because it was for you that I went against Edmund, and from faithfulness to you that I afterward destroyed him."

Out of the stillness that followed, a voice cried, "Are you mad?" and there was the grating of chairs thrust hastily back. But, after a great wrench, her heart stood still within her as through the madness she perceived the purpose. As well as Edric of Mercia she knew that the young Viking's vulnerable point was his longing for his own self-esteem, a craving so unreckoning in its fervor that—should he have the guilty consciousness the traitor counted on—rather than endure his own reproach for cowardice he would be equal to the wild brazenness of flinging the avowal in the teeth of his assembled court. Her pulses began to pound in a furious dance as the same flash of intuition showed her the rock upon which the Gainer's audacious steering was going to wreck him.

For no skulking guilt was in the face of the new king of England as he met the startled glances, but instead a kind of savage joy that widened his nostrils and drew his lips away from his teeth in a terrible smile.

"Now much do I thank whatever god has moved you to open speech," he said, "for with every fiber of my body have I long wanted to requite you for that faithfulness. Knowing tears for him while I am awake. I will remember only that I am my father's daughter and the Lady of Avalcomb."

Proudly as became an Oedalwoman, she followed the page when he came to call her to the royal presence. The great stone hall in which the king awaited the arrival of his Norman bride was the same room in which he had feasted the night before, but tables and dishes now were gone, gold-weighted tapestries hung once more over the door by which Edric of Norway had made his entrance, and a rich-hued rug from an eastern loom lay over the spot where she had seen the axe rise and fall.

Forcing herself to tread the rug with steady step, she came where the king stood by an open window. He was as changed as the room, though in honor of his bride he wore again state robes of silk and cloth-of-gold, for the fire of the Northern lights was gone out of his face, leaving it dull and lusterless.

His ward courtesied deeply before him. "For your justice, King Canute, I give you thanks drawn from the bottom of my heart," she said.

"I welcome you to your own, Lady of Avalcomb," he answered as he returned her salutation. Leaning against the window frame he stood a long while looking at her in silence—so long that she was startled when at last he spoke. "Yet for the good of the realm, I must lay on your odal one burden, Frode's daughter."

"What is that, King?"

"It is that before the year is out you take a husband who shall be able to defend your land in time of need."

Her white cheeks went very red before him and then grew very pale again, while her breast rose and fell convulsively. But she clasped her hands over it as though to still its protest and, suddenly, she flung up her head in a kind of trembling defiance. "What does it matter? King, I know what a Danish woman owes her race. Choose you the man and this shall, like other things, be as you wish."

It was evident that her answer took him by surprise, for he bent from the wall to observe her. "I choose!" he repeated. "Have you then no choice?"

She tried to say "No"; she tried desperately to say "I"; but already her courage was crumbling under her. All at once she took her hands from her breast to hold them out pleadingly, and her voice was broken: "Lord, let me go back to Avalcomb—now—to-day!"

"Wherefore to-day?" he asked. "I had thought you would remain here for awhile and get honor from Queen Emma." A moment he looked away from her, out of the window at the drifting clouds. "I can tell you, Frode's daughter, that while she is noble in her birth, she is still nobler in her mind," he said gravely. "Little would there be in her service for you to take ill. I think it possible that she might be highly helpful to you. There is that about her which makes the good in one come out and bask like a snake in the sun, while the evil slinks away shadow-like."

She interrupted him with a cry that was half a sob. "Lord King, I cannot bear it to see more people that are strange to me! Since I left my father's house I have felt the starkness of strangers, and now—now I can endure it no longer. My heart within me is as though it were bruised black and blue. Let me go back where all know me—where none will hold me out at arm's length to challenge me with his eyes, but all love me and place faith in me because they know me. Lord, give me leave to go home—pray it of you! Beseech it of you!" Entreating, she would have fallen at his feet if he had not caught her hands and stayed her.

A Dream Dispelled.

There was once an observing young woman who took note of the fact that the men seemed to be abashed when in the presence of the maid who ruled the kitchen.

So she went to cooking school and took a thorough course in culinary science, graduating with honors.

On a time she married a man, and she insisted upon getting the meals herself.

But, alas! instead of standing in awe of her and allowing her to boss the house he was quarrelsome and dictatorial, and she was little better than a slave.

At last she threw herself at his feet and begged him to tell her why a man was not as much afraid of his wife as he was of the cook.

"Huh!" he responded. "I'm not afraid you'll quit your job and disorganize the household system."

This shows us that conditions knock the plausibility out of theories right along.

Break It Gently.

Richard Le Gallienne spends much of his time in New York. He affects a decidedly poetical fashion in his hair, which calls for a sparing use of the shears. Near his lodgings is a German barber shop, where he frequently drops in to have his shag polished, but never for tonsorial attention, much to the disgust of the proprietor, who is possessed of the true barber hair-destroying instinct. The other day as the poet left, after one of his usual visits, a customer heard the barber say to the boy:

"See here, Fritz, der next dime dot shentlemans comes in to get his shine I wants you to say somedings to him about dot shameless hair he got. Down get fresh, and make some of fenses—shut hint delicate. Say, 'Boss, you looks like a shackcases wid dot hair; why does you git him out already?'"

CAUGHT IN WRONG BLUFF.

Good idea, but unfortunately the Cradle Was Empty.

A clock in a nearby tower had just tolled off the hour of 4 as he arose unsteadily from the card table, where he had sat for three hours, stretched his weary limbs, bade his comrades good night and started in the direction of his home.

After a half-hour's walk in which all the lamp posts and telegraph poles insisted on getting in his way, he arrived at his home, took out his bunch of keys, at last found the elusive key-hole and softly opening the door and discarding his shoes at the foot of the stairs, climbed heavenward on all fours. With catlike footsteps he crept across the threshold of his bedroom and proceeded to undress. He heard his wife move restlessly, which made him hurry, and in doing so he up set a chair. Stepping quickly over to the cradle in the corner, he commenced to rock it violently.

"Is that you, John?" came his wife's voice from the bed.

"Yes, dear," he replied.

"Well, what in the world are you doing?" she asked.

"Why, I'm rocking this blamed kid to sleep."

"How long have you been there?"

"Since 11:30."

"Well, John, I think you had better get right into bed, as I have the child in here beside me; and, moreover, I've had him here ever since 11 o'clock last night."—Philadelphia Press.

Cream, Ark., Nov. 7.—(Special).—After eighteen months' suffering from Epilepsy, Backache and Kidney Complaint, Mr. W. H. Smith of this place is a well man again and those who have watched his return to health unhesitatingly give all the credit to Dodd's Kidney Pills. In an interview regarding his cure, Mr. Smith says:

"I had been low for eighteen months with my back and kidneys and also Epilepsy. I had taken everything I knew of, and nothing seemed to do me any good till a friend of mine got me to send for Dodd's Kidney Pills. I find that they are the greatest medicine in the world, for now I am able to work and am in fact as stout and strong as before I took cure."

Tennyson in Bitter Mood.

Aubrey de Vere has written some interesting lines concerning a period in Tennyson's life of which the public knows but little. He says concerning an unexpected morning call: "On my way in paid a visit to Tennyson, who seemed much out of spirits and said he could no longer bear to be knocked about the world and that he must marry and find love and peace or die. He was very angry about a very favorable review of him. Said that he could not stand the chattering and conceit of clever men or the worry of society or the meanness of tuft-hunters or the trouble of poverty or the labor of a place or the preying of the heart on itself. Said that no one had been so much harassed by anxiety and trouble as himself. I told him he wanted occupation, a wife and orthodox principles, which he took well."

What One Kicker Can Do.

One coyote will hang around a camp at night and create the impression that a pack of at least twenty big wolves are looking for a chance to eat the campers. But investigation will reveal that the single coyote is lean and hungry and cowardly, and that he does not weigh over fifteen pounds. Likewise one kicker in a town will create the impression that there is much indignation against every respectable citizen and measure.—Atchison, Kan., Globe.

Red Gum Wood Much Used.

Because it warps and stains in seasoning red gum was long neglected, but now 60 per cent of the barrels and boxes made in the south are made of red gum. The wood is also shipped to Europe, where it is made into furniture, and it is also used there in paving blocks. When steamed it is easily bent, and it thus becomes available for carriage rims and carriage wood stock.

breathless finality. "You thought that I—I was like those—those other women in the camp. And what are you thinking of me now? Do you dare to dream that the king—?" Turning, she confronted the old warrior fiercely. "Thorkel Jarl, I ask you to tell the Lord of Ivarsdale as quick as you can what the king wants with me."

"That I will not do," the Jarl said quickly. "You know no prudence, maiden. The Lord of Ivarsdale is also English; a mishap might occur if—"

She stung the words at him; "I care not if I lose Canute's crown! If you will not risk it, I will tell him that the king settles to-night with Edric of Mercia and his men, and that it is to witness the punishment of my kinsmen's murderer that he has sent for me. As for my camp life, ask Rothgar himself, or Elfgiva, or the king, or any soldier of the host! Of them all, you alone have thought such thoughts of me." She stung up her hands against him in a kind of heart-broken rage. "You! To whose high-mindedness I trusted everything I have!" Hiding her face, she ran from them, sobbing, into the house.

CHAPTER XXVII.

The Twilight of the Gods.

As she had seen it from the gallery where the king's soldiers had hidden her, Randallin saw again the great stone hall, enshrining a feasting table around which a throng of nobles in their gorgeous dresses and their jewels and their diadems made a glittering halo. At the farther end, the king sat in his shining gilded chair. Just below her was Edric of Mercia with Norman Leafwinsson beside him. The light from the taper which a page was holding behind Norman of Baddeby fell upon the gemmed collar that was his principal ornament. The collar had been her father's; she could not look at it without seeing again his ruddy old face with its grim mouth and faded kindly eyes. Beside this vision rose another—the vision of this beloved face dead in the moonlight, with Fridlof's near it, his brave smile frozen on his young lips. From that moment, softness and shrinking died out in her bearing as out of her heart, and her blood was turned to fire within her—the liquid fire of the North.

When the wave of good-will and fal-that you were coming to-night to ask it, I have the reward ready." Never was recompense given with a better will. Leaping to his feet, he hurried the goblet in his hand against the opposite wall so that it was shattered on the stone behind the embroidered hangings. At the signal the tapestry was lifted, and in the light stood Edric of Norway, leaning on a mighty battle-axe. To him the king cried in a loud voice, all the irony gone from it, leaving it awful as the voice of Thor at Ragnarok. "Do your work where all can see you, Eric Jarl, that no man shall accuse me of being afraid to bear my deeds. And let Norman Leafwinsson die with his lord for the slaying of Frode of Avalcomb."

A roar of hideous sound—a confusion of overturned lights, of screeching servants, of writhing struggling bodies—above it all, the vision of that glittering axe poised in the air—then flashing downward—Randallin's recollections blurred, ran together, and faded out in broken snatches.

She recalled a brief space of something like sleep-walking as the soldiers led her through branching corridors to this room, and fetched for her attendant the only woman available, a wench they had taken from treacher-washing in the royal kitchen. She remembered irritably rejecting the woman's clumsy services and sending her to sleep on her pallet, while she herself walked to and fro with her surging thoughts until sheer physical exhaustion forced her to throw herself upon the bed. After that she remembered—nothing.

"I am glad that I did not disgrace my kin by screaming or fainting," she reflected now, as she raised herself stiffly. "I am glad I did that much credit to my name." She flushed as her hand, touching the pillow, found it wet, and for an instant the bearing of her head was less erect. "I do not remember what I dreamed," she murmured, "but full well I know that it was not because Norman Leafwinsson is slain that I shed tears in my sleep." For a while she drooped there, her eyes on the open window outside of which a robin was singing blithely among the cherries. But all at once she seized the pillow with a kind of fierceness, and turned it over and piled the others on top of it, crying under her breath, "How dared he! How dared he! I will shed no

OKLAHOMA OPPORTUNITIES
The completion by the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway, of over 300 miles of railroad in Oklahoma opened a rich agricultural country of excellent possibilities, besides giving direct connections between St. Louis, Hannibal and Kansas City, and Oklahoma City, Shawnee, Guthrie, El Reno, Enid and other Oklahoma points. The possibilities are located near and growing towns—Cleveland, Jennings, Cushing, Agra, Fallis, Luther and Haud, situated right in the heart of a rich farming section, offering the best of opportunities for safe and profitable investments. The field is new and the prices of farm land are low.
The opportunity is "NOW."
In fourteen years, the wealth of Oklahoma has steadily increased until at present it is approximately four hundred million dollars. Oklahoma has a population of six hundred and fifty thousand; some three hundred banks with twenty-five million dollars on deposit.
The new fields in eastern Oklahoma are in the best fruit section of the country and produce the very best of fruit in abundance. At the World's Fair, the Wisconsin and Kansas awards in competition with the best fruit sections of the world. The rainfall in this field is about forty inches and well distributed. The weather is mild and the work can be carried on the year round.
Few lines of business are adequately represented. There are openings of all sorts for mill and manufacturing plants, for small stores of all kinds, for banks, newspapers and lumber yards. Mechanics and professional men, both are in demand. Would you like to hear of an opening? THEN TELL US WHAT YOU WANT, how much you have to invest and we will gladly furnish the information.

HOT DRINKS FOR SUMMER.

Doctor Considers Important Subject in the Matter of Diet.

A medical practitioner has drawn attention in the London Chronicle to a very important subject in the matter of diet. He points out that the stoker grilling in the stovehole of a Red sea liner and the explorer among the ice floes of the frozen North—provided they are healthy men—have identical temperatures. The automatic heat-regulating mechanism in the body, no matter what the thermometer may register outside, sees that the body is kept at a normal temperature of about 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit. In order to assist this wonderful process in extremes of weather, it is necessary to consider the subject of food, and one of the most important items of food in hot weather is water. Water, as the writer points out, is a food, and it should be taken in summer weather as a regular article of diet. The habit of drinking iced water is discountenanced, and the ice cream is barred as the most fruitful cause of innumerable dyspepsias. Better than cold drinks are hot drinks, and tea with a slice of lemon is recommended as the most cooling drink in hot weather.

The Lord is My Shepherd.

PSALM XXIII.
The Lord my pasture shall prepare, And feed me with a shepherd's care; His presence shall my wants supply, And guard me with a watchful eye; My noonday walks He shall attend, And all my midnight hours defend.

When in the sultry globe I faint, Or on the thirsty mountains pant, Thy fertile vales and dewy meads, My weary, wandering steps He leads, Where peaceful rivers soft and slow Amid the verdant landscape flow.

Though in the paths of death I tread, With gloomy horrors overspread, My steadfast heart shall fear no ill; For Thou, O Lord, art with me still; Thy friendly crook shall guide me safe, And guide me through the dreadful shade.

Though in a bare and rugged way, Thy bounty shall my pains beguile; The barren wilderness shall smile, With sudden greens and herbage crown'd, And streams shall murmur all around.

—Addison.

More Stoical Than Red Indians.
No red Indians were ever more callous to pain than the aborigines of Australia. In their tribal fights, which still occur frequently, the severest wounds are treated with indifference. Old Australian settlers are fond of telling a famous story of a tribal chief who walked sixty miles with a spear sticking clear through his body before he could get help to pull it out. They insist that the story is true.

Various Wreathing Rules.

Ancient Greeks and Romans wrestled either in a state of complete nudity or with a strip of cloth around their loins. Modern wrestlers wear skin tight on the lower limbs, with arms and torso bare. In Turkey, however, leather drawers are the rule, and the grip may be put upon them. In Switzerland the drawers or the belt may be grasped in order to secure a hold.

German Betrothal Customs.

When a maiden is betrothed in Germany she is called "bride" by her sweetheart, who addresses her thus until it becomes time to call her "wife." Immediately upon betrothal the lovers exchange rings, which, if the course of true love runs smooth, are to be worn ever afterward until death parts them. The woman wears her betrothal ring on the third finger of her left hand until she is married, and then it is transferred to the third finger of her right hand. The husband continues to wear the ring just as the wife wore hers when she was a "bride," so that one can easily tell at a glance if a man be or be not mortgaged as to his affections.

Memorials to Americans.

Many American boys and girls visit Europe nowadays, but perhaps few even of these fortunate young folk are aware that the greatest of English cities contains memorials to five distinguished Americans—a President, a patriot, a poet, a preacher, and a philanthropist. These five great men are Abraham Lincoln, James Russell Lowell, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Matthew Simpson and George Peabody—five names written high in the Hall of Fame, names immortal in life and letters, names forever illustrious in character and achievement.

—St. Nicholas.

Bird Sentry on Guard.

I was interested on Sunday in watching the movements of birds. Crumbling a biscuit, I threw it out, sat down on the piazza and awaited results. It was not long after the birds came and helped themselves before a cat appeared. Then a warning note was sounded by a bird, evidently on guard on the top of the piazza, where he could survey the whole scene. At his warning every bird disappeared and remained in hiding until a reassuring note was heard from the little sentry posted on the piazza roof.—Boston Record.

About Books.

But for the art of reading there never would have been any books. The wide diffusion of that art accounts for the immense increase in the quantity of books. The lack of direction, cultivation and discrimination of that art accounts for the decline in the quality of books. Little readers, like authors. The great need of the world of letters is the promotion of the habit of reading with judgment and the love of reading with taste.—Henry van Dyke.

VARIOUS KINDS OF DAYS.

Word Said to Have No Real Meaning Without Defining Adjective.

Five kinds of day are recognized, and it has been said that the word "day" has no real meaning without an adjective defining what kind of a day is meant. There is a civil day, the astronomical day, the apparent solar day, the mean solar day, and the sidereal day. The civil day begins at the midnight preceding mean noon, and consists of twenty-four hours counted after twelve o'clock; the astronomical day begins twelve hours after the civil day, or at the mean noon of the corresponding civil day. These hours are reckoned from 0 to 24. It will be seen, therefore, that while 10hr. 12min., January 1st astronomical time, is also 10hr. 12min. January 1st civil time, yet 22hr. 12min., January 1st astronomical time, is also 10hr. 12min. a. m., January 2nd civil time. There are many anomalies growing out of this use of the civil day, and there are many arguments in favor of using the astronomical day. It is one of the reforms which undoubtedly will come some time.

The Old-Time "Nanna."

A writer in a recent number of the Queen expresses the opinion (which is shared by many other people) that children are not one whit better brought up by the smart, white-frocked, certificated nurses so much sought after nowadays than they were by the comfortable "Nanna" of the days gone by. The old nurse still holds a place in the hearts of the men and women who knew her loving care when they were children, and they will never forget her "treats" that used to delight their hearts. "Beat of all," says a woman, "was lantern tea, when all the lights were put out, and the nursery was illuminated by penny tin lanterns, containing colored candles, which cast weird shadows on the solemn faces round the festive board."

Irish Village of Baltimore.
Baltimore, in Maryland, gets its name from a small and unostentatious fishing village in Ireland. The word Baltimore signifies the "village that grew up about the big house" and the derivation is plain when one sees the ivy-covered ruins of the very remarkable big house that was once the stronghold of the O'Driscolls. It is situated upon an imposing height, a sentinel over the numerous little dwellings that have sprung up and increased in the vicinity of its wrecked and deserted life. From the village of Baltimore enormous catches of mackerel are sent to America.

I was all run down from nervousness and overwork and had to resign my position and take a rest. I found that I was not gaining my strength and health as fast as I could wish, and as your Wine of Cardui was recommended as such a good medicine for the ills of our sex, I bought a bottle and began using it. I was satisfied with the results from the use of the first bottle, and took three more and then found I was restored to good health and strength and able to take up my work with renewed vigor. I consider it a fine tonic and excellent for worn-out, nervous condition, and am pleased to endorse it.
