Pere Marquette Improvements.

The Great Central management is going to spend millions of dollars for improvements and equipment this year. For the Pere Marquette division the sum to be expended is a total of $4,658,578. Thirty-five consolidated freight engines, 150,000 pounds on drivers.

Forty-one passenger cars, including mail, baggage, coaches, cafe and parlor cars of latest design.

Ten thousand tons of 85-pound steel rails.

New steel bridges to the amount of 500,000 pounds, to replace lighter structures.

Erection of several new station buildings.

New coaling stations at different points.

New freight house at Chicago and yards extended.

Purchase of new equipment, now under contract and being received: 1250 cars, 1000 gondola coal cars, 100 ballast, 150 steel under-frame coal cars and 25 cabooses.

LIVONIA CENTER.

Warmer weather just now and we hope it will continue.

Mr. and Mrs. David Wolfrom, also Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peck, H. C. Peck and C. F. Smith, visited Wm. Garchow's people Sunday.

We only had mail twice last week. Seemed just like old times.

The auction at Josephine Smith's Tuesday was well attended, but everything went very cheap.

News is scarce just now—too much snow.

Mrs. Charley Wolf had her arm broken last week by an unruly cow.

Fraud Exposed.

A few counterfeiters have lately been making and trying to sell imitations of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds and other medicines, thereby defrauding the public. This is to warn you to beware of such people, who seek to profit through stealing the reputation of remedies which have been successfully curing disease for over 25 years. A sure protection to you is our name on the wrapper. Look for it, on all Dr. King's or Bucklen's remedies, as all others are cheap imitations. H. E. Beecher & Co., Chicago, Ill., and Windsor, Canada.

W. C. T. U.

It is not often one hears such eloquent display of oratorical genius and witness such a battle of brains for supremacy, as was exhibited Feb. 7 when the question of statehood was before the senate at Washington. After a continuous sitting of almost nine hours the bill was passed, providing for the admission of Oklahoma and Indian territory as one state, and New Mexico according to its present boundaries with Arizona eliminated. The long session was characterized by exciting incidents and many surprises. Beginning promptly at 12 o'clock the senate proceeded to consider the various amendments which had been suggested by the committee on territories. One of the first of these taken up was the amendment prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in Indian territory for the next ten years. This was displaced with a substitute offered by Senator Gallinger which extended the amendment to the entire state and for a period of twenty-one years, which, after a two hours discussion, was adopted by a vote of 55 to 29. It must go back to the House, and their disposal of it will be awaited with intense interest. It was surely a great victory for temperance and sobriety, and was the more noteworthy because of the debate and the names committed to prohibition by the recorded vote of fifty-five senators.—Supt. Press.

Poisons in Food.

OBITUARY.

On Feb. 14th, 1905, at his residence in Plymouth township, occurred the death of John Rathbun, who sixty-eight years before was born on the same old homestead and where, with the exception of seven years spent in California, he has always resided. Fourteen years ago Mr. R. was stricken with paralysis and since that time has been an invalid, tenderly cared for by his faithful wife who, through these fourteen long years, has borne her burden of sorrow and affliction in a manner to win the respect and commendation of all who knew her. The funeral was held at the home on Friday and although it was considered by oldest inhabitants to be the worst day ever experienced in winter, still a large number were present. The interment was at the Thayer cemetery. Rev. Mr. Vaughn of the Salem Congregational church was the officiating clergyman.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Plymouth Mail and a copy sent to her two sons.

Mr. McLaughlin Explains Why the Remarkable Cut in Railroad Assessments Was Made.

Railroad Assessments Reduced.

Tax Commissioner McLaughlin, of Muskegon, in a long interview gave his position in the matter of the reduction of the railroad assessment at the last meeting of the state tax commission, at which he and Mr. Dust were said to have voted for the cut. Mr. McLaughlin claims that neither Mr. Dust or himself had much to say in the meeting and were forced to acquiesce or have the roll cut much lower. Their objections were overruled in every case and it was only after much acrimonious debate and ill-feeling that the total was finally adjusted. Whatever they had to say on the subject was promptly overruled, however, and they were forced to consent to almost all the demands of the majority to prevent the roll being reduced much further.

Mr. McLaughlin says: "We accepted the situation and took the best we could get, we compromised, split the difference, and finally agreed to agree and all signed the roll at 208 million, which was presented for review. The roll was signed January 15, and we heard complaints and objections until February 15. The final amount reached by a majority vote was $108,000,000. Much has been made of the fact that on January 15 figures were agreed to by all the members of the board. They were, but in many cases they were compromises, agreed to keep valuations from going still lower, in some cases very much lower, and they never would have received even our qualified approval had we not understood that there would be no attempt to lower them still further on review."

Proven to Be Malins.

Through the indefatigable efforts of Allen Weir, formerly secretary of state of Washington, and a prominent lawyer of Seattle, the Robert Bull who killed William Deppe on Fox Island, in Alaska, January 2 last, has been proven to be Charles R. Malins, the former noted Battle Creek lawyer. Weir has been hunting up Malins's career for several months, finally writing there to George W. Mechem, the former law partner of the late Steven S. Hullbert. Mechem forwarded to Weir descriptions and photographs of Malins, with a history of his career in Michigan. He has heard from Weir, who states that the photographs had arrived and that Robert Bull was certainly Charles R. Malins. He says that he has been working for months to run him to earth, and that he is not surprised at the result, as he had sized up Malins properly when he first saw him. Malins's wife and two sons live in Seattle, while Malins has been promoting a company to quarry marble in Alaska.

Mrs. Joslyn and Swan Sentenced.

The Joslyn-Swan murder case on trial in Mason came to a sudden and unexpected end on Monday after the testimony against Swan, by Mrs. Joslyn, there being no attempt whatever at defense, a matter of great surprise to court and spectators there. Mrs. Carrie Joslyn and Isaac Swan were sentenced to life imprisonment at Jackson for the murder of the woman's husband, William Joslyn. The testimony presented at the trial seems to have been very favorable toward Swan, regarding his life previous to the tragedy, and places Mrs. Joslyn as the one to whom most of the blame should be attached. Judge West took occasion to denounce the actions of Mrs. Joslyn, holding her up as a liar, time and an illiterate woman who had ruined three lives.

All Hope Abandoned.

The chasing down of every clue that has been suggested, long correspondence with her parents and careful weighing of all the known facts in the case leads to the absolute conclusion that pretty Olive Templeton, the 16-year-old girl who mysteriously disappeared from the Adventist Normal college, of Berrien Springs, on Thursday morning, Feb. 2, is lying dead beneath the snow near the institution or in the St. Joseph river. The sheriff's force and the college authorities now believe that the girl threw herself into the river in a fit of temporary insanity. Other people here cling to the theory that she lies lifeless beneath the deep shroud of snow that still blocks the neighboring roads.

Fishermen's Serious Situation.

Anxiety is felt for the fishermen at the ice fishing village on Saginaw bay. Attempts to reach the fishermen, for the most part from ten to fifteen miles from shore, have been fruitless, owing to the huge drifts of snow piled across the ice like mountain ranges and it is believed the fishermen will suffer from lack of provisions and fuel. Attempts to reach the imperiled men with food and fuel on Saturday were fruitless. As nothing has been heard from them for a week, it is presumed they have been unable to come through the drifts. To add to the seriousness of the situation, a number of new cracks in the ice have been encountered by men attempting to reach the village.

Excavation will be made the headquarters for the railway mail service in that district. A chief clerk will be placed in charge.

SPHERES OF INFLUENCE IN CHINA GIVEN UP BY POWERS

The map shows the various spheres of influence of the powers in China, Manchuria omitted. The arrow points to the sphere abandoned by Germany, an action that, if followed by the other powers with respect to their spheres, will mean much for the integrity of the Chinese empire. The key in the lower right hand corner of the map gives the significance of the shadings.

MEMORIAL SERVICE OVER THE REMAINS OF THE HATED SERGIUS.

Grand Duke Sergius, governor-general of Moscow, uncle of the czar and the worst hated man in Russia, was assassinated at 3 p. m. Friday in Moscow.

While he was driving Friday from the Nicholas palace through the senate quarter, his carriage was followed by two cabs. At the law courts a sleigh in which were two men, one of whom was dressed as a workman, went quickly ahead of the grand duke's carriage. The sleigh then slowed up to allow the carriage to pass and at that moment a bomb was thrown beneath the carriage.

The force of the explosion broke all the windows of the law courts and the report was heard outside of the city. The carriage was blown to pieces, nothing but the four wheels remaining. The horses were not hurt and bolted.

The grand duke was instantly killed. His head was blown off, actually being separated from his body, which was frightfully mangled. The coachman was also killed. He was so frightfully burned by the explosive with which the bomb was charged that he died while being taken to a hospital. On the arrest of the murderers, neither of whom was known to the police, one of them coolly said: "I don't care. I have done my job."

An immense crowd gathered at the spot and made a demonstration against a number of students who commenced scattering revolutionary proclamations.

Within a few minutes after the explosion people were gathering up pieces of wood and clothing as mementoes of the tragedy.

A memorial service Saturday at the Alexiev church of the Tschu monastery in Moscow was attended by Grand Duchesses Elizabeth and Maria and Grand Dukes Constantine and Dimitri, all the high civil and military officials, representatives of the municipality and zemstvos and of different classes of society and the foreign consul. The body of Grand Duke Sergius was in an oak coffin with silver eagles at its head and foot. It stood on a silver bier, among a mass of growing palms. There were two wreaths on the casket, one from Grand Duchesses Elizabeth and the other from the late grand duke's suite. The coffin was half covered by a grand ducal pall of gold embroidery with ermine and the grand duke's decorations are arranged on either side of the casket in order of precedence.

St. Petersburg University Closed. The spirit of revolution had complete possession of the great meeting of professors, students and directors of the St. Petersburg university, which assembled Monday to discuss the question of joining in the general strike inaugurated by similar institutions in Russia, and it was decided to close the university till fall in anticipation of possible trouble when the meeting broke up, squadrons of Cossacks again paraded the streets, especially the Nevsky Prospect, and the neighborhood of the Kazan cathedral, which is always a point for student demonstrations.

Buffalo Bill's Divorced Suit.

Wm. F. Cody, better known as "Buffalo Bill," filed suit Jan. 6, 1904, at Cody, Wyo., and made serious charges against his wife. He swore that she threatened to poison him; that she made his life intolerable, refused to receive his friends and drove him from home when he brought friends home with him. Mrs. Cody, who is a Catholic, is fighting the divorce suit, but is not asking a decree for herself. "The colonel is enacting the role of a would-be Napoleon," she said the other day. "But I decline to play Josephine. He is insanely anxious for a male heir. I know there is a young woman in the case, but whether he hopes to marry her, if he secures a divorce, I do not know." Mrs. Cody is making her fight on the ground that her husband has been guilty of nearly all the charges he brings against her, and that she is innocent.

A Sunday night fire in Indianapolis for four hours threatened to destroy the wholesale district of the city. When brought under control eight buildings, among which were three hotels, had been completely destroyed. One fireman was hurt by falling walls.

Handicaps Are Destitute.

It was a most harrowing scene as the blackened, bruised and twisted human bodies have been recovered from the Virginia mines, near Birmingham, Ala., and laid out for identification by heart-broken mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts. It is now stated positively that 100 men were in the mine at the time of the "dust" explosion and not the slightest hope is held out that one of them will live to tell of the disaster. Scenes at the entrance to the mine were gruesome in the extreme. As heroic workmen would bring discolored and mangled human forms to the opening, women and children with a mingled expression of anxiety, fear and hope depicted on their faces, would crowd up longing to find a living father, husband, brother or sweetheart. Utter despair would be written on their features after looking and examining, for so blackened and torn are most of the bodies that positive identification has been possible in but few instances.

About 100 families and 300 children have been left destitute and without means of support and one-third of the inhabitants of a town have been wiped out by the calamity.

Roosevelt Will Investigate.

When President Roosevelt visits Texas the latter part of next month, he will personally take a hand in the Standard Oil investigation. He will invite some of the largest producers in the Beaumont fields to call on him and talk over the situation.

The president has been requested by telegram by the speaker of the Texas house of representatives to extend the scope of the inquiry to that state. The president does not believe any additional instructions are needed to have the investigation carried into Texas.

He said the instructions that Corporation Commissioner Garfield had received would not only apply to Kansas, but to every other section of the country where the Standard Oil Co. has an interest.

The president is not content to leave the investigation to the subordinates of the departments. He insists that the Standard Oil Co. is a violator of the law and he will see personally that it is punished.

Most Important Message of a Decade.

President Roosevelt's message, transmitting to the senate the new Dominican protocol of an agreement providing for the collection and disbursement by the United States of the customs revenues of San Domingo for the adjustment of all the obligations of that government, is made public by order of the senate in executive session. The document includes the new agreement as well as the original protocol and award of the commission of arbitration, for the settlement of the claims of the San Domingo Improvement Co., under which agents of the United States are already collecting the revenues at certain points of the ports of the Dominican government. The Monroe doctrine imposes this burden upon the United States, and if the doctrine is to endure the task of collecting and distributing money due must be taken up. The Dominican affair has forced this conclusion, and the protocol of the agreement reached between the United States and the Dominican republic provides for the practical execution of this plan. The arrangement, if ratified, will be a precedent for all time. The foregoing, in brief, is the conclusion President Roosevelt reaches in one of the most important messages of the decade sent to the senate.

Two New Battleships.

The house, after a seven-hour session, passed the naval appropriation bill, carrying a total of $60,914,823. The provision for two battleships, as reported by the committee on naval affairs, was retained. Both the majority and minority were badly divided over the proposition, at least forty members of the latter going over to the Republicans, while about an equal number of Republicans voted in opposition. Several important changes in the bill were made. The proposed increase of 1,200 men and officers for the marine corps was stricken out, as was also the provision authorizing the construction of a collier somewhere else than at the Mare Island navy yard, in California. In order to do the work better an item of $175,000 was inserted for the proper equipment of the Mare Island yard.

President Gives It Up.

President Roosevelt, who for weeks has been hopeful that some definite action might be taken at the present session of congress on the railroad rate question, practically has relinquished the idea of securing legislation on the subject this winter. It is reasonably certain that he will not call an extraordinary session of congress to meet in the spring, but unless he changes his mind, he will call congress together probably in October.

A negro, James H. Wolf, has been elected commander of the Massachusetts G. A. R. He was elected junior vice commander in 1903 and senior vice commander in 1904. The election means he will lead the parade of the national encampment at Denver next August. Wolf is a lawyer. He served in the navy in the civil war and is a graduate of the Harvard law school.

It is claimed that $1,500,000 was won on the American turf last spring. One might infer, unpleasant as the subject may be, that about the same amount was lost.

There are eighteen candidates for the Republican nominations of circuit judge and six places to be filled. The primaries will be held March 8th. It is possible all present Republican judges will be renominated with perhaps the exception of Judge Donovan.

The interesting discovery is made in a statement just prepared at the navy department that the navy now building for the United States is more powerful than the one already afloat. The combined tonnage of thirty-one warships that are on the stocks is greater than that of the fleet of 114 vessels, big and little, that now make up the American navy.

We notice that in some parts of New England the highway overseers have abandoned the snow plow and are keeping the roads open by means of a wide, heavy roller made for the purpose. As the snow begins to drift, the roller is run over the track and they soon have the roadway built up solid as high as the ordinary drifts.

The administration's fight against the beef trust, which is expected to end in jail sentences for some, if not all, of the packers, has begun in earnest through the summons at Chicago of a special federal grand jury, to which evidence of violations of the Sherman anti-trust law by the packers will be presented.

An exchange tells of a young man who had an occasion to use the phone a few evenings since, and laid his cigar on a chair, rung the bell, took down the receiver and just as the central girl answered, a friend came and was about to sit down on the cigar, when the young man exclaimed, "Look out you'll burn your pants!"

Who Will Run?

Caucuses for the nomination of village officers will soon be held and enquiries are being made—Who will run? The terms of Trustees Hamilton, Burrows and Jolliffe expire as well as those of President, clerk and treasurer. President Robinson is not again in the field. Who is? Names like V. E. Hill, P. W. Voorbies and E. C. Hough have been mentioned—all good men of exceptional qualities. Edward Gayde has been mentioned as a trustee from the north side. Clerk Lauffer will undoubtedly be renominated as will also Treasurer Beals. Every taxpayer should be interested in the matter of village officials. Much good work has been done in the past few years and much is yet to be done, particularly in the way of street improvements.

Consumption

There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.

From time immemorial the doctors prescribed cod liver oil for consumption. Of course the patient could not take it in its old form, hence it did very little good. They can take and tolerate it for a long time. There is no oil, not excepting butter, so easily digested and absorbed by the system as cod liver oil in the form of Scott's Emulsion, and that is the reason it is so helpful in consumption where its use must be continuous.

We will send you a sample free.

Health of American Women

A Subject Much Discussed at Women's Clubs—The Future of a Country Depends on the Health of Its Women.

At the New York State Assembly of Mothers, a prominent New York doctor told the 500 women present that healthy American women were so rare as to be almost extinct.

This seems to be a sweeping statement of the condition of American women. Yet how many do you know who are perfectly well and do not have some trouble arising from a derangement of the female organism which manifests itself in headaches, backaches, nervousness, that bearing-down feeling, painful or irregular menstruation, leucorrhoea, displacement of the uterus, ovarian trouble, indigestion or sleeplessness? There is a tried and true remedy for all these ailments. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored more American women to health than all other remedies in the world. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can. For thirty years it has been curing the worst forms of female complaints.

Such testimony as the following should be convincing.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Ia., writes: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I can truly say that you have saved my life and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words. For two years I spent lots of money in doctoring without any benefit for menstrual irregularities and I had given up all hopes of ever being well again, but I was persuaded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and three bottles have restored me to perfect health. Had it not been for you I would have been in my grave to-day."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

Miss Mattie Henry, Vice-President of Danville Art Club, 429 Green St., Danville, Va., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"Many years suffering with female weakness, inflammation and a broken down system made me more anxious to die than to live, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored my health and I am so grateful for it that I want every suffering woman to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do for her."

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, headache, bloating, (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. No other medicine in the world has received such unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

A light heart, a cheerful countenance, and all the charms of grace and beauty are dependent upon proper action of the bodily organs. You cannot look well unless you feel well. Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice and medicine have restored thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

REBUKES A DRUMMER

COMMERCIAL MEN "ROASTED" BY BRILLIANT JOURNALIST.

Elements of Mirth as Well as Tragedy in Incident in Which Amos J. Cummings Was a Prominent Figure—An Unfortunate Introduction.

How often do we hear, at public dinners, chairmen wanting in tact announce the name of an after-dinner speaker, coupled with the remark that Mr. Clever-man has been invited "especially to entertain us!" The implication is that the gentleman is to pay for his dinner by making a speech, telling a story or singing a song. I have in memory one of the most amusing incidents of the kind that occurred at Delmonico's. It was a dinner of a commercial organization. Amos J. Cummings, then a brilliant journalist, who had just been elected to the house of representatives at Washington, had considerable reputation as a "funny" speaker. He was, in some respects, the Simeon Ford of that day. We all saw that Amos was down on the list of speakers; but nobody was prepared for the kind of a talk he gave.

A fine old chap who knew heaps about commerce but nothing about "professional pride," was acting as toastmaster. When he reached Mr. Cummings' name he began thus:

"We have with us to-night a gentleman who has been especially asked for the purpose of entertaining us. That he will do so let us hope. I have the pleasure of introducing Mr. Cummings, who, I believe, will amuse you."

Those of us who were watching Amos Cummings' face while these remarks were being made saw the gathering clouds and knew their portent. The storm broke, as soon as Amos was on his feet. Joseph Howard, Jr., was there that night and he chuckled at the prospect of a row.

"So, I have been invited, not as your guest, but as a paid entertainer—paid, I say, and my wage is rated so low as the price of a dinner? Well, I rate you at what you are—a pack of common money-grubbers, incapable of having the instincts of gentlemen when a money consideration intervenes. I can be bought for a price, just because you buy hides, logwood, rum and tobacco. If I omit any of the commodities of commerce, I do not mean to discriminate in favor of any of you. I always despised this so-called commerce! now I declare my contempt for you men who are engaged in it.

"Entertain you—you? I could best do that by climbing down into the vats of commerce's filthy tan-yard. You'd follow me there; you'd understand me, then. Entertain you, indeed! I am incapable; but, I thank God, I can and have made you 'take notice.' If I did not think that I had amply paid you for your dinner by telling you what I think of you, I'd send you my check for the price of the opportunity. It has been worth a year's salary."

And then, Amos J. Cummings strode out of the banquet hall, leaving the most awe-stricken gathering of men I ever beheld. Some of us were convulsed with laughter. Cummings was fighting angry and the man who would have stopped him would have been ill-advised.

Of course, that was the breaking up of the dinner. Attempts were made to continue the speaking, but, to paraphrase the translators of Boccaccio, "owing to the disfavor into which entertainment had fallen," the speaking was not listened to by the disorganized assemblage. No possible defense can be offered for Mr. Cummings. He would have scorned to set up one himself. There never was a moment in Amos Cummings' life when he was not a distinct personality, quite capable of standing up and asserting himself.—Julius Chambers in Brooklyn Eagle.

The Silent Searchers.
When the darkness of night has fallen,
And the birds are fast asleep,
An army of silent searchers
From the dusk shadows creep;
And over the quiet meadows,
Or amid the waving trees,
They wander about with their tiny lamps
That flash in the evening breeze.

And this army of silent searchers,
Each with his flickering light,
Wanders about till morning
Has driven away the night.
What treasures they may be seeking
No man upon earth can know;
Perhaps 'tis the home of the fairies
Who lived in the long ago.

For an ancient legend tells us
That once, when the fairy king
Had summoned his merry minstrels
At the royal feast to sing,
The moon, high over the tree tops
With the stars, refused to shine,
And an army with tiny torches
Was called from the oak and pine.

And when, by the lamps of darkness,
The fairies were chased away,
The army began its searching
At the close of a dreary day;
Through all the years that have followed
The seekers have searched the night,
Piercing the gloom of the hours
With the flash of their magic light.
—Henry Ripley Dore.

An Easy Creditor.
In a certain town of Connecticut a deacon of the church, charged with soliciting subscriptions for a charity, recently experienced considerable difficulty in getting the townsmen to contribute.

To one of his neighbors the deacon said:
"Oh, come, Richard, do give something."

"Sorry, deacon," answered Richard, "but I don't see how I can."

"Why not? Isn't the cause a good one?"

"Oh, yes, the cause is good enough; but I owe too much money."
"But, Richard, you owe God a larger debt than anyone else."
"That's true, too," drawled Richard, "but God ain't pushin' me."—Harper's Weekly.

LITTLE POKER AT WASHINGTON.

Stories of Big Games Must Be Taken With Allowances.

It was formerly quite the thing to tell stories about big poker games among the members of Congress. Much was said about the "Senatorial game," "millionaires' game," and the "Congressional game," and always we heard about great bunches of money changing hands, bluffs as high as the banks of the Mississippi, and all sorts of stories.

Frequently the senator, representative, diplomat or rich man was named and the winnings or losses told with as much gusto as if they had really happened. There were some pleasant poker games in days gone by, and occasionally some wonderful plays, but one night, with a few interesting incidents, furnished material for a month of stories.

Some of those who figured in the poker stories became annoyed at the notoriety they gained and abandoned poker entirely. For many years now there has not been enough poker in the capital to hang a story on.

Wrong-Foot-Foremost.
"I got out of bed this morning wrong-foot-foremost, and so everything has gone badly with me the whole day through!" Common enough it is to hear a man or woman say this, and believe it well-nigh as literally as if, in thus doing it, either of the two had stepped on a tack—point up and head down—and so gone limping ever since, not to speak of dire apprehensions of lockjaw.

Suffered Agency and Had to Wear Bandages All the Time—Another Cure by Cuticura.

Another cure by Cuticura is told of by Mrs. Caroline Cable, of Waupaca, Wis., in the following grateful letter: "My husband suffered agony salt rheum on his hands, and I had to keep them bandaged all the time. We tried everything we could get, but nothing helped him until he used Cuticura. One set of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills cured him entirely, and his hands have been as smooth as possible ever since. I do hope this letter will be the means of helping some other sufferer."
