The Good Roads Movement.

Detroit Free Press:—If for no other reason, the good roads convention which opened at Port Huron Tuesday would command attention because of the prominent workers in that field who have honored the gathering with their presence. But there is a far deeper significance to the meeting. The question of good roads is one in which the entire country is vitally interested. The day when any sort of highway was considered sufficient is passing. With the growth in population and the establishment of new towns the necessity of better means of travel has become apparent. The telephone and rural mail delivery enables the farmer to keep in close touch with the entire world. The introduction of labor-saving machinery has lightened his toil and given him more time in which to enjoy life. Nor can the practical side of the question be overlooked. If the farmer residing at a distant point is to compete with one living nearer a market he must have good roads over which to transport his products. The keenness of competition compels the husbanding of every particle of energy, and in no way can this be more readily accomplished than through good roads.

The advent of the bicycle served as a forerunner of the present movement. The introduction of the automobile gave added impetus to the cause. The requirements of the urban and rural population alike demand that some things be done. The money which in past years has been spent in maintaining the highways of the state if expended systematically and judiciously would have gone far toward giving Michigan a system of public roads of which it might well be proud. The subject is one which is commanding the attention of thinking men. In some states the work has been undertaken on a large scale. Michigan is beginning to awake to its opportunities and responsibilities. The legislative aid granted should give a good start. The corporation of all classes will insure the success of the undertaking. In no other way can money be more profitably expended than providing good roads.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lane visited relatives in Belleville yesterday.

I have an exceptional opportunity for a bright, active man to represent the Aetna Life Insurance Company, in Plymouth and vicinity, if he applies at once personally or by letter. Experience not necessary.

A WOMAN'S SHAME LAID BARE CONDEMNS HER LOVER.

THE MURDER OF PAWNBROKER MOYER FASTENED ON JOHN-SON AND PARKER.

THE LOVER'S LETTER TO THE WOMAN READ IN OPEN COURT.

The murder of Pawnbroker Moyer in Detroit, for which two men who gave their names as Harry Johnson and Harry Parker, but who have been fully identified as Tom Sherman and Frank Weakly, has been brought home to them in the trial in the Recorder's Court. It was one of the most brutal and startling murders ever committed in the city. Besides recovering practically all the plunder taken by the men, the mysterious "widow" who had a liaison with Tom Sherman was discovered and restored a part of the stolen diamonds they had placed in her care. Mrs. Byron Ellison, of Kansas City, Mo., the wife of a respectable and honest working engineer, the woman in the case, whom her husband freely forgave and besought her to tell the truth, has taken his advice and sealed the fate of the two men. Heavily veiled, and amid sobs of grief, the recital of her shame was made in the court Tuesday before the men who are on trial for the murder. During her testimony a letter which Sherman, alias Johnson, wrote her and which contained damaging evidence against him, was read.

Mrs. Ellison's testimony, identifying both respondents, and the letter are considered to remove any remaining hope either may have had of being acquitted of the charge of murder. She evidently felt keenly her position and that her story while conclusive against the prisoners was also putting the indelible brand of shame on herself.

Deputy Oil Inspectors.

The appointments of deputy oil inspectors made Monday for the several districts of the state follow: First, John Ziegler, Waukegan; second, Frederick Erecke, Detroit; third, Joby Marx, Monroe; fourth, Frank Bullis, Barry county; fifth, C. B. Hoffmaster, Hopkins Station; sixth, J. J. Lovette, Dowagiac; eighth, Harry Oakes, Grand Haven; ninth, J. S. Hamlin, Eaton Rapids; tenth, Perry D. Pettit, Ithaca, to Jan. 1, 1906; A. S. McIntyre, St. Louis, after Jan. 1; eleventh, A. W. Wilkinson, Chelsea; twelfth, Otto L. Sprague, Owosso; thirteenth, Walter Cantwell, Saginaw; fourteenth, Chas. Thorrington, Romeo; fifteenth, A. B. Green, Flanders; sixteenth, John McDonald, Menominee; seventeenth, Sakris Silvea, Calumet; eighteenth, C. Addison, Fremont; nineteenth, William Leighton, Grand Marais; twentieth, Frank McIntyre, Cheboygan; twenty-second, Robert A. Douglass, Ironwood; twenty-third, S. O. Burgdorf, Bay City; twenty-fourth, A. M. Birmingham, Elsie.

That Courtmartial.

Gov. Warner states that he has decided to be guided solely by the military board as to the course to be adopted in connection with the trouble between the Detroit militia officers. "I don't know anything about military law," he said, "and these gentlemen do, so I will do whatever they say. I have heard nothing officially about the matter yet except that Gen. McCarrin has asked me when he could meet me and talk over the matter. I expect the military board will meet in Lansing early in the week to discuss the matter."

It is said to be the desire of some of the military board to avoid a court-martial, if at all possible, on account of the heavy expense it will entail. It would require 12 officers and it they were to be paid for their services as they probably would be, they would be apt to make it last for a week or two. In addition to this there would be a heavy charge for a stenographer and other expenses.

Powder Mills Blown Up.

The Anthony Powder works near Ishpeming, blew up Friday night, fortunately without loss of life. It is believed the explosion was caused by a fire in the engine house. The works were located 12 miles from Marquette, but the explosion was distinctly felt in the city. There were four explosions, and practically every building at the plant was destroyed. Much damage was done in both Negaunee and Ishpeming. Windows were broken in hundreds of residences, and the plate glass fronts of 20 business blocks were shattered.

"Elijah" Dowle and the hosts of Zion have broken camp at Ben Mac Dhuil, near Muskegon, and returned by boat to Zion City. It is said that the trouble arose through some of the flock demanding about the same measure of self-government as is allowed to Russian peasants. Dowle was incensed at the attack upon his autocratic authority and led the host back to the Chicago boat. He may deny the host the use of his ground at Ben Mac Dhuil for a summer camp in future, for he is mad clear through.

George Gage had been out of work a long time at Decatur, Ill., when his home and contents were burned, his wife barely escaping with a tiny babe in her arms. He came to Battle Creek six months ago and secured work at Advance Thresher Works. Saturday evening he suddenly dropped dead.

Burglars entered the Pife Lake post-office in connection with the store of Dr. Lewis Walter, postmaster and merchant, and secured but $12 in stamps.

Nelson Hobart, of Gallen, is suing Louise Hobart for divorce. Both are octogenarians. He alleges she constantly insults him in the presence of friends.

Eight prisoners in the Kalamazoo jail have been placed in the dark hole for throwing a tureen of soup at the turnkey. They complained of the quality of the food.

William H. Elson, superintendent of schools, declares Grand Rapids is a race-suicide city. For the past three years the school census shows a gain of but one child.

A trolley car running 20 miles an hour, ran into a wagon in the Soo Wednesday afternoon and Joseph Lalonde had both legs crushed so that he may lose them.

Chas. Fritzer, of Sage, west of Standish, lost both eyes while working in an electrical establishment at Rhinelander, Wis. He is a son of C. A. Fritzer, of Sage.

Driven to desperation over losses sustained on his farm, Frederick Moseman, 60 years old, who lived six miles from Saginaw, took strychnine and died in terrible agony.

Simon H. Lawler, a pioneer resident, aged 60, of Battle Creek, fell dead while walking in his own yard. He had been in good health. Lawler had lived in one house 50 years.

The first fair to be held in Michigan this year will be the fifty-sixth annual fair and race meet of the Calhoun County Agricultural society, at Marshall, from September 5 to 8, inclusive.

The Grand Rapids police authorities are puzzled to know what to do with two little girls, Stella Dutkiewicz and Helen Dendengalskan, who are accused of a series of small robberies.

While assisting in the unloading of the package freighter Russia, John Alloway, foreman of the Grand Trunk freight sheds at Port Huron, fell from the gangway, and was carried away by the swift current.

Frank Jerry Koepek, who came recently from Detroit, shot himself Friday evening on the Monroe docks. He was out of work and despondent. The bullet entered below the chin and lodged in the brain.

An attempt was made to wreck a train on the Northwestern railroad, at Birch Creek by placing a farmer's wagon across the tracks. The engine pilot was wrecked and the wagon smashed. No one was hurt.

Expert safe blowers forced their way into the River Rouge postoffice Wednesday morning with a cold chisel stolen from a neighboring shop, blew the safe open and made away with $200 worth of two-cent stamps and $275 in cash.

Congressman William Alden Smith, of Michigan, one of the American group of delegates to the interparliamentary congress at Brussels, received an invitation from Emperor William to dine with him Saturday after the annual review of the Potsdam and Berlin garrisons.

Believing that an explosion had occurred, most of the miners working 150 to 180 feet under ground in the Bay City mines, stopped when they felt the tremors of the earthquake shocks reported from Kentucky and Missouri. They claimed that they felt the tremors very distinctly at intervals of 20 seconds.

The Big Four train was wrecked one mile south of Benton Harbor Monday night, and traffic was tied up on the road for over eight hours. Ten loaded cars were piled up in the ditch. The train was going at 25 miles an hour when the wreck occurred. The crew saved their lives by jumping from the train.

By the explosion of a gasoline stove in the residence of Mrs. Phoebe Proutz of Kalamazoo, Mrs. Proutz was so badly burned that she died at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, a neighbor badly scorched, a grandchild almost suffocated by smoke, the house burned down and the two adjoining ones damaged to the extent of $500 each.

The capsizing of the boat in which Dyer Wickham, of Kansas, and Nelson Bullis, of Gregory, went fishing on Bruin lake, resulted in the drowning of Wickham, Bullis managing to save himself. Wickham was 65 years old, and is survived by a widow and two children. Arriving from Kansas on a visit to relatives, the family were attending a picnic at the lake, and were forced to witness the death of husband and father.

While no one was watching, a franchise was granted along the Midland stone road from the west Bay City limits to the western county line to unknown promoters of a projected electric line. Even the official records were kept secret.

Samuel Cutbert, treasurer of Soo township, came near losing a valuable steer through the animal's curiosity. The animal stuck its nose into a tin can to investigate the contents, and was unable to remove the can afterward. It wandered about in this manner until half starved, when the attention of a neighbor was attracted and the can was removed.

ENDS WAR

JAPAN YIELDS AND NOW PEACE AND JOY WILL REIGN.

THE TREATY AND ARMISTICE WILL BE DRAWN UP AND RATIFIED.

ROOSEVELT'S WORK RECEIVES STRONG COMMENDATION FROM ALL.

The long and bloody war between Japan and Russia is ended. The terms of peace were settled by Mr. Witte and Baron Komura at the session of the conference Tuesday. Preliminary arrangements for an armistice were concluded and the actual work of framing the "treaty of Portsmouth" was by mutual agreement turned over to Mr. DeMartens, Russia's great international lawyer, and Mr. Denison, who for twenty-five years has acted as the legal adviser of the Japanese foreign office.

In the final struggle the Russians achieved the victory. For the sake of peace, the Japanese, with a magnanimity worthy of their heroic achievements in this war, met the demands not only for reimbursement for the cost of the war, but for the re-purchase of the northern half of Saghalien, Russia at the same time agreeing to division of the island. The Japanese also withdrew articles 10 and 11 of the peace conditions originally proposed (demand for the surrender of the interned war ships and limitation of the Russian naval power in the far east).

This happy conclusion of the conference, which a week ago would have been shipwrecked had it not been for the heroic intercession of President Roosevelt, was sudden and dramatic. For the sake of peace Japan, with the magnanimity of a victor, at the last moment yielded everything still in issue. Russia refused to budge from the ultimatum Emperor Nicholas had given to President Roosevelt through Ambassador Meyer. No indemnity under any guise, but an agreement to divide Saghalien and reimburse Japan for the maintenance of the Russian prisoners were his last words. They had been repeatedly reiterated in Mr. Witte's instructions and in the form of a written reply to the Japanese compromise proposal of last Wednesday they were delivered to Baron Komura this morning.

Alexander N. Briantchaninoff, correspondent of the St. Petersburg Slovo, writing on the situation, says:

"Peace, so long desired, is at last an accomplished fact. Few believed in it, while many thought it impossible. Humanity, however, imposed peace and that great man, the president of the American nation, wrought it out with all the force his high courage and generosity of character suggested."

"Peace has been obtained on such conditions that no one can find it unjust or incompatible with the pride of the two great peoples rendered enemies by a deplorable misunderstanding, while there were all reasons for them to be friends and to work together for the civilization of the far east."

"The peace today is a victory for Russia. It shows that when her destiny is entrusted to hands worthy of a great people, Russia is an imposing force."

"It is a victory for Japan also, a moral victory, higher and more respectable than a material victory, as the Japanese showed in a splendid way that after having obtained all the victories on land and sea, she did not allow the 'chauvinist' feeling to dominate, preferring to be great in peace, as undoubtedly she has been great in war."

"But above all, it is a victory for humanity, of which President Roosevelt is the noble and energetic champion. Humanity wanted at any cost to stop the butchery, and it acted, through its organ the press, which here in Portsmouth has rightfully been called 'the third party' interested in the result of the conference. Indeed there have been moments in which the conference seemed at its end, but the press and the president rushed to its rescue and brought it back to life."

By the war Japan has ended Russia's dream of Chinese conquest and an open seaport on the Pacific. Russia has been compelled to agree to: Japanese protectorate over Korea. Mutual evacuation of Manchuria. Return to China of Manchuria, and the open door in that province.

The integrity of China. Cession of the Chinese Eastern railroad to China; Japan to get the price of it from China. Cession of Russian leases of Port Arthur, Dairen, the Elliott islands, etc., to Japan.

Grant to Japan of fishing rights off Siberian coast. Cession of southern half of Sakhalin to Japan. Japan has agreed to forego reimbursement for the cost of the war, claim to interned Russian warships, demand for limitation of Russian naval power and redemption price of north Sakhalin.

Allowing railroad from Harbin to Vladivostok, which remains in Russian hands, to be patrolled only by Chinese guards. Russia also agrees to pay liberally for the care of the 100,000 prisoners of war Japan is now holding. It is estimated she will pay $1,000 per man, of about $100,000,000.

Half a dozen buxom English girls have arrived from London to wrestle, Gracco-Roman style, any American maid who may have a fancy for that work. They offer $500 to any woman who can throw the champion, Miss Bradford, in 15 minutes.

THE PURPOSE.

JAPAN'S CHIVALROUS SACRIFICE; LONDON VIEW.

The following summary, purporting to give the "exact nature of the work accomplished and the broad characteristics of the latest tendencies which underlay the endeavors of either side" at Portsmouth, is printed in London. The dispatch says: "Speaking generally, a fourfold purpose may be discerned in the twelve historic proposals carefully drafted by the Japanese diplomatists:

"First—To restore the entire set of political conditions which the treaty of Shimonooseki was calculated to establish.

"Second—To remove, counteract or assimilate the disturbing factors, political, economical and military, which have come into existence since then.

"Third—To hinder the growth of the new disturbing factors created by the aggressive policy of Count Muraviev and Admiral Alexieff, and

"Fourth—To play the enviable role of a chivalrous prince in releasing the Chinese and Korean princesses from the power of the sorcerer's spell, and in helping Europe and the civilized world to rights too long withheld."

A Suicide's Curse.

With the last message, "I hope my curse may go with him and his people forever," meaning her husband, Mrs. James McCarthy, wife of a wealthy farmer living near Kalamazoo, committed suicide Saturday by taking poison. Death was accompanied by terrible agony, as the woman was found in her front yard face downward, and each hand having a tight grasp on a bunch of grass. Her face showed signs of the agony and the ground about her was torn up.

Mrs. McCarthy was at home alone when she took the poison. Her husband had gone to a neighbor's house to get a horse to bring her to the city. Mr. McCarthy, the husband, admitted that he have been having considerable trouble, but refused to state the nature of it. He said that she has applied three times for a divorce, but each time they got together and settled the differences. They evidently had another quarrel Saturday morning, as she demanded that he bring her to the city so that they might have a settlement and part forever. The note found at the woman's side read as follows:

"The money in my purse was left me by my mother. I want that to go to my people. That much I demand of my husband, I hope my curse may go with him and his people forever. The letter also contained a request, that she be buried by her brothers."

Mrs. Aldridge Bound Over.

Mrs. Naomi Aldridge was bound over to the Ogemaw county circuit court, Saturday, to stand her trial on a charge of murder. W. A. Coomer, of Frederic, testified to Mrs. Aldridge having notified the National Relief society that her child had died of appendicitis. Mrs. Davis said Mrs. Aldridge had given her little girl money to buy rat poison, and had shown no emotion when the boy died. Mrs. Barber testified to Mrs. Aldridge having had sole charge of the children during their illness. The case will come up in the circuit court on Sept. 15.

The vigilantes of the Big Horn Basin are ridding Wyoming of outlaws and had men in general. First, the dead body of Bob McCoy, a rustler and notorious character, was found by the roadside minus the left ear, the sign of the vigilantes. A week later William Madson was found swinging to a limb with his left ear cut off.

After a quarrel with Edward Newman, her sweetheart since childhood, Margaret Wells, the beauty of Asheville, N. C., became engaged to Manley Baker. They were to be married Wednesday, but that morning a message to Miss Wells arrived which read: "If you love me meet me at noon in Wilson. Ed." She went to Wilson, a neighboring town, and married Newman at once. One sent her regrets to Baker by wire.

Gov. William T. Cobb of Maine was knocked out at Backland by being hit on the head by a falling awning frame. It was a ten-minute heavy sleep, but didn't hurt him much.

LATE NEWS

ON THE BOTTOM OF LONG ISLAND SOUND IN THE PLUNGER.

THE PRESIDENT TRIES LIFE ON A SUBMARINE FOR A TIME.

HEARTRENDING REPORTS OF THE CONDITION OF SPAIN'S STARVING LABORING CLASSES.

President Roosevelt late Friday made a descent in Long Island sound on board the submarine torpedo boat Plunger, the crack submarine of the navy. He was aboard the vessel about three hours. At one time the little boat was submerged for 50 minutes and in that time was put through all of the submarine feats of which she is capable.

Soon after the vessel reached the necessary depth of water she was directed downward until she rested on the bottom of the sound. Then the mechanism of the craft was explained minutely to the president by Lieut. Nelson, so that he afterward experienced no difficulty in understanding the maneuvers.

While the president thus was resting on the bottom of the sound in a submarine boat, a storm 40 feet above him was raging unnoticed. The rain descended in torrents and the north-easter whipped the surface of the water into big rollers, but it was as quiet and peaceful where the president sat as an easy chair would be.

Lieut. Nelson made his boat perform the remarkable feat of diving to a depth of 20 feet, and, while going at full speed at that depth, reversing her course. The complete turn occupied only one minute.

Subsequently the engines were stopped and the vessel was submerged to a depth of 40 feet. There she was kept motionless—a demonstration of her ability to remain in that position for hours while waiting an opportunity to launch one of her torpedoes at a vessel of a blockading squadron which might be passing or repassing a given point.

Starving Spain.

Heartrending reports continue to reach the provincial authorities from the outlying famine-stricken districts in Spain. The latest reports received are from Osuna and Almorcia, the respective mayors of which notify the authorities that their resources are exhausted and that they are unable to further assist the famished laborers and the women and children, as the distress is too acute.

At Ecija the population has looted the bakers' stores.

The mortality among infants and aged persons is attaining terrifying proportions and in many localities the working people are living on roots. The government has organized public works on a small scale, employing about 600 men, but this is a mere drop in the ocean of misery, as a moderate calculation shows that 200,000 are out of employment.

Robbed a Priest.

Upon the statement made to the police by Rev. Benedict Rosinaki, a Catholic priest of St. Stanislaus church, Cleveland, that he had been held prisoner for twenty-four hours, without food, and forced to sign two notes for $500 each, and two checks for like amounts, which had been since cashed, besides being robbed of $30 and some jewelry, two men and a woman were arrested Saturday. The woman is said to have lured the priest to her room in Cedar avenue, by pretending to be ill and in need of spiritual consolation, and the men are said to have rushed in upon them and held Rev. Rosinaki prisoner until he had satisfied their demands.

CONDENSED NEWS.

Cholera has appeared in Manila and two United States soldiers have died there of the dread disease.

Ten thousand harvest hands are wanted in the northwest for the wheat harvest, about to begin. Wages range from $1.75 to $2.50 a day. Grand Forks, N. D., wants 3,000; Fargo, 1,000; and a number of others anywhere from 50 to 1,000.

Chairman Shonta, of the Isthmian canal commission, dined with President Roosevelt Sunday, and announced the appointment of W. G. Biers, of the Rock Island railroad, as superintendent of the Panama railroad, to succeed Supt. Prescott. The salary is $6,000 a year.

Not content with their tips and pay, it is charged, systematic collusion between the waiters, checkers and captains of the Hotel Astor in New York, has been going on for some time, the management losing $200 a day by the thefts. A number of arrests have been made and confessions taken.

A woman clerk, not employed in the bureau of statistics, but hired by "Cotton Leak" Hollins to help him with the last tobacco acreage report, put the tobacco market in a panic by increasing tenfold the acreage in the dark tobacco district of Kentucky. Mistakes in multiplication were the cause.

Charles Canepi, eight years old, of Yonkers, N. Y., has been in an unbroken trance-like sleep for more than four months, and it is probable a consultation of specialists in nervous diseases will be called to investigate the case. April 6 last, while whirling around a lamp, he became dizzy, fell to the ground and struck on the back of his head. Two days later he lapsed into unconsciousness.

The bookmakers got the $40,000 he stole from the D. P. Morgan estate, said James P. Hennessey, cashier of the estate in New York, in connection with being that amount short in his accounts.

Japan gives us large orders for food-stuffs and steel. Russia gives us others as big. Uncle Sam is the star international drummer these days.

All statutes not given immediate effect by the last legislature will go into effect September 16, and it is expected that the public acts will be printed by that date and ready for distribution.

John Wanamaker in a speech to the negro business league in New York told the delegates that the great dream of the negroes that they were to be wards of the nation has been exploded and that success depends upon their own efforts.

The forest service of the department of agriculture at Washington will conduct experiments to secure a wood for street pavement which will prove lasting. A revival in wood paving has begun and many of the largest cities are again trying it.

The Cuban senate has killed the rice bill, which was to cut down the tariff on American rice in consideration of tariff privileges granted to Cuba by the United States. The defeat of the bill is considered to be an act of bad faith towards the United States.

The fruit industries will rejoice at the opinion of the interstate commerce commission that the business of the private car lines should be taken over by the railroads. The extortion of these lines in the matter of perishable fruits is under the "publicity" treatment, and a cure seems reasonably certain.

The statement made by the New York World, as the result of investigations made in every state in the Union, that Michigan is one of only eleven states in which no state scandal or grafting scheme exists, is certainly true so far as it relates to the state government of Michigan and its present state administration.

The growth and spread of noxious weeds is decidedly on the increase. There are more kinds than there were fifty years ago. One reason, probably, for this is that then most of the seeds of grain were saved in a purer condition than are seeds now used. New weed varieties have been obtained in this way, some of which are giving the farmers much trouble.

Michigan's valuation of railroad property as compared with its estimated commercial value is with but two exceptions highest of all the states and territories in the Union. This information is officially given in the bulletin recently issued by the national census bureau. Michigan's railroad valuation on the books of the state tax commissioners is 70.9 per cent of the highest commercial estimate of such property in this state, and only Connecticut and Wisconsin are credited with as high valuation of such property.

A new pest has been discovered to add to the already long list the market gardener has to contend with. This is a worm about an inch in length, brownish in color with a whitish yellow stripe on each side, which is destroying the corn. It commences at the silk at the upper end of the ear and after eating that chews an irregular path downward, destroying the milky kernels and stopping the growth of the ear.

No city of size and enterprise, remarks an exchange, should be without a committee, even if there is but one to it, to see that "the stranger within the gates" be welcomed and shown the residence and business attractions. The disposition is to often "take him in" to his immediate sorrow and occasionally lasting regret. Our citizens could profitably employ some one of integrity, courtesy and good judgment to get busy with the visitor here in the right way.

Abraham Lincoln once said, that if we gave $30 a ton for iron rails made in this country, we have both the rails and the money; but if we bought them in England, only the rails would be ours, while the Britishers would get the cash. The same idea should be applied to sending away from your home town for things that can be bought better, or as well, of your friends and neighbors. Buy of a city department store and the goods alone are yours. Buy of your home merchant and he will pay the money back for your farm produce. Thus the goods and money are both yours, not only now, but for an indefinite time in the future.

Hilda and Ruth Elliot leave Monday to attend school in Detroit.

Clarence Stevens and wife have returned to their home in Greensburg, Pa. after a three weeks' visit here.

Misses Zaida Pluckney and Zaida Briggs entertained company for Miss Mabel Wallace, of New York City, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Yerdon, of Holly, now has charge of the lumber yard and will remove his family here as soon as a house can be secured.

The ball team left yesterday morning for Oxford, where they played the home club. Today they play at Pontiac. The score yesterday was 5 to 3 in favor of Oxford.

A musical and literary entertainment will be given next Friday evening at Newburg hall. A fine program will be rendered, which includes a song by Harry Robinson and Charley Gardner.

Milford Times:—Manager Lovejoy has made a date for his base ball team to play Plymouth at Plymouth on Labor day. They will take the band along and probably a good-sized crowd of enthusiasts.

I will be at the high school Saturday, Sept. 2, from 2 to 5 o'clock to classify any new students who wish to enter school this fall. Shall be glad to meet any students or teachers who wish to consult me at this time.

W. N. ISBELL, Supt.

The third regular meeting of the Ministers' and Laymen's Evangelistic League of Wayne Baptist Association will be held in Plymouth, Sept. 4-5, 1905. The sessions will begin Monday and continue Tuesday morning, afternoon and evening.

Not much of a crowd turned out Tuesday afternoon to see the Dearborn-Plymouth ball game. The score was 3 to 2 in favor of home club. Wood for Plymouth struck out 14 men, Sommers 4. Numerous errors were made on both sides.

Miss Zaida McClumpha and Mr. Charles Chappel, both of this village, were married in Detroit Wednesday. Miss McClumpha has taught school in the vicinity of Plymouth for several years. Mr. Chappel was formerly sergeant in the 3rd regiment, Co. I, and was stationed at Fort Assinaboin, Mont., for three years. He has been with his parents east of town since last fall.

A stationery manufacturing company at Cleveland employing sixty hands, has written here asking for a suitable factory location. We hope the reply sent them may prove satisfactory and that the correspondence may result in something practical. Plymouth is much in need of more factories that its growth may continue and every encouragement should be given prospective concerns.

The twenty-seventh annual tri-county farmers' picnic of Washtenaw, Oakland and Livingston will be held at Whitmore Lake, Saturday, September 2, 1905. A musical program also land and water sports have been arranged for. Among the speakers for the occasion are Hon. H. C. Smith, of Adrian, Congressman Hamilton, of Niles, and Hon. R. S. Copeland, of Ann Arbor.

Archie Crumie died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Lundy, in this village, on Monday evening. He was born near Toronto, Can., March 17, 1842, and had been a resident of Plymouth about four years. The funeral took place from the house yesterday forenoon, Rev. H. Goldie conducting services. The remains were taken to Royal Oak for interment, a D. U. R. funeral car being chartered for the occasion.

We are in receipt of information from the State Agricultural Society that the new grounds and buildings in Detroit will be ready for the State Fair Sept. 11 to 16. It may be recalled that the Michigan building from the St. Louis World's Fair was moved to Detroit. This is already rebuilt. The race track is a new mile course. There will be in addition to comprehensive and exhaustive exhibits of every State product, entertainment in the way of races, the fall of Port Arthur by Paine's fireworks, each evening; ascensions by Knabenahue's airship, etc. The Woodward Avenue electric cars run to the grounds. We are assured that this year's State Fair will far exceed past efforts.

Gittins-Nash Wedding.

On Wednesday evening occurred the wedding of Miss Edna Nash and George Gittins at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Nash, in Canton. At 8 o'clock the bridal procession to the strains of music, marched into the parlor where, under an arch of green and white, the knot was tied by Rev. H. Goldie, in the presence of about fifty relatives and immediate friends. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Marion Nash, and the groom by his brother, Clarence Gittins. Little Florence McLeod acted as ring bearer. The bride was attired in cream-colored silk and carried white roses. The rooms were handsomely decorated with flowers and asparagus, the color-scheme being white and green in the parlor, yellow and green in the sitting-room and pink and green in the dining room. After an elegant repast the happy pair, amid a shower of rice and the congratulations of their friends, departed via Sheldon to Detroit, where they took the boat for Cleveland. The young couple were the recipients of many handsome and useful presents.

—Is Looking After Village Interests.

The Plymouth Business Men's Club has had some new stationery printed. Besides the regular heading, the following information is also furnished:

Plymouth is located at the junction of the Toledo, Saginaw and Grand Rapids divisions of the Pere Marquette Ry., 22 miles west of Detroit. The D., P. & N. electric line connects with the Detroit United Railway at Northville, also at Wayne with the Detroit, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor & Jackson electric road. We are in the midst of one of the finest farming sections of the State. The soil is suitable for all kinds of crops and dairying is carried on extensively, as is shown by the fact that 30,000 pounds of milk are being delivered daily at our creamery and cheese factory. Population of the village is 1,800. Assessed valuation $1,019,454. Corporation tax rate 8 mills. Plymouth has six churches and is noted for its excellent schools. Owns its own electric lighting plant; also the finest water works system, the water being obtained from a never-failing spring, located 100 feet above the highest point in the village, thus affording valuable fire protection and enabling a low water rate. The Daisy and Markham Air Rifle plants together with the Hamilton Rifle Co., employ from three to five hundred men. The Plymouth United Savings Bank, with resources of half a million dollars, takes excellent care of its patrons. The Plymouth Mail published weekly, gives the news of the week, while four rural mail routes give excellent postal service. The Plymouth Improvement Co. with the Business Men's Club stand ready to give you more information about Plymouth for the asking.

THAT CELEBRATION MONDAY

A Program Arranged to Amuse Every One from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M.

That there will be a large crowd of people in town Monday is without question. "Labor Day" is a legal holiday and is regarded much the same as Thanksgiving, New Years, etc. People will take "a day off" and enjoy themselves as pleases their fancy. Those living within a certain radius of Plymouth will find no better place to go for a little recreation and amusement, and they are cordially invited to come here. The park will afford them a nice shady place for rest and the eating of picnic dinners, while there will be entertainment for all during the whole day and evening.
 In the forenoon there will be a game between Milford and Plymouth on Athletic Park. The Milfords will bring their own band and be accompanied by a large crowd of rooters. They expect to win, as their team will be strengthened by some fast players. Game called at 10 o'clock.
 It was expected Governor Warner would be with us upon this occasion and give us a little talk, but he writes the committee that a previous engagement prevents his coming here and regrets the circumstances, hoping the celebration may prove most successful.
 After dinner a nightshirt race and egg race, both on horseback, and very exciting, will be run off. The prize offered in each is $5 cash, $3 to first and $2 to second. A 120-yd foot race will be next for a prize of $2.00. Entries for any or all of the above must be made by 12 o'clock noon of Sept. 4th to Chauncey Rauch, at J. R. Rauch & Son's store. It is expected all events will have numerous entries that the sport may be all the more exciting.
 The balloon ascension and parachute drop by Prof. Newton, of St. Johns will be next on the program. The aeronaut is old at the business and a successful and graceful ascension and drop will be witnessed.
 At 3:00 o'clock the crowd will again repair to the ball park where another game will be played between Milford and Plymouth.
 For the evening entertainment an unusual program has been secured. A free vaudeville show will be given by six lady and gentlemen artists from Detroit, who will give a two hours' continuous performance. Songs, dances, monologues and character impersonations will be included in the program, the whole being most pleasing.
 There will also be a dance in Penniman Hall.
 Plymouth and Milford bands will discourse music all day long and evening. Come and have a good time.

School Board Announcement.
 The school board has issued a neat calendar and announcement to friends and patrons of the school. The board says among other things:
 The work of the Plymouth Schools is arranged to meet the requirements of a good elementary education in the Primary and Grammar Departments, and the continuation of the work in the High School Department is intended for the better fitting of the boy and girl to meet the increasing demands of life. We have no thought of making it simply a preparatory school for college and university, and yet we do all we can to assist those who have the desire for further preparation. The course of study, equipment, and work was such as to commend our school to both the University and State Normal College and our High School is now upon the approved list of High Schools of these institutions.
 The tuition for non-resident pupils is payable in advance. 7th and 8th grades and high school, each semester $7.00; 5th and 6th grades, $5.50; Primary department, $4.00.

An Old Landmark Torn Down.
 The old fanningmill shop of L. H. Bennett's, on Main street, is being torn down this week. The shop has stood there for over fifty years and was once a very active business center, thousands of fanningmills having been made there. But of late years it has been used for miscellaneous purposes, the old-time fanningmill having practically gone out of existence. The site has been purchased by F. F. and C. H. Bennett. The upright portion of the mill will be moved east and fixed up for a tenant house. On the corner will be erected a handsome double house, to be occupied by F. F. Bennett and L. H. Bennett. Mr. C. H. Bennett will also later build one or more houses on the property vacated. This improvement will make a fine addition to that part of Main street, and be a credit to the enterprise of the gentlemen named.

Got Off Cheap.
 He may well think, he has got off cheap, who, after having contracted consumption or indigestion, is still able to perfectly restore his health. Nothing will do this but Dr. King's New Life Pills. A quick, pleasant, and certain cure for headache, constipation, etc. See at The Wolverine Drug Co. and John L. Gale's drug store; guaranteed.

CONCERNING FASHIONS

Girdle is Still Popular.
The prediction of the disappearance of the high girdle has become nearly as familiar as the one that has doomed the bolero to extinction only to find it making itself from the ashes of a fleeting disfavor to assume its same old place in the wardrobe or a still worthier one.

The girdle, as a fact, is just as much in evidence as ever, and, with the princess gown or its effect waxing in popularity, the girdle is likely to remain prevalent for another season at least.

It is still, too, in the latest gowns, as pointed as ever. The fact is that the girdle is suited to the wearer and, any shape which is becoming is modish. For a slight figure there is a worthwhile suggestion in the cut where the waist is swathed with a deep, shaped girdle, pointing low at the front and extending half the width of the bodice at the top, where it ends in two points.

Of Light Blue Batiste.

Batiste in light shades, trimmed in batiste openwork embroidery, is a special favorite for hot-weather frocks, and the first cut illustrates a charming design in light blue. The skirt, finely tucked over the hips, is walking length and is finished at the foot with three deep tucks.

On the blouse, the embroidery is put on over the shoulders in epaulettes fashion and high front, edged all around with narrow valenciennes dyed to match the material and embroidery. Elbow sleeves have carried all before them so far as sheer frocks are concerned, and in this case, instead of a frill for finish, a double row of lace forms the turn-back cuff. A tab of embroidery edged with lace is set on top.

For Early Fall Topcoat.

For the tailor-made coat the moderately full coat sleeves, rather high and square at the shoulder, but not emphasizing these lines to an exaggerated degree, and the modified gigot quite full at top and rather close below the elbow, are the two models that have the greatest vogue.

The gigot form may be secured by the cutting of the plain sleeve, or may be attained by laying the lower part of the sleeves in fully-stitched, small vertical plaits.

There is no denying that the gigot idea predominates in sleeve modes, but it is a modified and chastened gigot that we have accepted and shows itself rather in the fact that the sleeve is broader at the shoulder than any point below than in exaggerated fullness at the shoulder.

New and Likewise Pretty.

Quite new and pretty are the silk walking petticoats embroidered with eyelid work, upon flounce borders, and across headings. In grays and colors matching the costume they are most effective. More serviceable are the fine alpaca, black ones in particular, having shared flounces eighteen inches wide, covered with narrow stitched crossbands of black taffeta.

Colored goods should be ironed on the wrong side.

Equal parts of ammonia and turpentine will take paint out of clothing, even if it be hard and dry. Saturate the spots as often as necessary and wash out in soap suds.

When a broom becomes shorter on one side than the other and the ends of the straws become as sharp as needles, dip it into hot water, trim it evenly with the shears and you will have a broom nearly as good as new.

Celery can be kept for a week or longer by first rolling it up in brown paper. Then pin it in a towel and keep it in a dark, cool place. Before preparing it for the table place it in a pan of cold water and let it remain for an hour. This will make it crisp and cool.

Cold Scheme in Costumes.

In the very sheer embroidered lines of the pale blue and pink, the grays and the light blue are very smart and the embroidery is, of course, of the finest. Among these gowns are ranked those made of batiste. Connoisseurs would not, however, very much in favor of the colored lines. They should be included in any complete wardrobe, as they are exquisite in coloring and texture; but it is claimed that all the color that is necessary can easily be obtained in the linings of different colors over which white can be worn, or in the colored girdles and sashes that are a very necessary part of the finish of any effective gown this summer. The princess silk slips that are part and parcel of every modern outfit make this change of color feasible, and if silk is not desired then lawn answers the purpose equally well, so far as regards color, and, of course, the effect is rather lighter.

Boudoir Confidences

A different chain of beads to match every frock is the rule of the particular ones.

The green parasol is cool looking, but not a becoming background for every face.

Net gowns are in high favor. One buys the white net and has it dyed the desired color.

Stripes are coming into favor again and after the long reign of checks they are rather a relief.

The all-flower hat is not much in evidence this season, delicate straws and lace taking precedence.

It is not so much the hat itself as the angle at which it is worn and the coiffure which it adorns that count.

Broderie Anglaise seems to be about the only discovery of the season, and it is in reality only a revival of an old style.

Crin Hats for Fall and Winter.

Crin hats are to be worn all the fall and winter, and those of black crin, or trimmed with foliage in green shades, or rosettes of shaded ribbons also in greens, make one of the little hats, which is good not only for any season but for any occasion. There is a new tarpaulin hat in three-cornered shape brought in this fall which is intended for automobile wear, but which makes an excellent outing and rainy day hat. They can be had from $1.50 up to $5, those at the latter price, however, being as superior in both shape and softness and becomingness as it would be if they were two patent leather shoes at the same price.

Hat of Attractive Design.

A tan-colored hat in finest straw has a high, round crown, and a wide, round brim, the extreme edge of which is rolled for half an inch, the roll being covered with straw-colored velvet. The brim is indented a little at the right side of the front and the brim lifts from there with a gentle curve almost to the back, but does not roll back at all. A pale yellow bird of paradise plume starts from under this curve and floats to the back. A

Pretty Walking Gowns

The gown at the left is of pale green silk crape. The skirt is gathered and has a tablier slightly draped at the top, which seems to be cut in one piece, with the plastron of the corsage to which it is united under a scarf of green satin furnished by the girdle, also of green satin.

The skirt is trimmed at the bottom with a lace ruffle edged with the green satin and headed by three tucks, on which are motifs of guipure.

The blouse is covered, back and front, with a plastron bordered with plaits, and over the shoulders are large ruffles of lace, edged with the green satin; and also ruffles of the material bordered with ruffles of the same.

The yoke is of lace, bordered with a bias band of white satin, embroidered with black soutache and also with a little lace ruffle. The standing scarf effect in dark brown velvet is wound around the crown, almost covering the sides with its scant folds, which disappear at the left side under masses of shaded yellow birds of paradise plumage that float out over the brim, joining the paler plumage springing out from under the curve.

Jeweled Pin Sets.

Pin sets studded with gems are in high favor. The use of semi-precious stones makes them come within the purse of almost every one. The sets consist of two hat and two stick pins of the same material and ornamented to match. Turquoise and pearls encircled by rhinestones or diamonds are favorite mounts for these pins. In simpler designs gold and enamel with and without pearls furnish the decoration.

Of Canary Batiste.

Of pretty, sheer summer frocks there is apparently no end, and even as late in the season as this fresh models are constantly being shown. As an example, here is one in canary batiste, outlined by the tiniest frills of plain material. Elbow sleeves so much in vogue, giving a certain air of festivity, are formed of one large and two small puffs edged with a deep frill of batiste.

Dusty Piano Keys.

Dusty piano keys are about as annoying a thing to even an amateur performer as anything can be, except perhaps, sticky keys. Just how they get that way nobody knows—something in the atmosphere at certain times of the year is probably responsible for it, but a few seconds each day will effectually remove the effect, if it doesn't the cause.

The keys should be dusted religiously and the piano lid kept closed, if they show a disposition to get dusty again soon. And a cloth, barely moistened will take dirt and stickiness off.

BATTLE WITH TEN-FOOT SHARK.

Man-Eating Dog of Ocean Fights Fishers on Bay.

A ten-foot man-eating shark engaged in a fierce battle with two Italian fishermen yesterday afternoon in the bay, says a San Francisco dispatch. The contest lasted two hours, and the Italians were exhausted when the fish was vanquished. They towed it to Meiggs' wharf, where it is now on exhibition.

Jose and Pietro Carniglia had their net set off Angel Island yesterday morning, when they felt the boat start. The speed increased in a rapid rate and they realized that a shark had become entangled in the net. They started to haul it in, but little progress could be made. Forward and back the boat was hauled, and after more than an hour the struggles of the shark ceased. The net was hauled in, but when the man-eater came to the surface there ensued a terrific struggle.

With oars the fishermen hammered the head of the shark. At times the tiger of the sea leaped from the water and threw itself against the boat. The side of the boat was partly crushed and the water started to flow in. Finally the shark ceased to struggle.

FOUND SECRET OF GREEKS.

Hungarian Professor Knows How to Make Mortar Imperishable.

A Hungarian professor and chemist of the Brunns university claims to have rediscovered the secret of the ancient Greeks by which they were able to render mortar imperishable. The reason for the remarkable preservation and hard texture of the sealing material of the Acropolis at Athens, which is as good to-day as it was when first laid centuries ago, has always puzzled scientists and archaeologists. This Hungarian some twenty-five years ago procured a piece of this flintlike mortar and ever since has been engaged upon ascertaining the secret of its manufacture. He has invented a chemical compound, liquid in character and yellowish color. The claims of this inventor are that by the application of this compound the density of nearly every description of stone, including granite, is doubled, and is rendered absolutely impervious to water; it imparts to all metals the power to resist rust and is a great, powerful germicide. These properties are not transient, but everlasting.

Modern Sedan Chair.

The good old sedan chair is still in use in certain corners of the world. It is about the same kind of furniture that royalty used in Queen Elizabeth's days. Recently, during the Passion Week, King Alfonso of Spain was carried around in a sedan chair just as the fine ladies were when all the world saw high society at Tunbridge Wells and Bath.

How Owls Caught Chickens.

When I was a chunk of a boy I shot a horned owl, the spread of whose wings was 4 1/2 feet, and to the surprise of the boy who had carried it for several miles the weight was only four pounds.

They were rather numerous at that time in that section of the country, and were troublesome about carrying off chickens, which mostly roosted in apple trees about the farm buildings. The belief that they could carry away full grown hens was a common one.

It was also commonly believed that an owl never picked a chicken off the roost, but, alighting on the limb, crowded the chickens off, and as it flew toward the ground caught it on the wing.—Forest and Stream.

Churches Turned Into Inns.

At Great Easton, three miles from Rockingham Station, there is a Wesleyan chapel which is now an inn. When built a stone was placed over the entrance with the words inscribed, "To the Glory of God," and the inscription still remains over the portal of the licensed premises.

At Newcastle-under-Lyme a chapel was built in 1849, in the time of the Wesleyan reform movement, which after a time became too small, and a larger building some distance away was bought from the Wesleyans, the smaller one being sold. After passing through various hands the former building is now a licensed house and a music hall.—London Daily News.

Said Grown at Table.

The experiment of serving a dinner-party with salad grown under the guests' own eyes was recently tried in Berlin. Here is the recipe: Take good germinating lettuce seed and soak it in alcohol for about six hours, sow it in an equal mixture of rich soil and unslaked lime, and place it on the table. After the soup water it with lukewarm water, whereupon it commences to sprout immediately. The thing worked like a charm, and the lettuce when plucked and prepared for eating were the size of Barcelona sets.

Compliment Gone Wrong.
Muggins had just been introduced to a bride of six weeks at a social gathering, and after a remark about the weather, he said, gallantly:

"And have I really the pleasure of meeting the beautiful Mrs. Smythe, whose praises are being sounded by everybody?"

"Oh, no, Mr. Muggins," the lady replied, "the beautiful Mrs. Smythe to whom you refer is the wife of my husband's cousin."

"Ah, I see," rejoined Muggins, "I thought there must be a mistake somewhere."

Give Him the Right to Do It.

A wealthy eastern woman has married her chauffeur.

It may be supposed that she took this extreme course through a desire to save her employe from the necessity of unlawfully taking out her automobile at forbidden hours of the night and rolling back around in it with a party of gay friends until the early morn.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Handy.

Cholly—Why, what are you doing with the engagement ring I gave your sister?

Lillie—Oh, she lets me wear it when de other fellers is callin'.

Sticking Up for Him.

Toadie—"Jenkins is getting to be quite prominent in smart society."

Sterling—"I don't believe it."

Toadie—"Oh, but it's a fact. The society editors of all the papers say so."

Sterling—"What of that?" The society editors probably dislike him for some reason or other.

A Compromise.

"Pa," said young Roxley, "get me an automobile, will you?"

"See here!" growled old Roxley. "It's time you stopped asking me to buy you things. Why don't you paddle your own canoe?"

"All right, pa. Never mind the auto. Get me the canoe."

A Proviso.

"Don't you think that government ownership is a thoroughly practical proposition?"

"Certainly," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "I haven't the slightest objection to the government's owning my property, provided it is willing to buy it at my price."—Washington Star.

Queer Idea.

"He's the most eccentric autoist I ever met. He's got such queer notions about his machine."

"Thinks it's the very best make, I suppose."

"No, he says he bought it because it was cheap."

A Church Item.

Hicks—"Your church has a new bell, hasn't it?"

Wicks—"Well, I don't consider her a belle, and she isn't very new at that. She's the oldest and homeliest soprano we ever had."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Blessing in Disguise.

"Say, old man, I have a terrible thirst."

"Pardon me, my boy; a thirst is never terrible."—Filegende Blatter.

Comprehensive.

Boy—Gimme a five-cent cigar an' a penny headache powder.

A Scant Consolation.

"The good die young," said the melancholy philosopher.

"Yes," answered the clumsy optimist; "but they have their reward. They stand a better chance of getting full returns on their life insurance policies."

Pinched.

"You say I remind you of something (playfully pinching her shoulder); what is it?"

"A lobster."—Houston Post.

FOR THE PLAIN GIRL.

Possible to Cultivate Beauty of the Finest Sort.

A good many girls are considered pretty, and plain girls cast a somewhat envious glance at them, and each murmurs inwardly, "Oh, dear, how I wish I were pretty!"

Cheer up, poor little plain girl, for you can be victorious over your prettier sisters. Remember that the face should be the true index of the heart and soul!

By cultivating amiable emotions and noble desires the countenance which does not possess outward loveliness will in time have a beauty of a finer and more appealing nature than was ever attained by perfect features and a rose-leaf complexion.

When one meets a plain girl who is a heartfelt Christian, trying to walk in the straight road, unselfish, loving and pure-minded, her plain face becomes a sort of revelation of the heavenly soul hidden through the surface of plainness, just as the most priceless jewels are discovered in the most unlovely localities.

Remember, plain girls, what the great poet Spencer wrote, "For of the soul the body form doth take."—Boston Globe.

Lesson for Women.

Jersey Shore, Pa., Aug. 28th (Special)—"Dodd's Kidney Pills have done worlds of good for me." That's what Mrs. C. B. Earnest of this place has to say of the Great American Kidney Remedy.

"I was laid up sick," Mrs. Earnest continues, "and had not been out of bed for five weeks. Then I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and now I am so I can work and go to town without suffering any. I would not be without Dodd's Kidney Pills. I have good reason to praise them everywhere."

Women who suffer should learn a lesson from this, and that lesson is "care the kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills and your suffering will cease." Woman's health depends almost entirely on her kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills have never yet failed to make healthy kidneys.

How Wine is Colored.

Most people think white grapes make white wine and dark grapes make red wine; it is a popular error. Red wine is made by fermenting grape juice and grape skins together, and white wine is made by fermenting grape juice alone. The juice of white and dark grapes does not differ in hue. In each sort of grape the juice is almost as colorless as weak lemonade. Champagne is made of a grape so dark as to be nearly black, but the juice of that nearly black grape is quite as pale as that of the ordinary white grape.—London Tatler.

Railway Notes.

Mr. I. P. Spining, who for several years past has occupied the position of Northwestern passenger agent of the C. & O., has been appointed General Northern Agent of the Big Four Railway, with headquarters at 233 Clark street, Chicago.

Powdered Codfish for Flour.

Powdered codfish is sometimes used in Iceland to make bread, in place of flour.

First Printing of Music.

We owe the art of music printing to Italy, musical notes having first been impressed with movable metal types in 1502 by Ottavio Petrucci.

STOP, WOMAN!

AND CONSIDER THE ALL-IMPORTANT FACT

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private life to a woman—a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers a great many years. You can talk freely to a woman when it is revolting to relate your private troubles to a man—besides a man does not understand—simply because he is a man. Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probably examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation.
Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice.

When a medicine has been advertised in newspapers, you cannot well say, without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me."

CLEMENTINA GONZALES, OF CENTRAL AMERICA, RESTORED TO HEALTH. PE-RU-NA THE REMEDY.

Miss Clementina Gonzales, Hotel Provenza, Guatemala, C. A., in a recent letter from 247 Cleveland Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I took Peruna for a worn-out condition. I was so run down that I could not sleep at night, had no appetite and felt tired in the morning. I tried many tonics, but Peruna was the only thing which helped me in the least. After I had taken but a half bottle I felt much better. I continued its use for three weeks and I was completely restored to health, and was able to take up my studies which I had been forced to drop. There is nothing better than Peruna to bulk up the system."—Clementina Gonzales.

Address The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, for instructive free literature on catarrh.

African Elephant Doomed. Unless public opinion is kept informed as to what is going on, there is very little hope that the African elephant can be preserved. In the first place, owing to its far larger growth of tusks, this species is the main object of the ivory hunter. The African ivory is the whiter, the harder and the dearer of the two. Also the tusks are very much larger than those of the Asiatic elephant, so that the hunter gets more money for less trouble—or rather, did get it, for hunting the elephant for its ivory can now only be carried on in Asia in parts of the forests of Burmah, or "by permission" in certain districts of India.—County Gentleman and Land and Water.

London's Busy Streets. A patient observer on one of the main roads near London counted the vehicles passing to and from the metropolis between 9 o'clock in the morning and 9 at night. The results were: Bicycles, 4,577; motor cars, 557; electric street cars, 407; horse vehicles, 209; total, 5,750. According to these figures the horse is rapidly being outnumbered.

Between Man and Wife. In married life sacrifices must be forever going on if one would be happy. Strife and unrest are the chief foes to ideal happiness, and after all, there are few things, not matters of conscience, which are worth disputing between man and wife.

Have You a Father or Mother

Whose advanced years have caused a general weakened condition of their bodily functions, causing indigestion, constipation, sluggish or torpid liver or impure blood? There is no remedy in the wide world that will tone up the worn-out system like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Their tonic effect upon the tiny cells that constitute the muscular coat of the bowels the loss of tone is repaired, the normal secretions are stimulated, the circulation of good, healthy blood in the tissues walls is re-established, and instead of a sluggish, unhealthy state of the whole digestive system, the patient is restored to his old-time vigor.

These tablets are purely vegetable and can be taken without any annoying effect into the most delicate stomach.

We want every afflicted person to try these tablets at our expense. Send us your name and address and we will gladly mail you a free sample.

THE MISSING MAN

CHAPTER XIII.

No indictment.
"You, as grand jurors for the body of this county, do solemnly swear that you will diligently inquire and a true presentment make of all such matters and things as shall be given you in charge; the state's counsel, your fellows, and your own you shall keep secret; you shall present no man for envy, hatred, or malice; neither shall you have any unpresented for love, fear, favor, affection, or hope of reward; but you shall present things truly as they come to your knowledge according to the best of your understanding. So help you God."

The above oath, taken verbatim, which is administered to the grand juror, is a bar to any questioning or real knowledge of the proceedings incident to the case of Vane Hamilton, which was presented before them. The result only was known; and as it would have awakened great excitement to have known that an indictment had been found against Vane Hamilton, it occasioned equal stir to learn that none had been brought.

"I am glad—very glad," said Mr. Hamilton to the bank president. "The matter was beginning to wear upon me."

"Yes, you do look thinner than when you returned. You must not work too hard."

"No, I shall try to keep from that. I handle no money nor notes, though," he said, smiling gravely. "I would not risk it. It is a terrible thing, Mr. Hartwell, to feel hanging over you always the sword of impending insanity, or something as bad."

"It is, it is, Mr. Hamilton," said the president, seriously; "but for that some of the bank directors"—and he paused in an embarrassed manner.

"I know, Mr. Hartwell. I was told of it, and it did me good to learn that they would have liked me in my olden capacity, some of them. But the others were wiser. I could not have accepted had the wish been unanimous, as it was not. Still, do you know, Mr. Hartwell, I doubt that I ever presented that note to Low, for the reasons stated at the examination."

"Yes, my heart claimed you from the first, and now—O God!"

"You think it was some other man?"

"I do, and so must have thought the grand jury."

"Could it have been Ashley, do you think?"

"The man is dead and nothing can ever be proved, but I wonder that Low and Hull are retained without an examination."

"Why, you do not suspect Low?"

"No, but I do not think he is careful enough for a bank officer. Still I would not make the statement in public. No, I think Low is honest, but how he could have been deceived so easily is a wonder."

"Why, he says you appeared natural, and so does Tony, you know."

"Tony could not judge in a moment of time even if it were myself, which I do not believe. Well, it is a dark matter; I only hope time will explain it."

"Detective Swan at one time, I fancy, thought Primus Edes might be Ashley."

"Primus Edes! Doesn't he work in our mill?"

"Yes. Oh, he gave up the idea long ago; no grounds at all for thinking so. Edes isn't a fool, but he isn't up to the average."

"Mrs. Hamilton is more prudent since her husband's return. She does not go to the Frys now, so Mrs. Taylor says."

"I am glad of that. Perhaps that is the reason Edes looks so doleful, if he does."

"Oh, he does. There is no question about that. Mrs. Taylor's hired girl's sister, Mrs. Green, who lives next door to Mrs. Fry, says she told Mrs. Fry herself about Mr. Hamilton's return when Edes was combing his hair by the little glass in the kitchen. They were so excited at first that they did not notice until he started to go up to his room. His face was as white as a sheet, Mrs. Green said, and he looked more like a corpse than a living man. He never came down that night, she found out by asking Mrs. Fry, and the next morning when he went to his work he looked glummer and sullen than ever. Mrs. Fry worships Mrs. Hamilton, and she laid it to a bilious attack—said he was subject to them."

Serious, indeed, was the state of affairs to Constance. The relations with her husband were of the most constrained order and her interest in Edes unabated—augmented, indeed; for she knew he was miserable on her account, and pity was so ingrained in her nature that she could feel for his woes as though they were her own.

One day she chanced to meet him face to face as she was going down the street and he was returning from the mill. When he saw her he put out his hand with an eloquent gesture to stop her.

"Constance—Mrs. Hamilton, has he come back?"

"Yes, I suppose so."

He did not notice the strangeness of her reply, but turned away his head with a groan, seemingly wrung from his very heart.

"I thought—it seemed as if you belonged to me."

"Belonged to you?"

"Yes, my heart claimed you from the first, and now—O God!" His form shook with emotion and his face was convulsed.

"Hush! you must not say such words. It is wicked; you forget where you are. We have talked too long already. Good-day," and she walked hastily away, hoping no one had seen them.

Edes walked slowly homeward, but the effect of this interview did not end it. It was destined to grow and expand and fructify.

That evening Constance chanced to be standing at dusk by her sitting-room window, looking out into the dim street, up which Mr. Hamilton was walking toward the house. Behind him, not far distant, she saw another man, stealthily, it appeared to her, following him. What was his object? Was it Edes? Why should he follow her husband on a public thoroughfare, even though deserted as it was now?

Edes did not follow him inside the gate. Her husband did not see him at all. But as he came slowly up the walk to the house Constance saw the man stop an instant and shake his fist threateningly in the air. That threatening, uncouth gesture frightened her, it was so instinct with unreasoning fury. With a dull, heavy dread at her heart she turned to meet her husband, whose face seemed paler than usual, and his manner somewhat shaken.

"What, Constance! alone and with no light?"

He spoke tenderly, though his words were matter of fact enough; but her purpose seemed to be to ignore everything like tenderness.

"It is not late, and the children are finishing their tennis game in the yard behind the house."

He said nothing, but sank down in a chair as if in deep thought.

"Constance," he said at length, "how long must this go on?"

"Go on? I do not understand you."

"This wearing anxiety on my part, this seeming indifference on yours."

"Seeming," she repeated, haughtily.

"Yes, seeming. No woman could be really indifferent to the fact of her husband's presence, as you seem to be. Why are you so changed to me? What have I done?"

"You know best."

"Have I ever told you so?"

"No; but I feel it. No one else distrusts me, Constance. All treat me kindly but you. What is the reason? Has any one come between us?"

"Who could come between us?"

"I don't know, Constance," he said, rapidly coming to her side and clasping her cold hand in his. "I think I understand you. I went away and did not return when you expected me. You thought something had happened to me—that I was dead, perhaps. You mourned for me truly. Then I came back. It was like one coming from the dead to claim you. You thought you could not resurrect your dead love and cause it to blossom afresh. Do not try, Constance—do not try any more."

She looked at him wonderingly.

"Let us begin afresh. Let us be married again, put the past behind us and be happy."

"Why put the past behind us?"

"Because it will be best. You can never love me again if you try to recall your old affection. Let us begin anew, be married again, secretly, if you will, but throw off the old bond and begin a new life with all the shadow of past distrust and suffering left behind us. Will you, Constance, will you?"

His voice was low and pleading, his hand still clasping hers. But she drew it away.

"You talk absurdly," she said. "As if old married people could not do better than cover themselves with ridicule by a second wedding! Say no more. I distrust you. I feel that there is something false about you. I have from the first."

"Do you doubt my love for you?"

"Not that, perhaps," she said, faltering, for she could not doubt it, looking into his face so full of love's emotion; "but I do not feel at ease in your presence. What of Lenora?" she asked, suddenly, wheeling about and facing him again.

"Lenora," he feebly repeated.

"Yes, Lenora."

"There is no Lenora."

"Is she dead?"

"She may be, for aught I know. Constance, as heaven is my witness, she is nothing to me. Your husband has been true to you always, in word, thought and deed. Look at yourself," pointing to the mirror set between two panels, and reaching from floor to ceiling; "do you think, I could ever forget you for any other woman? Is there any other half so beautiful or good in the wide world? If there is, I never saw her."

If this passionate assertion moved Constance in the least she did not evince any emotion. She put up her hand, merely, as if to stay further words, and said calmly, "I hear the children. They have finished their game, and it is time for Uncle Carter, too."

Clare and Perley entered, flushed and rosy from their game.

"Such fun!" said Perley, as an echo to the late game, unwilling to let the sport drop.

"Oh, yes; why didn't you come out, papa?"

"I was talking with mamma, my little Clare," said Mr. Hamilton, fondly stroking her curls.

She clasped his hand and held it. "I love you, papa, almost better than I used to."

"You are the only one who does, my darling. Is it really, truly, for myself?" he asked her, as if yearning for some acknowledgment.

"Of course, it is. But," she continued, thoughtfully, "you never hear me say my prayers now."

"Would you like to have me? I thought it was to God you prayed."

"Yes; but I want you to pray, too, in your heart, as you used to."

Finally I bought one box of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap, and they cleared my scalp of the dandruff and stopped the hair falling. Now my hair is growing as well as ever. I am highly pleased with Cuticura Soap as a toilet soap. (Signed) A. W. Taft, Independence, Va."

Heard Maine Had Blown Up.

A few days after the battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor, and while the whole world was excited over the event, a Frenchman came out of a lumber camp in New Hampshire and made his appearance in Gorham depot. Stepping up to the station agent in a state of great excitement, he asked if Maine had blown up. The agent replied that it had. Tears came into the poor fellow's eyes as he said: "I got a sister; she lives down to Rumford Fall; I suppose she blow up with him."

HER HEART'S DESIRE

By ZOE RINEHART
(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

She wore black dresses with white collars and cuffs and little white aprons. Her part in the plan of the universe was to serve the hungry people who flocked from the trains into the station dining room.

It was in the hot summer days that she was most inclined to rebel at her lot. She was not what would be called a discontented girl. But when the crowds of summer tourists came pouring into the eating house she had stirrings of a keen unrest.

Though no one would have dreamed of her having a secret passion. It was all the while consuming her as she set before the hungry traveler the little dishes of bread and meat and vegetables—the interminable little dishes. One day when the tide of pleasure seekers and tired workers had been moving westward for weeks, she walked into the manager's office and asked to be relieved.

He looked up with some annoyance. Why, you're not going to leave us just now, are you? This is a rushing time. I don't want to break in any green girls just now. What did you say the trouble is?

"I didn't say," faltered the girl. Her fingers were smoothing out the ruffles of her snowy apron. "But—I'm going away. I'm—called away." There was an air of suppressed excitement about her.

"Well, if you must go, I suppose you must. But of course you understand that if your place is filled satisfactorily, you will in all probability lose your job here."

"I didn't expect to keep it," she answered simply. She walked out of the office, and as she went she felt as strange as if she had suddenly dropped from another planet.

After the lapse of two weeks she walked into the manager's office again. The manager was busy and the one glance he gave her was followed by a frown.

"Didn't I tell you the other day," he said impatiently, going on with his work, "that if you left your place would not be held for you?"

The words "the other day" fell strangely on her ears. She almost gasped. "The other day." Why, it seemed at least a thousand years.

"I haven't come to ask for your place again," she said. "I have come to tell you something—to explain something."

The busy manager glanced up impatiently. "Well, please be quick about what you have to say," he said, and turned in his chair to face her.

There was something in her look that startled him out of himself. He was a practical man, but he was one of those who can see subtler things than they are sometimes given credit for. He had seen this girl many times, nimble and active at her duties, serving the interminable little dishes to hurried diners. It was a part of his own duty to see to it that these girls did their tasks well. But he had never seen her look as she looked now. Perhaps he had read of glorified faces. He may have seen them in pictures, and possibly heard them spoken of in church. He may have believed in something of that sort, but he was not accustomed to see them among dining room girls.

Her manner was quiet, but it was a quietness underneath which one divined a whole ocean of tumultuous feeling. She spoke rapidly, but clearly and unhesitatingly.

"I have come back to tell you all about it," she said. "I have come to confess and let you do what is right. I have counted the cost and I'm willing to pay. I want you to send me to prison. I am a thief. I have stolen from you—from the proprietors of this place."

She paused. The manager was startled. He looked at her sharply, doubting her sanity. This was an unusual thing. This girl's honesty he would have staked anything on, and he prided himself on knowing human nature.

"What do you mean?" he said. "You must explain yourself."

"You remember the linen that was missed, and some of the silver—you were all puzzled, and couldn't account for it. I am the thief."

"What are you saying, girl? And why are you confessing it now? What made you take it, then, in the first place, and why not return it now?"

"I can't return it because I sold it. That's why I took it—because I wanted the money. I didn't see any other way, and I wanted to go away. I wanted to see the mountains. They seemed to call me—when I saw all the people here day after day going. I wanted to go so many years—all my life—and I had no money. I knew that it would lose me everything, but somehow I felt if I had the mountains to remember the rest of my life, I could stand it, in prison or anywhere."

"But if you had only kept still, you would never have been found out."

"Oh, it is so hard to make you understand," she said. "Don't you see

Men and Clever Women.
Men are said not to like clever women, but it is rather the woman who thinks she is clever and who flaunts her knowledge on every possible and impossible occasion that they dislike, said the woman of the world. An encyclopedia is hardly the thing one would desire for a constant companion and now then a man likes to offer a bit of information himself. A man likes the woman who is cultured, not book learned, who has assembled information instead of swallowing it whole. Only a raw youth will ever complain that such a woman is too much of a bluestocking for him.—Exchange.

Troubles of an Authoress.
Henry Haynie, author of "The Captains and the Kings," writes of George Elliot: "That afternoon George Elliot declared that each time when it was known she was about to begin a new book she was overwhelmed with letters from unknown correspondents giving her advice as to the best way of carrying on the plot or of bringing her characters out of an embarrassing situation. Others wrote her when a book appeared to affirm that they recognized themselves in her personages or had found their friends set forth in her heroes and heroines."

To Discourage Suicides.
In Japan a favorite method of committing suicide is to throw one's self over a waterfall. Police are stationed at several waterfalls adjacent to the cities. Near one of them is a conspicuous sign, bearing these words: "Do not drown yourself here! Intending suicides are warned that Heaven disapproves of the utilization of this waterfall for the purpose. This is certified on the best priestly authority, and serious consequences in the hereafter are guaranteed. To drown here is also forbidden by the authorities."

Told by Elijah Kellogg.
The late Elijah Kellogg, the noted Maine author and clergyman, told the following story on himself: One day after he had delivered a characteristic oration before his congregation, at the little church at Harpswell, he asked a little boy afflicted with an impediment in his speech how he would like to be a preacher. The little fellow took a long breath, and replied: "I w-w-would h-h-like the p-p-pounding and the h-h-hollering, b-b-but the s-s-speaking w-w-would b-b-b-both-er me."

Are You Engaged?
Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her well. She is now strong and healthy." The Wolverine Drug Co. and John L. ### Personality and Popularity.

To his countrymen Hugo appears as the clear cut exaggeration of the French type—the average Frenchman magnified to the heroic scale. Their attitude towards him was a close likeness to that of many Englishmen towards Gladstone. Everywhere we find some writer exalted to a pinnacle beyond his strict deserts because his personality seems to mirror and to glorify the national habit of mind: Perhaps the Scotch reverence for Burns is to be so explained. Certainly it is because he was so very English—so redolent of Christmas and plum-pudding—that the memory of Dickens has a vitality denied to that of Thackeray, and is kept alive by fellowships and other societies. The Germans, for the same reason, are more exuberantly enthusiastic about Schiller than about Goethe.—The Academy.

Men and Clever Women.
Men are said not to like clever women, but it is rather the woman who thinks she is clever and who flaunts her knowledge on every possible and impossible occasion that they dislike, said the woman of the world. An encyclopedia is hardly the thing one would desire for a constant companion and now then a man likes to offer a bit of information himself. A man likes the woman who is cultured, not book learned, who has assembled information instead of swallowing it whole. Only a raw youth will ever complain that such a woman is too much of a bluestocking for him.—Exchange.

Troubles of an Authoress.
Henry Haynie, author of "The Captains and the Kings," writes of George Elliot: "That afternoon George Elliot declared that each time when it was known she was about to begin a new book she was overwhelmed with letters from unknown correspondents giving her advice as to the best way of carrying on the plot or of bringing her characters out of an embarrassing situation. Others wrote her when a book appeared to affirm that they recognized themselves in her personages or had found their friends set forth in her heroes and heroines."

To Discourage Suicides.
In Japan a favorite method of committing suicide is to throw one's self over a waterfall. Police are stationed at several waterfalls adjacent to the cities. Near one of them is a conspicuous sign, bearing these words: "Do not drown yourself here! Intending suicides are warned that Heaven disapproves of the utilization of this waterfall for the purpose. This is certified on the best priestly authority, and serious consequences in the hereafter are guaranteed. To drown here is also forbidden by the authorities."

Told by Elijah Kellogg.
The late Elijah Kellogg, the noted Maine author and clergyman, told the following story on himself: One day after he had delivered a characteristic oration before his congregation, at the little church at Harpswell, he asked a little boy afflicted with an impediment in his speech how he would like to be a preacher. The little fellow took a long breath, and replied: "I w-w-would h-h-like the p-p-pounding and the h-h-hollering, b-b-but the s-s-speaking w-w-would b-b-b-both-er me."

Are You Engaged?
Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her well. She is now strong and healthy." The Wolverine Drug Co. and John L. Gale sells and guarantees them, at 50 cents a bottle.
