WHOLE NO. 944.

HOME NEEDS In Surgical Dressings

are of paramount importance in every household. Like insurance, they are of little use except in case of accident, then to have them convenient at hand, becomes worth many times their market value. We carry the Johnson & Johnson line, because they are the best to be had. That's why they are being used exclusively by the U. S. Army and Navy.

Let us show them to you, and make suggestions as to what you might need at a moment's notice; 'twould be a pleasure, and the expense to you would be insignificant when compared with the benefit to be derived.

Same Way Here.

Fall is near and the various fraternal societies, of which this town has its share and more, are laying plans for the winter season. Regalia is being refurbished, the goat is being groomed and gets extra rations, and prospective candidates are commencing to whiten around the gills. A little later and the staid citizen who scoffs at the follies of fashion in the way of dress will, on the first Tuesday of every month, don a set of garments that for variety and loudness of color makes Joseph's raiment look like a bar of soap after a hard day's washing, and with an amazing detail of ritual will call to order the Ancient Fraternal Accepted Order of Jigarrariga or some other society. Yet with all their fuss and feathers the fraternal societies are doing great work in the world and are doing it quietly and unostentatiously. Long may they thrive and prosper.—Orion Review.

STATE NEWS

TWO MORE ESCAPE EASILY FROM THE JACKSON PRISON.

BLOOD HOUNDS GOT MIXED UP WITH A SKUNK AND LOST TRAIL.

LONG LIST OF ESCAPES LOOK LIKE POOR MANAGEMENT BY SOMEONE.

Out of Jackson Prison.

Two more state prison convicts have been at liberty since Monday night, thanks to their freedom from surveillance. A ladder, some ropes and a friendly skunk. The latter appeared in the game some time after the escape. The prison bloodhounds had struck the trail of the two fleeing men and were working well when they made a mistake and tackled the polecat. Subsequent proceedings in the man hunt interested them no more. Then some dogs from Battle Creek were secured, and took up the scent—of the convicts—early Tuesday morning.

A ladder leaning against the north wall and ropes dangling over the outside first revealed the story of the escape of Fred Beals, alias Frank Howard, and Fleming Postel, who were missed from their cells at 6:30 last night. The alarm was given at once and every spare officer, with the prison dogs, were put on the trail which seemed to lead toward Leslie.

The two convicts had evidently laid their plans well and everything seemed to aid them. Beals was employed on special work in the box shop which kept him about an hour longer than the other convicts, and Postel was employed in the kitchen and was not under close surveillance. They probably had about an hour's start of their pursuers, but they were dressed in convict garb.

Postel, who is 27 years old, was sent up from Tuscola September 9, 1899, for 12 years, for incest. He is five feet nine inches tall, and weighs 135 pounds; light hair and sallow complexion.

Beals was received from Ottawa August 20, 1895, for 15 years for burglary. He is 41 years old, weighs 165, is 5 feet 9 3/4 inches tall, and of dark complexion.

Unknown Dead.

The mystery of the unknown woman whose body has been in the Wayne county morgue since early in September probably never will be solved. Decomposition set in, and Coroner Parker gave the poor commission an order for burial Thursday morning. An effort to learn the identity of the woman, whose clothing is marked with the name "Jennie Schneider," have been futile. She was found in a dying condition in an alley near Cass and Howard streets at 3 o'clock three weeks ago Sunday morning. She was rushed to Emergency hospital where she died without regaining consciousness. Five women who had known Mrs. Emily Lampron for over 11 years called at the morgue and identified the body as hers. The woman turned up to deny it and heap vituperation upon her husband for his alleged neglect of her, although he was at that moment sobbing because of her death. Other identifications came thick and fast, but there was none from which anything tangible resulted. Wednesday morning the coroner received word from Gladstone, Mich., where it was thought the woman's home was located. She was unknown there.

George Murphy, a soldier just returned from the Philippines, driven insane through the loss of his family, twice tried to commit suicide, but was restrained and is now in the Shiawassee county jail. They were not there and he has wandered for weeks trying to locate them. He reached Durand Tuesday night and in desperation threw himself on the track in front of an approaching train. He was rescued just in time and when taken to jail tried to hang himself, but was discovered in time to save his life.

APOSTLE DOWIE OF ZION SUFFERS A STROKE OF PARALYSIS.

AN INSANE MOTHER BUTCHERS HER SEVEN CHILDREN AND SUICIDES.

THE NAVAL ACADEMY TAKES MEASURES TO STAMP OUT DIPHTHERIA.

Dowie Stricken.

John Alexander Dowie, "first apostle of the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church in Zion," has been stricken with paralysis and is now on his way to Mexico in a condition which even he himself admits is the forerunner of death. His physical affliction he attributes to the sin of overwork. Standing in the very shadow of eternity, as he believes, he has decided upon his successor as head of Zion. The identity of this man, however, is withheld.

Dowie's parting from his people at Zion was full of pathos. The trip had been planned before his illness came on and he insisted on carrying it out, although filled with forebodings and with the thoughts toward the future life, rather than toward earthly matters.

Insane Mother's Awful Deed.

Mrs. Clarence Markham, of Cambridge, Ill., in a fit of temporary insanity, killed her seven children with an ax, after which she placed their bodies in a bed, saturated it with coal oil and set it on fire. She then hacked her throat with a knife and threw herself on the burning bed. Her neighbors rescued her, but she was so badly burned that she died soon after she had made her confession. The oldest child was 9 years of age, the youngest a baby in arms.

Barely able to tell her story, she at first declared the crime had been committed by a strange man, but later, when the sheriff arrived, she admitted that she had slain her children one by one and attempted to destroy their bodies and her own in the fire. Soon afterward she died. When the ruins of the home had cooled a confirmation of her story was had in the finding of the charred corpses, each with its skull crushed.

Diphtheria at Annapolis.

Heroic measures were taken Saturday at the naval academy in the effort to stamp out the diphtheria that has assumed such serious proportions among the new fourth class of midshipmen. All of the midshipmen not affected with disease were, after their clothing had been fumigated, removed to the U. S. S. Hartford, lying in the Severn river, and with new bedding served out to them, have taken up their quarters on that ship. Bancroft Hall, the source of the disease, with its vast and splendid accommodations, has been entirely deserted. As a further precaution against the spreading of the disease, the academy authorities are contemplating postponing the opening of the academy until October 15.

Henry A. Leonard, aged about 23, who was employed by Halle & Stieglitz, a prominent firm of New York brokers, as clerk, made a confession today that it was he who robbed the National City bank of securities worth $359,000. Leonard had been for several years a trusted employe of Halle & Stieglitz and lived quietly with his mother in Harlem. He has been regarded by his employers and by his friends as a model of propriety and honesty. His position was one of responsibility and trust. His engagement to a young woman well known in society was recently announced and he was soon to have been married. The ambitions of the young man have been great. They led him to devote the greater part of his time not given to business to the study of the law, and he would in a short time have been graduated from the Columbia law school.

Attempt to Kill Palma.

An attempt to assassinate President Palma by drowning has been made, according to a cable dispatch. Details of the plot came out by accident. SOME FEATURES OF THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE OUTLINED.

SAID NO REFERENCE TO THE TARIFF WILL BE MADE IN IT.

RAILROAD RATE LEGISLATION WILL BE TREATED STRONGLY.

The Message.

President Roosevelt's first draft of his annual message to congress is completed, and unless he should change his mind before the final copy is made the message will not contain mention of or reference to the tariff. That much has been learned authoritatively.

Tariff revisionists and the "dual tariff" advocates of the recent Chicago convention have tried to prevail on the president to recommend tariff legislation to congress, but thus far they have been unable to impress him with the expediency or wisdom of their project.

It is known also that the president has prepared an especially strong section of his message on traffic rate legislation, and while the details of his new recommendation are not known, it can be said positively that he has taken "no backward step" from his recommendations of last year on that subject.

Relative to the subject of campaign contributions by corporations or other contributors, the president, it is understood, has reiterated his recommendation of last year that congress should pass an act making compulsory the publication of all campaign contributions received by all political parties. He also discusses fully the Panama canal situation, and will recommend that congress pass an act exempting canal bonds from taxation, as United States consols are exempt.

The proposed canal bond issue. It is understood, will be deferred until congress has had another opportunity of enacting this highly desirable legislation, that the bonds may bring a higher price in the market when offered.

Senator Foraker and the president agree as to the importance of some sort of rate legislation, but they are not in harmony as to methods.

Representative Townsend, of Michigan, called on President Roosevelt Wednesday and found him more aggressive than ever in his railroad rate program. With Mr. Townsend as Congressman Prince, of Illinois, who said he was going home to address a farmers institute and asked what message he would take to his people.

"Tell them," said the President, "that I am dead in earnest in this matter. Tell them that I am not responsible for stories that my views are not now what they were in the spring. Tell them that I stand just where I have stood all through this fight and that when my message is made public on December 4 there will be no doubt where I stand."

Cassie Chadwick Breaking.

Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick has contracted incipient consumption as the result of her long confinement in the Cleveland jail. Her imprisonment is telling on her. She has aged much in the last few months. The lines on her face have grown deeper, her hair grayer and her eyes have lost their lustre. Only her nerves have remained strong.

Lately she has denied herself to callers almost entirely. Her physique shows the strain, though she professes to be satisfied and content for the future. She chooses to think she has been persecuted and some of her old force shows in her voice and appearance when she discusses the possibilities of her confounding and confusing her persecutors.

A Terrible Boast.

"She was no good anyway. I didn't like her. I told her that if she made me stay with the baby, I would burn her up, and I did." This is the way Leon Crambeau, of Waukegan, the seven-year-old murderer of his six-month-old baby sister, whom he buried in her cradle, spoke after he had been sentenced for 14 years to the Wisconsin State industrial school for boys. Leon shows absolutely no remorse for his terrible crime. On the contrary he seems to glory in it. He talks freely of the details of the tragedy and his remorse for committing the awful deed. Criminal instincts in Leon have been inherited, and the viciousness of his early training has developed his tendency toward crime. The boy was born of a criminal father, and schooled in wickedness from his cradle. His father is now in the Marinette county jail under sentence for threatening the lives of neighbors.

The first Buddhist temple in the United States is to be erected in Los Angeles, Cal.

A secret society of murderers is believed to exist in Buffalo. Kubyski, a Polish steel worker, was ordered to leave town on pain of death. The notice was received Saturday. He did not heed it and Sunday morning a stranger called at his home and shot him dead.

Basutos are on the warpath against the Boers of the Transvaal, and Great Britain has sent a firing force against them.

Mrs. Chadwick's assets all told were only $61,800, of which but $36,890 reached the creditors. The rest was frittered away in court and attorney fees.

Secretary Taft on his return to Washington denied making criticisms against the consular service in the orient, but declared his belief that Americans are poorly paid. Secretary Taft, Secretary of State Root and others died at the White House last night.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1905.

The total number of men in the United States liable to military service is 11,126,750.

President Roosevelt has sent to the empress of Japan, a sewing machine in recognition of the courtesie extended to his daughter, Alice.

Gen. Booth of the Salvation Army has chartered three steamships to take unemployed workmen from England to Canada in the spring. He guarantees to find employment for all of them.

President Roosevelt Monday signed an executive order creating the Dixie forest reserve in Utah. The new reserve embraces 468,900 acres, 94 per cent of which is public lands, in Washington and Iron counties in the southwestern part of Utah.

The state superintendent of public instruction reports that during June the county normal training schools of Michigan graduated 258 teachers, at a cost of $20,000 to the state. Next year the number of these county institutions will be increased to 25 schools.

September proved to be one of the banner months of the year 1905 in the establishing of a great divorce record for the year in Wayne county. The records seventy-seven new cases started in that month, which is beaten only by the month of June, when eighty-three cases found their way onto the calendar.

County Treasurer Robertson has prepared a statement in which he has made a net improvement in the collection of delinquent taxes over last year of $20,180.45 for the period ending Sept. 30. This was accomplished by the actual force of clerks in the office and without the aid of any additional help, as has been the custom in former years by county treasurers. The record is a creditable one.

The five great states of the middle west—Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa and Minnesota—will exercise, it is said, a more potent influence in the coming congressional legislation than ever before in their history, because they have the most important committee representatives dealing with the leading topics—tariff, reciprocity, railway rate control, foreign trade, Panama canal legislation, foreign shipping and federal appropriations.

Robert J. McClellan, of Detroit, has been selected by the county auditors and the sheriff to act as truant officer for the rural districts under the new compulsory education act. Many people have been confusing the compulsory education or truancy act with the juvenile court law, both calling for the designating of a special deputy sheriff. McClellan has already been given 400 names of pupils of school age not attending school.

An exchange says that the people who need religion are: The man who lets his horse stand out in the cold all day without a blanket on; the man who grows like a wild beast when his wife asks him for money; the woman who is not what she ought to be; the minister who is looking for an easier place and a higher salary; the man who walks the streets with his hands in his pockets, while his wife carries the baby; the man who keeps a dog and says he cannot afford to take the home paper.

It Just Depends.

If we knew whose pen dashed off the following we would gladly give him credit, for its good criticism: "Doesn't it make you weary to read the rot of rattlebrain idiots of the Chicago press who are repeatedly ridiculing the country papers on their locals? These 2 by 4 lunch counter fiends think it awful funny when some country newspaper says, 'Hiram Slocum has sold his Holstein cow to Ed. Childress.' But of course it is the proper caper when they say, 'Mrs. Franklin Oliver Lowden has just returned from the Epsom Lorimer Kennels.' Oh that's great! That bull pup would bring 30 cents in the dog pound, while Slocum's cow would bring $50 in the dark. It's frightfully ridiculous to report that Tom Davy went over to Guard Point to see his bait girl throw a shoe, but if Wm. Henry Harrison Pook, society leader, was in to see Miss Gertie Pabst they wouldlobber over half a column and have three pictures of Gertie and Wm. Henry on the front page. That's all right."

We Can Play Ball.

Everybody knows Plymouth played ball at the Milford fair and won first money. But do we all know how we won it? It was by playing ball every minute and a liberal use of the spick. Thursday we played Pontiac and took them into camp to the tune of 6 to 3 and it was a fine game. Plymouth getting 9 hits and Pontiac 4. Batteries—Plymouth, Deneau and Kado; Pontiac, Sibley and Ferguson.

Friday's game was between Milford and Plymouth, Milford having won from Brighton by a score of 19 to 1 on Wednesday. It was a grand wind up of the base ball season, Plymouth winning 5 to 2. German, of Carleton, was in the box for Plymouth, he having been discarded by Milford earlier in the season, they saying he was "all in" and had "lost his arm." But he did certainly show them up in the last few innings of the game, striking out five men in the last two. McCain, of Jackson, pitched for Milford and was knocked out of the box in the fifth, retiring in favor of Busch. Features of the game were a running one hand catch by Busch and the batting of Armstrong.

The citizens of Plymouth gave the boys a warm reception upon their arrival at home, meeting them at the depot two hundred strong with fire works and the band, and the tired, but happy boys, walked home behind the tune of "The Girls We Left Behind."

The Council Did a Little Business.

The council held a short session Monday evening, with President Eddy and Trustee McLaren absent.

As usual a large number of claims were allowed.

On recommendation of Fire Chief Minnick two lengths of hose were ordered to be purchased for use in the up-town district.

A warrant was ordered to be drawn for the sum of $625 in payment of interest on water works bonds.

Wm. Smitherman presented a bond for the construction of cement sidewalks. The bond was referred back for correction.

The council having ordered that the time of employes at the electric light plant be given free for wiring, Fireman Rohrbacher asked that his pay be raised from $40 to $45 per month. As previous to this time he had been earning about that much extra on his own account, the council concluded he was entitled to the pay and it was accordingly so ordered.

A crosswalk on Harvey to the north side of Church was ordered built.

Some of the councilmen complained that too much rubbish was thrown into the street and the marshal was instructed to look after the matter more closely. There is an ordinance which provides a $5 fine for throwing rubbish, etc., on the street. It has been on the books for years, but doesn't seem to act as a deterrent in the matter complained of.

The council adjourned for one week.

OBITUARY.

Marshall Chronicle: Fidelia Maria Smith was born in Detroit, Oct. 19, 1832, and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Slater, of Marshall, Sept. 28, 1905, at about three o'clock p. m. She spent most of her younger days in Plymouth, Wayne Co., Mich. Her maiden name was Passarge, and she was married to Morris J. Smith Sept. 24, 1848, at Plymouth, where they continued to live until last January, when they came to Marshall. To them were born eight children, four boys and four girls, six of whom survive with the husband to mourn her loss. She united with the Methodist church about fifty years ago at Plymouth. For the past few years she has been in poor health, but was a patient sufferer. She was a kind and dutiful wife, a loving mother, a good christian character; in death she passed to her reward on high.

The remains were brought to Plymouth last Saturday and the funeral took place at her late home Sunday morning, Rev. H. Goldie officiating. Present from out of town were Myron and Chas. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Slater.

Michael Strong, an old and respected citizen of Plymouth, passed away last Thursday night. Mr. Strong was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, 1823. Came to America in 1844, locating at Cincinnati, where he was married to Marguerite Schoop. They came to Plymouth in 1861, and he has since resided here. He is survived by two sons and three daughters, who mourn their loss.

The funeral of Mr. Strong was held Sunday afternoon from the German Lutheran Church, Rev. G. D. Ehnis officiating. The Odd Fellows and Rebekahs turned out in a body, Mr. Strong having been a member of that order for several years, and his wife, who died a year ago, being a member of the Rebekahs. The floral offerings were many and beautiful, one large piece being sent by the office staff under County Treasurer Forbes Robertson, of which Mr. Jacob Strong is a member.

TONGUISH

Friday evening, Oct. 13, H. D. Montgomery will lecture at the Cady school. His subject is "The Value of Education to a Neighborhood." Mr. Montgomery has been connected with "The American Boy" for some time and is a good speaker. Everybody come and be neighborly.

Mrs. J. J. Ithead visited relatives here last week.

Harvey Clement, who has been working north and east of Inkster all summer, was brought home sick Sunday morning.

Mrs. O. O. Rowe, living south of the Cady school house, visited relatives in the city the latter part of last week returned home Oct. 3rd.

The Kubic Brothers were through Tonguish last week finishing up the threshing of the season.

Mrs. H. L. Rhead entertained company on Sunday.

Cards are out announcing a wedding Oct. 10th.

A misprint last week. It should have said the H. H. S. would meet Oct. 4 instead of Oct. 27. The meeting was held on Wednesday with Mrs. Fred Kohnitz and a pleasant time was enjoyed by everyone present.

Mrs. Halpin, of Detroit, visited her parents here last week Thursday.

Don't Borrow Trouble.

It is a bad habit to borrow anything, but the worst thing you can possibly borrow, is trouble. When sick, sore, heavy, weary and worn-out by the pains and poisons of dyspepsia, biliousness, Bright's disease, and similar internal disorders, don't sit down and brood over your symptoms, but fly for relief to Electric Bittens. Here you will find sure and permanent forgetfulness of all your troubles, and your body will not be burdened by a load of debt disease. At The Walverine Drug Co. and John L. Gale's drug store. Price 50c. Guaranteed.

W. C. T. U.

The meeting last week held at Mrs. Patterson's was a decided success. The funds in the treasury were materially increased. Two new names were received for membership. The following were appointed delegates to the District convention which is to be held at Wyandotte next week Thursday and Friday: Mrs. Chas. Allen, Mrs. Wyman Bartlett, Mrs. S. M. Reed, Mrs. S. L. Bennett, Mrs. Jeanette Huston. There will be a meeting at our hall as usual on Thursday.

The commissioner of internal revenue has ruled that after December 1 patent medicines that are known to contain a large percentage of alcohol will be placed in the same category as other intoxicants. The manufacturers of such medicines will be classed with rectifiers and liquor dealers and druggists who handle them will be required to take out the regular saloon keepers license. This important decision should be hailed with satisfaction by prohibitionists and liquor dealers alike. It is a tacit endorsement of the position of the W. C. T. U. on the question of non-alcoholic medication, and it places the saloon keeper and his rival, the liquor selling druggist on a plane of business equality. Supt. Press.

All Night Service Probable.

Village electrician Havershaw says that he has work enough ahead to keep him busy until the holidays putting in electric lights. Since the council ordered wiring free (except material) many residents want the electric current. The Pere Marquette will also put them in, using a large number. With the installation of many more lights, it is believed by the council to be possible that all night service may be given, beginning about the first of next month. An order to that effect would certainly be much appreciated, not only for street lights, but more especially by resident users, and it is hoped the council may be able to give the service soon.

Last Ball Game.

The last ball game of the season will be played on Athletic park, Tuesday, Oct. 10th, at 3 p. m. It is to be a benefit game for the boys who have given their time and services during the season, and for that reason there should be a large attendance. Pontiac will again be the opposing team, so that a most interesting game may be expected. The last game played here was with Pontiac, the latter winning by a score of 3 to 1 in 13 innings. Both clubs will be made up of all home players, Wood and Riggs being the battery for Plymouth and Sibley and Ferguson for Pontiac. The admission has been placed at 25 and 15 cents. Let everybody interested in good ball turn out and give the boys' most enthusiastic support.

Order Temporarily Rescinded.

Postmaster Hall took a trip to Jackson one day last week to ask Congressman Townsend to intercede for him in the matter of raising box rent rates. Mr. Townsend's sympathies were on the right side and a letter was forwarded by him to the department with the result that Postmaster Hall on Friday evening last received a telegram from headquarters suspending the order to raise the rates until January first. In the meantime efforts will be made to have the department see that it is unwise to raise the call box rates for Plymouth at least, and that they be left as they are.

Postmaster Hall also suggested to the department that the numbering of rural mail boxes be left open until the proposed solid rural delivery has been established, which will be about January first. To number boxes now would probably necessitate a change again, when routes are re-arranged, as they will be.

THE MISSING MAN

By MARY R. P. HATCH

Author of "The Bank Tragedy"

Copyright, 1923, by Lee and Shepard

CHAPTER XVII—Continued.

"I admit a woman but my wife, and as for my interests and character as a business man, they are of no account to me, any more than the shell of a caterpillar is to the butterfly. And now let me tell you something, my good sir. Constance knows that I am her husband."

"Has she said so?"

"Not exactly, but she might as well, and furthermore, she has never believed in this man calling himself by my name."

Hamora of this sort had come to the ears of the busy doctor as well as concerning the interest said to exist at one time between Edes and Mrs. Hamilton, but he had not thought much about the matter, believing it gossip with little or no foundation in fact. But now he saw, or fancied he saw, his mistake. This eager-faced, energetic man was a far different person than he had supposed him to be. He was a man clearly capable of making and supporting a claim of nature so astounding that it was, in fact, impossible. It could not be that the man who had joined with him it would be far more serious still, and the results could only be guessed at, not foreseen.

The hint that he had been shot to be got out of the way was, or would be, doubtless, a strong feature in the man's case, and there were complications relating to the late bank trouble which, no doubt, could be brought to bear upon it likewise. Moreover, the man before him, Dr. Peck considered, might be Ashley himself, who by some strange mistake was believed to have died. It was not unlikely. In the light of these astounding claims it was very probable, he thought.

A man such as Ashley was proved to have been—for the story of his adventures was well known in Grovedale—was it not possible that such a claim like made was to go to the mill and demand to see the "man known as Vane Hamilton."

"Shall you see him?" asked Mr. Carter.

"Yes, it may as well be now as later."

Edes entered and confronted the two men. He held out his hand to Mr. Carter who, however, did not appear to see it.

"Very well, uncle. You will see your act in its true light some day," said the former workman with so much dignity that Mr. Carter stared at him.

"Oh, come now! That's all bosh, my man."

"Do you think so?" asked Edes, looking full in the face of the other man.

"I do; but I am willing to hear anything you have to say in support of your claim. For, I own, I am curious to understand it."

"You know all about it now. If you did not you would not be here. But, Vane, my brother, if you realized all you would not do it, I know. Did you not know you were my brother, my twin brother?"

"No, I confess I did not," dryly. "I always supposed that my brother died in infancy. Can you prove that he did not?"

"I prove that he did not! You are that brother and not I. Before our mother died she asked me to search for you two years of every year, for she would never believe you dead, although every one else did. You were stolen in infancy. She gave me the ring you wear on your finger, in trust for you. The words 'in trust' are engraved on the inside."

"Everybody in Grovedale knows that. Perhaps you will tell me how this ring came upon my finger if it was delivered into your keeping."

"I cannot. I confess it is a mystery. It is also a mystery how you became possessed of my papers. I

"There's method in his madness, though, and it is only too evident that Constance believes his story," said Hamilton, gloomily. "But, no matter. He will learn that I am not to be trifled with."

"I don't believe he could get a lawyer in the country to take his case if he should think of bringing suit."

And Mr. Carter was right. The claimant went to nearly every lawyer in Grovedale and the adjoining town of Lincolnshire, but not one would incline his ear favorably to the suit. It was plain to be seen that they saw neither profit nor favor in it, and more than one advised him to drop the matter at once.

That night a letter reached Constance at the hotel.

"Dear Constance—I did not mean to address you or ask you for help. But what can I do? No lawyer will undertake my case. They think me poor, without credit, and an imposter. For your sake, for all our sakes, I cannot give up so. You have money. Will you risk it in making plain the mystery which wraps our lives? I would not ask your aid if I could help it, for I know the act will be misinterpreted by others, if not by you. Can you advise me of anything better?"

"Your husband,"

"VANE HAMILTON."

Constance sat a long time in deep thought, and then, with sudden resolution, dressed herself with exceeding plainness and went out on to the street, walking in the direction of the office of Morley & Stevens. Morley was the first lawyer in the county, and Stevens was scarcely less distinguished. They were the first to whom Edes had applied.

Both members of the firm were, as it chanced, in the office, and both wondered, not a little, at her errand. She did not give them long to speculate.

"I called to see you in regard to the rival claims of two men, each professing to be Vane Hamilton, my husband," she said, with much composure and dignity.

"Ah! Strange, very strange! Edes came to see us about this claim, but we dismissed him."

"I am sorry you did. You perceive the case is a very serious one. I could wish that it might be as ably conducted as it would be to have you and Mr. Stevens upon one side and Stone & Ferguson on the other."

"You have doubts, then, I conclude, which is the real Vane Hamilton?"

"I have. Even if these doubts were less slight than they are, I should wish for a thorough examination. I will even go so far as to pledge myself to pay the costs. I wish to have everything brought to light, every circumstance weighed, and to do this both sides must be well presented."

"Very true, madam."

"Do I understand that you will reconsider your refusal, Mr. Morley?"

"Undoubtedly. We will talk with the person hitherto known as Edes, and report to you later."

"Oh, thank you. You perceive, I think, that both sides of the matter concern me equally."

"Certainly. I had not looked at it in that light before, Mrs. Hamilton. Would you object to telling us which in your belief is your husband, for I perceive you are not certain?"

WAS FREE FROM PREJUDICE.

Talesman Able to Try Case Against an Indian Fairly.

In a northern California town a supposed murder had been committed. The half-breed wife of an Indian had died, as the husband said, from natural causes, and was buried without the usual formalities being first complied with. After a lapse of two weeks the body was disinterred by the authorities at the instance of a particular enemy of the accused and marks of violence, as the informant had said, were found upon the body.

The prosecuting attorney was examining the talesmen to ascertain if any of them were prejudiced against Indians.

Talesman Taylor was upon the stand undergoing a rather stiff cross-examination.

"Did an Indian do you or your family any harm at any time?" asked the prosecutor.

"No," replied Taylor.

"Did you or any of your family ever have dealings or trouble with an Indian?"

"No," replied Taylor, "except that my mother was killed by an Indian."—Lippincott's.

Too Much for Capt. Winslow.

Some years since Seaman Jack Mackin of the old Keatsarge, which was lying off Charleston after a long cruise, was brought before Capt. Winslow as an absentee of fifty-six hours. The captain, in admonishing him, said:

"Mackin, don't you know you are a fool, sir?"

"Yes, sir," replied the sailor, "and the world is full of them, but being so long at sea I was taken with growing pains on shore in good company, and if this had been any other ship I'd a never come back again unless you were captain of her, sir."

Jack got a chance to be good until shore leave came around again.

For Welsh Rabbits.

He was a recent recruit from Ireland's green turf and had secured his first position in a grocery store.

One day a customer approached the new clerk and inquired for some crumbled cheese for a Welsh rabbit. After supplying the customer with the desired cheese the clerk inquired, "And what is that phrat you find them only?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

DEPARTURE OF THE DEPARTED.

Caller Accepted Commonplace Statement Too Literally.

In many rural districts there is usually one accommodating man, who is called upon, gratuitously, too, to shave when necessary, those who depart this life. The writer remembers this custom as in vogue at Plymouth, Me., a small town off the railway in Penobscot county, and a gentleman by the name of Blanchard was usually sought at such times.

One day an old gentleman had passed away and Mr. Blanchard was sent for; the messenger, being in a hurry himself, thought the occasion demanded more signs of activity on Mr. Blanchard's part, and expressed his mind to that effect to which he received the reply: "Well, he can wait, can't he?"

Very soon, however, the shaving kit was gathered up and a start for the work was made. When the house was reached the daughter of the departed one, thinking the call was made to inquire her father's condition, came to the door and said: "Well, father has gone."

"Gone! Where in h—l has he gone? I came over to shave him," replied Mr. Blanchard.—Boston Herald.

Woman Writer Explains From What Type She Draw Heroine.

Kate Jordan, the author of "Time, the Comedian," was asked by a seeker after knowledge why it was that the modern school of women writers all take for their heroines a girl of backbone and of steadfast purpose.

"The girl heroine," said this critic, "never discovers that she is beautiful until she is 26."

"My heroine knew just how she looked, but she didn't care. After she fell in love she began to care a lot. That is right and natural. You seem to think women naturally are dishonest. What less could a girl do in common honesty than my heroine did? Having money that she didn't want on account of its associations, and that she was not entitled to, she labored to restore it. Hundreds of men are doing that thing every day, laboring honestly to repay their debts, and yet you seem to think it remarkable that a woman does it."

Surprised at Slight of Whale.

Olaus Magnus, bishop of Upsala, tells how a certain noble Englishman saw, on Aug. 27, 1532, "a dead beast of vast magnitude" which had been cast up on the shore at Teignmouth. It was ninety feet long and twenty-five feet in thickness, and evidently a whale from the mention of its blowholes, and the fact that instead of teeth "there grew to his palate above 1,000 plates of horn, hairy on one side." The noble Englishman noted that it had "three bellies like vast caves, and thirty throats, whereof five were very great." On Aug. 28, 1736, an Englishman with business instincts saw two fights of birds collide with such force near Preston that 180 of them fell to earth. He picked them up and sold them in Preston market forthwith.

Maid and the Dispensary.

It is commonly supposed that the persons who use the public dispensaries cannot afford to pay a doctor. If the dispensary statistics are large then (it is thought) the number out of work is very great. This is not a fair inference. A large number of the patrons of dispensaries are poor, but a large number are not. At Johns Hopkins hospital a story is told of a woman, who, after being treated, lingered in the dispensary. "Is there anything further, madam?" a young doctor asked. "Oh, no; I'm just waiting till they've treated my maid."—The World's Work.

Pew Was as Good as New.

William P. Averill, landlord of The Tavern, at New Boston, N. H., erected and formerly conducted by J. Reed Whipple, is a native of Peterboro, where his father was a leading citizen and a pillar in the church. The New Boston landlord is not so pronounced in religious activities, and, after the death of his parents and the removal of the remainder of the family from town, advertised the family pew for sale in the local paper, as follows: "For Sale—Pew No. 27 in the Congregational Church. But little used; as good as new."—Boston Herald.

Artificial Storm at Sea.

The inhabitants of Aboukir, near Alexandria, were recently treated to a wonderful spectacle. It became necessary to destroy some sixteen tons of powerful dynamite, and the explosives—sufficient to blow up a town—were taken to sea and placed below the water. Something like a submarine earthquake followed the explosion, which was heard for miles around. A waterspout shot into the air to a height of 2,000 feet, and fell back in drizzling spray. Simultaneously the sea became a whirlpool of seething water, as if agitated by a hurricane.

Headlessness a Handicap.

Headlessness, quite as much as lack of mentality, is responsible for errors. It is the observation of men who are in the work of directing people at large that more than half of the inquirers expect to ask directions of one or more other persons before they reach their desired place. Learn not to ask the same information twice. Let one experience lesson in a certain line last you for life. These small things of life may be capital or handicap. It is worth while to make intelligent choices.

AGRICULTURE

Filth in Milk.

Were every creamery to save and exhibit the filth of all sorts removed from milk by sieves and separators, we fancy patrons would be astonished and edified thereby. It is truly wonderful how such good butter and cheese can be made from milk so evidently contaminated as is much of that delivered at certain country creameries and cheese factories. We dare not set down a complete list of the heterogeneous articles found in such milk, but it includes such common objects as hair, sticks, straw, manure, grain, chaff, hay, meal, feathers, flies, nails, staples, leather, rubber, leaves, mice, rats, chickens, and, if we remember aright, a dead cat has been found on one occasion. But the large objects are of accidental origin of course, and the chief and constant objection has to be made against the lesser, more common, but quite as deleterious foreign bodies referred to. And where solid objects are so commonly found it may be taken for granted that many soluble contaminants are present. When cows are milked with wet hands, milk becomes tainted with dissolved filth which cannot be removed; and where milking is done in filthy and dusty stables foul odors are absorbed and myriad dust particles and germs find their way into the warm milk which is one of the best possible mediums for the growth and spread of germs. Milk coming from the udder into clean pails, in a clean stable, still contains a certain proportion of foreign germs or bacteria. Where the cow inhabits a dirty stable and the milk has to pass through dust-laden air at milking time it is found to be swarming with bacterial life when examined under the microscope of the scientist. Whether milk goes to the home setting pans or to the factory it should be protected against contamination as carefully as possible and every factory manager should endeavor in every possible way to instruct his patrons by object lessons, argument and printed information to understand the importance of clean milk. Such milk means a better product from the local factory and incidentally a better reputation and price for its product so that the patron in turn will share in the reward of cleanliness.

Silver rings are worn by laborers in certain European countries, the owners being firmly convinced that such a ring is a sure protection against fits. Just a Delicate Hint.

Of the eminent Leipzig surgeon Prof. Thiersch the story is related that one day a man of his own town called on him and asked his advice as to finding a specialist to operate on him. After a brief pause the professor said: "If you want to travel you might go to Bergmann in Berlin, or if that is not far enough to Nussbaum in Munich or, farther still, to Billroth in Vienna. Then if you call on any of these and he asks you where you are from and you say 'Leipzig' he will report: 'Oh, you blockhead! why didn't you go to Thiersch!'"

Bottling Lemon Juice.

To keep lemon juice ready for use squeeze out the juice in the usual manner, strain free from pulp and pits, add white powdered sugar in the proportion of one pound to a pint of the juice, stir it until the sugar is quite dissolved, then put it away in very small bottles. Put a teaspoonful of salad oil in the top and cork it close. When wanted for use take out the cork carefully and take up the oil with a bit of cotton wool. To use for lemonade, add one large tablespoonful to a gill of water.

In True American Style.

An alarm of fire in the vicinity of Harrison street in Baltimore brought out the fire department of the district. While the bells clanged and the pungent wood smoke of the engines filled the air, the merchant who occupied the first floor pushed his way through the crowd and hung a signboard over his door. It read: "No interruption to business."

A Young Lady from New Jersey Put Her Wits to Work.

"Coffee gave me terrible spells of indigestion which, coming on every week or so, made my life wretched until some one told me that the coffee I drank was to blame. That seemed nonsense, but I noticed these attacks used to come on shortly after eating and were accompanied by such excruciating pains in the pit of the stomach that I could only find relief by loosening my clothing and lying down."

"If circumstances made it impossible for me to lie down I spent hours in great misery."

"I refused to really believe it was the coffee until finally I thought a trial would at least do no harm, so I quit coffee in 1901 and began on Postum. My troubles left entirely and convinced me of the cause."

"Postum brought no discomfort, nor did indigestion follow its use. I have had no return of the trouble since I began to drink Postum. It has built me up, restored my health and given me a new interest in life. It certainly is a joy to be well again."

Bottling Lemon Juice.

To keep lemon juice ready for use squeeze out the juice in the usual manner, strain free from pulp and pits, add white powdered sugar in the proportion of one pound to a pint of the juice, stir it until the sugar is quite dissolved, then put it away in very small bottles. Put a teaspoonful of salad oil in the top and cork it close. When wanted for use take out the cork carefully and take up the oil with a bit of cotton wool. To use for lemonade, add one large tablespoonful to a gill of water.

In True American Style.

An alarm of fire in the vicinity of Harrison street in Baltimore brought out the fire department of the district. While the bells clanged and the pungent wood smoke of the engines filled the air, the merchant who occupied the first floor pushed his way through the crowd and hung a signboard over his door. It read: "No interruption to business."

If the World Were Birdless.

A naturalist declares, man could not inhabit it after nine years' time, in spite of all the sprays and poisons that could be manufactured for the destruction of insects. The insects and slugs would simply eat all the orchards and crops in that time.

NOTICED IT.

A Young Lady from New Jersey Put Her Wits to Work.

"Coffee gave me terrible spells of indigestion which, coming on every week or so, made my life wretched until some one told me that the coffee I drank was to blame. That seemed nonsense, but I noticed these attacks used to come on shortly after eating and were accompanied by such excruciating pains in the pit of the stomach that I could only find relief by loosening my clothing and lying down."

"If circumstances made it impossible for me to lie down I spent hours in great misery."

"I refused to really believe it was the coffee until finally I thought a trial would at least do no harm, so I quit coffee in 1901 and began on Postum. My troubles left entirely and convinced me of the cause."

"Postum brought no discomfort, nor did indigestion follow its use. I have had no return of the trouble since I began to drink Postum. It has built me up, restored my health and given me a new interest in life. It certainly is a joy to be well again."

this, his adventures evincing a most daring nature and great nerve and determination. Granted he had fled to Grovedale to evade pursuit, disguised himself to appear as a slightly demented and as a common workman, it was not too much to believe of such a man that he had become infatuated with Mrs. Hamilton and sought to claim her as his wife, basing his actions on her attitude toward her returned husband and his slight resemblance to the latter. Then, too, the shot fired on Mr. Hamilton's premises might well have been done by his own hand to evidence his own assertion that the design was to get rid of him and his claims, which would suggest that Hamilton did it himself.

Dr. Peck was no lawyer, nor did he reckon himself particularly astute, but as he sat there facts and deductions evolved themselves with startling force and rapidity, mingling and commingling in the wildest confusion until his brain seemed bursting. Strange how dominant ideas start into being and make themselves side by side as he tried to fit or against a starting assertion. A luminous path seemed open to his vision, leading straight to the time when Vane Hamilton left home in the first place, and he saw clearly the long line of events since that time down to this strange declaration that made to him. Back of it all was Joseph's dark mystery. Villainy was this, a narrow could not be far distant, and for every one concerned in the matter there would be suspense mad-making and extreme.

Indigation arose in his heart toward the man before him. It became an instant too deep for expression, and he arose without speaking another word and left the house.

CHAPTER XVIII.

"Marvelous! Marvelous!"

On a fresh time the man known as Peck was up and about and prepared himself well. He said little about the woman but it was well known that he had said once he knew about it in any way, it having been common before he regained his name of Hamilton.

can much easier account for your resemblance, for we are twin brothers." "I deny it. I deny that there was any reason for such a search, or that my mother believed her child to be alive. Your statements affect me very little, nor will they any one else. Still, I must warn you that when you accuse me of wearing a ring and possessing papers that belong to you, you are making a serious charge. Your other claims are too absurd to be noticed. Of course, I am now speaking of Mrs. Hamilton."

"If I were not convinced that you were my brother I should say, 'Do not dare to take that name between your lips.'"

The two men were deadly pale now and their eyes glittered with excitement. Mr. Carter seriously apprehended trouble. But he need not have feared. Each was too much engaged in the effort to maintain calmness to have a thought of harming the other.

"I think there is no use in talking any more about this matter," Mr. Edes, said Hamilton.

"Don't call me Edes. I will not deny your name is Hamilton, for I truly think it is. I believe you are Victor. I cannot doubt it. Then, in the name of brotherhood, of our mother's memory, drop this inane, absurd, these monstrous claims. I will overlook them all, everything, for her sake, and he laid out his hand, but the other stepped coldly back and said:

"Enough! You are either mad, or you think I am. I refuse to hear another word. I am not your brother. I know nothing about you. Now leave me, and do not repeat these inquiries, I warn you."

"I will leave you, but not in quiet possession of what does not belong to you. Recollect that. I shall not charge you with attempted murder, for I hope and trust you are not responsible for the shot. It restored me to reason. But I shall regain my property, my family, and my name, and without another word or look at either, Edes left the room."

"He is as crazy as a dog," said Mr. Carter.

was free from prejudice.

Talesman Able to Try Case Against an Indian Fairly.

In a northern California town a supposed murder had been committed. The half-breed wife of an Indian had died, as the husband said, from natural causes, and was buried without the usual formalities being first complied with. After a lapse of two weeks the body was disinterred by the authorities at the instance of a particular enemy of the accused and marks of violence, as the informant had said, were found upon the body.

The prosecuting attorney was examining the talesmen to ascertain if any of them were prejudiced against Indians.

Talesman Taylor was upon the stand undergoing a rather stiff cross-examination.

"Did an Indian do you or your family any harm at any time?" asked the prosecutor.

"No," replied Taylor.

"Did you or any of your family ever have dealings or trouble with an Indian?"

"No," replied Taylor, "except that my mother was killed by an Indian."—Lippincott's.

Too Much for Capt. Winslow.

Some years since Seaman Jack Mackin of the old Keatsarge, which was lying off Charleston after a long cruise, was brought before Capt. Winslow as an absentee of fifty-six hours. The captain, in admonishing him, said:

"Mackin, don't you know you are a fool, sir?"

"Yes, sir," replied the sailor, "and the world is full of them, but being so long at sea I was taken with growing pains on shore in good company, and if this had been any other ship I'd a never come back again unless you were captain of her, sir."

Jack got a chance to be good until shore leave came around again.

For Welsh Rabbits.

He was a recent recruit from Ireland's green turf and had secured his first position in a grocery store.

One day a customer approached the new clerk and inquired for some crumbled cheese for a Welsh rabbit. After supplying the customer with the desired cheese the clerk inquired, "And what is that phrat you find them only?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Headlessness a Handicap.

Headlessness, quite as much as lack of mentality, is responsible for errors. It is the observation of men who are in the work of directing people at large that more than half of the inquirers expect to ask directions of one or more other persons before they reach their desired place. Learn not to ask the same information twice. Let one experience lesson in a certain line last you for life. These small things of life may be capital or handicap. It is worth while to make intelligent choices.

Artificial Storm at Sea.

The inhabitants of Aboukir, near Alexandria, were recently treated to a wonderful spectacle. It became necessary to destroy some sixteen tons of powerful dynamite, and the explosives—sufficient to blow up a town—were taken to sea and placed below the water. Something like a submarine earthquake followed the explosion, which was heard for miles around. A waterspout shot into the air to a height of 2,000 feet, and fell back in drizzling spray. Simultaneously the sea became a whirlpool of seething water, as if agitated by a hurricane.

LOSS OF APPETITE

Cold Sweats, Twitching Nerves and Weakness Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Nature punishes every infraction of her laws, and careless habits easily lead to the condition described by Mr. William Browne, of No. 1019 Lincoln street, St. Joseph, Mo. Mr. Browne is an expert tinner in the employ of the National Blauvelt Co. He gives the following account of a trying experience:

"In the spring of 1902," he says, "while I was regularly working at my trade, I grew somewhat careless in my habits of eating and drinking, and finally found that my appetite was fickle, a bad taste lingered in my mouth, my nerves twitched and were beyond my control, my kidneys were out of order and cold sweats would break out over my body at odd times. Perhaps, while I stood talking with some one, this trembling of the limbs, and profuse sweating, and a severe chill would seize me. I became alarmed at my condition and, having read an endorsement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I got a box and began to use them. They helped me at once. After I had used one box the twitching of the nerves, the trouble with the stomach and the cold sweats stopped and have not reappeared, and my appetite is good. I have told all my friends that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me and I recommend them to everybody."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mr. Browne because nothing can strengthen the nerves except good rich red blood—and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood. They don't act on the bowels. They don't bother with mere symptoms. They drive from the blood the cause of anemia, indigestion, nervous disorders, general weakness and the troubles of growing girls and women. The pills are guaranteed to be free from opiates or harmful drugs. Sold by all druggists, or by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

SAW BRIGHT FUTURE FOR BOY.

Knew Enough to Improve His Mind in Odd Moments.

It so chanced that all the passengers that entered one of the elevators in a tall building were going above the sixth floor, so they had opportunity to glance at the book which the young elevator man had been reading, and which lay face up on his stool. He had been so intently reading it before starting with his passengers as to be almost abstracted, although very lively and handy with the actual work once the start was made.

"I'll bet that book is an Indian fighting blood-and-thunder," whispered one passenger to another he knew. "No; he's too old for that—I'd say it was a thriller of a love romance." "Or one of the six best sellers of the month," interjected a third. Everybody was interested. All were "rubbing" at the book and when the group of passengers got out of the cage one deliberately stooped and looked at it.

"Young America forever," he said; "it is a volume of Blackstone. This kid will be sitting on the bench some day."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Cured Her Rheumatism.

Deep Valley, Pa., Oct. 2d.—(Special.)—There is deep interest in Green county over the cure of the little daughter of L. N. Whipkey of Rheumatism. She was a great sufferer for five or six years and nothing seemed to do her any good till she tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. She began to improve almost at once and now she is cured and can run and play as other children do. Mr. Whipkey says: "I am indeed thankful for what Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for my daughter; they saved her from being a cripple perhaps for life."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have proved that Rheumatism is one of the results of diseased Kidneys. Rheumatism is caused by Uric Acid in the blood. If the Kidneys are right there can be no Uric Acid in the blood and consequently no Rheumatism. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the Kidneys right.

"A scab formed on my baby's face, spreading until it completely covered her from head to foot, followed by boils, having forty on her head at one time, and more on her body. Then her skin started to dry up and it became so bad she could not shut her eyes to sleep. One month's treatment with Cuticura Soap and Ointment made a complete cure. Doctors and medicines had cost over $100, with baby growing worse. Then we spent less than $5 for Cuticura and cured her. (Signed) Mrs. G. H. Tucker, Jr., 335 Greenfield Ave., Milwaukee, Wis."

WHIMS OF WORLD'S GREAT ONES

Men of Genius Who Have Been Noted for Their Eccentricity.

The men of genius whose works are among the world's most precious possessions have ever been the most eccentric of the most normal of mankind, says W. H. Cotton. All readers of "Romola" will remember Hier di Cosimo, that misanthropic painter who lived completely isolated from his fellows in his queer, squatted studio, with its garden of weeds and flowers growing rankly as they willed, because he preferred them to; spiders and even more loathsome creatures; his diet consisting wholly of eggs, hard-boiled, by the dozen and eaten when required, no matter what condition. Goya, the Spanish Rembrandt, was the wildest and most irascible of men. When he was painting the portrait of the Duke of Wellington he kept the hero of Waterloo in a rigid attitude for hours, at the least movement threatening him with a dagger, and when the duke complained of weariness the painter seized a plaster cast and hurled it at his head. Michael Angelo's method of working was one of his greatest eccentricities. Often he would get up in the middle of the night to hack and hew his marble by the light of a single candle fastened to the visor of his cap, and then, worn by his great labors, he would throw himself down to sleep again without removing his clothing or his shoes—sometimes keeping the latter on so long that when they were removed the flesh came off with the stockings. It is generally credited that at one time a year passed in which he never once removed his shoes.—Leslie's Weekly.

CLOTHES FOR ALL OCCASIONS.

Woman Who Has Them a Rarity and a Relief, Says an Exchange.

She's such a relief to meet with—the woman who always has her clothes ready for any occasion she may be invited to, and she's almost as great a rarity.

When the seasons change she puts her mind upon the subject of clothes with a will, and quietly decides just what she will get to carry her through the whole season. Then as quietly, and as surely, she gets each thing, so that by the time half her world is rushing around trying to get something made in time for this affair or for that she is ready with everything—ready to accept those invitations to delightful affairs planned on the spur of the moment—things that these isn't time to get something made for.

The result is she's never hurried, nor is almost invariable accompaniment, hurried.

Probably she doesn't get many clothes, and the friends who have closets and wardrobes filled to overflowing, yet who complain so bitterly that they've nothing ready to wear, or not exactly the right thing, find her almost provoking in her serene readiness.

But it was hard work in the first place, for choosing a few things that will suit all occasions, and yet give you a few changes, isn't easy by any means, and requires a mighty clever manager.

But, she's such a relief to invite anywhere!—San Francisco, Cal.

Women and Economy.

Women, as a class, have most uncertain ideas on the subject of economy, avers M. A. P. They define the word simply as the not spending of money, and associate it chiefly with straitened circumstances. But economy means administration, the clever way of spending one's money, whether one's allowance is $250 or $25,000. In either case, the following rules hold good: 1. Pay ready money for everything. 2. Never spend anything without well considering if the article in question is a necessity. Will it be valued twenty-four hours after purchase? 3. Always leave a margin—that is to say, always live within your income. 4. Keep accounts; even the record of a penny account book acts as a check on one's expenditure. The secret of true economy is trouble-taking; laziness and extravagance are apt to go hand in hand.

Children Taught to Swim.

At this period of the year, when so many drowning accidents occur, the annual report of the London (Eng.) Schools Swimming Association possesses special interest. The organization, which is supported by voluntary subscriptions, is the largest swimming association in the world, having affiliated to it nearly 1,000 schools. The branches are spread all over London, and every year about 5,000 certificates are issued to boys who can swim 100 yards, and to girls who can swim fifty yards. No fewer than 80,000 children are taken to the baths every week and instructed in swimming. Life-saving is also taught. The Roll of Honor contains the names of forty-five boys and girls who have attempted to save life from drowning. All these young people have been rewarded by the Royal Humane Society.

NOT VIOLATION OF SCRIPTURE.

Clergyman Had Sufficient Reason for Urging Divorce.

One of the witnesses called in a Chicago divorce case last year was a highly respected clergyman in the Windy City. According to one of the counsel in the case, the following conversation took place between the judge and the minister. Said His Honor:

"Dr. Blank, if you were on the bench in my stead, and you were acquainted with all the circumstances of this case, would you grant this divorce?"

"Assuredly I would, Your Honor," replied the clergyman, without the least hesitation.

"But," said the judge, "how do you reconcile this assertion with the injunction of Scripture, 'Whom God hath joined let no man put asunder?'"

"Your Honor," responded the minister, with convincing gravity, "I am quite satisfied that the Almighty never joined this couple."—Harper's Weekly.

Medicines Have Stood Test of Time.

"The leading proprietary medicines that have stood the test of time are of known therapeutic value," says a medical authority. "They are prepared in laboratories of the highest grade, under the care of skilled pharmacists, and they are made from approved formulas which, in many instances, have been the especial pride and specific of some successful physician. They have been tried in the crucible of public opinion and they have been found satisfactory by the people, for otherwise the people would discontinue using them."

Jokes with Soldiers.

While some regiments of London volunteers were engaged in a sham fight in the suburbs a man on a coach, passing along a neighboring road, sounded "Cease firing" on his bugle. The call was passed along the lines and the battle was suspended till the joke was discovered.

YOU NEED SUCH A TONIC

Until Mull's Grape Tonic Was Brought to America, the Following Was Incurable.

READ THESE STATISTICS—WE CAN VERIFY THEM:

90,000 people die yearly from the results of Constipation and Stomach Troubles and their attending ills. Nine in every ten have it. Many don't know it, and a good many who do know it neglect it until it is too late. Some get so bad they think it is incurable, and then they resort to the physio or pill habit, where the real trouble begins. You and I know that Pills and Physio make us worse, we become a slave to them, and finally they lose their power and paralysis of the intestines occurs, and then slow death.

Now Constipation and Stomach Trouble are just as curable as any other disease; we have proved this fully by curing over 10,000 the last two years. Many of these were the most chronic, serious, complicated kind, which all other medicines and doctors had failed and hope despaired of, but our treatment cured them quickly and to stay cured.

Mr. Thompson, of Peoria, who had suffered all his life and had given up hope, was cured by 24 bottles. Dr. Dill, of St. Louis, whose health had been broken down, claims that several bottles cured him, that it is a splendid medicine for Stomach and Bowels, and the best general tonic he ever saw. Dr. Hedrick, of Kansas City, who had constipation so badly that he verged upon nervous collapse, says to his great surprise after trying everything else, that it is a splendid medicine for Stomach and Bowels and kindred ills, that has come to his attention in his professional career. Mrs. Alcoa, of Chicago, who was a confirmed invalid for years, after taking a thorough course of Mull's Grape Tonic says she was able to leave her bed after the third bottle, and is now enjoying good health. She had tried everything that came to her notice. Mr. Crow, of St. Louis, had dyspepsia, liver and bowel trouble for 25 years, which he contracted during the course of Mull's Grape Tonic says she was able to leave her bed after the third bottle, and is now enjoying good health. She had tried everything that came to her notice. WORKING WOMEN

Their Hard Struggle Made Easier—Interesting Statements by a Young Lady in Boston and One in Nashville, Tenn.

All women work; some in their homes, some in church, and some in the whirl of society. And in stores, mills and shops tens of thousands are on the never-ceasing treadmill, earning their daily bread.

All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical disturbances, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, ovarian troubles, ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, leucorrhoea, or perhaps irregularity or suppression of "monthly periods," causing backache, nervousness, irritability and lassitude.

Women who stand on their feet all day are more susceptible to these troubles than others. They especially require an invigorating, sustaining medicine which will strengthen the female organism and enable them to bear easily the fatigues of the day, to sleep well at night, and to rise refreshed and cheerful.

How distressing to see a woman struggling to earn a livelihood or perform her household duties when her back and head are aching, she is so tired she can hardly drag about or stand up, and every movement causes pain, the origin of which is due to some derangement of the female organism.

Back up every statement your advertisement makes at a loss.

That the people read advertisements is evidenced from the enormous mail order business of today.

Above all things remember that the mail order merchant gets his business and your business by advertising.

This mail merchandising can be met and defeated only when the local merchants advertise intelligently, do as they advertise, and make an honest effort.

Tell the people the candid difference between the quality of the goods you sell and those sold by the mail order houses, quote price, have but one price, and the mail order house will go out of business in your territory.

WHAT THE TEACHER MUST DO.

Aim to Produce "Pleasurable Excitement" in His Pupils.

Knowledge is good, but wisdom is better. The college valedictorian, trained to take knowledge in, rather than to impart it, may have much of it, with but little wisdom; he may be able, as a teacher, to drill boys and girls in Greek or Latin declensions, and cram them with facts, useful or useless; but if he cannot produce in them what Spencer calls "pleasurable excitement" and interest, he is a failure. His would be the sort of teaching that harps upon obedience and discipline, and endeavors by force of rule and rod to oblige the pupil to study and learn. The will cannot be forced, but the real teacher knows well that it can be led. He remembers the remark of Rousseau that "the teacher's province is less to instruct than to guide," that "he must not lay down precepts, but teach his pupils to discover them." This was the way of that great teacher, Agassiz, certainly.—Atlantic Monthly.

SLEEP PROMOTES LONG LIFE.

Sound and Refreshing Rest of the Greatest Importance.

A centenarian attributed his length of days as being mainly due to his capacity for sleeping soundly. It was not, he said, a question of long sleeping, for he rarely took more than six or seven hours. In this time or even less, he considers, a man can get all the rest he needs, provided his sleep is quiet and refreshing. In this connection it is worth notice that most long-lived people have been early risers, mainly as a result of their sleeping well. A fruitful cause of insomnia is found in the case of persons who, working late at night, shake off their fits of drowsiness, and by strong coffee or other stimulants endeavor to keep awake. In time nature exacts a terrible retribution for the defiance of her laws, and the offender at last finds that he has murdered sleep so effectually that only the use of narcotics will bring him rest.

Weird and Wonderful.

Weird and wonderful are some of the names which, in foreign tongues, stand for "bicycle." It is not so bad in Italian, where you will find it described as a velocifero and bicicletta, and in Spanish the rendering is much the same, but there all resemblance to our own word ceases. In Germany it is farrad or simply rad, just as in English we say wheel. The Chinese call it sometimes gaugma, which means foreign horse, and sometimes fel chai, flying machine. They also call it tzu tzu, carriage-that-goes-without-horse. But the palm must be given to the Flemish. In addition to the appellations snelwiel, voetwiel, etc., it also bears the centipede name cwielensnelrivoelttrappendneusdreker-geste!

While the Virus Works.

Gossip is a humming bird with eagle wings and a voice like a foghorn. It can be heard from Dan to Beersheba and has caused more trouble than all the ticks, fleas, mosquitoes, coyotes, grasshoppers, chinch bugs, rattlesnakes, sharks, sore toes, cyclones, earthquakes, blizzards, smallpox, yellow fever, gout and indigestion that this great United States has known or will know when the universe shuts up shop and begins the final invoice. In other words, it has got war and hell both backed up in the corner yelling for ice water.—Guernsey (Wyo.) Gazette.

SAW BRIGHT FUTURE FOR BOY.

Knew Enough to Improve His Mind in Odd Moments.

It so chanced that all the passengers that entered one of the elevators in a tall building were going above the sixth floor, so they had opportunity to glance at the book which the young elevator man had been reading, and which lay face up on his stool. He had been so intently reading it before starting with his passengers as to be almost abstracted, although very lively and handy with the actual work once the start was made.

"I'll bet that book is an Indian fighting blood-and-thunder," whispered one passenger to another he knew.

"No; he's too old for that—I'd say it was a thriller of a love romance."

"Or one of the six best sellers of the month," interjected a third.

Everybody was interested. All were "rubbering" at the book and when the group of passengers got out of the cage one deliberately stooped and looked at it.

NOT VIOLATION OF SCRIPTURE.

Clergyman Had Sufficient Reason for Urging Divorce.

One of the witnesses called in a Chicago divorce case last year was a highly respected clergyman in the Windy City. According to one of the counsel in the case, the following conversation took place between the judge and the minister. Said His Honor:

"Dr. Blank, if you were on the bench in my stead, and you were acquainted with all the circumstances of this case, would you grant this divorce?"

"Assuredly I would, Your Honor," replied the clergyman, without the least hesitation.

"But," said the judge, "how do you reconcile this assertion with the injunction of Scripture, 'Whom God hath joined let no man put asunder?'"

"Your Honor," responded the minister, with convincing gravity, "I am quite satisfied that the Almighty never joined this couple."—Harper's Weekly.

Composer Over Fond of Coffee.

The Italian composer Donizetti was accustomed to immerse himself in a room, with a quantity of music paper, pen and ink, and three or four coffee pots full of coffee. He began imbibing these when he began to write and continued until the supply was exhausted. Then he ordered in more, and when that was finished another supply. The amount of coffee which he drank was fabulous—yet he deemed it entirely necessary for his inspiration. As the result of such extraordinary habit the once handsome man contracted the yellow complexion which we are apt to associate with a Chinese or a Hindoo; his lips were generally jet black, his nervous system broke down, and this brought in its active train the premature decay of his faculties.

Played Golf Game at Night.

This is a description of a game of golf which was played in the Shetland islands one night this summer: "The first ball was driven from the tee at five minutes to 12 (midnight) and a full double round of eighteen holes was played, the match terminating at 2:30. The light was so good that the balls could easily be seen where they lay after having been driven well from the tee, and there was never any difficulty in finding them. Shortly after 12 o'clock the lark was heard in full song, and it was broad daylight by the time the match was finished. The experiment was such a success that it was repeated on several subsequent occasions."

Ungenerous Question.

The first slice of goose had been cut and the minister of the Zion church looked at it with as keen anticipation as was displayed in the faces round him.

"Dat's as fine a goose as I ever saw, Brudder Williams," he said to his host, "Where did you get such a fine one?"

"Well, now, Mistah Rawley," said the carver of the goose, with a sudden access of dignity, "when you preach a special good sermon, I never axes you where you got it. Seems to me dat's a trivial matter, anyway."—Youth's Companion.

Just a Delicate Hint.

Of the eminent Leipsic surgeon Prof. Thiersch the story is related that one day a man of his own town called on him and asked his advice as to finding a specialist to operate on him. After a brief pause the professor said: "If you want to travel you might go to Bergmann in Berlin, or if that is not far enough to Nussbaum in Munich or, farther still, to Billroth in Vienna. Then if you call on any of these and he asks you where you are from and you say 'Leipsic' he will retort: 'Oh, you blockhead! why didn't you go to Thiersch!'"

Settling Lemon Juice.

To keep lemon juice ready for use squeeze out the juice in the usual manner, strain free from pulp and pits, add white powdered sugar in the proportion of one pound to a pint of the juice, stir it until the sugar is quite dissolved, then put it away in very small bottles. Put a teaspoonful of salad oil in the top and cork it close. When wanted for use take out the cork carefully and take up the oil with a bit of cotton wool. To use for lemonade, add one large tablespoonful to a gill of water.
