A clatter of hoots followed, and investigation showed the store to be wrecked and pieces of the dynamite safe scattered for many feet about. H. S. Earle, state good roads commissioner, has taken a large slice of conceit out of Bay county stone road builders. For several years this county has spent much money on its stone road system, under a stone road board, and much bragging has been done as to the beauty of the system. Now Earle tells the board that Bay county is not entitled to the bonus offered by the state, because the roads are not up to the standard required. Many farmers have contended for years that the quality of stone used did not have the proper cementing qualities, or was not properly crushed, because it would grind into fine powder and blow away or wash into the ditches. Earle says the farmers were right. A belated effort will now be made to make good the four miles of new road recently built, to get the state bonus.

All of the officers of the navy stationed at headquarters in Washington gathered in a large room at the department Wednesday to witness the taking of the oath of office as assistant secretary of the navy by Truman H. Henry M. Rose was the only Michigan man, barring Mr. Newberry, who was present at the ceremony.

A rebearing was granted by the supreme court in the mandamus proceeding brought by the attorney-general to require the Wayne circuit judge to compel the Michigan Central Railway Co. to file a more specific bill of particulars in the $6,000,000 damage case against the state for the repeal of its special charter. The question was decided against the state on a previous hearing, but as the opinion was concurred in by only four judges the attorney-general requested a rebearing before the full bench.

CONVICT BECOMES UGLY, SLASHING A FELLOW VICIOUSLY.

REMUS SHAKEN BY DYNAMITE.

BAY COUNTY STONE ROADS NOT UP TO THE STANDARD, SAYS EARLE.

Mr. Newberry is Now Assistant Secretary of the Navy—The Big Railway Suit Coming Up Again.

Vicious Convict.

An ugly convict, in Jackson prison, Wm. Hennessey, found a rusty old shoe knife and with it he slashed convict John Kretling as he was passing Hennessey's cell at locking up time. The wound is across the breast in a jagged line and though not very deep it is feared blood poisoning may result because of the condition of the knife. There was no cause for the assault.

Hennessey was sent up from Monroe a few months ago for 15 years. Kretling was sent from Muskegon in 1900 for six and a half years for attempted murder and would soon have been released.

Hennessey has been placed in a dungeon, awaiting the result of Kretling's wounds before a determination of his punishment. Kretling is no worse, but is closely watched by the prison physician.

OTHER NEWS

THE CZAR HAS COME TO THE END OF HIS GREAT POWER.

AUTOCRAT OF RUSSIA NO MORE.

EMPEROR SURRENDERS AND COUNT WITTE IS NOW MINISTER PRESIDENT.

Right of Assembly, Freedom of the Press, Habeas Corpus and All the Rest Has Come to Long Suffering People.

The autocracy of the Romanoffs and the old order of things ceased to exist in Russia Monday night, Emperor Nicholas has surrendered and Count Witte comes into power as minister president, with an imperial mandate which will enable him to convert the farcical national assembly into a real legislative body elected by greatly extended suffrage and to confer upon the people fundamental civil liberties, including free speech.

These welcome tidings reached St. Petersburg shortly before 6 o'clock Monday evening. Count Witte had spent the day with the emperor at Peterhof, going over the final draft of the manifesto to which he insisted that certain minor modifications be made and before taking the train for St. Petersburg he telephoned to a friend that the emperor had affixed his signature and that the imperial mandate comprising the conditions upon which he had agreed to accept office was in his pocket.

These include freedom of the press, the right of assembly and the immunity of the person, including the right of habeas corpus.

An imperial manifesto was issued during the evening appointing Count Witte prime minister, with special authority to co-ordinate and unify the powers of the different branches of the administration. Civic liberties are granted to the Russian people and to the national assembly is given legislative powers while the suffrage is enlarged.

"I am sure the American people, who understand what freedom is, and the American press, which voices the wishes of the people, will rejoice with the friendly Russian nation at this moment, when the Russian people have received from his imperial majesty the promise and the guarantees of freedom, and will join in the hope that the Russian people will wisely aid in the realization of those liberties and co-operate with the government for their peaceful introduction. Only thus will it be possible to secure the full benefits of the freedom conferred upon the people."

Count Witte, Russia's first premier, sent the above message to the American people. He had just arrived at his residence on Kammenlovrov prospect from Peterhof, where in the Alexander palace, the emperor two hours before had given his final approval to a manifesto and to a program which will forever end the rule of absolutism exercised by him and his Romanoff ancestors for 300 years.

A simple perusal of the manifesto shows how complete is the emperor's abdication of his autocratic power.

The very style of the document is clear and direct and devoid of the verbose, vague and bombastic phraseology which heretofore has characterized his majesty's manifestos. It not only betrays real authority but shows that the emperor at last has irrevocably bowed to the inevitable.

He does not even conceal the fact that the discontent and agitation of his subjects have driven him to take this step and practically yields everything—civil liberty, the inviolability of person, and liberty of conscience, speech and assembly.

He not only converts the farcical imperial duma, with only consultative powers, into a true legislative assembly, without the assent of which no measure shall become law and before which all governmental authorities must answer, but promises eventually universal suffrage.

The title, "autocrat of all the Russias," with which the manifesto begins, now takes its place with the title of "King of Jerusalem," borne by the king of Spain and the emperor of Austria, and with other obsolete titles of European sovereigns.

Accidently Shot.

In June last Herman Wandrel, of Detroit, was shot and killed by the chief of police at Williston, N. D. Relatives of the dead man could secure no satisfactory information regarding the shooting, and through Judge Alfred J. Murphy appealed to Gov. Warner, who immediately asked the governor of North Dakota for the information.

Gov. Warner has received a copy of the testimony taken before the coroner's jury and the latter's verdict. It appears that the chief of police received a telegram informing him that Wandrel, who was wanted for some offense not named, was on a certain train. The chief met the train and, believing Wandrel to be a desperate character, drew his revolver, which was discharged. The jury returned a verdict of accidental shooting.

Seventeen girls, all under six years old, got hold of a bottle of poison in the absence of nurses at an orphan asylum in Burlington, Vt., and three died. They had been left at the institution while the 250 other inmates had been taken to an entertainment.

"LURE OF THE WILD."

Dillon Wallace, the American Explorer, is thought to be lost in the wilds of Labrador. Last spring he and Mrs. Leonidas Hubbard, both of New York, started on rival expeditions to carry on exploration work in far Labrador, in prosecution of which Leonidas Hubbard, formerly a well-known Detroit newspaper man, perished previously. A. R. Burgess, customs officer at Rigolette, Labrador, has reached Halifax and said:

"I believe Wallace's expedition is a failure and that possibly the members of his party may have met the fate that overtook poor Hubbard. On the other hand it seems as if Mrs. Hubbard and her party have reached their destination."

Burgess added that when he left Northwest river Indians had informed that Mrs. Hubbard was at Ungava Bay, 170 miles distant from the objective point of her expedition. They declared, however, that Wallace and his men were on the wrong track and that if they continued they would either be lost or come out on the seashore hundreds of miles away.

The New Battle Ships Are to Be Larger Than Ever—The Twenty Thousand Ton Mark Nearly Reached.

With practically a bankrupt treasury and a clash between Secretary Taft and Chairman Shonts, the Panama canal commission is confronted with a situation that makes a gloomy view of the outlook.

The fact that probably not a dollar will remain in the commission's hands by December 31, so it is said. On October 31 about $2,000,000 was on hand. The salaries of employes on the isthmus amount to $450,000 or more a month; contracts have been entered into for large sums and these, with other expenses, will wipe out by the last of the year the amount now on hand.

Almost immediately upon convening congress will be asked to meet promptly this condition by making an emergency appropriation of possibly $10,000,000 out of the original lump sum of $130,000,000 authorized for the canal work. The proposition to enact legislation so as to enable the issue of bonds may also come up at that time, but what the commission wants is action before congress takes its recess for the Christmas holidays. This, in all likelihood, it will not get.

The Insurance Companies.

Quo warrant proceedings were commenced in the circuit court in Akron, O., Saturday by prosecuting attorney Hagebarger on the advice of ex-Attorney General Monnett of Ohio, against the Mutual Life Insurance Co. and the New York Life Co. to oust them from the state by taking their franchises from them, on the ground that the companies have misused their powers for the last five years in violation of the laws of the state.

Thirty-three interrogatories are submitted to the companies to be answered. The appointment of receivers is asked for.

The receivers to be appointed are authorized by the petition to make all collections of premiums and funds due the companies in this state and to hold the same to be paid out as death benefits until the final hearing of the cases.

Monsters of the Deep.

Twenty thousand-ton battleships for the United States navy is a probability that may be realized in the next few years. Naval officers say they are sure to come and a step in this direction will be taken this winter by congress in the canceling of the authorization for 16,000 ton vessels, the Michigan and South Carolina and providing for 18,000 ton vessels. Work on these battleships has not begun so that no embarrassment will be involved to congress.

Germany Wants Trade.

Baron Speck von Sternburg, the German ambassador to the United States, who sailed for New York Oct. 25 from Bremen, said to a correspondent: "An idea, I suspect, is abroad in America that the changes in the German tariffs and the modifying agreements with other European countries were in some way directed against the United States, and that Germany desired to damage the trade of the United States. This, I am glad to say, was never a motive with the German government, and the proposals that are about to be made are designed to increase the exchanges between the two countries and not to contract them."

Stole $25,000.

A sum of money said to be $25,000, en route by express from Hamilton, Mont., to New York is missing. The Northern Pacific Express Company, through several detectives, is trying to discover what became of it. The money was shipped by Charles F. Kelley to N. H. Harris & Co. for investment. Instead of receiving the securities he had purchased, Kelley was dumfounded to receive a letter stating that contents of the package upon receipt by the New York firm consisted of newspaper clippings. The seals were intact, however.

Richard Hannibal, a negro bellboy, who died in Roosevelt hospital, New York, yesterday, is believed to have murdered Jacob H. Thompson, the New York editor, who was slain in his room in the St. James hotel several weeks ago. Hannibal was known to have plenty of money following the murder, and had a bad record. His throat was cut in a quarrel with a negro woman.

A silver trowel, after being consecrated in the New York Masonic temple, by Justice Lodge No. 753, has been started on a journey to every lodge in the United States.

New York city has 4,014,304 people, according to official census returns, a gain of 577,103 in five years. Manhattan's population is 2,112,697. Brooklyn's 1,858,891.

The operating knife dropped from the hand of Dr. J. W. Oswald, an eminent Chicago surgeon, Monday, while he was performing a serious operation in the Michael Reese hospital. It was handed back to him and again the nervous fingers could not guide the hold it. He understood, and turning to his assistants was assisted from the operating table. He is 42 years old and his condition is hopeless.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1905.

The Erie Railroad.

With the acquisition of the C. H. & D. and the Pere Marquette system, the Erie railroad, which was the first railroad in the country to reach from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic ocean, now becomes one of the chief trunk lines of the country. The seventy-seven minor roads which made up the old system of 2,552 miles, extends from New York on the east to Chicago on Lake Michigan, with terminals at Cleveland, Dunkirk and Buffalo on Lake Erie, Lake Ontario also being reached by way of its Rochester division.

The Erie's main line after leaving the center of New Jersey's manufacturing district passes through the thriving cities of Middletown, Binghamton, Elmira, Corning, Hornellsville and Jamestown in New York state, Cory and Meadville, Pa., Youngstown, Ravenna, Akron, Mansfield, Marion and Lima, Ohio; thence running through the rich agricultural district of Indiana to Chicago, and gaining entrance to Cincinnati by a line which passes by Urbana, Springfield, Dayton and Hamilton in the state of Ohio. Its lines reach both the anthracite and bituminous coal fields of northern Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the rich oil region of both Pennsylvania and Ohio yield it their revenue. Its lines also tap the rich grape and small fruit district about Keuka Lake in New York state and the almost equally productive grape district and the vast apple districts of Ohio. Between these two points lie the summer resorts which the Erie has helped so largely in making famous—Chautauqua Lake, Cambridge Springs, Saegertown and the greatest of American wonders, Niagara Falls and its picturesque gorge. Pittsburg is reached through traffic arrangements which gives it the shortest line between Cleveland and that city.

The Erie runs through one of the best manufacturing districts of the Central states and also a country rich in varied agricultural products. It also caps the richest dairy district, perhaps, in the United States—that of Orange and Sullivan counties, New York. How great its passenger has been is well shown by the fact that in the fiscal year just ended the number of passengers carried over its lines equalled the combined population of the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana. Its freight business is best shown, perhaps, by the statement that the tonnage last year exceeded the loading capacity of all sea-going vessels and Great Lake carriers in the world.

When united with the Great Central system, which taps the rich agricultural, mineral and timber regions of the states through which it runs, it gives those interested in its development a right to believe that this acquisition will make it one of the most important railroad systems of the country.

On the first of November the American Locomotive Company will deliver to the Erie railroad the sixteen new passenger engines of what is known as the 2510 type, the largest locomotives ever built exclusively for passenger service. This will complete the delivery of the 159 locomotives ordered for the Erie system for the year. With the rolling stock, box cars, refrigerator cars, gondolas and other equipment that was absolutely imperative for delivery before winter sets in, the Erie will have expended fifteen million dollars for locomotives and rolling stock orders for which within the past twelve months. This will give the road a better working equipment than it has ever had in its existence.

Something like eighteen million dollars has been appropriated and is now in course of expenditure in other improvements, which will put the Erie in as good physical condition as any railroad in the world. Of this amount ten million dollars will be required for what is known as the Erie & Jersey Railroad, which gives a freight track at a very low grade all the way between New York and Port Jervis. Work has already been begun on the mile long tunnel under Guyard hill between Middletown and Port Jervis, the contract for which was let some three months ago.

For machine shops, round houses, machinery and the equipment of the repair shops and tool houses, one million and a half is now being expended, and the greater part of the work will be completed before Jan. 1st next.

A round million has been expended this year in the erection of new bridges and the reconstruction and rebuilding of old ones. Two hundred thousand dollars is to be expended immediately

In increasing the facilities of the transfer houses and other equipment of the terminal yards at Marion, O., and Hammond, Ind.

Orders have just been placed with the Pressed Steel Car Company and the Standard Steel Car Company for 2,200 self-cleaning hopper gondolas to care for the steadily increasing coal traffic. Delivery of these cars will begin in January or February next.

School Notes.

Lost—a penny.
 Remember—Sophomore—when once a law is made it must be abided by. Thus the Faculty decreed.

"Northville"—well, that's a change from Fowlerville.

Another Hallowe'en party—at the home of Nellie Rooke.

One of our Sophomore girls has lately become cup-bearer to a senior girl.

We are glad to hear that the Physics class is improving.

Which would you rather have, a ring or a thimble?

Most classes Wednesday appeared as though a cyclone had gone through them as a result of late hours last night. There were scarcely any pupils but what were out. Miss May Smith entertained the Senior class, and Miss Bessie Hood also entertained a number of her friends, after which both sets went out on a genuine rampage and the town looked like Shenandoah valley during the civil war.

The football team added another victory to its list last Friday when it took the Pontiac high school team into camp, 11 to 6. The Plymouth boys played snappy and fast ball and played all around their opponents. McLaren, Cortrite and Spicer did good work for the locals, making big gains around the end and through the line.

Miss Hall exhibited some very artistic work done in crayon by Northville students, before the high school Wednesday.

On Friday the teachers will be given a holiday in order that they might visit some other schools that day. As a result there will be no school here and all the students are very sorry(?)

The next foot ball game will be next Saturday at Ypsilanti, when the local high school tackles the fast school team from that place. The next game on Athletic park will be Friday, November 10th, with the Northville town team.

All students not having classes the last period in the afternoon are now allowed to go home at that time, if they wish. However they may stay if they want to. Needless to say most of them go.

The German I class had the pleasure of a written lesson Wednesday afternoon.

And yet one more. The Senior class spent a delightful Hallowe'en eve at the home of Mae Smith. They fully realized all those legends, yes some almost equal to that of "Sleepy Hollow," when in a dimly lighted room such a weird story fell from the lips of one of their guests. And quite the most splendid of all was the dining room (not to say the table and its load), which was beautifully decorated with flowers and the Senior colors, emerald and white. It made them wish that Hallowe'en came oftener.

During the skirmishes Tuesday night several collisions occurred and as a result the hospital list has increased considerably.

Arthur Whipple of the Senior class visited friends in Northville Tuesday evening. For particulars inquire personally.

If you are looking for a stylish hat and low prices, Maude Pettengill's is the place to find it. Try and see for yourself.

P. H. Duffy of Ashley, Ill., writes, "This is to certify that I have taken two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure and it has helped me more than any other medicine. I tried many advertised remedies, but none of them gave me any relief. My druggist recommended Foley's Kidney Cure and it has cured me. Before commencing its use I was in such a shape that I could hardly get up when once down. Sold by The Wolverine Drug Co."

The meeting next week, Nov. 9, will be in charge of Mrs. Safford. Subject, Franchise. Current events will also be given. The attendance at the meeting last week was very cheering. Let us keep on in well doing.

Mayor Dunne on one day a short time ago revoked the licenses of fourteen saloons in Chicago, for which action he deserves the thanks of all good citizens. These saloons were among the worst of the many vile resorts included in the 7,200 licensed saloons of that city. Mayor Dunne and Chief of Police Collins are making some progress in "cleaning up" the city, but a city's morals are like a boy's hands, they need continual cleansing. If there were no saloons in our cities, there would be comparatively little need of "keeping on the lid."—Supt. Press.

Fire Alarm Signals

At a meeting of firemen, Oct. 23d, 1905, it was decided to adopt the following signal system for determining location of fires:
1. That portion of the village of Plymouth between P. M. railroad and Ann Arbor street, east of Main street, to be known as ward 1, signal to be given, after giving the alarm, by a pause and a single tap of bell or blast of whistle.
2. That portion of the village between P. M. railroad and Ann Arbor street, west of Main street, to be known as ward 2, signal to be given by two taps of bell or two blasts of whistle.
3. That portion of village south of Ann Arbor street, to be known as ward 3, signal to be three taps of bell or blasts of whistle.
4. That portion of village north of P. M. railroad, known as North Village, to be known as ward 4, signal to be four taps of bell or blasts of whistle.
Signal to be given after first ringing or whistling an alarm, to be followed by a pause and then single taps of bell or blasts of the whistle to correspond with the ward in which the fire is located. Signal should be given a number of times.

"Cub" Hudson was sentenced by Judge Fraser, of the circuit court, Tuesday, to serve not less than two and one half and not more than five years in the Jackson penitentiary. The charge against him was receiving stolen property, to which he pleaded guilty. The prosecution was unable to prove that Hudson had stolen the stuff from a freight car, or else his term of imprisonment would have been much heavier. With good behavior, Hudson will be back in about two years, we hope, to lead a more honest and reputable life.

"For the past five years, however, on the slightest sign of a cough or cold, I have taken Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which has saved me from serious lung trouble." His mother's death was a sad loss for Mr. Reid, but he learned that lung trouble must not be neglected, and how to cure it. Quick relief and cure for coughs and colds. The North Side

Mrs. J. Mills is very sick at this writing.
Curley Kimball and family of Northville have moved into Will Streng's house.
Chas. Miller has moved back to town and is again working for the Hamilton Rifle Co.
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sage and family spent Saturday and Sunday with his sister in Detroit.
Mrs. E. H. Tighe of Detroit is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Starkweather, this week.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gentz, Jr. of Detroit, visited their parents here Sunday.
Frank Shattuck returned from his trip to Chicago Tuesday, his mother stopping over at Grand Rapids for a visit with relatives there.
E. N. Passage and several others are in the Canadian Northwest. He writes from there that the weather is fine, but the river is frozen over, so it must be cold up there.

Will Springer and Miss Lillian Carson of Northville were married in Detroit on Tuesday. They will make their home in Plymouth, he being employed in Betty's shop.
Mrs. D. A. Jolliffe threw some kerosene oil in the stove in the store last Saturday, and then touched a match to it. As the usual result, she lost part of her hair and also burned her face and hands quite badly.
The boys carried away Wm. Gayde's delivery wagon Halloween night and left it in front of the park in the other end of the town. He says he does not care about their taking it nor did he care about going after it, but he would like the ones who broke the seat to call and settle for the repairing of it.
Mrs. E. M. Crane and daughter Pearl of Commerce are spending a few weeks with Mrs. Crane's daughter, Mrs. E. M. Gray, who had an operation last Sunday for cancer, performed by Drs. Henry of Northville and South Lyon. Mrs. Gray has the sympathy of her many friends and neighbors, with hopes of a speedy recovery.

A CARD.—The family of the late Mrs. Fredricka Trinkaus wish to extend their thanks to all neighbors and friends who assisted them during the sickness and after the death of their mother.

A Policeman's Testimony.
J. N. Patterson, night policeman of Nashua, Ia., writes, "Last winter I had a bad cold on my lungs and tried at least a half dozen advertised cough medicines and had treatment from two physicians without getting any benefit. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar and two thirds of a bottle cured me. I consider it the greatest cough and lung medicine in the world." Sold by The Wolverine Drug Co.

Consumption

There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.

From time immemorial the doctors prescribed cod liver oil for consumption. Of course the patient could not take it in its old form, hence it did very little good. They can take and tolerate it for a long time. There is no oil, not excepting butter, so easily digested and absorbed by the system as cod liver oil in the form of Scott's Emulsion, and that is the reason it is so helpful in consumption where its use must be continuous.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

THE MISSING MAN

CHAPTER XXI.

The Test.

A stillness so tense as to be almost painful succeeded the plaintiff's words, and the summons to admit the defendant while the plaintiff passed him on the way to the seclusion of the office.

Mr. Hamilton, for such he was, undoubtedly, whether the true or false claimant, was deeply moved, as was apparent to all when he stood in the witness-box before them all. His face was pale, his eyes were gleaming, his hands were tightly clenched.

All glances were riveted upon him with astonishment as he said in a strange tone, not waiting to be questioned at all:

"I will go to get it. I will go to get it."

Twice he said it, and then stood looking at vacancy rather than at the judge.

The judge directed that the counsel for both parties and the jurymen attend the defendant to his destination, if not too distant, and see the search take place. Meanwhile the court would adjourn until one o'clock. And His Honor went to dinner. The sheriff followed the thirteen, who filed down the street toward the bank building, no doubt the place to which the defendant was leading them. Tall, erect, impassive, he passed on as in a dream, never hesitating, never speaking, neither looking to the right nor to the left.

Thus he led them to the bank and up the steps. Pushing open the door, Mr. Morley explained their errand to the cashier.

"It is in the vault, the safe, the small drawer," said the defendant, and the cashier successively opened each receptacle except the drawer.

"I have no key to that," he said. "I have never been able to find it. The directors told me nothing was ever kept in it, because it was not accounted a safe receptacle, being poorly constructed."

and them, that he seemed familiar with all their past lives, while the other claimant did not. The testimony of these witnesses was very strong, and upon it the plaintiff's counsel relied much for the success of the case.

The last witness to be called was a man from Valparaiso, who testified to the fact that Ashley was known to him, and that he recognized the defendant as the man. The plaintiff had never seen but once before. He stated that he had been engaged in various nefarious undertakings with Ashley, who he knew to have been in Boston at the very date when the altered note was presented at the bank. That since then he had been converted under the auspices of the Salvation Army, and had seen in a newspaper the advertisement inserted by the plaintiff's counsel for information regarding the suit, and he had answered it in person.

When he left the witness-stand and the case closed for the plaintiff, there were many among the audience, and among the jurymen, too, if their faces did not belie their minds, who were more than half persuaded of the claims of the plaintiff.

Next day Mr. Ferguson spoke for upwards of an hour in an easy, graceful manner natural to him, and his outline of the case held the enrapt attention of every person in the court room that morning. There was little of labored argument, but starting with the supposition that his client was suffering a fraudulent attempt at ejection from his own premises, he proceeded to put the matter before the jurymen in this light. He said in substance something like the following:

"My client, who is none other than the true Vane Hamilton—as you can see for yourself, his looks fully corroborating my statement—returns after an absence of many months to his home. He has been in the habit of taking his yearly outings in May, as he is inclined to bilious difficulties and in the place of another, and to base this they are compelled to get up the absurd story of the twin brother. There is no twin brother, for he died in infancy.

"Ashley was visited next morning in jail by his wife. He denied that she was his wife, and she did not contradict him until afterward. Then she said that she was his wife. Ashley got clear on the plea of being insane, and was sent to the asylum. From there he escaped, was supposed to have been drowned, worked awhile at a mill, and then came to Grovedale, where he got employment in the mill here. He gave his name as Primus Edes, said he was never married, could not write; indeed, he appeared to be very illiterate. He worked as a common hand at the mill until he chanced to meet Mrs. Hamilton at church and fell violently in love with her.

"He began to persecute her with attentions, and finally won her interest by finding her little boy who wandered away to the woods and got lost. Mrs. Hamilton made him sundry presents and professed to think he resembled her husband. Ashley, alias Edes, began to learn to write, and learned astonishingly fast, writing the name Comstock over and over again. He purchased a violin and began to play. Ashley was a fine player, as we shall prove, and he was also well educated. Mr. Hamilton could not play at all. Neither was he an ingenious workman, Ashley was. Mrs. Hamilton put on mourning and had a monument made to erect to the memory of her husband. She often opened her window to listen to the strains of the violin played by Primus Edes, as she knew him.

"Then Mr. Hamilton returned with a straightforward story of loss of memory as the reason for his detention from home, and, very honorably, settled up the bank troubles, as he said; he could not absolutely affirm that he had not done what was alleged of him, for he knew nothing of his acts after he left Grovedale on the fifteenth of May. Mr. Carter and his children received him with open arms. Not so his wife. She preferred to doubt him. Mr. Hamilton took up his place in the mill and in the community, unchallenged by a soul except his wife. Reports were brought to him of her affection for the man known as Edes, but he paid no attention to them, except to call him to the office and warn him against being seen on his premises.

"In about a week afterwards Edes was shot there by some one unknown, probably by Edes himself, to awaken suspicion against Mr. Hamilton. He was ill for three or four weeks afterwards, and when he was partially recovered he professed to recollect that he was Hamilton instead of Edes. Mrs. Hamilton professed to believe his statement, or at least did not deny his claims. Proof would be offered that before his illness she wrote him a letter, calling him her dear husband, and signing herself Calla Lily, as she sometimes did in her letters to her friends, it being a pet name applied to her fair, stately beauty when a school-girl.

A New Definition.

Former Mayor Patrick Collins of Boston told this one as the Irish cab driver had narrated it to him in Dublin. Cabby took "a fare" out into the country one night. The gentleman paid him well, and told him to "look under the seat."

There cabby found a quart bottle of pure Irish whiskey, and he sampled it immediately. He also gave some to the horse, who seemed to like it. Telling the story cabby said:

"'Ather I'd been givin' av th' haste on'y foot or foive drinks he got gay; he did. Th' first thing Oi knowed Oi wor in th' shafts pullin' th' kee, an' th' haste wor up in th' sate laahin' me wid th' whip, makin' me pull hard an' dance."

"Well, what was the result?" inquired Mr. Collins.

"O'ive never give th' haste another drop fr'm that day till this."

"Yes, but what was the result that night? You were drunk, of course."

"O' wor not drunk, at all at all."

"Were you entirely sober?"

"No, O'ill not lie about it. O' wor not intirely sober."

"If neither drunk nor sober, what was your condition?"

"O' wor on th' defensive"—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Opera in Arkansas.

"See you had a comic opera here night before last," said the patent churn man, who had just come to town on one of his periodical visits.

"How was it? I notice the bills promised a great scenic production, and all that."

"P-s-s-s! Come here!" hissed the landlord of the tavern at Polkville, Ark. Hooking a forefinger through a buttonhole in his guest's raiment, he led the astonished man off from the porch, out across the yard and around behind the smokehouse, on paper—that's what they called it, on paper—a scenic production—but my wife (she ain't anywhere around within hearin') said—you know how women are, that-a-way, especially the best but kind o' skinny ones; wife, when she sees the chorps in tight—well, from the way she acted then and what she said to me 'most ever since, I s'p'ter surmise that she considered it as obscene production."—San Francisco Call.

LIVE BITTER LIVES

UNHAPPY EXILES WHO HAVE BETRAYED TRUSTS.

City of Honduras Has Colony of Ex-patriated Americans Living in Luxury Yet Haunted by the Knowledge of Their Disgrace—Afraid to Die.

In Tegucigalpa, a city in the Central American Republic of Honduras, there is a club of some 100 men who are known as the Non-suicides. They belong to this club because they should have killed themselves by all rules of shame, and did not have the nerve to put the finishing touches to their careers.

By the Pinkertons, who are perfectly acquainted with the members of this organization, it is called the Defaulter's club. Every member of it has at some time betrayed a financial trust, and every state in the Union is represented on its roll and most of the large cities. Ex-bank presidents, county treasurers, brokers, agents, municipal officers—all of the ex-respectabilities are there, and the life is a very bitter one, in spite of the money the wine and the gayety.

Among those who move and have their being as members of this club is W. R. Vice—Billy, as he was known when he was agent in San Francisco of the Union Pacific. Billy stole $8,000 and decamped with it in April, 1903. Then there's its last accession, Allan Howard, the broker, who left his wife and all the friends who trusted him and fled with $60,000 only a month ago.

Texas is represented by Seth Tracy, who left Houston with $50,000; New York is honored by having the former mayor of Little Falls there; there's G. H. Tripp of Hartford, rated in the Bradstreet of crookedness as worth $50,000; Frank H. Brown of Kentucky, is there with $280,000 of a bank's money; F. E. Webb, a famous bank forger, is also there, and the list would go down to the lowest criminal or the most insignificant, weak and foolish man whom a moment's temptation had slipped into the fear of punishment and exile.

Money enough, of course, there is. These men who have slipped away on night trains and fruit steamers did not go empty-handed. A tropical climate does not necessitate much expense, servants are cheap, and all these creatures of passion and avarice and sin live in a sort of luxury that makes honest folk occasionally give voice to envy. But the judgment of those who know Honduras and know this colony is, after all, the truest. "Billy" Vice and Seth Tracy and the rest may lounge on the veranda of their clubhouse, Vice in the uniform of the chief of police, servants may wait on them, and fine wines and choice cigars may make the hours pleasant. But those who know the inside shrug their shoulders and pass on with the assertion that these are all men "afraid to die."

Once in a while they do die—sometimes very suddenly and not according to Hoyle. But usually a man once there with his stealings simply keeps out of the sun, drinks his liquor and plays his games and goes by himself only when he has to.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Book of Memory.
My grandma has a curious book she often lets me see. When at the dusk I leave my play to sit upon her knee, I cannot touch the book at all, but shut my eyes up tight. While grandma tells the pictures, and I see these clear and bright.

I see the dear old farmhouse, where my grandma used to play. The barn, with all the cattle and the fragrant mows of hay. The past that grandma used to have, and all her queer old toys. And the little country schoolhouse, full of merry girls and boys.

And there are other pictures, too, which she says I must not see them now, but wait till by and by. But though she thinks they're far too sad to show to little me, she's sure they all look brighter when I'm sitting on her knee.

My grandma says I'm making now a book to be my own. And that I'll often look at it and smile. And then I'm sure the picture that I'll like the best to see will be myself sitting in the dusk on grandma's knee.

—Hannah G. Fernald.

Trouble Over Sunday Observance.
London had its troubles with Sunday closing laws when, in 1855, there were riots caused by Lord Robert Grosvenor's bill to put down Sunday trading. A crowd hostile to the measure went to Hyde Park "to see how the aristocrats kept the Sabbath," as a newspaper of that time put it. Carriages taking the afternoon drive were greeted with yells of "Go to church!" and with hooting that scared many horses into running away. A week later the police prohibited a meeting that was announced, but tens of thousands of people appeared, and there were vigorous struggles with the police. On the third Sunday pure rowdiness supervened; footmen were assaulted and windows were smashed wholesale through the aristocratic districts. Then the trouble died out, and so did the bill.

Pitched too High for the Choir.
A good many years ago, before the late Dan W. Palmer moved from Georgetown, East Boston, he was a choir member and played a musical instrument in the church at the former place. Some weeks after his removal the tenor singer of his old choir came up to visit him. The first question Dan asked him was how matters went in the choir.

"They don't go worth a cent," was the reply. "The new leader we've got pitches the tunes so high that you couldn't play the bass on a flea."—Boston Herald.

THE NEW AND OLD IN ENGLAND.

Strange Mixtures to Which Visitors Must Get Accustomed.

I was never an enemy of the confusion of the old and new in Europe when Italy was all Europe to me, and now in England it was distinctly a pleasure. It is something we must accept, whether we like it or not, and we had better like it. The pride of the old custodian of the Exeter Guildhall in the coil of hot water pipes heating the ancient edifice was quite as acceptable as his pride in the thirteenth century carvings of the oaken door and the oak-paneled walls, the portraits of the Princess Henrietta and Gen. Monk, and the swords bestowed upon the faithful city by Edward IV. and Henry VII. I warmed my chilly hands about the medieval facts, and even fly to that uttermost antiquity when the Roman Praetorium stood where the Guildhall stands now. Still, I was not so warm all over but that I was glad to shun the indoors inclemency to which we must have returned in the hotel, and to prolong our stay in the milder air outside by going a drive beyond the city into the charming country.—W. D. Howells, in Harper's.

A Teacher's Testimony.

Hinton, Ky., Oct. 30th.—(Special.)—It has long been claimed that Diabetes is incurable, but Mr. E. J. Thompson, teacher in the Hinton school, has pleasing evidence to the contrary. Mr. Thompson had Diabetes. He took Dodd's Kidney Pills and is cured. In a statement he makes regarding the cure Mr. Thompson says:

"I was troubled with my kidneys for more than two years and was treated by two of the best doctors in this part of the state. They claimed I had Diabetes and there was little to be done for me. Then I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and what they did for me was wonderful. It is entirely owing to Dodd's Kidney Pills that I am now enjoying good health."

Many doctors still maintain that Diabetes is incurable. But Diabetes is a kidney disease and the kidney disease that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure has yet to be discovered.

River of Genuine Ink.

Algeria has a river of genuine ink, caused by the joining of two streams, one of which comes from an iron river, while the second stream flows from a peat swamp. On meeting, the acid of one stream blends with the iron solution of the other, and ink is the result.

When Nuns Powdered.

The custom of powdering the hair dates back as far as the sixteenth century, and was first introduced by the nuns in French convents. Those who had occasion to leave the cloisters for any reason were wont to powder their hair, so as to make it appear gray and give them a venerable look. The fashionable dames were so struck with the novel effect of white powder on dark hair that they soon appropriated the device as one of the arts of the worldly toilet. Out of this grew the use of tints in the hair. The Roman women often used blue powder, and later, in 1860, Empress Eugenie set the fashion of using gold powder.

English Women Praise Sisters.

The Englishwoman may not unreasonably claim to be the best-looking woman in the world, says an English writer. Of course, she would not pretend for a moment that all the essentials of good looks are in her possession, but when she comes to think that the women of no other nation manage to give such general satisfaction as Englishwomen, they may, I think, confidently conclude that in them is combined the largest proportion of good looks, grace and fascination to be found in any daughter of Eve all the world over.

Important Subject.

How to manage self is an ever important subject, but how to use one's strength, when it is like the last flickering match in the damp forest, is the subject next to preparation for eternity.—Earl M. Pratt.

FUNNY

People Will Drink Coffee When It "Does Such Things."

"I began to use Postum because the old kind of coffee had so poisoned my whole system that I was on the point of breaking down, and the doctor warned me that I must quit it.

My chief ailment was nervousness and heart trouble. Any unexpected noise would cause me the most painful palpitation, make me faint and weak.

"I had heard of Postum and began to drink it when I left off the old coffee. It began to help me just as soon as the old effects of the other kind of coffee passed away. It did not stimulate me for a while, and then leave me weak and nervous as coffee used to do. Instead of that it built up my strength and supplied a constant vigor to my system which I can always rely on. It enables me to do the biggest kind of a day's work without getting tired. All the heart trouble, etc., has passed away.

"I give it freely to all my children, from the youngest to the oldest, and it keeps them all healthy and hearty." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in page.

You Have No Right to Suffer

From Constipation, Bowel and Stomach Trouble.

Q. What is the beginning of sickness?
A. Constipation.
Q. What is Constipation?
A. Failure of the bowels to carry off the waste matter which lies in the alimentary canal where it decays and poisons the entire system. Eventually the results are death under the name of some other disease. Note the deaths from typhoid fever and appendicitis, stomach and bowel trouble at the present time.

Q. What causes Constipation?
A. Neglect to respond to the call of nature promptly. Lack of exercise. Excessive brain work. Mental emotion and improper diet.

Q. What are the results of neglected Constipation?
A. Constipation causes more suffering than any other disease. It causes rheumatism, colds, fevers, stomach, bowel, kidney, lung and heart troubles, etc. It is the one disease that starts all others. Indigestion, dyspepsia, diarrhoea, loss of sleep and strength are its symptoms—piles, appendicitis and Asthma, are caused by Constipation. Its consequences are known to all physicians. Few sufferers realize their condition until it is too late. Women become confirmed invalids as a result of Constipation.

Q. Do physicians recognize this?
A. Yes. The first question your doctor asks you is "are you constipated?" That is the secret.

Q. Can it be cured?
A. Yes, with proper treatment. The common error is to resort to physic, such as pills, salts, mineral water, castor oil, injections, etc.; every one of which is injurious. They weaken and increase the malady. You know this by your own experience.

Q. What then should be done to cure it?
A. Get a bottle of Mull's Grape Tonic at once. Mull's Grape Tonic will positively cure Constipation and Stomach Trouble in the shortest space of time. No other remedy has before been known to cure Constipation positively and permanently.

Q. What is Mull's Grape Tonic?
A. It is a Compound with 60 per cent of the juice of Concord grapes. It exerts a peculiar strengthening, healing influence upon the intestines, so that they can do their work unaided. The process is gradual but sure. It is not a physic, but it cures Constipation, Dysentery, Stomach and Bowel Trouble. Having a rich, fruity grape flavor, it is pleasant to take. As a tonic it is unequalled, insuring the system against disease. It strengthens and builds up waste tissue.

Q. Where can Mull's Grape Tonic be had?
A. Your druggist sells it. The dollar bottle contains nearly three times the 50-cent size.

Good for Ailing Children and Nursing Mothers. A free bottle to all who have never used it because we know it will cure you.

That Bookish Look.

Trees in Berlin.

PARALYSIS CURED

Case Seemed Hopeless but Yielded to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mr. Kenney has actually escaped from the paralytic's fate to which he seemed a short time ago hopelessly doomed. The surprising report has been fully verified and some important details secured in a personal interview with the recent sufferer.

"The doctor," said Mr. Kenney, "told me that if I wanted to live any length of time I would have to give up work altogether, and he told my friends that the paralysis which had begun would in time involve my whole body."

"Just how were you affected at this time?" Mr. Kenney was asked.

"Well, I had first hot, and then cold and clammy feelings, and at times my body felt as if needles were being stuck into it. These sensations were followed by terrible pains, and again I would have no feeling at all, but a numbness would come over me, and I would not be able to move. The most agonizing tortures came from headaches and a pain in the spine.

"Night after night I could not get my natural sleep and my system was wrecked by the strain of torturing pains and the effect of the opiates I was forced to take to induce sleep. As I look back on the terrible suffering I endured during this period I often wonder how I retained my reason through it all.

"But relief came quickly when I was induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The very first box seemed to help me, and seven boxes made me entirely well. There can be no doubt about the effectiveness of my cure, for I have worked steadily ever since and that is nearly four years."

Mr. Kenney is at present employed by the Merrimac Hat Company and resides at 101 Aubin street, Amesbury, Mass. The remedy which he used with such satisfactory results, is sold by all druggists, or direct by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

"For my wife. Give it to her," and then fell prone upon the floor.

At this moment Tony Osborn came forward with a key. "I found it not long ago," he explained, "under the cover of the safe."

"Try it," said Mr. Morley, but the cashier handed it to the defendant, who inserted it in the lock.

The jurymen crowded forward to see what was in the drawer. Nothing, evidently, but a piece of tissue paper, which that paper contained the diamond stud.

Kid.
A flash, a gleam, and the defendant thrust it into the hands of Mr. Morley, instead of his own counsel's.

"For my wife. Give it to her," and then he fell prone on the floor.

Had he fainted? Was it a fit?

The doctor was called and pronounced it the fust, but he soon revived and was in a short time apparently as well as ever. He attended the afternoon session of court, and was the center of curious interest to all. Indeed, it was generally admitted that he had triumphed by leading the jurymen straight to the hiding place, though it could not be denied that the other claimant had indicated the place just as surely by his words. Strange that both should know what was a secret except to one of them and to Mrs. Hamilton! She seemed dazed by the circumstances, while a hopeless, dejected look settled over her countenance.

Tony Osborn's testimony was taken in the afternoon, and told against the defendant, since it was plainly made evident that he had distrusted him from the first.

"Mr. Osborn," said Mr. Morley, "have you any reason for believing that the claimant is not the true Vane Hamilton?"

"None, sir, except the color of his hair. He has stood every test I have applied to him. He knows all about the affairs that took place at the bank when we were there together; he seems to be the true Vane Hamilton as I know him."

Two witnesses testified that Solomon Marks had been seen by them near the mill on the day before the shooting of the plaintiff, and that he appeared to wish to avoid recognition.

Next several citizens of Grovedale were questioned, and they testified that they believed the plaintiff to be Vane Hamilton, for he had told them of many instances known only to himself

DRAWBACK TO THE ENJOYMENT.

Why "Artemus Ward" Preferred Not to Lecture in Churches.

In the early sixties of the last century "Artemus Ward" delivered one of his humorous lectures in the church at Bradford, N. H. There was a good-sized audience and he exerted all his powers to entertain them, but neither the humor of diction nor his quaint manner of delivery brought forth more than a sickly smile, where he was used to peals of laughter and round upon round of applause.

At the close of the lecture he sat down, utterly exhausted. First among those who came forward to speak with him was an old fellow, who shook him heartily by the hand and said:

"That was a fine discourse of yours, Mr. Browne, and in two or three places I almost forgot I was in the meeting house and certainly thought I should sneeze."

After this incident "Artemus Ward" would not lecture in church when other arrangements possibly be made.

"GOOD WILL AND GOOD HOPE."

Lesson of Life That Most Impressed the Late Senator Hoar.

In his autobiography that good old man, Senator Hoar, who went to his rest a few months ago, said:

"The lesson which I have learned in life, which is impressed on me daily, and more deeply as I grow old, is the lesson of Good Will and Good Hope. I believe that to-day is better than yesterday, and that to-morrow will be better than to-day. I believe that, in spite of so many errors and wrongs, and even crimes, my countrymen, of all classes, desire what is good and not what is evil."

These are golden words and they ought to be preserved by every man and woman who wants to keep on the bright side of life and to get the most out of the work.

Pessimism is a drain on vitality. It increases toil, makes harder all effort. Be cheerful! Be an optimist! —Baltimore Herald.

Strange Power in Carpets.

A taming of beauty may be a talisman forever, according to the Moors, whose celebrated carpets originated in magic to ward off the evil eye, dreaded along all the coasts of the Mediterranean. The designs, as studied by Dr. Westermarck, consist of hands, crosses, eyes, rosettes, squares, octagons, triangles, and numberless conventional embroidery patterns; and all are grouped around the one central idea, whose purpose is to throw back, by a counter charm, the evil influence emanating from the evil eye. This is usually done by stretching out the five fingers of the right hand. All these designs can be traced to some elaboration of fives, originally representing the five fingers, or of eyes, for if baneful energy can be transferred by the eye, obviously it can be thrown back by the eye.

MARRIED SPEECH OF SENATOR.

Telegrapher's Abbreviation That Destroyed all Eloquence.

The telegraph operators were spending their day "off" in a brisk walk through the country.

"You know our habit of abbreviating, or substituting short words for long ones?" said the Washington operator. "Well, this habit once did me harm."

Senator Grande had made a speech about education, and in wiring the speech out I substituted the short word 'kids' for the long word 'children', thinking that of course the operators or editors at the other end would have sense enough. In taking down the message, to substitute the long word for the short one. But they didn't, and Senator Grande's really eloquent and stately speech appeared in the next day's newspapers in this fashion:

"My friends, you will remember Wordsworth's profound saying, 'The kid is father to the man.' I need not dwell on the vital importance to the community of imparting a sound moral and secular education to kids in their impressionable years. The kids of this generation will be the fathers and mothers of the next. One said, 'Suffer little kids to come unto me,' and we should never forget that saying in behalf of all kids the world over."

REPROOF FOR BOTH OFFENDERS.

Cleverly Worded Rebuke Delivered by Scottish Divine.

A good instance of a double reproof occurred in a Scottish church. A lad named Merryweather was very inattentive during the service, greatly to the annoyance of the minister. His father always composed himself for a nap directly the sermon was well under way, so that the boy could do as he liked without paternal reproof. The minister could stand it no longer one Sunday, so he stopped suddenly in his sermon and said: "John Merryweather, if you continue to act in such an unseemly manner during divine worship I shall tell your father. I would tell him now, but he happens to be asleep." From that day Merryweather senior and junior were model listeners.—Dunfermline Advertiser.

Realized Horrors of War.

In 1866 the late Emperor of Germany wrote: "It is a shocking thing to ride over a battlefield, and it is impossible to describe the hideous mutilations which present themselves. War is really something frightful, and those who create it with a stroke of the pen, sitting at a green cloth table, little dream what horrors they are conjuring up." Bismarck once expressed himself to the same effect, and added: "Had it not been for me there would have been three great wars the less, the lives of 80,000 men would not have been sacrificed, and many parents, brothers, sisters and widows would not now be mourners. That, however, I have settled with my Maker!"

Objected to Police System.

Agitation in Tokyo over the police of that city reminds a London critic of the opposition to the establishment of London's metropolitan police, in September, 1829. Police to patrol the streets of London! Such a scheme was repugnant to the spirit of English law and to the theory of free government," according to an editorial in the Standard of the day. "As a system of clandestine intelligence the thing is complete." It went on: "The low constable is instructed to make himself acquainted with the inhabitants of every house within his beat. And how is this information to be obtained but by pumping of the servants?"

Why Tim Threw Up His Job.

Tim Fitzgerald was at one time employed at a pulp mill. It was his duty to handle the white birch sticks which were used at the mill, but, during the coldest weather of last winter Tim went to the foreman and said: "Well, I am going to give up my job."

"Why, Tim, you are foolish to do that, for you have been here for a great many years and get good wages," said the foreman.

This did not convince Tim, for he replied: "I am going to throw up my job, for I'll be burned if I am going to handle this cold, icy wood without any mittens."

Could Not Be Bailiff and Christian.

Percy A. Wynn of Wimbledon, England, has decided that the calling of a bailiff is inconsistent with a Christian life. Mr. Wynn arrived at his decision during the service at a Baptist chapel a few weeks ago. When the minister asked if there were any who wished to change his mode of life, Mr. Wynn rose in the gallery. He announced that he was a bailiff, that he had in that capacity to carry out many unpleasant duties and that he had determined, although it would cost him more than $1,000 a year, to give up the work.

Big Families in Britain.

John Gully, grandfather of the ex-speaker of the British House of Commons, had twenty-four children. A year or two ago a Northampton (England) shoemaker entered as his plea in the police court that he was the father of thirty-two children, of whom twenty-seven were living. Twenty years ago an English city boasted of a couple who were "the happy father and delighted mother of thirty-three children," ten of them being alive in 1890.
