NERVOUS DEBILITY CURED

Excesses and indiscretions are the cause of more nervous and suffering than all other diseases combined. We see the victims of vicious habits on every hand: the pallid, pinched face, dark circled eyes, stooping form, stunted development, baneful, melancholic countenance and timid bearing proclaim to all the world his folly and need to blight his existence. Our treatment positively cures all weak men by overcoming and removing the effects of former indiscretions and excesses. It stops all losses and drains and quickly restores the patient to what nature intended—a healthy and happy man with physical, mental and nerve powers complete.

For over 25 years Drs. K. & K. have treated with the greatest success all diseases of men and women. If you have any secret disease that is a worry and a menace to your health consult our expert Physicians who do not have to experiment on you.

We guarantee to cure Nervous Debility, Blood Diseases, Stricture, Venereal, Kidney and Bladder Diseases. Consultation free. If unable to call, write for a Question Blank for Home Treatment.

Drs. KENNEDY & KERGAN, 148 Shelby Street, Detroit, Mich.

Commissioner's Notice.

In the matter of the estate of Angelina E. Lund, deceased. We, the undersigned, having been appointed by the Probate Court for the county of Wayne, State of Michigan, examiners and accountants of all claims and demands of all persons against said deceased, do hereby give notice that we will meet at the office of P. W. Voelker, in the village of Plymouth, in said county, on Saturday, the fourteenth day of April, A. D. 1905, and on Saturday, the fifth day of July, A. D. 1905, at ten o'clock A. M. of each of said days, for the purpose of examining and adjusting said claims, and that six months after the fifth day of January, A. D. 1906, we are allowed by said Court for creditors to present their claims to us for examination and allowance.

Dated January 12, 1905.

Grace George at the Detroit.

For one week beginning Monday January 22, Grace George in the dramatized version of Mrs. Humphrey Ward's famous novel "The Marriage of William Ashe," will be the attraction at the Detroit Opera House, Detroit. The play was one of the dramatic sensations of the season in New York where it enjoyed a long and prosperous run at the Garrick Theatre. It was not only said to be the best presentation of a book play ever made in New York, but a most satisfactory and satisfying vehicle for the charming talents of Grace George. It comes to Detroit direct from a very successful engagement at the Illinois Theater, Chicago.

For its strongly sustained interest, its convincing air of reality, its delineations of character and passions, and its artistic development of plot, "The Marriage of William Ashe" is certainly a great achievement.

The central situation is the effect upon the political career of William Ashe of his marriage to Lady Kitty Bristol. Lady Kitty was the daughter of a certain notorious Lord Blackwater and a woman whose social gatherings were attended only by men. Lady Kitty grew up in a convent in Paris, and when William Ashe meets her she has just returned from France, and is still unacquainted with the social stigma attaching to her mother. Ashe's first feeling for her is one of pity, which, however, soon grows to something more as he falls under the influence of her piquant and contradictory personality, which is by turn childishly willful and childishly affectionate. He marries her, realizing her antecedents and the danger such a union may be to his career, but willing to take the risk of developing her nature by love and patience. On her side Lady Kitty's love for William is sincere, but she is too utterly a creature of impulse to be governed by anything beyond the whim of the moment. As time goes on, the wild extravagance of her actions, verging on insanity, increases rather than diminishes, and she not only alienates Ashe's friends, but jeopardizes his political advancement again and again. She even insults the Prime Minister and his wife repeatedly, and at last attacks them in an anonymous novel, which she is under the delusion will somehow redound to the glory of her husband and make up for all the harm she has done heretofore. Her relations with the poet Cliffe are from the first marked with the same ungovernable imprudence. Yet in spite of all, the strain of sweetness in her character and childlike candor hold the affection to the last, as they did that of her husband, and as the end draws near there is an overwhelming sense of pity at the inevitable fate of such a nature dashing itself to pieces against the rocks of its own passions.

Only secondary in interest to Lady Kitty is the development of William Ashe from a good-natured, easy-going young man of latent possibilities into a strong, serious-minded statesman. This is not a sudden leap nor a change to be accepted on the word of the author, but a gradual growth which slowly takes place.

The minor characters, Ashe's mother, Lady Tremore, the spiritual little Dean, the poet Cliffe, with his Byronic poses, and the self-righteous Mary Lyster, whom disappointment made so venomous, all stand out with the distinctness of living men and women whose actions are governed not by the whim of their creator, but by the compelling force of circumstances. Matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturday.

Masons throughout Michigan look forward with interest to the receipt of a trowel that has just been started from the New York City Masonic Temple on a trip that will take possibly ten years to complete. With the trowel the symbol to cement the brotherly love among Masonic fraternity, is a large register in which data are to be inscribed by lodges where the trowel is exhibited. Every lodge of Masons in the United States will receive the treasure. After the long trip is ended the trowel and its record will be placed in the archives of the grand lodge of the state of New York.

44 INDICTMENTS BY THE SHIAWASSEE GRAND JURY.

THIRTY-NINE SUPERVISORS AND FORMER SUPERVISORS CAUGHT IN THE DRAGNET.

SHERIFF AND FORMER SHERIFF CHARGED WITH PADDING PRISONERS' BOARD BILLS.

The Shiawassee grand jury, which has been in session at Owosso nearly seven weeks, returned 44 indictments, 39 of which are against supervisors and former supervisors during the building of the court house.

The indictments against the supervisors and ex-supervisors charge that they appropriated money (about $75,000, it is believed) in building the new courthouse, which had not been authorized by a vote of the people, according to law.

The people of Shiawassee county deem it particularly fortunate that Judge West held court at Owosso to the finish of the grand jury investigation.

The most that the majority of these supervisors are guilty of is that they arbitrarily voted away the people's money illegally, and it is a question if some of the new members were really acquainted with the law, and if they did not blindly follow the lead of the older members counting on their years of experience to guide them.

Besides appropriating money not voted by the people the supervisors are also charged with failure to take advantage of the clause in the builder's contract and collect $10 a day for 217 days beyond the time limit set for the completion of the building.

A Solemn Wedding.

Before her death at her home near Leslie, Mrs. T. V. Craig requested that her daughter, Hattie, and her affianced, George Higdon, be wedded beside her coffin, and that her son-in-law, Rev. O. P. Christian, of Eau Claire, Wis., officiate.

Full crews will be employed by the American Shipbuilding Co. at Bay City within two weeks, work now being rushed on the new buildings to replace the structures destroyed recently by fire.

Mrs. Jos. Banister, who lives southeast of Almont, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid. No reason is known, excepting destitution, circumstances. She leaves a husband and small child.

The manufacture of packing cases at the state prison, which has been conducted on state account as a means for the employment of prisoners, will be discontinued. The box shop has not been profitable.

Mrs. Sarah S. Foote, widow of the late Prof. E. M. Foote, formerly director of music at the Normal, at Ypsilanti, is dead. During the civil war Mrs. Foote was president of the Soldiers' Aid Society.

Charles Compton, who disappeared in the upper peninsula woods after cashing checks for fellow workmen, and who was thought to have met foul play, has been located at another lumber camp near Gladstone.

Because United States Express officials at Bay City refuse to tell who had consigned 900 pounds of underwear plekerel seized by Deputy Game Warden Trudell, the latter says he will cause the arrest of the officials.

For over a year past Battle Creek officers have been looking for Karl A. Beaumer, a tailor, who deserted his wife and two children and ran away with a woman of the town. Saturday he was captured in Champaign, Ill.

Henry Spring, of Grand Rapids, aged 75, pioneer merchant and philanthropist, died last night. He was president of the Spring Dry Goods Co., and had long been prominent in church, fraternal and political circles.

Austin Farwell and Glenn Eaton, while skating on Flint river, broke through the ice, and as they were alone they were compelled to break the ice to the shore before getting out. This took them over an hour and they were completely exhausted after reaching land.

The denunciation of public card parties by Rev. Charles A. Lippincott, of Flint, has fallen on stony ground, so far as the women of Flint are concerned. The prominent women's organization aimed at is going on with its plans for a series of public euchre parties for prizes.

LATE NEWS

BALFOUR DEFEATED BY THE LIBERALS BY 2,000 VOTES.

WINSTON CHURCHILL HAS BEEN MOST STRIKING PERSONALITY IN THE CAMPAIGN.

CHAMBERLIN ALONE SEEMS TO KEEP UP HIS SPIRITS IN SLUMP TO LIBERALS.

A London dispatch says: The defeat of Mr. Balfour, running on the Conservative ticket in the eastern division of Manchester, by the Liberal and free-trade candidate, Mr. Horridge, and the election of Winston Churchill, beside the announcement of Liberal successes in 16 other contests Saturday, not including four seats won by Labor candidates, is hailed by the Liberals as a clear proof of their assertion that the country is rallying against protection.

No individual politician in the kingdom has made such rapid strides toward a predominant position as has Winston Churchill during the last few months. It has been partly a matter of skillful stage management as in the dramatic publication last week of his brilliantly written life of his gifted father, and partly the effect of a forceful and magnetic personality which has captured the most trusted old Manchester merchants for the Liberal cause.

At Manchester Winston Churchill used all his influence against Mr. Balfour, as to the crucial issue of the campaign—a contradiction the late Lord Randolph (Churchill) could never have conceived as among the remotest political possibilities.

Wind Jamming.

It has been announced that 37 speeches are stored up for delivery in the house on the Philippine tariff bill, 25 on the Republican side and 12 held in leash by Democrats. Friday it was Rep. Longworth's turn to express to his associates opinions formed of the Filipinos from his visit to the colony last summer with the Taft party.

For one man not in favor of holding the Philippine Islands as a part of the United States a moment longer than we absolutely have to.

"To speed that moment I am in favor of this nation doing everything it can do to give them material benefit, to uplift them mentally and morally."

Gets Absolute Divorce.

The suit for divorce brought by Prince Philip of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha against his wife, Princess Louise, eldest daughter of King Leopold of Belgium, which has been before the court for many months, was concluded when the divorce court rendered a decision providing for an absolute divorce.

The princess accepts the decision. She receives a lump sum of $50,000 and $1,400 monthly from Prince Philip and will also receive an annuity of $10,000 from King Leopold. As a result of the granting of the decree the princess will in the future be known only as Princess Louise of Belgium.

Blames Dr. Osier.

On Dr. Osier, noted for his "old age suicide" theory, is placed the blame for 50 suicides in Cleveland last year. Out of 83 cases of self-destruction in the city during 1905, 50 of those who killed themselves were past the age of 40 years.

In commenting upon this fact, shown by the annual report of the health department for 1905, Health Officer Friedrich expressed the opinion that the agitation resulting from the announcement of the Osier theory was responsible for this condition.

The passengers on board the Baltic, just arrived in New York, were surprised to hear the wireless reports received enroute—namely, some practical joker wrote on the bulletin board that Thomas W. Lawson committed suicide. Tokio sent an ultimatum demanding Germany to remove her troops from China, and that Alice Roosevelt had eloped with a British army officer.

David B. Hill, the old-time stalwart of Democracy, surprised Albany by his haggard and worn-out appearance when he came from Wolfert's Roost to attend the Patrick hearing. The lines of his face are heavy, his cheeks and chin sag, his mustache is white and his eyes weak. He coughs frequently and his breath is short.

"I am not well," he said. "I cannot throw off this cold. I am going away and will stay all winter if necessary." He would not discuss his relations with the Equitable Life, which carried him on its pay roll, it is said, for $5,000 per year.

The supreme court of Mexico has declined to grant a stay of execution in the case of the three Americans, Maston, Richardson and Hart, charged with murdering people to secure their insurance. Executive clemency will now be asked.

The confirmation of the appointment of James W. Reynolds as secretary for New Mexico will be held up by President Roosevelt until charges against him are investigated. The charges are that when he was acting as governor he pardoned notorious criminals for political effect and manipulated his office so as to secure an enormous income.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Among the nominations sent to the senate was that of Capt. William S. Cowles, the president's brother-in-law, to be chief of the bureau of equipment of the navy department.

Senator Warner, of Missouri, characterized as "supremely ridiculous" his boom for the Republican nomination for president launched by Representative Barthold. He says he does not take it seriously himself nor did he believe anyone else does.

James Brown Scott, of California, professor of law at Columbia university, New York, has been appointed solicitor for the state department, to succeed Judge Penfield, resigned.

J. C. Napier, the negro lawyer and banker of Nashville, who was recently offered the position of United States consul at Bahia Brazil, called on the president and thanked him for the proposed appointment, but declined it.

President Roosevelt has declined to interfere with the findings of the court martial in the case of Lieut. Sidney S. Burbank, Sixth Infantry, recently sentenced in the Philippines to fifteen months' imprisonment and dismissal from the army. Burbank was convicted of deserting his Filipino wife who, some time ago, was granted a divorce and alimony.

PRESIDENT TOOK A HAND.

President Roosevelt himself having in a personal letter to the authorities challenged the power of the Force of Life Chemical Co. to raise the dead, to exert a mysterious control over disease and to restore the vital principles of life, an investigation was set on foot about a year ago which has resulted in secret service men taking charge of the company's affairs at 225 Broadway, New York, and the arrest of two of its officers.

The president of the corporation was Gen. James R. O'Beirne, one of the Republican leaders in New York city, for a long time special agent of the United States treasury, commissioner of immigration for the port of New York and commissioner of charities in that city.

The Force of Life concern for the last three or four years has maintained elaborate offices and at present has not less than 1,000,000 patients.

Speaker Cannon appeared in the house clad in his new suit of homespun hand woven jeans. The fabric was made from the wool of South Carolina sheep by an old woman who greatly admires the speaker, although she has never seen him. She made the gaiter through Rep. Allen, of South Carolina.

Michael J. Ryan, of Philadelphia, has cabled John E. Redmond at Dublin, to draw on him for $55,000, to be used by the Irish Parliamentary party in the interests of home rule. The money was raised by Philadelphia Irish-Americans and is the first to be sent from America to aid the new movement.

Ryan cabled this message: "God speed the coming of Ireland's self-government and give liberal England the courage to do justice."

Among the 13 cities whose gates are thrown open to the commerce of the world, by provisions of the recent Sino-Japanese treaty and as one of the fruits of the recent war which Japan shares with her sister nations, are Liao Yang, the city from which one of the bloodiest battles of the Manchurian campaign was named. Another principality is Fengwangcheng, where Kuroki fought the first decisive engagement after his crossing of the Yalu. The cities are distributed through three provinces.

John Wilson, a bachelor farmer, living near Buena Vista, Ind., was buried in the coffin which he made for himself in the last two days of his life. Feeling that death was approaching rapidly, he called a carpenter to his aid and constructed the coffin from wood which he had kept in his house forty years for the purpose. He then called in his neighbors and divided his money and farm among them, producing a chart of the farm to show how he wished the land to be divided. Death came a few hours later.

Rep. McCall, of Massachusetts, has introduced a bill providing for publicity in connection with all funds used in campaigns for the election of members of the house.

Sir Horace Plunkett, M. P., secretary of agriculture for Ireland, is in Washington to confer with Secretary Wilson and other officials of the department of agriculture regarding various problems of agriculture. An English law prohibits the growing of tobacco in Ireland, but through the efforts of Sir Horace the opportunity has been afforded to demonstrate the practicability of raising tobacco for commercial purposes in that country.

A LOCK CANAL

PRESIDENT WILL SEND MESSAGE TO CONGRESS FAVORING ONE.

SAVING OF TIME AND MONEY WILL BE THE REASON FOR CHOICE OF WATERWAY.

THE PRESIDENT OPENS ELECTRICAL DISPLAY AT THE COLISEUM IN CHICAGO.

President Favors Lock Canal.

President Roosevelt is preparing to send to congress a message which will favor a lock canal. He had conferences with several members of the senate committee on interoceanic canals, including Senators Kittredge, Knox, Dryden, Hopkins and Ankeny.

The committee had in its possession an advance copy of the report furnished by the president, for use in examining Chief Engineer Stevens when he appears before the committee at the opening of the investigation ordered by the senate.

This report contains the views of the consulting board as expressed before the foreign members left this country, together with the amendments that have been made since, and to which Gen. Davis is now getting their indorsement.

The message of the president will favor the construction of a lock canal on the ground that it is in the interest of the present generation and not for posterity, and that it can be built at less cost of time and money.

President Opens Show.

The first electrical exhibition ever held in Chicago was opened at the Coliseum by President Roosevelt, who pressed a button in Washington giving the signal for the doors to open.

Firms in every branch of electrical work, representing a total capitalization of $300,000,000, have displays in the hall. Besides the manufacturers, the technical schools of several western colleges are represented with exhibits.

Relieve for Patrick.

Albert T. Patrick, the New York lawyer convicted and awaiting execution in Sing Sing prison for the murder of William Marsh Rice in New York city in September, 1900, was relieved by Gov. Higgins until March 19— a space of 36 days.

This relieve is granted for the purpose of giving Patrick's counsel time to bring before a trial court alleged newly-discovered evidence. Its granting followed a hearing before the governor and was in accordance with the request of former Senator David B. Hill and Judge W. M. K. O'Connell, of counsel for Patrick, and with the full consent of District Attorney Jerome, who was present in person. Senator Hill came forth for the first time from his sick room, after an illness of more than two months, in order to attend the hearing, and addressed the governor at considerable length.

It was announced that the estate left by the late President Harper, of Chicago university, is small, and consists almost entirely of life insurance policies. It is estimated that Dr. Harper, during his life, gave between $25,000 and $50,000 to the American Institute of Sacred Literature, a publishing concern, in the work of which he was greatly interested. He also gave much money to needy students, but the amount of this will never be known. It is said that the entire estate is given to the widow without reserve.

Not For Roosevelt.

Theodore Roosevelt will not become president of the University of Chicago. The president never considered seriously the matter of becoming president of Harvard after his term of chief executive expired. It can be said definitely that after March 4, 1909, the field of his endeavor will not be university work. The thought of Theodore Roosevelt becoming head of the Rockefeller institution is inconceivable to his friends.

For Another Term.

Senator Russell A. Alger has finally made up his mind for once and all on the question of running for another term as United States senator. His health has much improved during the past few months, so that he feels about as well and active as he ever did. Consequently he made the decision that he will run.

Indiana Swept by Storm.

Dispatches from Indiana tell of several fatalities, many injuries and serious damage to buildings of all kinds as the result of a severe wind, rain and sleet storm, accompanied by lightning. In many instances the wind attained a velocity of 60 miles an hour.

Midshipman Minot Meriwether, Jr., of Louisiana, who attained much notoriety by engaging in a fist fight with Midshipman James R. Branch, in which the latter received fatal injuries, has been placed under arrest on the charge of hazing.

Tramps, wife-beaters and men convicted of not supporting their families in any of New Jersey's cities will be put to work on the public roads and works with a ball and chain on their ankles. This will act as a preventive of crime.

Magistrate Finn, in performing a marriage ceremony peculiar to the police in the Tombs court in New York, purposely omitted the word "obey" after looking over the bride. He said, "Oh, she looked big enough to lick two such fellows as him, and as he has promised to love and cherish her for life, I didn't think it fair to use 'obey'."

FRIDAY, JANUARY 19, 1906.

An Able Discourse.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather Monday evening, there was a large audience present at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, to listen to the address of Mr. Bicknell Young, C. S. B., of Chicago. The gentleman made a very good impression and clearly set forth his reasons for his belief in Christian Science work.

Mr. Young said in part: Christian Science may be defined as the science of all that relates to God, and is science not only in relation to healing, but as corrective in relation to all problems of existence. Accepted theories of religion and science have scoffed at the association of these words, but reason and logic show conclusively that science must relate to truth, and therefore to God, since God is the cause and basis of all that is true.

Christian Science does not proclaim a new God nor a new law, but comes declaring the same God and the same law that Jesus declared, the one infinite eternal God, who is good and his good and unchangeable law. Christian Science declares the omnipotence, omniscience and omnipresence of God as do all other denominations, and upon that basis shows that evil has no power, knowledge nor presence; in other words, that it is unreal.

Christian Science never ascribes evil to God or makes him in any way responsible for it, but shows that evil originates in a belief of material existence entirely apart from God, and unsupported by science or truth. Of all people, Christian Scientists believe most absolutely in Christ. They accept the teachings of Christ Jesus without reservation. They declare that His command to heal the sick is as binding as that to preach the gospel, and that there is no evidence that it was intended for His time only. It was scientific religion that healed the sick in the time of Jesus and his disciples, and it does the same work now, and must always do it, since his life and work were an example for all time, and his method was a universal and imperishable heritage of man.

WHAT CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MEANS.
The steps of salvation in Christian Science are not unusual. As in other denominations they involve the admission of conviction of sin, sorrow for wrong doing, or repentance, and reformation manifested in a corrected life. Salvation in Christian Science, however, includes exemption from sickness, want and woe, as well as from sin. It is not contingent upon death, but is a way of life, a way of righteousness. Christian Science is founded upon the Bible. The Christian Science text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, is a commentary upon the Bible. Other denominations have commentaries, but no other book in the world has ever accomplished as much as this one. Thousands of people have testified that they have been healed, some of them of so-called incurable diseases, through the perusal of this book. In some instances this testimony has been given in courts of law, and has not in the least shaken by cross-examination. Many of these cases involved the most terrible diseases known to mankind, such as cancer, tuberculosis, locomotor ataxia, and in other instances such diseases as asthma, hay fever, St. Vitus' dance and others.

It is erroneous to suppose that Christian Scientists deny the reality of things. They affirm the eternal existence of all things, and that they exist in the divine mind in their perfect individuality and proper order. They deny the materiality of things, including all the discordant conditions that material things manifest.

NO QUARREL WITH DOCTORS.
Christian Scientists are in no wise arrayed against those who believe in materia medica. They were all believers in it themselves until they found in Christian Science a more efficacious way of healing. This way they believe to be the very best one, because it is God's way as shown in the works of Jesus. Although charitable disposition toward those who practice materia medica, we, in common with all well informed people, recognize the fact that it is merely an experimental system. Surely after four thousand years it ought to be beyond this stage. Furthermore, it is a self-confessed condition of weakness that combinations of medical societies and the medical fraternity generally should come before our legislatures demanding special legislation; the tendency of which is almost invariably to shut out all other systems. Nor can any valid excuse be given, as far as Christian Science is concerned, on the ground of protection to the public, since Christian Scientists do not advertise nor sanction quackery, and they believe in obeying the regulations of health boards in relation to contagious and other diseases.

HOW DISEASE IS CURED.
Those who believe that mentality plays some part in disease and its cure generally look in the wrong direction, and say that the cures of Christian Science are effected by mental suggestion, hypnotism, will power, mental science, which is spurious and not related to Christian Science, or to some other erroneous or material belief. Christian Scientists, however, declare that it is God who heals diseases through Christian Science, and they of all people know best.

THE DISCOVERER AND FOUNDER.
We scarcely dare to think what the world would have been had not there appeared from time to time a man or woman good enough and great enough to be touched by eternal truth, and brave and self-sacrificing enough to stand for it. Mrs. Eddy discerned and proclaimed to the world the God given freedom of the race from all sickness, sin, want and woe. She revealed the science by which men may begin to realize that freedom and enter upon their heritage of dominion over evil. Some time this knowledge had to come. According to the promise of Jesus, it was to be the spirit of truth, the Comforter leading into all truth. Some one had to be good and pure above all others in order to perceive it. Any great discovery along a given line is always made by one whose thoughts, desires and studies are reaching beyond those of other people.

That Christian Science has a place in the world's thought to-day is due entirely to Mrs. Eddy. There was a time when she stood absolutely alone with God, and incurred the ridicule of ignorance and the hostility of theological forms of religion and material modes of medicine because of her discovery of Christian Science. Today the whole world is uplifted by her teachings and example, and because of it; human thought is rising somewhat from the depths of gross materialism. These are the simple facts. I should consider it presumptuous to praise Mrs. Eddy. A character touched by the deepest humility and illumined with love to God and compassion for man is Christ-like; it needs no eulogy. Her life is an open book wherein are recorded only good deeds. The signs of these times are prophetic. They point to the gratitude to God that is appearing in the hearts of men for the life and works of the leader of this great movement, destined as it is to accomplish the regeneration of mankind.

Dr. Tillapaugh has sold his business to Dr. Edward Huber, of Iosco. Dr. Tillapaugh expects to remove to New York state.

Friends of Mrs. E. S. Roe, who is spending the winter at Ashville, N. C., are pleased to learn that her health is improving.

The street light at Allen's corners has not been lighted since Christmas, and the residents in that vicinity are very much put out over the seemingly unnecessary long delay in getting repairs or a new lamp.

E. L. Riggs, the Plymouth hustler, is advertising in a most conspicuous way on the last page of this paper a big quarter off sale on all goods in the store. E. L. says he is bound to have business, even at a financial loss to himself. Get next to the prices and supply your wants at once.

At a meeting of State Democratic leaders in Detroit last Tuesday it was decided to adopt the primary election plan for the nomination of all officers under that law. The opinion seemed to be that W. N. Ferris would be the leading candidate for Governor.

W. O. Stewart, while operating a buffing machine in the Daisy shop yesterday afternoon was struck in the breast by a large cake of soap, used in the operation, and knocked a distance of ten feet. Aside from the shock he was not seriously hurt.

Gen. Alger announced last Tuesday he would again be a candidate for Senator to succeed himself, his health being now in comparatively good state. It is not believed that Arthur Hill of Saginaw or W. C. McMillan will withdraw from the race. A three-cornered fight will result in Alger's favor.

Main Provisions of the Primary Law.

The new primary election law will have to be studied closely in order to avoid mistaken notions regarding it. At the spring election next April, at every polling place there will be a registration which will give every voter an opportunity to qualify himself to attend a caucus. Here are the main provisions of the new law:

1. Every voter must at the time of voting, register his name as a member of some party—Democratic, Republican, Prohibition, Populist, etc.
2. No registration can occur after that for two years, except new votes.
3. If he does not register he cannot take part in any caucus.
4. If he registers as a Republican he cannot go into the caucus of any other party for two years, because when he offers to vote at a primary he will be given a party ticket of the party with which he enrolled. Of course at the election he can vote as he chooses.
5. No voter except one who has enrolled and selected his party can vote at any caucus, and if he does not enroll next April and choose his party he can not attend a caucus at all.

The men who enroll next April in each party will be the ones to control the nomination for two years to come. The new law is not applicable to Wayne county so far as county officers are concerned, this county already having a primary law providing for their nomination.

May Live 100 Years.
The chances for living a full century are excellent in the case of Mrs. Jennie Duncan of Haynesville, Me., now 70 years old. She writes: "Electric Bitters cured me of Chronic dyspepsia of 20 years standing, and made me feel as well and strong as a young girl." Electric Bitters cure stomach and liver diseases, blood disorders, general debility and bodily weakness. Sold on a guarantee at The Wolverine Drug Co's and John L. Gale's. Price only 50c.

In Italy.

The Italian country editor stepped to the case and put the following in type: "A returned banana peddler, who made a fortune in America and is said to be worth at least $300, entered a tavern recently and knocked down one of the attendants because he did not black his boots quick enough. When remonstrated with by the landlord, he swelled up pompously, drew a large roll of money from his purse and asked the landlord what the tavern was worth. The actions of these vulgar rich are becoming almost unbearable."—Detroit News.

Lighting Streets of Old London.

In 1716 The London common council thought itself most public-spirited in passing an act by which "all house-keepers whose house, door or gateway fronts or lies next to any street, lane or public passage or place of the said city, shall in every dark night, that is, every night between the second night after each full moon and the seventh night after each new moon, set or hang out one or more lights, with sufficient cotton wicks, on penalty of 1 shilling."

Earth the Best Fortification.

Military engineers are practically unanimous in acknowledging that for fortification no material is better than earth. In places where clay is not obtainable, as on the sea-shore, sand is collected into bags, and these are used to build up defences. In such a fortification the shots from the enemy's guns sink without doing damage, while shells explode harmlessly.

A Modern Miracle.
"Truly miraculous was the recovery of Mrs. Mollie Hill of this place," writes J. O. R. Hooper, Woodford, Tenn., "she was so wasted by coughing up phlegm from her lungs. Doctors declared her end so near that her family had watched by her bedside forty-eight hours when at an urgent request Dr. King's New Discovery was given her, with the result that the inflammation began and continued until she was able to get up and walk. She writes: 'I feel as well as ever, and my cough is gone.'" people in this community.

Negotiations are progressing favorably with the railroad company in which the village will furnish water for the railroad at an annual rental of about $700. Councilman McLaren figures that if the deal goes through, together with electric lights, within the next four years the revenue derived from water and lights will come pretty close to paying all expenses of the village.

Satisfactory Showing.

The Home Mutual Insurance Company of Wayne, Oakland and McComb counties held its annual meeting in Farmington last Tuesday. The secretary reported 423 members, with policies aggregating $730,000. The losses for the past year were only $60, but as there was some other indebtedness an assessment of 50 cents on $1,000 was ordered levied. The average assessment for the past seven years is about $1.30.

New officers were elected as follows:
President, F. M. Warner; secretary,
A. J. Crosby; treasurer, Carl F. Hatten.
Directors—Geo. W. Power, Hudson
Wilcox, Chas. Ely, John Power, John E. Wilcox and A. M. Bosworth.

Their 25th Anniversary.

One of the most delightful events of the social season was the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs.
Charles Hyder celebrated at their home on Tuesday, Jan. 9th. The dining-room was tastefully decorated in festoons of red and holiday bells. Dinner was served at midday to about 90 guests.

Among those present from a distance were Mrs. Arthur Paetullo, Covington, Ky., Mrs. Anna George, Ypsilanti, Mrs. John Ryder, Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Ryder, Salem, Mrs. Coleman,
Inkster, Mrs. Smith and Rev. J. B.
Oliver, Dearborn, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Smith, Wixom, Miss Emma Johns, Detroit, also many friends and relatives from Plymouth and Beech and their own town and vicinity being well represented. Many beautiful silver gifts were received. The guests departed, wishing them many more years of wedded happiness.—B.

The Rebekahs held a very successful meeting last Friday evening installing all the officers except treasur-

The receipts for electric lights for the month of December were $276. It is estimated that the extra expense of giving all night service is about 60 cents per night, aside from salary, which is increased by $10 per month.
It is believed the lights used all night more than pays the extra expense and when the railroad company uses the service, which it will in all probability soon, the total revenue will be materially increased.

Rev. T. B. Leith tendered his resignation as pastor of the Plymouth Presbyterian church to his congregation last Sunday morning to take effect March 1st. The resignation will be acted upon by the Presbytery. Rev.

After an illness of about three years from hemorrhage of the lungs, Edward Teesman died at the residence of his sister, Mrs. L. C. Hassinger, in Detroit, January 11th, aged 31 years.
The funeral was held at above residence Saturday and the remains brought to Plymouth on the afternoon train, for interment in the family lot in north village cemetery, Rev.
Bennett officiating. Deceased was born in this village March 19, 1874, and lived here the most of his life up to about four years ago when he went to Detroit. The Burrows Adding Machine Co. employes, where deceased was employed, manifested their regard for him, by sending a beautiful floral offering.

Another Standard Timer.

Editor Plymouth Mail:

I have been much interested in the articles on standard time recently published in the Mail, and although not a public writer, just a housekeeper, I want to protest against being classed with those who cannot get their work done on standard time. I find I can manage my work better, accomplish more and seem to have more leisure time on standard time than on sun time. I fully endorse every word of "A Standard Timer's" article and would add one more very potent reason why we should adopt standard time, viz: because it is now recognized as the legal time of the State. When our friends from other towns visit us and inquire about the time of trains, street cars, etc., and we say, "Oh, but our time is sun time!" they mentally dub us as mossbacks. And the same should we go to the city and give the time of day by our watch, followed by the trite remark, "but I have sun time," we may rest assured our hearers would immediately set us down as from some back region where standard time was not in use. The complaint of the men against standard time (and it is the men mostly) as far as I have heard, seems to be that it cuts their day time at home short. To those I would say:
"The very best way to lengthen the day,
is to steal a few hours from the night away."

CHAPTER VIII.

Through Flame and Smoke. It was the fatal day of Atlanta's fall. The Federal forces had surrounded the city but nothing was left to the Southern army but a farther retreat.

Never to be forgotten were the scenes that marked the departure of the brave men who had battled against superior numbers with a valor the equal of which history has seldom chronicled.

Soon smoke arose in many quarters. Here the retiring Confederates put the torch to huge piles of cotton rather than have it fall into the hands of the victorious Federals. In other quarters houses could be seen ablaze, perhaps fired by one of the numerous bands of guerrillas that haunted the course of the rival armies.

Through copse and over hill a Squadron of Federal cavalry dashed, heading for the region where we have witnessed these strange scenes on the previous night. At their head rode Colonel John and near him the sergeant.

"The house is on fire, kurnel!" cried the latter, as they rounded a bend in the wood.

Flames burst from many windows and his ancestral home was doomed. Perhaps Crockett Ridgeway, determined to ruin if he could not rule, had applied the match.

A headlong rush was made, Colonel John threw himself from his horse, determined to risk much in order to save the papers. One sweeping glance he took, and then dashed into the hallway.

At this very moment a cry was heard—a cry that might have been of distress and came in a woman's voice, reaching John's ears while he was battling with stifling smoke.

There was no time for John Ridgeway to consider the matter, for he found himself compelled to buffet billows of smoke on his way to the well-remembered dining-room, where the found himself at the door of a small room.

It was closed. When he tried to open it he found himself baffled.

Then he shook the door savagely. "Open—open!" he shouted.

"I cannot—I am locked in, a prisoner," came indistinctly from beyond the door, for the flames were roaring and crackling with the fury of demons. John threw his weight against the door.

It was not a cumbersome affair and when one who possessed such strength as nature had given to John Ridgeway beat upon it with desperate energy, something was bound to give way.

Thus he entered a room filled with smoke, entered it to find no one at the window, for the girl prisoner had sunk down in a heap.

Seeing that she was too exhausted to follow him, he immediately swept her form into his arms and turned to retreat.

Just as he expected his retreat was cut off, for the flames seemed to have followed him, and already the passage-way was a roaring abyss.

Having already made up his mind as to what he should do John roved along to the short ladder that went to the roof.

Here was a scuttle which he burst through and gained the open air with his burden.

The whole east end of the building was already in the grasp of the fiery octopus and a west wind blowing was all that saved him from being suffocated on the roof.

As his only means of escape lay in the extreme west end of the house, it was in that direction John bore his half-fainting burden.

Reaching the end of the roof he looked down.

Through the eddying smoke that curled around the corners of the house he could see that the ladder was coming, that it would speedily be placed in position.

dier who, at the risk of his own life, had snatched her from what threatened to be her funeral pyre.

"Pardon me, again, if I say I don't fully believe that: but it does not matter at all. I am curious to know how you came to be fastened in that attic room, a place where, as a boy, I spent many an hour in play, and even once escaped doing penance up there by following the same route over which our line of retreat ran. How came that door locked?"

She looked at him curiously.

"What right have you to demand an answer?"

"The best right in the world—that of a husband."

"I refuse to acknowledge the relation, sir."

"Just as you please. Then I have a right to ask the same question because my life was put in peril to save you."

"On that account I will answer you. It was a strange thing for me to do. I had not been over here for a year or more, though we keep the keys of the Ridgeway house. Perhaps the mention of your name last night stirred up some memories of pleasant ramblings in these grounds in years gone by."

"At any rate I came, and having entered the house roamed all over it. A flood of memories swept over me as I went from room to room."

"Suddenly I heard voices—looking out of the window I saw unknown men dismounting. I became alarmed."

"Escape was no longer a possibility, and I retreated to that small room, hoping they would look for valuables and go away without discovering me."

"My hopes were without foundation for I was seen by a man who came seeking some hidden wealth or valuable property. I have in these troublesome times always gone armed, and my father taught me as a girl how to shoot."

"When he would have seized me I put a bullet in his shoulder that sent him tumbling down the attic stairs. Then I slammed the door shut. It caught in some way, for I could not open it again when I discovered the house to be on fire. That is the story in brief, sir. You have no concern with other particulars."

He knew there was more to it, yet would not presume to ask questions.

This naughty girl aroused his interest—just as the hunter's keenest enthusiasm is awakened by the game that gives him the most trouble, so this man who all his life had fought shy of the gentler sex had met his fate in a way never known of men—forced to wed to save his life, hated by the girl who took his name in order to save the old plantation home, he now found himself actually swearing under his breath, that in due time, sooner or later, he would hear from the lips of Mollie Granger the sweet confession of love.

Thus, her very expression of dislike only served to arouse his determination.

"Allow me the privilege of seeing you home," he said, courteously, but firmly.

She opened her lips to refuse. "I shall go whether you say yes or no, so please don't put yourself to the trouble. Your nerves have received a shock from this experience. Besides, the smoke has served to disguise you, so that the lady of Granger plantation might not be recognized. Just now the safest place for you is at home. Your shrewd father has seen to it that a guard will be thrown around his grounds. Come, let us go, Miss Mollie."

He gave a few orders to his men who mounted and went around by the main road.

The two made use of the shorter path. In the dividing fence was a turnstile that had seen much service in years gone by, but was decrepit from age now.

ESCAPE SEEMED LIKE MIRACLE.

Engineer Rode on a Boiler That Exploded Under Him.

It will be a long time before Timothy Ardwheel will have another such ride as he had not long ago, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press.

He is an engineer in the Benbow & Co. sawmill at Bidley Lake, in Le Sueur county, and was engaged in making some repairs in the mill when the boiler blew up. He was sitting on a box on top of the boiler, and had hold with both hands on one of the pipes at the time of the explosion.

The boiler, which is a large one, flew out endways through the side of the engine house and curved up gracefully into the air. Ardwheel was protected by being behind the steam dome, and so was not injured when he went through the side of the engine house. Hanging on desperately, he continued to ride the huge projectile in its flight. Fifty feet farther on it turned sidewise, and, bottom first, struck and crashed entirely through a large warehouse. Ardwheel coming through the wreckage still uninjured.

On the other side of the warehouse is a deep lake, and into this and to the bottom of it went Ardwheel's iron balloon, followed by its unfortunate rider. A few seconds later Ardwheel rose to the surface and swam ashore, somewhat surprised and dazed, but not at all harmed.

The Auto Guarantee. "My brother bought an automobile here last week," said an angry man to the salesman who stepped up to greet him, "and he says you told him if anything broke you'd supply a new part."

"Certainly," said the clerk, "what does he want?"

"He wants two detold muscles, a couple of knee-pans, one elbow and about half a yard of cuticle," said the man, "and he wants 'em right awart!"

ANCIENT BEDS TOO SUMPTUOUS.

Beautiful and Imposing They Were, But Not Comfortable.

In olden times beds were very sumptuous articles of furniture, and the gift of one in a will represented in many cases a large sum of money, the bedstead with its fittings frequently having cost several hundred pounds.

In Elizabeth's time and earlier, bedsteads were imposing creations of oak, richly carved in all manner of quaint device, with, perhaps, a grinning satyr peering from behind a pillar, sufficiently grotesque to murder the slumbers of the most somnolent. Those were the days, too, of heavy silken hangings, valances and quilts, all richly embroidered in silk and gold and silver thread with heavy bullion fringes to add weight and majesty. Such beds may be seen in some of the valuable collections at the museums and at English country seats, such as Warwick castle and other notable old places. To modern eyes they compare very unfavorably, despite their intrinsic value, with the simple, dainty beds of modern times.

Sabers for the Savages.

It appears that the discarded military sabers of Europe find their way to Germany. Thence they are distributed all over the world—to the savage tribes of Africa, to Arabian rebels in Yemen, even to Russian revolutionists. One German firm bought in one lot 20,000 condemned French sabers.

Don't Wait.

Hanna, Wyo., Jan. 15th (Special)—Delays are dangerous. Don't wait until all the awful symptoms of Kidney Disease develop in your system, and your physician shakes his head gravely as he diagnoses your case. If you suspect your kidneys, turn at once to the great Kidney Specific—Dodd's Kidney Pills. You can do so with every confidence. A few of Dodd's Kidney Pills taken in time have saved many a life. The early symptoms of Kidney Disorder may be the forerunners of Bright's Disease, Diabetes and Dropsy. Dr. W. H. Jeffries, a resident here, tells below how he treated an attack of Kidney Trouble. He says:—

"Before I commenced taking Dodd's Kidney Pills, I had always a tired feeling every morning when I got out of my bed, and my kidneys were in very bad shape. There was always a dull heavy pain across my loins, and I had hard work to stoop. I took two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, the tired feeling and back pains have entirely gone, and I am now cured."

Arctic Expedition Amusements.

In the British arctic expedition of 1875 one of the chaplains had a file of the London Times twenty years old containing the Crimean war reports. One copy was given out to each ship daily; the officers had it first, then it went to the fore-cabin, and soon every one was as keen about the news as if the war had been proceeding. The clergyman in control of the press was besought to issue an evening edition, and when Sebastopol was about to be taken excitement ran so high that the newspaper office, a locker, was almost stormed. The editor, however, was firm, and continued with his daily issue, the interest being kept up to the end of the expedition.

How to Avoid Colds.

"First, last and all the time, if you wish to avoid catching cold," says a writer in a medical journal, "keep your strength at the maximum. Whenever the vitality is lowered by overwork, poor food, worry, or by any other cause, your power of resistance is impaired and an opening is made for the thousand and one agencies of disease which are continually seeking to break in."

Great Actor's Kindly Heart.

Sir Henry Irving one day met a broken-down actor in the Strand. "I never see you at the theater now," said Sir Henry. The other murmured something about his ill luck and shabby business. "Oh, nonsense, you come tomorrow and give your name at the box office." He went to find two tickets awaiting him, with a $50 note.

UNCONSCIOUS POISONING.

How It Often Happens From Coffee.

"I had no idea," writes a Duluth man, "that it was the coffee I had been drinking all my life that was responsible for the headaches which were growing upon me, for the dyspepsia that no medicines would relieve, and for the acute nervousness which unfitted me not only for work but also for the most ordinary social functions."

"But at last the truth dawned upon me I forthwith bade the harmful beverage a prompt farewell, ordered in some Postum and began to use it. The good effects of the new food drink were apparent within a very few days. My headaches grew less frequent, and decreased in violence, my stomach grew strong and able to digest my food without distress of any kind, my nervousness has gone and I am able to enjoy life with my neighbors and sleep soundly at nights. My physical strength and nerve power have increased so much that I can do double the work I used to do, and feel no undue fatigue afterwards."

"This improvement set in just as soon as the old coffee poison had so worked out of my system as to allow the food elements in the Postum to get a hold to build me up again. I cheerfully testify that it was Postum and Postum alone that did all this, for when I began to drink it I threw physic to the dogs." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the famous little book "The Road to Wellville" in pkg.

Early Hatching.

We endeavor to mate up our breeding pens the first of January, and we believe that it is safe as a rule to save eggs for hatching in four weeks. Now if you have artificial heat in your laying house, or if you live in a climate where the eggs will not chill, you are in position to save eggs for hatching and should reasonably expect good results. At this season of the year it is hard to get setting hens, so the incubator comes into play for early hatching. I think it the best, as you can put it into a room in your house and operate it there, while it would be difficult to operate the sitting hen in one of your rooms. Now by the time the incubator hatches usually the severe cold weather has gone, and if you have a good grade of a brooder you can raise the young chicks very nicely. Place the brooder in a protected shed or outbuilding, so that the wind will not strike it directly, and then be very particular to keep the brooder well cleaned and ventilated, with temperature at about ninety as near as you can run it, and you will have no cause for complaint if the chicks are properly fed and watered. The first week feed them four or five times a day what they will eat up clean each time, so that when you come to feed next time they appear hungry and glad to see you.

For winter layers we much prefer the March and April hatched chicks, as they are fully developed and have the age, so that when winter comes they are ready for business, and when provided with a warm living house and rustling place, they do business in good shape; while with a later hatch you may force the growth and size, but you have not got the age or vitality back of the egg machine to run it successfully. Of course they will lay eggs, but not with the March and April hatches.

Now as to setting hens in cold weather: We use what we call a setting box or nest. It is movable, so that we can place it wherever we think will best suit according to weather. These nests are 18 inches square, 18 inches high on back and six inches high in front, with a hinged door to each nest. We build four nests together in this way. We cut the lumber six feet. We line the nests with several thicknesses of paper, and then fill most full of oats chaff. We also put in nests a few cigar stubs or about two ounces of strong-smoking tobacco and this keeps the lice off, so you have no trouble with them.

Now as to the number of eggs we place under a hen in cold weather, we would not put more than thirteen under a common-sized bird of the American class, and in warmer weather say fifteen. Take them all off to feed at the same time and if cold weather cover the eggs with some warm woolen cloth so they will not become chilled while biddy is off eating.

We usually feed corn and barley, with grit and water. We think the corn helps in keeping up biddy's heat for the eggs. Don't let them stay off over ten minutes if cold or chilly, and not over fifteen minutes any time, unless it is in warm weather in summer. In this way one can feed half a dozen or a dozen hens as easily as he can one, providing they ran together before you set them, as they will not fight much, but if they did not run together before they will spend a good deal of the time at first finding out who is boss of the crowd. We prefer the incubator to do the hatching, but like to have hens ready to take them when the hatch comes off, as we think it less trouble in this manner, if you have a 100-size incubator, four hens will usually take care of all that you will get out of a hatch and in this way you save the bother of watching and cleaning the cleaning the brooder.—J. C. Bergen, Humboldt Co., Iowa, in Farmers' Review.

The Old Hen as a Brooder. First and last we will not be able to find any better brooder than the old hen. It is true that she will now and then step on a chick, but she never has to regulate her temperature. There is no danger of her brooder getting so hot that the chicks will be roasted or so cold that they will be chilled. Nature has, after all, adjusted things better than man can do. The temperature of the body of the old hen regulates itself and the thermometer is a useless instrument in the enterprise of which the hen is the center.

Health of the Hog.

This is the time of year when the hogs will begin to go into winter quarters. It is now, if ever, that they will contract lung disease. For that reason it stands us in hand to pay particular attention to the hygiene of our pens. It has been thought that the hog can live in anything in the shape of a pen and eat anything that is put before him and give us good, sweet, wholesome pork. That is not so. We need good, clean pens, furnished with good ventilation and yet warm enough to keep the hogs from taking cold. When we do this we will hear less about the number of hogs which have tuberculosis in our country. This will also bring our pork into better repute in foreign markets. E. L. Vincent, in Farmers' Review.

AN EVERY-DAY STRUGGLE.

Too Many Women Carry the Heavy Load of Kidney Sickness.

Mrs. E. W. Wright of 172 Main street, Haverhill, Mass., says: "In 1898 I was suffering so with sharp pains in the small of the back and had such frequent dizzy spells that I could scarcely get about the house. The urinary passages were also quite irregular. Monthly periods were so distressing I dreaded their approach. This was my condition for four years. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me right away when I began with them and three boxes cured me permanently."

Where the Milk Went.

A Lowell man demanded to know whether or not he didn't pay his bills during the trial of a case in court. "Don't I pay my milk bills?" he shouted. "Yes," returned his wife, "you get a pint a day and take it all with you to drink with your lunch."—Boston Globe.

THE CALL OF THE CANADIAN WEST.

The Greatest Wheat Crop of the Continent.

The year that has just closed has done a great deal toward showing the possibilities of Western Canada from an agricultural standpoint. The wheat crop has run very near to the 100,000,000 bushel limit that was looked upon as too sanguine an estimate only a short time ago, and the area that has been broken to fall wheat for the coming harvest will go a long way towards enabling the farmers of the West to overlap on the 100,000,000 bushel estimate next year. And while the spring and winter wheat have been doing so well during the past few years, the other cereals have been keeping up with the procession. Rye and barley have made immense strides, and peas and flax have been moving steadily along. Dairying, also, has been successfully carried on in the new provinces, and in every stage the farmer has been "striking it rich." To such an extent has the success of the West taken hold of the outsiders that the rush of our Americans to Saskatchewan and Alberta, which was looked upon as marvelous last year, bids fair to be largely exceeded in 1906, and as there are still millions of acres of free homesteads available, which the building of the new railways will render accessible to the markets, new wheat lands will be opened ere long. Amongst the first to avail himself of the opportunity presented will be the American can cities. Dominion Government Agents are located, who are able and willing to give the latest and best information in regard to the new districts which the railways will open up, and there will be no abatement of the rush to the Canadian prairies during the coming season. Some time since a poet in the columns of the "Toronto Star" had the following stirring lines, which throb of the Western spirit:

There's a stir in the air, there's a thrill through the land,
There's a movement toward the great West;
And the eyes of all men for the moment are turned
To the country that we love the best.
For 'tis Canada's day in the world's calendar,
And to this merry toast let us sup:
'Here's to the land, the young giant of the North,
Where the prairies are opening up!"

They come from the East, and they come from the South,
They come o'er the deep rolling sea—
They come, for they know they will dwell 'neath a flag
That makes all men equal and free.
Then, once more the toast, and let every man rise
And cheer ere he slips from the cup:
'Here's to the land, the young giant of the North,
Where the prairies are opening up!"

Every woman is sure she knows just how far to go in encouraging a man's attentions.

"READY THE BUSINESS WAS A ROARING ABYSS" great hearth and chimneyplace were to be found.

Some woman had seen him enter, and in her weakness screamed—that was the conclusion he reached, his mind being bent upon securing the precious papers.

Reaching the hearth he found fire in the room.

Down on his knees went the soldier, and for the second time his eager hands touched the hearth-stone under which he expected to find the realization of his hopes or else despair.

Fortune was kind.

When he had snatched the packet of yellow papers from the hiding place in which it had lain for years, he hastily battened his coat over the prize.

Then for escape.

A kick sent the shivered glass flying in every direction and left an outlet for escape.

Through the window he made a flying leap and landed safely on the ground.

He ran around the house, to where he had left his men, and before reaching them saw a sight that caused an awful sensation to overwhelm him—a spectacle that no man could look upon unmoved.

In an upper window of the doomed Southern mansion he saw a face and waving arms.

It dawned upon him then that the screams he had heard as he plunged into the house in search of the papers under the hearthstone must have been cries of distress.

Was it too late now?

John took in the whole situation with a comprehensive glance.

Knowing the lay of the land, he saw there was a single chance of reaching the room from whence the girl signalled so wildly.

Shouting an order to the sergeant he made a motion of encouragement to the same-imprisoned girl above.

Then he burst in a rear door and sprang up the back steps three at a time.

The room in which the girl was confined was a portion of the attic, for differing from most Southern houses the old Ridgeway mansion had a high roof.

Who she was and how she came there—these were questions that John did not bother himself about.

As he turned the last door of the attic he

He crept down toward the gutter.

If this failed him everything was lost, but thank Heaven the old wood was still firm, and John swung loose upon it. That strong arm sustained its double burden until he had acquired a certain momentum, when he broke loose and landed on the lower roof with some of the agility a cat would have shown.

This done he made his way to the edge.

Those below had discovered him and loud shouts attested the admiration they felt for their dashing leader.

The ladder was reared aloft. By rare good luck it reached the edge of the roof, and John knew the game was saved.

As he reached the ground and staggered away with his burden, he was surprised to feel the girl struggle in his arms.

"How dare you hold me so—I am able to stand. Please put me down, barbarian."

The voice—the maner gave him a shock, and mechanically he dropped the strong arm that had carried her from death to life—released his burden and stood there amazed, gazing at the face revealed to his eyes as she shook back the mass of black curly locks.

It was Mollie—his girl wife!

CHAPTER IX.

Fate Weaves the Fabric.

Amazed, almost stupefied, he looked at the Georgia girl whom fate had thrown across his path in such a remarkable way.

"I beg your pardon if I was rough—the case demanded action—it was a question of life and death," he said at length, recovering his usual gentlemanly manner.

"I would rather it had been anybody but you, sir, to whom I should be indebted for my life," she said, coldly, but John only smiled in a grim way.

"There's no use trying to fight fate. I told you we would meet again and it has come true. Nor do I believe this to be the end."

"Sir, remember that I said I hated you," she burst out with some show of temper that must have been assumed, for no living woman could maintain such a feeling toward a dashing sol-

WHO SHE WAS

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused it to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estes, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert and investigating mind, an earnest seeker after knowledge, and above all, possessed of a wonderfully sympathetic nature.

Yours for Health Lydia E. Pinkham

In 1843 she married Isaac Pinkham, a builder and real estate operator, and their early married life was marked by prosperity and happiness. They had four children, three sons and a daughter.

In those good old fashioned days it was common for mothers to make their own home medicines from roots and herbs, nature's own remedies, calling in a physician only in specially urgent cases. By tradition and experience many of them gained a wonderful knowledge of the curative properties of the various roots and herbs.

Mrs. Pinkham took a great interest in the study of roots and herbs, their characteristics and power over disease. She maintained that just as nature so bountifully provides in the harvest-fields and orchards vegetable foods of all kinds; so, if we but take the pains to find them, in the roots and herbs of the field there are remedies expressly designed to cure the various ills and weaknesses of the body, and it was her pleasure to search those out, and prepare simple and effective medicines for her own family and friends.

Chief of these was a rare combination of the choicest medicinal roots and herbs found best adapted for the cure of the ills and weaknesses peculiar to the female sex, and Lydia E. Pinkham's friends and neighbors learned that her compound relieved and cured and it became quite popular among them.

All this so far was done freely, without money and without price, as a labor of love.

But in 1873 the financial crisis struck Lynn. Its length and severity were too much for the large real estate interests of the Pinkham family, as in this class of business suffered most from fearful depression, so when the Centennial year dawned it found their property swept away. Some other source of income had to be found.

At this point Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made known to the world.

The three sons and the daughter, with their mother, combined forces to restore the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until today Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many sons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but not till she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice—and there were thousands—received careful study, and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of woman's ills, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equaled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-won knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work shows when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With woman assistants, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, and probably from the office of no other person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Sick women, this advice is "Yours for Health" freely given if you only write to ask for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound: made from simple roots and herbs; the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

Leaves Money for Statues.

Mr. John Stewart McCaig, a Scottish banker, left practically all his estate, consisting of property producing nearly £10,000 a year and movables worth £10,000, for the erection of statues of himself and his relatives and the building of artistic towers on prominent parts of his land. His sister has contested his will, but the Edinburgh court of sessions has upheld it.

Fear for Earth's Water Supply.

A shrinkage in the world's water supply is predicted by M. Martel, the French explorer of caves. Through the erosion and corrosion of the earth's surface, he says, the water level is being continually lowered, and, unless measures for preventing this are adopted, a large part of the world will, a few centuries hence, die of thirst.

Turbot a Prolific Fish.

One of the most prolific of fishes is the turbot. The number of eggs in five specimens examined by a scientist recently, varied from over 5,000,000 to more than 10,000,000. The heaviest of these specimens weighed only twenty-one pounds, and the belief is expressed that large specimens are still more fertile.

About the Opal.

The opal is a silicate containing often as much as 10 to 11 per cent of water. It is of volcanic origin, the best varieties are white or milky, these showing most perfectly the iridescent play of colors. Black opal is sometimes found, but most specimens are simply poor white opals, artificially stained.

Changes in Naval Supplies.

Indicative of the radical changes that are being made in the British navy is this recent statement by the admiralty: "No more contracts for supply of salt beef have been entered into, as it has been decided to abolish this article of diet." Cold storage takes the place of the beef barrel.

Best Telegraphic Service.

John Haskoth, who was commissioned by the Australian government to make a tour of investigation throughout the United States and Europe, has reported that by far the foremost telegraphic administration in the world is that of the general post office Great Britain.

Think a Woman's Work is Home.

One of the leaders of the woman suffrage movement in Germany is strongly opposed to the tendency of women to leave home and seek work outside. "In many cases," she says, "this is unfortunately necessary, but to make it a duty or a virtue will never do."

Sad Face a Handicap.

"Don't, if you are a woman with a sad face, try to look still sadder; chirk up; smile; make your mouth into a cupid's bow; force yourself to look animated; try to be expressive with your eyes; a sad, wan face never won out in a beauty contest.—Exchange.

FOUR YEARS OF AGONY.

Whole Foot Nothing But Proud Flesh—Had to Use Cuticura—Remedies the Best on Earth.

"In the year 1899 the side of my right foot was cut off from the little toe down to the heel, and the physician who had charge of me was trying to sew up the side of my foot, but with no success. At last my whole foot and way up above my calf was nothing but proud flesh. I suffered untold agonies for four years, and tried different physicians and all kinds of ointments. I could walk only with crutches. In two weeks afterwards I saw a change in my limb. Then I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment often during the day, and kept it up for seven months, when my limb was healed up just the same as if I never had trouble. It is eight months now since I stopped using Cuticura Remedies, the best on God's earth. I am working at the present day after five years of suffering. The cost of Cuticura Ointment and Soap was only $6, but the doctors' bills were more like $600. John M. Lloyd, 718 S. Arch Ave., Alliance, Ohio, June 27, 1905."

Taking Scripture Literally.

There is a secret sect in England called "Little Children Baptists," whose creed is founded on the Scriptural words, "Except ye become as little children ye shall not enter the kingdom of heaven." Their devotional exercises on Sundays consist of trundling hoops, playing marbles, leapfrog and "button, button, who's got the button?"

DREW ADMIRATION OF RUSKIN.

Alpine Bird Compelled Thought of Writer and Philosopher.

While among the dark, pine precipices of the Chartreuse hills, one day, the famous John Ruskin saw for the third time what he thought the most wonderful of all Alpine birds—a gray, fluttering, stealthy creature, about the size of a sparrow, but of colder gray and more graceful, which haunts the sides of the fiercest torrents. He wrote: "There is something more strange in it than in the sea-gull—that seems a powerful creature, and the power of the sea not of a kind so adverse, so hopelessly destructive. But this small creature, silent, tender and light, almost like a moth in its low and irregular flight, almost touching with its wings the crests of waves that would overthrow a granite wall, and haunting the hollows of the black, cold, herbless rocks that are continually shaken by their spray, has perhaps the nearest approach to the look of a spiritual existence I know in animal life."

DID A WORLD OF GOOD

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cure Heart Pains, Dizzy Spells and Weakness.

Easy to get, hard to get rid of; that is what most sufferers think of dyspepsia. They are astonished when their stomach begins to trouble them seriously.

They had been eating hurriedly and irregularly for a long time, to be sure, but they supposed their stomachs quite used to that.

Some people know that the strength which the weak stomach needs, and for the lack of which the whole body is suffering, can be found surely and quickly in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In hundreds of instances these pills have succeeded where other remedies failed.

"My indigestion," said Mr. J. R. Miller, of Dayton, Va., "came in the first place from the fact that a few years ago I worked a great deal at night, and ate at any odd hour whenever the chance came, and always very hurriedly. One day I found myself a victim of terrible dyspepsia. It kept me miserable all the time for several years.

"I always had a great deal of distress after eating, and when I got up from my sleep my stomach would be so weak that it would hardly take any food. I had very uncomfortable feelings about my heart, and was dizzy and, whenever I stooped over and then straightened up, my eyes would be badly blurred.

"I read the statements of several persons who had got rid of obstinate stomach troubles by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I bought some and they did me a world of good. They acted promptly and did just what was claimed for them. I have no more distress after meals; the bad feeling has gone from the region of my heart; the alarming dizzy spells have disappeared, and I am strong again."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists and by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS AND — OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or official names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—"Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup" and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.
