NEWBURG.

The L. A. S. met at the hall Friday afternoon and completed arrangements for the annual fair and home coming to be held afternoon and evening, Oct. 21. The ladies tied off a comfortable. This makes several nice ones they have made. There will be a fancy work booth, candy stand and vegetable booth, also something for the amusement of the children. A fine menu has been arranged for and we trust every one will be satisfied for the small sum of 20 cts. a plate. Adults and children the same price.

The L. A. S. assumes quite a responsibility. They help to pay all church expenses as well as everything pertaining to the hall. Newburg is quite a public center, so that our sheds are used daily by a large number of people living for miles around, who find them a great convenience. Let every one come to the front and help in a good cause.

Mrs. Allen Geer was sent as delegate to the W. R. C. district convention held in Detroit Oct. 13-14.

Newburg school is doing nicely under the management of Miss Carrie Baker. Fay Ryder is acting in the capacity of organist at the present time.

Mr. R. Barnes was quite ill last week. Mrs. C. Pickett and daughter Edith left for Flint Tuesday, where they will visit James McFarlane and family.

Mrs. Geo. Morton visited her sister Mrs. Wm. Farley the latter part of last week, returning to her home in Detroit on Sunday night.

About 65 years ago, four miles east of Plymouth, on the Plymouth road, there stood what was known as the old tavern or road house, built by David MacFarlane, at Rough and Ready corners. It was here that James McFarlane, one of Flint's leading lawyers, first saw the light of day. This large rambling structure was known by some as the house of seven gables. With its immense barns it was truly a place of rest for the weary horses that drew the heavy loads to the Detroit market. The plank road ran from Northville to Detroit. There was also a toll-gate at Rough and Ready, two blacksmithshops, a cabinetshop and also a coopershop kept by Amos Pickett, a store and in those days no tavern was complete without its tap-room.

In the days preceding and during the civil war this road house was the rendezvous nightly for a number of people, who met to talk over the exciting events of the times. On these corners recruits met for training. Rough and Ready was indeed a busy place until the Pere Marquette railroad went within half a mile of it. It was then the buildings were vacated, until finally there was nothing left of a once busy little burg but the old tavern on the corner, and for a great many years that has been used simply as a dwelling house. Two worn out old men found a shelter in this old house. One familiarly known as Uncle John Dority lived in the east end, while in the west end of the house Mr. Gottschalk had just moved in his household effects.

On Thursday night of last week a fire was discovered in the east end by Chas. Johnson, living opposite. He arrived just in time to get Uncle John out alive. He had crawled as far as the door and when Mr. J. opened it the flames rushed past him. He took the old man to his home and then returned with others to try to put out the fire, but it had gotten under headway to such an extent that nothing was saved. Fortunately Mr. Gottschalk was away or he might have been burned also. It is thought that Uncle John had the lamp by his bedside and in some way tipped it over, thus setting fire to the house. He was somewhat burned, but they did not think seriously of it and after making him comfortable as possible they retired for the night.

About six o'clock in the morning on going to his bedside, they found he had quietly passed away. It seemed fitting that the old man and this house that had weathered so many summers and winters should go out together.

Uncle John was 85 years of age and one of the oldest pioneers of this section. He came here in an early day and helped to clear up the country. He was a hardworking, industrious man and was highly respected by all who knew him. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at Newburg church, Rev. King officiating. A large number were there to pay their respects to one of the few old residents left in this part of Livonia township.

The best plaster. A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound over the affected parts is superior to a plaster and costs only one-tenth as much. For sale by all dealers.

PIKE'S PEAK.

Miss Alice Perkins is visiting her aunt, Mrs. S. Dean, this week.

Mrs. G. Chambers and son visited Mr. and Mrs. C. Chambers and family last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Beverly of Wayne were seen on these streets Saturday.

Mrs. Mabel Hanchett and sons Lawrence and Raymond and Mrs. John Edwards and daughter Grace were Plymouth visitors Saturday.

Mrs. S. Cummings of Plymouth visited Mr. and Mrs. John Markey last Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Lena Thom spent a few days at the Lutheran parsonage at Plymouth.

Mrs. Myrtle Witt and daughter Genevieve of Elm visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Klatt and family last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pitcher spent a few days in Detroit this week.

D. M. Merrylees is manufacturing cement tile.

Mrs. Paul Badelt visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gottman at Beech last Sunday.

You are not experimenting on yourself when you take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a cold as that preparation has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds, and can always be depended upon. It is equally valuable for adults and children with implicit confidence as it contains no harmful drug. Sold by all dealers.

WEST PLYMOUTH.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Smith were Detroit visitors this week.

The Helping Hand and St. Mary's Sewing Circle met with Mrs. James Heeney Thursday.

John Robinson Jr. spent a day at Grass Lake last week.

Mrs. Will Johnson, Mrs. Emory Shook and Mr. John Lucas spent Saturday and Sunday in Detroit and Windsor. Mr. Lucas remained for a week's visit at Festus Lucas' home in the city.

Mrs. James Heeney and Miss Gladys visited friends at Whitmore Lake Sunday and Monday of this week.

Little Elizabeth Murray is spending the last half of this week with Grandma Smith. Mrs. Murray has gone to represent the O. E. S. at Lansing.

John Robinson Jr. was in Detroit Monday.

Mrs. Charlie Cole and Mrs. Will Cole of Salem visited at James Lucas' Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Becker, accompanied by their son and his wife and grandchild, Mr. and Mrs. J. Becker and daughter of Fenton visited their nephew, F. L. Becker last week.

Becoming frightened at a herd of cattle in the road, Miss Ermah Tiffin's horse turned abruptly, capsize the buggy and threw Miss Ermah in to a barbed wire fence. Fortunately she received no serious injury.

Miss Mildred Becker's eighteenth birthday was celebrated by a post card shower. She received some thirty-six cards to remind her of the swiftly flying years.

Two young men were seriously injured by a bull at the McCarthy farm recently. The second victim was a young married man living in the tenement house. His injuries were very serious, but he will recover. The animal has been considered dangerous for a long time and has been disposed of since the accidents.

J. C. O'Bryan was in Detroit with produce Monday and Tuesday.

Despite the copious fall of rain a large number turned out to the Grange at Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thompson's and were well repaid for the effort. After the noon repast which was nothing short of a feast, the usual business was transacted. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Pooler were elected to membership, and several new names were proposed. The children presented an especially pleasing part in the literary program. The practical discussion by the men were right to the point, and one speaker in particular won the approbation of the ladies by his appreciation of and interests in, household conveniences. Altogether the meeting was especially good.

GIRLS IN CITIES.

The young girl who tried dramatically to take her life in New York recently through disappointment and disillusion placed the blame upon the wrong shoulders. It in no degree rests upon either the business or public social side of American life, says Washington Post.

Still another use for automobiles. The town of Jamaica, L. I., had an unpleasant time when a main burst and the water supply was shut off completely.

Still they come, those Chinese students who are to be trained at American educational institutions. A party of sixty-eight has arrived at Honolulu.

Engineers at work on the Panama canal propose to leave as little as possible to chance. They are now engaged in experiments to determine the effect of sea water on concrete.

Germans usually do things thoroughly, and the announcement that there is no cholera in Berlin, although the disease has broken out in the vicinity, no doubt testifies to the effectiveness of the safeguards employed.

General information concerning infantile paralysis is meager, but since a woman of sixty-six has died of the malady, the fact is plain that the scientists who gave it a name were not overcrowded with information either.

DIETZ SLAYS DEPUTY

GUARDIAN OF CAMERON DAM GIVES UP FOLLOWING ALL DAY FIGHT.

FEARED FOR WIFE AND BABES

Sends His Little Daughter Out With Flag of Truce, But Not Until After Cabin Was Well Perforated With Bullets.

Winter, Wis., Oct. 11.—A charge of murder in the first degree will be made by the district attorney against John F. Dietz, his wife and his son Leslie as the result of the coroner's verdict returned in the case of Oscar Harp, who was killed Saturday night during the attack on Dietz's cabin.

Dietz Surrenders. "If papa comes out will you promise not to shoot him? He is shot through the hand and wants to surrender."

These words spoken to Sheriff Mike Madden at the edge of the clearing surrounding the besieged home, by little Helen, youngest daughter of John F. Dietz, brought to an end the stubborn resistance of the man whose stand for the last six years against what he considered injustice has attracted widespread interest.

The surrender did not come, however, without death and bloodshed. One man is dead, three men and a woman are wounded and much property has been destroyed.

The dead: Oscar Harp, thirty-five years old, deputy sheriff.

Injured: John Dietz, forty-nine years old, shot through the hand.

Chet Colepetch, thirty-five, deputy, right ear shot off.

Clarence Dietz, shot through arm.

Myra Dietz, shot through body, will recover.

The last two named, children of John Dietz, were shot by deputies in the preliminary skirmish a few days ago.

One Deputy Is Victim. Harp was found on a hill behind the Dietz cabin with a bullet hole in his head. He and three other deputies had tried to crawl to a place of vantage in the lumber pile near the Dietz barn, when a well-directed bullet caught him.

The other deputies retreated without trying to rescue their comrade. Dietz was injured while firing from the barn when a bullet went through a crack and struck his left hand.

Stork Cause of Surrender. Dietz denies that the wound caused him to surrender. To Father Joseph Pilon, the priest who was largely instrumental in bringing the long-drawn-out contest to a close, he whispered that a baby was about to be born to his wife, and he feared that both she and the infant might die.

The surrender of Dietz was dramatic. The alert lumbermen, leaning on their rifles at the edge of the clearing and gazing intently at the windows of the log cabin, suddenly saw the flutter of a white handkerchief at the door. Then little Helen appeared, and, advancing with the cloth over her head, walked to the edge of the clearing, where she announced that her papa was willing to surrender.

Feared for Wife and Babes.

With Father Pilon and Deputy Sheriff Thorbahn, when they went into the cabin to arrest Dietz, were a number of newspaper men.

Dietz submitted to arrest quietly, saying: "I could not hold out any longer, with myself and Leslie crippled. The bullets came so fast it looked like the wife and babies would get it, too."

Dietz's left hand was in a sling and he was smiling and spoke cheerfully to the newspaper men. He posed for several pictures with the sheriff, in one of which he was shaking hands with the official.

In the trim little cabin, where Mrs. Dietz was still at work putting things in order, broken jars and dishes lay scattered on the floor, they having been struck by bullets, of which more than 2,000 had been fired during the day. Bullets lay on the bed, having bounced back after striking against the wall. It was a miracle that the entire family was not wiped out.

Mrs. Dietz Breaks Down.

Mrs. Dietz broke down and weepingly asked the reporters to say that she and the children did not fire a shot.

"If I had not argued and argued with John we would all have been dead before morning," she said.

LORIMER BRIBERY HEARING IS CLOSED AT CHICAGO

Further Sitzings May Be Held in Washington Before Report is Made to Congress.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—The Lorimer investigating committee of United States senators ended its hearing in Chicago. Three weeks had been devoted to the inquiry.

Before the report on Mr. Lorimer's right to his seat is presented to the full committee on privileges and elections, by which the seven investigators were delegated, there is the prospect of further sittings at Washington preceding the convening of congress next December. Moreover, it is possible that additional testimony will be heard.

This will depend in part upon whether Representative Robert E. Wilson, now in hiding, is found by the deputy United States marshals, who have been hunting for him to serve him with a subpoena. Chairman Burrows made plain that he was regarded as a highly desirable witness, whose absence at this time suggested special reasons for securing his presence and testimony.

Speaker Edward D. Shurtleff was slated one of the last witnesses heard. Mr. Shurtleff denied paying or receiving money or other valuable thing in consideration of voting for Lorimer. Most of his testimony was devoted to apportioning the house legislators into factional groups.

Up to the last moment there was uncertainty as to whether Senator Lorimer would be a witness, but he did not go on the stand.

500 ARE HOMELESS IN FLOOD

Damage to Property in Southern Indiana and Kentucky by the High Water is $1,500,000.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 8.—Hundreds of persons are homeless in the lower Ohio river valley and damage estimated at $1,500,000 has been caused in Indiana and Kentucky by the floods of the last few days.

A dispatch from Booneville, Ind., states that 500 people are homeless and that the deluge has destroyed more than a million dollars' worth of property in southern Indiana. Damage to bridges and roads in six counties in Kentucky has been placed at a half million dollars.

According to the officials of the weather bureau here, the rain siege was one of the longest and most damaging in years.

FIND DEAD MEN IN LOST MINE

Mexican Officials Discover a Shaft Worked by Spaniards a Century Ago.

Bisbee, Ariz., Oct. 8.—Mexican officials announce the rediscovery of the old Santa Teresa gold mine, one of the few really "lost" mines of the southwest.

Two skeletons were found at the bottom of the shaft.

This mine was worked by Spaniards more than a century ago. It had been lost since 1810.

The main shaft is well preserved. The Mexican government is arranging to take charge of the mine.

HUNDREDS ARE DEAD MANY MINERS ENTRAPPED IN COLORADO SHAFT

Explosion Cuts Off Escape of Fifty Men in Coal Mine—Rescuers at Work.

Starkville, Col., Oct. 10.—Entombed by an explosion in the Starkville mine of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, at least fifty-two men are the objects of heroic efforts of rescuers, who worked throughout the day trying to penetrate the black depths of the mine in the hope that some or probably all of the imprisoned miners might be rescued alive.

Eleven men who were installing a fan in the pit were overcome about 300 feet from the portal and barely dragged to the entrance alive. The presence of black damp, which almost invariably follows in the wake of coal mine explosions made the work of rescuers extremely hazardous and time and again members of parties were overcome, necessitating retreating to the open air in order that their lives could be saved.

Hardened by previous experiences surrounding explosions in mines the residents of Starkville, in most instances silently watched rescuers as they entered the mine and later as they were dragged to the open air for resuscitation.

In addition to efforts to enter the mine by the east or new slope, experienced miners were sent into the Engleville mine, which adjoins the Starkville property to dig through the masonry wall built to separate the mines when the works ran together several months ago.

JUDGE HUGHES TAKES OFFICE

Former Governor of New York Is Sworn to Supreme Bench. Which Then Adjourns Quickly.

Washington, Oct. 11.—Ceremonies marking the advent of a new judge of the law and the demise of a famous jurist, who had gone before him, concluded.

Hundreds Unaccounted For.

Warroad, Minn., Oct. 11.—Refugees arriving here every hour tell of the finding of more bodies in the region swept by forest fires. The fatalities are estimated at from 200 to 300.

Men who returned from Baudette on a railway motor say that the list of dead in the district back from the railway tracks there will reach 150.

Seventy-Five Bodies Found.

The mayor of Baudette says 75 bodies have already been found.

Every settler in the district bounded by the Rainy river and Lake of the Woods on the north to 25 miles south of Fort Frances, Ont., and from Spooner and Baudette, Minn., on the east, to Warroad, Minn., on the west, is in danger, as there is no known means of escape.

For a distance of 50 miles from Baudette and the Rainy river, west of Warroad the forest was a solid mass of fire Sunday.

Baudette is only a charred remnant of a town. Spooner is entirely wiped off the earth. Cedar Spur, Graceton, Pitt, Swift and Roosevelt, mere hamlets, are destroyed.

Many Bodies Unidentified.

Nine bodies were seen on the Canadian Northern tracks by women who mounted horses and fled along the railway. Four unidentified dead are in the Root House, west of Pitt, including one man, two women and a baby. There are three more along the Rapid river.

Seven settlers up the Baudette river and 11 settlers between Rapid River and Baudette were found dead lying alongside a logging road by settlers who escaped the flames.

There were hundreds of homes destroyed in the territory, and as there are no roads in the district save for the trails through the bush, it is feared that many lives have been lost that will not be reported for weeks.

Minnesota Fighting Flames.

The state of Minnesota is sparing no expense to check the fire. The state fire warden is mustering every man he can procure, and he is instructed to use every possible means at his command, regardless of cost.

A special relief train arrived at International Falls from Bemidji, bearing provisions destined for Rainy River and the Bemidji company of the Minnesota National Guard, which took charge of the distribution of supplies and the preservation of order. The burned district will be placed under martial law.

WHY NEW ORLEANS

CITY IS LOGICAL POINT FOR WORLD'S PANAMA EXPOSITION.

Its Geographical Position and Many Other Considerations Mark It as Most Suitable Spot for Dedication of Great Work.

Public sentiment has decided that the completion of the Panama Canal in 1915 shall be celebrated with a great International Exposition in which all the nations of the world may participate; and the question of where this Exposition is to be held will be settled by Congress at its approaching session.

New Orleans and San Francisco are contesting for the honor of holding this Exposition, and both cities have guaranteed immense sums of money as an evidence of their ability to finance so great an enterprise.

An Exposition worthy of the term "World's Fair," such as New Orleans proposes to build, will be a great educational movement. Its success as such, however, will depend entirely upon the percentage of our population who can secure its educational advantages, this in turn, depends upon its location, as the time in traveling to and from the Exposition, and the cost in railroad and Pullman fares, are the most important factors.

Considering these matters, New Orleans' claims to being the "Logical Point" for this Panama Exposition, seem to be fully substantiated by the following facts:—

New Orleans is 500 miles from the center of population in the United States. San Francisco is 2,500 miles distant therefrom.

Within a radius of 500 miles from New Orleans there are 17,500,000 people. Within the same radius from San Francisco there are only 2,000,000.

Within a radius of 1,000 miles from New Orleans, there are 65,000,000. Within the same radius from San Francisco there are only 6,000,000.

At an average of 900 miles from New Orleans, there are 70 of our principal cities with a combined population of 20,000,000. Averaging 900 miles from San Francisco there are only 8 large cities, with a combined population of just 1,000,000. The average distance of all these cities to New Orleans is 732 miles, to San Francisco 2,407 miles.

Over 75 per cent. of the people of the United States could go to an Exposition there at an average expense for railroad fare of $12.50, as against an average of $37.50 to the Pacific Coast; and for several millions of our people, the Pullman fare and Dining Car expenses alone, for a trip to San Francisco, would amount to more than all their transportation expenses for a trip to New Orleans.

This is an important public question to be settled by Congress at the session which convenes in December.

Many of our readers will wish to visit this World's Panama Exposition, and if held in New Orleans a great many more could spare the time and money for the trip than could go to San Francisco. Therefore, we urge our readers to write to the two senators from this State and the congressman from this district, requesting them to support New Orleans in the contest.

WASTED A FORTUNE ON SKIN TROUBLE

"I began to have an itching over my whole body about seven years ago and this settled in my limbs, from the knee to the toes. I went to see a great many physicians, a matter which cost me a fortune, and after I noticed that I did not get any relief that way, I went for three years to the hospital. But they were unable to help me there, I used all the medicines that I could see but became worse and worse. I had an inflammation which made me almost crazy with pain. When I showed my foot to my friends they would get really frightened. I did not know what to do. I was so sick and had become so nervous that I positively lost all hope.

"I had seen the advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies a great many times, but could not make up my mind to buy them, for I had already used so many medicines. Finally I did decide to use the Cuticura Remedies and I tell you that I was never so pleased as when I noticed that, after having used two sets of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Pills, the entire inflammation had gone. I was completely cured. I should be only too glad if people with similar disease would come to me and find out the truth. I would only recommend them to use Cuticura. Mrs. Bertha Sachs, 1621 Second Ave., New York, N. Y., Aug. 20, 1909."

SERIAL STORY

The Courage of Captain Plum

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

Illustrations by Magnus G. Kettner

Copyright 1908 by Bobbs-Merrill Co.

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Nathaniel Plum, of the sloop Typhoon, lands secretly on Beaver Island, stronghold of the Mormons. He is suddenly confronted by Obadiah Price, an eccentric old man and a member of the Mormon council, who tells him that he is expected. Price ignores Nat's protestations that he has got the wrong man, and bargains for the ammunition aboard the sloop. He binds Nat by a solemn oath to deliver a package to Franklin Pierce, president of the United States. Near Price's cabin Nat sees the frightened face of a young woman who disappears in the darkness, leaving an odor of lilacs. It develops that Plum's visit to the island is to demand settlement from the king. Strange, for the looting of his ship some time previously, supposedly by Mormons. Casey, the mate, has been left in charge of the sloop with orders to bombard St. James if Nat does not return within a certain time. Price takes Nat in the darkness, to the king's home, and through a window he sees the king and his wives, among whom is the lady of the lilacs, whom Price says is the seventh wife. Plum calls at the king's office, where he is warned by a young woman that his life is in danger. Strange receives Plum cordially, professes indignation when he hears the captain's errand, and promises to punish the guilty. Plum again receives warning of his danger. He rescues Nat, who is being brutally whipped. The king orders Aaron Croche, the sheriff and father of Winsome, the girl who warned Nat, to pursue and kill the two men. Plum and Nat plan to escape on the Typhoon. Plum learns that Marion, the girl of the lilacs, is Nat's sister. She is not yet married to Strange. Plum suggests carrying her off on the ship. Nat approves.

CHAPTER VI—Continued.

Horror, not fear, sent an involuntary shiver through Nathaniel. "They can't reach us!" assured Nell. There was the glitter of triumph in his eyes. "This was to have been my way of escape after I killed Strange. A quarter of a mile deeper in the swamp I have a canoe." He picked up the gun and box and began forcing his way through the dense alder along the edge of the stream. "I'd like to stay and murder those dogs," he called back, "but it wouldn't be policy."

For a time the crashing of their bodies through the dense growth of the swamp drowned all other sound. Five minutes later Nell stopped on the edge of a wide bog. The hounds were giving fierce tongue in the forest on their left and their nearness sent Nathaniel's hand to his pistol. Nell saw the movement and laughed.

"Don't like the sound, eh?" he said. "We get used to it on Beaver Island. They're just about at the place where they tore little Jim Schredder to pieces a few weeks back. Schredder tried to kill one of the elders for stealing his wife while he was away on a night's fishing trip."

He plunged to his knees in the bog. "They caught him just before he reached the swamp," he flung back over his shoulder. "Two minutes more and he would have been safe."

Nathaniel, sinking to his knees in the mire, forged up beside him. "Lord!" he exclaimed, as a breath of air brought a sudden burst of blood-curdling cries to them. "If they'd loosed them on us sooner—"

He shivered at the terrible grimace Nell turned on him.

"Had they slipped the leashes when we escaped, we would have been with poor Schredder now, Captain Plum. By the way"—he stopped a moment to wipe the water and mud from his face—"three days after they covered Schredder's bones with muck out there, the elder took Schredder's wife! She was too pretty for a fisherman."

He started on, but halted suddenly with uplifted hand. No longer could they hear the baying of the dogs. "They've struck the creek!" said Nell. "Listen!"

After an interval of silence there came a long mournful howl.

"Treed—treed or in the water, that's what the howling means. How Croche and his devils are howling now!"

A curse was mingled with Nell's breath as he forced his way through the bog. Twenty rods farther on they came to a slime covered bit of water on which was floating a dugout canoe. Immense relief replaced the anxiety in Nathaniel's face as he climbed into it. At that moment he was willing to fight a hundred men for Marion's sake, but snakes and lings and bloodhounds were entirely outside his pale of argument and he exhibited no hesitation in betraying this fact to his companion. For a quarter of a mile Nell forced the dugout through water viscid with slime and rotted substance before the clearer channel of the creek was reached. As they progressed the stream constantly became deeper and more navigable until it finally began to show signs of a current and a little later, under the cover of a willow thicket, the canoe shot from between the dense shrubs into the open lake. A mile away Nathaniel discerned the point of forest beyond which the Typhoon was hidden. He pointed out the location of the ship to his companion.

"You are sure there is a small boat waiting for you on the point?" asked Nell.

"Yes, since early morning."

Nell was absorbed in thought for some time as he drove the canoe through the tall rice grass that grew thick along the edge of the shore.

"How would it be if I landed you on the point and met you tonight at Obadiah's?" he asked suddenly. "It is probable that after we get Marion aboard your ship I will not return to the island again, and it is quite necessary that I run down the coast for a couple of miles—for—" He did not finish his reason, but added: "I can make the whole distance in this rice so there is no danger of being seen. Or you might lie off the point yonder and I would join you early this evening."

"That would be a better plan if we must separate," said Nathaniel, whose voice betrayed the reluctance with which he assented to the project. He had guessed shrewdly at Nell's motive. "Is it possible that we may have another young lady passenger?" he asked banteringly.

"There was no answering humor to this in Nell's eyes.

"I wish we might!" he said quietly. "We can!" exclaimed Nathaniel. "My ship—"

"It is impossible. I am speaking of Winsome. Arbor Croche's house is in the heart of the town and guarded by dogs. I doubt if she would go, anyway. She has always been like a little sister to Marion and me and she has come to believe—something—as we do. I hate to leave her."

"Obadiah told me about her mother," ventured Nathaniel. "He said that some day Winsome will be a queen."

"I knew her mother," replied Nell, as though he had not heard Nathaniel's last words. He looked frankly into the other's face. "I worshipped her!"

"Ob-la-h!"

"From a distance," he hastened. "She was as pure as Winsome is now. Little Winn looks like her. Some day she will be as beautiful."

"She is beautiful now."

"But she is a mere child. Why, it seems only a year ago that I was tottering about on my shoulders." And—by George, that was a year before her mother died! She is sixteen now."

Nathaniel laughed softly. "Tomorrow she will be making love, Nell, and before you know it she will be married and have a family of her own. I tell you she is a woman—and if you are not a fool you will take her away with Marion."

With a powerful stroke of his paddle Nell brought the canoe in to the shore.

"There!" he whispered. "You have only to cross this point to reach your boat." He stretched out his long arm and in the silence the two shook hands. "If you should happen to think of a way—that we might get Winsome—" he added, coloring.

The sudden grip of his companion's fingers made him flinch.

"We must!" said Nathaniel.

He climbed ashore and watched Nell until he had disappeared in the wild rice. Then he turned into the woods. He looked at his watch and saw that it was only 2 o'clock. He was conscious of no fatigue; he was not conscious of hunger. To him the whole world had suddenly opened with glorious promise and in the still depths of the forest he felt like singing out his rejoicing. He had never stopped to ask himself what might be the end of this passion that had overwhelmed him; he lived only in the present, in the knowledge that Marion was not a wife, and that it was his whom fate had chosen for her deliverance. He reasoned nothing beyond the sweet eyes that had called upon him, that had burned their gratitude, their hope and their despair upon his soul; nothing beyond the thought that she would soon be free from the mysterious influence of the Mormon king and that for days and nights after that she would be on the same ship with him. He had emptied the pockets of the coat he had given Nell and now he brought forth the old letter which Obadiah had rescued from the sands. He read it over and over again as he sat for a few moments in the cool of the forest and there was no trouble in his face now. It was from a girl. He had known that girl, years ago, as Nell knew Winsome; in years of wandering he had almost forgotten her—until this letter came. It had brought many memories back to him with shocking clearness. The old folk were still in the little home under the hill; they received his letters; they received the money he sent them each month—but they wanted him. The girl wrote with merciless candor. He had been away four years and it was time for him to return. She told him why. She wrote what they, in their loving fear of inflicting pain, would never have dared to say. At the end, in a postscript, she had asked for his congratulations on her approaching marriage.

To Nathaniel this letter had been a torment. He saw the truth as he had never seen it before—that his place was back there in Vermont, with his father and mother; and that there was something unpleasant in thinking of the girl as belonging to another. But now matters had changed. The letter was a hope and inspiration to him and he smoothed it out with tender care. What a refuge that little home among the Vermont hills would make for Marion! He trembled at the thought and his heart sang with the promise of it as he went his way again through the thick growth of the woods.

It was half an hour before he came out upon the beach. Eagerly he scanned the sea. The Typhoon was nowhere in sight and for an instant the gladness that had been in his heart gave place to a chilling fear. But the direction of the wind reassured him. Casey had probably moved beyond the jutting promontory, that swung in the form of a cart wheel from the base of the point, that he might have sea room in case of something worse than a stiff breeze. But where was the small boat? With every step adding to his anxiety Nathaniel hurried along the narrow rim of beach. He went to the very tip of the point which reached out like the white forefinger of a lady's hand into the sea; he passed the spot where he had lain concealed the preceding day; his breath came faster and faster; he ran, and called softly, and at last halted in the arch of the cart wheel with the fear full-flaming in his breast. Over all those miles of sea there was no sign of the sloop. From end to end of the point there was no boat. What did it mean? Breathlessly he tore his way through the strip of forest on the promontory until all Lake Michigan to the south lay before his eyes. The Typhoon was gone! Was it possible that Casey had abandoned hope of Nathaniel's return and was already lying off St. James with Shotted gun? The thought sent a shiver of despair through him. He passed to the opposite side of the point and followed it foot by foot, but there was no sign of life, no distant flash of white that might have been the canvas of the sloop Typhoon.

There was only one thing for him to do—wait. So he went to his hiding place of the day before and watched the sea with straining eyes. An hour passed and his still aching vision saw no sign of sail; two hours—and the sun was falling in a blinding glare over the Wisconsin wilderness. At last he sprang to his feet with a hopeless cry and stood for a few moments undecided. Should he wait until night with the hope of attracting the attention of Nell and joining him in his canoe or should he hasten in the direction of St. James? In the darkness he might miss Nell unless he kept up a constant shouting, which would probably bring the Mormons down upon him; if he went to St. James there was a possibility of reaching Casey. He still had faith in Obadiah and he was sure that the old man would help him to reach his ship; he might even assist him in his scheme of getting Marion from the island.

Where the Women Come In.

Tie after tie the clerk placed before hard-to-please Percy. Red, yellow, blue, green, striped—all the colors of the rainbow. Some he liked and laid aside; others he returned to the salesman. But, to Percy's great interest, the salesman did not return all the "rejected" to the boxes whence they had come. Many he placed together in one capacious tray.

"Aren't you putting that back in the wrong box?" exclaimed Percy, at last, his curiosity aroused, as yet another rejected was tossed into the box of failures.

"Oh, no," replied the man. "We have orders, when five or six men turn down a tie, to take it out and put it aside."

"And is it then returned to the makers?" queried Percy.

"Oh, dear, no! We sell them to ladies who come in here to buy ties for their husbands."

Didn't Like Course Dinners.

A colored woman, native of the south, had been working for a flat dwelling family of moderate means in the East end, but resigned recently to accept a place bringing higher wages with a wealthy family who lived in a large house on Euclid heights and have their dinner served in courses every night just as if there was company.

This colored woman had been brought up to put everything on the table at once, with the exception possibly of the dessert, and did not take kindly to the course system.

A few days ago her former mistress met her on the street and inquired how she liked her new place.

"Oh, not very well," she replied. "I don't like this habit of 'savin' things in courses. The's too much 'shittin' o' the dishes fo' the fewness o' the vittles."

Matter of Principle.

"Is he lazy?"

"I would hardly say that. You've heard the expression: 'Unseemly haste?'"

"Why, certainly."

"Well, all haste looks that way to him."

FIRE RAZES 13 TOWNS DEAD MAY REACH 800

FOREST FIRES SWEEP WHOLE MINNESOTA-MANITOBA BOUNDARY; 5,000 ARE HOMELESS.

2,000 MISSING; BODIES FOUND SO FAR LOOK AS IF BAKED IN A RED-HOT OVEN.

Settlers Get Into Wells While Flames Sweep Over Them, Others Jump Into River.

As further details come in regarding the forest fires which have swept 3,000 square miles of territory along the Minnesota-Manitoba boundary, the catastrophe assumes larger proportions.

The estimated number of dead now has increased to 800 and 200 bodies have been found. The property loss has mounted into a hundred million dollars. The number of towns destroyed is 13.

The towns and villages burned are: Beaudette, Spooner, Roosevelt, Longworth, Swift, Pitt, Zippel, Solar, Cedar Spur, Gravel Pit Spur, Graceton, Engle.

Warroad Is Saved.

Warroad is saved after three days and nights of tireless effort. During that time all business was suspended and every available man and boy, headed by Mayor Moody, fought hand to hand with the flames. There is no wind and the worst is thought to be over throughout the fire-stricken area.

Crowded With Refugees.

Warroad is crowded with fugitives from the fire zone. Hotels, boarding houses and private dwellings are packed with homeless refugees.

Mayor Moody has made arrangements for the use of the opera house, which will afford temporary shelter for the unfortunates.

A relief train sent to Selo, on the Great Northern railroad, arrived with 200 refugees. They had to flee on such short notice that they had little but the clothing on their backs. Exhausted women carrying children and leading others, ran five and six miles through the dense smoke and flying embers to reach the railway.

The train came through fire that burned right up to the track on both sides. In some cases the train passed over blazing ties. About a dozen who refused to leave their homes were left behind.

109 Dead at Two Towns.

It has definitely been established that 109 persons perished near Spooner and Beaudette, as that many bodies have been recovered. Only one of these, a woman who became suddenly demented, was burned in Spooner, all the others being home-steaders.

To the south and east of Warroad, the country has been burned over. To the north is the Lake of the Woods. A large number of the refugees are leaving Warroad on every train and only 200 will be left. The people of Warroad will be able to take care of that number for at least a week. Both the Canadian Northern and the Great Northern railroads have given free transportation out of the fire zone.

Homeless persons by the thousand are pouring into the towns not yet swept by the flames.

Stories of wild animals fleeing for safety side by side with human beings, their mutual hostility and fear quenched by the horror of their situation, came in, showing the desperation of the situation. Tales also came of mothers burned to death with their babies on their breasts and men calmed while endeavoring to shield their children.

Arrested as Times Dynamiter.

Arrested as he was receiving mail at the postoffice at Sacramento, Cal., George Wallace is believed by the police to have taken part in the blowing up of the Los Angeles Times building, where 21 persons lost their lives.

The detectives say letters he received connect him with the dynamite conspiracy. Wallace is a miner and familiar with high power explosives. He will be held pending advices from Los Angeles.

The predictions made by a number of special correspondents who were sent to Messina after the terrible earthquake that the town would not be rebuilt again appear to have been justified. At any rate, the progress so far made is infinitesimal. It is now nearly two years since the catastrophe of December, 1908—and the authorities have not even begun to clear away the debris to any perceptible extent.

What the Entertainment Course Offers You

Announcements for the Citizens' Entertainment Course for the season of 1910-11 are now out and it would appear that the people of Plymouth are to have the chance to enjoy during the coming months the most varied and the best course ever offered here. As an evidence of the high class of the several numbers, it might be mentioned that three of the entertainments come here direct from Ypsilanti, where they appear upon one of the highest priced courses of the State. Being in this locality the local committee was able to secure these entertainments at a rate much lower than the usual charge by them and Plymouth audiences are to benefit thereby.

The course will open on Tuesday, Oct. 25, with a concert and entertainment by Elbert Foland and the Italian Boys. This company presents a musical and literary fantasy, entitled "A Night in Venice." This name in itself suggests beautiful costumes, delightful vocal and instrumental selections, blended with a story of an American's life in the city of art and music.

The second number of the course will be an evening with Opie Read on Wednesday, November 16. Opie Read is like no one else in the world. You may have enjoyed his books in the solitude of your library; you may have been stirred by his plays or spent delightful half hours in the reading of his character sketches, but unless you have sat within the sound of his voice or heard from his own lips the quaint tales that originate in his brain, you do not fully appreciate the splendid genius of the man. Wherever he appears he is received with enthusiasm and the people are to be congratulated that they are to have the privilege of seeing and hearing so unique a character.

Frederick E. Hopkins of Chicago appears as the third number of the course on Wednesday, December 7. Dr. Hopkins is a brilliant, magnetic and charming speaker. As an orator, entertainer and educator, no man in years has made a more emphatic success with lyceum audiences. He has now been on the lecture platform for seven years and has appeared on more than 500 lecture courses. He will undoubtedly lecture here on the subject "The Golden Fleece," of which all who have heard it speak highly.

As a deviation from lectures, musicals and literary entertainments, Durno, the magician, and his company will appear on Thursday evening, January 19. Durno is the sensation of thirty-one States and Canada, and is endorsed by both press and public to be the greatest comedy magician and illusionist America has ever produced. With him appears Carl Hermann, who is known as the "Prince of Violinists."

The closing number on the course will be a concert given by the Boston Lyrics on Friday evening, February 3. This company is somewhat new to Michigan, having spent most of its time in recent years in and around Boston, but the high testimonials received of their work assures a delightful and pleasant evening spent in their company.

Tickets are now being sold at the price of $1.00 for the course for adults and 75 cents for the course for children and students. All desiring reserved seats may secure them for 25c extra at the Wolverine Drug store at any time after Saturday, Oct. 22, at 9 o'clock a. m. Single admission tickets will sell at 50 cents.

Old Man Burned to Death.

John Dority was burned to death last week Thursday night. Mr. Dority lived all alone at Rough and Ready Corners, near Stark. About 9:30 o'clock neighbors saw the house all ablaze and rushing thither broke in the doors and found Mr. Dority lying on the floor near the door, clad in his night clothes, mostly burned off. Apparently the old man had tried to escape but was overcome and fell in his tracks. It is supposed a lamp was exploded or overturned that started the fire. The man lived some two hours after being taken from the burning house. He was about 80 years and had no near relatives.

Friday morning Undertaker Schrader was notified of the man's death and he conveyed the body to his morgue, where it was properly prepared for burial. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at the Newburg church, Rev. E. King conducting services.

County Clerks Farrell's Record a Splendid One

In Wayne county's long line of public officials, no name stands out more prominently than that of Thomas F. Farrell, the present county clerk. He is now nearing the end of his first term, and in that brief period he has instituted reforms that have resulted in the saving of many hundreds of dollars for the county and have made for the greater convenience, accommodation and protection of the public.

One of Mr. Farrell's first acts, as county clerk, was to put a stop to the practice then in vogue of holding up justices and ministers for a rake-off on all marriages put in their way. He gave his clerks to understand that the acceptance of any fee, tip or rake-off from such a source would mean instant dismissal, and he also instructed the clerks to show no favoritism in directing matrimonial candidates to justices and ministers.

Another reform instituted by Mr. Farrell had to do with the handling of moneys paid into the Wayne circuit court pending litigation of which he became custodian as clerk of the court. Formerly the interest on these funds was regarded as a perquisite. Mr. Farrell, on assuming office, asked the court to designate a depository, which it did. Then he transferred the money on hand from a savings to a commercial account, arranged for the payment of two per cent interest on daily balances and had the interest credited to each specific account. So, nowadays, when money in dispute is finally withdrawn, the person to whom it has been awarded gets the interest rather than the custodian.

This is one of many reforms that have won special commendation from the circuit judges. Mr. Farrell frequently has been complimented on the prompt and careful manner in which he has prepared the court docket. He has systematized the naturalization records, re-written old and faded indexes, cleaned out the record room and rearranged the old short books and journals in such a way that they are now readily accessible, and he has done all this without extra expense to the county. He is not through yet, nor will the work of reform cease with his re-election for a second term, of which there seems to be not the slightest doubt.

Refreshments were served. Plans for the Epworth League banquet Nov. 4th are well under way and give promise of a great function this year. The meetings of the Epworth League are decidedly inspiring.

Dr. Allen will hold the 1st quarterly conference of the charge Wednesday evening the 19th in connection with the church rally on that date. This will be a big event for our church, and every member should be present.

A young people's choir for the Sunday evening service has been organized and will be fine addition to the musical feature of the evening meeting.

The Sunshine Club have been amalgamated with the Standard Bearers and now comprise one society. They are a band of diligent devoted girls.

Is it Penniman Avenue Now?

(A petition was presented to the council Tuesday evening, signed by some thirty property owners, asking that the name of Sutton street be changed to Penniman avenue. There are about fifty-five property owners on the street. The petition was read and apparently without due consideration, a motion was made and passed "that the petition be granted.") Twenty-one of the 27 signers were ladies.

But the matter is not so easily disposed of. Sutton street is on record on the village plat and can't be wiped out in such fashion. A formal declaration by the village council, either by resolution or ordinance, is absolutely necessary and we are not sure but a public hearing must be given. There are no reasons whatever, but sentimental ones, for changing the name of the street at any rate, but if it is changed it should be done in a legal manner.

OBITUARY.

Laura Bell was born in Blenheim, Canada, Oct. 26, 1887, and came to Plymouth with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bell, when she was about 18 months old and even at that early age her sweet disposition and lovable nature was strikingly observable. She entered the Plymouth school at an early age and passed through the several grades, always with high standing, graduating with honors in the class of 1906, after which she taught in district schools for a time, when her health failed her. Later she took a course in Detroit business college, when she obtained a position as book-keeper in Detroit, which she filled with ability until her failing health again compelled her to give up her work. Although she was always frail, and many times she was sorely afflicted, her life apparently hanging upon a slender thread, yet she maintained her cheerful smile of hope through it all.

She was united in marriage to Walter E. Coogan of Detroit, December 22, 1908, and resided with him in Detroit, dearly enjoying her happy home until her untimely removal, which occurred at their residence Sunday, October 9. No husband could have been more devoted than hers and everything that skill and loving hands of a devoted husband and mother could do was done for her. Few possessed the charming personality and the lovable disposition of Laura Bell Coogan, and words fail to fully express her endearment to her life associates. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and mother, and many other relatives who are grief-stricken, besides her innumerable friends, who deeply deplore her loss and extend their heartfelt sympathy to the relatives.

Biliousness is due to a disordered condition of the stomach. Chamberlain's Tablets are essentially a stomach medicine, intended especially to act on that organ; to cleanse it, strengthen it, tone and invigorate it, to regulate the liver and to banish biliousness positively and effectually. For sale by all dealers.

QUIT

We want everybody to quit judging the looks of Furniture, and the comparative price incident thereto, by the pictures published in newspapers, trade journals or circulars. Remember a $15 Sideboard or a $10 Bedstead may look like a $25 article in a picture. The right way is to examine the goods. That can best be done at home.

We guarantee every piece of goods we sell. That means the price is guaranteed as well as the quality and stability of the goods. This, together with the fact that we deliver goods at your home free of expense and free from mar or breakage, ought to be an additional feature worth considering.

Just received a large Fall Line of Goods. New Bed Couches and Davenportes, New Sideboards, New Rockers, New Room-sized Rugs, New Carpet Selections and in fact something NEW in about every line carried.

Come in and at least let us show and price this line to you. No matter whether you buy or not—we will be pleased to have you just look at the goods. That's a favor to us—call at least.

IVONIA CENTER.

Miss Lillian Wolf was very agreeably surprised last Saturday night when 40 of her friends swooped down on her without any warning and all left with her some token of esteem to help her remember it was her birthday. Refreshments were served and all left at a late hour wishing her many returns of the day.

Mrs. John Stringer attended her aunt's funeral at Clarenceville Sunday. Will Smith and wife of Northville visited at Harvey Millard's Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peck visited Fred Truesdell and family Sunday.

Harvey Millard's new addition is nearing completion and looks decidedly fine.

Paul Helm has treated his house to a coat of white paint and it is very much improved by it.

Jack Frost caught us napping a couple nights of last week but did not seem to reach out very far from here nor did not do much damage.

ELM.

Martin Schrader of Plymouth called on Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ash last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Gow called on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rossow at Gilt Edge Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hirschlieb were in Detroit on business Monday.

An unknown man was run over and killed by the three o'clock flyer last Saturday one mile west of this place. The body was placed in the baggage car and taken on to Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Cort attended a wedding anniversary at Mr. and Mrs. John Cort's of Redford Sunday.

A number from here attended the funeral of Mrs. Nacker at Clarenceville Sunday.

James Glass is on the sick list and under the doctor's care.

Tuesday evening the members of the Baptist church gave a reception to Rev. W. W. DesAutels and wife. Short addresses of welcome were made by Rev. Caster and Rev. Farber for the churches, Prof. Isbell for the school, Deacon Robinson for the Baptist church, Fred Bogart for the bible school and by the Presidents of the various organizations of the church; and cordially responded to by Rev. DesAutels. Then followed a fine program of recitations and music. After the program the people were invited into the parlors of the church and refreshments were served.

Appreciated the Music.

Mr. Editor:—I wish to express my utmost appreciation of the singing of the male quartette at the funeral of Mr. T. C. Sherwood and hope by and by I may be permitted to listen when they will sing before the throne of God. May God grant that all singers and listeners may be found worthy to enter that sweet rest which the Lord has prepared for those who love and anxiously wait for his appearance.

Farmers are having considerable trouble with the noxious weed known as the wild carrot or yarrow which is securing a good foot hold in the lumber and lowlands of the county. The weed is said to be as bad as the Canadian thistle. The blossom and seed much resemble the tame yarrow, but the root is much like the carrot and is poisonous. The only sure way to keep it in check, it is stated, is to pull it. Cutting causes the plant to branch and send out an increased number of seed balls.

Paul Jones First American Naval Hero

by Edward B. Clark COPYRIGHT by W.A. PATTERSON

VISITORS to the Naval academy frequently write letters to the authorities in Washington asking why it is that the body of Admiral John Paul Jones is allowed to remain in an obscure corner under a stairway in one of the Naval academy halls. It is proposed eventually to provide a fitting resting place in the academy chapel for the remains of the great sailor, but one delay after another has come and the delay has not only caused comment, but complaint.

When the remains of the admiral were brought to America there was a great commemorative service. Theodore Roosevelt, who was then president, members of his cabinet and officers of high rank in the navy spoke in praise of the deeds of the hero, but when the exercises were over forgetfulness seemed to come where all had been attention.

John Paul Jones not only had a stirring, warlike life, but his life was touched with romance of a gentler kind.

The British government thought enough of this man to cause to be posted at every seaport in the United Kingdom this placard:

For the Capture of JOHN PAUL JONES, Commanding an American Ship, the Government will pay the sum of 10,000 Guineas

John Paul Jones was the first man to pluck a laurel wreath for the American navy. Taking into consideration the means at his command, his exploits were more daring and fully as successful as those which forty years later gave luster to the name of Bainbridge, Rogers, Porter and Decatur. Of the deeds of John Paul Jones, though they are written down in the histories of four nations, the world seems to know comparatively little today, while of the man, John Paul Jones, though volumes of speculation have been written, the world knows almost nothing. From his youth he seemed to prefer that everything touching his name should be shrouded, though he was nothing loath to demand proper recognition for the acts which he performed for his country's good.

FIGHT BETWEEN THE BON HOMME RICHARD AND THE SERAPIS

There have never been lacking insinuations that the real reason for the admiral's reticence arose from his desire to hide certain things which had been said touching his parentage. It was commonly reported at the time that John Paul Jones, though born to the family of John Paul, a thrifty Scotch gardener at Arbigland on the Solway firth, was in reality the son of Lord Sackville, upon whose estate Gardener Paul served. Careful inquiry has disproved the scandal. Jennie Madduff, the mother of the naval hero and the wife of Gardener Paul, was a woman of character, possessed in full measure of the homely domestic virtues.

It must be said here that the American admiral added the name Jones to his family name of Paul at the time when he first made application for a commission in the American navy. Why the name was added, though speculation has been rife for more than a century, no one to this day knows. The boy Paul, the youngest of five sons, was born in a little cottage standing in a glen near where the Nith comes flowing into the Solway. When only twelve years of age he was apprenticed to a ship merchant at White Haven, a village where years afterward the people frightened their children into obedience by the mention of "the demon, Paul Jones."

The future admiral's first voyage took him to the Rappahannock river of America. Twice or three times the trip was repeated, and finally, owing to the death of his master, the apprentice was released from his engagement at the age of sixteen. An elder brother had settled on the banks of the American river, and with him the boy lived and studied for some time. He again went to sea about the time that he attained his majority, sailing for Scotland as a first mate hand in a brig. On the voyage the captain and mate died, and the crew placed Jones in command. On his arrival in Scotland the owners of the vessel gave him the berth of captain.

Shortly after this Jones was made captain of the Providence, carrying twelve guns. He cruised about, capturing many merchantmen, and finally when off Nova Scotia he fell in with the Milford, a huge British frigate, which was disguised as a trading ship. Jones bore down on it until he was within pistol shot of the vessel. He then discovered his error, and by magnificent seamanship succeeded in escaping without a scratch, although a single well-directed broadside would have sunk his ship. The Milford chased the Providence, but was quickly left astern. The British ship kept firing at the Yankee long after it was out of range. In contempt and derision of this act of the British captain, and knowing that his actions were being watched through a glass, Jones ordered a single sailor to stand at the stern and shoot a musket at the pursuer every time he fired his big bow chaser.

After serious trouble with the jealous Hopkins, Jones was finally given command of the Ranger, eighteen guns. He took a number of prizes on the way, and finally put into a French port. At Paris he met the American commissioners, Silas Dean, Benjamin Franklin and Arthur Lee, and they secured him an audience at the French court. By request he aided in planning the operations of D'Estaing's fleet, which was shortly to leave for America.

The heroic fighting career of Jones was just about to begin, though with the fame that he won in the next few months came the unyielding hatred of all the people of his native country, and there came also the loss of the only woman he ever loved, and whom he had hoped one day to make his wife. British privateers had ravaged the American coast, had seized American merchandise and had burned some American towns. Jones believed in making reprisals, and he spread terror and alarm along the Irish, Welsh and English coasts.

He chose, however, as the place of direct attack White Haven, where he had lived as a boy and a youth, and the masts of whose shipping were in sight of his birthplace. He contemplated burning all the vessels at the place and looting the town. David Freeman, deserter from Jones' ship, spread the alarm among the inhabitants of the town, and Wallingford, one of Jones' lieutenants, was slow in carrying out some of his instructions. As it was, however, the ex-patriated Scotman succeeded in capturing one of the forts which guarded the place, leading the land attack in person. With his own hand he spiked every gun in the fortification, and then turned his attention to the firing of the shipping. As he was about to carry out this design a vast armed multitude appeared. They had been led to the scene by the deserter, David Freeman. Not to be balked in a part of his design, Jones succeeded in boarding one of the largest merchantmen in the Solway and applied the torch.

The Ranger had no sooner put out from the Solway than it ran across the British man-of-war Drake. The Drake was by far the heavier armed and manned, and a better equipped vessel than the Ranger. Jones, however, gave battle at once, and after a bloody fight he took the British vessel and hauled down its colors. He took his prize into a French port. The French people were not accustomed to naval victories over the English, let alone to victories won by an inferior force, and the name of Jones at once became the synonym for heroism.

After spreading terror once more along the coast of the British Isles, Jones returned to America to find the war ended.

Jones was essentially a sailor of fortune, and he went to St. Petersburg, where he was made an admiral in the Russian navy. On his way thither he stopped long enough in Denmark to flirt with the princess royal, who fell violently in love with him. Thirty English officers in the service of Russia threatened to resign if the "prate" were commissioned. Catharine said: "You'll have to double your number to make the loss equal to the gain." They stayed in the service. After winning honors in naval battles for Russia Admiral Jones went to Paris. There he was alternately grave and gay. He could have married into the houses of any of the nobility, but the memory of a Scotch girl was in his heart and there it stayed to the exclusion of all other loves until the day of his death.

WARS ON MOB.

Portugal's Rulers Cope With Ruffians Who Sack Convents.

The revolutionary leaders, having overthrown the monarchy, are now confronted with a scarcely less serious task of putting an end to excesses on the part of the rougher element of their own followers, who, having had a taste of mob rule, are prone to continue lawlessness for lawlessness sake.

The decree of summary banishment for 8,000 members of the religion orders and confiscation of their property, worth millions, gave excuse for brutal outrages against the clergy.

The provisional government has now recognized the seriousness of the situation and the police adopted severe measures to prevent the population sacking the religious establishments and to check the demonstration against the religionists pending their expulsion.

Misleading reports that the clericals were carrying on a guerrilla warfare from the windows of their establishments inflamed the public resentment against the religionists, many of whom were chased from their churches and convents.

Civil War Near in Spain.

Simultaneously with the calling out of the army reserves, Premier Canalejas has issued a solemn warning that Spain is on the verge of civil war and that the bitter fight which is being waged between the clerical and anti-clerical parties among the workmen of the country will contribute in no small degree to bring on the struggle.

The premier's statement has caused a general alarm throughout Spain and has intensified the anxiety which has prevailed since the neighboring country of Portugal expelled King Manuel and set up a republic.

On all hands the fear is expressed that the fires of revolution may pass the border and engulf King Alfonso's realm in the same cataclysm which already has swallowed up the Braganza dynasty.

The reported message of Alejandro Lerroux, chief of the Republicans at Barcelona, to Provisional President Braga of Portugal: "Start your revolution. We will take care of ours," is widely printed in the Radical press as indicating Republican plans for an uprising in Spain.

The government feels the deepest anxiety at the approach of Thursday, Oct. 13, which is now popularly known as "Ferrer day," when it is feared the manifestations marking the first anniversary of the execution of Prof. Ferrer will develop rioting which may result in a revolution.

Some persons who evidently had a mania for pennies broke into a Muskegon cigar store and emptied all the slot machines and cash register of the copers they contained.

HAPPENINGS IN THE CITIES

'49ers Going Into History, Unwept

CHICAGO.—The '49ers of California gold fever fame are passing into history. The epoch of which they are survivors is closed and the last of them are becoming too feeble to come to the annual reunion which has been held in Chicago on "admission day" each year for the last twenty years.

A notice reluctantly admitting these facts was issued recently by Secretary George W. Hotchkiss, the youngest of the California gold hunters, who at the age of seventy-nine is in too feeble health to take charge of a convention. The entire executive committee of the organization appointed last year is either dead or under a temporary disability preventing them from serving, and half of the fourteen pioneers who attended last year's meeting have since died.

A heroic effort to get trace of all surviving pioneers in the middle west resulted in the return "not found" of half of the hundred letters sent out by Mr. Hotchkiss, and while he hopes to find a few '49ers for a meeting on "discovery day," January 18, the secretary said sadly that in ten years they would all be gone and nothing but printed pages could tell of a movement whose like the world can never see again.

"It was a picked lot of young men who reached California in those days," he declared. "Only those who had the grit to spend months at sea or across Indian-infested plains and mountains succeeded in getting there. The people of today do not know how much their country owes to the '49ers. They did more toward the development of the United States than the men who fought in the revolution or any other single group of men. Most of them were very young. The man among them who was over twenty-five was rare. And they did not get rich. The men who came afterward on the railways, with capital and improved mining methods, or who went into real estate were the ones who reaped fortunes.

The pioneer who got enough for his railway fare and $1,000 more with which to buy a farm considered himself lucky. Those who came afterward on the railway we do not consider real pioneers. They are not eligible to our society.

"We were privileged to take part in an epoch of history unlike anything that had ever gone before, and it is something whose like can never be seen again. There may be other countries still to be developed, but there is no place left in the world where such a spreading of civilization over an enormous wilderness can take place in so few decades as it did in the western United States. The '49ers, as they went west in their prairie schooners, saw miles upon miles of fertile country whose existence had been scarcely known, and they were the most important factor in developing the entire west."

Puzzle to Trace the Lost Pennies

PHILADELPHIA.—What becomes of the vast volume of copper pennies that are turned out each year by the government? They are never called in and redeemed like some kinds of currency and coins, but they seem to disappear as fast as they are stamped and put in circulation.

It is unusual if the date on any of the pennies in a man's purse at the end of the day is over ten years back, yet the Philadelphia mint, which coins all the copper pennies, sends out in some years as many as $1,000,000 worth of them to the trade centers—100,000,000, one-cent pieces. If flat, edge to edge, in a row they would reach more than one thousand miles. And still there are some sections of the country where the penny is little known.

In many of the mountain districts of the south the "York shilling," 12½ cents, is still spoken of in trade, but no one ever hears the one-cent piece mentioned. In many towns in the south and west the tradesmen offer nothing for a penny, a five-cent purchase is the smallest that can be made. But of late there have been more demands for pennies from the west, and the government experts have declared that this is a sign of increased frugality.

In the east, the chief use of the penny, outside of filling the child's bank and buying the daily paper, is for the purchase of chewing gum and one-cent candies. The increase in the number of penny-in-the-slot phonographs and moving picture machines in the last few years shows another way to which the public has taken to get rid of its pennies.

Uncle Sam takes in many pennies for stamps and post cards, and many of them flow into the contribution box in the churches and religious societies. But all these ways in which the penny is put to use does not explain where they eventually go or what makes them disappear in such vast quantities every year. Even the government coinage experts do not give a satisfactory answer to the problem.

Circus Lemonade Tabooed in Kansas

TOPEKA, Kan.—Dr. S. J. Crumblin, secretary of the Kansas board of health, has put his official foot into the mixture always present at circuses, fairs, Fourth of July celebrations, picnics and other gatherings of a like nature. This mixture is known as lemonade—according to the Barker who spouts before the refreshment stands. Generally it is something that looks a little like lemonade because there is a lemon peel in the tub, but it hasn't the taste of the refreshing beverage mother makes.

Since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, the one chief delight of the small boy and girl and the big boy and his sweetheart has been to drink circus lemonade at the circus fair or picnic.

No one knows who invented the glad refrain of the lemonade stand barker, who in stentorian tones, calls: "Lemo, lemo, lemonade. Made in the shade. Stirred with a spade—Five cents a big glass."

These things have been among the sights and sounds of all picnics, celebrations and fairs and circuses since Kansas became a state. But no more will one hear these sounds or drink the "lemonade" about Kansas unless the dispenser has real lemonade to sell. The state board of health has put a damper on the noise of the barker because the board of health has ruled that a tub of water, in which is put some tartaric acid and saccharine and the peel of a lemon is not lemonade, but the imitation article, and cannot be sold as the real thing.

In Kansas all lemonade offered for sale must be made from the juice of lemons, water and sugar only. Imitation lemonade can only be made from citric acid and sugar and water. The use of the most common materials for making fake lemonade, tartaric acid and saccharine, is absolutely prohibited in this state.

The Lid Put on Tight in New York

NEW YORK.—Spurred on by Acting Mayor John Purroy Mitchell, Police Commissioner William A. Baker has caused several raids to be made on the gambling joints of this city, and the lid has been jammed on so tightly that $1,000,000 of capital invested in such places is idle just now, while the owners are wondering "what next?" Impatient over the veering delay, Acting Mayor Mitchell in a letter, following several raids, has put squarely up to Commissioner Baker all responsibility for the non-enforcement of laws against gambling and vice. He charges the police with being grossly derelict in their duties, and declares that the situation his secret service men report could not exist without police connivance. There is panic in the ranks of the gamblers as well as with the police.

Since the shooting of Mayor Gaynor placed him at the head of affairs Acting Mayor Mitchell has received many complaints. Some were appeals from mothers who declared that their sons were losing money in gambling places, and many were specific in their character.

Men from the office of the commissioners of accounts, the secret service department of the city government, found for Mr. Mitchell the violations of the law. The raids began and keys were soon in the doors of 40 gambling places along the Great White Way between Thirty-second and Sixty-ninth streets, and $1,000,000 of invested capital went out of business. The managers who were not crating their roulette wheels, their Faro layouts and their Klondyke sets in preparation for the exodus, were mournfully parading the streets in the vicinity of their houses, warning away prospective customers. It was the saddest day the gamblers have known since the Agnew-Hart racing bills went into force.

STANDARD CUTS PRICES.

Reductions Made in Europe and the Far East in Campaign to Increase Use of Kerosene.

New York.—J. I. C. Clarke, through whom the Standard Oil Co. makes its official announcements to the public, has issued a statement to the effect that the company has entered on a thoroughly mapped out campaign to increase the consumption of kerosene in European countries and the lands of the Orient. The first move in this campaign is the reduction of the prices of oil in those countries. Mr. Clarke's announcement says, in part: "The Standard Oil Co. has inaugurated a campaign to increase the world's consumption of refined oil. The level of prices for refined oil today in the United States is lower than at any time during recent years, and as a direct result of these prices the consumption of refined oil in this country is increasing. The same policy is now being actively pursued abroad."

As indicated by this statement, the Standard company began trying out the policy of lower prices in the United States, though without announcing that it had in view a campaign that would cover the world. In August the price of refined oil in tanks was reduced from 6½¢ to 5½¢ a gallon, and the price of refined oil in barrels at the refinery was cut 1 cent, from 9½¢ to 8½¢ a gallon.

M. U. R. Ordered to Open Books.

Judge Knappen has issued an order at Kalamazoo compelling the Michigan United Railways company to open its books for the investigation of stockholders of the Michigan Traction Co., absorbed some years ago by the M. U. R. The Battle Creek National bank made the appeal. James R. Elliott, secretary of the traction company, on a mandamus, delivered the books of the concern in his possession, but they were not the ones the stockholders wished to see, and Attorney Owen, for the company, asked the court for a supplementary order directed against the traction company. The Battle Creek bank, which holds about $16,000 worth of stock in the traction company, alleges that the merger was accomplished through fraud and wishes to see the books to find out the company's financial condition when the traction company was absorbed.

Plan for Uniting State Troops.

Adjt.-Gen. McGurrin announced that the war department has completed the plans of concentration for the militia of the central states, in case there should be need for calling the troops into the field. Under the scheme Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana troops would be combined to form the twelfth division, the basis of organization at present in vogue. The Michigan brigade of infantry would serve with those of the other two states under a major-general detailed from the army, with the artillery, cavalry and signal corps troops assigned to the same division.

Argue for New Charter.

Attorneys for Adlan presented an important question to the supreme court, at Lansing, relative to the vote on charter revision in the cities of this state. A proposal to revise the charter of Adlan was submitted to the voters last spring, but did not obtain a majority of all the votes cast, and the council refused to appoint a charter commission, declaring that the intent of the law is that the question must receive a majority of all votes cast, if it is to be effective. Citizens contend that the revision proposal was properly carried and ask the court to compel the council to appoint the commission, urging the law requires a simple majority of the vote cast on the question.

Explosion Buries 52.

Entombed by an explosion in the Starkville mine of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Co., at Starkville, Col., at least fifty-two men are the objects of heroic efforts of rescuers, trying to penetrate the black depths of the mine in the hope that some or probably all of the imprisoned miners might be rescued.

The presence of black damp, which almost invariably follows in the wake of coal mine explosions, makes the work of rescuers extremely hazardous.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Detroit is shown to be very near the top of the list of American cities in respect to its healthfulness. The death rate for 1909 was 14 to every 1,000 inhabitants.

Conductor Del Wilson and Motor-man B. F. Corkwell, in a Fort Wayne hospital, are held responsible for the Kingsland traction disaster, which cost the lives of 43 persons. Coroner Thomas returned this finding. Corkwell and Wilson were indicted for involuntary manslaughter.

Directors of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co., of which former Gov. David R. Francis was president, met at the Mercantile club, at St. Louis, on call of Samuel Kennard, vice-president; Charles Hurtig and Pierre Choteau, directors, and refused by resolutions to which they will give widespread publicity, the charges published in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that Francis, who is an active candidate for United States senator, personally profited from deals he helped to make as president of the exposition company.

D. H. Bryant, a Charlotte druggist, was sentenced to 20 days in jail and to pay $200 in fine and costs for violating the local option law. Bryant pleaded guilty.

In spite of a petition with many prominent names, Ben Sharpe, charged with assault to do great bodily harm, was sentenced by Judge Perkins, of Grand Rapids, to serve from two to ten years in the Ionia reformatory, with the recommendation of two years. Sharpe is the Stanwood farmer, who three years ago shot and seriously wounded Louis Powers, a neighbor, for the latter's attentions to Mrs. Sharpe.

ACT PROMPTLY.

Kidney troubles are too dangerous to neglect. Little disorders grow serious and the sufferer is soon in the grasp of diabetes, dropsy or fatal Bright's disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all distressing kidney ills. They make sick kidneys well, weak kidneys strong. E. C. McClanahan, Market St., New Richmond, O., says: "Kidney disease had almost brought me to my grave. I was rendered almost helpless and suffered agony. My feet were so badly swollen I could not walk. The kidney secretions were thick and painful in voiding. I doctored but steadily grew weaker. I then used Doan's Kidney Pills and gradually improved. They saved my life."

INFLUENCE OF THE MOTHER

Well to Remember That She Is Ever a Model of Behavior to the Children.

It is hard for a young mother, who has not yet overcome the wayward tendencies of her own youthful nature, to realize the influence she exerts over her little one. She is constantly surrounded by critical imitators who copy her morals and manners.

As the mother is, so are her sons and daughters. If a family of children are blessed with an intelligent mother, who is dainty and refined in her manner, and does not consider it necessary to be one woman in the drawing room and an entirely different person in her everyday life, but who is a true mother and always a tender, charming woman, she will invariably see her habits of speech and perfect manners repeated in her children.

Great, rough men and noisy, busy boys will always tone down their voices and step quietly and try to be more manly when she stops to give them a kind word and a pleasant smile. For a true woman will never fail to say and do all the kind, pleasant things she can that will in any way help to lift up and cheer those whose lives are shaded with care and toil. The mother of today rules the world of tomorrow.

TO SAVE TIME.

Algy Weaking—Miss Wise, law that is—Gladys, I-er-desire to-aw! really—

Not Responsible. Nurse—What's that dirty mark on your leg, Master Frank? Frank—Harold kicked me. Nurse—Well, go at once and wash it off. Frank—Why? It wasn't me what did it!—Punch.

The average married man kicks because his wife worries because he doesn't get home right on time, but suppose she didn't care whether he ever came or not?

DAME NATURE HINTS

When the Food is Not Sued.

When Nature gives her signal that something is wrong it is generally with the food. The old Dame is always faithful and one should act at once.

To put off the change is to risk that which may be irreparable. An Arizona man says: "For years I could not safely eat any breakfast. I tried various kinds of breakfast food, but they were all soft, starchy messes which gave me distressing headaches. I drank strong coffee, too, which appeared to benefit me at the time, but added to the headaches afterwards. Toast and head-aches were no better, for I found the toast very constipating.

"A friend persuaded me to quit the old coffee and the starchy breakfast foods, and use Postum and Grape-Nuts instead. I shall never regret taking his advice. I began using them three months ago.

"The change they have worked in me is wonderful. I now have no more of the distressing sensations in my stomach after eating, and I never have headaches. I have gained 12 pounds in weight and feel better in every way.

"Grape-Nuts make a delicious as well as a nutritious dish, and I find that Postum is easily digested and never produces dyspepsia symptoms."

"There's a Reason." Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. Ever read the above letter? A new age dawns from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Managing a Husband. Men are like children; they want managing, although you must never let them dream that you think so. No child likes to be ordered about, no man will endure coercion. But managing! It is an art so subtle, so elusive, that few women understand even the rudiments of it. Sisters mine, let us reason together, says Woman's Life. In every human being there is a spark of the divine; it is yours to fan that spark into a flame—that is managing a man—it is to get the very best out of him there is to have, and not two women in ten can do it.

Do not think that there is anything unworthy in managing a man—to bring out the best is a high vocation. Only let us see to it that we are worthy of it. There are women who have made angels of men, but at the cost of their own divinity. There is room for more than one unselfish person in a family.

It is a shame for people who have in their lives a consciousness of love and character and courage, to fall into the wasteful folly of unhappiness about the unimportant.—Margaret DeLand.

Temporary Heat Quickly

Did you ever stop to think of the many ways in which a perfect oil heater is of value? If you want to sleep with your window open in winter, you can get sufficient heat from an oil heater while you undress at night, and then turn it off. Apply a match in the morning, when you get out of bed, and you have heat while you dress.

Those who have to eat an early breakfast before the stove is radiating heat can get immediate warmth from an oil heater, and then turn it off.

The girl who practices on the piano in a cold room in the morning can have warmth from an oil heater while she plays, and then turn it off.

The member of the family who has to walk the floor on a cold winter's night with a restless baby can get temporary heat with an oil heater, and then turn it off. The

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

STATE G. O. P. PROGRESSIVE

Platform Pledges Party to Promote Political and Industrial Welfare of Michigan.

TAFT RECEIVES ENDORSEMENT

Republicans Congratulated Upon the Nominations of Townsend and Osborn—Publicity of Sources of Campaign Funds Recommended—Extension of Good Roads System Favored.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 10.—The platform of the Republican party of Michigan, as adopted by the convention, is, in part, as follows:

"We, the Republicans of Michigan in state convention assembled, reaffirm our fidelity to the principles of the political party which our state gave to the nation more than a half century ago.

"We renew our faith in, and express our admiration for the president of the United States, whose leadership and personality strengthen the confidence of the American people in their institutions. William Howard Taft, jurist, diplomat, governor general and cabinet officer in the administrations of William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt, has, as president, increased our prestige with foreign nations, and vigorously dealt with international problems of vital interest to the country. His presidential career has been conspicuous and consistent in its labors for the people.

"We commend congress for the beneficent legislation which it has enacted.

"In state affairs the Republican party declares for that probity and efficiency in the affairs of the commonwealth which are typified in the character of the eminent scholar, traveler, author and statesman, Chase S. Osborn, whom we offer to the people of our state as a candidate for governor worthy of the suffrage of every voter who loves ability, courage and honesty in high places. The personnel of the ticket which he heads is ample guarantee to the people of Michigan that under Republican rule the state will be given an administration which will be honest, economical and businesslike.

"We stand for efficiency in public office and pledge our nominee to an administration in which every public dollar shall buy as much as a private dollar, whether in services or supplies. We regard dishonesty in the public service as a form of treason worthy of the severest punishment. We stand pledged to the exposure and punishment of all wrongdoing in public service, of whatever name or degree. We likewise stand pledged to a businesslike administration with the fewest possible employes, boards and other governmental agencies consistent with good service.

"The people of Michigan are to be congratulated on the recent enactment of wise and well considered laws in their interest.

"We believe that the operation of the primary law has increased the interest of the electorate in the choice of the political candidates. We recommend the passage of a primary election statute which shall require the publication before election of statements showing in detail the expenditures by candidates for nomination to public office, and the source of contributions to their campaign funds, and such amendments to the primary law as will best serve to commend it to the active interest of the voter.

"We believe in the conservation of all natural resources.

"We urge upon the next legislature the designation of a commission of experts which shall review the entire system of taxation in the state, with the purpose of securing for the people the full measure from every species of property (except exempt property) which the commonwealth is entitled to draw, and the correction of inequalities in taxation wherever found.

"We favor the creation of a non-salaried, non-partisan commission which shall be empowered to control the conservation, propagation and protection of the state's wild game and fish.

"We favor the extension, where possible, of the good roads system.

"We congratulate our party upon the nomination for United States senator of Hon. Charles E. Townsend, one of Michigan's most distinguished sons.

"In conclusion the Republican party is the party of progress. It has stepped forward to meet the great responsibilities of the past. It must solve the problems of the future. Under its control of state and national affairs a marvelous material prosperity has been attained. That prosperity is attended by evils which must be controlled. Material prosperity and business decency are not incompatible.

"The Republican party wages no war on corporations honestly conducted, or wealth honestly acquired, but it wages relentless warfare against lawlessness and abuse whether practiced by the big or by the little.

"We pledge our party to promote the moral, political and industrial welfare of our state, so far as legislation and administration can accomplish it."

PROGRESS G. O. P. WATCHWORD

Republican Candidate For Governor, In Speech Before State Convention, Says Pingree Was One of First Progressive Leaders—People Are Now In Power, He Says.

Chase S. Osborn, in his speech before the Republican state convention, said, in part:

"Michigan Republicans are concerned first for the state and secondly for the party, but always for both, which is as it should be. They are determined that their state shall be the best governed in the nation, and they are equally insistent that the Republican party shall be the instrument of that accomplishment.

G. O. P. Reflects People's Character.

"It is profoundly satisfying to see the internal activity of the grand old party in its successful effort to prune and purge itself, accomplish a poised development in harmony with the times and take a position of new usefulness to nation, state and all the people. There can be no organic or fundamental weakness in the Republican party that does not exist in or of the people, because it has been for ages the party of majority and must have taken on the character of the majority of the people. The Democratic party has lost its best men to the Republican party because they could find within the Republican party opportunity to serve their state. They found that in failure the Democratic party led only to a dismal nowhere, and it wanted to a point where it even lost the powers of adequate criticism, all so necessary to a government by a free people. To compensate for this loss the Republican party instinctively took itself over to careful introspection, asked itself a number of most pertinent questions and out of it all has come a new band of progressive Republicans led by the most fearless and able public man in the world today, Theodore Roosevelt.

"This, out of the old party chrysalis will come a newer and better Republican party, more alert than ever to guard the interests of all the people and guide the nation to the highest achievement of human destiny.

M. C. Dominated State Politics.

"Under the old regime the Ohio Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad companies owned Wisconsin politically, the Michigan Central dominated Michigan politics; the New York Central, United States Express company and allied interests ruled in New York. There came a LaFollette in Wisconsin, a Pingree in Michigan, a Roosevelt in New York. Similar conditions existed in almost all the states, and nearly all have developed progressive leaders to wrest them from the powers of privilege. Philletus Sawyer and John C. Spooner tried to run over LaFollette with the car of political juggernaut. This embittered the young fighting man and made of him an extremist. The Michigan Central machine fought Pingree, but the people saw in him a sturdy champion of their rights and supported him. Platt and Depew fought Roosevelt to their discomfiture and defeat.

"So the people find themselves in power. But in power they must be right and just. Individual injustice is bad enough, but in its destructiveness it cannot be compared with the power for evil of public injustice. The future will show the public viewpoint to be fair.

Roosevelt Marvelous Leader.

"I may be pardoned for calling attention to the rather unusual fact that all, or nearly all, of the progressive leaders are great political lawyers who have never had business experience and for whom it may be difficult to see the commercial viewpoint. They will undoubtedly appreciate this fact and seek counsel of honest and patriotic business men of wide accomplishments. Selfishness may be trusted, usually, to care for the commercial side of the nation's interest, leaving another, and, in the past, rarer instinct to develop and guard the ethical interest. Personally, I believe that Theodore Roosevelt is not only a marvelous leader, but is unselfish and is not aiming at personal political gain; that he is a teacher and preacher whose power for usefulness is greater as a private citizen than as president.

"Our race will not be one for martial supremacy of the world, but for love and mercy and justice. The impudence and unhappiness of wealth will disappear before the better attributes of heart. There will be no servant and no master, but a friendship and brotherhood where the strong will help the weak. Until these things come to pass the thin veneer of civilization will flly conceal the barbarian beneath.

"So let us work together for our mutual refinement and improvement, nor leaving Poe's lines:

"Truths would you teach or save a sinking land? All fear, none aid you, and few understand."

YANKFOSKI LOVES PARROTS

But When Wife's Parrot Perched on His Face in Bed He Rebelled.

Yielding to no man in his affection for our dumb friends, Valentine Yankofski of Winsted, Conn., who appeared before Judge Williams and obtained a decree of separation from Mrs. Yankofski, said he drew the line at trying to dwell in peace and amity with a household of cats, parrots and dogs.

He told Judge Williams he believed in pets when the pets are kept in their proper places, but that he is far from convinced that the cats, parrots and the rest of the menagerie should have carte blanche as to what they may do in a house.

He had stood up as long as he could under the affliction of having his wife's trained animals sit at the table with him, but when he remonstrated she said that not only could they share his board, but that when the time came at night for the Yankofskis to retire this hour was also to be the animals' bedtime.

The plaintiff, who said his wife had gone away leaving no forwarding address, was at a loss to explain her exodus on any ground other than that she had become plighted when he kicked a parrot out of bed simply because the bird had chosen the Valentine Yankofski face as a perch.

Mr. Yankofski said also that the dogs with whom his wife had insisted that he share his couch had developed a fondness for sleeping in the daytime and spending the night roaming over him. Being of an affectionate disposition, Yankofski volunteered to provide separate maintenance for the animal act, but his wife had declined to be separated from her pets and had gone away, taking the pets with her.

SOME MAN SOME DAY

May Make a Medicine for Brights Disease, Rheumatism, Stomach and Bladder Trouble the Equal of SAN-JAK, BUT NOT YET.

It is the Only Medicine which Enables You to Keep a Perfect Balance Between the Eliminations and Renewals of the Body.

Decay of the Body in Old Age is Unnatural.

Permanent wastes of the system can be avoided by taking SAN-JAK, making each day a birthday for the person who has a bottle of this great medicine on hand. Read and learn how to cure Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Lame Back and Stomach Diseases.

When the products of exhaustion reach the brain and deaden the nerve centers, as in the case with all old people limiting their ability to think and act unless they have the power to oxidize the acids that accumulate during sleep and eliminate them, they had better get a bottle of Dr. Burnham's San-Jak. I am 80 years old and have kept a bottle of this medicine in my house during the past year and take a dose quite often so I know it helps to give strength and activity.—D. O. Kelly, 311 Washburn st., Lansing.

Mrs. I. M. Brown, mistress of the Butler House, Lansing, Mich., says: "One year ago I was in very poor health, sick and weak from that much dreaded disease, Kidney trouble, called 'Bright's disease' by physicians. I have taken about one dozen bottles of San-Jak and all symptoms of old troubles to annoy me, I have this letter for the benefit of my neighbors.

Dr. Burnham, Owosso, Mich., May 28, '08. Your inquiry as to my health in reply I have taken 8 bottles of your San-Jak and can cheerfully recommend it as the best medicine I ever found and the only one that cured me of diabetes. I am doing harder work than I ever did and I am perfectly well. Yours respectfully, F. B. HOLMAN.

J. F. Roe, 41 E. Main st., Battle Creek, says: "I wish to state that your San-Jak cured me of Bright's disease after the local doctors said I could not live."

E. S. Hough, ex-judge of probate of Lapeer county, says: "I bought a bottle of San-Jak of P. P. Showman, the druggist of Lapeer. I felt I was 100 years old, with great distress of the stomach, and was very sleepy feeling, which the medicine has cured. I cheerfully permit the use of this letter for the benefit of others."—E. S. HOUGH.

Lapeer, Mich., March 10, 1908. Mrs. T. S. Curtis, R. F. D. No. 2, Lapeer, says: "I wish to tell you how much good your San-Jak has done me. I have had the rheumatism and liver trouble 17 years. Sometimes my feet and limbs were swollen so I could not wear my shoes. I have taken one and one-half bottles of your remedy. The heat has all gone down. The pain gradually left and the stiff joints are getting more limber. I think 3 or 4 bottles of your San-Jak will cure me completely. Mere thanks in words is a feeble way of telling how grateful I feel for the benefits bestowed upon me by your medicine."

St. John's, Mich., March 12, '08. Mrs. John Fitz says: "I have been in very poor health for the past seven years and have since childhood been afflicted with sick headache. I have taken 8 bottles of San-Jak and it has done me a wonderful good. I am now able to do light work and gaining in strength. I wish every lady in Michigan could have a bottle of it. I feel weak and ailing, for I believe it is the greatest medicine in the world for the fact that my case was hopeless and my physicians said I could not be helped by medicine."

It restores the aged to health and youth. No remedy equal to San-Jak as a blood tonic. The tired feeling leaves you like magic.

We will give $100 to any church or charitable institution if these testimonials are not genuine.

Warm Floors Insure the Children's Health

Cole's Hot Blast Draft on top of the fire burns the coal from the top—burns the gas, which is wasted with all other stoves. The force of this downdraft forces the heat to the base which is made of steel—cannot burn out—and heats the floor. Thousands of testimonials have been written regarding the base heating qualities of

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

The ideal heating stove is one which radiates all the heat thrown off from the fuel—into the room—instead of letting it go up the chimney. The durable heater is the one which will withstand the severe use, year after year, such a heating stove is necessarily subjected to. Sheet steel is the quickest radiator of heat and is used as radiating surface only in Cole's Hot Blast heater. Wherever the fuel comes in contact with the linings—only first quality gray cast iron is used. Cast iron withstands the wear of the heat from active combustion better than any other material, and the large, sensitive, sheet metal body and base radiate all the heat into the rooms. Burns Soft Coal, Black Lignite, Hard Coal, Wood and lighter fuel. Make your selection now.
