"The Fourth Estate" at the Garrick, Detroit

Direct from a record-breaking run of six months in New York city and seven months in Chicago, "The Fourth Estate," the great play of newspaper life by Joseph Medill Patterson and Miss Harriet Ford, will be seen for the first time in Detroit at the Garrick theatre, next Monday evening, November 28th. The engagement is for six nights only and includes the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

"The Fourth Estate" is a great play of newspaper life and by a newspaper man who "knows the game." Not only is the play beautifully acted, but its mechanical effects and situations are of a nature which not only thrill with their power and startle with their unexpectedness but the theme of the play is so big, its great questions so easily a part of the every day life and problems of every man and woman who sees it, that it makes an irresistible appeal, not only to the senses but to the mentality. The play has been staged with a breadth and massiveness which could only make for popularity. Its scenes are marvels of stagecraft, and nothing greater than the much talked of composing-room scene, with its linotype machines, its blazing lights, its tolling printers and its hum of industry has ever been given to the stage.

The cast of players is the same which gave the play its great vogue in both Chicago and in New York. For the benefit of out-of-town theater-goers, the management of the Garrick theatre announce that mail orders, when accompanied by a remittance, will receive prompt attention and will be filled in the order of their receipt. No better advice to theater-goers and to non-theater-goers as well, can be given than the terse editorial written by the editor of the Chicago Tribune, who said "Go see it!"

The prices for this engagement will range from 25 cents to $1.50. Matinees on Wednesday and Saturday—25 cents to $1.00 for the best seats.

GIVE SWEETS TO PRISONERS

Delicacies Passed Through Bars to Unfortunates Confined in Turkish Jails.

A Turkish prison is an experience. A writer in the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune says. You enter through the cellroom. As a matter of fact, there is just one huge cell into which you are crowded with the dozen odd others.

To one side is a divan, where there are trays of Turkish coffee for his guests. Here, every one being guilty until proven innocent, prisoners of native birth are remanded to the cells. With foreigners, however, care must be taken and if one speaks not the Turkish they set you in durance till they find some one speaking French.

The prison is a ramshackle frame, the lower story comprising the one cellroom. In this, again, all prisoners are thrust together, and the windows are like the cell casements. Folk of the town take it as an act of religious devotion, frequently, to feed the prisoners dainties, and so one sees these lined up before the bars reaching the cakes through the grating as you might reach things to the apes at the zoo.

Bees as Weapons of War.

Probably the most remarkable weapons of war ever used on the field of battle were swarms of bees. There are at least two well authenticated instances of the use of this novel and stinging weapon. The first is related by Appian of the siege of Themisiera. In Pontus, by Lucullus, on his war against Mithridates. Turrets were brought up, mounds were built and huge mines were made by the Romans. The people of Themisiera dug into these mines from above, and through holes cast down upon the workmen bears and other wild animals, together with swarms of bees.

The Old French Mail.

Even with a railway strike on, the mails can be carried much more quickly between Paris and the coast than in the old days, thanks to the motor car. Before 1843 the time allowance for the Indian mails between Calais or Boulogne and Marseilles was 102 hours, which was nearly always exceeded. Then the French government undertook to do it in 72 hours and put on a special light fourgon for the work. Bafne's "On the Track of the Mail Coach" describes the adventures of this vehicle on one journey. At St. Etienne it killed a child running across the road. Then the wheels, insufficiently lubricated, caught fire four times. Linchpins came out and wheels off. There was a collision with a cart, the postilion being flung from his saddle and seriously injured. Going up hill at Neully the eight horses revolted and upset the fourgon. Yet only 48 minutes were lost between Calais and Marseilles—London Chronicle.

How to Sleep Well.

Do not go to bed tired and cramped and brain weary in a close room and lie in a huddled, tense heap, thinking for hours and tossing about. If you can't get relief to your lungs by fresh air before retiring, insist upon plenty in the sleeping chamber. Undress and think and busy yourself in some trivial manner in a comfortable lounging robe. Do all your thinking before the light goes out, then go to sleep. Try to get the blood away from the head, not into it. To eat something light has this effect, and induces sleep when reading would have the opposite effect. When you finally get ready for bed, draw some deep breaths of fresh air and lie down, not in a heap, but comfortably relaxed, a little on one side preferably the right, so as to allow the heart free play.

CHILDREN'S BUREAU PREPARES CAMPAIGN

IMPROVEMENT AIMED AT A YEAR ACO NOT OBTAINED.

FOR MORE BINDING MEASURE

Closer Relation Between the Working Paper Proposition and the School System Desired for Safeguarding of Children.

Lansing.—The new children's bureau of Detroit is preparing to inaugurate a vigorous campaign for a new child labor law in Michigan. At the meeting of the bureau at Detroit, Chairman Fred M. Butzel was empowered to appoint a committee to draft either a new law or an amendment to the present one so that alleged laxity whereby many children who ought to be in school are now granted working papers, shall be eliminated and the authority of the board of education to conduct the preliminary investigations restored.

"Unquestionably the administration of the child labor law in Detroit today is better than the law itself," declared Fred M. Butzel. "A closer relation between the working paper proposition and the school system is very much desired for the safeguarding of children."

"The improvement aimed at in the amendment of the child labor law of Michigan a year ago were not obtained for the reason that those pushing the amendment failed to work in harmony with the employers of labor in the state," said Rev. Myron Adams. "The result is that the amended law as it stands today is worse than the original enactment. The old law provided that the preliminary investigation on which working permits were to be issued should be conducted by the educational authorities. The new law is so worded that the preliminary investigation is now conducted by factory inspectors. That this is unwise and positively harmful is shown by the recent revelations of factory conditions in this city as regards child labor and sanitary regulations."

"One weakness of the law in Michigan lies in a clause which permits underage children to go to work if their work is necessary for the support of the family. Here is where much laxity creeps in." It is likely that the findings of the special child labor committee of the children's bureau, will be turned over to the special legislation commission of the Central Council of Charities of Detroit, which is soon to be created to "lobby" for up-to-date social legislation at Lansing.

In addition to overhauling the child labor law, the children's bureau is preparing to investigate the administration of the municipal ordinance relating to the age and condition of newsboys. Complaints have come into the bureau from many quarters that this ordinance is not being properly enforced.

State in Panic Over Smallpox.

"I think the smallpox situation is much improved," said Dr. F. W. Shumway, secretary of the state board of health. "There has been one death and one new case in Saginaw and a similar report comes from the Lapeer home, but I believe the repressive measures at those points are successful and that they have the epidemic in hand."

"There will be more or less cases throughout the winter, but if the people vaccinate as ordered and enforce quarantine regulations, I do not look for any more serious outbreaks anywhere."

"The people are in a panic now, but if they will take the necessary precautions I think we shall be able to protect all localities from any such stages as Saginaw and Lapeer are undergoing."

At the request of President Hutchins of the university Doctor Shumway is notifying the railroads not to bring passengers from Saginaw, Lapeer and Flint to Ann Arbor to the football games.

"I am informed that the electric car service between Saginaw and Bay City has been abandoned," said Doctor Shumway. "The city of Saginaw is taking every precaution and I am in hopes we are through the worst of it, if people will take hold and help protect themselves, rather than indulge in wild fright."

At Battle Creek Doctor Shumway was reported to have declared his belief that smallpox is menacing the entire state and that the epidemic is spreading from the cities of Saginaw, Flint and Lapeer to southern Michigan. Doctor Shumway declared there must have been a misunderstanding in the food city as to what he said, and that he does not expect a statewide epidemic.

Association Elects Officers.

At the closing session of the Michigan Forestry association the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Charles W. Garfield, Grand Rapids; vice-president, John H. Bissell, Detroit; secretary, Fillbert Roth, Ann Arbor; assistant secretary, Henry G. Stevens, Detroit; treasurer, W. B. Mershon, Saginaw; board of directors, J. E. Beal, Ann Arbor; J. J. Hubbell, Manistee; Mrs. Lena E. Mautner, Saginaw; James Satterlee, Lansing; W. E. Williams, Pittsford; Mrs. L. Hubbard, Houghton.

To Spend Xmas in Plague Camp.

In a report received by Dr. Shumway, secretary of the state board of health, Dr. Frazer, health officer in Lapeer, states that there are now 15 cases of smallpox in the state home for the feeble-minded. To date there have been nine deaths. None of those now sick are expected to die. Supplementary to the report, Dr. Frazer stated that he will ask that the troops be kept on quarantine guard duty as long as the disease is prevalent in the home, "even if it takes a year."

There are 43 members of the Flint company on duty in Lapeer. This includes officers and enlisted men, and their services are costing, it is estimated, the county of Lapeer about $100 a day.

There is not a possibility of the soldiers being ordered out of Lapeer before January 1, and the guardsmen are preparing to spend Christmas in camp.

At a special meeting of the board of health and the city school board in Mayor Bennett's office it was decided that, owing to the outbreak of five new cases of smallpox in one family in the city, a general compulsory vaccination of all school children in the city should be ordered. The order was put into the form of a resolution and adopted.

All school children will be vaccinated at the expense of the city in cases where the parents are unable to pay the required amount. Schools will not be closed unless the epidemic breaks out in other parts of the city. Strict enforcement of the quarantine and vaccination orders will be made, and it is thought that with the co-operation of the citizens of Lansing the disease will not obtain a greater foothold here.

The members of the Ingham County Medical society met to discuss the price for vaccination, the point being raised by Doctor Shumway of the state board of health. After an executive session the physicians said they had decided to leave the charge as before.

"We have always had a sliding scale," said Secretary Samuel Osborn of the society. "Our regular price has always been one dollar, and this price will be maintained. If some one comes in who is unable to pay that amount we will not charge them for the operation, for we are willing to work for the city's welfare."

"It is not fair to say that the members of this society are trying to rob the public at this critical time."

Hot Race Is On in National Guard.

Who will be the next adjutant general of the Michigan National Guard? This question is being asked with a good deal of interest in every city where there is a National Guard company, and from appearances it is believed that Gen. William T. McGurkin of Grand Rapids will succeed himself.

The Second infantry, which General McGurkin formerly commanded, has incensed him solidly, as has the Third infantry, commanded by Col. George B. McCaughna of Owosso. Of the First infantry, the two companies located in Jackson and the companies in Ann Arbor and Monroe, comprising the Second battalion, have also petitioned the governor-elect for the retention of the present adjutant general; so has battery A of Lansing and the signal corps located in Ypsilanti.

Gen. Robert J. Bates of Sault Ste. Marie, whose three-year term as commander of the Michigan brigade ends January 1, is still apparently confident that he will be the next adjutant general, and is said to be collecting endorsements, but these are mostly of a political and business character.

Smallpox Cases Still Increase.

The smallpox situation at Saginaw continues to be most favorable, reports of three new cases being given the board of health. Two of these cases have been under quarantine, and in one instance the patient has practically recovered. In the other two the attack is very mild.

Local health officers declare that never in the history of the world has smallpox been combated as strenuously as in this city, and in this claim they have the backing of President McLean of the state board of health and Dr. F. P. Shumway, its secretary.

'Kazoo Officials Look for Clash.

There is going to be a hot clash when members of the state railroad commission come to Kalamazoo to meet with Kalamazoo city officials. City officials of Kalamazoo accuse the commission of attempting to shift the responsibility for not protecting the East Main street crossing. Press dispatches from Lansing say that members of the commission were told by the city officials to let the crossing alone.

Appointed Assistant Geologist.

The state geological survey has appointed Reginald E. Hore of the Michigan college of mines to the position of assistant geologist in charge of the Houghton office. Mr. Hore has had long experience in the Lake Superior region, both in Canada and the upper peninsula of Michigan. The appointment takes effect December 1.

Livingstone Is Delegate.

Governor Warner appointed as delegates to represent Michigan at the convention of the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterways association, to be held in St. Louis, November 25-26: Fr. M. J. Crowley, Monroe; Otto C. Davidson, Iron Mountain; W. C. Durant, Flint; Charles A. Floyd, Holland; William Forbes, Port Huron; E. E. Fox, Bay City; Fred W. Gage, Battle Creek; William Livingstone, Detroit; Stanley Morton, Benton Harbor; Ezra Rust, Saginaw; John Sherman, Ludington.

JUST-BEFORE-THANKSGIVING CALAMITY

STANDARD OIL WINS

FEDERAL JUDGE ORDERS VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY IN REBATE CASE.

U. S. FAILS TO PROVE CHARGE

Company Alleged to Have Received Freight Concessions in Violation of Elkins Act—Government Sought to Assess $30,000,000 Fine.

Jackson, Tenn., Nov. 18.—Judge John E. McCall of the United States district court instructed the jury in the case of the government against the Standard Oil company of Indiana to return a verdict of not guilty. Judge McCall sustained the contention of counsel for the defendant that the United States had failed to prove the allegations set forth in the indictment.

The oil company has been on trial for a week charged with receiving freight rate concessions in violation of the so-called Elkins law.

Suit Begun Under Roosevelt. The Tennessee suit against the Standard Oil company of Indiana was one of a number of federal attacks based on anti-rebate laws to be inaugurated by the department of justice under the Roosevelt administration, and the line of prosecution followed in a number of significant details the case in which a $29,000,000 fine was imposed by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis in Chicago, only to be set aside by the federal court of appeals.

In the indictment as framed by the Tennessee grand jury the Standard of Indiana was charged on 1,524 counts with shipping its product from Whiting, Ind., to the southeast, at rates less than the published and filed schedules.

The same question came up as to what the basis of the unit of offense should be that confronted the court in the Chicago case and on Tuesday Judge McCall, having in mind the discussions that were held in Chicago, decided that the number of payments represented by the transactions involved should be considered the number of offenses.

Asked a Fine of $30,000,000.

The government sought to have assessed penalties aggregating $30,084,000. There were only forty-six payments shown to have been made, however, in settlement of freight charges covering the disputed shipments, and the ruling that a payment should constitute the unit of offense reduced the possible maximum fine to $920,000, and foreshadowed the failure of the suit.

"SANE" FOOTBALL KILLS 14

Injured Number 43 During Season Just Closing—New Rules Slightly Less Casualties.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—A total of 14 dead and 43 seriously injured was the price paid for football by its followers during the season just closing, despite the use of the new rules, which were brought into being in an effort to reform the game and make it less perilous to the players.

That the new rules were successful to a more or less extent in keeping down the list of victims, is shown by the decline in the list of victims, as compared with the previous year.

During the football season of 1909 there were 23 players killed and 64 injured. Of the latter, eight died between the close of the 1909 season and the opening of the 1910. Two years ago there was one less death than in 1910, but the number of injuries ran much higher. There were 134 youths so badly hurt that they were forced to have the attention of surgeons.

John D.'s Nephew Dies.

New York, Nov. 18.—Joel Francis Freeman, friend and nephew of John D. Rockefeller, formerly secretary of the Standard Oil company, and at one time president of the National Standard Insurance company, is dead at his home in East Orange, N. J. He was seventy-four years old.

SUFFRAGETTES' ARMY ATTACKS PARLIAMENT

Women Descend on Session of British Lawmakers and 116 Are Arrested After Lively Fight.

London, Nov. 19.—One hundred and sixteen of the 1,000 militant suffragettes who marched on the parliament building were arrested after a lively fight with the police.

Led by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the women made a determined attempt to force the police corridor about the house of commons and, reaching Premier Asquith, to insist upon the introduction of a woman's suffrage bill.

The women made every effort within their power to break the lines, bringing into play some rare military strategy and football tactics. Fighters in the front ranks retired many times to make way for fresh reserves, but the police were too strongly entrenched. Orders had been given the officers to make as few arrests as possible, but it soon became necessary to jail as many of the women as could be captured.

After Parliament square had been cleared the three leaders of the demonstration, led by Mrs. Pankhurst, were permitted to enter the lobby of the house of commons, where they were met by Mr. Asquith's secretary and informed that the premier would not see them and said that there was no chance for a suffrage bill at the present session.

The women presented a sorry spectacle when the battle was over. The hair of the most of them was disheveled and there were many badly torn dresses. The only bloodshed reported was by a constable, who sustained a knife cut on the hand during the melee.

SEES WIFE BURN TO DEATH

Disabled Husband Unable to Aid Woman Who Is Afire—Child Starts the Blaze.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Unable to move because of injuries sustained in a boiler explosion two weeks ago, Thomas Kelly, a watchman, was compelled to remain seated in a chair ten feet away and look on while his wife, Mrs. Alice Kelly, forty-five years old, her clothing in flames, stood screaming for help.

The woman's hair and nearly all of her clothing had been burned off when a neighbor reached her. She was taken unconscious to a hospital, where death followed several hours afterward.

Mrs. Kelly's six-year-old boy accidentally dropped a lighted candle, which ignited his mother's garments.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 19.—Myron H. Crippen, the aged father of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, under sentence of death in London for the murder of his wife, died in this city friendless and penniless. His death, due to the infirmities of age, was hastened by grief over his son's crime.

The elder Crippen was eighty years old. His death occurred in a rooming house and the only person at his bedside was the proprietress of the place.

Doctor Crippen was the sole support of his aged father.

MAN SHOT BY A WOMAN

Smith, before losing consciousness, stated to the authorities that Mrs. O'Neil had done the shooting, firing two shots at him and afterward turning the weapon upon herself.

He said the shooting was unexpected and that there had been no quarrel.

THE WOMEN OF THE DIPLOMATIC CORPS

COUNT VON BERNSTORFF, HIS WIFE AND ONLY DAUGHTER

COUNT DE BUISSERET AND HIS WIFE

THE OPENING of the "official season" at our national capital finds in evidence a most interesting group of women as the mistresses of the principal homes in the official "foreign colony." The foreign colony is made up, it will be understood, of the families of those alien officials who are sent to this country to represent their respective sovereigns or governments. Time was when very few of these foreign ambassadors, ministers and secretaries of embassies and legations brought their wives and families to the United States when they were delegated to act as diplomatic agents on this side of the Atlantic, but with the increasing importance of the republic as a world power there has come a change, and now it is very unusual for one of these foreign statesmen to take up his abode here without bringing his entire household with him.

This season the diplomatic corps has a new dean or leader, and this brings a new occupant to the coveted post of foremost woman of the foreign contingent. The new dean is Baroness Hengelmüller, the ambassador of Austria-Hungary. A diplomat must inevitably remain in the United States for some years ere he can advance to the position of dean, but the Hengelmüllers have had an especially long tenure in the land of the free having been here for more than a dozen years.

MADAME JUSSERAND

Consequently Baroness Hengelmüller is well known not only in most of our large cities, but in fashionable resorts such as Bar Harbor, Lenox and Hot Springs. She is a Polish woman and has become known for some of her fads, such as unique automobiles, fancy stationery and pet dogs.

The second most prominent place in the feminine roster of the diplomatic corps is held by an American woman, who is married to J. J. Jusserand, the ambassador of France to the United States. Mme. Jusserand, who is a very handsome woman, spent most of her early life in Paris, where her father was a banker, and in looks and dress she is much like the French women. Two interesting Russian women are to be found at the czar's branch office in Washington. They are Baroness Rosen and Baroness Elizabeth Rosen, the wife and daughter of Baron Rosen, the Russian ambassador. Two women also share the honors at the German embassy. Count von Bernstorff, alike to his fellow-envoy from France, has an American wife, and the daughter of the house, Countess Luise-Alexandra von Bernstorff, is as attractive as any American girl one could find in a day's journey, although without possessed of the splendid complexion that is the common heritage of so many of the girls of the fatherland.

Yet another one of Miss Columbia's daughters who has a place of honor in this foreign community set down on American soil is the Countess de Buisseret, wife of the minister from Belgium, and Senora Dona Alicia Ward de Riano, the wife of the Spanish minister was Miss Alice Ward, a beautiful American girl, ere she wedded her Spanish lover after a long courtship, during which the course of true love did not always run smooth.

To many persons the greatest degree of interest and curiosity aroused by the women of the diplomatic corps attaches to the members of the fair sex who have accompanied to this western capital the statesmen from the Orient. Baroness Uchida, the wife of the Japanese ambassador, is a very attractive woman of her type and it is easy to believe that were she garbed in her native costume instead of in the clothing prescribed by American fashion, she would look for all the world like one of the fancy pictures of Japanese belles. The Chinese minister, Chang Yin Tang, has a wife, two daughters and a daughter-in-law in his household, and as Chang is a very wealthy man they are enabled to surround themselves with every luxury, including toilettes in accordance with the latest mode

In the far east. Many people may be surprised to learn that there is an American woman in China's headquarters at Washington. She is Mrs. Yung Kwal, the wife of Yung Kwal, the secretary of the legation. She is a native of Springfield, Mass., and her husband has spent practically all the time since his marriage at the Chinese legation at Washington, so that she and her children have seen very little of the Celestial empire.

There are dozens of Spanish-speaking women in the diplomatic colony at Washington, because each of the Pan-American nations has its embassy or legation at Uncle Sam's base of operations. Senora Calvo, wife of the minister from Costa Rica, and their daughters have been residents of the United States for more than eleven years now, and some of the other women from Central and South America have been here for almost as long. Of the lesser European countries there are many fair representatives in the diplomatic circle, but in this sphere also the American woman has won her way by her beauty and cleverness, for Countess Moltke, the wife of the minister from Denmark, and Mme. Coromillas, the beautiful bride of the minister from Greece, are both natives of the United States. Even the secretary of the Persian legation Mirza Ali Kull Khan, has an American wife, who, like the Yankee woman at the Chinese legation, hails from New England.

A Point For Patricians

"I rented the first floor of a palace in Naples last year," said a globe trotter, "and the owner of the palace, a Neapolitan count, lived on the top floor with his family. Every day I used to see one of this man's servants trotting up the grand stairway with a pair of carriage doors on his shoulders.

"Yankee-like, the carriage doors made me curious. I did some detective work, and what do you suppose I discovered? Well, sir, I discovered that the count shared a carriage with three other noblemen, and each owner, when he went driving, used his own doors, so as to sport his crest on the panels.

"The Neapolitan nobility are great for show. Every evening, in their handsome turnouts, with two men on the box, they glide elegantly through the steep and crooked streets of Naples. These turnouts used to impress me, but now, when I see them, I smile and ask myself how many pairs of detached doors each carriage in the procession has."

GREAT OCEAN BOAT

Olympic, Recently Launched, is Largest in the World.

Ship is One-Sixth of a Mile Long, Ninety-Two and One-Half Feet Wide and Will Transport 2,500 Passengers.

Delfest, Ireland.—At the immense ship-building yards here recently was launched the world's largest steamship, the Olympic of the White Star line. The immense craft, to be used in carrying passengers across the Atlantic between New York city and Southampton, is 822 feet long, has a breadth of 92 feet and a height from the keel to the top of the captain's house of 105 feet. There are 11 steel decks and 15 water-tight bulkheads.

Exceeding one-sixth of a mile in length, the Olympic is nearly 100 feet longer than any ship now afloat and, compared with her, the Great Eastern, launched in 1858, would seem a dwarf. The Olympic will carry a crew of 850 and will have accommodations for 2,500 passengers, the passenger staterooms and the various public apartments to be exceptionally spacious, while the beauty and luxury of the appointments will surpass anything ever attempted aboard a ship.

In addition to lounging rooms, restaurants, smoking apartments, saloons and the like, the Olympic will have in the line of special attractions, swimming pools, sun parlors, sport decks, tennis courts and palm gardens. The decks will be connected by passenger elevator, much the same as the various floors of a modern office building.

The gross tonnage of the Olympic will be 45,000, and the ocean monster will have a displacement of 60,000 tons. Every part of the leviathan has been constructed with a view to strength. There is a double bottom, extending the entire length, the depth being five feet, three inches for the whole distance except under the engine room, where it is increased to six feet, three inches. The double bottom alone contains more than a half million rivets, weighing about 270 tons, while in the complete ship, the shell plates and steel decks, there are more than 3,000,000 rivets, with a total weight of 1,200 tons.

Every part of the vessel and all its belongings are on the same massive scale as the gigantic shell itself. The anchors weigh more than 15 tons each, and each link of the cable is two feet in length and weighs over 130 pounds. The rudder, while weighing more than 100 tons, may be controlled as easily as though it were a feather, its movements being directed by electricity.

The Olympic will be fitted with triple screws, propelled by engines which combine the reciprocating principle with the low-pressure turbine, a system which practically eliminates vibration. The speed of the Olympic will be 22 knots an hour.

A Bug in the Ear.

Pittsburg.—Those long, shiny instruments that doctors solemnly poke into your ear when a little bug makes a mistake and gets into the wrong house really aren't necessary to show the bug the error of his way. All you need is a box of matches, with a friend whose hand is steady, to light them one by one and hold them as close to your ear as is consistent with safety.

The world is indebted to John Sunders of Colwyn, Pa., for this discovery. The other day while at work a bug crawled into his ear, causing him great pain, and sympathetic friends gathered round him to offer what aid they might. Then one of them struck a match and held it close to get a better view into the ear. Instantly the pain stopped. While the flame flickered and went out the pain began again. "Light another match," begged Sunders. They did, and a dozen after that. Presently the bug, responding to the light, emerged and was killed.

Dinner Guests Represent Billions.

Chicago.—When the foreign steel magnates sat down to a dinner the other night in the Blackstone hotel, Chicago, as guests of the United States Steel corporation, a curious person with a talent for research figured it out that $2,500,000,000 in capital was represented by those in the gathering. Besides the foreigners there were more than 100 guests from the American Iron and Steel Institute. Altogether 160 dined at this elaborate affair, but of course it was the favored few who represented this vast amount of capital.

All in Good Time. Seven-year-old William had become the proud owner of a pet pig, and insisted upon having all the care of it himself. After a few weeks, as the pig did not seem to thrive, his father said to him:

"William, I'm afraid you are not feeding your pig enough. It does not seem to be fattening at all."

"I don't want him to fatten yet," William replied, knowingly. "I'm waiting until he gets to be as long as I want him, then I'll begin to widen him out."—Tit-Bits.

The Public Parks of San Antonio surpass, in number and acreage, those of any city of similar size in the world. Something of the old Spanish love of fountains, rare foliage and flowers is expressed in these parks and in the garden squares, places and private grounds throughout the city.

But it is the climate that is by far the most attractive feature of San Antonio. Cloudless skies; dry, invigorating air, altitude and splendid natural drainage all combine to make a climate as nearly perfect as can be.

Most of each day in winter months can be spent outdoors in healthful recreation.

The Science of Salvation.

Prof. Hermann S. Hering, C. S. B., of Boston, delivered a lecture in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, last Thursday evening on the above subject to a large audience, which gave him its closest attention for over an hour. Mr. Hering said in part:

In considering the subject of "Christian Science: the Science of Salvation," it is well to have a mutual understanding as to the meaning of the terms. Science means exact, systematized and demonstrable knowledge of facts, laws and causes, while according to Smith's Bible Dictionary salvation means "deliverance from temporal evils and earthly destruction," in other words, deliverance from evil,—from sin, disease and death. Hence "The Science of Salvation" means in substance that demonstrable knowledge which affords deliverance from all evil.

St. Paul admonishes us to work out our own salvation. This Scriptural command means far more than the common belief that salvation is assured by simply having belief or faith in Jesus as the Son of God. Such saving faith is vitally necessary, but it is only the beginning of our salvation—its spiritual basis.

Then must follow the working out of our deliverance from evil on this basis; our actual separation from sin, from the bondage of this world, from limitation, failure, disease, death.

In working out our salvation we must first see that salvation or deliverance from evil is a mental process, takes place in mind; that it is a transformation through Mind and is both ethical and philosophical.

The Bible declares that "to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace."

Christian Science teaches that matter and material existence are phenomena of the mortal, material, finite mind, a concept of existence obtained through the physical senses, a misapprehension of reality held by human consciousness when uninstructed by Science, an appearance instead of an actuality. It is simply an imitation or counterfeit obtained from a finite, dimensional, mortal basis.

Now it is not the appearance but only the original that has power, intelligence and substance. The manifestation of growth, action or being in matter is but a material concept of spiritual facts.

The objects, action and power expressed in a "moving picture" are not in the picture and we do not associate them with the picture, but with the original which the picture reproduces. Similarly, life, growth, action, power, substance, law, et cetera, are not in matter, physical existence or the material consciousness; but in divine Mind, the only cause and Principle of being, and should be so thought of.

When we recognize God as the only Mind, the only cause, Truth is reflected in consciousness and existence is harmonious. When we believe causation to be material or in mortal mind, we put our trust and dependence in a shadow, a false belief, and existence, so called, in discordant, liable to disease, disaster, death. In order to work out our salvation we therefore need to understand causation.

The ordinary human concept of mind is that which thinks, feels or wills, the intellect, or the activity of the gray matter called brain. Christian Science reveals the fact that Mind is divine Principle, the infinite Life, Truth, Love, omnipotent, omniscient, omnipresent, all-wise being, the only cause and creator.

Christian Science makes it clear that material existence is not the manifestation of this divine Mind, but the phenomenon of the counterfeit, called mortal mind.

It is this false concept of existence that does all the wrong thinking; that believes in sin, disease and death; that claims there is life and intelligence in matter.

The difference between the method of healing through mental suggestion, or hypnotism, and that of the divine Mind, the Christ healing, must be clearly seen. When the effort is made to heal by suggestion, the operator endeavors by means of mental manipulation to make the patient believe that he is not sick. He attempts to change the belief, but the cause of disease remains and in time manifests itself even in worse forms. The patient is no better off, he has no more manhood, or moral courage, and does not know any more about God and His Christ than before.

The true Christian Scientist reflects the divine Mind, stands on the basis of God, man and the universe as Spirit and spiritual, as Love and its manifestation, as Mind and its ideas—perfect and harmonious. Hence he understands the unreality of matter and evil and knows that man is not sick but that the patient is simply suffering from a false mesmeric belief. From that standpoint he proceeds to correct the errors of belief with the Truth of being and thus establishes harmony on a spiritual, scientific basis.

It is not to be wondered at, indeed it is inevitable, that Christian Scientists should love Mrs. Eddy for having brought to the world this Science of Salvation, the true knowledge of God and man, the spiritual understanding of the Holy Scriptures which enables them to know themselves and to demonstrate that "saving faith" which alone leads to heaven.

Mrs. Eddy did not simply state her discovery to the world; she first demonstrated it and then offered it as a demonstrable Science for all mankind to profit by. This Science overcomes evil, by giving a true knowledge of God and His Christ; it enables all humanity to work out their own salvation and reach that pure consciousness, which Jesus called the "kingdom of heaven."

SCHOOL NOTES.

Editors this week: Daryl Downs, Myron Beals, Herbert Warner and Clara Rieman.

The sixth grade are making covers for the Christmas programs.

Mrs. Chas. Greenlaw and Miss Pearl Jolliffe were visitors of the third grade last week.

The H. S. was glad to see Miss Pearl Jolliffe, a former teacher, with us one day last week.

It is rumored that the teachers will form a basketball team. A good thing, keep it going.

The first and second grades celebrated Thanksgiving Wednesday by giving a short program together.

The German II. class are reading a translation of the "Niebelungenlied" and "The Story of Siegfried."

Visitors of the H. S.: Miss Butler of Detroit, Mrs. Jennie Voorhies, Miss Pearl Jolliffe, Miss Madge Harlow.

Mrs. E. W. Caster and Miss Ruth were visitors of the 4th grade. Mrs. Frazer visited the fifth grade Monday.

If the H. S. had a football team as gritty as a certain player on the present squad, we would surely be invincible.

The Plymouth H. S. football team, minus two of its best players, journeyed down to Monroe Friday to be trimmed 32 to 0.

The majority of the H. S. students are quite downcast to hear there will be school the Friday following Thanksgiving.

It is reported that the H. S. forwards and alumni backfield will play the Spirals of Detroit Thanksgiving. Time called at 2:30.

The basket ball game at Northville between that school and ours, was called off on account of lack of practice on the part of our team.

The H. S. boys glee club and football team and the girls' basket ball team attended the Presbyterian church Sunday evening, by special invitation.

Fred Leitch, the game right end on the football squad, has turned Samsen. It is reported he threw a player twenty feet while in the Monroe game.

The modern History students have been receiving some useful and interesting illustrated talks on Medieval Gothic and Romanesque architecture.

The heating department of the school house suffered an accident last Tuesday and school was closed accordingly that day. Why couldn't this have been Friday, O ye Fates!

Steve Jewel, the school house engineer is working overtime to keep the heating apparatus in repair. Some of the students are base enough to wish him discharged for it if he succeeds Friday.

The German I. class is the proud possessor of a naturalist even greater than the celebrated Burbank. By a simple twist of his tongue he can change a flower to a fruit (die Rose, die Raisin.)

Mrs. E. O. Huston and Mrs. Oscar Huston visited the second grade Wednesday. Friday was a banner day for the aforementioned grade. Full attendance and no tardy marks was the cause.

"I am pleased to recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as the best thing I know of and safest remedy for coughs, colds and bronchial trouble," writes Mrs. L. B. Arnold of Denver, Colo. "We have used it repeatedly and it has never failed to give relief." For sale by all dealers.

Diet Affects the Carriage.

"There are foods that make for a good carriage," says a teacher of physical culture. "The Japanese women, who live on rice, carry themselves very erect. The Russian women, who live on hearty food, are also noted for their brilliant bearing. The Irish and the English are notoriously fine in their walk."

"Sweets give a woman a bad walk. If she takes an afternoon tea of bonbons she will have little appetite for her dinner afterward, and soon she will bend forward as though there were an emptiness in her stomach."

"Yet I must qualify this. When I take my pupils out for an afternoon walk I make it a point to give them two lumps of sugar each at five o'clock. A little sugar just at this hour wards off fatigue. I also give them a little green stuff, which takes away the thirst. For dinner I tell them to eat lettuce and watercress, so that they will not feel the need of jellies and other heavy sweets. The result is a loss of flesh and a gain of appetite."

"I insist that my patronesses carry themselves well. Otherwise of what use is a fine gown? I can not design for a woman who walks as though she were pulling a cart."

Interchange of Trees.

In connection with a recent demand of German nurserymen for seeds of the Montana larch, to be planted in Germany, the curious fact is brought out that while pine seedlings are to be imported from Germany to be planted in the province of Ontario, Canada. Now the white pine planted to Europe many years ago, to reinforce the forests there. It has flourished so well in the old world that it now appears that the German nurserymen are able to deliver white pine seedlings on this side of the ocean more cheaply than American nurserymen will furnish them. The interchange of trees among the various continents is a most interesting development of modern civilization. Besides the white pine, Europe has taken from us the Douglas fir and the black walnut, and we have taken the eucalyptus from Australia and the Norway spruce and Scotch and Austrian pine from Europe.

Accepting Hospitality.

"The former governor was making his way through the gloom of a drizzling rain on Pennsylvania avenue, some few nights since. The glare from a shop window was on his sturdy features. I recognized him instantly, but as I was in the shadow he could not see my face when I hurried an invitation to him. 'Governor,' I said, 'come and have a drink.'"

"He peered in my direction from under the brim of his broad hat and then in his soft southern patois enthusiastically said: 'I haven't the very faintest idea in the world who you-all are—not the very faintest idea, but, sah, yoh voh generous invitation faithfully wahms the cockles of mah ha'rt.'—Norman E. Mack.

For a number of years past Plymouth has never failed enjoying a football game on Thanksgiving day. One was scheduled between the P. H. The Detroiters were a husky lot and they seemed a little disappointed.

All due precautions have been taken by the village board of health to guard against small-pox, which has been prevalent to an alarming extent in many parts of the State. No apprehension is felt here, although some people have been vaccinated, more especially railroad employees. State authorities have taken strenuous measures to prevent the spread of the disease and it is now pretty well under control.

From the weather point of view Thanksgiving day was anything but pleasant. In fact, it was nasty weather, practically all day and evening. Yet, those who had contemplated making visits to Detroit or elsewhere were not detained thereby, nor were those expecting visitors from elsewhere disappointed. There were a number of family gatherings in the village that were enjoyable to those participating therein and in these instances the program of the weather man did not interfere seriously.

CHEERFUL WORDS FOR SUFFERING WOMEN.

No woman can be healthy with sick kidneys. They are often the true cause of bearing-down pains, headaches, dizziness, nervousness, etc. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Doan's Kidney Pills make strong, healthy kidneys. Mrs. John A. Link, 122 East Perry St., Bucyrus, O., says: "I was so terribly afflicted with kidney complaint, I could not stir out of bed. I was attended by several doctors but they all failed to help me. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief after I had given up all hope and soon cured me. I have had no kidney trouble in three years."

Got Out of the Habit.
"I see you have got a young man stenographer?"
"Yes."

"Don't you think a pretty girl stenographer adds a great deal to the attractiveness of an office?"
"I suppose she does, but I can't dictate to a woman somehow. I s'pose it's because I have been married so long."

On the Senators.
The wit of Bishop Seth Ward amuses Nashville frequently.
Bishop Ward, in company with two senators, came forth from a Nashville reception the other day and entered a waiting motor car.
"Ah, bishop," said one of his companions, "you are not like your master. He was content to ride an ass."
Ward answered, "but there's no such animal to be got nowadays. They make them all senators."

Schurz Was Gure of Him.
Carl Schurz was dining one night with a man who had written a book of poems, so called, and who was pleased with himself.
The poet was discoursing on the time-worn topic of politics of the men who take office.
"I consider politics and politicians beneath my notice," he said. "I do not care for office. I wouldn't be a senator of cabinet officer, and I doubt if I could be tempted by the offer of that. I would rather be known as a third-rate poet than a first-rate statesman."
"Well, aren't you?" Schurz shouted at him.

At the One Horse.
Jere L. Sullivan, the head of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' International alliance, said in Cincinnati, apropos of Labor Day:
"Our American hotels are better than they used to be, and for this betterment my organization deserves no little credit."
"We have today no such hotels as the One Horse of Tin Can, where, if you asked for a bath, they used to give you a shovel and tell you to go down to the hollow and dam the creek."
"An English earl once visited the One Horse hotel. The landlord without ceremony led him outside, pointed to a window on the fifth floor, and said:
"That's yer room."

SERIAL STORY

The Courage of Captain Plum

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

Illustrations by Magnus G. Kettner

(Copyright 1906 by Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Nathaniel Plum of the sloop Triton, lands secretly on Beaver Island, stronghold of the Mormons. Obadiah Price, Mormon counselor, confronts him, tells him he is expected, and bargains for the annihilation aboard the sloop. He binds Nat by a solemn oath to deliver a package to Franklin Pierce, president of the United States. Near Price's cabin Nat sees the frightened face of a young woman who disappears in the darkness, bearing an odor of lilacs. It develops that Nat's visit to the island is to demand settlement of the king, Strang, for the looting of his sloop by Mormons. Price shows Nat the king's palace, and through a window he sees the lady of the lilacs, who Price says is the king's seventh wife. Calling at the king's office Nat's warned a young woman that his life is in danger. Strang professes indignation when he hears Nat's grievance and promises to punish the guilty. Nat rescues Nell, who is being publicly whipped, and the king orders the sheriff, Arbor Croche, to pursue and kill the two men. Plum learns that Marion, the girl of the lilacs, is Nat's sister. The two men plan to escape on Nat's sloop and take Marion and Winsome, daughter of Arbor Croche, and sweetheart of Nell. Nat discovers that his ship has been seized by the Mormons. She begs him to leave the island, telling him that nothing can save her from Strang, whom she is doomed to marry. Plum finds Price raving mad. Recovering, he tells Nat that Strang is doomed, that armed men are descending on the island. Nat learns that Marion has been summoned to the castle by Strang. Nat kills Arbor Croche, and after a desperate fight with the king, leaves him for dead.

Suddenly he almost fell over a figure in his path. It was an old woman mumping and sobbing incoherently as she stumbled weakly in the direction of the temple. Like an inspiration the thought came to him that here was his opportunity of gaining admittance to that multitude of women and children. He seized the old woman by the arm and spoke words of courage to her as he half carried her on his way. A few minutes more and a blaze of light burst upon them and the great square in which the temple was situated lay open before them. Half a hundred yards ahead a fire was burning; oil and pine sent their lurid flame high up into the night, and in the thick gloom behind it, intensified by the blinding glare, Nathaniel saw the shadows of men. He caught the old woman in his arms and went on boldly. He passed close to a thin line of waiting men, saw the faint glint of frelight on their rifles, and staggering past them unchallenged and with his weight he stopped for a moment to look back. The effect was startling. Beyond the three great fires that blazed around the temple the clearing was bathed in a sea of light; in its concealment of giant trees the temple was buried in gloom. From the gloom a hundred cool men might slaughter five times their number charging across that death square!

Nathaniel could not repress a shudder as he looked. Screened behind each of the three fires was a cannon. He figured that there were more than a hundred rifles in that silent cordon of men. What was there on the opposite side of the temple?

He turned with the old woman and joined the throng that was seething about the temple doors. There were women, children and old men, crushing and crowding, fighting with panic-stricken fierceness for admittance to the thick log walls. Through the doors there came the low thunder of countless voices pierced by the shrill cries of little children. Foot by foot Nathaniel fought his way up the steps. At the top were drawn a dozen men forming barriers with their rifles. One of them shoved him back.

"Not you!" he shouted. "This is for the women!"

Nathaniel fell back, filled with horror. A glance had shown him the vast dimly lighted interior of the temple packed to suffocation. What sins had this people wrought that it thus feared the vengeance of the men from the mainland? He felt the sweat break out upon his face as he thought of Marion being in that mob, tired and fainting with her terrible day's experience—perhaps dying under the panic-stricken feet of those stronger than herself. He hoped now for that which at first had filled him with despair—that Strang had hidden Marion away from the terror and suffocation of this multitude that fought for its breath within the temple. Freeing himself of the crowd he ran to the farther side of the building. A fourth fire blazed in his face. But on this side there was no cannon; scarcely a score of men were guarding the rear of the temple.

For a full minute he stood concealed in the gloom. He realized now that it would be useless to return to Obadiah. The old counselor could probably have told him all that he had discovered for himself; that Marlon had gone to the castle—that Strang intended to make her his bride that night. But did Obadiah know that the castle had been abandoned? Did he know that the king's wives had sought refuge in the temple, and did he know where Marlon was hidden? Nathaniel could assure himself but one answer: Obadiah, struck down by his strange madness, was more ignorant than he himself of what had occurred at St. James.

While he paused a heavy noise arose that quickened his heart-beats and sent the blood through his veins in wild excitement. From far down by the shore there came the roar of a cannon. It was closely followed by a second and third, and hardly was the night shaken by their thunder than a mighty cheering of men swept up from the fire-rimmed coast. The battle had begun! Nathaniel leaped out into the glow of the great blazing fire beyond the temple; he heard a warning shout as he darted past the men; for an instant he saw their white faces staring at him from the frelight—heard a second shout, which he knew was a command—and was gone. Half a dozen rifles cracked behind him and a yell of joyful defiance burst from his throat as the bullets hissed over his head. The battle had begun! Another hour and the Mormon kingdom would be at the mercy of the avenging host from the mainland—and Marlon would be his own for ever! He heard again the deep rumble of a heavy gun and from its sullen detonation he knew that it was fired from a ship at sea. A nearer crash of returning fire turned him into a deserted street down which he ran wildly, on past the last houses of the town, until he came to the foot of a hill up which he climbed more slowly, panting like a winded animal.

From its top he could look down upon the scene of battle. To the eastward stretched the harbor line with its rim of fires. A glance showed him that the fight was not to center about those. They had served their purpose, had forced the mainlanders to seek a landing farther down the coast. The light of dawn had already begun to disperse the thick gloom of night, and an eighth of a mile below Nathaniel the Mormon forces were creeping slowly along the shore. The pale ghostly mistiness of the sea hung like a curtain between him and what was beyond, and even as he strained his eyes to catch a glimpse of the avenging fleet a vivid light leaped out of the white distance, followed by the thunder of a cannon. He saw the head of the Mormon line falter. In an instant it had been thrown into confusion. A second shot from the sea—a storm of cheering voices from out of that white chaos of mist—and the Mormons fell back from the shore in a panic-stricken, fleeing mob. Were those frightened cowards the fierce fighters of whom he had heard so much? Were they the men who had made themselves masters of a kingdom in the land of their enemies—whose mere name carried terror for a hundred miles along the coast? He was stupefied, bewildered. He made no effort to conceal himself as they approached the hill, but drew his pistol, ready to fire down upon them as they came. Suddenly there was a change. So quickly that he could scarcely believe his eyes the flying Mormons had disappeared. Not a man was visible upon that narrow plain between the hill and the sea. Like a huge covey of quail they had dropped to the ground, their rifles lost in that ghostly gloom through which the voices of the mainlanders came in fierce cries of triumph. It was magnificent! Even as the crushing truth of what it all meant came to him, the fighting blood in his veins leaped at the sight of it—the pretended effect of the shots from sea, the sham confusion, the disorderly flight, the wonderful quickness and precision with which the rabble of armed men had thrown itself into ambush!

Would the mainlanders rush into the trap? Had some keen eye seen those shadowy forms dropping through the mist? Each instant the ghostly pall that shut out vision seaward seemed drifting away. Nathaniel's starting eyes saw a vague shape appear in it, an indistinct dirt-gray blotch, and he knew that it was a boat. Another followed, and then another; he heard the sound of oars, the grinding of keels upon the sand, and where the Mormons had been a few moments before the beach was now alive with mainlanders. In the growing light he could make out the king's men below him, inanimate spots in the middle of the narrow plain. Helpless he stood clutching his pistol, the horror in him growing with each breath. Could he give no warning? Could he do nothing—nothing—

At least he could join in the fight! He ran down the hill, swinging to the left of the Mormons. Half way, and he stopped as a thundering cheer swept up from the shore. The mainlanders had started toward the hill! Without rank, without order—shouting their triumph as they came they were rushing blindly into the arms of the ambush! A shriek of warning left Nathaniel's lips. It was drowned in a crash of rifle fire. Volley after volley burst from that shadowy stretch of plain. Before the furious fire the van of the mainlanders crumpled into ruin. Like chaff before a wind those behind were swept back. Apparently they were flying without waiting to fire a shot! Nathaniel dashed down into the plain. Ahead of him the Mormons were charging in a solid line, and in another moment the shore had become a mass of fighting men. Far to the left he saw a group of the mainlanders running along the beach toward the conflict. If he could only intercept them—add bring them into the rear! Like the wind he sped to cut them off, shouting and firing his pistol. He won by a hundred yards and stood panting as they came toward him. Dawn had dispelled the mist-gloom and as the mainlanders drew nearer he discerned in their lead a figure that brought a cry of joy from his lips.

"Neil!" he shouted. "Neil!"

He turned as Marlon's brother darted to his side.
"This way—from behind!"
The two led the way, side by side, followed by a dozen men. A glance told Nathaniel that nothing much less than a miracle could turn the tide of battle. Half of the mainlanders were fighting in the water. Others were struggling desperately to get away to the boats. Foot by foot the Mormons were crushing them back, their battle cries now turned into demonic yells of victory. Into the rear of the struggling mass, firing as they ran, charged the handful of men behind Captain Plum and Neil. For a little space the king's men gave way before them and with wild cheers the powerful fishermen from the coast fought their way toward their comrades. Many of them were armed with long knives; some had pistols; others used their empty rifles as clubs. A dozen more men and they would have split like a wedge through the Mormon mass. Above the din of battle Nathaniel's voice rose in thundering shouts to the men in the sea, and close beside him he heard Neil shrieking out a name between his blows. Like demons they fought straight ahead, slashing with their knives. The Mormon line was thinning. The mainlanders had turned and were fighting their way back, gaining foot by foot what they had lost. Suddenly there came a terrific cheer from the plain and the hope that had flamed in Nathaniel's breast died out as he heard it. He knew what it meant—that the Mormons at St. James had come to reinforce their comrades. He fought now to reach the boats, calling to Neil, whom he could no longer see. Even in that moment he thought of Marlon. His only chance was to escape with the others, his only hope of wresting her from the kingdom lay in his own freedom. He had waited too long. A crushing blow fell upon him from behind and with a last cry to Neil he sank under the trampling feet. Indistinctly there came to him the surging shock of the fresh body of Mormons. The din about him became fainter and fainter as though he was being carried rapidly away from it; shouting voices came to him in whispers, and deadened sounds, like the quick tapping of a finger on his forehead, were all that he heard of the steady rifle fire that pursued the defeated mainlanders in their flight.

After a little he began struggling back into consciousness. There was a splitting pain somewhere in his head and he tried to reach his hand to it.

"You won't have to carry him," he heard a voice say. "Give him a little water and he'll walk."

SUCCESSFUL, THOUGH LAZY

Story of a New York Lawyer Who Used His Wit to Save His Heels.

"Sounds a bit paradoxical, I know," says Judge William J. Boyhan, in a New York paper, "but one of the laziest men I ever knew is likewise one of the most successful lawyers of my personal acquaintance. I'll just relate one instance which is typical.
"I met him one Saturday in the street, just after he left his office. We had taken but a few strides when a messenger boy approached and informed my friend he was bound for his office to deliver one thousand envelopes, which he had in a box. But do you think my friend would turn back and open his office to receive the goods? No, not he. He just chuckled them under his arm and took them along.
"We boarded an elevated train and rode uptown. On leaving the train I was surprised to find my friend had left the box of envelopes on the train. I stopped him of a sudden and reminded him of the fact. To my utter astonishment he just laughed and continued on his way. Then I demanded to know why in the world he took the envelopes if he intended to throw them away.
"You amuse me, Boyhan," he said. "I see you are one of those methodical fellows who worry half their lives away. Don't you know the elevated station lost and found office is only two doors removed from the building where my office is located. The envelopes are of no account to any one save me, and I will bet you ten to one they will be there for me bright and early Monday morning."

Hidding Worse Than Cutting.

Talk about making good with your friends, a New Orleans man told everybody he knew that he was going to Philadelphia for the dual purpose of seeing the world's baseball series and having a slight surgical operation performed. Reaching this city, he consulted a specialist, and was told that an operation was not necessary. "But, doctor," the New Orleans party urgently interposed, "it must be done."
"Why must it?" wonderingly queried the surgeon.
"Because," was the startling rejoinder of the southern man, "I told all the boys at home that I was going to have an operation performed, and if I don't make good they will kid the life out of me."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Reason for Strange Names.
A little colored girl appeared on one of the city playgrounds the other day, accompanied by two pickaninies, who, she explained, were cousins of hers, visitors in Newark. "What are their names," asked the young woman in charge of the playground. "Alda Overture Johnson and Lucia Sextette Johnson," the girls answered. HEALTH AND INCOME
Both Kept Up on Scientific Food.

Good sturdy health helps one a lot to make money.
With the loss of health one's income is liable to shrink, if not entirely dwindle away.

When a young lady has to make her own living, good health is her best asset.

"I am alone in the world," writes a Chicago girl, "dependent on my own efforts for my living. I am a clerk, and about two years ago through close application to work and a boarding-house diet, I became a nervous invalid, and got so bad off it was almost impossible for me to stay in the office a half day at a time."
"A friend suggested to me the idea of trying Grape-Nuts food which I did, making it a large part of at least two meals a day."
"Today, I am free from brain-tire, dyspepsia, and all the ills of an over-worked and improperly nourished brain and body. To Grape-Nuts I owe the recovery of my health, and the ability to retain my position and income."

ARMY DESERTS DIAZ A REBELS ATTACK

300 FEDERAL TROOPS WENT OVER TO REVOLUTIONISTS TAKING ARMS AND AMMUNITION.

FRANCISCO I. MADERO WITH 1,000 MEN IS MARCHING SOUTH TO ATTACK FEDERAL ARMY.

Four Cities Fall, and Prisoners, Liberated, Use Dynamite—U. S. Troops on the Border.

The rebellion in Mexico which suddenly leaped into flame with the revolt of anti-revolutionists in Zacatecas Sunday is at white heat throughout the republic and reports of rebel victories from the Rio Grande to Puebla indicate that Diaz is face to face with opposition which seriously endangers his dictatorship.

The rebels have taken the three chief towns in the rich Nazas river valley—Gomez Palacio, Lerdo and Torreón. They have surrounded Chihuahua, the principal city of upper Mexico. It is also reported that San Antonio, San Andres, Minaca Encinillas, Guerrero, are in the hands of the revolutionists, together with stores, military equipment, cattle and horses throughout a large district surrounding Chihuahua. Puebla is seriously threatened.

Madero Marches South.
Francisco I. Madero, at the head of 1,000 men, which number is being constantly augmented, is marching south to meet the Diaz forces under Gen. Geronimo Trevino. Two troops of Mexican soldiers started for Chihuahua, but are detained by terrible rebel onslaughts at Parral and Jimenez.

Troops K and L of the Third United States cavalry are on their way from San Antonio to Del Rio and Eagle Pass to preserve American neutrality along the border. More troops are held in readiness at Fort Sam Houston.

Dispatches from Mexico City say that President Diaz is directing his troops in person, and has called Vice-President Corral, who was ill at Toluca, into consultation. The Mexican war office is working day and night. Troops are being dispatched in every direction as fast as mobilized.

Disaffection Among Soldiers.
Reports that Diaz's army has been stolen from under him are beginning to gain credence. It is reported that the rebels have been working at various carisons for weeks and have caused such disaffection among the soldiers that many are ready to desert at the first engagement.

It is reported from Gomez Palacio that 300 federal troops went over to the revolutionists, taking with them large quantities of arms and ammunition.

From meager information which filtered through, it is known that the situation is critical in the extreme. Serious disorders were reported from points in seven different states, the territory affected spreading like a fan from a point less than 100 miles northwest of the City of Mexico to the United States border. In addition, fighting is reported in Puebla, southeast of the Mexican capital, and in Orizaba, state of Vera Cruz, which lies to the east of the City of Mexico.

Gen. Reyes to Lead Rebels.
That General Bernardo Reyes, former vice-president of Mexico, who virtually was exiled when his friends began to boom him for the presidency held by Diaz, is on his way to lead in the field the revolutionary forces raised by Francisco I. Madero, in an attempt to depose the dictator, is the story which is being circulated among the rebels.

The Menominee River Sugar Co. Menominee, will build a new beet pulp dry house which will cost $150,000. Contracts for 1911 assure the company the largest acreage in the history of the factory.

The crusade for economy in New York city's automobile bill is beginning to show results. Five city machines have been turned into the comptroller by various departments as unnecessary and will be sold at public auction.

Official figures on the initiative and referendum measures submitted to the voters of Oregon show that of the thirty-two submitted nine were carried and twenty-three defeated. The highest vote was on the initiative prohibition law. Approximately 106,000 votes were cast, 42,649 for and 63,504 against.

COUNT TOLSTOI IS DEAD.

His Illness Fatal to the Great Russian Writer.

Count Leo Tolstoy died peacefully at Astapova on Sunday. Dr. Makovitsky and the other attending physicians and Countess Tolstoy were at his side when the end came.

Saturday the attacks of heart failure increased alarmingly, and many hours prior to the end the physicians had given up all hope.

Countess Tolstoy was admitted to the sick room, but her husband failed to recognize her. She had hastened to be beside him when she learned several days ago that his illness was serious, but the physicians had deemed it advisable that she be kept away from the count, fearing that her presence might cause the patient emotion.

Other members of the family were from time to time admitted to the presence of their father, and his daughter, Alexandra, has been in constant attendance.

$50,000,000 Loot Charged.
Federal officials raided the offices occupied by Burr Brothers in New York, a corporation dealing in stocks and other securities.

The raid was made on warrants charging use of the mails to defraud investors.

Postoffice officials say that the concern had sold to investors at par value between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 of stock in various companies, most of which have gone out of existence or become bankrupt.

The officers arrested were Sheldon C. Burr, president; Frank H. Tobey, vice-president; and Eugene H. Burr, secretary-treasurer. Arrests are expected to be made in Cleveland, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco, where the corporation has extensive offices. Postoffice officials have been working on the case for months. Hundreds of complaints have been made against the corporation by investors, who charge that they have been swindled.

Standard Oil Co. is Acquitted.
In a ruling which required just 20 minutes to read, Judge John E. McCall, in the United States circuit court, at Jackson, Tenn., wrote final to the efforts of the government to have assessed against the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, penalties aggregating in excess of $30,000,000.

Mrs. Schenk is Indicted.
A true bill was returned by a special session of the Ohio county criminal court, at Wheeling, W. Va., sustaining the charge that Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk attempted to poison her millionaire husband, John O. Schenk.

The population of San Francisco is 416,912. This is an increase of 74,130 or 21.6 per cent over 342,782 in 1900.

The Winning Candidate.

Two candidates for the same office came into a certain town one day. The one called at a house where a little girl came to the door. Said he: "Sissie, will you please bring me a glass of water?" Having brought the water, he gave her some candy and asked: "Did the man ahead of me give you candy?" "Yes, sir." Then he gave her a nickel and said: "Did he give you money?" "Yes, sir; he gave me ten cents." Then, picking her up, he kissed her and said: "Did he kiss you?" "Yes, sir, and he kissed mamma, too!"

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous lining.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Note From the Basswood Bugle.

Somebody took the rope off the bell in the fire engine house to use for a clothesline, and now, when there is a fire, the constable has to climb up into the tower and ring the bell with a hammer. Somebody took the hammer the other day and, when Hank Purdy's corncrib ketcher fire, the constable had to hurry down to Hilliker's store for to borrow a hammer. Hilliker had lent his hammer to Deacon Renfrew, who lives four miles out in the country, and by the time the constable had got there and hunted around in the barn for the hammer and got back to the engine house, the angry elements had done their worst and Hank's corncrib was a mass of smoldering ruins.—Judge's Library.

Constipation— Nearly Every One Gets It

The bowels show first sign of things going wrong. A Cascarel taken every night as needed keeps the bowels working naturally without grip, gripe and that upset sick feeling.

Those who have tried it say it acts gently but thoroughly on the Kidneys and entire urinary system, relieving the most severe Backache at once.

A well-known medical authority recommends the prescription to be taken the moment you suspect any Kidney, Bladder or Urinary disorder or feel a constant dull Backache, or if the urine is thick, cloudy, offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a scalding sensation; or for too frequent urination during the night.

This is a real harmless vegetable mixture which could not cause injury to anyone and the relief which is said to immediately follow its use is a revelation to men and women who suffer from Backache, Kidney trouble or any form of Urinary disorder.

HOW TO TELL HER

By LOUISE OLNEY

(Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press)

His worry began the moment he met Alice Thorne. He was afraid he could not keep away from her, and he knew that if he did not he was doomed to fall in love. He was not ready to fall in love—thoughtful observation of his comrades showed him that such a state usually progressed into matrimony. And he was not ready, financially or sentimentally, for marriage. It had always been his idea that a man should be at least thirty before taking such a step, and that he should not ask a girl to share his early business struggles. And he was only twenty-five and just beginning to make good with the run-down factory his father had left him. John Stoner began to do some steady thinking on the subject—which never yet in the world's history has helped a man in his love troubles.

The first self-suggestion was to flee, to refuse on plea of extra busy times all the summer gayeties planned during her stay at the home of his friends, the Eltons. The next one, the fatal one, was that perhaps that one little dance had cast a glamour over charms which would vanish by day. He would go to the all-day picnic planned for Sunday, find freckles on her nose or a flaw in her temper, and be cured. This was a beautiful plan, but it did not work out. He went to the picnic, was cast by Fate as her partner, found the freckles, which, however, only added piquancy to her fair beauty. Also when she fell into a passion because another man shot a look at her, John found it an admirable thing in her.

When he reached home that night he worried more than ever—because he was mortally afraid that he could never in the world get her to love him. Jim Elton told him tales of her conquests in the west, and of how she had refused a score or so of good men and true, not caring enough even to wear their scalps at her belt. Jim said she was the most indifferent little mix in creation and superfluously advised his friend to chafe about with her and be amused and amused, but to leave his nice, solid, marriageable heart locked up in his top bureau drawer. This was unsound advice, and suffered the common fate of advice—it was not taken. John assented readily—and went on to his fate, not blindly, but with his eyes wide open.

With possible marriage staring him in the face, he redoubled his business efforts—there was a certain little house he wanted to buy and furnish in case—anything should happen.

And he intended to make things happen. Alice Thorne's career was followed by happenings. He began to devote himself wildly to her, though saying no word of his feelings. Then in the watches of the night he would review his actions of the day and wonder himself for a stupid idiot that knew nothing about women. A month before he would have called himself a wise man for knowing nothing about them.

One miserable night after he had been especially entertaining to her all the evening, he recalled a story he had read somewhere in which a man had won a skid and elusive maid by using the weapon of indifference. Should he try indifference? Couldn't try it without her seeing the use of it?

The next evening he let himself, with apparent reluctance, be absorbed by the willow fascinations of Edith Thorne. Edith had no "down it," more than ready for a sentimental encounter with this handsome young man whose lack of interest in her sex had plucked all the girls in the set that was logically his. But she was too wily to be openly gratified—she hedged and fenced, and was, moreover, so really charming, so genuine, that he found it very pleasant, even though Alice Thorne was showing the most subtly flattering willingness to be adored by a man ten years her senior.

From then on things were in hopeless tangle. When he went to Alice she was too occupied notice him, and he was finally, at all the small picnics and dances and motoring trips, thrown into the society of Edith Thorne.

One worry changed itself into another. Edith acted as if she owned him, and he was afraid Alice was not the least troubled. Then a comforting light came to him via Mrs. Jim's careless conversation.

"I can't see," said that small lady, why Alice detests Edith Thorne as she does—she will hardly treat her well enough to dare ask her to the house. She calls Edith a 'horrid cat,' and won't say why. I can't see that the girl has been anything but lovely to Alice. And I've been watching like a hawk to discover any reason for it—she surely can't be jealous?" Then the talk flowed into other channels.

But John went home that night with a new hope in his heart. Did she hate Edith because of his absorption in the latter? How could he find out? He would have liked to ask her flatly—it was his method of doing things.

The next afternoon he went out to Elton's, asked for Miss Thorne, and asked her to go canoeing with him. She assented a little languidly but pleasantly, and suggested taking lunch so they would not have to get back to dinner unless they liked—and "unless you have some evening engagement," she added. He declared himself unexpected and unattached for as long as she would have him about.

By the time the cook had prepared the lunch, and Alice had rid herself of several callers, it was well toward evening before they got away. John launched his pretty canoe, helped the girl in, and paddled close in to shore under the cool shadow of the overhanging trees.

It was very quiet and restful, and something like peace stole into the man's heart as he studied the sweet face opposite his and marked its expression of content. It seemed so natural for them to be together that he could have sworn that she was thinking the same thought at the same moment. He once half opened his lips to tell her how close she came to his heart, and then he was assailed by a doubt as to how to tell her.

He kept on paddling—at least he could do that well. He did it Indian fashion, kneeling, using a single blade. The wind stirred his heavy dark hair about his head, and the wistfulness in his eyes as he looked at the girl made her suddenly sensitive to his gaze. Her clear blue eyes met his dark ones and wavered away, while a veritable wave of a rosy blush submerged her face. His pulse beat hard and fast—oh, she did care, she did, she must! He forgot his doubts as to the right manner, and suddenly said:

"Alice—Alice—" when she gave a sudden nervous little twist, and in a moment they were both in the water, struggling to keep above the surface. The girl was a swimmer, but she let him keep an arm about her. She shook the water from her face, let the current drag back her hair, and gave him a mischievous look.

"What were you saying when I interrupted by tipping you out?"

"I was just going to ask you to marry me," he spluttered, "but if you prefer attempting suicide and murder to hearing me out—" He stopped for breath, and then finished righting the canoe. "I said," he said, "I shall have to get you ashore somehow. As you see, the paddle has gone down stream. You're a pretty good swimmer, and if you'll keep beside me, I can get the canoe to land and improvise a paddle to get back with. Shall we start?"

She hesitated, then laughed a little, pushing again.

"I forbid you to mention—what you were going to—on land." He interrupted her with masculine rudeness.

"All right—then I'll have it out here. I love you and want you to marry me. Will you?" He put an arm about her, drawing her closer to him. She did not answer, and he shook her a little.

"I'm a little scared, and pretty wet, but if you don't mind taking me—like this, why I suppose—" Again he interrupted her, but not by mere words.

"If it's rather wet," she said demurely, "I'll get you a kiss."—kiss, "kiss," "kiss."

Then, without warning, she broke from his hold and swam swiftly away from him to the shore. He followed more slowly with the canoe, and finally clambered out upon the sand, where she stood wringing the water from her long hair.

"And this one is wet, too—and this and this," he said in a dry tone.

She laughed, but she denied neither the sentiment nor the fact.

ROYAL MOURNING CUSTOMS

In England Sumptuary Laws Were Formerly Found Necessary to Restrict Extravagance.

Royal mourning in the past was regulated far more elaborately than nowadays. In pre-Revolution days, when the French court was in mourning, the royal apartments were hung with black, and every looking glass in the king's residences was covered with crape. French queens, when widowed, were expected to remain secluded for six weeks in a room draped with black cloth on which were fastened white velvet dots, supposed to represent tears.

The same custom prevailed in Scotland. In the pamphlet which George Buchanan wrote against Mary Queen of Scots he dwelt severely on the fact that long before the forty days following Darley's death were spent she showed herself at a window and "looked out on the light of day."

Sumptuary mourning laws were formerly found necessary in England to restrict the extravagance of the nobility and their imitators in the matter of funeral costume. At the end of the fifteenth century it was laid down that dukes, marquises, and archbishops should be allowed sixteen yards of cloth for their gowns, "sloppes" (mourning cassocks) and mantles, ears fourteen, viscounts twelve, barons eight, knights six, and all persons of inferior degree only two. Hoods were forbidden to all except those above the rank of esquire of the king's household.

In the following century Margaret, Countess of Richmond, mother of Henry VII, issued an ordinance for "the reformation of apparel for great estate of women in the time of mourning." So it seems that men and women have met in the extravagance of sorrow.

Even two hundred years ago London tradesmen found that court mourning seriously affected their business. Addison relates that a tavern he often met a man whom he took for an ancient and eccentric royalist. Every time this man looked through the Gazette he exclaimed "Thank God! all the reigning families of Europe are well." Occasionally he would vary this formula by making reassuring remarks respecting the health of British royalists. After some time Addison discovered that this universal royalist was a colored silk merchant, who never made a bargain without inserting in the agreement, "All this will take place as long as no royal personage dies in the interval."

Tortoise Speed.

According to the fable the hare and the tortoise had a race and odds were decidedly against the latter because of its lack of speed. Now there is a tortoise in Ohio township, Bartholomew county, that would certainly "show up strong" in a race with the fabled creeper. The Ohio township tortoise has only moved about an eighth of a mile in 20 years.

Twenty years ago O. A. Sprague, then a small boy, found a tortoise on the farm of his father in Ohio township and carved his initials on its back. He turned it loose and the incident was forgotten. A few days ago Everett Sprague, a local school teacher and a brother of the man who carved the tortoise, was walking about the farm, when he ran across the tortoise and examined its back. The initials were as plain as the day they were carved and the tortoise had only moved about an eighth of a mile from the place where the carving was done.—Columbus Correspondence Indianapolis News.

Vocal Cord Warts.

Laryngeal or vocal cord warts may be as little as a birdshot or as big as a pea, and even larger. They are often rough and warty, full of little, rough, warty growths, the size of a pinhead, and are thin, pale or rosy or yellow. They have a core or tiny blood vessels and so bumpy are warts as to look like little cauliflower or cocks combs. Some of them are soft and sabby and swing to and fro with the breathing or speaking. Others are hard and horny. Horny warts are mostly considered to be a bad sign, but Professor Mouru of Bordeaux has had harmless, horny wart cases in old men for years.

SOME MAN SOME DAY
May Make a Medicine for Brights Disease, Rheumatism, Stomach and Bladder Trouble the Equal of SAN-JAK, BUT NOT YET.

It is the Only Medicine which Enables You to Keep a Perfect Balance Between the Eliminations and Renewals of the Body.

Decay of the Body in Old Age is Un-natural.

Permanent wastes of the system can be avoided by taking SAN-JAK, making each day a birthday for the person who has a bottle of this great medicine on hand. Read and learn how to cure Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Lame Back and Stomach Diseases.

When the products of excretion reach the brain and deaden the nerve centers, as in the case with all old people, limiting their ability to think and act unless they have the power to oxidize the acids that accumulate during sleep and eliminate them, they had better get a bottle of Dr. Burnham's San-Jak. I am 80 years old and have kept a bottle of this medicine in my house during the last year and take a dose quite often so I know it is sure to give strength and activity.—D. O. Kelly, 311 Washenaw St., Lansing.

Mrs. I. M. Brown, mistress of the Butler House, Lansing, Mich., says: "One year ago I was in very poor health, sick and weak from that much dreaded disease, Kidney trouble, called 'Bright's disease' by physicians. I have taken about one dozen bottles of San-Jak and have no symptoms of old troubles, no annoyances. I give this letter for the benefit of my neighbors."

Owosso, Mich., May 24, '08.
Dr. Burnham:—Your inquiry as to my health, in reply I have taken 8 bottles of your San-Jak and am fully recovered. I am doing harder work than I ever did and I am perfectly well.
Yours respectfully,
F. B. HOLMAN.

J. F. Row, 41 E. Main St., Battle Creek, says: "I wish to state that your San-Jak cured me of Bright's disease after the local doctors said I could not live."
E. S. Hough, ex-judge of probate of Lapeer county, says: "I bought a bottle of San-Jak of P. P. Showman, the druggist of Lapeer, a bottle I was 10 years old, with great distress of the stomach and a drowsy, sleepy feeling, which the medicine has cured. I cheerfully permit the use of this letter for the benefit of others."
EDGAR S. HOUGH.

Lapeer, Mich., March 10, 1908.
Mrs. T. S. Curtis, R. F. D. No. 2, Lapeer, says: "I wish to tell you how much good your San-Jak has done me. I have had the rheumatism and liver trouble 17 years. Sometimes my feet and limbs were swollen so I could not wear my shoes. I have taken one and one-half bottles of your remedy. The blot has all gone down. The pain gradually left and the joints are getting more limber. I think San-Jak the greatest medicine in the world for the fact that my case was hopeless and my physician said I could not be helped by medicine."

St. John's, Mich., March 12, '08.
Mrs. John Fitz says: "I have been in very poor health for the past seven years and have since childhood been afflicted with sick headache. I have taken 4 bottles of San-Jak and I have done me a wonderful good. I am now able to do light work and gaining in strength. I wish every lady in Michigan could have a bottle of this medicine. I believe in it for the fact that my case was hopeless and my physician said I could not be helped by medicine."

It restores the aged to health and youth. No remedy equal to San-Jak as a blood tonic. The tired feeling leaves you like magic.

We will give $100 to any church or charitable institution if their testimonials are not genuine.
