Chicken Lice Eat Up Profits

If your fowls don't do well, or seem to be in any way below standard, look for lice. The presence of these pests explains more poultry diseases, more poor egg records and more loss to poultrymen than any other cause. Lice are everywhere that chickens are—no matter how clean the place may be otherwise. They cost the poultryman more money than all the other items of poultry expense combined. They kill thousands of chickens every year. Every poultryman knows he must fight these pests. The question is: How? The answer is:

Conkey's Lice Powder It Kills Them All

Conkey's is the scientific exterminator—a combination of the best lice-killing agents known. It is guaranteed to please. It gets clear down to the base of the feather and kills them right and left. Quickest, surest insect killer on the market, but absolutely harmless to chickens. It deals death to body lice. Their bodies drop off the fowls by hundreds, leaving fowls free from irritation. Chickens feel soothed and refreshed by treatment. It restores health and vitality to your poultry. Not only free fowls from torture, but is an absolute safeguard against more lice if applied at intervals. Most economical remedy on the market. Costs little and means big saving. Pays for itself twice over in a single treatment. Sold in 25c packages or any quantity you desire. Order at once. Having tried it, you will always use it. Thousands of poultrymen all over the United States keep it always on hand. You will be surprised at the saving it will make for you.

GOOD STABLING.

Local Correspondence

WEST PLYMOUTH.

Supervisor Lanning of Northville was around Tuesday afternoon making assessments.

We have always heard that liniment was excellent for a lame back, but have never heard before of lemon essence being used in such a capacity.

Ernest Kellogg was taken to Harpe hospital last Friday and has had two operations on his eye.

Mrs. Alice Kellogg went to see her husband at Harper hospital Wednesday, word having been received that he is much worse.

F. W. Becker accompanied his daughter Bernice to Detroit last Saturday. Bernice took part in the county spelling contest.

Ephraim Partridge and wife of Detroit and Gus. Gates and wife spent Sunday at the home of Melbourne Partridge.

Little Owen Partridge has been very sick, but is some better at this writing. Sometimes it is not even safe to ride after an ox, although we do not oft hear of a broken rib and skinned back resulting from such a ride.

Miss Nina Shuart accompanied her pupil, Eva Shoebridge to Detroit Saturday to take part in the spelling contest.

Born, Friday morning, May 5th, to Mr. and Mrs. Don Packard, a 9 pound boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cole of Salem and Mr. and Mrs. Emory Schoch of Northville were visitors at the home of J. J. Luoss Sunday.

Barney Heeney and wife of Northfield spent Sunday at James Heeney's. Will Heeney was a Detroit visitor Saturday.

Miss Faye Spencer spent Saturday and Sunday with Marjorie Forshee and attended the dance at Plymouth Friday night.

Sick headache results from a disordered condition of the stomach, and can be cured by the Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Try it. For sale by all dealers.

STARK.

Mrs. Kate Coats went to Romulus last week to visit an aunt whom she had not seen since she was a child.

Mrs. Harry Armstrong spent Sunday at home.

Eva Melow is spending the week with her aunt, Mrs. John Krumm.

A special school meeting was held last week for the purpose of buying a new furnace.

Martha Swartz was in Detroit Friday.

Mrs. Coats and Mrs. Bell were in Detroit Thursday.

A party was held at the home of Dan. McKinney Tuesday night and a good time was had by all. It is a good place to go.

For the second time this spring this community was called to feel a deep loss, for after two weeks of great suffering James Stoneburner passed away Sunday, May 7th. He leaves a wife and one son and a large circle of friends to mourn their loss.

J. M. Howell, a popular druggist of Greensburg, Ky., says, "We use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our own household and know it is excellent." For sale by all dealers.

LIVONIA CENTER.

Rev. Gullen of Farmington preached here Sunday and gave general satisfaction to all who heard him.

Mrs. Fred Garchow, Sr., visited at Will's Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Benton of Ann Arbor are spending the week with friends in these parts.

Mrs. Tracy Baze is entertaining a cousin, Mrs. Kline, from the city this week.

Mrs. Frank Peck visited friends at Whitmore Lake last week.

The sudden taking away of Mr. Stoneburner last Sunday was a great shock to his many friends in this section, who had scarcely heard of his illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Chilson entertained their daughter and husband Sunday.

A Successful Farmer

Gives as much attention to his stock as he does to his crops. All stock loses condition at times and it is the good manager that applies the remedy before there is any serious loss of time. The successful men in the New England States use Harvell's Condition Powder for stock and poultry. A package goes a long way because it is all medicine, not a food. It puts working animals in good spirits and flesh. Keeps poultry free from disease and increases the yield of eggs. Price 25 cts. Sold by Pinckney's Pharmacy and Beyer Pharmacy.

NEWBURG.

Mr. and Mrs. Cramer and children have moved onto the Passage farm, which they recently purchased.

Mr. and Mrs. Young and family have purchased the Herrick place and moved thereon. They were formerly from Detroit.

Frank Hake, accompanied by Egbert Paddack, motored to Detroit last Friday and took a spin around the boulevards and Belle Isle.

Mrs. James Levan spent a few days this week with Mrs. Kate Allen of Plymouth.

Mrs. M. Hilliker is visiting at the home of her father, James LeVan.

Mrs. Rose Ryan of Detroit called on old friends and also attended the funeral of James Stoneburner Wednesday afternoon.

A large concourse of people attended the funeral of Mr. James Stoneburner. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, showing the esteem in which he was held. The family have the sincere sympathy of the community.

Those from away who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Davy of Steiner, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rutter, Mr. Morgan, Mrs. Vyce, Geo. Boehm and sister, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gumore, all from Detroit.

We are sorry to learn the Joy family are no better at this writing.

Mrs. Esther Loomis of Detroit visited her sister, Mrs. C. Pickett, for a few days recently.

Mrs. L. Langs has returned from Detroit, where she has been caring for her son Roy's children, who have been sick with measles.

Frank Langs has purchased an automobile.

A Smile

Is a pretty hard thing to accomplish when you're "blue," bilious and "out of sorts." There is a sure relief for all stomach and liver complaints, constipation and dyspepsia. Dr. Herriek's Sugar-Coated Pills are mild, thorough, and effective in all cases. Price 25 cts. Sold by Pinckney's Pharmacy and Beyer Pharmacy.

Township Spelling Contest.

Commissioner Yost writes of the recent township spelling contests:

The plans were made the first of October and in order to have a uniform list of words, the Quincy word list was used in all the contests and only rural schools below the ninth grade were allowed to compete. Each school determined its best speller, who was sent as a delegate to a township spelling contest the 7th of April, and the successful candidate in the township contest was sent to a final contest in the county building May 6th. The contestants from the twenty townships were John Wells, dist. No. 8 Brownstown; Fanny Gots, dist. No. 1 fr. Canton; Hazel Campbell, No. 1 Dearborn; Theresa Smith, No. 7 Ecorse; James Diegel, No. 2 Gratiot; Olive Schneeman, No. 3 Greenfield; Odilla VanDamme, No. 7 Grosse Pointe; Agnes Radziwion, No. 3 Hamtramck; Gemma Romine, No. 2 Huron; Mildred Timmons, No. 3 Livonia; Myrtle Grunda, No. 2, Monquagon; Selma Berger, No. 4 Nankin; Eva Shoebridge, No. 10 fr. Northville; Bernice Becker, No. 7 Plymouth; Cora Hobbins, No. 10 Redford; Richard Vealy, No. 2 Romulus; Angeline Roulo No. 3 Springswells; Inez Smith, No. 1 Sumpter; Susan McPherson, No. 2 Taylor and Grace Allison, No. 6 fr. Van Buren. Each of these twenty township candidates received a copy of American Heroes and Heroism.

In the county contest there were three prizes awarded, the first being Webster's New International Dictionary, the second Webster's Collegiate Dictionary and the third a fountain pen. Miss Olive Schneeman of Dist. No. 3 Greenfield, received 99 1/2% in a test of 200 words, thereby winning first prize. Miss Hazel Campbell, Dist. No. 1 Dearborn, won second prize with 98 1/2%, and the third prize was won by Miss Cora Hobbins of Dist. No. 10 Redford, with 97 1/2%. The twenty contestants were all taken to the Y. M. C. A. for a noon lunch. A lively interest in spelling has been manifested throughout the county in consequence of these contests.

On a Dark Night

It is very distressing to have some one in the family awake with an attack of Cholera Morbus, Cramps or Dysentery and it is worse when you have to travel a mile or two for medicine. A bottle of Renne's Pain-Killing Magic Oil kept in the house saves a world of trouble. It quickly checks Diarrhoea, relieves cramps and eases pain. Effective also for rheumatism, lame back, sprains, cuts or wounds. Price 25 cts per bottle. Sold by Pinckney's Pharmacy and Beyer Pharmacy.

Stands Pat on Reciprocity.

President Taft indulged in plain talk Monday in explaining to 25 members of the national grange that he does not intend to play politics with the Canadian reciprocity agreement if that measure by congress costs him the farmer vote.

The president told his visitors bluntly that he was sorry to hear that Republican farmers would desert the party if the agreement goes through, but fear of such desertion would not change his conviction as to the wisdom of such legislation. He said that he believed reciprocity to be the best thing for the whole country and that he did not intend to argue it.

N. P. Hull, spokesman for the farmers, intimated strongly that the farmer doesn't like recipr city and that Republican votes are likely to be lost if it is passed.

"If reciprocity goes through," said he, "it means that we must take less for our wheat and less for our products, and that means a halt in the improvement of our homes and in the education of our children. Take the states along the line—Michigan, Wisconsin, Maine and New Hampshire and Vermont. In the past the farmers of these states have been the backbone of Republican protection. You could count on these people every time. If this measure goes through it will discriminate against our markets and Canada will get the benefit; it will make it harder for us to get a dollar. No president ever commanded the faith of the farm people in times past more than you, and I ask you whether you do not think that we will suffer if we are put on a free trade basis?"

"Certainly not," said the president, "I have no disposition to interfere with the prosperity of those who make up the bone and sinew of our population—the farmers—and I am convinced that I am in no way interfering with it. If I am—if we carry through this treaty and it turns out that it does produce the injury that you anticipate it can be repealed by a single congress. It does not last longer than either side desires it to last. I am convinced that after it has been given one year's trial, neither side will think of reversing it. That is my conviction. I cannot go into an argument.

"So far as the effect of this on my personal political fortunes may be, it ought not to influence me and does not influence me in the slightest. I believe this treaty to be the best thing for the whole country, including farmers, merchants, laboring men and all, because I believe it is contrary to nature, it is flying in the face of Providence, to put an artificial wall like that between this country and Canada and not get the benefit that will inure to people of the same traditions, the same language and practically with the same character of labor. That is my judgment. I am not arguing—I am merely stating my conclusion. If I did not believe this, I should not have taken the responsibility of doing what I have done to put this reciprocity treaty through. I am willing to abide the judgment of history—the judgment that will come after the event. When you gentlemen come to see the result, I believe that you as fair minded men will admit that you have been wrong in your fears and that I have been right."

Arrested at Howell.

W. P. Jarvis, alias John Paul and several other names, was arrested at Howell by Deputy Sheriff Springer at Howell last Saturday and brought back to Plymouth to face a charge of larceny Jarvis had been soliciting subscriptions for the Woman's World, offering three years' subscription for 60 cents and in addition an enlarged picture from photo as a premium. While here last week he was boarded at John Miller's and when he left last Friday forenoon he took with him Miller's $5.00 Derby, leaving his own well-worn "bonnet." Miller made complaint before Justice Campbell and the warrant was placed in Officer Springer's hands with the result as above stated. He pleaded guilty in court Saturday evening and Justice Campbell imposed a fine of $15, which was paid. The fellow also admitted that the money secured on subscription was a clean graft [and the people who paid their 60 cents are, out the money.

Deputy Springer asks The Mail to say that when agents are about offering extraordinary and ridiculous inducements to secure orders to notify him that he may investigate the reliability of the proposition. Better yet, deal at home with people you know.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Editors this week: Claribel Lundy, Helen B. Smith, Ralph Brown and Gertrude M. Smith.

The German II. class are reading "Wilhelm Tell."

Roy Sallow of Farmington visited the 7th grade Wednesday.

Lillian Fisher of the 3rd grade is very sick with inflammation of the lungs.

The physics class went to the power house Thursday noon to study electricity.

The people of the 8th grade are working like Trojans on their county examinations.

Mrs. Newell, mother of our Principal, has been visiting the High School this past week.

Russell Cook of the 5th grade has received 100 in geography and spelling this week.

Clifford Harvey of the 3rd grade has been absent this week on account of sickness.

Twenty three of the 5th grade had a half holiday Friday for being neither absent or tardy this month.

The Modern History class are interested in the study of socialism and have been writing essays about it.

Prof. S. B. Laird has been secured to deliver the address on Decoration day. No one should fail to hear him. Opera house May 30th.

The pupils of the 7th grade are enjoying the pleasure of the north recitation room while the people of the country are taking their eighth grade examinations.

Lynn VanVleet, a former member of our present graduating class, was with us Monday forenoon. He graduates from the Charlotte High School this year and is enthusiastic about his school, though he claims that the standard of instruction is no higher there than here.

A Florida Gallinule, a somewhat rare bird belonging to the waders, has recently been bro't to the H. S. He has afforded a great deal of interest to all in school, and became quite attached to his new home, taking possession of the whole rear end of the science room. When all had studied him sufficiently he was taken to the river and released.

The Plymouth "White Sox" took a trip to Northville Saturday and after a hard fought battle with the "All Stars," returned with a victory of 8 to 6. The brilliant work of Capt. Jolliffe at first base, Spencer at short stop and a running one hand catch by left fielder Gray saved the game. There is some talk of a game with Wayne, the 13th of this month.

Score 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 — R H E
All Stars 0 2 0 0 0 2 0 2 — 6 8 4
White Sox 0 1 0 3 2 1 0 — 8 12 3

It is hoped that everyone interested in any way in our school (and that means every citizen of Plymouth, we trust) will come to the school house Friday evening for our annual "Open Night" to inspect the building, its equipment and the school work. All departments of the school will be on exhibit, including the new Domestic Science department. The evening will be closed by an entertainment in the H. S. consisting of music and scenes from "Ivanhoe," dramatized and played by members of the Eng. II. class.

OBITUARY

James Eugene Stoneburner, youngest son of the late Frederick Stoneburner was born in Hilton, Monroe County, New York, August 17th, 1857 and died May 7th at his home in Newburg. He came to this state with his parents when five years of age. They settled a short distance south of Wayne and resided there several years. Forty-one years ago they moved to the homestead where the deceased lived the remainder of his life. Mr. Stoneburner became a progressive and able farmer, and was very highly respected throughout the community for his upright manhood and honesty. His manly ways and pleasant disposition won for him a large number of warm friends.

In February, 1888, Mr. Stoneburner was united in marriage to Miss Ida Congdon, who with one son, Harvey, survives him. He also leaves one brother, Seeley Stoneburner of Oakland county, and one sister, Mrs. Amanda Dean of Livonia. He was a sincere, consistent member of the Methodist church, with which he united several years ago. The Newburg official board of which he was a member passed fitting resolutions concerning his death. The funeral took place at Newburg church Wednesday afternoon and was attended by a very large number of friends from many miles around. Rev. E. King, his pastor, conducted the services and the remains were laid in Newburg cemetery.

Spraying Fruit Trees

Great interest is being shown everywhere in the spraying of orchards, and here and there farmers are planning to spray the trees while in blossom. This should never be done for several good reasons, says L. R. Taft, state inspector of orchards.

First, there is a state law which prescribes a fine of ten to one hundred dollars or imprisonment for ten to ninety days, or both if fruit trees are sprayed while in blossom. Complaint may be made to a justice of the peace or other competent court, by any person.

Second, and the reason for the law, when trees are sprayed with poisonous solution, the bees are destroyed, thus causing a great loss to the owners of fruit trees, since the bees are required to fertilize the flowers.

Third, spraying while trees are in blossom often injures the flowers so that the fruit will not set.

Fourth, the person who sprays at this time thinks he will be better able to destroy the apple worm than later on. This is not the case. The poison must enter the calyx cup, but this is not possible until after the stamens have withered. The apple worm does not hatch until three or four weeks after the fruit has set, or before the lobes of the calyx have closed. It is a poor practice from every point of view to spray fruit trees while in bloom.

The only case in which spraying might be advisable is when the trees were not sprayed just before the blossoms opened. Then a weak solution of lime-sulphur may be used until after the petals have dropped.

Notice of Letting of Drain Contract.

Notice is hereby given that J. James Grant, county drain commissioner of the county of Wayne, State of Michigan, will on the 22nd day of May A. D. 1911, at the Bakewell residence in the township of Plymouth, in said county of Wayne, at nine o'clock in the forenoon of that day, proceed to receive bids for the construction of a certain drain known and designated as "the Bakewell Tile Drain," to be located and established in the township of Plymouth, in said county of Wayne, and described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning on the property of H. W. L. Hillmer, northwestern corner of section 25, and continuing east through lands of H. W. L. Hillmer, G. U. Raviler, William Bakewell, Mary Hager, William Minchard, and stopping at the M. R. ditch, all of said drain being in section 25, T. 18. R. 8. E.

Said job will be let by sections. The section at the outlet of said drain will be let first, and the remaining sections in their order upstream, in accordance with the diagram now on file with the other papers pertaining to said drain, in the office of the County Drain Commissioner of said county of Wayne, to which reference may be had by all parties interested, and bids will be made and received accordingly. Contracts will be made with the lowest responsible bidder giving adequate security for the performance of the work in a sum then and there to be fixed by me, reserving to myself the right to reject any and all bids. The date for the completion of such contract and the terms of payment therefor shall be announced at the time and place of letting.

Notice is further hereby given that at the time and place of said letting, or at such other time and place thereafter to which I, the county drain commissioner aforesaid, may adjourn the same, the assessments for benefits to the lands comprised within the "Bakewell Tile Drain Special Assessment District," and appurtenances thereto, will be announced by me and will be subject to review, for one day from nine o'clock in the forenoon until five o'clock in the afternoon.

The following is a description of the several tracts or parcels of land constituting the Special Assessment District of said drain, viz: Beginning at the ditch on the south side of the M. R. ditch in the northeast 1/4 of section 25, T. 18. R. 8. E., 340 feet east of the Whitlock road, thence across the right of way of the P. M. H. R. south 84 deg 18 min w 71 ft to the north line of lands owned by W. H. Minchard; thence across the lands of said W. H. Minchard s 4 deg 18 min w 69 ft; thence continuing across the lands of said W. H. Minchard s 4 deg 4 min w 66 ft; thence s 54 deg 12 min w 47 ft to the east line of lands owned by Wm. Bakewell; thence across the lands of Wm. Bakewell s 4 deg 07 min w 6 ft; thence continuing across the lands of Wm. Bakewell s 43 deg 30 min w 405 ft; thence n 78 deg 02 min w 132 ft to the east line of lands owned by George Reviler; thence across the lands of George Reviler s 78 deg 02 min w 47 ft; thence s 28 deg 30 min w 636 ft; thence s 64 deg 15 min w 15 ft to the east line of lands owned by Louis Hillmer; thence across the lands of said Louis Hillmer s 64 deg w 47 ft.

Now therefore, all unknown or non-resident persons owners of and persons interested in the above described lands and you H. W. L. Hillmer, George Reviler, Wm. Bakewell, M. Hager, George Henry, Wm. Krumm, Isaac Tillotson, Carl Heide, E. N. Passago, Henry Fisher and Wm. Minchard are hereby notified that at the time and place aforesaid, or at such other time and place thereafter to which said hearing may be adjourned, I shall proceed to receive bids for the construction of said drain in the manner hereinbefore stated, and also that at such time of letting, from nine o'clock in the forenoon to five o'clock in the afternoon, the assessments for benefits to the lands comprised within the "Bakewell Tile Drain Special Assessment District" will be subject to review, and you and each of you, owners of and persons interested in the aforesaid lands are cited to appear at the time and place of said letting as aforesaid, and be heard with respect to such special assessments, and your interests in relation thereto, if you so desire.

Dated this 2nd day of May, A. D. 1911.
JAMES GRANT,
County Drain Commissioner of the County of Wayne.

Commissioner's Notice.

In the matter of the estate of Aruna Cady, I, deceased, wa, the undersigned, having been appointed by the Probate Court for the county of Wayne, State of Michigan, Commissioner, do receive, examine and adjust, all claims and demands of all persons against said deceased, do hereby give notice that we will meet at the office of P. W. Voorhies, in the village of Plymouth, in said county, on Friday, the 4th day of August, A. D. 1911, and on Saturday, the 5th day of August, A. D. 1911, at 10 o'clock, P. M. of each of said days, for the purpose of receiving and allowing said claims, and that six months from the 4th day of May, A. D. 1911, were allowed by said Court on credit to present their claims to us for examination and allowance.
Dated May 4, 1911.

Primary School Money

According to the receipts of taxes which go into the primary school fund Auditor General Fuller has estimated that the apportionment of primary school money in May will be at the rate of $7 per capita, the highest rate for the apportionment since 1906, when the state collected a big amount of interest on back taxes. This distribution will cover every school district, as the new law excluding some districts from participation will not go into effect this year. There are 771,493 school children in the state to receive the benefit of this disbursement, an increase of 11,000 over last year.

THE WHISTLING BOY.

O Bunting, lute, barefooted and blithe, the rattling melody
Which through the trees so lightsome slips is the balad of "Rosalie,
The Prairie Flower," and gracious power,
within the ancient tune,
Brings back the day when I rode away, in the buxom month of June,
When the slender stalks of the hollyhocks lifted the blooms so high Above the wall that they showed all:
"Good-by, my lover, good-by,
And in tunic yellow, a wild bird mellow,
and mad with tipsy joy,
Tilted the rhyme of his tuncful chime to the lit of a whistling boy.

No meadow lark in the misty dark, when winging her upward way
From cloud to cloud, and carolling loud, to waken the sleeping day,
No whip-poor-will, in the twilight still,
lamenting in lonely shade,
Where fireflies seek for her and peek into every glimmering glade,
No slave refrain with a wail of pain and a wail of psalm busting
No aria trilled, to audience thrilled, by the art of the opera queen,
No shepherd's hail in a Hawthorn vale, no
mariner's "Home ahoy," Wets my eyes like thoughts that rise with the lit of a whistling boy.

Through my happy tears, across the years,
on the upland farm I see,
Driving his line of lowing kine the laddie
that once was me,
Whetting clear to the thrushes near that cheery, quaint old strain, Loitering slow, in the long ago, up the blooming orchard lane,
We knew that some, when death has come,
and all life's toil is o'er,
On the river brim have heard a hymn float
up from the farther shore,
But at Charon's ford, one low, sweet chord,
will all my fear destroy,
If o'er the tide, from the other side, comes
the lit of a whistling boy.

It was a strange, weird air, that Lillian played, and she played it with skill and power. The others listened silently for a few moments; then Mrs. Roundtree said to the mayor:

"We really must not talk about that affair before her; her mind has been dwelling on it all day. She has been to me three times to say that it would be quite natural for such a criminal to desire to be revenged on you for offering the reward. She tries to hide her interest in the subject, but it shows itself every minute. She was so eager to hear the news that she went down to the gate to meet the newsboy with the afternoon paper, and I had to speak to her twice to get her attention after she had read the account of the crime. Listen to her music! Can't you detect her nervousness in her playing? She doesn't play that way usually. Hush! she has stopped!"

"It is tea-time," said Lillian, coming to the door. "Why don't you come in?" With a solicitous expression on his face, Fred Walters rose, and, putting his arm around her slender waist, led her before the others into the dining-room. She was tall and graceful and quite pretty. Her eyes were large and hazel, her hair light brown and abundant. Her feet were small and well shaped, her hands long, tapering and strong-looking.

The family talked of other things than the murder during the meal, but Lillian took no part in what was said. She ate slowly and daintily and seemed thoughtful. After tea, Marion, his father and mother and Fred Walters had a game of whist in the drawing-room. Lillian had never liked the game. She improvised some soft airs on the piano, and then rose and went out on the veranda. Through the open window her mother could see her chair rocking back and forth. Later Mrs. Roundtree became interested in the game, and did not think of her daughter for half an hour. When the game was finished, she looked towards Lillian's chair. It was vacant.

"Why, where is Lillian?" the mother asked, excitedly. "She was on the veranda just now." Mrs. Roundtree called the girl's name aloud, but there was no reply.

They all rose hurriedly and went to the door, vaguely alarmed.

"Lillian! Lillian!" Mrs. Roundtree called from the veranda.

"Here I am, mother."

The reply came from down the walk among the boxwood-and-rose-bushes. "I am coming; don't be frightened."

"Why, my child, how can you be so imprudent?" cried Mrs. Roundtree, as the girl came into the light of the gas in the hall. Lillian was trying to conceal something under the light shawl she wore, and walked rather awkwardly as she came up the steps. As her husband approached her, she retreated into the shadow of the wall near the door. Then suddenly she broke into a low, mechanical laugh.

"The truth is," she said, seeing that the others were waiting for an explanation of her actions, "I came near having an adventure. I saw a man climb over the fence down by the rose-bushes. I know he had no business there, and—"

"You went down there?" her mother gasped.

The girl laughed coldly and drew a revolver from beneath her shawl. "I ran up and got Fred's revolver. I was not afraid. I knew—I don't know how I knew it, but I was sure he was not armed, and that if I could catch him I could frighten him into submission." She swung the revolver to and fro skillfully in her strong fingers. "But he got away. He sprang over the fence and ran as soon as he saw me. I would have fired at him, but I knew he was beyond range, and that the report would frighten you out of your wits."

The group stood motionless and silent for a moment. Then Fred Walters drew a long breath, as he stepped towards his wife with extended hand.

"Give it to me," he said, in a strange, imperative tone.

With a sudden look of defiance, she held the revolver behind her, and as he drew nearer she threw it over the balustrade into the flower-beds.

"I did not mean to do that," she cried, impulsively, then she was doggedly silent.

Fred Walters went down the steps, picked up the revolver, and came back examining it in the light.

"It's loaded," he said under his breath to the mayor.

"Of course it's loaded," the girl blurted out. "Do you think I'd go down there to meet a red-handed murderer with an unloaded revolver?" Then, with a deep flush on her face, she passed through the light at the door and resumed her seat in the rocking chair before the window.

"My darling—" began Mrs. Roundtree, finding her voice at last, and advancing towards her.

"Don't call me pet names!" broke in the young wife. "Women are such weak beings that the moment one of us does a sensible thing she is reproved. I am not afraid—really afraid—of any creature that ever walked on the earth. I only did what Fred or papa would have done. Why, I am a better shot than Fred, and he knows it. Let's talk of something else."

Without another word the mayor and his wife and son left Fred Walters with Lillian and went into the drawing-room. "She has always been a strange creature," sighed Mrs. Roundtree, "but she has never acted so queerly before. Oh, I'm very much afraid she and Fred will not get along well together. They are so different. Don't you think he looked a little vexed just now, dear?"

"More surprised than anything else. I thought," replied the mayor. Just then Fred and his wife passed the door, going towards the stairs. "There are two sides to the question," Lillian was saying. "Would you mind keeping yours to yourself?"

Fred looked in with a flushed face. "We are going to bed," he said. "She will be all right in the morning. I had no business to teach her to shoot."

CHAPTER VI.

Late in the night Mrs. Roundtree was awakened by a light touch on her brow.

"It is I, mamma; don't be frightened." And Lillian sat down on the side of the bed. "I have not been able to sleep for—my hasty words this evening. If you will forgive me I can go back to bed and sleep."

Mrs. Roundtree drew her face down and kissed it.

"There is nothing to forgive, darling," she answered. "But why have you got on that heavy wrap, and why, I declare, it's damp! Have you—surely you have not been out again?"

The girl drew herself up stiffly and was silent for a moment. The room was faintly lighted by the moonbeams; but Mrs. Roundtree could not see her face.

"No, I have not been out," she said hesitatingly at first, and then, speaking more rapidly, "but I have been sitting at the open window, and the dew may have fallen on me from the vines."

"But why have you been up, dear?" "Because I could not sleep and did not want to disturb Fred by my restlessness. And—and then, mother, to tell the truth, I was not certain that the man I saw might not come back again. Now, don't be frightened, but I am pretty sure that it was the murderer, and that he has designs against us. It would be the most natural thing in the world. Father's offer of a big reward is like an open challenge to him. The man who wrote those notes and did that deed is deep and cunning, and I don't believe he'll be easily caught."

Mrs. Roundtree sat up in bed and put her arm around her daughter. "Oh, dear, you don't know how miserable your talk makes me. You speak and act so queerly! Go back to bed and try to sleep. You have thought of all this till it has unnerved you."

The girl coldly drew herself from her mother's embrace and stood away from her.

"I was never calmer—in my life," she said, quickly. She stared at her mother for a moment; then she stepped towards her with an arm outstretched. "You know when the pulse of anyone is excited. Feel mine. No, you have got to do it. I am serious. I will not be accused of being agitated when I am as calm as I can be. Feed it, I say!"

Mrs. Roundtree was obliged to take her wrist and press her trembling fingers on the veins.

"You see," the girl went on, "I am not excited; but you are, for you are quivering all over. Lie down and go to sleep again. I am sorry I waked you." And she turned and went out of the room.

The next morning, while the family were at breakfast, James, the butler, brought a folded paper to the mayor. He said he had found it among the rose bushes near the gate. It was typewritten, and addressed to "Mayor Roundtree." As he opened it Mrs. Roundtree turned pale and Fred Walters stared fixedly at her.

Lillian did not seem to have noticed the man's entrance, nor did she seem to hear her mother say: "What is it, dear?" as she leaned towards her husband. The mayor finished the note and mutely handed it to his wife. Fred Walters got up and stood behind Mrs. Roundtree's chair, reading the note over her shoulder.

"Bring me a hot roll, Jane," said Mrs. Walters to the girl who was waiting at the table. Then she seemed to notice that Fred had moved from her side.

"Why, Fred!" she said, "is it polite to look over mamma's letters?"

A look of deep concern was on Walters' face. He came back to his chair without replying. The mayor took the sheet of paper, put it into his pocket, and awkwardly resumed his breakfast.

"Something I've no hand in, that's plain," said Lillian. "Well, I don't care, you've always tried to make a baby of me." Then her color rose suddenly as she added: "But I know what it is as well as you do. It is a communication from the man who was prowling round the house last night. I wish I had shot him."

A deep silence followed her remark. Fred Walters looked at her with a pained, puzzled expression, and as he saw that she was folding her napkin preparatory to leaving, he put out his hand to detain her, but she pushed it away impatiently. "Keep the matter to yourselves," she said, angrily. "You all have so much more intelligence than I have."

After she had left the room no one spoke for several minutes. The mayor took the note from his pocket and silently reread it. It was as follows:

"Dear Sir: "Make your reward $500,000, and even then you would never capture me. That was a rash thing for you to do. Look to the safety of your family. You'll never know the moment it will happen. Your case shall receive my earliest consideration."

"ONE WHO KNOWS HIS BUSINESS." "What are you going to do?" Mrs. Roundtree faltered, rising with her husband.

"Take it to the police and that New York detective," he answered. "It's all I can do, and that's my duty."

"I would not go out so early," said Mrs. Roundtree. "Do you think it will be safe to leave us alone?"

"Fred can stay; I shall not let this make any difference in my usual habits. Besides, I think it is only an idle threat."

"Yes, I will stay," Walters agreed. "I don't like to leave Lillian, anyway; she is not well; she has not finished her breakfast."

"Had you not better ask the police to guard our house? We are so isolated, you know." And in her deep anxiety Mrs. Roundtree leaned heavily on her husband's arm.

"I shall ask the police and Mr. Hendricks about that, and shall do as they advise. I'd better go down at once."

CHAPTER VII.

A week went by. The body of Richard N. Strong had been buried, and Alfred Whidby was considered the legal possessor of his effects. Whidby had not been seen on the streets or at his club since the murder. It was on the eighth day after the burial that Col. Warrenton called to see him. He was shown up to Whidby's room.

The young man rose from the table at which he was writing, and shook hands with his friend. He was pale, thin and nervous. His eyes were sunken, his hair and dress untidy.

"Still up here in your new quarters," said the colonel, sweeping the rather small room with a glance. "I thought you'd move back to your old room."

Whidby shuddered. "I don't care to sleep there; by Jove, I don't believe I could close my eyes."

The two men had taken seats opposite each other, and the lawyer emphasized his next remark by laying his hand firmly on Whidby's knee. "My boy, this will never do. You'd never make a soldier. You've got to rouse yourself and shake it off. You'll lose your reason if you go brooding over this thing. To tell the truth, you are looking worse and worse every day. Did you sleep last night?"

"About two hours, all told," replied Whidby. "I know I am in bad shape. I can see it and feel it."

"Look here, my boy," the colonel slapped Whidby's knee soundly. "I want you to pull up and take a trip to Europe. It will give you a change of scene and something else to think about. You'll be a new man in a month."

Whidby rose and began to place his papers in order on the table. "I'd never be able to think of anything else, no matter where I was; and then it would be like running away; by Jove, it would be running away. I am sure that I've done wrong in keeping back that matter from Hendricks. It's cowardly."

"You could tell them nothing that would help them, and it would only place you under deeper suspicion," the lawyer replied.

"My God! I'd just as soon be in a prison cell as here under the awful uncertainty as to whether I did it or not."

"What did you say? What do you mean?"

Whidby walked slowly from the table and laid his hand on his friend's shoulder.

"I am afraid I had something to do with the murder. I can't figure it out any other way. The blood on the curtain; the stain you found on the chair; my dim recollection of taking hold of the chair; the drop of blood on my cuff—why, my hand—it was the right hand, you know—must have been absolutely wet with it."

"Are you fool enough to think you could have killed a man in your sleep without being conscious of the act? Besides, remember the smile on Strong's face; you're obliged to admit—"

"That's exactly what puts me on this line," Whidby interrupted. "I noticed in a New York paper an interview with Dr. Henry Lamplin, the famous hypnotic expert, in which he said casually that from what he read of the case he judged that my uncle was hypnotized by the murderer. Well, Warrenton, I am sure if I were to tell him what occurred to me that night he would say that I was also hypnotized—that perhaps I was made to do the deed for some one else. Such things have been done. Old man, that is what is troubling me. It is awful!"

There was silence for a moment; then the colonel said:

"I'll tell you what I would do, Alfred. I don't think you could have been under any influence that night; but if you are going to brood over the matter this way till you are insane, I propose that we have Dr. Lamplin to come down here and give us his opinion. He is said to be a wonderful man, and he may, at all events, give you some peace of mind. He is said to be making marvelous cures among intemperate people, and children naturally depraved, through what he calls hypnotic suggestion. From what I hear of him I believe he can be trusted even in such a delicate matter as this."

Whidby's face brightened. "That's just what I want," he said. "Anything is better than suspense. He may be able to tell me whether I actually did the deed. If he can assure me that it was not my hand that held the knife, he is welcome to every dollar of my uncle's estate."

"Oh, he won't break us; his prices are not high; he does a great deal for no pay at all. But I shall write him at once, and report to you as soon as his reply comes. I believe hypnotism is a wonderful thing, but something tells me that it could not be carried to the extent you fear. Besides, you may not have been hypnotized at all; you may have been slightly disturbed by the fellow's movements in Strong's room, and got up half awake and gone—after the murder—to his bed to reassure yourself. It may have been then that you got your hands in the blood without knowing it."

"Ah, you give me the first bit of hope I have had," cried Whidby. "Write to him at once. I wish he were here now."

"I'll get him as soon as he can come," the colonel promised, and he rose to go. At the door he turned back.

"I am trying to work up a little clew for myself," he said. "I am fond of this sort of thing. I'd give anything to beat this expert detective and run our man to the ground without consulting him. By the way, you and I might try to think of some motive for the crime. The others are doubtless losing valuable time in suspecting you. Now, do you happen to remember if your uncle ever had an enemy?"

"Not that I know of," Whidby answered. "I don't think he could. He was an easy-going man, and lived very quietly—that is, since I have known him. Years ago, when he was a young man, I believe he had rather an adventurous life in the gold-mines out west somewhere. You know he made his start there. He has never told me much about those days. In fact, I have often thought he was oddly silent on the subject. It seems to have been the only part of his history that he has not talked to me freely about."

"Do you know of any poor relation that may have troubled him for aid in any way?"

"No. But why do you ask? I don't understand."

"I can't tell you now, but I am searching for a motive for the crime. Even if you could have been hypnotized, there would still have to be a motive for the crime. If the murderer was a skillful hypnotist he was no fool, and the motive must have been a strong one. But I see you are getting the blues again. Brace up. Good-by: I shall see you tomorrow."

Has a Rubber Back.

"A cat will fall on its feet always, while a coon will always land on its back," commented an old hunter as we galloped through one of the mountain hollows in southwestern Missouri. "I s'pose the reason is obvious. A coon has an Inje rubber back."

"A rubber back?" incredulously. "Sure's you're born. A coon'll fall from the topmost branch of the tallest tree on its back every time. The fall would kill any other animal. How about the coon? He just bunches up in the air about 25 feet like a rubber ball and comes down on a do-neck. Why, I've seen a coon bound like a baby's rubber ball."

"I have been told—I've never seen it—that the coon's favorite amusement is bouncing. One'll drop from a tree and bounce; then another'll drop and bounce, and they'll keep that up by the hour. So I say a coon has a real rubber back." (All of which will not be found in any book on natural history.)—Detroit Free Press.

Just a Slight Mistake.

Pretty Mrs. Brown was wedded to her second husband and had a peculiar way of talking about her first and her second in the same breath, which was confusing to her listeners as well as to herself. One day she planned a birthday party as a surprise to Tom (her second). About an hour before the guests were to assemble to celebrate Tom's birthday, she could contain herself no longer and confided the secret to him. A troubled look stole over his face and he seemed greatly distressed to dampen her enthusiasm, but upon her questioning him as to his seeming distress he answered: "Why, my dear, this is Dick's birthday, not mine!"—Liverpool Mercury.

Just Shrewd Judgment.

She—I went to a fortune-teller to-day, just for a lark, and she told me a lot of things.

He—Yes, some of them hit it pretty closely, but I hope you don't think there is anything supernatural about their powers. They just use shrewd judgment; that is all.

That may be true, dear. She told me I was married to a man who fell far short of what I deserve."—Indianapolis

Maidens and Widows.

By the old Saxon law a maiden and a widow were of different value. The latter could be bought for one-half the sum which the guardian of the maid was entitled to demand. A man, therefore, who could not afford to buy a maiden might, perhaps, be able to purchase a widow.

Health For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

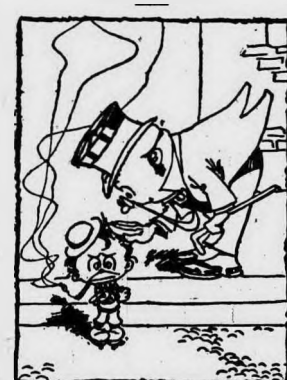

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Coloma, Wisconsin.—"For three years I was troubled with female weakness, irregularities, backache and bearing down pains. I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking several bottles I found it was helping me, and I must say that I am perfectly well now and can not thank you enough for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. John Wentland, R. F. D., No. 3, Box 60, Coloma, Wisconsin.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

A READER CURES HIS CONSTIPATION—TRY IT FREE

Simple way for any family to retain the good health of all its members.

The editors of "Health Hints" and "Questions and Answers" have one question that is put to them more often than any other, and which, strangely enough, they find the most difficult to answer. That is "How can I cure my constipation?"

Dr. Caldwell, an eminent specialist in diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels has looked the whole field over, has practiced the specialty for forty years and is convinced that the ingredients contained in what is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the best claim to attention from constipated people.

Its success in the cure of stubborn constipation has done much to displace the use of salts, waters, strong cathartics and such things. Syrup Pepsin, by training the stomach and bowel muscles to again do their work naturally, and with its tonic ingredients strengthening the nerves brings about a lasting cure.

Among its strongest supporters are Mr. John Graveline of 88 Milwaukee Ave., Detroit, Mich., Mr. J. A. Vernon of Oklahoma City and thousands of others. It can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, or you want to try it first a free sample bottle can be obtained by writing the doctor.

MODES FOR CHILDREN

SPRING GARMENTS FOR YOUNG GIRLS ALREADY SHOWN.

Tendency is Toward Full Ungored Skirts, and Collarless Neck Still Rules—Pretty Little Frock of Gingham or Finer Material.

"Dear me, how soon spring comes!" the shopper thinks as she goes down the street these last days, for there already are the signs in the windows—yards and yards of dainty wash fabrics, with all their various trimmings, in enchanting spring colors. How the window dressers get the uncut fabrics to look so beautiful—to look so much like flowers and little children—is a mystery to the passer-by. But there is everything folded over and puffed out and twisted this way and that in just the right manner. And when you inquire about prices the obliging shopman tells you, and truthfully, that everything will be dearer by and by, and that many of the lovely patterns now seen will not be reproduced.

Really tiny children are in clover, for their frocks are the simplest, long-bodied affairs, or else Mother Hubbard slips that hang from the shoulders, and at most a pretty yoke or skirt trim these, and as quantity in wash things is now much more considered than quality the very modesty of the baby girl clothes makes it possible to have a greater number of things.

The illustration shows a smart little frock that might be developed from two kinds of gingham or be a much finer affair in a little silk and wool. In the present instance the frock is of a figured challie trimmed with plain silk, and the way the bands are buttoned down over the trimming is a new and smart idea.

In the way of color combinations for wash materials the main part of this dress might be made of a blue or pink chambray and the trimming part of black and white. Or one part of the dress could be in a plain cotton and the trimming of a figured or striped cotton in the same color. Again, the model is admirably suited to a pretty childish silk, and with this velvet ribbon could be used for the three bands back and front, and chiffon for the skirt border, bust band, sleeve edge and circular collar band. In fact, there are any number of ways of varying the design, the only restriction being that any figured goods must show a small and childish pattern. For a practical dress, too, the belt would be of the goods and the undersleeves of plain lawn or a thin silk.

In the way of coats I would advise the mother who likes the doll quality for her baby daughter's dress to get a pale blue or pink linen or pique for her baby's summer coat and trim it with a coarse white lace. These delicately-tinted wraps, made in the usual sack shape, though with shawl revers that come to the waist, will be very smart, and for the hat the coat material may be used with the headpiece made after the style of the usual little wash hats with puffed crowns buttoned on to a plain brim.

Spring millinery is shown at this time for children, but the weather is far too unsettled for it to be advisable, unless the hat is of silk and very nearly as warm as the winter one. Many silk hats in the basket and bowl shapes liked for young fry are made of a dark silk or satin, with a wide band, finished at the side with a square bow, of a light embroidery.

Fillet Net Stylish.
French fillet, so much worn last winter, is again coming back into style. Darned fillet all-over net, used in the headed-in style, is being shown on many of the dainty little dance frocks.

PRETTY LITTLE FERN STAND

Novelty Suited for Placing on the Table or Hanging Up in the Window.

Here is a charming little fern stand for placing upon a table or hanging up in a window. It is made of six slender sticks of wood, three about a foot in length, and three half that size.

Diagram "A" illustrates the shape in which the woodwork should be made. The three long sticks are arranged in tripod fashion and tied together at the top with fine twine. The smaller pieces of wood are fastened across the upright sticks, about three inches from the base, with small, thin, sharp nails.

After the woodwork has been completed, it is bound round and round with narrow ribbon until it is entirely covered, and a loop is arranged at the top by which the stand may be lifted when necessary or hung up in the window. Smart little bows of ribbon should be tied on where indicated in the sketch.

We next come to that part in which the fern pot is fitted, and this is made of a piece of stout cardboard, cut out in the shape shown by the diagram "B," and then covered on both sides with silk of a color to match the ribbon. Care must be taken to make this portion exactly the correct size, and when completed it can be laid in position between the sticks and a few stitches through the edge of the silk and the ribbon covering the wood will secure it in its place.

These little stands are very inexpensive, and easy to make, and filled with pretty ferns, should form attractive little articles for sale in a bazaar.

OUTFIT FOR RAINY DAYS

Knickerbockers, High Shoes, Fitted Mufflers and Knitted Waistcoats Are Best for Bad Weather.

A pair of knickerbockers to save her petticoats is one of the most sensible investments of the girl who goes out in the rain. They are worn with warm woolen stockings or high leggings and are much better than dragged skirts.

Rubbers and high shoes or, at any rate, high and preferably stormproof shoes attend each rainy-day walk of the well-dressed girl who does not trifle with low shoes and gaiters in the wet.

Instead of furs—the fitted mufflers of knitted silk and wool or cotton, clasping snugly around the throat, are suitable for wet days. They are washable, so that white ones can always be kept snowy.

Knitted waistcoats are almost a necessity, to be slipped on under the thin raincoat.

A new rainy-day hat has appeared that should prove useful to the girl whose hair hangs limp and straight in the rain. It is a small and trim toque, trimmed with wings, and fitted in front with a bewitching little false curly bang. One must, of course, purchase a hat "banged" to match one's hair. The bangs are put on sparsely enough to suggest nature and not the hair emporium.

Pretty Opera Bag.

About the simplest possible opera bag is made of a piece of satin, linen or moire, sixteen by seven inches, with a lining of china silk the same size.

Sew bag material and lining together and stitch up the sides. Make slots for the drawstrings, thread silk cord through them, and there you are!

Of course, if you wish to be a little more elaborate, embroidery and hand-painting are in order, and then there are the little pockets inside for powder puffs, mirror, theater tickets, etc. But the bag is certainly most easily made, and a very pretty and dainty one it is.

Novel Hatpins.

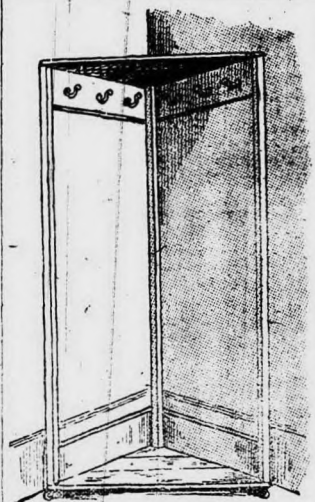

Get common black-headed hatpins and two or three different colors of sealing wax, a tallow candle and a cup of cold water. The browns and reds go farther for a beginning, then mix in some gold and silver; swirl between thumb and finger over the flame of a candle, then drop quickly into the water, and mold in the shape desired. To add the last glossy finish hold over flame, but not long enough to spoil the shape. They are cheap and pretty.

MOVEABLE CORNER CUPBOARD

It Has Framework of Wood on Castors So It Can Be Wheeled About for Cleaning.

There are many ways of arranging a cupboard for clothes in the corner of a room, and perhaps the most simple way is to hang a curtain across the corner and cover in the top and then nail boards, furnished with sets of pegs, to the wall on either side.

In our sketch we show a great improvement on this plan, in the shape of a framework of wood, made to fit the corner, and with castors screwed on underneath so that the whole cupboard and contents can be easily moved for cleaning and other purposes.

The sketch very clearly illustrates the construction of the woodwork, and any amateur carpenter should be able, without much difficulty, to put it together, or a local carpenter would construct it for very little.

At the top, on either side, sets of pegs are arranged, and it is an easy matter to fasten a brass rail for a curtain to hang in front and entirely in close the contents.

On the floor of the cupboard there is a nice space for storing boots, shoes, etc., and the roof of the cupboard can also be utilized.

In selecting the material for the curtain, the color should be chosen to match or harmonize with the color of the wall paper.

ACCESSORIES MADE IN BLACK

That is the Smart Shade This Year for Girdle, Collar and Various Other Articles.

From year to year our ideas of dress accessories change very greatly. At one time, not so many years ago, the woman who was given to little ingenious make-shifts in dress had a number of yokes of lace or silk which were put on or taken off as various occasions demanded, the one foundation waist being thus frequently transformed with the various colors and shapes. Then there was the day of pretty fichus and various ties and all the other little dainty belongings which gave a touch of newness to a gown.

This season black dress accessories are among the most fashionable, and the girl who is deft with her needle makes an adjustable set consisting of a black satin girdle, sailor collar and plaited cuffs. She will also have a sash with fringe or knotted ends and a satin side frill to match. The adjustable set is worn one day and the sash and the side frill the next. It takes a discriminating eye to discover that midday is wearing the same gown with different dress accessories. Instead of two really separate garments. These satin dress accessories are not always used as makeshifts, but with their plings of Persian silk, or trimmings of gold lace, they add a touch of color to the garment which makes it exceedingly stylish. Black satin enters more largely into dress trimming this season than for many years.

The New "Stoop" Walk.

Womankind is achieving a new walk—or rather the new walk has been thrust upon her by the requirements of the present coat styles. All the fashionable evening coats are drawn in at the bottom of the back and slope upward loosely at the front. This necessitates a measured, rather mincing step which, with a slight bend of the body forward under the weight of the big fur collars, and because of the necessity of lifting the skirts from the pavement or steps, produces a pretty, graceful and very feminine attitude, quite different from the rather independent stride engendered by the short skirts worn for the past season or two.

Nail Varnish.

Take a few lumps of gum benzoin, place in a bottle and cover with alcohol, 95 per cent. cork tightly and let stand for two weeks and shake it well twice daily. Filter through absorbent cotton, color with liquid benzoin. Use sufficient alcohol to form a thin liquid. To make liquid carmine, take a half-dram carmine, well powdered in a mortar, add three-quarters dram strong ammonia, work until all is dissolved, then add ten ounces of distilled water. Use enough of this liquid to make the varnish of the desired shade. Apply to the finger nails with a small brush.

FADS IN STATIONERY

MANY CHARMING CONCEITS ARE OFFERED TO WOMEN.

Blue Bird Has Given Place to Chanticleer, Which Appears on Letter and Note Paper, Invitation, Dinner and Menu Cards.

Never was there a season when the seeker after fads in stationery could find so many charming conceits to choose from. In the early part of the winter we had the blue bird, adapted to all social requirements. The birds adorned the upper left hand corners of cards and paper, while the paper was tinted a delicate blue, or the envelopes were lined with vivid blue, just the hue of the bird's plumage.

Now the blue bird must take second place, for chanticleer holds the center of the stage. Among the stationery novelties for which Rostand's play is responsible are things both startling and beautiful. Chanticleer letter and note paper, invitation and dinner cards are tinted in vivid red, orange, pumpkin yellow or buff, with chanticleer in bright colors occupying a conspicuous position in the upper left hand corner or at the top of the sheet. Not to be outdone, the pheasant, too, appears in natural colors, and there is a smaller assortment of cards and note paper with decorations of animals' heads.

The chanticleer fed has turned loose on society, too, whole flocks of real, feathered birds. These usually adorn place and menu cards, and in form and color the birds are perfect. Nothing more exquisite in the line of feather work has been attempted than these tiny pheasants, peacocks, mallards, redbirds, canaries, owls, chickens and roosters. Even pairs of tiny birds are found upon a bit of a nest in which cuddle mites of eggs. It is said that no wild birds are killed for the making of this feathered stationery, the plumage being manufactured in France from the feathers of domestic fowls.

Affrage and airships also provide motives for the adornment of the season's stationery. The real enthusiast the votes-for-women cause writes notes on yellow tinted paper, decorated at the top of the page with a pair of scales, balanced above the word "Equality," and it is evident that she does not despise social diversions, because invitation and place cards appear in the same rich color and with the same suggestive embellishment.

The airship novelties, which include cloud craft wrought of paper in all the forms known to the navigators of the air, are mostly used for aero dinners, both as favors and as place and menu cards.

HAREM SKIRT FROM PARIS.

Word came from Paris the other day that in the spring a new form of divided skirt is to be introduced. It is described as an almost exact reproduction of the dress worn by the ladies of the harems so a famous man dressmaker has put it. Those who favor this fashion will have a skirt to each ankle. The harem skirt shown here is of pale fawn cashmere de sole with a silver sheen upon it, comprising Turkish trousers and a clever draped and Oriental embroidered tunic dress, over which a cape weighted with heavy tassels is worn.

New Hair Ornaments.

Among hair ornaments there is something altogether new. It is a fancy shell hairpin, with two pendants swinging from golden chains. There is a craze for dangling garnitures and this novelty is in harmony with the prevailing taste. The unique ornament adjusts itself readily to present coiffures, and is decidedly chic.—Harper's Bazar.

INVASION OF DETROIT

Michigan Endeavorers Will Have Great Convention.

PROMINENT MEN WILL ATTEND

Many Planning to Go to Detroit and Atlantic City Conventions During Summer Vacations—State Convention Promises to Be of Unusual Interest.

IMPORTANT DATES.

State Convention—Detroit, June 22-25.
International Convention—Atlantic City, July 6-12.

About 1,500 young people through out Michigan are making preparations to attend the Twenty-second Annual Michigan Christian Endeavor Convention, which will be held in Detroit, June 22-25th. This convention will be one of the most helpful and enjoyable gatherings ever held by Michigan Endeavorers. While in past years the conventions have been almost exclusively for Endeavor societies, this year all limitations have been cast aside, and practically every Christian Young People's organization of note will participate. This insures an attendance larger than any state convention yet attempted.

The motto of the convention is "Forward," and neither time nor money is being spared to make it a real forward step in young people's work. Not only will this be the largest gathering of young people's organizations held in the state, but the program will be second to none in the country. At every session will be some of the country's best and most prominent speakers.

Dr. Francis E. Clark, more commonly known among members of Christian Endeavor societies as Father Endeavorer Clark, the founder of the Christian Endeavor movement, will be one of the principal speakers. Father

REV. FRANCIS E. CLARK.

Clark has not visited Michigan Endeavorers in a number of years, but his interest in the local work is as keen as ever. This will be one of the last times that he will attend a state convention here as he is planning to discontinue attending conventions all over the country, and devote his time to less strenuous work.

Father Clark will go from Detroit to the great International Convention at Atlantic City, N. J., July 6-12th. A number of young people who will attend the Detroit convention are planning to extend their vacation to be able to accompany Dr. Clark to the other convention. A splendid trip is assured all those who will make the trip from Detroit to Atlantic City. Special rates have been secured from all points in Michigan to Detroit, and a special rate of $23.50 has been arranged for the trip from Detroit to Atlantic City and return, allowing for stop-overs at Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, the national capital, and New York, with a possible side trip to the historic battlefield of Gettysburg.

Every active young people's society in the state is planning to send a delegation to the Detroit convention, and the Detroit Endeavorers are planning a number of unique features to give their visitors the best possible time while they are in the city. The first of these, an automobile ride around the city, touching all the points of real interest to tourists, is characteristic of the city. Another important feature is a trip on one of the magnificent new steamers along the beautiful Detroit river.

What promises to be the most important among the special features is the fact that all registered and qualified delegates will receive free entertainment (lodging and breakfast) during the convention.

Every member of a Christian Endeavor Society, Epworth League, Baptist Young People's Union, Episcopal Guild or Auxiliary, or any other young people's organization in the state who expects to attend the convention may obtain free entertainment by applying to Miss Mary R. Phinney, 107 Collingwood avenue, Detroit, for delegate's credentials. These credentials, properly signed by the president and secretary of the delegate's society, must be presented to the committee upon arrival in Detroit.

Wash the Blood

Aching and enfeebled muscles should remind you of slowness of tissue repair. Eruptions of the skin and catarrh of the mucous membranes show diminished nerve power in the tissues.

In health or disease there is need of an internal bath. This is best obtained by drinking a glass of pure water with one or two teaspoonsful of SAN-JAK thirty to sixty minutes before breakfast, washing the blood. This dilutes the stomach and stimulates the bowels to increased peristalsis, overcoming constipation and its attendant ills. It is quickly absorbed and entering the blood stream bathes the cells of the liver and heart, the passes to the brain and washes out the cobwebs and awakens to new life every cell in the body.

SAN-JAK dilutes theropy secretions and dissolves all abnormal crystalline substances that may be in the blood and urine. SAN-JAK greatly promotes elimination, creates downward peristalsis, stimulates a flow of digestive juices. It dissolves the sticky mucus in the mouth and throat, allowing the membranes to be bathed by their natural secretions. San-Jak the great medium of exchange in the body by enabling the kidneys to absorb and eliminate alkaline sulphates which are the products of intestinal decomposition and in renal weakness or the real cause of Bright's disease.

Man does not wear out like machinery by constant disintegration for he is self renewing. When loses his ability to self renew or fails in process of making young blood, nerve tissue is not sufficiently nourished and his strength and health fail.

SAN-JAK is the only medicine which will enable you to keep a perfect balance between the elimination and renewal of the body. Decay of the body at any time of life is unnatural. Permanent waste of the system can be avoided by the use of SAN-JAK.

Rheumatism, catarrh and black trouble, the source of trouble to humanity, is due to a too high or low specific gravity which may be regulated to normal by taking SAN-JAK.

Swelling under the eyes, gray white or waxy color of the skin denoting granular disease of the kidneys. The cure is San-Jak.
