SAVING AND EARNING.

CONVENTION OF ATTORNEYS CLOSES

STATE ASSOCIATION WILL MEET IN PORT HURON NEXT YEAR.

EXCELLENT ADDRESSES MADE

W. Glenn Cowell of Coldwater Condemns "Sweating" of Prisoners. Sheriff William F. Wagenseil Is Elected President.

Lansing.—Port Huron will be the 1912 meeting place of the Michigan Association of Prosecuting Attorneys, Sheriffs and Chiefs of Police, the invitation of that city having been accepted at the closing session of the convention at Kalamazoo.

Several excellent addresses were made on the final day. W. Glenn Cowell, prosecuting attorney of Coldwater, discussed "Confessions," in which he explicated the sweating process sometimes used to extort statements from prisoners accused of crimes. He declared that improper means should never be used to secure confessions, and that promises should never be made in the endeavor to get them, as instances have been known where innocent men have been induced to admit that they were guilty, for the purpose of expediting their release from custody.

"Always have a stenographer present and have every utterance taken when a prisoner is being examined," said the speaker. "Before questioning an accused person, apprise him of his rights and allow him to confer with counsel should he so desire.

"Officers frequently start with the wrongful impression that a man suspected of crime must be guilty. In dealing with a case, do so with an unbiased mind. To do otherwise tends to make the public lose faith in officers. The endeavor should be made to convince the people that a prisoner has been fairly dealt with."

The speaker also condemned the use of public officers in the collection of debts, and declared that all laws permitting this practice should be repealed.

He was followed by the Rev. Caroline Bartlett Crane of this city, who was a guest at the session. She stated that there should be a more rigid enforcement of the laws against wife and child abandonment, which were violated with impunity in many parts of the state. Mrs. Crane also condemned chattel mortgage sharks and declared for crusades against them wherever they were found doing business.

The practice of allowing youths and first offenders to commingle freely with hardened criminals in the county jails, was also unsparingly condemned. "Jails are schools of crime," declared Mrs. Crane, "and I do hope that something will be done to remedy matters."

Sheriff William F. Wagenseil of Port Huron, was elected president; Sheriff Henry T. Kinney, Bay City, vice president; Prosecuting Attorney Thomas George, Port Huron, secretary.

Expressage Low Under New Law.

As computed by Rate Expert R. R. Darwin of the state railroad commission, the exact reduction in express rates under the new law and the decision of the commission, amounts to an average of 19.3 per cent. Fourteen other states which are endeavoring to secure a similar control over express rates within their borders, have been confronted with legal battles that may tie up the rate question for years.

Anyone enjoying a look at the masses of figures marshaled and arrayed on huge sheets, until the eye wobbles as it attempts to scan them all, should visit Mr. Darwin's office and examine the new schedules of rates which he has just finished. There are enough figures on exhibition there to give a mathematician a headache and cause an ordinary citizen to blur at the eye and feel a brain fog extraordinary. The new rates are based on actual mileage between all points in the state. The largest reductions come on shipments from or to non-comparative points.

Mr. Darwin went over the sheets Friday and explained some of the reductions showing that the rate for all lines between Grand Rapids and Saginaw had been reduced from $1 to 75 cents; between Grand Rapids and Detroit from $1.25 to $1.10; between Grand Rapids and other points in the state as follows: Lapeer, from $1 to 75 cents; Mackinaw City, from $1.25 to $1.10; to Hillsdale, $1 to 75 cents; Flint, 90 cents to 75 cents; Tawas City, $1.60 to 90 cents; Adrian, $1.10; Muskegon, no change; Petoskey, $1.85 to $1.40; Jackson and Lansing, no change.

Prof. Williams Resigns at U. of M. Prof. Gardner S. Williams, since 1904 head of the civil engineering department of the U. of M., handed his resignation to the president and the board of regents in session today will accept it.

For the present Prof. A. E. Green, his assistant, will have charge of the department. Prof. C. J. Tilden is placed at the head of a newly inaugurated department, that of "engineering mechanics." Both Green and Tilden are raised to full professorships.

Wish Samples of Michigan Grain.

Michigan grains as well as Michigan fruits will be shown at the first Michigan Land and Apple show, to be held at the Coliseum in Grand Rapids the second week in November.

The management is already seeking choice specimens of wheat and other grains for display at this big exposition of the state's products and resources. It desires and requests that all farmers who have this year grown wheat, oats, barley, rye, or other grain; that are a credit to Michigan soil and Michigan methods of agriculture, save samples and write to Secretary John I. Gibson at the Land and Apple Show headquarters, Evening Press building, Grand Rapids. The donations of individual contributors will be gratefully received and duly acknowledged. With the co-operation of the public spirited farmers of the state, a display is certain that will advertise Michigan to the world in splendid fashion. Samples of alfalfa are also desired.

Secretary Gibson states that in handling the samples, the grain should be pulled up by the roots. If this is not practical, it should be cut as close to the roots as possible so as to show the entire length of the straw. The grain should then be hung up in the corn crib or some other place where it will be away from the vermin and birds. It would be better still to hang it up in the cellar, where it would not dry out so quickly.

Board of Health Sure of Ground.

That the state board of health was sure of the ground on which it stood when it issued the order for the abolition of public drinking cups from all public places was the assurance given from the office of Secretary Robert Dixon. The order was sent out to all parts of the state.

The enforcement of this order will be felt most keenly by the public on railroad trains. It will mean that there will be water tanks and water—if the railroads see fit to keep on furnishing them, as they probably will—but that there will be no cups. It will be a case of furnish your own cup if you want a drink. The number of people who now carry folding metal cups will be greatly increased. The others will either buy the penny waxed paper cups which are sold on the trains in such cases, or they will go thirsty. There will be no common property cups.

No state law has been made to provide for doing away with these cups, but the board has considered the matter at length, and feels that there is no doubt that its powers include the regulation of such a menace.

Rejuvenating Old Orchards.

President T. A. Farrand of the State Horticultural society, returned to his home here, after having spent several days looking over the apple prospects in Ingham county. In an interview he said that the country districts surrounding Lansing and Mason, and at Holt, Eden, Leslie, Dansville and Williamston, the majority of orchards are in excellent condition, and that the outlook for a heavy fruit harvest is of the most encouraging character for a number of varieties of apples. The same is in Eaton and other apple producing counties of the state, the outlook for Northern Spy and Baldwin apples is not as great as had been hoped for, and the yield of these particular varieties will not be large.

However there will be other varieties of winter fruit to take the place of these, and the quality of all the fruit will be in most cases much above the average of previous years. The marked increase in the use of spraying outfits during the past two seasons, and particularly this season, is doing away largely with the insects that have been causing a lot of trouble to the fruit growers, and the general effect of what has been accomplished through systematic work along this line is going to be worth thousands of dollars to the fruit growing interests around here the present season.

Complaints Made on Assessments.

Between 40 and 50 complaints relative to assessments have been filed with the state tax commission and about the first of August the commission will send out field workers to begin the examination of valuations. Previous to then, however, hearings will be held in some localities.

The commission received a wire from James R. Finley, the mining engineer making a valuation of the mining properties of the state, in which he states that he has all the data at hand for completing the valuation of the iron and copper mines, and has finished the field work in the copper region. In most instances the mine owners have furnished Mr. Finley and his staff with every assistance possible, such as maps of the mines and other data. One mine owner refused at first to furnish this information, but on second thought changed his mind and opened his books. The situation relative to the appraisal is such as to insure the completion of the work in time for the meeting of the state board of equalization in August.

Auto Men Join Good Roads War.

The Michigan State Automobile association has joined in the campaign for good roads in Michigan. The plan is to organize the entire state, making an early start so that the work will be well in hand when the next session of the legislature opens. That the Michigan motorists view the project in a favorable light is evinced by the results accomplished by Mr. Enos in two weeks. Clubs have been established in many cities in Michigan.

RECIPROcity GOES THROUGH WITH EASE

SENATE PASSES THE CANADIAN RECIPROcity AGREEMENT BY VOTE OF 53 TO 27.

CANADA'S ACTION IS NOW AWAITED.

When Accepted by Ottawa's Parliament, Measure Will Be Proclaimed Law and Become Effective.

The Canadian reciprocity trade agreement was passed by a vote of 53 to 27, after every amendment to it had been voted down. Thus the purpose of President Taft in calling the special session of the congress was attained.

The striking feature of the vote is that a majority of the Republican senators were against the measure as were the Republicans in the house, 24 Republican senators opposing the pact while 21 voted for it. Had the pact been in the form of a treaty it would have failed in that it carried by less than a two-thirds vote. Being in the form of a bill only a majority was necessary.

The Canadian parliament has not yet acted on the agreement and with one exception the provisions of the bill as passed by congress will not become effective until the president issues a proclamation that Canada has ratified the pact. The exception to this procedure is in the paper and pulp section of the bill, which it is announced will become immediately effective when the president signs the law.

From the White House President Taft followed the votes on the various amendments and on the final passage of the bill with the keenest interest. "I am very much gratified and delighted that the bill is passed," he said. "It indicates the increase in mutually beneficial relations between Canada and this country."

Senator Penrose ventured the prediction that congress would adjourn not later than August 9 or 10.

Ortie McManigal Near Collapse.

Ortie McManigal, the self-confessed dynamiter, whose statements implicated John J. McNamara, secretary of the Ironworkers' union, and his brother, James B. McNamara, as conspirators in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times plant and the Lilewyn iron works of Los Angeles, and numerous other outrages throughout the country, in a union labor war may never tell his story on the witness stand.

McManigal, whose wife was recently freed by court from the necessity of giving testimony of her knowledge of the alleged dynamiting conspiracy, is on the verge of a collapse, and his mind is said to be unable to fasten itself on the dynamiting case in any particular, it is declared. If McManigal fails to recover his memory insofar as it relates to the conspiracy to which he confessed, the case of the prosecution will be knocked out, say labor counsel.

Other Nations to Join Peace Pact.

President Taft faced an audience at Manassas, Va., made up largely of veterans who wore the blue and the gray, within a few miles of the scene of the first great conflict of the civil war, and was applauded and cheered when he made a plea for international peace. He was covered with mud after a strenuous trip by auto from Washington.

The president declared that a general arbitration treaty both with Great Britain and with France probably would be signed within the next ten days. He added that he hoped within the next few days to announce that three other great powers would enter into similar agreements with the United States. He did not go so far as to indicate the nations that he had in mind, but it was generally believed that he referred to Germany, Italy and The Netherlands. Japan ultimately may come into the far-reaching peace pact, but the negotiations with that empire as yet are said to be merely tentative.

Poison Bottle Stoppers.

The new law requiring pharmacists to provide all poison bottles with a distinctive stopper that shall give warning of the nature of the contents of the bottle also requires the state board of health to pass on such inventions or appliances as may be submitted for its approval. The board has thus far approved two. The inventor, having the board's approval, is privileged under the law to bring in circulars describing his patent, and this, under the law, the board made to pharmacists. A Lansing druggist is the inventor of one of the devices. The law was fathered during the last session by Rep. D. H. Hinckley, a well-to-do lumberman in Emmet county.

Cholera in Boston.

Asiatic cholera has reached Boston and caused one death, while two foreign sailors who are believed to have brought the dread disease to Boston, after being taken ill, disappeared and their whereabouts is unknown, according to a statement given out officially by Chairman Samuel H. Durgin of the Boston board of health.

Forest fires have been raging in the vicinity of Haines, Alaska. Abram Blum, a Jewish rabbi, took office as a chaplain in the New York police department. He is the first Hebrew to be appointed to such a position.

Eight firemen were painfully injured in a fire Sunday which totally destroyed the four buildings of the B. A. Stevens Co. Toledo, manufacturers of billiard and pool fixtures and barroom supplies, and eight dwellings and frame store rooms. The total damage is estimated at $225,000.

HOUSE OF COMMONS GOVERNS

Constitutional Reform in England an Accomplished Fact.

The constitutional revolution appears to be an accomplished fact. Great Britain in the future will be governed practically by the house of commons, with its hereditary upper house possessing only a veto with a time limit of two years. The peers find their one gleam of hope in the prediction that the next conservative government will overturn Asquith's revolution and restore the old constitution, but the radicals are confident that in such matters the hands of the clock will never turn back.

Simon May Join Diaz.

President Simon of Haiti appears doomed to follow President Diaz of Mexico and to give way to a new revolutionary government, according to advices reaching Washington. In the opinion of Captain Dismukes, of the gun boat Petrel, which is at Port au Prince watching the operations of the revolutionists at Gonaves, the revolutionists already practically are victorious and all of the towns of importance except the capital are in their possession.

King Alfonso has sailed for England aboard the royal yacht Girald.

The yacht was escorted by the Spanish cruiser Reina Regente. A party of members of the Canadian Society of New York are at Ottawa to invite Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the prime minister, to attend the annual dinner of the society in New York Dec. 8. It is expected that President Taft and James Bryce will also be guests at the dinner. An official denial was made in New York by an officer of the National City bank that the newly formed National City Company, an offshoot of the National City bank, was planning to make that corporation the controlling interest in the Standard Oil and American Tobacco companies after those companies are dissolved.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF

Grand Rapids.—Their youthful imaginations inspired by the contents of yellow-backed novels, Harold Bounback, eighteen years old, of Greenville; Leavitt Moore, seventeen years old, and Roy Culliver, sixteen years old, of this city, essayed to work together as a bandit gang. As usual the youthful desperadoes wound up in jail. In less than twenty-four hours after the trio were arrested they were on their way to Ionia reformatory. They pleaded guilty to a charge of entering a dwelling in the day time and were sentenced to serve from two to five years, with the recommendation of three years, in the reformatory, by Judge McDonald.

Mackinac Island.—Of the eleven yachts that left Chicago in the Chicago-Mackinac race, five are anchored in the harbor here, three have put in for shelter at different ports along Lake Michigan, one is wrecked on Beaver Island, one lies on Mission Point and another has not been heard from since. The winner of the race, the sloop Mavourneen, shortly after capturing the Mackinac cup, dragged her anchor and now lies pounding to pieces on the beach. She was released once by the Valmore, but went ashore again, and although lines were gotten to her three times they have broken.

Grand Rapids.—One hundred striking furniture workers resumed their old positions with the Fancy Furniture company. The men go back to work on the basis of ten hours' pay for nine hours' work. The proposition was voted on last week by the men formerly employed in the plant, with the understanding that the company would, after January 1, adopt the 54-hour-per-week working schedule with 60 hours' pay. Two more large companies are conferring with the strike organizers and it is expected they will sign before the end of the week.

Plnt.—The board of health took the bull by the horns in regard to the regulation of the public drinking cup in this city, when it issued an order that all cups in public places would be confiscated and destroyed after August 1. The order applies to public fountains, public buildings, factories, railroads and other places of the kind. The board is acting under the authority conferred upon it by the statute in which it is given power to protect the public health. The order of the board declares the public drinking cup to be a menace to the people.

Dowagiac.—Suit has been commenced in the Cass county circuit court by Wesley Fowler, a local painter and decorator, against Charles Heddon, manager of the Heddon Bait company, for the alleged alienation of his wife's affections. The amount asked is $10,000.

Boyer City.—Deputy Fire Warden Stanford, along with Prosecuting Attorney Clink, is making a determined effort to stop the practice of starting brush fires during the dry season. Frank Nelson was fined $50 and costs. The fire Nelson allegedly started destroyed hay, a barn, fences and some timber. Port Huron.—Determined to show his prowess by swimming across a deep hole in Belle river, Clinton Cobbedick, sixteen years old, was drowned while a ten-year-old companion was unable to save him. The accident occurred at Adair.

Port Huron.—Following a three weeks' illness with typhoid fever, Rev. Thomas Wilson Montelth, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, died at his home in this city. He preached in Port Huron longer than any other minister in this city, having held two pastorates here, one of 13 years and the other of 12 1/2 years.

Northville.—During the past quarter the state oil inspection service netted the state $2,430. The fees received for the inspection of 4,780,130 gallons of oil were $3,637, and the expenses of the work were $7,299.

Grand Rapids.—A new scheme of robbery, which takes advantage of a state law, has been unearthed here. Two men, under the pretense of purchasing a quantity of gasoline, visit local stores. The state law requires that the fluid shall be kept outside the store. This compels the clerk to leave the store temporarily to fill the order. One of the strangers accompanies him to remove suspicion and while they are gone the other stranger quickly rifles the till. Dillman's grocery was robbed of $143. The police state that many stores have been robbed.

Pittsford.—Howard, three-year-old son of Claud Davis of Pittsford township, died from injuries received by falling into a tub of scalding water. His mother had left him alone for a few minutes and on her return found him in the tub. He lived about ten hours.

Sault Ste. Marie.—News of serious forest fires in Mackinac county was received here. State Deputy Warden Lawson's men have the fires about under control, helped by the heavy rains of Thursday night.

TALES OF GOTHAM AND OTHER CITIES

New York May Establish Tramp Colony

NEW YORK.—The tramp evil in this state may soon be solved. A bill provides not only for the appointment of a commission to inquire carefully into the conditions of vagrancy, but also makes an appropriation for the purchase of 500 acres of land upon which to establish a tramp colony. That there is need of some more adequate method of dealing with the vagrant class than has formerly obtained is known to every person, and the establishment of a farm where vagrants might be employed and reclaimed is believed by those who have made a study of the subject to be the proper solution of the difficulty.

The vagrants now in this state would form a population as large as that of the city of Albany. The jails, penitentiaries and almshouses are put to an expense of $2,000,000 annually in endeavoring to cope with the problem which has arisen through the existence of this undesirable element. But far more serious than this is the loss caused by the destruction of property, robberies, fires and kindred misdemeanors which cost the state, the railroads and other private interests over $10,000,000 yearly.

Millionaire Gives a Swimming Party

MACON, GA.—The smart set of Macon is agog because of the fact that 20 young men and 20 young women, all prominent socially, passed a whole night in a swimming pool attired only in bathing costumes. The costumes were of the daintiest, and also of the scantiest, and the temperature of the swimming pool was pleasant, but the 20 couples did not enjoy themselves. They passed the night in abbreviated costumes in the pool, not because they wanted to, but because they had to.

W. D. Billingslea, millionaire, with a magnificent home to which a spacious swimming pool is attached, has been giving swimming parties during hot weather, which have been attended by the young men and women of the smart set. Billingslea on this occasion invited 20 men and 20 women of the most exclusive set to a swimming party.

The couples splashed about in the water, flirted a bit and then splashed some more until after midnight. Then some one noticed the lateness of the hour, and a rush was made for the dressing rooms. Then it was discovered that the clothes of the 40 had been taken, and that the swimming pool had been locked. Billingslea himself was one of the victims.

Efforts to make themselves heard were in vain, and the 20 men and the 20 girls were forced to spend the night in the swimming pool clad in their scanty costumes.

Finally, about five o'clock, Billingslea made some of his servants hear and the doors of the pool were forced and the party of men and girls released. It was not a merry crowd that emerged.

Billingslea thinks some one played a practical joke on his guests, but he is mad clear through, and has offered a large reward for discovery of the person who stole the clothes and locked the pool. At any rate, there will be no more swimming parties in Macon for the present.

Chicago Boys' Work During Vacation

CHICAGO.—With the closing of the schools it is estimated that there are about 100,000 boys between the ages of 14 and 20 years who look for summer jobs. That is, there are 100,000 the first week. When the second week comes along there are about 50,000 who still think they want to work, about 20,000 the third week and about 15,000 who retain their determination throughout the summer.

The average high school youth of this year expects to earn at least $10 a week to start, with a raise at the end of every fortnight. Alas! It seems employers have not the proper respect for their culture. Most of these boys, the really valuable ones, get over their self-esteem after being rebuffed a few times.

One high school student, who had completed his sophomore year, and who during the winter had been one of the most popular boys in the school, started looking for a $10 job and ended collecting bundles in a department store for $3.50 a week. He had some good stuff in him, however, as was shown by his raise to $5 a week before the summer was over and the offer of a better job when he had finished school.

In one department store last year there were no less than 14 boys from one of the local high schools, all of them selling "gents' furnishings." These were the older boys and in other stores there were high school "men" doing everything from collecting bundles, wrapping them, helping with stock, doing the work of four assistant office boys, to jobs paying $10 a week, a remarkably high wage for the inexperienced youth of tender years.

State of Kansas Bars Public Towels

TOPEKA, Kan.—Kansas was the first state to abolish the common drinking cup in hotels, railroad trains and stations, and in the common schools. It has gone one step farther, and the common towel will soon disappear from all public places. After an exhaustive investigation the chemists and bacteriologists of the Kansas board of health recommended that the common roller towel be forbidden as dangerous to the people of the state and the board adopted the order that the stiffly starched boarding house towel be cut up into individual towels, and everyone have a clean face wipe whenever the exigencies of the occasion demanded a facial bath.

At a meeting of the board an investigation of the roller towel was ordered. Towels were collected in the hotels and public schools of several cities of the state. Railroad trains were boarded in different lines, and the roller towels in the wash rooms confiscated. These were taken to the state's health laboratories at the state university and examined.

In some instances, the bacterial count ran as high as 1,333,000 bacteria to a square centimeter of the towel. The tests showed that 25 per cent of the towels examined bacillus coli was found. Thousands of skin scales were found on each towel, showing how the skin rubs off in minute particles whenever the face and hands are wiped thoroughly.

The order means that all the schools will furnish paper towels for the children. These come in rolls and are about as cheap for 100 towels as laundering one towel. The railroads probably will put in paper towels or have individual towels for rent, and the hotels are expected to put individual towels into the washrooms.

PLAYING DETECTIVE

By CLAUDINE SISSON

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

Miss Cleo Gates was visiting her sister, Mrs. George Marshall. Mr. Marshall was general manager of the department store of Moses & Wainwright. Therefore, Miss Cleo heard much shop talk. About the only thing that interested her, however, was the talk about shoplifters. The store was constantly troubled with them, and it was only at long intervals that one was caught, although a store detective was supposed to have her eyes everywhere.

One night when the manager came home to say that goods worth $200 had been lifted that day from under the nose of the store watchdog, who was a young woman of 25, and that she would be discharged at the end of the week, Miss Cleo announced, in a very serious tone:

"I am a natural born detective."

A laugh greeted the words.

"I have solved several difficult cases."

More laughing.

"A year ago when this diamond ring was suddenly missing, father and mother said it was a case that would never be solved. After devoting one day to thought I walked into the kitchen and told the cook she was the thief. She broke down at once."

"That is, she confessed?" said Mr. Marshall.

"No, she did not confess. She turned red and white and burst into tears, and within an hour she skipped out."

"And the ring?"

"I found it on the shelf over my lavatory. She, of course, had placed it there on finding that she was suspected. Father said the police couldn't have worked the case better."

"Keenest, brightest thing I ever heard of!" replied the manager. "If face; then she saw he was looking about in what she considered a furtive way. Then he walked up to the jewelry show case and drummed on the glass. Then he went over to the perfumery counter and asked the price of a bottle of cologne. Thence he walked to the door and looked up and down, as if to see whether there was a policeman about or not. Being satisfied on this point, he walked back to the book counter, picked up one book after another, and finally walked off with one in his hand as bold as brass. It was a valuable book.

Miss Cleo should have stepped forward at this moment and laid her heavy hand on the shoplifter and made an arrest but her heart failed her. He would deny and resist. She would let him go and trail him and then report to her brother-in-law. She hadn't far to trail. With a quick glance up and down the street, the young man crossed. At the entrance to a stairway he paused a moment to look back, and then climbed the stairs. The girl had the criminal run to earth. She re-entered the store, was taken up to the manager's office, and astonished him with announcing:

"George, I have been doing detective work downstairs unbeknown to you or Sarah, and I have caught a shoplifter. He may be the head of the gang!"

"You don't tell me! Where is he?"

"I didn't want to create excitement in the store, and so I trailed him to his lair."

"Good girl! Where is it?"

"Right across the road and upstairs. He can be arrested in five minutes."

"You'll have to come along and point him out."

"Oh, I'll do that."

At the store doors they picked up a detective. When the trio had crossed the street and the stairway had been pointed out, Mr. Marshall said to the girl:

"There are a dozen offices up there, and a studio or two, and we mustn't bungle this case. Sure you can identify your man again?"

"In an instant."

"I can't believe that any of these people are shoplifters. We'll look in on Paul first and ask him what he thinks. Right in here."

They entered a studio. At a desk sat a young man with an open book before him. There were paintings on easels and paintings on the walls.

"Hello, George!" from the young man to Mr. Marshall.

"Hello, Paul."

"That is the man and there is the book!" exclaimed the natural born detective as she stood erect and pointed an accusing finger.

Ten seconds of intense silence, and then they broke into laughter.

"What—what does this mean?" demanded Miss Cleo.

"Mr. Paul Wainwright, this is my wife's sister, Miss Cleo Gates, in town on a visit. Mr. Wainwright is the son of his father, who is the Wainwright of our firm."

It took five long minutes to make it clear that Mr. Paul Wainwright had borrowed instead of shoplifted, and that there was nothing coming to him in the way of punishment, and there were apologies and "don't mention it" and somehow Mr. Paul got the idea that he must call on the young lady and talk the case over. He is calling yet.

Something About Dreams.

Dreams are due to an increase of sensation and circulation over that which exists in profound sleep. Observations made upon patients with cranial defects show that when we are dreaming the brain is greater in volume than in deep sleep, and less than when we are awake. Thus this intermediate volume of blood would indicate that dreams are an intermediate stage between unconsciousness and wakefulness, and their incomplete and irregular intelligence would indicate the same thing. This increased circulation is usually due to sensory stimulation affecting the vasomotor center and causing a return of blood to the head, with resultant increased consciousness. Contrary to popular belief, dreams in themselves do not contribute to light or broken sleep in which they are present. Such a condition is due to the ever-present stimulus which, according to their strength or the degree of irritability of the cells, maintain even in sleep a varying degree of consciousness of which the dreams are merely a manifestation. Therefore the fatiguing effect often also attributed to dreams is not due to them, but to the lighter degree of sleep and less complete cell-restoration which they accompany, and which are due to some irritation.—Fred W. Eastman, in the Atlantic.

Well Hoped.

William Dean Howells, the noted novelist, was talking at the Authors' club in New York about a charge of plagiarism that had been brought against Mark Twain.

"A big man like Twain stealing from a little man like Blank!" said Mr. Howells. "This, surely, is a case for applying the old Hindoo proverb: 'The plagiarist.'"

"The ass heard the lion roar, and cried."

HERMIT AND ARTIST IN WEIRD WEDDING

DYNAMITE BLASTS AND INCENSE OF BURNED CEDAR BERRIES USED IN CEREMONY.

CUT OUT "HONOR AND OBEY"

John Otto and Miss Farnham Made One Before Rock-Hewn Altar on Ledge 100 Feet High—Devise Second Ceremony.

Grand Junction, Colo.—With weird and picturesque ceremony, preceded by a wedding banquet, cooked and served by the bride, and followed by a series of dynamite salutes to his bride and the American flag, Miss Beatrice Farnham, the Boston artist and sculptress, was married to John Otto, the trail builder, in the mountain fastnesses of Monument canon.

Out of deference to the minister, the plans for marriage on top of Independence rock were abandoned, and the ceremony was performed on Grand ledge, 100 feet high. The Rev. F. A. Hatch, Congregational minister at Fruita, officiated and there were half a dozen invited guests.

The bride and bridegroom stood before an altar which they had fashioned from quartz and granite, under an arch of evergreen. In the rock the bride had carved the words "Truth, Honor, Love and Justice."

The usual ring service was used, but the clergyman omitted the words "honor and obey" from his questions to Miss Farnham, because of Otto's declaration that he did not believe in that part of the ceremony.

"What is the use of making women promise to honor and obey," he said, "when they don't have any intention of doing it. Half of the marriages performed simply force the woman to

He and I don't want my wife to make any promises she can't keep, for only so long as love lasts can marriage endure."

The marriage was solemnized by a double ceremony. To comply with the laws of the country, Otto secured a marriage license and was duly wedded by Rev. F. A. Hatch. The legal ceremony, to the mind of Otto, a professed atheist, and Miss Farnham, a free thinker, was not sufficient to "bind them in the holy bonds of wedlock," hence following the words which made them man and wife in the eyes of the law and the public at large, they climbed to the top of Independence monument, 550 feet high, by a fragile ladder of iron spikes, and went through a fantastic ceremony of their own. They were alone on the top of the pinnacle and to the few spectators on the ground their actions could not be plainly seen.

It had been their plan from the first to have both ceremonies performed on the top of the monument, but no minister or justice of the peace could be secured in any part of Mesa county who would risk his life in this task for love or money.

Following the ceremony Otto burned incense to his wife in the form of cedar berries, which he sprinkled on the camp fire. Then the bride and groom together planted a young spruce tree, which they designated as their witness tree, and declared would grow as long as their love lasted.

Fought for Chum's Life.

Shenandoah, Pa.—While a number of boys were swimming in a Locust mountain reservoir Anthony Mercavage, 14 years old, took a cramp and was sinking for the second time when John Scheffer, aged 16, went to the lad's assistance and saved him from a watery grave at great peril. He had to fight the drowning boy off until he got him by the hair, and then hauled him to safety.

Wed on a Hospital Cot.

Lancaster, Pa.—By permission of her physician, Miss Mary Klingman of Jacksonville sat up in her hospital cot for an hour to be married to the Rev. Border Levi Stanley of Shenandoah Junction. She came here to attend the ordination of her affianced husband but was taken ill and sent to the hospital.

MORE EXCELLENT REPORTS FROM WESTERN CANADA

Grains Are Heading Out Rapidly and Harvest Is Now Approaching With a Great Demand for Harvest Help.

Last week it was pointed out in these columns that there would be a yield of about 200,000,000 bushels of wheat throughout Western Canada, an increase of about 100,000,000 over the previous year, and that the demand for farm help was very great. Confirmation of this news is to hand and the cry still is for more help. The Canadian authorities are hopeful that the friends of the 400,000 or 500,000 Americans who have gone to Canada during the last few years will come to the help of these people and induce as many able-bodied men as they possibly can to take advantage of the low rate which is being offered from all points on the Canadian Boundary, and particulars of which can be had from any of the following Agents of the Canadian Government: M. V. McInnes, 176 Jefferson Avenue, Detroit, Mich.; C. A. Laurier, Marquette, Mich.; J. S. Crawford, Syracuse, N. Y.; Thos. Hetherington, Room 202, 73 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass.; H. M. Williams, 413 Gardner Bldg., Toledo, Ohio; Geo. Aird, 216 Traction Terminal Bldg., Indianapolis, Indiana; C. J. Broughton, Room 412, M. L. & T. Bldg., Chicago, Ill.; Geo. A. Hall, 2nd Floor, 125 Second Street, Milwaukee, Wis.; E. T. Holmes, 315 Jackson Street, St. Paul, Minn.; Chas. Pilling, Clifford Block, Grand Forks, N. D.; J. B. Carboneau, Jr., 217 Main Street, Biddeford, Me.; J. M. MacLachlan, Box 197, Watertown, S. D.; W. V. Bennett, Room 4, Bee Bldg., Omaha, Neb.; W. H. Rogers, 125 West 9th Street, Kansas City, Mo.; Benj. Davies, Room 6, Dunn Block, Great Falls, Montana; J. N. Grieve, Auditorium Building, Spokane, Wash.

Every facility will be afforded men of the right stamp to secure advantage of these low rates. To those who propose to go, it may be said that they will have this splendid opportunity of securing first hand information as to the excellent producing character of the lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. They will have the opportunity of seeing some of the greatest wheat fields in the world and probably the largest yield of wheat, oats and barley that has ever been grown on the Continent. And all this on land some of which cost the settler only the $10.00 necessary to enter for his homestead, or, if he purchased, in some cases, costing him from $7.00 to $10.00 per acre, but which is now worth from $15.00 to $20.00 per acre. Even at these prices the land is remarkably cheap as will be realized when the statement is made that from 20 to 25 bushels per acre and over of wheat are grown, netting the farmer from $3.00 to $10.00 per acre; and this on land that he got for nothing or paid merely a nominal price. In fact the production shows that $18.00 to $20.00 per acre would be a nominal price for land that would produce as these lands produce.

Gray Matter.

"I used to think I could hire all the brains I wanted for $25 a week," Mr. Pushem said.

"Well, couldn't you?"

"Yes. But it wasn't long before I had to call in a $100,000 lawyer to straighten out the kinks they put into my affairs."

CURE THAT SORE THROAT

Sore throat is inflammation of the mucous membrane of the throat, and if this membrane happens to be at all sensitive a predisposition to sore throat will exist.

Paxtine Toflet Antiseptic is both a preventative and a cure for sore throat because it possesses extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal qualities. Just a little in a glass of water, used as a gargle, will quickly relieve all soreness and strengthen the mucous membrane of the throat, and thus overcome all tendency to sore throat.

Paxtine is far superior to liquid antiseptics or Peroxide for all toilet and hygienic uses.

Paxtine may be obtained at any drug store, 25 and 50c a box, or sent postpaid upon receipt of price by The Paxton Toflet Co., Boston, Mass. Send for a free sample.

Changes in School Laws.

An exchange has the following relative to the changes in the school laws by the last legislature:

The Michigan state legislature enacted several amendments to the school laws, all of them in the nature of improvements. It submitted an amendment which was adopted by the people, providing that no district shall receive more primary money until the amount of such money on hand is reduced so that it shall provide for teachers' wages for only two years in advance. The money goes into other districts having a smaller surplus or none.

The new primary school fund amendment goes into effect in 1912. The usual apportionments for the entire year are made in May and November as usual, but in 1912 and thereafter there will be one apportionment for the entire year made from July 5 to 12. All the money can be collected for the whole year before the school opens. Some of the laws are as follows:

The school census for 1912 will be taken twenty days before June 1 and not the first Monday in June as it is now. The school commissioner shall appoint the county truant officer instead of the sheriff. This officer has much power in looking after school buildings.

The commissioner has the authority to appoint a clerk with a salary of not more than $300 per year where there are over a hundred schools in the county.

On Columbus day, Memorial day, Lincoln and Washington's birthdays, schools shall not be kept and patriotic exercises held. None of these shall be holidays.

Funds shall be condensed to three, namely: Primary, library and general fund. If building is carried on there may be a fourth fund known as the building fund.

A Bad Weed.

Farmers in this vicinity, as well as all over the state, are warned to be on the lookout for a new and harmful weed. It is said to be a beautiful plant, for as the beards have formed they carry all the colors of the rainbow, and when waving in the breeze make a pretty sight. Here, however, is what Ernst A. Besy, of the Agricultural college, says regarding it:

"The plant is Nordicum Jubetus, or squirrel tail grass. It is a native of the old world and is closely related to the original wild form of barley. It is a very bad weed in that the weeds break up when the grass dies and make the hay, in case the grass is mixed with the hay, very disagreeable for the animals to eat. In fact, in Wyoming, where it is very abundant, the barbed heads get in between the teeth of the animals, frequently causing abscesses in the gums which sometimes lead to the death of the animal. If the plant is cut close to the ground just as soon as the heads begin to appear, but before they have reached full size, and this is repeated two or three times during the season, never under any circumstances allowing the heads to develop far enough to produce seeds, the pest can be exterminated, since the plants live only a year or a year and a half."

How about Plymouth Drinking Fountains?

Secretary Dixon of the Michigan state board of health proposes to abolish the public drinking cup in all public places, railway trains, steamships and other public conveyances. By direction of the state board of health, he has sent out notices to those in control, announcing that the board will expect them to abolish this form of disease carrier. The notice is expected to apply to public buildings as well, the board believing that under the authority vested in them relative to the protection of the public, there is authority for this radical move.

The attention of local merchants is called to the new state law promulgated by the dairy and food department which makes it unlawful for dealers to expose goods for sale without proper sanitary protection against flies and dust, particularly of meats and vegetables. This law has attracted much attention throughout the state and there will be a great effort made to enforce it. A penalty is attached to those who violate the law.—E.K.

OBITUARY

John Christian Louis Stockfleth was born in Kuhlmer Province of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, Germany, the first of September, 1829. He was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith. In early youth he left the old Fatherland and came to America, first going to Detroit. After a short stay in Detroit he came to Plymouth, where he found employment. In the year 1862, on the 7th day of August, he enlisted in the army, serving in the war of the rebellion. He was wounded in the battle of Gettysburg by a bullet which shattered the heel of his foot, eventually causing his death. In 1864 he received his honorable discharge from the army and returned again to Plymouth. On the 18th of December, 1865, he was united in marriage with Anna Giegler. Five children were born to this union, one son and four daughters, one daughter and also his wife preceding him into eternity. For about four years after his marriage he resided in Plymouth. In 1869 he purchased the farm in Livonia township, where he passed away, living there ever since.

Four children survive him, one son, William of Livonia, and three daughters, Mrs. Wm. Gottschalk of Livonia, Mrs. Fred Moore and Mrs. John Lutz of Detroit, and six grandchildren. Since the beginning of last November his wounded foot had again troubled him and compelled him to remain indoors, until Thursday morning, July 13, when he passed peacefully away. The deceased was a member of the German Lutheran church of Livonia from its founding and his simple, childlike faith in his Savior, Jesus Christ, won the respect of all his fellow members who feel his loss with the bereaved. He attained the age of 81 years, 10 months and 12 days. Interment occurred Sunday, July 16th, from the home of Mrs. William Gottschalk and the German Lutheran church of Livonia, Rev. O. Peters officiating.

July 21st Catherine Empey, aged 86 years and 9 months, died at the home of her son, Ormel King. Deceased was born near Waterloo, New York, and from there moved to Romeo, Michigan, where she resided nearly fifty years. Thirteen years ago she came to Plymouth to make her home with her son. The remains were taken to Romeo for burial and the funeral services were held in the Romeo M. E. Church at 2 P. M. Sunday.

The new seats in the opera house are in place and they look dandy.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tousey of Detroit visited at the home of F. J. Tousey Wednesday.

Twenty-five men are wanted by Supt. Passage to work on the water works extension. Apply at once.

Five car loads of excursionists went to Island Lake yesterday. They had splendid weather and everybody enjoyed the outing.

W. K. Armstrong attended his brother's funeral, which took place at Hollen, Ont., Sunday afternoon, returning Tuesday evening.

Mrs. K. W. Hillmer and A. N. Brown spent the latter part of last week at Edison Beech, near Port Huron. Mr. Hillmer also spent Sunday there.

An effort was made to get Congressman Wedemeyer to make an address here on the gala day occasion, Aug. 17, but the Congressman writes he is going to Panama immediately upon adjournment of Congress.

Mrs. Frank Park gave a party to twenty young people last Tuesday night in honor of Miss Anna Dunan of St. Mary's, Ohio. The evening was very pleasantly spent, dancing being one of the pastimes indulged in.

Wm. McClure robbed a way car of clothing and other articles belonging to the crew last Friday night. Marshal Springer was called out and found his man about 4 o'clock with the goods on. Justice Campbell made it $50 and costs or 90 days. He had no money.

Penniman avenue was sprinkled with oil this week. It's too early yet to determine results, but anyway the business houses are mightily pleased with it. They say they prefer a little black dirt on the floor rather than clouds of dust pouring in and settling all over everything.

Mrs. L. C. Hough entertained some thirty friends Monday evening, the guests coming to hear H. F. Melville of Redlands, Cal., sing, he having a rich tenor voice. He was accompanied by Miss Bertha Beals on the piano and who also rendered several piano selections. It was a very pleasing function.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Wayne County Telephone Co. was held last week, followed Friday evening by a directors' meeting, at which all the old officers were re-elected. Manager Rauch reports the business for the past year as very gratifying, there being now over 700 'phones in use.

A scaffolding on E. P. Lombard's new house on Ann Arbor street, on which Sam Schryer and Mr. Vealey were working yesterday afternoon, gave away, precipitating the men to the ground, some 16 feet. Schryer was seriously hurt in the back and Dr. Patterson says he will be laid up for several weeks. Vealey had an ankle sprained.

A little four-year old son of Mr. Stubbs, working on the Frank Truesdell farm in Canton township had a narrow escape with his life last Tuesday. The father was drawing in a load of oats, when in some way the little fellow fell under the wagon, one wheel passing over the side of his body and left arm. The soft ground undoubtedly saved the boy from having his life crushed out, but the arm was broken between shoulder and elbow in two places. Dr. Patterson was sent for and set the broken bones.

South Lyon will have its second annual home coming August 10th and 11th, and several former residents of that village now in Plymouth are planning to attend. The occasion is made a pleasurable one by the South Lyon folks, bringing home many of its erstwhile residents. At a meeting of the Plymouth Improvement Association a year ago last February it was the expression of the members present to have a home coming in Plymouth, but the matter never went any farther. Plymouth might have a rousing home coming, if only a small part of its former residents should return for a visit upon a certain date. But—it's some work.

Patchin School Homecoming

The fifth Reunion of Patchin School, District No. 3, of Nankin will be held in the school yard August 12th. Every one who has been connected with the school, old neighbors and friends, come and enjoy the day. Bring your lunch baskets. There will be a program in the afternoon.

A Big Head

Is of two kinds. The kind that comes from sick headache, torpid liver and biliousness, however, is curable. Does your head feel dizzy at times with spells of blind staggers and ringing noises in the ear? These are symptoms of a diseased liver and a sluggish state of the bowels. The remedy is Dr. Herriek's Sugar-Coated Pills. They are mild, easy to take and clean you out beautifully. Try them. Price 25c. Sold by Finkney's Pharmacy and Beyer Pharmacy.

Notice.

The Germania and American Fire Insurance agencies have been transferred from Mr. George A. Gittins to Karl Hillmer, who will promptly take care of all reserves and appreciate any business which he may receive. Thanking old patrons for past favors, I am is the most important, that is sure. If you get gasoline with dirt or water in it, you may look for trouble. SPARK PLUGS

Your gasoline is no good to you if your spark plugs don't fire. Ask for V Ray spark plugs. One set of four costs you $5.00, but your spark plug cost ends there. If for any reason they fail to fire, all you have to do is

CAMP TALK FOR TENDERFEET

BY DAN BEARD

Copyright by Field & Stream

COURSE, it is not within possibility that every man who reads this can go to Alaska, or the wild sections of the northwest, or any of the parts of God's country where big game and big adventure still beckon to the men with red blood in their necks. But it is possible for even men on small salaries to own a permanent camp of their own in wild unfrequented places, places where they can be free from the presence of the summer boarders, out of reach of the sound of the trolleys and even where the honk of the automobile is seldom heard. Such places exist within a hundred miles of almost every city in America, but they can only be found by making little journeys in search of them. They are not on the list of the real estate boomers because the very thing that makes them valuable to campers is the fact that they are tucked away in unfrequented corners. The mountains in Pennsylvania within a hundred miles of New York city, notably in Pike county, abound in small lakes, lakes which are usually filled with big fish or which can be stocked with bass and other fish, according to the conditions of the water and tastes of the fishermen. There also exists within the circle of a hundred miles of New York city a spare supply of such big game as lynx, bob-tail cats, black bear, Virginia deer and smaller game, including foxes, raccoons, possum, great northern hare, rabbits, rough grouse, woodcock, various waterfowl and quail. Of course, it is almost a crime under present conditions for any one to help the rapid extermination of these animals by killing those found so near the centers of population, but, with proper conservation and common sense game laws, this supply can be made to last indefinitely and at the same time furnish game for the sportsmen, and the more people who become interested in outdoor life the greater will be the interest exhibited in the efforts made to protect and increase the wild life of our woods.

It is a fact not generally known that the public is almost wholly dependent upon the sportsman of this country for the enforcement and the enactment of the laws protecting the wild life. It is usually the chump who does not know one end of the gun from the other, and who could not kindle a camp fire without the aid of the Sunday edition of a newspaper and a can of kerosene whom you find at the lobster palaces loudly calling for a hot-bird and a cold bottle. One of the rules of the Camp Fire Club of America is to have no game served at its banquets, and this club probably contains more real genuine campers and big game hunters than any other club of its size in the world. Since the advent of the automobile and the telephone the wild lands and the farm lands have been steadily increasing in value; nevertheless, camp sites can still be purchased for sums within the reach of poor men, and I would advise every man in every city to buy a small piece of wild land with the determination of keeping it wild. He will find that when he has invested his money and built a camp on a piece of property of this kind that his business interests will require him to visit it occasionally to look after its welfare, and every time he visits the place the few days' outing will give him a new lease on life. He will come back with a clearer vision, more optimistic views of business, stronger mentally and physically and better fitted for the battle of existence. His outdoor vacation will teach him that life, after all, is worth the living. I have owned such a camp for twenty odd years and I really do not think I would be alive today if it were not for the time spent at my little log house in Pike county on Big Tent pond.

When you plan for a camping trip remember that there is one kind of a man who is welcome at every camp fire from one end of the world to the other, and he is the cheerful man. He may be a big, strapping six-footer, he may be a little runt, he may be a wealthy monopolist, or a poor clerk, he may be even so weak and delicate that it is arduous labor for him to bring a stick for the camp fire, but he carries with him always something more valuable than arms and ammunition, something more valuable than wood, fire or shelter, something that cannot be bought with money and something that is absolutely essential for our happiness in camp, or out of it. He is a man who never sulks but, like a boy scout, always has a smile. When the rain comes down in torrents he laughs as he mends the leak in the roof of the lean-to or brush shelter. When the smoke blows in his eyes he declares with a grin that it is good for them for the tears clear out the dust. When he misses a shot he will say: "It would have been too bad to kill that critter, anyhow; glad he got away," or that the camp is not in need of fresh meat today. The cheerful man shows an interest in everything; looks on the bright side of everything, and camp is but a gloomy place without him. If you cannot find a cheerful man for a companion go in training for one yourself so that you may occupy that enviable position and bring sunshine to your comrades.

In outfitting for a temporary camp, you must be guided wholly by your purse and the means of transportation. If you are to travel in a big wagon or a house boat you can add many luxuries to your outfit, provided, of course, that the roads or waters permit a heavy load. I have camped with an ice chest, a full set of china, napkins and all the luxuries, essentials and non-essentials of a city home. I have also camped with only the bare necessities of life and even necessities are comparative and many things thought so necessary may be omitted without serious results. I remember making one meal with the late Mr. Bow-Arrow, chief of the Montebais Indians, and Mr. Rice, secretary of the Camp Fire Club of America, when the stock of our provisions consisted of some odd crusts of bread two weeks old, a handful of tea, no salt, no pepper, no vinegar, no butter, no milk, no sugar, no camp kettle, no cooking utensils of any kind, and yet we had a very enjoyable meal. Mr. Rice had the honor of showing an Indian how to make a tea kettle of birch bark and of proving to the incredulous savage that the water could be boiled in a vessel made of such inflammable material. We toasted the bread, which was as hard as stones, to give it a flavor, as well as to make it easier to bite and masticate. We caught some trout and roasted them black. The burnt surface acted as a condiment to the meat. We drank the tea straight and enjoyed it.

FOR SHELTER OR TEMPORARY CAMP

But it is not often necessary to reduce one's commissary to such a primitive basis. When you have selected your camp outfit and personal baggage, have bags made for every article, bags with "pucker" or "draw string." Make the bags of different material and different colors. You will soon learn by observing the color of the bag whether it contains a fishing reel, tobacco or toilet articles. Use oil silk for your toothbrush bag, buckskin or chamois skin for your ditty bag, in which you pack your nick-nacks, thread, needles and personal treasures, when you do not wish to carry them on your person, such things as your sleeve buttons, collar buttons, watch, compass, etc. Use cotton flannel for your fish reels, chintz or calico for your comb, brush, fly-hooks and other small articles. The big bags for your blankets, extra clothing, provisions, etc., should be made of waterproof canvas. Pack all your duffie, first in its individual bags and then put the small bags into the big ones. These large bags can be purchased at seventy-five cents to a dollar and a half apiece, with a dollar extra for a lock (if you want one). The bags have double tops and edges strongly bound with linen braid, and they vary in size from 2 feet 9 inches to 3 feet 18 inches. In regard to a lock on your duffie bags, it is interesting to know that I have traveled across the continent a number of times with all my baggage packed in such bags. I have visited the Maine woods. I have camped in the Rockies, in the Selkirk mountains and from Maine to Washington state; never were the "puckers" unloosened or tampered with by strangers. The bags seem to have been respected even by the custom house officers. But! When I visited a small hamlet in Connecticut and left my baggage in the railroad station unguarded for 15 minutes, every bag was opened and the contents examined. I will say for the honesty of the Connecticut Yankee that it was apparently only curiosity which impelled him to invade the privacy of the contents of these bags. This incident shows that these canvas bags should be watched in some places, but, nevertheless, they are as safe ordinarily as a trunk. Besides, the baggage men are grateful to you for giving them luggage which is so easily handled and so easily stowed away. Today the camper's outfit is a marvel of economy, both in regard to weight and space which it occupies. You can obtain from any reputable outfitter cooking utensils which nest, i. e., which fit into each other snugly so that they can all be packed in the largest utensil. They are made of aluminum of the lightest weight possible; the cooking utensils have a single detachable handle which answers for all of them. Plates, cups and saucers are of the lightest weight possible. My whole outfit, which I have used for nine people on a prolonged camping trip, all fits inside of the largest aluminum pail. Cheaper outfits of the same sort can be obtained in tin. In regard to the clothing which you are to wear, that necessarily depends very much upon the latitude of your proposed camping trip and whether it will be in the dense forests, prairie, the hot desert, or the sandy ocean beach. But there are some general rules which you will find the fur the most useful. Linen, silk and cotton absorb the moisture of the body much better than woolen under garments. The feet should be encased in moccasins or some sort of moccasin shoe-pack or boot-pack, because the artificial elevation of the heel which, however useful when pounding on the city pavements, is unnatural, and anything that is unnatural interferes more or less with your progress. After wearing conventional heeled shoes for 12 months, I have put on the leather moccasins of oiled moose hide and tramped through the forests for weeks at a time without feeling any ill effects from the change. But when I returned and put on my high-heeled shoes, the first day spent hitting the trail on the Great White Way made the muscles of my shins so sore that I was almost unable to walk the next day.

For shelter or temporary camp for a night or so, do not use the "asohagan" of the Indians, commonly known as teepee by the whites. It is a splendid thing for a more or less permanent camp, but it takes too long to erect it; there are too many poles to cut for it, and it is heavy and cumbersome in packing. The big fire which can be kept burning in the center of the "asohagan" is fine in cold nights, and the comforts of the teepee have never been improved upon by white inventors of tents.

The best of all teachers for would-be campers is good old mother nature. Bless her kindly old soul! It was at her knees that our race first learned to exercise its baby brain and muscles. It was in nature's kindergarten that we learned to build our first rude shelters, from which has evolved sky-scraping palaces. Even today we people living in the artificial atmosphere of the opera, the ball, the midnight feasts at the lobster palaces, and all that hothouse type of pleasure, must go back to good old mother nature to be really enthused and to experience the healthy thrill, only to be produced by the boom of the avalanche as it tears down the mountain side, the rush and roar of the torrents issuing from the grinding glaciers, the roar of the sea, the song of the birds, and the rapture experienced by watching the sunset clouds reflect their tints upon the mountain tops. And then comes the night! Every camper is more or less of a naturalist; every camper must be something of a poet and an artist before he can fully appreciate the surroundings; and his surroundings make a poet, and an artist and a naturalist of him.

The best advice that can be given to a man who has never camped is to "go and do it." It is possible that he may come back from his outing disgusted with his first experience. Ill-luck may have apparently followed his experiment; it may have rained most of the time; the black flies and mosquitoes may have sized him up as a tenderfoot and made his life miserable; it may be that the fish refused to bite; that the game refused to show itself; his horse may have stumbled and ducked him in the stream which he was fording; his canoe may have upset, spilling his films and soaking his gun. Stray varmints, bears, dogs, or wolves may have stolen his provisions, and he may come back to civilization grumbling that he has wasted his vacation time.

But Lord bless his innocent soul. He has for the first time in his life had a real vacation. He has added to his experiences and, as a Frenchman would say, he has experienced a new sensation. If he is a man of spunk, the knowledge that it was his own inexperience which caused all these disasters will make him try it again next year with a manly determination to conquer all obstacles and then he will come back slapping his friends on their backs and shouting that he has had the time of his life!

GETTING BEST IN LIFE

BROTHER DICKEY DELIVERS A SERMON ON SUBJECT.

Passes Some Remarks on Business Man's Account of What He Saw on Trip Through the East.

"I ain't seen you for de longes," said Brother Dickey, to his friend, the business man, just returned from a trip east. "Whar an' whar hez you been, an' what hez you been a doin' of? Tell me dat now?"

"I'm just in from New York, and Boston and Washington," was the reply. "I've been taking in the country, generally."

"You must 'a' seen a lot," said Brother Dickey.

"Yes; had a fine time of it. Met wide-awake people. They're a hustling crowd, old man; they know how to get the best out of life."

"You reckon dey's a-gittin' it?"

"Seems so. Why, some of 'em own half a dozen automobiles—new one for every day in the week! And they're riding over the earth in airships, whenever they feel like it. I stayed in a hotel 40 stories high. And talk about money, I saw 50 carloads of it—gold, silver and greenbacks—in the treasury vaults at Washington; then I spent a day with congress—the fellows who think they're running the country, you know. Shook hands with our Georgia representative. Fine lot o' boys in congress, Brother Dickey!"

"Well," said Brother Dickey, "is dat all?"

"That's about all I thought you'd care to know."

"I mean," said the old man, "is dat all you got outen it—all you fetched away wid you? Kaze, ef it is, I wants ter tell you dat yo' trip didn't set de river on fire! Is yo' got time ter listen ter a few remarks what come into my min' whilst you wuz a-gwine on?"

"Ez ter de folks with de half a dozen ortermobiles, I makes no doubt dat dey is speedin' so fas' dey'll go clean pas' de heavenly station, an' never rickernize de hills o' Zion 'tall. Ez ter de high buildin's, dey can't go higher'n God; an' ez fer de flyin' airships, no man kin fly so high but God kin t'row him down. You say, dey got it all, but it ain't no good ter have all now, an' bimeby have nothin'! An', comin' ter dem fifty cyarloads o' money what you seen in Washington, tell me, what good it's doin' dar—fer people wid empty pockets ter look at an' go 'way sorrowful? It's des rustin' fer de want o' use. Ole Lazarus is cryin' at de rich men's gate up dar same ez he done in de fur country yonder, an' what dey calls dem 'treasury watchdogs' is barkin' at him."

"An' talkin' 'bout congress, memme it's dar fer good, an' mebbe it ain't. Ef some er de folks in it talks lak' dey did 'fo' dey got in, ten minutes dar would be too long fer me!"

"I ain't a-faultin' nobody," the old man explained. "I'm des passin' my opinions on what you been a'tellin' me. De man high up on de trapeze in de circus looks mighty good ter de crowd, an' 'pears ter be gittin' de bes' outen life, but he's mighty glad ter come down w'en his turn is done, an' lay low fer res'."

"De life-circus is soon over, de lights out, an' de tent took away, an' what do it matter den ef you had a front seat, or had ter stan' up fur back?"

"Dey ain't but one way ter git de bes' what life is got in it, an' ef you don't find an' follow dat way it's 'good-bye, honey, an' don't tell he folks you seen me!'"—Atlanta Constitution.

What Father Took.

He came down the garden path, a sad, sorrowful figure. She watched him with anxious eyes.

"How did father take it?" she asked.

"He took it—well," replied the young man.

"Oh, I'm so glad, George!" she cried, pressing her hands together.

"Are you?" replied George, fopping forlornly by her side. "Well, I can't say that I am, dear. At first your father wouldn't listen to me."

"Why didn't you tell him that you had $2,500 in the bank, as I told you to?" she exclaimed.

"I did, after all else had failed," answered George dejectedly.

"And what did he do then?"

"Do!" echoed the young man, passing his hand wearily through his hair. "He borrowed it!"

A Romance, Almost.

He took the proffered gloveless hand in his, while high above them blew soft breezes, which, descending, fanned the stifling air that sought to strew them as they stood there face to face. Her brows were raised. What joy to be so near this queen of smiling grace, to hold her hand so tenderly!

The fingers rested, slim and white, for one brief moment on his palm. And yet his face showed no delight, his massive chest betrayed no quail.

As the electric fans above dispersed the heated air and flies, he said, without a sign of love:

"Six and a half, ma'am, is your size."

Airy Paraphrase.

"I hope the king and queen will never have the experience in traveling which they will have in the coronation procession."

"What was that?"

"Don't they have their trains held up?"

The Quaker Scored.
An old Quaker went into a bookseller's shop, and an impertinent shopman, wishing to have some sport at his expense, said to him:

"You are from the country, are you not?"

"Yes," replied the Quaker.

"Then here is just the thing for you," responded the man, holding out the book.

"What is it?" asked the Quaker.

"It is an 'Essay on Rearing Donkeys.'"

"Friend," said the Quaker, "I had better present that to thy mother."

DISFIGURED WITH CRUSTS

"Some time ago I was taken with eczema from the top of my head to my waist. It began with scales on my body. I suffered untold itching and burning, and could not sleep. I was greatly disfigured with scales and crusts. My ears looked as if they had been most cut off with a razor, and my neck was perfectly raw. I suffered untold agony and pain. I tried two doctors who said I had eczema in its fullest stage, and that it could not be cured. I then tried other remedies to no avail. At last, I tried a set of the genuine Cuticura Remedies, which cured me of eczema when all else had failed, therefore I cannot praise them too highly.

"I suffered with eczema about ten months, but am now entirely cured, and I believe Cuticura Remedies are the best skin cure there is." (Signed) Miss Mattie J. Shaffer, R. F. D. 1, Box 8, Dancy, Miss., Oct. 27, 1910.

"I had suffered from eczema about four years when boils began to break out on different parts of my body. It started with a fine red rash. My back was affected first, when it also spread over my face. The itching was almost unbearable at times. I tried different soaps and salves, but nothing seemed to help me until I began to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. One box of them cured me entirely. I recommended them to my sister for her baby who was troubled with tooth eczema, and they completely cured her baby." (Signed) Mrs. F. L. Marberger, Dreherstown, Pa., Sept. 6, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 4 L, Boston.

DECIDED NOT TO OPEN IT.

Caller—I was thinking about opening a drug store in this neighborhood. Do you think one is needed around here?

Resident—Great idea. There's no place within ten blocks where a man can buy stamps or see the city directory.

Honors More Than Even.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell is not kindly inclined to criticism of her work. At a rehearsal of a new play, one morning, her manager, Charles Frohman, stopped Mrs. Campbell and said: "Mrs. Campbell, it seems to me that those lines should be delivered thus," repeating the lines in question. Mrs. Campbell drew herself up and said: "Mr. Frohman, I am an artist." "That is all right, Mrs. Campbell," replied the urbane manager. "I assure you I will never reveal your secret."

Quarters and Halves.

George Ade, at the recent Lamb's Gambol in New York, objected to the extravagance of the modern wife.

"It is true that the married men of today," he ended, "have better halves, but bachelors have better quarters."
