You want COAL that is ALL Coal, free from dirt and clinkers, we can supply you with such. At big expense, we have installed an unloading elevator for our hard coal, and every pound of stove, chestnut and egg-size coal goes through this elevator and over on a screen before going into the bins, thus insuring absolutely clean coal. But we do not charge you any more for this, and are giving you the benefit of improvements. We will appreciate your order.

Wayne Taxes $1,425,487

Detroit Journal.—The Wayne county board of supervisors met for the October session at the county building on Monday. Nothing was done toward getting down to business, except to formally organize.

Auditor-General Fuller reported to the board that Wayne's share of the state taxes, including all special taxes provided by the legislature, is $1,425,487.75. In addition to this there is an item of $29,000 of county taxes which remains unpaid. Out of the tax levy the University of Michigan will receive from this county more than $250,000.

One very important matter that will come before the board will be the question of changing the date of the beginning of the fiscal year from Oct. 1 to Dec. 1. Under the present system the year ends Sept. 30, but no money is available out of the new tax levy until Dec. 1, which forces the auditors either to juggle funds to keep up the general expenses of the county for two months or to borrow money.

In this same general connection the road commissioners will ask that the date of issue of the good road bonds be changed from June 1 to April 1. At present the bonds are advertised on June 1, and before the bids can be accepted and the bonds sold and the money available it is July 1 and the summer is half gone before any work can be done.

That the upward trend of the tax levy is not confined to the city is evidenced by the fact that the auditors figure that appropriations of nearly $1,000,000 will be needed to run the county during the next year, especially if the date is changed, as this would make it necessary to appropriate for 14 months.

There will be a meeting of the road commissioners on Tuesday morning to listen to petitioners who have asked for the construction of a bridge to cost approximately $25,000 on Dix road over the River Rouge. For years there was a bridge there, but some years ago it was condemned by the government, and instead of a new one being constructed it was destroyed. The main arteries out into the county westerly are West Jefferson, Fort street, Dix, Michigan and Grand River avenues. But the lack of the bridge makes it necessary for farmers on the Dix road to drive either north or south to reach the city. Merchants on Dix avenue and business men throughout the west side, to say nothing of the big packing houses at the stockyards and other manufacturing concerns, all have joined in petitioning the road commissioners to ask the supervisors to authorize the erection of the bridge. Ald. John C. Garvey is pushing the project.

At the meeting of the supervisors Thomas J. Gunn was re-elected school examiner and Edward Saunders appointed committee clerk for the session.

For Sewer on Mill Street

Be it further resolved that the Village Clerk cause the following notice to be published for three weeks in succession in the Plymouth Mail, a newspaper published in the village of Plymouth:

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Notice is hereby given that it is the intention of the Common Council of the village of Plymouth, State of Michigan, to construct a public sewer along Mill street, in said village, beginning at a man-hole in the west gutter of said street and about two hundred (200) feet south of the south line of Main street; and extending thence northerly along said Mill street to Spring street; and that the whole or part of the expense of said sewer will be assessed on the owners of land fronting or abutting on the street above named in proportion, as near as may be, to the benefit which each of the aforesaid pieces or parcels of land will receive by reason of said public improvement; that maps, plans, specifications, drawing, diagrams and estimates of the cost of said sewer are now on file in the office of the Village Clerk, subject to public inspection; and the Common Council of the village of Plymouth will meet at the Common Council room in said village on the 20th day of October, A. D. 1911, at 7:30 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of hearing objections and suggestions in regard to said improvement.

By order of the Common Council.

C. A. HEARN, Village Clerk.
Dated this 9th day of October, 1911.

DOCTORS FAILED TO HELP HER

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pound, Wis.—"I am glad to announce that I have been cured of dyspepsia and female troubles by your medicine. I had been troubled with both for fourteen years and consulted different doctors, but failed to get any relief. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I can say I am a well woman. I can't find words to express my thanks for the good your medicine has done me. You may publish this if you wish."

—Mrs. HERMAN SMITH, Pound, Wis.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

KORYAK MADONNA

SIBERIA'S first gold placers were discovered about the middle of the eighteenth century in the rugged fastnesses of the Ural Mountains, frowning along the borders of Europe and Asia. Primeval forests and pathless tundras revealed but reluctantly their long hidden secrets. Nevertheless, some forty years ago, Russian miners, ever intrepid in their eastward quest of the precious metal, had reached the auriferous drifts in the valley of the mighty Amur that rolls from the heart of China grandly down to the lonely Okhotsk sea.

After the wonderful Klondike excitement of gold deposits throughout Siberia's over-responding latitudes of similar geological formations lent additional strength to the old tradition that the gold-bearing zone extended from Northwestern America to Northwestern Asia and that consequently the further shores of Bering Sea were well worth prospecting.

The first short-lived and barbaric, but, oh! so glorious splendors of Dawson and Nome had begun to pale, when a persistent and seemingly well-authenticated rumor of valuable nuggets having been found along the shores of Northeastern Kamchatka, fanned our smouldering imagination into brightest flames.

There's a race of men that don't fit in; they are always tired of things that be; they want the strange and the new and they don't know how to rest. My dear old "pard," Austin, and I belong to this legion of forelopers, never enlisted and never discharged. The fond hope that we were going to be numbered amongst the original "Forty-Niners" of a new California over yonder, "across the bay," lured us from the Yukon even to Siberia—to Vladivostok.

There we were joined by a kindred spirit, a young Russian mining engineer, Ivan Ivanovitch—soon enough he became plain Jack—fresh from an American college and ready for adventure. Kamchatka, dependency of the maritime province and administrative district of Petropavlovsk, has been a Russian colony for over 200 years. From Cape Lopatka, the large peninsula's southernmost point, lofty mountains, overtopped by many active and more extinct volcanoes, stretch northward far into the Arctic waste.

On the northeast coast, there where the mountain chain recedes over thirty miles from the low littoral, the Pankara enters the sea, opposite to the large island of Karaginsk. A gloomily beautiful thundercloud overshadowed the densely wooded shores when we landed at Ola, the little Koryak hamlet near the Pankara's mouth. In the course of a few hours our steamer, "Primorsk," had discharged our earthly possessions and the cargo consigned to the local agent of the Russian Chartered Company, who holds the furring privileges of Northeastern Siberia.

Open-mouthed natives gaped curiously and a thousand hostile-looking dogs snarled viciously. The Natchalnik, however, having minutely scrutinized our papers, received us with open arms, and Father Juvenal, the Pope, offered us the hospitality of his log cabin. We learned many interesting facts about this out-of-the-way neck of the woods that night. The peninsula's mongoloid aborigines, the rapidly decreasing Kamchadales proper—mostly fishermen—dwell around the water courses to the southward.

Their northern neighbors, our friends, the "dog Koryaks," mighty hunters and trappers, live in log cabins, dug-outs or skin tents. They belong largely to the orthodox church—at least nominally—are good natured and hospitable, but their notions of cleanliness are more than questionable. The occasional sight of our toothbrushes once caused a riot of an amazed mob. Both the women and the almost beardless men alike, braid their hair into two plaits, smoke the cheap Moharka tobacco, intermixed with birch bark, and wear nearly identical dresses of pelts or—in summer—gauzy calico.

Further on and up to Kamchatka's border, the strictly nonsensical "reindeer Koryaks," addicted to weird shamanism, pitch their youtres wherever good feeding grounds attract their herds. Beyond their territory we find, in the interior, Tunguse tribes, along the seaboard the unconquered race of the Tchukches, that stoutly refused the Yassak to this day.

The Pankara has a length of about 90 miles. The advanced season and a preliminary examination of accessible rock formation, combined with encouraging reports of white and native residents, prompted us to prospect the upper valley without delay. The Natchalnik placed the only three pack horses at our disposal, rather shaggy, but hardy Irkutsk ponies, able to shift for themselves even in winter. As guide and helper we engaged the Koryak, Peter, nicknamed Petruschka-Parsley—from his fondness for this wild plant. Petruschka of course was speedily pared down to Pete, as Ivan has surrendered to Jack long ago.

The village of Ola is happy. A sweet fragrance of fish and blubber permeates the air, for seal and salmon were plentiful. Pete, very busy, very important, helps us with our preparations for the prospecting expedition. The Natchalnik invites us to a farewell dinner (deer tongue, ptarmigan, smoked and salted fish, much tea and more vodka) and on the 17th day of August we set out.

On the third night we are encamped in the mediately before us are seen the snow-dlademed mountain monarchs, robed in majestically flowing folds of glacial ermine—far behind the heaving billows of the ocean, aglitter in the evening sun—while all around is Siberia's virgin forest, the taiga, silent, untrodden, mysterious.

Owing to widely divergent conditions Siberia's fauna is not uniformly distributed, but within their chosen haunts animals are abundant. Of big game we have on the Pankara the agile, keen-eyed mountain sheep and the powerful brown bear.

Rocky mountain sheep are here replaced by congeners of slighter build, more slender horns and pure white color. Their bands spend most of the time above timber, remaining even during the severe Kamchatka winter amongst the heights whose irregularities of cliffs and gorges afford opportunity for shelter and exposed food supply. Sometimes when we had nearly stalked them the warning whistle of the watchful marmot would drive them to headlong flight. Their flesh is very palatable; when cold weather set in we killed and froze enough to last all winter.

The brown bears are of immense size, greatly exceeding the grizzlies of the western hemisphere. Their front claws are shorter, thicker and more abruptly curved than in grizzlies. As a rule they give us a wide berth; in close quarters, however, or when wounded, they are veritable fiends from hell. But Pete attacks them, boldly and unhesitatingly, with his formidable spear.

Tradition and training make all natives marksmen of the first order with firearms, bolos and arrows. Even small ermines and arctic squirrels stand no chance of escape at seventy-five yards; and the Koryaks have to shoot them in the head, at that, or their skins would be worthless.

The ground was frostbound nearly to the surface, and bedrock, reached by thwiking through the icy gravels, was ten to fifteen feet deep. Keeping three fires aglow, for which Pete rustled the wood, we made good headway. Lack of leverage, however, makes the Russian shovel which has no bend at its neck, a most unwieldy and exasperating utensil. At the beginning we struck encouraging colors in addition to quartz, iron pyrites, often in the form of mispelite and all the products of its decomposition such as magnetic oxide and hematite. Despite these fair prospects we had worked our way up to the veriest headwaters without tangible results early in November. Near the source the soil was not frozen, due to warm volcanic springs, and sinking to bedrock became impossible. Therefore we crossed the divide leading southward to the Ruskakoff river to examine its course down to the sea and finally to sled to headquarters along the shore. On the Ruskakoff we found the same conditions; tepid springs above, a few colors below, paydirt nowhere.

Water is now upon us in good earnest; in December our thermometer sinks to 57 below. The sheep are safe beyond the snowdrifts; bear, marmot and porcupine have retired for their long sleep; only willow grouse and rock ptarmigan remain with us.

Glorious winter stars, clear, large, unapproachable, glitter on the firmament. At midnight the Pleiades of Job and Homer flame from the zenith and then the Northern Lights, violet, silvery and rose come down and dance with the houseless snow.

Christmas eve finds us near the Ruskakoff's mouth and on New Year's day we drag our sled into Ola. Just in time; already midwinter sun-dogs loom ghost-like through the frost-mist in the south; for far to the northward the weather-witch of the Yaga-Baba Pass has been brewing her dread purge, the Siberian snow storm.

The blitzard's fury raged forty-eight hours, burying the roofs of the lowly cabins under mountainous drifts. Quickly the late orthodox Christmas-tide approaches. In the morning the entire population—and with them we—attended church. Father Je-

A FINE NIGHT-CAP

The Best Thing in the World to Go to Bed and Sleep On.

"My wife and I find that 4 teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and a cup of hot milk or some cream, with it, makes the finest night-cap in the world," says an Alleghany, Pa., man.

"We go to sleep as soon as we strike the bed, and slumber like babies till rising time in the morning. "It is about 3 years now since we began to use Grape-Nuts food, and we always have it for breakfast and before retiring and sometimes for lunch. I was so sick from what the doctors called acute indigestion and brain lag before I began to use Grape-Nuts that I could neither eat, sleep nor work with any comfort.

"I was afflicted at the same time with the most intense pains, accompanied by a racking headache and backache, every time I tried to eat anything. Notwithstanding an unusual pressure from my professional duties, I was compelled for a time to give up my work altogether.

"Then I put myself on a diet of Grape-Nuts and cream alone, with an occasional cup of Postum as a summer-up, and sometimes a little dry toast. I assure you that in less than a week I felt like a new man; I had gained six pounds in weight, could sleep well and think well.

"The good work went on, and I was soon ready to return to business, and have been hard at it, and enjoying it ever since.

"Command me at any time any one enquires as to the merits of Grape-Nuts. You will find me always ready to testify." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Circumstantial Evidence.

A Scotchman and his wife were visiting in a wild, beautiful part of the country. While driving one day with their host, the two men sitting together in the front seat while the lady sat behind, they crossed a high bridge which spanned a roaring torrent. An unusually loud splash caught the gentlemen's attention for a moment, but nothing was said. After several miles the gentleman turned to address a remark to his wife, but her seat was empty.

"Ayo," he remarked to his host, "that will be your splash we heard."—Housekeeper.

"Doctor," said the nervous man, "is there any way of teaching a person to talk in his sleep?"

"I never heard of any," replied the physician. "How could such an accomplishment be of benefit?"

"Refuse what?" asked the campaign manager.

"I've kissed all the babies in my district," he replied, "but I'll be gum-swoggled if I'll kiss Mrs. Astorbill's poodle, even if it costs the whole suffragette vote!"

THE ICE HOUSE

By H. H. MUSSELMAN, Instructor in Farm Mechanics, Michigan Agricultural College.

Perhaps during some of the hotter days of summer not a few have resolved to forestall the running of the butter, the souring of the milk and the spoiling of the roast by means of some method of cooling. The present is not a bad time to think about carrying these resolves into action.

One method where good ice may be obtained at a reasonable distance from a lake or stream is to provide an ice house and ice box or refrigerator. Ice making, though somewhat disagreeable, may be done at a time of the year when other work is slack, and if attacked in the right way is no worse than much other work which must be done. With a bountiful supply of ice, and a refrigerator of sufficient capacity, cold storage may be provided for food and dairy products. It is recommended that a refrigerator of not less than 100 pounds capacity of ice be used for average conditions, and one of from 150 pounds to 200 pounds capacity will be found to advantage in some cases.

The ice box or refrigerator should be easily accessible to the kitchen and dining room, and for filling. It placed so that it may be filled without entering the house a great deal of dirt may be avoided. This is sometimes accomplished by placing the refrigerator on the back porch or in a permanent location where it may be filled from an outside window.

With regard to ice storage, an expensive or specially constructed building is not essential. Any room of proper dimensions where good under drainage may be provided, the walls fairly airtight and so arranged that ventilation may be secured above, ice may be stored without great loss from melting. A building designed for this purpose will have several points of advantage, however.

In building an ice house the capacity is the first thing to be considered. Solid ice weighs about 56 pounds per cubic foot, and stored ice, allowing for voids between cakes and layers, averages about 40 pounds per cubic foot. On this basis a cube of stored ice 10x10x10 feet would weigh 20 tons. Assuming a consumption of 500 pounds per week, a weight of one ton per month would be consumed, which for six months would be six tons. Considerable allowance must be made for melting, however, so that it is safe to say that space for not less than fifteen or twenty tons should be provided. In cutting ice the size of cakes should be such as will be best suited to loading, storing and the size of the ice box or refrigerator. A cake of ice 8 inches thick, 18 inches wide and 30 inches long weighs 140 pounds, so that some care should be taken not to get the cakes too large for handling, especially where lifting must be done.

The keeping property of ice depends almost altogether on how well it is insulated from the heat. Air, mineral wool, asbestos, sawdust, shavings and chaff are good non-conductors. Air is one of the best, provided it is confined to small porous spaces, as in the voids in sawdust, shavings, etc. Dry materials are also more effective as non-conductors of heat as a rule than wet. Let us note how these principles may be applied in ice storage.

We have mentioned good drainage beneath the ice. In any event there will be considerable meltage and the water thus formed should be drained away to prevent wetting of the non-conducting material and thereby rendering it less effective. A line of ordinary drain tile should be laid under the center or along each side below the ice and covered with six inches of gravel. This, then, should be spread with from four to six inches of cinders, if obtainable, which is a better non-conductor than gravel. On the cinders there should be placed from six to twelve inches of sawdust or shavings, upon which the ice is laid. The tile drain should be provided with a U trap outside of the ice house to prevent any possible chance of circulation of air beneath the ice.

The walls of the ice house may consist of studding sheathed on the inside with rough lumber, and with tar paper and siding outside. Cement blocks should also make excellent walls, since they do not deteriorate by dampness as does wood. Little is gained by placing sawdust between the sheathing and siding, as it is likely to become damp. Placing it thus does save rehandling each year, however. In any case the total thickness of insulation should not be less than 12 inches either at the sides, above or below the ice.

Ventilation is necessary above the ice to keep the air and insulating material dry. This may be accomplished by latticed windows and a ventilating flue or shaft at the peak of the roof. Protection from the sun is also advantageous. Shade trees and wide-roof projection help in this respect. A continuous door in the ice house is also desirable so that the ice may be put in at any level and unnecessary lifting avoided either in filling or taking out. Some means of keeping this opening closed quite tightly as high as the top of the non-conducting material should also be provided. To prevent channels forming for air to circulate heat to the ice, the insulating material should be rammed or packed down at intervals as the ice melts away and the top always kept well covered after each time ice is taken out.

It is fully as important to milk at regular times as it is to feed regularly—both affect the milk flow.

HAS THE FARMER TIME TO READ

By R. J. BALDWIN, Michigan Agricultural College.

When we say "we have no time" to do certain things it would be well to think reasonably long enough to be sure that the thing being left undone is not of more importance than the things which keep us from doing it. It is true that every business has its busy season when all surplus energy is used in the day's work and there is little time and less inclination to read. Especially is this true on the farm, but there is no business man who has more valuable material at his command than the farmer and no business which is advancing more rapidly in methods than agriculture.

The only way to keep in touch with the latest knowledge along a man's line of business is to secure the publications containing the experiences and knowledge of other men who are also working and learning in that particular line. The physicians, lawyers, engineers and other professional men each have their journals and societies; the bankers, merchants and lumbermen each have their means of distributing latest information; the farmer has numerous farm papers and journals, the bulletins of the department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., and the publications of experiment stations in every state of the Union. All these institutions are investigating farm problems and methods and every year's work brings out new points which ought to be known and used by every farmer. Much old information is unknown to some of us because we have not formed the habit of reading. Fortunately farmers are becoming fewer who will not believe that farming can be learned from books and bulletins. They will still become fewer, who insist that they have not time to read; they will be left behind in the keener competition of production. It is not a question of having time to read, but it is an undeniable certainty that no man can afford not to read and keep up with the best and latest information obtainable.

The Michigan experiment station publishes bulletins every few weeks (from ten to fifteen per year) on the various phases of agriculture and these may be secured regularly when published by writing to "Director Michigan Experiment Station, East Lansing, Mich.," and asking that your name be placed on the mailing list.

Harvesting and Storing Apples.

Practically every farmer with a small orchard on his farm, desires to store a few apples for home use during the winter.

It is one thing to grow a good crop of apples and quite another thing to properly harvest and store a good crop. There seems to be as much ignorance and carelessness in harvesting and storing as in the growing, resulting in an inexcusable amount of decay and waste of the fruit. A few pointers, at this time, to prevent such waste, are worth considering.

Time to Pack Apples.

If apples are harvested too early, they are apt to be undersized and of poor quality. If harvested too late, they will not keep as long in storage although they will be of high color and of good size and quality when picked. We do not expect a winter apple to be ripe at harvesting time. It should be full sized, however, well colored and it should separate readily from the spur. If, when picking the apples, the stems are pulled out or the spurs broken, it is too early to harvest that particular variety.

Method of Harvesting.

Apples should be handled like eggs. Any break or rupture in the skin caused by worms or carelessness in handling is the starting point for the various rots and other forms of decay. No fruit harvested by shaking of branches or knocking the fruit off with poles, is worth storing. Hand picking is absolutely essential. The fruit should be grasped by the palm of the hand that no abrasion may be made by the finger nails. By slightly twisting the fruit and bending it upward, it should separate readily from the spur.

Apples should be placed and not thrown or let fall into the picking basket. A careless picker will ruin more fruit by letting it fall into his basket instead of carefully placing it there than his services are worth. A great amount of fruit is also ruined by pouring it from the picking basket into barrels. If barrels are used, the basket should be inserted into the barrel and carefully inverted that the fruit may not be injured.

The fruit should then be stored as soon as possible. Piling the fruit in the orchard is a wasteful practice. The fruit heats in the piles and ripens very readily. The aim in storing fruit is to retard this ripening process that the fruit may be kept longer. Do not store fruit that has been piled in the orchard for any considerable time after picking. Get a good spring wagon for hauling the fruit into storage. A springless wagon, especially over rough roads, will injure the fruit for storing. If the fruit is packed in tight boxes or barrels, it will store better than if open crates are used.

The storage house, or cellar, should be well ventilated, well drained and frost proof. A cellar that cannot be properly ventilated to allow foul air to escape, cannot keep fruit well. Drain the cellar so that it will never be wet and remove excessive moisture with a box of quick lime. In cellars having cement bottoms and where they are apt to become too dry and cause the fruit to shrivel up, supply water.

SEEN AND HEARD IN MICHIGAN

Muskegon.—One of the few who actually passed through the mad swirl of water at Austin, Pa., and lived to tell the tale, John Tiedemann of this city attributes the fact that he is living to a woman's bravery. Mr. Tiedemann returned here from Austin, where he lost all his belongings and his means of employment in the flood. "A woman risked her life to save me," said Tiedemann. "She was Mrs. Edward Keegan of Rochester, N. Y., wife of a fellow employe. I was employed as night engineer in the Bayless Pulp and Paper mill and was asleep at a hotel when the dam gave way. She was on the first floor of the hotel and rushed up three flights of stairs to awaken me. Even then I came near losing my life. I dressed slowly and the wall of the building collapsed as I was making my way to a fire escape. A piece of roofing luckily came my way and I rode to safety on it."

Flint.—One of the oddest thefts reported in a long time was brought to the attention of Sheriff Parkhurst when he was asked to find the person who stole a cannon ball from in front of the courthouse. The balls weigh about 40 pounds each and a number of them were piled in front of the building beside some cannon. One of the pyramids of balls had been shoved over. When they were replaced it was noticed that a ball was missing. It was not long ago that the sheriff was asked to arrest a man who stole a house, but the cannon ball theft is something unique in his experience.

Ionia.—The examination of Mrs. Amelia Jones, charged with feeding her husband poisoned pie, was in progress. Among the witnesses were the husband, who swore that his wife, who is suing for divorce, asked him several times to return to her and when he said he would not take her back threatened to "get even with him." The woman is twenty years his senior. A number of witnesses testified to Jones's condition, and one said he acted like a poisoned dog.

Grand Rapids.—St. Mark's Episcopal church is celebrating its seventy-fifth anniversary. One of the features of the event is the presence of Mrs. Alice Tawmley, ninety-four years old, who is the church's oldest communicant. She has been a member since 1843. She was the guest of honor at the celebration. A big reception and reunion was held.

Battle Creek.—In order to run no risk of her daughter Felicia, ten years old, catching diphtheria, Mrs. Harriet H. Stafford had anti-toxin administered to her. In less than an hour afterward the child was dead. Coroner Bidwell has empaneled a jury to determine whether a weak heart or the anti-toxin caused death.

Kalamazoo.—S. T. Haynes of Jackson, conductor on a Michigan Central freight, was crushed to death here when the pilot of an engine he was riding on dropped, letting him fall under the train. Albert Phillips, a brakeman, was on the pilot with Haynes, but he dropped to the side of the track and was not severely hurt.

Detroit.—Rev. C. E. Conley, editor of the Michigan Christian Herald, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Baptist church, was severely injured while alighting from an interurban car. His advanced age makes recovery doubtful.

Lansing.—State Treasurer Sleeper received a letter from a farmer in Clare county requesting that the state pay ten dollars for two sheep killed by a bear last month. In his communication the ruralist sets forth that there is a law protecting the bear and therefore bruin is the property of the state. In order to avoid litigation the farmer urges Treasurer Sleeper to remit at once.

Port Huron.—For violating the local option law in Sanilac county, Mrs. Sarah E. Smith of Lexington was sentenced by Judge Tappan to pay a fine of $200 with $40 costs. The fine, which is the limit allowed by the statute, was imposed because it was the woman's second offense within six months. She pleaded guilty.

Adrian.—While playing volley ball at the Y. M. C. A., David A. Barnes, a student of Adrian college, fell in a faint and died before a physician could be summoned. Barnes was apparently in good health, but was troubled with a gout, which, it is thought, caused his death. Barnes was a theological student and was in his third year at college. He had recently been married.

Cadillac.—Mrs. Katherine Sweeney of Big Rapids has been chosen delegate to the national convention of the W. R. C. to be held in Los Angeles next August. The district convention at Tustin chose her and the following officers: President, Sarah Rogers, Tustin; senior vice-president, Mrs. Rose Freeland, Reed City; junior vice-president, Mrs. Harriet Hill, Petoskey; secretary, Mrs. Rachel Estanell, Tustin; treasurer, Mrs. Lydia Newkirk, Harbor Springs; chaplain, Mrs. Darragh, Big Rapids.

LOST 20 POUNDS. In Bed Seven Weeks With Terrible Kidney Trouble.

A. Dearth, Main St., Camden, O., says: "I was in bed seven weeks with kidney trouble and grew worse in spite of all the doctor could do. Kidney secretions were in terrible condition. If left standing they thickened like glue and had to be removed with a knife. My own doctor gave me up. I then called in a specialist who said I was beyond recovery. I had lost over 20 pounds and was but a shadow of my former self. I used one box of Doan's Kidney Pills and soon felt better. Continuing, I was cured and have not had the slightest trouble since."

A Reader Cures His Constipation—Try It Free

Simple Way for Any Family to Retain the Good Health of All Its Members.

The editors of "Health Hints" and "Questions and Answers" have one question that is put to them more often than any other, and which, strangely enough, they find the most difficult to answer. That is: "How can I cure my constipation?" Dr. Caldwell, an eminent specialist in diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels has looked the whole field over, has practiced the specialty for forty years and is convinced that the ingredients contained in what is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, has the best claim to attention from constipated people. Its success in the cure of stubborn constipation has done much to displace the use of salts, waters, strong cathartics and such things. Syrup Pepsin, by training the stomach and bowel muscles to again do their work naturally, and with its tonic ingredients strengthening the nerves, brings about a lasting cure. Among its strongest supporters are Mr. John Cravelline of 98 Milwaukee Ave., Detroit, Mich., Mr. J. A. Vernon of Okla., Iowa City and thousands of others. It can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, or if you want to try it first a free sample bottle can be obtained by writing the doctor. First Sewer Ordered

An adjourned council meeting was held Tuesday evening, President Hillmer and Trustees Caster, Curtis, Lapham and Hall being present.

A resolution to construct a sewer on Mill street was given its first reading and adopted. The cost will be about $450.00, to be assessed against abutting property.

Tungston street lights were ordered, one on east Ann Arbor street, in front of Postmaster Ladd's house, one corner Holbrook avenue and Spring streets, one corner Oak and Spring streets.

A note of $500 at the bank was ordered paid, and one for $2,000 renewed.

L-troit parties being unable to supply needed water mains at once, clerk was ordered to write Toledo and Chicago firms for prices on six-inch pipes and how soon delivery could be made.

A delegation of ladies called and presented a long petition asking the council to include in the new heating arrangement a plan to heat the stage. Their wishes and that of petitioners will be complied with.

Council adjourned to Oct. 30th.

Firth Concert Company

This company, which left a most favorable impression upon its visit here last winter, will again appear here tomorrow evening under the auspices of the K. P.'s. The Port Huron Times of Oct. 9th says of them:

A large house greeted the Francis Firth concert company at the high school Saturday and the high school chorus and Miss Edna Fraser, director, are to be congratulated on having brought to the city one of the best and most pleasing entertainments in a long time.

The rendering of one of the greatest of all baritone solos, the prologue from Pagliacci, by W. Francis Firth, left no doubt in the minds of the hearers as to Mr. Firth's ranking among the foremost and best baritones of today. Again in the Duo from Il Trovatore, Mr. Firth exhibited the rare dramatic ability which is so often lacking even in singers of world-wide repute. The rendering of his own composition, "Your Lover's Heart," and the famous drinking song "In Cellar Cool," demonstrated not only his exceptionally wide range of voice but also that versatility which marks the superior artist.

Mr. Eaton, the reader and impersonator, is recognized as being the greatest in his line in America today. All his numbers exceeded the fondest anticipations of the audience, and he was called back again and again. In "Josiah Allen's Wife" he scored possibly his biggest success.

The third member of the company, Miss Mazey Jackson, displayed a fine soprano voice of extensive range, and the numbers were characterized by pure and true tones of unusual sweetness. In the duet with Mr. Firth her voice was at all times equal to the occasion and would have done credit to most sopranos of grand opera renown.

Lecture on Christian Science

Clarence C. Eaton, C. S. B., member of Christian Science Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, will deliver a lecture on Christian Science in the Christian Science church on Thursday evening, Oct. 19, at 8 o'clock. Admission free. Every one is cordially invited.

Clarence Clayton Eaton, C. S. B., of Tacoma, Wash., is a lineal descendant of Francis Eaton, of the "Mayflower." He was educated in the public schools of Watertown, Wis.; then learned the printer's trade and was a newspaper correspondent for a number of years. He was for twelve years owner and publisher of a newspaper in Columbus, Wis., where he was elected superintendent of schools and a member of the city council. He disposed of his newspaper in 1899 to devote his entire time to Christian Science. In 1902 he removed to Tacoma, Wash. He has served as a reader and has been a member of State Publication Committees in Minnesota and Washington, and became a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship in 1904.

Earl Bovee, nineteen years old, went hunting Sunday in Meldrum's woods, near Perrinville. Resting himself on a rail fence, his gun slipped off, the hammer striking the rail and discharging the load, which struck him in the fleshy part of the left arm. Dr. Cooper was called to attend him and he advised his being taken to Harper hospital. Upon examination it was found the arm could be saved.

While a party of friends were coming out from Detroit in an automobile last Sunday to visit Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Draper, the machine skidded in the road and brought up against a telephone pole. Miss Emma Merrill, one of the party, was thrown out and bruised about the face. The machine was wrecked and had to be abandoned, the people making their way back to the street car track and home, excepting Miss Emma, who took a car for Plymouth.

The Epworth League will hold its annual banquet at the Odd Fellows' Hall Friday evening, Oct. 20. The committee have been very fortunate in securing able men from Detroit, Ann Arbor, Saginaw and Pontiac to respond to toasts. It has been the aim of the society to attempt a little more each year and make each succeeding banquet better than the preceding one, and a very enjoyable occasion is assured for this, their fourth annual banquet.

The marriage of Fred Kaiser and Miss Tena Lucksehe took place at the home of Rev. E. E. Caster yesterday at noon, that gentleman performing the ceremony in the presence of a few friends. The young couple took a car for Detroit and will be at home in a few days in their handsome residence on Penniman avenue, all furnished. They have many friends in the community who wish them happiness and long life and prosperity.

The Sextette Club, composed of Messrs. R. A. Cassidy, Julius Kaiser, Fred Holloway, Homer Jewell, Claude Bridger and Pierre Bennett, will give a series of dances this winter that are intended to merit the patronage of the public. Invitations have been issued and admittance to the hall will be only on this score, thus illuminating the undesirable. Stone's famous orchestra has been secured. The first hop will be given Thursday evening, Oct. 19th, in Penniman Hall.

The council is considering more paving propositions for next year. A new idea in paving material, resembling asphalt, has been tried out in Ann Arbor for the past three years and said to be giving the very best of satisfaction, it being used on residence streets only. The council thinks Penniman avenue ought to be paved, Ann Arbor street from Main to the railroad and Mill street from Main to the P. M. depot. Several council members are enthusiastic about it.

The first number of the lecture course last Friday evening was extremely well patronized, nearly every chair being filled, notwithstanding the wet weather. Then, everybody wanted to see Hobson—a world-wide known Hobson. But Hobson's entertainment didn't please all the people, by any means. His subject matter was very prosy and of a statistical nature and though undoubtedly true in all that he said, still it was not what the people were looking for. But it was one of the strongest arguments against intemperance and the effects of alcoholic use ever heard in this community.

I have your cup of Coffee in a package like this

Right here is where you look for the name of the blend you like best.

Just below are the descriptions of the five different flavors of Golden Sun Coffee

- Karex Makes a keen, tangy, sparkling cup of coffee.
- Navarre For those who want a piquant, high-flavored coffee.
- Briardale Produces the soft, mellow, velvety cup of coffee.
- Vienna Rich, savory and aromatic in flavor and bouquet.
- Mocha and Java Makes that distinct brew produced only the most expert blending of these famous grades.

ONE blend of coffee wouldn't suit everybody in a year of Sundays. We who sell coffee know there are five distinct tastes for coffee. Here are the five different blends—one for every taste—put up by the largest and oldest and best known coffee house in the world. That says everything.

Some forty or fifty Detroit automobiles passed through Plymouth Sunday forenoon, making an "endurance run" to Pontiac and on again to Detroit. Most of these people flew down the pavement at a clip anywhere from 25 to 50 miles per hour and there was an excellent opportunity for Marshal Springer to have made a big addition to the good roads fund.

TUBERCULOSIS TO DISAPPEAR.

Tuberculosis is diminishing in amount the world over, and it is predicted that in 25 or 30 years it will have quite disappeared.

While a rather low percentage of hits was attained with the 14-inch gun, which is to be the offensive weapon of the new battleships, New York and Texas, it is claimed that one well-placed shot from this terribly powerful piece of ordnance will fatally disable or destroy any fighting ship now afloat.

Nobody wants to stop cold storage. That has come to stay, and, fairly conducted, it is a benefit to the public. Nobody wants to prevent cold storage from affording reasonable returns to those who carry it on.

There are always consolations, in any misfortune. One Frenchman tries to assuage the grief of his afflicted nation by remarking that Mona Lisa's smile is nothing more than a consumptive grin.

An aviator in Illinois broke another record by taking his mother with him on an air ride 2,500 feet high.

A New York broker is looking for a wife who has "the English conservatism and love of home, the vivacity of the French and the intensity and fervor of the Italian girl."

It has officially been decided in Boston that a woman is young until she is 35. Only cold, hard officialdom, by the way, even though generous in its allowance, would venture to put a definite limit to such an intangible mystery as a woman's age.

Why doesn't the Paris editor challenged by a lecturer on woman's rights and accused of cowardice because he doesn't accept the challenge, same live mice as the weapons to be used?

Patry Flynn of Hartford, Conn., has been sent to jail fifty-seven times in sixteen years, and claims to hold the record. Are there any rival claimants?

Boston has a variety of mosquito that sings but does not sting. Still, even the free concert business may be overdone.

Atwood may quit aviation, which he says is certain to lead to sudden death. It usually is extremely sudden in the case of an aviator.

This season has run shy of fish stories. Perhaps the fish won't bite, perhaps it is the public.

DEATH RATE IN AUGUST WAS LOW

DR. L. DIXON OF STATE BOARD OF HEALTH CLAIMS FEWER INFANTS DIED.

DECREASE OF 3.9 PER CENT.

One Hundred and Seventy-Eight Persons Died From Tuberculosis of the Lungs, While Only Fifty From Typhoid Fever.

Lansing.—During the month of August, 1911, there were six hundred and eighty-nine less deaths in the state of Michigan than for the same month last year, or a decrease of 3.9 per cent.

One of the greatest decreases is noted in the number of deaths of infants under one year of age. During August, 1910, there occurred 837 deaths of infants under one year of age, and this August the number totaled but 648.

The number of deaths in the cities was larger than deaths in the country during August of the present year by 204, there having been 1,347 deaths in the country and 1,551 in the cities.

Tuberculosis seemed to have been almost as prevalent in the country as in the cities, for there were 68 deaths from that disease in the country, as compared to 75 in the cities.

Of the cities in the state over 50,000 population Detroit easily leads in the number of births, having to her credit 1,092, as compared to 219 for Grand Rapids and 60 for Saginaw.

Detroit was also credited with 584 deaths during the same month, as compared to 125 for Grand Rapids and 48 for Saginaw. Detroit had 215 deaths during the month under one year of age, as compared to 33 for Grand Rapids and five for Saginaw.

In births in cities from 25,000 to 50,000 population Lansing is credited with but 45, while Bay City leads with 82.

Meeting of Presbyterians. Representatives of about 40,000 Presbyterians and 566 churches in Michigan gathered in Detroit for the opening session of the seventy-seventh annual meeting of the state synod.

The session began with a sermon by Rev. W. H. Simmons, moderator of the synod. This was followed by an address from W. R. Farrand on the "Men and Religion Forward Movement."

Before adjournment there was a short business session for the election of a moderator and other officers, and for the report of the committee of arrangements.

The second day's session opened with a celebration of the holy communion. Among the speakers of the day were Governor Osborn, Rev. James F. Record, educational secretary of Sabbath school work, and Rev. Arthur J. Brown, secretary of the board of foreign missions.

The matter of church federation was brought up by Rev. David Howell, state missionary, and there was a popular meeting in the interest of this movement with addresses by Rev. J. Percival Huget of First Congregational church; Dean S. S. Marquis of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal cathedral, and Rev. F. T. Galpin of First Baptist church.

Death in "Simple" Diseases. "The importance of preventing widespread epidemics of whooping cough and measles does not appear to have been sufficiently impressed on the minds of the public," says Doctor Dixon of the health board.

"In the last five years in Michigan, there have been 1,590 deaths charged to whooping cough, and 1,022 charged to measles. These figures do not properly indicate the high rate of mortality from the two diseases because a great number of cases have been reported to have died of pneumonia, which on investigation are found to have had measles and whooping cough preceding the pneumonia.

$66,000,000 More in Iron Mines. After a week's hearings in Marquette, Gogebic, Dickinson and Iron counties, the state tax commission has announced the valuation of all the iron mines on the Michigan range as $65,927,700.

Table with 4 columns: County, Local assessors report, Tax commission report, Final tax commission report. Rows include Marquette, Gogebic, Iron, Dickinson, and Totals.

Osborne Refuses 30 Paroles. Lansing.—Two convicts, released on parole, have been ordered returned to prison by governor for violating the terms of this parole, and in this connection the governor announced that it is emphatically his policy to act summarily against men who are guilty of breaking faith with the state in giving them an opportunity to begin life over again.

Somewhat different than the course of his predecessors has been the course of Governor Osborn relative to the applications of prisoners for executive clemency. The board of pardons and paroles has not been a big factor in the matter.

Unitarianism is rapidly growing in Michigan, according to reports made at the state conference at Kalamazoo. Every church in the state is also in a flourishing condition and financial affairs are excellent, according to the treasurer, Mrs. B. A. Finney, of Ann Arbor.

Rev. B. A. Hills, of Mt. Pleasant, in an address, declared that the world is assuming an attitude of tolerance, progress and deep sincerity in search for truth.

"Ultimately we will have a world-wide religion, the elements of which are now in existence in the seven great living religions," he declared.

The keynote of Brahmanism is spirituality. The keynote of Judaism is civic righteousness; of Zoroastrianism, purity in life; of Buddhism, enlightenment; of Confucianism, natural virtue; of Christian religion, brotherly love; of Mohammedanism, sovereignty of a divine being.

Mrs. Eugene R. Shippen of Detroit told how alliance works for the direct benefit of the church. She urged stronger church societies.

Wants Text Books Same State Over. Uniform text books for the entire state of Michigan is one of the ideas which School Inspector Elden Small of the Third ward desires to bring about.

Mr. Small points to the fact that with the multiplicity of books in use in Michigan schools, parents are put to much unnecessary expense when they move into the city from outside centers.

This latter suggestion he makes following the injunction proceedings taken against the Detroit school board.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Edmund Atkinson stated that the text book injunction case probably will not be heard by the supreme court before the January term.

57 Per Cent. Increase Put on Alpena. The Michigan tax commission, following the session at Alpena, has raised the total valuation of Alpena from a trifle over $6,000,000 to nearly $9,500,000, or an average increase of 57 per cent.

The following companies have filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state: Northwestern Realty company, Alpena, $10,000; K. & H. Lamp company, Detroit, $12,000; principal stockholders, Paul Kraatin, John H. Hart; Royal Sheet Metal & Heating company, Royal Oak, $4,000; Lakeland Motor Works, Lakeland, $10,000; Simpson Ladder company, Buchanan, $6,000.

Michigan Patents. Michigan patents were issued as follows: Henry L. Adair and P. Lindquist, Grand Rapids, folding chair; Horace M. Allen, Detroit, adjustable foot-rest or shelf for radiators; Joseph P. Coburn, Detroit, mattress; Herbert H. Dow, Midland, apparatus for multiple effect vacuum evaporation, also producing crystals; George O. Hilton, Detroit, flushing valve; Edgar M. Johnson, Hancock, signaling system for mines; Joseph P. Lavigne, Detroit, valve; Charles W. Linscott, Jackson, carset.

ITALY FORMALLY ANNEXES TRIPOLI

FORMAL OCCUPATION OF TRIPOLI PROVINCE AS A COLONY HAS BEGUN.

ITALY ISSUES OFFICIAL WARNING TO THE WORLD.

Claims to Have an Agreement With the Powers Regarding Proper Time to Permit an Intervention.

Turkey Willing to Cede Tripoli.

A circular note from the Turkish government asking the powers whether they consider the time has arrived to seek a basis for negotiations looking to peace between Turkey and Italy, and under what conditions was presented to the German foreign office.

It is probable that the communication from Constantinople will be discussed between the other powers before the Italian government is approached. It is thought at the foreign office that Italy may not be ready yet to negotiate.

The decision to expel Italians from Turkey, against which the representations of the German ambassador at Constantinople, Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, have not been effective yet, was designed chiefly, it is thought, for effect upon the coming negotiations, Turkey hoping that the threat might induce the Italians to make moderate terms.

Italy Formally Annexes Tripoli.

Italy has formally proclaimed her occupation of Tripoli, annexing the province as an Italian colonial possession and is preparing to send couriers to all the Arab and other native chieftains throughout the former Turkish villages, requiring of them that they swear fealty to King Victor Emmanuel.

It was reported in Malta that 40,000 Italian troops left Agosta, Sicily, for Tripoli on 50 transports, which were escorted by the second division of the fleet under Vice-Admiral Thaon di Revel.

News from the Turco-Italian war has hitherto been fragmentary and uncertain. The rigid censorship imposed by Italy has concealed the facts and let loose a flood of fiction, but what is known to be true is probably all of importance that has really happened. This does not amount to a great deal. The bombardment of the Tripoli forts, followed by the occupation of the place by small landing parties, was the chief act of warfare.

Many Reports Inaccurate.

Hostilities outside Tripoli and Cyrene have been confined to naval activity in the Adriatic and the exchange of shots by gunboats at Ho-deida in the Red sea, in which a British launch was the only sufferer.

It is impossible to calculate how many Turkish so-called torpedo boats have been sunk and destroyed in the Adriatic. Obviously the same incident with the geography and details slightly varied has been repeated again and again. If all the reports were accepted as true Turkey would be found to have lost more of these craft than she ever possessed.

Turkish Tripoli Loss is 12 Killed, 23 Hurt.

It is officially announced that the Turkish loss at the bombardment of Tripoli were 12 killed and 23 wounded. One Italian cruiser was damaged by the forts. It is reported that an Italian cruiser was bombarded Swedish, vilayet of Aleffo, but that no damage was done.

Noted Banker and Politician Dies in New York.

Cornelius N. Bliss, who was secretary of the interior under President McKinley and for many years treasurer of the Republican national committee, died at his home in New York of heart failure. He was in his 79th year. He had suffered from heart trouble for more than a year.

Mr. Bliss was ill all summer at his country place, Oceanic park, at Oceanic, on the North Shrewsbury river. As autumn approached he seemed a little better and was able to be about the grounds and to take automobile rides. On Sunday, September 24, the steamboat Albertina, of Red Bank, was chartered and Mr. Bliss was taken in an automobile from his house to the landing and brought to New York.

William G. Wade, alleged Kalamazoo forger, surrender in Chicago.

Secretary Meyer conferred with Rear Admiral Albert Ross, retired, over details for the dedication of the great lakes naval training station, near Chicago, October 28. President Taft is expected to be present and the governors of Illinois and adjoining states will be among the guests.

Gov. Baldwin has asked the attorney-general to pass on the validity of a law recently passed over his veto, giving all civil war veterans in Connecticut a yearly pension of $30 each. The governor vetoed the bill on the ground that it would incur heavy expense and also questioned its constitutionality.

OPEN SCHOOL FOR FARMERS

M. A. C. Plans Experiment in Agricultural Institution.

The Michigan Agricultural College believes in getting down to first principles in the education of the farmer, and is planning local schools of instruction, such as have never been held before in this state. One will open in December, with the farmers in classes, studying and reciting just like youngsters. The instructors will be professors from the college, assisted by local public school teachers, and the subjects will be of prime value to the farmer.

Aged Convict Banker Wins Freedom. John R. Walsh, the convicted Chicago banker, has been paroled and will be released from Leavenworth prison. The action is the result of almost continuous effort since his conviction several years ago.

Walsh was sentenced in 1905 to serve five years, following his conviction in Chicago. Walsh's case in many respects is similar to that of Charles W. Morse, the New York banker, serving a term in the federal prison at Atlanta. Morse recently gave up his fight for a pardon. Walsh was found guilty of having, as president, misapplied the funds of the Chicago National bank, having used the funds in various speculative enterprises.

SPLENDID CANADIAN CROPS

Wheat, Oats and Barley Universally Good Throughout Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The reports that come to hand from the wheat fields of the western Canadian provinces show remarkably good yields in all parts. Yields are recorded of wheat going 35 and 40 bushels in many places, and oats from 60 to 100 bushels per acre. Barley and flax are splendid. The thousands of Americans throughout the United States who have friends in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta will be pleased to learn of the great success that has followed their efforts. Many of these have not confined themselves to the growing of grain, but have also gone into the cattle industry. On the luxurious grasses that are so abundant there, in almost all districts, make this industry safe and profitable. The land sales reported by the railway companies and by the different land companies show the great increase that will likely take place during the next year in farming operations. What has been said time and time again may now be well repeated, that there is no place on the American continent where the same opportunities are afforded the man looking for a home, for the young man starting out in life, the man with a growing up family, who desires wider scope for his ambition. The Canadian government agents located at different points in the states will be glad to advise the reader of the conditions, and relate to him instances of the great success that has followed farming in Western Canada.

Some Mosquitoes.

"Yes," said the traveler who had just returned from South Africa. "I was one day so annoyed by mosquitoes, that I was compelled to take refuge in an old iron safe which I had discarded on the vessel."

"My first emotions of joy at my happy deliverance were hardly over when the mosquitoes, scenting me, began to drive their stingers through the safe. Fortunately, I had a hammer in my pocket, and as fast as their stingers came through the iron I clinched them, until at length such a host of them was fastened down in this way that, when they started to fly away, they carried me and that safe miles."

"Then, one by one, they died with the exertion, and I was able to come out with safety. Yes, wonderful things happen in foreign parts."—Ideas.

This One is on Hugh.

"When I came into the Union station the other morning, after traveling all night," said Hugh Kelly, at the Commercial club, "I went into the barber shop. When you spend the night in a sleeping car, I said to the barber, 'It doesn't improve your personal appearance, does it?'"

"Well," said he, as he looked me over, "I don't know how you looked when you started, but here you're right."—Washington Herald.

Overheard in Venice.

"Isn't it romantic, John, dear," said she as they sat in the little Venetian garden, "to sit here and listen to these Italian troubadours singing their ballads bathed in the moonlight?"

"Yes, dear," replied John with a deep-drawn sigh. "But I sometimes wish they'd bathe in something besides moonlight, don't you. It might be less romantic, but it would be a darn sight more hygienic."—Harpers Weekly.

A Superior Person.

F. H. Elliott, the secretary of the American Automobile association, was talking about a somewhat supercilious and conceited millionaire. "He's a very superior person," Mr. Elliott said, smiling. "He's the sort of person who would be sure to go to a horse show in a motor car and to an automobile show in a monoplane."

SERIAL STORY

The Courtship of Miles Standish

Priscilla

Thus for a while he stood, and mused by the shore of the ocean Thinking of many things, and most of all of Priscilla;

And as if thought had the power to draw to itself, like the lodestone, Whatsoever it touches, by subtle laws of its nature, Lo! as he turned to depart, Priscilla was standing beside him.

"Are you so much offended, you will not speak to me?" said she.

"Am I so much to blame, that yesterday, when you were pleading warmly the cause of another, my heart, impulsive and wayward, pleaded your own, and spoke out, forgetful perhaps of decorum? Certainly you can forgive me for speaking so frankly, for saying what I ought not to have said, yet now I can never unsay it."

For there are moments in life, when the heart is so full of emotion, that if by chance it be shaken, or into its depths like a pebble drops some careless word, it overflows, and its secret,

Split on the ground like water, can never be gathered together. Yesterday I was shocked, when I heard you speak of Miles Standish,

Praising his virtues, transforming his very defects into virtues, Praising his courage and strength, and even his fighting in Flanders, As if by fighting alone you could win the heart of a woman,

Quite overlooking yourself and the rest, in exalting your hero. Therefore I spoke as I did, by an irresistible impulse.

You will forgive me, I hope, for the sake of the friendship between us, which is too true and too sacred to be so easily broken!" Thereupon answered John Alden, the scholar, the friend of Miles Standish:

"I was not angry with you, with myself alone I was angry, Seeing how badly I managed the matter I had in my keeping."

"Not!" interrupted the maiden, with answer prompt and decisive;

"No; you were angry with me for speaking so frankly and freely. It was wrong, I acknowledge; for it is the fate of a woman long to be patient and silent, to wait like a ghost that is speechless, till some questioning voice dissolves the spell of its silence.

Hence is the inner life of so many suffering women sunless and silent and deep, like subterranean rivers running through caverns of darkness, unheard, unseen, and unfruitful.

Homeward Together They Walked.

Chafing their channels of stone, with ceaseless and profitless murmurs. Thereupon answered John Alden, the young man, the lover of women: "Heaven forbid it, Priscilla; and truly they seem to me always

More like the beautiful rivers that watered the Garden of Eden, More like the river Euphrates, through deserts of hostile frowning.

Filling the land with delight, and making sweet the garden!" "Ah, by those words, I can see," again interrupted the maiden,

"How very little you prize me, or care for what I can say."

Straightway you take up my words, that are plain and direct and in earnest,

Turn them away from their meaning, and answer with flustering phrases.

This is not right, is not just, is not true to the best that is in you; For I know and esteem you, and feel that your nature is noble, Lifting mine up to a higher, a more ethereal level.

Therefore I value your friendship, and feel it perhaps the more keenly if you say aught that implies I am only as one among many, If you make use of those common and complimentary phrases Most men think so fine, in dealing and speaking with women, But which women reject as insipid, if not as insulting."

Mute and amazed was Alden; and listened and looked at Priscilla, Thinking he never had seen her more fair, more divine in her beauty. He who but yesterday pleaded so glibly the cause of another,

Stood there embarrassed and silent, and seeking in vain for an answer. So the maiden went on, and little divined or imagined

What was at work in his heart, that made him so awkward and speechless.

"Let us, then, be what we are, and

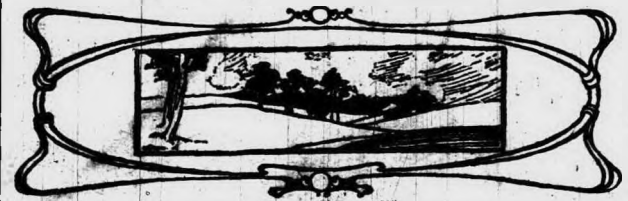

"You Will Forgive, I Hope."

Speak what we think, and in all things keep ourselves loyal to truth, and the sacred professions of friendship. It is no secret I tell you, nor am I ashamed to declare it:

I have liked to be with you, to see you, to speak with you always. So I was hurt at your words, and a little affronted to hear you urge me to marry your friend, though he were the Captain Miles Standish.

For I must tell you the truth: much more to me is your friendship than all the love he could give, were he twice the hero you think him." Then she extended her hand, and Alden, who eagerly grasped it, felt all the wounds in his heart, that were aching and bleeding so sorely.

Healed by the touch of that hand, and he said, with a voice full of feeling:

The Porto Rican's Arsenal.

"I have been visiting one of our outlying possessions," said E. Stanley Favarsham.

"I wanted a new sensation in the way of travel, and thought it would be worth while to take a look at Porto Rico.

"The Spanish inhabitants cling to their old customs to a great extent, and a stranger is impressed by the remarkable devotion to canvas. Men, young and old, and even boys, carry some sort of a walking stick, and the Porto Rico dandies are very proud of the way they can twirl a cane and make passes with it as with a sword. The dude of the Porto Rico country is very proud of his collection of canes and refers to it as his arsenal."—Washington Post.

Without regard to expense, After a week in the country, up in mountainous country, a permanent residence

"Yes, we must ever be friends; and of all who offer you friendship let me be ever the first, the truest, the nearest and dearest!"

Casting a farewell look at the glimmering sail of the Mayflower, Distant, but still in sight, and sinking below the horizon, Homeward together they walked, with a strange, indefinite feeling, That all the rest had departed and left them alone in the desert.

But, as they went through the fields in the blessing and smile of the sunshine, Lighter grew their hearts, and Priscilla said very archly: "Now that our terrible Captain has gone in pursuit of the Indians, Where he is happier far than he would be commanding a household, You may speak boldly, and tell me of all that happened between you, When you returned last night, and said how ungrateful you found me."

Thereupon answered John Alden, and told her the whole of the story,—Told her his own despair, and the direful wrath of Miles Standish.

Whereat the maiden smiled, and said between laughing and earnest, "He is a little chimney, and heated hot in a moment!"

But as he gently rebuked her, and

told her how much he had suffered,— How he had even determined to sail that day in the Mayflower, And had remained for her sake, on hearing the dangers that threatened,—

All her manner was changed, and she said with a faltering accent, "Truly I thank you for this; how good you have been to me always!"

Thus as a pilgrim devout, who toward Jerusalem journeys, Taking three steps in advance, and one reluctantly backward, Urged by importunate zeal, and withheld by pangs of contrition; Slowly but steadily onward, receding yet ever advancing, Journeyed this Puritan youth to the Holy Land of his longings, Urged by the fervor of love, and withheld by remorseful misgivings. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

HAPPENINGS IN THE CITIES

Pickled Horse Meat Packed in Jersey

TRENTON, N. J.—That New Jersey has within its borders an establishment engaged in the business of canning or pickling horse-flesh, which is shipped to Holland for food purposes, was officially brought to the attention of the state board of health at its recent meeting in Trenton. The board referred the case to Attorney General Wilson, requesting him to take such action as the circumstances would warrant.

The complaint was presented by Dr. R. B. Fitzrandolph, head of the pure food department of the state board, and was based upon evidence furnished by the bureau of chemistry, of the United States department of agriculture, which had the horse-packing establishment under surveillance.

The government alleged that the most insanitary conditions prevailed at the plant, and that carcasses of diseased and emaciated animals were packed for the export trade. According to the evidence obtained by secret service men, dead horses were cut up for food on the same floor occupied by animals which had glanders and other diseases communicable to mankind.

The investigation, started by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the government chemistry bureau, had to be practically abandoned by the government because of a leak through which the officials of the company were warned that they were being watched. After this, it is alleged that no more shipments were made abroad and the government, being left without jurisdiction, the case was turned over to the state authorities for prosecution under its laws.

The case worked up by the government was outlined generally in a letter from Acting Chief F. L. Dunlap, of the bureau of chemistry, which was submitted to the state board of health by Dr. Fitzrandolph. In this letter Dr. Dunlap said that on June 10, 1911, his bureau was advised that the firm exported pickled horse meat to Holland; that this meat was entered at Rotterdam and was distributed throughout Holland for food purposes. An investigation was started and one of the inspectors testified that the 31 vats in the pickling room consisted in part of animals that have died otherwise than by slaughter.

Gotham's Domestic Relations Court

NEW YORK.—One year ago the Domestic Relations court was established in New York and it has already gained a place as one of the permanent and most necessary institutions of this city. The tremendous work of this court arouses wonder that the idea had not been adopted years ago, and that it is not more widely emulated in other cities throughout the country. Chicago and Washington are the only two other cities where similar courts exist.

The Domestic Relations court is essentially a poor man's court. In its prime office, indeed, it partakes of the nature of a conciliatory court, similar to the conciliatory courts of France, through which all domestic difficulties pass before any divorce or other serious case involving domestic infelicity, abandonment or non-support can enter the courts proper. Like the judges of the conciliatory courts in France, the judges of the Domestic Relations court in New York are chosen for their tact, patience, knowledge of mankind and sympathy with the frailties of men and women. Every case that comes into the Domestic Relations court these judges first try to adjust without legal procedure.

In the next instance the Domestic Relations court is a woman's court. In almost every case that has appeared the complainant has been a woman. It is not more than once in several months that a man appears as a complainant in this court. This is, of course, largely owing to the fact that a man is not usually dependent upon his wife for support, and even if deserted by his wife a man is not likely to be exposed to hardship and suffering, as the case with a woman. Furthermore, this court has no power to grant divorces. It merely adjusts differences, punishes abandoning husbands, and advises separation when separation seems the only wise course, and determines the amount of money that the man must contribute towards the support of his wife, children or other relatives.

Brotherly Love Man Spanks His Wife

PHILADELPHIA.—When a husband forms the habit of spanking his wife, it is not easy to induce him to change his way. Of this Mrs. Mabel Baker is firmly convinced. Before breakfast she had her husband, Geo. Baker, a meat dealer, arrested for having spanked her, but when he was arraigned before Magistrate Beaton in the City Hall police court a few hours later, she announced that she did not want him sent to jail. He was discharged.

"There is only one way to get George to do a thing," said Mrs. Baker, in admitting that the court proceedings were not an entire success, "and that is to have him make up his own mind to do it." While she is not yet on speaking terms with her husband, Mrs. Baker seemed cheerfully certain that the existing strained relations will end. She also looked forward to more spank-

ings. "When we make up," she said, "it will be useless to ask George to sign a pledge to spank me no more. He wouldn't make any such promise, and wouldn't even apologize for any of the spankings of the past. He is not the kind of man who apologizes. In fact, I've never heard him say that he was sorry for anything he ever did."

"We have been married about two years and a half. He commenced spanking me two weeks after our wedding day and has kept it up almost weekly ever since. He has a temper and so have I, and if we jangle, a spanking follows. He is not a big man and I am not a small woman, but I am completely helpless in his arms. His muscles are like iron."

"I can't tell how many times I have been spanked. At first, I endured the humiliation of such punishment because I didn't want people to know about it. Then I threatened to have him arrested. I suppose I threatened so often that he thought I would never do anything. But when he spanked me harder than usual I caught his arrest. It didn't cost me anything, but George had to pay $10 for a lawyer, although it seemed to me that $5 would have been enough for such easy work."

Nez Perce Indians Adopt a New Creed

SPOKANE, Wash.—Withdrawing from the Presbyterian church on account of differences with the presbytery over the pastor of the church, 85 Nez Perce Indians have joined the Methodists.

Eddie Conner, the pastor of the new Methodist church; Stephen Reuben, the superintendent of the Sunday school, and Abel Grant, the leader of the choir, appeared at the Kenwood Methodist church Sunday. The two former spoke, while the third sang hymns in both English and the native tongue.

"We protested to the presbytery a number of times concerning our pastor," Reuben said. "We were not satisfied with him and wanted another, but they would not do as we wished, so we all left the church and joined the Methodists."

"On the reservation there are six Presbyterian churches, with a membership of more than 500. The Indians were convinced by the tribe. When we withdrew we took our pastor and two of the elders into the Methodist church with us."

Reuben is a relative of the late Chief Joseph of the Nez Perce tribe and accompanied the old warrior on his last trip to Washington, where they were received by President McKinley.

"General Miles took Joseph and me from Washington to New York to see Buffalo Bill's show," said Reuben. "He paid all of our expenses and we had a fine time. He also gave $25 to each of us. The show was good."

Reuben was a boy at the time of the Nez Perce outbreak and remem-

MUNYON PREACHES HOPE PHILOSOPHY

New Association Gaining Many Members.

FAITH'S CURATIVE POWER

NOTED HEALTH EXPERT GIVES REASON FOR BIG SUCCESS IN MEDICINE

Tremendous success has attended the organization of the new Munyon "Hope Cure." Professor Munyon claims that he has secured more converts than he ever anticipated, and says that his "Hope Cure" is growing in leaps and bounds. It is said that the total membership of the association throughout the United States is now well over the half million mark.

In a statement for publication Prof. Munyon said: "I want to talk to every sick, ailing and despondent person in this city. I want to preach my new creed to them. I want to tell them about my new philosophy of health which is the fruit of a lifetime of study and experience in dealing with sick folk."

"I want to expound the Great Truth that I have learned that there is more curative power in an ounce of Hope than in pounds of Dope. That sick people should not take medicine except as a medium through which the great curative power of Hope may be made effective. Medicines are necessary in the present state of the world's progress because they give a patient physical support and strength and renewed vigor with which to brace up the will power. One knows, from the action of the proper medicine, that he or she is feeling better by this inspired hope and faith, which completes the cure."

"I think that probably a million persons at least in the United States have declared themselves cured by my medicine, and I know that these people have had the best remedies medical science had to offer. I have always contended that if there is any virtue in medicine my followers should have the best, but I verily believe that more than one-half of those who have been lifted to health from the bondage of chronic illness, through taking my medicine, have been really cured by the knowledge that they had the utmost in medical lore at their command, and the Hope this inspired."

"I am not in any sense a practicing physician. I employ at my laboratories in Philadelphia a large staff of expert physicians and chemists, and I have many other physical and various cities of the United States detailed to give me advice to the sick and afflicted. My headquarters are at Munyon's Laboratories, 533 and Jefferson St., Philadelphia, Pa., and I have there a staff of duly registered physicians and consulting experts, and to all who desire it, I offer the best of medical advice absolutely free of charge."

Write today, addressing Prof. J. M. Munyon personally and your letter will have a special care.

RASH ALL OVER BABY'S BODY

Itched So He Could Not Sleep

"On July 27, 1909, we left Boston for a trip to England and Ireland, taking baby with us. After being in Ireland a few days a nasty rash came out all over his body. We took him to a doctor who gave us medicine for him. The trouble started in the form of a rash and was all over baby's body, head and face, at different times. It irritated, and he would scratch it with all his might. The consequence was it developed into sores, and we were afraid it would leave nasty scars on his face."

"When we reached England we took baby to another doctor, who said his condition was due to change of food and climate, and gave more medicine. The rash got no better, and it used to itch and burn at night so bad that the child could not sleep. He was completely covered with it at different times. It was at this time that my mother advised us to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment for about nine months the places disappeared. There are not any scars, and baby is completely cured by the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. We have no further trouble with baby's skin. Nothing stopped the itching, and allowed baby to sleep but Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Margaret Gunn, 29 Burrall St., Newbury, Mass., March 12, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 25-page book, will be mailed free on application to Cuticura, Dept. 74 K, Boston.

Helpful Hints on Hair Health

Scalp and Hair Troubles Generally Caused by Carelessness.

Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a microbe which also produces baldness. Never use a comb or brush belonging to some one else. No matter how clean the owner may be, these articles may be infected with microbes, which will infect your scalp. It is far easier to catch hair microbes than it is to get rid of them, and a single stroke of an infected comb or brush may well lead to baldness. Never try on anybody else's hat. Many a hatband is a resting place for microbes.

If you happen to be troubled with dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair or baldness, we have a remedy which we believe will completely relieve these troubles. We are so sure of this that we offer it to you with the understanding that it will cost you nothing for the trial if it does not produce the results we claim. This remedy is called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We honestly believe it to be the most scientific remedy for scalp and hair troubles, and we know of nothing else that equals it for effectiveness, because of the results it has produced in thousands of cases.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is devised to banish dandruff, restore natural color when its loss has been brought about by disease, and make the hair naturally silky, soft and glossy. It does this because it stimulates the hair follicles, destroys the germ matter and brings about a free, healthy circulation of blood, which nourishes the hair roots, causing them to tighten and grow new hair. We want everybody who has any trouble with hair or scalp to know that we think that "Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is the best hair tonic and restorative in existence and no one should scoff at or doubt this statement until they have put our claims to a fair test, with the understanding that they pay us nothing for the remedy if it does not give full and complete satisfaction in every particular. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Plymouth only at our store—The Rexall Store, Beyer Pharmacy.

Post Office Ruling

Drastic legislation in the United States postal department against lotteries, guessing contests and endless chain enterprises have been called to the attention of postmasters, and hereafter all advertisements pertaining to such matters will be barred from the mails.

"The attention of postmasters and railway postal clerks is directed to section 499 of the postal laws and regulations of 1902 as amended (section 213, Act of March 4, 1909) by the provisions of which newspapers and other publications of any kind, circulars and pamphlets, containing advertisements of lotteries, gift concerts or similar enterprises, for the distribution of prizes by lot or chance, or the list of the prizes awarded in pursuance of such schemes, and all other matter relating to them are declared to be unmailable. The terms lottery, so-called gift concerts, or similar enterprises offering prizes depending upon lot or chance, as used in that section, include guessing or estimating contests for prizes, as well as drawing or raffles of any kind whether local or general, whether for private gain or in aid of charitable, educational or religious objects, or whether the consideration for chances be money or otherwise. Enterprises in which prizes are distributed among purchasers of merchandise in stated amounts, or among sub-shares of corporate stock, through the medium of drawings or guessing contests, are lotteries within the meaning of that section. Publications, circulars, cards or any pamphlets containing advertisements of such enterprises, or notices or other information of any kind, relating to them, should be withdrawn from the mails and treated in accordance with Sections 573, 580 and 584 of postal laws and regulations."

SCHOOL NOTES.

The high school enjoyed a talk given them by Rev. B. F. Farber last Friday.

The visitors in the high school this week were Helen Farrand, Warren Farrand and Guy Rice.

Ethel Louise Haues, who has been visiting in kindergarten for the past three weeks, has gone home.

Chapel exercises were held in the high school room Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Charles Shattuck visited the 6th grade this week.

The 7th and 8th grade girls made creamed rice last week.

The 5th grade have been painting some very pretty scenes.

Nellie Richards is again in school.

The high school football team plays the Monroe team at Monroe Friday afternoon.

The desks in the high school room have been fitted out with new ink wells.

The English classes and some of the grades have been making written reports of Captain Hobson's speech which was delivered before the school last Friday. He spoke of his life in the navy, and ended by giving a strong appeal for the members of this school to make of themselves true American boys and girls.

The members of the second team in football have aspirations toward beating the first team.

A reception was given the freshmen and the new teachers by the seniors last Wednesday evening, in the kindergarten room which was prettily decorated in green and white, the freshman colors. The good taste and originality of the seniors was shown by the evening's entertainment. Everyone was asked to come dressed to represent some book, prizes were awarded to the one guessing the greatest and next greater number of books represented. After this, slips of paper containing names of cities with the letters in the wrong order, were given out. Next, conundrums enclosed in a peanut shell were passed around. Those given the girls contained answers; the boys, questions. In this way partners for the grand march and luncheon were found.

After luncheon a short program was given consisting of two solos by Miss Striker and two songs by the male quartette. A piano duet by Helen Pa-sage and Edna Fisher, followed.

The evening's entertainment was closed with a speech by the senior class president, Herbert Warner, who thanked the freshmen, for a beautiful bouquet of carnations with which they had presented the seniors. Everyone reports that they enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

An Aeroplane Stock Deal

"Do you believe in reciprocity?" inquired George.

"What has that to do with it?" replied Helen.

"Only if I love you then you ought to love me."

"I might care for you with all my heart and soul, but not for your vocation."

"That's the limit. I don't fly. I only sell airships."

"You're perpetually talking and thinking about them, and I wager you even dream about aviators."

"I'd rather dream about you, dearest. Consider how wonderful it will be in the future to eat your breakfast in New York and lunch in Paris."

"Don't attempt to convince me. With you all the time is fly time."

"Well, see how the time flies when you're talking about aeroplanes."

"Stop jesting, George," said Helen seriously. "I'd even rather be a minister's wife than marry a man interested in aeroplanes."

"It's plain enough, clergymen talk about heaven and we aim to get there."

"What of all the birdmen whose lives are sacrificed. It would constantly haunt me if a single martyr was dashed to his destruction in one of your horrid winged bat affairs."

"Helen, I must confess that I have been taking instructions how to navigate an aeroplane so we could take a little trip during our honeymoon."

"Are you daffy? Enough people are always gazing at a bridal couple without our making an effort to have our pictures in a Sunday paper."

"No. I'll never, never marry you unless you sell out your interest in those aeroplanes."

"Helen, every cent I possess is invested in that corporation. If I lose that money how can we marry?"

"I don't know and I don't care. Unless you can comply with my wishes, never speak to me again. Good-night," she said as she left the room.

George made many an attempt to see Helen, but all efforts were frustrated. A few weeks later in sheer hopeless despair he exclaimed: "Confound it, all the airships science could produce are worth losing for Helen. Can't people talk of anything but aviation to me? No matter where I go some one jabsbers about those blasted airships. I'd rather talk about Helen and courtship."

STOVE BUYER WARNINGS

Facts No 1
Garland Stoves and Ranges always bear the above trade-mark of highest quality. Are sold only by leading dealers everywhere. Are never sold by Mail-Order or Catalog houses. Are in over 4,000,000 homes. Have been the largest-selling and greatest satisfaction-giving stoves and ranges during 40 years. Always insist on this trade-mark and get Garlands at your dealer's.

Caution! AS AGENTS of the largest makers of stoves and ranges in the world, we have decided to place the stove buyers of this country in possession of certain facts on the "mail-order" stove and range situation, which will enable every buyer to safeguard his interests in advance of making a purchase. We take this step because we feel that we owe a duty to the public which for 40 years has favored Garland Stoves and Ranges with overwhelming evidence of its approval. For today you will find Garland Stoves and Ranges in over 4,000,000 homes. Here, in brief, are the facts: The trade-mark name, "Garland," on a stove or range, because of the quality and service which it represents, has become enormously valuable. Its value is estimated at millions of dollars. Behind it are 40 years of study, invention, experience, skilled workmanship and conscientious effort. In recent years, some concerns, selling stoves and ranges by "mail order," have sought to trade on the Garland reputation by offering cheap stoves at cheap prices on the representation that such goods are "as good as Garlands." The time has come when the protection of stove buyers demands that we brand these claims as absolutely false. The purpose of this announcement is to point out to the stove buyer the pitfalls of the system of "mail-order" stove dealing and the safety, convenience, satisfaction and greater economy of buying stoves and ranges from established local dealers.

'Mail Order' Stoves and Ranges Not Shipped Set Up

"Mail-order" stoves are not shipped set up and ready for service. It shipped all set up, the legs and other weak parts would be liable to be smashed in shipment. If you have ever wrestled with a "mail-order" stove, loading it at the depot, carting it home, unloading it, getting it out of the crate, putting it together, blanketing it and possibly waiting a couple of weeks for replacement of broken parts before being able to use it, you will never wish to repeat the performance. When you buy a Garland Stove or Range we deliver it set up, blanketed and bright parts polished, complete and ready for service and guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction. No time, no fuss, no lost time, no parts broken or missing, no delay, no drayage.

Not Easy to Return 'Mail Order' Stoves

When you get a "mail-order" stove, you are almost bound to keep it, even though it is not satisfactory. "Why?" you say, "the mail-order stovehouse offers to take back the stove and refund my money if the stove is not perfectly satisfactory!" But there are a good many reasons why the vast majority of stoves purchased by mail are never returned. One great reason is the endless amount of "red tape" connected with the return of such stoves. If you are ever caught with an unsatisfactory stove, the chances are that your patience will become exhausted and you will decide to make the best of a bad bargain.

See the Stove First

When you order from a "mail-order" stove concern you have paid for the stove in advance—it's yours—and it isn't always easy to get it back. The trouble and expense of taking it apart, crating it, and hauling it back to the depot is so great that it will many times prevent you from returning it.

'The Only Safe Way to Buy Stoves and Ranges'

Excess Freight in 'Mail-Order Stove Buying'

Those who buy single stoves and ranges by mail, risk paying the highest freight rate. We buy in carload lots. But whether you buy by mail or from us, you always pay the freight. The real price of a "mail-order" stove or range is the catalog price plus the freight. Just stick a pin in that statement, and save yourself the shock of an unexpected freight bill. Buy from us and all the money will go into stove value, for we save you all excess freight.

30 Days' Free Trial vs. Permanent Satisfaction

The "30 Days' Free Trial" proposition is the favorite method of some "mail-order" stove concerns to get people to buy stoves and ranges. But they gently but firmly insist that the purchaser pay in advance. Then they agree to take back the goods and refund your money at the end of the 30 days' free trial if the stove is not as represented. The idea is to get the stove in your possession. Not one man in a thousand will take the trouble to repack and reship an unsatisfactory stove and unwind the "red tape" that it takes to get his money back. Buy at home. We guarantee satisfaction, not merely for 30 days, but for the entire life of the stove.

Garland Stoves and Ranges Cash or Credit

We gladly extend credit to responsible and reliable people, without asking you to sign notes or requiring the endorsement of friends.

About Delayed Shipments

Another great advantage about buying stoves and ranges at home is that you can get immediate delivery. If you order from a "mail-order" stove concern, there is no telling how long it will be before the stove reaches you. Single shipments are subject to long delays and frequently go astray. The risk of delays, damage or loss in transit is unavoidable. Why assume that risk?

About Premiums Like Cheap Rocking Chairs

Some manufacturers are trying to push their stoves, even through dealers, by giving "free" rocking chairs or premiums with their stoves and ranges. It is reasonable to suppose that there is something lacking in a stove or range that cannot be sold on merit, but whose sale depends upon "premium" bait, such as rocking chairs, etc., etc. If the rocking chair is worth real money, the manufacturer or dealer would not be apt to give it away. If the stove or range is worth its price, it needs no premium to sell it. The man who expects to get something for nothing is only deceiving himself. When you get a premium with a stove the cost of the premium is invariably included in the price of the stove. Buy Garland Stoves and Ranges and get full value for every dollar. Don't be misled by alluring schemes. And to get highest values, dollar-for-dollar, be sure to see before you absolutely decide to buy any stove or range at any price or on any terms.

George was a director of the stock exchange and the directors of George as he gloomily entered the office. "At a loss?" "No, at a big profit. But not for an instant did I imagine that you or any other party would consider it because of the prospects." "Hang the prospects," shouted George. "I'm more than willing to sell for cash. Who's the party?" "A trust magnate who phones this morning and is waiting for an answer." "Helen," said George when he saw her that evening, "I sold my share in the flying machine company today." "You darling," laughed Helen, giving him a loving embrace. "Airships or no airships, you're the best ever. Did you lose much money?" "Oh, I came out all right and have more of real cold cash than I ever hoped to possess." "How grand. Let's go and tell father; he'll be delighted." Helen's father expressed great surprise at seeing his daughter so bright and cheerful again. "So the storm's all over," he said. "To prove how happy I am over your choice I will give you for a wedding present some bonds I directed my secretary to buy today." "Thanks, father; there certainly will be a strong bond between George and me." "These bonds," continued her father, "are called the P. F. M." "The P. F. M.?" interrupted George. "That stands for the Perfection Flying Machine. So you see, Helen, even though I did sell the stock it will still keep in the family."

Trouble for Tompkins.
The ever-gentle Tompkins was a little the worse for wear after the twenty-fifth anniversary dinner of his class, and as he stood waveringly on the sidewalk on the other side of the street from his own front steps his distress of mind became perfectly, if not painfully evident to Office Maginnis on patrol. "Why, Mr. Tompkins," said the officer, noticing Tompkins' troubled expression as he came upon him in the dim light of the corner lamp, "what seems to be the trouble?" "I do know, Maginnis," said Tompkins, scratching his head in perplexity. "But there's somethin' queer goin' on my front stoop. I've signalled to 'em fifty-two times already, as it went by, and the darned old contraction goes right on jus' as if it thought it was a trolley car." And he kindly officer waited until the stoop came around the fifty-third time and assisted Tompkins in getting aboard without interfering with the orderly progress of the block.—Harper's Weekly.

London the Greatest Market.
London is the world's greatest market for tea and ivory, said Mr. J. G. Broadbank of the Port Authority at the Society of Arts, a few days ago. Each year 120,000 tons of tea and the product of 20,000 elephants reached London. Forty million sheep's fleeces pass through the dock annually in one warehouse 100,000,000 cigars are stored, and is another 2,500,000 gallons of rum.
