SNAIL WALKS ON A RAZOR

Travels Unharmd Along the Edge of the Blade and Over Rough Glass.

"When photographing the snail," writes Prof. Ward in the Strand, "I was surprised at the fact that even the rough cut edge of a sheet of glass presented no difficulties to its locomotion; its even pace was continuous in spite of the fact that the sharp corner appeared to be penetrating its body. There, too, we have exhibited of the animal's delicate sense of touch, and this led me to make further experiment."

"After I had placed the snail on the butt of a razor's blade it slowly moved along the back of the blade, and then climbed completely over the sharp edge, the razor being in excellent condition. As the successive waves brought the fore part of its foot near the edge of the blade its head was held low down, and the lower and shorter pair of feelers nearly touched the blade, as if feeling the way."

"At the moment when the sharp edge was reached the small feelers were fully extended toward it, and just at the very instant when I expected to see them cut off they were both instantly retracted. They were little more than a hair breadth away, and though the lower feelers possess no eyes, yet by their sudden movement I was quite convinced that the snail at that instant recognized danger."

"Still the foot traveled on, and slowly the snail dragged its whole weight of exactly one and a half ounces over the edge, later moving toward the butt and remaining perfectly unharmd. The species experimented with was the Roman, or edible kind, which accounts for its comparatively large weight, it being the largest of British snails."

Rich "Catch" of Whales.

An exciting whale hunt took place in the upper reaches of Loch Erisort, Lewis, Scotland, the other week. A crew of fishermen sighted the school off the village of Habost, and after chasing them from side to side of the loch for a considerable time, they succeeded in driving them in as far as the rapids near the village of Balaitan. Here the whole township turned out, the young men in boats armed with all kinds of weapons. The boats formed a bridge almost across the loch, and amid a scene of great excitement, the whales were driven into the shallow waters at the head of the loch. The crews of the boats jumped into the water among the whales, and in a short time the whole school of 54 was secured. On the following day the work of cutting up began, every family in the village getting an equal share. The melting of the blubber into oil, which is highly prized by the wool spinners in the district, has since actively proceeded.

Gay Deceiver Brought to Book.

Eleven sorely deceived women marched into the Vienna lower criminal court recently to give evidence against a man who had promised the entire batch marriage, and had borrowed money to the extent of about $6,000 from them. The prisoner, Karl Hruby, 42 years of age, belonging to an itinerant band of musicians, smilingly acknowledged that he had been solemnly betrothed—almost equal to marriage in that country—to all the women. The judge asked which one he had intended to marry. He said that he had not thought of marrying any of them, as he had already one wife at home in his native place. The judge sentenced him to three and one-half years' imprisonment.

Blue Law in Connecticut.

In Connecticut some of the old laws framed by Puritans have been enforced within recent years. Not long ago a prominent manufacturer was summoned for kissing his wife in a tramcar. The complainant was an elderly spinster who was traveling in the car at the time the offense was committed, and deposed that the affectionate husband not only kissed his wife, but kept his arms round her waist during the whole of the journey. She pleaded that as this conduct occurred on a Sunday it was punishable under a seventeenth century statute. The judge concurred, and inflicted a fine of five dollars and costs.

It Wouldn't Work.

"I let my wife write out all the checks for our bills." "I tried that once, but it wouldn't work." "Why not?" "My wife complained that, after writing out the checks for one month's bills she didn't have the heart to run any more bills for the next month, so I had to take over the job again myself."

Travel by Mail.

"Going abroad again?" "No," replied the indolent citizen. "What's the use of bothering with railroads and hotels when your friends will send you post card pictures that look better than the actual scenery?"

Took Precautions.

Unskilled Shot (to game keeper)—"I'm awfully sorry I shot your dog." "Don't worry about that, sir. I left my best one at home in case of accidents."—Fleegande Blatter.

SAYS KNOX VISIT IS NOT DESIRED

Colombia Envoy Criticizes U. S. Action in Canal Zone.

HIS RECALL MAY BE ASKED

Note is Held to Be Insult and Breathing of Diplomatic Relations Between Two Countries May Result.

Washington.—The capital is aghast over the extraordinary action of Senor Pedro del Ospina, minister of Colombia to the United States, in making public a formal note he had sent to Acting Secretary of State Huntington Wilson saying the proposed visit of Secretary of State Knox to his country on the latter's projected southern trip, might be "inopportune."

The Colombian minister, first drawing attention to the fact that the views are his own, and not officially those of his government, seriously criticizes the United States for not submitting to arbitration the difference with Colombia growing out of this government's acquisition of the Panama canal zone.

Inasmuch as the letter admittedly is the personal expression of the minister, writing without having communicated with his government, it was received at the state department in the nature of a personal insult to this government.

No action has been taken and no official would comment in it, but the incident is known to have stirred officials of the United States to such an extent that the recall of the Colombian minister is expected as a matter of course. At present, however, the United States is disposed to wait until Senor Ospina receives the instructions he has asked for.

In diplomatic circles it was believed that Colombia, smarting under eight years of ineffectual attempts to obtain arbitration of the canal zone differences, would confirm the unofficial views of her accredited representative.

A more profound sensation is looked for, as it is believed that a termination of diplomatic relations between this country and Colombia is in prospect.

Acting Secretary Wilson had advised Senor Ospina of the probable itinerary of Secretary Knox. What is said to have particularly aroused the Colombian minister was a reference to the republic of Panama in the itinerary, a country whose independence Colombia never has recognized.

A tentative itinerary of Secretary Knox makes provision for a stop at Cartagena, Colombo, on March 25.

Senor Ospina was disposed to believe that his government would indicate to the United States that a visit from Secretary Knox would be untimely unless the secretary came prepared to promise an early arbitration of differences. He declared that his letter summed up the position of Colombia.

COULON RETAINS TITLE.

Bantam Champion in Twenty-Round Go at New Orleans.

New Orleans.—Easy rests the crown on Johnny Coulon's head. Making his third championship battle in less than a month the "biggest little man" in the prize ring fought rings around Frankie Burns of Jersey City, winning the verdict after 20 rounds of furious milling before the West Side A. C. The Chicagoan carried the fighting to Burns' corner at all stages of the battle, but on several occasions Frankie made the title-holder back up.

The fight was undoubtedly the greatest bantamweight championship contest in the history of the game. A crowd of over 8,000 fans yelled and raved as the splendid little boxers battled like madmen all the way.

Quits Pulpit to Raise Chickens.

Great Barrington, Mass.—Unable to make a satisfactory living in the pulpit, Rev. Hiram Spencer has resigned as pastor of the Congregational church here to devote his entire attention to chicken farming.

Boy's Eye Torn Out in Play.

Winona, Minn.—While Michael Kowalski, ten years old, was peering through a knot hole another lad poked a sharp stick through, tearing the eye from the socket. Total blindness is feared.

REFERENDUM LAWS OF OREGON HELD VALID

Supreme Court Says Only Congress Can Change Statutes—Case Bitterly Fought.

Washington.—By implication the United States Supreme court declared the initiative and referendum amendment to the Oregon constitution to be valid and the cause of direct legislation by the people won a decisive victory.

It refused to take jurisdiction of the test suits contesting validity of the legislation.

Many states in which agitation for direct legislation is before the people are affected by the decision. Oregon's courts have declared constitutional the initiative and referendum, in two cases heard.

Justice White delivered the opinion. "The issues are political and governmental, and not therefore within the reach of judicial power," he said. "It follows that the case presented is not within our jurisdiction, and the writ of error must therefore be and it is dismissed for want of jurisdiction."

Execution on the gallows annuls the criminal's life insurance policies, according to the Supreme court, which held that the four infant children of James S. McCue, once mayor of Charlottesville, Va., who was executed in 1905 for wife murder, were not entitled to $15,000 insurance money from the Northwestern Mutual Life of Milwaukee.

THUGS TERRORIZE NEW YORK.

Latest Exploit is the Daring Robbery of Diamond Merchant.

New York.—Recent robberies in crowded New York streets, of which the holdup of a taxicab and the robbery of two bank messengers of $25,000 was the most sensational, were followed by a holdup almost as spectacular.

George Horth, a dealer in diamonds, was robbed of a wallet containing $10,000 worth of diamonds by two men who jumped from a taxicab at Thirty-fifth street and Fifth avenue.

Horth was beaten over the head by one of the men while the other snatched the wallet from his inside coat pocket. The men then jumped into a taxicab, which disappeared in the maze of Fifth avenue traffic.

SPEEDING TRAIN GOES IN DITCH

Three Killed and 53 Injured in Wreck of Pennsylvania Flyer.

Huntington, Pa.—While running at a terrific speed the Pennsylvania limited, east-bound, plunged over a thirty-foot embankment at Warrior's Ridge, four miles west of here, killing two passengers and a negro matron and injuring fifty-three other persons.

The wreck was caused by a broken flange on a driving wheel of the second of the two locomotives that were pulling the train.

The cars in the wreck were all of solid steel construction, and in these the passengers were imprisoned like rats in a trap.

BAIL FOR GARDNER.

Senator Pleads Not Guilty to Conspiracy Charge.

New York.—Former State Senator Frank J. Gardner of race track legislation fame, who was arrested charged with conspiracy to gain control of the $500,000 estate of Samuel E. Haslett, an aged reclusive, occupant of Brooklyn's "House of Mystery," through a power of attorney which Haslett is alleged to have repudiated, was released on $3,000 bail after pleading "not guilty" to the charge.

JIM FISK JR.'S WIDOW DEAD.

Shooting in Gotham Hotel Forty Years Ago Recalled by Death.

Boston.—Mrs. Lucy D. Fisk, widow of James Fisk, Jr., who was shot more than forty years ago in a hotel in New York by Edward Stokes, as the climax of rivalry between the two men for the smiles and good will of the famous beauty, "Josie" Mansfield, died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Bowker, in South Boston, of pneumonia. She was seventy-six and had lived more than thirty years in South Boston.

LONE BANDIT ROBS SLEEPER.

Boards B. & O. Train in Mountains and Escapes With 250.

Baltimore, Md.—While the New York-St. Louis express west bound on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad was ascending the 17-mile grade Va., in the Allegheny mountains a masked man armed with two pistols jumped on one side of the sleeping cars and robbed the passengers of money and valuables.

He dropped off and escaped just before the train reached Altamont. It is said the robber obtained only $250.

Pinchot Switches to Roosevelt.

Washington.—Gifford Pinchot announced officially here that he intends to follow La Follette no longer, but will hereafter be found earnestly advocating the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt for president.

Wealthy Lawyer Commits Suicide.

New York.—In a fit of despondency brought on by domestic troubles, George Parsons, a wealthy young lawyer of this city, shot and killed himself at the residence of his mother here.

MINORITY REPORT HITS STEPHENSON

Five Senators Attack His Right to Senate Seat.

SAY CHARGES ARE PROVED

Declare the Evidence Showed Conclusively That Voters Were Paid to Be at Polls and Big Sums Spent.

Washington.—Five members of the senate committee which has been inquiring into the election of United States Senator Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin presented to the senate a minority report against Mr. Stephenson and brought the issue of his election squarely before that body. The declaration is made in the report that to give the senator a clear right to his seat is "to notify the world that we are careless as to whether seats in this body are to be bought and sold as so much merchandise to the man with the largest purse."

The case has been under investigation since last summer. A majority report of the investigating committee had been presented by Senator Heyburn. The minority report is signed by Senators Jones, Kenyon and Clapp, Republicans, and Lea and Kern, Democrats.

Referring to the fact that the senator, through his lieutenant, spent $107,793 in his campaign, and that candidates for the state legislature spent proportionately large sums, the report quotes from the majority report:

"Such expenditures were in violation of the fundamental principles underlying our system of government, which contemplated the selection of candidates by the electors and not the selection of electors by the candidates."

The minority report then proceeds: "We concur in this statement and it justifies us in opposing the conclusion of the majority. How a seat in the senate can be secured in violation of the fundamental principles underlying our system of government, with the evidence showing the use of such a large sum of money, and not be tainted by corrupt methods and practices we are unable to comprehend."

The report sets forth that the evidence showed conclusively that voters were paid to be at the polls, that extravagant sums for "entertainment" were expended, records and papers concerning the campaign were shifted from one place to another and original records were destroyed. "All this is admitted," says the report, "and we feel that we have a right to assume from these admitted facts and actions that corrupt methods and practices were used in connection with said primary election. To hold otherwise is to establish a precedent that would authorize an expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars to debauch the electorate to secure a seat in this body."

WOOS 30 YEARS, THEN WEDS.

Indiana Farmer Decides It's Time to "Pop Question"—Wins.

Noblesville, Ind.—Following a courtship of thirty years, during which the bridegroom called on the bride twice a week, with the exception of one month, when he had typhoid fever, James B. Sturdevant at last popped the question to Miss Anna Earl and they were married in this city. The bridegroom is forty-three and the bride thirty-six. They have been lovers since they were in school together. Sturdevant is a farmer and a heavy stockholder in several telephone companies in the county.

PARCELS POST TO HAVE REST

House Committee Votes for a Trial Beginning July 1 Next.

Washington.—A provision for a limited parcels post was inserted in the post office appropriation bill for the next fiscal year by an almost unanimous vote of the house committee on post office and post roads. Beginning July 1 next and until June 30, 1914, the bill provides for a limited parcels post, pending the investigation of the general parcels post question by a commission which is recommended and which would be expected to report to congress well within the two-year period.

TWO COLLEGE MEN DROWNED.

Cornell Students Fall into Crevasse in Ice on Lake Cayuga.

Ithaca, N. Y.—Two Cornell students, Perry A. Converse of Buffalo and Charles W. Getman of Richfield Springs, were drowned at King's ferry when they skated into a crevasse in the ice on Lake Cayuga. A companion, Rodney G. Newman, also fell into the fissure, but held onto the edge of the ice and finally pulled himself out.

Moving Pictures for Schools.

New York.—Free moving picture shows are to be established in at least 100 of the larger public school buildings here, if an urgent appropriation demanded by Superintendent Maxwell is approved by the board of education.

Foss Pardons 81 in Year.

Boston.—Governor Foss has broken all New England records for the use of the pardoning power, having released 81 prisoners to liberty during his year in office. His pardons include eleven murderers.

FIVE MURDERERS HANGED SAME DAY IN CHICAGO JAIL

Wholesale Execution for Slaying of Truck Farmer and Railway Clerk.

Chicago.—Five murderers were hanged in the Cook county jail, breaking all records for the number of men executed at one time in this county.

Among those executed was Thomas Jennings, a negro, the first slayer in criminal history ever arrested, convicted and executed on the evidence of his own finger prints. The others who suffered death were Frank and Ewald Shibliawski, Philip Sommerling and Thomas Schultz, convicted of slaying Fred W. Guelzow, Jr., a truck farmer. They kept up a bold front to the very day of death. They made showing of bravado and joked with their visitors.

All of the executions were concluded within an hour. Guelzow, who was a young truck gardener, was waylaid and murdered on a lonely road near Bowmanville, on the night of October 20, 1911, according to the confessions of his slayers.

Jennings, a negro burglar with a long criminal record, shot and killed Clarence J. Hiller, chief clerk of the Rock Island railway system, in an attempt to rob the victim's home, 1837 West One Hundred and Fourth street, September 19, 1910. Jennings was at liberty on his second parole from the state prison at Joliet at the time.

HAY ARMY BILL IS PASSED.

Measure Abolishes Five Regiments of Cavalry.

Washington.—The house passed the Hay army reorganization bill, carrying an appropriation of $86,853,757 and abolishing five regiments of cavalry, providing for five-year enlistments and the consolidation of adjutant generals, inspector generals and chief of staff officers into a general staff bureau. No roll call was taken, but a previous vote sending the bill to committee, which was lost by 116 to 182, is taken as the record vote.

When the measure came up before the house separate votes were called on the cavalry amendment and the five-year enlistment provision. The cavalry amendment was adopted by a vote of 166 to 112 and the five-year enlistment provision by a vote of 146 to 134.

FEAR BIG MINE STRIKE.

Impending Struggle in Great Britain Takes on Aspect of Revolt.

London.—Practically all of the miners' unions throughout Great Britain have sent formal notices to the coal mine owners notifying them that the men will quit work on March 1. Within twenty-four hours all of the 850,000 men and boys employed underground will have notified the employers of their intention to strike. In addition to the underground employes there are 200,000 surface workers, making a total of more than a million men who will quit work twelve days hence.

It is now admitted on all sides that little hope remains of averting what promises to be the most serious labor disturbance in British history. A coal owner calls it "a deliberate attempt to force a social revolution."

TRAIN HOLDUP IN INDIANA.

Bandits Said to Have Robbed Express Car After Overcoming Crew.

Effingham, Ill.—Train No. 11 of the Vandallia, west bound, was held up at Liggett, Ind., four miles west of Terre Haute.

One of the bandits climbed over the tender of the engine and without warning began shooting at the crew, knocking a cigar out of the engineer's mouth. The engineer jumped out of the cab and escaped. The fireman was compelled to aid the bandits in their work of robbing the express car.

A special train was sent out from Terre Haute with detectives and bloodhounds in response to a message from the operator at Liggett.

NEGRO IS MOB'S VICTIM

Black is Hanged and Body Used For Target.

Memphis, Tenn.—A mob near this city lynched an unidentified negro accused of having attacked a 16-year-old white girl. It is said the negro confessed in part. A rope was tied about his neck, he was dragged to a bridge across a branch of the Wolf river, hanged from the bridge and then the mob used his body for a pistol target.

AINSWORTH IS TO RETIRE.

General's Application for Relief From Duty Approved.

Washington.—Adj. Gen. Fred G. Ainsworth, who a few days ago was relieved from duty at the war department, has been notified that President Taft had approved his application for retirement, which means that there will be no court-martial on charges which were said to be pending against him.

Pugilist Dies of Injuries.

Chicago.—Joe Ketchel, a Chicago pugilist, died in the United States Training Station hospital at North Chicago as a result of injuries believed to have been suffered in a boxing contest in which he engaged with "Billy" Walters.

Celtic Arithmetic.

Into the general store of a town up in New York state there recently came a big, good-natured Irish woman, who wanted to be weighed. She stepped off the scales almost as soon as she had stepped on.

"Shure, these scales is no good!" was her disgusted comment. "They only weigh up to wan hundred, an' I weigh something like wan hundred and noineety pounds."

"'s easily discouraged ye are, Mrs. Casey," said a friend. "Just step onto them twict, me dear, and let Mickey here do the sum for ye."

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher In Use For Over 30 Years. Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

But Mamma Didn't.

Little Mabel was always tumbling down and getting hurt, but as soon as her mother kissed the bumped forehead Mabel would believe it cured and cease crying. One day she accompanied her mother to the Union depot, and while they were seated in the crowded waiting room an intoxicated man entered the door, tripped over a suitcase, and fell sprawling on the floor. The attention of every one was attracted to the incident, and in the sudden silence following the fall Mabel called out:

"Don't cry, man. Mamma 'll kiss oo, and 'en oo 'll be all right."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Plan for Tuberculosis Day.

Sermons on the prevention of consumption will be preached in thousands of churches on April 28, which the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis has set aside as Tuberculosis day. Last year out of 200,000 churches in the United States, over 50,000 observed Tuberculosis day, and millions of churchgoers were told about this disease from the pulpit. This year will be the third observation of Tuberculosis day. Plans are being made to have the gospel of health preached more widely than ever before. The movement will be pushed through the 600 anti-tuberculosis associations allied with the national association and through the boards of health, women's clubs and other organizations in hundreds of cities and towns throughout the country. Through these various bodies the churches will be reached and interested in the tuberculosis campaign.

Creature of Habit.

"Man," didactically began Professor Twigg, during a recent session of the Soc Et Tu Um club, "is a creature of habit."

"Eh-yah!" grunted Old Codger. "Tennyrate, my nephew, Canute J. Babson, seems to be. He has been run over by the same automobile twice. But then Canute always comes home down the same lane about the same hour in the evening, after he has partaken of about the same amount of hard cider."—Puck.

THE DOCTOR HABIT

And How She Overcame It.

When well selected food has helped the honest physician place his patient in sturdy health and free from the "doctor habit," it is a source of satisfaction to all parties. A Chicago woman says:

"We have not had a doctor in the house during all the 5 years that we have been using Grape-Nuts food. Before we began, however, we had the doctor habit, and scarcely a week went by without a call on our physician."

"When our youngest boy arrived, 5 years ago, I was very much run down and nervous, suffering from indigestion and almost continuous headaches. I was not able to attend to my ordinary domestic duties and was so nervous that I could scarcely control myself. Under advice I took to Grape-Nuts."

"I am now, and have been ever since we began to use Grape-Nuts food, able to do all my own work. The dyspepsia, headaches, nervousness and rheumatism which used to drive me fairly wild, have entirely disappeared."

"My husband finds that in the night work in which he is engaged, Grape-Nuts food supplies him the most wholesome, strengthening and satisfying lunch he ever took with him." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

THE GIRL FROM HIS TOWN

SYNOPSIS.

Dan Blair, the 22-year-old son of the fifty-million-dollar copper king of Blairtown, Mont., is a guest at the English home of Lady Galorey. Dan's father had been courteous to Lord Galorey during his visit to the United States and the company is now being returned to the young man. The youth has an ideal girl in his mind. He meets Lily, Duchess of Breakwater, a beautiful widow, who is attracted by his immense fortune and takes a liking to her. When Dan was a boy, a girl sang a solo at a church, and he had never forgotten her. The Galoreys, Lily and Dan attend a London theater where one Letty Lane is the star. Dan recognizes her as the girl from his town, and going behind the scenes introduces himself and she remembers him. He learns that Prince Pontolowsky is her suitor and escort to Letty. Lord Galorey and a friend named Ruggles determine to protect the westerner from Lily and other fortune hunters. Young Blair goes to see Lily; he can talk of nothing but Letty and this angers the Duchess. The westerner finds Letty ill from hard work, but she recovers and Ruggles and Dan invite her to supper. She asks Dan to build a home for disappointed theatrical people. Dan visits Lily, for the time forgetting Letty, and later announces his engagement to the duchess. Lily refuses to sign for an entertainment given by Lily.

CHAPTER XIV.—Continued.

On the threshold of her door he asked her to let him know when she would sing in Park Lane, and in touching her hand he repeated that she must count on him. With more tenderness in his blue eyes than he was himself aware, he murmured devotedly:

"Take care of yourself, won't you, please?"

As Blair passed from the sitting-room into the hall and toward the lift, Mrs. Higgins came out hurriedly from one of the rooms and joined him.

"How did you find her, Mr. Blair?"

"Awfully seedy, Mrs. Higgins; she needs a lot of care."

"She won't take it though," returned the woman. "Just seems to let herself go, not to mind a bit, especially these last weeks. I'm glad you came in; I've been hoping you would, sir."

"I'm not any good though, she won't listen to a word I say."

It seemed to surprise the dressing woman.

"I'm sorry to hear it, sir; I thought she would. She talks about you often."

He colored like a school-boy. "Gosh, it's a shame to have her kill herself for nothing." Reluctant to talk longer with Mrs. Higgins, he added in spite of himself: "She seems so lonely."

"It's two weeks now since that human devil went away," Mrs. Higgins said unexpectedly, looking quietly into the blue eyes of the visitor. "She hasn't opened one of his letters or his telegrams. She has sold every pin and brooch he ever gave her, scattered the money far and wide. You saw how she went on with Cohen, and her pearls."

Dan heard her as through a dream. Her words gave form and existence to a dreadful thing he had been trying to deny.

"Is she hard up now, Mrs. Higgins?" he asked softly. And glancing at him to see just how far she might go, the woman said:

"An actress who spends and lives as Miss Lane does is always hard up."

"Could you use money without her knowing about it?"

"Lord," exclaimed the woman, "it wouldn't be hard, sir! She only knows that there is such a thing as money when the bills come and she hasn't got a penny. Or when the poor come! She's got a heart of gold, sir, for everybody that is in need."

excuse to the duchess. At the opposite table Dan saw Prince Pontolowsky, writing as well. The Hungarian did not see Blair, and when he had finished his note he called a page boy and Dan could hear him send his letter up to Miss Lane's suite. The young westerner thought with confident exaltation, "Well, he'll get left all right, and I'm darned if I don't sit here and see him turned down!"

Dan sat on until the page returned and gave Pontolowsky a verbal message.

"Will you please come upstairs, sir?"

And Blair saw the Hungarian rise, adjust his eye-glass, and walk toward the lift.

CHAPTER XV.

Galorey Gives Advice.

Lord Galorey had long been used to seeing things go the way they would and should not, and his greatest effort had been attained on the day he gave his languid body the trouble to go in and see Ruggles.

"My God," he muttered as he watched Dan and the duchess on the terrace together—they were nevertheless undeniably a handsome pair—to think that this is the way I am returning old Blair's hospitality!" And he was dabbling to recall his western experiences, when in a shack in the mountains he had watched the big stars come out in the heavens and sat late with old Dan Blair, delighted with the simple philosophies and the man's high ideals.

"What the devil does it all mean?" he wondered. "She has simply seduced him, that's all."

He got Dan finally to himself and without any preparation began, pushing Dan back into a big leather chair, and standing up like a judge over him:

"Now, you really must listen to me, my dear chap. I shan't rest in my grave unless I get a word with you. Your father sent you here to me and I'm damned if I know what for. I've been wondering every day about it for two months. He didn't know what this set was like or how rotten it is."

"What set?" The boy looked appallingly young as Gordon stared down at him. There wasn't a line or wrinkle on his smooth brow or on his lips and forehead finely cut and well molded—but there were the very seals of what his father would have been glad to see. The boy had the same clear look and unspoiled frankness that had charmed Galorey at the first. He had been a lazy coward to delay so long.

"Why, the rottenness of this set right here in my house." And as the host began to see that he should have to approach a woman's name in speaking, he stopped short, his mouth wide open, and Dan thought he had been drinking.

"You are talking of marrying Lily," Gordon got out.

"I am going to marry her."

"You mustn't."

Blair got up out of his chair. It didn't need this attack of Galorey's to bring to his mind hints that had been dropped that Galorey was in love with the Duchess of Breakwater. It illuminated what Galorey was saying fast and incoherently.

"I mean to say, my dear chap, that you mustn't marry the Duchess of Breakwater. Look at most of these European marriages. They all go to smash. She is older than you are and she has lived her life. You are much too young."

"Hold up, Galorey; you mustn't go on, you know. You know I am engaged; that's all there is 'about it. Now, let's go and have a game of pool."

Galorey had not worked himself up to this pitch to break off now at a fatal point.

"I don't know," said the boy slowly. Then followed up with an honest, "Yes, I would."

Gordon caught eagerly, "Well, he sent you to me. Your friend Ruggles has gone off and washed his hands of you, but I can't."

Lord Galorey walked across the room briskly and came back to Dan. "First of all, you are not in love with Lily—not a bit of it. You couldn't be—and what's more she is not in love with you."

Blair laughed coolly. "You certainly have got things down to a fine point, Gordon. I'll be hanged if I understand your game."

Galorey went bravely on: "Therefore, if neither of you are in love, you understand that there is nothing between you but your money."

The Englishman got his point out brutally, relieved that the impersonal thing money opened a way for him. He didn't want to be the bouncer and the cad that the mention of the woman would have made him.

The boy drew in an angry breath. "Gosh," he said, "that cursed money will make me crazy yet! You are not very flattering to me, Gordon, I swear, and Lily wouldn't thank you for the motives you impute to her."

"Oh, rot!" returned Gordon more tranquilly. "She hasn't got a human sentiment in her. She's a rock with a woman's face."

Dan turned his back on his host and walked off into the billiard-room. Galorey promptly followed him, took down a cue, and chalked it, and said: "Well, come now; let's put it to the test."

Blair began stacking the balls.

"How do you mean?"

"Well, when you have had time to get your first news over from Ruggles,

"And What's More, She's Not in Love With You."

tell her you have gone to smash and that you are a pauper."

"I don't play tricks like that," said the westerner quietly.

"No," responded Galorey bitterly, "you let others play tricks on you."

The young man threw his cue smartly down, his youth looked contentedly at the worldly man, and he turned pale, but he said in a low voice:

"Now, you've got to let up on this, Gordon; I thought at first you had been drinking. I won't listen. Let's get on another subject, or I'll clear out."

Galorey, however, cool and pitiful of the tangle in the boy's affairs, wouldn't let himself be angry. "You are my old chum's boy, Dan," he went on, "and I'm not going to stand by and see you spoil your life in silence. You are of age. You can go to the devil if you like, but you can't go there under my roof, without a word from me."

"Then I'll get out from under your roof, tonight."

"Right! I don't blame you there, but, before you go, tell Lily you have lost your money, and see what she is made of. My dear chap"—he changed his tone to one of affection—"don't be an ape; listen to me, for your father's sake; remember your whole life's happiness is in this game. Isn't it worth looking after?"

"Not at the risk of hurting a woman's feelings," said the boy.

Queensland Pearl Divers.

The Queensland diver gets into his dress at daybreak, steps onto the ladder over the side, and fastens the life line round him; the tender screws on the face glass, the pumps are started, and down goes the diver to look for shells. If he is on ground where shells are plentiful he fills his bag, then allows his dress to fill with air, which brings him to the surface, when he is hauled to the boat by the life line. He empties his bag onto the deck and goes down for another bagful. Some of the divers occasionally work in 25 fathoms.

The greatest danger with which the diver has to contend is paralysis, and knowing the danger he runs he sometimes demands $1,000 in advance, and this amount is sometimes lost to the pearl through the seal and daring of the diver.

$10,000,000 FIRE IN DALLAS, TEXAS

SEVENTY-FIVE SQUARES OF HOMES AND FACTORIES WIPE OUT.

HALF-CLAD OCCUPANTS RUSH FROM HOMES.

Flames Finally Checked at Bayou; Heaviest Loss in Cotton; Hundreds of Homes Burned.

At least 25 squares in the residence district have been destroyed by a fire that broke out in Dallas, Tex., after midnight.

About 2,500 persons are homeless. Underwriters estimate the loss at between $6,000,000 and $10,000,000.

Starting at midnight among cottages near the Southern Pacific R. R. tracks, the fire was impelled by a fierce wind, and leaped from house to house in a population district while firemen worked without effect.

The heaviest single classification of loss is involved in cotton. The estimate at 9 o'clock on cotton compresses and the stored staple reaches $2,000,000.

Boarding houses where hundreds of workmen lived were burned. The fire spread so rapidly that firemen for the time abandoned attempts to check the flames, instead devoting their energies to warning householders. Possible loss of life was thus avoided.

At the big manufacturing plants and cotton compresses city firemen and volunteers had organized to fight the onrushing flames. Walls and roofs of the plants were water-soaked. This water was licked up in the flash of an eye by the advance guard of flames and when the great columns of flames reached the factories they succumbed as easily and with less resistance than the cottages.

An hour after the flames began their irresistible advance the firemen organized for a final stand at Buffalo Bayou, a small stream that divides the eastern part of the city from the main section. Every piece of fire fighting apparatus was stationed along the banks of this stream, which, if passed by the fire, meant the destruction of the entire city.

As the advancing columns of fire began to hiss toward the bayou banks hundreds of streams of water were hurled into them, checking, little by little, their progress. At some of the narrower portions of the stream the flames leaped across, but the more substantial buildings they reached did not afford the tinder-like fuel heretofore encountered. The fire was checked.

Thousands of persons were driven from their homes. In the cold of the norther they suffered slightly from exposure. Relief work was immediately set under way, however, and food and clothing provided for the refugees.

Many persons were hurt during the fight, but so far as can be determined, there were no casualties.

The burned area is at least a mile and a half long and at points a quarter of a mile wide. The burned area embraces long rows of cottages and solid streets of manufacturing plants. It was swept clean by the flames. Nothing was saved.

China Will Cut Down on Opium.

China is assured of an early abolition of the Indo-Chinese opium traffic and the prohibition of the importation of morphine or cocaine except for medical use, by the terms of the convention between the powers represented at the international opium conference at The Hague.

The United States, Cuba, France, Germany, Great Britain, Holland, Italy, Japan, Persia, Russia and Siam have signed the convention, and all other civilized powers not represented at the conference will be urged to do so.

The subscribing powers agree to limit the number of ports where prepared opium may be exported, and the powers agree to control the manufacture. Traffic in raw opium will be limited to authorized persons.

Define Evidence in Dynamite Cases.

Three kinds of evidence, it has been learned, are being prepared by the government for its prosecution of the 54 men indicted in the dynamite conspiracy.

The evidence chiefly is: About 40,000 letters and telegrams taken from the headquarters here of the ironworkers' union. Stenographic records of the dictagraph which the government had connected with Ryan's headquarters for more than three months and through which it is asserted conversations of the ironworkers' officials about the dynamite conspiracy were overheard and transcribed, and Ortie McManis's confession.

Senator Bryan, of Florida, whom Speaker Clark's boomers have been claiming, is out for Woodrow Wilson. Efforts will be made by city officials to police the city of Lawrence, Mass., with the local officers, thus relieving the state militia of that work.

George G. Thomson, of Detroit, superintendent of rural mails, was appointed chief clerk of the postoffice department, Washington, at a salary of $4,000 a year, in succession to Theodore L. Weed, recently named by Postmaster-General Hitchcock as director of the postal savings system.

REBELLION IS GAINING

Rebels Are Causing Trouble for President Madero.

Emilio Vasquez Gomez's frank public declaration that he will accept the provisional presidency of Mexico in case the rebels succeed in forcing Francisco I. Madero from the national palace has gone far toward convincing unofficial residents of the capital that a general rebellion is in progress, Mexico officials, however, continue to characterize as local disorders every insurrection in the country.

Although rebels now are operating in eighteen states, the department of interior continues to give out news denying trouble in a great part of these.

Dictograph in Office of Iron Workers.

The fact that for weeks the government has had a dictograph in the office of the international headquarters of the Bridge and Structural Ironworkers' union in Indianapolis, has just been made known. Conversations of counsel, President Ryan and of other members of the union and their friends, both preceding and following the indictments and arrests, have been heard over the instrument.

Virgo von Holstein Rathlou, who with his wife, is in jail at Colorado Springs awaiting trial on a charge of larceny as bailed, has been positively identified as the son of Baron C. F. E. von Holstein Rathlou, of Rathlousdal, Odder, Denmark, by Oscar Hede-man, an old schoolmate.

TEN YEARS OF SUFFERING

Restored at Last to Perfect Health by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Narcissa Waggoner, Carterville, Ill., says: "Over ten years I suffered terribly with backache, headache, nervousness and dizziness. The kidney secretions were unnatural and gave me great trouble. One day I suddenly fell to the floor, where I lay for a long time unconscious. Three doctors who treated me, diagnosed my case as paralysis, and said they could do nothing for me, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and was permanently cured. I am stronger than before in years."

He—Ah! Genevieve, when I look at the immense expanse of boundless ocean, it actually makes me feel small!

Subject for the Minister.

According to reports gathered by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, practically 10 per cent. of all deaths in church congregations are caused by tuberculosis. In a study of 312,000 which there were 7,000 deaths in 1910, communicants of 725 churches in the death rate among these church-members was found to be 2.24 for every thousand communicants. This is higher than the rate for the registration area of the United States, which was 1.60 in 1910.

"While these statistics," says the national association, "are not comparable from the point of view of accuracy with those of the bureau of census, sufficient credence may be given to them to indicate that one of the most serious problems of the ordinary church has to consider is that of the devastation of its membership by tuberculosis. Every minister in the United States should give this subject some attention during the week preceding or that following April 25, Tuberculosis day."

Man and His Happiness.

"Man is the creator of his own happiness; it is the aroma of a life lived in harmony with high ideals. For what a man has, he may be dependent on others; what he is, rests with him alone. What he obtains in life is but acquisition; what he attains, is growth. Happiness is the soul's joy in the possession of the intangible."—From Self-Control, by William George Jordan.

Too Far or Business.

"I see King George's uncle is in New York."

"H'm! That's bad for George."

"Why so?"

"What will he do if he has occasion to go and see his uncle?"

Only to find our duty certainly, and somewhere, somehow, to do it faithfully, makes us good, strong, happy, and useful men.—Phillips Brooks.

Resolutions.

Whereas, It has seemed best to our Heavenly Father to call from our midst Sisters Elizabeth Tuttle and Antoinette Hurd, we can but feel that our loss is their gain. Though we mourn them, yet the thought of there being no more pain, neither any more sorrow for them, makes plain the infinite wisdom of Him who calls for us. As charter members of Plymouth Grange they were always loyal to its principles and faithful to its precepts, even though for some time they have been physically unable to attend. Therefore, be it Resolved, That we show our respect by drawing our charter for sixty days and otherwise show that we cherish their memory. Also that a copy of the resolution be sent to the bereaved husband and niece, with the sincere sympathy of the Grange.

Mrs. John Root, Mrs. Joe Bradner, Mr. Charles Bradner.

OBITUARY

Thomas Patterson was born in Belfast, Ireland, July 2, 1834. He came to Livonia, Mich., when a boy of 12 years. He was married to Irene Whipple of Plymouth in 1859. All of his farm life, but five years, was spent in Livonia, from which place he removed to this village 22 years ago. For the greater part of 18 years he was a nearly helpless invalid, being crippled by rheumatism.

He passed away at his late residence on Main street February 15. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon, interment being in Riverside cemetery.

He leaves a widow and three children, Mrs. John Henderson, Mrs. Frank Durfee and John Patterson. The oldest daughter, Mrs. J. H. Loomis, passed away 12 years ago.

Elizabeth G. Smith was born Feb'y 9, 1839, in the township of Canton, where she lived until Oct. 13, 1880, when she was married to Henry W. Tuttle and went to live on a farm at Newburg, coming to Plymouth in 1888, where she resided until Feb'y 13, 1912, when, leaving a husband, three step-children and a brother to mourn her loss, she passed from a life of quiet, conscientious usefulness in home, in society and in the Grange, of which she was a charter member in good standing, to her reward in a better life. She was a pattern wife, mother and sister--none better. She was buried with funeral service of the order that she had served so long and faithfully, Rev. Lee S. McCollister officiating.

Everybody remembers Charley Butterfield, now located at Medford, Oregon. Charley writes The Mail: "In-closure herewith $1.00 for subscription to The Mail, which we are very glad to receive each week. I notice your very progressive boosters had a meeting with seven present at the meeting where a committee was to render a report that should call for a good attendance. We have a meeting here every month and at the last one there were 97 present and nothing of unusual importance to come up. If there was a possibility of getting factory to locate here, I think we could get 500 out if necessary to boost it along. Quite a little activity in the mining business here at present and we look for a good year in all lines."

A car with eight passengers, four ladies and 4 gentlemen, became stalled in the snow near the old Henry Spinger farm, Wednesday evening about 7:30 and remained there all night, the passengers making themselves as comfortable as possible under the circumstances, there being plenty of fuel but no eatables on board. A farmer was hired yesterday morning to bring the people to the village, there being no immediate indications that the car would be able to proceed soon.

The Rita Players at the Opera House

There was sufficient energy and thrills injected into the startling melodrama given at the Opera House Tuesday night by The Rita Players to satisfy the writer of the ordinary play for a half dozen productions. More for the money is given by this company than any similar organization that has ever visited Plymouth. The acting members in the cast were all up to the standard of the play itself. The company will appear every night this week with an entire change of bill nightly, in vaudeville as well as melodrama. Little Lord Fautleroy is to be given Friday night and Saturday or the last night, will be seen the greatest of all rural comedy dramas, Denman Thompson's "Old Homestead," or "Uncle Josh Whitcomb."

Our Wasted Seaweed Resources

In these days when so much is said about the conservation of our natural resources and the utilization of products that are neglected and wasted, it is strange that no account is taken of the marine forests and gardens that fringe our sea coast. Yet, since seaweeds are the only vegetation found over three-fourths of the superficial area of the earth, it must be obvious that their place in the economy of nature must be far from being insignificant. In their native element the most important function of these seaweeds is the same as that performed by ordinary forms of vegetation on land—that of rendering animal life possible. They take the elements existing in water as impurities and transform them into materials essential to animal life. It is evident, therefore, that the seaweeds are not quite as useless as they are supposed to be.

Along the coast of New England, the British Isles and western Europe they are used as fertilizers. In many countries they are fed to swine and cattle. In Holland they have been employed

In the building of dykes. Sometimes they are used to stuff mattresses, cushions and upholstered furniture. Experiments have been carried on to use them as a substitute for wood pulp in the manufacture of paper. But the Japanese have attained the climax of utility in the employment of the seaweeds. In the bay of Tokyo 2,500 acres are planted every year with the red laver, a sea plant, which is transformed into a dried and toasted powder which is of highly nutritious value, being rich in proteids. These weeds are planted in a very curious manner. In October and November bundles of bamboo or brush are prepared and taken to the grounds in boats at low tide. Deep holes are made in the muddy bed of the bay by thrusting down through the water an elongated conical wooden frame with two long upright wooden handles. Into each of these holes is placed one of these brush bundles, forming long rows that project above the water. The brushes afford a lodging place for the spores of the red laver and they become attached to the twigs and develop within three or four months into plants which are fit to be harvested. They are then cut, dried, pressed, toasted and ground into a powder. This red laver grows abundantly along the coasts of the United States.

Of greater importance than this is the manufacture of a seaweed isinglass which is exported from Japan to all the countries of the world. There are not less than 500 establishments in Japan which are making this isinglass. It is prepared from seaweeds of the genus Gelidium. They are boiled, strained and filtered in order to separate the gelatine from the other materials. The ready product is white, shiny and semi-transparent and is used in making jellies, soups, sauces and to purify the wine of the natives, which is made from rice and is called "sake". In the United States it is chiefly employed in food preparations where gelatine is required. It is also used for the sizing of textiles, the stiffening of the warp of silk, the clarifying of wines, beer and coffee, the making of molds in the manufacture of paper. In all civilized countries the Japanese gelatine, under the name of agar-agar, is used exclusively as the culture medium in bacteriological work. Large shipments of this gelatine are also sent to the schnapps factories in Holland.

The most abundant of all seaweeds are the kelps, distributed along every coast line. From these the Japanese prepare "kombu," which enters into the dietary of every family in Japan. It is used as a vegetable, cooked with soups, fish and meats, it is also made into confections and beverages.

Iodine has been manufactured from kelps for many years, but the price has been so reduced by the working of the filtrate fields of Peru that its manufacture from kelps in the United States can be made attractive and profitable only by utilizing tion of the by-products such as chloride of potash, algin, cellulose, dextrin, mannite and other salts, including sodium alginate.

The United States, however, has one seaweed industry of commercial importance in Irish moss, a form of alga that grows abundantly along the Atlantic coast, particularly north of Cape Cod. The center of the industry is at Scituate, Mass., where it has been exploited for over three-quarters of a century. The average annual output at present is about 800,000 pounds, valued at $25,000. It is used chiefly for making blanc mange, and is also employed in making cough remedies, jellies and puddings. It is also used for clarifying beer and in sizing fabrics.

In Roman times an alkaline dye was prepared from seaweed, probably from fucus vesiculosus, the common bladderwrack. The "seaweed pictures" sold at watering places almost invariably contain a large proportion of the dried external skeletons of plant-like animals, such as the sea-mats (Suastra) and sea-firs (Sertularia).

Between twenty and fifty fathom seaweeds are rare, beyond that depth their occurrence is exceptional. The principal natural means of distribution are, of course, ocean currents; but man counts for something, inasmuch as species are brought from port to port on the bottom of ships. Among the chief barriers must be reckoned stretches of deep sea, coast deserts of sand and mud, and the irruption of fresh water lowering the salinity of the neighboring tidal water. Probably the oldest seaweed known is one of siphonous structure, described as from the Devonian rocks.

Besides being used in the manufacture of iodine, the coarse brown seaweeds are also collected for manure, and the wrack or wrack harvest, or cutting of these weeds in the Channel Islands, forms an important part of the farmer's work at certain times of the year. Laver, prepared from a species of porphyra, is valued as a delicate condiment in the west of England, and a similar preparation from ulva latissima is known as green laver. Dulse (rhodymenia palmata) and tangles (the young stalks of laminaria digitata and L. saccharina) have been used for food in times of scarcity, but must be difficult of digestion. The last named species yield mannite. Among the best known forms of green seaweeds are the tubular enteromorpha, or pipe-weed; the branched cladophora; ulva, or sea lettuce, with flat spreading fronds; the feathery bryopsis, like a miniature palm tree; and the button-like codium, or sea pursue.

The brown seaweeds are arranged in three groups—phaeosporeae, fucaceae and dictyotaceae—according to their mode of reproduction. In all there are about 170 genera, chiefly from the colder seas, and varying in size from the minute eucarpus growing on species of fucus to the gigantic macrocystis and lessonia of the Antarctic. The floating thallus of the former may reach a length of a thousand feet, and the branching tree-stalk of the latter is several yards high, and as thick as a man's arm. Sargassum, or gulf-weed, is included here. These belong to the first group, in which a sexual reproduction is effected by swarm-spores; sexual reproduction also takes place by the conjugation of cells, usually differing from swarm-spores only by their fusion. Here also belong the tangles (laminaria), with fronds borne on a stalk that shows some advance in structure. In the fucaceae, of which the bladderwrack (fucus), sea-oak (haldryra), and sea-thongs (hymanthalia) are common examples, the female cells are non-motile, and the male cells free-swimming; a sexual reproduction does not occur. The common Dictyota dichotoma and the rarer peacock weed (padina pavonia) may well represent the third group. A sexual reproduction is effected by non-motile spores; the male and the female cells are also non-motile. A single cell is produced in, and ejected from, the female organ; the male cells do not bear cilia. According to Strasburger the process of fertilization has not been observed. The third group contains nearly 300 genera, mostly from temperate and tropical seas.

The vast harvest of the sea, as represented by the algae that grow to maturity and then decay along our extended coast lines and are wasted, is capable of adding tens of millions to the wealth of the nation, of supporting numerous industries that would give permanent employment to many thousands of people, and of relieving American manufacturers from dependence upon foreign sources of supply for chemicals and other materials used in various arts and industries.

BOATMAN HAD HIS OWN IDEAS

Absence of Expected "Tip" Brought Out Excellent Sample of Real Irish Wit.

A good story of Irish repartee has been published concerning John Bright. He was always ready for salmon fishing, and on several occasions went to Ireland with Mr. George Peabody, the American philanthropist. One day Mr. Bright, noticing a policeman on the bank, inquired of him what sum the boatmen were entitled to ask for rowing up the Shannon on a day's fishing. He said that from seven shillings and sixpence to ten shillings was the usual payment.

Mr. Bright said to Mr. Peabody, "Have you three half-crowns? I have no change."

Mr. Peabody produced the money and gave it to the boatman. He was dissatisfied, and said: "And is that all ye're giving me?" "That's all," replied Mr. Peabody. "Well, that bates all I ever heard." answered the boatman. "An' they call ye Paybody. Faith, I should call ye Pay-nobody!"

WHAT HE WAS DOING.

"Did you fall, my son?" "Naw! 'Course I didn't! I'm jest takin' a mud bath by me doctor's orders!"

LAWYER CURED OF ECZEMA

"While attending school at Lebanon, Ohio, in 1882, I became afflicted with boils, which lasted for about two years, when the affliction assumed the form of an eczema on my face, the lower part of my face being inflamed most of the time. There would be water-blister rise up and open, and wherever the water would touch it would burn, and cause another one to rise. After the blister would open, the place would scab over, and would burn and itch so as to be almost unbearable at times. In this way the sores would spread from one place to another, back and forth over the whole of my upper lip and chin, and at times the whole lower part of my face would be a solid sore. This condition continued for four or five years, without getting any better, and in fact got worse all the time, so much so that my wife became alarmed lest it prove fatal.

"During all this time of boils and eczema, I doctored with the best physicians of this part of the country, but to no avail. Finally I decided to try Cuticura Remedies, which I did, taking the Cuticura Resolvent, applying the Cuticura Ointment to the sores, and using the Cuticura Soap for washing. In a very short time I began to notice improvement, and continued to use the Cuticura Remedies until I was well again, and have not had a recurrence of the trouble since, which is over twenty years. I have recommended Cuticura Remedies to others ever since, and have great faith in them as remedies for skin diseases." (Signed) A. C. Brandon, Attorney-at-Law, Greenville, O., Jan. 17, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Mean People. Henry Russell, the head of the Boston opera, was describing his foreign tour in search of talent.

"They were mean people," he said of the singers of a certain city. "I could do no business with them. They thought only of money."

Mr. Russell smiled.

"They were as bad as the man who discovered the Blank theater fire."

"The first intimation the box office had of this fire came, at the end of the third act, from a fat man who bounded down the gallery stairs, stuck his face in at the ticket window and shouted breathlessly: "Theater's afire! Gimme me money back!"

His Magic Wand Not Waved

Money King Apparently Asked Leading Question Only as a Matter of Information.

John D. Rockefeller has a lot of fun out of his money. Of late years he has chosen as his friends several young newspaper writers, and one day, playing a game of golf with a reporter, he let out this bow:

"I enjoy being with young men so much that I wish I could send these society more freely, but it is a hard thing for me to do. You see, I want people to begin to like them, and just when I do that they hit me in the back with a contribution box."

The young man signed with the millionaire that such a practice was discouraging, not to say disgusting.

appalling and frightful. This cheered Rockefeller immensely.

"By the way," said the oil magnate graciously, "how are you getting on financially?"

The reporter immediately had a vision of tumbling into a pile of money, but he was too crafty to give any sign of his elation.

"Oh," he said airily. "I'm doing about as well as a man of my age could expect."

Then Mr. Rockefeller, without cracking a smile, resumed the game—Popular Magazine.

Why Price of Coffee Soars

Growers Have Quit Raising the Bean and Have Turned to Cultivation of Rubber.

Motor cars are partly to blame for the higher price of coffee. One may not be able to own a motor car, but because of them one may soon be too poor to have a cup of Rio for breakfast.

Coffee growers have quit raising coffee and are cultivating rubber, the Los Angeles Examiner says. The motor car has boomed the rubber market until there is big money in producing the raw material, while the price of coffee for 15 years has been so low that there was little or no money in it.

That is the explanation: the coffee brokers give of the sudden advance in the price of the bean without which an American breakfast is a tasteless thing.

There has been some talk of a shortage in the supply of raw rubber, but according to consular reports the seringa rubber district in the Amazon valley in South America would be sufficient by itself to supply the growing needs of the world's consumption if it could be worked economically, which is only possible with a far greater population than that at present available and better means of transport.

At present, except in the Aere, seringa rubber has practically only been touched to a distance of about six miles on each side of rivers navigable by some sort of craft.

It must be awfully unbooby to walk under thirteen inches.

HAPPENINGS IN THE CITIES

"Social Queen" Found to Be Butcher

WHEELING, W. VA.—A bundle of blood-stained butchers' aprons, an electric washing machine, a "bridge" party and a bucket of water have started a domestic and industrial warfare here in which are involved Thomas Yingling, millionaire wholesale meat dealer, and his wife, would-be social dictator.

It is because of them that Mrs. Yingling has resigned her efforts to dictate to Wheeling society and has announced her intention of spending a million which she possesses in her own right to put her husband "out of business."

Meantime both wife and husband continue to reside in the mansion which was the scene of the affair which led up to their separation. Both say they will remain there and that the campaign they will wage against each other will be conducted from the same headquarters.

The story of the split between the Yinglings will be told here for years.

Mrs. Yingling has long aspired to social leadership, and was partly successful. She had planned a series of receptions and dances for this winter and informed her husband he must do his evening clothes and help her entertain.

He did not approve, and Mrs. Yingling started to do the entertaining herself.

The first affair she planned was a party for the Euterpe club. An elaborate musical program was given, attended by most of Wheeling's elect. This over, the guests sat down to bridge.

Then Mr. Yingling appeared in his shirt sleeves. He carried a washing machine in one hand and in the other a basket of dirty clothes, among them a number of blood stained butchers' aprons. That was a shock. The guests thought that perhaps some novel feature had been provided for their entertainment.

But they were mistaken.

Mr. Yingling calmly attached the washing machine to an electric chandelier, carried in a bucketful of water, and began to wash the dirty clothes. The guests screamed and departed.

The result was her announcement that she intended to become a business rival of her husband.

MICHIGAN NEWS TERSELY TOLD

Perry.—Earl Meyers, a farm hand working for Bert Kenyon, four miles southeast of here, was bound, gagged and robbed while the family were away at a social. Mr. Meyers sat dozing in his chair and hearing a noise turned around and saw two middle-aged men in the room. He sprang at one and knocked him down, but before he could strike the other, he was knocked senseless. The two men bound and gagged him, then proceeded to take his watch, chain and money, about $20. The house was ransacked. When the members of the family returned Mr. Meyers was on the couch with a handkerchief saturated with chloroform tied over his head and a quilt fastened over all. It took the rest of the night for physicians to bring him back to consciousness.

Ypsilanti.—Miles Lafin, who resides 4 1/2 miles south of this city, has mysteriously disappeared. He attended the Lowden school No. 9, in Augusta township and left there during recess, telling his companions that he was going over to another of his father's farms to look after some traps he had set. He wore high-cut shoes and overboots, brown overalls, a gray overcoat and a red stocking cap. His parents and others telephoned all around to neighbors and relatives, but failed to get any trace of the boy.

Pontiac.—Patrolman West of this city surprised a burglar attempting to gain entrance to the hardware store of Gaulkier & Barker on South Saginaw street. The officer was shot in the forehead by the feeling burglar. The bullet glanced and tore a hole through the officer's cap. He was knocked down, but quickly regaining his feet fired three shots, none of which took effect. The man fled out of the alley and down Auburn avenue, but no trace of him could be found. The bullet merely grazed the officer's head.

Ann Arbor.—Miss Mary Ethelwine Robinson, a sophomore literary student, was injured in a bobbed collision while coasting on Felch street hill. While her injuries are not considered serious, they are very painful. She was coasting down on one bob which overtook a smaller one stalled in the second hill. A girl who was steering turned out too late. Miss Robinson's left leg being caught between the two bobs.

Pontiac.—Albert E. Harling, industrial gas expert for Hodepnyl, Hardy & Co., was almost instantly killed here by an explosion of oxygen gas at the plant of the Michigan Rensing company at Whittemore and Perkins street. Charles A. Nesbitt, proprietor of the refining plant, was cut and bruised by the force of the explosion, but not dangerously injured.

Kalamazoo.—Mrs. Hartney A. Bennett, a prominent resident of this city, died suddenly. Mrs. Bennett had been in ill health for the last few weeks, but her death caused surprise. Her husband is one of the best known business men of the city.

Shelby.—Joseph Shessie was struck and instantly killed while using the railroad tracks as a highway. He was very deaf and failed to hear an approaching freight train. It is not believed that the train crew is in any way to blame.

Kalamazoo.—Dr. Milton Westbrook, for forty years one of the best known physicians of Kalamazoo, who for the last six years has been a resident of Chicago, died there.

Saginaw.—W. D. Trump, general superintendent of the Pere Marquette railroad, issued a signed statement in answer to the protest of the attorney general of Michigan, denying the charges that the railroad was financially unsound and that transportation and traffic conditions were "intolerable." Mr. Trump declared the road's bonded indebtedness per mile is less than any other road operating in Michigan except one. He also denied the charge that the road has expended but little money in making improvements in the Saginaw territory and other parts of Michigan.

Alto.—Nine cars of a west-bound Pere Marquette freight train went into a ditch here, the accident being due to a broken rail. No one was hurt. The locomotive and tender passed the broken rail in safety, but nine cars of the train rolled into an eight-foot ditch. Traffic was delayed several hours.

Muskegon.—Ellis Ferguson, fifty, engineer in the Stewart Hartshorn plant, froze to death. He was found lying on the sidewalk in Pine street and died shortly after being carried into police headquarters.

Vassar.—While eating breakfast with his sister-in-law, Mrs. William Hubert, William Havens, suddenly left the table and going into the woodshed, shot himself in the right temple with a 32-caliber revolver. Mrs. Hubert summoned assistance but Havens died without recovering consciousness. Havens was a widower and resided with his daughter, Jennie Cornell, in Delray, Detroit. He visited a local undertaking establishment and selected a coffin he wished to be buried in when he died. He bought the revolver the same day.

FLAX GROWING IS PROFITABLE

WESTERN CANADA FARMERS BECOMING RICH IN ITS PRODUCTION.

So much has been written regarding the great amount of money made out of growing wheat in the prairie provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, Western Canada, that many other products of the farms are overlooked. These provinces will always grow large areas of wheat—both spring and winter—and the yields will continue to be large, and the general average greater than in any other portion of the continent. Twenty, thirty, forty, and as high as fifty bushels per acre of wheat to the acre—yields unusual in other parts of the wheat growing portions of the continent—have attracted world-wide attention, but what of oats, which yield forty, fifty and as high as one hundred and ten bushels per acre and carry off the world's prize, which, by the way, was also won by wheat raised in Saskatchewan during last November at the New York Land Show. And then, there is the barley, with its big yields, and its excellent samples. Another money-maker, and a big one is flax. The growing of flax is extensively carried on in Western Canada. The writer has before him a circular issued by a prominent farmer at Saskatoon. The circular deals with the treatment of seed flax, the seeding and harvesting, and attributes yields of less than 20 bushels per acre, to later seeding, imperfect and illy-prepared seed. He sowed twenty-five pounds of seed per acre and had a yield of twenty-nine bushels per acre. This will probably dispose of at $2.50 per acre. Speaking of proper preparation of seed and cultivation of soil and opportune sowing, in the circular spoken of there is cited the case of a Mr. White, living fourteen miles south of Rosetown, "who had fifteen acres of summer fallow a year ago last summer, upon which he produced thirty-three bushels to the acre, when many in the district harvested for want of crop. Now, there can be no proper reason advanced why such a crop should not have been produced on all the lands of the same quality in the adjacent district, provided they had been worked and cared for in the same manner. This year (1911) the same man had one hundred acres of summer fallow, had something over 3,800 bushels of wheat. He also had 1,800 bushels of oats and 300 bushels of flax."

There are the cattle, the horses, the roots and the vegetable products of Western Canada farms, all of which individually and collectively deserve special mention, and they are treated of in the literature sent out on application by the Government agents.

Police Chief Escapes from Own Prison

ALBANY.—Tucked away among the hills in the northern part of Westchester county, the little town of Hillside, with its 100 voters, the smallest incorporated village in the state, is excided with a criminal and political sensation that would delight the soul of the late Sir William S. Gilbert of comic opera fame.

Political activity in Hillside goes by inverse ratio to the town's size. Leaders of the opposing factions are Hewson Stephenson, chief of police when he is not doing odd jobs of painting, and the police justice, William Stage.

as a secretary of what he knew at a glance was a caucus of his political enemies.

Stephenson was making his usual tour of duty the other night when he spied a shaft of light through the closed shutters of the room above Henry Fry's saloon.

"Have you a warrant to serve?" coldly inquired Mr. Stage, the justice of the peace, who sat at the head of the table. Stephenson shook his head. "Then I order your arrest for unlawful entry," continued the justice. "Constable, do your duty."

"Ha! A poker game," he muttered, as he stole silently up the rear stairs. He could hear voices in lively argument behind the door. He braced his shoulder to force it, but when he turned the handle it yielded and he found himself confronting 20 familiar but not friendly faces. Also he encountered a heavy silence.

The constable stood up and placed his hand on the police chief's shoulder.

There were no cards or chips, but and this was the bitterest disappointment, there sat the village constable, the chief's right hand of office, sitting

"Now, I'll commit you to jail under $2,000 bail," the justice went on. The caucus adjourned to escort the victim to the town lock up. The constable saw that his chief was tucked safely in a cell. He locked the jail door and went back to the meeting.

"Five minutes later the chief took a key out of his pocket, unlocked his cell, calmly "broke jail," and went home to bed.

"Constable, do your duty."

Goes to Prison to Join His Brother

KANSAS CITY.—It wouldn't be true, perhaps, to say that James Baughman capered with delight when the judge of Wyandotte county common pleas court gave him a little package that was coming to him the other afternoon. But he took the bundle, unwrapped it and examined the contents—ten to twenty years in the penitentiary for highway robbery. And then he smiled.

what kind of work it is, so as they let us serve our time together.

It was not a sneer. There was no bravado in it. A man who suspected that learned his mistake when he asked the prisoner about it afterward.

"When I got pinched for sticking up those two guys I sent for Charley and he came.

"I'll tell you why I don't mind it so much," the convicted man said. "Charley's up there—my brother Charley. And it's my fault he is. He took a chance for me and lost. I'm going to ask 'em if they won't let me work alongside of him. I don't care

"Get me out of this," I says. "I can't do it, Jim," he told me. "The bond is too much. I don't know where I can get that pile of money."

Meanest Man Is Found by a Minister

NEW YORK.—When it comes to depriving the minister of his wedding fee, the "meanest man" may be plural, but when it comes to not only "doing" the minister, but to soffering a job from him afterward, the Rev. Lincoln Hollister Caswell is convinced the meanest man lives in Flatbush.

The Rev. Mr. Caswell also lives in Flatbush, where he is pastor of the Fenimore Street Methodist Episcopal church. A few weeks ago the Rev. Mr. Caswell was approached by a young man who confided he wished to be married and wished the minister to die the knot.

and until the time for the presentation of the ring arrived. Then the bride, thinking that the marriage was concluded, insisted on clasping her husband around the neck and showering him with kisses, to his confusion and to the dismay of the minister.

About 200 guests were present at the church on the day appointed, and the bridegroom was a sight more gorgeous than Solomon in all his glory, for he appeared in brilliant tan shoes and yellow gloves, colorful scarf and clothes to match. The bride was attired in a plain traveling costume of tan.

They stood at the altar while the minister read the marriage service

However, the latter managed to convey to her a delicate hint that the services were not yet concluded, and the marriage was finally performed. At the conclusion the bridegroom led the minister aside, and, in a confidential manner, apprised him he would be short of money until after the honeymoon trip, and requested him to wait until that time for his fees. To this the minister consented.

Girls

Read About These Three Girls. How Sick They Were and How Their Health Was Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Appleton, Wis.—"I take pleasure in writing you an account of my sickness. I told a friend of mine how I felt and she said I had female trouble and advised me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she had taken it herself for the same trouble with wonderful results. I had been sick for two years and overworked myself, and had such bad feelings every month that I could hardly walk for pain. I was very nervous and easily tired out and could not sleep nights. I had dizzy spells, and pimples came on my face. But I have taken your Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has restored my health. I think it is the best medicine in existence."—Miss CECILIA M. BAUER, 1181 Lawrence St., Appleton, Wis.

A SCHOOL TEACHER'S GRATITUDE: Geneva, Iowa.—"I have been teaching school for some years and I have neglected my health because I was too busy with my work to attend to myself properly. I suffered greatly every month and was on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

"I wrote to you about my condition and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the Blood Purifier as you recommended. These remedies have done wonders for me and I can highly and widely recommend them to every suffering woman."—Miss MINNIE SHAVER, R. F. D. No. 1, Geneva, Iowa, c/o Sam Erickson.

A COLORADO GIRL'S CASE: Montrose, Col.—"I was troubled very much with irregular periods. Sometimes two months would elapse. I suffered severe headache, was weak and nervous, could eat scarcely anything.

"I took both Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier and the result was wonderful. I feel like another person. I think your remedies are the best on earth and cannot express my thankfulness to you for what they have done to me. I help my neighbors when they are sick, and I shall always recommend your medicines."—Miss E.L.A. McCANDLESS, Montrose, Col.

Is it not reasonable to suppose that a medicine that did so much for these girls will benefit any other girl who is suffering with the same troubles?

Does it not seem the only sensible thing to give such a medicine at least a trial? You may be sure that it can do you no harm, and there are lots of proof that it will do you much good.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs. It has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Splendid Crops

In Saskatchewan (Western Canada)

500 Bushels from 20 acres of wheat was the three-harvest return from a Lloydminster farm in the season of 1910. Grain growing in that district is the best in the world. The soil is rich and the climate is just what is needed for the best results. 100 acres produce 500 bushels of wheat, 25 to 35 bushels of barley, 10 to 15 bushels of oats, and other grains in proportion.

LARGE PROFITS are thus derived from the same land.

For particulars as to location, low cost, and other details, send descriptive literature, pamphlet, "Last Best Wheat" and other information, write to Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa, Canada, or to Canadian Government Agents.

Stomach Blood and Liver Troubles

Much sickness starts with weak stomach, and consequent poor, impoverished blood. Nervous and pale people lack good, rich, red blood. Their stomachs need invigorating for, after all, a man can be no stronger than his stomach. A remedy that makes the stomach strong and the liver active, makes rich red blood and overcomes and drives out disease-producing bacteria and cures a whole multitude of diseases.

Get rid of your Stomach Weakness and Liver Laziness by taking a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—the great Stomach Restorative, Liver Invigorator and Blood Cleanser.

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of known composition, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

ELIMINATES MANY KITCHEN TROUBLES.

By Martha McCulloch Williams. William Shakespeare, it may be said had not cooking in mind, when he set his witches chanting:

"Double double toil and trouble! Fire burn and caldron bubble!"

Nevertheless, the fact remains that the burning fire, the bubbling caldron are sources of double trouble to womenkind. Therefore, they should rise up and call blessed Mr. Soyer's system of paper bag cooking, which has come newly to their help. It saves the bubblings of the caldron, and thereby the troubles of the cook. This in many, many ways. Perhaps the most instantly apparent one is—the fact that there is no caldron to be washed or scoured when the flesh is wearied.

So, also, are the roasting pans and those for frying, likewise the broiler. Paper bags can do the work better—and be thrown away when they have served their turn.

But do not make the mistake of taking it for an accomplished cook. It is a help toward helping yourself, nothing more.

Beef or Veal Loaf.—To each pound of raw minced lean meat, add an ounce of finely minced suet, half a small minced onion, a dust of pepper, a pinch of salt mixed through a scant spoonful of flour, and a light sprinkling of powdered herbs. Mix the seasoning well through the meat, shape it into a flat, round cake, rub butter plentifully on the outside, put into a greased paper bag, seal and bake in a hot oven, allowing fifteen minutes to the pound. A few slices of tomato put in the bag helps to make tasty gravy. A spoonful of tomato catsup may be used instead.

Baked Onions.—Parboil for fifteen minutes Spanish or Bermuda onions, chill them in cold water, then cut a V out of the hearts. Fill the space with butter, after dusting it well with salt and pepper, put the onions in a bag with a lump of butter and a very little water, seal and cook twenty minutes in a hot oven, or thirty minutes in a very moderate one.

PAPER BAG COOKED BREAKFAST DISHES.

By Nicholas Soyer, Chef of Brooks' Club, London.

Eggs and Tomatoes.—Butter a bag thickly, put into it half a pint of tomato catsup and butter the size of a walnut. Cook in hot oven ten minutes. Cut a square from the center of the bag, break into it, one at a time, four eggs. Cook for three or four minutes. Dish up. Cut away all the top of the bag and serve.

Kippered Mackerel with Fine Herbs.—Cut salt mackerel into fillets, lay them in a deep earthen dish, and cover with boiling water. Leave in water half a minute. Take out, wipe dry, dust with coarse black pepper, and put on top of each fillet half a teaspoonful of minced parsley, and chives of onion, and a bit of butter the size of a small walnut. Grease a bag well, put in the fillets, seal, and cook for twenty minutes in a hot oven. Serve hot, with brown bread and butter.

Marschal of Lobster and Eggs.—Take the white and claw meat of a lobster, chop it small and set aside. Rub the brown meat smooth in a basin with a bit of butter and a good dust of white pepper. Add gradually half a bottle of tomato catsup. Work all well together. Put into a bag four slices of bacon. Do not seal the bag. Cook the bacon four minutes, then take out, and put in the lobster and tomato mixture, seal and cook for eight minutes. Cut open the bag on top, put in the white meat, and make hot for four or five minutes. Lower the gas very much for this last cooking—the white meat must only get very hot, as cooking toughens it. Serve in a very hot dish, garnished with the slices of bacon.

Eggs a la Tripe.—Rub together an ounce of butter and an ounce of flour, cook smooth in half a pint of milk which has been flavored lightly with mace. Add to it two large thinly-sliced onions, cooked in a bag with a little butter, and six hard-boiled eggs cut in halves lengthwise. Pour gently into a well-greased double bag, and make very hot in the oven for ten minutes. Serve as quickly as possible, on a very hot dish.

Eggs on Strasbourg Crotons.—Cut the crust from four even-sided squares of stale bread, butter them thinly, dust lightly with pepper, and spread with a layer of foie gras. Cook for five minutes inside a well-greased bag, then cut open the bag and break an egg on each square of bread. Dust the eggs on top with pepper and a very little salt and cook for another four minutes. Serve immediately on a very hot dish.

Eggs a la Bechamel.—Cut four hard-boiled eggs in halves lengthwise, put them into a thickly greased bag with a gill of cream, salt and pepper to taste, and a tiny dust of powdered mace. Cook five minutes in a moderate oven, and serve hot on squares of lightly buttered toast.

New Nets for the "Wanted."
Through a Paris contemporary we learn of a novel method adopted by the Prague police authorities to detect the perpetrators of high crimes and misdemeanors. But whether the project will prove a success remains to be seen.

When a person of distinction in the annals of crime is being sought and the police experience difficulty in laying hands on the suspect, in future they will send to every cinematograph exhibition in Bohemia a photograph of the person "wanted." During the entertainment the picture will be shown with some little explanatory note, and at the conclusion each member of the audience will be free to act as an amateur detective. It seems very likely that this method will be fruitful in actions for damages.

That is Natural.

Buried Treasure.
"You're sure there is something in that man's story of buried treasure?"

"Not yet," replied Mr. Dustin Star. "But there ought to be buried treasure somewhere in the neighborhood of his operations. If he has persuaded anybody else to sink as much money as he asks me for."

A Conclusive Arrangement.
"We're mighty particular about table manners when we take summer boarders," said Farmer Cornstossel.

"Have you succeeded in regulating them?"

"To a certain extent. We were so afraid somebody would eat pie with his knife that we decided there wouldn't be any pie."

Popular fiction wouldn't be so much sought after if it didn't carry a story. —Nathan Globe.

Your Money Back if you are Not Satisfied with the Medicine we Recommend.

We are so positive our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels, and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want you to try Retail Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness, nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. 12 tablets 10 cents, 36 tablets 25 cents, 80 tablets 50 cents. Sold in Plymouth only at our store—The Retail Store—Beyer Pharmacy.

When her child is in danger a woman will risk her life to protect it. No great act of heroism or risk of life is necessary to protect a child from croup. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and all danger is avoided. For sale by all dealers.

St. Joseph, Mich.—Mrs. Frank Marti, 417 Church st., says: Foley's Honey and Tar Compound saved the life of our baby boy. He had spells of coughing and gagging and turned black in the face. I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. In a short time he was relieved and finally the coughing was entirely stopped and the coughing and gagging spells ceased bothering him. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has many times saved us trouble and this with the wonderful cure in baby's case, shows its great merit.
