Mrs. Hannah Lauffer, a highly es-teemed lady of this village for many years, passed away at the home of her son, Edward C. Lauffer last Friday morning, September 20th, at the age of 86 years. Mrs. Lauffer was not ill but a few days and old age was the Deceased was born in Harlexton, Lincolnshire, England, September 18, 1826, and came to America with her parents in 1848 and settled in Plymouth where she has always resided. She was married to Godfrey Lauffer in 1860. Mr. Lauffer passed to the Great Beyond 48 years ago. Deceased leaves to mourn her loss two sons, William Lauffer of Sparta, Mich., and Edward Lauffer of this village, and one step-daughter Mrs. Cass Benton, of Northville.

The funeral was held from the home of her son Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o' clock, Rev. Ghas. Ramsey, assistant rector of Christ's church of Detroit, officiated. A boy choir rendered two beautiful selections at the grave. The servi-ces were attended by many friends and neighbors. There were many beautiful flowers, loving tributes from numerous relatives and friends.

Announcement

Two changes take place in the personnel of The Mail this week. Mr. L. B. Samsen, who was connected with this paper some years ago, returns and takes full charge as local editor and manager, for which position his experience as a newspaper man renders him fully capable. His entire time will be devoted to the upbuilding of the news-paper proper, while also in a measure looking after the job department of the office. The latter department will be especially attended to by the senior Mr. Samsen.

This step is taken because we have realized for some time that the interests of the newspaper proper were not and could not be looked after as closely as they should be, and we hope and ex-pect that this change will be both for the interests of the paper and the pub-squadron. Or, in other words, a squadron will consist of eight aeropianes in charge of sixteen aviators, all of whom will be captains or lieutenants of the regular army.

LAUNCHED FROM A WARSHIP

Each squadron will be in command of a ma-Jor, who will have two commissioned officers on his staff in addition to the aviators assigned to the machines. He will also have under him a force of 48 aeroplane mechanicians, all enlisted giving five to each machine, and an extra men, giving five to each manner.

To one field army of regular troops there will be three aviation squadrons, one asigned to each of the two divisions and one to the headquarters of the field commander. The squadron assigned to headquarters will be equipped with aeroplanes of extra motor power for long distance reconnaissance. The field artillery will account the same and in addition there will bave special machines and in addition there will be 64 machines and 152 aviators distributed among 14 of our coast defense stations.

Then the Philippines should have two squad-rons, or sixteen machines, and Panama and Hawait should each have one squadron. This sky army will be headed by two colonels under the command of the chief of the signal corps, two Meutenant-colonels and eleven majors.

"The aviation equipment should not stop with the regular army, but the militia must also be provided with machines distributed among its mobile troops at the rate of one squadron for each division of men. The militia birdmen must receive their diplomas from the regular army aviation schools, to be established throughout country.

"Five of these schools, called aviation ters, for our four coasts and the center of the continent—the Atlantic, the Pacific, the Gulf, the Lakes and one central inland point. Each will undoubtedly have a school of instruction. All of these schools will be somewhat sim flar to the one at College Park, Md.

Germany, at the moment," continued General Allen, "has a fleet of about 300 aeroplanes, and still more under construction. She has a chain of twenty stations, which are so placed as to entire frontier and also the area which

"She has twenty-five first-class sheds with the most modern equipment dotting the landscape at various strategic points. To man her huge Zeepstins, Parsevals and Grosses she has a special lastication of over a thousand officers and mean trained in all of the exigencies of aerial mariration and ready to take to flight upon in-

France claims, I believe, that she has 600 military air machines of all kinds, while Russia is next. Great Britain falls in line with a present force of seventy-one machines and plans and meritains for a military aviation equipment to the state of 131 high-dissa aeroplanes.

"Italy has a good fleet of seventeen to which she is making constant additions and is the first nation to make use of aerial bombs and a flying artilleryman. Lieutenant Gotti established his right to a niche in the hall of fame by his daring flight over the enemy at Tripcii when he dropped four of these aerial grenddes among the enemy at various points with deadly results.

"Turkey, beholding the devastation Italy has rought from the clouds, has made rapid strides in the purchase of an aerial fleet of her own and is likely to retaliate in like manner.

"Austria is also waking up to the advantages of these adjuncts to military tactics, and has entered the field of aeronautics."

When General Allen was asked what would be the work of the flying machines in the event of war he said:

'By skillful maneuvers properly equipped and skillfully handled military aeroplanes may wipe out or put in retreat a whole army before sun-rise, report to their base of supplies and disor-ganize a hostile fleet before breakfast.

"Generally speaking, they would perhaps be most effective as scouts, working from different points upon the Atlantic coast, the Gulf-coast and the Pacific as coast patrols for observation and supplying information regarding the approach of ships. Acting aggressively they could by assembling in small groups do an immense amount of damage. amount of damage.

"In the event of the existence of war and the ng of any troops. If each station in the patrol had, we will say, five ships, each of which can carry 400 pounds in addition to the weight of the aviator and his supply of fuel, a ton of explosives could be distributed by these patrols while they were going forty miles an our, and they could return and prepare for another trip if necessary.

"This amount of explosive could be dropped in weights of from 20 to 200 pounds without injury or disturbance to the aeroplane and from safe heights of from 2,000 to 3,000 feet. It should aate heights of from 2,000 to 3,000 feet. It should not require many such hints to convince the commander of any ficet or invading army, no matter how determined he might be, that the locality was rather unhealthy.

"The best time for such work as this to be done would be in the semi-darkness of the early morning or late evening, just at dusk or dawn, when it is next to impossible to see an aeroplane, particularly if it stays up a couple of the semi-darkness. particularly if it stays up a couple of thousand feet. To the aviator and his companion who would attend to the distribution of missiles the onlines of the boats, the camps and even indi-viduals stams out with a clearness that is not conted by anyone who has not flows in a m. With the shillty of the acropiume to an eratite course by constantly changing settion, the high speed the small ones can maintain and the heights to which they ascend give them a tremendous advantage. The army aeroplane which the United States expects to depend upon in case of hostile demonstrations will carry 2,500 rounds of ammunition, which it may discharge at the rate of 500 a minute. It can travel 104 miles an holf. a minute. It can travel 104 miles an hour, carry enough fuel to go 460 miles, stay up 114 hours and climb to an altitude of 12,823 feet. That is what has been done, and what aeroplanes have done they can do again.

"Then the army, like the navy, expects to make good use of the hydro-aeroplane, which may alight upon, skim through and fly from the water as readily as it does from land, and from plowed land as well as from level ground. Its use would be mostly for observation of the enemy at long distances.

"What models are we now using?

"Well, we have only Wright, Curtiss and Burgess Wright machines at present, but when the money is forthcoming it is likely that we will purchase some of the best of the foreign machines. Should the necessity arise the United States would certainly acquire the best products of modern invention to the complement of her own supply.

"Our present trouble is we already have more machines than we have officers competent to handle them. We must have more men who are qualified to fill the requirements exacted for this work.

"Successful aviation is a scientific problem which, like every other wonderful achievement, is only a success after each detail is perfectly worked out. The first great esential in the practical use of aviation in military tactics lies in the necessity for safety in flying.

"What would be the use of the government spending money to train officers and soldiers to the fine point necesary for successful airmen only to have them meet mishap and death, to say nothing of the losses through the destruc-tion of valuable machines representing the out-lay of thousands of dollars. Flying may be, will as safe as any other mode of travel.

"This is one of the problems which our government experts are working upon now. They have already settled upon automatic arrangements which should materially lessen the number of mishaps and fatalities. It is the unexpected which happens, taking a man off his guard for an instant, which experience and study will avert."

General Allen believes that the requirements for an army aviator include physical perfection. Only commissioned officers of the army and militia need apply and before they can be admitted to any of the aviation schools they must pass a rigorous physical examination.

To forecast what the war of the future may mean it is only necessary to look over the field of modern invention in the production of deathdealing weapons.

Battles will be fought in the clouds with machine rifles which throw out streams of bullets, aerial torpedoes which may be released by levers strapped to the feet of the aviator, bombs of powerful explosive which can tear men and horses to bits and the German aero guns which send down brittle bombs containing 150 pounds of chemicals that upon exploding fill the atmos-phere with poisonous gases calculated to kill every living thing within 500 yards.

To overcome the disadvantages of the dark To overcome the disadvantages of the dark-ness there is an electrically controlled search light which may be suspended hundreds of feet below the airship and thus illuminate for a brief time the area of attack. Thus the flying artil-leryman may see just where he wants his fire to strike, while he remains safe in his iron or steel sheathed ship high above the danger of being seen or hit. Then there is a bomb which leaves a trail of smoke by day and a line of fire at night to mark its course. fire at night to mark its course

For disabiling aeros from the ground there is the American automobile gun, said to be able to discharge 2,000,000 bullets an hour, requiring two men to handle it and performing the work of thirty regiments, besides many for vertical firing. The Japanese have a poi-sonous gas filled bomb which will explode and fill the air with fumes guaranteed to overcome any airmen within 100 yards of its explosion. The Japanese have a pol-omb which will explode and

According to some strategists the next evenings and in the gray dawn the airship will come forth from their sheds and hangars t pursue their stealthy flights of observation an

With the twinkling lights of the campfires With the twinking lights of the campires of the enemy, the solitary signals of approaching ships or the vague black shapes of the scattered houses in some sleeping village sil open to their observation they can swiftly and silently steal along overhead and fire their missiles of destruction upon the unsuapecting enemy and secure way out of reach before there is any possibility of their before some damaged.

with the accuracy which constant target practice gives even a small fleet of these instru ments of war can accomplish great destruction with their dropping shells and bombs. When these winged for meet in contest it will be to the feet that is the swiftest and more daring, that the victory will belong.

THOUGHTS OF A GREAT PREACHER

Short Analysis of Ideas Taken From the Writings of the Late C. H. Spurgeon.

Not that in the saint there is no sin. Not that in the sinner there is never a thought about God. The difference is this that the saint is overcoming his sin; but the sin is overcoming the sinner. Oh, what a terrible thing if sin have the upper hand! No "hidden manua" is yours. The symbols of religion you may look at, but real religion must be a stranger to you. You know not its enjoyment. You do not taste it. It enjoyment. You do not taste it. It is a hidden thing. Heaven, too, will be hidden. You hear of its gates of pearl—but they will never open to you. You may catch the distant accents of its songs—but in those songs you will never join. And that "white stone" cannot be yours. You have no joyful anticipation of heaven—but a fearful looking-for of flery indignation—or else the insensate resolve not to think at all. And the "new name"—no! you cannot read it! You know —no! you cannot read it! You know God by no such name as makes you seek his company. The thought of bim renders you unhappy, and therefore you banish it from your mind.

But mine is a hopeless case. My heart is hardened against the gospel, and evil habit has so got the mastery over me that I have no power to begin this conflict!"

No, you have no power; but one has visited this world and taken our na ture, who can help you. The mighty Son of God became the suffering Son of Man that he might be the libera-tor of our enslaved race. He burst open the prison doors that captive souls might escape. He stands near you, ready to break off your fetters and strengthen you to fight the enemy who has so long oppressed you. Tel him your simple but sad tale; how helpless, how miserable, how rulned you are! Tell him you want to be saved, but know not how to begin the work, and ask him both to begin and complete it for you! Let your prayer be this. "Be merciful to me, a sin-ner;" and he who "came to destroy the works of the devil," he "whose nature and property is ever to have mercy and to forgive," will receive your "humble petitions; and though you be tied and bound with the chain of your sins, he, in the pitifulness of his great mercy, will loose you."— From Newman Hall's "Christian Vic-

Joy and Service.

No man is conquerable until the joy of serving his cause has been driven out of his heart. Nehemiah expressed a fact that is undoubtedly often quoted by those who have not experienced it, and often experienced by those who never have quoted it, when he said to the people, "The joy of the Lord is your strength." As long as religion is a joy in the life it will not be parted with, and its demands will not be disobeyed. Changing it about, when one is obedient and loyal with his whole heart there will be enthusiasm and joy in his life Joy and service go together in mutual helpfulness. When one knows he is with Christ and Christ with him, he will sing songs in the night, though his feet be in the stocks and his lacerated back on the rough dungeon floor. When one sees the promises of God with clearer vision than the ob stacles of the world, when he realizes hat he is following an unconquer-able leader from whose love no power known to man's reason or imagina tion is able to separate him; then there is no night so dark, nor pain so keen, nor disappointment so bitter that his soul will not exult in God through it all, and he will march on with unabated zeal and vigor. Like Christ, for the joy that is set before him he will endure the cross and de spise the shame.

limbs that were weakened by scale, overbearing or other cause, are the ones which suffered the most from the continued cold.

Many of the limbs that were se verely injured but not entirely killed pushed out a few leaves, but these never attained full size, but soon with-ered and dropped off. The majority of such limbs are now completely dead and are of course valueless.

Some limbs, not so badly injured as these just mentioned, produced al-most normal foliage—in some cases differing from the healthy leaves only by the slight yellowness—and on these limbs fruit has been produced This fruit also shows signs of the great disturbance that has taken place for it is frequently found to be gnarled, or even watery, and this condition is fairly uniform on any affect ed branch.

It is easy to tell now just which limbs are going to live and which ones are past recovery. It is the fruit grower's business now to help the tree recover from this damage. He can do this by pruning away the dead wood scientifically.

> Having pruned the tree properly and having rid the tree of all the dead wood, it is now essential that all wounds be covered to keep out the germs which cause heart rots. Few apple trees of any age have a sound heart. This is due solely to the work of fungi. These fungi have entered the heart wood through uncovered

To cover the wounds of the apple tree many substances have been suggested, but the matter is yet largely in the experimental stage. At pres-ent a good white lead paint, applied thoroughly and frequently renewed seems to be the best recommendation Some success has been had using the white lead paste, or thinning slightly with oil, but the former thing seems to be most convenient. It should be pointed out that white lead is hard to pointed out that white lead is hard to obtain in some localities and many substitutes are offered. If one is painting the wounds for beauty only he can use the fancy mixed paints, but if he is painting the wounds to keep out fungi and to protect the trees, he must use good material.

It will be found in many instances that the trees that now appear to be badly used will recover from the in-jury, and in some cases the killing of First of all he must be governed by the rules of good pruning, which re-quire that all cuts be made flush were hopelessly thick. the limbs has done considerable good

HARVESTING AND STORING THE APPLE CROP

By PROF. C. P. HALLIGAN. Assistant Horticulturist, Michigan Ag-Ticultural College.

The indications are that the apple crop in Michigan will be much above the average this fall. The value of this crop will depend, in a large meas-ure, upon the care exercised in picking and the methods used in storing and carelessness in harvesting storing apples, which always results in an inexcusable amount of waste and decay in the fruit. This statement is more apt to be true of the small grower who harvests only a few apples for home use during the winter than of the commercial orchardist who de-pends upon his fruit for his income. A few simple rules of caution will prevent much needless waste.

Time to Pick.

If apples are harvested too late, they will not keep as long in storage, al-though they will be of high color and of good size and quality when picked. If apples are harvested too early they colored and should separate readily from the spur. If, when picking the apples the stems are pulled out or the spurs broken, it is too early to harvest that particular variety.

How to Pick.

Apples should be handled like eggs.
Any break or runture in the skin caused by worms or carelessness in handling is the starting point for the various rots and other forms of decay No fruit harvested by shaking of branches or knocking the fruit off with poles, is worth storing. Hand picking is absolutely essential. The fruit should be grasped by the palm of the

A great amount of truit is also ruined by pouring it from the picking basket into barrels. If markets are used, the basket should be inserted into the from any bad odors.

fruit may not be injured.

How to Store.

The fruit should then be stored as soon as possible. Piling the fruit in the orchard is a wasteful practice. The fruit heats in the piles and ripens very readily. The aim in storing fruit is to retard this ripening process that the fruit may be kept longer. Do not store fruit that has been piled in the or fruit that has been piled in the or-chard for any considerable time after picking. Get a good spring wagon for hauling the fruit into storage. A springless *wagon, especially over rough roads, will injure the fruit for storing. If the fruit is packed in tight boxes or barrels, it will store better than if open crutes are used.

The storage house or cellar should be well ventilated, well drained and frost proof. A cellar that cannot be properly ventilated to allow foul air to escape, cannot keep fruit well. Drain the cellar so that it will never be wet and remove excessive moisture with a box of quick lime. In cellars having cement bottoms and where they are apt to become too dry and cause the fruit to shrivel up, supply water.

Early in July of the present year carload of 259 western wethers was shipped to the Upper Peninsula station at Chatham for the pur of subduing weeds and sprouts which of auduling weeds and sprouts which had grown up on forty acres of land cut over several years past. The ground was covered with some June grass and endless variety of weeds and sprouts as high as a man's head and almost impossible to walk through. Five or six weeks after the sheep were turned on this tract it was pracwere turned on this tract it was practically hare except for the stubs and weed stalks too large and woody for the sheep to consume. About the middle of August a grass seed mixture was broadcasted over the entire tract and the sheep held on the area for another ten days to graze still closer and incorporate the seed with the soil by their tramping in wandering over the land. It is expected that next season will furnish more abundant pasture and fewer weeds and at that time more seed may be added in the same

Two-Year-Old Girl, Who Had Ridden Before, Starte Electric Machine That Never Stops Until It Dashes Into Plate Glass Window

Chicago.-Miss Billie Harvey, who is the daughter of Mrs. W. F. Harvey and who is one year and eleven months old, took her great-grand-mother; Mrs. Mary Harrison, who is seventy-two, out joy riding the other day. It was an exceedingly exciting occasion for Mrs. Harrison. Billie her-self didn't notice the excitement until afterward. That was when her mother got her home. If one is to judge merely from sounds Billie was considerably excited.

The net results of the excursion were as follows:

One gently spanked chauffeuse.
One slightly damaged electric auto.
One broken plate glass window.
One moderately damaged park police one case of hysterics, acquired by Bil-le's mother.

One case of hysterics claimed by Bil-le's grade of hysterics claimed by Bil-le's gradmother.

One badly frightened and much shaken great-gradmother.

There were four in the party when

Billie started out for the joy ride. They included Miss Billie, Miss Billie's mother, who is Mrs. Harvey; her grandmother, who is Mrs. William D. McJunkin, and her great-grandmother, who is Mrs. Harrison. You see there were four generations, all seat ed quietly together in an electric rup about. The party left the McJunkin residence at 933 Margate terrace and set forth down Sheridan road to do a little shopping.

At Irving Park boulevard Grand-mother McJunkin and Mother Harvey got out. Theoretically that left Great-Grandmother Harrison in charge of the auto. The theory, however, was fallacious. As a matter of fact Great-Grandmother Harrison knew nothing whatever about an automobile. With Miss Billic it was different. She had been riding with her mother many times. She had watched her mother operate the car. She knew just how her mother pulled the pearl handled dingus on the thingumbob attached to the silver mounted what-you-call-it.
Billie didn't know much else about an while great-grandmother sat blissfully unconscious of the impending catastrophe Miss Billie proceeded to toy artfully with the thingumbob and the what you call it. Her operations brought prompt results. The car started with a jerk. Great-grand-mother woke up with a scream. Miss Billie gurgled. But the auto kept on

Meanwhile mother and grandmother had heard great-grandmother's screams. They were in the street in an instant. They saw the runabout careening down Sheridan road. They raised frenzied outcries. But the auto kept right on a-going. It was at this point that Park Po-liceman Coleman projected himself

The car passed on. Policeman Coleman picked himself up, mother and grandmother followed, screaming. The procession had moved down Sheridan read for some distance when the car suddenly swerved to the curb. It mounted the curb, crossed the side-walk, and headed for a plate glass window. It went through the plate glass window and encountered the showcase. There is stopped.

Miss Billie was found to be highly delighted with her experience when they lifted her out of the car. Great grandmother had to be lifted out for other reasons. She was badly scared orner reasons. one was badly scared.

The car was extricated from the window and found to be practically unhart. The four generations entered and moved in good order back to the McJankin residence.

The Northville Driving Club are making big plans for a two days' meet in that village. Wednesday and Thursday, October second and third. A fine list of prizes have been hung up for the winners of the various events in the borse races, and there is every indication that will be plenty of entries for each class. Harry Robinson, of this village, will act as starter. The "Circle N" base ball team will contest with the etrong team from Redford both days. A dance will be given in the rink for those who desire to trip the light fantastic. No doubt many Plymouthites will take advantage of the opportunity and visit our neighboring village both days, and take in the sights.

Farewell Service

Last Sunday evening the Baptist Methodist and Presbyterian churches united in a service at the Methodist church to bid farewell and God-speed to Rev. and Mrs. E. J. Warren, who Dr. J. J. Travis as leader. All memleft this week for their new field of labor in Caro. This service was one of the most delightful, in religious circles, ever held in Plymouth. There was a spirit of Christian fellowship and brotherhood pervading the entire service that made it most enjoyable. All denominational feeling was submerged beneath the great central and vital principles of a common Christianity. It was the unanimous expression that such a service is helpful to the community. Mr. Warren said it was one of the finest services he had ever attended and never in his experience covering a number o years, had he seen a better spirit mani-fested. He appreciated the courtess He appreciated the courtesy and good-will expressed by such a gath

Mr. Paul Voorhies, Supt. of the Methodist Sunday-school, had charge of the service. Mr. Jones directed the congregational singing and the chorus The latter, composed of singers from the three churches, rendered a beautiful anthem.

Rev. B. F. Farber gave the first address. His subject was: "The Claims and Joys of the Gospel Ministry." He showed the claims which this calling makes and urged young men to consider it when choosing an avocation.

Rev. W. W. DesAutels took as his theme, "Brother Saul." After relating the story of Saul's conversion he showed that we are all brethren in Christ Jesus and it was this fact which made possi-ble such a gathering as the one in which eembled.

FORWARD MARCH OF JAPAN

Events Illustrate the Wonderful Prog-ress of the Country Since the Year 1868.

On March 24, 1868, an English min-later was for the first/time received with ceremony by the mikado and the story of that reception illustrates re-markably the transformation of Jap en under Matsphito. It had been fixed for the previous day, but on his way to the palace Sir Harry Parker was hercely attacked by two Japan-ese swordsmen. So sudden and fur-ous was the assault that nine of the eleven men of the escort were wound ed. The nose of Mr. Satow's pony and Sir Henry's belt were cut, but Sir Henry himself was uninjured, and purwas due of the assailants. Mr. Fre-man-Mitford "found him at the angle of the street with the headless body of one of our enemies at his feet." The other, a Samural, was degraded and executed, the reception came off next and the mikado issued a de forbidding all asseults upon for

Instead, i re-ceived a handshake from a very shape-ly and beautiful hand. I found the empress a woman of great refinement, perfect sace of manner, so delicate in appearance and small of figure as to remind one of some fine plece of Dres den china, attired in a Paris gown of heliotrope brocade whose bad fit was accounted for in the same way as the baggy trousers of the emperor. After a year in Japan I was satisfied that it was due to the fact that a tailor would not touch the person of either of their majesties, but just looked at them and guessed what the measure-ment should be!"

Japan's emperor belongs to the old est reigning family in existence. According to native historians, his ancestors can be traced back to 660 B. C. Prof. Basil Hall Chamberlain, despite his philo-Japanese proclivities, thinks this is going back about a thousand years too far. Still, he maintains that "all deductions made, the imperial family stands forth proudly as the oldest in the world. We know positively that it has reigned ever since the dawn of history in Japan, and that even then it was considered of im-memorial age."

story is told concerning a famous man of letters who visited Washington and appeared at a dinner party. He sat next to a young girl, who rattled away at the famous man. He wanted to falk to his hostess, but hadn't a chance. The girl said to him: "I'm awfully stuck on Shakespeare. Don't awfully stuck on Shakespeare. Don't you think he's terribly interesting?" Everybody listened to hear the great man's brilliant reply; for, as a Shakespearcan scholar, he has few peers.

he is interesting. I think he is more once.

The lowa men presented their claim several months ago, but no cognizance was taken of it. The notice recalls the flight of Hirchfield to Centerville, Iowa, when it was learned that he had laprosy. He was detained in a house there awaiting the action of the Michigan officials. The latter made no move in the matter and Hirschfield was bundled into a motor car and brought home. Iowa claims damages to the extent of $800.

Apparently the state's leprosy troubles will not down. Secretary Dixon of the state board of health is now in Washington attempting, with Health Officer Goodwin of Bay City, to straighten out the official tangle surrounding the case of Samuel Izen, who is now being detailed in Buffalo.

Former Police Chief Jailed.

Despite the fact that for seven years he had taken orders from the former head of the Benton Harbor police department, Owen McAntee, Omcer Hunter Jailed McAntee when the latter used abusive language in an argument with Hunter. Antee was discharged. He spent two hours in a cell in the city jail. Mc-Antee was retired as chief of police last spring, and since then it is said ill-feeling has existed between him and members of the force.

When Hunter marched into head-quarters with McAntee and asked Chief Alden what he should do with his man, the chief directed that Mc-Antee he locked up. Friends of the former chief threatened to storm the jail.

G. O. P. CONVENTION HELD IN DETROIT

SPIRIT OF HARMONY PREVAILS AS STATE AND NATIONAL LEADERS ARE CHEERED.

JUSTICE KUHN WAS RE-NOMINAT-ED WITHOUT OPPOSITION.

Close Vote for State Treasurer-Fred erick C. Martindale and Oramel B. Fuller to Appear on Ticket to Succeed Themselves.

The sprit of harmony and the good feeling that characterized the early part of the Republican state convention prevailed Tuesday while nominations were being made for places on the state ticket.

There were only three contests for secretary of state, auditor general and state treasurer, and they did not develop much, if any ill-feeling.

Justice Kuhn was re-nominated without opposition, the rules being suspended and the secretary being instructed to cast the entire vote of the convention.

No Opposition to Steere.

No Opposition to Steere.

Justice Joseph H. Steers, of the Soo, against whom there had been no opposition, was nominated in a similar nanner to complete the term of the late Justice Frank A. Hooker, which expires Dec. 31, 1913. The closest contest was that for late Justice Frank A. Hooker, which expires Dec. 31, 1913.

The closest contest was that for state treasurer. There were three candidates—John W. Haarer, of Ann Arbor, who for several years has been deputy state treasurer; State Senator-Albert C. Kingman, of Battle Creek, and State Senator John M. Perry, of Osceola county. Haarer won, on the first and only ballot, receiving 19 more votes than his two opponents. The ballot resulted: Haarer, 743; Kingman, 432; Perry, 292. Haarer's name was placed in nomination by Congressman W. W. Wedemeyer, of Ann Arbor. Former Congressman Congressman
Ann Arbor. Former Congressman
Washington Gardner performed a similar service for Senator Kingman, while a Mr. Wisner, named Senator

Perry.

As generally expected, Oramel B. Fuller, of Ford River, who is now serving his second term, was easily re-nominated for auditor general. His name was presented by Congressman H. Olin Young, of Ishpeming, who stated that since his incumbency, Auditor General Fuller had greatly reduced expenses and had satisfactorily administered the business of the office.

Victor M. Gore, of Benton Harbor, named Dr. Arthur W. Scidmore, of Three Rivers. The roll call of counties had not proceeded far before it became evident that Fuller would be an easy winner, and when it was completed. Dr. Scidmore himself moved that the rules be suspended and the secretary be instructed to cast the entire vote. be instructed to cast the entire vote of the convention for his opponent. Dr. Scidmore's action was applauded.

Martindale Has No Fight.

Secretary of State Frederick C. Marthodale, of Detroit, was easily re-nom-inated for a third term. In present-ing his name to the convention, John D. MacKay, of Detroit, stated that Mr. D. MacKay, of Detroit; stated that Mr. Martindale is a man who has always placed the interests of his country, state and party above his own and who recently proved himself a graceful loger in the contest for the gubernatorial nomination at the primary election.

The name of State Senator Coleman C. Vaughan, of Clinton county, was forcefully presented by Attorney William Smith, of St. Johns. The only ballot resulted: Martindale, 1,043; Vaughan, 422.

William Smith, of St. Johns. The only ballot resulted: Martindale, 1,043; Vaughan, 422.

There was no fight on the nomination for attorney general, it having become evident before the delegates convened that Grant Fellows, of Hudson, would have a walkaway. When nomination were called for, Watts S. Humphrey, of Saginaw, rose and moved that the rules be suspended and the secretary be instructed to cast the entire vote of the convention for Mr. Fellows.

Jury to Investigate Graft Canes.

Appealing to the highest power of the state for assistance in probing and bringing to speedy justice the plunderbund that has made Detroit's name a by-word, Mayor William B. Thompson, of Detroit, made a fruitless journey to Lansing.

Governor Osborn, after hearing one of the most severe arraigments of a prosecuting officer ever delivered in the state capitol, decided that Prosecuting Attorney Hugh Shepherd had not yet reached a point where his actions called for the interference of the state.

point where his actions the interference of the state.

The governor commended in warmest terms the actions of Mayor investigations Thompson in pushing investigations into graft; in lending his personal and official strength to the task of cleaning up civic rottenness.

The Pennsylvania railroad has issued an order restricting trains on all points of the road from exceeding 70 miles an hour.

"Scuse me, boss, but they's a low-in' couple in the stateroom forward that is in a powerful hurry for this. I can't talk to you now. I'll see you later." And he swaggered off, leav-ing the door of the buffet open. The conductor paused to close it, glanced in, started, stared, glared, roared:
"What's this! Well, I'll be—a dog smuggled in here! I'll break that coon's head. Come out of there, you miserable or nary hound." He seized the incredulous Snoozleums by the secruff of his neck, growling, "It's you for the baggage car ahead," and dashed out with his prey, just as Mailorr, now getting new bearings on Marjorie's character, spoke across the rampart of his Napoleonically folded arms:

Train? Now, dearle, he was a nice dog, but after all, he was only a dog."
She rounded on him like a panther: "Only a dog! He was worth a dozen men like you. You find the conductor at once, command him to stop this train—and back up! I don't care if he has to go back ten miles. Run, tell him at once. Now, you run!"

Mallory stares at her as if she had gone mad, but he set out to run some-where, anywhere. Marjorte paced up and down distractedly, tearing her hair and meaning. Snoozleums, Snoozleums! My child. My poor child!"
At length her wildly roving eyes noted the bell rope. She stared, pondered, nodded her head, clutched at it, could not reach it, jumped for it several times in vain, then seized a chair, swung it into place, stood up in it, gripped the rope, and came down on it with all her weight, dropping to the floor and jumping up and down in a frenzied dance. In the distance the engine could be heard faintly whistling, whistling for every pull.

The engineer, far ahead, could not imagine what unbeard-of crisis could bring about such mad signals. The fireman yelled:

But there was no disputing the command. The engine was reversed, the air brakes set, the sand run out and every effort made to pull the iron horse, as it were, back on its

The grinding, squealing, joiting shook the train like an earthquake The shricking of the whistle froze the blood like a woman's cry of "Murblood like a woman's cry of "Mur-der!" in the night. The women among the passengers echoed the screams The men turned pale and braced Some of them were mumbling prayers. The train-crew and various passen gers descended and ran alongside the train asking questions. Panic gave way to mystery. Even Dr. Temple came back into the smoking room to finish a precious cigar he had been at work on. He was followed by Little Jimmle, who had not quite reached his wife when the stopping of the train put an end to his excuse for chivalry. He was regretfully mumbling:

"It would have been such a good shansh to shave my life's wife-mean my—I don't know what I mean He sank into a chair and ordered a drink; then suddenly remembered his vow, and with great heroism, rescind ed the order.

It began when Harootunian, himself, fell a victim to the bright eyes of an English lass. That was about five years ago. The marriage of the Harocumians was so blissful and re-sulted in so much happiness that he decided that the marriage of the 200 young Armenians of good stand-ing and sufficient worldly goods in this city would solve the problem of taking care of these flery young

"Merry Widows" Were Barred in This Ball Game

DETROIT, MICH.—Untutored women D who have not learned that one of the rules of baseball excludes outsid-ers from the diamond during a game. are learning better these days when they undertake to take the short cut across the city hall lawn.

Exciting contests are staged every afternon on the broad walk which runs from Fort to Griswold streets past the city hall steps. The teams are made up of "newsies," who while away the time when waiting for edi-tions. The space is somewhat limited for a life-size game, and ground rules mire a "dead" ball, improvised from tobacco pouch stuffed with paper

With one hand on the woman's shoulder, he made a jump for the new millinery ornament. The woman did not understand, and turned to protest and as she did so the half fell into the pitcher's hand, just in time to "paste" the base runner between third and home pists.

Prospects for the Beventh

National Debry Show, Chicago.

While this event has each year given evidence of its usefulness to the dairy world, yet the rounding out of the seven-year period promises to give to the country one of the most valuable educational shows ever presented. With the thought in mind that the importation of dairy products is growing to a dangerous amount and that present prices and general conditions concerning agriculture in America warrant a tremendous amount. America warrant a tremendous amount of work to stop the terrific drain upon our gold by foreign countries for products we should and must grow products we should and must grow at home, the attention of the management has been given entirely to the readering of practical demonstrations on lines of the maximum of producon lines of the maximum of production at the minimum of cost, of dairy products. While features of intense moment on sanitary and hygienic methods will be presented, yet the paramount work of this great educational show is for the farmer.

and marketing of dairy products will be discussed—in fact, everything that will tend to aid in profitable dairy farming will be here shown and talked over by the highest national authorities. The machinery depart-ment will have many active, interesting and instructive exhibits. It is the ing and instructive exhibits. It is the intention that every exhibitor shall have an opportunity to display his exhibit, wholly or in part, in active use, thus giving practical demonstrations under expert hands. But the cow and her place upon the farm will be the paramount issue; with $9,000,000 an-nually being shipped out of this coun-try for dairy products, the cow and how to increase her capacity has the patriotic citizens.

No farmer in the middle west, be he aiready engaged in dairying or not, can afford to overlook this ten-day short course in all that is best for the farm. In fact, this show has assumed a relation with farming and dairying that makes it the annual round-up of all affairs of the dairy world, where show-yard battles are settled for the season: where trades are made and where matters affecting the next year's work are discussed and planned.

The show will be held this year. commencing October 24, in the Inter-national Amphitheater, Chicago. While the show is National in name, it will be International in character, as by comparison alone are we able to see what is being accomplished the world over. Some new and useful classes are being added to the classification, which will be ready for distribution shortly. Adv.

SOME OF THE EXHIBITS.

One of the reasons for the assured greatness of the Toledo Industrial Exosition, which opens September 23 or two weeks, lies in the fact that Toledo has some of the foremost manufacturers in the state, and some of the city's factories are not only larger than any other similar factories in the world, but many exclusive com-modities and luxuries are manufact. nred only in Toledo.
