Home Made Cozy and Comfortable on Bleakest, Coldest Winter Days

Let it snow. Let it blow. Let the big north blizzards come. Let the thermometer drop to the zero mark. Let the weather man do his worst. You and your people needn't mind. Not even if the mercury freezes and your house is half buried in snow drifts.

—you will all be comfortable, cozy, warm, and happy if you have a "Garland" Heater or Base Burner in your home.

And when the price of coal and other fuel begins climbing, you will thank yourself a thousand times for having chosen a "Garland"—the kind that saves fuel.

Maybe you think there isn't much difference in stoves.

Well, you just step into our store at the very first opportunity and we'll show you there's a lot of difference.

We'll show you the handsomest Base Burner you ever saw. And then we will show you that it has one-fourth more heating surface than any other Base Burner.

Next, we'll introduce you to a "Garland" Heating Stove—a beauty. You'll like it at first glance; and still better when you note its fuel-saving construction and the price we quote you.

Come in now and see these stoves. We have them in many styles and prices.

If you don't buy, there's no harm done. We're willing to put our time against yours, just to have you see our offering. Don't forget that we deliver and set up stoves any place in town, free of charge. Do it in double-quick time—a clean, neat, attractive job.

Better look at these stoves today. Jack Frost is in the air.

Seats for the Lecture Course

Seats for the Lecture Course may be reserved at Jones' drug store Monday morning, November 4th, at 8 o'clock. The price of a season ticket is $1.00 with an additional cost of twenty-five cents for reserving a seat for the entire season. Student tickets sell for seventy-five cents and twenty-five cents for reservation. A new method is to be pursued in the reservation of seats this year. In the first place, each person is to reserve but four (4) seats. Heretofore, the number has been larger and the committee has received complaints that so many to each one works a hardship on others. It is expected that a limit of four to each person will help to remedy this defect. In the second place, a serial number is to be given to each person as he comes to the place of reservation. Then, when 8 o'clock comes these numbers will be called and as each number is called the person holding the number called will step up and reserve his seats. But if the one holding a number is not present when that number is called then he loses his place and must take another number. For example, the first one to appear at Jones' drug store on the morning of November 4th, will be given number 1. Then that person may go where he likes and return to the store at 8 o'clock when the reservation begins. When No. 1 is called he presents his number along with his season tickets and reserves his seats, not exceeding four. When he has made his selections number 2 is called and so on until all have made their reservations. But if number 1 does not show up at 8 o'clock when his number is called then he loses his place and must take another number. By the above plan it is hoped and expected that the reservation of seats will be made easier and more satisfactory to all. It will, at least, do away with the old custom of standing in line for several hours. Tickets are now in the hands of the business men. Secure your tickets before they are all taken, and remember the place and hour for reservation.

Our Popular Register.

We believe that honest, faithful service should be rewarded, therefore we commend to the electors of Wayne county, regardless of political affiliations, our present Register of Deeds,

Otto Stoll, who by adopting strictly business methods has been able to place the register of deeds office upon a paying basis for the first time in its history. Mr. Stoll has been complimented by every banking institution in Wayne county, also by resolution of the board of supervisors by a unanimous vote upon the able and economical manner in which he has conducted the affairs of that office.—Advertisement

The entertainment given last Friday evening in the opera house by H. J. Green and Miss Ruoy C. Smith assisted by Rev. B. F. Farber and Miss Bertha Beals was a rare treat, every number on the program was well rendered and an encore responded to. Special mention should be made of the rendition of King Robert of Sicily by Mr. Green. As a high class entertainment it merited better patronage, but on account of the inclemency of the weather, the opera house was only partially filled. Several who were unable to be present have expressed a wish that the entertainment might be repeated.

An Autumn Wedding.

At 4 p. m. Wednesday, in the presence of forty guests, a very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Drews, it also being the latter's 25th anniversary, when their daughter, Martha, was joined in happy wedlock to Mr. J. V. Horan of Rochester, N. Y., Rev. O. Peters officiating. The house was handsomely decorated in green and white. The bride wore a gown of Duchesse satin and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations. Miss Amelia Gayde, as bridesmaid, wore blue silk and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The groom was attended by the bride's brother, Edward Drews, of Saginaw. After the ceremony, which was the simple ring service, all repaired to the dining-room, where a generous repast was served.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. The happy couple left amid a shower of rice and the well wishes of their friends for an extended trip into Ohio and to points south and east. On their return they will make their home at 101 Oak street for the present.

SYNOPSIS.

Leut. Harry Mallory is ordered to the Philippines. He and Marjorie Temple decide to elope, but wreck of taxicab prevents their seeing minister on the way to the train. Transcontinental train is taking on passengers. Porter has a lively time with an Englishman and Ira Lathrop, a Yankee business man. The elopers have an exciting time getting to the train. "Little Jimmie" Wellington, bound for Reno to get a divorce, boards train in maudlin condition. Later Mrs. Jimmie appears. She is also bound for Reno with same object. Likewise Mrs. Sammy Whitcomb. Later blames Mrs. Jimmie for her marital troubles. Classmates of Mallory decorate bridal berth. Rev. and Mrs. Temple start on a vacation. They decide to cut loose and Temple removes evidence of his calling. Marjorie decides to let Mallory proceed alone, but train starts while they are lost in farewell. Passengers join Mallory's classmates in giving couple wedding hazing. Marjorie is distracted. Ira Lathrop, a woman-hating bachelor, discovers an old sweetheart, Annie Gattie, a fellow passenger. Mallory vainly hunts for a preacher among the passengers. Mrs. Wellington hears Little Jimmie's voice. Later she meets Mrs. Whitcomb. Mallory reports to Marjorie his failure to find a preacher. They decide to pretend a quarrel and Mallory finds a vacant berth. Mrs. Jimmie discovers Wellington on the train. Mallory again makes an unsuccessful hunt for a preacher. Dr. Temple poses as a physician. Mrs. Temple is induced by Mrs. Wellington to smoke a cigar. Sight of preacher on a station platform raises Mallory's hopes, but he takes another train. Missing hand baggage compels the couple to borrow from passengers. Jimmie gets a cinder in his eye and Mrs. Jimmie gives first aid. Coolness is then resumed. Still no clergyman. More borrowing. Dr. Temple puzzled by behavior of different couples. Marjorie's jealousy aroused by Mallory's baseball jargon. Marjorie suggests wrecking the train in hopes that accident will produce a preacher. Also tries to induce the conductor to hold the train so she can shop. Marjorie's dog is missing. She pulls the cord, stopping the train. Conductor restores dog and lovers quarrel. Lathrop wires for a preacher to marry him and Miss Gattie. Mallory tells Lathrop of his predicament and arranges to borrow the preacher. Klity Lewellyn, former sweetheart of Mallory's, appears and arouses Marjorie's jealousy. Preacher boards train. The preacher escapes Mallory by leaping from moving train.

Mallory caught his hand as it turned the knob of the door and drew him back. Marjorie, equally determined, caught his other elbow. "Please don't go," Mallory urged, "until you've married us."

The Reverend Charles stared at his captors in amazement: "But my dear man, the train's moving."

Marjorie clung all the tighter and invited him to "Come on to the next stop."

"But my dear lady," Selby gasped, "it's impossible."

"You've just got to," Mallory insisted. "Release me, please."

"Never!"

"How dare you!" the parson shrieked, and with a sudden wriggle writhed out of his coat, leaving it in Marjorie's hands. He darted to the door and flung it open, with Mallory hot after him.

The train was kicking up a cloud of dust and getting its stride. The kidnapped clergyman paused a moment, aghast at the speed with which the ground was being paid out. Then he climbed the brass rail and, with a hasty prayer, dropped overboard.

Mallory lunged at him, and seized him by his reversed collar. But the collar alone remained in his clutch. The parson was almost lost in the dust he created as he struck, bounded and rolled till he came to a stop, with his stars and his prayers to thank for injuries to nothing worse than his dignity and other small clothes.

Mallory returned to the observation room and flung the collar and bib to the floor in a fury of despair, howling: "He got away! He got away!"

CHAPTER XXXII.

The Empty Berth.

The one thing Mallory was beginning to learn about Marjorie was that she would never take the point of view he expected, and never proceed along the lines of his logic.

She had grown furious at him for what he could not help. She had told him that she would marry him out of spite. She had commanded him to pursue and apprehend the flying parson. He failed and returned crestfallen and wondering what new form her rage would take.

And, lo and behold, when she saw him so downcast and helpless, she rushed to him with caresses, cuddled his broad shoulders against her breast, and smothered him. It was the sincerity of his dejection and the complete helplessness he displayed that won her woman's heart.

Mallory gazed at her with almost more wonderment than delight. This was another flash of light on her character. Most courtships are conducted under a rose-light in which wooer and wooed wear their best clothes on their best behavior; or in a startle, moonlight, or gaslit twilight where romance softens angles and wraps everything in velvet shadow. Then the two get married and begin to live together in the cold, gray daylight of realism, with undignified necessities and harrowing situations at every step, and disillusion begins its deadly work.

This young couple was undergoing all the inconveniences and temper-exposures of marriage without its blessed compensations. They promised to be well acquainted before they were wed. If they still wanted each other after this ordeal, they were pretty well assured that their marriage would not be a failure.

Mallory rejoiced to see that the hurricane of Marjorie's jealousy had only whipped up the surface of her soul. The great depths were still calm and unmoved, and her love for him was in and of the depths.

Soon after leaving Ogden, the train entered upon the great bridge across the Great Salt Lake. The other passengers were staring at the enormous engineering masterpiece and the conductor was pointing out that, in order to save forty miles and the crossing of two mountain chains, the railroad had devoted four years of labor and millions of dollars to stretching a thirty-mile bridge across this inland ocean.

But Marjorie and Mallory never noticed it. They were absorbed in exploring each other's souls, and they had safely bridged the Great Salt Lake which the first big bitter jealousy spreads across every matrimonial route.

They were undisturbed in their voyage, for all the other passengers had their noses flattened against the window panes of the other cars—all except one couple, gazing each at each through time-wrinkled eyelids touched with the magic of a tardy honeymoon.

For all that Anne and Ira knew, the Great Salt Lake was a moon-swept lagoon, and the arid mountains of Nevada which the train went scaling, were the very hillsides of Arcadia.

But the other passengers soon came trooping back into the observation room. Ira had told them nothing of Mallory's confession. In the first place, he was a man who had learned to keep a secret, and in the second place, he had forgotten that such people as Mallory or his Marjorie existed. All the world was summed up in the fearfully happy little spinster who had moved up into his section—the section which had begun its career draped in satin ribbons unwittingly prophetic.

The communion of Mallory and Marjorie under the benison of reconciliation was invaded by the jokes of the other passengers, unconsciously ironic.

Dr. Temple chaffed them amiably: "You two will have to take a back seat now. We've got a new bridal couple to amuse us."

And Mrs. Temple welcomed them with: "You're only old married folks, like us."

The Mallorys were used to the misunderstanding. But the misplaced witticisms gave them reassurance that their secret was safe yet a little while. At their dinner-table, however, and in the long evening that followed they were haunted by the fact that this was their last night on the train, and no minister to be expected.

And now once more the Mallorys regained the star roles in the esteem of the audience, for once more they quarreled at good-night-kissing time. Once more they required two sections, while Anne Gattie's berth was not even made up. It remained empty, like a deserted nest, for its occupant had flown south.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Fresh Trouble Daily.

The following morning the daylight creeping into section number one found Ira and Anne staring at each other. Ira was tousled and Anne was unkempt, but her blush still gave her cheek at least an Indian summer glow.

After a violent effort to reach the space between her shoulder blades, she was compelled to appeal to her new master to act as her new maid.

"Oh, Mr. Lathrop," she stammered—"Ira," she corrected, "won't you please hook me up?" she pleaded.

Ira beamed with a second childhood boyishness: "I'll do my best, my little ootsum-tootsums, it's the first time I ever tried it."

"Oh, I'm so glad," Anne sighed, "it's the first time I ever was hooked up by a gentleman."

He gurgled with joy and, forgetting the poverty of space, tried to reach her lips to kiss her. He almost broke her neck and bumped his head so hard that instead of saying, as he intended, "My darling," he said, "Oh, hell!"

"Ira!" she gasped. But he, with all the proprietorship he had assumed, answered cheerily: "You'll have to get used to it, ducky darling. I could never learn not to swear." He proved the fact again and again by the remarks he addressed to certain refractory hooks. He apologized, but she felt more like apologizing for herself.

"Oh, Ira," she said, "I'm so ashamed to have you see me like this—the first morning."

"Well, you haven't got anything on me—I'm not shaved."

"You don't have to tell me that," she said, rubbing her smarting cheek. Then she bumped her head and gasped: "Oh—what you said."

This made them feel so much at home that she attained the heights of frankness and honesty by reaching in her handbag for a knob of supplementary hair, which she affixed dextrously to what was home-grown. Ira, instead of looking shocked, loved her for her honesty, and grinned:

"Now, that's where you have got something on me. Say, we're like a couple of sardines trying to make love in a tin can."

"It's cozy though," she said, and then vanished through the curtains and shyly ran the gauntlet of amused glances and over-cordial "Good mornings" till she hid her blushes behind the door of the women's room and turned the key. If she had thought of it she would have said, "God bless the man that invented doors—and the other angel that invented locks."

The passengers this morning were all a little brisker than usual. It was the last day aboard for everybody and they showed a certain extra animation, like the inmates of an ocean liner when land has been sighted.

Ashton was shaving when Ira swaggered into the men's room. Without pausing to note whom he was addressing, Ashton sang out:

"Good morning. Did you rest well?" "What?" Ira roared.

"Oh, excuse me!" said Ashton, hastily, devoting himself to a gash his razor had made in his cheek—even in that cheek of his.

Ira scrubbed out the basin, filled it and tried to dive into it, slapping the cold water in double handfuls over his glowing face and puffing through it like a porpoise.

Meanwhile the heavy-eyed Fosdick was slinking through the dining-car, regarded with amazement by Dr. Temple and his wife, who were already up and breakfasting.

"What's the matter with the bridal couples on this train, anyway?" said Dr. Temple.

"I can't imagine," said his wife, "we old couples are the only normal ones."

"Some more coffee, please, mother," he said.

"But your nerves," she protested. "It's my vacation," he insisted.

Mrs. Temple stared at him and shook her head: "I wonder what mischief you'll be up to today? You've already been smoking, gambling, drinking—have you been swearing, yet?"

"Not yet," the old cregyman smiled. "I've been saving that up for a good occasion. Perhaps it will rise before the day's over."

And his wife choked on her tea at the wonderful train-change that had come over the best man in Ypsilanti.

By this time Fosdick had reached the stateroom from which he had been banished again at the Nevada state-line. He knocked cautiously. From within came an anxious voice: "Who's there?"

"Whom do you expect?"

Mrs. Fosdick popped her head out like a Jill in the box. "Oh, it's you, Arthur. Kiss me good morning."

He glanced round stealthily and obeyed instructions: "I guess it's safe—my darling."

"Did you sleep, dovie?" she yawned. "Not a wink. They took off the Portland car at Granger and I had to sleep in one of the chairs in the observation room."

Mrs. Fosdick shook her head at him in mournful sympathy, and asked: "What state are we in now?"

"A dreadful state—Nevada."

"Just what are we in Nevada?"

"I'm a bigamist, and you've never been married at all."

"Oh, these awful divorce laws!" she moaned, then left the general for the particular: "Won't you come in and hook me up?"

Fosdick looked shocked: "I don't dare compromise you."

"Will you take breakfast with me in the dining-car?" she pleaded.

"Do we dare?"

"We might call it luncheon," she suggested.

He seized the chance: "All right, I'll go ahead and order, and you stroll in and I'll offer you the seat opposite me."

"But can't you hook me up?"

He was adamant: "Not till we get to California. Do you think I want to compromise my own wife? Shh! Somebody's coming!" And he darted off to the vestibule just as Mrs. Jimmie Wellington issued from number ten with hair askew, eyes only half open, and waist only half shut at the back. She made a quick spurt to the women's room, found it locked, stamped her foot, swore under her breath, and leaned against the wall of the car to wait.

What Figureheads Mean.

When the wall of a city was built or the foundation of a public building was laid in ancient times men used to supply the edifice with a guardian spirit by burying within it a human being. The ghost of the victim was supposed to take possession of the structure and bless it with good fortune.

And when a boat or ship was launched it was made to roll over the body of a man for the same purpose. Substitution of the bodies and blood of animals followed, and civilized peoples have softened the ceremony until only symbolic wine remains.

The figureheads upon ships are remnants of the custom of binding the body of the immolated god upon the prow at launching, and they are still regarded as mascots.

Bull Objected to Rider.

A millionaire rancher, of Pomona, Cal., was painfully injured, recently, while attempting to ride a large red Durham bull. He had made a wager with another rancher that he could remain on the bull's back for two minutes, faith in his ability to win the wager being based upon his experiences in broncho riding. He lost the bet by just 117 seconds, for three seconds after he mounted the animal's back, he was seated in the center of the corral nursing a badly wrecked hip and shoulder.

SAN JOSE SCALE IS PRIMARILY A PEST OF PEAR, PEACH AND OTHER FRUIT TREES

Extremely Important That Grower Should Know Just Which Plants Are Most Likely to Be Attacked by Little Insect—Some Serious Mistakes Made.

(By F. SHERMAN, JR.)

Trees that are badly infested with the San Jose Scale appear as if they had been dusted over with ashes. If the branches and twigs where the insects are numerous be scraped with a knife it will be seen that this unnatural covering is quite easily removed, coming off in little flaky patches. Each of the little circular gray objects is a separate scale, each covering a tiny yellow insect underneath. On thickly infested branches they often become so crowded that the scales are piled over one another so that the real bark of the tree is not visible at all. Branches and twigs which are only slightly or moderately infested will not be thus completely covered over, and the bark may be of its ordinary color and appearance except here and there along the branches where the scattering scales are found. The largest full-grown scales are about the size of an average pinhead. They can, therefore, be detected by any person who has in the beginning an intelligent idea of the insect, has sharp eyes, and who happens to look in the right place.

Usually the farmer or fruitgrower does not know that there is any serious trouble until the trees begin to die. By that time they are covered by the scales and present the ashy appearance. Then, if the owner finds that his trouble is San Jose scale, he is apt to think that it is only on those trees that present the unnatural appearance, when in reality it may already be on every tree in the orchard. Such a mistake often costs the lives of many trees, since the owner, instead of examining closely and treating every infested tree, as he should do, simply takes out those which are already in dying condition, and then, because he sees no more of similar appearance, he imagines he has exterminated it, when as a matter of fact other trees moderately or slightly infested still stand in the orchard and soon begin to die, having in the meantime spread the insect into still other trees, and so on, until the whole orchard may be ruined.

THE SAN JOSE SCALE.

Where the scales are not numerous enough to crowd one another each individual grows to somewhat larger size than when they are crowded. Where the scales are scattering along the branches each scale is often (but not always) in the center of a slightly reddened spot on the bark. If the natural color of the bark be reddish this will not show plainly, but if the bark be of a light green or yellow, the reddish spots are quite conspicuous. In looking for scale on slightly infested trees it may usually be more readily found by looking for these reddish spots than by looking for the scale itself, but close watch must be kept for both scales and blotches. If such a spot be found, however, it must then be examined to see if it is caused by a true scale-insect, for there are certain unimportant diseases which may have a similar effect. If the little gray, circular scale is found in the center of the spot, and if the scale is readily removed by scraping gently with a knife blade or the finger nail, then you may be pretty sure it is San Jose scale, and should at once send specimens to your state entomologist and find out.

Turn one of the scales over gently with the point of a knife. If it is one of the large full-grown scales the insect may as likely be dead as alive under it, for the scale adheres long after the insect is dead. If the insect is alive it will be seen as a little, yellow object, slightly egg shaped, but more pointed at one end, and slightly flattened. Indeed, it has been well described as resembling a tiny bit of cheese or yellow butter. Press the body with the point of the knife or pin and it is easily crushed, yielding a tiny bit of yellowish, oily liquid. If, on the other hand, the insect is dead, the dried body will likely be found simply as a thin yellowish-brown particle under the scale.

The San Jose scale is not capable of living and thriving on all kinds of plants, and it is extremely important that the grower should know which ones are most liable to attack. It is primarily a pest of orchard trees and it is an exception, rather than the rule, to find it on any other. Of the orchard fruits, peaches, plums, apples, pears, and cherries seem to be worst attacked and die most readily in the order named. Certain varieties, especially of pears, seem to show considerable resistance, the Keffler, Leconte, and Garber seeming to be less attacked than others, though by no means exempt. Sour cherries are also resistant.

Forest and shade trees are very seldom infested with the San Jose in harboring or spreading infection. Growers sometimes make serious and ridiculous mistakes on this point and give up hope because they imagine that the "scale is in the woods," or they try to destroy the forests which they suspect, or spend hours in a fruitless search for it on the forest or shade trees, and then, when they find a scale (which is some other species in nine cases out of ten) they think that they have surely found it.

Let us repeat, then, with greater emphasis, that the San Jose scale is primarily a pest of orchard fruit trees; it may also occur, but less frequently, on rose, grape, currant, goose-berry, mockorange, and Japan walnut, but forest and shade trees are not appreciable factors in harboring or spreading it.

Irish Use Dairy Waste.

Irish experts have invented a process by which dairy waste in combination with coarsely ground phosphate of lime and yeast makes a fertilizer which will return to the soil all of the phosphate removed by milk. Scientists claim this fertilizer is worth about $26 per ton while it costs only about half the amount to make it.

Small Cows.

Small cows may be good milkers at first, but they generally lack staying power. Large, coarse cows, are, on the other hand, likely to be costly feeders. A vigorous animal of fully average size and of the milk type is best.

NATIONAL DAIRY SHOW, CHICAGO, OCTOBER 24TH TO NOVEMBER 2D.

One Dozen Reasons Why You Should Attend.

1. You can see one thousand best representative cattle of best dairy breeds.
2. Government educational exhibits, showing best methods for preparing for market and marketing Dairy Products; what cows to own; feeds and feeding for best results. A skim-milk object lesson on calves.
3. Municipal Health Exhibit of Economical Methods in the handling of milk.
4. Pasteurizing, cooling and bottling a carload of milk each day. Full-sized country bottling plant.
5. Full-sized Creamery, making ton of butter each day, and lectures upon butter making.
6. Domestic science experts giving demonstrations and instructions on increased utilization of milk to reduce cost of living.
7. Instructive displays of silo construction (cement and wood), with instruction on "ensilage."
8. Acres of whirling active machinery, showing most modern achievements of man in the Economics of the Dairy.
9. Acres of modern farm machinery and dairy barn devices, with instruction as to their use.
10. The judgment of world's best experts in selecting the best types of cows for your use.
11. Shows and exhibitions are milestones marking progress; by comparison alone can we keep up with all that tends to advance our interests.

In these twelve reasons why you should attend the National Dairy Show in October, we believe an analysis will discover to you that the Show contains ten days of education on the highest standards of farm life. Dairy states are rich states, dairy countries are rich countries, and the men and women engaging in intelligent dairying are the successful men and women of our country.

Farmers as one-half of the social world, furnishing food and raw materials to the other half and receiving from it the comforts, instruction and pleasures of life, should put themselves into the closest ministrations to the mechanical, professional and commercial sides of their industry. Inter-course is enlightenment. Adv.

A high priced box at the opera seems less expensive to some people than the cheapest church pew.

Diplomacy in Small Things.

Little Eloise Cave, aged seven years, was visiting her grandmother in Madison, Va., and was sent to carry a saucer of ice cream to a neighbor. By the exercise of infinite care she conveyed her burden safely to the house and gave it into the hands of the lady for whom it was intended. The lady, however, was less careful than Eloise had been, and dropped the saucer and broke it.

"You needn't mind about that," said the little diplomat, without an instant's hesitation. "I don't think grandma was a cup to match the saucer. If she has I will go right home and break it myself."—Popular Magazine.

Accelerated Brain Activity.

In the early days of Wisconsin, two of the most prominent lawyers of the state were George B. Smith and I. S. Sloan, the latter of whom had a habit of injecting into his remarks to the court the expression, "Your honor, I have an idea." A certain case had been dragging along through a hot summer day when Sloan sprang to his feet, with his remark, "Your honor, I have an idea."

Smith immediately bounded up, assumed an impressive attitude, and in great solemnity said:

"May it please the court, I move that a writ of habeas corpus be issued by this court immediately to take the learned gentleman's idea out of solitary confinement."—Popular Magazine.

COLUMBIAN BREED RESULT OF ACCIDENT

Just because a White Wyandotte hen found a hole in a fence and crawled through, a new breed of poultry came into existence, according to the Suburban Life. There was a flock of Barred Plymouth Rocks on the other side of the fence, and when the eggs of the White Wyandotte were incubated the birds were of a kind never seen before. With the size and shape of a Wyandotte, they were marked like light Brahmas. Rev. B. M. Briggs, who originated the White Wyandottes, was so well pleased with this accidental cross that he mated and culled until he had fixed the type. Thus it is that new breeds are sometimes made. All this happened some time before the Columbian exposition, in honor of which event the new breed was given the name of Columbian Wyandotte.

Hugh Shepherd for Prosecuting Attorney.

Hugh Shepherd was appointed to the office of prosecuting attorney of Wayne county on the 4th of October, 1911, to fill vacancy caused by the resignation of the previous incumbent. Since that time M. Shepherd has devoted every moment of his time to the duties devolving upon him. The city and county have been rid of loan sharks, who were fleecing the public out of thousands of dollars. The vice dens of the city have been put out of business, and little girls saved from ruin. The medical quacks and fakers who operated upon the innocent citizens have been suppressed, as a result of which large sums of money and unlimited suffering have been saved to our people.

Over five hundred slot machines and gambling devices that were teaching our boys to gamble were seized and confiscated. Cases implicating certain Detroit aldermen in corrupt practices have been vigorously prosecuted, with the result that twenty-one such cases have been bound over to the Recorder's court for trial.

Since Mr. Shepherd has been in office he has surrounded himself with a capable staff of assistants, regardless of political affiliations, and has insisted that all persons accused of crime be given a speedy trial, with the result that the present criminal dockets is free from old cases, and cleaned up to date.

Mr. Shepherd is running entirely on his record as a public prosecutor, and if you approve of his manner of conducting his office, he earnestly solicits your vote at the coming election on Tuesday, November 5th.—Advertisement.

A Beautiful Woman
Always has a fine clear complexion. Many more women would be beautiful if they could only get rid of sallowness, pimples and blotches. These are symptoms of a torpid liver and the right remedy for a bad liver is DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED PILLS. They put the liver in order, sweeten the breath and clear the skin of sallowness and blotches. Besides they make you feel bright and cheerful. Price 25 cents per package. Sold by Jones, the Druggist and Boyer's Pharmacy.

LIVONIA CENTER.

Mrs. John Baze, Jr., is a great sufferer with inflammatory rheumatism. Born, to Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Prek of Detroit, Oct. 20, a girl, weight 7 lbs. All doing nicely.
The bazaar at the church parlors Saturday evening was a great success in every way.

Mrs. Geo. Wolfrom figured in a runaway on Plymouth road Friday. She was shook up quite badly, but is doing nicely now.

Glen McEachran is home again, after a few weeks' stay in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Grona Woodruff and other Detroit friends called on Mrs. John Cort Sr. at the old home last Sunday.

Frank Carr is working for Herman Johnson.

I will be glad to make over your hat or sell you a new one. Mrs. Dickerson, 2 1/2 miles west of Livonia Center, phone 910 1135.

NEWBURG.

There was quite a large attendance at church Sunday last to hear the talk on temperance. When the women vote, there's no question but temperance wins the day. Services at the usual hour. Rev. Dutton will preach. Every one invited to remain to Sunday-school.

Several from here attended the fair at Livonia Center last Saturday eve.

Miss Carrie Baker, former teacher here, spent Monday and Tuesday with Mrs. Clark Mackender.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Clements spent a few days in the city this week.

Arthur LeVan, Leigh Ryder and Walter Seiloff have gone to Sidnaw, U. P., on a hunting expedition and expect to be away about two weeks.

Sign for the Plymouth Mail at the 5 and 10c counter with Miss Hattie Hoisington at the Fair Friday afternoon and evening of this week.

J. W. Copeland, of Dayton, Ohio, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for his boy who had a cold, and before the bottle was all used the boy's cold was gone. Is that not better than to pay a five dollar doctor's bill? For sale by all dealers.

STARK.

George Kuhn's store was discovered on fire Tuesday by one of the men working at Stark, but was extinguished before much damage was done. It is thought the fire caught from a passing train.

Mr. Harlow spent Tuesday in Detroit. C. E. Maynard is on the sick list. His son Joe of Plymouth spent Sunday with him.

Mrs. George Kuhn is on the sick list. Mrs. George Chilson has a nephew visiting her from California.

Fire was discovered in John Bennett's old barn Monday night about 9 o'clock. Fortunately the barn was empty, but a new corn binder and a set of harness stored in it were destroyed.

Republicans Will Hold Rally in the Opera House, Friday Evening November 1st

Arrangements have been made to hold a Republican rally at the opera house, Friday evening, November 1st, at 7:30 o'clock. Congressman W. W. Wedemeyer of Ann Arbor, will address the meeting. Mr. Wedemeyer is a most able speaker, and it will be well worth while to come out and hear him discuss the political problems of the day. The Plymouth band will furnish music.

OBITUARY

Geo. D. Hall died Thursday, Oct. 24, at 6:40 a. m., of pernicious anaemia, aged 54 years, 7 months and 16 days. Deceased was born at Albion, Mich., March 8, 1858, and removed with his parents to this place in the fall of 1862, residing here most of the time since. He learned railroading in 1882-3, and succeeded J. R. Rauch as agent of the old F. and P. M. depot here in 1884, continuing until his transfer to Monroe in 1897. In 1898 he returned here and was foreman in L. H. Bennett's shop that year, and later was appointed foreman in the Markham shops, continuing there until last May, when his health had been so impaired that he was obliged to discontinue work. His health began failing gradually about three years ago.

Funeral will be held Saturday, Oct. 26th, at his late residence, at 2 o'clock p. m., Rev. Farber officiating. Interment in Riverside.

WOMAN SICK TWELVE YEARS

Wants Other Women to Know How She Was Finally Restored to Health.

Louisiana, Mo.:—"I think a woman naturally dislikes to make her troubles known to the public, but complete restoration to health means so much to me that I cannot keep from telling mine for the sake of other suffering women."

"I had been sick about twelve years, and had eleven doctors. I had dragging down pains, pains at monthly periods, bilious spells, and was getting worse all the time. I would hardly get over one spell when I would be sick again. No tongue can tell what I suffered from cramps, and at times I could hardly walk. The doctors said I might die at one of those times, but I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got better right away. Your valuable medicine is worth more than mountains of gold to suffering women."

—Mrs. BERTHA MUFF, 503 N. 4th Street, Louisiana, Mo.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

HAPPENINGS IN THE CITIES

One New York Policeman's Devotion to Duty

NEW YORK.—A new form of torture for policemen, more painful than graft investigations, more painful than winter wind whipping around a fixed post, and possessed of possibilities as deadly as the burglar's bullet, was put to the test on placid Washington Heights the other night and described in Harlem court the other morning by a red faced young policeman.

Facing the victim—Policeman Geiger of the West One Hundred and Fifty-second street station—as he told Magistrate House about it, was a handsome, dark haired woman, who frequently blushed and murmured "Impossible! Oh, I couldn't have done that!"

"Yes, your honor, she kissed me," stammered Geiger. "Right out in the middle of Amsterdam avenue at One Hundred and Fortieth street she kissed me, and there's nothing in the manual that says part of a policeman's duty is being kissed by strangers." "Couldn't you have escaped if you didn't like it?" asked the court. "I was on fixed post, your honor," groaned the youthful guardian of the peace.

"Oh," said his honor, "that's devotion to duty!" "Yes, sir: it was like this. I was standing there all alone about 1:30, wondering where all the people were. Suddenly some one grabs me from behind and two strong arms are wrapped around my neck. The first thing I thought, of course, was 'gangsters!' It seemed whoever it was was trying to garrote me and I started to fight for my life.

"But I couldn't shake off those powerful arms. The best I could do was to squirm around so that I faced the—the—the assailant. And, your honor, it was this lady.

"Then she kissed me, and that's not the worst of it, for by this time a big crowd had collected and women were yelling and men were shouting."

Mrs. Margaret Hoeft, who said she was 30 and lived at 1071 Freeman street, the Bronx, smiled sweetly but incredulously as she paid a ten dollar fine. She said Geiger looked like a truthful young officer, and she wouldn't dispute his word, though she didn't remember a thing about it.

Deacon Given Plenty of Time for Meditation

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—"Some folks say that a nigger won't steal," are among the lines of a song that is very popular with the street corner quartets, and of course is sung in an ironical vein. As a matter of fact, however, to the casual observer at the daily sessions of the police court here are few negroes who steal.

The other morning an under-sized, brown-skinned negro was arraigned before the recorder's court on a charge of petit larceny. He gave his name as Charles Reader, and also informed John Douglas that he was a member of the Baptist church and a deacon at that. The specific charge against the diminutive Ethiopian was the theft of half a dozen watch fobs.

The store detective stated that he observed the defendant lingering around the counter whereon is displayed an assortment of jewelry that fairly dazzles the eye—that is when the electric lights were all ablaze—and that he further observed the negro shove a watch fob on the floor and cover it with his foot. He watched the operation repeated until no less than half a dozen fobs, resplendent with jewels that rivalled the colors of the rainbow, were on the floor and covered by the ample feet of the little deacon.

"Are you guilty of attempting to steal the articles referred to?" asked the judge.

"Ah doesn't deny dat ma fut war on dat jewelry, but bit slipped offen de counter an' ah jest couldn't 'sist kiverin' hit wid ma shoe."

"Did the other article slip off the counter also?"

"Jedge, hit war cur'os how dem oders got ter de flo' dat must er bin dar all ready an' jedge, while ah stood dar somethin' came ter ma mind dat ah had bettah put dem back on de counter an' jest as ah war pickin' dem up ah war 'rested."

"Deacon, it is evident that you are given to meditation and for one of your peculiar talents your opportunity for such should be increased. In order to give you plenty of time to reflect I will assess you $25 and 25 days extra."

Police Stop Shower of Vegetables at a Feast

CLEVELAND, O.—While Patrolmen Mangan and Oliver went to 1420 Caton court the other day to investigate a riot call they were the target for tomatoes, bricks, dishpans and old shoes, thrown, police say, with surprisingly good aim by four colored persons in the house. When the bombardment ceased the officers placed the quartet under arrest.

At the station they gave the names of Mary Redmond, fifty-three years old; Bertha Owens, twenty-seven years old; Mary Jefferies, fourteen years old and Thomas Owens, thirty-nine years old. All gave their address as 1420 Caton court.

The police say the four had a chicken feast in the house. Dinner started at 12 o'clock. At 2 o'clock neighbors thought the "Honey Boy Evans troupe" had forgotten to leave town and were having another ball game in the vicinity. They notified the police.

Lieutenant Sterling sent the officers there on the run. When they knocked at the door it was opened.

"What's all the noise about?" asked Oliver.

"We am just celebratin', ain't we, folks," said Owens.

"And we sure are some celebrants," said one of the women as she hurled a bottle at the officers. It whistled by Oliver's ear, and tomatoes, bricks and dishes followed. The door was then bashed shut and the two officers, their appearance decidedly marred, held a conference. Oliver wiped the remains of a tomato off his face while Mangan nurses a bump on his head. They decided to break down the door and rush the inhabitants.

They did and after a free-for-all fight the quartet was arrested. The wagon was called and the celebrants rolled away. They are charged with assault and battery. As the Jefferies girl is under age she will be turned over to the juvenile authorities.

Angry Cook Creates Havoc With Soup Dishes

CHICAGO.—Unfortunately for the customers and waiters in E. Clayton's restaurant, 446 North Clark street, the cook was not feeling well that night. The cook was Miss Emma Johnson and the night Monday.

Something, as yet unrevealed, but hinted at as indigestion, had spoiled Miss Johnson's temper in the afternoon, and by evening she was in such a rage that the waiters, accustomed to take a customer's order with that superior air many waiters have, were subdued and almost subservient in their attitude, even toward those who ordered "ham and."

fly in every direction, and with vigor. Imagination cannot picture the ensuing scene—overturned soup tureens, diners covered with gravy, others making for the door with sprays in their hair, others straggling on hot coffee suddenly swallowed as they received an unexpected blow on the chin from one of the pieces of Miss Johnson's artillery—but why prolong the agony?

That Miss Johnson was fined ten dollars and costs by Municipal Judge Maxwell because of her temper may be some consolation to the waiters, but it is understood that customers who since its display have invested generously in digestion tablets continue unimpaired. Miss Johnson is thirty-five years old.

MICHIGAN BREVITIES

Battle Creek.—Gov. Chase S. Osborn and his brother, D. D. Osborn, will shortly commence the construction of a sanitarium at Three Rivers, which, when finished, will cost $100,000. The treatment and cure of locomotor ataxia will be the object of the institution. Tentative sites are being figured on now and several architects have been instructed to submit plans.

Saginaw.—O. L. Arnston, a local engraver, completed engraving on the head of an ordinary pin the English alphabet, Mich., 1912, and his initials, O. L. A. Of course it is impossible to discern the characters with the naked eye, but with the use of a jeweler's magnifying glass the letters are seen to be properly spaced, and not one of them joins another.

Grand Rapids.—Harry Schmitt of Cleveland and A. E. McGraw of Milwaukee, confessed white-slavers under the Mann act, were each sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., by Judge Clarence W. Sessions in the United States district court. They imported here two girls, Josephine Martin of Cleveland and Opal Fisher of Milwaukee.

Kalamazoo.—Driving his machine nearly forty miles an hour, an unidentified man ran down Harley Baxter, dangerously injuring him. He did not stop his machine, but increased its speed and within another block struck Fino Devrie, knocking him from a bicycle and seriously hurting him. The auto number was so blurred people could not read it. It is not believed the two injured men will die.

Detroit.—Alarmed because he did not communicate with the house, nephews of Samuel Humphrey, 231 Baltimore avenue west, a watchman for Lennane Bros. on some contract work for the Michigan Central railway, started in search of him and found his body on the tracks. He had been struck by a switch engine. Coroner Rothacher was called. Humphrey was sixty-eight years old.

Bay City.—It cost Bay county $25,231.98 to take care of its paupers and indigent people during the last fiscal year, according to a report submitted to the supervisors by the poor commission. Of the amount $7,847.20 was expended in the care of the 96 persons who were housed at the county farm.

Jonesville.—The house and all the outbuildings on the farm of Arthur Merchant of Scipio township were destroyed by fire. The insurance of $7,000 will not cover the loss.

Hillsdale.—Although no defense was made and evidence was offered by the prosecution showing that the child was strung up by her thumbs for 30 minutes so that her toes barely touched the floor; that she was whipped for 15 minutes to make her own up to a lie; that she was tied to the bed with her hands above her head; that she was whipped until the welts bled—yet the jury in the circuit court acquitted David Miller of unlawfully punishing his five-year-old stepdaughter, Beatrice Bowen.

Muskegon.—Edward Fromme, thirty-five years old, who when under the influence of liquor is said to have a mania for breaking into other people's houses and sleeping there, was shot and killed by Sheriff Fred Nelson, when, according to the officer, he attempted to break into the county jail. He was entering the kitchen window of the jail building when the shot fired.

Houghton.—A forest fire of serious proportions is raging between the villages of South Range and Trimountain, 20 miles from here. The villages are mining towns, unequipped for fighting serious fires, and much anxiety is felt. The Northern Forest Protective association is taking steps to confine the fires.

Morrice.—A $1,500 fire occurred in Bancroft, burning to the ground a cider mill owned by Charles Hunt. There was no insurance. The fire originated about the boiler it is thought and gained headway. This place noticed the fire and telephoned to parties east of town thinking it was a farm residence.

Kalamazoo.—C. H. Snyder of Lawton was thrown from his wagon here and dangerously injured. Snyder struck on his head on a brick pavement when his team started to run away. He lies unconscious in Borgess hospital with a fractured skull.

Grand Rapids.—Kicked in the nose and out of a window by the man whose room he was robbing, Beindert Kuipers was quickly convicted of burglary here. The swollen proboscis caused his conviction. The jury was out 13 minutes. Kuipers was surprised while robbing a local residence, the owner kicking him out of a second-story window. Identification and arrest occurred three days later, when detectives spotted the enlarged olfactory organ while Kuipers was listening to the world's series baseball reports.

POLLY VICTIM OF DECEPTION

Bird Realized Period Between Its Temporary Oblivion Had Been Materially Cut Short.

The Goodleys have a sailor son, who on one occasion brought home a parrot for the amusement and enlightenment of the family. They kept it for the sake of the donor—on no other account would it have been given house room. Of course, it was a perfectly respectable bird—occasionally; but on Sunday evenings, when young Mr. Sainly paid his regular visit, it was deemed advisable to cover Polly with a cloth.

Recently, however, Mr. S. took advantage of a half-holiday accruing to him, and made an extra call on the Wednesday. As he was ushered in Miss Mary Goodley dexterously threw the cloth over Polly's cage. Greetings over, there ensued the usual awkward pause, which was broken by a squawk from the covered cage.

"Well, I'll be everlastingly blessed," said Polly. "This has been a thundering short week!"

Out of Fashion.
"I see where fluffy skirts saved a girl from drowning in the Chicago river recently. The old styles were the best styles after all."
"Huh, she probably tried to drown herself because she had to wear the fluffies."

HANDS ITCHED AND BURNED

Abbotsford, Wis.—"My son had eczema on his hands for about one year. The eczema started with a rash. His hands were sore so he could not close them, and when he wet his hands they hurt him so he could hardly wash. His hands itched and burned just terrible, and if he would scratch them, they would break out into sores. He could not get any rest or sleep, and his hands looked quite bad.

"We had medicine and salve and it kept getting worse all the time. I got some Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after washing his hands with the Cuticura Soap and putting some of the Cuticura Ointment on two times a day and trying cloths on them for about six months they got well and have not broken out since. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured him entirely." (Signed) Mrs. Lawrence Kiehl, Feb. 13, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

MORE LOCAL.

Mrs. Fred Drews gave a kitchen shower at her home on Fair Ground avenue last week Thursday evening for her sister, Martha Drews. About 20 guests were present and the bride-to-be received many useful gifts. Light refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed by all.

The team of horses hitched to Paul Naab's milk wagon indulged in a lively runaway Monday morning. The team was standing near the P. M. depot alone when they became frightened at something and ran away. When near Fisher's blacksmith shop, the animals turned and ran up over the new cement walk on the south side of the street into the open field. Here they broke away from the wagon, which was badly smashed up as a result.

A business meeting of the managers of the several elevators owned by the J. D. McLaren Co. was held at the general offices of the company in this village, Monday afternoon. At six o'clock the visiting managers were entertained at a banquet at Plymouth House, Landlord Harriman serving and elegant dinner. The managers of the company's elevators at Olivet, Ionia, Collins, South Lyon, Wixom, Clare, Charlotte, Romulus and Oxford were present.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The first grade have just begun to use readers.

Miss Williams is taking the place of Miss Hanford, whose mother is very ill.

Our hearts were gladdened by the return of Hilda Smye, who has been ill for some time.

The prizes from our educational exhibit at the state fair amounted to $25. Let us make it a hundred next year.

A number of pupils, both in the high school and grades, are keeping up with the times by the use of Current Events.

The domestic science classes have been making lately rice pudding with carmel sauce and escalloped potatoes, with blanched potatoes.

The boys of the Agricultural II. class have just begun the study of forestry. In connection therewith they have started seed beds for trees.

In the first grade this year there have been eighteen neither absent nor tardy; in the fourth, twenty-six out of forty-four have been neither absent nor tardy; in the fifth, twenty-five out of thirty-three.

Mr. Isbell has a ticket to the National Dairy Show, which takes place in Chicago Oct. 24 to Nov. 2, 1912. He will be glad to give it to any farmer in the community who is interested enough to call for it.

The first home game of foot ball will be played on Friday, Oct. 25th, at 3:30 sharp. Everybody come. For fifty cents, season tickets for the five home games can be secured from any boy of the foot ball team.

A Hallowe'en party will be given next week Wednesday afternoon by the kindergarten and by the first grade, to which the mother are invited. The second and fifth grades are also planning Hallowe'en parties.

Watch for items about the Year Book which is being prepared by the Plymouth High. The following compose the board of editors: Editor-in-chief, Maurine Jones; business manager, Clarence Wright; assistant business manager, Myron Beals; literary editor, Sadie Paulger; joke editor, Helen VanDeCar; assistant joke editor, Harold Joliffe; art editor, Daryl Downs; assistant art editor, Harvey Springer; athletic editor, Leslie Hudd; fresman editor, Egbert Isbell; sophomore editor, Margaret LeVan; junior editor, Ann Christenson.

When you have a bad cold you want the best medicine obtainable so as to cure it with as little delay as possible. Here is a druggist's opinion: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for fifteen years," says Enos Lollar of Saratoga, Ind., "and consider it the best on the market." For sale by all dealers.

GENERAL ELECTION 1912.

The Right Man for the Place

Regardless of a voter's choice of candidates for other public offices, national, state, county or city, he can make no mistake by selecting Hon. Edgar O. Durfee as his choice for the office of Judge of Probate.

Judge Durfee has stood the test as a public servant and the good he has done for those in need cannot be over estimated.

There is no public position quite like that of probate judge. It is to the probate judge that one turns in the hour of sorrow. The widow seeks the judge of probate to have her rights safeguarded. The orphan finds a real friend in the probate judge. The legal rights of the unfortunate person who suffers from mental disease are maintained through the acts of the judge of probate.

It follows that honesty, integrity and fairness are absolutely necessary when it comes to filling properly the office of probate judge. It can be seen that the successful judge of probate must so conduct himself as to command the respect of all citizens irrespective of politics.

Such a man is Judge Edgar O. Durfee. Nationality, creed or political inclination cuts no figure when it comes to the enforcement of the law. Every man stands equal when he enters Judge Durfee's court.

Judge Durfee is always willing to give advice to those who ask it. Not only citizens, but many attorneys take advantage of Judge Durfee's long experience and seek his views on complicated probate matters.

AMENDMENTS.

To the electors of Plymouth township: You are hereby notified that an amendment to Section Twenty-one of Article III of the Constitution of this State, relative to the right of women to vote; also an amendment to Section Twenty-one of Article VIII of the Constitution of this State, relative to the amendment of the charters of cities and villages, shall be submitted to the qualified electors of Wayne county on Tuesday, November fifth, nineteen hundred twelve.

EDWARD GAYDE,
Township Clerk.

REGISTRATION NOTICE.

To the Electors of the Township of Plymouth.

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the Board of Registration of the township above named will be held at Brown & Pettingill's store, in the village of Plymouth, on Saturday, October 26, 1912.

For the purpose of registering the names of all such persons who shall be possessed of the necessary qualifications of electors, and who may apply for that purpose, and said Board of Registration will be session on the day and at the place aforesaid from 9 o'clock in the forenoon until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose aforesaid.

By order of the Township Board of Registration.

EDWARD GAYDE,
Township Clerk

CASE FOR TENNIS RACQUET

Will Be Found of Considerable Use in the Remaining Weeks of Warm Weather.

A useful thing to make and one that will certainly be required in many households, is a case for a tennis racquet. It should be carried out in some strong light material, such as brown holland, linen or crash, and bound at the edges with braid. It can be cut out in two pieces, and to determine the shape and size it is a good plan to place the racquet upon the material and draw a line round it with a piece of chalk, allowing plenty of space for the width of the racquet.

Two different kinds of cases are shown in our sketches, the lower case being, perhaps, the more simple to make, but the upper case (c) will more effectively cover up and protect the racquet from damp. The one is furnished with a flap that folds over the broad end of the racquet, fastens down with two buttons and button-holes, the other merely opens at the broad end, and the material folds back to the dotted line indicated by a and a, to admit the placing of the racquet in the case handle first, the two sides being then drawn together and fastened with ribbon strings.

Diagram b shows the racquet inserted in the case prior to this being done. With both the cases cord handles are sewn on at the sides for carrying purposes.

Here's a Champion Nature Faker. See a case was telling Sam about the longevity of the mud turtle. "Yes," said Sam, "I know all about that, for once I found a venerable old fellow in a meadow who was so old that he could scarcely wiggle his tail, and on his back was carved (tolerably plain, considering all things), these words: 'Paradise, Year 1, Adam.'"
