O. E. S. ENTERTAINMENT.

The members of the Eastern Star Chapter have engaged Mr. H. J. Green to repeat his entertainment, with changes in the miscellaneous program, at the opera house, Tuesday evening, Nov. 12. General admission downstairs, 25c; gallery, 20c.

Persons purchasing tickets can have them reserved without extra charge by taking them to Jones' drug store.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.

A Man Who Has Done Things For Prosecuting Attorney

At the coming election, to be held on November 5th, one of the most important offices to be voted for is that of Prosecuting Attorney. The record of Hugh Shepherd, present incumbent of that office, is such that every honest citizen believing in clean government should give him his support. He has held this important office for a few days more than a year, and during that time has accomplished many things, in addition to keeping up the regular routine work of the office and courts, which are worthy of consideration.

His campaign against the slot machine evil, loan sharks, quack doctors and vice dens are such as cannot but have the approbation of all interested in clean government.

The following newspaper endorsement is worthy of note:

"William F. Connolly has upheld the statute against loan sharks, and thereby vindicated the intense campaign against them by Prosecutor Shepherd."

The people of Wayne County have a double gratification in this. One is in the assurance that the day of the loan shark is ended in Detroit.

The second gratification to the people is the legal victory of Prosecutor Shepherd. He has often been accused of being a mere desk counselor, a book lawyer.

Now he has emerged into court, not to try one loan case on clear evidence, but to bring the entire law against an entire body of lawbreakers.

He was not there to do a spectacular thing like sending a fascinatingly interesting murderer to Jackson for life. . . . He was there to see the law justified in itself for the protection of the poor and the safeguarding of the needy. A series of fine legal points were at issue. He had to contend with a wily and resourceful and fully armed legal opponent. His victory proved his ability, his legal knowledge, and last but not least, his persevering industry.

And Mr. Shepherd won. With him the poor won; the needy made a victory. . . . Usury is permanently entered on the black books of the State. The law is proved, and the man who enforced the law and then proved the validity of the law in court is doubly vindicated.—THE DETROIT JOURNAL, MAY 10, 1912.

If elected to the office of Prosecuting Attorney, Mr. Shepherd promises to put into the work of his office all of the energy and zeal which he possesses, and to protect the interests of the honest people against the dishonest at all times.—Advertisement.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle of Hillsdale are visiting at Elmer Toumey's.

The Lecture Course

Attractions

The first number on the Lecture Course will be on Friday, Nov. 8, by Prof. T. C. Trueblood of Michigan University, who will give a reading of "Julius Caesar." He will be assisted by a male quartette from the University.

The second number comes on Tuesday, Nov. 26. On this date "The Raweis" present in song, story and picture a most unique and fascinating entertainment, portraying the native life of the South Sea Islands. This company is composed of three native New Zealanders who wear the native costume and portray the life of their native land.

On Thursday, Dec. 12, come "The Hussars." This is an organization of some nine men who give an entertainment of military and musical features. They give a variety of songs, choruses and drills. They are called "The Hussars" because they show a number of the beautiful maneuvers of the German soldiers in costume. Six members of the company form a brass sextet and the remaining three a drum corps.

The fourth attraction comes on Friday, Jan. 17. "The Anitas" are an organization composing a singing orchestra. They present a great variety of music. In many of their numbers they appear in costume. They are equally entertaining as singers, players or pantomimists.

On Friday, Feb. 21, comes the fifth number. On this date Dr. George R. Stuart gives a lecture. This man comes to us very highly recommended. It is said that he speaks to more people annually than any other man in the south. One has said of him: "In all his addresses brilliancy of wit is beautifully combined with wisdom of thought and sweetness of spirit."

The last attraction comes on Wednesday, March 5th. Dr. William A. Colledge comes for a lecture on that date. This man has had a varied and ripe experience. He has traveled all over the world and is an author and educator of note. We are assured that he will be instructive, entertaining and humorous.

A Sudden Death

While attending the entertainment at the opera house last Tuesday evening, Mrs. Laura Wilcox was stricken with heart trouble. Dr. Patterson being present, immediately came to her aid and she was removed to her daughter's home on Union street, but expired before she reached there.

Laura Smith Wilcox was born in Michigan in 1843 and was married to William Wilcox fifty years ago last February. The deceased was the mother of five children, four of whom are living—Mrs. Belle Driver and Mark Wilcox of Howell, Charles of Detroit, and Mrs. Maude Steinmetz of this place.

The remains were taken to Howell, where the funeral will be held to-day and the will be laid to rest beside her husband, who died about two and a half years ago.

Mrs. Wilcox came to Plymouth a short time ago to remain with her daughter during the winter.

Large Crowd Attends

Home Talent Play

A crowd that taxed the capacity of the opera house, witnessed the presentation of the play, "Golden Gulch" by local talent under the direction of Bruce Chesterman, for the benefit of the fire department, Tuesday evening. The play deals with life in a western mining camp and abounds in stirring situations and climaxes. Every one of the players in the cast took their part well and are deserving of much credit for their efforts. Miss Ada Pitcher, as "Joy," a girl of the hills, took that difficult part in such clever manner that it would have done credit to a professional. Mrs. Lolla Brown, as Henrietta Wells, a Boston school-ma'am; Maurice Campbell, as Judge Thompson; John Quastell, as Hank Williams; Howard Brown as Jim Gordon, a forty-niner; Archie Collins, as Julian Gray, a tenderfoot; Mrs. Lulu Quastell, as Edna O'Rafferty and Steve Jewell, as Jake Dalton, are deserving of special mention. Penny's orchestra, composed of Russel and Miss Corina Penny, Lester VanDeCar and Ezra Butner rendered several selections during the evening that were greatly appreciated. Steve Jewell sang a solo that was nicely rendered and responded to an encore.

The firemen will net a nice little sum as a result of the entertainment, and they wish through the columns of the Mail to extend their hearty thanks to the players, orchestra and all others who in any way contributed to its success.

Is your husband cross? An irritable, fault-finding disposition is often due to a disordered stomach. A man with good digestion is nearly always good natured. A great many have been permanently cured of stomach trouble by taking Chamberlain's Tablets. For sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.

Mrs. Chas. Gentz has gone to Detroit to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Neuman.

Mrs. Bert and Mrs. Floyd Wooster of South Lyon were guests at Elmer Perkins' last week.

Dr. F. C. Cole, dental instructor in the U. of M., was an over Sunday guest of Dr. J. L. Olsaver.

Mrs. Frank Farnam and little daughter of Detroit, visited at Geo. Hunter's and Mrs. Elinor Hunter's last week.

Mrs. Jake Streng picked from her bushes about a quart of red raspberries last Wednesday afternoon, October 30.

The children are having a couple of days vacation from school, as most of the teachers are in Grand Rapids attending the State in-titute held there yesterday and to-day.

Dr. Peck's little daughter was operated upon at the Ann Arbor hospital for tonsillitis. Hemorrhages developed and for several days the child was hovering between life and death.

The kindergarten children entertained about fifteen of their mothers Wednesday morning. A little program was given and light refreshments were served. Wednesday afternoon the first grade entertained the mothers.

Mrs. Olive Packard will have an auction sale on the place 3 1/2 miles west of Plymouth, on Wednesday, Nov. 6th, at 10 o'clock a. m., of a large quantity of up-to-date farm tools and some stock. Hot lunch at noon. F. J. Boyle, auctioneer.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Heide were very pleasantly entertained last Tuesday evening, when sixteen of their friends motored over from Ann Arbor, bringing with them a belated wedding gift, a very handsome clumsy lace center piece. Mrs. Heide served light refreshments and the evening was much enjoyed by all.

Seats for the Lecture Course

Seats for the Lecture Course may be reserved at Jones' drug store Monday morning, November 4th, at 8 o'clock. The price of a season ticket is $1.00 with an additional cost of twenty-five cents for reserving a seat for the entire season. Student tickets sell for seventy-five cents and thirty-five cents for reservation. A new method is to be pursued in the reservation of seats this year. In the first place, each person is to reserve but four (4) seats. Heretofore, the number has been larger and the committee has received complaints that so many to each one works a hardship on others. It is expected that a limit of four to each person will help to remedy this defect. In the second place, a serial number is to be given to each person as he comes to the place of reservation. Then, when 8 o'clock comes these numbers will be called and as each number is called the person holding the number called will step up and reserve his seats. But if the one holding a number is not present when that number is called then he loses his place and must take another number. For example, the first one to appear at Jones' drug store on the morning of November 4th, will be given number 1. Then that person may go where he likes and return to the store at 8 o'clock when the reservation begins. When No. 1 is called he presents his number along with his season tickets and reserves his seats, not exceeding four. When he has made his selections number 2 is called and so on "until all have made their reservations. But if number 1 does not show up at 8 o'clock when his number is called then he loses his place and must take another number. By the above plan it is hoped and expected that the reservation of seats will be made easier and more satisfactory to all. It will, at least, do away with the old custom of standing in line for several hours. Tickets are now in the hands of the business men. Secure your tickets before they are all taken, and remember the place and hour for reservation.

DEATH OF MRS. BROWNLIE
Mrs. Emily Brownlie, whose sudden illness with pneumonia was mentioned in the last issue of this paper, died at her home on Ann Arbor street last Friday, at the age of 79 years. Mrs. Brownlie had lived in Plymouth for the past several years and was a lady highly respected by all who knew her. She leaves one daughter and three grandchildren to mourn her loss, her husband having passed away several years ago. The funeral was held from her late home Monday morning at 8:15 o'clock, and the remains were taken to Birch Run, Mich., for burial beside those of her husband. Rev. J. S. Dutton had charge of the funeral.

WOMEN CARELESS? ASK AT THE HOTELS

It was the afternoon hour when the corridors of the Waldorf-Astoria are usually crowded with women. Every one of the restaurants was filled, and the tables had overflowed into the oak room and the foyers. A continuous stream of femininity came in at the entrance on the Thirty-third street side nearest Fifth avenue, hurried through the "tunnel" leading to the foyer, turned into Peacock alley, progressed slowly and gradually through it to the office, turned to the left, coursed past the office desk, conscious more or less of the male loiterers standing and sitting about, hurried through the oak room, then up the Thirty-third street corridor, either to find acquaintances or perhaps seats, or else to start again on the same tour.

REPORTING A LOSS BY THE DESK

A woman hurried up to the lost and found section of the office desk. She held up a gold mesh band.

"I saw a woman who had this bag in her hand sit down in the corridor," she said. "She got up a few minutes later and went away, leaving it. I thought she might return, so I kept my eyes on it for a while; but now I have got to go, and as she has not come back I thought I had better turn the bag in to you."

A few minutes later another woman came up to the same place and asked whether anything had been heard of a feather box, which she was sure somebody had stolen. After a search the clerk produced the box and she went out of the hotel.

Fifteen minutes afterward a taxicab driver entered and turned in at the office a feather box which he said a fare from the hotel had left in the cab. To the clerk it looked familiar. He examined it carefully. It was the same box that had been claimed only a quarter of an hour before.

Only a few minutes had passed when a third woman rushed up. She asked the clerk to please to tell the hotel detectives or the police or the newspapers, or somebody, to find a valuable fur muff which had been stolen from her. She was positive she had left it in her room. The clerk listened attentively to her description. Then he ducked under the counter and solemnly handed her the muff.

"Why, where did you get this?" she demanded.

"It was picked up in the corridor, madam," was the reply.

She signed her name to the receipt book and then went away in the same haste she had come. When the clerk looked up from the book he found she had left her pocketbook on the counter.

the trash collector doesn't work on that holiday, and what had been in the waste basket was now in a big bin below stairs, six feet deep with twelve feet long. With a chambermaid and a porter the manager betook himself to the basement, and stood by while the two took out the refuse, piece by piece, from the bin. After a solid hour's work, the porter found an envelope, from which he took the missing pin. The owner of it gave him one dollar.

Somewhat similar was the case of another woman at a different hotel, who on the night before she was due to sail for Europe came down to the desk in great excitement. Her valuable pearl necklace was gone. She had wrapped it, she said, during the morning in tissue paper, preparatory to packing it, and must have left it on the bureau.

To the manager the idea of the tissue paper suggested the waste basket. The contents of the waste basket had been taken to the cellar and had been compressed with other refuse into a 250 pound bale. There was but one thing to do, and that was to examine this bale. The manager and the steward set themselves at the task. Piece by piece the paper was removed, but at the end of almost three hours not a sign of the necklace had appeared.

The day after the departure of the steamer the manager received a letter from the voyager, sent ashore by the pilot.

"I am so sorry to have given you so much trouble," it read. "I have found the necklace in my trunk."

A woman from Washington, who always travels with a lot of diamonds, arrived one night at a New York hotel unaccompanied by the maid, who usually traveled with her. About half past nine o'clock the next morning she came downstairs breathless.

"I want those doors locked and nobody permitted to leave this building," she cried. "My chamois bag, in which I carry all my jewels, is gone, and I want all the help searched. When I went to bed last night I laid the bag under a piece of crumpled newspaper in a corner of this shelf in the closet."

"Are you sure that after all you did not put it in your trunk?" suggested the manager.

The woman was indignant at the idea, and demanded that police headquarters be communicated with instantly. When the central office detective reached the hotel the manager called him aside, explaining the situation, and advised him to insist upon the woman opening the trunk. Ten minutes later the sleuth came downstairs grinning.

"The bag was where you said it was, all right," he said to the manager.

An engagement ring figured in a theft charge at a Fifth avenue hotel. A young woman who had been out shopping entered the hotel breathlessly one morning and hurried to her room. In a very short time she was downstairs again, with a demand upon the manager that he have the chambermaid arrested. She said that her engagement ring, which had cost $800 had been stolen from her room and as the chambermaid was the only person who had access to the room, she simply knew the woman had it.

She was so positive in her statement that the manager immediately telephoned to the nearest police station for a plain clothes man. The chambermaid had been in the hotel many years, and was well thought of. A few questions convinced the detective of her innocence. Then he put some questions to the woman who had lost the ring.

She was indignant, but finally remembered that she had put the ring, together with four others, into her pocketbook that morning before breakfast. The purse she had left on her dressing table when she went downstairs to breakfast. That must have been the chance the chambermaid took, for when later in the morning she opened her purse in a department store to pay for some purchases the engagement ring was missing. She insisted that the detective arrest the chambermaid.

The sleuth refused, and decided to make a thorough examination of the room, in spite of the young lady's protests. At one end of the dressing table, on the floor, stood a pair of high shoes. The detective picked one up, and turned it upside down. Out rolled the missing solitaire ring. Apparently when its owner had swept the five rings together to put them into her purse, the solitaire had rolled off the table.

They looked for to express at least some gratification over the recovery of the trinket; but no, she was so enraged over her mistake that she made no amends to the chambermaid who had accused and did not even thank the detective.

Somewhat similar in its outcome was the experience of a woman from Washington. She arrived at a hotel in a fashionable district one night about nine o'clock, and her first order was for a pitcher of ice water. A bellboy took it up and placed it on a table in the sitting room.

The next morning she called up the manager in a condition bordering on hysteria, and informed him that a big marquise ring containing 32 diamonds was missing. The only person who had been in the room besides herself was a bellboy, and she remembered that before the bellboy entered her sitting room she had taken off her ring and placed it on the table while she was washing her hands.

The bellboy bore a good record. After a search of the room he was put through the third degree. He convinced the manager of his innocence.

The next day, just as she was about to leave the hotel, the woman came in to the manager.

"I feel very much mortified," she said. "I found the ring just now as I went to pack my trunk. I left the window open the other night and the wind must have blown the curtain so that it swept across the table and took the ring with it. A pair of rubbers was standing by the side of the table, and when I went to pack them in my trunk just now the ring rolled out of one of them."

American Fruit Consumption.

Statistics for 1909 show that the apple crop of the United States was worth $83,000,000, peaches $28,000,000, grapes $22,000,000, and strawberries $170,000, oranges reaching the same large figure. The people of the United States consumed 10,000,000 of plums and prunes, 7,000,000 of pears and cherries and $5,000,000 of the raspberry.

One of the curious features of this production of fruit has been the lessening of the apple crop, which in the past decade, with a growing population, has decreased from 175,000,000 to 150,000,000 barrels. On the other hand, the production of tropical fruits in continental United States has about trebled in the same time, and ten times as many pineapples are grown now as were produced ten years ago.

Gen. Booth Died a Peer Man.

General William Booth, who made the Salvation army the great organization that it is, died poor. His personal estate amounted to only $3,440, aside from a fund of $26,476 which was settled on him for his private use. General Booth never drew on the army funds for his support or expenses.

WAY TO PREPARE CUCUMBERS

Many Methods of Cooking Succulent and Popular Vegetable Are Well Recommended.

Few persons realize in what a variety of ways the succulent cucumber may be used and what a valuable vegetable it is. Many persons who do not care eat it in the raw state find it as safe as it is palatable when cooked.

Cut in dice-shaped pieces and boiled with carrots and onions it is very good. The onions should be put on to boil first, small ones being used, then the carrots and last the cucumber. Drain off the water and season with salt, pepper and butter or a cream sauce.

Cooked cucumber is excellent for salad. Boil until tender, drain, cut in thick slices and put in the refrigerator until ready to use. Serve with tender lettuce and thinly sliced green peppers and French or mayonnaise dressing. Other vegetables may be added to this salad if one happens to have some left over in the refrigerator, cauliflower being particularly good for the purpose.

"Left-over" vegetables may be utilized for cream soups in all sorts of delicious combinations. For instance, fry an onion in a little butter, add cooked lima beans, cauliflower, carrots, peppers, peas or whatever you happen to have on hand, and bring to a boil with sufficient milk thickened to the consistency of heavy cream and flavored to taste. The vegetables should be cut in small pieces or they may be mashed if a smooth soup is desired.

REAL OLD BUCKWHEAT CAKES

Boston Woman Explains Her Method of Making This Favorite Winter Breakfast Dish.

Some one asked for directions for making old-fashioned buckwheat cakes. I had a bag of this kind of buckwheat sent to me from the country and we are just reveling in buckwheat cakes and sausage and maple syrup. I don't know as I can tell you just how much I use, but to start them I take part of a yeast cake, about a teaspoon of salt, a pint of lukewarm water. Stir in enough buckwheat to make thick enough so it can be stirred easily. Let rise all day and a night. In the morning, take out about half, or what you need, and one-fourth teaspoon soda with two or three tablespoons of sweet milk. This makes them brown nicely. Add enough lukewarm water to make them spread on the pancake griddle nicely. When through with batter put in a little warm water, stir in more buckwheat and leave in warm place through the day. Can be put in cooler place at night. If in a few days it doesn't seem very light, add a small piece of yeast cake, but the older the batter is the better it is. You will need to add more soda the older it is, for it grows sour, but that makes them more tender.—Boston Globe.

Fried Apple Sauce.

This dish is often called fat apple sauce. A spicy, smooth and medium sized apple is best. Do not pare, as the skin is the best part of real fried apples. Quarter and core, after first washing very clean. Fry out sufficient clear fat pork to leave plenty of fat in the frying pan for cooking the apples without danger of burning on. Lay the apples in skin side down and, when soft, turn and brown quickly without burning.

Baldwin apples are the best of the common varieties, although on the old farm we had one tree which we called "spice apples" for lack of any known name. They were almost a cinnamon or spice flavor and were even better than Baldwin's for frying.

Casserole of Lamb.

Two pounds of lamb from back, two tablespoonsful of drippings, two and one-half cups of well-seasoned stock, one-half teaspoonful of onion juice, five tablespoonfuls well-washed rice, one cup canned or stewed tomatoes will be needed for this recipe.

Cut the lamb from bones in pieces suitable for serving and dust with pepper and salt. Fry in drippings, add rice and onion juice, then the tomato and stock. Let come to a boiling point, pour into casserole and bake in slow oven till tender—about two hours.

Baked Chicken Croquettes.

Take two cupfuls of minced cold chicken, three tablespoonfuls of chicken stock or gravy, a half cupful of fresh bread crumbs, a teaspoonful of onion juice and one of drippings, a dash of pepper and a teaspoonful of salt. Make the minced chicken and to it add bread crumbs, onion, parsley, salt, pepper and the gravy; mix all together. Brush custard cups with drippings; put in the ingredients. Place the cups in pan of warm water and bake twenty minutes. Turn out on hot platter; serve with green peas around the edge of platter.

Fluffy Cakes.

Cream six ounces butter with a quarter pound sugar, add two eggs well beaten. Stir in half a pound of corn starch and two teaspoonfuls baking powder, beating well. Mix one tablespoonful milk with one teaspoonful vanilla extract and stir in. Butter and four gem pans, half fill with mixture. Bake in hot oven for ten minutes.

Spiced Currants.

Four quarts steamed currants, two pounds granulated sugar, one pint vinegar, one teaspoon cinnamon, cloves and allspice.

Special Marks for Lightning

Wherever else do the electrical discharges of the atmosphere assume so intense and terrifying a character as on the summits of high mountains. Last August the laboratory of the Society of Observers built on the summit of Mont Blanc, was struck by lightning, with fatal results to one of the occupants. This building is a circular structure with sheets of copper, and is surrounded with lightning rods. It was practically buried in snow at the time of the disaster. The famous Janssen observatory on Mont Blanc was repeatedly struck, although it bore numerous lightning rods, connected by cables to some rocks a few hundred feet distant. This building was of wood and was built on the snow. The effects of the lightning were extraordinary and appalling; the metal observatory was completely melted or permeated; the bolts and nuts in the walls were melted; the woodwork charred; the metal cap of the large telescope was pierced with holes.

Jimson was a little, sharp-eyed shoemaker with slooped shoulders and a chin whisker. He lived in a Missouri river town, and whenever he drank too much he used to wind up by going home and thrashing his wife. She never failed to go over to a neighbor's after a session with the old man and complain bitterly of his treatment.

After a while the neighbors grew weary of the oft-repeated tale and remarked: "Well, you seem to like it. You always take it willingly. Why don't you pick up something and hit him with it the next time he whips you?"

The wife considered the matter, and the next time her lord began to beat her she grasped a chair and smashed it over his head. The old man fell back in stark amazement, dropped his hands, and stared at her.

"Why, Mary! Why, Mary!" he whimpered. "What on earth is the matter with you? You never done this way before?"

Of course. "Doesn't the sight of a peach make you want to smack your lips?" "No, indeed. The sight of a peach makes me want to smack her lips."

Raises Corn and Chickens on Great White Way

NEW YORK.—A real country farm on Broadway in which vegetables of all kinds thrive, and which chickens serenely peck at the soil undisturbed by the roar of subway trains above, and the din of traffic below, sounds more like the fancy of one of the city's rich men than the realization of the ambition of an Italian fruit stand keeper. The farm with an ancient two-story frame house occupies 500 square feet in a triangular plot on Broadway between Manhattan street and West One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street. The triangle is inclosed by a ten-foot board wall except on One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street, where there is a low rustic fence. Thousands of persons from the elevated subway structure at Manhattan street have viewed this rural scene with interest, and have wondered who the city farmer could be.

He is Frank Muccia, a middle-aged Italian. Muccia maintains a fruit and cigar stand outside of the triangle. He came to this country to seek his fortune 20 years ago from Naples, where his father had a large farm. Muccia brought with him here a strong love for farm life. He became the owner of a fruit stand, but the desire to have a farm and bring up his family of ten children as the children of a farmer's son should be raised grew stronger with him each year. In a city of tall buildings and crowded spaces he could see little hope of realizing his ambition. He could not move to the country because his stand and business was growing better all the time, and then there were the wife and the ten little Muccias to be fed and clothed. Nine years ago, however, his opportunity came, and with his family he moved to the triangle. He cleared away the rubbish which littered the place and started to cultivate the soil.

In a window of his stand the other day a sign was displayed informing passersby that tomatoes fresh from the farm were for sale. Two of them could be had for a nickel. They were the size of grape-fruit, and he pointed to them with pride. Muccia has a regular line of customers, to whom he sells the products of his farm.

Mirth Before Audience, a Fight Behind Scenes

CHICAGO.—"Gigantic and glorious festival of mirth and melody." "A brilliant half-hour mosaic of musical comedy, superbly staged." "Ten dainty, dimpled Broadway beauties. Just like the French cabarets."

That's what a local theater bill says about a skit before the footlights there. Municipal Judge R. F. Robinson saw part of the show the other day and is inclined to doubt the veracity of the bill. It was given a piecemeal staging before him in the Hyde Park police court. His program read:

Defendant—Frank Griffith; known in the skit as "Josh Klidder, a waiter who knows his business." Plaintiffs—Lillian, Bertha and Ida Lewis, dancers, and Mrs. Bessie Lewis, their mother, the first three being known in the skit respectively as "Lotta Racket," "Louise Louder" and "Peroxa Snow."

The "heavies" were Detectives McGuire and Rank, who made the "pinch." "Lotta Racket—er—I mean Lillian Lewis—to the bar," ordered the judge when the case was called. Up tripped a brunette with a big picture hat. "It was this way, judge," she said. "I was out doing my dancing stunt when I heard a scream back of the wings. I just knew it was Frank Griffith beating mother, so I ran off without finishing my act to help her. Half of the company had attacked her, and her screams were so loud the stage manager had to ring down the curtain to keep the audience from thinking there was a fire.

"Then they laid for us outside in the alley after the show and tried to beat us up—again. We broke about even, though, I guess. Then ramma went to the police station for protection and had "Josh"—that is, Frank—arrested. All the trouble started because his wife don't like people of our race."

Judge Robinson listened for a while and then ordered silence. "It must have been a gigantic and glorious festival of mirth and melody," the judge said, reading the program. "It was so much so that I'm going to let you settle it among yourselves. These back-of-the-stage fights are too much for an ordinary judge to attempt to square. I'll discharge the prisoners."

Profitable Bee Hives in Loft of a City Barn

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—An apary containing four unusually large and busy families of exceedingly productive honey bees, conducted in the loft of a small stable in the rear of a city home, is one of the most unique industries in Milwaukee.

William Norenberg and his brother, Frederick, 794 Hubbard street, are the proprietors. They say it is one of the easiest and most profitable businesses, considering the investment, that can be conducted at home. "I have been keeping bees for about five years," said William Norenberg. "I started with two frames of bees and a queen and now I have four extra large hives, from which each year

I get a total of between 250 and 300 pounds of fine honey. One honey is worth an average of 25 cents a pound, so you will see that I get a nice profit from my bees, when you consider that they cost me practically nothing.

"But aside from the profit the bees afford us a great deal of entertaining study. Nothing can be more interesting than watching the manner in which these busy little workers keep their houses in order, the manner in which the guard bees of each swarm do sentinel duty at the entrance to their hive, ready to give battle to robber bees from other swarms, which are always lurking about, ready to steal from other hives instead of going out and foraging for honey.

"Some people may ask how the bees are fed. The answer is that we never feed them. I never have found it necessary to help them find enough food. Of course, they have no trouble in the warm weather, and while they stay close to their hives during the cold weather, as soon as the sun appears the bees leave their hives and go out foraging."

Bewails Loss of $800 He "Squandered" on Wife

DETROIT, MICH.—From a courtship that started one Sunday afternoon nearly two years ago when he drove by the home of the charming, but fiery-tempered little Italian girl, Annunzia Di Michelle, at 535 Russell street, followed by a hasty wedding, an early marriage, to the divorce court has been the brief but highly exciting matrimonial adventure of Joe Palermo.

Joe doesn't bewail the prospective losses of his wife so much as the loss of the savings that he squandered on her before and after their marriage. "Pouf! $800, she's gone like that," said Joe expressively, blowing out a fierce blast of macaroni-laden breath. "I buy home the four dollar coat; he's socks $2.50 a pair, fine new shoes, pay de live do' for them, de big hat, $15, fine new silk dress; alla de munt I had. Now, nothing, not a cent left."

They had a "quick wedding" according to Joe, and then his troubles began. First his $800 vanished for clothes for his pretty wife, and then began a constant war with his mother-in-law. Joe charges. He declares that his mother-in-law interfered when he chided his wife, and that she refused to let her daughter go away when Joe rented a flat. Joe says his wife told him he couldn't take her away.

A week after Joe went back to get his clothes and he says they both jumped on him and pummeled him so that he had to run away without his belongings. Joe having failed to make any impression, sent his brother Sam. He didn't get the clothes. "I don't know what de mat," sighed Joe. "Mebbe she had somebody else, but I don't see no man 'round de house for de last tree month."

MICHIGAN NEWS TERSELY TOLD

Ovid.—The incendiary who has caused a half dozen fires in the business section of Ovid the last three weeks is evidently not a whit dismayed by the action taken by the council in offering a reward of $100 for evidence that will lead to his apprehension. His latest escapade was an effort to destroy the Main street bridge. After spreading kerosene oil liberally over the timbers, he ignited a fuse made of wire and rags, which had been placed on an abutment and attached to the under side of the bridge. The early evening blaze was extinguished before much damage had been done. Sheriff Schavey of St. Johns is here making an investigation.

Kalamazoo.—William Meyri, who ran away from his home in Zurich, Switzerland, when fifteen years old, and who had heard from his parents but four times in the 20 years which have elapsed; has been located at Lawton, a village near here, and notified that he is heir to more than half a million dollars. Meyri came to this country 20 years ago, and assumed the name of Frank M. Remont. During his residence at Lawton he has become well to do.

Kalamazoo.—Mrs. A. D. Wood, known as the "guardian angel of the county jail," is dying at her home. Prisoners when they heard of the woman's serious illness expressed keen sorrow, for no matter in what condition a man came to the jail, she was always the first one to visit him and endeavor to aid him. She has been a daily visitor at the jail for over a score of years and conducted all of the chapel meetings held in the jail. She is suffering from a stroke of apoplexy.

Battle Creek.—Two draft horses valued at $250 apiece, belonging to William Strait, a farmer living three miles east of this city, died from poisoning. The affair is said to be the result of spite work on the part of some enemy of Strait's. Doctor Hart, after an examination of the dead animals, found traces of arsenic in the stomachs. Sheriff Fonda has posted a reward of $100 for the arrest of the miscreant who perpetrated the deed.

Rochester.—Seventy-five delegates, representing 15 clubs embracing nearly 500 members, held their twelfth annual meeting of the Oakland County Federation of Women's Clubs here with two sessions. Mrs. Martha Hatton of Farmington presided and was re-elected president. Miss Estella Downing of Ypsilanti delivered an address on woman suffrage. The next meeting will be held in Oxford.

Petoskey.—While sitting on his bed dressing, W. N. Gale, sixty-nine years old, for 49 years resident of Michigan, fell to the floor, and died within a few moments, the cause being apoplexy. He was born at Syracuse, N. Y., and came to Michigan when twenty years old. For some years he was an auctioneer at Detroit, later taking a position as traveling merchant. The widow and a daughter, Mrs. J. W. Myers, of Petoskey, survive.

Kalamazoo.—All the theaters in Kalamazoo have consented to give a certain per cent. of the receipts at one performance to the Equal Suffrage association in this county. The association has been running behind financially and following the meeting when Rev. Caroline Bartlett Crane made such an eloquent appeal for funds, the theater managers decided quickly to give the suffragists financial aid.

Coldwater.—The dead body of George Kellogg was found at the bottom of a 120-foot shaft at the coal mine of the farm of Daniel Warner, near this city. It is supposed that he was struck by a falling weight, fell unconscious into the water at the bottom of the shaft and was drowned. Kellogg was twenty-eight years old and leaves a young widow.

Grand Rapids.—Rev. Fr. H. Matkowsky, sixty-nine, pastor of St. Isadore's Catholic church, died at St. Mary's hospital after four days' illness from pneumonia. Exposure and cold, while superintending the construction of the new St. Isadore church, for the realization of which he had struggled for 13 years, superinduced pneumonia.

Dearborn.—Nearly $2,500 in money has been found in the old shanty occupied for years by Adam George, who died two weeks ago in the Boulevard sanitarium, Detroit. Although he possessed a farm and stock valued at $15,000 and had a small fortune hoarded in the bank, his death was attributed to the want of proper care and starvation.

Jackson.—Prisoners serving sentences in the county jail are to be placed at work in building roads in Jackson county. During the present session of the supervisors an appropriation of $74,585 was made for the building of good roads in this county. The road commissioners now plan to use a number of the prisoners in the construction of the highways and application will probably be made by the commissioners at the present session of the board. It is the plan of the commissioners to work the prisoners in the gravel pits this winter.

NOTHING ELSE TO DO.

FACE ALMOST COVERED WITH PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS

Atchison, Kan.—"For a number of years I suffered very greatly from skin eruption. My face was very red and irritated, being almost covered with pimples and blackheads. The pimples were scattered over my face. They were a fine rash with the exception of a few large pimples on my forehead and chin. My face burned and looked red as if exposed to either heat or cold. It was not only unsightly but very uncomfortable. I tried several remedies but couldn't get any relief. I was recommended to use Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment.

"I applied the Cuticura Ointment in the evening, leaving it for about five minutes, then washing it off with Cuticura Soap and hot water. I washed with the Cuticura Soap and hot water also several times during the day. After about four months of this application, my face was cleared of the pimples. I still use the Cuticura Soap." (Signed) Miss Elsie Nielson, Dec. 29, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

Talk With Shakespeare. "But, Bill," says Shakespeare's friend, "I'll be bodkinized if I see the sense in that song Ophelia sings, nor why you put the song in there for her anyhow."

"When you've been in the show game as long as I have," replies Shakespeare, still a bit excited over the first performance of "Hamlet," "you'll know that when the producer wants a song in a scene, the song goes in. Besides, this girl that's playing Ophelia was a hit in musical comedy, and the manager argued that the public expected to hear her sing somewhere in the piece. Let's go over to the Mermaid and buy drinks for the critics."

Tokio's First Skyscraper.

With the completion of a seven-story building, Tokio is able to boast of the first skyscraper in its history. The structure, begun in January, 1910, was but recently completed. It is considered fire and earthquake proof. It was designed for offices, and is especially noteworthy because it is probably the highest of its kind in the far east.

Jimson was a little, sharp-eyed shoemaker with slooped shoulders and a chin whisker. He lived in a Missouri river town, and whenever he drank too much he used to wind up by going home and thrashing his wife. She never failed to go over to a neighbor's after a session with the old man and complain bitterly of his treatment.

After a while the neighbors grew weary of the oft-repeated tale and remarked: "Well, you seem to like it. You always take it willingly. Why don't you pick up something and hit him with it the next time he whips you?"

The wife considered the matter, and the next time her lord began to beat her she grasped a chair and smashed it over his head. The old man fell back in stark amazement, dropped his hands, and stared at her.

"Why, Mary! Why, Mary!" he whimpered. "What on earth is the matter with you? You never do this way before?"

Of course. "Doesn't the sight of a peach make you want to smack your lips?" "No, indeed. The sight of a peach makes me want to smack her lips."

"I applied the Cuticura Ointment in the evening, leaving it for about five minutes, then washing it off with Cuticura Soap and hot water. I washed with the Cuticura Soap and hot water also several times during the day. After about four months of this application, my face was cleared of the pimples. I still use the Cuticura Soap." Talk With Shakespeare. "But, Bill," says Shakespeare's friend, "I'll be bodkinized if I see the sense in that song Ophelia sings, nor why you put the song in there for her anyhow."

"When you've been in the show game as long as I have," replies Shakespeare, still a bit excited over the first performance of "Hamlet," "you'll know that when the producer wants a song in a scene, the song goes in. Besides, this girl that's playing Ophelia was a hit in musical comedy, and the manager argued that the public expected to hear her sing somewhere in the piece. Let's go over to the Mermaid and buy drinks for the critics."

Tokio's First Skyscraper. With the completion of a seven-story building, Tokio is able to boast of the first skyscraper in its history. The structure, begun in January, 1910, was but recently completed. It is considered fire and earthquake proof. It was designed for offices, and is especially noteworthy because it is probably the highest of its kind in the far east.

BAD BACKS DO MAKE WORK HARD

Backache makes the daily toil, for thousands, an agony hard to endure. Many of these poor sufferers have kidney trouble and don't know it. Swollen, aching kidneys usually go hand in hand with irregular kidney action, headache, dizziness, nervousness and despondency. When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, the best-recommended kidney remedy.

Here's an Ohio Case. J. W. Fries, Fairport, Ohio, writes:—"I was in a bad condition, having run down in the woods, and the kidney trouble was so bad that I had to stop work. I tried several remedies but couldn't get any relief. I was recommended to use Doan's Kidney Pills and after a few days I was able to get on my feet and I have had no trouble since."

EASY LOADER MANURE SPREADER

Is the product of an independent manufacturer. It is the simplest and strongest constructed manure spreader ever offered the American farmer. It has strong angled steel sill and heavy reinforced the entire length of the machine, which insures light draft and no warping out of shape even though it is more exposed to the most severe test of the elements of any implement used upon the farm. The oil bath worm-driven apron is a very important factor, preventing any possibility of gear cutting and drives the apron accurately either up hill or down. The double spiral arrangement of all the teeth in the beater, preventing windrowing of the manure and enables the operator to know exactly the amount of manure he is applying to his soil. For further particulars about this machine call personally or phone.

An Efficient County Clerk

Detroit, Mich., October 18, 1912. Honorable Thomas F. Farrell, County Clerk, City.

My Dear Mr. Farrell: I think it is only due you that you should be re-elected County Clerk in the coming election. As a lawyer who has had much business with the County Clerk's office during your incumbency, I believe that I express an opinion, general in the profession, that you have made a most attentive, excellent and efficient county clerk. The administration of the great details of the office has been the very best; your staff is made up of obliging, courteous and industrious people, and all business in the office has been promptly attended to, and a correct disposition made of the same. You have handled the public business most economically, as the office under you is self-supporting, and therefore not a burden to the taxpayer. The people will make a mistake if they fail to retain you as a public servant. Hoping for your best success, I am, Sincerely yours, ALLAN H. FRAZER. —Advertisement.

WILLIAM H. HILL Progressive Candidate Congressman-at-Large.

MR. VOTER:—The office of Congressman-at-Large, which represents the entire State, has just been created. Every voter has the right to vote for Congressman-at-Large. It is a State office and your vote for me will not affect any District Congressman. The State is now represented by twelve Congressmen and two Senators, of which twelve are lawyers and only two are business men. Would it not be well to inject more BUSINESS principles and fewer technicalities into our laws?

My opponent for this office on the Republican ticket is a lawyer and has been in public office at Lansing for a number of years. He was Lieutenant Governor under Warner, when the great commonwealth of Michigan was bankrupt. Has anyone ever heard a word of protest from him as to the inefficiency of our State government during all the years he was in Lansing?

Every voter knows that over 99 per cent of the members in congress are lawyers; that has been true for years. They also know that the laws are so technical that the very men who make them will go into court and a lawyer on either side will argue from one to twenty-four hours as to what the law really means. Then the judge will take from one to ten days to decide the very law that possibly he and the two lawyers referred to helped to place upon the statute books. In fact, the laws are so technical that on occasions when the Supreme Court of the United States has been deciding some important point four learned judges have given opinion one way and five the other, which means that ONE MAN practically makes the law in such cases. I INSIST that it would be better for the people if there were MORE BUSINESS MEN in Congress to help eliminate the technicalities and delays in judicial proceedings.

I find no fault with the lawyer as a professional man. The lawyer, like the physician, engineer and scientist, stands as an example of our highest type of especially trained professional men. But the point I wish to emphasize is: There should not be such a large majority of any profession, whether doctors, lawyers or engineers. There should be nearer a balance of the different professions, and a larger percentage of business men in the legislative halls of this country. In view of the increasingly complicated relations, both foreign and domestic with which our Congress deals, it is, of course, proper that it should be provided with efficient legal counsel. But the percentage is and always has been too large. There should be more consideration of national affairs from a business man's standpoint in our legislative halls.

Mr. Voter, if you feel that a man with forty years' business experience, who has traveled into every nook and corner of the United States, thereby giving him a nation-wide view, can serve you better as Congressman-at-Large, representing this whole State, than a lawyer who has spent the larger part of his maturity as an office-holder at Lansing, SUPPORT AND VOTE FOR ME NOVEMBER 5TH. WILLIAM H. HILL, Progressive Candidate.

PIKE'S PEAK.

George Baehr has purchased the Gleason farm. Mrs. Frank Markey visited Mrs. J. Markey the latter part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roach were Detroit callers Tuesday.

Mr. Wenlander of Detroit is moving on the John Markey farm.

Hilfred Baehr visited the brick school Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beyer of Perrinville visited Mrs. Beyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eddell, Sunday.

WEST PLYMOUTH.

Miss Erma Tiffin entertained a company of young people at cards last Thursday evening.

Mrs. Durfee of Wayne is staying with her daughter, Mrs. Don Packard. Eli Schoob had the misfortune to lose a horse this week.

Mrs. Emory Sbook has returned from her visit to Vassar.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Murray attended the political meeting and chicken-pie supper at Salem Wednesday night.

Mrs. Bolster and daughter left for Northern Michigan Wednesday for a visit to their old home.

Mrs. A. C. Laraway visited her daughter in Ann Arbor last week.

Mrs. Tom Gunn is spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Shuart.

Mrs. D. Murray was a Detroit visitor Thursday.

A number of West Plymouth young people attended the dance in Will Lyke's new barn Wednesday night at Frayne Lake.

NEWBURG.

The L. A. S. can congratulate themselves on having the most successful home coming and fair (last week Friday afternoon and evening) that they have had since the society was organized. The receipts were about $120. Old acquaintances were there from Detroit, Lansing, Romulus and nearby places. Carloads of people from Plymouth and autos lined up in front of the hall. The society wishes to thank all who so liberally assisted in making it a success, especially the young ladies who helped in the dining room.

Word was received from the hunter up north that Arthur LeVan shot a deer the first day of their arrival in camp. Leigh Ryder shipped home a fine doe last Saturday. They are having fine sport.

The L. A. S. will hold their regular meeting at the hall Nov. 8. A dinner will be served.

Newburg is at last awakening from its Rip Van Winkle sleep. A new store is being built on the corner near the D. U. R. waiting-room; also repairing on the hall is under way. Mr. Carson has been making extensive repairs on his house. Surely the spirit of improvement is abroad in Newburg.

Whitney I. Smith of Lansing attended the fair and is spending a few days with friends in the neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. James Norris and son Edwin spent over Sunday at the parental home.

Mrs. Porter Grow also attended the home coming and visited at Clark MacKender's.

At the Newburg fair, Robert McGee won the blue ribbon with his fine showing of potatoes. The prize was a beautiful match box. Now if Robbie could only make a good match, he would have lots of use for the box. Mr. LeVan took second prize.

Mrs. Mary Rutter, Robert Rutter and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Rutter of Detroit attended the home coming.

STARK.

George Griffin is a very busy man now days getting his fall work done, as he goes on jury for November and December.

Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney have taken in a little baby girl. We wish them joy with it.

Lulu Huber is caring for her aunt's family while she is in the hospital.

About forty gathered at Rose Lawn farm Monday night to remind John Higgins that he had another birthday. He received many presents, one being a beautiful set of cuff buttons, tie pin and holder from the young men of this place. At 10:30 a dainty luncheon was served by the hostess when all returned to their homes wishing him many more happy birthdays.

Byron Harlow is tearing down the log part of his house and will build a more modern affair in its place. That is the last log house this part of the country will ever know.

Aaron Gumore is spending a few weeks with his daughter, Mrs. Dick Fisher.

Another cement bridge has been added to our town, one at Kastenbury's corner.

We have a new feed store at Stark. Mrs. Sarah Hoisington is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Ike Ganeolly, at Plymouth.

Mr. Sweeney has returned from the lakes and taken up his position on the good roads again.

Hazel Fisher was home and attended the party at Rose Lawn.

An old barn standing on Grand View farm was crushed in by the high wind last Friday night. A new one will be built by Mr. Kinsley.

Will Dehlog entertained company from Detroit Tuesday night.

The Hen Lifts the Mortgage. Statistics show that the hen is the best paying investment on the farm when given proper care and attention. If you want to get the best results, feed your chickens a little of HARBELL'S CONDITION POWDERS occasionally, it makes the hens lay.
