Plymouth Grange Will Hold Rural School Fair

Will Be Held in Penniman Hall
November 15th and 16th

The Plymouth Grange are making great preparations for holding a rural school fair in Penniman hall, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 15th and 16th. Thirteen rural schools have been invited to compete in the seed collection, wood work and bread making contests, and the present outlook is for a large number of contestants and a large display in each class.

One of the features of the fair will be a most complete and interesting collection of curios which promises to be one of the largest ever exhibited in Plymouth, and will be well worth the price of admission alone. From 2 to 4 each afternoon and 7 to 8 each evening there will be a demonstration of the simple chemical tests which the housewife may employ to determine the purity of the food stuffs which she uses daily. At four o'clock Friday afternoon there will be a sale of home-made candies and on Saturday afternoon there will be a sale of baked goods, for which the ladies of Plymouth Grange are famous. The candy and bake sales will be held in the ante rooms. Hot coffee and doughnuts will be served Saturday evening and the Grange orchestra will furnish music. The prizes will be on display in the show window of Pinckney's Pharmacy Saturday, and they will be awarded to the lucky contestants Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Prof. W. N. Isbell has charge of the committee who will have charge of the judging and awarding of prizes. The following rules will govern the several contests:

1. To the three boys selecting the best ten ears of seed corn. Age limit 10 to 16. The privilege of selling this corn at auction is reserved.
2. To the three boys who have made the most complete collection of named weed seeds. Neatness of packing counts in this. Age limit 10 to 16.
3. To the three boys or girls who have made the best collection of garden and flower seeds. The neat package counts also in this contest. Age limit 8 to 16.
4. The three boys making the neatest, most accurate, and most practical peck box. Age limit 9 to 16.
5. To the three girls between the ages of 8 to 11, making by hand the neatest apron either for themselves or mother. This apron is to be a plain, practical one, self trimmed.
6. To the three girls between the ages of 12 and 16 constructing the best made wash dresses for themselves. These dresses are to be made simply and self trimmed also. The sewing machine may be used.
7. To the three little boys or girls under eight who make the neatest hand-made quilt blocks.
8. Each exhibit should have the name of the contributor, age and name of the school carefully attached to it.

A prize will also be awarded to the school scoring the most points. A first prize will count three points, a second, two, and a third one. This prize will be a picture for your room. This is strictly a rural school contest, and the village schools will not compete. Leave your exhibit at Murray's grocery store during the week of the fair. No entries to be made later than 12 o'clock, Nov. 15, and we prefer everything except the bread on or before November 15.

The admission to the fair has been placed at 10 cents and the doors will be open at 2 p. m. each day. Everybody in Plymouth and vicinity should be interested in the fair, not only for its entertainment features, but from an educational value to the young people of our schools, and there is not a doubt but that there will be a large attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Doerr and Mrs. M. W. Ayers of Detroit, attended the Epworth League Banquet Wednesday evening. Mrs. Ayers remained to spend the remainder of the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Spicer.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.

Epworth League's Fifth Annual Banquet

Held at Penniman Hall Wednesday
Evening a Success in Every Way.

The fifth annual banquet of the Epworth League was held last Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' hall. Though the evening was rainy and disagreeable, nearly every one of the one hundred and fifty persons who had purchased tickets was present, for they knew that a treat awaited them. The menu was delicious and well served by the young ladies.

E. V. Jolliffe, as president of the League, introduced the toastmaster of the evening, Rev. Geo. W. Jennings of Mt. Clemens, who in a droll, witty way performed the duties with great credit to himself. Toasts were responded to as follows:

Judge Alfred Murphy of Detroit spoke on "Law" in a universal sense. Many good thoughts were brought forth on "Family Reading an element in Character Building" by James Schermerhorn, editor Detroit Times, and in which he especially pleaded for a "clean" newspaper. L. C. Rauch of the Detroit Business Institute spoke on the "Importance of Ideals," and showed himself to be a man of noble thought and purpose.

Dr. A. W. Stalker of Ann Arbor took for his subject "The Boy in the Tide." Dr. Stalker is a magnetic speaker and brought forth the importance of the boy of to-day. Vocal solos were nicely rendered by Miss Nellie Gardner of Fowlerville and Miss Anna Rene Compton of Ypsilanti. Rev. C. S. Lee of Saginaw gave a couple of selections on the violin, which were much appreciated. Mr. Guy Filkins of Northville and F. C. Evans furnished the music during the banquet.

The banquet was a great success in every way, and it may well be said that the Epworth League banquets are growing more popular every year, due to the fine talent brought here to serve on the program. The gentlemen previously named eclipsed all others seemingly, and words of highest encomium were heard on all sides. Many more seats could have been sold had there been room to accommodate. The Epworth League is to be congratulated on its organization of young men and women.

Farm House Burns

The farm house on the old Tait farm about two miles west of Plymouth on the Ann Arbor road, owned and occupied by Samuel Hix caught fire from a defective chimney early Sunday morning and burned to the ground. Mr. Hix was awakened by the roaring of the flames in time to save nearly everything on the first floor, but the contents of the second floor and cellar were destroyed. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Small Wreck on the Pere Marquette Sunday

Another wreck occurred on the Pere Marquette railroad last Sunday morning about ten o'clock, when a rail broke, near the village electric light plant, and eight freight cars were recipitated into the ditch. The cars were badly broken up, but very fortunately no one was hurt. The wrecking crew arrived late in the afternoon and cleared up the wreckage.

Dies After Short Illness

Mrs. Isabel Dildine, who was called here about two weeks ago on account of the serious illness of her mother, the late Mrs. Brownlie, died at the Brownlie home on E. Ann Arbor street Sunday night, of heart trouble. She was ill about ten days. Mrs. Dildine was 58 years of age and resided at Lima, Ohio. A short service was conducted by Rev. Dutton at the house Tuesday morning, after which the remains were taken to the Ohio city for burial, accompanied by her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Beck, also of Lima.

Queer Spot Where Library of the State University of Louisiana Had Its Beginning.

The curious beginning of the Chicago public library, which was once housed in an abandoned water-tank, is matched by the library of the Louisiana State university...

The building was the old powder magazine of the barracks when soldiers, and not scholars, were stationed there.

To Kansas City at Any Cost. The small daughter of a Kansas farmer, making her first visit to Kansas City...

Finally, one day, after a long spell of dejection, she exclaimed hopefully: "Mamma, if I ever get a divorce, we'll move to Kansas City, all right!"

London, Nov. 7.—The temporary occupation of Constantinople by Bulgaria is regarded by Russia as inevitable, says a St. Petersburg dispatch to the Daily Mail...

Vienna, Nov. 7.—With the strongest outposts on the Turkish frontier already fallen, the chancelleries of Europe are beginning to ask where the onward march of the victorious armies of the Balkan allies is to end.

Constantinople is believed to be well protected on the land side by the Tchataldja lines. Surrounding the city in a half circle are strong earthworks and batteries of heavy artillery.

Constantinople is one of the most prominent and interesting cities of the world. Its commanding position, both commercially and politically, has been the means of acquainting the world with its interesting features.

TAFT GLAD OF CHOICE OF PARTNER FOR RIDE

Says Trip Down Pennsylvania Avenue Might Not Be So Pleasant If Things Had Been Different.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 7.—Even in the moments when it became apparent that Governor Wilson was going to sweep the country President Taft did not forget his philosophy and good humor.

"We've got to find some comfort in this," the president is reported to have said. "I'll be very glad to ride down Pennsylvania avenue with Governor Wilson. It wouldn't have been so easy if things had been different, but I would have taken the ride just the same."

The president was up early. He took breakfast at the home of his brother and shortly before 10 o'clock started for the Cincinnati Country club to play golf.

The president left Cincinnati for Washington. He expects to stay in the White House until the Christmas holidays. He may go to Panama about the middle of December, but has not made definite arrangements for such a trip.

Among friends of the president here it was said that Chairman Hilles of the Republican national committee would shortly return to the White House as Mr. Taft's secretary, a position he gave up to become national chairman.

Carmi A. Thompson of Ohio, the present secretary, will probably be given some other position in Washington.

Indianapolis, Nov. 7.—J. E. Munsey of Salt Lake City, Utah, accused of having harbored J. B. McNamara after the latter blew up the Los Angeles Times building, was charged with having used violence in labor disputes in Utah at the dynamite conspiracy trial.

The government produced letters from Munsey to J. J. McNamara, secretary of the Iron Workers' union, about a stockade ten feet high erected around a building under construction at Salt Lake City.

"We tried to get him, but he won't venture out at night, and he always packs a big gun."

BRYAN SAYS HE IS HAPPY

Nebraskan Declares He Believes Woodrow Wilson Listens to His Conscience.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 7.—William J. Bryan made the final public expression of his pleasure at the election of Gov. Wilson at the headquarters of the Wilson State Progressive league here, when, in response to calls for a speech, he said:

"As a religious hymn has been brought into the campaign by one of the parties, I think that I am justified in using the lines of another hymn to express my feelings:

"This is the day I long have sought and mourned because I found it not."

"I am happier than Gov. Wilson, for his joy is repressed by a sense of responsibility, while I am happy and free. My confidence in Gov. Wilson has grown with acquaintance, and I feel sure that he will live up to the expectations which his campaign has excited. I have confidence in him because I believe he listens to his conscience. I have little faith in a man who does right only because he thinks that he is being watched. He must have a stronger motive than that. He must do right because he cannot live with himself unless he does."

"Mr. Wilson is free to be a people's president, and I have no doubt he will so conduct his administration as to command the approval of the country. My joy is increased by the fact that Nebraska, the city of Lincoln, and the precinct in which I live all gave pluralities for Mr. Wilson."

Ohio Over 60,000 for Wilson. Cincinnati, O., Nov. 7.—Returns from 2,588 precincts of the 5,211 in the state give Taft 132,181; Wilson, 195,596; Roosevelt, 100,385. Two thousand three hundred eighty-seven precincts for governor give Brown 122,031; Cox, 187,730; Garford, 88,791. The returns have indicated no changes in the early reports of Democratic congressional victories.

FERRIS. GOVERNOR

EARLY RETURNS INDICATE THAT FERRIS IS ELECTED BY ABOUT 10,000 MAJORITY.

ROOSEVELT HAS LEAD IN THE STATE, WILSON SECOND.

Incomplete Returns Indicate That Roosevelt Will Have a Lead of Between 25,000 and 55,000—Heavy Vote Poled.

By probably not less than 40,000 plurality Theodore Roosevelt carried Michigan, and the state's electoral vote will be cast for him. Woodrow Wilson ran second.

The vote, as shown by the returns from 568 precincts, out of 1,872 in the state exclusive of Wayne county:

Table with columns: Roosevelt, Wilson, Taft and their respective vote counts.

On the earlier returns it appeared that Roosevelt would have not less than 100,000 over his nearest competitor, but as the counties whose population is more largely rural came in, his percentage of lead fell off, and Taft gained.

With the same number of precincts heard from, Woodbridge N. Ferris leads for governor by slightly over 3,500. The figures are:

Table with columns: Ferris, Musselman, Watkins and their respective vote counts.

WOODBRIDGE N. FERRIS.

If the ratio holds in the rest of the state, Ferris is elected by 10,000 but whether it will or not is doubtful. The early returns indicated a plurality for him of 75,000 to 100,000, but the more freely the figures came in, the more ground he lost, and the more Musselman gained.

On account of the tremendously heavy vote cast, the great number of offices voted on, and the fact that there were three parties in the field, resulting in much splitting of votes, the count was very slow.

Lindquist is a winner in the eleventh, but in the twelfth there is the Beet Joe" has pulled through victor in another tough battle.

The early returns are as a rule only on precinct and governor, though fragmentary returns on the suffrage amendment indicate that the vote on that proposition is very evenly divided.

The returns on congressmen are very scattering. For congressmen at large what figures are at hand show Kelley and Frensdorf running neck and neck, with Hill, the Bull Moose candidate, third.

In the second district Beakes, Dem., leads Wedemeyer, the present Republican incumbent.

In the third the election of Carney, Dem., over J. M. C. Smith is indicated.

In the fifth Edwin F. Sweet, present Democratic congressman, is being given a hard race by Carl E. Mapes, Republican.

There is a possibility that Sam W. Smith, Rep., has been defeated in the sixth by Alva M. Cummins, Democrat, and in the seventh Cramton, Ball and Sherman are all closely bunched.

In the eighth, as was anticipated, Chandler, the Progressive, pulled enough votes away from Fordney to bring Purcell, Democrat, close up and it will take the full returns of the district to show whether or not "Sugar Bee Joe" has pulled through victor in another tough battle.

Sears, Progressive, failed to make the showing expected of him in the ninth, and McLaughlin has probably won.

Too few returns are in from the tenth, the biggest district in the state, to venture a prediction as to whether Loud has been re-elected, or defeated by Roy Woodruff, his Progressive opponent.

Lindquist is a winner in the eleventh, but in the twelfth there is the strongest kind of a probability, based on incomplete returns, that M. Olin Young will be succeeded in the next congress by W. J. McDonald, the Bull Moose candidate.

One feature of the returns is the way the Bull Moose ticket ran in the upper peninsula.

The vote cast in the state was the heaviest ever known, practically the entire registration going to the polls to vote.

The three-sided contest for all offices was, of course, largely responsible for this, while good weather and the general closing of factories in all cities helped greatly.

In general the Democrats held their normal vote, and in many cases increased it, while the Republicans and Progressives combined polled far more than the normal Republican vote.

Generous Uncle Sam who for over a century has been giving away homesteads in the west through his general land office here, has decided that in order to make these lands more attractive to the prospective settlers he must make some concessions which will render them easier to acquire.

As a result of the constant granting of homestead tracts, ranging from 40 to 320 acres, since the enactment of the homestead act of 1862, during which time the government has given away gratis more than 123,540,355 acres in final homestead entries, the land office has found it had on its hands lands less suitable for cultivation and farming purposes than in former years, and consequently fewer applications for homesteads.

RAILROAD PUTS ENGINE IN THE CITY FIRE SERVICE

One of the big railroads having terminals here has equipped a locomotive with modern fire-fighting apparatus and put it in commission to assist the district firemen in extinguishing flames in the railroad yards, particularly near New Jersey and Virginia avenues.

Because of the high speed of which the engine is capable and the fact that it has right of way all the time, its service will be invaluable, as has already been shown by its efficiency in putting out small flames in the yards without the assistance of the municipal department. The excellent switch-board service, operated from the towers, can give it right of way with scarcely any delay.

The primary use of the engine will be in the yards, but it can be brought to the Union station or elsewhere along the road if necessary. The terminal has been so constructed that water can be reached at any point in the yards.

This is not an innovation, as the road has equipped a large number of similar engines. In many places they have grown more efficient than the fire department and are called upon to do most of the work. No fewer than 150 fire engines have been extinguished by the locomotive fire engines in the various yards and stations of the company.

The railroad has a special organization which becomes effective whenever a fire breaks out. The assistant chief yardmaster acts as chief of the department; he gives general directions to one of a fire and conducts the fire.

Time was when every horse's bridle was possessed of "blindlers" presumably to keep the animal in the straight road. Blinders are a necessary adjunct to the bridle with which the liquor fraternity seeks to lead the people. The less they can see of the wrecks of humanity by the roadside, the better the service which the populace will render the liquor bosses. Enlightenment and clear-eyed vision means death to rum. —Supt. Press.

"FROM THE CAR BEHIND"

In The Detroit News Tribune.

The above is the title of a new serial story which will start in The Detroit News Tribune, Thursday morning, Nov. 7. It is the story of a young man through college at 18, his hero worship of a great automobile manufacturer and race car driver, and his defense and protection of his fiancée from the just charge of attempted murder. It carries the thrill of the automobile race track from cover to cover. Did you ever stand a big automobile race? You hear the cry "Car coming!" and before you fairly realize what has happened it is past like a flash. In "From the Car Behind" by Eleanor M. Ingram, such a situation arises. This story also has a fine love theme running through it, and aside from interesting automobile lovers will prove an attraction to every man, woman and child who is fortunate to read it. You can only get this splendid, thrilling romance in The Detroit News Tribune. Be sure and read the first installment Thursday morning, Nov. 6.

IN THESE DAYS OF DIVORCES

Wentley Nothing Remarkable in the Simple and Frank Explanation of the Small Boy.

We were walking down the street Sunday and we saw the most beautiful child sitting on the front steps of a pretty house, says Ted Robinson. His eyes were so big and blue, his curly hair so golden, his innocent smile so frank and inviting that we would not resist the temptation to enter into conversation with him.

"Well, son," we said in the idiotically genial way with which an adult usually addresses a child, "how old are you?"

"Four," lisped the infant. (He didn't really lip it, because you can't lip when you say four; but that's the way children are supposed to do.)

"Isn't that fine!" (It would have been just as fine if he'd been three, though, or five. More idio-cy.) "And whose little boy are you?"

"Mamma's little boy."

"Aren't you papa's little boy, too?"

"Nope."

"Why aren't you papa's little boy?"

"The decree givine to mamma."

Then we went on our pleasant way.

No Broken Parts.

During the progress of the morning bath of a few months old infant a little neighbor girl came into the room carrying a doll and stood watching the operation for some time. The little girl's doll was much the worse for hard usage, being minus an arm and a leg. Finally she said to the mother of the child:

"How long have you had your baby?"

The child was informed, and, looking from her doll to the baby, she said:

BACKACHE "GETS ON THE NERVES"

Many who suffer from backache and weak kidneys are unnaturally irritable, fretful and nervous. Not only does constant backache "get on the nerves", but bad kidneys fail to eliminate all the uric acid from the system, and uric acid irritates the nerves, keeping you "on edge" and causing rheumatic, neuralgic pains. Doan's Kidney Pills cure these ills by curing the kidneys. Here's proof:

An Iowa Case.
Mrs. J. Elmer, 1025 S. 11th St., Dubuque, Ia., says: "For thirty years I suffered from kidney trouble. I had severe backache, headache, and dizzy spells and my limbs were so stiff I could not walk. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me when every thing else failed. I cannot tell them too highly."

KNITTED EVENING HAT

Pretty wool head covering for opera and theater wear with high peaked crown will be one of the novelties for the coming winter season. This hood is very light and in addition to keeping the wearer warm, will keep the hair from flying about. When removed the hood can be stuffed in the muff or coat pocket.

FOR SERVING TARTAR SAUCE

Idea Put Into Use by One Hostess Would Seem to Have Many Good Points.

A good idea for the serving of tartar sauce of mayonnaise is suggested by one enterprising housewife. She cuts a lemon in half, cleans out the inside thoroughly, and then fills the halves with the sauce. She serves one to each guest. When fish or salad is served the little lemon cups are placed around the edge of the platter and one is taken by each guest. In this way the sauce is kept firm and strong instead of melting into a liquid when put on a hot plate.

For the home where guests are always arriving and departing there is nothing quite so nice for the windows as white cotton crepe. This may be simply hemmed or trimmed with ball fringe. For the dressers and bureaus covers of fleec-lined plique will be found very satisfactory. This may be cut into the required size and the edges buttonholed in scallops. Two sets of curtains and covers should be kept on hand, one in use and a clean one besides.

FOR YOUNG GIRL

An effective little house dress this, made in Nile green cashmere. It has a Magyar bodice trimmed at neck with embroidered galloon, which is shaped to fit; it is also taken down in a "V" and trims sleeves and forms waistband. The skirt is eased to this. Materials required 2 1/4 yards cashmere 44 inches wide, 2 1/4 yards galloon 1 1/2 dozen buttons.

PROPER DEGREE OF NEGLECT

Sometimes Hard, Even for the Wisest Mother, to Know When to Draw the Line.

"Wholesome" neglect is about the best kind of care a child can receive," she said. "And my children have all had plenty of it!"

The other mother was so impressed by the words of the mother of seven healthy children that she actually began to practice a little bit of "wholesome" neglect with her own ewe lamb. One day the little girl came running to her with a cut finger. Formerly that mother would have called in a physician to bind up the cut. But having decided to make use of "wholesome" neglect, she merely took out her handkerchief, wrapped it around the child's finger, dried her tears, and told her to run back and play.

The mother of the seven children happened to be present. When the little girl had run away she said to the other mother, "That is a very dangerous way to treat a cut. Do you usually follow that practice?"

"No," replied the other mother; "I usually send for the doctor. But I am following your example, and using 'wholesome' neglect."

The other mother meditated a moment, and then she said, "It is not necessary, I think, to call in a doctor when a child cuts her finger; but to bind it up with a handkerchief that has been carried even for a few hours, exposed to dust, and not to cleanse the finger thoroughly before binding it up at all, seems to me, if I may say so, to be not 'wholesome' but 'unwholesome' neglect. So many persons," she went on, "confuse 'wholesome' with 'unwholesome' neglect. I don't blame them at all; it is hard always to know the one from the other!"—Home Progressive Magazine.

Feather Toques.
It seems as though a hat made of feathers should be light, and so the plumage toques are in actual weight; but they have a heavy look, thanks to their compactness, and this is not becoming. Nevertheless they will be very fashionable up till Christmas, and are already obtainable in many colors and shapes. Very few of them have brims, but nearly all belong to the saucypan, the padding basin or the coal scuttle persuasion. Their only trimming is in nearly every case a little knot of brilliant feathers at the side, culled from a tropic bird.

Silk Street Costumes.
The vogue for silk street costumes continues, and the colored silks which made their appearance last year are to be found in greater variety and more beautiful designs this fall. Many materials are shown in pique-like weavings in blue and white, and are utilized for costumes and coats.

Tartan and checked material are shown in velvet and silk as well as in the regulation woolen fabrics. There are blue-green checks, through which run red, blue or orange-yellow threads and large shadow squares in dark colorings, flecked with various tints.

EASY TO FILL THAT ORDER

Floorwalker Hardly Had to Think to Make Satisfactory Answer to the Inquiry.

"Silk stockings must be very cheap in America. Nowhere in the world do women's slim and supple ankles gleam in lustrous silk as they do here."

The speaker was Robert Lorraine, the English actor. He continued:

"A married man told me the other day that, going into one of your department stores, he said to a floorwalker:

"I'm looking for something pretty in silk stockings."

"The floorwalker smiled, and with a gesture embraced the long rows of counters with their charming saleswomen.

"That remark," he said, "describes, I believe, practically every one of our young ladies."

England's Motto.

"Dieu et Mon Droit"—"God and My Right"—the royal motto of England, was the parole of the day given by Richard I. (he of the Lion Heart) to his army at the battle of Gisors, in France, on the 20th of September, 1193, when the French army was signally defeated. Dieu et Mon Droit appears to have been first assumed as a motto by Henry VI., 1422-1462. Semper Idem—"Always the Same"—was one of the mottoes of Queen Elizabeth; also adopted by Queens Mary and Anne.

Situations Vacant.

The rich bachelor sighed and looked fixedly at the beautiful girl.

"Things with me," he said, "are at sixes and sevens. I feel the great need of a woman in my home—one who would straighten out my tangled affairs and make life worth living once again."

Her soft glance spoke her excitement and expectation.

"Yes?" she queried, gently.

"Do you know," he continued, "of any good, able-bodied woman whom I could get to clean the house?"

Nor for Her.

"He seems to be so superficial," said Mrs. Oldcastle.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Gotalotte, as she hung her $15,000 necklace over the back of a chair. "I've noticed that. He's got half a dozen big ones stuffed that he claims he caught. I wouldn't have such things in my dining room."

The Best She Could Do.

"Why don't you want to let me hold your hand?"

"What good would it do you to hold my hand?"

"It would make me glad and give me courage, perhaps, to—say something that—that I—er—"

"There, please hold both of my hands."

EASY LOADER MANURE SPREADER

Is the product of an independent manufacturer. It is the simplest and strongest constructed manure spreader ever offered the American farmer. It has strong angled steel sill and heavy reinforced the entire length of the machine, which insures light draft and no warping out of shape even though it is more exposed to the most severe test of the elements of any implement used upon the farm. The oil bath worm-driven apron is a very important factor, preventing any possibility of gear cutting and drives the apron accurately either up hill or down. The double spiral arrangement of all the teeth in the beater, preventing windrowing of the manure and enables the operator to know exactly the amount of manure he is applying to his soil. For further particulars about this machine call personally or phone.

Democrats Win in a Great Landslide

A great Democratic victory is the result of the general election held Tuesday in so far as the national and state tickets are concerned. Gov. Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic nominee for president is elected by a sweeping majority, as was also Woodbridge N. Ferris, Democrat nominee for governor of Michigan. A general account of the election will be found on another page of this paper. In Wayne county the Republicans elect their entire ticket. W. W. Wedemeyer, Republican nominee for congress from the Second District, of which Plymouth is a part was defeated, as was also Samuel W. Smith of the Sixth District.

In Plymouth the day passed off very quietly, the weather was all that could have been desired for an event of this kind and a large vote was polled as a result. The total number of votes cast was 576. There were 123 straight Republican votes, 72 Democrat, 60 Progressive, 37 Socialist and 12 Prohibition. The suffrage amendment was carried by a vote of 292 for and 171 against. The home rule amendment was carried by a vote of 290 for and 65 against. We give below the vote in Plymouth on the following offices, the Republican being given first, Democrat second and Progressive third:

- President—Taft 181, Wilson 121 and Roosevelt 186.

AT THE END OF THE LONG CAR RIDE

By EDMUND MOSERLY.

Whenever he could do so without seeming rude, Kenneth Craig allowed his gaze to rest upon the girl who, like himself, stood waiting for a car. He was spending a few months at home, after several years in the tropics. During those years, he had been able to associate with few of the women of his race, and he now found positive delight in the mere sight of such a radiant, tailor-made vision as the one a few feet from him.

A car came along and they boarded it. It was well filled, and after she had seated herself, there remained but one vacant seat—the place by her side, which he straightaway took. An acquaintance of Kenneth's, thinking he was accompanying the girl, bowed to him; at the same time raising his hat. Kenneth returned the bow, and absently followed the other's example as to the hat. In the next instant, he would have given anything to recall his action, for he saw that she had noted it, and construed it as an impertinence.

The conductor approached them, and when Kenneth handed him a dime, he promptly rang up two fares, assuming the pair to be companions, and being in blissful ignorance of the fact that the girl was at that moment delving in her handbag for her purse.

"Your paying my fare was an act of unpardonable presumption," said a cool voice at his side.

"Very well," he replied. "Shall I call the conductor? Or do you prefer to cancel the debt by simply handing me five cents?"

"The latter method will serve," she decided, and again began to search for her purse.

Suddenly she grew red and nervous. "I cannot find my purse; it isn't in my bag," she faltered.

"I'm very sorry," he replied, solicitously polite.

"Oh, it isn't the loss that I mind; it was but a small sum—but now I cannot cancel my obligation to you."

"It is a trifling matter. Let us forget it," he urged.

"Indeed we must not. You must let me know where I may send the money."

"Oh, very well. If you insist, here is my card. It has my address on it."

The car stopped at his street, and when he left it, he was mildly surprised to see that she did the same. He bought a paper, and she passed him. When he started toward his home, he noticed that she was just ahead.

He tramped along, reading the headlines of his paper, and when he reached his home, he was amazed to see her standing on the front porch.

"Are you following me?" she asked defiantly, as he ascended the steps.

"Not in the way you mean," he replied with a smile.

"Then why do you come here?"

"Do you know whose house this is?" he asked, answering question with question.

"Yes."

"Then will you kindly look at the card which you so disdainfully thrust unread into your bag while on the car?"

The card was quickly found. She read it with a gasp. "You are Eliza Craig's brother," she exclaimed, in pretty confusion. "Oh, why didn't I look at this card before?"

"And you are—?" he hinted.

"I'm Barbara Page, Eliza's roommate and chum at college."

Kenneth looked at her intently. "So you are Barbara Page," he said musingly. "Eliza wrote me much about you while I was in Brazil—but, by the way, you weren't expected until tomorrow, were you?"

"No; I am a day ahead. My father was traveling this way today, so I came as far as the city with him, leaving my baggage to follow."

"Eliza won't be home for an hour or two yet," he said, opening the door. "Won't you come in?"

"Will you go to your room, or will you bear me company in the living-room until sister arrives?" he asked as they entered.

"Such a pleasure as chatting with a real, live American girl has been almost entirely denied me during the last three years, and in view of the fact that you are indebted to me for the sum of—"

"If you start by mentioning that, I shall assuredly go to my room," she broke in with a laugh, as she entered the living-room.

She sang his favorite songs to him, and played the compositions of his favorite composers.

"Miss Page, did Eliza ever talk to you about me?" he asked, after an hour and a half had slipped by and no Eliza had appeared. "It is a rather strange question, but I have a special reason for asking it."

"Oh, yes," she replied, "but I think I ought to go to my room now."

"Please hear me first," he said. "Last summer, when you and Eliza graduated, she wrote me that she could not bear separation from you, and that if I wished to prove myself a loving brother, I must come home and marry you, so that she could have you for a sister. I—I wish to prove myself a loving brother."

She started to flee, but found him in her path.

"Please let me pass," she pleaded. "Two hours ago we had never seen each other."

There was a light step on the porch outside and someone entered the hall.

"Is that you, Eliza?" he called.

"Yes, Ken," answered a voice outside the door.

"Come in here and persuade my future wife," he said, "to take me seriously as her future husband."

VIRGINIA, MESSALINE, AND PANNIER OF ROSEBUDS

"Pink messaline with pannier of rose point and a wee cluster of rosebuds on the ruffe and schu. In-express-ib-ly sweet!" Kitty was an exclamation point of admiration.

Virginia regarded her younger sister with the expression of a yearning missionary. "Kitty, I wish you'd devote less thought to mere externals," she said.

Undisturbed, Kitty surveyed her sister, immaculate in unruined, unruined, tailored linen. "Of course, Virginia, you're a distinguished settlement angel and all that, but if you don't think more about clothes you'll gradually drop off even the semi-feminine touches and emerge as Dr. Mary Walker," she declared, severely.

"And sis is really a good looker," put in Tom.

Virginia, patient disapproval personified, absent-mindedly salted her breakfast food instead of her egg. "A woman with a sense of her responsibilities," she murmured, "realizes that life is too short to waste on such a trivial consideration. Uplifting humanity—"

Tom said "Excuse me!" and fled.

"Or the pursuit of some equally serious and worthy purpose should occupy her time and thoughts to the exclusion of frivolous, light-headed—"

Kitty rose. "Sorry, Jinny, I'd love to listen. Makes me feel like a little demon, but I'm going to don my ravishing pink batiste and loll over to Dorothy's. Her cousin, fresh from Harvard, arrived yesterday, and I think I'll wake up Bob to the treasure he's won if I chain the welcome stranger to my chariot wheels, first chance."

Virginia was truly shocked. "Kitty! Have you so far forgotten the modesty becoming a young woman newly engaged as to race off in actual pursuit of another young man?"

Kitty flushed, bit a sharp retort in two and came over to rub her hand lovingly over Virginia's glossy curls, brushed into unwilling smoothness. "I can't do Dot's cousin a bit of harm," she said meekly, "because he isn't engaged. I wish you'd get through saving humanity, Jinny, so you could have a good time with me. I've just six more months at home now."

Virginia slipped an arm around her sister. "I only hope I can lead you to a true appreciation of woman's life and work" during those six months, Kitty. Why not begin by coming to the club with me this morning? I have a paper, 'The Influence of Woman in Civic Life.'"

Kitty was squinting critically. "I wish I could persuade you to cut off those ugly high collars in this hot weather. You've the prettiest throat of anyone I know, and you bury it under all that chuffy linen. Collarless blouses are so fashionable, too."

Whizzing along in the Maynard's touring car that afternoon, Kitty and Dot's cousin from Harvard were discussing brunettes versus blondes.

"By Jove!" he said enthusiastically. "I saw a splendid brunette on your street this morning. Raving beauty, Italian eyes. Serious as a saint. Tall. Stately. I'm sure she never giggled in her life."

Kitty wriggled excitedly. "Awfully plain clothes?"

He stammered. "Um-er. Rather reminded me of a nurse's costume. Dot's promised me an introduction, but that's as much as I can get out of her. Do you know her?"

Kitty laughed appreciatively. "She's my sister and a practical humanitarian."

"You don't say!" His face fell. "What'll I have to go in for to impress her? She thinks I'm frightfully rude. I forgot my manners completely and stared at her."

"Dot's going to bring you to dinner tomorrow night," said Kitty, soothingly. "You'd better read up on social settlements."

The next afternoon Kitty was applying powder over cold cream in anticipation of a round of tennis when Virginia appeared at her door, a blouse in one hand, a long pink ribbon and a scrap of lace in the other. Her eyes were perplexed and her face was flushed.

"Kitty, you know so much about fashion, will you advise me? Do you think some lace at the throat would add a pleasing feminine touch to this blouse? And is this pink too bright for a belt?"

In spite of the shock Kitty contrived a coherent commonplace. "Very becoming, Jinny. Shall I tie the ribbon for you?"

Virginia handed it to her with a grateful look. "I wish to be a credit to the club this afternoon because I've been delegated to explain our settlement system to your friend Dorothy's cousin, Mr. Rogers. His aunt introduced him this morning after the kindergarten class. She told me in confidence that he has shown remarkable interest in settlement work."

Kitty choked and coughed hurriedly. "Look at yourself in the glass, sis," she said.

Virginia gasped. "You've improved me wonderfully, Kitty. Perhaps I ought to pay more attention to clothes."—Chicago Daily News.

Advice.

"I would like to get some plants to put in my kitchen to give it an esthetic touch. What would you recommend?"

"From the looks of the kitchen, madam, I would advise some scabby plants."

Defined.

"Pa, what's an inscrutable snifle?"

"It's the kind, my son, your mother had on her face this morning when I told her business might keep me out late tonight."
