Rural School Fair a Great Success

A Fine Showing of Exhibits and Was Largely Attended.

The rural school fair which was held in Penniman hall last Friday and Saturday was one of the most successful events ever undertaken by the Plymouth Grange, under whose auspices it was held. It was largely attended and the proceeds will net a nice sum to the Grange for their efforts. Nine out of thirteen schools in the township competed for the splendid prizes offered in each class.

In the seed exhibit there was a splendid showing of the various kinds of seeds, and there were some very fine specimens. In the wood work, bread making and sewing exhibits there were some articles that would have done credit to more experienced and skillful workers. The workmanship and quality of these articles spoke highly for the skill of our boys and girls in this line of work. One of the big features of the fair was the large collection of curios that was on exhibit. This collection attracted a great deal of attention and was worth the price of admission alone. One of the largest collections shown was that by Theodore Harmon. Mr. Harmon has a wonderful collection of coins, numbering 254 in all, from nearly every country in the world. He also has a silver watch bought by his grandfather in the year of 1800, several teapots used 150 years ago, a musket that went through the Revolutionary war and the war of 1812, one of the first spinning wheels ever made, a large collection of Indian relics, etc. A. C. Laraway, also had a large collection of Indian relics, fire arms, etc. Both gentlemen were present to explain about the various articles on exhibition and it was very interesting and instructive.

The demonstrations of the simple chemical tests which the housewife may employ to determine the purity of food stuffs was another interesting feature of the fair. The demonstrations were in charge of Miss Ethel Connor, teacher of domestic science in our public schools, assisted by Mrs. S. E. Campbell, Mrs. Carman Root and high school students.

The candy and baked sales were largely patronized and were in charge of Mrs. F. G. Geer and Mrs. Jas. Gates. Mrs. J. W. Mellow had charge of the sale of refreshments Saturday evening. Prof. W. N. Isbell, who had charge of the judging committee in a most happy manner presented the lucky contestants with their well earned prizes at 7:30 Saturday evening. In the total number of points made it was found that the Bartlett school and the Nankin school had tied, so both schools were awarded the same kind of a prize, a beautiful picture for the school rooms.

On Saturday evening the Grange orchestra furnished splendid music throughout the entire evening, and it was enjoyed by all. The members of the committee who had the fair in charge were Mrs. J. C. O'Bryan, Mrs. John Root and Mrs. Wm. Harmon, and it was largely due to their efforts that the fair was such a splendid success, and they desire through the columns of the Mail to extend their thanks for the hearty co-operation of the members of the Grange and all others who assisted them in any way. It is expected that another fair will be held next year on a much larger scale.

The following were lucky contestants:

Had His Arm Badly Burned

Last Monday morning while working in the soldering room at the Markham air rifle factory, Harry Cole accidentally pulled the valve from a lighted torch, causing a gasoline explosion. Mr. Cole's left arm was badly burned from the elbow down. Fortunately no one else was injured. The flames were quickly extinguished with the sprinkler system with which the factory is equipped, and very little damage was done to the building.

Found Livery Horse Dead

Last Saturday afternoon a man giving his name as Robert Donaldson, appeared at H. C. Robinson's livery barn and hired a rig to drive to a place near Lapham's Corners. Before the stranger got away from town, he picked up three more fellows, and they proceeded in the direction of Lapham's Corners. About five o'clock David Corkins, barn man at Robinson's livery received a telephone message saying the men were abusing and driving the animal shamefully. Mr. Corkins hitched up a rig immediately and drove out in search of them. He found the horse lying beside the road dead about one-half mile west of Lapham's Corners. He then made a search for the men, and succeeded in locating Donaldson, who was in an intoxicated condition. Mr. Corkins brought the man back here and turned him over to officer Springer, who placed him in the lock-up. Sunday morning Mr. Robinson went to Lapham's Corners and located the other men and together with Donaldson settled with him for the loss of the horse. The four men have been employed in the woods near Lapham's Corner's cutting timber. At the present writing we have not learned of any charge having been preferred against the quartette.

FREE-HITTERS AND CHOKERS.

This world is divided between free-hitters and bat-chokers, but to understand the simile you must be a fan, or at least have the confidence of a fan who will lead you through the door of wisdom. The free-hitter, be it known, is the batsman of the supercilious eye who begins his swing away back over his shoulder, brings it round like a yacht's boom giving in a strong wind and drives the ball over the left field fence or—misses it. He is the producer of home runs and three-baggers and is the recipient of adulation and automobiles. He is Speaker and Jackson and Doyle and the world-famous Casey. The bat-choker is different, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat. He is the man who slides his hand well down onto the swell of the bat, where, with a longer leverage, he can make a quick jab at the speeding sphere. He is content if he scratches a sacrifice or beats a bunt down to first. Nobody loves him, but he wins many a ball game, though even in the midst of victory he feels that the manager has the toboggan under him and is only waiting for a bonehead play to touch the trigger and send him to the minor league. The free-hitter also reaches the minors in due time, but he does so with head erect and chest expanded, for the free-hitter is such by nature and no reverse can quell him. Once a free-hitter always one.

Will the apple ever again become an article of common consumption? Or will it remain in the luxury list, somewhere, say, between truffles and bacon? There have been no eating apples within the range of any but the fattest pocketbook for many seasons, while the character of the pie apple is such as to require uncommon aptitude for the composition of the crust to make a pie fit to eat; or else the cost of the filling has required that the pie must be nearly all crust. A big crop is now in prospect and new orchards are coming to fruition every season; such is the temptation of the soaring quotations, says the Providence Journal. At this juncture, one of the orators at an apple growers' convention has the nerve to propose an advertising campaign, lest there be overproduction. Does not this proposal mean that the growers are determined to maintain prices as the supply increases? Something is said about instructing women in the theory that eating apples beautifies the complexion. That ought to create a market, to be sure. But there need be no fear of lack of demand. Apples will need no advertising if the price is right. And any articles calculated to maintain high prices should be frowned upon by the hard-pressed consumer.

Recent investigations into the hours of work by officials of the French department of navigation have brought to light a record in government employment in the shape of an official whose daily "hours of duty" amount to exactly two minutes. This man dwells at a place on the Belgian frontier, and his arduous labors consist in fetching from one office a list of the number of barges that have entered French territory the previous twenty-four hours and handing the said list in at another office. If the position be a sinecure, the pay is not high, the remuneration amounting to a $1.40 a month.

THE United States armored cruiser Tennessee, commanded by Rear Admiral Austin R. Knight, now on its way from Philadelphia to Constantinople to protect American residents and their property in the Turkish capital.

Two Candidates Claim Same Office.

The action of the Eaton county board of canvassers in counting the vote that gave County Clerk E. G. Pray a plurality of 567 for the office of representative, following a protest filed by Dwight Backus, the democrat nominee, alleging that the state constitution prohibited a county officer from aspiring to a seat in the legislature, will result in the contest being carried to the house at Lansing. Mr. Pray claims that his resignation, to take effect Nov. 4, was filed with Judge of Probate Dann, on Nov. 2, and for that reason the section mentioned does not apply. Mr. Backus contends that the county clerk was ineligible as far back as the primaries and will present affidavits to show that Mr. Pray continued to act as county clerk up to the time the protest was filed with the board, Tuesday, Nov. 11.

Suffrage Has Lead of Over 13,000.

Complete official returns received at the office of the secretary of state from 39 counties give equal suffrage a lead of 13,098, the vote being, Yes, 68,887, no, 55,789. With nearly half the counties heard from the majority in favor of the amendment appears to be creeping up, and the returns indicate that the majority will be even greater than the most optimistic suffrage leaders had hoped for.

Rapid Gains in Wealth of State.

The wealth of Michigan is growing apace. This is shown strikingly by the great increase in bank deposits. Michigan now has in the banks of the state $162.62 per capita. In 1907, the amount per capita was only $115.45; in 1910, $124.12; in 1911, $133.26. The gain in the last year has been almost $14 per capita.

STATE BRIEFS.

August Rabe is the third farmer in the vicinity of Kalamazoo to sacrifice a hand in a corn shredder this season. The U. S. agriculture department sent out 34,000,000 copies of documents the last year, free; and sold $16,000 worth.

Suit has been started against the city of Port Huron by the officials of the Port Huron & Northern railway to recover $694 which was paid to the city under protest, it is claimed, to cover the expenses of the special election to submit a proposition to grant the railway company a franchise.

Sugar Barrel May Clear Up Mystery.

An election mystery in Kalamazoo county may be cleared up by the canvassers, when they are given a chance to inspect a sugar barrel that was used in Climax township as a repository for votes. With several candidates showing dispositions to ask for an official recount, the county canvassers at a loss to explain the discrepancy that is reported at Climax. The poll lists of that township show that 319 people voted there, while the returns total but 278 ballots, a discrepancy of 41. This number of votes if accounted for, might make a great difference in the result of two or three contests, where the winners carried the county by less than 40 plurality.

Kalamazoo County to Make Tile.

Kalamazoo county will have a factory for the manufacture of tiling to be used in connection with the good roads work, and it will be operated by prisoners from the county jail. The commission has just purchased a farm at Portage Center and will build a factory at once.

It is said this is the first move to establish a county reformatory and do away with the antiquated county jail. The Portage farm is in the center of the county and well located for such an institution.

Schrank, Declared Insane.

John Schrank, the Yugoslavian who attempted to assassinate Theodore Roosevelt, has been found insane by five alienists appointed to examine him. Their complete report will be made to Judge Backus. 173 DOCTORS AND DRUG MEN ARRESTED

FEDERAL DETECTIVES DESCEND ON PROMINENT DOCTORS AND FAKERS IN 72 CITIES.

CHARGED WITH MISUSE OF THE MAILS TO DISPOSE OF WARES.

Kalamazoo and Iron River, Among Towns Where Postoffice Officials Arrest Accused Men and Women.

Acting under direction of Postmaster General Hitchcock, postoffice inspectors and United States marshals in 72 leading cities of the country began practically simultaneous raids for the arrest of 173 persons charged with using the mails to promote criminal medical practices or the sale of drugs and instruments used for illegal purposes.

The arrests were made for misuse of the mails, each case being based on the use of the mails to solicit business or dispose of wares.

The concerted official action covered the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the lakes to the gulf. Many of the persons to be arrested are prominent commercially and socially in their communities. Some are leading physicians; others are rich and influential business men; yet others are men who live by their wits and are comparatively little known, without their own small coterie of associates; and one is a Chinaman, who is alleged to have practiced his calling on women of his own race and upon those of the lower strata of society.

All the arrests are to be made for alleged violation of section 211 of the penal code of the United States, which bars from the mails any vile or obscene matter, whether sealed or unsealed; any advertisement, letter or circular proposing or suggesting criminal practices; or any packet containing any substance, drug or thing intended to be used for immoral or unlawful purposes.

New York Gunmen Declared Guilty.

Only a single ballot that was taken by the jury in the trial of the four gunmen for the murder of Herman Rosenthal immediately upon retiring to consider the verdict was necessary for the jury to bring in a verdict of murder in the first degree against all four defendants, Frank Cirofici (Dago Fran), Louis Rosenberg (Lefty Louis), and Harry Horowitz (Gyp the Blood). The verdict was arrived at, according to the oldest court officers, with a speed unprecedented in the history of first degree convictions in the county. Also the conviction was unique, in that it was the first time four men had been convicted of murder in the county and, so far as could be learned in the state.

Like Charles W. Becker, the police lieutenant convicted as the instigator of the gambler's murder and sentenced to death, the gunmen heard the verdict pronounced against them without show of emotion. They stood at the bar looking straight ahead as the foreman of the jury rose to make known the result of its deliberation and they continued to stare stolidly in front of them until the formalities of the proceedings were concluded.

Boiler Explosion Kills Two Men.

The boiler in the wood fiber mill of Albert Widdas, at Tawas, blew up, killing Merl Henry, fireman and Albert Nash, city electrician, and seriously injuring John Webb, a section man, and W. A. Emerson, Weir died later en route to a hospital at Bay City. The force of the explosion threw the two men, Nash and Henry, who were working in the mill, more than 200 feet. Weir was fully 300 feet from the mill and was struck by a piece of pipe, and has suffered internal injuries. The boiler was scattered for hundreds of feet, one piece going through the residence of Mr. Nash, who resides opposite the mill.

Election Returns Received from 42 Counties.

Monday was the last day under the law for county boards of canvassers to send in their returns to the secretary of state on the recent state and national election. But 42 counties have sent in their reports, and without the exception all have had to be sent back for correction. In many of the counties returns are being held, which are holding back the returns. Some counties have only sent partial returns.

Returns show that in Oscoda county the names of Herbert Baker, bull moose candidate for auditor general, and Julius B. Kirby, candidate for attorney general, were reversed. This is the third county in which the same mistake was made.

Jackson Gorgy, an aged resident of Alpena, was seriously burned when a gasoline stove exploded. He lived alone in a portion of the old Allegan house, one of the oldest buildings in the city. The building was badly damaged and a garage was ruined.

RAISED VALUATIONS $940,542,000.

Five Counties Given Special Genesee County Raised Over $20,000,000.

The state tax commission gives out figures on the increased valuations of real and personal properties in five counties, where it has held reviews of the entire counties, and the total increased value over the amounts as assessed by the county boards of review reaches $940,542,000.

These figures give an idea of what the tax commission is accomplishing in those counties where it has made complete reviews of assessed valuations.

In Genesee county the board of review placed the assessed valuation of all real and personal property at $48,765,870, while the state tax commission raised the amount to $63,882,168, an increase of $20,116,298.

In Gogebic county the board of review placed the valuation at $43,427,780, and the tax commission lifted it to $51,918,274, an increase of $8,490,494.

Ingham county valuations were given at $35,038,435, and the commission lifted it to $63,909,410, an increase of $28,870,975.

Iron county valuations were given at $25,193,834 by the local assessing officers and the commission raised them to $29,097,391. In Kalamazoo county, where the commission recently finished its work, the assessed valuation of the county was found to be $73,280,944, while the county board had valued it only $40,099,948, giving an increase by the commission of $33,180,995, which is the largest increase in any of the five counties.

SEEN AND HEARD IN MICHIGAN

Kalamazoo.—The child welfare exhibit, which is being given here, was attended by nearly 2,000 women. The exhibit is a most unique one, only children's clothing being displayed. The Kalamazoo Kindergarten club, which arranged the exhibit, did so with the view of presenting mothers with the examples of simple and comfortable clothing for children. Samples were furnished by the women. It is the first exhibit of the kind ever held in the country. Taking advantage of the affair, representatives of many of the large manufacturing concerns are in attendance taking note of the kind of garments that prove most popular.

Lansing.—Nearly 5,000 persons, including a large number of women, are hunting deer in Michigan woods this season. Game Warden Oates has reports showing that 2,465 hunters have crossed the Straits of Mackinac into the upper peninsula, and it is estimated an equal number are camped in the northern counties of the lower peninsula. Since November 1, 317 deer have been shipped across the straits from upper Michigan.

Battle Creek.—The startling assertion that several hundred young men in this city were "hopeheads" or cocaine fiends was made by Chief of Police Farrington. The chief declared that two men, who dodge all efforts at apprehension, supply the users in this city, having headquarters in nearby small towns which cannot be discovered. Some of the victims of the habit here are members of the most prominent families, it is said.

Petoskey.—John J. Wane, aged eighty-one, for 33 years a Petoskey resident, elder of the Presbyterian church here and retired farmer, died of heart disease, resulting from an accident three years ago at Washington, D. C., when he was boarding a street car. His only surviving relative is a daughter, Martha Anna, who has taught in the grammar school here. The family formerly lived in Lenawee county.

Albion.—After an absence from this city of over 24 years, Daniel McAuliffe, a former resident who had been long mourned dead, walked into his brother's house in this city, alive and well. His sudden appearance greatly startled his Albion relatives, as they had long thought him anywhere but in the land of the living. Mr. McAuliffe has been living in Montana and is in good circumstances.

Mount Morris.—Roy Mead, living six miles northeast of here, went to the home of his wife from whom he was separated and shot her twice, one ball entering her mouth and the other her left arm. It is not thought she will recover. It is said Mead tried to induce his wife to return to him and when she refused, he shot her twice and then fled. Officers are looking for Mead.

Boyer City.—A. Coates, for several years roadmaster of the Boyne City, Gaylord & Alpena railroad, was killed east of Gaylord while working with the road construction train which is building the line to Alpena. He was crushed between two cars. His widow and three children are in this city. The body will be taken to their home at Novi.

Escanaba.—Patrick Hines of Caro, mistaken for a deer, was shot and instantly killed near this city. Hines was walking through the woods alone when Olaf Johnson, a homesteader, mistook him for a deer and shot, the charge cutting off a portion of Hines' head. This makes the fourth fatal hunting accident of the season in the peninsula.

Ludington.—While fishing in Pere Marquette river near Wilson's landing Richard Eberhardt, piano manufacturer, and a Mr. Barry of Cleveland, O., were drowned when the boat capsized. Four other men who were in the boat party saved themselves by swimming to land. Life savers are searching for the bodies.

Owosso.—Edward G. Eaton, Jr., was awarded a verdict of $50 against Joshua G. Marsh, a Woodhull township farmer, eighty-four years old, by a jury in the circuit court. Eaton, who is tenant on Marsh's farm, sued for $500 for alleged slander, said to have grown out of a dispute over the alleged feeding of Marsh's hay to Eaton's cattle.

Richland.—Rev. T. A. Scott has resigned as pastor of the Richland Presbyterian church and will go to Montague, where he will take charge of the Presbyterian church at that place. Rev. Mr. Scott has been in charge of the Richland church for nearly eight years.

Bad Axe.—A tragedy occurred in this city when George B. Rochester shot himself and his wife. Rochester fired a bullet through his mouth and was dead when found three hours later by his wife's granddaughter, Miss Portia Johnson, on her return from school. Mrs. Rochester was found in a bed, unable to move or call for help. Her husband lay in a pool of blood beside the bed. Mrs. Rochester is still alive, but will die. She received four revolver shots, one in the chest, two in the abdomen and one in the arm.

Transcontinental train is taking on passengers. Porter has a lively time with an Englishman and Ira Lathrop, a Yankee business man. The elopers have an exciting time getting to the train. "Little Jimmie" Wellington, bound for Reno to get a divorce, boards train in maudlin condition. Later Mrs. Jimmie appears. She also bound for Reno with same object. Likewise Mrs. Sammy Whitcomb. Latter blames Mrs. Jimmie for her marital troubles. Classmates of Mallory decorate bridal berth. Rev. and Mrs. Temple start on vacation. They decide to cut loose and Temple removes evidence of his calling. Marjorie decides to let Mallory proceed. Ira Lathrop starts while they are lost in farewell. Passengers join Mallory's classmates in giving couple wedding hazing. Marjorie is distracted by Ira Lathrop, woman-hating bachelor, discovers an old sweetheart, Annie Gattie, a fellow-passenger. Mallory vainly hunts for a preacher among the passengers. Mrs. Wellington hears Little Jimmie's voice. Later she meets Mrs. Whitcomb. Mallory reports to Marjorie his failure to find a preacher. They decide to pretend a quarrel and Mallory finds a vacant berth. Mrs. Jimmie discovers Wellington on the train. Mallory again makes an unsuccessful hunt for a preacher. Dr. Temple poses as a physician. Mrs. Temple is induced by Mrs. Wellington to smoke a cigar. Marjorie, at a station platform, raises Mallory's hopes, but he takes another train. Missing hand baggage compels the couple to borrow from passengers. Jimmie gets a cinder in his eye and Mrs. Jimmie gives first aid. Coolness is then resumed. Still no clergyman. More borrowing. Mrs. Temple puzzled by behavior of different couples. Marjorie's jealousy aroused by Mallory's baseball largon. Marjorie suggests wrecking the train in hopes that accident will produce a preacher. Also tries to induce conductor to hold the train so she can shop. Marjorie gets a cinder in her eye. Conductor restores dog and lovers quarrel. Lathrop wires for a preacher to marry him and Marjorie. Marjorie tells Lathrop of his predicament and arranges to borrow the preacher. Kitty Lewellyn, former sweetheart of Mallory's, appears and Marjorie's jealousy is aroused. Preacher boards train. After marrying Lathrop and Miss Gattie the preacher says Marjorie is helping him in moving train. Mallory's dejection moves Marjorie to reconciliation. The last day on the train brings Mallory the fear of missing his transport. Marjorie gets a divorce certificate. Marjorie refuses to be married by a divorce drummer.

Dr. Temple and Mrs. Temple looked at each other in dismay, then at the flask and the cigars, then at the Wellingtons, then they stammered: "Thank you so much," and sank back. Wellington stared at his wife: "Lucy, are you sincere?"

"Jimmie, I promise you I'll never smoke another cigar."

"My love!" he cried, and seized her hand. "You know I always said you were a queen among women, Lucy."

She beamed back at him: "And you always were the prince of good fellows, Jimmie." Then she almost blushed as she murmured, almost shyly: "May I pour your coffee for you again this morning?"

"For life," he whispered, and they moved up the aisle, arm in arm, bumping from seat to seat and not knowing it.

When Mrs. Whitcomb, seated in the dining-car, saw Mrs. Little Jimmie pour Mr. Little Jimmie's coffee, she choked on hers. She vowed that she would not permit those odious Wellingtons to make fools of her and her Sammy. She resolved to telegraph Sammy that she had changed her mind about divorcing him, and order him to take the first train west and meet her half-way on her journey home.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

A Duel for a Bracelet.

All this while Marjorie and Mallory had sat watching, as Kingfishers shadow a pool, the door where-through the girl with the bracelet must pass on her way to breakfast.

"She's taking forever with her toilet," sniffed Marjorie. "Probably trying to make a special impression on you."

"She's wasting her time," said Mallory. "But what if she brings her mother along? No, I guess her mother is too fat to get that kind back."

"If her mother comes, Marjorie decided, "I'll hold her while you take the bracelet away from the—the—from the creature. Quick, here she comes now. Be brave!"

Mallory wore an aspect of arrant cowardice: "Be—ah—ah—"

"You just grab her," Marjorie explained. Then they relapsed into attitudes of impatient attention. Kathleen floated in, and seeing Mallory, she greeted him with radiant warmth: "Good morning," and then, catching sight of Marjorie, gave her a "Good morning!" coated with ice. She bowed past and Mallory sat inert, till Marjorie gave him a ferocious pinch, whereupon he leaped to his feet:

Kathleen whirled round with a most hospitable smile: "May I have a word with you?"

"Of course you can, you dear boy," Marjorie winced at this and writhed at what followed: "Shant we take breakfast together?"

Mallory stammered: "I—I—no, thank you—I've had breakfast."

Kathleen froze up again as she snapped: "With that—train-acquaintance, I suppose."

"Oh, no," Mallory amended, "I mean I haven't had breakfast."

But Kathleen scowled with a jealousy of her own: "You seem to be getting along famously for mere train-acquaintances."

"Oh, that's all we are, and hardly that," Mallory hastened to say with too much truth: "Sit down here a moment, won't you?"

"I haven't time," she said, and sat down. "Mamma will be waiting for me. You haven't been in to see her yet?"

"No. You see—"

"She cried all night."

"For me?"

"No, for papa. He's such a good traveler—and he had such a good start. She really kept the whole car awake."

"Too bad," Mallory consoled, perfunctorily, then with sudden eagerness, and a trial at audaciousness: "I see you have that bracelet still."

"Of course, you dear fellow. I wouldn't be parted from it for worlds."

Marjorie gnashed her teeth, but Kathleen could not hear that. She gushed on: "And now we have met again! It looks like Fate, doesn't it?"

"It certainly does," Mallory assented, bitterly; then again, with zest: "Let me see that old bracelet, will you?"

He tried to lay hold of it, but Kathleen giggled coyly: "It's just an excuse to hold my hand." She swung her arm over the back of the seat coquettishly, and Marjorie made a desperate lunge at it, but missed, since Kathleen, finding that Mallory did not pursue the fugitive hand, brought it back at once and yielded it up:

"There—be careful, someone might look."

Mallory took her by the wrist in a gingerly manner, and said: "So that's the bracelet? Take it off, won't you?"

"Never!—It's wished on," Kathleen protested, sentimentally. "Don't you remember that evening in the moonlight?"

Mallory caught Marjorie's accusing eye and lost his head. He made a ferocious effort to snatch the bracelet off. When this onset failed, he had recourse to entreaty: "Just slip it off." Kathleen shook her head tantalizingly. Mallory urged more strenuously: "Please let me see it."

Kathleen shook her head with sophistication: "You'd never give it back. You'd pass it along to that—train-acquaintance."

"How can you think such a thing?" Mallory demurred, and once more made his appeal: "Please, please, slip it off."

"What on earth makes you so anxious?" Kathleen demanded, with sudden suspicion. Mallory was stumped, till an inspiration came to him: "I'd like to—get you a nicer one. That one isn't good enough for you."

Here was an argument that Kathleen could appreciate. "Oh, how sweet of you, Harry," she gushed, and had the bracelet slipped to her knuckles, when a sudden instinct checked her: "When you bring the other, you can have this."

She pushed the circlet back, and Mallory's hopes sank at the gesture. He grew frantic at being eternally frustrated in his plans. He caught Kathleen's arm and, while his words pleaded, his hands tugged: "Please—please let me take it—for the measure—you know!"

Kathleen read the determination in his fierce eyes, and she struggled furiously: "Why, Richard—Chauncey!—er—Bitty! I'm amazed at you! Let go—or I'll scream!"

She rose and, twisting her arm from his grasp, confronted him, with bewildered anger. Mallory cast toward Marjorie a look of surrender and despair. Marjorie laid her hand on her throat and in pantomime suggested that Mallory should throttle Kathleen, as he had promised.

But Mallory was incapable of further violence; and when Kathleen, with all her coquetry, bent down and murmured: "You ate a very tasty boy, but come to breakfast and we'll talk it over," he was so added that he answered: "Thanks, but I never eat breakfast."

CHAPTER XXXVII.

Down Brakes!

Just as Kathleen lunged her head in baffled vexation, and Mallory started to slink back to Marjorie, with another defeat, there came an abrupt shock as if that gigantic child to whom our railroad trains are toys, had reached down and laid violent hold on the Trans-American in my career.

Its smooth, swift flight became suddenly such a spasm of jarrs, shivers and thuds that Mallory cried:

"We're off the track!"

He was sent flopping down the aisle like a bolster hurled through the car. He brought up with a sickening slam across the seat into which Marjorie had been jounced back with a breath-taking slam. And then Kathleen came flying backwards and landed in a heap on both of them.

Several of the other passengers were just returning from breakfast and they were shot and scattered all over the car as if a great blast of human heads had burst.

Women screamed, men yelped, and then while they were still struggling against the seats and one another, the train came to a halt.

"Thank God, we stopped in time!" Mallory gasped as he tried to disentangle himself and Marjorie from Kathleen.

The passengers began to regain their courage with their equilibrium. Little Jimmie Wellington had flown the whole length of the car, clinging to his wife as if she were Francesca da Rimini, and he Paolo, sitting through Inferno. The light ended at the stateroom door with such a thump that Mrs. Fossilick was sure a detective had come for her at last, and with a battering rain.

But when Jimmie got back breath enough to talk, he remembered the train stopping a moment of the day before and called out:

"Has Mrs. Mallory lost that cup again?"

Everybody laughed uproariously at this. People will laugh at anything or nothing when they have been frightened almost to death and suddenly released of anxiety.

Everybody was cracking a joke at Marjorie's expense. Everybody felt a good-natured grudge against her for being such a mystery. The car was ringing with hilarity when the porter came stumbling in and paused at the door, with eyes all white, hands waving frantically, and lips flapping like a fish, in a vain effort to speak.

The passengers stopped laughing at Marjorie, to laugh at the porter. Ash-ton sang out:

"What's the matter with you, porter? Are you trying to crow?"

Everybody roared at this, till the porter finally managed to articulate: "T-t-train rob-rob-robbers!"

Silence shut down as if the whole crowd had been smitten with paralysis. From somewhere outside and ahead came a pop-popping as of fire-crackers. Everybody thought, "No, no!" The reports were mingled with barbaric yells that turned the marrow in every bone to snow.

These regions are full of historic terror. All along the Nevada route the conductor, the brakemen and old travelers had pointed out scene after scene where the Indians had slaked the thirst of the arid land with white man's blood. Ashton, who had traveled this way many times, had made himself fascinatingly horrifying the evening before and ruined several breakfasts that morning in the dining-car, by regaling the passengers with stories of pioneer ordeals, men and women massacred in burning wagons, or dragged away to fiendish cruelty and obscene torture, staked out upon burning wastes with syalids cut off, bound down within reach of rattlesnakes, subjected to every misery that human devilry could devise.

Ashton had brought his fellow passengers to a state of ecstatic excitability, and, like many a raconteur, of burglar stories at night, had tuned his own nerves to high tension.

The violent stopping of the train, the heart-shaking yells and shots outside, found the passengers already apt to respond without delay to the appeals of fright. After the first dash of dread, came the reaction to panic.

Each passenger showed his own panic in his own way. Ashton whiffed round and round, like a horse with the blind staggers, then bolted down the aisle, knocking aside man and woman, he tumbled on a seat, pulled down an upper berth, and scrambling into it, tried to shut it on himself.

Mrs. Whitcomb was so frightened that she assailed Ashton with fury and seizing his tail, dragged him back into the aisle, and beat him with her fists, demanding that he protect her and save her for Sammy's sake.

Mrs. Fossilick, rushing out of her stateroom and finding her suspicious-eyed husband, laid hold of Jimmie Wellington and ordered him to go to the rescue of the spouse, Mrs. Wellington rose her hands, spousal, crying: "Let him go, madam. He has a wife of his own to defend."

Jimmie was trying to pour out dry his message, but only sputtering, forgetting that he had but his watch in his mouth to hide it, though a chain was still attached to his waistcoat.

Annie Gattie, who had read much about Chinese atrocities to missionaries, gave herself up to tears, yet repeated greatly that she had provided a timely man to loan on and should not have to enter Paradise a spinster, providing she could manage to divert him in the next few seconds, before it was everlastingly too late. She was begging her first husband to run her in a general alarm. But Ira was roaring curses like a pirate captain in a hurricane and swearing that the villains should not rob him of his bride.

Mrs. Temple found her twitching hands undeterred to drag her husband to his knees crying:

"Oh, Walter, Walter, won't you please say a prayer!—a good strong prayer!"

But the preacher was so confused that he answered: "What's the use of prayer in an emergency like this?"

"Walter!" she shrieked.

"I'll get my salvation, you know," he stammered.

Oldest Almanac.

The oldest almanac in existence is the "Almanach National," which has been issued by the French government since 1686. Its name has been changed a good many times during its career of 225 years. Originally the "Almanach Royal," it became "National" in 1793, "Imperial" in 1816, and reverted to its original name nine years later. Since then the title has been altered four times. Like most publications of this sort, the "Almanach National" has grown busy with advancing years. The first issue contained 40 pages, as compared with 1,680 pages in the current issue.

Returns to Church Money He Stole When a Boy

I GUESS I'D BETTER MAKE THAT RIGHT—MY CONSCIENCE BOTHERS ME TOO MUCH

NEW YORK.—In the mail of Rev. William B. Wallace, pastor of the Baptist Temple, Sobermhorn street and Third avenue, there came recently a letter in a strange hand. The writer had a story to tell which interested the pastor greatly. Years and years before he had stolen some money from the Sunday school fund of the church at the time it was on Nassau street. Now he wanted to restore it.

Nearly forty years had elapsed since the writer, then a 15-year-old boy, had pilfered a small sum of money from the funds of the church. Most of those who attended the church at that time have long been in their graves. Dr. Wallace has been in charge only two or three years and the incident was new to him. At the regular monthly meeting of the board of de-

Merchant Who Manages Well Without Eyesight

PHILADELPHIA.—Here's another wonder of the world—a blind man at Sixth and Chestnut streets who captures thieves, detects counterfeit coins and breaks up the gangs that manufacture and traffic in bogus money. Besides doing this, famous "Blind Al," who has been in the neighborhood for many years, sells newspapers, candy and fruit; goes to market in crowded Dock street all alone—and never has he knocked a basket over. He shaves himself and without a looking glass, too; blacks his own boots, sews his own buttons on and is always ready with a cheery word for his multitude of customers who buy at his stand next to old Congress Hall at Chestnut and Sixth.

"Oh, yes," said he, "some people try to cheat me yet, but I usually catch them; I've caught 221 of them in the 33 years I've been blind. If they cheat me once they usually come and try it again, but I soon discover something wrong and put some of my 'trusties' on the watch and it's not long before the folks who pay for one apple and take three or for one peanut bar and take two find that they're caught themselves."

Mules Object to Service in Army and Desert to be sent for them. They stood the confinement without protest for a few hours, but things were not very lively in the neighborhood, and, besides, the reception committee had deserted them and it didn't seem just right for so many strangers in the city to spend their first night penned up in a corral without a chance to see the sights.

It was some time after midnight when the fun started. A few well directed blows from the determined hoofs, and a breach was made in the fence surrounding the corral. Five minutes later seventy-five mules were scampering at top speed through the Mission, the clatter of their three hundred hoofs starting householders in quiet streets from their sleep and bringing frightened faces to windows of the houses they passed. With utter disregard of city ordinances, the visitors trampled over gardens and lawns and demolished everything in their path.

In the course of ten minutes the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals received nine telephone messages of complaint regarding the mules. Deputies were tumbled out of their beds and sent in pursuit.

Wooing of Prehistoric Age Wins a Fair Bride

CHICAGO.—The cave man of an eon ago, who did his wooing with a club and won his bride by stunning her and dragging her to his lair by the hair, was reincarnated the other night into the being of Dominick Provenzano, who, until the change, was a man of meekness and the keeper of a shoe shop at 2020 Rosecoe street.

Provenzano wooed but failed to win Santa Domandela, a 17-year-old Italian girl who lived with her parents at 1110 Milton avenue and dreamed dreams of being courted by a prince. What cared she for the sad-eyed pleadings of Dominick? Huh! Her husband must be a man of daring.

And the other night Dominick qualified. With the spirit of his cave men ancestors suddenly awakened, he visited his brother-in-law, Samuel de Pasquale, forced his aid and then with a brandished revolver grimly led the way to the home of the unsuspecting bride-to-be.

Then with a savage cry the lover sprang toward his beloved, drove a handkerchief into her mouth with one hand and with the other lifted her from the doorstep and ran with her down the street.

In his wake came the faithful brother-in-law, and in the latter's came a mob of howling witnesses of the kidnapping.

De Pasquale held back the mob until he was beaten down, but the lover escaped with his prize.

Straight to the shoe store rushed Dominick. When the door to the shop finally was broken open by the police they found the girl, still gagged and now bound, lying on the floor and staring with wonder at the threatening face of the man. The gag was removed and then a strange thing happened.

"I love you!" she shouted. "I will marry you tomorrow! I—I didn't know you were like this."

So the police released the man and the girl went to her home to prepare for the wedding.

Farms for Children.

Perhaps the smallest farms in the world, each four by eight feet, have been devised by Mrs. Henry Parsons for the International Children's School Farm league, and demonstrated in New York. Each child becomes owner of his diminutive farm, in which he works, grows and harvests seven different kinds of vegetables, and these are borne by him in triumph to his family. About each farm is an 18-inch path, which he keeps in order; under his instructor it becomes a tiny object lesson in good roads.

ROYALTY WELCOMES THE AMERICAN SETTLER

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, WELCOMES AMERICANS TO CANADA.

It was a happy speech, that on that beautiful October day, the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada, made at Macleod, Alberta. It was an opportune speech, heartfelt and resonant with good fellowship. And, as it was specially intended for American ears, the audience, comprised largely of so many American settlers in Canada, the time and place could not have been better chosen.

It was in reply to an address of welcome tendered to him at the pretty city of Macleod, with the foothills of the Rockies as a setting, and the great wheat fields between, and in fact all around the place as the foreground, that His Highness, true to the best interests of the country and to those of the Americans who choose to make Canada their home, said in part:

"I am well aware that among those whom I am now addressing, there are a very great proportion who were not born under the British flag. Most of these will have realized by now that residence under that flag implies no disabilities. All we ask is that the laws of Canada should be obeyed.

"With this provision every one is free to come and go, to marry, to live and to die as seems best to him, and as it pleases Providence.

"We bring no pressure to bear on anyone to adopt the Canadian nationality, for we do not value citizenship which is obtained under compulsion.

"Our American cousins are welcome from over the border. Thrice we welcome our Canadian and British brothers, who return to the Union Jack, after living under the Stars and Stripes.

"History is repeating itself. For many years hundreds of young Britons have sought fortune in the western States. Time has brought about a change, and the tide has set in the other direction, bringing across the frontier numbers of our neighbors to whom we are glad to return hospitality.

"One of the chief dispensers of such hospitality in proportion to its population has, as we have said, changed its character from an important cattle town to a thriving wheat producing area.

"What it has lost from the picturesque point of view, it has gained in the material side, and I wish, in conclusion, to express the hope that the prosperity which has evinced itself here for the past ten years, may continue unabated in the future."

There is no reason why at a hundred places on this educative, instructive and interesting trip of His Royal Highness he might not have expressed himself in the same terms, and on each occasion, addressed large gatherings of Americans who are now settled on the prairies of Western Canada.—Advertisement.

JUST WHAT THEY EXPECTED

Committee Made No Mistake When They Looked for Almost Inevitable Comment.

A committee of investigating scientists approached a lady.

"Madam," said Professor Prewins, the spokesman, offering her a magnificent chrysanthemum of rare and lovely hue. "Madam, permit me to present this flower to you as a token of our high regard."

She clasped the splendid blossom in her lily white hand.

Breathlessly the committee waited her reply.

"How beautiful it is!" she answered. "What an exquisite shade of purple! I should love to have a dress of that color."

Dr. Prewins nodded knowingly to the committee, as if to say, "I told you so."

The committee winked to the professor and whispered, "You win."

In his wake came the faithful brother-in-law, and in the latter's came a mob of howling witnesses of the kidnapping.

So the police released the man and the girl went to her home to prepare for the wedding.

Lecturer—All statistics prove that the blonde woman is more difficult to get along with than the brunette.

Astonished Man in the Audience (starting up)—Are you certain of the fact?

Lecturer—It is a fact.

Astonished Man—Then I believe my wife's black hair is dyed.

Never Drink Water.

In Lower California a large number of the smaller desert mammals never drink water, according to American scientists who have recently visited the peninsula. They live and thrive on dry seeds and scraps of vegetation in places where the heat and aridity are excessive without ever touching their lips to water, and it has even been found impossible to teach some of them to take water in captivity.

Didn't Concern Him.

John Wesley had a reputation for cheerfulness. In his journal he writes: "I preached in Halifax to a civil, sensible congregation. Three or four gentlemen put me in mind of the honest man at London who was so gay and unconcerned while Doctor Sherlock was preaching concerning the Day of Judgment. One asked: 'Do you not hear what the doctor says?' He answered, 'Yes, but I am not of his parish!'"

Prominent Canton Township Resident Dies

Charles H. Newkirk, a prominent resident of Canton township died at his home their last Saturday morning, Nov. 16th. The cause of death was mitral insufficiency. Mr. Newkirk was born in Wayne county, N. Y., May 18, 1835. He has lived on the farm where he died for the past thirty five years. Mr. Newkirk was twice married, his first wife died about fifteen years ago. By this union he had three daughters, Mrs. Seymour Eighney, of Geneva, N. Y.; Mrs. Adelbert Truesdell, of Canton township and Mrs. Nelson Cole of the village. The above, with the widow, survive. Mr. Newkirk was a man highly respected by all who knew him. The funeral was held from Sheldon's church Tuesday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock. Rev. Rowe, pastor of the church officiating. Three grandsons and granddaughters, husbands acted as bearers. There was a large attendance of old friends and neighbors. Burial in the Sheldon's cemetery.

Whooping Cough in the School

There have been so many cases of Whooping cough among the school children that it is deemed wise to exclude from the school all who have suspicious coughs or who comes from homes where there is Whooping cough. These will be readmitted to school upon bringing a written note from their physician or the health officer. No child who has been absent from school on account of whooping cough, measles, scarlet fever, or any other communicable disease, will be readmitted unless they bring a written statement from their physician or health officer stating that they are released from quarantine or are free from contagion. We shall show no partiality in this matter, and shall do all in our power to protect the lives and health of the children under our care. All cases of communicable diseases should be reported at once to the health officer, and in all cases affecting school children it would be well to notify the superintendent of schools in order that all due precautions may be taken. Any persons who wishes to inform himself more thoroughly on the care of and protection against these diseases, if he will drop a postal to Dr. Dixon, Sec'y of the State Board of Health, Lansing, Mich., will receive free of charge bulletins covering all phases of the subject and the very latest, up-to-date knowledge obtainable. These bulletins are not technical but are very readable and interesting. Every home should be on Dr. Dixon's mailing list.

One of the prettiest weddings in the history of Plymouth occurred at the Presbyterian church Wednesday afternoon, when Miss Nettie Purdy was united in marriage to Newton I. Moore of Hanover. Rev. Farber, in the beautiful and impressive wedding service of the Presbyterian church, united the happy couple in the bonds of wedlock.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white brocaded satin, draped with crystal net with crystal trimmings and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and carnations. Miss Margaret and Donald Yerkes of Northville, cousins of the bride, were ushers, and little Lena Trufant of Ypsilanti, the flower girl, carried a beautiful basket of white carnations. Little Harlow Williams acted as ring bearer, carrying the ring in a silver basket.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple held a reception in the parlors of the church, where they were congratulated by the company assembled. The church and parlors were tastefully and beautifully decorated with ropes of myrtle, palms and yellow and white chrysanthemums. At the close of the reception dainty refreshments were served. Guests were present from Jackson, Hanover, Ypsilanti, Detroit, Northville, Wayne and Newburg.

The bride is one of our successful school teachers, a graduate of the Plymouth high school and Michigan State Normal, and the groom is prominent in Tiate grange circles and in institute work, being one of its field lecturers.

MADE A CLEAN JOB OF IT

First Time Old Gentleman Had Eaten a Crab, and He Left Nothing on the Dish.

A jolly old boy, from the Midlands entered into one of the hotels at the seaside, and, seeing on the slab on the right a crab dressed on the shell with legs, claws and parsley ranged round, said to the landlord:

"What d'ye call that?"

"Crab," was the answer.

"Looks good. I'll have 'un; and gie us a pint o' ale."

Bread and butter was added and the diner left to his dinner. In about an hour the genial landlord entered the dining room to see if his guest was getting on all right. He found him chawing up the last claw, the shaver red in the face, but beaming.

"Like the crab, sir?"

"Yes; he was capital. I never tasted one afore. But I think you baked 'un a little too long; the crust was hard. Let's have another pint."

He had eaten the lot—shell, claws and all complete.—London Tit-Bits.

Some Names Easily Remembered.

"Now, children," asked the teacher, addressing the class in United States history, "who was it that shot 'em?"

"Why—er—ah!" hesitatingly answered the brightest pupil. "I thing it was a crank by the name of Swank or Frank, or something like that."

"What surgeon attended the colonel, and—"

Thereat they all arose and exclaimed as with one voice: "Scarry L. Terrell, M. D.!"

From this we should learn that an unforgettable name is rather to be chosen than great riches.

Stitching it Some.

The men were boasting about their rich kin. Said one: "My father has a big farm in Connecticut. It is so big that when he goes to the barn on Monday morning to milk the cows he kisses us all goodby, and he doesn't get back till the following Saturday."

"Why does it take him so long?" the other asked.

"Because the barn is so far away from the house."

Why, how big is your father's farm?

"Well, it's so big that my father sends young married couples out to the barn to milk the cows, and the milk is brought back by their grandchildren."

Jumble at Chicago Stock Yards.

—PART OF YARDS

THE part played by the rails in feeding a hungry world is perhaps shown nowhere more picturesquely than in the Union stockyards at Chicago. Impossible as it may seem, there are at these yards 50 miles of tracks within an area of one square mile. It connects through a belt line system with more than 25 trunk lines.

The cattle country tributary to the Chicago Union stockyards embraces about 3,000,000 square miles, says the Railroad Man's Magazine. The range cattle fatten in the Dakota-Iowa-Kansas-Nebraska-Minnesota corn belt. In addition to cattle are hogs, sheep, mules and horses.

The system of handling this enormous traffic is in two distinct parts—the traffic over the granger lines proper and the handling of trains after they leave the freight terminals and enter the belt line tracks. Any one of the big trunk lines may be taken as an example of the rest. The live stock traffic of one of these averages a 400 mile haul, the trains having right of way over everything except passenger service. The average stock train is of 35 loaded cars, and its speed, all stops included, is 35 miles an hour.

If the haul is from Omaha, the train will be handled over three divisions, meaning three crews, each consisting of an engineer, fireman, conductor and two brakemen; 15 men in all, and these only to the terminal point.

December, January, February and March are the banner months, and Monday is the day of largest receipts at the Chicago yards. Wednesday comes next. The average number of stock cars entering Chicago over one of the great railroads on Sunday night and Monday morning is 700. Occasionally the number of cars arriving during the Sunday-Monday 24 hours is more than a thousand.

Thousands of People Employed.

The great yards themselves are divided into two great sections—the western portion with its packing houses and subsidiary industries, and the eastern part with its pens and chutes. Here every weekday of the year more than 50,000 persons labor or transact business.

Between eight o'clock each Sunday evening and nine o'clock Monday morning during the four busy months inclusive from 22,000 to 23,000 cars of stock, comprising approximately a hundred trains, are unloaded in the yards. The process of unloading consumes around 12 hours. The average must be one car unloaded every 20 seconds.

To the casual observer the trains appear to be massed in a hopeless jam, and one might walk block after block on the tops of cars. But despite this seeming impenetrable jungle of rolling stock, the trains are moved with a precision that would shame most clocks or watches.

This stock is shipped principally to commission brokers and seldom to packing houses or other eventual buyers. Each train may contain every class of stock that goes into the yards—horses, mules, sheep, hogs and cattle.

Walk down Exchange avenue in the yards on Sunday afternoon or evening and watch the groups of idle employees whittling sticks and swapping yarns, with nothing to do but wait. Now and then a passenger goes by, but for the most part it is unimportant waiting. And then, just before dawn the stock trains come hurtling out of the darkness, bringing their thousands of live animals.

By daybreak the tracks are jammed for miles with the moving trains, while the uproar is increased by stockmen shouting, whining, swearing, threatening because they fear they will not have their stock unloaded when the market opens. It is bedlam. As soon as a train arrives at the pens, its movements having been governed by the train director in the tower, the locomotive is attached to the engine and the unloading begins. Each car is one and one-half minutes, but many other cars are being emptied in that same interval.

There are ten chute platforms leading to all parts of the yards, and each holds from 18 to 25 cars, making a total of 250 cars that can be unloaded at one time. The average is 32 cars to the chute.

This roaring, protesting, squealing horde of live stock is urged up the chutes, with the sheep waiting reluctantly for a leader.

Railroad employes and yard operatives detest sheep. Sheep won't cross a puddle of water until a bellwether has been yanked over it, and then they won't stop till their leader has bumped into a fence, and can go no farther.

The animals in general are excited, the nerves of the workmen are tense and the controlling element, time, seems to spin by with tragic fleetness.

As each train is unloaded it becomes a dead thing, so far as the yards are concerned. It is hurried out of the way, making its exit over one of the three outgoing tracks and speeding back again to the meadows and the prairie reaches.

A thrilling scene is being enacted along the endless rows of pens. Punctures on horseback (regular western cayuses, at that!) are clattering over the brick pavement or splashing through the mire. Buyers representing all the packing houses, eastern concerns and even individuals are racing to and fro, discussing fine points in the stock, bidding for their favorite herds.

CONTENTION WAS ALL RIGHT

Lawyer, However, Qualified Admission With a Remark That Had Unkind Sound.

The jury was hearing the closing arguments in a damage suit before Judge Ben M. Smith, in which slander was alleged. The attorney for the plaintiff had been directing his broadsides against the defendant for some show of ingratitude, when the latter's counsel objected.

"Gratitude is inspiring but not a constitutional requirement," interposed the objector, who had borrowed several law books from the other lawyer some time before.

"One look at your face convinces me that you are right," said the first lawyer. "If gratitude were a constitutional requirement you couldn't be a citizen."

RASH SPREAD TO ARMS

739 Roach Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.—"At first I noticed small eruptions on my face. The trouble began as a rash. It looked like red pimples. In a few days they spread to my arms and back. They itched and burned so badly that I scratched them and of course the result was blood and matter. The eruptions feasted, broke, opened and dried up, leaving the skin dry and scaly. I spent many sleepless nights, my back, arms and face burning and itching; sleep was purely and simply out of the question. The trouble also caused disfigurement. My clothing irritated the breaking out.

"By this time I had used several well-known remedies without success. The trouble continued. Then I began to use the sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Within seven or eight days I noticed gratifying results. I purchased a full-sized cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and in about eighteen or twenty days my cure was complete." (Signed) Miss Katherine McCallister, Apr. 12, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L. Boston." Adv.

Remember when you were a youngster, what a trial baking day was? If Mother was lucky, everything went smoothly—but if she had "bad luck" her cakes and her pies and her bread were failures. Her success in baking seemed to depend almost altogether on "luck."

Nowadays there's no such thing as "baking luck." At least, not in the kitchens of the up-to-date cooks. Simply because Calumet Baking Powder has annihilated that old-time idea. It has made baking sure of success. It has made inexperienced cooks able to bake perfectly, and day after day it is saving hundreds of dollars' worth of time and material by doing away with costly failures.

Calumet Baking Powder is the purest baking powder made—and guaranteed not only to BE pure, but to stay pure in the CAN and in the BAKING. Calumet has twice been officially judged the BEST baking powder made—receiving the highest awards at the "World's Fair" Expositions in Chicago (1907) and in Paris (1912). Adv.

DIRECTOIRE COAT IS HERE

Parisian Leaders of Fashion Have Decreed that It is to Be Coming Season's Garment.

Just a peep behind the curtain of one of the most exclusive shops of Paris shows how strong the directoire coat will be during the coming season.

Some of the models have a flaring coat and others are close fitting; but there seems to be no doubt that both coats and skirts will show decidedly more fullness this season, albeit the silhouette will obtain.

In the skirts these close, long lines are adhered to, although a breaking away from the contracted line is noticeable in a number of skirts which show a fullness at the bottom, obtained by using a series of plaits at the side set in a little above the hem.

Nearly every skirt embodies the pannier drapery in some way. Some are draped in scant folds, while others, of very soft, thin material, including the chiffons and nets, have the drapery laid on in full plaits, or with rows of shirring at the waist line.

There is a tendency to cling to the high-waisted garments, although the normal waist seems to be coming into its own again.

The directoire coat is varied in many ways. Some show the high waist line, others are cut away sharply, and others have a very broad back, semi-fitting and ending in a deep curved line.

In connection with the coats, the Robespierre collar is a very marked feature. Changeable revers that can be worn either opened or unbuttoned on the shoulder is another innovation.

The directoire and early Victorian ages are mingled in strange, though curiously beautiful, combinations.

OF GOLD OR SILVER BROCADE

Pretty Fad for the Dancing Slippers Bids Fair to Keep Its Popularity.

The fad introduced this passing summer, and likely to be continued for the autumn, of having the dancing slippers made of gold or silver brocade, has displaced the fashion of the plain gold or silver cloth ones in a measure. Bright startling colors, such as scarlet, turquoise blue or emerald green, are interwoven with the metal in the brocade, and the effect on the dancing feet is altogether charming. A novelty in black satin slippers has them edged with diamond galon, and sometimes even the heels are encrusted with the rhinestones. The five strapped black and white shoe, with a rhinestone medallion on each strap, is most attractive with white or flesh tinted hosiery for afternoon wear, but the single large square buckles of those sparkling brilliants are often preferred. The Parisian fashion of having the shoe upper made of silk to match the costume has not been introduced here yet to any appreciable extent, but it is bound to come, for shot taffetas makes an unusually dashing finish for smart and dressy ties. The magpie ties, which combine black patent kid vamps with white uppers, are most appropriate with the smart all white charmeuse and broadcloth costumes, the black and white reappearing also in the chapeau.

The New Blouses.

Some new blouses have directoire collars. One of white eponge has deep cuffs of pique with an under cuff of net and shadowy lace, and a long black silk tie; its price is $10.75. An other with directoire collar and white pique cuffs, but the waist made of crepe de chine, is $12.75. This one is finished with a Gainsborough jabot of shadow lace and trimmed with loops of blue silk and clusters of tucks.

Japanese Using More Milk.

The habit of using milk has greatly increased among the Japanese in recent years, yet the average amount of milk consumed by each Japanese is still far below that of the European or American. The total amount of milk produced in Tokio Prefecture during the year 1911 was 26,635 koku and the total amount of daily consumption was over 127 koku, which means that each person consumed on an average only 0.1 go a day, which will hardly bear comparison with the four or five go of the average daily consumption per person in Europe or America.—Tokio Asahi.

EASY LOADER MANURE SPREADER

Is the product of an independent manufacturer. It is the simplest and strongest constructed manure spreader ever offered the American farmer. It has strong angled steel sill and heavily reinforced the entire length of the machine, which insures light draft and no warping out of shape even though it is more exposed to the most severe test of the elements of any implement used upon the farm. The oil bath worm-driven apron is a very important factor, preventing any possibility of gear cutting and drives the apron accurately either up hill or down. The double spiral arrangement of all the teeth in the beater, preventing windrowing of the manure and enables the operator to know exactly the amount of manure he is applying to his soil. For further particulars about this machine call personally or phone.
