W. C. T. U. Convention

Nine Unions were represented and from the very beginning to the end a spirit of deep interest prevailed. The reports showed good work done by the District during the year. Mrs. Jennie Voorhies welcomed the delegates and reminded them that the District was organized in the church where the convention was being held 36 years ago. Mrs. A. E. Towar of Detroit, voiced the response in behalf of the delegates. Department Work, Past, Present and Future, was ably handled by the superintendent of departments, and the following excellent papers given:

A Quiz on Prominent women of the Bible, by Mrs. Jennie Hassington. Mother's Responsibility, by Mrs. Mary Widdis, who divided the teaching of children into four parts, physical, mental, moral and spiritual. The Divorce Evil, by Mrs. J. C. O'Brien. Temperance in the Sunday School, by Mrs. P. J. Wilson. A vocal solo with violin and piano accompaniment was a pleasing feature on Tuesday afternoon, and on Wednesday a vocal solo by Mrs. R. E. Cooper and violin solo by Miss Anna Baker were charmingly rendered. Rev. Joseph Dutton spoke forcefully and lovingly on The Co-operation Between the Churches and the W. C. T. U., explaining why such co-operation was necessary to both organizations. How Does the W. C. T. U. Help the School, was the topic ably handled by Supt. W. N. Isbell, who spoke of the legislation regarding Scientific Temperance Instruction brought about by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union many years ago, and said that among all thinking people the question was coming to an economic as well as a moral issue and the public schools were trying to do their share in right education upon the subject. The following officers were elected:

President—Mrs. D. A. Jones, Detroit
 Vice Pres.—Mrs. Jennie Spangier, Detroit
 Cor. Sec.—Mrs. E. J. Wilson, Detroit
 Rec. Sec.—Mrs. M. A. Patterson, Plymouth
 Treasurer—Miss Ada Safford, Plymouth

Reports were expressed by the convention that Mrs. E. L. Beals who had been the District Treasurer since its organization, was through ill health unable to continue in office. Mrs. Beals has the further distinction of being the only woman in the District who has never until this year missed the annual convention. The following resolution was passed:

Resolved, that we extend our sincere thanks to those who so cordially assisted in entertaining this convention. Those who have so graciously opened their homes where such refreshing rest has been enjoyed. To those who have so ably furnished the beautiful music. To all who have in any way helped to make this a successful convention.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The teachers are planning to make the Art Exhibit attractive and interesting. Programs will probably be given by different grades and by some others. Many of the finest pictures will be explained to the people by the teachers who have had a chance to study the artist and his work before the picture arrives.

See what others have to say about it. There is something for every taste, and no one will be disappointed.—Columbus Citizen.

"The collection of photographs and photogravers of famous paintings now on exhibition in the High School is considered the finest ever presented in St. Louis.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Former Sup't. Boldan of St. Louis, Mo. said, "I regard this exhibition as one of the greatest mediums for educating the pupils that has been attempted in recent years. Over 10,000 school children, with their parents and relatives, have already witnessed the exhibition. The photographs are marvelous works of art, and in my estimation have never been surpassed in beauty and merit."

The pictures are well arranged and are the most interesting of their kind ever shown in this city. All stages of art are represented, beginning with Egyptian architecture and coming down to modern American art. The pictures are all the most careful and faithful reproductions. The architectural subjects are reproduced directly from the originals, and the reproductions of the paintings are from the original masterpieces.

We are also trying to teach our boys and girls to keep off the lawns. To walk on the sidewalks instead of on the lawns. To keep on the sidewalks all the way around the corners and not cut across corners on the grass, or places where the grass ought to be. Would it not be a good thing and helpful, not only to the teachers, but to the property owners and the children themselves if the parents would take a little interest in this matter and instruct their children at home in being careful in these matters? Plymouth is proud of her well kept lawns. Let us teach our children to take an honest pride in this beauty and aid it in every way they can. Parents can do much in this regard if they only will. Some of our older ones may have to speak approvingly a little up and that we set the children a good example.

A Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKinstry celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last week Thursday afternoon and evening at their home in Canton, where they have resided for the past fifty years. The bride of 71 and the bridegroom of 77 years were both born within a mile of their present home. The house was gorgeous in yellow and white decorations. About sixty relatives and friends were present and the ceremony was performed a second time under a marriage bell, after which light refreshments were served. The bride's cake was tastefully decorated with golden slippers. The venerable couple were the recipients of fifty-two dollars in gold, beside many other appropriate gifts.

In and Around Plymouth

Northville is agitating a fair to be held in that village next year.

A $150,000 company has been organized to manufacture motorcycles in Chelsea.

Miss Isabelle VanVleet of Flint, visited at J. D. McLaren's over Sunday.

L. D. Lovewell, a prominent stock buyer and auctioneer of South Lyon, died last Friday after a few days illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Melburn Partridge visited the latter's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Brennan at Ann Arbor last week, while there they had their eldest son, Russel, operated on for the removal of tonsils and adenoids.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Spicer, and Mrs. A. D. Ford attended the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKinstry at their home in Canton last week Thursday afternoon.

The Detroit short weight and measure inspectors made 26 complaints against offenders Wednesday, among the number being Geo. W. Jackson of Plymouth, selling potatoes.

Eli Nowland was pleasantly surprised at his home last Sunday, the occasion being his 90th birthday. Mr. Nowland was the recipient of several fine gifts as mementoes of the day.

There were about fifteen ladies present at the thimble party given at Mrs. Rewald's home last Wednesday afternoon, by the Lutheran church. Refreshments were served and all present report a pleasant afternoon.

Charles Liverance returned to Harper Hospital last Tuesday, for the second time, for treatment for blood poisoning in his hand. Mr. Liverance was at the hospital five weeks previously, and had out recently returned home.

When Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stimpson returned to Lansing last week, Earl found waiting for him a beautiful loving cup, the gift of Lansing base ball fans as award for having the highest batting average of his team. He will work for the Michigan Sugar Refining Co., during the winter and early spring, having been made the company's state inspector. He had previously expected to go into the bookkeeping department but this is a much better proposition.—Northville Record.

A reunion of Company G, Third Regiment of Michigan cavalry was held at Whitmore Lake, October 14th, at which nineteen of the old comrades were present, nine of them having their wives with them. This was the 52nd anniversary of the day the company was mustered into the service. Capt. T. V. Quackenbush of Plymouth, and First Lieut. W. C. Stevens of Detroit, who commanded the company in 1861 were both present. A camp fire was held at the Lake House in the evening which was largely attended. Rev. Blake of Whitmore Lake made the address of welcome which, was responded to by Capt. T. V. Quackenbush. Others who spoke were Major L. G. Wilcox of Bay City, Major W. C. Stevens of Detroit and D. E. Hand of Ann Arbor.

HEAR YE! HEAR YE!
 All you who have felt, come to the sock social given by the L. A. S. of the M. E. church on Friday evening, October 25th at 7:30 o'clock at the Grange hall on Union street. Refreshments and entertainment free of charge. If you have not received an invitation, one will be provided for you at the door.

Accidents Will Happen
 And when they do you should be prepared with a bottle of RENE'S FAIRY-KILLING MAGIC OIL, a healing remedy for cuts, wounds, sprains, swellings, rheumatism, lame back and stiff neck. Used internally also for cramp colic, dysentery and sick stomach. It is a clean, pleasant and effective remedy. Price 25c. Sold by J. W. Blickenstaff, 234 and 236, and Beyer Pharmacy—Advt.

The corresponding secretary of the W. C. T. U. has received a letter from the Northville society containing an invitation to attend their regular meeting on Wednesday, October 31, at 3 p. m. A request that Mrs. Voorhies give a brief report of the National convention was also included in the letter. Every member is cordially requested to accept the invitation.

The musical service in honor of Thomas Wilby, First Grand Sir, of the I. O. O. F., held in the hall of Tompkins Lodge, last Monday evening, was well enjoyed. The program was carried out in full. Sixty remained to partake of a plain but good supper.

Memories of the Past

In This Paper Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

Ray Turk, of Springfield, Ohio, formerly of Wayne, was in town Sunday. Only ten days until election.

Frank Park, of Tecumseh, was in town Monday and took a load of his household goods home with him.

Wm. Geer and family have moved into his new purchase, the Mrs. Charles Williams house, on Sutton street.

On Tuesday M. Conner & Son put up for Chaffee & Hunter probably the finest heating stove in town—A Peerless Garland. It's a big one and a beauty.

A Democratic meeting was announced to take place here last evening at Amity hall, with Hon. J. Logan Chipman and Hon. William C. Maybury as speakers. As we go to press before the meeting we are unable to give an account of it.

A. C. Novess, of Utica, Mich., was in town Tuesday packing up and removing the balance of his goods stored here. Mr. Novess was the photographer located in the Punches building last winter and some of his goods have been here ever since.

Edgar C. Durfee, candidate for Judge of Probate on the Republican ticket has held the office for two years and has without doubt made the best probate judge Wayne county has ever had. This will be conceded by men in all parties and is the best of reasons why he should hold the office for another four years, which he certainly will. However we should like to see Plymouth, his old home, give him a rousing majority.

It doesn't do any good to "kick" about the increasing cost of coal and other fuel.

The only thing to do is to figure how to burn less. And the time to do that figuring is now, at the beginning of winter.

If you are using an old stove that has seen better days, the chances are you are wasting a good many buckets of coal each week—nearly enough in a month or so to pay for a new, up-to-date stove—a "Garland" heater or base burner.

You may not realize what a tremendous difference there is in fuel consumed by different stoves.

We ourselves would perhaps never have known it, were we not thoroughly familiar with the inside construction of every stove on the market.

Now, after years of investigation, we found that "Garland" Stoves and Ranges burn considerably less fuel than others. And if you will just step inside our store a moment, we will show you the fuel-saving construction of these celebrated stoves.

Moresover, we will show you the handsomest heaters, base burners, ranges and cookstoves you ever saw.

Many styles and models. And prices that may surprise you. You tell us the particular "Garland" model that you like best, and we will take it to your home immediately, set it up and absolutely guarantee its satisfactory operation.

If then you don't say it is entirely satisfactory, we will call and make it so.

Remember, we don't claim "Garlands" are "just as good as others"—we say they are better. And if we can't prove it, we don't want your money. That's fair, isn't it?

When can you come in and see these stoves? Better come at once. The weather man is apt to "turn off the heat" most any moment.

A leaking gasoline stove in the home of B. B. Bennett caused quite a little blaze last Saturday morning. The prompt application by Mr. Bennett of the contents of a hand fire extinguisher saved the place from further damage, if not total destruction. Mr. Bennett knows he was very fortunate in having the extinguisher in the house and recommends that every home be supplied with one in case of fire.

ADENOIDS ARE A MENACE TO CHILDREN

Babies and young children must be carefully watched for the growth of adenoids, which spoil the mental and physical life of a child. They usually result from a succession of colds and throat irritations, and their presence is so productive of harm, that many school boards have an examining physician to detect them. The conditions that cause them may be easily avoided by careful parents. Quickly and thoroughly cure all colds and throat irritations by the use of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and adenoids will not develop. J. W. Blickenstaff & Co.—Adv.

"Thelma"—a dramatization of that popular novel of Marie Corelli, will be the offering which will follow the current production of "The Girl in the Taxi," which has met with such flattering receptions on the part of the press and public, when the curtain goes up at the Avenue Theater, Detroit, for the Sunday matinee. Mr. Roy Walling, the popular leading man of the Holden Players, will impersonate the role of Sir Philip Erington. Miss Leona Stater will be seen in the titular part. Mr. Holden will be seen as Olaf Guldmar. The scenes of the play are laid in far-off Norway which gives opportunities for splendid scenic effects.

THE LAKES LASHED BY FURIOUS STORM

REPORTS SHOW THAT STORM WAS WIDE-SPREAD WITH ZERO TEMPERATURE.

ALL TRAFFIC ON LAKE SUPERIOR HAD TO BE ABANDONED.

The First Real Gale of the Fall Was of Terrific Force and Heavy Losses to Shipping Have Resulted.

Detroit.—A fierce blizzard that swept the northwest and middle west early Tuesday, following upon the heels of a light snowfall, made traffic on Lake Michigan and Lake Superior extremely hazardous, coast at least six lives, and blanketed a dozen states with a fall of snow to a depth of from one to three inches.

Despatches from Marquette and Calumet, Mich., reported that all lake traffic on Superior had been abandoned, and that two rudderless vessels had been towed into port.

A stiff off-shore gale stirred the southern end of Lake Michigan into a fury, and all craft hastened to put in.

Snow flurries were reported as far south as Birmingham, Ala., and Atlanta, Ga. Minnedosa, Canada, reported the lowest temperature, the mercury dropping to 16 degrees above zero, and several Minnesota cities reported ice upon rivers and small lakes, and temperature below 25.

A strong wind was driving the snow in Chicago, and the Loop district was covered with a mantle two inches deep.

The storm was general throughout the lake region from Duluth to Buffalo and heavy losses were sustained by steamship lines owing to their boats being forced to remain in ports for shelter. Several vessels which were out in the storm reached upper lake ports sheathed in ice. Temperatures close to zero were reported at several Lake Superior ports.

A big fleet of down-bound freighters sheltered at Amherstburg Monday because of the gale on Lake Erie, which attained a velocity of almost 60 miles an hour.

Fear was entertained that the steamer Lackawanna had been lost as she was out on Lake Superior rudderless and being towed to Duluth by a tug. The tug and steamer made the port in safety several hours later.

The steamer Norwalk, of Detroit, which grounded on False Presque Isle reef, near Alpena, early Sunday morning, is still pounding heavily and in bad shape, unsheltered from the heavy lashings of the waves.

Suit Over School District

Hilldale.—Action by certiorari has been brought by the Jerome village school board against the joint township boards of Somerset, Moscow, Wheatland and Adams townships in Hilldale county, and Hanover and Liberty townships in Jackson county. It is alleged that the present centralized school district of Jerome was organized under the local act passed by the legislature in 1901, and that under a special act of 1907 bonds were issued and a school building erected which cost $7,000. Recently the joint boards of the six townships met and voted to detach certain property from the Jerome district and add it to the districts of the townships. The Jerome district asks to have the proceedings set aside, claiming that the action was invalid and would deprive it of a large amount of revenue.

Orphanage Planned for Marquette

Marquette, Mich.—Announcement is made that early next year work will be started in Marquette on the construction of a Roman Catholic orphanage for the diocese of Marquette and Saint Ste. Marie. A site of eight acres in the southern part of the city has been donated by Geo. J. Maas, of Negaunee, and Joseph Pinton, of Hancock. The building will cost $100,000. A large part of this money is already available. Bishop Frederick Eis is the largest contributor. It is announced also, that eventually a Catholic college will be established here. This institution will be erected adjacent to the Northern State Normal school and will occupy a site of 40 acres. The land has already been purchased.

Under the direction of Dr. George Newman, the new secretary of the Michigan historical commission, it is announced that an information bureau will be made one of the principal departments.

Berrien county will vote at the next general election whether or not the people want a farm expert. A resolution to that effect has been adopted by the board of supervisors.

The state highway commission recommended that taxes in Clinton county be raised two mills to raise $40,000 for building highways and proposed the recommendation to the board of supervisors. The commission also recommended that a highway be built from Clinton to Fowler. The board of supervisors has recommended that taxes be raised.

SULZER GIVEN LOVING CUP

Crowd of Admirers Call On Deposed Governor and Give Expressions of Confidence.

Albany, N. Y.—There was red fire, oratory and music by a brass band over at the executive mansion Saturday night when fifteen hundred admirers of William Sulzer called to present him with a loving cup.

A driving rain fell while the marchers were en route to the mansion. Sulzer started to shake hands with all of his callers, but he never completed the task. They crowded around him and refused to move. Some one said a few words of consolation to him only to be interrupted by Mrs. Sulzer.

"The action of the court is the least of our troubles," she said. The crowd began to cheer. "We'll have you back here next year, Bill!" one man yelled.

Chester C. Platt, Sulzer's secretary, read a speech assuring Sulzer that he had been removed because he would not obey the bosses. Mention of the name of Charles F. Murphy brought hisses. "Lynch him," shouted one man, at the mention of the name of an assemblyman. The cup presented to Sulzer was inscribed, "To William Sulzer. A victim of corrupt bossism, October 17, 1913."

Rodman Law Nearly Killed

New York.—Rodman Law, the raredevil aviator and parachute jumper, again narrowly escaped death while attempting a stunt for a moving picture concern. Law had contracted to dive from a flying aeroplane and "rescue" a "drowning" man. He neglected to take the speed of the machine into his calculations, and when he dove from the hydroplane, operated by William Thaw and Steve MacGordon, he was whirled headlong, striking on his back in the water.

Chinese Brigands Kill 300

Pekin.—Chinese brigands commanded by Gen. Hwang Li-ang have slain 300 persons in the province of Fo-Kien and also burned two mission churches, the property of American missionary societies.

The American missionaries from the disturbed district are still in Fu-Chow, where they took refuge during the recent trouble.

The annual assessment of the Citizens' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of Marshall, which suffered the heaviest losses in the last year since its organization, is 44 cents on each $100.

Gov. Ferris has issued a parole to Charles C. Kimbrough, official barber of Marquette prison, who is serving a sentence for larceny. Kimbrough was sent from Detroit, January 13, 1913, to serve two and a half to five years. He has been a trusty for some time.

John Henderson, 30, died from injuries which he received in the Weston-Mott plant in Flint, when a counter shaft fell and struck him on the head, causing concussion of the brain. Gov. Ferris urged the people of the state to stand behind all efforts to ward strict enforcement of the pure food laws of the state, and declared that the death of many young babies was not due so much to the will of God as to rotten and impure milk. LETTER FROM THE STATE CAPITOL

DOPE SELLING IN MICHIGAN DISCUSSED BY STATE OFFICIALS.

EXTRA SESSION MAY BE ADVISABLE.

If Contentment of Detroit Prosecutor is Correct Law Will Be Needed to Prevent Indiscriminate Traffic in Drugs.

[By Gurd M. Hayes.]

Governor Ferris—"Every law abiding citizen should join in campaign to exterminate illegal sale of drugs."

Attorney General Grant Fellows—"If special session is called an amendment to the law relative to the sale of 'dope' should be called to attention of the legislature."

Dairy and Food Commissioner James Helme—"The cocaine law should be amended to compel wholesalers to report monthly their sales of this drug to the dairy and food department."

State Bacteriologist M. L. Holm—"The time has come when it is necessary to enact legislation restricting the rights of the medical profession in the use of cocaine."

Dr. Bret Nottingham of the state medical board—"Licenses of physicians or pharmacists should be revoked upon conviction for selling or prescribing 'dope' illegally."

Lansing, Mich.—Aroused by the exposure of the illegal sale of "dope" in Detroit, Lansing and other cities of Michigan, state officials are planning a crusade against the continuance of this practice, and if a special session of the legislature is called Governor Ferris will recommend a radical change in the present laws governing the sale of drugs.

It is the unanimous opinion of every state official who has studied the proposition that the present laws are not stringent enough to curb violations by unscrupulous physicians and druggists, and it is pointed out that there are many other defects which are in need of immediate remedy. To such an extent has the traffic in drugs, especially heroin, grown, that state officials are horrified at the recent exposures. They do not hope to cure the unfortunate who are now addicted to the use of the death dealing drug.

Federal laws have now been enacted which will prevent "snow birds" outside the state from conducting a profitable business by peddling dope in Michigan, but they do hope to curb the sale in this state.

"The recent disclosures in Detroit and elsewhere in Michigan indicate that the youth of the state, the manhood of Michigan, is being undermined through the unlawful sale of such drugs as morphine, heroin, etc.," said Governor Ferris.

"This phase of law violation should not be tolerated under any circumstances. There is absolutely no excuse for any man who claims to have the slightest regard for humanity to join in inflicting upon humanity drugs that are more destructive in their consequences than the leaden ball. The economic harm that is inflicted upon the state is a trifling factor as compared to the destruction of character. A secret and cowardly method that destroys life and character, and imperils the safety of the people should receive more serious condemnation than the open methods of outlaws.

"Every law abiding citizen, every man who has an appreciation of the value of human life should join in a campaign to exterminate and make this form of drug violation an impossibility in the great state of Michigan. I deem it a privilege and a duty to do everything in my power to encourage law enforcement in relation to this all important matter. Along this line, the state of Michigan owes much to the splendid work of Dairy and Food Commissioner James Helme. It is hoped that our civil authorities will not leave a stone unturned to do away absolutely with this cowardly method of assassination."

Dairy and Food Commissioner Helme is not pleased at the methods followed by Prosecuting Attorney Shepherd in pushing the case against Alderman Eddie Barnett, of Detroit. "I am very sorry that the prosecution has taken the stand it has in the Barnett case," said Helme.

"I dug up the facts that a large amount of morphine and heroin had been sold without prescription in the Barnett Drug Store in Detroit. Section 9 of the pharmacy law provides that no registered pharmacist shall sell or furnish morphine or any of its derivatives without a physician's prescription. Barnett is not a registered pharmacist and the prosecutor took the ground that Barnett could therefore not be prosecuted for the sales of Heroin made in his drug store.

"If the contention of the prosecutor is correct, than anyone except a registered pharmacist can sell morphine or heroin. The grocer, the butcher, the pop corn man or the newsboy is free to opium peddle and sell these drugs without restraint. If such is the law, the sooner a special session is called to correct this defect, the better. The unrestricted sale of morphine and heroin for the next 18 months in Michigan will do ten times as much damage as the cost of a special session. I do not believe this, however, is the law. While section 9 prohibits registered pharmacists from selling morphine only on prescription, section 32 reads 'any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction shall be punished by a fine, etc.' I believe anyway; that Barnett should have been prosecuted under sections 9 and 32.

"Instead of this Barnett is charged, as I understand it, with running a drug store without being a registered pharmacist. To my mind he cannot be convicted, as charged in the face of the plain provision of the proviso in section 15 which reads 'provided this section and the preceding section shall not be construed as precluding any person from owning a drug store or pharmacy, if all the pharmaceutical work in the same drug store shall be under the personal supervision and direction of a registered pharmacist.'

"As Barnett always employed a registered pharmacist, his conviction in the face of this proviso will be exceedingly doubtful. At any event a special case should be brought at once to clear up this doubt and if it decided by the courts that the unrestricted sale of morphine and heroin by every person except pharmacists is legal in Michigan, a special session of the legislature cannot be called too soon.

"The law against the sale of cocaine in Michigan is working well. Under the law wholesalers must keep records of all sales to retailers and receipts for the drug delivered. These records are subject to the inspection of our department. Under this law the illegal sale of cocaine within the state has practically ceased and the cocaine fiends have taken to heroin. The cocaine law should be amended to compel wholesalers to report monthly their lists of sales to the dairy and food commissioner.

"With such a record before me I could easily keep posted on all sales made to every druggist or other person in Michigan. If any appeared to be using an undue amount I could easily investigate and prosecute. If morphine, heroin, cocaine and all other habit forming drugs were also placed under the cocaine law, we would have habit forming drugs under strict control. Shipments from other states can only be controlled by federal law and a bill is now pending in congress to control such shipments."

"The traffic in certain drugs or their derivatives, commonly referred to as 'dope,' has reached such proportions and is so far reaching that possible results are appalling," said Attorney General Grant Fellows. "Medical experts give testimony that is not subject to question indicative of the degradation to which a strong man may be reduced from the effects of this practice. We have but to witness the terror, weakness and depravity of the victims, when within the protection of the law and when robbed of the opportunity of recourse to this drug, to appreciate the necessity for laws so stringent that the responsibility of contracting the habit may be reduced to the minimum.

"The penalty for the unnecessary and unwarranted sale of dope, either to fiends or those contracting the habit by so-called doctors, druggists and others is not in proportion to the offense committed. Recent developments throughout this and other states disclose conditions which warrant serious consideration of this subject by those charged with the enforcement and execution of the laws. Our law relating to the sale of dope undoubtedly needs amending.

"The maximum penalty for violation of the law should be such that those inclined to this character of traffic may be deterred from intentional wholesale violations. While I do not favor the calling of a special session, if a special session should be called, the necessity for a proposed amendment to the law regulating the use and sale of dope might well be called to the attention of the legislature."

State Bacteriologist M. L. Holm, who was connected with a Chicago hospital for a number of years where he had ample opportunity to study "dope" cases, says that in dealing with drug habits physicians are chiefly concerned with cocaine and morphine.

"The various substitutes for cocaine, such as betaucaine, acolin, halocain, etc., have never become general favorites with drug fiends," said Dr. Holm. "On the other hand the morphine derivatives, especially heroin, as well as diuin and peronin, have recently come into prominence as satisfactorily replacing the parent drug.

"The drug fiend takes his morphine by mouth and through the hypodermic needle, or smokes opium, while cocaine is either snuffed, injected with the needle or swallowed. A noted cocaine fiend once said that God was unjust in that he made man to live without eating 'occa,' and this sentiment is shared alike by users of morphine and its derivatives.

"No druggist in Michigan may sell morphine or cocaine without a prescription from a legally practicing physician. The same applies to heroin and other derivatives of morphine or cocaine. Such laws are superficial and merely furnish a certain amount of embarrassment to the habitual drug fiend. The confirmed user of cocaine or morphine will beg, steal, lie or commit almost any crime necessary to obtain his drug, and he usually succeeds.

MRS. PANKHURST ADMITTED TO U. S.

RULING OF ELLIS ISLAND IMMIGRATION OFFICIALS REVERSED.

PRESIDENT WILSON TAKES AN INTEREST IN CASE.

Noted Militant Leader Allowed to Enter for Lecture Tour Without a Bond and On Her Own Recognition.

Washington.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant British suffragette, who arrived in New York last Saturday for a lecture tour in the United States, and whose deportation was ordered by the Ellis Island Board of Immigration, was admitted to the country.

The order of deportation was reversed Monday after President Wilson had conferred on the celebrated case with Secretary Wilson and a hearing had been concluded before Immigration Commissioner Caminetti.

Secretary Wilson announced at the conclusion of his conference with the president that Mrs. Pankhurst would be admitted on her own recognizance, with the understanding that she would depart at the end of her lecture engagements. No bond was exacted.

Secretary Wilson declared that he and the president had discussed the question briefly.

"We agreed," he said, "that Mrs. Pankhurst should be admitted on her own recognizance. My own opinion, like that of the president, is that there is naturally an element of doubt as to whether her acts constituted moral turpitude or were political in character.

The decision by the president and Secretary Wilson was communicated to Commissioner-General Caminetti, who issued the formal order of release.

President Wilson felt that the law had a flexible interpretation, so that it was largely a question of policy.

Commissioner Caminetti's decision was in strict accordance with the views of President Wilson and the secretary of labor.

There was no demonstration at the immigration bureau when the decision was announced.

Senate Passes Clapp Bill.

Washington.—The first direct results of the congressional investigation of campaign expenditures came when the senate passed Senator Clapp's bill prohibiting the sending of campaign funds from one state to another.

The bill prohibits the carrying or sending of funds from one state to another, to be used in the election of president, vice president, presidential electors, or congressmen. The senate passed the bill without debate. In previous discussions it was made clear that its purpose was to prevent the financing of campaigns in a secret manner by organizations or individuals who did not come directly under the campaign publicity laws.

Lost Zulu King is Dead.

Cape Town.—Dinizulu, the last of the warrior kings of the former Zulu nation of South Africa, is dead.

He was a son of Cetuyawo, the king who led the Zulu nation against the British troops in the war of 1879. Cetuyawo was eventually defeated after he had inflicted a crushing blow on the British army at the battle of Isandhlwana, when practically the entire Twenty-fourth infantry regiment was massacred.

Dinizulu led two or three rebellions against the British. He was once captured and exiled to the island of St. Helena.

Prospects Bright for Currency Bill.

Washington.—President Wilson has further cleared the path for currency reform in the senate through conferences opened with the republicans on the senate committee now in charge of the bill. As a result of a conference with Senator Nelson, the president has received assurances that the republican members are not holding up legislation, nor trying to impede action on the currency bill in the senate. It is believed that it will not be made a party measure and will be supported by republicans and democrats alike.

In appreciation of his "Domine of Harlem," a book that deals with people and conditions among the Hollanders and their descendants in western Michigan, the Knickerbocker society, of Grand Rapids, has elected Arnold Mulder, the author, an honorary member.

A campaign has been started in Jackson to compel the city council to submit a charter revision proposition to the voters.

The state fire marshal is sued again. This time an Escanaba theatre owner seeks an injunction to restrain the marshal from enforcing that part of the state law which says no moving picture show shall be operated on the second floor of a building. This makes a half dozen suits the department is facing as a result of new legislation passed by the 1912 legislature.

TORTURING TWINGLES
Much so-called rheumatism is caused by weakened kidneys. When the kidneys fail to clear the blood of uric acid, the acid forms into crystals like bits of broken glass in the muscles, joints and on the nerve casings. Torturing pains dart through the affected part whenever it is moved. By curing the kidneys, Doan's Kidney Pills have cured thousands of rheumatic cases, lumbago, sciatica, gravel, neuralgia and urinary disorders.

MOLLY McDONALD

A TALE OF THE FRONTIER

By RANDALL PARRISH
Author of "Keith of the Border," "My Lady of Doubt," "My Lady of the South," etc., etc.
Illustrations by V. L. Barnes

SYNOPSIS.
Major McDonald, commanding an army corps near Fort Dodge, seeks a man to intercept his daughter, Molly, who is being held for the post. An Indian outbreak is threatened. Sergeant "Buck" Hamlin meets the stage in which Molly is traveling. They are shot by a party of Indians and Hamlin and Molly escape in the darkness. Hamlin tells Molly he was discharged from the Confederate service in 1862 and at the close of the war enlisted in the regular army. He suspects one Captain LeFevre of being responsible for his discharge. Troops appear and under escort of LeFevre Hamlin starts to join his father. Hamlin leaves to rejoin his regiment. He returns to Fort Dodge after a summer of fighting Indians, and finds Molly there. Lieutenant Graham accuses Hamlin of shooting him. The sergeant is proven innocent. He sees Molly in company with Mrs. Dupont, whom he recognizes as a former sweetheart, who threw him over for LeFevre. Later he overhears Dupont and a soldier hatching up a money-making plot. Molly tells Hamlin she has been married to the power of Mrs. Dupont, who claims to be a daughter of McDonald's sister, Molly. She disappears and Hamlin is ordered to trace her. McDonald is ordered to Fort Ripley. Hamlin finds McDonald's murderer, a man who has been shot by LeFevre and two troopers and goes in pursuit of the murderer, who had robbed McDonald of $20,000 paymaster's money. He suspects Dupont. Conspires, soldier accomplices of Dupont, is found murdered. Hamlin's party is caught in a severe blizzard while heading for the Cimmaron. One man dies from cold and another almost succumbs. LeFevre is shot as they come in sight of Cimmaron. Hamlin discovers a log cabin hidden under a bluff, occupied by LeFevre, a cow thief who is laying for LeFevre, who cheated him in a cattle deal. His description identifies LeFevre and Dupont. The latter is shot by Hamlin, while the latter is describing LeFevre. LeFevre escapes, believing Hamlin and Molly are his lovers. Hamlin finds that her father was implicated in the plot to steal the paymaster's money. Hamlin confesses his love for Molly and finds that it is reciprocated. Molly declares her father was forced into the rubber plot. The army advances toward Custer's command, starting on a winter campaign against the Indians. Hamlin remains as guide.

horse after horse slipped aside into the swift current, bearing his rider with him into the icy water. Comrades hauled the unfortunate one forth, and fire was hastily built under shelter of the south bank. Those who reached the landing dry shared their extra clothing with those water-soaked, and hot coffee was hastily served to all alike. Eager as the men were to push forward, more than an hour was lost in passage, for the stream was bank full, the current rapid and littered with quantities of floating ice. Some of these ice cakes startled the struggling horses and inflicted painful wounds, and it was only by a ruse use of ropes and lariats that the entire command finally succeeded in attaining the southern shore. Shivering with the cold, the troopers again found their saddles and pressed grimly forward on the trail. Hamlin, with five others, led the way along a beaten track which had been trampled by the passing herd of Indian ponies and plainly marked by the trailing poles of numerous wicki-ups.

This led straight away into the south across the valley of the Canadian, on to the plains beyond. The snow here was a foot deep on a level, and in places the going was heavy. As they advanced, the weather moderated somewhat, and the upper crust became soft. Before them stretched the dreary level of the plains, broken by occasional ravines and little isolated patches of trees. No sign of Indians was seen other than the deserted trail, and confident that the band had had fully twenty-four hours' start their pursuers advanced as rapidly as the ground would permit. The very clearness of the trail was evidence that the Indians had no conception that they were being followed. Confident of safety in their winter retreat, they were making no effort to protect their rear, never dreaming there were soldiers within hundreds of miles. Whatever report Dupont had made, it had awakened no alarm. Why should it? So far as he knew there were but two men pursuing him into the wilderness, and both of these he believed lying dead in the snow.

Steadily, mile after mile, they rode, and it was after dark when the little column was finally halted beside a stream, where they could safely hide themselves in a patch of timber. Tiny fires were built under protection of the steep banks of the creek, and the men made coffee, and fed their hungry horses. The silence was profound. It was a dark night, although the surrounding snow plains yielded a spectral light. Major Elliott, drinking coffee and munching hardtack with the troop captain, sent for Sergeant Hamlin. The latter advanced within the glow of the fire, and saluted.

"We have been gaining on those fellows, Sergeant," the Major began, "and must be drawing close to the Washita."

"We are travelling faster than they did, sir," was the reply, "because they had to break trail, and there were some women and children with them. I have no knowledge of this region, but the creek empties into the Washita without doubt."

"That would be my judgment. Sparring and I were just talking it over. I shall wait here until Custer comes up; my force is too small to attack openly, and my orders are not to bring on an engagement. Custer has some Osaige scouts with him who will know this country."

"But, Major," ventured Hamlin, "if the General follows our trail it will be hours yet before he can reach here, and then his men will be completely exhausted."

"He will not follow our trail. He has Corbin and California Joe with him. They are plainsmen who know their business. He'll cross the Canadian, and strike out across the plains to intercept us. In that way he will have no farther to travel than we have had. In my judgment we shall not wait here long alone. Have you eaten?"

"No, sir; I have been stationing the guard."

"Then sit down here and share what little we have. We can wait formally tonight."

It was after nine o'clock when the sentries challenged the advance of Custer's column, as it stole silently out of the gloom. Ten minutes later the men were hovering about the fires, absorbing such small comforts as were possible, while the General and Major Elliott discussed the situation and planned to push forward. An hour later the fires were extinguished, surrounded, and the orders were for those in command of the different forces to approach as closely as possible without running risk of discovery, and then to remain absolutely quiet until daybreak. Not a match was to be lighted nor a shot fired until the charge was sounded by the trumpeter who remained with Custer. Then all were to spur forward as one man.

CHAPTER XXXVII.
The Battle With the Indians.
Corbin had gone with the detachment circling to the left, and "California Joe" was with the other in the valley, but Hamlin remained with the chief. About them was profound silence, the men standing beside their horses. There was nothing to do but wait, every nerve at high tension. The wintry air grew colder, but the troopers were not allowed to make the slightest noise, not even to swing their arms or stamp their feet. After the last detachment swept silently into the night, there still remained four hours of daylight. No one knew what had occurred; the various troops had melted away into the dark and disappeared. No word, no sound had come back. They could only wait in faith on their comrades. The men were dismounted, each holding his own horse in instant readiness for action. Not a few, wearied with the day's work, while still clinging to their bridles, wrapped the capes of their overcoats over their heads and threw themselves down in the snow, and fell asleep.

At the first sight of dawn Hamlin was sent down the line to arouse them. Overcoats were taken off and strapped to the saddles, carbines loaded and slung, pistols examined and loosened in their holsters, saddles reclinched, and curb chains carefully looked after. This was the work of but a few moments, the half-frozen soldiers soiling with an eagerness that sent the hot blood coursing fiercely through numb limbs. To the whispered command to mount, running from lip to lip along the line, the men sprang joyously into their saddles, their quickened ears and eager eyes ready for the signal.

Slowly, at a walk, Custer led them forward toward the crest of the hill, where the Osaige guide watched through the spectral light of dawn the doomed village beneath. To the uplift of a hand the column halted, and Custer and his bugler went forward. A step behind crouched the Sergeant, grasping the reins of three horses, while a little to the right, before the sweep of the coming charge, waited the regimental band.

Peering over the crest, the leader saw through the dim haze, scarcely five hundred yards distant, dotting the north bank of the Washita for more than a quarter of a mile, the Indian village. There was about it scarcely a sign of human life. From the top of two or three of the tepees light wreaths of smoke floated languidly out on the wintry air, and beyond the pony herd was restlessly moving. Even as he gazed, half convinced that the Indians had been warned, the village deserted, the sharp report of a rifle rang out in the distance.

Hamlin saw the shadow of a man right, his lips uttering the sharp command, "Sound the charge!" Even while the piercing blast of the bugle cut the frosty air, there was a single of steel as the troopers behind spurred forward. Almost at the instant the three dismounted men were in saddle, Custer waved his hand at the band, shouted "Play!" and to the rollicking air of "Garry Owen," the eager column of horsemen broke into a mad gallop, and with ringing cheers and mighty rush, swept over the ridge straight down into the startled village. To Hamlin, at Custer's side, reins in his teeth, a revolver in either hand, what followed was scarcely a memory; it remained afterward as a blurred, indistinct picture of action, changing so rapidly as to leave no definite outlines. He heard the answering thud of horses' hoofs; the converging cheers of excited troopers; the mingling ring of revolver shots; a sharp order clearing the turmoil; the wild wail of a stricken horse; the wild yell of Indians leaping from their tepees into the open. Then he was in the heart of the village, fighting with both hands; before him, about him, half-naked savages fighting desperately, striking at him with knives, firing from the shelter of tepees, springing at him with naked hands in a fierce effort to drag him from the saddle. It was all confusion, chaos, a babble of noise, his eyes blinded by glint of steel and glare of fire. The impetus of their rush carried them irresistibly forward; over and through tents they rode, across the bodies of living and dead men reeled and fell from saddles; riderless horses swept on unguided; revolvers emptied were flung aside, and hands closed hard on sabre hilts. Foot by foot, yard by yard, they drove the wedge of their charge, until they swept through the fringe of tepees, out into the stampeded pony herd.

judge, jumping to his feet and snatching a law book. "Did you come here to insult me? If you don't get out of this office double quick I'll break every bone in your body!"

Bang! smash! clatter!—the perturbed Ned got through the doorway just as the ponderous law tome crashed his head, shattered the glass in the office door and proceeding hian on a rushing roll down the stairs and to the street.

Ned sought his friend Cyrus for consolation, but found that he had unsuspectingly and mysteriously left town on a fishing trip. He dared not venture to call at the Allen home that night, but managed to meet Lela on the street.

"Oh, if I only had that scapegrace, Cyrus Moore!" cried Lela, when Ned had narrated his dismal story.

"Why, what has Cyrus got to do with it?" asked the unsophisticated Ned.

"He has played one of his practical jokes on you and I will take delight in boxing his ears when he puts in his appearance again," declared the irate little miss. "About two years ago some jokers got papa to join the 'Sons of Monus.' They gave him a terrible initiation and he never forgives even an allusion to the host."

"I certainly have put my foot in it!" groaned poor Ned.

"You certainly have," agreed Lela. "What can I do?"

"Go and see papa and explain," advised Lela.

Somehow Ned could not summon up the courage to do this. He passed the Allen home the next evening. There were no lights in the house and he took up his station in the shadow of a big tree.

"The family have gone out to some neighbor's, I suppose," he reasoned. "I'll stay here and catch the judge as he returns."

It was nearly one-half an hour later when Ned pricked up his ears. The gate latch of the Allen place clicked and some one came out. He recognized the light, overcoat and judge's wig, as the pedagogue passed him. Ned stepped out from the shadow.

"Just a word, judge," Ned began.

The wearer of the overcoat shot out his fist, dropped something he was carrying and put down the street on a run.

"Well, this is queer!" commented Ned, staring vaguely after the fugitive. "He dropped a package, I declare!"

Ned stared hard as he opened a pillow case to find it stuffed full of silverware, documents and jewelry. He guessed the oracle speedily—a burglar had looted the Allen home, taking the judge's overcoat as well.

Ned sat down on the front steps to await the return of the Allens. Soon Lela and her father came into view.

"Why, Ned!" exclaimed the daughter.

"That young man!" growled the judge. "You'll find a better password than your last one, if you expect to stay around here."

"Yes, see—this is my password on the present occasion," explained Ned, as he handed over the stolen plunder and explained about it.

The judge was fairly delighted to recover papers of great value, he declared. Ned took heart.

"Judge Allen," he said manfully, "there's only one password I'll ever use, if you consent to my plea for happiness."

"And what's that?" asked the judge.

"Lella—first, last and all of the time—Lella!"

CHICAGO GIVEN GREAT SHOCK
Insanity Found to Be Alarmingly on the Increase in the First City of Illinois.

Chicago has just completed a census and alarm is felt over the figures which show an increase of 35 per cent in insanity, with the increase in population only 13 per cent in four years. Dr. H. I. Davis, county physician of Cook county, Illinois, declares that the number of insane people increases steadily each year.

It is a fact, however, that the increase in insanity is in many instances confined to certain sections of the country in cycles or waves. There will be a period in which a marked increase in mental derangement will be noted. Then statistics will suddenly shift and the lunacy ratio will go down in sections where it was high and go up in sections where it was comparatively low. Just what is the reason for this has not been determined, although alienists and others have offered all sorts of explanations.

One of these is that when a great calamity befalls a community children born of parents who have suffered much through the calamity are likely to be born mentally deficient. The parents themselves may not suffer in that way because, being fully grown, and matured mentally, they survive the shock.

One or the lawyer.

Here's a bit of cross-examination dug up by a jovial lawyer from his fund of reminiscences:

Q.—Now, what were the exact words used by the prisoner when he spoke to you?

A.—He said he stole the watch.

Q.—No, no. He wouldn't have used the third person.

A.—But there was no third person; only the two of us.

Q.—Then the next time you said: 'I stole the watch.'

A.—Bogorra, maybe you did, but he didn't speak on you.—Chambers Times-Star

A CLERGYMAN'S TESTIMONY.
The Rev. Edmund Heslop of Wigton, Pa., suffered from Dropsy for a year. His limbs and feet were swollen and puffed. He had heart fluttering, was weary and exhausted at the least exertion. Hands and feet were cold and he had such a dragging sensation across the joints that it was difficult to move. After using five boxes of Dodds Kidney Pills the swelling disappeared and he felt himself again. He says he has been benefited and blessed by the use of Dodds Kidney Pills. Several months later he wrote: I have not changed my faith in your remedy since the above statement was authorized. Correspond with Rev. E. Heslop about this wonderful remedy.

BLACKS OPTICIANS

Herr Dr. Weissensberg of Berlin, who is visiting with the German doctor, is somewhat of an amateur detective along scientific lines. Part of his equipment consists of a camera which is mounted on a tripod and is directed at the subject.

ber of the German physicians' party he wanted to, and none of them knew a thing about it. He lifts what looks like a small telescope to his eye and looks away from the very man he wants to snapshot. His interest seems to be centered at right angles from the subject, but if the man who is unwittingly photographed chanced to be swift enough he might catch the lens-stalk gleam of a powerful little lens set in the side of the rounded barrel of the take telescope. As the operator of the camera looks apparently out to sea, for instance, the image of things beside him are focused clear before him.

His finger is on a hair spring and a pressure records what was on the finder. Detectives in Berlin are being equipped with the camera, which costs about $100, so finely constructed are they. The success met with in taking snapshots for comparison with existing police photographs has proved the value of the crafty little instrument.

So deceiving is the apparatus that the reporter who snapped Dr. We-senberger using the camera did not think until afterward when he was told by the doctor that he would exchange pictures with him that he himself had been snapshotted in return.
