POOR OLD DAD.

You can scarce pick up a paper
An' its "poets' corner" greet,
'Cept you'll see a pretty poem
'Bout the mother saintly sweet;
But you'll have a time a-searching;
Eyes will be er-aching bad,
Ere you'll overtake a poem
At this time for "Poor Old Dad."

No, it isn't wilful in 'em,
Then that writes of mother dear,
That there's never notice taken
Of her old man sittin' near.
No, it's never meant to slight him,
But it looks a little sad -
All the bouquets made for mother;
Not a bloom for "Poor Old Dad."

True, our mother watched above us,
'Till her dear old eyes would ache;
But the old dad humped to feed us,
'Till his back would almost break.
Mother crooned above the cradle,
Care devotion all she had;
Still there wasn't any circus
At this time for "Poor Old Dad."

Do not take one line from mother,
When you write the soul-sweet song,
But if there's a word for father
Now an' then it won't be wrong.
Poor old soul! He's bent and wrinkled,
An' I know 't would make him glad,
If while you are praising mother
Something's said for "Poor Old Dad."

IT WAS INDEED a beautiful thought that inspired the setting aside of the second Sunday in each May as a day upon which an appreciative nation might pay homage to mother by the wearing of a white carnation.

How, as we pin on this sacred flower will sweet memories of mother and days of childhood pass before us?

Perhaps it may call to mind a letter, long neglected; that should be written to her; or if she has gone beyond the reach of any earthly postman, bring thoughts that will make better men and women of us all.

And if she does live—if we are still blessed by her loving, and always tender presence, it will bring to mind a duty we owe to her by right—the duty of protection and providing for her, in case of our demise.

A savings account started now will insure your mother's comfort and happiness. See us about it today.

How to Treat Your Town

Praise it.
Improve it.
Talk about it.
Be public spirited.
Take a home pride in it.
Tell of its business men.
Remember it is your home.
Tell of its natural advantages.
Trade and induce others to trade here.
When strangers come to town use them well.

Don't call your best citizens frauds and impostors.

Support your local institutions that benefit your town.

Look ahead of self when all the town is to be considered.

Help the public officers so do the most good for the most people.

Don't advertise in the local paper "to help the editor," but advertise to help yourself.—The Southern Merchant.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Gates entertained friends from Detroit over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. King have moved to Northville where he has a position.

Health a Factor in Success.

The largest factor contributing to a man's success is undoubtedly health. It has been observed that a man is seldom sick when his bowels are regular. He is never well when they are constipated. For satisfaction you can't find nothing quite so good as Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. They are sold by all dealers.—Adv.

A Quiet Home Wedding

A quiet home wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Brown on Depot street yesterday afternoon at 6:30 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Letta Brown was united in marriage to Charles J. Thumme. Rev. Joseph Dutton performed the ceremony in the presence of only a few near friends and relatives of the bride and groom. The groom is a popular conductor on this division of the D. U. R. and the bride is one of Plymouth's most highly esteemed young ladies. The young couple left after the ceremony for a short wedding trip after which they will be at home at Farmington Junction. Their many Plymouth friends extend congratulations.

A Business Change

R. G. Samsen, who has conducted the Central Grocery in the Penniman block for the past several years, sold the stock and fixtures to Pinckney's Pharmacy Monday. As soon as the stock and fixtures are disposed of and some improvements are made in the room, the Pinckney drug store will be removed from its present location in the Coleman block to the room formerly occupied by the Central Grocery. Mr. Samsen has not decided just what he will do at this time.

In and Around Plymouth

Milford will have a course of Chautauqua entertainments during the coming summer.

The village council of Orion has passed an ordinance raising the saloon license to $750.

Milford is having oiled streets again this year. The funds to cover the expense are raised by subscriptions from the business section and property owners for the residence streets.

The members of the New Idea Club of West Ann Arbor street, gave a farewell party at Mrs. S. E. Campbell's home last Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. David Wilder who left the first of the week for her new home in Lansing.

With the consent of the council, the president of Northville village has asked six good business men to act as an advisory board to work out some of the perplexing problems likely to be presented this year. It will be interesting to note how the experiment works out.

Eight Pontiac men have formed an association to be known as the Union Lake Land Co. The company has purchased the Dewey farm of 144 acres on Union lake and will plow it into summer resort lots. The property purchased has three-quarters of a mile of lake frontage. The promoters say no expense will be spared to make this one of the most attractive summer resorts in the county.—Northville Record.

CHAPTER XV.

Joseph Hayward, an ensign in the United States army, on his way to Fort Hammar, meets Simon Girty, a renegade whose name has been connected with all manner of atrocities since he landed in Fort Hammar, with a message from the British general, Hamilton.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued. I got to my hands and knees, determined to discover for myself the nature of the better than merely to lie there inert.

I stopped to rest a moment, sitting cross-legged, my head barely escaping the roof. Suddenly from out that incense darkness before me, came a peculiar sound.

CHAPTER XIV. A Struggle Underground. I remained poised, breathless, huddled in the dark, hesitating. A dozen considerations flashed through my mind, as I swiftly decided what to do.

gro; lie there until our bones rotted, and we also became earth. The horror of the thought brought me to my knees. Already the air was stifling, my lungs laboring heavily for breath as the smoke clouds filled the passage.

What had frightened the fellow so? What had brought that look of insane terror into his eyes? It was as if he stared at a ghost, the very sight of which had crazed him.

I conquered my abhorrence, and searched him, finding tobacco, a knife—an ugly weapon—flint and steel, a few coins, and some powder and rifle balls.

I was still engaged at this task, blindly feeling about in the dark for everything needed, and always conscious of that dead body beside me, when I suddenly detected smoke—not the puff of powder which still clung to the passage, but the acrid, pungent odor of burning wood.

I crawled over him, as though he was no more than a stone in the path, yet as one hand came down to the dark on the upturned face, I experienced a sudden thrill—the flesh was warm, the man lived.

I felt tempted to get outside, and discover where the raiders had gone; their trail might reveal much, if it could only be found before night came.

"No," it was in the hope of preventing such a catastrophe that I was sent. Word was brought us that the Wyandots would not join the confederation.

I fell Forward Into Light Air. I know the wood gave way, and I fell forward into light and air, my face without, my body still in the tunnel.

I Meet My Double. The probability that the man was a British officer, whose life depended on my exertions, worried me anew. No matter who he might prove to be, whether friend or foe, he was of my race and blood.

"Not much of anything else," I answered, endeavoring to discover his features. "I'm of the blood."

"Who brought such word?" "Simon Girty. He bore a letter from Hamilton, and sought information regarding the disappearance of a Wyandot chief."

Wifely Praise Qualified. The husband was listening with blushing pleasure to his wife's praises of his handiness. He looked a little deprecatingly at the other passengers, as though to say, "I didn't seek this fame!"

LETTER FROM THE STATE CAPITOL

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE TO FIGHT FOR DRASTIC LAW AT NEXT SESSION.

TO MAKE MANY TOWNS DRY

State Railroad Commission May Increase Time Limit on Filing Claims for Damages on Shipments of Cattle.

[By Gurd M. Hayes.]

Lansing, Mich.—It was claimed here by one who is high in the councils of the Michigan anti-saloon league that the headquarters of the league would be moved from Detroit to Lansing in the near future in order that the advocates of temperance would be able to train their heavy guns on the legislature at short range.

According to the plan outlined the league workers will not ask for the submission of a constitutional amendment providing for state wide prohibition, as they have evolved a plan which will be nearly as effective if it materializes and a great deal less expensive.

The resolution says in part: "Be it resolved that the state general executive committee, while stoutly affirming its support of better market roads, hereby records its emphatic protest against any state bonding scheme for good roads, except by vote of the people and especially against this amendment, which would place a power in the hands of the legislature that would be exceedingly unwise and might easily become as vicious in practice as it is dangerous in principle."

State Fire Marshal John T. Wanship, in his annual report to Gov. Ferris Saturday, shows that 9,660 fires occurred in Michigan last year, causing a loss of $7,446,758.67.

From Ingham county 267 fires were reported with a property loss of $67,852.14. Jackson county reported 265 fires with a loss of $101,022.72, and Kent, 563 fires with a loss of $127,849.28.

The report shows there were 2,168 fires of unknown origin, causing a loss of $1,029,180.77. Sparks from chimneys caused 566 with a loss of $180,143.02; overheated stoves, 327 and a property loss of $103,762; lightning caused 1,333 and a loss of $749,492.66.

Since the last legislature authorized the state fire marshal's department to inspect buildings where moving picture shows are located, 612 theaters were inspected, 439 licenses were issued, 69 theaters were closed and 46 other theaters ordered to discontinue the moving picture business.

"The feature of the work done by the department during the year is the discovery that the people of Michigan are thoroughly awake to the fact that the best way to fight fires is to prevent them," said Fire Marshal Wanship.

"During the year 837 official inspections made in 105 cities and villages were recorded by the department; 261 orders directing that buildings be repaired were issued; 235 directing the razing of buildings; 152 ordering the cleaning up of premises; 183 directing compliance of the law relating to the storing or handling of gasoline and explosives.

The fire chiefs of the state, with one or two exceptions, have cooperated with the department to bring about better conditions and reduce the fire hazard in Michigan."

Following a conference with Gen. John P. Kirk, Adjutant General Roy C. Vandercook announced that commanders of the various national guard companies throughout the state have been advised to begin quiet preparations to meet a call to arms.

A book giving assessing officers throughout the state an idea of how the tax commission would like assessments made has been mailed to all the assessors, numbering upwards of 1,500. The commission is trying to get uniformity in assessments.

of the voters to vote the necessary funds. Fellows informed the tax commission that land upon which flowage rights have been granted should be assessed to the owner in fee simple, and that a power plant owned by a municipality in adjacent townships may not be assessed in taxes.

Fellows has ruled that villages may amend their charters so as to impose a tax on saloons, in addition to the regular license fee required under the state law.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the state grant a strong resolution was adopted calling upon all granges to vote against the proposed amendment to section 10, article 10 of the constitution to be submitted at the general election this fall which provides "the state may also issue bonds for the purpose of raising money for the construction and permanent improvement of the public wagon roads of the state."

The executive committee of the state grant points out that the attorney general has held that this amendment, if adopted, would place the power of bonding the state for roads in the hands of the legislature without a vote of the people, and that the amendment provides no limit for said bonding.

The resolution says in part: "Be it resolved that the state general executive committee, while stoutly affirming its support of better market roads, hereby records its emphatic protest against any state bonding scheme for good roads, except by vote of the people and especially against this amendment, which would place a power in the hands of the legislature that would be exceedingly unwise and might easily become as vicious in practice as it is dangerous in principle."

FEELS LIKE A NEW WOMAN

As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Dispelled Backache, Headaches and Dizziness

Piqua, Ohio.—"I would be very ungrateful if I failed to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the praise it deserves, for I have taken it at different times and it always relieved me when other medicines failed, and when I hear a woman complain I always recommend it. Last winter I was attacked with a severe case of organic weakness. I had backache, pains in my hips and over my kidneys, headache, dizziness, lassitude, had no energy, limbs ached and I was always tired. I was hardly able to do my housework. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on one other occasion, and it had helped me so I took it again and it has built me up, until now I feel like a new woman. You have my hearty consent to use my name and testimonial in any way and I hope it will benefit suffering women."—Mrs. ORPHA TURNER, 431 S. Wayne St., Piqua, Ohio.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (Confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

AFTER HALF-CENTURY MARK

No Real Reason Why Man of That Age Should Not Be Capable of Good Work.

Speaking of the age of efficiency, a Toledo gentleman locates it beyond the half-century mark. He calls our attention to the fact that Columbus was fifty-six when he discovered America, that Darwin, Kant, Spencer, Wagner, Haydn and others did their greatest and best work when far past the fifty mark, and that some have persisted in great accomplishment until seventy or more years of age. This argument won't help the man who is aged and broken and tottering at fifty, will it? But it will hearten the man of forty or more who has been careful of his resources, to think that to him-achievement still is a possibility—and it may find him the opportunity to achieve by convincing some master of opportunity that years do not always spell senility or loss of virility. The young man may reflect that he has the opportunity to run a long race—and he may catch sight of the fact that the man of fifty is not necessarily a "back number" merely because of his half-century.

A Good One.

"What test would you apply to men seeking positions as waiters?" "I would select those of fetching ways."

HAPPY NOW.

Family of Twelve Drink Postum.

"It certainly has been a blessing in our home" writes a young lady in regard to Postum. "I am one of a family of twelve, who, before using Postum, would make a healthy person uncomfortable by their complaining of headache, dizziness, sour stomach, etc., from drinking coffee."

"My mother suffered from palpitation of the heart, sick headache and bad stomach, and at times would be taken violently ill. About a year ago she quit coffee and began Postum. "My brother was troubled with headache and dizziness all the time he drank coffee. All those troubles of my mother and brother have disappeared since Postum has taken the place of coffee."

"A sister was ill nearly all her life with headache and heart trouble, and about all she cared for was coffee and tea. The doctors told her she must leave them alone, as medicine did her no permanent good."

"She thought nothing would take the place of coffee until we introduced her to Postum. Now her troubles are all gone and she is a happy little woman enjoying life as people should."

Name given by the Postum Co., 440 The Creek, Mich.

Postum now comes in two forms—Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages. Instant Postum—a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolved in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins. The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same. "There's a Reason" for Postum.—said by Grocers.

ENVOYS TO MEET AT NIAGARA FALLS

MAY 18TH ANNOUNCED AS DATE MEDIATORS WILL MEET ALL PARTIES.

CANADIAN CITY IS CHOSEN

Public Announcement By Secretary Bryan Does Not Exclude Any Parties of Argument in the Mexican Trouble.

Washington—The three South American envoys who have undertaken by diplomacy to settle Mexico's civil strife, as well as her international difficulties, announced Tuesday night that the first formal conference with representatives of "the different parties interested in mediation" will be held at Niagara Falls, Ont., Canada, May 18.

Secretary Bryan made the announcement for the three diplomats in a brief statement.

Mr. Bryan said: "The mediators have notified the different parties that Niagara Falls, Canada, has been selected as the place where the mediators will confer with representatives of the different parties interested in mediation, and that the 18th of May has been fixed as the date when the conference will begin."

The language of the declaration attracted attention, for although the envoys had in a note earlier said they would withdraw their invitation for a "arranza representative unless an armistice between the constitutionalists and the Huerta forces were arranged, no specific parties to the negotiations were named in the state department announcement.

GEN. DURYEA KILLED BY SON

Slayer of Aged Millionaire Believed to Be Mentally Unbalanced.

New York—General Hiram Duryea, 81, retired millionaire starch manufacturer, and civil war veteran, was slain early Tuesday at his home in the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn by his son, Chester Duryea. Seven shots were fired by the son into his father's body, causing instant death.

For the past few days, servants told the police, Chester Duryea had been acting strangely, and they feared a return of a previous breakdown. In 1909, when he showed signs of mental trouble, his father sought to have him removed to Bellevue hospital for observation, but as he was not violent this request was refused.

EIGHT KILLED BY DYNAMITE

Dynamite Explosion Destroys Government Magazine at Panama.

Panama—An explosion Tuesday at the government of Panama dynamite magazine resulted in the killing of eight persons. Nineteen others were seriously injured. The property was destroyed.

The explosion was caused by a brush fire, which made its way to the interior of the building. Six of the dead and most of the wounded are firemen, who had been summoned to combat the flames. A man and a woman who were watching the blaze from a distance were torn to pieces.

Sounded Like It.
 Mr. Murray, irritable from long confinement to a sick bed, cocked up his ears and listened.
 "That's all that piano-bangin' in 'th' parlor?" he then demanded, glaring at his wife.
 "Tis our daughter Mary takin' her first steps in piano-playin'!" rejoined his wife.
 "Her first steps! That's she doin', walking on the keyboard!"

35 BUSHELS PER ACRE

was the yield of WHEAT on many farms in Western Canada. In 1913, some yields being reported as high as 50 bushels per acre. As high as 100 bushels were reported in some districts for each 50 bushels for barley and 20 bushels for flax. J. Keys arrived in the country 5 years ago from Denmark, with very little means. He homesteaded, worked hard, is now the owner of 20 acres of land. In 1913 had a crop of 300 acres, which will realize him about $4,000. His wheat weighed 60 lbs. to the bushel and averaged over 35 bushels to the acre. Thousands of similar instances might be related of the homesteaders in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The crop of 1913 was an abundant one everywhere in Western Canada. Ask for descriptive literature and reduced railway rates. Apply to Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or M. V. ### SPRING FLOWERS.

If there is any art of the horticulturist that can bring forth anything quite equal to the wild spring flowers the children are bringing in day after day, we have never seen it. The symmetry, the grace, the delicate coloring, are all combined with such a spirit of freshness that cannot be equaled by those carefully nurtured plants of the hot house. The little blossoms that we know and love, year after year, from childhood to old age, without even knowing their names, are the sweetest of all. They breathe the very life of spring itself. They come forth hopefully and joyously from the dead brown of winter leaves and mulch. They typify the new birth, the hope of immortality, the exquisite beauty of the blessed.

WHAT MEXICANS HAVE FOUGHT FOR

Agrarian Democracy Has Been the Aim of the Peon Class for Past Century.

STRUGGLE STILL GOING ON

Position of Revolutionists and Constitution of 1857 for Which They Stand, Set Forth in Book by Senor de Lara.

In the confusion and lack of exact knowledge that attend the embroglio with Mexico the big issue that has moved the Mexican people to revolt against Huerta has been lost sight of or is not known to most Americans.

What the people of Mexico have sought for from the first war of independence, and what they are fighting for now under Carranza and Villa is the right to buy and till farms. For a hundred years the peon class has waged a continuous struggle to achieve agrarian democracy. Time after time the revolution has been carried to the verge of success, and time after time the Mexican ruling class has invoked foreign intervention in order to prolong its power.

All this and a great deal more is made clear in a book just published by Doubleday, Page & Co., "The Mexican People; Their Struggle for Freedom," by L. Gutierrez de Lara and Edgcomb Pinchon. It is frankly a statement of the position of the revolutionists, and shows why they believe American intervention in Mexico at the present time would only bring about more loss of life and worse conditions in the long run.

Senor de Lara has much to say about the constitution of 1857, that has been ruthlessly set aside by successive governments, and he gives a digest of that instrument, the heads of which follow:

Article I. The Mexican people recognizes that the rights of men are the foundation and the purpose of social institutions. In consequence they proclaim that all the laws and authorities of the country must respect and sustain the warranties stipulated by this constitution.

Article II. In the republic every one is born free. The slaves who step into the national territory recover their freedom by this mere fact, and have the right of the protection of the law.

Article III. All education is free. The law will determine which profession needs a diploma for its exercise, and what requisites are to be fulfilled.

This fundamental principle was later amplified to make education universal, free, non-sectarian and compulsory.

Article IV. Every man is free to adopt the profession, trade, or work that suits him, it being useful and honest; and to enjoy the product thereof.

Article V. No man shall be compelled to work without his plain consent and without just compensation. The state will not permit to become effective any contract, pact or agreement with the purpose of the curtailment, the loss or the irrevocable sacrifice of the liberty of any man, may the cause be for personal labor, education, or religious vows. The law in consequence does not recognize monastic orders, and will not permit their establishment, no matter what may be the denomination or purpose for which they pretend to be established. Neither will be permitted a contract or agreement by which a man makes a pact for his proscription or exile.

Article VI. The expression of ideas shall not be subjected to any judicial or governmental prosecution except in cases of attack upon the public morality, the rights of a third party, or the prevention of a crime or a disturbance of public order.

Article VII. The liberty of writing and publishing writings upon any matter is inviolable. No previous censorship nor imposition of bonds upon the writers nor the publishers for the purpose of curtailing the freedom of the press can be established by any law or authority, such freedom being restricted to respect of private life, morals and public business.

Article VIII. This deals with the right of petition to the government.

Article IX. This gives the right of assembly.

Article X. This establishes the right of every man to possess and carry arms for his safety and legitimate defense.

Article XI. This deals with immigration to the country and other traveling both from the country and into the same.

Article XII. This establishes the inviolability of all titles of nobility, prerogatives and hereditary honors.

Article XIII. In the Mexican Republic no one shall be subjected to private laws nor special courts. No man or corporation shall enjoy fueros or special emoluments unless they be a compensation for public services and already fixed by law.

Article XIV. This establishes the principle that no one shall be tried by retroactive laws.

Article XV. No treaties can be made for the extradition of political offenders, neither for those criminals whose crime was committed in a country where they had been slaves; neither can a treaty or agreement be made by which the warranties or rights that this constitution gives to man or citizen be altered.

Article XVI. This article establishes the principle that the family and domicile are inviolable, except for the purposes of arrest under a warrant from a proper court expressing the charge.

Article XVII. No one shall be arrested or imprisoned for debts of a purely civil character. No one shall exercise violence to claim his rights. The courts will always be ready for the administration of justice. This will be free, the costs being abolished.

Article XXVII. Private property shall not be taken without the consent of the owner, except in case of public utility, and by just payment therefor. Religious corporations or institutions, no matter of what denomination, character, durability or purpose, and civil corporations when under the patronage, direction or superintendency of religious institutions or ministers of any cult, shall not have the legal capacity to acquire or manage any real estate except the buildings which are used immediately and directly for the services of the said institutions; neither will the law recognize any mortgage on any property held by these institutions.

Article XXVIII. State and church are independent. Congress cannot make any law establishing or forbidding any religion.

The practical abrogation of the constitution under Diaz and Huerta has resulted in the building up of a privileged class and the cruel exploitation of the people. Vast territories have passed into private ownership. The disinherited peon has become the virtual slave of the land owners, and freedom has been a privilege purchased from the government by those who had the means.

These are the conditions that De Lara pictures, and it is to end them the present fight of the constitutionallists is waging.

FORCED TO BUY PROTECTION

Refugees Arriving at Vera Cruz Tell of Paying Money to Huerta's Soldiers.

Vera Cruz.—Sixty-three members of the Medina colony in the state of Oaxaca are among the refugees who have arrived here. They were held two days in Cordoba and report they were well treated, except that they were obliged to sleep on the floors of the barracks. They were relieved of guns, but not of the scanty belongings which they were able to bring with them.

J. W. Elliott, a locomotive engineer, was in Tierra Blanca when news of the occupation of Vera Cruz reached him. With his wife and children he started for Cordoba under guard of Mexican soldiers. At Cordoba the guards said they were hungry and demanded 50 pesos on the threat to surrender Elliott and his family to a howling mob which surrounded the station and filled the streets.

The money was paid and Elliott and his family were marched more than a mile through the streets to the barracks, hounded all the way by the mobs. They were kept in the barracks six days, during the first two of which crowds surrounded the place demanding their lives. On two occasions members of the mob forced their way into the barracks and except for the efforts of the colonel and two other officers Elliott and his family would undoubtedly have been killed. Toward the end of their stay the demonstrations ceased to a large extent.

Manager Boyd of the Motzorongu Hacienda, when he arrived at Cordoba, was forced by the federal guards to pay 1,050 pesos for protection through the streets to the jail.

Circulars containing the words "Kill the Gringos" and urging the people to rise and massacre the prisoners were posted about Cordoba.

One of the refugees who have arrived here from the interior is F. W. Lehmer, a ranch manager from Tuxtepec, whose home is in Omaha and who was on his way to Vera Cruz for a visit, not knowing of the developments here. He was picked up at Tierra Blanca by federal soldiers.

"I was placed with ten others in a train which was standing overnight, surrounded by a mob which continually threatened to attack us," he said. "The guards ate up everything available on the train, compelling us to go hungry. At every station up to Cordoba, on the following day, similar crowds looted the train and threatened us."

"While being taken through the streets of Cordoba a squad of young volunteers who had just been presented with a flag swept down upon us and tried to run us down. This happened at the corner where the municipal palace is located or otherwise we would not have escaped as well as we did. As it was, I was hit on the head with a flagstaff and a man walking beside me was struck on the head with a rock. His scalp was badly cut."

"It was due to the fine conduct of the Mexican colonel that we ever reached the palace. He rushed from the door with a squad of police and soldiers and plunged into the crowd, scattering them and surrounding us."

"Later we were put in the pentecostary, and for six days we slept on the stone flagging. There were two women in the party, one with a little baby. We were allowed to stand out and buy blankets, and managed to get enough to eat, such as it was."

"Monday we were placed on a train and brought down to Soledad. We spent that night on the tracks. There was one passenger coach left for us and in this the women and children slept, the rest of us sleeping on the ground."

WED BEFORE FLEET SAILED

Mrs. Donald Taylor Hunter was the latest navy bride when the fleet sailed from Hampton Roads. On the day before she was Miss Emily Hancock Hughes, and she was to have been married to Lieutenant Hunter of the Arkansas on May 14. When sailing orders were received the lieutenant radiographed to his bride, she hurried to Fortress Monroe and the wedding ceremony was performed at once.

Feminine Master Mariner. Mrs. Von Bandits, Denmark's only woman sea captain, now commencing a vessel running between Russia and England, claims to be the only real feminine master mariner in the world.

Mrs. Van Bandits, who is the wife of a physician, was for a long time interested in yachting as a sport and, after passing an examination for a master's license, she took up the sea as a profession. So adept did she prove herself that a shipping company soon gave her command of one of its largest steamships.

NOT IN HIS WILL

By JOHN ST. CLAIR.

"Ellis, there is our home," said Dorothy Milford with conviction, pointing to the old colonial building at the end of the village street.

It seemed, indeed, to be just the home for which both had been seeking ever since their return from the honeymoon three months before. Five hundred feet away from the house nearest it, it seemed to dominate the other homes of the community. The street ended in its driveway, which was bordered by two lawns of greenest grass. There were two vine arbors, and an old apple orchard, and the ivy had crept up to the roof long ago, on every side.

"I wonder how much it would cost us, Ellis," whispered Dorothy, clinging to his arm.

Ellis Milford was a hard working clerk in one of the big insurance offices, and their home had been only a four-room flat in the dusty city. But every Sunday they had gone forth from the metropolis dreaming of just such a place as this, only on less grand a scale; and here was their dream in brick and turf. And the train schedule was excellent. Ellis could go into town without the need of any extravagantly early rising, returning in time to enjoy the garden, in summer time at least before his supper.

"There is no agent's sign," he said, after a close inspection of the premises.

"Perhaps some of the neighbors would know," his wife suggested.

Inquiries in the vicinity, however, failed to disclose anything. The house had been untenanted for many years, and it was rumored that the owner resided in England. No, there had never been any effort to rent it. It would be hard to do so, anyway, because nobody wanted an old-fashioned house when you could get a brand new one built on the installment plan.

At which information Dorothy's heart beat high with secret joy. "You see, Ellis, it is my English blood," she explained. "You know grandfather was an Englishman, and

"and I don't know, of course, what your title will show, but the fact is, there is reason to believe that this property is part of an estate which I have come over from London to handle on behalf of the heirs. It seems to have been forgotten, as the owner did not enumerate it in his will. You have your title-deeds?"

No, Ellis had no title-deeds. In fact, he was so equally embarrassed that he blurted out the history of the acquisition.

"Most extraordinary! Most extraordinary!" said the visitor. "What a tribute to the—er—masterful habits of your great nation your action is. Now in my country nobody would ever dream of taking a house he fancied—"

"Perhaps your countrymen aren't so quick with the rent," said Dorothy. "You see, we have four months' all ready for whoever the landlord is."

"My dear young lady, I thought I explained to you that he was dead," replied the other. "He was an eccentric character, old Mr. Samuel Loft—"

"What!" said Dorothy, rising and staring hard at the visitor. "Who's his granddaughter? Quick! Answer me!"

"Ah, there you have me," answered the Englishman. "If we knew that we could trace back the ownership—"

"Don't worry," answered Dorothy. "Here she is. O, Ellis, this was grandfather's house after all, and it's mine—I feel it's mine. And, Ellis—we've got four months' rent money in the bank, and all for ourselves to spend!"

CARRIES HOUSE IN POCKET

Englishman is Little Troubled by Impediments in His Journeys To and Fro.

T. H. Holding, "the fully furnished man" who is to demonstrate at the simple-life exhibition how he carries his bed in one pocket and his house in another, explained some of his contrivances recently to a London Daily News interviewer.

All that a man really wants to protect him from the weather and supply him with warm food and drink need, he maintains, weigh no more than six pounds thirteen ounces. Mr. Holding is in his seventieth year, and that is the sort of simple life kit he still uses.

His tent consists of 11 ounces of silk, with a sort of fishing-rod pole and aluminum pegs. All his meals are cooked on a tiny oil stove weighing just over a pound, but capable of dealing efficiently with a rabbit or beef-steak.

Then there is a quilt large enough to keep two people cozy, though it folds up into a package measuring 11x4 inches, and a water bucket holding two gallons that can be tucked into a space no bigger than your fist.

Mr. Holding has invented innumerable other dodges in the way of concentrated comfort—pillows that weigh next to nothing and are blown up like a cycle tire, pots and pans that vanish when they are not wanted, toilet apparatus weighing only a few ounces, and so on.

By the time he is eighty Mr. Holding will probably have discovered how to get a spare suit of clothes into a watch case and at least one quart into a pint pot.

Weather is a matter of almost complete indifference to a man of Mr. Holding's stamp. In the shelter of his tiny tent he laughs at rain, has endured as much as 22 degrees of frost and can regard snow with equanimity. As for cycling, he recently completed his 80,000th mile on a daily journey between Fulham and the West End.

Answer questions. "After all," said Keweenaw, "it's a true saying that 'He laughs best who laughs last.'"

"Not at all," replied Wain. "The really true saying is, 'He laughs at whose laugh lasts.'"

HAPPENINGS in the BIG CITIES

Mayor Shows Acrobatic Prowess Before Children

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—"Come on, pop, an' show us how to skin-the-cat." "Sure, I'll show you how to skin-the-cat," quoth Joseph Schauweker, broker, who lives at 1847 Crawford road, a fashionable boulevard.

At 1851 Crawford road lives Newton D. Baker, mayor of the Sixth City, and in the rear of Mr. Baker's back lot are trapezes and other paraphernalia for skinning-the-cat and other youthful acrobatic stunts.

So the balmy air of Sunday morning, which had enticed Mr. Schauweker into the open, found him a few minutes later skinning-the-cat in the mayor's back lot for the edification of the respective younger generations of the Baker and Schauweker families.

Now Mr. Schauweker isn't exactly venerable, but what hair he owns on the top of his head is no longer lustrous. The sight of a dignified member of the stock exchange skinning-the-cat in the back yard was highly edifying to Mr. and Mrs. Baker. Besides, there's something about skinning-the-cat in the back yard on a balmy Sunday morning that is irresistible to anybody who has ever in his lifetime skinned-the-cat.

From enjoying the sight from one's window to taking a hand in the sport isn't such a wide step. It's both exhilarating and conducive to forgetfulness of the cares of life.

Mayor Baker joined Broker, Schauweker. It was an hour later before Mayor Baker discovered their little pastime was being played to an audience of some two hundred or more residents of nearby apartments, whose porches and windows were lined with appreciative skin-the-cat fans, every last one of whom would have jumped at an invitation to join the sport.

"How 'r you feeling 'amorning?" said Joseph Schauweker of 1847 Crawford road yesterday morning.

"Three 'charley horses—two lame arms," confessed Newton D. Baker of 1851 Crawford road.

Rat, Victor Over Cat, Is Killed by a Woman

CHICAGO.—A fight with a rat lasting for almost twenty minutes was the experience of Mrs. Della Pace of 2137 West Madison street the other morning. According to Mrs. Pace's story, the battle was a fierce one.

The combat took place after the rat had gotten the best of a fight with a tomcat, which Mrs. Pace had borrowed from a neighbor. The cat was so badly bitten that it had to be killed.

Mrs. Pace first saw the rat when it ran across her bare feet, just after she had gotten out of bed. She says that the rat pursued her when she ran to the door, which she reached just in time to prevent it from biting her.

She then borrowed the cat from a neighbor. "Tom" gave a pleased yowl on seeing the rat, and leaped at it. The rat allowed the cat to chase it for about ten minutes, and then turned around and chased the cat with fully as much enthusiasm.

Finally Mrs. Pace heard sounds like the crying of a baby. Opening the door she saw the cat lying half dead on the floor, with the rat biting it. She went to the cat's rescue with a broom.

"Every time I'd hit it with the broom," said Mrs. Pace, "it would dash at me and try to nip my feet. But I'd jump in the air and the rat would go flying under me."

"Finally, after about twenty minutes of battling and jumping, I tired the rat out. I then killed it with the broom handle."

The fight, it is said, cost Mrs. Pace forty-nine swats with the broom, fifty-six jumps and $1.46 for the tomcat.

Bean Bag Foils Two Youthful Robbers in Boston

BOSTON.—Bean bags proved more fearsome weapons than revolvers in an attempted hold-up at the store of Fred B. Poole at 358 Beacon street, Somerville, the other night. And the bags held genuine Boston beans.

A lusty heave of a bag at the head of one of the two boys with leveled revolvers put both to ignominious flight. As they departed they fired several shots, but no bullet holes were found in the woodwork and there is a suspicion that blank cartridges were used.

According to Poole's statement to the police, shortly before ten o'clock two boys entered his grocery store. Closing the door carefully behind them, one passed over a dime to Poole, asking for a yeast cake.

Poole turned to get one from the ice box and was brought up short with a command, emitted rather tremulously, to throw up his hands.

Poole wheeled around and found himself staring into two revolvers. He threw his hands forward instead of up and closed over a bag of beans. He hurried this at the head of the nearest boy, who dodged and, losing his nerve, backed toward the door. His companion followed, while Poole looked for another bag of beans.

Poole is sure he heard three or four shots and until a close examination of the woodwork was made he thought he had heard whistling bullets, but he is not certain of that now.

Hard to Tell Where They'll Mix, But They Will

NEW YORK.—Dr. Cook is loose again, and heading in the general direction N. of the North pole. All towns north of Haworth, N. J., have been warned to keep a sharp lookout for Doc, who is exceeding the speed limit.

Running with the Doc is Peter, the tame rabbit of Haworth, three jumps to the rear and going strong. Dr. Cook is a cat owned by Frank Knapp, which was last seen after taking a flying leap from the sheltering branches of a tree which it had climbed to escape Peter.

According to the people of Haworth, Peter is the fightingest rabbit ever known. He is owned by Rev. Dr. Jones, but has not absorbed any religious atmosphere to speak of.

Any day in which he doesn't lick a couple of dogs is wasted to Peter. He became courageous the other day and attacked William Gilley, who is now sighted. Gilley thought Peter was his dog until he saw the battle light in the rabbit's eye. He fled.

Peter wrinkled his bare lips into a grin, and approached Dr. Cook, who was watching the sport. Doc elevated his tail and cut into the wind. Peter gazed on him, and Doc climbed a tree.

Peter leaped for the branch on which Doc was shivering, and almost made it. Frightened, the kitty jumped to the ground and barked the wind for the north.

When last seen they were making for the state line. Doc Cook had a slight lead, but Peter was bounding easily, and drawing closer.

Seen and Heard in Michigan

Battle Creek.—John Davis, fifteen, and Noah Stanley, twenty-four, charged with murder, were bound over to the circuit court.

Kalamazoo.—As his wife walked in the hospital Thomas Lane, the Saginaw man who shot himself while in a hotel, died. Recently she had him arrested for wife desertion. Mrs. Lane took the body to Saginaw.

Battle Creek.—Bellevue, 15 miles from here, is excited over the kidnapping of Miss Ortha Schrock, aged thirteen. It was reported that the father, Harry Schrock, who has not been living with the mother, took the girl away in a buggy.

Grand Rapids.—Clarence Fletstra, twelve years old, son of Benjamin Fletstra, was almost instantly killed before his father's eyes at Leonard street and Garfield avenue, when run over by an auto driven by John Crell on a demonstration trip. He died on the way to a hospital.

Owosso.—The following have been elected by the Michigan branch of the American Poultry association and will work for the success of the national meeting which may be held in Detroit in August: President, I. A. Freeman, Fenton; vice-presidents, J. O. Linton, East Lansing, and Daniel Thomas, Pontiac; secretary, F. W. McKenzie, Concord; treasurer, John Tomlinson, Detroit; executive board, Claude E. Kellogg, Battle Creek, and J. A. Turner, Lansing.

Grand Rapids.—A canvass of the railroad ticket offices here shows that all spring records were broken when more than one thousand five hundred fishermen left for the trout streams to be on the job for the opening of the season. The railroad officials say that an unusual number of women went north. Local interurbans also report that their fishing excursions to Sprink lake, Black lake, Ottawa Beach and Moma lake were crowded.

Manistee.—John Smiseth, twenty-five years old, proprietor of a garage at Suttons Bay, committed suicide in his room at the Hotel Northern here by shooting himself in the head. The following note was in the room: "Tell my mother I died like a man. I want O. H. Stenlund to preach my services. Tell Ruth she knows why. Ask her. Mother, I died for my country and I died sober. (Signed) John." Ruth is said to have been his sweetheart, with whom, it is supposed, he had some trouble.

Olivet.—Olivet college won a sweeping victory over the Ypsilanti debating team on the question of government ownership of railroads, Olivet being on the negative side. The Olivet team comprised Herbert Thompson of Muskegon, W. W. Berry of Lainesburg and Scarth Inglis of Detroit. Gnd Hitchcock, Ruford Humphrey and Hector McCrimmons represented Ypsilanti. Thompson, the youngest debater in the group, was the mainstay of the Olivet team, his argument being one of the most brilliant ever heard at the college.

Marlette.—St. Louis high school and Saginaw Eastern high won first places in declamation and oratory, respectively, in the district oratorical contest for 21 counties here. Gladys Wilkinson, St. Louis, was the winner in declamation with Glenn Young of Richmond as alternate. Robert Harding, colored, of Saginaw Eastern, won in oratory, with Bessie Switzer of Marlette as alternate. Saginaw Eastern, Flint, Marlette, Richmond and St. Louis were the schools represented. The winners will now compete in the state contest which will be held late this month. The judges were, Principal L. H. Smith, Bay City; Superintendent D. H. Manning, Croswell; and Principal L. L. Eddy, Mt. Clemens.

Tecumseh.—The ninth annual meeting of the Lenawee County Federation of Women's clubs was held in Tecumseh. Mrs. Carr of Adrian, president presided. The morning session was devoted to reports of the various clubs and an interesting paper by C. L. Cuthbert, manager of the Uncle Sam Macaroni company, after which the delegates were given an automobile ride. Doctor Bachelor of Ann Arbor spoke on "Making a Better Place to Dwell." Mrs. Ferry of the state historical commission, Lansing, spoke on "Patriotism."

Rochester.—Rev. Alvro G. Gates, fifty-eight years old, pastor of the Congregational church here, dropped dead as he was stepping into an automobile for a drive in the country. He had been pastor here several years and before that was pastor at Pinckney. He was also well known in Montcalm county where he owned considerable property. He was also pastor of an 18,000-acre ranch in California. His health has been poor since he underwent a severe operation several years ago at Ann Arbor. He was a Mason and an Odd Fellow.

Muskegon.—Fred Mayberry, a Whitehall resident, underwent his seventeenth operation when an abscess on the bone of his right arm was cut out. Mayberry has tuberculosis of the bone. His left arm and right leg has already been removed.

Bay City.—At the close of the final day for obtaining red cards for liquor dealers just 141 had taken out licenses in this county. Last year there were 172. More than 164 will be permitted to do business in the county, and three of the number may be forced out if cases pending against them result in conviction.

Making Tomorrow's World

AUSTRALIA'S UNSOLVED PROBLEMS

Canberra, Australia.—"Land is the mother and labor the father of all wealth." The saying of the economist explains the real poverty of Australia, which exists despite apparent prosperity and suggests the chief unsolved problems which confront the great island-continent. Land is abundant, but laborers are few. Australia needs men and more men, it requires money and more money. The problem of population presses for solution despite immigration schemes and in face of an unsatisfactory birth-rate. If Australia is to play the part which the commonwealth may play in tomorrow's world, this problem must be speedily solved. There are untold possibilities in the undeveloped resources of Australia, but they wait development because of lack of men and lack of money. The Australian is only just now waking up to the situation.

Argentine Heating Australia. The Argentine republic, to a degree similar in present and possible production to Australia, has made progress far beyond Australia's growth. It furnishes figures for comparison. In the last 21 years the population of the Argentine republic has increased from 3,954,911 to 7,467,878. The population of Australia, during the same period, increased from 3,151,355 to 4,425,083. The Argentine imports increased from $100,000,000 to $230,000,000 and the exports from $110,000,000 to $600,000,000. The Australian imports from $165,000,000 to $400,000,000. The cultivated land in Australia from 13,000,000 acres to 57,000,000 acres. In Australia from 5,400,000 acres to 12,000,000 acres. The railway mileage of Argentina was increased from 6,800 to 20,581. In Australia from 13,551 to 18,067, mostly narrow gauge, single track. A. W. Pearce, editor of the Pastoral Review, of Sydney, from which these figures were quoted, said, in comment: "With little more than half the population of Argentina, our imports are $170,000,000 more and our exports $100,000,000 less."

Capital Shy of Australia. Strickland Gillilan, America's charming humorist, said that in England so much was thought of humor that it was spelled with an extra "u." In Australia so much is thought of labor that it is spelled with an extra "u" and a capital "L." The good that labor organizations and labor legislation have brought in Australia has not been unmixt with evil. As population has not largely increased nor been widely distributed, so capital—the money needed for men to make great the commonwealth—has been difficult and, in some cases, impossible to secure. Australian public expenditure, state and federal, has increased far out of proportion to increase in population, whether Liberal or Labor party was in control. Australian officials, asking for new loans or the renewal of old loans, are familiar figures in the London money market. Foreign capital does not seek out Australia for private investment, at least not to the extent or along the lines necessary to Australia's largest and most comprehensive development. Ignorance of real conditions and fear of more antagonistic legislation explains much of this hesitancy upon the part of capital. These are problems that confront Australia, how to deal justly with all men and at the same time obtain population and capital. For usually it is not justice that imported or local capital casually, without becoming optimistic as to the tomorrow of the commonwealth, however unsettled the sky today. Few lands, perhaps none, are so free from economic slavery, which is as bad as any other kind of slavery, or worse. The population is not as large as it should be, but the number below the broad line is small, almost non-existent. This freedom from economic slavery has not encouraged reverence nor as yet brought gentleness of speech or the high culture and graciousness of other lands and peoples, the boy has not attained the man's estate, but it has given a sense of comradeship and a respect for manhood apart from wealth that unfortunately is lacking in a more ancient and more artificial society. Every man has a chance in Australia and, as far as low and honest wage and aggressive brotherhood can make it so, an equal chance. Because of this and in the long run, the Canberra brick-maker was justified in asserting: "The man who bets on Australia will win."

The Australian, keen as he is upon sports, is equally keen upon politics. And with him, in general, politics is not merely or chiefly an avenue to personal advancement or aggrandizement, but into public good. It is in his British blood to feel that he owes something to the state.

"Everything for Everybody." In the Melbourne public library, a new and nobly planned building, where books are arranged for the people who need them and not for the scholars who know them, a man in rough laborer's garb sat at a reader's desk. Before him was a pile of volumes he had taken from the shelf nearby; one he was reading carefully, now and again stopping to record a note. They were books on American universities or university administration, one by Thwing, another by President Eliot on "Educational Ideals," a third by President Nicholas Murray Butler. "I have been for some time a labor member of parliament," he said, with the blunt but engaging frankness of the democratic Australian, "and am on a committee on education. I am reading how you are doing things in education in America. We need universities which serve all the people. No, not trade schools, which are different things, but universities. How else can we build up or maintain a great nation? We need wise leaders. I have just read in Thwing's book that the Melbourne university professors get higher salaries than the professors in any other university in the world, $6,000 a year and a house. I don't object to that. They are worth it. But I wish the University of Melbourne to be a university for all the people, where anybody can learn anything and, at the same time, learn to use it for everybody's good."

Such is the dominant note in Australian life—social, economic, political—that everything shall serve everybody. If that be socialism, says the Australian to the critics, make the most of it!

Parliament House, Melbourne.

seeks first, but mercy—or special privilege. Certainly there is no special privilege shown in Australia or concession given to imported capital.

Too Fond of Sport. The Australian himself is the supreme problem in the making of Australia. The young Australian is frequently conceited, complacent, bumpish, qualities that come from his insularity and his remoteness from other countries. He is inclined to frivolity, to apathy on public questions. Whether young or old, he's too fond of sport.

"The average Australian," said Walter Murdoch, himself an Australian above the average, "is a person who would insist on postponing the Day of Judgment if he found it was going to interfere with a cricket match. His attitude is accurately reflected in a newspaper which devotes a whole page to the discussion of a football match and dismisses in three lines the news of an event which will change the course of the world's history." Not to Australia along does this apply. Nor do other nations always sufficient regard the possibility of a political Day of Judgment.

Free From Economic Slavery. No one can see Australia and learn its problems and meet its people, even

BESET BY BANDITS, BEES TO RESCUE

Both of the Miscreants Escape, One of Them Diving Into the River.

SCREAMED WITH PAIN

Insect Allies of a Hermit Arrive in the Nick of Time Just as the Door of the Cabin is About to Give Way Before Attack.

Fallsades, Neb.—Honey bees drove two would-be robbers from the lonely hut of Ralph Dawson, fifteen miles northwest of here. Dawson, who lives the life of a hermit, told the story.

The men, who were apparently tramps, appeared near Dawson's little home in a deep draw near the French river. Dawson refused to open his door to the strangers.

"He has no gun and there are no dogs about." One of the strangers said. "We will get his money before we leave."

The honey bees in a score of hives about the hut became alarmed at the presence of the strangers and their violence. Soon swarms began to sting the tramps. Just as the door was about to give way the bees became more vigorous, and the would-be robbers were forced to flee.

One of the tramps ran to the French river and escaped the attacks of the bees by plunging into the water. He swam to the opposite bank and disappeared.

The other ran in an opposite direction with hundreds of bees after him. Dawson says both men were screaming with pain when they disappeared.

Dawson did not tell anyone about the attempted robbery and the victory of the bees until he brought a quantity of honey to market.

He said he left the bees an extra large amount of the honey for the winter because of their valor. He declared that he had only a small amount of money in the house at the time the tramps visited him. He says he will not keep any there in the future.

He has purchased a revolver and a shotgun and is determined to help the bees hereafter if unwelcome visitors approach his hut.

EXAMPLE OF T. R.'S NERVE
Prejudiced Individual Eagerly Swallowed Story Concerning Statesman He Disliked.

Just at the entrance of Portland harbor, not far from the tip of Cape Elizabeth, is a dreaded ledge known as Trundys rock. It is carefully buoyed by the government and for the convenience of pilots is identified by marking the buoy with the initials of the ledge's name. My friend, a practical joker of considerable activity, was coming out of Portland one evening on the Gov. Dingley and fell into conversation with a gentleman, whose talk was of politics and whose hatred of Mr. Roosevelt and all his works was revealed as acute and vivid. As the steamer churned on toward the mouth of the bay it occurred to my friend to make use of the situation. Wherefore he said: "Do you know the nervous thing the colonel did when he was president?" "No," said the interlocutor. "But I'd believe anything. What do you call the nervous thing he did?" "I think," said the first speaker, "that it took more gall to paint the government's channel buoys with his initials than anything else in his career."

"You don't mean that he did that?" gasped the other. "Go on! He has crust enough, but that's beyond belief!"

"Just wait," was all the other said. "We're just turning one of those buoys now. Look at it!"

And there, just over the side, was a huge can buoy brazenly marked in letters several feet high. T. R.

Speechless with emotion and wrath the gentleman sought his cabin vowing to write a letter to the editor. I wonder if he really did it?—Catch-All, in Lowell Courier-Citizen.

First Flights. Orville Wright, congratulated at a banquet in Dayton upon a recent legal victory, said:

"Now, our law business ended, we can go to work on the business of developing aeroplanes. For, though the aeroplane has passed its infancy, it will stand improvements here and there."

"Yes, the aeroplane, I am glad to say, is no longer in its infancy—and, gentlemen, it was mighty hard to raise."

A Home-Made Remedy. He—My dear, see that I am not disturbed. I have to write a paper on the statement of the smoke nuisance. She—That's easy. Stop using cigars.

Can't Write, Makes Million. New York.—In a will signed with a cross—because he never learned to read or write—Mathew J. McIntyre, who made $1,000,000 raising hogs, left the bulk of his estate to St. Patrick's church in Long Island City to be used for the support of the parochial school, so that the children of his parish might have the education he was denied. Nine nephews and nieces contested this will, but the surrogate court of Queens county overruled their content.

Signs Own Death Report. San Francisco, Cal.—A clerk examining the death and burial certificate of Charles Marais, an undertaker, discovered that it bore the signature of the dead man. Marais was fatally injured by a fall from a window, and realizing the end was near, he sent for a blank certificate and filled it out himself. The number of years and months of Marais' life was given, but the space for the number of days was left open.

"Among 125,000 employees in the operating department of the Pennsylvania railroad system east, it takes a close hunt to find a man who indulges in intoxicating drinks," comments a writer in the North American of Philadelphia, "according to a report recently made, during the whole of last year only 158 men were found to have broken the rule. The use of intoxicants by employees while on duty is prohibited. The habitual use or frequenting of places where they are sold is sufficient cause for dismissal."
