

Watch for our SPECIALS!

Did you know that we often carry specials in candy, toilet articles, rubber accessories, soaps, etc.?

BEYER PHARMACY

Phone No. 271 2R. The Rexall Store Block South of P. M. Depot

Go to Church Sunday. WELCOME

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Sunday, August 23. 10 a. m.—Union service. Rev. Joseph Dutton preaches. 7 p. m.—Union service in the Presbyterian church. Rev. Bell preaches.

Watch for the Dividend We Declare to All Our Customers

See Our Large Bills for Further Particulars.

Bargains We Offer You for Sat., Aug. 22

- 10c Roll Toilet Paper 4 Rolls for 25c
5c Roll Toilet Paper 7 Rolls for 25c
60c Pound Boxes Val Dona Chocolates 23c a lb
25c Bottle of Bromo 15c
25c Box Winona Linen Stationery 15c
5c Package Wrigley's Spearmint Gum 3 for 10c
FREE a Tooth Brush with every 25c tube A. D. S. Peroxide Tooth Paste

The store where the goods are right as well as the prices.

Pinckney's Pharmacy

THE VAL DONA STORE Open Every Day Evening and Sundays. FREE DELIVERY.

DONT CARRY YOUR MONEY PUT IT IN OUR BANK

WHY ALLOW YOUR MONEY TO LIE DORMANT in your pocketbook or hid away at home, where it can be drawing interest and working for you in this bank?

It's neither safe nor diplomatic, and there's no laudable reason for it.

Deposit your money here soon as you get it. Carry a check book instead. Should you lose it there is no serious loss to you—the check book can be replaced—the money, never.

The Plymouth United Savings Bank

Plymouth's Candidate

Edward Gayde, Plymouth's candidate for the Republican nomination for representative to the State legislature from the Third Representative District of which this township is a part, is meeting with splendid success in his campaign throughout the district, which is composed of the following townships: Brownstown, Canton, Huron, Livonia, Plymouth, Taylor, Romulus, Sumpter and Van Buren. It has been a good many years since Plymouth has had a representative in the state legislature.

Edward Gayde

and it would seem that from the fact that we are the largest town in the district at the present time that we are entitled to the honor. The people of this village and vicinity, regardless of party affiliation, are interested in Mr. Gayde's success at the coming primaries. He is one of our most prominent and progressive business men, he has always been an active worker in the Republican party and has been honored with several public offices in township and village. He is well qualified to represent this district in the next legislature and he is worthy and entitled to the support of every Republican in his home town at the coming primaries.

Belleville's Home Coming

Belleville will have a big home coming celebration, Friday, August 21st, under the auspices of Galaxy I. O. O. F. band of that village. Among the features of the day's program is an industrial parade, ball game, Belleville vs. Milan, dance, foot races, egg races, potato races and other sports. The big feature of the program will be the band of real Indians in native costume from Walpole Island, Canada, in native music, dances and games. The committee who have the affair in charge promise something doing all the time. A large number from Plymouth will undoubtedly attend.

Candidates for 2nd Congressional District

Candidates for nomination for congressman, 2nd district, are as follows: Democratic—Samuel W. Beakes, Ann Arbor; James W. Helme, Adrian. Republican—Harry L. Larwill, Adrian; Mark R. Bacon, Wyandotte; Albert O. Reece, Jackson. Progressive—Hubert F. Probert, Jackson. Prohibition—Chas. W. Obee, Adrian; Amos W. Shaw, Ypsilanti.

Vote for Thomas F. Farrell for county clerk on the Republican ticket at the primaries, August 25.—Advt. Be sure and attend the auction sale at Robinson's, 55 Pennington avenue, Saturday, August 29 at 2 o'clock.

A Proud Man Is one who holds the lines over a well-kept horse. HARVELL'S CONDITION POWDER puts spirit into a horse, that is run down and in poor condition. Put a little in the feed for a few days and see the improvement. The horse gradually fits out with firm muscles, coat becomes smooth and glossy, the run-down animal now shows the real horse animal, and shows that you have done your duty.

Death of Mrs. Nathan Sly

Mrs. Nathan Sly, a highly respected lady of Plymouth township for many years, died at the home of her son, Silas Sly, two miles northeast of this village last Sunday morning at the age of 72 years. The funeral was held from the home of her son Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and was largely attended, a number being present from Detroit, Ann Arbor, Chelsea and Dexter. Rev. Joseph Dutton in the absence of her pastor, Rev. B. F. Farber, conducted the services. The floral offerings were many and beautiful and attested the love and esteem in which the deceased was held. The interment took place in Riverside cemetery by the side of her husband, who preceded her to the great beyond several years ago.

The subject of this sketch, Elizabeth Quackenbush, was born May 19, 1842, at Lodi Plains, Washtenaw Co. and was transferred to her heavenly home, August 16, 1914. She was united in marriage to Nathan Sly, August 19, 1869. Of this union two children were born, Silas and Ida, who with ten grandchildren, are left to mourn their loss. She united with the church at an early age and was united by letter with the Presbyterian church at Plymouth, in 1866. She also served as president of the Ladies' Aid for several years and in all church work was one of the first to be ready for any task and was never known to shirk anything she was asked to do. She was also a charter member of the Grange, of which order only three or four charter members are left.

State Fair Tickets

If you intend visiting the state fair, now is the time to buy your tickets and save money. The Mail office has made arrangements, whereby we are able to sell you a single admission ticket for 35c, or 3 for $1.00. We have also received a limited number of free tickets good for children of 12 years of age and under on Children's Day, September 12. Don't put off buying your tickets too long for we only have a limited number and the supply will not last very long. Save money by buying your tickets at the Mail office.

Candidates for Governor

Candidates for nomination for the office of governor are as follows: Democratic—Woodbridge N. Ferris, Big Rapids. Republican—Frederick C. Marandale, Detroit; George E. Ellis, Grand Rapids; Washington Gardner, Albion; Chas. S. Osborne, Sault Ste. Marie; Alex. J. Groesbeck, Detroit; William S. Linton, Saginaw. Progressive—Henry R. Pattengill, Lansing. Socialist—James Hoogerhyde, Grand Rapids. Prohibition—Charles N. Eeyres, Adrian. Socialist Labor—Herman Richter, Hamtramck. //

TODAY'S REFLECTIONS

Modern warfare may be short, but it is not sweet. Who in Plymouth needs a summer resort? This is summer resort weather. And all the comforts of home combined. Grapes are getting ripe. Sour ones included. Do you sing the "Wacht am Rhein" or the "Marseillaise"? Better stick to Yankee Doodle. Bet "that they will America" looks good to the stranded ones in Europe. I thought you'd rather have your own country than not have it at all. I bet you don't grow for

In and Around Plymouth

The Rochester Gun Club will hold a big shoot at its grounds Labor Day.

Howell will vote Monday, Sept. 7, whether to incorporate as a city or not.

The Custer Cavalry Brigade association will hold a reunion in Lansing, September 16, and 17. The 1st, 5th, 6th and 7th Michigan regiments are also to hold a reunion at the same time at Lansing. It is quite probable that the two will hold session together.

A rally and basket picnic, held under the auspices of Wayne Co. Pomona Grange, will be held in F. S. Peter's grove, Flat Rock, on Friday, Aug. 28th. A good program with J. C. Ketcham, master of the State Grange, as speaker. Games and amusements of all kinds with liberal prizes. Refreshments sold at the stand. Everyone is invited.

The death of many hogs near Tecumseh causes farmers to fear hog cholera, a disease that depleted many a farmer in that section last year. Veterinarians are of the opinion that cholera germs are carried by birds in their flight from place to place, and they warn farmers to disinfect the pens and yards, and above all to see that the animals' quarters are dry and frequently cleaned. —Manchester Enterprise.

Most of the onion fields in this vicinity are quite badly damaged and many of them will hardly pay the expense of harvesting. According to the reports from growers the drouth was one of the causes, but most of the damage has been done by an insect. Some of the fields are not so far gone but what the rain of Monday will materially help in maturing the crop. It is estimated that the yield will be less than half of the average crop. Chelsea Standard.

Trustees Stage and Barley of Northville, were in town Monday looking into the rates and services of the Eastern Michigan Edison Co., at this place. That company is talking of taking over the municipal plant in Northville and the village dads are getting data on the question before it is submitted to a vote of the citizens of that village. They found everything very satisfactory with the citizens of this place.—Belleville Enterprise.

Costly Treatment

"I was troubled with constipation and indigestion and spent hundreds of dollars for medicine and treatment," writes C. H. Hines, of Wilow, Ark. "I went to a St. Louis hospital, also to a hospital in New Orleans, but no cure was effected. On returning home I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets, and worked right along. I used them for some time and am now all right." Sold by all dealers.—Advt.

THOMAS F. FARRELL Republican Candidate for County Clerk Primaries, Aug. 25, '14

DR. JACOB W. ROTHACHER REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR CORONER PRIMARIES AUGUST 25th, 1914

ANNOUNCEMENT! I beg to announce to the readers of the Mail that I have for sale: One 1 1/2 ton Motor Truck $850, One 1 ton Motor Truck $700, One 2 ton Motor Truck $800, One 1 1/2 ton Motor Truck $450, One 1500 lbs. Motor Truck $350, One 1000 lbs. Motor Truck $250. All Second-hand and in Good Running Shape. Trucking to all parts of Wayne County. Cars bought, sold and exchanged. Boomer Auto Exchange Detroit—Phone Hen. 2421 R Plymouth—Phone 148

J. W. BLICKENSTAFF & CO.'S DRUG STORE Phone us your Drug Wants. Saturday Sale, Aug. 15 We deliver to all parts of the village area of Wayne. Liquid Tar Shampoo, leaves the hair soft and fluffy. 25c bottle Saturday for 15c. Colgate's Dental Paste, 25c tube Saturday for 17c. Euthymol Violet Talcum Powder, 25c can Saturday for 16c. Nonpareil Silver Polish, nothing like it. 25c bottle Saturday for 15c. Go to Blickenstaff's to Buy your Drugs. THE PENNSLAR STORE

Yes! we need the shoes repaired and we are looking for the cheapest place Special for August Men's Half-sole 50c, Heels 15c, Ladies Half-soles 35c, Heels 15c, Rubber Heels 40c. Special price for boys and girls. South Shoe Repair Shop James Adam, Prop.

CONVICT ON HIS HONOR

ROBERT A. MOULTON

HONOR CONVICTS GOING AT WORK IN A QUARRY IN COLORADO

The old-time prison, where prisoners were treated like cattle, tolerated, prodded and driven by armed guards until all of the manhood was either cowed out of them, or they were made surly, and a premium was placed on their escape, doomed to extinction? Will the prison of the future be one where walls and bars and guards are merely incidental, and honor and manliness, work and friendship are fundamental?

These are questions that have arisen as the result of the amazing prison reform methods that have made Colorado, Oregon and Arizona the center of attention in recent months. Strange tales have been told of convicts roaming, without guards, over the state farms adjacent to these prisons; of squads being sent as far away as 300 miles, where they would work for weeks, and then every man return to his cell; of the honor system bringing astonishing results. And, incredible as it may seem, these stories are true.

Not long ago the superintendent of the Arizona state prison at Florence was called to the long distance telephone one day to receive this strange message from Phoenix:

"Send Bob Anderson to the capitol on the next train—this is Hunt speaking."

Now, Bob Anderson was a reputed bad man, and the prison superintendent was revolving in his mind whether he had any guards that could be spared to accompany the prisoner. But the suspense was soon ended.

"Give him a ticket and some money—and send him alone," the voice continued. "Tell him I want to see him at the governor's office."

The life-time convict was very ill at ease when he arrived alone at Governor Hunt's office, several hours later.

"I want you to go up on the Verde and get the prison team," the recently-elected governor announced, after Anderson's suspense had been relieved by some pleasantries. "The horses are in a pasture way up in the mountains, costing the state eight dollars a month—while out at the prison we are paying out between thirty-five and forty dollars a month for another team to replace them."

Arrangements were soon completed. Anderson was provided with a ticket to go as far as he could by train. Then he was given money to buy groceries, for he was starting on a week's journey out across the lonely desert and up into the wild, rough foothills at the edge of the timbered mountains.

It was not long before the newspapers got hold of this scare-head story—this most rash act of the governor in releasing a convict, a convicted murderer who hadn't been outside of prison walls or beyond the fire of a dozen riflemen for years. The governor's closest advisers deplored what he had done, and the opposition newspapers hinted that the chief executive must be either insane or secretly conspiring. At the very best, the opposition boldly declared, the governor was sorely tempting the convict—donating him money, provisions, and the use of two of the state's horses, and, thus equipped, sending him off alone into the wilderness.

The week wore around—and Anderson came back with the team to his life-time prison cell, Arizona, which has a larger proportionate prison population than any other state in the Union, had learned its first lesson in the application of the radical and bold "honor system" among convicts.

Lesson number two was not long in following. Another Arizona state prison inmate, a convicted forger, was released "on his honor" for a month's time, and given enough money to carry him to Washington, D. C., that he might file patents for several of his inventions. The governor assumed responsibility—but before the month came to an end Roy J. Meyers had voluntarily returned to his prison cell. A banker friend of the governor was still critical of the new prison "honor system," so when a certain convicted forger was discharged after his prison term, the banker sent him a bill for a formerly forged check. The next mail brought back currency to the amount.

One might add instances from other reform state prisons that have adopted the "honor system." In Oregon, Governor West learned that the shop shops in the state prison at Salem had out-of-date equipment. So the governor called up the prison one day and requested that a certain life-terminer be sent down to his office, without guard. The warden at first protested, but the convict came. The governor merely talked with him for a few minutes, then sent the convict out to see the horse for an hour. At the third visit the governor explained why he wanted to get acquainted. The prisoner was given money to go to Portland and buy new shoe-shop machinery in the name of the state. It was Rose Festival week in the Oregon metropolis and the city was crowded with visitors. But "No. 3616" completed the business and returned to his life-time prison cell.

The "honor system" has probably never had a more thorough and satisfactory test than at the Colorado state prison, in Canon City, under Warden Thomas J. Tynan. During the past three years this prison has had over 1,000 individual prisoners in the convict camps. These men, without guards—some 50, 100 and even 300 miles away from the prison—have created a national reputation for loyalty. Less than one per cent have violated their paroles by successful escape.

Just outside of Canon City, where one would

COLORADO STATE HIGHWAY BUILT BY HONOR CONVICT MEN

HONOR CONVICT ROAD GANG WELCOMES GOVERNOR WEST OF OREGON

GOVERNOR WEST OF OREGON ENTERTAINED AT AN HONOR CONVICT CAMP

HONOR CONVICTS WORKING WITHOUT GUARDS

look for the rough baseball field that every suburb boasts, can be seen the big, black score board, the worn base lines, and the benches. But there on the outskirts of the town it's a prison diamond, not the village baseball field. Across the fields, on the distant plateau, the huge gray stone cell-block looms up. Lower down, backed up against invitingly sheltering woods for those that might want to run away, is the diamond.

Here, at once, the great significance of the new era at this state prison bursts upon the visitor. Measuring the distance from prison to diamond with the eye, one puts this proposition to himself: "If the state of Colorado can march convicts with a band a half mile to a ball field; if the warden can umpire the game and escape alive; if the boys can promise to refrain from swearing, and really cut it out; if several hundred supposedly desperate characters—the stuff the gunmen are made of, in the popular imagination—can yell and howl and jolly the players, and, when the game is over, return without the loss of a man to the cell-block, and preserve in the long, vast building a silence throughout the evening that causes the proverbial pin to echo—well, what of our traditional distrust and dread of the convict?"

Entering the stockade between the huge cell-block and the smaller buildings at the Canon City prison, another surprise awaits the visitor. Perhaps 50 men, all in gray, are moving without restraint within the enclosure. It makes one think of a big city schoolyard. Some of the men are playing at quoits; others are chasing each other and boxing intermittently; pipes and cigarettes are much in evidence.

Warden Tynan is big-bodied, big-hearted, and jovial, and has much to tell and rejoice at in the Canon City experiment. He invites the visitor to stay overnight with him. "We'll drive over the farm after luncheon," he says, "and this evening I'll take you down to my club." Just where that club may be the visitor cannot fathom—but he usually stays.

It is now the dinner hour. The trumpet blows for all the world like the dinner call of an Atlantic liner; the men in orderly fashion cease their games, their walking and their smoking, and fall into line in the cell-block.

Contrast with what you will read in a minute or two the recent prison riots in another state, where the militia had to be called to restore order, and where flogging was re-established. Contrast the old days at many state prisons, under the contract system, where men were worked, practically, from sun to sun, and threw themselves from second-story windows to maim themselves that they might not be obliged to do the racking, deadly work of drive him away from the work. All the men, wherever they may be, are working like one big family. Of course, the fellows would rather have their liberty, and be away from the prison, but some way or other they have all developed the sense of honor, and they stick."

Soon the pig shed was reached, and the visitor was earnestly urged to get out and inspect eight tiny porkers hardly able to waddle, and about 100 other pigs, all under the care and training of one prisoner, who grinned all over in his pride.

"You have seen some of the prisoners who are working here," the warden said. "About 400 others are at work on the various road camps, ranches, etc., some as far as 300 miles away. Three years ago our road camps were largely experimental. Today the success of the plan, from every standpoint, is definitely established.

At Warden Tynan's residence, the houseman is a colored convict, faithful in every way; the butler is a convict, formerly the warden's clerk; the cook is a convict, and he certainly is a cook. The warden's coachman is a convict; the chauffeur is a convict. Indeed, wherever one finds the prisoners filling places of trust. The houseman closes up the house at night, locks everything up, goes up to the prison half a mile away, and is the first one down in the morning. And the warden's club is nothing else than a fifteen-minute gathering of the house boys and himself in his kitchen after the work of the day is all done.

After luncheon the warden ordered a carriage and drove the visitor several miles around the farm. Wherever one looked were seen prisoners at work, without guards.

"That mountain over there," the warden said, "is our sheep range. The sheep boy is a convict. He goes clean over the mountain after the sheep. Of course," he continued, pointing toward the east, "back of the mountain there is now a gang cutting wood. They have no guards. About half-past four you will see them coming down the mountain. Look at that old man in the garden next my house. He works there all by himself, and you have to drive him away from the work. All the men, wherever they may be, are working like one big family. Of course, the fellows would rather have their liberty, and be away from the prison, but some way or other they have all developed the sense of honor, and they stick."

Soon the pig shed was reached, and the visitor was earnestly urged to get out and inspect eight tiny porkers hardly able to waddle, and about 100 other pigs, all under the care and training of one prisoner, who grinned all over in his pride.

"You have seen some of the prisoners who are working here," the warden said. "About 400 others are at work on the various road camps, ranches, etc., some as far as 300 miles away. Three years ago our road camps were largely experimental. Today the success of the plan, from every standpoint, is definitely established.

"Colorado owes many of its wonderful thoroughfares and access to its scenic beauties to the men who are housed in the gray prison at Canon City. "Many states have found convict labor outside the prison walls unprofitable, because they have paid too much attention to guarding the convicts. "Work on the roads is sought for by our prisoners. We make it an object for them to do good work and not attempt to escape.

"I personally have had many talks with each and every prisoner before he leaves the prison for the road camp, and this talk is the keynote to the whole situation. The prisoner feels that he is talking to one that has his interests at heart, and the very best in him comes uppermost.

"So much for the reformative features of the 'honor system.' Society asks—what is the financial benefit to us? During the 1909-1910 biennial period, our convicts built 50 miles of finished roadway at a total actual cost to the taxpayers of the state of $56,700, a saving of $15,450. In ranch products they earned $18,890. In saving on improvements they earned $106,746, and in cash earnings they made $38,125.

"During the biennial period of 1911-1912 we greatly exceeded our former record, having constructed in the neighborhood of 300 miles of permanent roadways. Considering the situation in Colorado, and basing our figures on actual experience, we are confident that we can construct 5,000 miles of the very finest roadways in the next ten years for less than $500,000, and this without adding anything whatever to the burden of the taxpayers. Taking it all in all, the 'honor system' has proven eminently successful from the soundest financial standpoint. The country has been enriched; broken and sin-laden men have been reformed; and society has been guaranteed a greater measure of good and willing citizens than ever before."

Home Congress to Be Held. An international congress on home education will be held in Philadelphia, September 21-29. Mrs. J. Scott Anderson is general secretary of the congress and President Wilson, by authority of congress, has asked the foreign delegates to send delegations. This is the fourth time the congress has met and at the third meeting, held in London, England, in 1910, 50 delegates from 15 countries participated. It was then that the delegates decided to hold a congress in some different language.

WOMEN ILLOGICAL?

By ELMER PHILLIPS.

Doctor Syntax was not more than forty, though he seemed bowed beneath the weight of his recondite investigations. He was seated at his library table, looking out across the quiet village street toward the campus. Inside the halls of those magnificent Gothic buildings which he could just see from his library he had taught for 15 years.

When Aloysius Benton, his friend and colleague, died, ten years before, leaving his twelve-year-old daughter to Doctor Syntax, it was the most natural thing in the world that the kindly old doctor should take the child into his household. After old Janet died, Milly quite naturally became the doctor's housekeeper.

And now certain persons had whispered that it was not proper for an unmarried man, even a professor, to live alone in the house with the girl.

With Milly! Why, she ruled him with an iron hand, caressed in velvet though it was! Did a north wind blow, his peace of mind was not worth a moment's purchase unless he put on his comforter to step across the campus. He was sent to bed even in the midst of the most abstruse problems, when eleven o'clock arrived, and he had a lecture on the following day. Nevertheless, life without Milly seemed an impossible, hopeless thing.

Doctor Syntax had been in love when he was a young man. The object of his devotion had married another; but, though he had long ceased to think of her, the memory of that first love had clung around him like a radiant cloud softening his spirit and fitting it for high idealism. Sometimes the thought of Milly had, of late, unaccountably revived that memory. The professor did not at first understand why.

But when the ultimatum went forth that society considered Milly ought to be relegated to another sphere, the professor had a ridiculous dream. It was absurd, to hope that Milly, the belle of the little town, and he an old fogey of forty! But he continued to dream it. Even a professor of mathematics has the right to dream.

At any rate, he must tell Milly, and he did so, when he met her in the library after dinner, which the professor always took alone, because he had to read and eat at the same time. This was the only point on which he had never ventured to defy Milly.

"Can't You Solve It by Algebra?"

"My dear," he said, "I have an unpleasant thing to say to you. It is a problem—"

"Can't you solve it by algebra?" inquired Milly, looking at him with a twinkle in her eyes. "You know, you always say everything can be solved by algebra."

"And so it can, my dear," said Doctor Syntax. That was one of his pet theories.

"You remember how you found your spectacles," pursued Milly mischievously.

The discovery of Doctor Syntax's lost spectacles had really been a triumph of detective-algebraical application. X was supposed to be the place where they had been placed, Y the spectacles, Z the unknown coefficient, N the known ones. From an examination of an equation compounded of the various symbols, the spectacles were ultimately discovered on the professor's nose.

"But this is serious, Milly," said Dr. Syntax. "Some people in this town have apparently been putting their heads together and have come to the conclusion that it is not right for a single girl, even an adopted daughter, to keep house for an old bachelor like me. It is a preposterous idea, but the force of public opinion is like the symbol X, always handed when it is not wanted and never translatable into precise terms until the final solution."

"Well, I have come to the same conclusion myself," said Milly calmly. "What?" exclaimed Dr. Syntax. He had expected a scene, strife, war—and here was Milly calmly acquiescing in his decision. "But what are you going to do, my dear?" he continued. "I can't bear the thought of losing you."

"You needn't lose me," said Milly, with preternatural gravity, studying her plate. But even then there was a mischievous twinkle in her eyes.

"This is very strange, my dear," said Dr. Syntax. "You have accepted the public opinion as to the inadvisability of your remaining here as my housekeeper, and yet you say that I need not lose you. Logically, that implies that you could propose to remain here in some other capacity; and yet I fail to see what that could be, or how it could affect public opinion—"

"Which we have designated X," said Milly, raising her eyes to the professor for one fleeting moment. And in that moment the professor felt strangely disconcerted, and yet strangely glad. Unconsciously he threw back his spectacles.

"Well, my dear, suppose the variables are Y and Z," he said. "Now we have an indeterminate equation. X equals Y or Z multiplied by the unknown factor, which shall be N."

"Why not make it U?" asked Milly. "Make it U, Milly? The letter U is never used in mathematics except when the other letters of the alphabet have been almost exhausted."

"I should really prefer you to make 'U,' persisted Milly.

"Very well. U it shall be, then," said the professor.

"Oh, I'm afraid that would never do," Milly. But, seeing that the professor was only starting at her in perplexity, she resigned herself. "Very well! Go on," she said.

"It is obvious, then, that X equals YU or ZU," said Doctor Syntax, warring to his task.

"YU, I think," said Milly gravely.

"In that case," said the professor, X, the unknown factor, equals Y divided by U. Now, algebra helps us no more unless we can state U in positive terms. Now let E be the possibility of your remaining here in the capacity of secretary, let us say, and F the possibility of becoming—let us say—my stenographer. Then U equals—"

"YF," said Milly triumphantly.

"Eh?" asked Doctor Syntax. "No, my dear, it couldn't equal YF, because—"

"Then I shall go," said Milly, rising from her chair, and the professor was amazed to hear a strangled sob.

"Now, Milly," he said gravely, "really you women are very illogical. YF is impossible. Stop! Listen to me, Milly, before you go out of that door. I—"

Suddenly an amazing thought came into the professor's head. It was not an algebraical thought at all. And Milly, seeing the reflection of it upon the professor's face, halted, with her hand on the door-knob.

Doctor Syntax sprang toward her and clasped her in his arms. "Milly!" he cried. "I've—I've found my spectacles!"

(Copyright, 1914, by W. G. Chapman.)

SOME WITTY WEDDING TEXTS

Have Humor, Though None Can Rightly Deny Their Appropriateness to the Occasions.

Parson Turell, of Medford, who, to the reputed disappointment of many languishing maidens and aspiring mothers of his own parish, selected his wife, a very beautiful brunette, in another town, caused a stir of interest less devotional than human, when, leaving the lovely stranger seated, why, but conspicuous, in the ministerial pew, he ascended the high pulpit and gave out in rotund and challenging tones the text:

"I am black but comely, O ye daughters of Jerusalem!"

Another worthy pastor chose a text the application of which was not to his bride, but to himself. He was a small, elderly, rather wizened little man, already twice a widower; and it was common knowledge that he had recently proposed to, and been rejected by two of the prettiest and best dowered girls in the village. Undismayed by their rebuffs, he had sought further afield, and had finally been accepted by a widow, fair, fair, much more than forty, and far wealthier than anyone in his parish. His text was:

"Cast not away therefore your confidence, which hath great recompense of reward."

Perhaps the most amusingly apt of all recorded wedding texts was that selected by Abby Smith, the high-spirited daughter of Parson Smith, for him to preach from on the occasion of her marriage. She had married John Adams, in spite of the most vigorous paternal remonstrances; in fact, her reverend parent had been extremely rude to the young man, even after the affair was settled, and would not permit him to be invited to a meal in his house. Abby's choice, which speaks more for her wit than her devoutness, was:

"John— came, neither eating bread nor drinking wine; and ye say, he hath a devil."

How Loch Awe Was Formed. Highland tradition gives a quaint explanation of the creation of Loch Awe, that noble mirror of the mountains in the magnificent scenery of Argyllshire, Scotland. The bed of the loch was once, it is said, a fertile valley, with a fairy spring, which had always to be kept covered, bubbling from the mountain side. A careless girl, however, having drawn water, forgot to re-cover the well. All through the night the spring flowed and by the morning Loch Awe had come into being.

No one need regret the carelessness of that Highland lassie. Loch Awe is now one of the most exquisite of beauty spots in Great Britain—a charming sheet of water, studded with pretty islands, while around the shores are many places associated with interesting legends and historic incidents of the Highlands.

Human-Life Figures. "The value of human life isn't supposed to be figured in cold dollars," said a well-known builder, "but people don't generally know that in every big building erected in New York the price of human life is a consideration figured in the estimate. In a building of so many stories and of a certain sort of construction the contractors figure that a few workmen will be killed, and there will have to be a settlement with the families. Maybe no architects or contractors would admit that this is true, but it's a fact nevertheless."

Curiosity for Mother to See. After mother had laid a steak on a blissing hot pan and the air became too thick for comfort, little Marcia retreated to a safer distance, and as the sputtering did not diminish, her sense of caution finally sent her into the pantry. From this vantage ground, fascinated brown eyes peered forth at the volcanic action on the stove. Finding voice at last, the little one said: "Look, look, mother, at the great dust in the air."

HAS SLOW GROWTH

Mistletoe Develops Slowly in First Years of Existence.

Parasite Occurs on Wide Range of Trees and is Common on That of the Apple, but Rarely Appears on the Pear.

London.—The very slow growth made by the mistletoe plant in the first few years of its existence has been a cause of anxiety to those who have fondly hoped to grow large bunches of mistletoe in their gardens in a short space of time. In support of your correspondent's views I am sending a photograph showing two large bunches of mistletoe on a white-thorn, says a writer in Country Life. It is very curious, for the mistletoe is obviously older than the host plant. This, however, has been accomplished by removing the mistletoe with a portion of the tree on which it was growing and grafting upon the white-thorn. Your correspondent's success in growing mistletoe on the Glastonbury thorn raises the question of suitable host plants for the parasite. It is most often seen growing upon the apple, but in certain districts it is common on the poplar, while it is also found on hawthorn, willow, lime, maple, mountain ash, and even cedar of Lebanon and larch. There is a popular impression that mistletoe has a great liking for the oak. As a matter of fact, the two are very seldom found together, and the rare occurrence of mistletoe growing upon oak was held sacred by the Druids and regarded as a divine gift. A most singular thing concerning mistletoe is that, although it occurs on a wide range of trees and is so common on the apple, yet it is hardly ever found on the pear. The writer has never seen mistletoe on the pear, and such instances must be extremely rare. Attempts recently made to grow mistletoe on pear have led to such remarkable results that the subject has since been brought before the scientific committee of the Royal Horticultural society. Mistletoe seed was sown on a number of trees, and in many instances germination took place. In no case, however, did the mistletoe get beyond the stage of germination, and no leaves were made. The effect upon the pear was noticeable to establish itself killed the tissue of the tree stem just within the bark, completely encircling the stem, all growth being killed above the point where the mistletoe had germinated.

Mistletoe's Host Grafted on a White-thorn.

LITTLE GIRLS LOOT SAFES

Two Other Tender Children of Aberdeen, Wash., Had a Chance for Stolen Goods.

Aberdeen, Wash.—Wisa Gölka and Pauline Casperson, both under twelve years old, under arrest here have confessed to a burglary at the Pacific Fruit company's store, recently, when they took $45 from a safe which had been left unlocked.

Since then thefts of fruit have occurred regularly and a watch was placed in the building, with the result that the two girls, who had entered the building and were preparing to take fruit, were caught in the act. They confessed to other robberies. The girls have been doing petty pilfering for a long time.

Cecil and Carl Tougan, ten and twelve years old, whose parents abandoned them, were arrested in a vacant cottage in which considerable loot was located.

LIGHTNING BALKED BY ROPE

Saves Cow's Life After Bolt Had Melted Heavy Chain Holding Animal.

Lentsville, N. C.—Lightning perpetrated quite an unusual freak here during the electrical storm. Eardon Evans had a cow tied with a chain which had been lengthened with a piece of rope some three feet in length, and this piece of rope was fixed to the halter.

The lightning struck the post to which the chain was tied, completely shattering it, and followed the chain down to where the rope was fixed. The chain links were melted into a solid mass and could easily be broken apart with the hand.

The rope being attached to the only reason the cow escaped being killed instantly.

DIED WITH FORTUNE NEAR

Benjamin Vance, a Prospector, Fell Over Cliff After Discovering a Rich Mine.

Crestone, Colo.—That Benjamin Vance, prospector, whose body was found in a gully at the base of a hot-spring cliff, near Palo Alto, was killed after finding a rich mine, is the story of a recent tragedy.

ODD PLACE FOR YEAST CAKE

Young Lady's Peculiar Disposition of Household Article Made a Whirl of Trouble.

The abandonment of a young woman's cake at the home had recently caused a commotion in the family. The young lady, who had just returned from a visit to her mother, had about the house a cake which she had baked for her mother. The cake was found in the kitchen, and the young lady was asked to explain its presence there. She said she had baked it for her mother, but she had not had time to put it in the oven. The cake was found to be perfectly good, and the young lady was forgiven.

The young woman returned shortly and attempted to prove, in all kinds of ways, that she had left the yeast in the customary place, but really forgot what she had done with it. The family forgot about it until yesterday, when various remarks were made at the breakfast table about the disagreeable odor in the house. A plumber was put on the job in the morning, and after looking about all the stinks, declared that nothing could be the trouble in the plumbing line.

The real hunt was started with the other, who had planned on the ball game, doing all the heavy lifting and pushing the furniture about the house for fear that there might be something dead around.

The odor grew stronger as they neared the young woman's room, and after pulling out every drawer in the bureau and going through the various articles they finally found a small book which, when opened, revealed the entire trouble for, inside the cover of the book was a small piece of yeast which had been put there by the young woman.

GLASSES FITTED

—AT—

Smyth's Optical Parlors

Curing headaches, dizziness and all symptoms of eyestrain a specialty.

Repairing American and Imported Watches, Clock, Jewelry and Spectacles. Diamonds Reset.

W. E. SMYTH,

Plymouth Watchmaker and Optometrist. Dealer in Watches, Clocks and Jewelry. PLYMOUTH, MICH.

Disbrow Will Race at State Fair

LOUIS DISBROW, champion track driver of the world and recognized as one of the most daring racing pilots in America, is coming to the State Fair, Sept. 7-18. He will meet Rob Hurman, Eddie Hosnie and other speed marvels in what promises to be the greatest dirt track race that ever has been run.

M. A. C. OWES FOUNDING TO MICHIGAN STATE FAIR.

General Manager Dickinson Tells Interesting History of Institutions.

The Michigan Agricultural college, the foremost institution of its kind in the United States, owes its existence largely to the Michigan State Fair. It was founded five years after the first State Fair, in 1849, and after successive exhibitions of the state's agricultural products and of its possibilities had pointed the need.

"What a splendid thing this fair is; how it encourages men to raise better and larger crops and women to make their homes more pleasant to live in," said these pioneers. "But look at the acres there are left to drain, to cultivate and to bring to their fullest fruition. These are tasks for trained men, and in order to teach them we must have a school. The fair, then, will not only be an exhibition place for the state's products; it will be a means of showing to the people the scientific methods that are pursued there and what they are accomplishing."

And the action was suited to the word. The legislature, at the solicitation of Governor Hanson, the first president of the State Fair, and the directors of the State Agricultural society, passed an act creating the school. That the fair might carry out its demonstration program it was decreed that it should be held in cities in different portions of the state.

"And year after year the fair trotted about much as did the circuit riders when the state was young," says G. W. Dickinson, general manager.

"There wasn't much of a fair to move on the start, and this part of the plan worked pretty well. Along about 1860, however, it began to present many difficulties. "The directors found it too much of a job to put a $250,000 plant on wheels and send it across the state, especially as it was growing larger all the time. The improvement of transportation facilities made it too mountainous for the people to go to the mountain than for the reverse to be the case, and the permanent location at Detroit was chosen.

"The wisdom of the step soon became apparent. Buildings especially designed to house the stock and the other displays could be erected, the grounds could be beautified and the fair could become what its directors hoped it might be—a fitting exhibition of the state's progress."

Mrs. John Patterson Music Teacher

54 Penman Avenue R. E. COOPER, M.D., C.M. Physician & Surgeon, OFFICE OVER RICHES STORE, Bell Phone 46; Local 21.

Detroit United Lines

Plymouth Time Table Effective May 20, 1914 EAST BOUND For Detroit via Wayne 5:50 a.m. and every hour to 7:30 p.m.; also 9:44 p.m. and 11:35 p.m. at Jackson. NORTH BOUND Leave Plymouth for Northville 6:58 a.m. and every hour to 7:30 p.m.; also 9:44 p.m. and 11:35 p.m. Leave Detroit for Plymouth 6:30 a.m. and every hour to 7:30 p.m.; also 9:44 p.m. and 11:35 p.m. Leave Wayne for Plymouth 5:44 a.m. and every hour to 7:30 p.m.; also 9:44 p.m. and 11:35 p.m. Cars connect at Wayne for Ypsilanti and Pointe-aux-Lac.

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

Note These Points That Foley Kidney Pills are successful everywhere with all kidney and bladder troubles, including, backache, rheumatism, stiff and aching joints, because they are a true medicine, kidney pills that you cannot find any other without having paid for them. These pills make the kidneys and bladder healthy, and the body is able to get rid of the poisons that cause kidney trouble. For Sale by J. W. Bicknell & Company

NO DULL MOMENTS AT THE BIG FAIR THIS YEAR.

Circus Attractions to Present Acts in Front of Grand Stand.

If there is a dull moment at the State Fair this year it will not be the management's fault. Never before has so much attention been given to amusement features as this season, and to cap the sheet a program of free attractions will be given every afternoon and evening in front of the grand stand. These for the most part include spectacular acts which now are on tour with one or another of the great circuses. Briefly, they are as follows: The Seven Arabian Genios, whirlwind acrobats, who are making their first visit to this country; Shaw's one ring circus, a feature wherever it has been shown; the four DeKock brothers, French acrobats, now with the Hagenbeck & Wallace shows; the Five Flying Moores, a trapeze casting act, and the Casting Devils, acrobats. Edward R. Hutchins and his team of balloonists will make ascensions with four balloons, giving opportunity for four parachute leaps. The Fun Maker's Quartet will sing in the grand stand, and the Killies' band will furnish a selected program each afternoon and evening, interspersing highland dancing and dancing with the musical numbers.

A stage 50 by 40 feet will be erected directly in front of the grand stand, and upon this the acts will be presented. The fireworks displays will be different each evening, the taking of Vera Cruz by the United States marines being one of the features.

The vandels the acts will be sandwiched between the harness races during the afternoons and the different events of the horse show at night.

Rush Work on Hospital. The illness of Dr. E. B. Sulth, brigadier general of the National First Aid association who was to be in charge of the erection of the Clara Barton hospital at the State Fair grounds, has prevented the work from being started. The general manager Dickinson has taken the matter up with Dr. Smith's aids, however, and the construction will go forward at once. The building will be completed in June for use during the fair, the weeks of Sept. 7-18.

How the Trouble Starts. Constipation is the cause of many ailments and disorders that make life miserable. Take Chamberlain's Tablets, keep your bowels regular and you will avoid these diseases. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

THOUSAND CATTLE IN STATE FAIR'S STOCK EXHIBIT

Michigan's Rank as Dairy State Will Be Proved.

The cattle and dairy show at the Michigan State Fair this year will be truly representative of the place these allied activities occupy in the state's industrial life. From 700 to 1,000 cattle will be on exhibition, there being fully 400 of the distinctively dairy breeds. This is a greater showing by far than a Michigan fair has ever seen.

In addition to the premiums which are given for each class and which are 25 per cent greater than last year, the State Fair management offers $100 prizes for each fifty head of cattle shown by Michigan cattle breeders' societies. The Holstein breeders have been especially active in their acceptance of the offer, and the Livingston County, Central Michigan, Western Michigan and Eastern Michigan associations have each announced their intention of exhibiting at least half a hundred head. Similar acceptances have been received from Jersey and Guernsey breeders' associations, while Shorthorn breeders declare they are not to be counted out.

Two other dairy features of importance are announced. The Detroit milk show will be held in conjunction with the fair, and the September scoring contest of butter and cheese will be conducted by the state dairy and food department at the fair grounds. J. Fred Smith of Howell, member in charge of the department, and E. C. Kreib, chief milk inspector of Detroit, made the milk show announcement. Three silver cups and a silk banner will be awarded. A cup will be given for the best specimen of market milk, another for the best specimen of market cream and a third for the best specimen of certified milk. The banner will go to the distributor having the highest score in the show.

A representative of the United States department of agriculture will score the exhibits, and competition will be open to milk distributors and dairymen throughout Michigan. The scoring will be upon the basis of bacteria, flavor and odor, visible dirt, butter fat, solids not fat, acidity and appearance of package.

"It may be said that only within the past fifteen years has dairying been recognized in Michigan as a specialized business," says George H. Brownell, superintendent of the dairy department. Michigan Agricultural college created a dairy department, whose duty it was to instruct the farmers of Michigan in the growing of crops for feeding dairy cattle, the handling of dairy herds for profitable production and the breeding of pure bred dairy cattle.

"Instead of teaching farmers to raise crops of wheat, rye, barley and corn to be sold to the elevator man in the neighboring village the dairy department officials at the college urged the farmers to grow such crops as could be fed to dairy cattle. Silage corn and alfalfa are the principal crops of this kind, and the result of feeding them to a herd of dairy cows is one that comes very close to realizing the inventor's dream—a perpetual motion machine. The fertility of the farm is increased instead of diminished, and the products of the dairy in the form of milk, butter fat and surplus stock always command a ready cash market at a profitable price.

"In the fall of 1912 the present dairy building was completed as a home and headquarters for dairymen who attend the fair. This year it will be made more easily accessible by the construction of a wide cement walk from the rear of the cattle sheds to the door of the demonstration barn. Other improvements of material value also are being considered."

Subscribe for the Mail now. Keep Your Liver Active During the Summer Months—Foley Cathartic Tablets for Stagnant Liver and Constipation. It does not act how quickly Foley Cathartic Tablets live your liver and cleanse your system. For Sale by J. W. Bicknell & Company

Grave Oversight. Hank—"Yes; Kelley's been under bonds to keep the peace for some time." Bill—"I wish I'd known. I've missed several fine chances to call him a liar!"

Primary Election Notice

Notice is hereby given that a primary election will be held in the township of Plymouth, county of Wayne, at the village hall, in the village of Plymouth, on Tuesday, August 25th, for all political parties, at which the following officers are to be nominated, viz: A Governor and Lieutenant Governor. Two Judges of Probate, Sheriff, County Treasurer, County Clerk, Register of Deeds, Prosecuting Attorney, Two Circuit Court Commissioners, Two Coroners, County Surveyor, County Road Commissioner, County Drain Commissioner and Delegates to county convention.

A Representative in Congress for the Second Congressional District of this State of which this township is a part. A State Senator for the First Senatorial District of this State of which this township is a part.

A Representative to the State Legislature for the Third Representative District, of which this township is a part. Section 28, Primary Law, provides that any enrolled voter may re-enroll on any primary election day as a member of a New Political Party, and all qualified electors not enrolled with any political party may be enrolled on any primary election day as a member of a New Political Party.

The Polls of said Election will be open at 7 o'clock a. m. and will remain open until 5 o'clock p. m. of said day of Election. Dated this 13th day of August, 1912. HOWARD BROWN, Township Clerk.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, county of Wayne ss. At a session of the Probate Court for said county of Wayne, held at the Probate Court room in the city of Detroit, on the 13th day of August in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen. Present, Henry S. Hulbert, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of William J. Wright, an alleged mentally incompetent person. On reading and filing the petition of Henry R. Wright praying that he or some other suitable person be appointed guardian of the person and estate of said William J. Wright. It is ordered, That the eighth day of September next, at two o'clock in the afternoon, at said court room, be appointed for hearing said petition. And it is further ordered, That a copy of this order be published three successive weeks previous to said time of hearing, in the Plymouth Mail a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Wayne; and also personally served fourteen days previous to said time of hearing upon Charles W. Wright, Walter Wright, Isaac D. Wright, Mary T. Hough, Ella A. Wright and Viola Taylor. HENRY S. HULBERT, Judge of Probate. Chas. C. Chadwick, Probate Clerk.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, county of Wayne ss. At a session of the Probate Court for said county of Wayne held at the Probate Court Room in the city of Detroit on the twenty-second day of July in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen. Present, Stewart Hanley, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Emily L. Barber deceased. Samuel E. Campbell, executor of the last will and testament of said deceased, having rendered to this court his final administration account and filed therewith his petition praying that the residue of said estate be assigned to the persons entitled thereto. It is ordered, That the first day of September next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said Court Room, be appointed for examining and allowing said account and hearing said petition. And it is further ordered, That a copy of this order be published three successive weeks previous to said time of hearing in the Plymouth Mail a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Wayne. STEWART HANLEY, Judge of Probate. Chas. C. Chadwick, Probate Clerk.

"THE BUSINESS WORLD"

Is the title of a very interesting publication which explains certain facts about the work of the well known DETROIT BUSINESS UNIVERSITY. Let us forward a copy of the latest issue to you. Send us a postal request by return mail. Address, E. R. Shaw, President, 65 West Grand River Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

Steam and Hot Water Heating

Round Oak Warm Air Furnaces

Geo. E. Humphries

Plumber and Tinner

Phone 275W Plymouth, Mich.

Eave Trough, Conductor Pipe, Tin, Copper and Sheet Metal Work.

For Representative in Congress Second District

MARK R. BACON

Mark your ballot where it says Mark—that is where it says:

MARK R. BACON

My name will be in first column of your ballot, mark it where it says Mark:

MARK R. BACON

I ask for your vote and will appreciate your help. Primary Election, August 25.

MARK R. BACON

I stand for a well based and scientific investigation. Our best still stands the working class, the farmer and the people generally, and a policy that will build up the country.

Nice, Large, Lumpy Coal for Threshing.

Plymouth Coal & Lumber Co.

CHAS. MATHER, Sec. & Manager

Osborne Corn Binders.

The Best in the World. We Sell Them. GAYDE & Co. North Village.

At The New Meat Market

You Can Get the Choicest Cuts of

Fresh and Salt Meats

Try our Home-made Sausage. It is fine. Try our Pure Home-rendered Lard and you will use no other.

PHONE US YOUR ORDERS.

WILLIAM STRENG

Local Phone 90-F2 Free Delivery

Works Like Gas Lights Instantly

You simply light the burners, set the cooking on and the stove does the work without attention. So simple you can hardly believe it, and yet with all the improvements in other lines, why should there not be improvements in gasoline or oil stoves. There has been and are the result. So simple. Not even a wick or asbestos ring used. These stoves will save you many gallons of gasoline or oil during the year. You should have one in your kitchen. The prices are so reasonable that everybody can have one. Call on us as we will be pleased to show you these splendid stoves.

"Detroit" Vapor Gasoline or Oil Stoves

Simply Light the Burner Works Like Gas Lights Instantly.

The Conner Hardware Co. Limited

Central Meat Market

Call Central Meat Market, phone 23, for

Choice Meats,

Smoked Meats of all Kinds, Home Made Bologna and Sausages.

Try them and you won't eat any other.

FRANK RAMBO, Manager

80TH PHONES FREE DELIVERY

The Ambition of Mark Truitt

BY HENRY RUSSELL MILLER

Author of "THE MAN HIGHER UP," "HIS RISE TO POWER," ETC.

Copyright, 1913, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company

SYNOPSIS.

Mark Truitt, encouraged by his sweet-heart, Unity, leaves Bethel, his native town, to seek his fortune. Simon Truitt tells Mark that it long has been his dream to see a steel plant at Bethel and asks the son to return and build one if he ever gets rich. Mark applies to Thomas Henley, head of the Quincy Iron Works, for a job and is sent to the construction gang. His success in that work leads to a job as helper to Roman Kuzniak, open-heart furnaceman. He becomes a boarder in Roman's home and marries Unity, Roman's son, in his studies. Unity, an adopted daughter, shows her gratitude in such a manner as to arouse Mark's interest in her. Her work in the intense heat of the furnace causes Mark to collapse and Kasza cares for him. Later Roman also succumbs and Mark gets his job. Roman resents this and asks Mark to find another boarding place. Five years elapse during which Mark has advanced to the foremanship, while his labor-saving devices have made him invaluable to the company. In the meantime, Kasza has married one Jim Whiting. Mark meets with an accident which causes him to be a cripple for life. He returns to Bethel intending to stay there. He finds Unity about to marry another man and writes her a letter. Unity begs him to return to his work in the city. Mark, desirous of wealth and honor in the steel business, but the social ambitions of his wife make their married life unhappy. Her interests are secretly anxious to get hold of stock in the Quincy Iron company, supposed to be worthless. Timothy Woodhouse seeks financial assistance from Mark and the latter buys Woodhouse's Quincy stock at a small figure. Henley forces Quincy to let Mark have stock in the Quincy company, through a threat that if he does not he will lose both of them.

CHAPTER XV—Continued.

It was the less satisfying because he foresaw the end of a chapter. He had spent himself in body—he was no longer capable of long intense application. He had fallen back upon the luxury of rest, drugs, in mind—the creative faculty seemed dead, that very morning a young man in the mills had announced an important invention that was to have been Truitt's masterpiece and upon which his sterile brain had labored in vain; in soul—he could no longer dream. And for reward he had—the dry fact of a triumph he could not sense and the prospect of an empty, useless, discontented future.

He was a critic, you see; but not of himself. The world was out of joint.

Passers-by were diverted from their own cares by the sight of a well-dressed man stamping his cane on the pavement and muttering aloud: "An evil fate pursues me. Other men like as I do, desire as I desire and find content. Why can't I be contented—and happy?"

A thousand faces streamed past him, unrecognized and unrecognizing. Then at a corner where two currents crossed each other, appeared one that seemed oddly familiar. It was of an undistinguished homeliness, pasty pale, morose, matching well the general shabbiness of its owner. At first Mark, confused by the dirty brown beard, did not recognize him.

The man had no doubts. At sight of Mark an evil glitter sprang into the sullen eyes.

"You!"

By the hate that had lived through fifteen years Mark placed him.

"Peter Andrejzski!"

"Peter Anderson," the man corrected him.

"That's a good American name. I'd forgotten you had a preference." Mark smiled and held out a friendly hand.

"How are you, Peter Anderson?"

The hand was ignored. When Peter Anderson sneered, his homeliness became almost grotesque.

"Since you're so interested, I manage to keep alive."

"How do you manage it?"

"I'm a compositor on the Outcry—when there's any money for an issue."

"The Outcry?"

"You'll hear of it yet. It's the paper of our Cause."

Mark knew of but one cause that employed the capital "Socialism, I suppose." He smiled indulgently. "I hope it's in funds sufficiently often."

"I look it, don't I?"

The answer was so obvious that Mark smiled at it. "How," he asked readily, "is Roman?"

"He breathes and sleeps and eats. He's dead."

"Is that a Socialist parable? I'm not a Socialist, so you'll have to explain it."

"His mind's gone. It began to go after you stole his job. But probably you've forgotten that, too."

"I have no recollection," said Mark calmly, "of any such occurrence. With my mind, he passed on."

"I don't see that a few years when you stole his job. Peter, instead of allowing pedestrians, was at the corner, staring at him."

"I have never turned and retraced my steps."

"You're sure of that?"

"Absolutely. His estate will never push it to trial."

"Then settle it."

him and Hanka dependent upon Piotr's scanty and uncertain earnings.

"Where," Mark asked, as they entered the bank, "do you live now?"

"Rose Alley,"

"Rose Alley!" Mark stopped short. "My God!"

"That does your sort know of it?" "Quite enough. Come along."

A few minutes later they were in the street again, Piotr the richer by the sum he had asked.

They stood facing each other—the strong man who had conquered and the inefficient, one of life's guerrillas, who had just taken of the strong man's largesse. But the inefficient was not grateful; a hundred dollars could not conquer his hatred.

"I s'pose," he sneered, "you want me to thank you?"

"No. If you need more, come to me. And see here, Piotr, I want you to get Roman and your mother away from Rose Alley."

"You want—" The money in his pocket, Piotr threw craft to the winds.

"What have you to do with us? Do you s'pose we'd let you help us?"

"But you took—"

Piotr chuckled—a chuckle of triumphant malice. "Did you think it was for us?" The chuckle grew into a laugh, as though he pondered some mammoth jest. "You—you—have just paid for the next issue of the Outcry!"

He wheeled and went haltingly away. Mark watched him until he turned a corner.

"Poor devil!" Mark shook his head pityingly. "He's mad."

It was not Mark's habit to waste precious hours wandering the crowded city streets in introspective meditation. He now went to the appointment with his lawyer to keep which he had left Henley.

It was a long and tedious consultation, having to do with a big real estate deal in which Truitt had shown his customary shrewdness. He displayed little interest. More than once Shirley, the lawyer, had to recall his straying attention. Shirley was astonished at this; his client was notable for his concentration on the matter in hand. He would have been even more deeply astonished, could he have looked upon the picture that lurked away Mark's thoughts. But then, for him and Hanka dependent upon Piotr's scanty and uncertain earnings.

"Where," Mark asked, as they entered the bank, "do you live now?"

"Rose Alley,"

"Rose Alley!" Mark stopped short. "My God!"

"That does your sort know of it?" "Quite enough. Come along."

A few minutes later they were in the street again, Piotr the richer by the sum he had asked.

They stood facing each other—the strong man who had conquered and the inefficient, one of life's guerrillas, who had just taken of the strong man's largesse. But the inefficient was not grateful; a hundred dollars could not conquer his hatred.

"I s'pose," he sneered, "you want me to thank you?"

"No. If you need more, come to me. And see here, Piotr, I want you to get Roman and your mother away from Rose Alley."

"You want—" The money in his pocket, Piotr threw craft to the winds.

"What have you to do with us? Do you s'pose we'd let you help us?"

"But you took—"

Piotr chuckled—a chuckle of triumphant malice. "Did you think it was for us?" The chuckle grew into a laugh, as though he pondered some mammoth jest. "You—you—have just paid for the next issue of the Outcry!"

He wheeled and went haltingly away. Mark watched him until he turned a corner.

"Poor devil!" Mark shook his head pityingly. "He's mad."

It was not Mark's habit to waste precious hours wandering the crowded city streets in introspective meditation. He now went to the appointment with his lawyer to keep which he had left Henley.

It was a long and tedious consultation, having to do with a big real estate deal in which Truitt had shown his customary shrewdness. He displayed little interest. More than once Shirley, the lawyer, had to recall his straying attention. Shirley was astonished at this; his client was notable for his concentration on the matter in hand. He would have been even more deeply astonished, could he have looked upon the picture that lurked away Mark's thoughts. But then, for him and Hanka dependent upon Piotr's scanty and uncertain earnings.

"Where," Mark asked, as they entered the bank, "do you live now?"

"Rose Alley,"

"Rose Alley!" Mark stopped short. "My God!"

"That does your sort know of it?" "Quite enough. Come along."

A few minutes later they were in the street again, Piotr the richer by the sum he had asked.

They stood facing each other—the strong man who had conquered and the inefficient, one of life's guerrillas, who had just taken of the strong man's largesse. But the inefficient was not grateful; a hundred dollars could not conquer his hatred.

"I s'pose," he sneered, "you want me to thank you?"

"No. If you need more, come to me. And see here, Piotr, I want you to get Roman and your mother away from Rose Alley."

"You want—" The money in his pocket, Piotr threw craft to the winds.

"What have you to do with us? Do you s'pose we'd let you help us?"

"But you took—"

Piotr chuckled—a chuckle of triumphant malice. "Did you think it was for us?" The chuckle grew into a laugh, as though he pondered some mammoth jest. "You—you—have just paid for the next issue of the Outcry!"

He wheeled and went haltingly away. Mark watched him until he turned a corner.

He groped and stumbled up two flights of stairs that groaned protestingly under his tread. He found a door and knocked. It opened. . . . For a full minute, speechless, he stared at the woman who stood on the threshold.

CHAPTER XVI.

Glowing Embers.

The figure silhouetted in the doorway was one to make men dream, full curved, strong with the strength of women whose forebears have always toiled, yet without heaviness; it was the strength that lies in quality, not in bulk.

She looked at him steadily, showing no surprise. And by that he read that she had learned to take life, its coincidences and its climaxes as they came, calmly, without loss of poise.

"Rose Alley!" Mark stopped short. "My God!"

"That does your sort know of it?" "Quite enough. Come along."

A few minutes later they were in the street again, Piotr the richer by the sum he had asked.

They stood facing each other—the strong man who had conquered and the inefficient, one of life's guerrillas, who had just taken of the strong man's largesse. But the inefficient was not grateful; a hundred dollars could not conquer his hatred.

"I s'pose," he sneered, "you want me to thank you?"

"No. If you need more, come to me. And see here, Piotr, I want you to get Roman and your mother away from Rose Alley."

"You want—" The money in his pocket, Piotr threw craft to the winds.

"What have you to do with us? Do you s'pose we'd let you help us?"

"But you took—"

Piotr chuckled—a chuckle of triumphant malice. "Did you think it was for us?" The chuckle grew into a laugh, as though he pondered some mammoth jest. "You—you—have just paid for the next issue of the Outcry!"

He wheeled and went haltingly away. Mark watched him until he turned a corner.

"Poor devil!" Mark shook his head pityingly. "He's mad."

It was not Mark's habit to waste precious hours wandering the crowded city streets in introspective meditation. He now went to the appointment with his lawyer to keep which he had left Henley.

It was a long and tedious consultation, having to do with a big real estate deal in which Truitt had shown his customary shrewdness. He displayed little interest. More than once Shirley, the lawyer, had to recall his straying attention. Shirley was astonished at this; his client was notable for his concentration on the matter in hand. He would have been even more deeply astonished, could he have looked upon the picture that lurked away Mark's thoughts. But then, for him and Hanka dependent upon Piotr's scanty and uncertain earnings.

"Where," Mark asked, as they entered the bank, "do you live now?"

"Rose Alley,"

"Rose Alley!" Mark stopped short. "My God!"

"That does your sort know of it?" "Quite enough. Come along."

A few minutes later they were in the street again, Piotr the richer by the sum he had asked.

They stood facing each other—the strong man who had conquered and the inefficient, one of life's guerrillas, who had just taken of the strong man's largesse. But the inefficient was not grateful; a hundred dollars could not conquer his hatred.

"I s'pose," he sneered, "you want me to thank you?"

"No. If you need more, come to me. And see here, Piotr, I want you to get Roman and your mother away from Rose Alley."

"You want—" The money in his pocket, Piotr threw craft to the winds.

"What have you to do with us? Do you s'pose we'd let you help us?"

"But you took—"

Piotr chuckled—a chuckle of triumphant malice. "Did you think it was for us?" The chuckle grew into a laugh, as though he pondered some mammoth jest. "You—you—have just paid for the next issue of the Outcry!"

He wheeled and went haltingly away. Mark watched him until he turned a corner.

"Poor devil!" Mark shook his head pityingly. "He's mad."

It was not Mark's habit to waste precious hours wandering the crowded city streets in introspective meditation. He now went to the appointment with his lawyer to keep which he had left Henley.

It was a long and tedious consultation, having to do with a big real estate deal in which Truitt had shown his customary shrewdness. He displayed little interest. More than once Shirley, the lawyer, had to recall his straying attention. Shirley was astonished at this; his client was notable for his concentration on the matter in hand. He would have been even more deeply astonished, could he have looked upon the picture that lurked away Mark's thoughts. But then, for him and Hanka dependent upon Piotr's scanty and uncertain earnings.

"Where," Mark asked, as they entered the bank, "do you live now?"

"Rose Alley,"

"Rose Alley!" Mark stopped short. "My God!"

"That does your sort know of it?" "Quite enough. Come along."

A few minutes later they were in the street again, Piotr the richer by the sum he had asked.

They stood facing each other—the strong man who had conquered and the inefficient, one of life's guerrillas, who had just taken of the strong man's largesse. But the inefficient was not grateful; a hundred dollars could not conquer his hatred.

"I s'pose," he sneered, "you want me to thank you?"

"No. If you need more, come to me. And see here, Piotr, I want you to get Roman and your mother away from Rose Alley."

"You want—" The money in his pocket, Piotr threw craft to the winds.

"What have you to do with us? Do you s'pose we'd let you help us?"

"But you took—"

Piotr chuckled—a chuckle of triumphant malice. "Did you think it was for us?" The chuckle grew into a laugh, as though he pondered some mammoth jest. "You—you—have just paid for the next issue of the Outcry!"

He wheeled and went haltingly away. Mark watched him until he turned a corner.

"Poor devil!" Mark shook his head pityingly. "He's mad."

It was not Mark's habit to waste precious hours wandering the crowded city streets in introspective meditation. He now went to the appointment with his lawyer to keep which he had left Henley.

quately. "The Matka loves her son. I'll ask her."

She turned to Hanka and for several minutes the two women talked earnestly in their native tongue. Hanka shook her head continuously.

"She says," Kasza returned to Mark. "Piotr wouldn't like it."

Hanka interrupted, laying a hand on Kasza's arm and looking anxiously toward the door. Kasza nodded.

"She says also," she interpreted again, "that we'd better go. It's most time for Piotr to come home. She's right."

"I think," Mark answered, "I'll stay, since I'm here, and have this out with Piotr."

"You'd better not." Her swift glance seemed to measure his physical frailty. "Piotr's temper is uncertain. He found me here once and drove me out. It's the gloom could not quite hide the color that surged into her cheeks. "It wasn't nice."

"I'm sorry for them, but just the same, since I've started, I'll see this through and wait for Piotr."

"No, you'd better not," she repeated with cold emphasis. "You can prove your inflexibility in some other way. Piotr is apt to have been drinking and if his temper is stirred up, he'll make them suffer." She nodded toward Hanka and Roman. "Really, you're quite helpless in the matter."

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"I seem to be," he laughed shortly, to conceal a disappointment as undefined as the emotion set stirring by the sight of his old friends. "But, at least, I can leave some money."

But she shut him off from this, too. "No. What money they can use without Piotr's knowing of it, I can furnish."

He limped stiffly toward the door, more hurt than he was willing to admit to himself by the rebuff and the failure of his impulsive mission.

"There's nothing to tell—say more than there is about you."

"That is, you're not interested in what has happened to me. You're frank."

"Because a chance has thrown us together for an hour is no reason for us to pretend an interest neither of us can feel."

"You may speak for yourself, please. At least, we can all the wheels of circumstance by going through the polite forms. You could smile very graciously on my man Felix, but to me—"

He broke off with a short laugh. "History has a way of repeating itself. I remember saying something of the sort to you once before. Of course, you've forgotten."

"I forget—nothing."

"Ah!" He turned quickly to her again. "Then I did do you harm."

"I can't see."

"It follows," he interrupted. "If I had done you no harm, you would remember charitably, not coldly or worse, and you would be at least as cordial to me as to my groom."

"Now it is you," she answered after a thoughtful pause, "who will not let me off the wheels. Probably what you

"Nothing. And quit taking drama. "But," habit protested, "I can't do nothing."

Local News

Oliver Wingard continues poorly. Primary election Tuesday, August 25th.

Clarence Carpenter of Wayne, was in Plymouth Saturday.

Edgar Peck of Detroit, visited at C. L. Wilcox's over Sunday.

Mrs. Fletcher of Detroit, visited Mrs. J. V. Horan Wednesday.

Mrs. Chas. Olds and guests visited friends at Salem last Friday.

W. C. Brown was in Port Huron on business the first of the week.

Mrs. Harry Farewell is confined to her home on account of illness.

Orlo Brown of Detroit, was an over Sunday visitor at Wm. Glympe's.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams visited friends at Ypsilanti over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wirt Lee of Detroit, visited at Geo. Lee's over Sunday.

James Dunn of Detroit, visited relatives in town Saturday and Sunday.

Edward Thomas has purchased Emil Shilling's residence on Harvey street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rathbun of Detroit, were Plymouth visitors Saturday.

Work on the new Penniman avenue pavement was commenced this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Williams of Detroit, visited relatives here over Sunday.

Mrs. Chas. Liverance and daughter Dora of Livonia, are visiting friends here.

C. M. Maltry has moved into Mrs. Henry Andrews new house on Depot street.

Mrs. Maude Harner of Detroit, visited her niece, Miss Ruby Williams over Sunday.

Rev. A. L. Bell and family are enjoying a visit with Mrs. Bell's father at North Adams.

Miss Clara Wolfe of Detroit, is spending her vacation with her sister Mrs. Wm. Gayde.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Patterson and little son of Detroit, visited relatives here over Sunday.

Mrs. O. F. Peters and children of Wayne, were visitors at Rev. J. J. Roekle's last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Howell and children have returned home from a two weeks' stay at Sage Lake.

Vote for Thomas F. Farrell for county clerk on the Republican ticket at the primaries, August 25.—Adv.

Mrs. Fite and daughter Helen of Norwalk, Ohio, were over Sunday guests at Mrs. W. O. Allen's.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rauch left last Monday on a week's boat trip to Mackinac and other northern resorts.

Leave orders before August 25th for Peonies, Tulips, Dahodills and Narcissus bulbs. Cora Pelham, phone 35-34.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rauch were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Dibble at Walled Lake over Sunday.

Miss Bessie Hood has returned home from Bay View where she has been staying for several weeks past.

Mr. and Mrs. Adna Burnett and daughters Alva and Doris visited friends at Argonne last Sunday.

Mrs. B. J. Austin and little son of Argonne, were guests at A. G. Burnett's the latter part of last week.

Elsie Gayde, who has been staying with her sun at Spring Lake for the past few weeks, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Will McArthur and children of Alberta, Canada, are visiting at Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Torre's this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wynan Bartlett and little son Kenneth have returned home from a few days' visit with friends at Ypsilanti.

Household goods, automobile accessories, single carriage and harness at Robinson's auction, Saturday, August 29th, at 2 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Smith and daughters visited friends at Island Lake last Sunday. Mrs. Smith remaining over for a few days.

The Misses Uma Willett and Camilla Glass returned home Saturday from a week's visit with friends at Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Dougherty and children who have been visiting friends here have returned to their home at Elkhart, Ind.

Mr. John Olaver, Miss Marguerite Hough and Maxwell Moon were guests of Miss Hazel Conner at Walled Lake last Sunday.

Henry Ammon of Detroit, accompanied Ross Willett home for a week-end visit with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Willett.

Mrs. W. Chase and Mrs. Geo. Hillmer of Detroit, and Mrs. Louis Kruger and daughter of Chicago, were guests of Mrs. Chas. Olds last week Thursday.

George White, Sr., Elmer Toncray, Tony McHale and O. H. Loomis have been drawn as circuit court jurors for the September and October term of court.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rabbo and children, Mrs. Etta Stiff and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pettinall were guests at the Patterson-Blue cottage at Walled Lake last Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Hugh Ronald of Thornstown, Indiana, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Burrows for a few days. Mr. Ronald was formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church of this village.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bradford have returned to their home at Cleveland, Ohio, after a few weeks' visit with relatives in Detroit and Plymouth. Mrs. Bradford will be remembered as Miss Jeannette Vrooman.

Washington Eldeberry of Jackson, visited at H. C. Hager's last week and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Engstrom of Woodland, Berry county, spent the week-end at Detroit, visiting with the party and a pleasant sojourn on Thursday.

Urged to Run.

Citizens' Committee Present W. H. Green With Petition

Wm. H. Green, Jr. Chief Clerk in the County Auditors' office, received from the Citizens' Committee the following handsome endorsement which decided him to make the race for County Clerk: Wm. H. Green, Jr., 201 Chandler Ave., City.

The undersigned Citizens' Committee, acting in behalf of the True Blue Republicans of Detroit, and all patriotic citizens of Wayne County, herewith presents to you a petition and urges you to run for County Clerk. Whilst we regret that it was impossible for us to canvass the townships for signatures on this petition, yet we believe that the voters of the townships of Wayne County are in a hearty accord with us and will welcome this action.

Yours respectfully,
The Citizens' Central Committee.
Mr. Green is known as a staunch Republican and has made two campaigns for this office before and feels that the people will reward him this time with the nomination. Mr. Green's experience in the County Auditors' office makes him well qualified for the office to which he aspires. He says that if elected he will give the people a good clean business administration.—Adv.

Wayne's big home-coming takes place next Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 26-27. A fine program has been prepared. Everybody go.

Home Coming at Wayne August 26-27

Wayne's big home-coming takes place next Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 26-27. A fine program has been prepared. Everybody go.

Wants, For Sale, To Rent, etc.
See per Line, One Insertion

FOR SALE First class cement building blocks. T. F. Chilson. 33-74
FOR SALE—A good chicken house. Enquire Mrs. L. C. Hough. 35-44
For Rent—Four house keeping rooms. Enquire of Mrs. A. D. Ford. 2t

FOR SALE—A number of desirable lots fronting south Main street. Enquire of Wm. Sutherland. Phone 242-F11. 37-4t

For Sale—About 40 lots in the new Walled Lake sub-division 50x150 feet. All lots have access to the lake and are all desirable for cottage purposes. Prices $100 and up. Write or phone J. W. Hawthorne, Redford, Mich., Phone No. 15. 35-4w.

For Sale—A good house and lot on Harvey street. E. N. Passeeage. 35t.

LOST—A ginger colored kitten. Reward if returned to Thelma Vivian Peck. Care of Dr. Peck.

FOR SALE—A Federal Truck, one ton, in good shape, for sale cheap if quick deal. Call Cadillac 5877, Detroit, or for demonstration call at 341 Fourth avenue, Detroit.

Probate Notice.
At a session of the Probate Court for said county of Wayne, held at the Probate Court Room in the city of Detroit, on the seventeenth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, present, Henry S. Hulbert, Judge of Probate, in the matter of the estate of Frank Kubik, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition duly verified of John Kubik, administrator of said estate, praying that he may be licensed to sell certain real estate of said deceased for the purpose of paying the debts of said deceased and the charges of administering said estate. It is ordered, that the fifteenth day of April next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said Court Room, be appointed for hearing said petition, and that all persons interested in said estate appear before said Court at said time and place, to show cause why a license should not be granted to said administrator to sell real estate as prayed for in said petition. And it is further ordered, that a copy of this order be published three consecutive weeks previous to said time of hearing in the Plymouth Mail, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Wayne.

HENRY S. HULBERT, Judge of Probate
Charles C. Chadwick, Probate Clerk.

LAST GOOD OPPORTUNITY TO SEE G. A. R.
The Forty-eight Annual National Encampment of the Republic will be held at Detroit, August 31st to September 5, 1914 and the Citizens Committee on Arrangements has prepared an elaborate program for the entertainment of the honored veterans of the nation. This may be the last opportunity that Michigan people will have of cheering the survivors of the great conflict, certainly it is the most opportune occasion.

Attend the Big Parade Wednesday, September 8

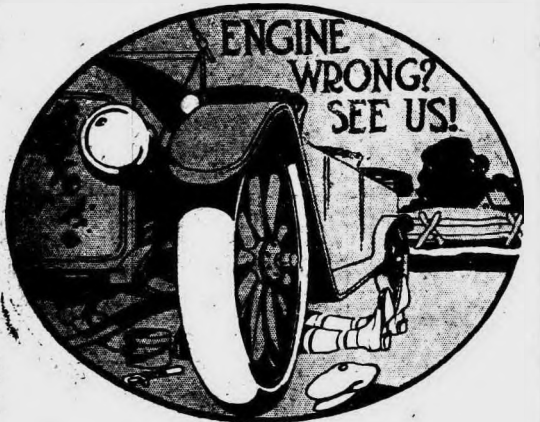

Pure Michigan Railroad will afford the most convenient service from all Michigan points. For full particulars consult your nearest Pure Michigan Ticket Agent.

W. E. WOLFENDEN, General Passenger Agent

Farmers of Experience Want Corn Binder Satisfaction. The McCormick Corn Binder is Built for Such Farmers. Call and let us demonstrate the famous McCormick Corn Binder. You will want no other.

OPPOSITE PARK D. L. DEY TELEPHONE 336

We employ only the very best automobile mechanics. They are skilled and trustworthy workers.

You will be sure to get satisfactory service if you come to us when your engine goes wrong. Our charges are very reasonable.

We pride ourselves upon conducting a first class garage, where you can feel that you are being treated right.

We want your work, but not at the expense of your friendship.

PLYMOUTH MICH Bonafide Mfg. Co.

Success Awaits You
Business men of Detroit are in need of capable stenographers, bookkeepers and general office assistants. Qualify through study at

The Business Institute
Institute Bldg., 163-169 Cass Avenue, Detroit

The Institute is the largest, best equipped business school in Michigan. Its success is the result of efficient service to its students. Write for beautiful illustrated catalog.

HOME COMING at WAYNE

AUGUST 26 and 27, 1914

Under the Direction of Nankin Lodge No. 396

There is nothing being spared to make these two days the most interesting two days of sports that have ever been put on at any Home-Coming anywhere.

SPEAKERS of great talent have been chosen to deliver short addresses.

TWO BRASS BANDS will furnish music from early morning until late in the evening.

The large band will furnish ample enjoyment for those who wish to dance.

A beautiful boat parade of the Business Men has been arranged for Wednesday and will start north at 10 o'clock in front of the M. C. Ry. Depot; will go north on Monroe Ave. to Main St., east to Third St., north on Third to Michigan Ave., west on Michigan Ave. to Biddle St., south on Biddle to starting point. Parade will be led by the Bands.

All Business Plays will be Most Elaborately Decorated and Trimmed for the occasion.

Base Ball and Base Ball will be the Big Attractions in the forenoon each day after the Small Sports are over with in the Park.

One Hundred (100) Trimmed Autos will be in the Trimmed Auto Parade on Thursday at 10 o'clock, starting at the same place the parade of the previous day, for which liberal prizes will be given for the best trimmed auto; also the most complete trimmed auto.

The Cotton Degree team of Detroit will give a Dress Drill Parade each day. This will be the finest Drill ever witnessed by the thousands that will attend this Home-Coming.

Ballroom dancing each day at 8 o'clock with Parachute Drop from the Base Truck.

The Works Thursday Evening promise to be the best that have ever been shown, as they will contain many new features that have never been shown before as they are made especially for the occasion.

Don't miss anything that we are advertising, for everything will be as advertised, weather permitting.

L. O. Q. F. Home Coming Committee

DR. A. E. PATTERSON
Office and Residence, 128 Main Street, Plymouth, Mich.

DR. W. FRED DODSLEY
DENTIST
Office and Residence 128 Main Street, Plymouth, Mich.

Robert Jolliffe has returned from his western trip.
Mrs. Dan Baker is quite ill at this writing.
Ed. Bowman is building a new house on Mill street.
Morris Fullerton visited friends in Detroit last Sunday.
Carl Stever of Detroit, visited his parents over Sunday.
Mrs. Lucie Smith is visiting friends in Tecumseh this week.
Miss Ella Jackson visited friends in Detroit last Sunday.
Fred Weller is building a new residence on Deer street.
Ross Willett is spending his vacation at Benton Harbor and Chicago.
Miss Maude Gracen of Salem, visited friends here the first of the week.
Frances Gill of Ann Arbor, is visiting Miss Ruth Huston this week.
Mrs. Fannie VanZile of Detroit, visited friends in town this week.
Mr. James Cook of Ann Arbor, visited at Lee Nowland's last Sunday.
Mrs. Wm. Travis and daughter Marjorie are visiting in Detroit this week.
Mrs. Herbert Baker of Lansing, has been visiting friends in town this week.
Elizabeth and Margaret Deland of Detroit, are visiting Mrs. Hulda Knapp.
All goods positively sold to the highest bidder at Robby's sale, Saturday, August 29.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Wills of Grand Rapids, are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wills and other friends.
Mrs. Ira Barr of Chattanooga, Tenn., visited Mrs. Warren Thomas last Sunday.
Mrs. Wm. Hoops and little daughter of Flint, are visiting friends in town this week.
Mrs. Anna Bromm of Berlin, Ont., was a guest of Mrs. Warren Thomas last week.
Bert Rivers is building an extensive addition to his home on York street in north village.
Miss Ella Patterson will leave Saturday for a two weeks' vacation at Walled Lake.
Stephen Jewell is making some extensive repairs on his house on Harvey street.
Mrs. Eli Nowland has returned home from a few days' visit with her daughter in Detroit.
Mr. and Mrs. Welcome Rosenburg have returned home from a few days' outing at Walled Lake.
Mrs. Nancy Gilmore and daughter (Glee), of Mt. Pleasant are visiting at Eli and Lee Nowland's.
Miss Adelaide Cole and Willard Fallows of Ann Arbor, visited at S. L. Bennett's last Sunday.
Mr. and Mrs. Will McArthur and twin babies of Edmonton, Canada are visiting relatives here.
Mrs. F. C. Hench returned Thursday to her home at Benton Harbor after a few days' visit with friends here.
Douglas Kellogg and family motored down from Jackson last week and were week-end visitors at A. A. Taft's.
Earl Bovee, Emory Hix and Oro Brown will give a dance in Penniman hall next Saturday evening, Aug 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Olaver and son of Willoughby, Ohio, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Samsen, Monday.
Several from here attended the Patchen school district reunion held on the Patchen school grounds last Saturday.
The goods to be sold at Robinson's livery barn Saturday, August 29 at 2 o'clock, were the property of the late Mrs. Perrin.
Mrs. Mary Zollinger of Indianapolis, Ind., is spending a few weeks with her father and sister, Joel Kellogg and Mrs. A. A. Taft.
Mrs. Samuel Adams and Mrs. Ed. Nowland of New Boston, were visitors at Lee Nowland's this week Wednesday and Thursday.
Miss Mildred Stewart, who has been visiting the Misses Pearl and Winnie Jolliffe for the past two weeks has returned to her home at Chesaning.
Chas. Draper and family and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Bakewell attended the wedding of Miss Florence Merrill to Mr. Porter in Detroit last Saturday.
Guests of Mrs. E. M. Safford last Sunday were Miss Iva Murray of Kalamazoo, Michigan, William Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Austin and family of Salem.
Mr. Printz of the Gas Machinery Company of Cleveland, was in town Tuesday looking over the gas proposition preparatory to giving estimates on the new plant of the Northville and Plymouth Gas Co. to be located in this village.
Wm. Sutherland has just sold a building lot on South Main street to John B. Fisher, who intends building a house thereon in the spring. Mr. Sutherland has sold a number of lots the past few months, but still has a few more desirable ones left.
Dr. J. T. Sunderland and daughter, Miss Florence, who have recently returned from a missionary trip around the world, were part of a picnic party at the home of Mrs. E. M. Safford Saturday. Prof. E. R. Sunderland of the U. of M. Law Department was also present.
Mrs. Jane O. McGraw, a former resident of Plymouth, passed away at her home 1477 Grand River avenue, Detroit, last Sunday at the age of 82 years. The funeral services took place from her late residence Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Ella Chaffee, Miss Delia Entrican, Mrs. A. A. Taft and Mrs. O. A. Fraser of this place attended.

A CARD—We wish to thank the neighbors and friends for their many acts of kindness during the sickness and death of our mother. Especially do we wish to thank those who furnished flowers and the music.
Mr. and Mrs. Silas Sly and family
Mrs. Ida Stevens and family

Good Reason for His Enthusiasm.
When a man has suffered for several days with colic, diarrhoea or other form of bowel complaint and is then cured sound and well by one or two doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, as is often the case, it is not natural that he should be enthusiastic in his praise of the remedy, and especially is this the case of a man who has never been cured before as they are made especially for the occasion.
Don't miss anything that we are advertising, for everything will be as advertised, weather permitting.

Washington Eldeberry of Jackson, visited at H. C. Hager's last week and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Engstrom of Woodland, Berry county, spent the week-end at Detroit, visiting with the party and a pleasant sojourn on Thursday.

Wm. H. Green

Wayne's big home-coming takes place next Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 26-27. A fine program has been prepared. Everybody go.

Wants, For Sale, To Rent, etc.
See per Line, One Insertion

FOR SALE First class cement building blocks. T. F. Chilson. 33-74
FOR SALE—A good chicken house. Enquire Mrs. L. C. Hough. 35-44
For Rent—Four house keeping rooms. Enquire of Mrs. A. D. Ford. 2t

FOR SALE—A number of desirable lots fronting south Main street. Enquire of Wm. Sutherland. Phone 242-F11. 37-4t

For Sale—About 40 lots in the new Walled Lake sub-division 50x150 feet. All lots have access to the lake and are all desirable for cottage purposes. Prices $100 and up. Write or phone J. W. Hawthorne, Redford, Mich., Phone No. 15. 35-4w.

For Sale—A good house and lot on Harvey street. E. N. Passeeage. 35t.

LOST—A ginger colored kitten. Reward if returned to Thelma Vivian Peck. Care of Dr. Peck.

FOR SALE—A Federal Truck, one ton, in good shape, for sale cheap if quick deal. Call Cadillac 5877, Detroit, or for demonstration call at 341 Fourth avenue, Detroit.

Probate Notice.
At a session of the Probate Court for said county of Wayne, held at the Probate Court Room in the city of Detroit, on the seventeenth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, present, Henry S. Hulbert, Judge of Probate, in the matter of the estate of Frank Kubik, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition duly verified of John Kubik, administrator of said estate, praying that he may be licensed to sell certain real estate of said deceased for the purpose of paying the debts of said deceased and the charges of administering said estate. It is ordered, that the fifteenth day of April next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said Court Room, be appointed for hearing said petition, and that all persons interested in said estate appear before said Court at said time and place, to show cause why a license should not be granted to said administrator to sell real estate as prayed for in said petition. And it is further ordered, that a copy of this order be published three consecutive weeks previous to said time of hearing in the Plymouth Mail, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Wayne.

HENRY S. HULBERT, Judge of Probate
Charles C. Chadwick, Probate Clerk.

LAST GOOD OPPORTUNITY TO SEE G. A. R.
The Forty-eight Annual National Encampment of the Republic will be held at Detroit, August 31st to September 5, 1914

and the Citizens Committee on Arrangements has prepared an elaborate program for the entertainment of the honored veterans of the nation. This may be the last opportunity that Michigan people will have of cheering the survivors of the great conflict, certainly it is the most opportune occasion.

Attend the Big Parade Wednesday, September 8

Pure Michigan Railroad will afford the most convenient service from all Michigan points. For full particulars consult your nearest Pure Michigan Ticket Agent.

W. E. WOLFENDEN, General Passenger Agent

GALE'S School Books

School Commences this Year, August 31st

We will have on hand a full line of School Books and School Supplies such as

- Tablets, ruled and unruled.
- Composition Books, 5c and 10c.
- Note Books, Blank Books.
- Lead and Slate Pencils, Blackboard Erasers and Crayons.
- Slates, Pen Holders and Pens, Compasses, Rulers, Ink, Mucilage, Library Paste, Drawing Books, Pencils, Pens, Brushes and Crayons.
- Birthday Cake Candle Holders, Rosebud design, and Candles.

For first-class Groceries at cheap prices give us a call.

Fruits, Vegetables, Etc.

Phone 16 JOHN L. GALE

THE HOME of Quality Groceries

If You Would Be Happy and Contented Buy Your Groceries Here!

They Bring Peace To Every Family Making Hunger Disappear

IT'S THE QUALITY!

Brown & Pettingill

THE WHITE FRONT GROCERY

Telephone No. 40 Free Delivery

Get Your State Fair Tickets at this Office

Did You Get that Boy of Yours a Watch Yet?

Does he want one? Does he? Just ask him, and if you act accordingly to his answer you'll be buying him a watch inside of an hour.

Yes, we've just the thing he wants. Good timers that can be owned for little money.

Get 'em as low as a dollar, but we suggest that you put a few more dollars into one and get that boy of yours a watch that will be good for several years.

How ever do as you like, Mr. Father, but every boy ought to own a watch, and there is no better place to get one than here.

Let us show you what we can show you in Boys' Watches.

C. G. DRAPER

Jeweler and Optometrist.
148 Main St. Phone 247

BUTTER and You

MAN is as good as the food he feeds on. The better the food the healthier the man. Every man, if he values himself, insists on good, pure, sweet butter and on really fresh eggs. Our reputation for selling fine butter and eggs is perfectly well established in this community. Our groceries are the best in town for the money.

Plymouth, Michigan GAYDE BROS.

DR. S. E. CAMPBELL
25 W. Ann Arbor Street
Phone 45

PLYMOUTH, MICHIGAN
Glasses and Spectacles Fitted Correctly

C. G. DRAPER
Jeweler and Optometrist

PUTS OUT OIL FIRE IN TWO SECONDS

A new extinguisher was tried out on an oil tank at Bayonne, N. J. One of the tanks was set on fire, the heat immediately melted a copper wire which released the chemical from the extinguisher, quenching the fire in two seconds.

ESPIONAGE OVER HARRY K. THAW IS CONSIDERED IN LIGHT OF JOKE

Stanford White's Slayer Recently Got Lost While Fishing, But Made No Effort to Escape—Refugee From Matteawan Quietly Waits at Gorham, N. H., for the Next Move in His Long and Strenuous Fight for Liberty.

Gorham, N. H.—Harry K. Thaw, who is quartered here with his secretary and two bodyguards, appointed by the court to see he does not escape, can walk out of his hotel, jump into an automobile and flee practically any time it suits his mood.

Apparently, however, the slayer of Stanford White, whose extradition to New York state and return to the state hospital for the criminal insane at

Harry K. Thaw.

Matteawan is sought, has no desire to quit Gorham. Whether this is because he believes the courts will ultimately free him or he is content with his surroundings, is problematical.

When the village thawed out last May, White's slayer packed his baggage and came here from Concord with Sheriff Holman A. Drew, in whose charge he had been placed; Deputy Sheriff C. D. Stevens, assistant to Drew, and H. J. Rice, who for some time has acted as Thaw's secretary. A suite of four rooms and bath had been engaged for the party on the third floor of the Mount Madison house, and here they have since enjoyed life pending the next legal move in the famous case.

Gorham was selected as a summer headquarters from which to direct Thaw's "liberty campaign," because it is but a few miles from Berlin, the home of Sheriff Drew. The sheriff is an elderly, stout and good natured official whose duties do not appear to weigh heavily upon him. He spends such time as suits his convenience in the Thaw suite and the balance where he pleases—usually at home.

Bodyguard Stevens is a bit more attentive to his charge, but his cares have not whitened his hair. Possibly the only time he has been at all worried was a few days ago when Thaw got lost on a trout fishing trip. He struck in at one point on Nineteen Mile brook and Stevens on another. Along about nine o'clock in the evening, when nothing had been heard of Thaw, the deputy sheriff called up the hotel and a searching party was organized.

This was led by Rice. With the aid of lanterns Thaw was found about two o'clock in the morning seated on a rock in the middle of the stream calmly and with good sense waiting for some one to come for him. He was hungry and wet, but not otherwise the worse for his experience.

He might have been deeply buried in the Maine woods by that hour had he been so inclined. This episode, as well as others, is pretty good proof that Thaw can escape if he is so minded.

Gorham is a smart little summer resort in the Androscoggin valley, and is one of the gateways to the White mountains. The Haas range flanks it in the rear, while in the front rise the twin peaks of Mount Madison, and the sharp crags of Carter, the Imp, Surprise and other peaks of Carter range.

Roads and paths radiate from it like spokes in a wheel.

When Thaw first came here all the year round residents evinced great curiosity in the slayer. Not knowing the symptoms of paranoia, they expected to see a veritable madman, wild eyed and at least crazily erratic. They were disappointed. It is true that Thaw today has the same staring eyes which have marked him for years and that he is erratic, but he hasn't come up to expectations by a long shot. So after a time they gave up paying much attention to him.

Visitors from the city are equally curious upon their arrival, but their inquisitiveness shortly subsides. They find Thaw to be very much like the other guests, save that he is somewhat exclusive. Much of his time is spent in offices he has established in the Noyes building, centrally located in one of the few streets this little village boasts. The rest of his day is occupied in automobiling, fishing and tramping.

Thaw recently bought a five-passenger car. The report that he mixes with the guests and takes them on his outings is erroneous. In truth, this is quite contrary to the facts, as with but one exception, his parties have been made up of the sheriff's, his secretary and himself.

The exception has to do with a tramp up Mount Washington early in the month. This was made over the northern end of the Presidential range by way of Crystal Cascade trail and was uneventful. A friend from Concord made up the fifth member of the party. The jaunt proved Thaw to be as hard as nails and an excellent candidate for the Alpine Clubbers' society.

Thaw is too busy with his "liberty campaign" to pay much attention to the guests of his hotel or to the residents of the place. He has the reputation of being uniformly courteous to women and to such men as seek his acquaintance, but he seldom seeks an introduction on his own account. He prefers to remain in the background, which is unusual in view of his past performances.

The refugee from Matteawan is a fair trout fisherman when it comes to landing fish in Moose river, Nineteen Mile brook and Peabody's river, but what he would do with a trout over eight inches long can't be prophesied, for the reason that they don't grow any longer than that up here. When he fishes, Stevens goes along, but he whips a different section of the brook, that being the way of real sportmen.

William Travers Jerome.

Every one around Gorham is under the impression that Thaw has an income of $100,000. It is known that he has just come into over $160,000 from his father's estate. The amount of his income has been industriously and mysteriously circulated, but not by Thaw. Whatever the figure may be, Thaw is not spending as large amounts as the natives hoped he would. He pays well for what he gets, but he doesn't want much.

He lives on the same fare the others get, and there is no reason why he shouldn't, in view of its excellence. He patronizes the local stores when he happens to need what they can supply, and when they fall him he sends to New York or Boston. It is an excellent guess he hasn't expended much for clothing, for he is fairly slovenly in appearance. At any rate, if he has bought much apparel he hasn't seen fit to wear it.

Dr. Austin Flint, alienist for New York state in the Thaw trials and hearings, and William Travers Jerome, chief of the state's prosecuting officers, have said Thaw's great danger lies in alcohol. They have stated to the courts that should the slayer take so much as one drink, especially of champagne, he would likely enough again develop homicidal tendencies.

Thaw hasn't had a drink since he came here, although he has had plenty of opportunities. There is a bar in the hotel for guests, and wines and liquors may be had on the table or in the rooms. So far as can be ascertained Thaw has never been in the bar nor has he had intoxicants sent to his room. He is now a total abstainer. His one vice, if it can be called a vice, is smoking.

Outside the fact that he doesn't drink and is more moderate in his speech, Thaw doesn't seem to have changed much since the days when he was a well-known character on Broadway. He is still nervous, arrogant, excitable and suspicious. His mandatory nature continually asserts itself, but he can be winsome if he chooses.

It is unquestionably a fact that Thaw is trying his best to conduct himself properly and to win support in that way. In a measure he is succeeding, but the natives will never condone his offense against society. Some have no hesitancy in thus declaring themselves, but a good many believe he has been amply punished. Others openly declare he should be returned to Matteawan to spend the balance of his life.

Thaw expects the next move in his fight will be made in September. He is optimistic as to the outcome, and the chances are he will remain here quietly to await results. If he has reason to change his mind he will have no difficulty in escaping.

TEXAS FAMILY AT CAPITAL

Daughter and Grandchildren of Postmaster General Burleson Spend Summer in Washington.

Washington—Mrs. Richard Van Wyck Nogley and her two little sons are the daughter and grandchildren of Postmaster General Burleson. They are spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Burleson in Washington where they recently arrived from their home in Austin, Tex.

Mrs. Nogley and Children.

GUARD REBUKES EX-EMPRESS

Eugenie Not Allowed to Pick Flowers at Site of Her Old Palace in Paris.

Paris, France.—A story is printed of an incident which occurred on the recent visit to Paris of the former Empress Eugenie, widow of Napoleon III. She was walking in the Tuilleries gardens, where once stood her splendid palace, and picked a flower from the border. An attendant saw her and said: "Picking flowers is strictly forbidden. I must report you." He demanded her name and address and she answered timidly: "Eugenie." The attendant was struck by the melancholy aspect of the aged woman and related, saying: "That is not a name. However, never mind this time, but do not do it again."

Woman Causes Riot on Beach. Chicago.—A young woman wearing an X-ray skirt almost caused a riot at a bathing beach here and it was necessary for a policeman and life guards to hold the crowd back while the woman and her escort escaped.

Bulldog Lies in State. Bellevue, Ky.—"Nick," an English bulldog, owned by Mrs. M. A. Winn, after lying in state for two days, was buried in a silver and gold trimmed coffin. The coffin was lined with white plush.

Trouties Stuffed by a Kiss. Trenton, N. J.—The marital troubles of Stephen and Laura Kiss have been settled by a kiss. A year ago the wife sued for divorce. Recently Kiss told his wife he would father her anything than a court and they patched up their difficulties.

WIFE'S WAGES HELD ILLEGAL

Housework "a Duty Owed to Husband," Member in a New Jersey Court Decides.

Jersey City, N. J.—An agreement between husband and wife to the effect that the latter receives a weekly wage for her domestic household duties was held by an advisory master to be void. The court in this case held that the wife's services are a duty owed to the husband, and the payment of wages for such services is illegal.

Former Postmaster Puzzled

Seaford, Del.—When Luther H. Clifton retired as postmaster the government advised him that a balance of one cent on his books was due to

MARKET QUOTATIONS

Live Stock, Grain and General Farm Produce.

Live Stock. DETROIT—Cattle: Receipts, 777; market 10@15c higher; best heavy steers, $8.50@9; best handy weight butcher steers, $7.50@7.75; mixed steers and heifers, $7@7.50; handy light butchers, $6.75@7.50; light butchers, $6.25@7; best cows, $6@7; butchers cows, $5@5.75; common cows, $4@5; canners, $3@4.25; best heavy bulls, $6.50@7; bologna bulls, $6.25@6.75; stock bulls, $5.50@6.50; feeders, $6.75@7.25; stockers, $6.25@6.75; milkers and springers, $4@8.00. Veal Calves—Receipts, 401; market for good grades 50c higher, others steady; best, $12@12.50, others, $8@11. Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 2,206; market for lambs 25@50c higher; sheep steady; best lambs, $8.50@9; fair lambs, $8@8.25; light to common lambs, $6@6.50; fair to good sheep, $4.25@5; culls and common, $3@4. Hogs—Receipts, 1,274; packers' price, $9.25; few sold to outsiders at $9.50; market very dull on heavy grades.

EAST BUFFALO—Receipts of cattle, 6,000; market 15@25c lower; choice to prime steers, $9.50@10.00; fair to good, $8.50@9; plain and coarse, $8.40@8.60; choice to prime handy steers, $8.60@9; fair to good, $8.25@8.50; light common, $7.50@8; yearlings, $8.25@9; prime fat heifers, $8.25@8.60; good butchering heifers, $7.75@8; light do, $7@7.50; best fat cows, $9@9.25; good butchering cows, $6@6.50; canners and cutters, $3.25@6; best feeding steers, $7.25@7.50; good do, $6.75@7; best stockers, $6.50@7; common to good, $5.50@6; best bulls, $6.75@7.50; good killing bulls, $6.25@6.75; stock and medium bulls, $5@6; milkers and springers, $35@90. Hogs—Receipts, 1,400; market 20c lower; all grades, $9.40@9.50. Sheep—Receipts, 6,000; market slow; lambs, $8.50@8.75; yearlings, $8@7; wethers, $6.25@6.75; ewes, $5@5.75. Calves slow; tops, $11@11.50; fair to good, $8.50@9; grassers, $5@6.

Grains, Etc.

DETROIT—Wheat: Cash No. 2 red, 98 1/2c; September opened with a decline of 2c at 99c, advanced to $1 and closed at 99 1/2c; December opened at 1.03 1/2, advanced to $1.04 1/2 and closed at $1.04; May, $1.10; No. 1 white, 98c; No. 2 white, 97c. Corn—Cash No. 3, 88c; No. 3 yellow, No. 4 yellow, 88c. Oats—Standard, 45 1/2c; new standard, 2 cars at 43c; No. 3 white, 44 1/2c; new No. 3 white, 42 1/2c; No. 4 white, 43c; new No. 4 white, 41 1/2c. Rye—Cash No. 2, 75c bid. Beans—Immediate, prompt and August shipment, $2.75 bid; October, $2.25 bid. Cloverseed—Prime spot, $11; October and December, $11.50; prime alsike, $9.75; sample alsike, 20 bags at $8.25, 15 at $8.10 at $7. Timothy—Prime spot, $3. Alfalfa—Prime spot, $8.35. Hay—Carlots, track Detroit: No. 1 timothy, $16@17; standard, $15.50@16; new No. 1 timothy, $15; No. 2 timothy, $13@14; light mixed, $15.50@16; No. 1 mixed, $13@13.50; No. 1 clover, $12.50@13; heavy clover mixed, $12.50@13; rye straw, $8@8.50; wheat and oat straw, $7@7.50 per ton. Flour—in one-eighth paper sacks, per 196 pounds, jobbing lots: Best patent, $5.80; second patent, $5.30; straight, $4.80; spring patent, $5.80; rye flour, $4.40 per bbl. Feed—in 100-lb sacks, jobbing lots: middlings, $30; standard middlings, $28; fine middlings, $30; coarse cornmeal, $23.50; cracked corn, $34.50; corn and oat chop, $30 per ton.

General Markets.

Plums—$1.50@2 per bu. Pears—$1.50@2 per bu. Blackberries—$2@2.25 per 16-qt case. Currants—Small, $2@2.25; cherry, $3 per bu case. Peaches—Elberts, $2@2.25 per bu; island, $1@1.25 per bu. New Apples—Transparent, 75c @ $1; Duchess, $1@1.10 per hamper and $3@3.50 per bbl. Tomatoes—Canadian, 75@80 per basket. Cabbage—Home-grown, $1.25@1.50 per bbl. Green Corn—Home-grown, $1@1.10 per sack. Potatoes—Virginia Red Star, $2.65 @2.75 per bbl. Onions—Per 100-lb sack, $4; Spanish, $1.75@2 per crate. Dressed Calves—Fancy, 14@15c; common, 10@11c per lb. Honey—Choice to fancy new white comb 15@16c; amber, 10@11c; extracted, 6@7 per lb. Live Poultry—Broilers, 19@20c per lb; heavy hens, 15@16c; medium hens, 14c; No. 2 hens, 10@12c; old roosters, 11c; ducks, 14@15c; young ducks, 15@16c; geese, 11@12c; turkeys, 19@20c per lb. Cheese—Wholesale lots: Michigan flats, 14 1/4@14 1/2c; New York flats, 15 1/2@15 3/4c; brick, 13c; Limberger, 11 1/2@13c; imported Swiss 31@32c; domestic Swiss, 18@19c; long horns, 16 1/2c; daisies, 15c per lb. Hides—No. 1 cured, 16c; No. 1 green, 13c; No. 1 cured bulls, 18c; No. 1 green veal kip, 14c; No. 1 cured murrain, 13c; No. 1 green murrain, 10c; No. 1 cured calf, 12 1/2c; No. 1 green calf, 17c; No. 1 horsehide, $4.50; No. 2 horsehide $3.50; No. 2 hides 1c and No. 2 kip and calf 1 1/2c lower than the above; sheepskins, as to amount of wool, 25@30c. Chesapeake week at Harbor Beach, beginning Aug. 11, will be a doubleheader, the residents having decided to make it the occasion of the annual homecoming as well.

FRENCH SOLDIERS ENTRAINING AT TROYES

This photograph, taken on the frontier after the breaking out of the war, shows French troops en-training. Their artillery was mounted on flat cars and the men rode in box cars.

IRON DUKE, FLAGSHIP OF ADMIRAL CALLAGHAN

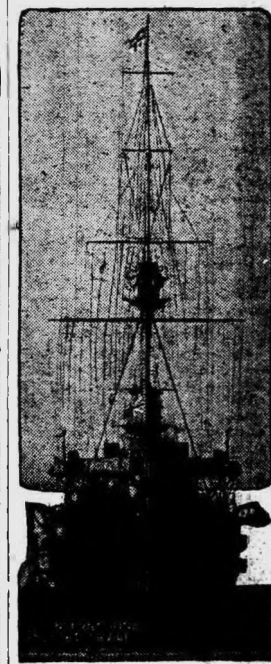

The new British battleship Iron Duke, flagship of Admiral Sir George Callaghan, who commands the home fleets in the North sea. Inset at the left is Admiral Callaghan, and at the right the loading of a scout aeroplane aboard a battleship.

ENGLISH TROOPS ON THEIR WAY TO BELGIUM

English soldiers en route to Victoria station, London, whence they went to the coast and across to Belgium. They are passing Westminster abbey, and the clock of the houses of parliament is seen in the background.

BRITISH BATTLESHIP DRAKE

BUSY IN ST. PETERSBURG

George S. Marye, American ambassador to Russia, has his hands full taking care of stranded American tourists and of the interests of nations whose diplomatic representatives have left St. Petersburg.

REPORTED CUT TO PIECES BEFORE LIEGE

These are the famous Uhlans of the German army that are reported to have been annihilated by Belgians in the fighting around Liege.

GERMAN EDITOR SAYS GREED RULES GREAT BRITAIN

Charging England to be responsible for the continental war because her ancient supremacy on the seas is threatened by Germany, the Illinois Staats-Zeitung prints an editorial in part as follows: "Since the days of Queen Elizabeth England has had but one aim and one ambition—the preference of its trade and the domination of the sea. Particular attention has been paid to the trade routes to the British colonies. As she now urges France and Russia on to Germany, so she strengthened herself in the seven years' war with the attack of Frederick the Great against France. She did not aim to assist Prussia, but to subvert Canada. "New England has found in Germany a dangerous competitor on the oceans, and in London they have not hesitated for a moment about getting even. First an attempt was made to subdue Germany in a friendly manner. It was at the time of the Boer war, and Chamberlain devised the scheme—that Germany was offered an alliance. Germany was to purchase English friendship by foregoing every future addition to her navy, by playing into England's hands on the high seas and in every market of the world. With the rejection of this alliance the closing in policy of Edward VII began. This policy now seems to have vent its full in the Boer war, which Russian war against Germany.

ONLY A VERY FEW DAYS MORE

IN WHICH TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF

GRINNELL BROS. GREAT PIANO SALE

At their Overstock Warerooms, Plymouth

These Pianos are going fast. Yet, in spite of the many purchases made, there are still some very sensational bargains on our floors. Don't miss the opportunity of seeing these instruments. Visit our warerooms TO-DAY

$300 Piano; fine mahogany case beautiful design, full 17-3 octaves; 3 pedals, good condition; you've never seen such values at $145

$350 Piano; handsome oak case; full 7 1-3 octaves. A sample Piano slightly shopworn $143 reduction; fine tone; excellent action $207

$375 Piano; large style, mahogany; very attractive in appearance, and with full sweet tone; a sample Piano and a rare bargain $173

$400 Piano; well-known make, high-grade instrument; large style; fancy oak case; beautiful tone; wonderful value at our sale price $242

LET US MOVE ONE INTO YOUR HOME

See as well our stock of Christmas specials in new Pianos; latest, handsomest designs; each fully guaranteed. Prices commence at

$185

A BEAUTIFUL CHRISTMAS HOME GIFT.....

Nothing adds the same cheer and brightness as a sweet-toned Piano or Player-Piano. A home in which music has a large place is by far the most attractive home. Your entire household would appreciate a handsome instrument as the Christmas home gift.

YEAR'S FREE EXCHANGE TRIAL

We absolutely guarantee your entire satisfaction. You prove the value of the Piano you purchase by our Five Trial Plan.

$600 ORIGINAL PRICE OF BEAUTIFUL WELL KNOWN

PLAYER-PIANO

TO QUICK BUYERS NOW FOR ONLY

$398

Pay Weekly or Monthly

The Pianos we have here listed are mere suggestions of the other equally remarkable bargains which await you NOW.

These bargains will not last. Like those previously offered, they'll be quickly snapped up.

This is your chance for a big saving. You will be surprised at the values we offer. COME TO-DAY.

SMALL PAYMENTS

Write or phone for Bargain List if you cannot come at once.

We make it possible for every family to own a Piano.

Don't miss this last opportunity to purchase for Christmas a beautiful Piano or Player-Piano at sacrifice prices.

OPEN EVERY EVENING DURING SALE

GRINNELL BROS.

Overstock Sale Warerooms

Plymouth

OPEN EVERY EVENING DURING SALE

JOSEPH A. MOYNIHAN

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE

CIRCUIT COURT COMMISSIONER

PRIMARIES, AUGUST 25, 1914

NEWBURG

Rev. Pierce of Northville, filled the pulpit Sunday in the absence of the pastor. Services Sunday next at the usual hour. Everyone invited to remain to Sunday-school.

Epworth League held a very interesting meeting under the leadership of Miss Gladys Smith last Sabbath evening. Miss Beatrice Davy acts as leader for the next meeting. Everyone cordially invited to attend.

Harold Wall returned from Jackson, Mich., Wednesday evening, where he had been visiting for five days.

Miss Lilian Woods of Denton, spent the week-end as the guest of Mrs. Margaret LeVan.

Mrs. Beattie Smith of Toledo, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Wm. Smith.

A most delightful afternoon was spent by the L. A. S. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Jerrill. A fine program gotten up by the ladies and the organ served under the spreading branches of the trees was certainly enjoyed by all. The front yard presented a beautiful appearance with the singing of several. The next meeting will be held at the hall in September.

A good deal of building is going on around Newburg. Albert Stevens has a fine new barn and Arthur Bennett is putting up a new house.

Miss Beatrice Davy attended the chautauque at Northville Sunday evening.

Miss Anderson who is acting as substitute for our postman, had a narrow escape last Wednesday. Her horse became frightened throwing her out of the rig and only for the timely assistance of Mr. Mackender there might have been a bad mix up.

Mrs. Geo. Tibbets of Big Rapids, and Mesdames Van Valkenburg and Pickett of Northville, were calling on Mrs. C. Pickett and other friends Saturday last.

Mrs. Maude Clement is spending the summer in northern Michigan to avoid hay fever.

Mrs. Lally and family of Detroit, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carson.

Mrs. Elizabeth Brown of St. Johns, attended the reunion at the Fitcher school house, also visited her brother, Wm. Smith and family.

James Morton of Detroit, spent Sunday at the Fitcher home.

C. Mackender, Wm. Farley and Leigh Ryder have purchased the Philport place on the corner at Newburg.

Donald and Faye Ryder are expected home from Chicago this coming Sunday morning.

Mrs. Vina Joy is visiting her son Mark Joy and family.

W. R. LeVan is putting up three tile sills, one for himself, one for C. Ryder and one for H. Robinson.

Dr. Peck took Mark Joy's little daughter LeVanda to Ann Arbor last week Wednesday where she was examined by Dr. Hinckley. He pronounced it organic valvular lesions of the heart. Mr. and Mrs. Joy have the sympathy of all in their trouble.

A Newly Married Couple is usually very happy, but the reverse is the case with people who have chlamydia, lame back, sore muscles, cramps in the bowels, rheumatism, sick stomach. These latter can have their misery relieved by using KENNEDY'S PAIN-KILLING OIL. It is a most potent remedy for such ailments. It is sold by all druggists.

James Morton of Detroit, spent Sunday at the Fitcher home.

Most everyone has threatened in this vicinity.

BAN WILL NOT AFFECT AUTO RACES AT FAIR

Noted Drivers Will Appear in Thrilling Events.

AROUSSED OVER A. A. ACTION

"Going to See Whether This is a Free Country," Says General Manager Dickinson—Cycle Car Meet Not Under Auspices of State Fair.

The directors of the Michigan State Agricultural society have been aroused by the notice published throughout the country by the American Automobile association that the Michigan State Fair track has been blacklisted, and interesting developments are promised for the next few days.

The contest board of the A. A. A. has been informed that even though the ban is kept on the Michigan track it will not affect the automobile speed program here. Contracts have been made with a dozen of the best known drivers in the country, and they will appear in the events scheduled. If they do not they may not be allowed to participate in the automobile races at the Minnesota, Nebraska and the many other fairs where they are listed. The Michigan State Fair is a member in good standing of the American Association of Fairs and Expositions, and should a contract be broken with one member it is the policy of the association to protect itself and its members by severing all relations with the erring party.

Inasmuch as these state fair meetings are one of the chief sources of revenue of the A. A. A. it is believed the situation will receive careful consideration by that body. It is even asserted that the association may, if it is found necessary, inaugurate a series of automobile speed contests under its own auspices.

"To make it short, we're going to see whether this is a free country or not. If our track can be blacklisted when we are not even members of the A. A. A. and no sanction had yet been asked for our state fair meeting," said George W. Dickinson, general manager of the Fair. "This action had been taken against our track because of the cycle car races that were held there July 4 and 5. The races were not under our auspices; we merely leased the track as we lease it for motorcycle and harness race meetings. We never have had any difficulty over those. We regret this misunderstanding has arisen. We have taken counsel in the matter, however, and are confident our position is justly taken."

"Contracts with a number of well known drivers were made some months ago, long before the A. A. A. made the announcement concerning our track. Should any driver violate his contract with us he may not be allowed to drive on the track of any fair that is a member of the American association of fairs and expositions. When we sign a contract we live up to it and we expect the people who sign contracts with us to do likewise. That has been the position the association has taken in many instances to guard itself and its members from those who cannot be depended upon, and we will have the association's aid in this case.

"You can depend upon it there will be automobile races at the Michigan State Fair."

EAST PLYMOUTH

There were sixteen present at the Friendship Club meeting with Mrs. Strebbing Friday afternoon.

Asar Brown, mother and two sisters of Mahopac, motored to East Plymouth Sunday to visit Mr. and Mrs. J. Cool.

Mrs. John Schindler and granddaughter, Miss Louise Speck of Detroit, were Saturday and Sunday guests at Julius Miller's.

Mrs. Viola Wenzel of LeRoy, is the guest of Mrs. John Cool this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cleaver of Northville, were callers at Julius Miller's Sunday.

Johnny Cool is visiting his great aunt, Mrs. Thomas Brown at Orion for a few days.

Why Not Ham?

He had held forth for so long on the subject of his adventures that the entire smoking room was distinctly bored. Finally he reached India. "It was there that I first saw a man-eating tiger," he announced boastfully. "Pooh! that's nothing," said a middle-looking little man, edging toward the door. "I once saw a man eating rabbit." And he snattered gratefully out.—Lippincott's.

They Looked Dangerous.

A little three-year-old boy, who from time of infancy had been under the care of doctors and trained nurses, was visiting his grandmother after convalescence from measles. An open fire attracted him. After watching the sparks, which fell incessantly on the hearth, he asked, "Grandma, are those red spots germs?"—Christian Register.

Creating the Squawks.

Little Myrtle was running down the street, blowing a joy balloon, when the slipping and falling prostrate in the mud. "Now my squawk is all over," she cried. "Now my squawk is all over," she cried. "Now my squawk is all over," she cried. "Now my squawk is all over," she cried. "Now my squawk is all over," she cried.

WEST PLYMOUTH

Laura Widmer was quite unfortunate last Sunday. While standing the wheel of a bicycle, she caught her finger in the chain and her hand was carried into the spokes, breaking the fourth finger of her right hand and setting one of the others quite badly.

A number of West Plymouth people attended the annual picnic of the Patchen district last Saturday.

The Old Ladies' Tea at Mrs. Simpson's was well attended and a number of visitors were present.

The program consisted of a play by Sadie Stuart and Neta Miller; recitations by Mrs. O'Bryan, Alice Lang, Helen Smith and Ada Murray; songs by Sadie Stuart and Mrs. Shabanau Gale and a humorous dialogue by Mrs. Jas. Beatty and Will that brought down the house. Leo Fisher took a group picture of the "old ladies."

Helen Smith entertained her schoolmates last Thursday afternoon in honor of Master Stanton and Lincoln Langs of Detroit. Notwithstanding the inclement weather, an enjoyable afternoon was passed playing games, after which light refreshments were served.

Dan Murray had lightning rods put on his house this week. D. Dey of Plymouth, doing the work.

Charlie Lucas of Dearborn, visited Wjbur Ebersole last week.

Mrs. C. F. Smith entertains the Friendly Neighbors Wednesday, Aug. 26th.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wickay and daughter Jean and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Sackett of Detroit, visited Mrs. G. F. Butler last Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Sackett remaining until Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Becker attended a meeting of the Michigan State Breeders' Association for Guernsey cattle at Birmingham last Wednesday. They also visited friends in Birmingham and Pontiac returning home Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Melburn Partridge and children visited Mrs. E. Partridge at Detroit last week.

The Misses Ermah Tiffin and Helen Passage were Belle Isle visitors Monday.

Do You Know

That if you have been feeling blue and cross all day you can rid yourself of the burden by taking one or two of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED PILLS before going to bed. They cure biliousness, stomach disorder and irregular bowels and make you feel fresh, vigorous and cheerful. Price 25 cts. Sold by J. W. Blakesstaff & Co. and Bayer's Pharmacy.—Advt.

STARK

Harry Booth and family of Detroit, spent Sunday at Rose Lawn, Mrs. Hoisington returning home with them to spend the week.

Mr. Wellman has moved his family back to Detroit and Dick Fisher is moving in his house.

Mr. and Mrs. Lardon entertained company Sunday.

Our school buildings are being treated to a coat of paint. Horace Kingsley is doing the work.

Horace Barrett of Novi, is spending a few days in these parts.

Glen Griffin spent Sunday at the Falls. Mrs. Matta Barnes and Mrs. Alton Richson spent Wednesday at John Rantentbury's.

LAPHAM'S CORNERS.

Mrs. Will Corbin is visiting relatives at this place.

Mrs. Louise Packard has returned from a week's stay in Detroit.

Fred Bird was in Ann Arbor with hay Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bird and family spent Sunday at Will Heaney's.

C. H. Bovee and family spent Sunday at the home of the former's uncle, George Bridger at Porterville.

John Challin and wife and Robt. Barnes and wife spent Sunday afternoon at John Smith's.

Ferns Murray spent last week at the home of her sister near Plymouth.

Miss Genevieve Packard of Detroit, spent Monday at C. H. Bovee's.

N. A. Withee returned home Monday.

Mrs. Emeline Rieb returned Sunday from an extended visit with her children in Detroit.

Mrs. Cora Gale has been quite sick but is better at this writing.

Mrs. Sockow and son Earl are spending the week in Plymouth.

Master Donald Bovee spent last week in Plymouth with his grandparents.

Mrs. Myrtle Lyke was in Plymouth Saturday.

W. M. Halcro, Dexter, Mo., brought Foley Kidney Pills for Mrs. Halcro, who was down on her back with kidney so sore he had to help her move. He says: "She would cry with pain across her kidneys, but after she took the second bottle of Foley Kidney Pills, she was as well as ever." J. W. Blakesstaff & Co.—Advt.

LIVONIA CENTER

Mrs. Phoebe Wolfson and sister, Miss Lurida Hillard visited at the Stricker home Tuesday.

Mrs. Mary Suits of Stockbridge and Mrs. George Suits of Livonia, are visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Peck this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Marrow of Detroit, and Wm. Smith's parents of Westland, were visitors at Mrs. Stricker's Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ann Lyon and children, and Mrs. Wm. Cook of Plymouth, returned down Sunday in their new automobile and Mrs. Dora Base returned home with them.

Born to Elmer Childen's people of Detroit, a son and Thomas Childen's father, a daughter.

Mrs. Willis Smith returned to her home in Fowlerville Tuesday and a couple weeks' stay with Mrs. Adeline Maynard.

There was a large crowd at the arrival of Albert Stricker's family, Monday last, at a house full of guests at Charles Wolfe's, St. Sunday.

Having a Real Good Time. Found Father—Tony's letter from his mother, saying that she was coming to see him, was a real good thing. "Well, now she's here, she's here, she's here," he said, "and she's here, she's here, she's here."

Rent Receipt Books

Form at This Mail Office