We are not basing these appeals upon the ability of the preacher. We do not invite you to go to church to hear orations or essays. Nobody knows better than the preacher how far short of their purpose many sermons come. The tryth is this: We do not appeal for church attendance just to hear a manifestic. We nivite such as women to go to church for the worship of God. The church would still be the church; and continue to live if there were no preachers. This is said only to assert the vital trath that the church is meant for the worship of God, for the fellowship of believers in Him, and for edification in the Christian faith. In all our advertisements we bid, you to remember:

The worshiper's prayers are more important than the preaching.

What the worshiper thinks about God is a more vital matter than what the preabout God.

The condition of the soul is more important than the delivery of sermo

CHAPTER XVIII.

A Change of Plan.

That day and the next Westerling had no time for strolling in the garden. His only exercise was a few periods of pacing on the veranda. Turcas, as threlessly industrious as ever, developed an increasingly quiet insistence to leave the responsibility of decisions about sverything of importance to a chief who was becoming increasingly arbitrary. The attack on Engadir being the jewel of Westerling's own planning, he was disincified to risk success by delegating authority, which also meant sharing the glory of victory.

ictory. Bouchard's note, though officially dismissed as a matter of pathology, would not accept dismissal privately. In flashes of distinctness it recurred to him between reports of the progress of preparations and directions as to dispositions. At dusk of the second day, when all the guns and troops had their places for the final movement under cover of darkness and he rose from his desk, the thing that had edged its way into a crowded mind took possession of the premises that strategy and tactics had vacated. In passed under the same analysis as his work. His overweening pride, so aemsitive to the auspicion of a conviction that he had been fooled, put his relations with Marta in logical review. He had faillen in love in the midst of war. A cool and integase impatience possessed him to study her in the light of his new skepticlem, when, turning the path of the first terrace, he saw her watching the sunset over the creat of the range.

She was standing quite still, a slim, soft shadow between him and the light, which gilded her figure and quarter profile. She was standing quite still, a slim, soft shadow between him and the light, which glided her figure and quarter profile. Did she expect him? he wondered. Was she posing at that instant for his benefit? When she turned, her face in the shadow, the glow of the sunset seemed to remain in her eyes, otherwise without expression, yet able to detect something unusual under externals as they exchanged commonplaces of greeting. explosive circle of light of a bursting shell.

"The signal!" he exclaimed.
Right and left the blasts spread along the Gray lines and right and left, on the instant, the Browns sent their blasts in reply. Countiess tongues of flame seemed to burst from countless craters, and the range to rock in a torment of crashes. In the intervening space between the ugly, savage gusts from the Gray gun mouths, which sent their shells from the midst of exploding Brown shells, swept the beams of the Brown search-lights, their rays lost like sunlight in the vortex of an open furnace door.

"Splendid! splendid!" exclaimed Westerling, in a sweep of emotion at the sight that had been born of his command. "Five thousand guns on our side alone! The world has never seen the equal of this!"

Marta noted that, though he gave the news a casual turn, his scrutiny sharpened. "Is that so? I can't say that my mother and I shall be sorry," she remarked. "He was always glaring at use as if he wished use out of sight in the proportion of Engadir is ours!" he called. "Thanks to you!" he added with pointed emphasis. Thanks to her! And she must listen and submit to his touch!
"Then engineers and material were Yeady to go in," he continued. "Before morning, as I had planned, we shall be so well fortified in the position that nothing can budge us. "After that—after that"—the tone changed from harshness to desire, which was still the desire of possession—"the fruits of peace, a triumph that I want you to share!" He was drawing her toward him with an impulse of the force of this desire, when he broke free with an abrupt, struggling pull.

"Not that! Not that! Your work is not yet done!" she cried.

He made a move as if to peraiss, then he fell back with a gesture of understanding.

"Right! Hold me to it!" he exclaimed resolutely, "Hold me to the bargain! So a woman worth while should hold a man worth while."

Usually the time for taking the receiver down till Lanny replied was only a half minute. Now she waited what seemed many minutes without response. Had the connections been broken? To make sure that her impatience was not tricking her she began to count off the seconds. Then she heard Lanstron's voice, broken and hoarse:
"Marta, Marta, he is dead! Partow is dead!"
Recovering himself, Lanstron told the story of Partow's going, which was in keeping with his lifte and his prayers. As the doctor put it, the light of his mind, turned on full voitage to the hat, went out without a ficker. Through the day he had attended to the dispositions for receiving the Grays' attack, enlivening routine as usual with finshes of humor and reflection ranging beyond the details in hand. An hour or so before dark he had reached across the table and laid his big, soft palm on the back of Lanteron's hand. He was thinking and laid his big, soft palm on the back of Lanstron's hand. A device for the kitchen sink that has proved successful in keeping the drain pipes clean is made of a wooden frame and ordinary window screen. Make a wooden frame, about two inches high, just wide enough to fit nicely into the sink, and not quite as long as the inside of the sink. On one end of this nail a board, covering about half the length of the frame; on the other end, on the opposite side, nail a plece of wire window screen. This device may be kept in the sink always, the dishpan set on the wooden part, and anything poured on the other part will be strained before reaching the pipes. This may be easily cleaned, and the wire screening renewed at small dynense, when worn through. Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also gads dandrud, itching scalp and stops felling bair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of the famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so asturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.—"Adv. sand children from ten to fourteen years of age in the United States are unable to read and write.

These figures just announced by the federal bureau of education show a striking decrease in child illiteracy during the last fourteen years. In 1900 the number of illiterate children between the ages of ten and fourteen was forty-two in every thousand. In 1910 this number was reduced to twenty-two. Four years have further lowered it more than 33 1-3 per cent.

Assuming only the latter rate of decrease, twenty years more may see youthful filliteracy in this country almost cease to exist save among newly arrived immigrant families. Nor can the present rate of improvement fail to produce in the same period a marked change in the percentage of illiteracy in the entire population of ten years and over—which in 1910 was 7.7, or seventy-five filterates for every thousand.

By MYRTLE SAIRD WEBSTER.

Poter Lowden was a disappointed man. He had been six months in the United States and half that time in Chicago, and it seemed as though that period had been set aside by some drud destiny as a special purgalorial test for his stanch spirit.

I'l'm wasnin' awa for a sight of saighed as from a deep dark pit of penury and discouragement. "And Jessiel.—"

That was where honest loyal Peter's heart pinched hardest. He could philosophise calmly over high hopes quickly biasted as to sudden wealth and position in "the new far countries." He was content with a dish of weak brose and an occasional finnam haddle-but Jessie, light of his heart! How he had hoped to weal his pretty modest fiance and "busk her fine i' silken gown and stiller ha' to spare," and now "the braw moon glistened o'er a weary city street, Peter penniless and hopelena, and Jessie—lest!

Armed with this, Peter started to try his own fortunes in America and to be near his future bride.

For three months in New York Peter wore out shoes and patience looking for work. Finally he saved had had been man, Jessie had secured employment. The nonce of the mitton pies ye mind," explained Peter, "Their mouths will adout the health and brose—no great quantity, for an advance of Peter. up enough to pay his fare to Chicago. He was crossing the ferry to take the train at Jersey City, when an unfortunate outcast, a woman passenger, jumped overboard in a desperate strempt at suicide. Peter bravely leaped after and rescued heg. He was damp and uncomfortable the first stage of his train journey. Then came the appalling discovery that his soaking in the river had blurred out the precious penciled address that was his only clue to Jessie.

Then came a month in Chicago where the inexperienced lad patrolled the city streets, seeking the lady of his love, to meet with bitter, utter disappointment. He spent his last dollar advertising for her without result. He finally gave up the disheartening quest. Feter shuddered when he recalled the wretched woman on the ferry boat. Then again, Jessie might be dead, or-wedded to another! All Peter could do now was to try and keep body and soul together through odd jobs. At home he had mastered the baker's trade, but his specialty lay in Scotch edibles only, and nobody seemed to want such fare at American resturants.

Jessie took the ple and began to partake of it with eyes retrospective and tearful. A taste made her sob. "There was one, and one only in old Scotla who made the like," she wailed—"my best laddie, and—oh!"

She burst into a scream, ttaring at a criss-cross mark upon the top layer of crust.

"Peter's mark! I know it well," she tremored. "Ah! only he used that mark. Oh, tell me, tell me whence came the pie!"

Mr. Wilbur was called and he explained. On with her bonnet, and Jessie was flying in the direction of the hall where old David had engaged Peter as his permanent assistant.

She burst in upon them unceremoniously. She fell into his outstretched arms. There were only two words spoken, but so fervently uttered that old David thrilled at their simple eloquence—"Lessie!"

Moleskin is Profitable.

Moleskins have been extensively used in this country during the last few years in making fur garments, and pratically all of the supply has been imported from Europe. status of the eastern species was published during the year. The mole inhabiting the northwestern coast is larger than the common eastern specles, and a number of these have been collected in order to obtain a report on the quality of the pelt. If the texture of the fur proves to be as go as that of the eastern animal, there is no reason why trappers should not seem

Facts Don't Lie-Western Canada is Full of Facts-Here Are Three of Them.

Are Three of Them.

1. C. T. Moore, Underhill, Man. Came from Bruce County, Ontario, 1882, with a capital of $2.00. Homesteaded quarter section. Now owns 3,800 acres for which he paid average of $20.00—worth today $40.00 per acre. 2. James Steel, Battleford, Sakatchewan. Came from Perthshire, Scotland, 1904. His fare advanced to bring himself and family to Canada. Took up homestead, which he sold later $25.00 per acre, has been very successful in mixed farming. Values land now at $40,00 per acra, and is worth $60.00. "If I had remained in the Old Country my gray hairs would have been a passport to the poor house," he says.

3. H. J. Smith, Clover Bar, Alberts. Came from North Michigan, 1893, without capital. Now farming $60 acres, valued at $200 per acre. Purchased originally at $15.00 per acre. Engaged in mixed farming. Cows average him $150.00 a year.

All this talk about the exploitation of labor by capital, class distinction, living wage, high cost of living, and so, forth, doesn't hold the slightest interest for the Canadain farmer. Why? Because he has proved that you can't begin too poor to become rich in Canada; that free homesteads preclude the possibility of being robbed of freedom and independence; that the high cost of living can't hurt the man who grows most of his own necessities; that his labor brings reward in exact and just proportion to time and intelligence invested. If those who whine at urban conditions would show white at urban conditions would s me and intelligence invested. If those who whine at urban conditions would give a little time to investigating those suburban, they would likely spy a clear way out of their difficulties. For the first step, drop a card to any Canadian Government Agent.—Advertisement.

LETTER FROM STATE CAPITOR

MEASURE PREPARED TO ABOL ISH OFFICE OF STATE

PUBLIC DOMAIN TO DO WORK

ance Fathered By Representative Charles Hulse, of Clinton County.

[By Gurd M. Hayes.]

Lassing—Senator Samuel Odell, of Shelby, will introduce a bill in the upper house abolishing the office of state game, fish and forestry warden and the office of Michigan fish commission and placing these departments under the control of the public domain commission. In Odell's bill it is provided that the fish commission and game warden's office shall cease to exist after June 30, 1915. at which time the public domain department, with enlarged powers and increased facilities shall take ever the work. So far as practicable and under such rules and regulations as the public domain commission may prescribe the work of the commission, under the provisions of Odell's bill will be carried on through four divisions to be known respectively as the division of protection, division of fish culture, division, division of fish culture, division of forest fire protection.

As soon as the act shall take effect the public domain shall appoint a chief for each of the four divisions, each of whom shall be an executive officer of the commission. The salary of each division chief shall not exceed $3,000 per year. Each chief must give bond to the amount of $3,000 for of each division chief shall not exceed $3,000 per year. Each chief must give bond to the amount of $3,000 for the faithful performance of duty and shall hold office at the pleasure of the commission, but none shall be removed on account of religious or political affiliations. This is an attempt to take the game warden's office out of politics as it has 'always been one of pointed.

The chief of the division of protecthe public domain commission will appoint at least twenty competent men, who shall be known as deputy game and fish protectors. The salary of the deputies will be fixed by the commis-sion, but will not be less than $2.50 nor more than $4 per day.

The chief of the division of fish culture will perform all the duties now required by the superintendent of the Michigan fish commission and may appoint such assistants as the public omain commission shall direct. The chief of the division of game propa-gation and chief of the division of orest fire protection may also appoint assistants upon the recommendation of the public domain commission.

Senator Odell's bill provides that all funds which shall accrue from the sale of deer hunting licenses, gime hunting licenses, commercial fishing ill-censes, etc., shall be pooled into a common fund known as the fish and

At the present time the members of the public domain commission are Secretary of State Goleman C. Vaughan, Auditor General O. B. Fullet. Regent of the University Junius E. Beal, Member of State Board of Agricature A. J. Doherty and Member of Board of Contral of Houghton College of Mines William Kelley. A. C. Carton is secretary of the commission.

Representative Charles Foote, of Kent, put in a bill to permit teachers to handle the eighth, ninth and tenth trades in school submore there are but tan grades. In some of the smaller school classes are small, but under robusing the present law the teachers are not permitted to instruct the pupils in the approximately amount of the cighth grade. The house committee on private corporations will meet Tuesday morning, February 2, at 10 or clock to listen to arguments for and against the passage of the so-called blue sky law.

Representative Hulse defends his sint-digarette bill by saying that he has no objection to pipes and cigars but that-digarettes stunt the growth and mental development of young men. However, the Hulse bill applies not only to young lads but men of mature years. . Two years ago Repre sentative Dunn, of Sanilac, introduced a similar measure and the chests of the anti-digarette adherents swelled with pride when the bill passed the house. However, their period of ex-altation was very short as the state affairs committee in the senate er-fused to report the bilk-out. It is not believed that the new anti-cigarette bill will pass both houses, but it will furnish plenty of fun for some of the members when treomes un for considmembers when it comes up for consideration if it is ever reported out by the state against committee of the

A bill providing for the examination, registration, regulation and licensing, of chiropodists was introduced by Representative Charles Flowers of Detroit. Under the provisions of this bill the foot manicurist will be placed under the jarisdiction of the state board of health and will be licensed the same as barbers. It is understood that the bill will be amended later so as to include manicurists as well as chiropodists.

An important amendment to the highway laws of the state was introduced by Representative Charles Cuiver, of Detroit, it is Cuiver's idea that money for the construction of good roads should be apportioned not by the amount of good roads constructed but on the assessed valuation of the county. It is said that this would give the count they are forced to pay in taxes.

Marquette prison has drawn $96,000, Ionia $126,000 and Jackson $78,000.

Representative A. D. Edward of Houghton offered a bill making an apropriation of $112,228.75 for the Michigan Home and Training school at Lapeer for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1916, and $68,164.87 for the following twelve months.

A petition was presented to the house signed by 150 tax payers of Ionia county asking that the state tax commission be abolished. The petition was signed principally by taxpayers in Otisco township and they set forth that the tax commission did not use good judgment in assessing their property. ### NEW PRIMARY B.LL IS INTRODUCED

SENATOR KELLEY HAS MEASURE TO REPEAL PRESENT LAW.

RESTORES THE ENROLLMENT

One Party Casting Ballots In Primary of Another

Lansing—Senator Louis L. Kelley, of Farwell, put in a bill Friday morning to repeal the present primary law and place upon the statute books a primary law similar to the one in use two years ago, restoring the party enrollment and requiring voters to declare their political affiliation before participating in any primary election. The 15 per cent clause which was a part of the former primary bill until declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, is not made a part of Senator Kelley's new bill, but in other respects the new measure follows the lines of the old primary law.

Voters may enroll with the county or city clerk by affidavit at any time, the same as under the provisions of the old law. In reality the only radical change from the present primary law is the restoration of the enrollment.

Senator Kelley says that the enroll ment is necessary to insure the success of the primary, as he points outthat in the last primary election, many democrats voted for republican candi dates and in some instances republi cars deserted the ticket at the

of making nominations in order to vote for democratic candidates. "There can be no objection if a man wants to vote for a candidate of an-other party in the election, but the other party in the election, but the primary is distinctly a party matter and the nominations on the G. O. P. ticket should be made by members of the republican party," said Senator Mellow.

GAYLORD HAS BIG FIRE LOSS

Toll of Flames.

Gaylord—Four store buildings were destroyed by fire here early Sunday morning, entailing a loss estimated at $80,000, upon which insurance amounting to $40,000 was in force.

The fire originated in two wooden buildings occupied by Frank Dagenis' since store, the F. S. Walker & Son Co. furniture store and Pythian lodge. Adjoining buildings were gutted and badly damaged. The losses follow:

O. M. Farrar buildings, $37,000; C. E. Shannon, $4,000; F. A. Dagenis, $5.500; Geo. Butcher, $3,000; Gaylord Hardware Co., $10,000; Allen Schuer, $500; Geo. Ellwanger, $500; Masonic lodge, $3,000; Pythian lodge, $1,500.

Insurgent Leader is Hanged.

Manila—General Noriel, the insurgent leader, and two accomplices who were found guilty of having killed a political enemy at a cock fight in 1902, were hanged here early Tuesday morning. The early hour of the execution possibly prevented disorders, for which the army had been ordered to be prepared. It is expected, however, that a big demonstration will take place at the time of the imperals.

They may envelop themselves from crown to toe in cold-proof coats having hoods attached made of the same material as the coat. The fur fabrics that have had so great a vogue this season have been developed in patterns especially suited to midwinter motor coats. These plushes are used also for lining coats of other fabrics, and are as warm as skites.

Fetching and unusual is the coat of leopard plush pictured here. The youthful motorist looks as cozy as a kitten in it. It is a long straight garment of the simplest buillines, comfortably roomy. The sleeves and yoke are ment of the simplest outlines, comfort-ably roomy. The sleeves and yoke are cut in one, and the skirt part allows plenty of room in walking.

A broadtail plush is used to make deep plain cuffs, and as an inlay on a small neckplece that fastens about the button at the top and in the front.

Smart coats for warmer climes are made with more concessions to new style features and allow themselves a little frivolity of composition. Drop yellows and flaring skirts, not so long as the cures, are noticeable among them. If a safe to predict that with things milliary imposing themselves everywhere else, the newly designed motor coats for spring will reflect something of military modes.

MANUFACTURE OF MALT.

The more we investigate the causes which have made each individual what which have hade each multitudar was be is today the more we become con-vinced that every being has affilia-tions which link him with the whole past; that there is a continuity of germ plasm and also of protoplasm which goes back to the very beginning of life on this globe; and that if we could only know all the factors of we could only know an the meanwhich are concerned in producing any single organism, however simple it might be, in all its relations and proportions, we could explain the universe frost top to bottom and evolve in infallible remedy for all our ills.

Consequently the stady of the begin minglified in any organism is the digestive functions were carried in mensely interesting and illuminating. sonal experience. Hence, t the open minded the study of the manufacture of malt should be most suggestive and instructive.

Any live seed or grain can be malt-ed; and barley, oats, rice, wheat, rye and malze are used, but because of its flavor and other important qualities barley is the prime favorite for this purpose. The average time required to mait barley is 12 days. The oper-ation is started by "steeping" or soaking the barley corns in tanks of water for about forty-eight to seventy hours

Discard Small Turban.

In Paris the leaders of fashion have discarded the small turban hat for the larger models of white satin. These stunning hats appear in a wide variety of shapes, with gracefully rolling brims or brims which flare more on one side than the other. The favorite, however, is the wide, straighthrimmed satior, smoothly covered with white satin of a good quality. These are trimmed with a simple bow of white satin, the ends of which are sometimes fringed. Fantasies of plumage appear on a few models, but the majority are simply trimmed with the satin or moire.

The crowns of these hats are rather low, and the tops are unlined and scantily gathered about the edge. Steeping the grain does not consist merely in the taking in of a certain amount of water, but is necessary in order to bring about germination, and o do this the water must remain with n the corns for a certain length of lme. It is quite possible to force the to seventy hours given to the steeping process; but the grain is not "steep-ripe" until certain changes initiated by the water have taken place, and it requires a definite amount of time to bring these changes to completion. When "steep-ripe" the corns contain about sixty per cent water; at the same time about 1.5 per cent of matter has been removed from the grain in the water drawn off, and the total volume of the seeds has been increased about twenty per cent as the result of the water absorbed.

we do not know. That is as much a mystery to us as is the developme to fill in an egg by the heat from a kerosene-lamp, or the birth of a human individual. But we do know that the same principles are involved in all three forms of life, the only difference being one of degree. We do not know why or how these phenomena take place, but we do know that the alightest interference with the normal process prevents the completion of the evolution.

Animal life is but a continuation of plant life, a part of a cycle, but a cycle in which the animal is depandent on the plant, not the plant on the cycle in which the animal is dependent on the plant not the plant not the animal. Animal life cannot exist without plants. Therefore, in consuming deficient plant food, we are cutting our life chain.

ting our life chain.

In this fact will be found the reason for the effectiveress of malt tonics in low states of vitality. Containing practically all these vital elements, malt supplies in part what our food has been deficient in, and is exceedingly valuable as an emergency food.

HORMONES.

Taken from the Greek language and meaning to arouse or excite, the word "hormones" is intended to desig-nate a series of chemical bodies manactivity.

It has generally been supposed that the digestive functions were carried on a color under refer nerve control.

But Editins in 1996 carried out a series of experiment in determine whether a chanical accusate may not also accusate the color of gastric juice, which is energed by the introduction of substances into the stomach. In a series of carefully controlled observations it was proved that the mere introduction of a neutral solution into the stomach caused no selections.

trolled observations it was proved that the mere introduction of a neutral solution into the stomach caused no secretion of gastric juice and that there was no absorption of the solution, the fluid removed at the end of an hour having the same bulk and the same neutral reaction as the solution originally introduced.

The injection of peptone, of acid, of broth, or of destrin into the blood stream produced no secretion of gastric juice, but if in the course of the hour during which the fluid was allowed to remain in the stomach as colution made by boiling mucous membrane from the pyloric end of a stomach with water, or with acid, or with peptone, was injected into the blood stream at intervals of about ten minutes, then the fluid withdrawn from utes, then the fluid withdrawn from the stomach at the end of the hour was found to be distinctly acid and to have protein digestive powers—that is to say, it now contained hydrochloric acid and pepsin.

A mere wetting of the rails is shown to be useless. If, however, water is applied under pressure, and the rails thoroughly cleaned, increased adhesion is secured. Special fittings are suggested for the purpose of using either live or exhaust steam for feeding the water. The fittings should be Cracks in Railroad Tirea.

Thermal cracks in railroad tires are attributed by the interstate commerce commission largely to the action of the brakes. The tread is suddenly heated, and the tire, expanding before the center is affected, causes wide fluctuations in the magnitude of the shrinkage strains. Momentarily the throughout the test with very little shrinkings estrains. Momentarily the throughout the brinkage strains. Momentarily the shrinkage strains. Momentarily the shrinkage strains. Momentarily the shrinkage strains. Even more important is the fact that thermal cracks are formed in the steel in this manner, and the presence of these is a menace to the integrity of the tire. The Farmer's Payroll and How

The annual payroll of agriculture approximates $12,000,000,000. A portion of the amount is shifted to foreign countries in exports, but the total payroll of industries working for the farmer divides substantially as follows: Railroads, $1,252,000,000; manufacturers, $4,365,000,000; minufacturers, $4,365,000,000, and a heavy measulements awardle constitutes the $55,000,000; hanks, $220,000,000; mercantile $3,500,000,000, and a heavy miscellaneous payroll constitutes the remainder.

It takes the corn crop, the most valuable in agriculture, which sold last year for $1,632,000,000, to pay off the employes of the raliroads; the money derived from our annua. sales of livestock of approximately $2,000,000, the yearly cotton crop, valued at $320,000,000; the wheat crop, which is worth $450,000,000, and the oat crop, that is worth $450,000,000, are required to meet the annual payroll of the manufacturers. The money derived from the remaining staple crops is thed in meeting the payroll of the bankers, merchants, etc. After these obligations are paid, the farmer has only a few bunches of vegetables, some fruit and poultry which he can sell and call the proceeds his own.

When the farmer pays off his help he has set little laft and to meet these tremendous payrolls he has been forced to mortgage homes, work women in the field and increase the hours of his labor. We are, therefore, compelled to call upon all inlustries dependent upon the farmers or subsistence to retreach in their expenditures and to cut off all unsecssary expenses. This course is absolutely necessary in order to avaid a reduction its wages, and we want; if possible, to retain the present wage scale paid railroad and all other industrial employes.
