..LITTLE THINGS..

Have you ever paused to consider the exceeding value of little things? How much a kindly smile, a warm greeting, a courtesy not often used, means to the lives we come in contact with? Little things are valuable to mankind and he realizes this truth again and again.

But have you ever gone a step further and considered the great influence little sins have in your life and the lives about you? We are apt to consider the big sins and when we think of sin our minds turn at once to these. But there is a wonderful power in little sins. Indeed, they pave the way for larger ones.

Will it not be worth your effort to hear a discussion of this subject next Sunday night?

In And Around Plymouth

Cass Gittins has moved from Hamburg to Milford.

Mrs. Sophronia Griswold, Saline's oldest resident, died at the age of 83 years.

Wayne county is said to have more miles of cement road than any county of its size in the country.

The Milford fair is on this week and as usual quite a number of people from Plymouth are in attendance.

Ypsilanti is making an effort to secure the Globe Motor Truck Co. of Northville, to locate in that city.

Wayne merchants are discussing the advisability of a pay-up week with the idea of collecting past-due accounts.

Oct. 10, 11 and 12 are the dates set for the bi-annual fair and bazaar to be given under the auspices of St. Mary's church of Wayne.

Ypsilanti schools have introduced an innovation in the form of a full eight-hour school day, beginning at eight a. m. and ending at four p. m.

Farmington's two doctors have agreed to raise the prices heretofore charged. The extra cost will no doubt have a tendency to do away with much sickness in that burg.

Officials of the state game department will recommend the establishment of a state game preserve in Washtenaw county on a farm bordering on the Huron river and Base lake.

A Detroit man has purchased a plot of land on the fishery road at Northville, of Beach Northrup, and will construct an artificial lake of 18 acres for the purpose of raising trout.

James Grant, present county drain commissioner and Walter Whitcomb, chief clerk in the office of county clerk, are candidates for tax commissioner of Wayne, a place now held by John Nagel that will be vacant January 1.

Mrs. Theodore Chilson of Plymouth, and daughter Lelia were guests of the former's sister, Miss Electa Chilson Wednesday. Miss Lelia is staying in Detroit, learning to be a trained nurse at Harper hospital.—Farmington Enterprise.

Elmore and Austin Whipple have purchased a new Olds Eight auto through the F. S. Neal Agency. The car is painted in one of the new mellow brown shades in panels, with black background and was designed especially for the state fair exhibit. It presents a very striking appearance.—Northville Record.

Washtenaw county farmers are pressing hard their movement for the establishment of a county agricultural agent, and are preparing to go before the board of supervisors at their October session with a long line of petitions and to ask an appropriation of $1,800 to be used in paying the county's share of the agent's salary and expenses of the work.

The First Presbyterian church had the honor of entertaining the Presbytery of Detroit, Monday and Tuesday of this week. There was a service of praise on Monday night. The failure of the electric system to give us light that evening was a source of annoyance to the church for awhile, but lamps were brought in, a goodly number came through the darkness and a fine service was held. Dr. J. M. Barkley preached a fine sermon that was thoroughly enjoyed and helpful to all. On Tuesday the day opened with a devotional service at 8:30 a. m. Then the day was taken up with business of the Presbytery. At noon the ladies of the church served a splendid chicken dinner which was enjoyed by all.

There was an unusually large attendance at this meeting and ministers and laymen were lavish in their praises of the new church and its splendid appointments. Heartly congratulations were bestowed on pastor and people. This meeting will long be remembered in the history of the Presbytery and church.

Free Mail Delivery Again

Inspector Birdseye was here this week investigating as to the advisability of establishing city mail delivery service. He stated in a representative "of the Mail that it could not yet be determined whether the service will be established, but if it is installed, it will be confined to streets having continuous sidewalks, and not until all houses are numbered, there being 50 houses and 37 business places at the present time that are not numbered. The inspector also stated that if the service is established, it would be given only to such residences and business places as may first erect mail receptacles near the front entrance or provide slots in front doors for delivery of mail. However, people should not provide such receptacles or slots until the service is ordered installed.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Williams of Detroit visited relatives here over Sunday.

Council Transacts Much Important Business

Purchases Land for Sewerage Disposal Plant.

Will Make Needed Improvements in the Water System.

A special meeting of the common council was called by President Robinson Monday evening for the purpose of considering several important matters. All members of the council were present except Councilman Hall. The matter of purchasing a parcel of land of Wm. Henry, known as the Micul flats, which has been under consideration by the council for some time, was one of the big propositions that was up for final action by the council. After some little discussion it was decided to purchase this property, which consists of thirty-seven acres, for the sum of $6,000.

The purchase of this land is made for the purpose of securing a most desirable location for the establishment of a sewerage disposal plant for a sewer system in the village, which must soon be commenced and for which plans are already being made, in compliance with orders from the state authorities. Engineers have looked over this property and find that it is admirably situated as to drainage, etc., for a disposal plant, and highly recommended it for this purpose.

This tract of land lies along the River Rouge in the eastern part of the village and is accessible through a right of way given by Mr. Henry. In the spring of the year large quantities of the finest kind of gravel is washed up by the river into deposit beds situated upon this land. We understand there is in the neighborhood of a thousand loads of gravel in these beds at the present time. This will prove of great value to the village for use upon the streets and can be readily sold for building purposes. It is also pointed out that the acquisition of this property with its natural beauty, would be a fine thing for park purposes, should Plymouth become large enough to maintain a recreation park.

The council voted to retire the electric light bonds of $11,500 now outstanding, and left the final disposition of the matter to the ways and means committee with power to act.

It was also voted to instruct the street committee to purchase material and make the necessary arrangements for the paving of a portion of Union and Depot streets. No bids were received for doing this work at the last regular meeting of the council, and now the village will employ a competent engineer and do the work itself.

Another important matter that was disposed of, and a very important one for the best interests of the village, was that of taking some steps toward improving the water system. The council voted to employ Prof. Hoard, the well known engineer of Ann Arbor, to commence at once the necessary plans and specifications for the improvement of the water system as outlined by him to the council at their last regular meeting, and notice of which was made in the columns of the Mail at that time.

The water question has been a serious one for several years past, and the dry weather of the past summer has seen it at its worst. It has shown us how inadequate was our supply, and the necessity of increasing the water pressure for fire purposes. Although the improvement will cost a nice little sum of money, the council has acted wisely, and is to be commended for the action it has taken in this matter.

Electric Light Plant Threatened By Fire

A fire which might have proven a mighty serious one was rapidly checked about the noon hour last Saturday, when the roof of the electric light plant was discovered to be in flames. The fire was first seen by the engineer of a passing locomotive, and he sounded an alarm by blowing the engine whistle. The fire department responded promptly and they soon had several streams of water playing on the flames, which by this time had entirely consumed the cupola on the building. The fire ladders made short work of it and soon drowned out the conflagration. It was feared that the water which poured down upon the machinery might put the plant out of commission temporarily, but with the aid of canvas from the Daisy plant, the dynamos were covered over and the plant was in running order again in a very short time. How the fire started is not definitely known, but it is presumed to have originated from a spark falling on the shingle roof.

Poultry Association Secure Judge For Coming Show

The Plymouth Poultry & Pet Stock Association have secured William Wise of Lansing, to judge the birds at the coming show to be held December 5, 6, 7, 8 next. Mr. Wise was one of the poultry judges at the recent State fair, and the local association feel that they were very fortunate in securing the services of such an able and experienced judge as Mr. Wise. The Plymouth Association have also become members of the American Poultry Association, under whose rules the coming show will be held. The work of arranging the premium list is now under way and will soon be ready for the printer. Boost the coming show by telling your friends about it.

Rally Day

At Baptist Church Next Sunday Morning Worship at 10 O'clock

The church and Sunday-school will unite in this service. A fine program has been arranged, consisting of music, recitations and short addresses. At the evening service at 7 o'clock, the Young People's Society will unite with the church, when another excellent program will be rendered. A male quartette from Pontiac will be present and assist in both morning and evening services. We cordially invite you to attend these services.

LIGHT RAYS NEW AID IN WARFARE

Englishman Invents Remarkable Engine of War Called "Light-o-Mine."

IS USED IN FRENCH ATTACKS

Mines Laid in Captured Trenches Are Set Off by Ray of Light When Recaptured by the Enemy.

Paris.—Light as an adjunct and aid of modern warfare is the newest ally of the allies, summoned to aid in the campaign against the central powers by H. Grindell Matthews, an Englishman.

Grindell Matthews' engine of war is called a "light-o-mine," and comprises an electro-clockwork arrangement that is attached to a series of bombs and which is set off by a ray of light. The new form of trench fighting, the raiding tactics first carried out by the British and now being engaged in to a great extent by the Russian troops on the French front and by the Polish themselves, avails itself largely of the use of this "light-o-mine."

The apparatus itself is about a yard long and four inches square. It consists of a lens at one end, open and resembling a pocket flash lamp. Inside is a dry battery, a sensitized plate and a clockwork, and from that lens a ray of light is emitted. When a trench is captured, this apparatus is carried, and with it a line of trench bombs. Now a line of trench bombs consists merely of 20 or 30 or 100 or 200 yards of ordinary iron piping, a little larger, for instance, than gas piping. The piping is cut in suitable lengths—say 10 or 15 feet long each. From each of the ends protrude two bits of wire, the positive and the negative, for the current to be transmitted to detonate the bombs. The piping is packed tightly with aluminum chambers of T. N. T., as the allied standard high explosive trinitrophenol is called, and shrapnel, bits of iron nails and slugs of metal.

Mines Are Planted.
The raiding party carrying this equipment and preceded by a wave of grenade throwers, raids the enemy trench after a short but intense hand-to-hand struggle. They bayonet or blow up with grenades the survivors in the trench, then hastily lay this mine of piping, all connected up with the wires, in the bottom of the trench, covering it over with a few spadefuls of earth. The end of the long pipeline of bombs is attached by wires to the "light-o-mine" apparatus, and this is hidden in the enemy trench, leaving the bullseye lens exposed and pointing back at some object in the Franco-British lines.

About this time the German batteries in the rear have been advised that an enemy detachment is occupying a trench section at that point and a few shells begin to drop in. That is the signal for the raiders to clear out and return to their own positions. Cautiously the enemy reconnoiters forward when he hears nothing and no shots are fired from the lost trench. Finally he approaches and finds it deserted. The first thing he does is to lumber over the parapet and look for wires leading across the No Man's Land to the raiding party's positions, and finding none, he has no suspicion that a mine has been placed in his trench. Troops are sent forward to recapture the trench, and just when it is comfortably held by the Germans again, a star shell is sent up from the Franco-British position in a line following that toward which the lens of the "light-o-mine" is pointed. The light serves to set off the long line of piping, full of T. N. T. and shrapnel, and the Germans are blown out of the trench. It would not be feasible to detonate the mines by wireless on the principle used by John Hayes Hammond, Jr., in guiding his majesty's boat, as in the first place it would thus be necessary to place aerials above the German trenches after a mine were laid and the enemy would notice the uprights

TICKLISH WORK ON NIGHT PATROL

British Officer Writes of Thrilling Adventure Between the Lines.

GETS INTO CLOSE QUARTERS

Finds Germans Building Redoubt and Returns to Give Range for Machine Guns—Then Watched Stretcher-Bearers at Work.

London.—A British officer writing home tells of a thrilling patrol adventure between the hostile lines at night. He says:

"The moon was not due to rise till about 11 that night, so I decided to go out at nine. The company sergeant major asked if he could come, so I arranged to take him and one platoon scout from each platoon. Getting out onto No Man's Land marks a distinct epoch in a man's training for trench warfare. We each carried a couple of bombs, the men had knobkerries (spiked clubs) and I had a revolver and dagger, to be on the safe side. But we were out for information, not scrapping.

"It was beautifully dark, and, starting from a sapshead, clear of our own wire, we crossed the open very quickly, hardly so much as stopping till we were close to the German wires. Now, when we began crawling through the wire I made the sort of mistake one does make until experience teaches. I occupied myself far too much with what was under my nose and too little with what lay ahead—and too little with my compass.

A Little Bit Close.
"Suddenly I ran my face against the side of a giant gooseberry with peculiarly virulent prongs, and in that moment a bullet whizzed low over my head—and—here's the point—the bolt of the rifle from which that bullet came was pulled back and jammed home for the next shot—as it seemed, right in my ear. We all lay perfectly flat and still.

"Very slowly and quietly I raised my head enough to look around the side of that giant gooseberry, and instinct made me look over my right shoulder. We were less than ten paces from the German parapet. I turned my face left, so as to look down at the sergeant major's over my left shoulder. "Why, we're on top of them," he breathed to me. I whispered to him "Pretty good for a start—a fine place, sergeant major. But we'll manage to get a bit nearer before we leave 'em, won't we?" "It worked like a charm. It was as though his mind were all lighted up, and I could see the thoughts at work there. "Oh, come, so it's all right, after all. My officer's quite pleased. He knew all about it, and it's just what he wanted; so that's all right."

"Those were the thoughts. And from that moment he began to regard the whole thing as a rather creditable lark.

"And the wonderful thing was—there must be something in telepathy, you know—that this change seemed to communicate itself almost instantly to the men crouched round about behind. I'd no time to think of the grimness of it. The thought in my mind was: "I've brought these fellows here in carelessness. I'll get 'em back with whole skins."

What He Wanted to Know.
"I whispered to the sergeant major, and very slowly and silently we began to back away. The sentry must have been half asleep, I fancy. My compass showed me we must have been forty or fifty yards left of the point in the German line we wanted; so as soon as we were far enough back we worked slowly up right. And then we found all we'd hoped for. It was a regular redoubt the German was building, and he had nearly a hundred men at work.

"That was good enough for me. All I wanted now was to get my men back safely. I knew the O. C. (officer commanding) had two machine guns trained precisely on the redoubt. All I wanted was to make sure their fire was a shade to the left, and every bullet would tell. We should be firing fairly into them, because the little cross-communication trench we had watched them working in was no more than waist deep; just a short cut for convenience in night work only. We had 'em. The stationmaster told me the men wanted to bomb 'em from where we were. But that was not my game at all. I saw the last man into our sap, and found the O. C. waiting there for me. I'd no sooner given him my news than he was at the guns. We had twenty or thirty rifles leveled on the same mark, too, and at the O. C.'s signal they all spoke at once.

"The men were wildly delighted. They had seen the target, lain and watched it, under order not to make a sound. Listening now, the German guns having ceased fire, our sentries could plainly hear groaning and moaning opposite, and see the lights reflected on the German parades moving to and fro as their stretcher-bearers went about their work."

Youth Can't Smile or Flirt Ever.
New York.—Magistrate Krotel sentenced Phillip Levine, eighteen years old, never to smile or flirt with any girl in the city as long as he lives. Levine had been arrested on complaint of Dora Rubinowitz, who alleged he smiled at her and blew smoke at her in an elevated train.

Woman Lands Big Bass.
Bochester, Ind.—Probably the largest black bass ever taken by a woman from Lake Manitow was caught recently by Mrs. Frank Bierbeck of Indianapolis, who she hooked and landed a large mouth bass weighing 7 1/2 pounds.

Another View.
"I heard Bill was making money, so fast that he had to give it up to a lung read."
"You heard it straight. He's in the penitentiary for counterfeiting."

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD HAS NEW CLEARANCE CAR.

Designed for Important Work in Obtaining Measurements of Distances From Track to Projections—Can Operate Day or Night.

A new clearance car has just been placed in service on the Pennsylvania railroad lines east of Pittsburgh and Erie. It is being run over every division as rapidly as possible in order to secure correct measurements of the distances from the track to projecting portions of station buildings, tunnels, bridges and other objects. It is also designed to indicate automatically while moving on curves the elevation of the rails and the degree of curvature.

The car is built entirely of steel, and is equipped with gyroscopes, stroboscopic and electric lights. There are two floors, or elevations, both of them used for taking measurements from the templets. Clearances are computed from the center of the wheel truck, over which the main templet is erected. From an elevation of 12 feet above the top of the rails the templet tapers up toward the middle of the car at an angle of 45 degrees.

Immediately in front of the templet is an auxiliary templet designed to measure overhead bridges, tunnels and other objects between elevations 17 and 20 feet above the top of the rails. This templet is capable of being raised to a height of 18 feet by a crank and a ratchet arrangement on the floor of the car. Enclosed in steel cylindrical boxes with translucent glass fronts facing the templets is a series of electric lights which extend from the floor of the car on each side to a height of 15 feet. Light from these makes it possible to take measurements both day and night.

Attached to the feelers and the side of the templet are graduated scales which indicate automatically the distance from the rim of the templet to a side or overhead object. In addition, a small board equipped with a set of feelers spaced one inch apart has been provided to measure cornices of roofs, of shelter sheds, or other irregular objects.—From Popular Science Monthly.

Big Ferry.
Railroad car ferry service is now running between Key West and Havana operated by the Peninsular and Occidental Steamship line. This car ferry has facilities for carrying 30 standard size American freight cars and furnishes a daily service between the ports. Freight in full carload lots is handled expeditiously and safely. Sugar and molasses cars are loaded at the Cuban mills and forwarded through to destination, while heavy machinery from the United States is loaded at the place of manufacture and carried through to its Cuban destination without transfer. The handling of fruit and vegetables for the northern markets has also been greatly facilitated by this service.

Fewer Idle Freight Cars.
On July 1 the net surplus of freight cars on the railroads of the United States and Canada was 52,118, as compared with 55,224 on June 1. With the exception of the latter date, July 1 shows the largest surplus this year, these returns having shown a net shortage as recently as March 1.

The following table gives the total impulses and shortages of all classes of cars as reported each month this year:

Month	Surplus	Shortage	Net
July 1	57,024	14,888	32,136
June 1	61,538	12,344	36,234
May 1	59,627	25,050	30,897
April 1	46,927	45,511	1,416
March 1	41,724	62,775	-21,051
February 1	52,449	30,961	21,488
January 1	62,700	21,746	40,954

Railroaders Long in Service.
Of the engineers assigned to the Black Diamond express of the Lehigh Valley road, when it was instituted, 20 years ago, four are still in active service. Two have been promoted and five have left the service. Thomas Farley is still on the same run and has missed few trips. The three conductors originally chosen to serve on the express are still at work.

Private in Washington National Guard on Border is Married by Telegraph.

Calexico, Cal.—I. P. Cryster, a private in the Washington National Guard, on duty here, and Miss Florence Sweeney of Duquesne, Pa., were united in marriage by telegraph a few days ago, it was stated here. Ministers and witnesses, it was said, participated in the ceremony here and at Duquesne.

Chaplain S. C. Sulliger of Vancouver, Wash., officiated at Calexico. The entire wedding ceremony was repeated by the telegraph between the soldier and his bride in Pennsylvania.

The couple, it was stated, had been friends for years. Cryster's sister was married recently to Miss Sweeney's brother and Miss Sweeney then renewed her acquaintance with her brother-in-law. A proposal by mail, followed by a reply of acceptance, was said to have led to the telegraphic marriage.

BIBLE STUDENTS

At the convention held Sept. 16th and 17th, friends from Flint, Detroit, Windsor and Northville joined in fellowship with those of Plymouth. Bro. F. E. Cook of Detroit spoke on Bible problems, showing the solution of most of these problems erroneous from the key of knowledge having been lost. He said it was now found, and the key opening the book shows that the "Resurrection of the Dead," John 5:28, was to be believed and not taken literally. Holy Bible shows this was now on in Europe as the beginning of sorrow for all the world, Matt. 26:7. The world will not believe it, but it will soon be more apparent. The Lord certainly blessed the little convention and the convention all left pleased with Plymouth and its good people.

M. E. Sunday-school News

Dearborn 144—Plymouth 82. This time we took a decided slump. The fact that it was conference Sunday and that we had no church service, also that many of our people had gone to hear Billy Sunday accounts very largely for our low attendance.

The Low 20th Century Manure Spreaders

Will Hustle Every Minute of the Day for You and Keep it up for Years

They are spreaders of straight lines, few parts, low down, yet with plenty of clearance. They combine strength and simplicity with a neat appearance.

Easy to handle, light in draft, the Low 20th Century spreaders are marvels of maure spreaders. Let us prove it to you.

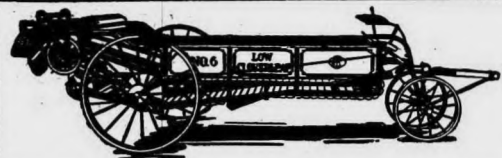

Remember, the Low 20th Century Manure Spreaders Pay Their Way.

Drive It Into the Barn

As we told you, a Low Cloverleaf gives the manure a double beating, and spreads manure eight feet wide or better. But the wonderful thing is that it does this from a box only 45 inches wide. The spreader itself is so narrow that it can be driven into any modern barn and loaded from the gutters. Only one handling of the manure for the quickest, best job of spreading you ever did. How does that sound to you?

If you have even begun to think about buying a spreader, come in and see this Low Cloverleaf. You will say you never saw a better manure spreader. It won't take long to look it over. We have one set up for you to see.

GRAND AMERICAN HANDICAP

The Greatest Trapshooting Event of the Year, Won with Winchester "Repeater" Shells.

The Grand American Handicap, the trapshooting classic, equivalent to the World's Series in Baseball, the highest honor the world has to bestow in trapshooting, the event that marks the climax in the trapshooter's career, was won by Capt. J. F. Wolf, of Milwaukee, with the wonderful score of 99x100 from the 19-yard mark.

The National Amateur Championship was won by F. M. Troeh, of the State of Washington. Mr. Troeh also took second place for National Amateur Championship at Doubles.

Mr. Troeh won the Mount City Openure, and the General Average on all targets, and General Average on 18-yard targets.

In winning all these events, Mr. Troeh used a Winchester repeating shotgun.

The Women's National Championship, the first event of the kind ever staged at a Grand American Handicap, was won by Mrs. J. D. Dalton, of Warsaw, Indiana, with a Winchester repeating shotgun.

The Unspough Trophy, emblematic of the Professional Championship, was won by Phil K. Miller with a Winchester repeating shotgun.

The Hercules All-round Amateur Championship was won by Edw. L. Bartlett, of Baltimore, with Winchester loaded shells.

This was a hard match to win, as it called for 50 single at 18, 20, 22 yards, respectively, and 20 doubles at 16 yards.

This was a great cleanup for Winchester guns and shells and a demonstration of their wonderful shooting qualities.

More War. Mrs. Styles—I want one of those new military bunnets.

Mr. Styles—How much are they? "Only nineteen dollars."

"I can't afford that, and I don't see why you want a military bunnet. You're not going to fight, are you, my dear?"

"I am if I don't get the bunnet."

But you can't get rid of your stenographer by marrying her.

GIRL COULD NOT WORK

How She Was Relieved from Pain by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Taunton, Mass.—"I had pains in both sides and when my periods came I had to stay at home for a long time. One day a woman came to our house and asked my mother why I was suffering. Mother told her that I suffered every month and she said, 'Why don't you buy a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?'"

My mother bought it and the next month I was so well that I worked all the month without staying at home a day. I am in good health now and have told lots of girls about it."

Mrs. CLARICE MORAN, 22 Russell Street, Taunton, Mass.

Thousands of girls suffer in silence every month rather than consult a physician. If girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a safe and pure remedy made from roots and herbs, much suffering might be avoided.

Suggestion for Dainty and Useful Frock, Appropriate for Any Occasion—Charmeuse or Panne Velvet the Best Materials to Be Employed—Three Styles That Are Among the Best of the New Hats.

Here is a frock for afternoon wear which will give its owners the sense of being well and appropriately dressed for many occasions. It is made of one of the soft weaves in silk or gatta which are clothed with new names occasionally, for the sake of variety. Charmeuse will suggest about the texture and luster that are of greatest advantage to the designer in frocks of this kind. Panne velvet is a good substitute for silk or satin, in the winter season, although more gowns are made of satin than of the other materials.

The skirt is straight-lining and weighted with a wide hem. The side panels are shirred into many parallel folds at the top, which extend to the here. They have been chosen from among many others that are destined to add zest to life for the younger women during the coming winter. Two of these hats are boned-brimmed, dignified and picturesque shapes, and the third is a moderately small jaunty affair.

The hat to the left is of gray velvet faced with rose crepe and has a crown covered by rows of chenille of the same shade of gray as the velvet. The brim is wide and drops a little. It is trimmed with a flat rose made of embroidery in dark red rose shades. There is a single embroidered leaf and a long and slender stem of chenille that rests on the brim. pockets. The large pockets are featured in this model by covering them with an embroidered pattern which introduces fine metallic threads among those of heavy silk that make up the design.

The skirt is joined to the bodice at the normal waistline, and the bodice opens down the front. It is cut in at the neck, extending to the bust line, and buttons from there to the bottom with small satin-covered buttons. A narrow collar of fine organdie or batiste finishes the neck opening. A novel decoration for the bodice appears in the wide band of embroidered satin that is wrapped about it over the bust and above the waist. It terminates in a pointed end at the left side, where it fastens.

The sleeves are plain to the elbow. From this point to the wrist they are

The big hat at the bottom of the picture is of white batiste plush faced with velvet in the color of mole skin. There is a heavy chenille lattice work about the side crown, in the same color as the facing, and three little ostrich tips, also in tulle, are perched at the back as if to draw attention to the lift in the brim. A small pointed apple of velvet is set in two velvet leaves at the right front.

No color takes precedence over tulle, which is another name for mole, this season, and molleskin has outdistanced other furs, in the estimation of milliners, anyway. Wide swaths of it, made up with organdie, and smaller neckpieces made to match hats on Fruits for Hat Trimmings. Fruits are practically the only trimmings for hats which are seasonable. Satins and velvets, laces and gauzes are worn interchangeably, winter and summer. The summer felt hat is an accepted article of headwear. Individuals may wear spring hats trimmed with cherries and early summer hats trimmed with currants late in the season, but no respectable dealer would show them. They must appear in season, although they may exceed nature in color and design. A rather and admired. Many young men made eyes at the handsome wife, but they had to keep their distance. One morning Mrs. Armstrong calmly informed the neighbors that her husband had died during the night. He had drunk himself into a stupor before retiring, she said, and died from the effects of his debauch. That seemed strange to some of the neighbors, for Armstrong was known as an unusually temperate man. There doubtless was some malicious gossip, but the husband was buried in the crowded churchyard. Before he had been there, among the low forefathers of the hearse, for 24 hours, the widow had married a young man named Maxwell. Then there was more talk—enough to fasten the events in the memories of the inhabitants, for future use.

Sarah and her new husband conducted the inn for many years. Sarah became the mother of several admirable children, and was in every way an excellent matron. As she waxed older she became devout and was free with precept and admonition. Every Sunday she might have been seen in the church, and the eloquence of the new preacher often moved her to tears. His eyes often were upon her as he talked, for a good listener is a great help to a clergyman, and this motherly woman seemed so intelligent and appreciative that it was a pleasure to talk to her.

The new preacher was Dr. John Donne, one of the truly great men of his time. He had accepted a "living" in Huntingdonshire and occasionally preached there, although most of his time was spent in London. He was a great preacher, and the most beautiful man in England. Beautiful is the word; the old writers say he had the face of an angel. Isaac Walton wrote an enthusiastic tribute to him, saying that "he carried his hearers to heaven in a holy rapture; he pictured vice so at it we hated it, and virtue so that we loved it."

Historic Crimes and Mysteries by Walt Mason

THE SCHOLAR AND THE SKULL.

Sarah Maxwell's only claim to a deathless renown rests upon the fact that a great man brought her to her doom, and so the details of her life story are meager, but a few facts have survived.

At the beginning of the seventeenth century she was a maid servant in the home of a wealthy citizen of Huntingdonshire. She was unusually good-looking, and had some education—a rare thing for a handmaid in those days—and was generally above her station. In the employ of the same family there was a middle-aged man named Armstrong. He was rather unpleasant, with a huge shock of sorrel hair, and little more is known of him, except that he was a great favorite with his master. Armstrong saved his money a penny at a time, and as he approached the end of his life he found he had money enough to buy an inn that was for sale. He and Sarah were married, and took possession of the inn.

It is reasonable to suppose that the business of the master was brought to a close to effect this marriage of the servants, for it doesn't seem probable that Sarah would have chosen as her husband a foolish man more than twice her age. However, that may be, the two settled down in their caravan-sary, and Sarah was greatly respected gentle pastor held her hands she told how she slew her husband.

She was convicted and sentenced to death, and during the brief interval between her trial and execution the man who had been her Nemesis proved her comforter and counselor. He was with her almost constantly through those trying hours, and to such good effect that she went out of the world hopefully, with a smile on her lips.

Not improbably. A gentleman of a very excitable and emotional nature had the misfortune to lose his third wife. He took the affliction very much to heart and at the grave was so overcome that he fainted. His friends gathered around him and were fearful for his life. Among them was a German who spoke English brokenly. He stooped down and felt the gentleman's pulse and taking up said: "He's all right; he'll revive."—The Christian Herald.

Seeds Resemble Aeroplanes. The condurango plant in Peru produces a seedpod from five to eight inches long, filled with seeds which are small aeroplanes in construction. The seed proper is a small oval one the size of a small, light pea. The planes extend from the seed like the wings of a butterfly or aeroplane. When the pod bursts hundreds of these seeds will sail off on a gentle breeze anywhere from 100 yards to half a mile.

Vinegar Prevents Typhoid. Wash and then soak all uncooked vegetables in vinegar if you would escape having typhoid fever. If lettuce, watercress and other greens to be eaten raw be placed in vinegar water (three teaspoonfuls of vinegar to a quart of water is the proportion) to soak (immersed) for one hour and a quarter all danger of typhoid fever will be removed. The acidulated water does not mar the flavor of the vegetable.

Humorous Persian Legend. Concerning the origin of the Kurds there is a picturesque Persian legend. It relates that on the suggestion of the devil the serpents of the mythological monster Zohak were regularly fed upon human brains. Two youths who had been condemned to have their heads rolled for serpent sustenance escaped death by substituting goat's brains for their own. These youths became the progenitors of the Kurds.

SPEEDING IS UNDER A BAN

Heavy Penalty Follows Reckless Driving in French War Zone.

"Strapped to a wagon in full view of the troops for two hours a day, loss of 90 days' pay and loss to the wife of the man's allotment," was the punishment awarded by a field court-martial to a driver for "very slightly exceeding the speed limit." Was Mr. Lloyd-George aware of the case? Mr. C. Watson asks.

The court martial was quite within its rights, is the reply of the war office. Very strict regulations have been laid down to prevent reckless driving in France, the authorities there having had their attention called to a number of cases where children had been injured owing to that cause.

Of Course Not. "The engineers of both trains lost their heads." "Then it was not a head-on collision."

OLD PRESCRIPTION FOR WEAK KIDNEYS

A medicinal preparation like Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, that has real curative value almost sells itself. Like an efficient chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited to those who are in need of it.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is a physician's prescription. It has been tested for years and has brought results to countless numbers who have suffered.

The success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that it fully absorbs every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder diseases, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the acid which causes rheumatism.

Do not suffer. Get a bottle of Swamp-Root from any druggist now. Start treatment today. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but causes the blood to circulate properly opens the pores of the skin and always fever.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Smuggling Cotton. Since cotton became contraband all sorts of ingenious devices have been tried to get it through the blockade. One ship which was intercepted carried what purported to be a cargo of flour. Certainly there was a great deal of flour in it—but a great deal of cotton as well. Some of the first sacks examined putted out correctly. Then an officer kicked one midway. The sack yielded up to the impact of his foot. No dust flew out and it seemed, as he expressed it, like kicking a pillow. At once the sack was emptied, and what a revelation! The middle part of it contained only cotton. All the other sacks gave up a like secret. There was flour on the top, flour at the bottom—and cotton in the middle of them all.

His Meal Ticket. "I met Mr. Blinks at the Van Gork's dinner last night. Isn't he a most fascinating man?" "He has to be. If Blinks didn't get invited out to dinner three or four times a week he'd starve to death."

OH MY BACK

A stubborn backache is cause to suspect kidney trouble. When the kidneys are inflamed and swollen, stooping brings a sharp twinge in the small of the back, that almost takes the breath away. Such twinges may be other symptoms: weary, painful or too frequent urination, headache, dizziness, or rheumatic pains. Don't wait for these troubles to become serious—use Doan's Kidney Pills at once. You'll find no better recommended remedy.

A Michigan Case. Mrs. Mary E. Bittler writes: "I have a dull, dragging feeling across my back, and for months I was in misery. Often the doctor had to give me opiates to relieve the pain. Finally, I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they helped me. I am now well and happy. The pain gradually left me and now I am free from it. Give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit."

An act of Congress on September 8, 1916 now makes it possible for widows who married civil war soldiers previous to June 27, 1905, to be placed on the pension rolls. For twenty years or so, the time limit has been placed at June 27, 1890, but the act passed on Sept. 8 advances the time 15 years. The same act also provides pensions for civil war widows, whose husband's death was not due to service and who remarried before 1905 and were never pensioned.

Episcopal Church News

Last Saturday evening there was a band concert given by the Plymouth band and an ice cream social, for the benefit of St. John's Mission. The original intention was to have had the concert and social on the church lot next to the Grange hall, but as the weather turned so cold it was held in the Grange hall which was very tastefully decorated with bunting, flowers and evergreen by the ladies of the Mission. The affair was a complete success, both socially and financially, and the proceeds exceeded all expectations. Thanks to all those who so willingly came forward with their assistance and support.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Williams has signified his intention of visiting Plymouth early in November. Further details of his visit will be announced at a later date.

A very interesting service is to be held in St. John's Episcopal church Sunday morning. Frederick Gilbert, a representative from the Board of Missions and the Michigan Diocese Club, will be the principal speaker, and will give a very interesting and entertaining talk on the subject of Foreign Missions. The vestry and congregation of St. John's church invite everyone to attend this service, as it presents an opportunity to learn something of what the church is doing in this great outside world.

The meeting held September 14th at the home of Mrs. Isabel Penney was well attended and proved of interest to those present. In the absence of the leaders, Mrs. Oliver Loomis and Mrs. Arthur Stevens, the program was in charge of Miss Nettie Pelham. An excellent article entitled "Miss Wald, Founder of the Henry House," gave a good idea of the fine work done by this remarkable woman. Some good current events were also read by the members.
