WHAT SHALL WE BELIEVE ABOUT THE SOUL OF THE SOLDIER?

Sunday evening a service of special interest to soldiers and the friends of soldiers will be held at the Presbyterian church. The contingent of 36 men to leave for Camp Custer, Monday morning has been invited to attend in a body. In the war literature much that is true and a plenty that is not true is being said about the soul of the soldier. Great themes are suggested by the phrases being used by the soldiers, such as: "The bullet with my name and address on it—the question of fatalism. "You've got to hate the fellow if you are going to do him up right"—the subject of loving the enemy. "The man who dies for a righteous cause is right enough for God"—the question of salvation. "No man is big enough to be a leader until he learns to follow"—the effect of discipline on character. "America will be plums' crazy about the boys when they come back home"—the question of responsibility and pride.

Hear the address Sunday evening, on "The Modern Soldier's Soul"—at

Plymouth Goes "Over the Top"

Plymouth's Quota Has Been Reached and "Then Some," But We Still Want More

Plymouth has gone "over the top" on the Liberty Bond sale and the $33,295 quota has been passed and then some, but the work is not finished. Just because the quota has been reached does not mean that if you have not already subscribed for a Bond that you should not do so if you possibly can. If perchance the solicitors have missed you in their canvass there is a great deal of time for you to call at the Plymouth United Savings Bank and subscribe for a Bond any time before the campaign closes, which is May 4th. The local troop of the Boy Scouts start their campaign Saturday for subscriptions to the Third Liberty Loan, which will give everybody a chance to subscribe who has been missed. Encourage the boys by subscribing for a Bond when they call upon you.

Plymouth Rock Lodge F. & A. M. Entertain

The Wayne County Masters' Association, an organization consisting of the principal officers of all the Blue lodges of Wayne county, was invited to Plymouth, last Friday night, April 19th, to exemplify the ritualistic work of the Master's degree in the local lodge.

The majority of the members of the association arrived about 6:30 p. m., on a special car via the D. U. R., and were met at the edge of town by a special committee, who accompanied them to the dining room of the Presbyterian church, where the visiting brethren and the members of Plymouth Rock Lodge assembled. About two hundred members of the fraternity were served a three-course supper in charge of a committee of Masons and their wives, after which the address of welcome by H. J. Green, W. M., was responded to by President H. C. Norris of the association, which was followed by short appropriate talks by other members of the association, including E. C. Little, who is a candidate for Grand Marshal at the coming Grand Lodge election in May.

The members then formed in line and marched to the lodge rooms, which had been tastefully decorated in the National colors and where the visiting brethren were formally welcomed and the lodge turned over to them. Three candidates were shown through the mysteries of the third degree.

At late hour the visiting members returned to their homes after expressing their appreciation for being so splendidly entertained by Plymouth Rock Lodge.

PLYMOUTH UNITED SAVINGS BANK PLYMOUTH, MICH.

There is a time in the young man's life, known as the egotistical age, when the son thinks he knows more than his father, and says there is plenty of time to begin saving money. As he gets a little older and more experience, he decides his father is a man of pretty good judgment. A little later on the son realizes he is not as smart as he thought he was and now sees that his father's views are correct. The school of experience is an expensive one and our fathers have all been through it. It is a pleasure for the father to feel that his son knows the value of money and is saving a percentage of his earnings. A small sum of $1 will start a savings account at this bank.

Be Kind to Animal Week Well Observed

"Be Kind to Animal Week" was observed by many residents throughout the village and vicinity, last week, and it is believed that considerable good has resulted from it, especially among the younger ones.
During the entire week much interest was manifested in the school and the teachers aided greatly in making the work a success by having appropriate exercises in the various rooms. One little Miss, who is about to become the owner of a Shetland pony, asked for a copy of the "Horse's Prayer," that she might study it thoroughly and understand the better how to care for her pet.
The prizes offered in the different grades for the best essay on Animal Welfare, created considerable enthusiasm, and the following students were winners: From the 4th, 5th and 6th grades, Miss Arlene Newell; from the 7th, 8th and 9th grades, Ralph Miller.
Rev. C. Strasen delivered a fine lecture, on "Kindness to Animals," in the High school auditorium, last Friday afternoon.
During the week a great quantity of interesting and instructive literature on this subject was distributed throughout the school, churches and Sunday-schools of the village. The pastors of the several churches were active in this good work, and on Sunday each one observed the day by delivering an excellent sermon on the subject of Animal Welfare. Many of these sermons will be printed to aid in the work of Animal Relief. The Sunday-schools also observed the day by having stories and talks on Kindness to Animals, and the two prize essays were read in the Methodist Sunday-school. Although Thelma Peck was not a prize winner, her paper was considered so good that she was asked to read it before the Presbyterian Sunday-school.
During the week financial aid was donated the Red Star Animal Relief, and the week has closed with the committee in charge feeling that much good has resulted from their efforts.

AN APPRECIATION

Editor Plymouth Mail:
Permit me through the columns of the Mail to express publicly my appreciation of the Animal Welfare Week exercises, which were held in our public school, last Friday.
Through the untiring efforts of its chairman, the Civic committee are to be commended for the splendid program it offered to the parents and children of Plymouth and vicinity. The speaker of the afternoon, the Rev. Strasen, gave the finest address on "Kindness to Animals," that the writer has ever heard. The address was replete with interesting, instructive and educative teachings. Even the common house-fly found protection in Rev. Strasen's lecture, as he pointed out the fact that poor sanitary conditions in and around the home were invitations to this member of God's kingdom. The discourse throughout showed clearly the speaker was familiar with his subject, and as it was given not only for the benefit of the children, it was regrettable to note the small audience of older people present.
It was a very fine program throughout, and the Civic committee, whose work is along the lines of Community Welfare, gave to the people of Plymouth an afternoon, which will be long remembered.
(Signed) LUTHER PECK.
Joe Hance, Lee Sackett, Floyd Eckles and Harry Mumby were home from Camp Custer, Saturday and Sunday.

Boy Scouts Take Part in Liberty Loan Drive

The full strength of the Boy Scouts of America, numbering nearly 400,000 with their adult leaders, has been called out by President Wilson to conduct a nation-wide intensive Liberty Loan campaign. This campaign will be a "clean-up" house-to-house canvass, just before the close of the general campaign. The Scout campaign will be open on Saturday, April 27, thus making it possible to have two Saturdays within the period of the Boy Scout Campaign.
"Gleaners After the Reapers"
The Scouts will make sure that no one is overlooked and will also give subscribers an opportunity to take just a little bit more. The Boy Scouts of America, as a distinctive service to their country, will work as "gleaners after the reapers." The primary motive of this Boy Scout campaign is to serve our country and help win the war.
The plan of having the Boy Scouts campaign at the end of the regular campaign in a house-to-house canvass, the particular service that has been assigned to the Boy Scouts of America by the United States Treasury Department.
President Wilson Calls the Scouts
President Wilson's letter is as follows:
The White House, Washington, 14 March, 1918.
My Dear Mr. Livingston:
Will you again muster the full strength of the Boy Scouts of America for co-operation with the Treasury Department in securing subscriptions for the Third Liberty Loan? As in the previous campaigns it is desired to have the Boy Scouts of America serve as "gleaners" in a house-to-house canvass after the "reapers," gleaming during the days set aside for your special campaign. The patriotic and effective service of the Boy Scouts in your definitely planned program and war-work activities is a splendid testimonial to the value of organized boyhood in helping our country win the war.
It is the earnest wish that every troop of Boy Scouts and every Scout official take part in your war service activities and especially in these Liberty Loan campaigns. Not only is this of practical service to our country in these critical times, but it is of great educational value to the boys in preparing them for the responsibilities of citizenship.
Sincerely and cordially yours,
WOODROW WILSON.
The Boy Scouts should be given every encouragement in this community. They are tremendously enthusiastic, tireless in their effort and the unselfish service which they are giving to the Government and to all war activities will have a great effect upon their future character as citizens. The boys of today are the men of tomorrow.
Don't discourage them.

New Organ to be Dedicated

The beautiful new pipe organ has been installed at the Presbyterian church during the last ten days. D. S. Wentz of Chicago, representing the M. P. Moller Organ Company of Hagerstown, Maryland, has done the work. The installation of the instrument required considerable changing of the platform, which has been enlarged several feet and lowered nearly a foot. The organ is bi-manual, weighs 5000 pounds, is tubular pneumatic, and has 625 speaking tubes. A public organ recital will be given by an organist from Detroit within the next ten days, full account and program of which will be announced in next Friday's Mail.

Presbyterian Notes

On account of the repairs incident to building the pipe organ, it was impossible to use the Presbyterian auditorium, last Sabbath. Services were held in the church house, however, which was cozy and gave abundance of room.
The Sunday-school observed the animal welfare Sunday with the following program:
Heading—"The Horse's Prayer"—Margaret Bennett
Reading—Julia Wilcox
Essay, "Be Kind to Animals"—Thelma Peck; this being the essay receiving honorable mention in the prize contest in Plymouth's schools, last week. Both the superintendent and the pastor made short addresses. The offering from church and Sunday-school for the Red Star society totaled $6.27.
About thirty went to Northville, last Sabbath evening, representing the Plymouth Christian Endeavor society in the union meeting at the Northville church.
Rev. Edward V. Belles of Northville, preached a strong sermon to the Plymouth congregation, last Sunday evening. It is hoped that he may be present some Sunday at the morning congregation so that all may hear him.
The members of the Young People's Mission Study class will be entertained this evening at the manse in celebration of the completion of the eight weeks' course. The closing study session was held last week.
The Michigan State Anti-Saloon League will hold a great convention at Lansing, Tuesday, April 30, to appropriately perform the funeral ceremony over "John Barleycorn," who, after a long and hilarious life in Michigan, will be laid at rest, May 1, 1918. God-speed the day, and may there be no resurrection!

A man went to a nearby city on business, and while there called at a bank to get specie for some notes he had had on hand for a long time. They proved to be on a defunct concern, and the teller told him they were good for nothing.

Red Cross Notes

The chairmen of the sewing department of the Plymouth Branch of the Red Cross have been giving some time in Detroit, this week, receiving instruction in the making of Refugee garments, which are soon to be made here. There is a large quantity of work to be turned out by this branch, and the women of Plymouth and vicinity are again asked to give as much time as possible to the work.
The quota of 200 pairs of socks, which was allotted the Plymouth Branch of the Red Cross has not yet been reached, and if there is anyone who is not knitting who feel that they could give some time to the work, they are urgently requested to come to headquarters any afternoon in the week except Saturday. Plymouth has never yet failed in the quota assigned her, and the chairmen earnestly seek your assistance in filling this one. Come and help in the work.

Kentucky Grain Drills

Some Good Reasons Why You Should Buy One

FRAMES—Are angle steel which combines lightness and strength.
AXLES—Are 1 1/2 inch cold rolled steel.
SPEED TRANSMISSION—Is a machine in itself, assembled as an independent factor. Large teeth or cogs on bevel pinions and disk wheel mean strength and durability. Ten rows of cogs on disk wheel and two sprockets (6 and 12 tooth) for countershaft give 20 changes for each side of feed cup, 40 all told.
TWO FEEDS IN ONE—Larger side for wheat, rye, etc. Larger for oats, peas, beans, etc. Covers provided to close side in use. Standard equipment: plain drills, single covers; fertilizer drills, double. Square steel feed shafts pass through feed wheels, turning all wheels at the same speed. One revolution of feed wheels carries out a given amount of seed; two revolutions twice as much, and so on. Should it be necessary.
REPAIRS Special attention will be given to repairs for all kinds of farm machinery.

East Lansing—Prof. L. R. Taft, state inspector of orchards, has ordered the killing throughout Michigan of all high berry bushes. This shrub is annually instrumental in causing considerable damage to the grain crop.

Port Huron—A flat and apartment house corporation has been formed here with a capitalization of $20,000 to provide housing accommodations for several hundred persons who will come to this city to be employed in new industries now being completed.

Camp Custer—The fourth officers training school will be started at Camp Custer, May 15. Two per cent of the candidates will be selected from the 85th division. The remainder will be taken from the Central division and credited colleges, as named for the first camp.

Jackson—Edward Putnam, who escaped from the Michigan state prison, enlisted in the Canadian army, served 18 months in the trenches, was gassed and on his return re-arrested in Port Huron while lecturing for the benefit of the Red Cross, has been pardoned by Gov. Sleeper.

Detroit—William Fanscher, two years old, fell into a bathtub of hot water. Before the child was rescued by his mother, he was so badly scalded that he died shortly afterwards. Mrs. Fanscher stepped from the room to obtain some cold water. The child fell off a chair into the tub.

Albion—In a speech here, Horatio Earle, of Detroit, said that the highways of Michigan offered the only relief for Michigan railroads. The short hauls must be taken of the railroads and placed on the highways. If this is not done the people will face freezing every winter as the roads are unable to handle the traffic.

Ann Arbor—Prof. Herbert Sadler, head of the main engineering department of the University of Michigan, has been appointed assistant manager of steel ship construction for the Emergency Fleet corporation. The government ordered him to report at Washington May 1 and to remain there for the duration of the war.

Flint—A citizens' committee is investigating the local coal situation as a result of the refusal of local dealers to fill orders at government prices. The dealers claim they cannot do business at the prices set. Meantime consumers are urged to buy at once and are forbidden to form pools to buy direct from mines or outside dealers.

Camp Custer—Books are beginning to pour into the Custer library as the result of the recent drive. At present the library has 6,000 volumes catalogued and on the shelf, whereas its quota calls for 10,000. As soon as the limit is reached additional reading matter will either be diverted to points of embarkation or given the men from the 85th division just before they leave for overseas.

Lansing—The amount of the cost price of a loaf of bread, between the wheat producer and the bread consumer, is strikingly shown in a recent compilation by the food administration, covering the period from 1913 to the present time. In 1913 but 26 per cent of the cost went to the farmer, as compared with 45 per cent at present. In 1913, 68 per cent of the price of bread was added after the flour left the mill door, as compared with 49 per cent now.

Detroit—Jean Kerr, detective for a downtown store, arrested Mrs. Lena Sansone on a larceny charge and then secured the woman's release, pending arraignment in police court. This was because Mrs. Sansone is the mother of 11 children, and was needed at home, Miss Kerr said. But Mrs. Sansone didn't appear in court and her arrest was ordered. Miss Kerr says she saw Mrs. Sansone's little boy, not more than 8, take a $2 purse from a counter and slip it in the pocket of his older sister.

Lansing—Michigan will observe clean-up and fire prevention week May 6 to 11, according to a proclamation of Frank H. Ellsworth, state fire marshal. All public, as well as private buildings should be inspected during this week, according to the proclamation, fire drills should be held, rubbish cleared away and more stringent regulations passed by governing bodies throughout the state. The statement points out that $716 fires occurring last year in Michigan caused a total fire loss of more than $10,000,000.

Pontiac—Petitions for a new concrete highway from Pontiac to Detroit, carrying sufficient signatures of property owners to cover the entire mileage, have been filed. The route selected is out Auburn avenue from Pontiac, entering Detroit on John R. street, just east of the Ford factory. This route would tap a district thickly settled. It is direct line to Utica and Mt. Clemens and a shorter route to Bay View. It is also a shorter route to the city center than the present route. The route would be 12.5 miles long, but it would be a shorter route to the city center than the present route. The route would be 12.5 miles long, but it would be a shorter route to the city center than the present route.

Detroit—Probably no other man in Michigan has seen more service on the western front than Lieutenant Edward Davison, of Detroit, whose name appears among the wounded in a late casualty list from Ottawa. Davison was widely known in local military circles, having served in the Thirty-first Michigan Volunteer Infantry during the Spanish-American war. At the outbreak of the European war he enlisted in the famous Queen's Own of Toronto, participating in many engagements in Flanders until incapacitated by severe wounds.

Adrian—Charles C. Smith, a proponent of Ridgeway township farmer, was ordered by Sheriff Nutton to sell 400 bushels of wheat that he has been hoarding to get a price of $5 per bushel. The sheriff says he orders under direction of County Food Administrator T. M. Joslyn. Smith denied the charges and said he would not sell the wheat. The sheriff replied unless Smith sold the wheat it will be sold to the government by force. He has already been ordered to sell, but he wants $6 according to statements of the county administrator.

Cheboygan—Fire destroyed the Schultz & Garrow garage, Lovelace bakery, Hub Dry Cleaning works. The loss is $50,000.

Big Rapids—Karl Peters, a high school instructor, and two schoolboys paddled down the Chum and Muskegon rivers from Cadillac to this city, a distance of 35 miles, in three days.

Manistee—The school board has abolished the study of German and substituted Spanish in the high school. Students refused to study German.

Pontiac—Frank Paroski, aged 27, was sentenced to life imprisonment in Marquette penitentiary at hard labor for the killing with a hatchet on September 23 of Theodore Radtke, aged 70.

Traverse City—Over one thousand high school boys are already at work on Michigan farms, and positions have been found for 3,000 more. More than 8,000 boys are enrolled for summer farm work.

Rort Huron—County Food Administrator Summers has ordered Frank Lown, a farmer living near Memphis, to sell several hundred bushels of wheat which it is alleged Lown has been hoarding.

Lansing—Since the legislature of 1909 passed a law requiring non-resident liquor dealers to pay a state tax, $26,125.60 has been collected from this source. From 1911 to 1917 the number of such dealers dropped from 88 to 30.

Detroit—The first Detroit, belonging to an American unit, to be returned because of wounds from "over there" is Corp. Jack G. Ulmer. He was injured on the line of duty November 14, 1917, while manning ammunition. After an explosion of a German shell he was taken to a hospital with 20 fractured bones.

Millington—While the family of George Phelps entertained friends with a musical program, the room was suddenly darkened by a cloud of smoke, the house being as fire. The party barely escaped, the roof having fallen in. Mr. Phelps was painfully burned and Otis Depotay was struck on the head by a falling brick.

Detroit—Two thousand men were rounded up in raids when the dragnet was spread for draft dodgers in pool-rooms, saloons, dance halls and cabarets. The Light Guard army was used to corral the prisoners, and, after grueling investigations, 200 of the number taken were held at police headquarters for further examination.

Lansing—An appeal to the food administration and the governor for help on the milk problem was made by a delegation of dairymen and farmers from Portland, Ionia county. Fifteen thousand pounds of milk daily is being wasted in that vicinity, according to the protestors, because the government has reduced its purchase of condensed milk.

Ann Arbor—The Deutscher Verein of the University of Michigan has been allowed to lapse for the duration of the war, although the organization has not formally disbanded. The property of the Verein has been turned over to President Hutchins, of the university, to do with as he sees fit. Both students and faculty members belong to the organization.

Saginaw—The name of the Germania school has been changed to "Lincoln". The motion was supported by School Inspector G. F. Opperman, former president of the Germania society which established the school 40 years ago and later turned it over to the city. The budget for the year provides for an increase of 10 per cent in the salaries of the teachers.

Camp Custer—Law and order is evidently more prevalent in the 85th division than in any other army organization. A report shows that the division has had fewer general court-martials than any cantonment, army post or point where troops are being assembled in the United States. This is in spite of the fact that during March and April more general courts were held than in all the previous months the division has been organized.

Ann Arbor—Low neck shirtwaists worn by women have caused a big decrease in tuberculosis, according to Dr. William De Kleine, president of the Michigan Anti-tuberculosis association. The low necks being credited in large part with the fact that the disease is now less prevalent among women than among men. The theory is that the exposure of the throat and neck gives the women greater power of resistance to all throat and lung diseases.

Camp Custer—After several weeks' investigation and consideration, division headquarters completed a tentative arrangement for passenger service between Camp Custer and Battle Creek. The jitney problem has been one which has provided considerable food for thought. The camp has thought the jitneys are necessary, but had realized also that they must be regulated. Jitneys are compelled to have a common depot in Battle Creek and one in camp. A line of buses is being operated in camp.

Detroit—Probably no other man in Michigan has seen more service on the western front than Lieutenant Edward Davison, of Detroit, whose name appears among the wounded in a late casualty list from Ottawa. Davison was widely known in local military circles, having served in the Thirty-first Michigan Volunteer Infantry during the Spanish-American war. AMERICAN TROOPS REPULSE ATTACK AND HOLD LINES

AIDED BY FRENCH, GERMANS ARE DRIVEN BACK, BERLIN CLAIMS 183 AMERICAN PRISONERS TAKEN IN RAID.

BRITISH AND FRENCH MAKE SUCCESSFUL COUNTER ATTACK

Hammer Great Dent in Enemy Lines and Improve Positions—Prisoners and Guns, First Since Battle Started, Were Taken.

Events of the First Month of Present Great Battle.

The chief events of the first month of the biggest battle the world has ever known are as follows:

March 21—Offensive opens with German artillery attack on British near St. Quentin that could be heard in England.

March 22—German massed troops assault in close formation over line of 50 miles.

March 23—British army driven back between Arras and LaFere, with Germans throwing million men into fight.

March 24—Somme crossed by Germans who capture Ham, Peronne and Chauny.

March 25—Deep wedge, driven between French and English armies with the capture of Noyon.

March 27—Albert lost by British.

April 12—Armentiers lost by British.

April 16—Neuve Eglise lost by British.

April 17—Wyschaete, Wulverghem and Bailleul taken by Germans.

April 18—Germans checked along Givenchy-LaBassee canal front. Their drive in Flanders slowed up.

April 20—British make counter blow, compelling Germans to give up ground around Givenchy.

London—The German high command, having been unsuccessful in piercing the British front in Flanders and separating British and French armies, essayed a stroke against Americans and French northwest of Toul, on April 20, and here also Teuton strategy seemingly has failed utterly to bring its plans to fruition.

Although Germans attacked in waves with greatly superior numbers of men, Americans and Frenchmen held all their positions and inflicted heavy losses on the enemy. What gains were made in the initial onslaughts were entirely retrieved by the American and French.

The Berlin official communication asserts in the drive 183 American prisoners and 25 machine guns were captured by Germans, who cut their way for about a mile and a quarter into the American lines at Selchepey.

Allies Improve Positions. London—Both the British and French struck sharp, successful, local blows in Flanders April 20, which materially improved their positions.

The crowning success of the Allies' local operations came when the French in a brilliant charge on the center of the German southern wedge, to the northwest of Bethuns, hammered a great dent into the enemy's lines. They took prisoners and captured several German cannon, the first to be taken from the foe since he launched his great spring drive.

French Reserves Arrive in Time. London—Reinforced by French troops, the Allied line is holding hard against further incursions by the Germans from the region of La Bassee to the north of Ypres, according to April 19 reports. Everywhere the Germans have struck the line in an endeavor to press back the defenders, they have been repulsed with heavy losses and have been successful nowhere in gaining further ground.

Attacks of an extraordinary violent nature were thrown by the Germans on the 10-mile front between Givenchy and Robecq, where an endeavor was made to cross the La Bassee canal and bend southward the salient which outflanks the important railroad town of Bethune.

If successful, the new attack of the Germans would jeopardize the entire Arras sector, which includes the famous French coaling region about Lens and the equally famous Vimy ridge, where the Canadians are holding forth.

Austrian Factions Near Revolt. Washington—Following the resignation of the Hungarian ministry, the political situation in Austria-Hungary is extremely delicate, according to an official dispatch from Switzerland, summarizing reports from Budapest and comment in Austrian and German newspapers. Marked discontent reigns in Vienna, according to the dispatch, while speeches delivered in parliament by the Czechs, Jug-Slavs and Poles inspire hatred of Germany and demand reorganization of Austria-Hungary.

Oakland Prisoners Held Roads. Pontiac—Oakland county jail prisoners will work on the roads of the county this summer under an order of the supervisors, who have instructed the sheriff to turn over to the road commissioners as many men as are available for highway building. A local council for the National Boy Scouts has also been organized here under direction of Arthur H. Roberts, national commissioner of Chicago. It is planned to raise $5,000 and employ a social commissioner for the work.

There Is No Monopoly in the packing industry. Swift & Company, although the largest packer, handles not to exceed one-eighth of the total meat production of the United States. The five large packers do not handle to exceed one-third of the total meat production of the United States. Swift & Company is not in combination with any other packer or packers to control prices. There is very active competition in the buying of live-stock and equally keen competition in the sale of dressed meats and by-products. 1918 year book of interesting and instructive facts sent on request. Win the War by Preparing the Land Sowing the Seed and Producing Bigger Crops Work in Joint Effort the Soil of the United States and Canada CO-OPERATIVE FARMING IS REAL POWER NECESSARY TO WIN THE BATTLE FOR LIBERTY. The Food Controllers of the United States and Canada are asking for greater food production. Scarcely 100,000,000 bushels of wheat are available to be sent to the allies overseas before the crop harvest. Upon the efforts of the United States and Canada rests the burden of supply. Every Available Tillable Acre Must Contribute; Every Available Farmer and Farm Hand Must Assist. Western Canada has an enormous acreage to be seeded, but man power is short, and an appeal to the United States allies is for more men for seeding operation. Canada's Wheat Production Last Year was 228,000,000 Bushels; the Demand From Canada Alone for 1918 is 400,000,000 Bushels. To secure this she must have assistance. She has the land but needs the men. Smallpox Laid to Pet Dog. A report on an epidemic of virulent smallpox in one of the Southwestern states, submitted to the surgeon general of the public health service by one of the officers of that corps, sets forth with renewed emphasis the role that domestic pets may play in the transmission of disease, especially among children.

The instance cited was that of a fatal case of smallpox in an infant in arms. The nearest case of the disease was in a house a block or so distant, and although the two families had no social relations, this apparently did not deter a dog belonging to the infected family from dividing his attention impartially between the two homes, eating at one place and sleeping at the other.

North of Fifty-Three

By BERTRAND W. SINCLAIR

"If money meant that we would be compelled to lead the sort of existence of these people do," he exclaimed. "I'd take measures to be broke as soon as possible."

"You're awful!" Hazel commented. Bill snorted again. "Tomorrow, you advise our hostess that we're traveling," he instructed. "When we come back we'll make headquarters at a hotel until we locate a place of our own—if you are sure you want to winter here."

Her mind was quite made up to spend the winter there, and she frankly said so—provided he had no other choice. They had to winter somewhere. "Oh, yes, I suppose so. All right; we'll winter here," Bill acquiesced. "That's settled."

And, as was his habit when he had come to a similar conclusion, he refused to talk further on that subject, but fell to speculating idly on New York. In which he was presently aided and abetted by Hazel, who had never invaded Manhattan, not, for that matter, any of the big Atlantic cities.

New York, she was constrained to admit, rather overwhelmed her. She traversed Broadway and other world-known avenues, and felt a trifle dubious amid the unceasing crush. Bill piloted her to famous cafes, and to equally famous theaters. She made sundry purchases in magnificent shops. The huge conglomeration of sights and sounds made an unforgettable impression upon her. She sensed keenly the colossal magnitude of it all. But she felt a distinct wave of relief when they were Granville bound once more.

In a week they were settled comfortably in a domicile of their own—five rooms in an up-to-date apartment house. And since the social demands on Mrs. William Wagstaff's time grew sparse, a capable maid and a cook were added to the Wagstaff establishment. Thus she was relieved of the onus of housework. Her time was wholly her own, at her own disposal or Bill's, as she elected.

But by imperceptible degrees they came to take diverse roads in the swirl of life which had caught them up. There were so many little woman affairs where a man was superfluous. There were others which Bill flatly refused to attend. "Hen parties," he dubbed them. More and more he remained at home with his books.

Sometimes Hazel caught herself wondering if they were getting as much out of the holiday as they should have gotten, as they had planned to. "What's All the Clerical Work About?" she inquired.

get when they were struggling through that interminable winter. She was, but not Bill. If she ventured to give a tea, he fled the house as if from the plague. He made acquaintances of his own, men from God only knew where. Individuals who occasionally filled the dining apartment with malodorous to-bacco fumes, and who would cheerfully sit up all night discoursing earnestly on any subject under the sun. But so long as Bill found Granville habitable she did not mind.

She wished fervently that Bill would take up some business that would keep him in touch with civilization. He had the capital, she considered, and there was no question of his ability. Her faith in his power to encompass what ever he set about was strong. Other men, less gifted, had acquired wealth, power, even a measure of fame, from a less auspicious beginning. Why not he?

But she could never quite bring herself to put it in so many words to Bill. The cycle of weeks brought them to January. They had dropped into something of a routine in their daily lives. Bill's interest and participation in social affairs became negligible. When he was not absorbed in a book or magazine, he spent his time in some downtown haunt, having acquired membership in a club as a concession to their manner of life. Once he came home with flushed face and overbright eyes, radiating an odor of whisky. Hazel had never seen him drink to excess. She was correspondingly shocked, and took no pains to hide her feelings. But Bill was blandly undisturbed.

lunched at home. Late in the afternoon he telephoned briefly that he would dine downtown. And when he did return, at nine or thereabouts in the evening, he clamped a cigar between his teeth, and fell to work covering a sheet of paper with interminable rows of figures.

"What is all the clerical work about?" she inquired. "Reckoning your assets and liabilities?" Bill smiled and pushed aside the paper. "I'm going to promote a mining company," he told her, quite casually. "It has been put up to me as a business proposition—and I've got to the stage where I have to do something, or I'll sure have the 'Willies.'"

She overlooked the latter statement; it conveyed no special significance at the time. But his first statement opened up possibilities such as of late she had sincerely hoped would come to pass, and she was all interest. "Promote a mining company?" she repeated. "That sounds extremely businesslike. How—when—where?"

"Now—here in Granville," he replied. "You see," he continued, warming up a bit to the subject, "when I was prospecting that creek where we made the clean-up last summer, I ran across a well-defined quartz lead. I packed out a few samples in my pockets, and I happened to show them as well as one or two of the nuggets to some of these fellows at the club a while back. Lorimer took the piece of the quartz and had it assayed. It looms up as something pretty big. So he and Brooks and couple of other fellows want me to go ahead and organize and locate a group of claims in there. Twenty or thirty thousand dollars capital might make 'em all rich. Of course, the placer end of it will be the big thing while the lode is being developed. Getting the start is easy. These fellows I've talked to are dead anxious to get in."

"But"—her knowledge of business methods suggested a difficulty—"you can't sell stock in a business that has no real foundation—yet. Don't you have to locate those claims first?" "Wise old head; you have the idea, all right," he smiled. "But this is not a stock-jobbing proposition. I wouldn't be in on it if it were, believe me. It's to be a corporation, where not to exceed six men will own all the stock that's issued. And so far as the claims are concerned, I've got Whitey Lewis located in Fort George, and I've been burning the wires and spending a bundle of real money getting him grub-staked. He has got four men besides himself all ready to hit the trail as soon as I give the word."

"You won't have to go?" she put in quickly. "No," he murmured. "It isn't necessary, at this particular stage of the game. But I wouldn't mind popping a whip over a good string of dogs. Just the same."

"B-r-r-r!" she shivered involuntarily. "Four hundred miles across that deep snow, through that steady, flesh-searing cold. I don't envy them the journey."

She came over and stood by him, playfully rumpiling his brown hair with her fingers. "I'm glad you've found something to loose to that pent-up energy of yours on, Billy-boy," she said. "You'll make a success of it, I know. I don't see why you shouldn't make a success of any kind of business. But I didn't think you'd ever tackle business. You have such peculiar views about business and business practice."

"I despise the ordinary business ethic," he returned sharply. "But I can exploit the resources of nature. And that is my plan. If we make money it won't be flched by a complex process from the other fellow's pockets; it won't be wealth created by shearing lambs in the market, by sweatshop labor, or adulterated food, or exorbitant rental of filthy dealing with. I'm not overly anxious to get into it with them. But it promises action of some sort—and I have to do something till spring."

In the spring! That brief phrase set Hazel to sober thinking. With April or May Bill would spread his wings for the North. There would be no more staying him than the flight of the wild goose to the ready nesting grounds could be stayed. Well, a summer in the North would not be so bad, she reflected. But she hated to think of the isolation. It grieved her to contemplate exchanging her beautifully furnished apartment for a log cabin in the woods.

Still she had hopes. If he plunged into business associations with Jimmie Brooks and Paul Lorimer and others of that group, there was no telling what might happen. His interests might become permanently identified with Granville. Bill informed her from time to time as to the progress of his venture. The company was duly incorporated, with an authorized capital of one hundred thousand dollars, five thousand dollars' worth of stock being taken out by each on a cash basis—the remaining seventy-five thousand lying in the company treasury, to be held or sold for development purposes as the five saw fit when work began to show what the claims were capable of producing.

In early March came a telegram from Whitey Lewis saying that he had staked the claims, both placer and lode; that he was bound out by the Telegraph Trail to file at Hazelton. Bill showed her the message—wired from Station Six.

"I wish I could have been in on it—that was some trip," he said—and there was a trace of discontent in his tone. "I don't fancy somebody else pawing my chestnuts out of the coals for me. It was sure a man's job to cross the Klappan in the dead of winter."

The filing completed, there was ample work in the way of getting out and whipsawing timber to keep the five men busy till spring—the five who were on the ground. Lewis sent word that thirty feet of snow lay in the gold-bearing branch. And that was the last they heard from him. He was a performer, Bill said, not a correspondent.

Free in Granville the affairs of the Free Gold Mining company remained at a standstill until the spring floods should peel off the winter blanket of the North. Ultimately, spring overpaved the eastern provinces. And when the snows of winter successively gave way to muddy streets and then to clean pavements in the city of Granville, a new gilt sign was lettered across the windows of the brokerage office in which Paul Lorimer was housed.

FREE GOLD MINING COMPANY. P. H. Lorimer, P. J. L. Brooks, Sec.-Treas. William Wagstaff, Manager.

So it ran. Bill was commissioned in the army of business at last.

CHAPTER XV. A Business Journey.

"I have to go to the Klappan," Bill apprised his wife one evening. "Want to come along?" Hazel hesitated. Her first instinctive feeling was one of reluctance to retrace the nerve-trying trail. But neither did she wish to be separated from him.

"I see you don't," he observed dryly. "Well, I can't say that I blame you. It's a stiff trip." "I'm sorry I can't feel any enthusiasm for such a journey," she remarked candidly. "I could go as far as I coast with you, and meet you there when you come out. How long do you expect to be in there?" "I don't know exactly," he replied. "I'm not going in from the coast, though. I'm taking the Ashcroft-Fort George Trail. I have to take in a pack train and more men and get work started on a decent scale."

"But you won't have to stay there all summer and oversee the work, will you?" she inquired anxiously. "I should," he said. "For a second or two he drummed on the table top. "But is there any real necessity for you to stay on the ground?" she pursued her own line of thought. "I should think an undertaking of this size would justify hiring an expert to take charge of the actual mining operations. Won't you have this end of it to look after?"

"Lorimer and Brooks are eminently capable of upholding the dignity and importance of that sign they've got smeared across that window downtown," he observed curtly. "The chief labor of the office they've set up will be to divide the proceeds. The work will be done and the money made in the Klappan Range. You sabb that, don't you?" "I'm not stupid," she pointed. "I'm going tomorrow," he said. "I think on the whole, it'll be just as well if you don't go. Stay here and enjoy yourself. I'll transfer some more money to your account. I think I'll drop down to the club."

She followed him out into the hall, and, as he wriggled into his coat, she had an impulse to throw her arms around his neck and declare, in all sincerity, that she would go to the Klappan or to the north pole or any place on earth with him, if he wanted her. But by some peculiar feminine reasoning she reflected in the same instant that if Bill were away from her in a few weeks he would be all the more glad to get back. That closed her mouth. It was not wise to be too meek or obedient where a husband was concerned. That was another mite of wisdom she had garnered from the wives of her circle.

So she kissed Bill good-by at the station next day with perfect good humor and no parting emotion of any particular keenness. And if he were a trifle sorer he showed no sign of resentment, nor uttered any futile wishes that she could accompany him. "So long," he said from the car steps. "I'll keep in touch—all I can."

Then he was gone. Somehow, his absence made less difference than Hazel had anticipated. She had secretly expected to be very lonely at first. And she was not. Even when in her hand she held a telegram dated at a point five hundred or a thousand miles or double that distance away she did not experience the feeling of complete bodily absence. She always felt as if he were near. Only at night, when there was no long arm to pillow her head, no good-night kiss as she dozed into slumber, she missed him, realized that he was far away.

Early in June came a brief wire from Station Six. Three weeks later the Free Gold Mining company set up a mild ripple of excitement along Broad street by exhibiting in their office window a forty-pound heap of coarse gold; raw, yellow gold, just as it had come from the sluice. Every day knots of men stood gazing at the treasure. Bill had forwarded the first clean-up.

And close on the heels of this—ten days later, to be exact—came home. "You great bear," Hazel laughed, in the shelter of his encircling arms. "My, it's good to see you again."

She pushed herself back a little and surveyed him admiringly, with a gratified sense of proprietorship. The cheeks of him were tanned to a healthy brown, his eyes clear and shining. The offending flesh had fallen away on the strenuous paths of the Klappan. He radiated boundless vitality, strength, alertness, that perfect co-ordination of mind and body that is bred of faring resourcefully along rude ways. She thrilled at the touch of his hand, was content to lay her head on his shoulder and forget everything in the joy of his physical nearness.

They elected to spend the evening quietly at home, as they used to do. To Hazel it seemed quite like old times. Bill told her of the Klappan country, and their prospects at the mine. "It's going to be a mighty big thing," he declared. "I'm so glad," said Hazel. "We've got a group of ten claims. Whitey Lewis and the original stakers hold an interest in their claims. I, acting as agent for these other fellows in the company, staked five more. I took in eight more men—and believe me, things were humming when I left. And, say, I went in by the ranch. Old Jake has a fine garden. He's still pegging away with the mule and Gretchen, der cow. I offered him a chance to make a fat little stake at the mine, but he didn't want to leave. Something of a philosopher in his way. Pretty wise old head. He'll make good, all right."

In the morning, Bill ate his breakfast and started downtown. "That's the dickens of being a business man," he complained to Hazel, in the hallway. "It rides a man, once it gets hold of him. Adios, little person. I'll get out for lunch, business or no business."

Eleven-thirty brought him home, preoccupied and frowning. And he carried his frown and his preoccupation to the table. "Whatever is the matter, Bill?" Hazel anxiously inquired. "Oh, I've got a nasty hunch that there's a nigger in the woodpile," he replied. "And that has all been vouchsafed. He finished his luncheon and left the house. He was scarcely out of sight when Jimmie Brooks' runabout drove up at the curb. A half minute later he was ushered into the living room. "Bill in?" was his first query. "No, he left just a few minutes ago," Hazel told him.

Mr. Brooks, a short, heavy-set, neatly dressed gentleman, whose rather weak blue eyes loomed preternaturally large and protuberant behind pince-nez that straddled an insignificant snub nose, took off his glasses and twiddled them in his white, well-kept fingers.

First Use of Cars. The idea of propelling ships independently of the wind first led to the use of oars. The discovery of land vehicles and the means of propulsion of land vehicles soon led to attempts to utilize it on behalf of vessels. It is claimed that the first attempt at this propulsion was made by Blasco de Garay, at Barcelona, in 1385.

"Ah, too bad!" he murmured. "Thought I'd catch him. "By the way," he continued, after a pause, "you—ah—well, frankly, I have reason to believe that you have a good deal of influence with your husband in business matters, Mrs. Wagstaff."

"Well, I don't know; perhaps I have. Why?" "Well—ah—you see," he began rather lamely. "The fact is—I hope you'll regard this as strictly confidential, Mrs. Wagstaff. I wouldn't want Bill to think I, or any of us, was trying to bring pressure on him. But the fact is, Bill's got a mistaken impression about the way we're conducting the financial end of this mining proposition. You understand? Very able man, your husband, but headstrong as the deuce. I'm afraid to speak frankly—be'll create a lot of unpleasantness. Might disrupt the company, in fact, if he sticks to the position he took this morning. Thought I'd run in and talk it over with him. Fellow's generally in a good humor, you know, when he's lunched comfortably at home."

"I'm quite in the dark," Hazel confessed. "Bill seemed a trifle put out about something. He didn't say what it was about."

"Shall I explain?" Mr. Brooks suggested. "You'd understand—and you might be able to help. I don't as a rule believe in bringing business into the home, but this bothers me. I hate to see a good thing go wrong."

"Explain, by all means," Hazel promptly replied. "If I can help, I'll be glad to."

"Thank you," Mr. Brooks polished his glasses industriously for a second and replaced them with painstaking exactitude. "Now—ah—this is the situation: When the company was formed, five of us, including your husband, took up enough stock to finance the preliminary work of the undertaking. The remaining stock, seventy-five thousand dollars in amount, was left in the treasury, to be held or put on the market as the situation warranted. With the first clean-up, Bill forwarded facts and figures to show that we had a property far beyond our greatest expectations. And, of course, we saw at once that the thing was ridiculously undercapitalized."

"So we held a meeting and authorized the secretary to sell stock. Naturally, your husband wasn't cognizant of this move, for the simple reason that there was no way of reaching him—and his interests were thoroughly protected, anyway. The stock was listed on change. A good bit was disposed of privately. We now have a large fund in the treasury. It's a cinch. We've got the property, and it's rich enough to pay dividends on a million. The decision of the stockholders is unanimously for enlargement of the capital stock. You understand? You follow me?"

"Certainly," Hazel answered. "But what is the difficulty, Bill?" "Bill is opposed to the whole plan," he said, pursing up his lips with evident disapproval of Bill Wagstaff and all his works. "He seems to feel that we should not have taken this step. He declares that no more stock must be sold, that there must be no enlargement of capital. In fact, that we must pay along in the little one-hour way we started. And that would be a shame. We could make the Free Gold Mining company the biggest thing on the map, and put ourselves on Easy Street."

He spread his hands in a gesture of real regret. "Bill's a fine fellow," he said. "And one of my best friends. But he's a hard man to do business with. He takes a very peculiar view of the matter. I'm afraid he'll queer the company if he sticks up trouble over this. That's why I hope you'll use whatever influence you have, to induce him to withdraw his opposition."

"But," Hazel murmured, in some perplexity, "from what little I know of corporations, I don't see how he can set up any difficulty. How can he stop you from taking any line of action whatever?"

"Oh, not that at all," Brooks hastily assured. "Of course, we can outvote him, and put it through. But we want his opinion of his ability. He's the high opinion of man who gets results; practical, you know; knows mining to a T. Only he shies at our financial method. And if he began any foolish litigation, or silly rumors got started about trouble among the company officers, it's bound to hurt the stock. It's all right, I assure you. We're not foisting a wildcat on the market. We've got the goods. Bill admits that. It's the regular method. Legally legitimate, but good finance. Every dollar's worth of stock sold has the value behind it. Distributes the risk a little more, that's all, and gives the company a fund to operate successfully."

HOW TO AVOID BACKACHE AND NERVOUSNESS

Told by Mrs. Lynch From Own Experience.

Providence, R. I.—"I was all run down in health, was nervous, had headaches, my back ached, my feet ached all the time. I was tired and had no ambition for anything. I had taken a number of medicines which did me no good. One day I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I had done for women, so I tried it. My nervousness and backache and headaches disappeared. I gained in weight and feel fine, so I can honestly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any woman who is suffering as I was."—Mrs. ANDREW B. LYNCH, 100 Plain St., Providence, R. I. Backache and nervousness are symptoms of nature's warnings, which indicate a functional disturbance of an unhealthy condition which often develops into a more serious ailment. Women in this condition should not continue to drag along without help, but profit by Mrs. Lynch's experience, and try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and for special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

Mason and Dixon's Line. James V. Cabines, a traveling man of Evansville, told the following story the other day:

"Coming home recently from Oklahoma I heard a bit of darkey humor. I was on a train and Oklahoma has a 'Jim Crow' law similar to the one in Kentucky. However, there had been such a demand for troop coaches that our train had only the old-fashioned cars without any compartments. One of a group of negroes who had segregated themselves in one end of the coach gravely took a piece of twine out of his pocket and stretched it across the aisle from opposite window tracks.

"What's that line?" asked one of his friends. "Mason and Dixon's," he grinned.—Indianapolis News.

Ingenious Argument. Billy had always wanted a dog, but as an excuse his mother told him she could not afford to feed one on account of the war. But afterward he found a stray dog so little he could carry it in his arms without any effort.

His mother met him at the door as he was bringing it home and exclaimed: "Now, Billy, I told you all about why I couldn't keep a dog. Take it back where you found it right away."

"But ma," the little fellow argued, "he's so small he can live on the crumbs I drop on the tablecloth."

Making Good. "The hen is a poet." "How do you make that out?" "Doesn't she annually put forth an Easter lay?"

Paris Chauffeurs Are Schemers

Have Developed Ingenious Trick to Play on Sympathies of Unsuspecting American Women.

Paris taxi cab drivers—how many stories have been and will be written about them—are now playing a new trick on unsuspecting Americans and even French people, especially women. There are several popular restaurants on the Avenue Trudaine, which is only reached from the boulevards by climbing the hill in the Rue des Martyrs. It takes time and patience to mount that grade; that is why many taxis stop after starting the ascent.

The driver (wearing frantic efforts to start—the engine, pokes around, makes another effort to start, throws up his hands and exclaims: "It's broken down! It won't go a foot further."

in kind. He is sad, and shakes his head mournfully. "My whole evening's work will be wasted by the time this car's pulled back to the garage. I can't make any money tonight!"

As like as not, the sympathy of his passenger is aroused, and she gives him a good tip in addition to the fare indicated by the taximeter—and then walks up hill. When she is out of sight the chauffeur lifts the hood against, twists a valve and the engine starts with a bang. He hops to his seat and rattles back to the boulevard, hoping to find another easy mark.

The Hardest Job We Have

In the course of a Delco-Light demonstration to a farmer the other day, I explained how easy and simple it is to pump water with a little electric motor.
 His interest was immediately aroused. He said with emphasis: "That's the hardest job we have." He said it takes him or one of his men an hour every evening to pump water for the stock. This man will put in Delco-Light, and while he is doing the rest of the chores an electric motor will pump the water at a cost of about two cents an hour.
 What is your "hardest job?" Perhaps Delco-Light will do it for you. It will do a dozen hard jobs on the farm, and furnish an abundance of the best light as well.
