DEATH OF MRS. LOUIS HINNAU
 Mrs. Edna Pearl Hinnau, aged 38 years, wife of Louis Hinnau of this place, passed away at her on Mill street, Friday morning, October 25th, after a few days' illness from Spanish influenza, which later developed into pleuro-pneumonia. The deceased is survived by her husband and two children, David and Dorothy her father, who resides in Cincinnati, Ohio, besides several brothers and sisters. Early Saturday morning the remains were taken to Cincinnati, her former home, where funeral services and interment took place. Mrs. Hinnau was a woman of pleasing personality, and during her residence here had made many friends, who deeply sympathize with the family in their bereavement.

METHODIST CHURCH PLANS FOR CHURCH-LESS SUNDAY

If christian folk must always pray
 Within four walls of brick,
 How sad 'twould be to close the church door
 When half the town is sick.
 But in the quiet spots of home,
 With those we dearly love,
 With chastened spirits we may seek
 The grace of God above.
 And most of all, within the heart,
 Far from sound or sight,
 The human temple's inner shrine,
 Where glows the inner light
 Undimmed when "all the hosts
 Of ill are most abroad,"
 There with no intervening priest,
 We may all kneel with God.
 So let us keep our gladsome trust,
 This churchless day of prayer,
 And grope again the ancient truth,
 That God is everywhere.
 If the ban on church services is not lifted this week, it is urged that every christian home in the community shall be a place of private worship, next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, with singing, prayer, scripture and the reading of a sermon or some good religious article. A number of requests have come for a suggested order of service that will make for uniformity and the following is offered:

PLAN OF HOME WORSHIP
 (Hymn numbers refer to "Songs for Service")
 1. Hymn, No. 270, "Sweet Hour of Prayer."
 2. Responsive, read No. 340, in Billy Sunday song-book, or any scripture selection read around, each one reading a verse in turn; or have one of the children read the scripture.
 3. Prayer. The following may be used:
 "Our Heavenly Father, while we turn aside to rest this day with Thee, the great feverish world goes throbbing on. May something of Thy blessed Sabbath peace come into the hearts of folks today.
 "Be pleased to meet with us here this morning and bless us even though we may not meet in the house of worship. Help us to remember this day to keep it holy. Thou hast given it to us, not as a burdensome observance, but as a day of blessing. We need its rest and the spiritual vision which it may bring. If we had no Sabbath, we should soon lose Thee, let Thee slip out of our thoughts. Help us to keep the day so as to please Thee and find the largest good for ourselves. May our home life be made sweet by Thy presence with us. Our minds have been ruffled and distracted by the cares of the week. Give us Thy peace this morning. May all fret and anxiety be taken out of our hearts.
 "Bless our home this day. Remember the children and direct their footsteps in the ways of right, and help us who are older to set worthy examples of christian living.
 "We remember the sick and afflicted among us and we turn to Thee for help for all whose homes are filled with anxiety or sorrow because the ravages of disease. Comfort all who mourn, restore the sick to health, and may they all find Thee a rock of refuge in the time of trouble.
 "God bless our soldiers today wherever they may be. May something of Thy peace come to them even in the midst of war. Protect them from danger without and from inclination to evil within. Keep them pure and noble, and as speedily as a peace of Thine approval can come to the world, bring them back to us again. Especially bless all homes today, where the service flag hangs in the window.
 "We would also remember the soldiers of the cross, our missionaries and christian workers everywhere. There is a great work in making the world safe for democracy and humanity. Strengthen them in every good work and stir up our hearts to stand back of them with our prayers and our money.
 "And now, take us into Thy care divine. Forgive us our sins and inspire new purposes within us. Lead us forth into that unknown path that stretches down through the coming days, and help us not to stray from Thee.
 "We ask it all in Christ's name."
 4. Hymn No. 284, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."
 5. Read a sermon to the family or a good article from a religious paper or some good book. Rev. F. M. Field, Methodist pastor, will furnish a sermon to be read to everyone who asks for it.
 6. Song, No. 275, "Savior Like a Shepherd Lead Us."

SCHOOLS CLOSED THIS WEEK
 At a meeting of the Board of Education held Monday evening, it was deemed advisable to close the public schools, commencing Tuesday morning for the balance of the week. The closing of the schools was taken as a preventative measure and to allay public fear during the epidemic of Spanish influenza, which is prevalent at this time. There does not appear to be any serious cases in Plymouth at present, and it is thought that the disease has been checked here to a great extent. The schools will reopen again next Monday morning, November 4th.

An Old Man's Stomach
 As we grow older and less active, less and less food is required to meet the demands of our bodies. If too much is habitually taken, the stomach will rebel. When a man reaches the advanced age of 85 or 90, you will find that he is a light eater. Be as careful as you will, however, you will occasionally feel more than you should and will feel the need of Chamberlain's Tablets to correct the disorder. These Tablets do not contain poison, but strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. They also cause gentle movement of the bowels.—Adv.

OBITUARY

LYMAN O'BRYAN
 Lyman O'Bryan was born Sept. 13, 1901, in the village of Wayne, Michigan. When he was eighteen months old, his parents moved upon a farm near Plymouth, where practically all of his life was spent. He passed the eighth grade examination, when he was eleven years of age, and entered Plymouth High school before he was quite twelve, attending here one and one-half years. Then at his earnest request, he was allowed to take charge of his grandmother's farm. Thoughtful and capable beyond his years, showing many acts of loving devotion and solicitation for his loved ones he took up his burden cheerfully, and precious memories of these acts form a loving tribute to his memory. Becoming discouraged with farm profits, he first went to relatives in the city, and late in August to his father in Flint, and was working at the Dort Motor Car factory at the time of his death. He died in a hospital in Flint, Oct. 19, 1918, of pneumonia, a bright young life cut off before the fulfillment of its promise, and those who are left to grieve find it hard to understand and trust for its fulfillment in the life beyond.

REGISTRATION OF WAR BONDS IS URGED BY LOAN OFFICIALS

Important Information on Liberty Bonds Given Out by Government Officials.
 Important information concerning the registration of Liberty Loan bonds, as given out by the bond department of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago contains the following quotation from a letter from the treasury department:
 "With reference to accepting subscriptions for bonds to be registered in the names of persons giving only initials rather than the full name, I have to say that it is the intent of the department, not for its own sake, but for the sake of the holders of registered bonds, to have them registered in such manner as to enable the said holders, or their legal representatives, to dispose of them in the simplest and readiest manner. Bonds issued to women under their initials, or under the initials of their husbands, are not readily transferable in case of the death of the holder.
 "Though, letters of administration would be issued in the legal name of the deceased, and the bonds would be inscribed in her name, under her initials, or those of her husband, as the case might be, the letters of administration and the bonds would not agree as to the name, and therefore the administrator of Mrs. Sarah A. Smith, say, would have to prove that she and Mrs. Thomas W. Smith (or Mrs. S. Smith) were one and the same person. It is to avoid troubles of this character that the department has insisted on receiving the legal name of persons subscribing for registered bonds.
 "Of course, the department cannot refuse to issue bonds under initials if the parties interested insist upon it, but it is requested that you, in all cases where it is possible, insist on receiving the full names of persons subscribing for registered bonds."
 If you have anything to buy or sell, try the Mail want column. Better late than never. Mahlon Peasars of this village, who was up to over 71 years of rustling around in this same sphere, took a regular job in a Detroit factory and in three months had earned $200 and mounted every cent in Fourth Liberty Bonds.—Birmingham Eccentric.

WILSON MUST MAKE WAR AND PEACE

Will any sane man who has a son in the battle line vote to hand-cap our President in the tremendous task of making war or the still harder task of making a just and abiding peace?

Congressman Beakes The Man On the Job. Help the boys in the battle line by giving the President the helpers he trusts

SAMUEL W. BEAKES

Congressman Beakes The Man On the Job. President asks us to keep him there. He needs him.

Must Follow One Leader

The Allies began winning only after they had one Military Leader. The Allies recognize President Wilson as the Real Political Leader of the Allies. The leaders of the minority in Congress seek to control the President's Policy or to hamper him; not from lack of being Pro-War, but for personal advantage. We can win best by following one leader. Let Patriotism in this crisis rise above Party. Give the President the Supporter he wants. You know where Beakes stands. He has had the necessary experience. Why experiment in a crisis by breaking in a new man whose position you do not know?

FROM OUR BOYS

We publish below two interesting letters from Corporal Harvey Springer:

France, Sept. 20, '18

My Own Dear Folks: Well, folks, we moved our office as I told you we were going to do, in my last letter. We have certainly struck a fine place. I will try and tell you a little about our camp. First of all we have fine barracks, racks, running water in the barracks, good office building, and plenty of room. We are located just on the edge of town, only about fifteen minutes' walk to the center of the city. As yet I have not been down town, but from all appearances it seems to be a grand place. There is no Y. M. C. A. or K. of C. located here, but I understand they will be here shortly. Of course that will be a great benefit to the camp. We have a wonderful commissary here, you can get most anything you want in the line of eats. The 'chow' or eats we get is very good and I hope to put on some weight now. Summing the whole thing up, we have one of the best camps, and I like it and my work very much.

Yesterday I received some old letters that must have been from the Grandmother. They were written on the 11th, 13th and 25th of May. I was very glad to get them, though, because there was plenty of good news which I would otherwise have missed. I also received one from Aunt Lucy and one from Mr. Russell. They were all very welcome, but I think that I will have to answer some of them by writing to Mr. Samsen. Do you think they would appreciate a letter written that way.

I guess most of my old pals are in the service now. My, how I would like to see some of them. Oh! by the way, about a week ago when we were still at the other place, I ran into a lad who used to work in Plymouth. Daddy will probably remember his name, Terhoune. We were very glad to see each other and we sure did talk things over—worse than a couple of old maids, eh? He wished to be remembered to all the old bunch back home. He used to work in the ticket office of the P. M. railroad.

I wrote to Roscoe several weeks ago, but he has not answered yet. I sure wish I could see the old boy. I am getting mighty lonesome to see him, because you know Roscoe was the only brother I ever had.

I have not received that letter of June 28th, either, that which had the money order in it. I haven't had my picture taken yet, but will when conditions permit.

Well, folks, it is nearly a year since I left God's country, but it seems so much longer. Still the time flies pretty fast, and I only hope we can bring that old scoundrel off his pedestal in a short time, and then I can get home with you all again.

Before I forget I must mention that I haven't from Benton. He is feeling well and sends his best to you all. He said that, "it would be great if all the old bunch could meet over here in France and talk over old times."

Say, mother, that letter Casheir wrote to you was certainly a fine one, and I am glad to know that it writes such nice letters to you. I know it helps make you feel stronger. I wish the old boy the best of luck, and if you can get his address and forward it to me, I will certainly write to him.

Well, on the 9th of next month I have a birthday. Do you realize that and do you realize how old I will be. Sometimes I feel very much older, but I guess its because I have had so many experiences crowded into the last two years.

I am going down town in a couple of days, and then you will probably get a more interesting letter. I have just about run dry tonight, but will write again Sunday, so God be with you, and give my best to Fred, Bill, all my relatives and friends. Tell dear old grandma. I think of her every day, and she must take good care of herself. I send her my best love and a big kiss, and now good-night, dearest of all people, with love your son, HARVEY.

France, Sept. 30, '18

My Dearest Folks: Yesterday and today have been two great days for me. I received eight wonderful letters. Three of them were from you, mother dear, and one from Mr. McVey, who is now a captain. I thank you all for the kind birthday wishes and certainly will try to keep the name of Springer free from stain.

able for its fine carvings and beautiful paintings that adorn the vault. The gallery before the chapel, the guards room, is covered with a wainscoted vault, in the form of a ship's keel upturned. There are also in it two very curious old chimneys. One of them represents a row of windows with no panes, above a grotesque tournament of peasants riding on donkeys. The other represents machicolis and battlements; between each of them is a personage in different attitudes. On the top you see two windows with three ladies and one gentleman looking out.

I don't know whether the above has interested you or not because you cannot get the picture on paper as well as you would to see it with your own eyes. I will write about some old building, etc., each week, if it is interesting to you.

I was so glad to get the picture you sent. It was very good of you, and I surely will send you one as soon as I can get some money to have it taken.

I am well supplied in everything in the line of knitted goods, and I will let you know if there is anything I need, so please don't worry, dear.

It has been pretty chilly here in the past week. Hardly a day goes by that we don't have a little shower. That keeps it very cool. I certainly will be on the lookout for Mr. Miller and if possible I know he will come and see me. Capt. McVey, who lived with Peterhans, back in the States, wrote me a nice letter and said if I wrote to him and told him where I was he would come and see me. So I guess I will get busy and write to him.

And now, dearest folks, I will have to close for tonight, with the best wishes to all of you and all the rest of the folks and neighbors. I am with heaps of love,

Your son, "CHICK" Corporal Harvey Springer, Co. D, Hq. Ba. G. H. O., A. P. O. 902, American Exp. Forces, France.

We are permitted to publish an interesting letter from Floyd Eckles, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Eckles, American E. F., France. Dear Folks: Have a little spare time this noon, so will start a letter and finish it tonight. We have been "over here" for ten days. The first two days and nights we camped out in a field about three miles from the port of embarkation. From there we traveled two days and two nights on one of the old fashioned French trains, getting what little sleep we could in our seats, while the flat wheel on our end of the coach went "bumpy bump."

We are stationed in a little country town now in empty houses, barns, sheds or any building that would hold about eight fellows. We are drilling every day now with rain coats on, because it rains most of the time here, but not so very hard. Will try to finish this now. Am K. P. today.

Three of us fellows walked about two miles to another town last night to get some grapes and figs. Have not seen anything like candy since I left Camp Mills.

The country is fine here, but about all they raise is grain, potatoes, fruits of all kinds and sugar beets. Have not seen a bit of corn yet. The hills are covered with vineyards, but the most of the grapes are used for wine.

Has Howard gone to Ann Arbor yet? If so, how does he like it? Is Claude still working at Dearborn? When you write please send the Mail too. I haven't looked at a paper for two weeks. Haven't found Harold J. yet. Have you heard from Paul? This is the first chance I have had to write. Tell August that he wouldn't get along ver well here with the milk business, about all the people drink here is wine. They laugh when they see fill our cans with water. Hope he is still gaining every day. You will have to tell the news to the rest of the folks for me, if I get enough for two letters and time to write them, it will keep me busy.

Be sure to spell American out in full when addressing my mail because A. E. F. stands for Australian Expeditionary Forces. Have been looking for mail quite a while, but none since July. Maybe it will come as a birthday present and that will be just two weeks from today.

Will close now, hoping you are all feeling as good as I. Take good care of yourself and don't worry about me, and I will do the same.

With love to all, FLOYD ECKLES, Co. B, 64th Infantry, American Ex. Forces

President Wilson Says:

(Paragraph from his address to the United States Senate, September 20, 1918)

"The women of America are too noble and too intelligent and too devoted to be slackers whether you give or withhold this thing that is mere justice, but I know the magic it will work in their thoughts and spirits if you give it to them. I propose it as I would propose to admit soldiers to the suffrage, the men fighting in the field for our liberties and the liberties of the world, were they excluded."

"Are we alone to refuse to learn the lesson? Are we alone to ask and take the utmost that our women can give—service and sacrifice of every kind—and still say we do not see what title that gives them to stand by our sides in the guidance of the affairs of their nation and ours?"

"We have made partners of the women in this war shall we admit them only to a partnership of suffering and sacrifice and toil and not to a partnership of privilege and right?"

"This war could not have been fought, either by the other nations engaged or by America if it had not been for services of the women—services rendered in every sphere—not merely in the fields of efforts in which we have been accustomed to see them work, but where- ever men have worked and upon the very skirts and edges of the battle itself."

"And its adoption is, in my judgment, clearly necessary to successful prosecution of the war and the successful realization of the objects for which the war is being fought. Both of our great national parties are pledged, explicitly or implicitly, to equality of service for women in the country."

A Michigan Case

Mrs. Caroline Kessler, W. Main St., Mich., says: "The first symptoms of kidney trouble in my case were headache, dizziness, and backache. I had rheumatic twinges in my back, about the neck, arms, neck and limbs. These attacks would come on as often as two or three times a week. My limbs and arms were swollen and sore. Table Decorations

In table decorations this year Santa Claus will beam from the midst of patriotic place-cards and the national colors mingle with the regulation green and red. Here are little figures made of crepe paper, representing America, England and France. They are simple little pasteboard paper dolls with painted or painted faces, dressed up in paper clothes and tiny paper hats. To make the table complete, Belgium, Italy and Serbia are to be represented. Each little figure might bear a tiny flag. They are supported by strips of cardboard pasted to them at the back and are to be used for place-cards or merely for ornament.

For the Small Boy

Here is a tent made of strong, unbleached domestic, bound with red braid which will rejoice the heart of the small boy. It is about eighteen inches long and is set up on a frame of wood that supports a small rod of wood at the front and back. A third rod forms the ridge-pole. Four tape loops are stitched to each side of the tent and slipped over tacks in the sides of the supporting frame. A little flag, a pair of paper soldiers and a wooden cannon, make up an outfit that will launch a delighted little chap on a military career a half minute after he discovers it. The tent is easy to make and the soldiers are cut out of printed paper.

Silk Shopping Bag

A larger figure of Santa Claus is also made of crepe paper with the help of white cotton. It is built on a stick, with wires attached for arms and legs. On this frame a body of cotton is fashioned, wound to place with thread. The head is a ball of cotton covered with pink crepe paper. The eyes are painted on and cotton makes the eyebrows and beard. Red crepe paper and cotton form the coat and hat.

Holiday Candle Shades

When Christmas comes all the candles deserve to be dressed up with new shades, and everyone is happy when these are among the gifts that the morning discloses. This year's shades are mostly made of parchment, painted with conventional flowers in bright colors. Whoever can handle oil colors and a brush is sure of pleasing friends.

Hand-Knit Sweaters

One can gauge a deep affection with one of these smart, hand-knit sweaters that are worn by women, lucky enough to own them, everywhere. This one is made of turquoise-blue wool with white bands at the wrists and across the collar. They are made in rose and white or in pale green or yellow with white bands.

A Gift for Him

A collar box, a bag for brush and comb and a pad of shaving paper will please one's men friends, whether they travel much or not; but the traveler will be thrice grateful for them. They are made of heavy unbleached linen and embroidered with colored floss. One might embroider a handsome monogram instead of a flower design on them and solve the difficult problem of a gift for him.

For Book-Lovers

Book lovers will appreciate these book-covers covered with tapestry and lined with silk, and they are easy to make. Among other furnishings the foundations of this metal are to be found. These are first padded with fluffing paper—glued to them—then the tapestry and silk covering is sewed over them and finally a silk cord is tacked about the edges. For a book cover the covering might be of book-tissue. The pair shown here has a covering of tapestry in dark colors.

WILSON'S REPLY TO GERMANY LEAVES TERMS TO WAR CHIEFS

HAS SUBMITTED GERMAN PLEA FOR AN ARMISTICE AND PEACE OFFER TO THE ALLIES.

VIRTUAL SURRENDER ASKED

If U. S. Must Deal With Present Military Masters Or Monarchical Autocrats of Germany Full Surrender Will Be Demanded.

Washington.—President Wilson has submitted the German plea for an armistice and peace to the Allies, and at the same time has informed Berlin that there can be no armistice except on terms that would make it impossible for Germany to renew hostilities.

While consenting to deal further with present authorities in Germany, the president has given them this warning: "If (the United States) must deal with military masters and monarchical autocrats of Germany now, or if it is likely to have to deal with them later, in regard to international obligations of the German empire, it must demand, not peace negotiations, but surrender. Nothing can be gained by leaving this essential thing unsaid."

The president's reply to the last German note was handed to the charge of the Swiss legation for transmission to the German government. It accedes to the request that he take up with the Allies proposals of the new spokesmen of the German people, but does it with notice that virtual surrender of Teutonic armies in the field will be the price demanded for interruption of the beating now being administered.

Text of Wilson's Reply to Germany. The text of the president's reply to the German note follows: "The secretary of state makes public the following: "From the secretary of state to the charge d'affaires ad interim in charge of German interests in the United States: "Department of State, October 23, 1918. "Sir: "I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your note of the 22nd transmitting a communication under date of the 20th, from the German government and to advise you that the president has instructed me to reply thereto as follows: "Having received the solemn and explicit assurance of the German government that it unreservedly accepts the terms of peace laid down in his address to the congress of the United States on the 8th of January, 1918, and the principles of settlement enunciated in his subsequent addresses, particularly the address of the 27th of September, and that it desires to discuss details of their application and that this wish and purpose emanated, not from those who have hitherto dictated German policy and conducted the present war on Germany's behalf but from ministers who speak for the majority of the reichstag and for an overwhelming majority of the German people; and having received also the explicit promise of the present German government that the humane rules of civilized warfare will be observed both on land and sea by the German armed forces, the president of the United States feels that he cannot decline to take up with the governments with which the United States is associated, the question of an armistice.

"He deems it his duty to say again, however, that the only armistice he would feel justified in submitting for consideration would be one which should leave the United States and the powers associated with her in a position to enforce any arrangements that may be entered into and to make a renewal of hostilities on the part of Germany impossible.

"The president has, therefore, transmitted his correspondence with the present German authorities to the governments with which the United States is associated, with the suggestion that, if those governments are disposed to effect peace on the terms and principles indicated their military advisers and the military advisers of the United States be asked to submit to the governments associated against Germany necessary terms of such an armistice as will fully protect the interests of the peoples involved and insure to the associated governments the unrestricted power to safeguard and enforce details of the peace to which the German government has agreed, provided they deem such an armistice possible from the military point of view.

"Should such terms of armistice be suggested, their acceptance by Germany will afford the best concrete evidence of her unequivocal acceptance of the terms and principles of peace from which the whole action proceeds.

"The president would deem himself lacking in candor did he not point out in the frankest possible manner that the German government has, in its correspondence with the governments with which the United States is associated, with the suggestion that, if those governments are disposed to effect peace on the terms and principles indicated their military advisers and the military advisers of the United States be asked to submit to the governments associated against Germany necessary terms of such an armistice as will fully protect the interests of the peoples involved and insure to the associated governments the unrestricted power to safeguard and enforce details of the peace to which the German government has agreed, provided they deem such an armistice possible from the military point of view.

PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON.

terms the reason why extraordinary safeguards must be demanded. Significant and important as the constitutional changes seem to be which are spoken officially by the German foreign secretary in his note of the 20th of October, it does not appear that the principles of a government responsible to the German people have yet been fully worked out or that any guarantees either exist or are in contemplation that alterations of principle and of practice now partially agreed on will be permanent.

"Moreover, it does not appear that the heart of the present difficulty has been reached. It may be that future wars have been brought under control of the German people, but the present war has not been; and it is with the present war that we are dealing. It is evident that the German people have no means of commanding acquiescence of military authorities of the empire in the popular will; that the power of the king of Prussia to control the policy of the empire is unimpaired; that the determining initiative still remains with those who hitherto have been masters of Germany. Feeling that the whole peace of the world depends now on plain speaking and straightforward action, the president deems it his duty to say, without any attempt to soften what may seem harsh words, that the nations of the world do not and cannot trust the word of those who hitherto have been masters of German policy, and to point out once more that in concluding peace and attempting to undo the infinite injuries and injustices of this war the government of the United States cannot deal with any but veritable representatives of the German people who have been assured of a genuine constitutional standing as the real rulers of Germany.

"If it must deal with the military masters and the monarchical autocrats of Germany now, or if it is likely to have to deal with them later in regard to international obligations of the German empire, it must demand, not peace negotiations, but surrender. Nothing can be gained by leaving this essential thing unsaid.

"Accept, sir, the renewed assurances of my high consideration. (Signed) "ROBERT LANSING, "Mr. Frederick Oederlin, "Charge d'Affaires of Switzerland, ad interim, in charge of German interests in the United States."

CONGRESSMEN CAN'T JOIN ARMY Secretary Baker Says Members Can Best Serve Country in Office.

New York.—Secretary Baker has decided members of congress can best serve their country by remaining in office and after a conference with President Wilson, asserted no more law-makers would be allowed to join the army, according to a statement by Representative John J. Delaney, of New York.

Delaney had been recommended for a lieutenant, but failed to receive orders to report for duty. On interviewing Mr. Baker, he said, he was informed he would not be granted a commission even if he resigned from office.

"Mr. Baker asked me what would happen to the country, if all the members of congress decided to go into the army, and pointed out that about a billion bills must be passed," Mr. Delaney said.

FABRICATED STEEL SHIP BUILT

First One Launched, the Agawan, of 5,500 Dead-weight Tons.

Washington.—America has turned out its first fabricated steel ship, the Agawan, of 5,500 dead-weight tons. Completion of which by the Submarine Boat corporation, Port Newark, N. J., was just announced by Chairman Harpley, of the shipping board.

The Agawan was in the nature of an experiment and 303 days were required for her construction. Approximately 27 steel mills, 56 fabricating plants and 200 foundries, machine, pipe, joiner and equipment shops produced parts of the hull and machinery.

The Submarine Boat corporation has contracts for 150 duplicates of the Agawan. Delivery is expected at the rate of two or three a week.

STEADY BLOWS BY FOCH BREAKS LINE

BRITISH, FRENCH AND AMERICAN TROOPS EVERYWHERE ARE MAKING PROGRESS.

GERMAN BLOWS ARE CRUSHED

Artillery On Both Sides Is Violently Active Valenciennes Being Enveloped.

On several of the most important sectors in France—from the region of Valenciennes to the east of Le Cateau; north of Laon, between the Oise and Serre rivers and on the front from the Meuse to the vicinity of Grand Pre, battles of a sanguinary character are being fought. In these British, French and American troops everywhere are making progress against stubbornly resisting Germans.

In Belgium Allied forces, owing to rapid retreat of the enemy and flooded condition of the lowlands, have not yet been able to come into full fighting contact with Germans, but doubtless a few days more will see them again hard after their quarry and driving him farther to ward his frontier.

South of Valenciennes the British third and fourth armies with which Americans are co-operating have continued to press onward with Mons and Maubeuge their objectives. It reports they have overcome the enemy on the whole front. Valenciennes is gradually being enveloped and soon is destined to be pinched out of the fighting line by turning movements from the north and south in the present day tactics when it is more desirable to envelop a strong position than to waste life and limb in reaching the objective by frontal attack.

Germans in this region continue to use numerous machine guns to retard advance of Field Marshal Haig's men and artillery of both sides is violently active. British aviators are materially aiding the offensive by dropping bombs behind the line or flying low and cutting troop formations to pieces with machine gun fire.

South of the Oise river the French are making sharp thrusts against the enemy with intention of clearing out the entire triangle from Flavignac and Montcornet and taking all the railroad lines within this region and also blotting out the salient.

Germans are strongly counter attacking on all fronts of attack but the French have varied off their efforts to regain lost territory and have gained ground south of Montcornet, one of the principal railway junctions in this region.

North of Grand Pre and north of Verdun, in the sector lying between the Meuse river and north of the Argonne forest, Americans have cut further and deeper into the enemy's line, despite continued extremely heavy use of machine gun and artillery by Germans. American aviators are dropping bombs behind enemy lines, while enemy airmen are returning the compliment by bombing towns inside the American front.

TEACHERS TO FIGHT EPIDEMIC

The Situation Throughout the Country Is Still Serious.

Washington.—Further subsidence of the influenza epidemic throughout the country was indicated in reports received by the public health service from 44 states. The situation still is serious in many localities. There was practically no change in army camps, 2,772 new cases being reported.

With organization under way of Detroit's 3,000 public school teachers in an auxiliary of the board of health the city now has a force available to combat the Spanish influenza and pneumonia epidemic on a scale more extensive than attempted anywhere else since the plague made its appearance in this country, according to Health Commissioner Inghes.

Principals of the schools, which all closed their doors indefinitely Thursday, at a meeting in the city service building, Clinton and Raynor streets, received instructions from health officials on how to organize their teaching staffs for the campaign against influenza.

TO COMBAT PLAGUE OF RATS

Buildings Must Be Constructed That Will Exclude the Pests From Shelter and Food.

A single rat, remarks David E. Lanitz in a recent publication of the United States department of agriculture, does far less harm in a year than any one lion, tiger or wolf; but the big animals of prey are few, while rats are deploably abundant. There are possibly two or three times as many rats as there are people in the civilized world; and the destruction wrought by this vast horde of voracious rodents is far greater than that wrought by wolves, tigers and all other noxious animals together.

To combat this dangerous pest successfully, says Lanitz, is largely a building problem. Buildings should be so constructed as to exclude the animals from shelter and food. When this is done, individual and community efforts to destroy rats will give satisfactory and lasting results. The program may be regarded by many as too expensive. Will it be too costly? What do rats cost now? If half the money now spent in feeding and fighting rats could be expended in wisely planned and well-executed co-operative efforts for rat repression, it would be possible within a few years nearly to rid the country of its worst animal pest, to reduce losses from its depredations by at least 90 per cent, and to free the land completely from the fear of bubonic plague.

Carolyn of the Corners BY RUTH BELMORE ENDICOTT

CAROLYN AND PRINCE HAVE ANOTHER ADVENTURE WHICH BRINGS THEM NEW LAURELS. Synopsis—Her father and mother reported lost at sea when the Duraven, on which they had sailed for Europe, was sunk...

CHAPTER VIII—Continued. "So, you see," added the child, "I am charity. I'm not like other girls that's got pupas and mamas. Course I knowed that before, but it didn't seem—seem so hard as it does now, she confessed with a sob."

"My dear! my dear!" cried Miss Amanda, dropping on her knees beside the little girl, "don't talk so! I know your uncle must love you."

"I will do it," Carolyn May said seriously. After the child had gone the woman went back into the little cottage and her countenance did not wear the farewell smile that Carolyn May had looked back to see.

"Oh, Joe! Oh, Joe!" How could you? she moaned, rocking herself to and fro. "How could you? That very night the first snow flurry of the season drove against the west window panes of the big kitchen at the Stagg household. It was as supple as a feather."

"I declare for it," said Mr. Stagg, "I guess winter's onto us, Auntie Rose." This snow did not amount to much; it was little more than a bear frost, as Mr. Stagg said. "This might be, however, the last chance for a Sunday walk in the woods for some time and Carolyn May did not propose to miss it."

"On this day she earnestly desired to get him off by himself, for her heart was filled with a great purpose. She felt that they must come to an understanding. On this particular occasion Uncle Joe sat down upon the log by the brook where Miss Amanda had once sat. Carolyn May stood before him. "Am I just a charity orphan? Didn't my papa leave any money at all for me? Did you take me just out of charity?"

"Bless me!" gasped the hardware dealer. "I wish you'd answer me, Uncle Joe," went on Carolyn May with a brave effort to keep from crying. Joseph Stagg was too blunt a person to see his way to dodging the question. "Hum! Well, I'll tell you, Carolyn May. There isn't much left, and that's a fact. It isn't your father's fault. He thought there was plenty. But a business is invested in got into bad hands and the little nest egg he'd laid up for his family was lost."

stopped to drink. The dog drew the little girl closer to the spot. "Where has that man gone to? If it was a man. Prince stopped suddenly and whined and then looked around at his mistress, as though to say: "See there?"

Carolyn May trembled all the while in a hurry when she did so she slipped on a patch of snow-covered ice and fell. But she was not hurt. "There! that's where the water runs across the road. It's all slippery—Oh!"

It was the sleeve of a man's rough coat thrust out of the snowbank that brought this last cry to the child's lips. "Oh, oh! It's a man!" burst from Carolyn May's trembling lips. "How could he have done that?"

She plumped down on her knees and began brushing the snow away. She uncovered his shoulder. She took hold of this with her mittened hands and tried to shake the prone figure. "Oh, do wake up! Please wake up!" she cried, digging away the snow as fast as possible.

A shaggy head was revealed, with an old cap pulled down tightly over the ears. The man moved again and grunted something. He half turned over, and there was blood upon the snow, and a great frosted cake of it on the side of his face. Carolyn May was dreadfully frightened. The man's head was cut and the blood was smeared over the front of his jacket. Now she could see a puddle of it, right where he had fallen on the ice—just as she had fallen herself. Only, he had struck his head on a rock and cut himself.

"You poor thing!" murmured Carolyn May. "Oh, you mustn't be here! You must get up! You'll—you'll be frozen!" "Easy, marm!" muttered the man, "I ain't got right in my top-hammer, I reckon. Hold hard, marm."

"For the great land of Jehoshaphat!" he croaked. "Carolyn May! what you got there?" "Oh, Mr. Barlow, do come and help us—quick!" gasped the little girl. "My friend has had a dreadful fall. "Your friend?" repeated the carpenter. "I declare, it's that tramp that went by here just now!"

Mr. Parlow made a chucking noise in his throat when he saw the blood. "Guess you're right, Carolyn May," he admitted. "Call Moody. She must see this."

Miss Amanda's attention had already been attracted to the strange arrival. She ran out and helped her father raise the injured man from the sled. Together they led him into the cottage. He was not at all a bad-looking man, although his clothing was rough and coarse. Miss Amanda brought warm water and bathed the wound, removing the congealed blood from his face and neck.

When the last bandage was adjusted and the injured man's eyes were closed, Mr. Parlow offered him a wine-glass of a home-made cordial. The sailor gulped it down, and the color began to return to his cheeks. "Where was you goin', anyway?" demanded the carpenter. "Lookin' for a job, marm," said the sailor. "There's them in town that tells me I'd find work at Adams' camp."

"Ha! didn't tell you 'twas ten mile away from here, did they?" "TO BE CONTINUED." SAW SOME GOOD IN GERMANS Mark Twain Would Not Admit That All Manhood in the Land of the Hun Was Dead. Do You Think There is No Competition?

If anyone thinks there is no competition amongst the big packers he ought to go through a day's work with Swift & Company. Let him begin at the pens when the live stock comes in; let him try to buy a nice bunch of fat steers quietly and at his own price without somebody's bidding against him. Let him realize the scrupulous care taken at the plant that not one thing is lost or wasted in order that costs may be held to a minimum. Let him go up into the office where market reports are coming in,—and reports of what other concerns are doing. Let him watch the director of the Swift Refrigerator fleet, maneuvering it over the face of the country like a fleet of battleships at sea. Let him take a trip with a Swift & Company salesman and try to sell a few orders of meat. Let him stay at a branch house for an hour or two and see the retail meat dealers drive their bargains to the last penny as they shop around among the packers' branch houses, the wholesale dealers, and the local packing plants. And then, when the day is over, let him have half an hour in the accounting department, where he can see for himself on what small profits the business is done. (Less than 4 cents on each dollar of sales.) If he still thinks there is no competition in the meat business it will be because he wants to think so. Swift & Company, U. S. A.

HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES IF YOUR BACK ACHES. Do you feel tired and "worn-out"? Are you nervous and irritable? Don't sleep well at night? Have a "dragged out" unrested feeling when you get up in the morning? Dizzy spells? Biliousness? Bad taste in the mouth, back-ache, pain or soreness in the loins, and abdomen? Severe distress when urinating, bloody, cloudy urine or sediment? All these indicate gravel or stone in the bladder, or that the poisonous microbes, which are always in your system, have attacked your kidneys.

IT IS not enough to have the bowels move. It is more important to persuade liver, kidneys, skin, and bowels to act in harmony and against self-poisoning. Two Presidents of the United States Write Commander Newberry

From Theodore Roosevelt

Oyster Bay, Long Island, October 29, 1918.

Commander Truman H. Newberry, New York City.

My dear Commander:

I congratulate you on your nomination, but far more do I congratulate Michigan and all our people. It was my good fortune to have you serve under me as Secretary of the Navy, and I can testify personally to your efficiency and your disinterested and single-minded zeal for the public service. To a very peculiar degree you have stood for that kind of government which puts the interest of the people as a whole first and foremost, and treats all other considerations as negligible, when the public weal is involved. The record made by you and your two sons in this war is typical of your whole attitude as a public servant. Both your boys at once entered the Navy, and are now on the high seas. You sought employment abroad; when that was refused you, you accepted any position that was offered in which you could render public service.

The nomination of Mr. Ford makes the issue sharp and clean. It is not primarily an issue between the Republican party and the Democratic party, for Mr. Ford does not seem to have any firm political convictions, and was content to take the nomination on any ticket without regard to what the general principles of the men supporting that ticket were; and his memory about past politics is so hazy that although he has mentioned a Republican candidate for president for whom he thinks he once voted, it does not appear that this is possible, unless he is in error as to his own age.

The issue is infinitely more important than any merely political issue. It is the issue of straight Americanism, of straight patriotism, and of preparedness for the tasks of peace and war, as against a particularly foolish and obnoxious type of pacifism, preached in peace and practiced in war. This is the first time in the history of our country in which a candidate for high office has been nominated who has spent enormous sums of money in demoralizing the people of the United States on a matter of vital interest to their honor and welfare. The expenditures on behalf of pacifism by Mr. Ford in connection with the Peace Ship, and in connection with his great advertising campaign in favor of the McLemore resolution and of the pacifist and pro-German attitude against our participation in the war, was as thoroughly demoralizing to the conscience of the American people as anything that has ever taken place. The failure of Mr. Ford's son to go into the army at this time, and the approval by the father of the son's refusal, represent exactly what might be expected from the moral disintegration inevitably produced by such pacifist propaganda. Mr. Ford's son is the son of a man of enormous wealth. If he went to war he would leave his wife and child immeasurably distant from all chance of even the slightest financial strain or trouble, and his absence would not in the smallest degree affect the efficiency of the business with which he is connected. But the son stays at home, protesting and appealing when he is drafted, and now escaping service. Your two sons have eagerly gone to the front. They stand ready to pay with their lives for the honor and the interest of the American people, and while they thus serve America with fine indifference to all personal cost, the son of wealthy Mr. Ford sits at home in ignoble safety, and his father defends and advises such conduct. It would be a grave misfortune to the country to have Mr. Ford in the Senate when any question of continuing the war or discussing terms of peace may arise, and it would be an equally grave misfortune to have him in any way deal with the problems of reconstruction in this country.

Michigan is facing the test, clear-cut and without shadow of a chance for misunderstanding, between patriotism and Americanism on one side, and on the other pacifism, and that foolish sham-cosmopolitanism which thinks it clever to deride the American flag, and to proclaim that it would as soon be a Hindoo or Chinaman as an American. If there should be at any time in the future a Hindoo Senate, and it should choose, in a spirit of cosmopolitanism, to admit outsiders, there is no reason why Mr. Ford should not aspire to membership therein; but he would be signally out of place in the American Senate so long as that body is dominated by men who zealously believe in the American ideal and faithfully endeavor to serve the American people.

Wishing you all success, I am

Very faithfully yours,

Theodore Roosevelt

From William H. Taft

931 Southern Building,
Washington, D. C.,
October 19, 1918.

My dear Commander Newberry

I write to congratulate you on being the Republican candidate for Senator in the State of Michigan. I sincerely hope that you will be elected, and I am very certain that if you are, you will render to the State and to the country a valuable service in your high office. I feel that I can say this from personal observation of the way in which you discharged your official duties both while you were Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and while you were in the same Cabinet with me under President Roosevelt. It is of the highest importance that in the settlement of the important questions growing out of this war, we should have men in the senate of your experience in governmental matters, and of your political views. The Democratic majority in Congress has not been one upon which the President or the country could depend for the adoption of measures adequate to the winning of the war. The people of the United States can be much more confident, if we have a Republican majority in both Houses, that the legislative branch of the Government will wisely cooperate with the Executive Administration, and by constructive criticism make that Administration more effective than if Democratic majorities in both Houses are retained. With Mr. Ford's known pacifist views, carried to an extreme, indeed, with his nondescript political affiliations, and with his engaging in this canvass simply at the instance of the President, the people of Michigan are placed in a dilemma in respect to how he will represent them. He will either go into the Democratic caucus and follow implicitly the wish of the President, who induced him to run, or no one can know what he will do, not even Mr. Ford, in contingencies that are likely to arise. If you are elected, the people of Michigan will know that you will act with the loyal Republicans and that you will back the President to the utmost when he is seeking Congressional assistance for the winning of the war, and that you will be independent and courageous in pointing out the mistakes of administration, with a view to their remedy. I earnestly hope that the electors of Michigan will choose you.

Sincerely yours,

Wm H Taft

A trimness of the shoulder, a roll of the lapel, a matter of line, a drape that marks them as "thorough-breds" the moment you spy them.
