LOCAL CHURCH OVER THE TOP FIRST DAY

METHODISTS OF PLYMOUTH PLEDGE $11,000 TO FIVE-YEAR PROGRAM OF MISSIONARY CENTENARY.

"Over the Top" the first day of the eight-day intensive drive for the Missionary Centenary with a splendid over-subscription, is the record of the Plymouth Methodist Episcopal church. The campaign is supposed to be on all this week throughout the country, culminating on Victory Sunday, May 25th, when it is expected that more than $105,000,000 will have been pledged for a five-year missionary program throughout the world.

At first Plymouth's quota of $185,511 a year for five years seemed like an impossible task, and there were plenty who said, "It can't be done." But under the direction of the campaign director, E. V. Jolliffe, and the pastor, Rev. F. M. Field, an efficient organization was perfected, and the campaign was launched last Sunday afternoon, when eight teams of two each visited the members of the congregation and secured individual pledges.

The team workers were together for three days, Sunday, being served by a division of the Ladies Aid society, and started out with the assurance of an early victory. This confidence was inspired by the splendid pledge of $500 per year, which had already been turned in, but it was contributed to by the knowledge that each solicitor had of what he himself was going to subscribe to.

It proved to be "over the top" day, for when the reports of the different teams were made at the evening service and the totals put on the bulletin board, it was found that a total of $2,200 a year for five years had been subscribed, with some other subscriptions yet to be turned in.

Three hundred dollars a year of this amount was subscribed by members of the Newburg church and congregation, where four efficient teams had done excellent work, putting that church also on the victory list the first day of the campaign.

The response from every quarter was hearty and loyal, several who are not members of the church offering splendid subscriptions. There were four pledges ranging from $60 to $100 per year, seven subscriptions ranging from $25 to $50 a year, and eight of $25 per year. Besides many fine weekly subscriptions of ten to twenty-five cents per week for the five-year period.

The team workers who helped to put the Centenary across were as follows: E. V. Jolliffe, chairman; B. E. Parrott, F. L. Barrows, W. B. Lombard, C. H. Hammond, G. W. Richwine, William Tait, Robert Jolliffe, Harold Jolliffe, William Sutherland, F. W. Hillman, L. N. Dickerson, Guy Dunn, Mrs. E. M. Dickerson, Mrs. E. H. Whitcomb, Mrs. H. J. Egan, Mrs. W. J. Grimes, Mrs. W. J. Smith, Miss Ada Young, Mrs. Charles Epler, Mrs. Mark Joy, William Farley, L. Clement, Mrs. Clark Mackinac and Mrs. Thomas Dexter. The last eight comprising the Newburg team.

The great victory was in Plymouth being first in the country to be stitely celebrated at the evening service, next Sunday, when Rev. Field will speak on, "The Next 100 Years."

DEATH OF MRS. WILLIAM FISHER

Jennie V. Westfall was born in Mason, Lenawee county, Michigan, March 28, 1870, and died on May 20, 1919, in Plymouth township on the farm that had been her home for twenty-seven years.

She was married to William Frederick Fisher in Plymouth, Michigan, on March 31, 1890, Rev. Willis G. Clark performing the ceremony. Mrs. Fisher was the oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Westfall and she leaves three sisters and four brothers. A sister and brother have preceded her to the other land.

The funeral service was held from the funeral home, and was conducted by Rev. Luther Moore Bicknell, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Thursday morning. She was laid to rest in Riverside cemetery beside the twin babies, the remembrance of whose young lives was always a source of tender happiness to her. Time is kind and will reduce the sorrow of today with happy memories of a devoted and loving daughter, sister, wife and mother. Mrs. Fisher possessed a very rare disposition, one that was always sweet and calm, always kind and tender, which made her a most helpful and serviceful neighbor and friend. To know her was to love her, and her host of friends will miss her smile, her sympathy and beautiful spirit.

Today's Reflections

Add to the list of men you know to have made mistakes the one who said Germany would be "let down easy."
While it isn't any of our business, if we were some Plymouth girls we'd throw our knitting aside now and learn to cook.
That Virginia soldier who wears a number 16 shoe is the fellow who ought to be sent overseas to keep his foot on Germany's neck.
A Plymouth woman may worship her husband, but she should not serve up burnt offerings to him at mealtime.
When labor gets all it wants and all its dreams come true, nobody will be working but the boss, and he'll not be getting anything out of it.
Blessed is the Plymouth man who can get as much satisfaction out of a $1.50 spading-fork and a 79c hoe as he can out of a $3500 touring car.
Japan has been doing a lot of howling at the peace conference, but if she got a billion dollars for every soldier she sent to France, she would still have nothing coming to her.
Every time you plant more seed in your victory garden old Hi Costo-livin gnashes his teeth.
Maybe the reason some Plymouth people don't put in a garden is because they're afraid it will tempt them to work on Sunday.
About all the German delegates got out of the peace conference was a trip to Paris and a couple of days board and lodging.
Any Plymouth man who can pass a dog fight in the street without looking at it can certainly be said to possess dignity.
Sometimes we wonder what has become of the old-fashioned citizen who used to give a patent medicine firm a testimonial just to get his picture printed in the papers.
Beautiful, sunshiny spring weather sweetens the soul of the Plymouth man who isn't mean enough to shut it out.
At the same time that beer goes out the two-cent stamp comes back. But what's the use? Most of the fellows will be too dry to lick a postage stamp.

EPISODE NO. 4.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Six pieces of a chart flag are the only key to the location of a treasure buried years before in the Gulf of Mexico. Dick and Polly Van Brunt have one piece and Scarface another. He kills Polly's father, gets the flag and starts after the other pieces and the treasure. Dick and Polly are joined by other flag-holders and a running battle toward the Gulf of Mexico begins. Scarface traps his foe in a cabin, and when they return to surrender, light the fuse and escape away.

Locked in the shack, Dick, Teel and the two deputies awaited the certain death that would come to them when the dynamite the outlaws had planted beneath the shack exploded. Back in the brush, Scarface waited for the men to surrender and give up the pieces of the Riven Flag.

The ten seconds Scarface gave them had passed—Dick counted them. He took out his watch and exclaimed to the others:

"By heavens! It was only a bluff, after all."

From all sides deep breaths of relief greeted the remark. It is one thing to die in the open and in the midst of battle, quite another to be cooped up behind the barricaded doors of a shack and be compelled to stand in idleness while the spark crawls along a fuse that is supposed to end in a charge of dynamite that will blow all within range of its blast into smithereens. And though Teel and the two deputies were brave men, the last half minute had told heavily upon their nerves. Now with the danger of the dynamite passed they were once more eager to do battle face to face with the scoundrels who had trapped them.

"What shall we do?" growled Teel. "For one I am tired of being shut in here, like rats in a cage. I don't mind taking a chance with them hand to hand, but this being shut up is getting monotonous."

"Same here," responded the two deputies in one voice.

Approaching a window cautiously and peering out into the brush that concealed their foes, Dick carefully surveyed the scene.

"There are four of them and four of us. Let us rush them and take chances," he said, and drawing pistols the four threw their weight against the door.

Scarface, as the fuse went out, realized his bluff had been called and he had lost and cursed his luck as he began to think out a new scheme for getting the pieces of flag. His thoughts, however, were soon interrupted by cries of alarm from Scarface, as the sheriff's posse, a dozen strong and led by Polly, came in sight down the trail. The outlaws had no retreat for a fight against such odds, and, hurrying to their horses, rode away without being seen.

A moment later the posse dismounted in the clearing. Just as the door was burst open Dick and his friends rushed out. It was a surprise and a happy one all around, and after congratulations, they all started for Teel's cabin.

The following morning, Scarface and his gang took possession of the Ransome cottage, hoping in the absence of Dick to obtain clues to other owners of sections of the Riven Flag. It was this same morning that Joseph Stebbins, formerly of Massachusetts, having read Dick's notice in the papers, came to the cottage to give him his piece of flag and otherwise cooperate in a search for the treasure. There was alarm among the outlaws at his approach until Scarface, recognizing him, said:

"It's 'Back Stebbins, one of the gang the flag was divided amongst."

"What shall we do with him, kill him or let him up?" demanded Scarface. "He cannot have got to get his out of the way somehow before Van Brunt or Teel come back here to the cottage at our cake will be all dough in a jiffy. I am in favor of setting him for all time right now before he has a chance to make us any trouble. He has probably got his piece of flag with him, and by getting it we will be that much further ahead in the game."

"Leave it to me. I've got a better scheme than that. If my plan does not work, then we can go after him in some other way," responded Scarface.

Stebbins recognized Scarface and when the latter introduced Screwwe as Van Brunt, fell into the trap, not only giving up his piece of flag, but telling of a Chinese named Chu Chen Ling, who was cook on the treasure hunt and who also had a piece of flag. Just about this time the Kid gave a cry of alarm and the outlaws left unceremoniously, leaving a much-smoked Stebbins to admit the real Dick and his friends.

Explanations were easy after Stebbins and Teel recognized each other, but there was consternation when the latter told of having given his piece of the flag to Scarface, but even this situation was relieved when he added:

"However, it wouldn't surprise me if he went to San Francisco to see Chu Chen Ling and get his piece of the flag."

It was apparent this was just what the outlaws would do, and it was decided to start in pursuit in the hope of reaching the Chinese first. And, anticipating possible attempts to block them, Polly and Dick left at once by train, while Teel and Stebbins followed by boat. It so happened the outlaws also split their party. Scarface and Screwwe taking a train ahead of Dick, and the Kid and Roper, remaining behind, not only were able to inform their chief of the movements of their pursuers, but also to take the same boat as Teel and Stebbins, and unknown to them. And that night, when asleep in their berths, they were drugged and thrown into the Pacific.

Chu and his assistant, Lee, were in the shop when Scarface and Screwwe slouched in, posing as a couple of hounded heads, the former keeping his tall tale scar well covered. The Chinese were unsuspecting and sold them a package of dope, and their terror was real when Scarface threw his coat back and announced they were officers and were going to take them before the judge. They were somewhat more at ease, however, when the ruffian, with a knowing leer, whispered:

"Got a place where we can talk private?"

The spirits of the Chinaman arose at once as the other made this suggestion. Long acquaintance with a certain class of officers whose duty it was to search out the sellers of dope had taught Chu their greediness for money, and he had little doubt that he would now be able to bribe these ill favored looking intruders with a handful of coin. Also, he had another scheme in mind which he might be able to work in case of emergency could he once lure the pair to the place he had in mind. His face became all smiles once more.

"Yes," he responded. "Go, a really nice place to talk things over." Not for an instant dreaming that the wily Celestial had a thought in mind other than to bribe them, Scarface and Screwwe followed him.

The Chinese, in eager hope of being able to "fix" things, took Scarface and Screwwe into a large back room, a feature of which was a big idol with two outstretched arms, one holding a gleaming dagger, and flanked on either side by doors swinging on pivots, like storm doors in hotels, stores, etc.

Once inside, Scarface threw off his disguise and Chu recognized him as a member of the treasure expedition, and hatred mingled with his fear as he recalled the brutality with which the outlaw had treated him.

"You—Scarface!" he exclaimed, and Scarface admitted he was, and added: "I want your piece of the flag. Where is it?"

Cold chills of fear ran up and down the spine of the unfortunate Chinaman. Knowing that Scarface was capable of any crime and that he would stop at nothing to accomplish his ends, Chu stood trembling before their gaze. Resistance was hopeless, for he well knew that should he engage in any struggle with them he would be strangled upon the spot, yet he determined to yield his piece of flag only in the last bitter extremity. His only chance lay in outwitting them, and thought after thought went flying through his cunning Oriental brain.

"Well, are you going to give it to us or not?" growled Scarface as he made a threatening gesture toward the other.

Chu, despite his fear, grew suddenly crafty, and pointing to the idol, replied:

"Piece flag in box by Joss."

Scarface glanced in the direction indicated, and saw the box sitting close in front of the huge scowling idol. For an instant suspicion flashed across his brain and he gripped the Chinaman's shoulder with fingers that sank into the flesh like talons. "Are you telling the truth, you heathen?" he swore as he shook the other as a terrier shakes a rat. The voice of the other arose in shrill protest.

"Chu tell the truth else samee Joss himself. You no believe, you go see." The other hurried him aside.

"If I find you have lied to me I'll make mince meat of you, you cursed Chink," he growled.

Scarface advanced to the idol and reached for the box, when the arms of the idol swung down toward him. Leaping back, he covered the Chinese with his pistol, shouting:

"Van Brunt and his woman get here soon. Show me how to work that idol and bring them here. No tricks or you are a dead Chink."

Foiled in his effort, nothing remained for Chu but to do as the other commanded. Several times he pressed the button while Scarface, his eyes glistening, watched the mechanism as it went through its silent operations. He turned to Screwwe.

"See if you can work it," he commanded.

"Screwwe thus commanded advanced upon the figure and began pressing the buttons as Chu had done, and beneath his finger pressure the arms of the idol stretched forth threateningly.

"It seems simple enough," said he. "All we have got to do is get them in here and the idol will do the rest."

"Drop Those Pieces of Flag."

See that dagger in his hand! Well, when the arm comes down with it the blade would go through any man that ever lived as though he was a piece of cheese."

"We had better be getting out of sight for they may be here at any minute," announced Scarface, and threatening the Chinaman with instant death if he tried to betray them, Scarface and Screwwe took their places behind a screen where, hidden from sight, they could observe all that took place within the room.

Dick and Polly arrived shortly and were shown into the idol room by Chu, who, on learning their mission, pointed to the box. Dick stepped up to the idol as the coerced Chinese pushed a button and he was gripped by the huge arms as the dagger descended. Springing from behind the screen, Scarface shouted:

"Now, I've got you. Give me that flag."

Terrified at the sight of the great dagger descending upon Dick, Polly stood riveted to the spot. Absolutely ignorant of the mechanism of the thing and powerless to stay the sight of the blade she found but stare at the spectacle as though fascinated. Though she would have fought to the very death rather than have surrendered the piece of hunting to the wretch who stood leering at her with a look of triumph, to stand there and see Dick murdered by this infernal contrivance for the sake of mere gold was a thought not to be harbored for a moment. Her hand flew to her bosom wherein reposed the bit of flag.

Dick told Polly not to do so, but the girl, as she saw the dagger drop lower and lower, pulled out the piece of cloth and threw it at the outlaw, who then had Dick released. As he staggered forward he came on a trap door in the floor. Scarface pushed a button and Dick shot from view.

Polly, in reaching for the flag, felt the pistol Dick had given her on the train and, covering the outlaws, she cried:

"Drop those pieces of flag."

There was murder in her eyes and the men obeyed. Picking up the flags the girl backed to a panel in the wall, which opened, and two arms extended and drew her from view, the panel closing.

Scarface and Screwwe turned, mystified to Chu, as the latter, in the same manner, vanished, leaving them stripped of the flags and locked in the idol room in the power of the Chinese.

YIELD BIG CROPS

Grain Seeds From Western Canada Do Well in Ohio.

Demand for Them is Bound to Add Value to the Land of Our Northern Neighbor, Now to Be Had Cheap.

A large area of the land in several counties in Ohio prepared for spring seeding will be seeded with Marquis wheat—a spring variety. This wheat is imported from Western Canada. It was about three years ago that the first of this seed was imported into the States, and the result, watched each succeeding year, proved that Ohio soil and spring seeding was a success. The demand for the seed has now become so great that one of the largest seed houses in the state, that has been purchasing from Western Canada farmers and importing it, has decided to purchase a large block of land in that country for the purpose of growing the grain themselves. They will devote a considerable portion of their Western Canada holdings to growing oats, barley and rye. Their action is a strong endorsement of the product. For some time past a considerable quantity of seed oats has also been imported. The prolific yield reported was what probably gave an impetus to the introduction of wheat.

It was found, though, after a couple of years the quality of the oats, as well as the yield, began to deteriorate when grown seed was used, making it necessary for fresh importations every couple of years. It is possible that the same experience may follow the growing of Western Canada wheat. In fact it is quite probable, and the Ohio farmer will find it necessary to import every two years.

With the success that has followed the Ohio farmers' experiments with this imported seed it is possible other states now growing winter wheat will begin growing spring wheat. It may therefore be taken for granted that Western Canada, in addition to its ability to produce hundreds of millions of bushels of wheat possessing the greatest percentage of gluten of any wheat in the world, will shortly be called upon to provide the seed that will be grown on the additional acres in the United States that may be devoted to spring wheat.

It is a well-established fact that the further north any product of the farm can be brought to a state of maturity, the more vigorous it becomes. This has been proven in the grains that have been produced in Western Canada; it has been shown in the development of its horses, its cattle, its sheep and its hogs; also in its people. The neighbor to the north really has a splendid future before him, and many years will not have passed before the lands that are selling today at much less than their producing value will bring prices more commensurate with their true worth than they do today. Think of lands that yield in their operation a profit of from fifteen to twenty-five dollars an acre a year selling at figures less than $40 an acre. It does not require a mathematician to figure the percentage of profit. It is unfair to these lands to ask them to continue these profits for long. So it is safe to make the prediction that

Her Bitter Experience

She could not imagine what was the matter with her baking.

Her pans were always perfectly clean. She used a famous brand of flour, good butter, fresh eggs—and yet her baking had a bitter taste.

Finally, her husband asked what kind of baking powder she used. When she told him what she was trying, he said:

"There's the whole trouble. If you read the label you will find it contains alum, and that's what leaves the peculiar taste."

Now she has gone back to ROYAL BAKING POWDER and her bitter experience is forgotten.

GOVERNOR SLEEPER PAYS TRIBUTE TO DEAD

HONORS WORLD HEROES IN MEMORIAL PROCLAMATION.

Veterans of the world war are paid a glowing tribute in Governor Sleeper's annual Memorial day proclamation, setting apart Friday, May 30, as a public holiday. The governor says:

"Two years ago, our free institutions and our national ideals were menaced by a fierce and powerful foe. Our young men betook themselves in thousands to the training camps and later crossed the seas to uphold on foreign soil the honor of the flag. With a fortitude and a valor befitting the sons and grandsons of those patriots of an earlier day, they grandly bore their part in the struggle.

"Now they are coming back to us, but not all, and through our proud joy today, as we greet the returning hosts, there runs a note of sadness. We mourn with those who mourn for the noble fellows who will not come back to us.

"God help us all so to live, so to keep and cherish our birth-right of true freedom, that we may be worthy of the great sacrifice they made for us."

AGRICULTURISTS WILL GET FARM CROPS NEWS

LETTER FOR MICHIGAN FARMERS EDITED BY M. A. C. DEPARTMENT SENT ON REQUEST.

Michigan farmers will in the future get special farm crops news through their own publication in the form of a letter which is being edited by the farm crops department at M. A. C. The letter will be mailed out from time to time to members of the Michigan Crop Improvement Association, teachers of agriculture, county agents and all others who ask for it.

Information regarding variety tests, yield contests, farm crops, exhibits at shows and fairs, and other matters of interest to the crops grower are covered in the first issue of the letter, which was mailed out on May 15. Future letters will deal with various matters of interest and value to crops men. J. W. Nicholson, secretary-treasurer of the Michigan Crops Improvement Association, is managing editor of the publication. Anyone interested in farm crops can have his name put upon the mailing list by writing to the Farm Crops Department, M. A. C., East Lansing.

Presbyterian Notes

The hour of the evening service has been changed from 7:00 to 7:30. Kindly note the change and be present promptly. Good music and a helpful message, and only an hour service is the program.

Mrs. Bicknell, Junior and Mary Frances left for the east on Friday. They plan to visit in New Jersey with Mrs. Bicknell's mother and other relatives most of the summer. Rev. Mr. Bicknell has been granted two months' vacation during July and August. He hopes to make a trip to the Pacific coast to visit his mother and sister. He anticipates returning September first, thoroughly well and strong, and able to go into the work of the fall with new vigor and zeal. Plans for the services during his absence are being made and details will be published later.

Let us make the Memorial service on Sunday morning, a real memorial to those who have paid the last full measure of devotion to make the world a safe and wholesome place in which to live. Let all be present to worship and bow down before the God of nations.

GRANGE NOTES

The next regular meeting of Plymouth Grange will be held May 29th in the evening. The program will be furnished by Sisters Mrs. F. L. Becker, Mrs. Frank Palmer and Mrs. Ammon Brown. All members are urged to attend.

PLYMOUTH MAN GOING INTO EVANGELISTIC WORK

C. W. Harvey, who came to Plymouth last fall, has accepted a position as an assistant evangelist with the Union Gospel Center of Flint, Mich., and will commence his work, June 1st. Since Mr. Harvey came to Plymouth, he has preached three times at the Baptist church, where his work as a preacher has been highly recommended; he also interested himself in the work of the Presbyterian church, aiding the Sabbath-school and young people's society and in the mid-week meetings and attended almost every service of the Easter revival services held at the M. E. church. His new studies will bring him in touch with about 30,000 workmen in the automobile factories of Flint, Mich. Mr. Harvey is a graduate of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, and also of a missionary bible school in London, England, and is at present a candidate for the Presbyterian ministry. He leaves Plymouth Friday morning, May 30th. His engagement is for the summer months and he may probably return to Plymouth some time next fall. He leaves many friends in Plymouth. We regret to have him leave us, but hope he may do a good work in leading many souls to our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. We wish him success in the work of the gospel.—J. C. B.

BEEKEEPERS CHANGE TO LAWFUL HIVES

STATE LAW TO BE ENFORCED AFTER JULY 1—JUNE BEST MONTH FOR TRANSFER.

As a result of an announcement from the state inspector of apiculture, B. F. Kindig, of the M. A. C., that the state law requiring all beekeepers to house their bees in properly constructed hives will be enforced to the letter after July 1. Bee men are busy with preparations to make the necessary changes. Box-hives, log hives, kegs, barrels, boxes and crossed comb frame hives are among those which are condemned as illegal.

Inspector Kindig gives June as the best month in which to make the transfer to the new hives. The bees must have warm weather and must have gathered sufficient nectar for their own use before they are moved. This will be in May in the extreme southern parts of the state, but in June elsewhere. The date for the enforcement of the law has been put off until July in order to give all beekeepers a chance to make the necessary changes after the weather conditions were favorable.

Failure to comply with the law is deemed a misdemeanor in the act and is punishable by a fine of twenty-five dollars for each offense. A legal hive must have combs built in such a way that they can be removed without injury to any of the combs in the hive.

A M. A. C. bulletin on transferring bees and information regarding the law may be had by writing to B. F. Kindig, State Inspector, M. A. C., East Lansing.
